Haig Accuses Russia, Poland Of Violations

MADRID (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. accused the Soviet Union and the Polish military government today of "a willful violation of solemn international accords" because of the martial law crackdown in Poland.

In a blistering attack on the two countries, Haig objected to talking in Madrid about improved relations between East and West when past agreements have been violated.

"We cannot pretend to build up the structure of peace and security here in Madrid while the foundation for that structure is being undermined in Poland," he told the 35-nation European Security Conference.

"We would be threatening the future peace of Europe if we ignored this dramatic attack on international principles," Haig declared.

Both the Soviet and Polish delegations were in the audience as Haig spoke.

Haig said a "forcible suppression" of freedom and self-determination is under way in Poland, where martial law was declared Dec. 13 and the independent union Solidarity suspended.

"The generals of this war against the Polish people are none other than the Polish regime itself, acting under the instigation and coercion of the Soviet Union," he declared.

Haig accused the Soviets of seven specific violations of the 1975 Helsinki accords, which committed the 35 nations meeting here to respect human rights and national sovereignty in Europe.

The meeting here is a followup session to the Helsinki accords and has been at work on a new pact aimed at easing East-West tensions in Europe.

But referring to events in Poland, Haig said, "Nothing endangers security and cooperation in Europe more than the threat and the use of force to deny internationally recognized rights."

Before Haig delivered his address, there was last-minute jockeying to avoid blocking tactics by the Polish chairman of the conference, who said he did not want the meeting to discuss the situation in his homeland.

West Germany's foreign minister, Hans-Dietrich Genscher, said, meanwhile, that the allies had put off a decision on how long to allow the conference to continue.

The U.S. delegation had proposed initially that the session be recessed at the end of the week to protest events in Poland. But West Germany and Britain favor continuing the meeting, which they believe is an important forum for East and West to discuss their differences.

In Moscow, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda said that raising the Polish question at the Madrid conference was like setting a mine under the negotiating table.

'Doesn't Ring True'...

'Hot Book' Account

By The Associated Press

A former medic's account that Army records were faked to conceal high levels of radiation received by soldiers who witnessed atomic testing in the 1950s "doesn't ring true," a federal official says.

David Miller, a spokesman for the Department of Energy in Las Vegas, Nev., on Monday said former medic Van R. Brandon "may be remembering incorrectly."

Brandon, a retired postal worker from Sacramento, Calif., said Sunday that exposure records on thousands of soldiers who observed atomic blasts in the 1950s were phony and the real records were kept secured in a "hot book."

On Monday, Miller said the military might actually have been keeping two lists of participants: one with those who had received the maximum dose of radioactivity and the other with names of those who could receive more exposure.

Miller said if Army officers were doing something wrong, such as overexposing troops, "It would be crazy to keep a record of that. That just doesn't ring true."

Many of the tests were conducted at the Nevada Test Site, 75 miles northwest of Las Vegas by the now-defunct Atomic Energy Commission. The Department of Energy now directs underground testing.

In Washington, Army Maj. Chuck Suits, a Pentagon spokesman, said, "The Defense Department is involved in an investigation right now. .., It is following up on the charges made by Mr. Brandon."

Meanwhile, a national veterans organization and a group of Canadian veterans on Monday pressed for action on Brandon's charges.

In Burlington, Iowa, the head of the National Association of Atomic Veterans said she hoped other soldiers would come forward and discuss their experiences with atomic testing.

"This confirms what we've always believed," said Wanda Kelly, head of the association, which says 250,000 soldiers were exposed to radiation during atomic tests after World War II.

"We are hopeful now that other veterans, like Mr. Brandon, will break whatever bonds of secrecy they signed and come forth to tell the truth," Mrs. Kelly said.

In Ottawa, a group of Canadian veterans who said they were exposed to radiation during Nevada atomic tests in the 1950s lobbied members of Parliament on Monday for an investigation into their medical problems.

7th Grade Inter-City Athletics Given Okay

Trustees of the Snyder Independent School District approved a proposal to allow seventh grade athletes to participate in interschool competition during the next school year.

Athletic director John Gary made the request for the change in policy to enable the junior high to participate in a junior high district being formed for the area. Other schools in the district would be Colorado City, Coahoma, Big Spring and Sweetwater.

According to Gary, the other schools in the district were reluctant to schedule games with the Snyder teams because of the long standing school policy prohibiting the seventh grade teams from travelling to out of town games. Without this change, the eight and ninth grade teams would be forced to travel to Lubbock or Abilene to play.

Under the new plan, Snyder would field as many as four seventh grade teams in each sport with each team making at least one out of town trip. Gary assured the board members that the primary purpose of seventh grade athletics would be to provide participation for the largest possible number of students.

As he outlined the plan, the seventh grade football would be divided into teams and each of the teams would play three games on the inter-school scehdule in addition to their normal intramural program. Other sports would be handled in a like manner to assure the opportunity for all of the seventh graders to play in the inter-school competition.

On personnel matters the board voted to accept the resignation of Winfred Shipp, social studies teacher and assistant coach at the high school.

The board also approved the hiring of Nancy Peterson for the position of social studies teacher at the high school. Trustees also granted Paula Howard, music teacher at North Elememtary, maternity leave beginning March 15.

Members of the board voted to extend the contracts of several school employes through the 1983-84 school year. Among those whose contracts were extended were Jack Gorman, assistant superintendent-administration and personnel; E. D. Flynn, assistant superintendent-business; Dr. Thomas Scannicchio, assistant superintendent-instruction; John Gary, athletic director; Bill Sealy, maintenance director; and George Byerly, head football coach.

The board also approved the extension of contracts for all of the elementary and secondary principals and the secondary assistant principals for a like term.

In other business, the board voted to use April 8, April 12 and May 21 as make up days for the three days of school missed due to recent bad weather. After some discussion, the board decided it would be preferable to use these dates, instead of taking the make up days out of the scheduled March spring break. The use of the April dates will reduce the Easter holiday from five days to three.

In more routine matters, trustees voted to allow the business manager to seek bids for food service at the schools. Greyhound Foodservices Inc. is presently providing foodservice for the schools. State regulations require that the contract be rebid every three years.

Board members also approved the amended budget for the Scurry County Appraisal District and adopted some minor changes to the official job descriptions of the three assistant superintendents.

Trustees voted to hold a special meeting at 7 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 11, to discuss priorities for needed construction projects

AJRA Sets Finals Here Aug. 10-14

The American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals Rodeo will be held Aug. 10-14 in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The dates were announced at a meeting Monday night at the chamber of commerce office.

It will be the sixth year in a row for Snyder to host the AJRA national finals.

Ralph Miller is head of the local AJRA committee and is in the process of organizing various groups to plan for the event this year.

Bob Tallman is scheduled to return as the rodeo announcer this year, and ticket prices will be unchanged. Box seats will cost $5 each, regular adult tickets are priced at $3.50 each and tickets for children under 12 are priced at $2.50 each.

Top trivia of the week: Some National Basketball Association teams have more black players than others.

This comes from a brace of Harvard researchers.

Moreover, they came up with the astonishing news that teams in cities with populations of more than 20 percent blacks seem to have more blacks on their teams than those in cities with 20 percent or less of their population made up of blacks.

Stop the presses! Call the NAACP! Call the Ku Klux Klan! Call Howard Cosell!

