TORNADOES SPREAD DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

Senate Finally Passes Bill Regulating Crude Oil Pipe Lines In Texas

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Wichita Falls is the second city in the United States in the number of air passengers per capita, according to the U. S. department of commerce. Only one city had a larger per capita record than Wichita Falls.

One of the reasons for the high per capita showing of Wichita Falls is that the air routes through this city go to points such as Dallas, Tulsa, Kansas City, Oklahoma City and St. Louis where most of our people want to go when they are in a hurry.

Air travel is increasing in the Southwest. It often happens that there is not enough room on the ships to carry the passengers who are waiting at the Wichita Falls airport. As spring comes on the number of passengers is likely to increase.

The city of Wichita Falls is about breaking even in its operation of the airport, we are told. There is an expectation of a nice profit in the operation before many months. In the meantime there is immediate need of improvements of which we will probably hear more later.

All the news of oil industry in recent months has been bad news for the crude oil producers. There have been price cuts, proration and what not. The order of the Texas company rescinding its 50-50 plan and announcing reversion to its usual plan for the purchase of oil at the posted price is the first ray of sunshine in some months of cloudy weather. Maybe the turning point has been reached.

Oil producers and refiners in the Wichita Falls district do not believe that a shutdown every seventh day in the oil industry is physically and economically possible. Among refiners it is believed that a 15 per cent reduction in operations is much preferable to a shutdown on the seventh day which, it is said, would involve waste and add to production costs. Wichita Falls refiners have already curtailed their output severely. They believe that if other refiners would do as much the gasoline market would soon improve.

In the meantime several of the big companies are going ahead with plans for a Sunday shutdown. The experiment will be watched with interest. Many are hopeful that a six-day week as already exists in many other industries can be established in the oil industry.

In a great many communities over the country efforts are being made to teach illiterates to read and write before the census is taken next month. Every city and town and county would like to show a high rate of literacy. Wichita Falls, according to the census of 1920, had one of the highest literacy rates in the country. Of its population then 98.4 per cent could read and write. There were only 333 residents of Wichita Falls who could not read and write. This was the lowest number of illiterates in any city of more than 25,000 population in the state of Texas.

When the 1920 census was taken Wichita Falls was in the midst of an oil boom. The town was overflowing with people attracted here by what they believed to be an opportunity to make money in oil. They were for the most part ambitious and venturesome people and it is likely that folks of this kind are more likely to be literate than the common run of folks. Our population has changed somewhat since that time. It is doubtful whether the 1930 census will show such a high percentage of literacy. We wish it would. With the proper effort Wichita Falls could have been made almost 100 per cent literate.

Texas stands 35th from the top in the percentage of illiterates. Texas has more illiterates than any of the states excepting Georgia, Pennsylvania, Louisiana and New York, we are told in a bulletin of the national advisory council of illiteracy. There are 296,844 illiterates in the Lone Star state. Of this number, 215,511 reside in rural communities and 80,333 in towns and cities.

In 1920 Archer county was the second county in the whole state of Texas in the matter of literacy, Cochran county being first. Ninety-nine and two-tenths per cent of the people of Archer county could read and write. In that county 83.9 per cent of the children between 7 and 13 attend school, and 24.7 per cent of the children between 18 and 20 are in school.

According to the census figures of 1920, five million adults in the United States are illiterate. One in every 14 people of voting age can neither read nor write. The percentage of illiteracy in this country is greater than that of England, Germany, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark or Japan.

The national advisory committee on illiteracy, Interior Department building, Washington, D. C., has prepared a manual of 24 lessons, the completing of which will enable the average illiterate to read and write. This manual will be sent to any local organization or individual without charge. In numbers it will be furnished at the cost of printing.

OIL CARRIERS WOULD BE PUT UNDER RULES

Measure Asked by Oil Men Slated for Debate in House Today

PRISON BILL VOTED

House Sulphur Tax Plan Before Senate at End of Day's Work

AUSTIN, March 6. (AP)—The senate today passed the Beck administration prison centralization bill and the crude oil pipe line regulation bill. The senate had before it the house sulphur tax bill which had been amended from $1 to 50 cents a long ton.

The penitentiary bill was sent to the house in the form of an amendment to the house Graves bill, which is not favored by proponents of concentration near Austin, and when the house votes not to concur in the amendment it will go to conference committee where the same legislation died when the fourth called session expired.

The house had set down for special order tomorrow the pipe line bill which would place all persons and organizations operating tanks or pipe lines for public hire under regualtion of the railroad commission. It would require the companies to move crude oil as common carriers and handle it as common purchasers.

These were the three big subjects before the legislature.

Chicago Disarms Big Ranchman From Texas

CHICAGO, March 6. (AP)—Nobody but gangsters carry guns in Chicago, Stephen Mudryo of Waco, Texas was informed in court today. The big Texas plainsman had been arrested in a restaurant after police found a pistol in his pocket.

"I thought Chicago was a bad town where everybody carried guns," Mudryo drawled. He said he had come to Chicago to seek work after business reverses forced him to sell his ranch and filling station in Texas.

The court said persons who carried pistols made themselves liable to spend a year in jail, but put Mudryo on probation for six months "since you appear to be an upright citizen."

New Trail In Caverns Opened Up

Nicholson Party Finds Additional Area for Sightseers

By FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON
Leader, Carlsbad Cavern Expedition
(Copyright, 1930, by New York Times Co., all rights reserved)

CARLSBAD, N. M., March 6.—The tunnel in which we have been working, the one leading from our newly discovered portion northwest of the jumping off place which we call Hell's Half Acre, has proven to be an important passageway leading into another immense chamber from which leads a second tunnel that in turn connects back to the jumping off place.

The significance of this discovery is that it presents an ideal route over which to build a new trail through this area which in my opinion is the most interesting and beautiful portion of this colossus of caverns. Such a route would connect with trails in the 22 explored miles and provide a circular trip of three miles beginning and ending at the same point allowing the sightseer a constantly changing panorama of subterranean beauties.

Starting at the place we call Hell's Half Acre where the territory is awesome in its grotesque ruggedness the trail carried on through hallways profusely decorated with stalagmites and helic-

WALTERS JURY HEARS GRAHAM

Temple, Okla., Killer Says Adair Made Threat

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., March 6.—Jim Graham took the stand late today in his trial for the murder of Harry Adair in a Temple, Okla., barber shop last January.

Most of the day was devoted to the defense statement of its case and Graham was called to the witness stand immediately upon the opening of court for the afternoon. The prosecution rested at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Refuting previous testimony by state witnesses, Graham told the jury he was "easing toward the door to leave the shop" when Adair lunged out of the barber chair in which he was being shaved. It was then that Graham started firing, the witness testified. Wiley Saunders, barber, had previously testified Adair was being shaved in his chair when Graham fired the first of the seven shots.

Denies Recognition

The accused man said he did not recognize Adair when he first entered the shop and had not known previously the man was there. He was in the shop about five minutes before he noticed Adair, he said and when he saw him, he stood by the stove watching him intently for several minutes.

"I did not notice anything else in the shop while watching Harry," Graham testified. "When Harry

SOCIETY WOMEN AND CATHOLICS TALK FOR DRYS

Taft Cooperated in Move to Popularize Dry Social Affairs

GRAHAM REBUKED

Chairman's Questioning of Witnesses Draws Fire From Prohis

WASHINGTON, March 6. (US)—Former Chief Justice William Howard Taft cooperated in a movement to make "dry" social affairs popular, Mrs. Ruth G. K. Strawbridge, of Philadelphia, testified before the house judiciary committee today.

Much of the day's hearing was given over to testimony by Catholic laymen to offset the charge that prohibition had been "put over" largely by Protestantism.

Furore Arises

There was a furore when dry members of the committee attempted to rebuke Chairman George S. Graham for his methods in cross-examining C. P. Connolly, lawyer and writer of East Orange, N. J.

It was charged Graham was making anti-prohibition arguments.

"I am within my lawful rights in propounding questions and expect to stand on them," flung back Graham, and the hearing proceeded.

Largely through the influence of Mr. Taft, who was then chief justice, Mrs. Strawbridge said, she sent a letter to prominent women in the social world to join a drive for observance of the prohibition laws—a campaign to be quietly conducted, without publicity.

The "silent" campaign was launched after Mrs. Edward B. McLean of Washington had given an Easter breakfast without liquor.

2,300 Letters Sent

Letters were sent to 2,300 society matrons by Mrs. Strawbridge. In disapproval of her appeal came 247 replies, while 1,337 indicated they would stop serving liquor at their parties, she said.

The object of this organization, sponsored by the former chief justice, is to form a national committee composed of local groups all over the country, Mrs. Strawbridge declared.

Catholics Heard

The Catholics who testified were Patrick H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., general secretary of the Association of Catholics favoring prohibition, and C. P. Connolly, of East Orange, N. J., a member of that association.

A letter from the Rt. Rev. M. F. Foley, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic church in Baltimore, praising prohibition, was read by Callahan.

Callahan said federal census bureau figures showed a decrease of 100,000 deaths due to alcoholism since prohibition. His figures were challenged by Representative Laguardia, Republican, and Celler, Democrat, of New York.

Whatley and Conway Take Life Sentences

DALLAS, March 6. (UP)—Luther J. Whatley, charged with murdering J. L. Broome, a deputy constable, pleaded guilty to the charge today and was sentenced to serve 99 years in the penitentiary.

L. W. Conway, 21, stood trial on the charge. He was convicted and drew a 99-year sentence. A jury already had been selected to try Whatley and taking of testimony was scheduled to have started today. Broome was found beaten to death in a cemetery here.

Police Probe Girl's Account of Torture

SAN ANTONIO, March 6. (UP)—Police tonight launched an investigation into the story of Juanita Mota, 21-year-old Mexican girl, that she had been bound, disrobed and immersed in ice water by three members of a religious cult here.

The investigation was requested by Enrique Santibanez, Mexican consul here, after the girl had told him of the torture inflicted on her by the religious fanatics.

Moody Grants Allen A Sixty-Day Reprieve

AUSTIN, March 6. (AP)—Another reprieve of 60 days was granted E. V. Allen, sentenced to death for his part in the Carbon bank robbery, by Governor Moody today. The new date is May 14. The latest reprieve was to permit a jury to pass on Allen's sanity, a trial on this issue held in Eastland recently having resulted in a disagreement.

Allies Plan Protest Against Russian Move

BUCHAREST, March 6. (US)—England, France and Italy are planning a naval demonstration in the Black Sea and Baltic as a protest against Russian troop movements on the Rumanian frontier, the newspaper Neamul reports today. The Russian demonstrations have been thought in Bucharest to resemble partial mobilization.

'Cures' For Taft Sent To Doctors

Scores of Letters From Untrained Persons Offer Aid

WASHINGTON, March 6. (UP)—The present grave illness of William Howard Taft has brought forth scores of letters from all parts of the country, each with a recommendation of "a sure cure" for the former president.

Physicians attending Mr. Taft revealed today they had received these messages from well meaning but obvious untrained persons who had read of Mr. Taft's condition. These "cures" ranged all the way from old fashioned household remedies to such treatments as "lots of orange juice or "light browned potatoes."

Dr. Francis Hagner and Dr. Thomas Clayton, who are attending the former chief justice, on their morning visit today spent only about half the usual period of consultation and examination. After leaving Mr. Taft's bedside they issued this statement:

"There has been no change in the condition of the former chief justice since Wednesday. He is comfortable and continues to take nourishment."

After their usual visit to the Taft home at 7 p. m. the physicians issued the following bulletin:

"The former chief justice has taken nourishment fairly well but his condition has shown no improvement since this morning."

FARM BOARD TO ASK DELIVERY

Futures Contracts to Be Fulfilled

WASHINGTON, March 6. (AP)—After conferring at the White House today with President Hoover and Secretary Hyde, Chairman Legge of the farm board revealed a decision of the board to call for delivery of actual grain on May futures contracts purchased by the Wheat Stabilization corporation.

"The Stabilization corporation is being accused of speculating in the grain market," he said. "There is no foundation in fact for such a statement. The corporation is prepared to, and expects, to take delivery of all grain purchased on futures contracts."

The contracts referred to were those involved in the recent purchase of May futures which, as a signal part of the board's effort to stabilize the wheat market, were generally credited here with halting the rapid succession of price deflections that had forced cash wheat to $1 a bushel on the Chicago market.

The chairman purposely withheld announcement of the board's decision today until after the market closed, explaining that he did not wish the statement to affect prices during the day's trading.

He said the call for actual wheat put those who sold the futures in the position of having to go into the market, unless they already had grain in storage, and buy sufficient quantities to fulfill their contracts. It was understood that much of the wheat was in storage now and that delivery would involve no more than its transfer to the Stabilization corporation.

