Nazis Almost Thrown Out Of Ukraine Sector

Winter Creeping Down From North To Aid Reds

BY HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Nov. 11—The Red army plunged to within 90 miles of the old Polish frontier today in a fan-out beyond Kiev described as the prelude to a new series of Soviet hammer blows designed to hurl the Germans out of the Ukraine and aggravate their plight on other fronts.

As a Russian column sped westward along the Kiev highway some 28 miles from Zhitomir, key junction and Nazi base of the northwest Ukraine, military quarters indicated that Marshal Josef Stalin was readying his army for its winter campaign.

"SUPER BATTLE" REPORTED

LONDON, Nov. 11 (U.P.)—Berlin reported today that a "new superbattle" was raging on a seven-mile front in the Chernigov area of the Desna valley 80 miles above Kiev, Russia.

"Fighting Weather" Ahead

Winter—Red army "fighting weather"—was creeping down from the north, and new thrusts were in the making. There was a limited number of guesses where the blows would fall, but the first objective appeared to be the complete liberation of the Ukraine.

While the middle column of Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin's first Ukrainian army drove against Zhitomir, those northwest and southwest of Kiev advanced steadily to keep both flanks in order.

Spreading Like Oil

Tactically, Vatutin's army was spreading like oil on water, seeping through the retreating enemy forces and seeking the weakest point for the next shattering blow.

(A German communique reported that renewed Soviet attacks on the Kerch peninsula of the eastern Crimea had been repelled "but for a local break"; that the Russians were attacking repeatedly in the Perekop area of the northern Crimea and around Perekop in the Dnieper bend; and that the Red army attacked with strong artillery and armor northwest of Chernicov in an attempt to break through.)

Reds In Control

Everywhere the Red army was reported in complete control of the situation and able to redistribute its forces at will for striking wherever it might choose.

Soviet armored spearheads were only 30 miles from the Korosten-Zhmerinka railway, last German-held longitudinal line in the Uk-

FDR Reports On Aid To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP)—Congress received from President Roosevelt today a report that the British Commonwealth, through last June, had contributed $1,174,900,000 "to the defense of the United States" through lend-lease in reverse.

The help from the empire, in reciprocity for upwards of $5,500,000,000 in lend-least supplies from the United States, covered such varied items as corn-on-the-cob and socks, plane repair shops and boxing glove.

Most of it came from the British Isles, whose total was $871,000,000. Airports, barracks, hospitals and similar facilities for American air and land forces accounted for $371,000,000 of Britain's share, goods and services for $331,000,000 and shipping for $169,000,000.

Others Helped Out

Australia helped out to a total of $196,000,000, New Zealand provided $51,000,000 in reverse lend-lease and India $56,900,000. Canada never has received lend-lease assistance from this country, paying cash for all war supplies obtained here.

The analysis of reverse lend-lease, Mr. Roosevelt said, "emphasizes the contribution which the British commonwealth has made 'to the defense of the Unit-

Strike Is Ended At Willow Run Plant

DETROIT, Nov. 11. (AP)—A strike involving 1,217 die setters in three departments of the huge Willow Run bomber plant ended today after an appeal by a union official and arrangements for negotiations on the dispute that led to the walkout Tuesday.

Richard T. Leonard, director of the Ford department of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), said all day shift employes reported for work following his back-to-work appeal.

ARMISTICE 1943—DAY FOR RESOLUTION—Across the 25-year span from November, 1918, to November, 1943, the U. S. has seen war, prosperity, depression, the laxity of peacetime, then war again and now attack. Today our observance of Armistice Day is a bitter reminder that the great World War did not end in 1918, and presents an opportunity to resolve that this conflict be brought to a permanent conclusion.

Holiday Observance Proceeding Quietly

Most Business Houses Closed

Armistice day observance is proceeding in accordance with quiet schedule here today.

Nearly all business houses and official offices are closed. The usual holiday skeleton staff is on duty at the postoffice, where only the most necessary duties are being performed.

City schools are at recess for the day, but will resume classes Friday. The war program does not permit observance of the holiday at Texas Technological college nor at LAAF and SPAAF.

However, at Tech, the air fields and elsewhere in the city, the traditional minute of silence was observed at 11 a. m. to commemorate the moment when World War I came to an end exactly 25 years before.

Many At Grid Game

Many Lubbock people—estimates running as high as 1,000—are in Amarillo for the annual Lubbock-Amarillo high school football game, set for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. KFYO will broadcast the game play-by-play.

Observance of the holiday started at 5 o'clock this morning when several buglers stationed at various spots in the city sounded reveille. The 18th annual reunion breakfast sponsored by local posts of Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion followed in Hilton hotel.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning, an Armistice day program was broadcast over KFYO from SPAAF, featuring band music, selections by a WAC quartet and a number of brief talks, including several by veterans of World War I now stationed on the post.

Guard Demonstration Set

From 2 until 4 o'clock this afternoon, local units of Texas State guard are sponsoring demonstrations and an open house at their

Rites For Descendant Of John Alden Held

HOUSTON, Nov. 11 (U.P.)—Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Griffin, a direct descendant, according to members of her family, of Priscilla and John Alden.

Mrs. Griffin, 87 and a native of Ithaca, N. Y., had lived in Houston 25 years. She died yesterday.

Celebrations Abandoned

(By The Associated Press)

Formal celebrations of Armistice day were abandoned for grimmer tasks at home and abroad today as the anniversary of the end of the World war was dimmed by the urgent need of getting on with the job of winning a far greater struggle.

(By The Associated Press)

Far from the din of battle, Texas will celebrate the Armistice of 25 years ago with wartime parades, speeches, scrap drives, and the traditional minute of silence.

For American fighting men it was a day of steady slugging at the enemy. For Americans at home it was, by government request, a day of uninterrupted industrial production.

King Sounds Keynote

King George VI of Britain sounded the keynote for the United Nations when he declared it was extra effort that counted.

Apparently fearful the downtrodden peoples of occupied Europe would seize the day for new outbreaks of sabotage, the Germans were reported to have tightened policing of all subjugated areas.

Anti-Poll Tax Fight Brewing

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The threat of a filibuster sent administration lieutenants scouting today for a possible compromise which again would delay Senate consideration of a measure to outlaw the collection of state poll taxes in federal elections.

With 16 Southern Democrats expressing determination to block Senate action, the judiciary committee will vote tomorrow on a House-approved bill endorsed by the CIO and the AFL. Senator Mead (D-NY) said recently the measure also is backed by President Roosevelt and party leaders.

Southerners To Oppose It

Expected committee approval will place the bill on the Senate calendar but there is ample evidence that if any member then seeks to take it up he will be met by a barrage of Southern oratory on extraneous matters. This talk could be limited only by invoking the cloture rule, which requires a favorable two-thirds vote.

The Senate went through an experience of this kind a year ago when Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky) sought to force action on a similar bill and ran into a filibuster. The fight was so bitter that Barkley's leadership was challenged at a Democratic conference and peace was restored only after the bill was pigeonholed.

With no desire for a repetition of that sort of history, administration lieutenants are expected to suggest that if the Southerners will agree to take up the bill some time in January, they will not push it in this session.

Great Aerial Battle Reported By Berlin

(By The Associated Press)

The Berlin radio, broadcasting a Tokyo dispatch, said today that a "third great aerial battle took place off Bougainville" in the Solomons.

"An embittered battle is being waged between units of the (Japanese) imperial navy and powerful army formations of the enemy," said the broadcast.

It asserted that "the number of American sailors who lost their lives off Bougainville has been estimated at 10,000 men at least."

Church Session Is To Adjourn This Afternoon

Appointments To Be Announced At 4 O'clock Today

BY EDWIN WATSON
Journal Staff Writer

The final session of the Thirty-fourth Annual Methodist conference will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the First Methodist church here with the reading of the pastoral appointments by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt.

The three Lubbock pastors are expected to return to their respective churches for another year, it was learned today.

The final Holy Communion was administered to approximately 500 members of the conference at 9 o'clock this morning. Bishop Holt and the nine district superintendents participated in the serving of the Sacrament.

The conference has been the shortest since 1918 and all of the sessions were modified in order that all business could be taken care of during the three days.

The Northwest Texas conference set a new high record for conference collections during the past year, according to the financial reports from the nine districts of the conference Wednesday.

A total of $1,294,544 was raised during the year for all purposes and a total of 7,076 new members were received into the church.

Lubbock district led the entire conference in both finance and new members received. During the year the Lubbock district, as reported by the outgoing superintendent, Dr. O. P. Clark, funds raised for all purposes was $266,524. New members received totaled 1,548.

Amarillo Is Second

Amarillo district was second to Lubbock with $209,388 raised for all purposes and 1,039 new members received into the church.

Other district reports are as follows: (First figure money raised, second new members):

Perryton district: $125,780 and 559.

Stamford district: $81,653 and 463.

Sweetwater district: $144,313 and 797.

Abilene district: $145,818 and 928.

Vernon district: $104,093 and 563.

Clarendon district: $99,025 and 553.

Plainview district: $118,206 and 626.

All of the districts of the conference reported out in full in their financial statement. Several of the districts were above their quotas and only two districts reported any indebtedness.

Germans' War Strength Said Greater Today

Japs Have Wallop Too, High-Ranking Officer Declares

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Germany's war strength is greater today than in 1939 and Japan still has a mighty wallop poised over Asia, a high-ranking U. S. Army chieftain was quoted as saying today.

The statement was made by Rep. Outland (D-Calif) who said he was quoting Major General George V. Strong, chief of the army's military intelligence division, with the general's permission.

Outland, avowedly anxious to prick any bubbles of U. S. optimism over the war task ahead, declared the Strong told a secret congressional ssesion several weeks ago that:

GERMANY

1—The German army has approximately three times as many combat divisions in the field today as it had when the attack on Poland began four years ago.

2—The Germans now have 300 well-trained divisions. This year alone they reformed, reequipped or raised more than 60 new divisions, each of which has approximately 600 machine guns and 300 heavier weapons.

3—The reich raised and equipped armored, motorized, and infantry divisions to replace each of the 20 lost at Stalingrad last winter.

Luftwaffe Is Larger

4—The luftwaffe is larger now than it was in 1939.

5—The number of workers employed in war industries in Nazi-dominated territory has risen from 23,000,000 at the outset of the war to 35,000,000 now. The weapons they are making are in some cases better than any which the United Nations yet have.

6—There is nothing in the German economic picture to justify confidence in the immediate downfall of the Nazi structure. For example, German food rations today are higher in caloric content than they were at the outbreak of hostilities.

JAPAN

1—The Japanese still have some 2,000,000 men of military age who have not yet been called to the colors, and they have already as many more in the 17-20 year age group who are not now subject to the draft.

2—In the air, Japanese strength is on the up-grade. The enemy has not only replaced the planes lost in combat but is improving both the quantity and quality of its air force. Moreover, the pilot training program has been stepped up and is keeping pace with an accelerated production schedule.

Dallas Dry Leaders May Face Subpoenas

DALLAS, Nov. 11 (U.P.) — Four prominent Dallas dry leaders will probably have subpoenas served on them today as the latest development in Dallas county's tumult-within-the-ranks prohibitionist fuss.

Subpoenas were issued yesterday for Dr. T. C. Gardner, head of the Dallas county United Drys, Walter H. McKenzie, executive secretary of the United Texas Drys, the Rev. Bolton Boone, and C. V. Compton, Dallas businessman, who was understood to have a collection of evidence purporting to prove that minors had been served alcoholic drinks.

Subpoenas were issued as an outgrowth of a suit filed by the Rev. Preston P. Reynolds, another dry leader, asking that Gardner, McKenzie and Compton be restrained from interfering with Reynolds' petition for a local option election.

Dr. Gardner was ordered to appear in court with a copy of a letter Reynolds said Gardner wrote to Dallas preachers and lay drys, asking that they refuse to sign any petition for a local option election. Compton was ordered to bring in evidence which he reportedly collected with the aid of high school children, and which, it was understood, he had planned to hand over to the Texas liquor control board.