This bit of information needs analysis, discussion, dialogue, debate, or just plain argument. What does it mean? How is it going to affect the future of the league? What about college players who hope to be drafted into the NBA? Will there be a quota system to try to establish better balance?

It is not likely. The Harvard researchers say professional basketball teams in such cities as Atlanta, Chicago, Detroit, New York and Washington, have 87.3 percent black players. These are cities with populations with more than 20 percent blacks. But in such places as Dallas, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Houston, Cleveland and Philadelphia, where the black population accounts for less than 20 percent of the total, the NBA teams are merely 72.7 percent black.

And places like Denver, Boston, Phoenix, Portland, San Antonio, San Diego and Seattle, where the black population is less than 10 percent, the teams have only 63.6 percent black.

The big question, of course, is, what difference does it make?

We suspect that few fans actually notice the color of the players when they go to a basketball game. Or if they do, they attach no significance to it.

The inference is that the management of the teams are influenced by pressure based on racial factors as they try to lure paying customers to their games. We think they are wasting their time.

What the owners go after for relief of sagging attendance is spelled W-I-N.

Q.—I heard on television that public schools in Dallas and Fort Worth may not have to make up for class days missed because gas service was cut off and was wondering if this would apply to Snyder.

A.—Supt. Bill J. Hood says the latest directive the local schools have received from the state is that all days missed for any reason must be made up. However, if more days are missed in the future and the state changes its requirement, it will be presented to the local board for consideration.

WTC's '82 Enrollment Third Best For Spring

Although the number of semester hours per student follow a nation-wide trend in declining slightly, Western Texas College has the third highest head count for a spring semester in its history.

The preliminary report on spring registration was presented to the board of trustees Monday by Dr. Don Newbury, president of the college. The overall enrollment stands at 1,163. The university parallel courses account for more than two-thirds of the college services this semester. This also follows a trend, especially in this region where opportunities for employment immediately in industry have caused many to forego vocational training and-or instruction.

In other business, the college board accepted the bid of Veeco Manufacturing Co. for the purchase of cosmetology equipment for a total of $1,632 and approved appointment of Janet Parker as associate director of the Diamond M Museum, effective Feb. 15.

The amended budget of the Scurry County Appraisal District got approval by the board. The budget is being amended to reflect a carry-over of $55,450 from last year. It allocates $11,000 of that amount to salaries in anticipation of a need for additional staff to produce the 1982 oil roll locally, with the remainder going to a building fund. The appraisal district is planning its own permanent office facilities.

A request for a 30-cent increase in daily food service rates requested by Prophet Foods and the small class report submitted by Dr. Ben Brock, vice president, were approved.

Official notice of the trustee election scheduled for April 3 also was approved. The present terms of Edwin Parks, Place 5; R. C. Patton, Place 6; and Bill Jones, Place 7, expire this spring.

Dr. Robert Hargrove, vice president of the board, presided over the session. Other board members attending the meeting were Howard Sterling, R. C. Patton, Bill Jones and Wacil McNair. Edwin Parks and Bill Wilson were absent.

Next regular meeting of the board is set for March 8.

GNP To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's new budget indicates federal spending in the first half of his administration will command the biggest share of the U.S. economy since the end of World War II.

That's sure to be an unwanted distinction to add to the likelihood Reagan also will preside over the three biggest deficits in history.

As a percentage of the gross national product, the federal spending planned during Reagan's first two years in office will be even bigger than the years when presidents of both parties were trying to finance the Korean and Vietnam wars.

Seeks To Offset U.S. Sanctions

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's martial-law boss says he is counting on the other Communist countries and Western Europe for raw materials, industrial supplies and employment to offset American sanctions.

"We are counting on further aid from the socialist countries to help strengthen certain sections of the economy," Premier Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski told a conference of provincial governors and mayors Monday.

Chemical Weapons Essential

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has officially notified Congress that the administration wants to resume production of chemical weapons, but has reaffirmed a longstanding U.S. policy against using them first.

The United States has not manufactured chemical weapons since 1969, but Reagan, in a letter Monday to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr, D-Mass., fulfilled a legal requirement for formal certification before production can resume.

The proposal to restart manufacturing chemical weapons is likely to encounter tough opposition in Congress.

Seeks To Overturn Penalty

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A ruling that ordered Spiro T. Agnew to pay $248,735 for kickbacks he allegedly accepted while governor of Maryland was based on self-serving, untrustworthy statements, his attorney told the Court of Special Appeals.

Thomas R. Harrison, lawyer for the former vice president, said Monday that the statements from four of Agnew's associates should not have been admitted in the civil suit heard last April in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

Diana Motz, an assistant attorney general, told the judges they should uphold the ruling and send a message to both public officials and citizens that elected officials are "answerable to the people."

2 Prisoners Killed, 2 Wounded...

Guards Taken Hostage

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — Seven white inmates at Brushy Mountain Penitentiary took four guards hostage just long enough to steal their keys and shoot four black inmates in their cells, killing two of the prisoners and injuring two others, authorities said today.

The white prisoners gave up and the guards were released unharmed in Monday night's incident, which lasted 40 minutes in a maximum-security cellblock of the prison 40 miles northwest of Knoxville, said Warden Herman Davis.

Asked whether the attack was racially motivated, Sgt. Kay Bradshaw, a prison spokeswoman, said, "We don't know, but it looks that way."

Davis said the inmates, armed with a .25-caliber automatic pistol, took the guards hostage at 7:50 p.m. EST and notified prison officials over a radio.

He said he didn't know how the inmates got out of their cells, although they may have sawed through the bars.

"They forced the guards into the corridor, took their keys and shot the inmates in their cells," Davis told reporters who gathered early today outside the prison walls.

Davis said 12 or 13 shots were fired in the 150-man cellblock.

Assistant Warden Bill Hobbs talked to the inmates, who said they didn't want to hurt the officers. The guards were quickly released after the shooting, Ms. Bradshaw said.

"It looks like they (the inmates) just wanted to get the keys to do what they did," she said.

The seven white inmates, who weren't identified, were locked in solitary confinement pending an inquiry by the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation.

In addition to the pistol, authorities confiscated seven knives.

Davis identified the dead men as James Nichols, 37, serving 153 years for first- and second-degree murder, petty larceny and other convictions, and James Mitchell, 35, serving 120 years for first-degree murder.

Nichols was killed by shots to the head and Mitchell died of chest and arm wounds, Davis said.

The injured prisoners were taken to Oak Ridge Hospital and were in stable condition early today, a nursing supervisor said.

They were identified as Robert Jones, 35, shot once in the right shoulder, and Paul Hawkins, age unknown, with bullet wounds to the chest and head.

Davis refused to identify the guards who were taken hostage.

Brushy Mountain, the state's maximum-security prison, is where James Earl Ray was stabbed 22 times last June.

Striking Nurses Vote To Return To Work

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Striking nurses from Ashtabula General Hospital, feeling "exhausted, mentally and physically" from the nation's longest nurses' strike, have voted to return to work.

"I really and truly believe what we did was the right thing," said Mary Runyan, president of the Ashtabula General Nurses Association. But she added, "We didn't get everything we wanted."

The 570-day strike, which began July 21, 1980, ended Monday night when the 96 nurses remaining off the job approved a hospital offer to return them to the positions they worked before the walkout.