UNEMPLOYED IN COUNTRY-WIDE PROTEST MOVE

Many Injured as Larger Cities Witness Riots And Parades

GOTHAM SEES FIGHT

Twelve Jailed as Crowd Gets Boisterous Near White House

(By The Associated Press)

On historic old Boston Common, in the new Campus Martius of Detroit, on Pennsylvania avenue outside the high iron fence that surrounds the White House grounds, in New York's Union Square facing the Tammany wigwam, in the hills of Seattle, and in the roaring canyons of Chicago, tens of thousands of unemployed Americans gathered on "Red Thursday."

Some of them are in jail, and some in hospitals. Hundreds nursed lacerated scalps, black eyes, bruised noses. And the rest, thousands on thousands, had gone peacefully back to the flats and bungalows, enjoying the exhilaration of having seen "a real show."

Communists Active

There were Communists among them. Communists trying to make more Communists by an international unemployment day, with the jobless marching simultaneously on city halls all over America and all over the world. There were men without work, too, shabby, ill-fed despondent, but more than all the rest there were just everyday Americans—those curious ones who will stop traffic any day to watch a man demonstrating a safety razor in a drug store window.

And so far into the night New York police detectives worked to sort out Communists from innocent onlookers among the 100 injured in the prison ward of Bellevue hospital. In Cleveland, Detroit and Seattle hundreds of persons who no doubt are not Communists at all, nor even out of jobs were recovering from nightstick blows.

Riot in New York

With nearly 100 injured and almost as many arrested, including William Z. Foster, presidential candidate on the Worker's Communist party in 1928, New York's demonstration was the biggest.

In Detroit 12 were reported injured and 23 arrested. A crowd estimated by Detroit police at 100,000 jammed into the Campus Martius and Cadillac Square, backing up into Woodward avenue half a mile from city hall. Two thousand police finally cleared them out, partly by running busses and street cars through the mobs.

In Washington the police used a tear gas bomb and their nightsticks to disperse a smaller crowd that gathered outside the White House grounds. Twelve were arrested.

'Scrap Book' Bandits Go to Trial Friday

DALLAS, March 6. (AP)—Raymond Snoga and Roscoe Hendrix, former Dallas High school boys, will go on trial tomorrow on six indictments charging robbery with firearms. The two "scrap book" bandits whose victims were bound and gagged with adhesive tape, already are under sentences of five years assessed against them in Fort Worth for robbery with firearms.

Kidnaping 'Joke' Ends In Suicide at Waco

WACO, Texas, March 6. (UP)—Thwarted love, involving charges of kidnaping, facetiously denied by principals in the case, resulted in the alleged suicide today of Otto Hardin, who was held in the McLennan county jail. A Waco girl recently left her home to go to Hardin. Her mother filed kidnaping charges. The youth was arrested and lodged in jail.

Coolidge's Curiosity Aroused

Standing in Alamo, Cal Asks Moody Why Was Shrine Built

SAN ANTONIO, March 6. (AP)—While all Texas paused a moment Thursday to commemorate the 95th anniversary of the fall of the Alamo, Calvin Coolidge stood inside the famous shrine and naively asked:

"What was the Alamo built for?"

Before Gov. Dan Moody could regain his self composure, half a dozen voices babbled simple school boy answers. Coolidge was satisfied.

For six hours today Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were guests of the city. They arrived at 3.30 a. m.

At the Gunter hotel they sat down to a Texas breakfast while 66 guests ate silently. There were no speeches and no toastmaster. Only food occupied their attention. On the menu were strawberries, lamb chops, rolls, coffee and toast.

After the breakfast, the Coolidges took their place at the door and greeted each guest with a handshake. Mrs. Coolidge smiled frequently and spoke gracious words. Her husband said very little.

Then came the pilgrimage to the Alamo which took them past several civic points of interest.

As Coolidge passed through the bullet marked doorway stained with the blood of Texas heroes, he became the fourth man who had been

JURY ACQUITS MILL WORKERS

Accused Slayers of Textile Employe Freed

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 6. (UP)—Five nonunion defendants charged with second degree murder in the slaying of Ella May Wiggins, textile worker, were acquitted late today by a jury which deliberated only 23 minutes after receiving the charge from Judge J. H. Clement.

Horace Wheelus, accused of firing the fatal shot, Troy Jones, Lowery Davis, O. H. Lunsford and Fred Morrow, all Lowery cotton mill employes at Gastonia, shook hands with the jury and the judge before leaving the courtroom.

Jurors said the vote for acquittal was unanimous on the second ballot, the first counting two for conviction.

Mrs. Ella Mae Wiggins, Communist worker and mother of six children, was riding in a truck with 21 other workers to a Communist mass meeting in South Gastonia last August when the truck was turned back by a group of alleged anti-Communists. In a subsequent minor auto collision one shot was fired, killing her instantly.

A coroner's jury recommended 14 persons for grand jury investigation but no true bills were returned. Public feeling finally reached Governor Gardner who sent a special investigator to impanel a new grand jury to investigate.

Nine men were recommended to that body and five were indicted. The acquittal today apparently closed the state's interest in the case.

The first to go was William A. Oldfield, of Arkansas, Democratic whip in the house, who succumbed Nov. 19, 1928. The last was Representative James Glynn of Connecticut, who died suddenly on a train today while returning from the funeral of Representative Hughes, of West Virginia, who died Sunday.

In addition to those who have died, there were seven resignations, three in the senate and four in the house. The senate vacancies have been filled but there are now eight vacancies in the house.

Senator Tyson of Tennessee died Aug. 24; Senator Burton of Ohio, on Oct. 28, and Senator Warren of Wyoming on Nov. 24.

In addition to Representatives Oldfield and Glynn, the following house members have died:

Charles L. Faust, Missouri, Dec. 17; Edward J. King, Illinois, Feb. 17, 1929; Royal H. Weller, New York, March 1, 1929; Charles W. Roark, of Kentucky, April 5, 1929; Whitmell P. Von Tirpitz, Director of Germany's U-Boat War, Dies in Calm Setting

BERLIN, March 6. (UP)—Grand Admiral Alfred P. von Tirpitz, "creator of the German imperial navy," died in his sleep today in a sanitarium at Edenhausen, near Munich, five days less than 81 years old.

Belligerent to the last, the man whose insistence on unrestricted submarine warfare brought the United States into the world war had a paradoxically peaceful end. His heart had been weakened by a bronchial attack last February. He fell asleep last night after saying he felt ill.

He never woke up. His wife, one son and physicians were at his bedside when he stopped breathing.

The Nationalist party, to which the big navy admiral belonged, was in caucus at the reichstag when the news of his death was received.

Von Tirpitz clung to the last to belief his advice, if followed, might have caused Germany to win the war. Never a great believer in submarines before the conflict started, he altered his views and desired to launch the "unrestricted" use of U-boats long before the kaiser would consent.

He resigned from his post as minister of marine because of Wilhelm's hesitancy in 1916 but continued to direct the navy from behind the scenes. He was heartbroken because the German grand fleet was never sent out to a pitched battle against England's fleet, and was close to tears when mutiny broke out among the ships' crews before the establishment of the republic. He felt it a personal blow when the fleet surrendered in a body.

Harold Thomas, Raymond Taylor, Edward Smith, Byron Bloom, Jack Walker and Tom Perry.

Formal attire will be worn in the pretty evening scene on the Van Couver lawn by a charming group of maids and matrons, including Misses Nellie Ruth Smith, Pearl Ferguson, Irma Schnelle, Joan Fox, Margaret Smith, Mary Frances Millican, Dorothy Nolen, Ina Merle Robinson and Geraldine Monroe and Mesdames J. W. Akin Jr., Waller, T. T. T. Reese, Robert Chancellor, A. W. Burnside, F. W. Fisher, M. Townsend, Ewing Watkins, and Ola G. Hamlin.

Merchants participating are Elwyn, Inc., Georgianna Shop, Miller-Ferguson Co., P. B. M. Co., J. C. Penney Co., Perkins-Timberlake Co., Sauls, the Montgomery Co., Orchid Shop, the Parisian, W. B. McClurkan Co., Cinderella Shop, Sanderford's Booterie, Wichita Floral Co., Wichita Radio Supply Co., Freear Furniture Co., John L. Jones Furniture Co., North Texas Furniture Co., Star Furniture Co., and J. J. Moore Music Co.

Each merchant furnishes a number of gowns and those carrying men's clothing will show style conscious men new hits in men's sport and Tux models. In the many pretty gowns to be styled, W. B. McClurkan Co., will present a Wells and Feig evening gown of gold fish net combined with printed chiffon, the bodice of printed chiffon and the gold fish net skirt beautifully draped over a satin slip with a double faced satin ribbon of orchid and gold forming a graceful bow at side-back.

Feature Gowns

Sauls shows an Elynor afternoon dress of Gendarme blue chiffon, princess effect, with four tiers forming the lower part of the skirt, a large soft bow at the waist line in the back, and yoke of scalloped Alencon lace. It has the new short puff sleeves and with it a hat of blue horsehair braid with Alencon lace applique is worn. Blonde pumps and hose with accessories to match, complete this costume.

The Orchid shop will show a new French version of the silhouette with simplicity the keynote. It is of black chiffon with a Vionette neckline, elaborated by the application of seed pearls and rhinestones; the shirred bodice, French flared sleeves, and flowing, uneven lines, portray the artistic temperament of its designer. A Lucile model hat or black Baku and hair braid with complexion hosiery and Rayonette satin pumps, complete the costume.

Included in Perkins-Timberlake's showing is an exclusive tailored suit from Del Monte-Hickey, fashioned of imported tweed with a fur collar of Titian Lapin; there is a blouse of Hacienda crepe, finished with a pert little peplum. The skirt is made to fit the hips and has a slight flare at the bottom.

P. B. M. accentuates the return to charming feminine fashions in a formal black afternoon gown of chiffon, net and silk Alencon lace, from Vista S. Dimit of Los Angeles. With a satin slip as a foundation, the wide flounced skirt barely escapes the floor. Hand made pastel French flowers on the slip and sleeves, peep through the sheer chiffon introducing a subtle note of color. The flowing sleeve, the wide skirt, the fitted bodice all recall the Colonial fashion. The hair lace cap after Debway, the classic simplicity of black moire opera pumps by I. Miller, the imported antelope bag with pearl ornaments, the 12 button black suede pull-on gloves, the double strand of pearls, give 1930 smartness to the formal afternoon attire.

Patou's version of the new 1930 spring tailleur is visualized by the model to be shown by the Georgianna shoppe in lovely light weight imported black and white rayonnee featuring the new "nipped in" waistline and flared peplum jacket, with of course, the tuck-in blouse of white crepe. The gored skirt reveals the low placed flare and exploits advantageously the standpoint of the youthful conformity with the silhouette trends.

Like a spring moonbeam is the candle light Chantilly lace costume from Emmett Joyce, displayed by the Parisian. It has an engagingly draped decolletage. The lace belt has a Chanel buckle and the skirt is fitted snugly and becomingly round the hips and is longer in the back than in the front—just touching the floor.

Elwyn's most intriguing gown will be a black crepe morning bridge frock, made in redingote style. The dress is a leaf print in green and orange with a black bolero and a black skirt comes from the back to tie in three fascinating bow knots over the print in the front. With it will be worn a coat from Gershel of telga cloth. The collar of Galyak fur ripples like a jabot in the front and the coat is the high waisted, tight fitting style of the moment. The hat of Panamalaque will be made and fitted in Elwyn's shop.

NEW 'PHONE BOOKS ISSUED

14,500 Directories to Go to Subscribers

New spring telephone directories for Wichita Falls, which were being delivered Thursday, number approximately 1,000 more than the total issued last fall, it was announced by C. C. Kirby, manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company here.

The first directories for 1930 total 14,500. They are being delivered by 14 men who expect to complete their work within a week. Mr. Kirby issued a plea to residents to expect the directory men during the next few days and urged that they answer the doorbell promptly and exchange the old directory for the new. Difficulties have been experienced in the past in obtaining the old directories, he said.

A new feature of the spring directories is the inclusion of business firms in Henrietta, Burkburnett and Iowa Park in the listings of the classified section.

Four Youths Given Terms In State School at Gatesville

Four young boys tried on delinquency charges ranging from forgery to bootlegging, were sentenced to indefinite terms in the boys' training school at Gatesville by the order of Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Thursday morning. Each of the four had previous records, James A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, declared.

Judge Cook made the terms flexible, explaining that the youthful prisoners would be subject to parole after one year. Mr. McDonald and W. J. Duncan, deputy sheriff and bailiff of the 89th district court, will take the four to Gatesville Friday.

Dr. Coleman In Serious Condition

Dr. N. H. Coleman of this city, who has been in a critical condition for the past several months as a result of paralysis which followed a stroke suffered last summer while en route here from Denver, Colo., suffered another stroke Thursday, followed by a hemmorhage which caused fear for his life, according to a telegram received here from Dallas by Dr. C. E. Mangum late Thursday.

Doctor Coleman was confined in the Wichita General hospital here for some time following the stroke last summer. He was then taken to his home in Marshall, Texas, and has since been removed to Dallas. Doctor Mangum was the attending physician here and had been a friend of Doctor Coleman for many years. The message Thursday described Doctor Coleman's condition as "serious."