Ships Scuttled, Docks Wrecked At Two Ports

Enemy Withdrawal To New Line North Of Rome Indicated; Demolition Carried On At Italian Ports Of Leghorn, Pescara

BY RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

Fearing invasion by sea outflanking their central Italian line, the Germans scuttled ships and demolished docks at Leghorn and Pescara in possible prelude to retirement to a new line 160 miles above Rome, an official Allied statement disclosed today.

Leghorn is 240 miles north of the present Garigliano-Sangro front and is one of Italy's principal naval bases on the Mediterranean. The obsolete cruiser Quanto and merchant vessels were sent down at the entrances of its fine harbor, 75 miles from Bastia in Allied Corsica. The Germans have reported troop masses on that French island. Gen. Patton's American Seventh army, the French army of Gen. Henri Giraud and the British First army are among the unreported Allied forces in the Italian campaign.

Pescara is directly threatened, 25 miles up the Adriatic from the British Eighth army, which was on the banks of the Sangro river. The Algiers announcement said the demolitions at both ports "are similar to those performed by the enemy several weeks before they evacuated Naples."

Tanks Storm Heights

Meanwhile, skilled American mountain fighters of the Fifth army stormed up the heights and drove the enemy from two mountains, including Mount Rotondo northwest of Mignano where the main inland road to Rome passes through the heavily fortified line that Nazi soldiers have been ordered to hold until New Year's, Allied headquarters announced.

The Americans smashed forward against German counterthrusts to the peak of Mount Rotondo overlooking the broad valley leading to Cassino, eight miles north of Mignano.

The Eighth army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, fighting through snowstorms in the Apennines, advanced five miles and captured Rionero, 10 miles northeast of Isernia and five miles south of Castel di Sangro on an important trans-peninsular highway.

Resistance Is Light

Meeting only light resistance, the Eighth army also swept up to the south bank of the Sangro river which empties into the Adriatic

Nazi Lines To Italy Blasted

Vital Railway Bottlenecks Hit

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Nov. 11 — American and British heavy bombers, teaming in a double-barreled blast at Nazi communications within Italy, wrecked vital installations in the railroad bottlenecks at Bolzano below the Brenner pass and Modane on the French border, it was announced today.

Flying Fortresses striking up from the Mediterranean dropped bombs on the railroad yards and buildings at Bolzano on the trunk line between Germany and Italy, and were believed to have blocked traffic at least temporarily.

WEST GERMANY HIT

LONDON, Nov. 11 (U.P.) — Flying Fortresses escorted by Thunderbolt and Lightning fighters attacked targets in western Germany today.

Four-motored bombers of the Royal Air force sliced across the continent by night to pound the railway town of Modane at the entrance to the Mont Cenis tunnel with hundreds of tons of explosives.

Two-Way Aerial Squeeze

The two-way Allied aerial squeeze on the transport lines feeding the Nazi campaign in Italy was accompanied by attacks on targets scattered throughout Germany and occupied teritory, including key industrial objectives in Italy.

For the second consecutive day Liberators of Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz's Mediterranean forces hammered the Villar Perosa roller bearing plant at Turin. British Wellingtons hit a railroad viaduct at Recco east of Genoa. American medium bombers sped across the Adriatic to set fire to oil tanks at Durazzo, Albania, and destroy a 5,000-ton merchantman at Split, Jugoslavia.

A railroad bridge south of the Bolzano yards was damaged, and direct hits made it temporarily useless. Several fires broke out in the wake of the Fortresses.

Reinforcement Route

Germany has been using the railway passing through western France and entering Italy just east of Modane to pour troops and supplies into the Turin area and to ship Italian-made arms back to the Reich.

British Mosquito bombers joined in the night's offensive by bombing western Germany for the seventh straight night without loss. Other bombers laid mines in enemy waters.

The British fighter command followed up yesterday's heavy assault on western France, Holland and Belgium with night attacks on German airfields and transport targets in northern France and shipping off the French coast. Two fighters were lost.

Local Efforts Urged On Manpower Needs

AUSTIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—More local effort toward solving manpower and related problems is urged by Claude Belk, state director of the War Manpower commission.

Belk, former Houston area WMC director, took his state post yesterday and declared optimism over Allied successes was making the operation of the WMC increasingly difficult.

Appeals from Washington, Dallas (regional headquarters) and Austin for men and women to stay on jobs and keep production schedules flowing have not been effective, he said.

RAF RAIDS AIRFIELD

NEW DELHI, India, Nov. 11. (AP)—RAF medium bombers raided the Heho airfield in Burma for the second night in succession, sprinkling bombs on hangars, barracks and runways and leaving numerous fires, a British joint air and ground communique announced today.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP)—Employes of the Republic Steel corporation's Buffalo plant returned to work this morning, ending a week-long walkout, a company official announced.

Army Goes To Aid Of Marines

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Powerful reinforcements of regular U. S. Army troops, landed without loss from warship-guarded transports, fought today alongside the spearhead of marines on Bougainville against badly decimated Japanese.

The tide of jungle battle—a welter of tanks, mortars and camouflaged men contending in the roughest type of terrain—swung definitely toward the invaders of that last big Solomons island protecting the Nipponese fortress of Rabaul.

"Our Bougainville operations were successful beyond our fondest aspirations," said Rear Adm. Robert B. Carney after watching the soldiers swarm ashore and after seeing an enemy raiding airforce lose 26 out of 60 divebombers and fighters without sinking ons of the ships in the convoy.

One Transport Damaged

Bombs damaged one transport but Admiral Carney emphasized that "no boat was laid up and all the ships got back to base."

(This naval operation, in waters only 260 miles southeast of Jap warships at Rabaul, afforded a striking contrast to Tokyo broadcasts that 96 Allied vessels have been sunk recently, that it was Nippon's biggest triump "since Pearl Harbor" and that Admiral Mineichi Koga had been congratulated for his "overwhelming sea and air victories."

(In New York last night, Navy Secretary Frank Knox said "our fleet in the Pacific is so powerful that the Jap hasn't got the courage to come out in the open.")

The Army reinforcements landed Monday at empress Augusta Bay. At that time, Japanese troops which went ashore the day before from 21 barges north of that beachhead to join with forces on the south in a pincers operation, had been to infiltrate American lines.

Britain Reports More Than One Billion Dollars Worth Of Goods Furnished United States Under Reverse Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The British announced today that they have furnished more than one billion dollars worth of reverse lend-lease assistance to the United States and said the scope of their aid is now being broadened to include raw materials and bulk food stuffs from both the United Kingdom and the colonies.

Their greatest assistance, for which specific figures were given only to last June 30, has been in supplying base facilities, barracks, hospitals and the like for American air and land forces based in the British isles.

Up to that time the total of mutual aid, as British lend-lease activities are called, amounted to $871,000,000 to the United States and $716,000,000 to Russia.

"White Paper" Released

These figures were contained in a British "white paper" released here and in London at the time of its presentation to Parliament. This is the first detailed report of Britain's assistance to other United Nations.

It was accompanied by an official British information service summary which stated that at present "Britain's cash expenditures under mutual aid totals well over a billion dollars for United States forces, and more than a billion and a half dollars to Russia and other allies."

The British report does not include reverse lend-lease supplied by Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, which have separate assistance agreements with the United States.

The report was further qualified with the assertion that the figures are not complete and that many of the foods and services furnished to American armed forces in various parts of the world cannot be measured in money terms, either because strict accounts have not been kept or because no accurate value can be placed upon them.

In the latter category the white paper places information and experience gained in batle and in research about the performance of military equipment and the strong and weak points of both enemy and Allied tactics and weapons. Such information, it was stated, aided in the development of the Sherman tank and the Flying Fortress bomber.

Germans Respecting Vatican Neutrality

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the third of a series of four uncensored stories describing what is really going on in German-occupied Italy. Gunnar D. Kumlien, chief Rome correspondent for the Stockholm newspaper Tidigen, wrote the series especially for the Associated Press. To bring the story back, he traveled by truck, train and plane).

By GUNNAR D. KUMLIEN
(Copyright, 1943, By The Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 11.—Pope Pius XII stands today as a symbol of peace.

Vatican City still is a haven of peace in the eyes of tremendous numbers of Europeans.

German soldiers occupy Rome and stand guard outside Vatican City. They have been told the Pope has a powerful armed force—although the Swiss guards only recently received live instead of blank ammunition for their rifles—and that the Vatican is a den of Jews.

Despite this attitude among the soldiers and although the Nazis have fostered hate propaganda against the Catholic church and have appropriated church property in Germany, relations between the German occupation forces in Rome and the Catholic church on the whole have been correct since the Italian capitulation.

Future Is Uncertain

They all make reservations as to what the future situation will be when Rome becomes a fighting zone. The mysterious bombing of Vatican City last week was a serious warning of a dangerous position.

While Germany is flooded with anti-Catholic propaganda, there has been a noted religious renaissance among Catholic German soldiers in Italy.

Super-human demands are put on the German soldiers in general and the unbroken series of defeats which Germany has suffered for more than a year has had a varied influence on morale among the soldiers.

There is also the influence of a black post-war prospect, and more sensitive Germans suffer from the depressing feeling that the Germans have the unpleasant record of being the most hated people.

Talked With Germans

Just after German troops entered Rome from Ostia, after fierce fighting in which they had the support of tanks and artillery, I inspected devastated city blocks. I talked with a group of German parachutists and asked how it all happened

"We broke through here with our tanks against the Italian traitors," one said. "Everything went well but suddenly we met hellish fire from first-rate anti-tank guns from the Italian side. Look at our damaged tanks! Do you know what it was? It was the Pope's anti-tank artillery."

Some days later I talked with two German parachutists who now stand guard in front of Vatican City, and repeated what their colleagues had said about the papal artillery. I thought they would laugh it off. Instead they declared very seriously that the Pope probably also has a strong air force.

That, in fact, characterized the German private's strange attitude toward the Vatican when he entered Rome. Later I heard an SS officer describe the Vatican as "a den of Jews" and "a black international," in which manner the Nazis refer to the Catholic church.

Meantime, an officer standing in front of St. Peter's frequently directs his field glasses toward the papal rooms. The Germans are alert. Even so, incidents such as the following occur:

A few days ago a diplomatic automobile with a Vatican license plate arrived from the center of Rome. It was allowed to pass the German guards while the Swiss swung back the heavy iron gates to the left of the main entrance of St. Peter's. The Germans, watching the diplomat's car so intently, did not notice a small private automobile following almost immediately behind. With a burst of speed the car swept past the Germans and disappeared behind a Swiss sentry box.

It was such a daring maneuver that not even the Swiss could halt the car. When it was well inside Vatican City, three American prisoners of war jumped out and performed a wild triumphal dance on the neutral ground. They had taken the car outside Rome from the Germans, who earlier had confiscated it from an Italian. The Americans were not the first Allied prisoners to escape into the protection of the Vatican, but they were the first to do it past German guards

Soldier Knocks Out Engineer Of Train

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 11. (AP)—A Pennsylvania railroad train entered Van Wert, Ohio, last night with the fireman at the controls and the engineer and a soldier unconscious in the cab of the locomotive.

Arnold Waibel of Fort Wayne, a railroad fireman, said the soldier had knocked the engineer, F. H. Dressel of Fort Wayne, unconscious with a hunk of coal. Waibel, in turn, knocked out the soldier.

The soldier gave his name as Pvt. William J. Emig when he was taken into custody at the Van Wert jail and held for questioning by authorities from Baer field, Army Air base here. He showed furlough papers issued from Camp Cook, Calif.

Emig, a passenger on the train, had crawled into the locomotive over the tender.

Dressel was given medical attention and resumed his run.

Christmas Is Early For U. S. Soldier

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11 (AP)—It may be 44 days before Christmas to most persons, but Pfc. Pete Taylor began his celebration today.