Exact results of the secret-ballot vote were not disclosed.

The nurses had rejected the same offer in a vote Jan. 4, claiming the proposed contract did not provide for union security.

The two sides met once after the January vote, but no new proposals were made.

"We agreed when we had the last vote that we would go back to the bargaining table. We did that, and there was nothing there," Mrs. Runyan said. "We have definitely come to the feeling that we all need to go back and try to make it work."

Nurse Dave Cunningham said the experience of such a long strike was indescribable.

"After something like this, no matter what happens, everybody knows that he has sisters and brothers that will never let him down," he said. "How many people have you talked to that have been on strike for 18½ months? This should be done all over the country. The problems that we struck over are the problems of nurses nationally."

Hospital Administrator Floyd Farley said he was not surprised by the outcome of Monday's vote.

"I think we all expected it would be settled...because they got together on their own this time," he said.

But some bitterness lingers, union leaders said.

"There is a whole new sense of apprehension. These are the same administrators and trustees that were there when the strike started," Mrs. Runyan said. "Nobody is fooling themselves.

"We're all exhausted, mentally and physically," she added.

The strikers will return to work in groups of about 25 beginning Feb. 22. They will be reoriented to hospital procedure before returning to their former positions.

Nurses now working in those jobs will stay on, letting attrition work the staff back to manageable size, hospital officials said.

The nurses, who organized into a 171-member bargaining unit in the spring of 1980, fought to win their first contract with the 234-bed private hospital in Ashtabula, a northeastern Ohio city of 23,000.

The strike closed the hospital for six weeks in July and August of 1980, but since then, some new nurses have been hired and about 55 striking nurses worked during the strike. Twenty others resigned.

The American Nurses Association, which represents 110,000 nurses nationwide, said the walkout was the longest on record.

Awards Presented For Food Service

Greyhound Food Management recognized two employees at Western Texas College with service awards at an informal reception Monday.

George Gann, director of food services at WTC since 1973, received a 15-year award, while Ann Chester, cashier in the WTC cafeteria, received a five-year award. The presentations were made by Norman Lanquist, Greyhound's district manager.

Gann was with Greyhound at Angelo State University before moving to Snyder to begin work with WTC. His career in the food industry extends much farther back, however. Over the years, Gann has learned every phase of food service from buying to preparation and serving, and he still enjoys his work.

He has found Snyder and WTC very much to his liking, he says. There have been several opportunities for him to transfer to other Greyhound locations with higher pay, but he has chosen to remain at WTC because he enjoys the close association with the people and because of the friendliness of the entire community.

In his spare time, Gann enjoys playing golf.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

I'm a worrier. Especially when the weather is bad and I'm housebound.

Like, where are the Nielsen families and why do they watch all the shows I turn off? They're the most well-kept secret since Judge Crater. Not only have I never seen a Nielsen family, I have never known anyone who has ever seen a Nielsen family or even gotten a Christmas newsletter from them.

In my mind, I visualize them as a family of pale, hollow-eyed TV junkies where the "Daddy" carries the TV knob around in his pocket. "Daddy" likes women with good posture, a good car chase, and has seen more Bowls than the latrine officer at Ft. Dix.

My ultimate aim in life is to be offered a television series called "The Nielsen Family" so I could turn them off.

And where is Mrs. Tucker's Inn? My husband and I have been looking for a whipped cream experience in some little lodge off a country road for a long time. It has to be the only restaurant in the world with an unlisted phone number.

And what in the world do all those anchorpersons do with those papers they shuffle around all the time? Dan Rather slides his one at a time to a faceless person off camera. Jessica Savitch marks things on hers. John Chancellor straightens his like he's putting them back in a ream, and Roger Mudd folds his and takes them with him when he goes.

The news is on a teleprompter, so how come they fiddle with all those sheets of paper?

And what's going to happen to the test-tube babies when they grow up and ask the time-honored queston, "Where did I come from?" Have you any idea how that is going to confuse the answer of sex-education experts like myself who said, "You come from Ohio"?

I suppose I'm borrowing trouble, but where is our vice president, George Whatshisname? I haven't seen hide nor hair of the man since he attended a wedding...or was it a funeral? No, I remember now, it was the inauguration. Some say he's keeping a low profile. Sandra Dee keeps a low profile.

He was a nice-looking man, as I remember him, and spoke well of his job. I certainly hope he's all right.

I'll be glad when spring comes, I worry less in the spring.

Alex Haig In Tennis Match

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig, accustomed to tense diplomatic meetings with heads of states, had a confrontation of a gentler sort when he played tennis with former Wimbledon champion Manuel Santana of Spain.

Officials said the doubles match Monday pitted Haig and Santana against Brazilian tennis player Edison Mandarino and John Bligh, commercial attache of the U.S. Embassy in Madrid.

Officials declined to give the final score of the match, played at the Real Madrid Soccer Club.

Third hand high

One of the first things taught in bridge is "Third hand high." This precept as well as the nearly similar "Second hand low" goes back to whist.

Today's hand shows the value of "Third hand high."

West opens his deuce of diamonds. East looks at dummy's singleton. If he wants to save his king, East can play low and keep his majesty alive. If he is a sound player, he goes up with the king as he should and knocks out South's ace.

South takes his ace. There is no good reason to duck. Then South loses the club finesse. East is on lead now and it is up to him to return the correct diamond.

On most occasions you return the original fourth best of your partner's suit if you were dealt that many. This time the low lead is a loser. South will cover and make his game. East must lead back the nine and now West will score three diamond tricks, the ace of spades and a small profit.

Five clubs would be unbeatable. But even if North responded three clubs, the partnership would probably wind up in that same three notrump.

At Murder Trial...

Accused Convict To Testify

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Defense attorneys trying to prove inmate Eroy E. Brown acted in self defense during a fight in which two prison officials were killed say they plan to call the accused convict to the witness stand today.

Defense attorney Craig Washington told jurors Monday the fight that led to the killings started when officials thought Brown, 31, was about to "snitch" on them for stealing tires from the prison.

Ellis Unit Warden Wallace M. Pack, 54, and prison farm manager Billy Max Moore, 49, both threatened to kill Brown before and during the April 4 scuffle, Washington said.

At one point during the struggle, Washington said, when Brown threatened to tell federal officials he was being mistreated Moore said: "We'll see if you can talk from the bottom of the Trinity River."

Washington quoted Pack as saying, "Get the handcuffs, Billy, and we'll see if he can swim down at 'the bottoms' with the handcuffs. We'll see if you can talk from the bottom of the Trinity."

"The bottoms" is a lowland area where prisoners have alleged they were beaten by guards. Prison officials have denied such conduct.

Washington said Pack threatened Brown with a handgun held close to the side of the inmate's face.

Pack was found drowned in a drainage ditch near the Ellis Unit and Moore was shot to death. Brown is charged with capital murder in both deaths, but currently is on trial for the Pack slaying.

The trial was moved here from Huntsville on a change of venue.

Washington told reporters after Monday's session he intended to call Brown to the witness stand after Levi Duson, 39, steps down.

Duson, one of two inmates who testified as eyewitnesses for the state, was recalled Monday as the first witness for the defense.