WATER SUIT OPINION FILED

Copy of Appeals Court Ruling Received Here

In reversing a $10,400 award granted Mrs. J. M. McGrath in her seepage suit against Wichita county water improvement district No. 2, the court of criminal appeals at Amarillo found the local trial court twice in error, according to a copy of the opinion received here Thursday by E. R. Surles, attorney for the water district.

The higher court held that the district court erred in returning the full judgment against the district when the jury found that seepage from Lake Wichita caused a part of the injury to the McGrath lands. The opinion said that the district should have been held liable only for its proportionate part in the damage suit.

The appellate court also held that the lower courts were wrong in awarding permanent damages when the jury decided the injuries were not permanent.

The Amarillo judges held against the defense in its plea of limitations. Mr. Surles said Thursday that he expected to file a motion for a re-hearing on that count, contending that the alleged damages were suffered more than two years before the filing of the damage suit.

Two other similar suits are now pending in the district courts of Wichita county.

GRAHAM TELLS OF SHOOTING

Defendant Takes Stand in Walters Trial

recognized me. I saw him put his hand under the bib of his overalls."

The witness said he saw several movements of Adair's hand under his overalls at about the waist and when the barber completed the shave and raised Adair to a sitting position for a haircut, throwing a barber's apron over him, he again noticed several movements of the hand under the apron. It was then he began easing toward the door to leave, he said.

When Adair lunged out of the barber chair, Graham fired the first shot, the witness testified. He said he did not know where the shots struck Adair, but left the shop and came to Walters to surrender to the sheriff.

Explains Gun

In explaining his possession of a gun, Graham said a jeweler, C. D. Blair, had offered to sell him a .32 caliber automatic the day before the shooting. He took the gun for a trial but decided he was not satisfied with it, he said, and was on his way to the jeweler's shop to return it when he dropped in the barber shop for a shave. He told the jury he did not know Adair was Temple at that time.

Cross-questioning by the prosecution failed to shake the testimony given by Graham and the defense called its next witnesses.

Sheriff C. O. Hooper and Bill Stapp, deputy sheriff, testified Adair's hand was under his body as he lay dead on the floor face-up. The hand, they said, was under the bib of his overalls but was not on the gun, which was found partially removed from under the belt where it was being carried.

Adair had been convicted of slaying the defendant's father, J. D. Graham, veteran Temple peace officer, last April 28 and was at liberty on an appeal bond at the time of the shooting in January.

Coolidge Visits Historic Alamo

president of the United States to enter the Alamo.

Theodore Roosevelt, who organized the famous rough riders, in the shadow of the Alamo, William McKinley and William H. Taft were the others.

Coolidge signed the Alamo register just as Roosevelt had scrawled his name years before. The Coolidge signature, however was as cool and precise as Vermont hills.

Governor Moody answered most of the Coolidge questions about the Alamo and the relics displayed. The ex-president evinced interest in the little side rooms where vicious fighting prefaced the massacre of Texans and the fall of the Alamo. After he learned why the building was built and what the various legends recounted, he was ushered to his train which left at 9:50 a. m. for Austin, where a 10-minute stop was made.

The former president guarded his words here as he watched over them during his stay in the White House. There being no "White House spokesman" with the party, nothing was said which could be construed to be a constructive comment on San Antonio.

TALKS TWICE ON LONG JOURNEY

DALLAS, March 6. (AP)—Calvin Coolidge was known to have made only two remarks as the train bearing the former president and his wife progressed northward through Texas.

"Looks like a bunch of Democrats to me," he was overheard to say as a crowd streamed toward the train in Waco. He and Mrs. Coolidge stood on the observation platform and obligingly smiled.

But in Dallas tonight, Mr. Coolidge again became as the sphinx.

As he attempted to walk from the car in which he had traveled from San Antonio, to the Sunshine special, on which he was to continue his journey, a crowd of 3,000 persons surged toward him and police had difficulty in clearing a path for the former president.

He hastily entered the train and reappeared on the platform. Mrs Coolidge remained inside and only waved from the window. She was embroidering.

"You'll have to come back to Texas," yelled a grey-haired old man in the crowd.

"I'm here now," replied the former president.

"Say something," requested a little girl. But Coolidge thereafter remained silent, smiling, shaking hands with youngsters who streched their arms upward to him. And as the train pulled away at 5:30 p. m. a group of boys ran after it, seeking to grasp his hand.

Nicholson Plunges Further Into Cave

tites as delicately formed as snow flakes, through rooms ornate with this new pink raganite crystal formation we discovered Monday, and wandering on beside blue pools of water on a coral covered hillside within a room with ceiling so high one forgets its existence.

Then into the room that resembles nothing so much as the interior of a theater. At the back is a stage of white marble formation with a Wagnerian stage setting in glittering onyx with translucent stone curtains tinted orange draped back on either side. Nature has even equipped the rostrum with footlights.

A straight row of short thick stalagmites from side to side found to be more difficult to explore than other sections and we have been forced to lay string every step of the way in order not to become lost. An element of excitement arose yesterday in connection with the discovery of this new circular route when I reached a small oval hole at the end of the connecting tunnel. After no little squirming, tugging and maneuvering of arms and legs I forced my way through and dropped some 10 feet into the theater room but unfortunately three of my party who were with me were a bit too Amazonically proportioned to work their way through the small opening and so were unable to join me.

Not knowing what lay ahead and thinking it unwise to wander on alone I was about to climb back to my colleagues but that meant scaling a slick wall 10 feet to the little opening and squeeze back through, which I found quite impossible. The situation was rather discomforting until my companions after a couple of hours at chipping away bits of flint-hard formations from the edge of the hole succeeded in enlarging it sufficiently to admit their bodies.

I have heard that Col. Thomas Boles, whom the government has put in charge of Carlsbad Caverns will join us tomorrow to look over the possibilities of this proposed trail.

In the meantime we will be busy exploring numerous tunnels opening into the theater room, each of us nursing the hope that a downward tunnel will lead to the lost river or an upward tunnel to an unknown entrance.

Attorneys Move to Save Life of Condemned Man

SAN ANTONIO, March 6. (AP)—A move to set aside the jury verdict of death and reopen the case of John M. Hearing on the motion will be had next week.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We had thought that Samuel Pepys was one of the first of men to shave and now we read that in a tomb recently discovered near the Sphinx there were found two flint razors, emblems of the high priest's duties. They were still sharp enough to cut the hair on the excavator's arms.

Somewhere the art of man shaving himself was lost for Samuel Pepys spoke of the new delight he found in "scraping" himself.

"Scraping themselves," is one thing men of this day do not delight in. In one household, it's a brave man who uses another's razor.

Ra Ouer is supposed to have lived sometime about 2730 B. C., and doubtless his flint razors were used many a time on a suffering monarch.

There was some way of removing beard in the centuries that followed, then we suppose someone grew tired of suffering under the hands of a public barber and a commission was appointed to look into it and man's razor was the final achievement of that commission.

We note that to this day, when things do not go to suit the court of last resort, there is always a commission appointed to look into it.

Serving on a commission seems to be as much a public duty in 1930 as serving on juries was in former years.

If a commission does not soon produce the results wanted by one set of politicians, they have another commission appointed to investigate the first—and so on ad libitum.

They did not have that sort of laws when the first criminal code was on record, according to the copy reproduced in the current Golden Book magazine.

Blasphemy against God, and picking flowers from a neighbor's garden or stealing an ear of corn were all punishable by death.

To pick a flower—and die! We are glad such extreme laws are not a public necessity now. Yet in 2200 A. D., doubtless future generations will be ridiculing our laws.

It was a necessity in 1611 to go to the minister to be instructed in religion. If one did not go, the punishment was first offense, whipping; second offense, whipping twice and public contrition; third offense whipping every day until public acknowledgment and obedience.

Did ever one hear, save in the days of the Inquisition of so ungodly a way to make a man love his religion?

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Austin Group Has Unusual Lesson On Sex Education

One of the most interesting programs yet presented by the Austin School Study club was that of Thursday morning on "Sex Instruction for Young Children." The lesson was conducted by Mrs. Felice Downs, regular leader, featuring an interesting and informative professional talk by Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, Red Cross nutritionist, who has also specialized in mental hygiene.

Miss Rorabaugh stated that a great number of mothers realize the need of early sex instruction for children. Statistics show that out of 2,300 mothers questioned only 75 opposed education along this line. The speaker listed the questions commonly asked by small children on this subject, giving many ideas to be used in answering tactfully.

Authorities agree that the peak of inquisitiveness is reached at the age of five years at which time such explanations should be made as will satisfy the child. It was also proven that boys demand a more complete explanation of sex matters earlier than girls.

Miss Rorabaugh advised all mothers who wish to deal simply and sensibly with the children's sex education to first free themselves of inhibitions, to meet the first questions honestly, explain in a simple way and to find some way to give a child some instruction along this line before he starts to school.

The following members of the club discussed different phases of the subject relating to children of all ages, from the standpoint of experienced motherhood: Mesdames R. L. Underwood, Felice Downs, O'Neal Taylor, H. R. Cloughley and R. J. Irwin. The next lesson will be on "Sex Education for the Adolescent Boy and Girl."

Mythology as musical inspiration furnished the motif for a lovely program when Mrs. Clara Baber led the meeting of the Musicians club at the Episcopal parish house Thursday morning. Mrs. Walter Robbins gave a brilliant number in "Hungarian," by McDowell, and Mrs. Fred Barron told the story of Lizst's "Die Lorelie."

Mrs. W. E. Young, accompanied by Mrs. O. G. Stephens, sang two numbers in her lovely contralto voice and Miss Florence Sammons gave a splendid piano number "Liebestraum," by Lizst.

What should be added to this recipe for Pumpkin Pie?

Mash fine 2 cups cooked pumpkin. Add 1½ cups milk. Beat 3 eggs and to them add a pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Stir this into pumpkin mixture and then fill baked pie-crust with it. Bake until custard has set and crust is done.

Now that you've read it—what's missing? Sugar! And if you include one-half cup with the beaten eggs you can proceed to make a fine pumpkin pie.

Through forgetfulness or by heeding some ill-advised person, sugar is often left out of the diet. Desserts are banished. Harsh diets are adhered to unhappily. The dining-table no longer invites you to enjoy food.

Such an attitude toward sugar is neither neeessary nor in keeping with modern dietetic and medical practice. Use sugar to flavor familiar foods and to make nourishing desserts. Sugar makes eating a joy and when this occurs the system is likely to get all the food values it needs. The Sugar Institute.

COURT UPHOLDS KNIGHT WILL

Widow to Appeal Decision To District Court

The will of C. C. Knight, Wichita Falls pioneer, disposing of an estate valued at more than $150,000, was admitted to probate in the county court late Thursday afternoon over the contesting application brought by the widow against the other legatees. Fred Weeks, attorney for Mrs. Knight, announced that the case would be appealed to the district court.

In admitting the document to probate, Judge John P. Marrs held that there had been no evidence of the fraud and undue influence alleged in the contestant's petition, ruling that the will represented the true wishes of Mr. Knight at a time when he was of sound and disposing mind.

Will Exhibited

The contested document leaves one quarter of the estate to the wife, and an equal share to Mrs. N. E. Roberts, a sister; M. T. Knight of Waxahachie, a brother; and the widow and children of I. A. Knight, a second brother, in Oklahoma. The will provides that Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Knight shall live together in the family home on Ninth street and that Mrs. Roberts' share in the property shall go, at her death, to Mrs. Mamie Allday, her daughter, and a niece of Mr. Knight.

The proponents of the will Thursday morning submitted the long, handwritten instrument, said to have been written in 1928, as prima facie evidence in proof of its authenticity. Lester Jones and A. W. Simmons, of the Wichita State Bank and Trust company, identified the will and described their business dealings with Mr. Knight.

Judge P. A. Martin, executor and temporary administrator of the will who described himself as having been the "very best of friends" with Mr. Knight, told of taking the will from Mr. Knight's safe at the instance of the sick man through Mrs. Mamie Allday.

Mrs. Allday Testifies

Judge Martin said that early in 1928 Mrs. Allday had brought him the keys to Mr. Knight's office, the combination of the safe, and the request that Judge Martin take the will into his custody.

On the stand Thursday afternoon Mrs. Allday said she did not tell Mrs. Knight of the incident nor of the existence of the will.

"Mr. Knight asked me not to discuss it. He said the nurse told him of a conversation between herself and Mrs. Knight about the property, and said he was afraid the will would be destroyed" the witness declared.

Put on the stand by the contesting attorney, Mrs. Allday told of spending a number of years of her girlhood in the home of Mr. Knight and of living in the same house with him after her marriage here.

The witness declared that at one time Mrs. Knight had declared her intention of leaving the Ninth street home for a trip to Dallas because of Mrs. Allday's presence in the home.

Secrecy Denied

"I told her I was ready to go at any time," Mrs. Allday continued. And that I had not intended to stay. I left the Knight home shortly after the marriage of Mr. Knight and the present Mrs. Knight, his second wife."