Taylor, home on a furlough, had a typical yuletide dinner, plus a five-foot spruce decorated with brightly colored ornaments and gifts from his family and friends.

And the celebration will last all week. Taylor expects to attend four turkey dinners before he returns to the southern Army camp where he is stationed.

Doctor Tells How He Produces Penicillin At 5 Cents A Plate

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11. (AP)—How precious, life-giving penicillin is being produced in the kitchen of his home "at five cents a plateful" was explained today by Dr. Julius A. Vogel, plant physician for the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation.

Although a comparatively crude type, he said his penicillin has proved effective in treating external infections and that any properly equipped physician can "grow" his own supply.

Dr. Vogel spoke before 500 executives and medical directors of leading American industries at the eighth annual meeting of the industrial hygiene foundation at Mellon institute.

"All surface pyogenic infections can be treated by the green mold culture, produced at five cents a plateful," he remarked, "and it doesn't require the services of an experienced bacteriologist."

Dr. Vogel's penicillin is grown in covered glass dishes about the size of saucers, the medium being ordinary corn-starch cooked for a half-hour at 400 degrees. The greenish mold spreads over pieces of gauze and within four days is ready for use on infections. About a dozen "patches" can be taken from each dish, Dr. Vogel explained.

Pennies, Not Millions, Worrying Bankers

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP) —It's the pennies, not the millions of dollars, that are worrying Wall Street banks these days.

Bankers said today they lack about 500,000 pennies.

Seven-cent hot dogs, 11-cent cigars, six-cent soft drinks and huge payrolls subject to withholding, with every pay envelope containing at least one penny, are reasons for the shortage, the banker spokesman said.

Cleveland is named after Moses Cleaveland, a land agent who laid out the city in 1796.

Delinquency In Wartime

BY ANNA W. M. WOLF
Author And Lecturer On Child Care

Half-grown boys and girls are likely to be neglected in war-time, and with neglect comes a rise in youthful misconduct. Many communities are reporting an alarming rise in so-called juvenile delinquency especially among girls, in whom sex-offenses are sharply on the increase. Faced with the uncertainties of war, there is a feeling among boys that you had better "take your fun where you find it," and among girls, that you must "grab your man."

With the father of the family overseas or away from home much more than usual, this is another worry that mothers may have to face alone and it is another reason why they should think twice before taking a job which would remove them, too, from their homes.

There is no perfect formula for keeping young people chaste. It has never existed and never will exist even in peacetime, let alone in war. But there are certain reasonable measures for safeguarding our youth, for which every home and every individual in it should feel deeply responsible.

In the first place, we should stop the false economies that curtail school budgets, recreation centers and social services of all kinds. Young people are more in need today than ever before of wholesome activities and chances to meet each other under decent conditions; families sorely need the help of experienced counsellors in meeting emergencies of all kinds. They need doctors, teachers, social workers, public health nurses, churches, recreation leaders and welfare groups of all kinds. England in wartime has learned this lesson and, far from curtailing its youth-building agencies, has vastly increased them at public expense. In doing so, delinquency has been reduced.

Every parent should remind himself that in wartime, as always, a good home is the best insurance against temptations and special excitements like uniforms.

The more young people can enjoy their homes and want to bring their friends there, the more they are likely to honor the standards of this home when they are not in it.

Parents who know present-day life at first hand and discuss it as it is today instead of harping back to "when I was young," or "what's proper," will be more respected by their children and can therefore be of more help to them.

We cannot keep our youngsters cooped up because danger is abroad. This proves to be nearly as true of our girls at home as of our boys who must go out and fight. We can see clearly, however, how the influences with which boys and girls grew up, serve them in time of emergency.

(Tomorrow: What Are We Fighting For?)

Allegro Club Program Is Given Wednesday

Allegro Music club members were guest of Mrs. A. C. Bowden, 2321 Tenth street, Wednesday afternoon and heard a program directed by Mrs. Elois Elliott.

Mrs. C. N. Hallmark sang "Sea Fever" by John A. Ireland; Mrs. Ed S. Hall, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar; Mrs. Bowden a lullaby by Scott. Piano selections were played by Mrs. Marlin R. Smith, jr.

Mrs. Virginia Nelson played a piano solo, "Convent Bells" by Bollman.

CLUB LUNCHEON

Mrs. Harriett Christie presided for a luncheon meeting of the Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club at Hotel Lubbock Wednesday noon.

Entertainments Are For Wives Of Servicemen Stationed At Bases

South Plains Ladies Bridge club members attended a Mexican luncheon at the officers club at the base Wednesday afternoon. Later bridge games were played.

Name cards and tallies were decorated with Mexican designs. Mrs. Chester Williams, president, won high score in bridge. Defense stamps were awarded others winning high scores.

To Meet At LSO

LAWS is to change its meeting place to the LSO on Wednesday afternoons, instead of First Presbyterian Fellowship hall. This was announced Wednesday afternoon at a meeting of the group of wives of service men at Lubbock Army Air field at which Mrs. B. Murdock and Miss Leona Gelin of the LSO were speakers.

Mrs. Murdock in charge of Lubbock wives clubs announced the following schedule of entertainments for those organizations: At 4 p. m. each Wednesday, clubs are to bowl at Plamor Bowling alley; on those evenings Service Aires are hostesses at a dance now open to service men and their wives also; and on Fridays women will play bridge at the LSO.

The Thanksgiving dance to be sponsored by the LAWS Nov. 24 at the Lubbock Army Air field gymnasium was discussed and the following committee was appointed to be in charge of decorations: Mesdames Claudia Marshall, Frank Ressler, B. H. Carmer, Chester Robertson and E. F. Lowe.

Mrs. Ressler displayed several Christmas gifts she had made; among the articles were stuffed dolls, shoulder straps, purses, etc.

For Wives Of Cadets

Wives of cadets in classes 44-A and 43-J met at the LAAF Cadet Wives club at the Hilton hotel Wednesday afternoon.

Two representatives from the Lubbock Service Organization discussed further plans on organizing LAAF cadet wives and wives of pre-flight students at Tech college into one club.

Those present were Mesdames Ruth Richards, Bettye Peterson, Merrillyn McDonald, Dorothy Swanson, Beth Stamper, Lilas O'Neil, Mary Ray, Betty Jean Reimers, Janet Brown, Ruth Shreck, Elaine Glassman, Dolores Hawe, Eunice Moran, Phoebe Knecht and Nina Kranz.

Texas Federation Is To Meet In May In Future

AUSTIN, Nov. 11. (U.P.)—Texas Federated club women, meeting here this week, voted to hold their annual conventions hereafter in May instead of November. A proposal of a committee that the sessions start on the second Tuesday in May was amended so that the convention time during May shall be left to the state executive committee.

Adoption of this change carries with it automatic extension of the present terms of State Federation officers until the May convention in 1945. Subsequent elections will be in odd numbered years. Candidates are to be un-announced until Jan. 1 of election years.

Another change voted by the convention will make the president instead of the retiring president the Texas director of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

District secretary-treasurers, under another changed rule, will be appointed by the president with approval of the executive committee. This will displace an elective system.

Another change takes retiring presidents and life members from the personnel of district executive committees.

Breakfast Is Traditional

"Army camps now resemble coeducational schools since 70,000 WACS now are filling essential jobs in camps all over the nation and overseas," Lt. R. H. Chamberlain, captain of the Air-WAC recruiting drive in Lubbock, told members of VFW auxiliary, South Plains Navy Mothers club and Gold Star mothers at a joint traditional Armistice breakfast at the Hilton hotel this morning at 7:30 o'clock.

In the absence of Mrs. Blanche Neihoff or Slaton, Mrs. A. P. Spence acted as chaplain, Mrs. Elizabeth Bruce, president of the auxiliary, offered a welcome address followed by the response by Mrs. James Samson, president of Navy Mothers club in behalf of that organization.

Mrs. Lillian Butler accompanied the group in singing "God Bless America." A poem in keeping with the times, "Young Fellow My Lad" was read by Miss Morrine George, a guest. A vocal solo, "Home Road" was presented by Miss Charlene Jordan.

Maj. Byron Goulding, speaking in behalf of Col. Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer at LAAF, introduced the principal speaker, Lt. Chamberlain. Five Gold Star mothers, whose sons died in World War I, were presented gifts. They were Mesdames Essie Brooks, Fred Rogers, J. B. Johnson, Cornelia Reed and Sarah Moore. Mrs. J. H. Farmer and Mrs. R. H. Bailey, whose sons are missing in action in World War II, were honored. They were presented with large bronze chrysanthemum corsages.

Others attending were Mesdames W. H. McDonald, L. E. James, Lorene Womack, Bailey Boyd, L. D. Wright, L. Walthall, R. L. Hooten, Marion Leftwich, G. W. Blair, J. Coffee, H. T. Wilkins, Leete Jackson, J. A. Barton, A. C. Sanders, A. L. Hawkins, H. G. Bigham, Lloyd Bentley, G. W. Tate, Powers, R. Leidwig, Ensign Adelaide Becker, Misses Lois Hinsley, Ann B. Dickey, and Bernice Cocanougher.

Hull Enthusiastic On Parley's Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull came home last night from the history-making Moscow conference and received a hero's welcome—a warm kiss from Mrs. Hull and a hearty handshake from President Roosevelt.

"Well, this is a surprise," the 72-year-old secretary said when he stepped spryly from his big, four-motored transport at the national airport to find the President waiting to greet him.

But Mrs. Hull's welcome came first, and then the secretary walked over and shook hands with Mr. Roosevelt seated in an automobile.

Went To White House

The secretary went directly to the White House for a talk with President Roosevelt—a talk which presumably covered decisions of the Moscow conference not yet made public.

One of these other matters may be word from Premier-Marshal Stalin as to where and when he will meet with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill—a conference the Anglo-American leaders long have sought.

Before leaving for the White House, Hull spoke briefly to reporters of the Moscow conference's main decisions—that none of the four countries represented, Russia, Britain, the United States and China, would make a separate peace with a common enemy, and that all four would work together after the war to maintain peace.

Vast Opportunity Cited

"I believe that our country and other peace-loving countries have a vast opportunity to profit by the program of policies outlined by the Moscow conference," he said. "I have supreme faith that they will avail themselves of that opportunity."

He said the American mission received "every courtesy, every hospitality and every consideration," in Moscow.

"For two weeks the conference in Moscow worked together as a single unit in an atmosphere of understanding and trust and friendliness and cooperation," he continued. "We agreed upon a broad basic program of international cooperation. The program contemplates the hastening of victory over the Axis powers, also the preservation of peace and the promotion of human welfare in the postwar world."

At the capitol resolutions were offered by Representatives Boykin (D-Ala) and Scott (R-Pa) proposing that the Senate and House meet jointly to receive Hull's report on the Moscow conference.

Boykin's resolution suggested also that there be tendered to the state secretary "the thanks of the nation for his great service at Moscow."

The trip to and from Moscow was in the big four-engine transport.

Newton Appeal Work Pushed

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 11 (Special)—Dr. W. R. Newton's most recently employed attorney, Bob Lyles of Angleton, was in Plainview Wednesday in connection with the Cameron physician's perfecting appeal from a seven-year penitentiary sentence.

District Attorney Harold M. LaFont of the 64th judicial district explained in reply to questions of telephoning newspapermen that, as required by Texas procedure, Lyles had come into this section to get signatures of state's attorneys on the statement of facts—the complete record of trial testimony in the case.

Records Are Required

The statement of facts, together with the transcript—a file of all instruments pertaining to the case—and bills of exception—which would be prepared by counsel for the defense and approved by the trial judge—are required for perfection of appeal to the state court of criminal appeals.