Washington challenged him on several points of his previous testimony. But Duson, a convicted burglar, repeated his story – that Brown shot Moore in the head as he knelt in front of Brown and that Brown then chased Pack over an embankment leading to the nearby ditch where the warden's body was found.

Washington's version was significantly different.

He suggested Moore was shot while Pack and Brown wrestled for control of the gun.

"At least three shots were fired while Pack had control of the gun. At some point, Eroy got sole possession of the gun and attempted to back away. When Eroy got up with the gun, he noticed Major Moore lying on the ground behind the car," Washington said.

Washington said one of the shots apparently struck Brown in the foot.

Brown then tried to stop the fight, Washington said.

"Eroy attempted to call out to the warden, 'Warden, why don't you come on and let's go back. I'm hurt and it looks like Major Moore is hurt and look what you all have done,'" Washington quoted Brown as saying.

But he said instead Pack tried to drown Brown in the ditch and after a long struggle the inmate finally managed to hold Pack's head under water.

Washington said the trouble that day started after Brown was complaining about failing to win a furlough when a guard, Wiliam Adams, walked into the garden shed.

"We will show a converstation between 'Boss Adams' and Eroy in which Eroy said, 'As much as I've done for you and Major Moore, it seems you could go to bat for me to get a furlough,'" Washington said.

"Boss Adams took that as a threat that Eroy was going to tell authorities Major Moore and Boss Adams had been stealing tires from units of the Texas Department of Corrections with Eroy's assistance in that Eroy had mounted these tires" on privately-owned pickup trucks, he said.

25 Alien Smugglers Arrested In Crackdown

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Border Patrol officers led by a chief agent who is on temporary duty here struck their second blow in a "one-two punch" operation aimed at smugglers who sneak illegal aliens into the country.

Jack Richardson, acting chief agent in El Paso, said agents used air surveillance and roadblocks to arrest 25 "coyotes," or smugglers, who bring illegal aliens from Mexico into the U.S.

The weekend operation also netted officials 194 Mexican aliens who had paid the smugglers to bring them to jobs in the United States.

Richardson, normally the chief agent in Del Rio, is working here until a new chief agent is selected for the El Paso office.

The 52-year-old chief agent has put together a two-part plan aimed at cracking down on smugglers and the Mexican nationals they spirit into the country.

On several occasions last month, Richardson sent every available Border Patrol agent to the banks of the Rio Grande and caught illegal aliens as they crossed the river into El Paso.

He said another operation is planned for later this week, but he would not release details.

Richardson called his weekend action "Operation Patero."

"Down in Del Rio, a patero is the head duck who leads the little ducks across the water," he explained.

Border Patrol agents questioned the arrested smugglers Monday in an attempt to learn if there is a "head duck" behind the smuggling operations uncovered during the weekend.

"Right now, all we know is that we've got 25 people who were bringing 'wets' into the country," Richardson said. "We're now trying to establish if there is a bona fide smuggling operation."

Richardson said charges are pending against the smugglers, who remain in jail in New Mexico and Texas.

Border Patrol agents have made 12,360 arrests in January — a 25 percent increase over the number of arrests the previous month.

Although Richardson would not disclose many details about the weekend operation, he said the alleged smugglers were watched by Border Patrol ground units and smugglers' vehicles were followed by aircraft.

The arrests were made at roadblocks set on 10 highways leading away from the border in Texas and New Mexico, he said.

Richardson said the smugglers were charging the aliens to take them "to a place of employment in the interior of the United States."

He said the going fee for safe transport into the country is about $350 per alien.

"We're trying to make is risky for somebody to make money off other people's misfortunes," Richardson said. "The operation was not designed to produce numbers. It was designed to detect and apprehend those persons bringing aliens into the country."

Democrats...

Urge Reagan To Accept Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal Senate Democrats are urging President Reagan to consider a negotiated end to the Salvadoran civil war, warning that otherwise U.S. combat troops might be needed to block a leftist victory.

But a high-ranking State Department official ruled out such talks Monday, saying a negotiated settlement that gives a share of power to leftist guerrillas would amount to "handing over" El Salvador to the communists.

Thomas O. Enders, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, cited Nicaragua as a recent example of a coalition government that he said was gradually taken over by leftist elements and turned into a Soviet ally.

Enders' testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee came in response to calls from Democratic Sens. Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts and Christopher Dodd of Connecticut for negotiations involving all sides of the Salvadoran conflict.

Saying the administration's current policy of stepped-up military support was leading the United States into a Vietnam style "quagmire," Tsongas said the "answer to this is a negotiated settlement."

"In other words, senator, we hand it over," said Enders.

"If that's the attitude of policymakers in this administration, then I'm very troubled," Tsongas responded. "This will become at the very least a drain on our Treasury and ultimately a drain on our personnel."

Enders also clashed with Dodd.

Woman Battles Army To Court Of Appeals

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Former Army Pfc. Wendy L. Wickham will take her battle against a court martial to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

A federal Judge ruled Monday that Mrs. Wickham, 21, should be tried by a court martial on Army charges that she faked a pregnancy to fradulently obtain a discharge.

But Mrs. Wickham had argued that any trial must be in federal court because she was discharged in 1980 and the Army has no right to court martial a civilian.

U.S. District Judge Fred Shannon said there was "merit to both sides" and it was "a close decision," but he issued a summary judgment Monday in favor of the Army.

However, Shannon agred to stay his formal ruling to give Mrs. Wickham's attorney, Stewart Alexander, time to appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"I take the position that this lady should be tried in federal court, if at all," said Alexander.

Electricity is costing more in 1982, but . . .

You can help hold down winter bills.

Electricity is costing more this year because the fuels we need to make it cost more. But here's what you can do to help hold down your heating bills and save money:

No-cost suggestions

- Set your thermostat at 68°or lower. Remember, the lower you set it during the winter, the lower your bill.
- At night and when you're going to be away from home, set your thermostat at 55°or lower.
- Open drapes and blinds during the day to let in sunlight, then close them at night to hold in warm air.
- If you have a dishwasher, set water heater to 140°; otherwise, set temperature to 120° or lower.
- If away for two days or more, turn down water heater thermostat.
- Try to minimize traffic through outside doors.
- Economize when doing kitchen or laundry work; for example, wash and dry only full loads of clothes and plan meals so several dishes can be cooked in the oven at the same time.

Cost-effective suggestions

- Install water-flow devices in showers and faucets to limit flow.
- Repair water leaks in pipes and faucets, and seal air duct leaks.
- Check the filters in your system at least once a month. Clean permanent filters or replace disposables as needed.
- Caulk and weatherstrip around doors and windows to help prevent excessive heat loss.
- Add insulation to ceilings, walls and floors.
- Insulate ducts, especially in the attic.
- Insulate hot water pipes in attic.
- Install insulation blankets on water heaters, especially in garage or basement.
- Use scrap insulation to plug air leaks in attic and around fireplace dampers.
- Investigate cost-effectiveness of storm doors and windows.

CRMWD Set To Okay Contracts

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will meet Friday to firm up the anticipated approval of new contracts with member cities—Snyder, Big Spring and Odessa.

Snyder has approved a new contract between it and the district, and Big Spring and Odessa are expected to complete their adoption today. Assuming that this is done, the CRMWD then will authorize execution of the document.