Mr. Weeks sought to show on cross-examination that Mr. Knight and Mrs. Allday had agreed not to tell Mrs. Knight of financial gifts made at various times to Mrs. Allday. The witness denied that there was any deliberate secrecy. In stating his position to the court the attorney asserted that he was trying to show that Mrs. Allday knew more about Mr. Knight's affairs that his wife did and that she therefore exercised undue influence.

Burns From Kitchen Blaze Fatal to Aged Woman

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, March 6.—Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Almeter Pollard Long, Hall county pioneer who died Saturday from burns suffered in her kitchen, were held Tuesday afternoon at the Presbyterian church. Dr. J. Hardin Mallard, pastor, assisted by Rev. E. E. Robinson, of the First Methodist church, and Rev. H. A. Shaw of the First Christian church, conducted the services. Confessed Slayer Given Life Imprisonment

HUGO, Okla., March 6. (UP)—Judge Earl Welch today sentenced Raymond Nobles to life imprisonment after Nobles pleaded guilty to a charge of slaying John D. Jackson, an aged filling station owner.

The murder was believed by officers to have been completely covered and the case was about to be closed as a mystery. Late yesterday County Attorney O. A. Brewer, who had been investigating the murder since it occurred last September, had Nobles arrested.

Brewer obtained the man's confession in jail, he said today and recommended that Judge Welch show mercy.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

CITY'S TRADE OUTLOOK SOUND

Talbert Compares Wichita To Other Cities

J. Wilkie Talbert "looked down" any pessimist who might have been present at the Rotary club luncheon Thursday noon, and declared confidently that "Wichita Falls is getting along as well as any town in the United States," supporting his statement with numerous observations on the local situation.

"Wichita Falls has just a few more electric meters in use than it had at this time last year; a few more telephones, a few more gas meters, a few more children in school. There have been fewer business failures; retail sales are just about the same. We have had no banks to bust in our faces, no local mortgage houses have failed, we have had no industrial strife like that in South Carolina, nor any racial trouble like California's. We have no kick coming."

What ever may be found wrong with "prosperity" in this city, Mr. Talbert said, is wrong with every other city in the country. Such trouble all can be laid at one door, he continued, that of promiscuous stock market speculation during the past year. Some small part of the depression may be laid on the oil industry in this particular locality, he added.

"None of us can know how much Wichita Falls money was lost on the stock market tumble last fall," the speaker said. "Twenty million persons—one-fifth of our population—were in on the game that can't be beaten, and many of them went back twice. The banks, the life insurance companies, the building and loan associations, know that tremendous decreases in savings are attributable to tremendous losses on the market. One building and loan association in this city paid out $2,000,000 in withdrawals last year so that people could play the markets—the result being little gained at best, all lost at the worst."

Walter Cline, Ted Krohn, A. E. Kelly, J. H. Allison, B. D. Donnell, Ralph Dilday and Horrace Robbins were appointed as a committee to make recommendations for furthering the work of the Rotary Boy's club.

Several members of the local Rotary club will leave by bus next Tuesday evening, March 11, to attend an inter-city meeting in Nocona, it was announced.

Sickly Folks Gain Health, Strength, Energy--Quick

For one hundred years Cod Liver Oil has been recognized by physicians and laymen as the remedy supreme for malnutrition.

It is the leading tonic and reconstructive in wasting diseases and in convalescence.

In children it promotes growth of all body cells, especially bones and teeth and is the one valuable remedy for rickets.

For people who lack rich, red blood, are anemic, rundown and need more strength, energy, vigor and activity of mind and body there is nothing so quick in beneficial action as Cod Liver Oil.

But men of science have long known that it is the Vitamins in Cod Liver Oil and not the oil itself that brings robust health and strength to sickly people.

And surely there is not a man, woman or child in this wide world who relishes Cod Liver Oil. It is repulsive to the taste—unpalatable—hard to digest.

But now with all that's good and health-creating in Cod Liver Oil put into sugar-coated tablets and all the horrid tasting oil thrown away—people ought to take Cod Liver Oil this new way—and there are millions of them that can rejoice and be exceedingly thankful.

For now you can get these precious tablets at any drug store in America and every time you take two of them keep this fact in mind—

TWO OF THE NEW AND IMPROVED McCOY'S COD LIVER OIL EXTRACT TABLETS ARE EQUAL TO ONE TEASPOONFUL OF VITAMIN-TESTED, NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL. We would not be allowed to make this statement if it was not true.

Demand McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extra Tablets and remember when you take two tablets you are getting into your system the equal of one teaspoonful of pure Cod Liver Oil—and here's another thing to remember. You can get the beneficial Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil winter and summer when you take these precious tablets.

If you are one of the millions who take Cod Liver Oil why not try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extra Tablets for a month or two. Remember that these vitalizing tablets are brimful of Vitamins A and D and are equally as good for any ailment, underweight or rundown condition for which cod liver oil is prescribed. No drugs—Vitamins only. 60 tablets, 60 cents at any drug store.—Adv.

Mrs Lena Rolling

Texas Mother Has Healthiest Child

Mrs. Lena Rolling is perhaps the happiest mother in Houston, and it is all because her little son Royce Lee finally got over a spell of sickness which pulled him down terribly.

"His blood must have gotten very thin because he broke out so badly all over his little legs," said Mrs Rolling in her home at 3011 Harrisburg Blvd. "From the time I started giving him Nature's Remedy Juniors it so thoroughly cleaned out his system that all the broken out places healed and others did not come back as they did before. Now he is in so much better health that I wish every mother could see him and see what those little chocolate candy NR Jrs do for ailing children."

All drug stores which sell Nature's Remedy, the safe dependable laxative and corrective also have NR Jrs. They are just 25c.—Adv.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

4872 HOURS and still going strong

A MAN in Long Beach, California, bought an Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio last August and has had it in continuous operation—24 hours a day—ever since.

He wanted to make a personal test of the famed dependability of an Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Set.

At last report his radio had functioned steadily for 4872 hours and was still going strong, without even the change of a tube.

"It has continued to give first-class service and the most natural tone of any radio I ever heard," he writes. "It has proved the superiority and surpassing quality of Atwater Kent Radio."

Probably you will not want to run your radio 24 hours a day. But what a comfort to know that an Atwater Kent is so sturdily built you can count on it for long, long service.

Look inside an Atwater Kent and see the workmanship, just as you would lift the hood and look at the engine, in buying an automobile. See how battleship ruggedness is combined with the precision and finish of a fine watch.

"An Atwater Kent works and keeps on working." For eight years people have been saying that. And for eight years Atwater Kent sets have been proving that they are right.

"Smooth skin a girl's greatest charm" . . say 45 Hollywood directors

LONG AGO our own lovely Hollywood stars discovered how potent a charm smooth skin can be—and long ago they discovered how velvety-smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps the skin!

The news spread to Broadway—and the famous stage stars became equally enthusiastic about this delicate soap.

Now, in the European capitals, too, the beautiful screen stars have adopted the soap which keeps their skin as exquisitely lovely as their American sister-stars'—as faultlessly smooth for the all-important close-up!

With the talkies sweeping the world, the actresses are more than ever grateful to the gentle care Lux Toilet Soap gives their skin. For never were there so many close-ups as in the new talking and singing pictures. And as the great directors of Hollywood discovered years ago, a girl can never reach stardom on the screen unless her skin is simply perfect.

Exquisite skin is the one essential charm every girl must have to quicken pulses and win hearts.

You can keep your skin charmingly smooth just as 9 out of 10 screen stars keep theirs—by caring for it with Lux Toilet Soap. Such caressing, generous lather, too! Order several cakes of this delicately fragrant white soap today.

Luxury such as you have found only in fine French soaps at 50¢ and $1.00 the cake—yet only 10¢

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

Daily Editorial

THE "WINTER of our discontent" has passed its zero hour. The worst is over. If experience knows its stuff, mid-March should begin to thaw frozen streams of demand and credit.

In another fortnight, distribution will have shaken off the annual torpors of hibernation, sped general merchandise production toward peak levels, and provided jobs for much of the surplus help always laid off during dull months.

Renewed buying will stimulate re-orders and gradually call idle workers back to lathe, machine and factory bench.

Open roads and milder days jam traffic roads with new automobiles, which never stick hoods out of dealers show rooms until slush and frost have definitely quit the neighborhood.

Henry Ford, General Motors, et al., will shortly have need of several hundred thousand additional hands. Highway extension is preparing to add as many "more" laborers to state and federal pay rolls.

Brickyards, steel plants, sash and trim concerns and construction will, as usual re-enlist the energies of craftsmen whose earnings are constantly subject to periodical suspension.

Gardeners, painters, tinsmiths, carpenters, masons and foundation diggers will be carrying tools of trade instead of long faces, as soon as thermometers signal that it's safe to proceed with building and repairs and suburban development.

Shuttered shops and filling stations along the great national highways are about to open up for business and replenish depleted stocks of oil, gas, tires, motor accessories, confectionery, soft drinks and small wares.

"The hired men," loafing about town since last October are plowing, harrowing or spreading fertilizer.

Implement agents are checking replacement lists and getting down to brass tacks on combine and tractor dickers.

ACREAGE in 48 states is in process of seeding. Cotton fields, tobacco plantations, fruit orchards and berry patches are due to divert a large portion of unoccupied capacity to crop tillage, pest spraying, pruning and suckering.

The first call for sheep herders is sounding through the West. Fishing smacks are conditioning tackle and heading for the sounds.

Public service corporations are enlisting wire-stringing and cable-laying crews, replacing poles and installing generators.

Villages and counties are releasing appropriations for sewers, pavements and parkways.

Ten thousands nurseries have notified their gangs to return and start transplanting. Estates from the Hudson river to Puget Sound are engaging groundsmen, household servants and extra chauffeurs.

In a little while, canneries will add their high note to the swelling orchestration of prosperity. They'll require oodles of girls and women, labels and packing cases, freight cars and trucking facilities.

Of course, there's unemployment, but most of it is normal unemployment—unescapable unemployment—the sort of unemployment we shall always have with us, because climatic conditions won't let America manage otherwise. The robot invasion and the thrifty practices of efficiency are responsible for part of it. Overproduction, too, has contributed a sudden share. Recent speculative losses have impaired capital reserves and singed extravagance.

Nineteen hundred and thirty bears all the earmarks of conservative expenditure and restricted budgets, with a corresponding shrinkage of jobs. But the fact that three million folk happen to be without work at this particular moment can't be mainly attributed to jangled economics. Most of them are habitually disengaged between autumn and spring. And most of them will be making hay as soon as the sun shines in real earnest.

Some men are born peculiar and some cultivate sideburns themselves.

There is a telephone for every five persons in America—and most of them swear.

The Frontier Recedes

"POKER ALICE" TUBBS belonged to a day that was not ours. She was a left-over from an era that seems as remote, now, as the revolution. When she died the other day, at 77, most of us probably were surprised to realize that the old West she represented was still so close to us.

There is something very melancholy about the passing of the frontier veterans. These people like Poker Alice belonged in the period of the nation's youth. They were, so to speak, youthful outbursts; they could not have existed in an older, more settled civilization. Now they are going—and the nation, by the same token, is losing its youth. We are growing up, in spite of ourselves.

We do not always realize the extent to which we are all affected by the nearness of the old frontier.

Every American living today has that as part of his heritage. He grew up with the wild West still a living memory. Poker Alice, Calamity Jane, Deadwood Dick, Buffalo Bill and the others, with their picturesque names and their wild, untamed manners, were still on the horizon, or just over it. The tradition that they represented had not yet died out. It formed a strong part of what we like to call "the American spirit."

But that could not last. The science and industry of the new nation cut its youth down to a brief span. The railroads brought the West close to the East, and the automobile pulled it closer; and then came such things as the radio and the airplane to weld East and West into one unity—and the frontier was gone forever.

But there is a danger in waxing too sentimental over it. For the old West—the frontier, where hard-fisted men and women whipped nature into submission—was gaudy, alive and interesting, but it was not an unmixed blessing. If it gave the national character strength, courage and a reckless hardihood, it also stunted its artistic and humanitarian impulses. It condemned generations of people to live lives in which there was excitement, hard work, achievement—but very little of beauty.

This era of the wild West was an era that had to be; but we are fortunate, after all, that it ended as soon as it did. For on the frontier men are compelled to live by bread alone. They cannot, by the very nature of the case, pay any attention to anything but the material side of their civilization. And that attitude, along with the finer qualities, is one of the things our pioneer tradition has bred into us.

We are slowly getting away from it; already, on the far horizon, one can get a glimpse, now and then, of the fine things that shall be done in this land in the future. But we shall not do them until we have left our frontier a little bit farther behind. The passing of the old characters like Poker Alice calls for a look ahead as well as a look backward.

Another New Ford Model

WHETHER HENRY FORD will be successful in carrying out his announced plan for the establishment of numerous schools throughout the country will depend probably upon his remaining alive and active; for he has developed more or less of a habit of completing his ventures. Regardless of the time and nature of its materialization, it is evident that Mr. Ford's plan recognizes some of the weaknesses in our present system of academic education.