District Attorney LaFont, asked again whether he expected the trial of Mrs. Newton to proceed as scheduled Monday in Olton, county seat of Lamb county, repeated what he had said several times before, a statement which had been pronounced as often by District Judge C. D. Russell:

Case To Be Called

"It still is premature to answer that. The case will be called for announcements, just as planned."

Dr. Newton was convicted of assault with intent to murder the late Dr. Roy Hunt, physician-surgeon of Littlefield, May 21, 1942. Mrs. Newton was indicted on a similar charge. Dr. and Mrs. Hunt were discovered slain and bound in their bed the early morning of Oct. 26.

Removal of Dr. Hunt through death naturally would deprive the state of its principal witness.

Testimony Inadmissible

It has been pointed out that under the rules of procedure, testimony given by Dr. Hunt at the trial of Dr. Newton would probably be inadmissible in the trial of Mrs. Newton, since Mrs. Newton had not been accorded the privilege of cross-examination of Dr. Hunt.

However, spontaneous expressions of Dr. Hunt made immediately after the 1942 assault—might be admissible without reference to whether they had been previously testified to or not, court attaches explained.

England's fishing fleet had to be protected from pirates by warships in 1580.

SANTA CLAUS IS EARLY—Harry F. MacLean, who handed $100 bills to patients in a Toronto military hospital, tipped bellboys with $50 bills and wrote a $2,000 check for a Halifax cab driver's baby son, said today that "if you want to get something out of life, you must put something in it. If you don't put happiness into life, you won't get happiness out of it, no matter what you do or who you are," the millionaire contractor told newsmen who questioned him about his recent philanthropic sprees. A total of 49 patients at the Toronto hospital received a $100 bill each except J. A. Carpenter, (left), who got two of them, one from Nursing Sister F. Houston, center, who refused to accept it for herself. Don Macintyre, right, is another recipient of a bill. (NEA Telephoto).

War Contracts Being Changed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The first comprehensive survey of war contracts by the Office of War information disclosed today that arms commitments are being redrawn wherever practicable to provide a financial incentive to contractors, end labor hoarding and to reduce costs.

The OWI based its survey on reports to James F. Byrnes, director of War Mobilization, from the War and Navy departments and the Maritime commission on the status of their contracts. These three agencies are responsible for most war contracts.

Contracts Redrafted

The agencies reported that redrafting of cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts, the type generally used in the initial stages of the rearmament program, had resulted in marked reduction in unit costs of many types of war goods.

On the basis of unit cost knowledge gained since the arms production program began, the Navy now executes a contract which allows the contractor to share any savings resulting from efficient management.

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, said the Army Air forces had revamped cost-plus contracts amounting to $170,000,000, but said 343 cost-plus contracts with 133 contractors are still in force.

Most German POW Confirmed Nazis

DALLAS, Nov. 11 (AP) — The Dallas News quotes First Lieutenant Maurice M. Hall, chaplain of a prisoners of war camp at Huntsville Tex., as saying that "60 per cent of the prisoners are confirmed Nazis," and "you might as well preach Christianity to a wall as these Hitlerites."

Hall, a veteran of World War I, is attending the Baptist general convention here. His statements were made in an interview.

"You might as well preach Christianity to a wall as these Hitlerites. They won't even listen," The News quotes Hall as saying.

"About 60 per cent of the prisoners are confirmed Nazis. The rest are Catholics and Protestants and are deeply religious. But the Nazis are treacherous, mad and fanatical with their dogma, often trying after midnight in the barracks to lynch their comrades who are not Nazis."

Rotating Capital Of America Is Proposed

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11. (AP)—A project for the creation of a rotating "capital of America" was received today by the chamber of deputies here from that of Peru, and is scheduled for reading Friday.

The Peruvian chamber advised that it had approved the plan, originated by Deputy Cesar E. Ferreyros of that country. The 21 republics of the hemisphere would maintain the "capital" for the purpose of closer collaboration. An order of rotation for the headquarters city would be established after approval of the idea by the parliaments concerned.

Bricker May Start GOP Pot To Boiling

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — Governor John W. Bricker's announcement that he will be a Republican candidate for President in the Ohio primaries is expected to touch off an intensified battle for control of delegates to next year's GOP convention.

For the next two months much of this fight may be centered behind the scenes in southern states. Many Republican leaders there have long-time ties, dating back to President Taft's administration, with Ohio party leaders and there was strong support from southern delegates for Senator Taft of Ohio for the Republican nomination in 1940. Friends of Wendell L. Willkie already have been actively seeking southern support for him in the 1944 convntion.

The Ohio governor said at a Chicago press conference Wednesday that "I will definitely enter the Ohio primaries as a Republican presidential candidate." The primary is May 9. He is the first potential candidate to announce formally his intentions, but Willkie has made it clear he seeks the nomination.

Stassen's Name Entered

Supporters of Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and now a lieutenant commander in the Navy, have disclosed they will enter his name in the Nebraska presidential preference primary to be held April 11.

There also is a movement to draft Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who has declared he will not become a candidate, and there has been talk among some Republicans of drafting General Douglas MacArthur.

A formal announcement may reasonably be expected from Willkie some time in January. The first of the presidential preference primaries is in New Hampshire March 14, and that state's laws require filing by candidates within 60 to 30 days before the primary. The next primaries are in New York and Wisconsin April 4.

Bricker-Willkie Contest Seen

To many politicians, the question of the Republican nominee is shaping up at present as a contest principally between Bricker and Willkie.

Such a contest, if it develops, would not preclude, of course, the eventual nomination of some one else as a candidate to unite all party factions. An Associated Press survey of GOP state chairmen last August showed, however, that a majority thought the nomination would go to Bricker, Willkie or Dewey.

In addition to Stassen and others previously mentioned, that poll also brought out such possibilities of Senators Taft and Vandenberg, who have said they will not be candidates, and Governors Earl Warren of California, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Dwight Green of Illinois, Senator McNary of Oregon, and James A. Farley, former Democratic leader now at odds with the Roosevelt administration.

Any Military Regime In France Opposed

ALGIERS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Gen. Charles De Gaulle, president of the French Committee of National Liberation, said at a press conference last night that the French oppose any military government of occupied French territory upon its liberation.

De Gaulle said action by the committee yesterday removing Gen. Henri Giraud as co-leader of the committee, along with three of his appointees, was necessary to attune the committee closely with the sentiment within France.

However, any further attempts to restrict Gen. Giraud's influence is believed doubtful as long as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower remains as Allied chieftain in this area for it is known he has insisted that Giraud remain as head of all French military actions, which are subject to Allied control.

The removal of Giraud as co-leader of the committee relieved him of civil duties and left him in charge of the military in anticipation of an invasion of France.

Two Princes Run Into Old American Custom

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP) — Two Saudi Arabian princes ran into an old American custom when they were guests of honor last night at a reception concluding a six-week tour of the United States.

The princes, Amir Faisal and Amir Khalid, were prevailed upon by other guests to sign approximately 300 autographs.

Prince Faisal disclosed that his country hoped to establish in Washington soon the first Arabian diplomatic legation ever sent to the United States. High American officials have spoken in favor of it, he added.

Red Cross authorities in England are urging rural people to scour the moors for sphagnum moss to replace cotton wool swabs in some hospitals.

The utility bags issued to WACS are known as "portable powder rooms."

VITAL FAR EAST AREA—Northern Burma, gateway to China, may be the goal of an Allied drive from India.

Government Plan To Resume Manufacture Of Irons Is Set

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 — A government program to start producing electric irons has been drawn up and now needs only the go-ahead signal.

Recent surveys by the Office of Civilian requirements (OCR) show American housewives consider electric irons one of the war-short items they need most. Manufacture of them was stopped after Pearl Harbor because some materials which went into them were critically short.

The program prepared by OCR, part of the War Production board (WPB), requires approval by the WPB requirements committee before manufacture can start.

To Appear Next Year

This is how the program shapes up:

The irons will not appear in the nation's stores before the second quarter of 1944. Estimated need for them is 6,600,000. Only about one-third that number will be made if the program is carried out in full.

To help make up the gap between the number of irons needed and the number planned there will be a vigorous campaign for the rehabilitation of burnt-out irons now idle in American homes.

Nine out of ten burnt-out irons, it was estimated at OCR, can be rehabilitated.

Wire No Longer Short

The wire — made of copper and other metals — which is used in the iron's heating element was gravely short once, isn't now.

There will be no rationing, as such. Purchase of the new irons can be made two ways: a housewife trades in a burnt-out iron or, lacking such a trade-in, will have to prove real need for a new one.

The burnt-out trade-ins will be repaired and resold by dealers and distributors.

This is the word at OCR:

There are enough wood and coal heating stoves in the hands of manufacturers now to meet all essential needs. All anyone needs do is certify the need to the local OPA rationing board.

Any bottlenecks in getting the stoves into the hands of those needing them probably will be cleared up shortly.

Boom Foreseen For Airlines

BY JAMES E. STREBIG
Associated Press Aviation Editor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 11—Harlie Branch, of the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), made a "conservative estimate" today that in the first year of peace the nation's airlines "will be doing at least twice the business they did in 1941."

Branch tempered his views with a warning against mushrooming in the industry, and, recalling the era of short line railroad construction as a "sad chapter in our history," said that the CAB was "duty-bound to resist any pressure directed toward uneconomic and unsound expansion."

A member of the board since Congress established it, Branch discussed the commercial air future in an address prepared for the opening session of the first national clinic of domestic aviation planning.

Participation Restricted

In brief, he said that:

The CAB has determined that the civil aeronautics act "rigidly restricts the participation of the older forms of transportation in the air-transport field."

"Public sentiment generally is against government ownership or control of airlines.

But if the airlines depend too heavily on government subsidy, they may expect, sooner or later, demands for government control.

"Much larger and faster planes"—types already in military service—will be used on non-stop schedules, but the standard plane known to all airlines patrons, the Douglas DC-3, will continue for several years to perform local service on the heavy traffic lines and all of the services on the most of the other trunk lines.

The guaco plant gave Waco, Tex., its name.

'Mail Call' Editor Of 'Stars And Stripes' Gets More Beef Than Income Tax Collector

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—The "father confessor" of the American Army in the Mediterranean theater is a 27-year-old private who gets more beef and bellyaches in his mail than the income tax collector.

He is John Welsh, 3rd, a slim young soldier who performs a triple function on Stars and Stripes, Army newspaper. He edits the "Mail Call" column of soldier letters to the editor, supervises the "pup tent poets" corner and also runs the paper's lost and found department.

As a result, he probably knows more about the American soldier's dreams, grief and groping hope than anyone this side of the blue sky up yonder, and he is busier than an armless man with fleas.

Lost-Found Department

The lost and found department, for example, is the smallest of his three jobs, yet he has handled some 1,237 cases of soldiers seeking brothers over here, relatives trying to locate non-writing sons or husbands in the service, or friend looking for friend. He has had 275 successful replies and is proudest of reuniting a WAC and her hubby in khaki.

The rest of the mail bag is nothing but trouble. John gets an average of more than 20 letters a day, and some 15 of them contain poems contributed by soldier readers. As he can only print about 5 poems, he makes 10 deadly enemies a day by rejecting the others.

His "mail call" letters consist chiefly of technical queries about Army procedure, soldier denunciation resulting from fancied grievances, and requests for information to settle bets. One soldier, who had written a novel on Army time, wanted John to let him know where he could peddle it. Another was anxious to know whether the population of California in five years would exceed that of New York.

Gives Personal Answers

"If they write in with a personal problem I always take time out to give them a personal answer," Welsh said.

John gets his biggest kick, however, out of tilting with his poetic contributors. He is something of a rebel himself. Since he left Harvard for the Army 3 years ago he has turned down an officer's commission, given up the rank of sergeant in the air corps to come to the Stars and Stripes staff as a private, and twice subsequently rejected promotion. "I want to be a professional private," he said. "It's the best rank in the Army."