The contract basically is the same as originally signed by the three cities nearly three decades ago. It spells out that non-municipal water revenues may be used to modify municipal rates and it permits modification of the rate formula so that cities will pay more for delivery of water (an amount equal to electric energy required to deliver it to a particular city), and less in monthly fixed charges. The totals, however, are the same. Contract term is for 50 years, or for so long as there are bonds outstanding which were issued within the term period.

Also, the board will consider how it can work with the City of Midland, if requested, to finance certain water and sewer improvements. If this is done, it will be the first such action which was made possible by the amendment of the district's act by the last legislature whereby it can issue bonds on behalf of others to finance improvements required under the clean air and water acts.

The board also will consider establishment of a Contingency Improvement Revolving Fund, which would permit continuing disbursements within authorized limits.

School Board

around the district. School trustees will also consider hiring an architect to begin preliminary work on the proposed projects.

School board members also voted to change their March meeting date to Tuesday, March 16. The regularly scheduled meeting time for March would be Tuesday the 8th which falls in the middle of the spring break.

Bill Seale, president of the school board, presided over the meeting. Board members present for the session were Michael P. Reed, Joseph D. Hinton, Roy McQueen, Jerry McWilliams and G. A. Parks Jr. Mrs. Lillie Sullivan was absent from the meeting.

Genetic Guides Are Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though genetic research appears relatively safe, some guidelines should be maintained because the field is so new, a government advisory group says.

The Recombinant DNA Advisory Committee, reconsidering an earlier vote to make most genetic research guidelines voluntary, thus recommended Monday that mandatory restrictions be relaxed but not abandoned.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Perspective on jogging

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband is a health nut. He is 45 and trim. He is careful about what he eats and doesn't smoke or drink, which I like. But he tends to overdo everything. Part of his health kick is to jog. He jogs a lot and never misses jogging at least a couple of miles every day, sometimes many more.

He says the jogging will prevent heart attacks and help him stay young longer. I say you can overdo it. I read several months ago about a heart surgeon who was a runner and finally dropped dead while running. That frightens me as I can see Bob out there running and having a sudden attack. This is not the first time I have read about someone dropping dead while running. If this can happen to a famous heart surgeon what are the chances of it happening to my husband? What about all those other joggers? How can anyone say it helps prevent heart attacks when things like this happen?

DEAR READER — You may be referring to Dr. Richard Lillehei, a famous heart surgeon from Minneapolis. I do not know the particulars of his death but he did die while running and he had been a runner for several years, even competing in the Boston Marathon. It certainly proves again that just because you are a runner doesn't mean you can be absolutely sure you won't have a heart attack.

But don't lose sight of the fact that many people who die early in life might have died even earlier if they had not been on a health program. If you would have had a fatal attack at 38 and it didn't happen until age 52 that is a worthwhile achievement. Also, many people die of heart attacks while asleep. That doesn't mean sleeping is dangerous and you should not sleep.

Exercise can decrease your risk of having a heart attack if used sensibly, not trying to overdo it or do too much at one time. It can lower blood pressure and cholesterol by helping a person control body fat and that is very helpful.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 13-4, A Perspective on Jogging Deaths, to help you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please send me a list of foods that contain little water so I won't have to urinate so frequently? I've already got a clean bill of health from my urologist. An acquaintance told me that there are certain foods that helped her but she has moved.

DEAR READER — Most important foods contain lots of water. The water content is the most important factor in determining how many calories an ounce of food contains. Lean meat is more than 70 percent water. Milk is 87 to 90 percent water. Fresh fruit and vegetables have as much as 80 percent water. Refined sugar, flour and fats contain the least water and are the least desirable foods for a good, well-balanced diet.

Of course as carbohydrates, proteins and fat are metabolized completely for energy they yield energy, carbon dioxide and water. That is also true of dry foods.

Obviously fluid intake will increase urinary output, but that is good in most cases. Failure to pass urine often enough can lead to bladder infections and other problems.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You blew it when you advised "Long John Silver" not to make a fuss about the two pieces of silverware that "disappeared" right off the table during a formal dinner at his home.

What do you mean, "The embarrassment wouldn't be worth the price of the silver"? Have you priced silverware lately?

I would have first announced to all the guests that some silverware was missing, and if nobody "fessed up," so help me, I'd search every man and woman thoroughly before they went home.

NO DUMMY

DEAR NO DUMMY: It takes all kinds. Try this for size:

DEAR ABBY: You were right to advise the host and hostess not to be too hasty in announcing that some silverware had disappeared, and would the guilty party please come forward and produce it.

This is what happened to me last October: A friend asked if he could bring his friend to my home for a dinner party. I, too, said, "Of course."

At the end of the evening, a sterling fork was missing. I looked through the trash, on the floor, behind the draperies, in the utensil drawer — everywhere. No fork!

Well, last week I found the fork! Because I recycle my used jars, I always sterilize them in my dishwasher first. It seems that the label from one of those jars got stuck up under the front of the inside of my dishwasher. In removing the label, I felt the fork, completely hidden from view. Had it not been for that label, I never would have found the fork.

Go look, John. It happened to me.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were transferred to Tucson, Ariz., with the Air Force, and we love it here. All of a sudden we get a call from an old Air Force buddy of my husband saying that he and his wife are coming to Tucson "sometime in March" and they'd love to stay with us!

This all took place on the phone, Abby, and I was so shocked I can't even remember what I said.

They are nice people and we have nothing against them, but we don't feel comfortable with anyone else in our home. I suppose it sounds terrible, but when we go out of town we never stay with friends, and we don't want anyone staying with us. They know we have a two-bedroom house, so we can't say we don't have room. If we say we aren't going to be in town, they'll ask when we will be in town and arrange to come when we're home.

We've been stalling because we don't know what to tell them. One thing is certain, we don't want them staying with us! Help!

TRAPPED IN TUCSON

DEAR TRAPPED: Either call or write and tell them you will be glad to make reservations for them at a convenient motel or hotel. You are not obligated to tell them why they can't stay with you. And don't feel guilty. It's your home and you don't have to cave in to guests who invite themselves.

DEAR ABBY: I work as a shampoo girl. I get only $1.75 an hour, which is practically peanuts.

Please let people know they should tip their shampoo girls. Unless, of course, I'm wrong.

DISH-HEAD HANDS

DEAR DISH-HEAD: Nobody should tip anyone unless he or she wants to show appreciation for a job well done. An extra-special shampoo usually delights the customer into tipping well and cheerfully. If you are not trying to satisfy each customer by determining what kind of shampoo she wants (heavy? light?), try it.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? WTC Session To Begin Classes in the Spring Opportunity Session at Western Texas College will get underway Feb. 15, Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services, has announced.

Courses on the abbreviated schedule are Art Appreciation (ART 131), Freehand Drawing (ART 132), Advertising Art (Art 138), Class Piano (IMU 111), Class Guitar (IMU 111), General Psychology (PSY 231), and Introduction to Sociology (SOC 231).

All classes will meet during evening hours except the psychology and sociology classes. These will be offered on an individualized instruction basis. The art and music classes will begin in February, while the psychology and sociology classes will begin April 1.

Students inerested in enrolling in these classes are invited to contact the Student Services office for details. Registration for the art and music classes will be held on the night of the first class meeting in the WTC administration building. Pop Clarendon, 69-64...

Westerners Win...In Overtime!