The institutions which the Detroit manufacturer promises to establish contemplate the provision of a broad academic education, but as a basis for specialized vocational training. Beyond the first fundamentals of learning, no student would be expected to follow a group pattern merely because of his age and geographical location, but would be led so far as it were possible into a vocation in which he not only is interested but talented. That difficult but happy selection having been reached, he would concentrate on that field of training, rather than giving much of his time to required but extraneous subjects.

Mr. Ford aptly cites the fact that thousands of young men now, upon reaching the 18th or 22nd year, offer themselves to the world with nothing more definite than "I went through high school," or "I have finished college." Which, as he remarks, means exactly nothing in creating a public demand for their services.

Many will brand Mr. Ford's scheme at once as designed to convert young men and women into machines, rather than imparting to them wide cultural interests which will enrich their lives. To which one must immediately reply that this is decidedly an industrial and scientific age. Specialists are in demand. Furthermore, cultural interests are largely innate. Education hastens and expedites their expression and enlargement. If those qualities are part of a man's heritage, they will come to the sunlight and bloom in due season. But first, considering the age in which we live, the man must be prepared to render some definite and particular service to society in exchange for which all his needs, and some leisure time, will be given.

The thousands of young men and women who graduate annually with adequate preparation for beginning careers of specialized service are but a drop in the bucket to the hordes who have accomplished little more than enlightened aimlessness. Such graduates usually are pleased with themselves for having "finished the course," and they have followed faithfully, for the most part, the course laid out for them. If Mr. Ford, or any other agency, can perfect such a system of education that this high esteem and valuation for graduates will originate with society in terms of well-paid positions, present and future generations will call him blessed.

Speaking of Resignations

LEGISLATURES often are peculiar in their methods of operation, which probably explains the attempt of a number of Texas representatives to have the state prison board resign. In this newspaper's opinion, the cart has been placed before the horse. Considering the fact that the prison board has a prison program, and the legislature has none after two special sessions, it would seem more fitting that the prison board ask the legislature to resign.

Thanks for the delicate clasp of your hand,
The sisterly pat on the cheek,
And accept my assurance that I understand
Your manner is strikingly meek.
No forward young lady of method astute,
But rather a shy one, as few are—
No sins or discrepancies can I impute
In the instance of such ones as you are.

And you must admit that, in justice to me,
I've made no annoying advance,
For, if I may say it, I'm gentlemanly,
And have spared you my amorous glance.
Unburdened by conscience, I part from you, then,
While the proof of my merit takes root. You're Delightful! I hope I may see you again
In the highly indefinte future.

Boomerang

The big idea, you might have suspected all along, at the parties held along the Sutton Place, is to crush the other fellow before he squelches you. There is the one, frinstance, pulled by the plump Ajexander Woollcott recently at Mrs. Paul Bonner's expense when the Smart Alec waited until she entered a room loaded with intelligentsia and chirped: "Well, now, aren't you the saucy baggage?"

To which Mrs. Bonner snapped back: "And you're a baggy sausage!"

By Way of Report

The "inside" on the recent Jim Tully-John Gilbert scrap is explained by Tully, who writes: "I really didn't mean to hit him. But after he missed five times, I thought it best—as he was liable to fan himself to death. Then I only hit him once."

Boys will be bores.

Have a Pun-anna

Charlie Butterworth's lady fren, Mathilda Longflannels, had a frightful cough, so Charlie ankled her into a Broadway drug emporium to get her some Smith Brothers cough drops. The clerk was sorry, but the supply had run out.

"Why not give her some menthol?" suggested the clerk.

"Oh," oh'd Butterworth, "she's ill physically. There's nothing the matter with her mentholly."

A Form of Criticism

All the way from Beverly Hills, Calif., Dorothy Fields, who wrote such delightful lyrics as "I Can't Give You Anything but Love, Baby" and other swelegant song words, comes this report. They were making a picture on the Fox lot, and Willie Collier Sr. was assigned to a very small role. He wasn't very agreeable about it, and while the others were reading their parts, Collier sat sulking when he wasn't looking out of a window. The director bellowed: "Collier! Where's your part?"

"A flea ate it!" thundered Willie as he ankled out of the room.

Incidentally

Miss Fields is one of those responsible for a newly opened revue which was roundly panned by the critics, although her contributions are fine, and the flipcrackers along the canyon put it this way when referring to the show: "Words by Dorothy Fields, music by Jimmy McHugh and sketches by mistake."

Fact

Reuben's, the rendezvous for night loafers and celebs, features. One brand, in a huge bottle, sells for $350, and Reuben displayed one bottle of it in his inside showcase and another to decorate his window display. An intoxicated sport came in the other night, asked the price of the stuff in the big bottle, and then ordered two bottles. "But we hate to break up the window display," he was told. "If you'll wait, we'll send for another bottle at our uptown branch." The man hadn't time, he said. He would pay $700 if he could take the two bottles with him. The manager gave in.

When Mr. Reuben, who was out, returned, he asked about the bottle that had been in the window. "We had to sell it to a sport, who bought the two of them."

"That's a shame," said the conscience-stricken Reuben. "The one in the window was filled with water."

Mr. Reuben hopes the man sees this here before the bottles are delivered to his girl friends.

Hehehch

A group of racetrack characters were expressing their opinions of tough spots they had raced at, "tough spots" meaning places where the panic was on financially. One of the boys mentioned Tia Juana.

"Tia Juana?" chirped Otto Torrell, a real plunger and well known wherever horses race in North America, "Tia Juana! Why, that's the only place in the world where I ever saw the men wearing patches in their hats!"

On the Other Hand

Some of us understand why the provincial yawns at the type from the big town. One cannot blame the average hinterlander for "wasting a lot of time hating New York," particularly when a Manhattan policeman steps out of character and saves Mr. and Mrs. Public, as one did recently.

At any rate, they were hoisting a huge electric sign at Forty-third and Broadway and the crowd that gathered was difficult to handle. One cop, who lost his dome, used force on an elderly man and shouted: "What are you people? Hicks from the sticks?"

"I suppose," softly retorted the man, "that you are one of the famous 'Finest' New York boasts about."

The squelched officer's cheeks got a red as—well, as red as a girl's used to get.

It Is to Chuckle

Among other amusing commentaries on prohibition is this: One of New York's slimiest speakeasies, which is patronized chiefly by murderers, gangsters, degenerates and other foul citizens, was raided recently, but not closed. As a punishment the law placed a patrolman in the place as some sort of a gesture. He is a gay young officer, who apparently has found the assignment a pleasant one, for he is the butt of the entertainers' jokes, and when he is in the mood he plays a tune at the piano and otherwise makes himself agreeable.

But what we started out to report was that the officer was not assigned to the speakeasy to see that it doesn't sell liquor or because it is a playground for criminals. He was put there, it appears, because a few weeks ago the management permitted a 12-year-old newsboy to peddle papers in the joint after midnight!

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Next Big Naval Engagement

Scene: Pacific ocean. Time: About 1940. The British and Japanese governments have declared war and hostilities between the two fleets are about to begin under the rules and regulations reached at the naval limitations parley.

PHILLIPS

Message from Japanese admiral:

Admiral Wheemish thanks Admiral Mahatsu for his kind message and begs to state that the battle had entirely slipped his mind. He thinks, however, that he can arrange to participate if the Japanese admiral insists.

Message from Japanese admiral:

No hurry. Take your time.

Message from British admiral:

Will be glad to engage you tomorrow, weather permitting. Kindly give me your fleet strength.

Reply:

Will use three first class battleships, 30,000 tons; 10 cruisers, 14,000 tons; six light cruisers, 8,000 tons; two submarines. Will this be satisfactory?

Message from British admiral:

There must be some misunderstanding. I have but one first class battleship. Left others at base. Very sorry.

Reply:

That's all right. I'll loan you one of my battleships. That will make us two on each side. Will that do? If not, pray command me.

Message from British admiral:

Very sweet of you. Send battleship at convenience. Will probably feel odd in strange craft at first but hope it will be all right after I get the hang of it. Hearty thanks.

Reply:

Understand you have three submarines to my two. What do you think we had better do about this inequality?

Message from British admiral:

I suggest that one of my submarines be used as a non-combatant. How about designating it as the committee boat for judges, etc.?

Reply:

Splendid! What time will you wish to fight? How about tomorrow morning at 10?

Message from British admiral:

Can't fight tomorrow at 10. Have appointment with dentist. Would Tuesday at 1:15 do?

Reply:

Sorry, but am giving a bridge party on flagship Tuesday. Would love to have you over.

Message from British admiral:

Auction bridge or contract?

Reply:

Contract.

Message from British admiral:

Forget battle. No sense to it, anyhow. Will attend bridge. Best regards to entire fleet.

John Boswell, manager of the chamber of commerce, was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce in that city Thursday night. The U. S. forest service recently celebrated its 25th birthday.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

'BOSSY' GILLIS STAYS SINGLE

Bad Boy Mayor Decides to Forego Marriage

By DUANE HENNESSEY

HOLLYWOOD, March 6. (UP)—No wedding bells are going to ring for Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis if he knows anything about it, the carrot-topped mayor of Newburyport, Mass., decided tonight and he said it was the ladies' own fault.

"Lissen, Fella," he announced. "These girls are too darned anxious to get married. I came out here for the trip to look around for a wife. Blooey—I got 142 proposals.

"When there's that many women want to marry a guy there's something wrong. I'm 33 and single and from now on I've got one purpose in life: That's to be single at 66."

The vitriolic mayor issued his ultimatum while draped about a davenport in his hotel room. His pose was Cleopatra-like and he smiled wisely.

Visits Aimee

"Bossy" had just had a great day. He had visited Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist. Gilles' greeting had been:

"Hello, Aimee, this is a swell racket you've got here."

Mrs. McPherson did not have apything to say to that and after a few remarks about the weather, "Bossy" took his departure.

"Hey, look at this," gurgled the mayor, delving into a pocket. "Every day I get letters and telegrams from women who want to marry me—blondes—brunets and redheads. And I told them I wouldn't have anything but a brunette.

"Boy, I've learned a lesson. It's too bad, too. I'd have made some woman a swell husband.

Clara Misses Out

"Take Clara Bow for instance. She's red-headed but I might have made an exception. What a swell pair of 'it' people we'd have been.

"And laugh this off. A girl in Minneapolis wrote there were 100,000 brunets in Minneapolis for me to pick from. I always thought they were blondes there."

Mr. Gillis flicked a cigar ash from his hat. It was not his ash. The Newburyport "bad boy" does not smoke. Neither does he drink, but he is broadminded.

"What a big laugh prohibition is," he commented. "There isn't any such animal I don't drink, but if I did, I wouldn't want anyone buttin' in."

Antiques Exposition Shows Some Queer, but Very Valuable, Articles

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, March 8. (UP)—Abou 10,000 New Yorkers stared today with appropriate reverence at a rock crystal and gold tray, set with pearls, diamonds and emeralds and formerly employed in serving the late czar of Russia with his crackers and milk, of which he was very fond.

It was part of the $10,000,000 worth of exhibits at the second International Antiques exposition in Grand Central palace and unlike a good many Queen Anne chairs, directoire divans and such, the czar's cracker and milk tray has never been "restored" the wear and tear of crackers and milk of emeralds being practically nil.

Moustache Cup

Vying in sentimental interest with the Russian milk tray is an object among the Americana almost as rare—a moustache cup in a perfect state of preservation. This moustache cup, according to collectors, has a number of points. For one thing, it is accompanied by the original saucer, which is extraordinarily large and shallow and cleverly designed to cool the largest amount of coffee in at given time.

The cup itself will hold about a pint.

The entire handle is gilded and so is the drinking edge. A gilt ribbon and bow design encircles the middle and the lower half is given over to a profusion of hand-painted rosebuds. Just above the bow is inscribed in old English lettering the simple phrase, "Uncle Egbert." The guard for Uncle Egbert's moustache is composed entirely of crockery rosebuds modelled from an almost lasciviously healthy rosebush and most pleasingly scalloped at the edges.

This moustache cup is said—by those collectors at the show who know moustache cups—to be one of the finest specimens extant.

Kaiser's Bowl

Another sentimental object is Kaiser Wilhelm's "schwabenkessel" or punch bowl, which the kaiser inherited from some of his ancestors and has personally put to the use for which it was lovingly designed. It is a fine schwabenkessel, 44 inches high and large enough to be used in a pinch for a lifeboat. That woderful silver and gold creation is chased and engraved with legendary scenes and sits on a fancy tripod containing a wine cellarette. It is valued at $100,000—empty.

Of more academic interest is the sofa-table which Norman R. Adams heard was in England and personally went there and escorted to New York. This sofa-table is augem among sofa-tables because it has hepplewhite carvings on its legs, which are a great parity on the legs of a sofa-table. But the real reason Adams made a hurried trip to England was to confirm in person the unbelievable rumor this sofa-table not only had hepplewhite legs, but the stars and stripes inlaid in ebony on its top. Adams found it all to be true. He tempted the English with Yankee gold and obtained his sensational sofa-table for a paltry something under $2,500.