His Verses Published

Welsh has had a number of his own verses published in anthologies back home, but he has made it a policy "never to use my own stuff in Stars and Stripes." That takes character, just as it does to reject poems submitted by soldiers who arrive with their verses in one hand and a tommy gun in the other.

"The interest in poetry in the Army is fantastic, the quantity is fast and the quality is almost nonexistent," said Welsh.

In rejecting poems he sometimes writes brief notes pointing out what is wrong with them and suggesting how they could be improved. These notes are salt in the raw wounds of contributors.

Westerners, Sandies Renew Old Grid Rivalry Today

Amarillo Team Strong Favorite

Locals Dedicate Game To Reiger

(Special To The Journal)

AMARILLO, Nov. 11—A quarter century old schoolboy football feud rises to the boiling point again at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Butler Field as a determined band of Lubbock Westerners tangles with Amarillo's mighty Golden Sandstorm in an effort to accomplish what only three teams have ever done—beat the Sandies on this tradition-steeped gridiron.

TO BROADCAST GAME

Station KFYO will broadcast a play-by-play account of the Lubbock Westerner-Amarillo Sandie game direct from Butler Field beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The Black and Gold of Lubbock High was the last team to do the "impossible," edging out the Sandies in 1939, 9 to 7, later winning their only state championship.

Sandies Heavy Favorites

But today, it will be a Westerner eleven facing far greater odds that tackles an undefeated and untied foe the "experts" have acclaimed as one of the best in schoolboy grid circles. The Sandies have won seven consecutive games this season, amassed over 200 points.

FAIR WEATHER FORECAST

The Weatherman indicated that today's Lubbock-Amarillo game would be played on a dry field with warmer temperatures prevailing. Forecast for the area last night was fair and warmer.

All the color and tradition of former years will be packed into this Armistice Day classic which is expected to attract a throng of some 10,000 fans, hundreds of them from Lubbock.

Illness Hits Westerners

Rocked by injuries and illness as the game approached, the underdog Westerners this morning were in good spirits after a bus trip up last night. Biggest setback for the visitors is the absence of Jim Joe Reiger, co-captain and veteran letterman, who is in a Lubbock hospital with pneumonia. But the star Lubbock wingman will be with his mates in spirit. Before leaving for the Amarillo game, the Westerners dedicated the game to Reiger—and he will be listening to a play-by-play account back home.

Also a doubtful player is R. W. Moyer, hard plunging fullback for the Westerners, who has been ill and suffering from a knee injury. He made the trip and may see action, however. Otherwise, the Lubbock lads look in good shape and are expected to put up a fierce battle in an effort to avenge last season's 20 to 0 setback at the hands of the Sandies in Lubbock.

It was back in the early thirties that the Butler Field tradition of an Amarillo team never having lost a game on the gridiron was shattered, Norman High of Oklahoma turning the trick. In the mid-thirties, Austin of El Paso repeated the feat and in 1939 the Lubbock "Cinderella Kids" did it, going on to win the state championship and running their victory streak to 17 consecutive games before the Sandies snapped it the next season.

Some Tickets Available

E. J. (Pinkey) Lowrey, business manager of athletics at Lubbock, said late Wednesday that he would have a few more student tickets for sale in the lobby of the Capitol hotel in Amarillo where the Westerners are making their headquarters.

The team left by bus Wednesday for Amarillo to get a good night's rest before going into the game. They hope to avenge the 20-0 loss suffered at the hands of Amarillo last year.

The light, but scrappy Westerners will be a decided underdog in the battle, and will enter the game at a heavy weight disadvantage.

Sandies Heavily Favored

The Sandies, who are already counted "in" by the downstate schoolboy experts, will enter the fray with an average weight of 173 pounds per man, 21 pounds more per player than the Westerners.

The Amarillo backfield will tip the scales at an average of 174 pounds per man in comparison to Lubbock's 153. The Sandie line averages 172, the Westerner forward wall 151. Add to these overwhelming odds the fact that Amarillo has managed to escape serious injury, with the possible exception of Billy Lynch in the backfield, and the locals' chances for a victory are definitely slim.

"Ripe" For Upset?

However, odds have meant little to the Westerners in past seasons and often as the underdog the Gold and Black clad aggregation has startled the state's school-boy circles by pulling a major upset. Today may be the day for it.

On the basis of season's records, the Sandies have one of the best in the entire state, having won seven consecutive games and having amassed 202 points against the opposition's 44. Lubbock has won six of seven games, running up 127 points to their opponents' 61. San Angelo accounted for 40 of those points in one game, however, in handing Coaches Mule Davis' and Dixie White's boys their only setback.

Jacksonville Cancels Game With Lufkin

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 11 (AP)—Jacksonville High school has cancelled its scheduled football game for Nov. 19 with Lufkin High school, Superintendent Larue Cox announced today.

Lufkin High school recently was investigated by the Texas Interscholastic league regarding its athletic set-up. No report has yet been made by the league state committee.

Cancellation of the game followed action by the school board here this week and the information was conveyed to Superintendent George H. Wells of Lufkin. Jacksonville agreed to abide by Interscholastic league rules requiring a team cancelling to bear expense which might have been incurred.

Jacksonville and Lufkin are both in district 12-AA of the Interscholastic league football plan.

Andrews Grid Squad Totals Only 14 Men

ANDREWS, Tex., Nov. 11 (AP)—Manpower problems?

Well, Andrews High school has only 14 men on the squad but the Mustangs are doing all right.

They've won five games by decisive scores and lost only one—that a heart-breaker by one point.

Andrews High has only 68 students enrolled.

Formerly the school was in the class B division of the Interscholastic league but dropped out because of transportation difficulties.

Tech Prepares For Aggie Tilt

Game To Highlight Homecoming Event

It won't be very quiet on the "western front" out west of the city this afternoon as Texas Tech's Red Raiders oil their big guns for Saturday afternoon's Homecoming and Parents Day game against North Texas A. and M.

Facing one of their toughest foes since the Tulsa encounter, the charges of Coach Delicate Dell Morgan today will continue to bear down in scrimmage and dummy sessions for the powerful Aggies, reinforced by additional trainees.

The game is expected to be filled with both wide open ground play and aerial attacks. The Raiders were polishing up their defense against the powerful Aggie ground game Wednesday afternoon while turning the spotlight on their own passing attack and punting. Passes, with fleet Freddie Brown doing the tossing, and smashing ground play, with Buster Melton, are expected to prove important in Tech's bid for a victory against the experienced visitors.

Big Crowd Expected

Indications that Saturday's game would attract one of the largest crowds of the season continued as demand for tickets was reported brisk. Reserved seats are $2.20, the north end seats selling for $1.65. Soldiers and wives will be admitted for 50 cents each.

The game marks the annual Homecoming and Parents Day celebration at the college and will attract many exes as well as a large local following.

Not only will the Raiders be facing veterans who once wore the scarlet and black but a host of other stars sent to NTAC through the Navy's training program. There will be James Reid who played guard for Tech in 1941 and 1942, now holding down a right guard slot for the Aggies. He now tips the beams at 196 pounds.

James "Baldy Jim" Woodfin, All-Southwest conference standout with TCU for three years, will be another veteran in the visitors' lineup. Another stalwart to face the Techsans will be Jack B. Batchelor, who has played two years with Texas, Donald Hughes, quarterback with NTAC and former Frog star.

Bryan Air Field Team To Play Hearne Camp

BRYAN, Nov. 11 (AP)—Bryan Air Field winds up its 1943 football season Sunday, when it meets the Hearne Internment camp team at Hearne.

Despite a record of six defeats and no wins, Bryan field is rated a slight favorite by virtue of its performance last Saturday night against Southwestern at Georgetown. Southwestern was forced to come from behind in the third quarter to win 20-6.

The Camp Hearne team has been defeated in recent encounters with the Ward Island Marines and Camp Fannin.

'Virtual' Titles On Line Today

Schoolboy Races Are Taking Shape

(By The Associated Press)

Championships of mathematical certainty could be determined in few districts of Texas schoolboy football this week but a number will be decided "virtually"—that is, leaders will be established that will not be dislodged with anything outside of startling upsets.

For all purposes the titles of districts 1, 7, 9, 13, and 14 are on the line.

Amarillo's only strong challenger—Lubbock—goes to Amarillo to play today. The winner of this game will be a "virtual certainty" to take the championship.

North Side Faces Riverside

In district 7, North Side has only to hurdle Amon Carter-Riverside to be acclaimed pennant winner of Fort Worth.

In district 9 Breckenridge's mighty Buckaroos play Brownwood, the only other team unbeaten in conference warfare.

District 13 has Jeff Davis meeting weak San Jacinto needing only a victory in this game to clinch Houston honors.

District 14 has Galveston and Goose Creek, the only undefeated teams in conference play, battling it out.

There are strong prospects of at least two of the state's nine undefeated, untied elevens taking the count. These perfect record outfits are Amarillo, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Ysleta, Highland Park (Dallas), Longview, Lufkin, Goose Creek and McAllen. Sweetwater plays rugged Odessa and Goose Creek, of course, tangles with the fast-moving Galveston outfit. But the others do not appear in any great danger of falling. All have games except Ysleta.

Injury Knocks Out Junior High Back

The Junior High School football team lost its regular fullback Wednesday afternoon when Wayne Cobb suffered a fractured left collar bone during a scrimmage session.

Wayne, praised by Coach Russell Wimberly as "one of the best backs on the club," was injured while carrying the ball. He likely will be out for the remainder of the season. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Cobb of 2115 Tenth street.

The Cowboys have made tentative plans to play Petersburg again here a week from this afternoon.

Post-War Car Ideas Laid To Ad People

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11. (AP) — "The only people designing post-war cars are advertising people," Charles F. Kettering, vice president of General Motors corp., said today.

"We'll build 1942 models after the war for two or three years—it will all depend on how we are situated when the war ends. If the public wants a plastic car, we can give it to them," he said in an interview.

FRILLS FOR COWGIRLS—Lillian Cowan (left) of Pecos, Tex., and Nita Boyd of Sweetwater, Tex., take time off from their appearances in the rodeo at New York's Madison Square Garden to go shopping for new millinery.

Texas League Moguls To Meet Saturday To Study Resuming

DALLAS, Nov. 11. (AP)—The Texas league fathers will meet here Saturday to see what can be done about resuming operations and President J. Alvin Gardner, confident their action will be in the affirmative, says:

"I would be derelict in my duty if I didn't urge that we have baseball next year."

Gardner said he had found conditions favorable—that he had checked with hotels and was told they would take care of the players, not in the manner of the past, but "in some way;" that there would be sufficient players from among the youngsters, 4-F's and men too old for the armed service; that the fans wanted baseball and should have it.

Plenty Of Money

The league is in a healthy financial condition with plenty of money in the bank and with all franchises in good shape, the president asserted.

"While some clubs may not want to operate, others represent life savings of the men who own them," he added. "I think their investments should be considered.

"Now that we can see the end of the war, with our country settled into the routine of making the tools of war and with the workers entitled to the recreation baseball brings, I favor wholeheartedly the resumption of operations."

Gardner said one of the reasons for suspending last year was because of the situation of Texas and Southwest in the war. "You know, there were distinct signs that there might be a point of invasion from the enemy and we didn't have time for baseball while building against attack," he declared. "We were right in the middle of the war then. The danger is now past."

All clubs will be represented, including those with major league interests. James Gallagher, general manager of the Chicago Cubs who own a half-interest at Tulsa; Jack Zeller, general manager of Detroit, owner of Beaumont; Eddie Dyer, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals farm system, owners of Houston's franchise, and William O. Dewitt, vice-president of the St. Louis Browns, owner of the San Antonio club, will be in attendance.

Others coming to the meeting are: Oklahoma City—President H. O. Pope, Vice President F. J. Humphries: Tulsa—President Don Stewart; Fort Worth—President Stanley Thompson, Secretary-Treasurer John Reeves, General Manager Rogers Hornsby: Dallas—President George Schepps, Treasurer Julius Schepps; Shreveport—President Bonneye Peters, Vice President J. I. Roberts; Beaumont—President Ernest Lorbeer.