Just when it appeared freethrow shooting would let the best of them, Western Texas College's Westerners canned seven in a row to muzzle Clarendon's Bulldogs and take a 69-64 overtime victory here last night.

The win gives the Westerners a 12-14 season record, 4-9 in the WJCAC heading into Thursday's game with New Mexico Junior College at Hobbs, N.M. Clarendon falls to 15-11 and 5-8.

A vocal crowd groaned as Western Texas missed in two freethrow opportunities that might have put out the lights in regulation play. With 1:10 left on the clock, Darren Lee tied the game at 56-56 by hitting the front end of a two-shot stint at the charity stripe. The 6-4 sophomore couldn't connect on the second, but WTC was to get another chance. Daryl Ward stepped up to the line with three seconds remaining. He too, was unable to find the hoop - his last shot rolling around and off the rim. Overtime.

Clarendon's George Milhouse opened the scoring in the extra period, 58-56, but it was the last time the visitors were to lead in the game.

Lee ripped the cords on a pair of freethrows with 2:57 left, then eased in a layup with 1:47 remaining. Dwayne Hunt dropped in both ends of a one-and-one with 1:20 to go, giving WTC a 62-58 margin.

Clarendon's Robert Wilson answered with 56 seconds left, but Lee continued to pace Western in the overtime by adding another bucket, which was to ultimately become a key score in the contest. Jerrold Whitmore cashed in on another Westerner trip to the charity stripe with 17 seconds, and though Milhouse scored again, the outcome was already decided.

Clarendon's final chance - if there was one - was broken on the next inbounds play when Derrick Grow spotted Lee alone under the far basket. Lee took the pass, put the ball up and came away with a three-point play to completely ice the game.

"Hopefully, tonight's win will be a big psychological factor for the kids," said a relieved Coach Larry Dunaway, whose Westerners had lost a number of close games this season. "We had several kids make big, big plays for us. They kept their poise, and this time they came out on top."

Control of the game was in doubt for much of the first half, and when Western finally got a four-point lead, Dunaway put his crew into a spread game, much to the displeasure of some of the fans.

"Clarendon was outquicking us all over the floor," explained the coach, "and we had to neutralize that. But basically we did it for two reasons. We were in early foul trouble and we wanted to prevent getting many more fouls. Also, we wanted to try to force Clarendon to come after us, hopefully making them foul and get us into the bonus (freethrow situation). I think the spread served its purpose," he added. "Late in the game they were in foul trouble and couldn't be as aggressive as they would have like to have been. And then when they had to foul us, we were able to shoot freethrows. So it (the spread) did what we wanted it to do."

Ingnited by a couple of back-to-back buckets by Clarence Cephas, Western Texas led by 10 just before halftime. Clarendon rallied for two of its own in the final seconds, giving WTC a 33-27 lead at intermission.

The second half was almost a copy of the first, with the lead changing hands nine times before Lee's single charity shot tied the game at 56-56 and sent it into overtime.

Lee, who had nine points in the extra period, scored 14 for the game. Hunt had 13 and Grow added 10. Whitmore and Cephas bagged 8 apiece to help round out the scoring.

Milhouse scored 20 for the visitors. Robert Wilson notched 14 - all in the second half and in overtime - while Jerry Isler had 10.

PROTECTING THE BALL -- Western Texas College's basketball teams played tough defensively and handled Clarendon's press well to come out on top here last night. Busceme Set For Arguello

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - Bubba Busceme, who will challenge World Boxing Council lightweight champion Alexis Arguello Saturday, is making no secret about his battle plan.

"If your opponent doesn't hit you then he can't beat you," said Busceme, who arrived here Sunday for his final training sessions. "It is going to be a very tactical boxing match. My object will be to win every round."

Arguello, who has knocked out 59 opponents en route to a 73-4 record, doesn't anticipate much trouble from Busceme's left-handed tactics or his light approach.

"He says he is going to keep away from my right hand but I must tell him that I have two hands," Arguello said. "He is a good boxer. We will see which style is better Saturday afternoon."

Busceme will present a contrasting style from the champion's last two opponents. Challengers Ray Mancini and Roberto Elizondo each tried to trade punches with Arguello and were knocked out in the 14th and seventh rounds.

Busceme, who has a 27-3 record going into the scheduled 15-rounder, will try to stay away from Arguello's feared right hand.

"If Bubba can stay away from Arguello's right hand, he will be the new champion," Manager Hugh Benbow said.

Busceme has been training in Fort Worth.

Arguello, 73-4, split his training time between Allentown, Pa., and Puerto Rico.

The champion said Busceme's left-handed stance would be a problem, but one that he can overcome.

"I've been able to adapt to any style," Arguello said. "I've had guys try to run and guys that come straight at you."

Texas junior lightweight champion Ruben Munoz of Odessa will meet John Morgan in an undercard match. Morgan, who earlier defeated Busceme, lost the Texas lightweight title to Busceme last February.

The fight program begins at 2 p.m. and a television blackout will be enforced for a 150-mile radius.

Bowling Tourney

The Men's City Bowling Tournament, one of the top bowling events in Snyder each year, will be held Feb. 13 and 14 at Snyder Lanes.

Entry fees will be $8 per bowler per event for the 26th annual tournament, which uses a 70 percent handicap. Entries close at 11 p.m. Feb. 11.

Leonard Top Fighter

NEW YORK (AP) - Sugar Ray Leonard, the undisputed welterweight champion, has won the Edward J.Neil Award as fighter of the year for 1981 in voting by members of the Boxing Writers Association.

Other winners announced were Mike Trainer and Banks Morton, adviser and trainer of Leonard, respectively, who won the Al Buck Award for top manager and trainer; Bill Gallo, of the New York Daily News and the former president of the boxing writers association, who won the James J.Walker Award for long and meritorious service to boxing and Michael Katz of the New York Times won the Nat Fleischer Award for excellence in boxing journalism.

Cagers To Face SA Lake View

It's the final go-round for Coach Ken Housden's Felines tonight as they close out the 1981-82 basketball season in San Angelo.

Coach Larry Scott's boys entertain the Chiefs in Scurry County Coliseum. Both games begin at 8 and are preceded by 6:15 junior varsity contests.

Tonight's game is the final for the Felines because school officials have elected not to make up last Friday's scheduled game with Fort Stockton, which was cancelled because of adverse weather.

Housden's girls will be trying to avenge a 54-49 loss to Lake View that occured on Jan. 12 here. In that game, the Maidens broke a 38-38 tie going into the fourth quarter to win.

The Felines are 11-12 for the season.

For Coach Scott's boys, tonight's game serves as notice that their season is winding down. The Tigers, 20-7, are open Friday, then conclude their season next week with Andrews (here Tuesday) and Monahans (there Friday).

An earlier meeting between Snyder and Lake View produced a 61-44 win for the Tigers. Snyder ran past the Chiefs by canning 20 points in the second quarter for a 32-22 halftime lead.

Dusters Back On Track; Leash Bulldogs, 80-63

Coach Joe Cushing's Dusters turned the tables on Clarendon College here last night to break a two-game losing slide and post an 80-63 victory.

Cushing, who was beginning to wonder if his team could put together 40 minutes of top basketball in one night, found out once and for all.

"It was a good win for us," he understated. "I feel like we're on a roll now heading down the stretch and into the regional tournament. Tonight was a good start. You know, all our problems started at Clarendon. And tonight we decided to reverse the trend."