There are a great many mysterious objects among the sentimental and beautiful things in the show, but none more so than a life size wooden statue of Lord Nelson. The British naval hero is in full uniform, from which the paint is peeling somewhat, and he is pointing his spyglass.

Happy Woman Tells How She Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 27 Days

During October a woman in Montana wrote—"My first bottle of Kruschen Salts lasted almost 4 weeks and during that time I lost 19 pounds of fat—Kruschen is all you claim for it—I feel better than I have for years."

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. The Kruschen habit means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts are carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

If you want to lose fat with speed get an 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts from Allison Drug store or any live druggist anywhere in America with the distinct understanding that you must be satisfied with results or money back.—Adv.

THE GIRL WITH THE RED HAIR

By Rob Eden

CHAPTER I

THE WORDS were pounding in Gay's ears.

Pounding . . . pounding.

The typewriter keys in front of her were blurred, black letters swimming crazily on white, pale disks. The letter she was writing to R. E. Fields, concerning some invoice which hadn't arrived, and which she didn't understand anyway, was full of mistakes. Mr. Galway would be out after it if she didn't hurry, furious at her delay. Other letters in her notebook too that must be finished. Other letters Mr. Galway had dictated this morning. Six of them.

A fresh sheet of paper failed. A mistake on the date. Her fingers were stiff, strange. Lifeless. It was as if her body were here, at the machine, her mind far off.

Then the pounding. The doctor's words . . .

She should have phoned from his office and said she was sick, couldn't get back this afternoon. But then there would have been Mr. Galway's wrath to face. He was hard to work for. And now, at all times, she had to hold her job. Had to . . .

The sun edged a few

Sue had the uncomfortable feeling that someone was standing behind her, looking at her. . . . It was Mr. Patterson.

inches farther through the window, slyly, and fingered her red hair, spinning a golden web to it, lingering in the curly bright locks. It wove a net around her drooping slim shoulders, her too-pale face.

No Use—She Couldn't Do It

Now the girl closed her long dark lashes to shut out the sunshine. When she opened them again, she looked with determination at the sheet of paper in front of her, which she tore out of the machine quickly. Her thin dark brows almost met on her forehead, her full crimson lips were pursed tightly as she started again.

No use . . . she couldn't do it . . . not today, anyhow . . .

It was as if she were alone in the big office. As if the other 29 desks peopled with girls were non-existent. She heard none of the noise, none of the confusion that the 29 typewriters, exactly like her own, were making.

There was only the pounding in her ears . . . the doctor talking, telling her, sitting in his cool-quiet office looking at him, not quite realizing sitting like a dumb inert person. He repeating as if she had not heard, had not understood . . .

She lifted her violet eyes to the web of gold, not seeing it, not conscious that the light hurt her eyes. Only knowing what the doctor had said. Only hearing what he said.

In the sunlight the few freckles on the bridge of her nose seemed darker, her skin whiter, more opalescent.

Terris Always Rather Startling

People were always rather startled when they first saw Gay Terris. They looked first at her hair, then at her eyes, then at her lips. At least they thought they did. In reality, they looked first at her white face, then at her hair, marveling that the two were so different, yet so harmonious. Something about her that was alive, glowing, burning. A quickness, a humor about her eyes, which were large and rather wide set. Her face was appealing.

Dr. King had been surprised, startled, too, when he had seen her. He had given her more time than he normally would have. Explained Mrs. Terris' case in detail.

He had been kind, Gay thought now, kind as he knew how. Doctors—she really didn't know much about them—doctors were usually so brusque, and businesslike.

A specialist. The best. His reception room had been rather awing. Walking in from the hot street, sitting in a down-deep chair. The room scented slightly from the tall stemmed American beauties on the broad mahogany table.

Dr. King calling her in, telling her . . .

No, this couldn't be. Mother couldn't be ill—not like this.

He didn't want to tell Mrs. Terris, he had explained in a soft, well-modulated voice, a sick room voice, she had imagined, he didn't want to worry her. Above all she shouldn't be worried. That's why he had asked Miss Terris to come around and see him. She must remember that her mother couldn't be worried about anything. Did she understand? Gay understood, and had nodded wisely, wondering what was coming, what he was going to say.

Only Gay and Her Mother

There were only mother and she. No one else. Where other girls had had father and mother, Gay had had only mother. Martin Terris had died when his daughter was 4 years old. Gay could barely remember him. A big hearty man, red haired as she was, rocking her to sleep, playing with her. That was all. His death had been sudden and after he was gone Mrs. Terris had taken up the burden he had left.

Unprepared for anything untrained, the only thing she knew how to do was to sew.

Gay remembered those days after her father's death. Mother working at the sewing machine cutting, fitting, basting. Customers. The small few rooms lived in . . .

It wasn't as if she didn't know what her mother had gone through. She did. Only too well. After school, coming home. Mother sewing, stopping only to get dinner. Then after dinner sewing again. For years, and years. It was no wonder . . .

She had hoped all she would, but she couldn't do enough.

She had wanted to go to work as soon as she was able, but Mrs. Terris wouldn't have it. And Gay had been persuaded. When Mrs. Terris made up her mind, there was nothing else to do. Gay was to finish high school and then she could work if she wanted. So the girl did, hating herself for doing it, yet knowing what pleasure it gave her mother.

A short course in business college. More money, but Mrs. Terris had insisted. This, her first job. Twenty dollars a week!

It had been such a lot of money to them. Twenty extra dollars a week. Gay had felt like a millionaire when she had the first week taken her whole salary home to her mother.

Now after what the doctor had said it seemed so small, so pitifully small.

Mother Seemed Ill

The last six months, ever since Gay had had her job with American Manufacturers, Mrs. Terris had seemed ill. Nothing she had said till trying to sew. "Don't worry about me. I'll be all right. This summer we'll go to the mountains for a week. That's what I need." Nothing a sob caught in Gay's throat. Nothing . . .

She grew thinner, she who had always been so thin. Gay watched her with alarm, insisting each day that she see a doctor. Finally, when her mother made no move to go to a physician, Gay took matters in her own hands. She made an appointment with a doctor nearby and took Mrs. Terris with her, protesting. This doctor had done nothing but arrange for an examination by Dr. King. Well her mother should have the best. And Dr. King was the best. It was just as well.

She had been prepared for almost anything but this. She knew Mrs. Terris had been working too hard. Perhaps a tonic, and an absolute rest . . . On $20 a week they could both live. They had to live. She could get extra work at night, perhaps. They would manage, somehow. For 15 years her mother had been taking care of her. Now it was her turn. She would be the bread winner. She was young, strong.

Can't Live in New York

"Remember, Miss Terris," Dr. King was saying smoothly, "your mother must not be told what I am telling you. She is ill—very ill. In New York she couldn't live much longer, probably three or four months. But if she got away to Arizona, had complete rest in a sanatorium there, she might recover. I'm not promising anything. But it's the only chance she has. She must go, and go immediately. These lung patients . . ."

Arizona for a year . . .

Gay had glanced around the luxurious office. On the doctor's desk were a few photographs framed in silver. There were more American beauty roses on his desk in this private room. A dozen. Yes, a dozen. Why she counted them she didn't know. But there were a dozen. Two dollars apiece. She knew that, because she had priced them only a few days before. She had bought one for her mother. One because it was all she could afford. One rose, the stem long and strong and green. The blossom blood red. It was home now, beginning to wilt. One American beauty rose. Dr. King had a dozen in his reception room, a dozen more in his private office. Forty-eight dollars for roses.

Twenty Dollars a Week

And he was telling her her mother had to go to Arizona. Calmly, as if the money was in the bank, and everything was settled. Twenty dollars a week . . .

Her head had spun around as she had sat in the real Morocco leather covered chair.

"Arizona—" she murmured at last.

"Yes Miss Terris, and immediately. I've tried to explain the necessity."

"How much ought—it cost?"

"What cost?"

"The trip? The year there."

"Why, I've no definite idea. But I can recommend several sanatoriums if you wish."

No definite idea. Forty-eight dollars for roses, silver frames on his desk. A Tanagra figurine in a niche on the wall . . .

Tears blurred her violet eyes and wet lashes brushed her cheeks. If they only had the money . . . if . . .

But there was none she knew. Knew only too well. Mother hadn't been able to work lately, and they had depended entirely on her $20 a week. There was no money—just enough to get through the week on.

Gasped at the Cost

"I should think you could manage on $75 a week. That's the usual rate at these private sanatoriums. They give excellent care and that will include all the extra."

"Seventy-five dollars a week for a year?" Gay had gasped.

"Yes, and that would be fairly reasonable."

Nearly $5,000!

"You must realize that your mother has worked too hard all these years. She must have rest. Must. The climate here is too severe. Arizona would be ideal—" She had heard him continue as if in a dream. Only one thing she knew. That her mother must go and that before she went, somehow, somewhere, $5,000 must be had. Five thousand dollars. If Dr. King had said a million, the amount wouldn't have been more staggering to Gay.

The pinched child years. The struggle to exist. Her mother facing it bravely, willing. Little luxuries. Far apart like the rose she had given her mother. Five thousand dollars.

Bravely she had pretended to listen to Dr. King, but she did not see him, did not hear him. Her mother was in front of her, her soft brown eyes weary, her lips drawn, thin lines in her face that still should have been young.

Interview Was Over

Dimly when he had risen she did likewise. Evidently the interview was over.

"Shall I wire about the sanatorium? Get the rates for you, and make the arrangements?" he was asking.

Somehow she had said yes and he had accompanied her to the door into the reception room. She saw the roses as she went past them, almost tear-blind. Outside a hot rush of heat met her, and she staggered back to his office. So cool in Dr. King's office, so hot on the streets.

She had not had time for lunch. Indeed she could not have eaten, anyway. At the office, she had phoned Mrs. Terris to be sure she was all right.

How did people go about borrowing money? They had credit, of course. She, Gay Terris, had no credit, nothing. Not even a bank account. There never was enough money to start one. Always the rent to pay, the food to buy, something that caught up the money as soon as it was earned.

Relatives?

Strange that two people could be as alone as she and her mother. That was why it had always been so hard. No one to help. No aunts, no uncles, as other folks had. Gay had always been slightly jealous of other girls who had doting aunts and uncles. Both her mother and father had been only children as she was.

$5,000 a Fortune

Five thousand dollars. It was a fortune. And Dr. King said her mother had to go immediately. There should be no delay. That meant she had to find the money somewhere right away.

A tear splashed on one of the dancing keys, and she wiped it off carefully. The big clock in front of her pointed to three. For two hours she had been sitting here, getting no farther than her interview with Dr. King. Even her work was not done . . .

There must be some way—some way she couldn't see yet. Even now Dr. King's wire was on its way. It couldn't be true that mother was so sick. Couldn't. Even as hope surged through her, it evaporated as quickly. Dr. King knew. What he said was true . . . There would be his bill, too. That was the least of her troubles.

The patience of her mother all these years. Uncomplaining. A woman who had never had to work until her husband's death. Never known what work was. Then to be shunted out to earn not only a living for herself but for her daughter. For her. Time she did something herself. Took the burden on her young shoulders.

Doctor Felt No Pity

Gay's eyes fluttered shut. Mother couldn't live in this climate. Oh, a few months—Dr. King had felt no pity when he said that. It was as if she were some one not interested, someone outside the family, someone who didn't care. A few months. Hope if she went to Arizona. A chance.

I only have myself, the girl murmured half aloud, to offer. A scheme flashed through her mind, a scheme repugnant to her. A shudder ran through her body as it recurred. Herself. Other girls had done it. Why not she? It was for her mother . . .

Her fingers were strong again, as they flew over a few keys of the typewriter. No that wouldn't do. There must be some other way to word it, another more adroit way . . .

Her hand moved the carriage of the machine. That was better. The words screamed at her from the white glazed paper, then started swimming before her eyes. The only way. She could drop into a newspaper office on her way home. Tomorrow there would be answers.

Drafted Ad Quickly

The first draft she drew quickly from the typewriter, and inserted a fresh paper. On this she copied what she had written.

(One Insertion.)

—Personals—

"Young girl in desperate circumstances will agree to marry in return for loan of $5,000. Address Box——"

Was that too brazen? Too terrible? Gay read it over again. No, it was all she had to say. Two things only. The loan, and in return for the loan she would promise to marry. Marry anybody who gave her the money. Of course she would get answers. But she could choose. She hoped she could, anyway. Take the best. It was for her mother—all she had to give. Herself. Mother wouldn't need to know. She would tell her she had borrowed the money for the trip from—the doctor, from somebody. Anybody. Tell her Dr. King had been interested in her case, and was lending the money. That was the best.

On her way home she could slip into the Times office, and leave the ad. Tomorrow there would be answers. Then after her mother had gone, she could be married quietly.

To Gay who had never thought of marriage seriously, this was a desperate step. But it didn't matter what happened to her—as long as mother got well. Anything was worth that, even marriage to someone she didn't know.