Sports Roundup . . .

Rumor Breaks Out That 1944 Baseball To Be Livelier, With Synthetic Rubber Core

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Just when everything seemed peaceful, the furore about the major league baseball has broken loose again . . . Fred (Newark News) Bendel came up with a story from a source we can't question saying that the 1944 model baseball will have a synthetic rubber core instead of balata, which is a kind of rubber, anyway, but not a very popular kind last summer . . . But National League Prexy Ford Frick says he hasn't heard any discussion of the subject and it hasn't been listed as a topic at the major league meetings in December . . . One sure thing is that minor leaguers would like to have a livelier ball next season. They've missed those big batting and home run records that were very useful when it came to selling players.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Frank Leahy, the tearful tutor of Notre Dame: "every team that installs the T formation will do a lot of fumbling in the first season. We did our fumbling last year."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Rip Sewell was turned down by the Army after getting as far as the Camp Blanding, Fla., inducting center. His military career, it seems, followed the same path as his famous blooper pitch . . . Jackie Rockne, 17-year old son of the famous Notre Dame coach, is a star southpaw passer at Campion academy, Prairie du Chien, Wis., but he's only a 140-pounder.

SELF SERVICE

When Coach Harold Clark of Holy Trinity high school at Trinidad, Colo., quit to join the Army Air force, it looked as if football was out for the duration . . . But 17 kids begged to play and the superintendent said okay . . . The boys ran their own practices, arranged their own three-game schedule and won two out of three . . . After losing 2-0 to the strong Florence team, they whipped their two traditional rivals, Holy Cross Abbey of Canon City and St. Mary's of Walsenberg by big scores . . . Wonder how the coach will rate when he comes back?

SERVICE DEPT

Lt. Col. "Jeenks" Gillem, former Sewanee and Birmingham-Southern grid coach, is in charge of special services of the Third Air force in Florida . . . Capt. Arthur Nehf, son of the old time Giants' pitcher recently was appointed a Marine flight leader and was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for his exploits over Guadalcanal after doctors had said he never would fly again because of an eye injury.

MOUNTING MOANS

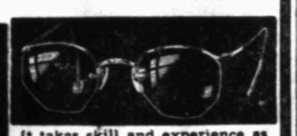

Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State puts in a claim for the season's hard-luck prize on this basis: (1) eight V-12 players declared ineligible before the season started: (2) a good marine tackle was shipped out just for poking a fellow marine; (3) 17 more marines sent to boot camp in mid season; (4) his veteran fullback joined the air force and left the same day; (5) his best freshman back was lost because of injuries after two minutes of play, two good frosh prospects flunked out and three regulars were declared ineligible on the eve of the Cornell game and (6) to cap the climax, a promising frosh tackle borrowed a bicycle without brakes and ran smack into a delivery truck, ripping his leg open.

More Drastic Taxes Urged

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Eight national organizations, including the CIO, called today for more drastic wartime taxes declaring the bill shaped by the House ways and means committee fails to tax adequately "high personal incomes" and "unparalleled corporate profits."

The organizations proposed a $25,000 ceiling on salaries, after taxes, but opposed any form of national retail sales tax.

The committee is about ready to submit to the House a bill providing $2,250,000,000 in new levies 80 per cent short of the administration's request for $10,500,000,000 additional revenue.

Message Sent To Solons

The groups set forth their position in a message addressed to each member of Congress. It was signed by President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and representatives of the National Farmers union, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, National Association for the Advancement of Colored people, National Women's Trade Union League of America, League of Women shoppers, National Lawyers guild and Consumers union.

Charging the committee's measure continued "disproportionately heavy burdens on the connon man with meager income," the organizations proposed this 7-point tax program:

1. Elimination of the income-tax levies on low incomes which were substituted by the committee for the repealed victory tax.

Restoring Exemptions Urged

2. Restoration of personal income exemptions to $750 for single persons, $1,500 for married couples and $400 for each dependent. Exemptions under the 1942 act are $500, $1,200 and $350.

3. Increased personal taxes on incomes above $3,000 a year, along with a $25,000 ceiling on net income, after taxes. Congress recently repealed such a salary ceiling established by President Roosevelt through executive order.

4. An increase in the corporate tax rate from 40 per cent to at least 50 per cent, recommended by the administration but rejected by the ways and means group.

5. Elimination of the option to compute excess profits on the average-earnings method.

6. Elimination of "special privileges" so as to provide for mandatory joint returns, the taxation of government securities and the elimination of percentage-depletion allowances for oil and mining properties.

7. Increased tax rates and lowered exemptions for estate and gifts.

PAPER GETS PRIZE

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (AP) — A $50 prize in war bonds was awarded yesterday to the Garrison, Texas, News for its campaign to get a cord of pulpwood cut for each local boy in service. More than 1,600 weekly and small daily papers competed.

"Because a bad check always comes back!"

Lt. Don Budge, recently appointed public relations officer of the Tech Pre-flight detachment, is a right regular guy.

We were talking with Lt. Budge on the telephone and remarked:

"Lt. Martin Mayer, over at South Plains Army Air Field, is a pretty high-ranking tennis amateur and some of the boys would like to see you and Martin play an exhibition match. What about it?"

And Lt. Budge, who currently is world professional champion and who was National Singles champ in 1937 and 1938, replied:

"Martin probably would beat the socks off me. But I'd like to play him just for the fun of it."

There can't be much wrong with a guy like that.

Note to Hunters: This is a true story.

In Shreveport the other day, a weary hardware dealer placed in his window a sign, reading:

"Do not ask us for ammunition. This is our last shell, and if you have a gun it will fit, then it's your shell."

But there was a catch to the proposition. The shell in the window was an 8-gauge shell—and an 8-gauge shotgun is pretty rare.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago, an Armistice brought about a cessation of hostilities between the Germany of Kaiser Wilhelm and his satellite states, and the Allies.

To all intents and purposes, that Armistice ended World War 1, although there are those who claim that it merely brought about a breathing spell between that war and the one which is raging today.

At any rate, each November since 1918, we Americans and some of our Allies have observed Armistice Day anniversaries; we look upon Armistice Day as symbolic of our victory in the 1917-18 struggle.

This Armistice Day's dawning found us, of course, locked in another World War—even more of a global war than its predecessor.

Arrayed against us in Europe is our former chief enemy, Germany, and a couple of unimportant European states which were opposed to us before.

Although the end of the current conflict is not yet in sight, ultimate victory is. And already people are talking—as they should be—about some sort of international post-war organization to make a repetition of World Wars 1 and 2 impossible.

Let us hope that great goal is reached.

BUT will it be reached? Can it be reached? Is it possible, among human beings on this earth, to relegate war and all its cruelty and bestiality to the black pages of history?

Sometimes even the most pacific among us doubt that perpetual peace is possible, and with good reason.

The records of history are not kept minutely enough to tell the whole story of man's struggle against man.

Yet we know that in the last 600 years, there has not passed a single day in which organized groups of men somewhere in the world were not killing other men and, likewise, being killed by them.

We have cried "Peace!", but there has been no peace. Perhaps there has been none for 6,000 years. And perhaps there will be none for 6,000 years more.

CERTAINLY the theory that peace among humans is impossible embraces the worst sort of a defeatist attitude.

Yet the record prompts the belief, held by many, that war is as much a natural part of human life as breathing, eating and drinking; hating and loving; working and resting; being born and dying.

At least such a belief can be bolstered by facts which indicate that as long as man continues to be as he is today, and as he always has been, he will be fighting and killing—spurred on by greed.

Therefore, it occurs to us that building a perpetual peace entails considerably more than the organization of nations pledged to keeping the peace.

It entails more than long treaties and high-flown statements.

It entails more than attempts to smooth out the world's hodge-podge of economics; even more than guaranteeing liberty and all the other freedoms, both real and imaginary, which are periodically trotted out by our statesmen on the prowl for votes.

More than anything else, the campaign for world peace demands what is nothing short of a change in basic human nature. It entails the complete subscription of the majority of humans to the ideal we know best as "the Golden Rule."

For until the overwhelming majority of the people of the world realizes that "the Golden Rule" should be subscribed, we'll continue to have wars. Because wars stem from greed and from envy and from reckless ambition.

THESE are not pretty thoughts. But neither is the world a very pretty place, and certainly it is not today peopled by very pretty beings.

The expression of these thoughts is not likely to prove very popular, either, especially at this time of year when high resolve and profound dedication to higher things are expected, even if they are mocking and hollow when peered at in the light of truth.

But sores on the human body are not healed by being hidden from sunlight and air.

The sores of the body politic also need the sunlight and air of truth in order that they may be cured.

So we leave these thoughts at this Armistice period, hoping they may do some good.

They are ugly, yes. But they demand attention if the world is serious about wanting to outlaw war forever.

I Am A Murderer

By MORRIS MARKEY

(Copyright, 1943, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE STORY: This is the story of the "perfect crime"—the murder of Col. Wesley Hope Merriwether in the library of his Long Island estate—and of the events leading up to it. We have met the wealthy, mysterious Colonel at a party following a polo game; also his attractive daughter Cynthia; Fred West, an impoverished, half-hearted suitor; Henry Prentiss, a polo-playing friend, and others of the Merriwethers' set.

* * *

MR. VAUGHN DUNBAR

CHAPTER V

One or two couples drifted out toward the dancing, and several of the older people came through the French windows to smile and say good evening. Mitchell Grace came in, also, and waited until the polite remarks reached a pause before he bent over the Colonel.

"Mr. Vaughn Dunbar is calling," he said. "I am not acquainted with him. He says that he brings a letter of introduction."

"The name is unfamiliar," said Colonel Merriwether quietly. He looked at Mitchell Grace, and touched his cigar to his lips for a moment.

"He is a gentleman of some presence," said Grace, "and he tells me that he is acquainted with William Stewart?"

Cynthia heard him. "Bill Stewart!" she said with quick delight. "What about Bill Stewart?"

"The gentleman who is calling knows him."

"Well, for heaven's sake show the man in. Right, Colonel? We can't have a pal of Bill's hanging around the back door, can we?"

"You may ask him to come in, Mitchell," the Colonel said. Cynthia started to follow Grace, paused, and waited at the side of her father's desk.

Vaughn Dunbar stood for a moment in the doorway. Then, hardly glancing at the others in the room, he moved with precise, measured strides to Colonel Merriwether. He bowed stiffly from the waist. "I am afraid I chose an awkward moment for my visit," he said.

"We are pleased to have you, Mr. Dunbar," Colonel Merriwether said. He rose, and extended his hand.

"Tell me about Bill Stewart," Cynthia said. She smiled eagerly, and held out her own hand. "Is he well? Is he simply starving to death? I'm Cynthia Merriwether."

Dunbar smiled gravely at her. "He sent a note to you," he said, and drew an envelope from his pocket. "I hope it gives me a good character."

She tore the envelope open and immediately began to read aloud.

"Cynnie, you glamor girl. Here is Vaughn Dunbar, who has carefully corrected my manners from Addis Ababa to Zagreb. Be kind to him. He is not quite the stuffed shirt he looks like . . ."

"Oh!" Cynthia touched her fingers to her lips in mock embarrassment. "I shouldn't have read that aloud—or should I?"

Dunbar chuckled. "Praise from Sir Hubert," he said, "is praise indeed."

Cynthia peered at him. "I think I see now what Bill meant," she said gloomily. And even the Colonel permitted the wisp of a smile to flicker on his calm face.

Cynthia turned her eyes back to the page: "He may look like a Mayfair moocher, but he knows more about the inside of Europe than any man I ever saw—except when I looked in the mirror just now. He'll tell you what trifling news there is of me. And he'll probably also tell you that you are grand, beautiful, desirable, a great pal, blessed with that certain thing, and also a little touched in the head. Which are my sentiments. Love. Bill."