Western's Dusters were ranked No. 1 in the nation when they made the trip to Clarendon back in December. They came away with an 18-point loss, and hadn't played like a top team since.

But last night, Western took over. Though the lead changed sides six times in the final five minutes of the first half, WTC gained momentum before the buzzer. Cindy Goltl broke a 37-37 tie to put the Dusters ahead, and Dorcas Perkins slipped in two more points off of the fast break for a 41-37 lead.

"I felt like during that last 1:40 before halftime we took control," said Cushing later. "I had said before the game that if we could stay close by halftime we'd have a good chance to win the ballgame. We had our backs to the wall and the kids knew it. When you've got to, it makes a difference."

Clarendon tied the game early in the second half, but Western retaliated with six straight points, including four from Valerie Wells, to resume command again. Western's guards, who had kept Clarendon off balance in the first half with some fine outside shooting, began to locate Perkins, Wells and Vickie Teal inside.

Perkins stuffed the hoop with three buckets inside three minutes midway through the period for a 58-46 lead, and steady play from Teal and Wells made sure the Bulldogs never got back in the game.

"Defensively the girls did an excellent job of stopping Clarendon's fast break," noted the coach. "Clarendon didn't give us anything easy, though. We had to work for everything we got. I was very pleased with our effort, our attitude and our intensity out there."

Western shut down two-thirds of Clarendon's offensive weaponry in the second half. Sharon Jackson and Lisa Freeman, who had each scored 12 points in the first half, had only five points between them in the last 20 minutes. Cassandra Crumpton, who led all scorers with 28 points, was forced to score 17 of the Bulldogs' 26 second-half points.

Teal's 20 led the Dusters, and Perkins was right behind with 18. Wells scored 13, and Goltl scored 12. Perkins had one of her better all-around nights by getting 12 rebounds, three steals and six blocked shots, and Wells also added 10 boards and two blocks. Cindy Maddox, who had 9 points, came away with eight assists and five steals.

In addition to Crumpton, Freeman had 15 points and Jackson had 14.

The Dusters, now 5-4 in conference play and 19-6 for the season, will entertain non-conference foe McLennan Community College at 7 p.m. Saturday. Clarendon is 16-5 for the season and 5-4 in WJCAC competition.

Red Raiders Pounce On Texas A&M, 91-82

by The Associated Press

Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf called it a "big-break night."

However, the biggest break in the latest bizarre evening of Southwest Conference basketball came for three of the five teams deadlocked in third place in the league standings.

Metcalf watched in dismay Monday night as Texas Tech whipped his Aggies 91-82 to join Texas, Texas Christian, Houston and Baylor - which are all tied at 6-5, a game behind second place A&M.

Arkansas, 8-2, reinforced its position at the top of the SWC, whipping Texas Christian 79-69 to take a two-game edge over the Aggies.

"It was a big-break night," sighed Metcalf, whose Aggies lost in overtime after four key players fouled out during regulation play.

"We had to work so hard to get back in the game we didn't have enough left at the end. We got a little shorthanded ... we don't have much depth beyond seven or eight players," he said.

Houston won its third straight game with a 77-63 decision over Texas, and Southern Methodist slipped further into the cellar after being dealt a resounding 70-59 defeat at the hands of Baylor.

Terry Teagle led the Bear scoring blitz by pumping in 23 points before he fouled out with 3:20 remaining.

SMU suffered a devestating 17 turnovers, while Baylor coughed up the ball just nine times.

Houston's Rob Williams' hot hand singed the Longhorn nets for 29 points as he led the Cougars to an easy 77-63 win over Texas.

Texas has lost five of its last six games since forward Mike Wacker went out for the season with a knee injury.

"It was nice to not have Wacker in there," said Houston's Clyde Drexler, who scored 23 points in the Cougar's winning effort.

Arkansas had to fight for its victory over pesky TCU. The Horned Frogs pulled ahead of the Hogs midway through the first half and again at the start of the second half.

"We came out flat and were down 20-11 when our defense took over," said Arkansas coach Eddie Sutton. "We jumped into the lead and had a chance to move ahead by 10 at the half, but couldn't quite get over the hump."

However, the Razorbacks took charge with 17 minutes left, outscoring TCU 19-6 to pull ahead for good.

Fire Units Put Out Trailer Fire

Units of the Snyder fire department were dispatched to a mobile home fire about 13 miles south of the city around 2:50 p.m Monday.

Firemen extinguished a blaze in a mobile home owned by Mr. Deminous and the U. S. Oil Co. The house is reported to have sustained major damage in the kitchen area and smoke and water damage to the rest of the trailer.

Daniels Cries At Ovation

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singer and fiddle player Charlie Daniels, given a standing ovation by the Tennessee Senate and House, broke into tears when he was honored with a legislative resolution.

Obituaries

Mr. McMillan

Dulane McMillan, 65, former Scurry County resident, died Saturday in Hollywood, Calif., where rites were held. He had retired from a career in the motion picture industry.

A native of Eastland County, he grew up in Hermleigh, graduating from Hermleigh High School in 1933.

Surviving are four brothers, Ted McMillan of Snyder, W. E. McMillan of Hermleigh, Wiley McMillan of Lubbock and Doris McMillan of Perris, Calif.; and six sisters, Mrs. Gaye Nelle Greene, Mrs. Elree Baremore and Velma McMillan, all of Snyder, Mrs. Oleta Jackson of Hermleigh, Mrs. Willow Deene Voss of Odessa and Mrs. Chloe Hodges of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Lee

Mrs. Pauline Lee, 73, who lived at 4103 Denison Ave., died at 8 p. m. Monday in Cogell Memorial Hospital.

The funeral service has been set for 2 p. m. Thursday at Colonial Hill Baptist Church where she was a member. The Rev. Miller Robinson will officiate, and burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Grand Rapids, Mich., she had lived in Snyder for the past 28 years. She was married on March 3, 1932, in Beggs, Okla., to Emmett Lee. He survives.

Also surviving are two sons, Frank Lee of Kansas City, Kan., and Terry Lee of Ozona; a sister, Verdi Kimbro of Snyder; and five grandchildren.

Writer Likes Homey Style

OAK HILL, Ala. (AP) — Kat Penland does more than pump gas and run the cash register at her crossroads country store here in northeastern Alabama. She listens — and takes notes.

"Slim Bowman came by the mall Saturday. He smelled like he was drinking antifreeze...That may be the answer to our problems ..."

"The mall" is the store and the observation comes directly from the pages of the Tri City Times. Mrs. Penland, a 43-year-old grandmother, is a correspondent for the paper.

In another column, she told the public: "It snowed plum up to Bobby Slaton's fruit of the looms in Anniston Wednesday night."

Heart Crusade Plans Made

Plans for the 1982 Crusade were discussed at a meeting of the Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Society held in the chamber of commerce conference room.

Leona Wiggins is the Crusade chairman, and the goal has been set at $20,000.

H. W. Cargile, treasurer, reported that $372 for memorials had been contributed since the last meeting.

Margaret Martin, president of the unit, who presided over the meeting, reported that District President Jennifer Nicklesen had resigned and that a new district president, Carol Hutchins, is now training in Fort Worth and will be in the Abilene office in mid-February.