Marrying a stranger, a man she didn't care about. Perhaps she would learn to love him. She would try. It was all she could do.

The paper remained in her typewriter, a neat well spaced ad. That was settled.

Hand Covered Ad

The uncomfortable feeling that someone was standing behind her, looking at her. Eyes she couldn't see. Her hand quickly covered the ad she had written, and she turned her head, Mr. Patterson. He hadn't seen it. Faintly she smiled up at him, and jerked the paper from her machine. At least no one in the office should know the trouble she was in, and how she intended getting out of it. Not their business.

Something about Mr. Patterson she couldn't like anyway. Something she couldn't explain. For he had always been polite, over polite to her. A few months ago when he had ridden down in the elevator with her, he had asked her to go to lunch with him. And in refusing, she had lied, telling him she had another engagement. She wasn't sorry, for there was nothing to regret. She could think of a lot of other luncheon companions who would be more affable than Mr. Patterson, even if he was one of the vice presidents of American Manufacturers, Incorporated. A pompous sort of man, extremely important around the office, and seeing that his importance was always emphasized. Why, Mr. Patterson must be around 50.

Just now his small grayish eyes were studying her narrowly, and his florid face had even more color than usual.

The Invitation

"Will you come into my office, Miss Terris?" he asked quietly.

Trembling slightly, Gay rose, first slipping her ad into the top drawer of her desk.

"You might bring that bit of paper along," he said noncommittally.

Without a word, the girl opened the desk, and took out the paper. What could he want? Had he seen it? Or was he going to fire her—Probably talk to her about using office time to transact her own business. Just when she needed her job, too . . .

He opened the door on which his name, Frank B. Patterson, vice president, was printed in firm black letters, and motioned her to a seat.

"Let me see this, please," and he was reading the paper, having snapped on his nose a pair of spectacles.

Gay watched his slightly bald head, bent over the desk, and wondered what was going to happen. The bluish circles, like dark shadows under her eyes, seemed more pronounced, and her lips trembled a little.

AUDIT BRINGS TAX REFUNDS

Oklahoma Repays $10,557 To Stephens County

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., March 6.—Stephens county was richer by $10,557 today after county commissioners had received a check for that sum representing errors in gross production tax payments discovered by T. J. Price and Merle Price, deputy state examiners and inspectors.

The sum represents errors made in distributing gross production taxes on oil to various counties. The examiners checked tax records at the office of the state auditor and found that 23 other oil producing counties in the state had received various sums which should have been paid Stephens county between May 17, 1917, and Jan. 10, 1927.

The errors were the result of confusion arising from fields along the Stephens county line, and errors made from mistakes made in designating the origin of pipe line runs.

The audit was made at the request of county commissioners at the same time an audit of all county records was asked. The audit of records here will be completed about May 1.

Lover Jealous of Girl's Dog Sent To Jail for Rage

LONG BEACH, Calif., March 6. (US)—For the next 30 days, Maurice Ford will have plenty of time to meditate upon his shattered romance that was ended when he killed his sweetheart's dog.

Judge Stephen J. Long sent Ford to jail for a month when he pleaded guilty to beating Miss Marion Marquardt's spitz dog to death because she kissed the animal.

"Any girl of mine who fools around with a dog, is going to get her dog killed," said Ford, as he departed for jail. "I'm not going to share my kisses with any pup."

"I'm through with him!" declared Miss Marquardt. "Any man who's so insanely jealous that he can't stand to see a girl play with a dog isn't safe to have around."

Miss Marquardt told Judge Long that she had had the spitz for only a few hours. She bought the animal at a pet store and, on the way home, stopped at Ford's place of business to show him her new possession.

"I put the puppy up by my face—he was such a cute, fuzzy little thing," she said.

Then, she said, Ford snatched the animal and beat its head against the curbstone until it was dead.

"I'd do it again," insisted Ford.

Disease of the Fingernails

Sometimes the matrix or nail base becomes inflamed and we have a condition called onychia. A popular name for this is a "run around." The end of the finger looks red, is congested and feverish. The nail throbs and hurts. Pus may be formed at the root and the nail is unusually lost but it generally grows again. The treatment for relief is hot applications. When the nail is not lost it may loosen and become roughened. Any wood which keeps the hands in irritating fluid such as scrubbing or dish washing due to the continual soapy water, may bring about this condition. Keeping the nails in cool water compresses overnight will sometimes relieve the pain and allow the patient to sleep. Only one nail may be thickened or every nail may be attacked at one time.

The ingrowing toenail is an extremely bothersome experience. This is usually caused by pinching from shoes that are too tight causing the nail to irritate the skin and an ingrowing toenail may cut right into the flesh. If this type of shoe is continually worn an abscess of a very painful sort may be developed which will exude pus and produce quite an irritating sore. The cure is to buy shoes which give the nail plenty of room. The nail may also be scraped thinner toward the center in the back so that it will be permitted to curve normally.

Paronychia or whitlow is a disease in the bone of the finger tip under the nail when it becomes inflamed, throwing off pus and causing extreme inconvenience and subsequent pain. The nail may be either lost or else separated from its bed and raised. It may be thickened, become ridged and turn brown. Since the growth of the nail has been disturbed the ridge remains until it grows out and is indicative as to the length of time that the inflammation was present.

Ridges across the finger nails may also indicate an acute disease or weakened condition at the time when the ridge was first formed. After a fever the nail often crumbles, splits and discolors. In this case the treatment should be constitutional since it indicates that the blood stream is not bringing proper nourishment to the root.

Following an accident, the nail often turns black and comes off. If the nails are injured they will probably grow in again, but this often takes time, especially with toenails. Almost every child loses one or more nails during the process of growing up.

A badly formed nail may be due to any influence which keeps the nails from growing right during the embryonic period. The habit of children biting the nails may also result in deformity of the nail. When the malformation of the nails has occurred before birth, the nail of the big toe is usually thickened or horny and discolored. The trouble may not appear immediately but come on later in life. Sometimes in a disease called anonychia, the nail of a finger or toe may be completely absent at birth.

Deformity of the nail may also occur in diseases of the lungs and heart. Sometimes in these cases the nail becomes very much enlarged or it may curve under the end of the finger.

The most severe change of the nail may occur in leprosy and ichthyosis. Neuritis often causes nails to whiten, usually with streaks showing longitudinally. Ichthyosis causes the nails to be brittle and dry.

From the foregoing you can undoubtedly see how closely related is the health of the nail to the health of the body and shows that it is often more important to pay attention to the general health than to special part.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Stuttering

Question J. B. writes: "I am a 20-year old and stutter on certain words. Do you think I could correct that by going to a school for stuttering people or will that leave itself when I get a little older?"

Answer: You should go to a teacher who can help you in correcting your speech defects. Do not wait to outgrow it as the cure becomes more difficult each day. Such cases can always be cured through proper training and you should at once begin such instruction so that you will not be handicapped throughout life.

Sore Kneecap

Question F. M. asks: "What would cause a swelling and sore below the kneecap?"

Answer: You should have an X-ray examination made of the kneecap. The swelling may be due to tuberculosis osteitis, bursitis or tuberculosis of the bone.

Figs and Dates

Question W. M. asks: "Is the high carbohydrate or starch content of figs or dates likely to cause fermentation in the intestines as a meal of with nonstarchy vegetables? Also, what quantity would you suggest as sufficient for a meal if taken with milk?"

Answer: One who is easily susceptible to fermentation from carbohydrates may not be able to use the figs or dates in any large quantity without producing excessive fermentation. Each one must experiment for himself to see what quantity it is possible to take without making an unusual amount of gas. It is best to use the figs with sweet milk and the dates with buttermilk using five or six with each glass of milk, or the same number of figs with the milk. A good quantity for a meal would be two glasses of the milk or buttermilk with a corresponding amount of figs or dates.

THREE TIPTON GIRLS INJURED

Trio Hurt as Youth's Car Crashes

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., March 6.—Three school girls, Esther Edwards, 15, Gladys Gwin, 18, and Nellie Hopper, 16, were seriously injured about 9 a. m. Thursday at Tipton when they were struck by a Chevrolet roadster driven by Ernest Whitaker, about 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Whitaker of Grandfield. In going south over the Katy railroad at Tipton the young man seemed to have lost control of the car, which swerved to the east, ran into a ditch and struck the girls who were on the sidewalk. The car was badly damaged.

Miss Gwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Gwin, was under the car when it stopped. She was badly cut about the back and was taken to the Tipton hospital for treatment. Miss Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Edwards, was cut on one of her arms and head. She was knocked through a hog wire fence and her clothing torn to shreads. Miss Hopper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hopper, was fractured about her shoulder and sustained a sprained ankle.

Whitaker was brought to the county jail by Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor where he is being held for investigation. No charges have been filed against him.

MURDER CHARGE

FARMERS HILL, Texas, March 6. (UP)—A charge of murder was filed against 19-year-old R. L. Wallace today in connection with the death of Deputy Constable Lee Oliver, 54, during a gun battle here.

Inquiry to Probe Senator Grundy's Office Staff Despite Explanation

WASHINGTON, March 6. (US)—Despite his vigorous denial on the senate floor, the senate lobby committee tomorrow will investigate reports that Senator Joseph R. Grundy, Republican of Pennsylvania, allowed tariff lobbyists to establish headquarters in one of his senate offices.

This development followed a senate threat by Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, that if lobbyists are established there, he will introduce a senate resolution ordering their expulsion.

"Just visitors, and welcome ones," was Grundy's explanation as to the presence of the lobbyists in his office. He denied that they had been using the office for headquarters.

Nevertheless it appeared tonight that the Pennsylvanian, who himself headed the tariff lobbyists before his appointment to the senate last December, would be the center of another raging lobby controversy.

It was a reminder of the committee's investigation last fall into the employment of Lobbyist Charles L. Evanson by Senator Bingham, Republican of Connecticut. As a result of that incident, Bingham was censured by the senate.

SKIPPER CARL WILLIAMS DUE TO TAKE OVER SPUDDERS TODAY

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Seen and heard from the training camp bleachers: Eull Moore, batting for the fielders and trying to get one over in left field, and socking it over the fence . . . John Reid doing a little better at it. . . The indefatigable Tony Defate smashing the ball at a scandalous rate, showing this business of fungo hitting for him is as simple as grandma's knitting . . . George Nebel, back from a visit with friends in New Mexico, trots out on the lot. "Hello Chief," he greets Eull Moore, "but don't let me disturb you; it's seldom I see you doing anything . . . Raymond Krottinger, up from the home sandlots, being congratulated for his work by Howard Fitzgerald . . . "I don't guess I've got a chance with the first string this year," said Raymond later. "but I'm sure going to try hard, and maybe I'll get somewhere some-time. . . ."

Hoppity-hop the players go, around in a circle bending to stop the grounders the man in the middle throws, and the guy who misses it simply a flop . . . Such is the so-called pepper game, and Thursday the pastime well earned such a name, for great clouds of dust provided the pepper, and also the excuse for many a lost temper. . . .

Speaking of our wind and dust, Richard Florrid, otherwise Dick, arrived in town late in the afternoon, and wanted to know if the wind blew like that all time. "Oh," volunteered Secretary Guy Airey, "not at all, not at all. It only blows like this in the winter, spring and summer."

Florrid is the young addition to the Spudder pitching staff who hails from Atlanta, Ga. He is 23 years old, and yes, girls, like so many of our 1930 Spudders, he's tall and dark and handsome, and has ambitious, this being his second year in professional baseball. Last year he played with Columbus, one of the Southeastern league. He is a right-hander, and how good he is the world will soon know because he'll be in uniform with the rest of the lads Friday.

Johnnie McMahon and Wesley Thompson, both of whom played with Abilene last season, were down on the lot yesterday looking things over. Soon they will be doing things they were seeing. McMahon, who lives here, will play this season with Oklahoma City of the Oklahoma-Texas league. In addition to playing with Abilene last season, he spent a while with the Dallington team, which is more or less a farm of the Oklahoma City club. He is to report for training March 18.

Thompson was injured at Abilene last year. His ankle was sprained. However, he expects little trouble from the injury this season. He is due to report about March 20 to Muskogee, Okla., club.

Many things are due to happen even at the training camp today. Skipper Carl Williams will be here, and if he' gets in from his farm at Santa Anna in time he'll be in uniform and on duty. That will mean a lot to the squad. To the rookies especially. Of course they have all been stepping out of it ever since training started Monday, but with the Big Chief on the scene, don't they work hard? Poor boys! Many of them will be lopped off the register in a few days now, and forced out upon the cruel, cruel world. But if the rookies will step faster, so will the regulars, because they've been in the game long enough to know that a let-down in training simply because one is a regular, is more suicidal than flopping at the first try-out.

And another thing may be expected today: the arrival of our new pick infield from Tulsa. The purchase of this quartet by the Spudder powers is expected to provide the western nucleus for the hopefuls this year. They are due in camp today.