She let out a heavy sigh—the color had bloomed in her cheeks—and folded the letter. Then she smiled even more warmly upon Vaughn Dunbar, and said, "Well, Mr. Dunbar, any friend of Bill Stewart's is entitled to the best we've got to offer."

The Colonel said, "Perhaps Mr. Dunbar would like to become acquainted with our friends here," and Cynthia began the dull ritual of introductions. When the routine was accomplished, she stood before Vaughn Dunbar, and looked at him, and gave orders.

"All right, let's go," she said. "We will find a quiet place and you will tell me the very last bit of news about Bill."

The friendship between Cynthia Merriwether and William Stewart, journalist, was in many ways an unusual thing, and in all ways whatsoever an enviable one. He was a man of 50, perhaps a trifle more. He had been, in happier times, full slave to a daughter whom he adored with an awesome adoration—and that daughter had been the bosom companion of Cynthia.

The Stewarts had lived, in a manner of speaking, upon the fringes of Gull Point. Those being the days when it was the chief fad of the rich to seek the company of the intelligent. Those being the days when articulate folk, from reporters to new novelists and even drama critics, were the prize guests of yachting parties and fetes Champetres, and the gossip columnist more to be desired at the dinner table than a duke or royal blood.

William Stewart—no, Bill Stewart—had muffled his cynicism in behalf of his daughter's momentary amusement and her hopes for the future.

And thereby he had beckoned disaster.

For the daughter had been taken into The Hunt. And hostesses of divers sorts had provided horses for her to ride. And one fine day such a horse had faltered at a barrier, and had fallen, and the daughter of Bill Stewart was gone.

Cynthia nursed Bill Stewart for certain months thereafter; nursed his heart and the fibers of his soul, which was genuinely a courageous soul, however bitterly wounded now—and nursed as well the despair which bent over him and tried valiantly to make a drunkard of him.

So they were friends. And so, restored by her at the last, he had thrown himself back into furious work.

"How is he?" Cynthia asked Vaughn Dunbar. "How is my darling old Bill? Just talk about him. Please do!"

He sat across from her in a low wicker chair, in the pavilion which looked out upon the empty and unilluminated tennis courts. He was, plainly, a man accustomed to be at his ease in every sort of circumstance or situation. He was dark, and almost painfully well groomed, with deep brown eyes that seemed a trifle nearsighted behind their rimless spectacles.

His attitude of sureness and repose spoke eloquently of meetings with great names of the world, of interviews with those names—which manage the way in which bewildered mortals will spend their tomorrows.

"I should tell you, first of all, that Bill is immensely happy. He is in the thick of it, and doing a wonderful job—but you must know that already. There is not a correspondent with the Middle East Armies that could last a week if Bill were not there to guide him down the narrow way."

Today's Journal Editorial

A VERY POSSIBLE OCCURRENCE

Warnings that American cities may be bombed by one or the other of our enemies have been shouted so often that little attention is paid to them.

Thus the warning the other day that Jap planes might stage nuisance raids on our Pacific coast received little more than passing notice. The re-action suggests a false sense of security so far as this particular danger is concerned.

The application of a little horse-sense logic should make anyone realize that the danger is real and immediate. The Jap militarists appreciate fully that the day is drawing near when their cities will be bombed. The United Nations are getting within closer striking distance day by day. Soon they will be within bombing range.

Therefore, isn't it logical to suppose that the Jap warlords might try to hit first? True, their raids almost certainly would be suicidal. The actual cost to the Japs—which, of course, would be concealed from the masses of Japan—very likely would be much greater than any damage inflicted. But the Jap militarists would be able to assure their people that subsequent raids upon their cities were retaliatory. The effects of such bombings upon Japanese morale would be minimized, at least for awhile.

Thus, those who cry wolf now are not shouting a false alarm. The wolf—a desperate wolf—is at our doors. He may attempt to strike at any time.

NOTES of an Innocent Bystander—The First Nights: The reviewers went to the show three times during the week . . . The legit secured a beach-head on 42nd St. by reclaiming the New Amsterdam stage from the flickers with a stock presentation of "The Petrified Forest." The play wears well, and there was nice make-believing by Barbara Joyce and John McQuade . . . "Outrageous Fortune," penned by the Rose Franken who had never had a flop, was a worthy try, but it failed to collar the kudos her earlier scrivenings won—"Claudia" and "Another Language." Elsie Ferguson heads this argument for tolerance, with Margolo Gillmore, Margaret Hamilton and other capables helping along. The Sun's Ward Morehouse found it interesting and then added, "but it's muddled" . . . "Artists and Models," an old title with some new faces, is one of the vaster revues which seemingly hasn't heard of the manpower shortage. Jane Froman, Frances Faye, Jackie Gleason, Marty May and other figures of the song-and-dance world spin its melody and nonsense.

The Magic Lanterns: Hitler's costliest blunder, picking a war with the Soviet, supplies the workings for "The North Star," which is about as tops as cinema gets. The heroics of the guerrillas and the peasants who give the invaders more war than they bargained for are beautifully handled. The acting by Walter Huston, Anne Baxter, Von Stroheim and others excels . . . "Claudia," a two-season wow on the stage, looks like a gilt-edged property of celluloid, with Dorothy McGuire repeating the role of the adorable dimwit . . . Miriam Hopkins and Bette Davis tangle in a windy whatchamacallit, "Old Acquaintance," about two old gals who should talk less and know more. The acting is A-1, but you wonder what for . . . There are some sparkling flippancies in the patter of "Princess O'Rourke," a little helping of escapism—meaning it's nothing to worry you or bore you.

Divers' Helmets Are Lightened By Plastic

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 11 (U.P.) — The men who go down into the seas in divers' helmets now have less weight to carry around on their shoulders, thanks to the science of plastics.

A new, light, virtually unbreakable window of "lucite" has been designed by the plastics department of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co. to replace the old-type glass plate on the fronts of the helmets. The curved window already has been worn by 70 government deep-sea divers, including a score of men who work on the S. S. Lafayette in New York Harbor.

Celebrating Armistice Day 25 Years After

Ernie Learns It's Best Not To Cash Checks Where He's Known

And He Doesn't Recommend Iguana For Eating

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here, in another of the Ernie Pyle columns of past years that we are reprinting during Ernie's vacation, he concludes his reflections on the preceding five and a half years of travel. This was written in 1940.

By ERNIE PYLE

I SUPPOSE the following assertions will draw forth screams of righteous wrath. But I claim every man is entitled to his opinions.

The prettiest girls are in Salt Lake City. The best-dressed women, outside the coastal cities, are in Memphis. The friendliest public servants are bus drivers. The nicest rain is in Seattle.

ERNIE PYLE

The most beautiful single scene on this continent is Lake Louise, in Canada. There is no really perfect year-round climate in America. Riding on an airplane is a dull way to travel. I think women's hats are all right. There is almost no way for a constant traveler to fill his fountain pen. The happiest people in America are not those who are wondrously wise, but those who are a little crazy.

A Modern Gulliver

In five years of cashing traveler's checks all over the country, I've had trouble only once, and that was in a town where I was known. Make your own deductions.

We've got the car stuck only once. That was in Death Valley, we were there all afternoon, and if it had been summer I'm sure we would have died. Some people came along and got us out. The first thing they suggested was unloading 300 pounds of baggage. I hadn't even thought of that.

The roughest sea I've ever been in was between the Pribilof Islands and Dutch Harbor, in the Bering Sea. We were on the Coast Guard cutter Northland, and their official "rollometer" or whatever you call it showed us rolling up to 47 degrees. That, my hearties, is more than halfway over.

The tiredest I've ever been was after riding from Fairbanks to Valdez over Alaska's only highway. It is 375 miles, rough and high and cold. It took 23 hours, and I rode the entire distance standing up in the back end of an empty truck.

WE have not spent a Christmas in a home in four years. I spent one Fourth of July in hip boots, sheepskin coat, mittens and stocking cap. And we've celebrated New Year's the last three times in shirt-sleeves. Travel is so confusing.

And speaking of confusion, my most confused moment was last spring at the airport in Mexico City. The ladies' and men's retiring rooms there are labeled "Senoras," "Senores." That's an awful lot alike. So I walked through the door and smack into the ladies' room. No harm was done, however, and I walked right out again.

Then I took my bearings, consulted my Spanish dictionary, lit a cigaret for nonchalance, and this time walked confidently and correctly into the men's department. And I'll be damned if there weren't two old ladies in there! Americans, too.

Rio Called "Most Beautiful"

The most beautiful city in the Western Hemisphere is Rio de Janeiro. The American town with the most spectacular setting is Ouray, Colo., completely cupped by terrifying towering mountains.

In five years of meeting thousands of people, we think former Gov. Chase Salmon Osborn, of Michigan, carries in his head the most knowledge about the most things. He is 80 now, and lives in a cabin in Georgia in the winters, and on an island in Lake Michigan in the summer. If I knew as much as he does I'd die of migraine headaches.

The store clerks in New Orleans, in that last crushed, destroying week before Christmas, are sweeter and kinder than it is possible for humans to be.

When the negro hotel maids in towns around Lake Okeechobee in Florida knock at your door and you say "Yes?", they always say, "It ain't nobody but me."

In Nova Scotia people use "Good night" as a greeting, as we use "Good evening."

THE Ben Milam hotel in Houston sends a bowl of fruit up to each new guest. The Alcazar in Miami brings up a huge glass of orange juice. The Franciscan in Albuquerque gives free breakfasts to guests. At the airport in San Juan, Puerto Rico, a white-coated negro meets you with a tray of free Bacardi cocktails.

One summer in Alaska the light bulb in my room in Fairbanks burned out, and I didn't know it for two days, since it was daylight all night.

The best compliment I ever had was from the old fire-brand sculptor, Gutzon Borglum. We were in Rapid City, S. D. I stopped him in the hotel lobby, and asked if I could come out next day and see his faces on the mountain and have a chat with him. With characteristic brusqueness he said, "Come ahead. I'll talk to you all day if you act intelligent!" We were there all day.

The weirdest dishes we've eaten were guinea pig in Peru and iguana in Guatemala. The guinea pig tasted like chicken; but an iguana looks so repulsive I just shut my eyes and gulped it without tasting it.

Investigation of an unusual run on traveling rugs at Nottingham, England, revealed women were buying them for conversion into winter coats.

Small Planes Boost Artillery Accuracy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP) — The massed fire of American guns, and the accuracy obtained by air observation from small planes, are the two sharpest differences between American and German artillery, Col. R. F. McEldowney reported today.

As an artillery observer in Sicily and Italy, the Kentuckian saw at first hand the effectiveness of the "air observation posts," the light Taylor, Piper or Aeronca planes which American artillerymen use to spot their targets and direct their fire.

Each artillery battalion has two of the planes, which do not need airfields, but can land on roads or in meadows. In addition to artillery spotting, the planes undertake reconnaissance missions for division commanders, and carry out other assignments. In all the operations in Tunisia, Sicily and Italy, said McEldowney, only one of these planes has been lost. It was shot down by three German fighters, but the two occupants of the plane escaped.

McEldowney said German prisoners called the American artillery fire "magic fire." This he attributed in part to its accuracy, in part to the fact that American forces would mass the fire of several battalions of 12 guns each, in contrast to the German practice of employing artillery more or less as "roving" guns, seldom using more than four or five against a single target.

LIVES SONG TITLE

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 11 (U.P.) — "Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition" is not just a song title to a preacher here. The Rev. James H. Burckes, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, praises the Lord each Sunday with his congregation and during the week passes the ammunition as a war-worker in the General Electric Co. plant at Pittsfield.

Large Crop Of Corn Forecast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP) — The second largest corn crop on record in the United States—3,086,000,000 bushels—was forecast by the Agriculture department on the basis of Nov. 1 conditions.