Others attending the meeting included Doris Byars, Wanda Falls, Virginia Clark, Vera Baize, Thelma Sims, Clay Mullins and Lida Rhoades.

Ira Board Oks Calendar

IRA—The Ira School Board last night approved a 1982-83 school calendar and a new contract for the school principal.

The contract of Principal L. D. Monroe was extended for two years.

The school calendar calls for classes to begin on Aug. 19.

In other business, the board adopted policies for multi-year contracts for professional and paraprofessional personnel and approved a multi-year contract form.

A transfer request was rejected, and the board studied the amended budget of the Scurry County Appraisal District. Routine reports made up the remainder of the agenda.

Major Accident Occurs Here

Snyder police officers investigated a major accident at the intersection of 42nd St. and College Avenue around 3:30 p.m. Monday.

Involved in the mishap were a 1978 Ford driven by Ralphene Neal Canon of 3411 44th St. and a 1975 AMC Gremlin driven by Troy Crowder of 3001 Avenue C. Troy and Gloria Crowder, a passenger in the Crowder vehicle, were both transported to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by units of Scurry County EMS.

Four other persons were also taken to the local hospital by private vehicle. Gloria Crowder was admitted to the hospital for treatment of a knee injury while all of the others were treated for minor injuries and released.

Extensive damage was reported to both vehicles in the mishap.

Earlier Monday, around 2:04 p.m., local officers were called to the K-Mart parking lot where they investigated a minor hit and run accident. A parked 1971 Chevrolet owned by Herbert Stout of Snyder was struck by a vehicle which fled the scene of the accident.

Snyder police were called to the scene of a third traffic mishap around 3:25 p.m. yesterday. The 2400 block of Sunset was the scene of this accident involving a parked 1981 Datsun owned by Kyle Cox and a 1967 Chevrolet driven by Bennett Royce McNulty Jr. of 3013 38th St.

Only minor damages were reported to both vehicles in this mishap.

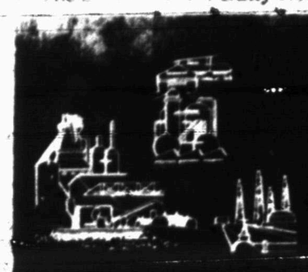

In other action, local officers arrested two persons on DWI charges and two others on public intoxication charges Monday evening.

Mason Automotive Is Ready To Handle All Winter Car Needs

Winter is still upon us--and it can still take a toll on your car. But Mason's Automotive can help you be prepared for the winter yet to come as far as your automobile is concerned.

Mason's, located at 1907 43rd Street, has all the pros on hand to give your car a complete winter check-up.

They can check your antifreeze coolant to make sure your car is protected against winter freeze-up. They will also check your cooling system, fan belts, battery and ignition system.

Mason's can align your front end, balance your tires or give your car a complete tune-up.

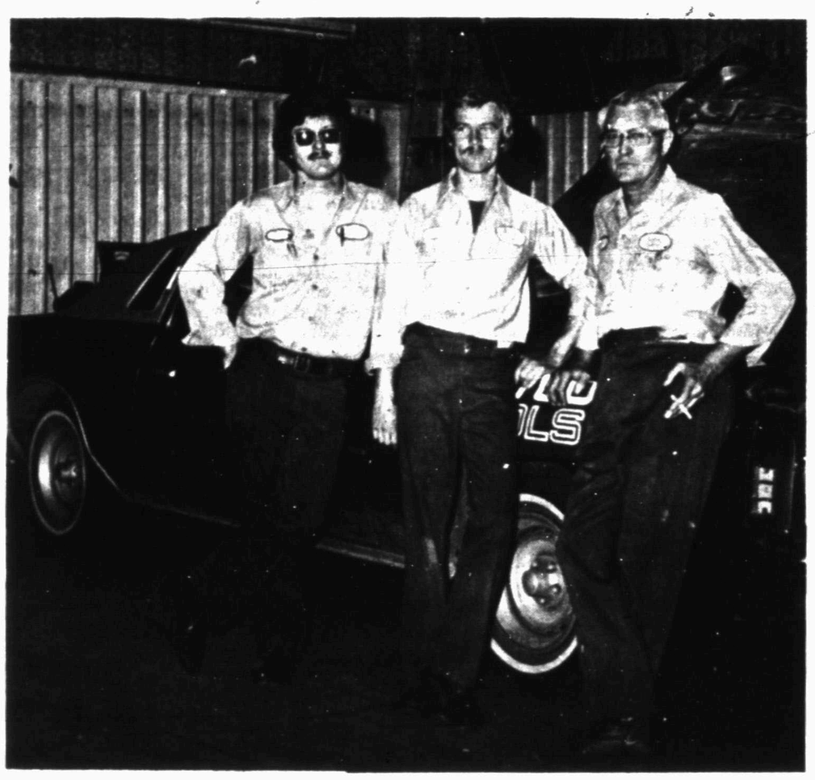

The firm features Interstate batteries, and has a good stock on hand to fit most any car.

Another feature at Mason's is rebuilt Aaron transmissions for General Motors cars. If they don't have one to fit your car, they can order any kind you might need.

Wrecker and road service is another service that Mason's offers it's customers.

Mechanic Grahame Kerry is a specialist in some makes of foreign cars. His specialities are Datsun, Toyota and British Leyland.

Avoid the inconvenience of getting stranded without a car by getting a check-up now at Mason's Automotive. Mason, Dan or Barbara Howell along with Grahame Kerry, are the friendly folks that will welcome you.

For All Remodeling Projects Begin With Stop At Shelburne

D.D. Shelburne at T.E. Shelburne and Son says "If you've been considering remodeling, come see us".

Almost everyone has some home improvement or remodeling job that they have been thinking about. But all too often that's as far as it gets because of hesitancy to tackle the job. That's where the Shelburne company comes in. They can help you plan what you want to do and then they can do it.

Kitchen and bathroom remodeling jobs are an important part of Shelburne's services and are in great demand. The firm custom builds their shelf and cabinet units to perfectly fit and suit the needs of that particular individual.

Often a remodeling project will be postponed or abandoned because the home or business owner thinks he will have to coordinate the work of several specialists. Not so with T.E. Shelburne. They can handle the whole job from start to finish.

The firm feels that each project is individual and different, so they strive to handle each job in a way that is right for it.

And, if new construction is your need, the firm can handle that too. They are also a dealer for the popular Gulf States metal buildings.

Whatever your building or remodeling needs are, you can trust Shelburne to fill those needs. Give them a call at 573-6359 or go by 1611 24th St. and talk about it with them.

Pole Official Hopes Walesa Freed Soon

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A senior Polish official said today he hopes Solidarity leader Lech Walesa will soon be freed from nearly two months' detention.

Deputy Prime Minister Jerzy Odzowski said in an interview with The Associated Press he is "convinced" Walesa bore no responsibility for what he termed the uncontrolled activities of the union in the weeks up to Dec. 13. Odzowski indicated there was thus no reason for martial law authorities to hold Walesa much longer.

"I hope that Walesa is soon a free man again," he said.

However, it was not known what Odzowski's hopes were based on, or whether they were shared by the entire Polish leadership.

In Madrid, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. told the European Security Conference that the Soviet and Polish governments were responsible for "a willful violation of solemn international accords" because of imposition of martial law in Poland.