Close your windows tight, mates, there's a great breeze a'comin'. When he gets in town he'll make the Spudder wheels go sizzling and judging from a letter this man received Thursday signed by "The Humble Pipeliners" of Navasota, Texas. He is "our Austin Thomas" otherwise the "Brazos Kid" the letter says, and is due to arrive today. He has been signed by the Spudders, according to Guy Airey, and if you want to know any more about him read the Pipeliners' letter, which follows:

The Record News:

Get out your cameras, and have your reporters on duty at the baseball park there in Wichita Falls, Friday March 7 and see our Austin Thomas, the "Brazos Kid" start his career in professional baseball. He has lived in the heart of the Brazos valley most of his life. He knows his okra in handling the hoe, and can ride anything from a cultivator to a baseball park mule. The cultivator never gets too rough, and baseballs are never kicked too high that he can not get under them. Has been known to climb a park fence and snatch a fly ball eliminating a home run. The greatest thief that ever ran bases—can steal any base on the diamond when given a three-foot lead. Never known to strike out at the bat. Not only a clean hitter, but he'll never strike out. Fastest man ever dusted the bases in country baseball. He can pitch that apple too, and his curious ball is the "Rising Knuckle Ball" that he has perfected himself. Austin Thomas is coming off the pipeline from here, where he has been working for several years. He is in good shape for playing right now. Brought up on the 'ole farm, then the railroads when a lad of 16 years worked all over the 'ole Santa Fe railroad, and then took a shot at pipelining and has been at it for the past few years, and, too, he was campaign manager in this section of the Lone Star state for Senator Earle B. Mayfield, during his gubernatorial campaign prior to his candidacy for governor, and is now 30 years of age, and is 5 feet and 10 inches tall, and about 165 pounds and is a ball player that is to be occupying the sport pages in the leading newspapers of the country. If you can't find him, you'll hear him for he is a yodeling fool. Oughta be singing for Victor people instead of trying to start a career in baseball. Anyway he is a big sport, and likes to play sports. He loves his baseball. He is always playing catch with some one the year in and year out. We better close this up, but be sure and be on hand with your camera and give this "Kid" Thomas a boost and make him make that Texas league. He can do it if you people will make him hustle.

The Humble Pipeliners of Navasota, Texas.

PRUNING TIME NOT FAR OFF

High Wind Hinders Players In Thursday's Session

By FRED D. THOMPSON
The Record News Staff

With the blade of the guillotine poised in the shadows, a Spudder squad of little over a score, most of them rookies, worked briefly but hard Thursday. Skipper Carl Williams is due to arrive on the scene Friday, and doubtless the machinery used in the rising and falling of the well-known axe will be oiled and made ready for his use. It is probable Skipper Williams will be in uniform Friday afternoon, there being a possibility he will arrive from his farm at Santa Anna, Texas, by noon.

At all events, he will be among the boys Saturday to relieve Howard Fitzgerald of his duties as trainer, the veteran having been in charge of the squad since preliminary training started last Monday.

Wind Shortens Session

A hard driving wind forced the squad indoors early Thursday afternoon, but the two hours spent on the lot were well used. Trainer Fitzgerald maintained the pace set earlier in the week for his charges, and the squad gingerly participated in brisk pepper games, fungo hitting and fielding practice. Many of the players got in a good deal of running.

The squad is due to be augmented Friday not only by Carl Williams' arrival, but by the arrival of the Tulsa infield quartet, purchased at the close of last season by the local club. These four horsemen, Irvin Burns, first baseman; Linn Sorti, second sacker; James J. Levy, third baseman, and Walter Euller, shortstop, were outstanding stars last year, and are expected to bring lots of punch to the 1930 Spudder nine. They were ordered to report here March 7, and so far there is no indication they will fail to do so.

One New Arrival

Charles Sicola, rookie third sacker from Houston, and Roy Idom, Vivian, La., outfielder, who arrived Wednesday too late to start work, were in uniform for Thursday's session. Idom played last year with Atlanta and Bloomburg, Texas.

There was one new arrival Thursday, Richard Fiorrid, youthful right-hander from Atlanta, Ga., who played last season with Columbus, Ga., of the Southeastern league. He expects to be in uniform down at the lot Friday.

Waco Holdout Arrives

WACO, Texas, March 6. (AP)—Robert Sanguinet, one of Waco's two holdouts, bobbed up today. He watched the Cubs go through their training antics from the stand. It is likely that Bob will sign his contract tonight or tomorrow. George Gottlieber, Waco's other holdout, has sent in a compromise proposition from his home in California. He is also expected to be in camp within 10 days.

All of the other candidates have now arrived, Charley Stuvengen, Isey Banrimer, and Ed Kallina being among the arrivals of the day. Ban Rimer is a second baseman, and Stuvengen is a first baseman. Kallina is an outfielder, pitcher and first baseman.

Cats to Play Sunday

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, March 6. (AP)—First game of the season Sunday. This was the bulletin issued by Frank Snyder, manager of the Fort Worth Panthers, Thursday as he watched his athletes take their fourth day of training drills.

The squad will be divided into two clubs and will play a five or six-inning game Sunday afternoon.

Moudy Makes Hit

SAN ANTONIO, March 6. (AP)—One Indian pitcher has already made an impression.

He is Dick Moudy, big right-hander, who came from the Pacific Coast league last year, and the one who has become impressed with him is none less than John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants.

While Moudy was throwing a few during workout in League park Thursday McGraw happened to observe him. "That youngster's got something," said McGraw as he turned to Tom Conner, business manager of the San Antonio club. "If he can put that over in a game I'm afraid you'll not have him very long." Then McGraw told Moudy something and the sorrel-topped twirler broke out in a broad grin.

Atz Works 'Em

DALLAS, March 6. (AP)—Skipper Jake Atz gave the Dallas Steer sandlotter "early bids" their stiffest workout so far this season today and concluded the session by declaring there "wasn't a sore arm in camp."

Business Manager Bob Tarleton's ultimatum to hold-outs today was showing results. He had informed them he had gone the limit on salary, that no player's salary would start until after he had been in camp 30 days and that every player would have to put in at least 30 days of training to condition himself for the championship season opening April 9.

Kaufman in Camp

HOUSTON, March 6. (AP)—Tony Kaufman, the slugging outfielder who is expected to furnish much of the Houston Buffs punch during the coming campaign, arrived today and tomorrow will take his first workout with Manager Joe Schultz's hirelings.

Skipper Schultz and Coach Gene Bailey of the Rice Owls got together and arranged a game for next Wednesday at Buffalo stadium.

Rain Delays Pirates

PASO ROBLES, Calif., March 6. (UP)—Rain which prevented morning practice in the Pittsburgh training camp today caused the first inter-club game to be postponed from Friday to Saturday. Roy Frazier, outfielder who purchased his release from Oakland, reported today.

Hornsby's Team Wins

AVALON, Catalina Island, March 6. (UP)—A team captained by Rogers Hornsby defeated one led by Charley Grimm, 3 to 1, in a nine-innning practice game staged by the Chicago Cubs today.

Hack Wilson poled a double and a triple for the winners and Grimm hit a home run for his side's only run. The crowd consisted of 300 visiting Scotchmen from Canada. The admission was free.

Herman Only Holdout

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 6. (UP)—Outfielder Babe Herman was left as Brooklyn's only real holdout when infielder Eddie Moore sent word to Manager Wilbert Robinson he would arrive in camp tomorrow.

Glenn Wright showed no signs of weakness in his throwing arm in today's practice game when he handled nine chances at shortstop without an error. He took part in two double plays.

A's Regulars Win

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 6. (UP)—The Philadelphia Athletics' regulars defeated the yannigans today in the first practice game staged by the world champions. The game lasted six innings and the score was 8 to 1. Roger Cramer, rookie centerfielder, hit a homer off Grove and a single and made three diving catches that cut off runs.

Randy Moore Shifted

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6. (UP)—Red Rollins, Boston Brave recruit infielder, featured today's practice game with his heavy hitting. The game was won by the regulars, 4 to 1. Rollings had temporarily displaced Fred Maguire as the Braves' regular second baseman.

Randy Moore, outfielder who led the Texas league in batting last season, has been shifted to third base and may be used at that position against the Yankees in the opening exhibition game Saturday. Socks Seibold performed the best on the mound today, allowing only two hits in four innings.

Plane Menaces Senators

BILOXI, Miss., March 6. (UP)—An exhibition flier barely missed crashing into the grandstand during the Washington Senators' workout when his motor stalled as he flew over the field. Coach Nick Altrock ran and hid in the shower house.

Infielder Buddy Myer reported today. No word was received from Catcher Roy Spencer, and he faces suspension unless he communicates with President Griffith by Saturday.

Heydler Visits Reds

ORLANDO, Fla., March 6. (UP)—John A. Heydler, president of the National league, started his swing through the league's southern training camps today by visiting the Cincinnati Reds. He left by automobile for Winter Haven to see the Phillies tomorrow.

Heilmann, Meusel and Cuccinello featured today's practice. Heilmann hit several drives over the distant left field fence.

Hill Back in Form

BARDENTON, Fla., March 6. (UP)—Pitcher Carmen Hill, purchased by the St. Louis Cardinals from Pittsburgh late last season, demonstrated in today's workout he has fully recovered from a twisted back which handicapped him last year. After working out for 30 minutes Hill pitched to the batters in practice, showing his fast ball, fadeway and curve. The only absent players are Frankie Frisch, Flint Rhem, Chick Hafey, Syl Johnson and Pete Fowler.

Dark Horses

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 6. (UP)—The Cincinnati Reds and the Phillies are the dark horses of the National league race this season, according to President John H. Heydler, who paid the Phils camp a visit today.

He further declared Pittsburgh should benefit by the acquisition of Gus Suhr, first baseman, and believes Bill McKechnie will do well with Boston if given a fair opportunity.

The Phils went back to one workout today, putting in a long practice before lunch. Outfielder Tripp Sigman reached camp.

Ruppert Arrives

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 6. (UP)—Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, arrived here today from New York and the stage was set for the last round of the battle with Babe Ruth. It is expected they will get together some time tomorrow but there is no certainty their first conferences will induce the colonel to yield to the Babe's demand of a three-year contract at $85,000 a season.

The Yanks today played their first practice game in which Ruth's rookies beat the regulars, 3 to 1. The Babe hit a triple and a single.

Billy Karlon, recruit from Springfield, Mass., hit a home run for the youngsters. George Pipgras pitched three innings for the regulars and was in fine form, yielding only one hit. Catcher Bubbles Margrave suffered a wrist injury and Benny Bengough, another catcher, got a mashed finger.

Girl, 5, May Testify In Narcotic Law Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 6. (UP)—A 5-year-old girl who, officers said knew that "joint" was slang for a hypodermic needle may be called as a witness in the federal court trial of her aunt, Mrs. Hazel Donald, charged with a narcotic law violation.

Waco Woman Tells Her Experiences

"Truthfully Say That Orgatone Has Helped Me More Than Anything I've Ever Taken," She Says

I simply cannot find words to express my appreciation for the benefits I have derived from Orgatone," said Mrs. R. E. Cissell, residing at 709 S. Seventeenth street, Waco, Texas.

Continuing Mrs. Cissell said, "My entire system seemed to become disorganized and I started downhill and there wasn't a day that I felt like myself. On top of my many other ailments I suffered from dizzy headaches that were very disagreeable. My condition kept getting worse until I was all run-down from my head to my heels and no medicine seemed to do me a single bit of good.

"Honestly, since I have been taking Orgatone I feel like a different person, all that weak, run-down condition is gone and I actually feel that I have been made all over again. My dizzy headaches have been relieved and I sleep well every night and always feel fresh and fine on getting up in the morning, and when you come to think of it just one bottle of Orgatone has done all this for me."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store, 716 Indiana avenue.—Adv.

SUIT SETTLED FOR $2,179

Children of J. J. Cobb Agree To Crash Verdict

An agreed judgment totaling $2,179.44 was entered against the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad company Thursday morning after the settlement of a damage suit brought by the children of J. J. Cobb, killed in a railroad crossing accident in Iowa Park last November.

The judgment as entered by Judge P. A. Martin gave $1,050 to Carl Cobb, $810.44 to Miss Flora Cobb and $319 to Miss Maggie Cobb for J. C. and Herschel Cobb, minors. The agreement denied judgment to Mr. and Mrs. Vera Ralston, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tucker, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Scott. The original suit asked for $5,500 damages.

J. J. Cobb was killed when the automobile which he was driving was struck by a Fort Worth & Denver train at the Bond street crossing in Iowa Park.

To "Point-Up" Appetite Just Stimulate Bowels

Whenever the end of the day finds you out-of-sorts; food doesn't tempt you and won't digest; breath is bad; tongue coated; just chew a candy tablet before bedtime. Tomorrow you'll be a new person!

A candy Cascaret clears up a bilious, gassy, headachy condition every time. Puts appetite on edge. Helps digestion. Activates bowels.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which authorities say actually strengthens bowel muscles. So, take these delightful tablets as often as you please; or give them freely to children. All drug stores sell Cascarets for a dime, and no dollar preparation could do better work.—Adv.