While the predicted 1943 crop would be 90,000 bushels under last year's record production, it would exceed the 10-year average yield (1932-1941) by 736,000,000 bushels. Approximately 94,000,000 acres of corn are expected to be harvested this year compared with 89,484,000 a year ago.

The Nov. 1 report was an increase of one per cent over the department's Oct. 1 forecast. Most farmers had husked enough corn to estimate yields and their reports indicated a higher yield per acre than for any year prior to 1942.

Output Above Average

The total crop production in 1943 was estimated at about 18 per cent above the average for the 1923-32 pre-drouth period and six per cent below last season.

The report credited the high production primarily to better farming practices and technical improvements.

Sorghums for grain, a main source of feed in the Southwest, is expected to yield 107,000,000 bushels from a record acreage, substantially more than the production in any year prior to 1941.

The department left unchanged its previous wheat production estimate of 835,816,000 bushels, considerably under the 1942 yield of 981,327,000 bushels.

Potato Crop Near Record

The potato crop will reach 469,000,000 bushels. The largest previous crop was the 1928 harvest of 427,000,000 bushels.

Production of peanuts was expected to reach 2,681,000,000 pounds, 475,000,000 pounds above last year's yield and more than double the ten year average harvest.

DONALD DUCK "BLINDMAN'S BUFF" By WALT DISNEY

Italian Chief's Removal Asked

LONDON, Nov. 11 (AP) — The Allies have requested Premier Pietro Badoglio to remove Gen. Mario Roatta, Italian chief of staff, as a result of Yugoslav charges that he was a "war criminal" responsible for a reign of terror in Yugoslavia, it was disclosed today.

The Germans, meanwhile, harassed by guerrilla activity from the Swiss border to the Franco-Italian Riviera, have offered amnesty to Italian and French patriots who surrender before Nov. 15. The offer was believed aimed at an estimated 10,000 anti-Axis troops who were reported to have dug in for the winter in the maritime Alps.

The case of Gen. Roatta may be the first presented before the United Nations commission which is to be set up in London soon by the United States, Russia and Britain. The commission probably will decide whether Roatta will be sent to Yugoslavia for trial under terms of the Moscow conference.

Charges Investigated

Minister of State Richard K. Law, who told the House of Commons Wednesday of the Allied request for Roatta's removal following an investigation of the Yugoslav charges, said Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower still had under consideration "the case of Gen. (Vittorio) Ambrosio."

Gen. Ambrosio also is charged with war crimes by the Yugoslavs.

Badoglio's cabinet as announced Sept. 30 included Roatta as chief of staff and Ambrosio as Army chief of staff.

Roatta, who seven years ago served as the Italian military attache in Berlin, commanded the Italian Second Army in Yugoslavia from January, 1942, to February, 1943.

Early in the war Ambrosio commanded the Italian 11th Army in Yugoslavia and later was governor of Dalmatia. During his terms as commander of the 11th the Yugoslavs allege that many hostages were shot and thousands of Yugoslavs were imprisoned.

Polio Epidemic In Dallas Said Over

DALLAS, Nov. 11 (AP) — City health department records showed 254 poliomyelitis cases in this area during the summer and fall, of which 22 were fatal.

Almost half of the infantile paralysis victims were released from hospitals without residual effects.

While four patients have been admitted to Dallas hospitals this month, the epidemic is over, Dr. L. A. Boyer, city epidemiologist, said today.

British Lend-Lease

be valued in money," the report said, "but it has cost more in blood and effort than most aid."

U. S. Aid 14 Billions

(President Roosevelt reported to Congress August 25 that total American lend-lease aid through July 31 amounted to $13,973,339,000 and that the total of lend-lease goods actually exported through June 30 amounted to $9,882,000,000, of which $4,458,000,000 went to the United Kingdom and $2,444,000,000 went to Russia.)

The British mutual aid figures were given in pounds in the white paper and stand in American money at the rate of $4 to the pound. It was on this basis that measurable assistance to United States forces was shown to amount to $871,000,000 through June 30, with $716,000,000 for Russian forces in the same period.

While Britain's reverse lend-lease to the United States has consisted chiefly of camp installations and airfields in the United Kingdom, military supplies, food, airplanes and naval services and shipping services, the aid to Russia included 4,690 aircraft and spare parts.

Values Said Incomplete

The monetary values placed upon mutual aid were described in the white paper as incomplete and by no means a true measure of the full assistance rendered to this country by the British. Complete estimates are impossible, the white paper said, because mutual aid "is a decentralized and flexible system designed to meet the needs of armed forces at war in many scattered countries."

Of raw materials and bulk supplies, the official report said that the United States formerly paid for them in dollars to provide the British with funds needed "to meet our heavy liabilities on pre-lend-lease armament contracts in the United States, which were not covered by lend-lease."

"But now that those contracts are largely fulfilled," the report continued, "and in furtherance of the general pooling of (United Nations) resources, his majesty's government have recently decided to extend reciprocal aid to raw materials and foodstuffs purchased by the government of the United States from the United Kingdom and the colonial empire which would thus be made available on terms analogous to lend-lease.

Britain Pays Shipping

"In addition, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom will defray the cost of British shipping services for these materials from all parts of the British commonwealth. Thus a very wide range of additional products and services is brought into the scope of reciprocal aid which is not yet reflected in the statistics given."

As a means of furnishing some comparison between British mutual aid and American lend-lease, the white paper noted that in a report to Congress May 25 President Roosevelt said 12 per cent of the total United States war expenditure went for lend-lease.

"The proportion of British war expenditure currently devoted to mutual aid is 10 per cent," the paper continued, adding "what we give to the United States as mutual aid in relation to our national income does not fall far short of what the United States gives to us as lend-lease in relation to their national income."

Other Expenditures Cited

Apart from mutual aid costs and lend-lease assistance she has received Britain, the paper reported, has had to meet overseas expenditures totalling more than nine billion dollars for which she has "burdened her future commerce by parting with gold and of her capital assets and by incurring liabilities to other members of the United Nations."

Summarizing assistance to others of the United Nations than the United States and Russia, the white paper reported that Holland, Belgium, Norway and Yugoslavia pay for what they get; the armed forces of Greece, Czechoslovakia and France get supplies without charge; Turkey receives military supplies free; and plans for free aid also have been offered to Poland and Yugoslavia.

In a separate category the British listed 94 naval vessels, including one cruiser, 14 destroyers, six submarines, 17 corvettes and many smaller vessels, as being "on loan to our allies."

Negro's Voting Right Upheld

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—The Supreme court has been urged to rule that negroes have a constitutional right to vote in a Texas Democratic primary which nominates candidates for Congress.

Thurgood Marshall, New York attorney, and William H. Hastie, Washington, D.C., attorney, argued before the tribunal Wednesday that its 1935 decision sustaining the exclusion of negroes from a Texas primary was based upon factual mistakes and should be overruled.

They represented Lonnie E. Smith, Houston negro, who was prevented from voting in a 1940 primary by the election judges of the 48th precinct of Harris country, Texas.

Judges Not Represented

No one appeared on behalf of the election judges—S. E. Allwright and James E. Luizza—and no brief was filed in defense of their action.

Marshall said there was no record in existence of a resolution adopted by the Democratic party in Texas excluding negroes from voting in primaries and that "any white person was permitted to vote if he had a poll tax receipt."

Hastie added that there is "no membership roll of the Democratic party in Texas, no constitution, no by-laws, no rules and no regulations."

"Demos Control Choice"

"The Democratic primary," Marshall said, "effectively controls the choice of the Texas voters."

Marshall said that the Supreme court's 1935 decision "was based on the theory that the right to participate in the Democratic primary is one of the privileges incidental to membership in the Democratic party of Texas and should not be confused with the right to vote."

He sited a 1941 Supreme court opinion which he said held that in a state where a choice at the primary was tantamount to election the right to vote in the primary was derived from the constitution and not from the party.

Briefs urging the Supreme court to rule in favor of Smith were filed by the American Civil Liberties union, the committee on constitutional liberties of the National Lawyers guild, and the Workers Defense league.

Hastie will conclude his argument Friday.

Carl Estes' Wedding Is All-Navy Affair

WILLOW GROVE, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—Lt. Cmdr. Carl L. Estes and his bride, the former Margaret Virginia McLeod, a WAVE ensign, were on an aerial wedding trip to Mineola, Tex., today, following their wedding last night at Willow Grove Naval Air station, believed to be the first in which two Navy officers were married by a Navy officer at a Navy base.

Cmdr. Estes, Texas oilman and publisher and adviser to former Governor Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania, is the public relations officer at the station. His wife, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McLeod of Morris Plains, N. J., has been his assistant. The ceremony was performed by Rear Admiral J. Duncan MacNair, U. S. N., retired.

Plans Shaping Up For Homecoming At Tech

Members of the freshmen class continued today to gather material for the huge bonfire Friday night in connection with the 15th annual homecoming at Texas Technological college Saturday. Freshmen will guard the material tonight to prevent premature touching off of the fire, which will illuminate the scene for the homecoming pep rally.

Other events that are being planned include the awards convocation to be held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, registration of parents at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the football game between Tech's Red Raiders and NTAC scheduled to begin 2:30 Saturday afternoon, and social activities designed to entertain former Techsans.

News Briefs

Dr. Samuel H. Burgin, 72, prominent Methodist churchman who died Tuesday at McKinney, was the father of David Burgin, former instructor in journalism at Texas Technological college. Young Burgin was an instructor in Texas State College for Women, at Denton, when inducted several months ago into the Army.

James Gipson Badgett of Floydada has been given the temporary promotion from major to lieutenant-colonel, the War department announced this morning. He is in the Air corps.

In keeping with George R. Bean school's observance of National Education week, Miss Thelma Davidson, P-TA radio chairman, and Dr. O. A. Kinchen of the Tech history department, spoke over KFYO Wednesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock on the subject: "Education to Win and Make Secure the Peace."

Slight damage was reported in two fires this morning. At 6:45 o'clock a wall-type heater in a bathroom at 1220 Ninth street overheated and set a wall afire. At 10:20 o'clock, ear corn caught fire at Texas Feed and Seed Co., at 812 Fourteenth street.

Police said they meant to investigate this case further. They went to a trailer camp Wednesday afternoon in response to a complaint and said they found an 8-year-old girl had been whipped with a 36-inch stick and locked in a cabin by the mother, who then went to town. The child was not suffering serious bodily injury when police arrived, but had four marks on her back, it was said. "The mother could not be found, but we will go back."

This juvenile, according to police reports, is troublesome out of proportion to his size. He insults the neighbor's daughter, then takes a heavy hammer, goes over to the neighbor's and beats "large chunks out of the sidewalk and driveway." Juvenile officials will investigate his case, it was promised.

A young waitress who has been in jail before for drunkenness was fined $50 when she entered her plea Wednesday before Solon Lee, city recorder. She allegedly was driver of a car that, the night before, weaved from side to side and almost ran pursuing coppers into a curb. A man and a woman who were with her were fined lesser amounts.

Promotion of Si Simon, in charge of U. S. Marine corps recruiting in this area, from the grade of sergeant to master sergeant was announced today. Sgt. Simon has been here for the past three months. His peacetime residence is in Memphis, Tenn.

Two negro girls, 3 and 4, were awakened from sleep in the juvenile ward of county jail about 1 o'clock this morning and taken by a Dallas constable to Dallas, where they are legal pawns in custody action instituted by their father. Uncertain of what the row is about, they have cried in their cell and protested they "want to stay with mother and aunty, we don't want to go to Dallas." The father, said by officials here to have been awarded the children when their mother defaulted after having been served with a citation ordering her to produce them into a Dallas court, further was alleged not to have contributed to their support since allegedly abandoning them when one was three days old. The mother did not take the children to Dallas bcause she did not have money to make the trip, it was explained.

Fighting In Russia

raine.

Sweeping up more than 60 towns and villages in 24 hours, the Soviet command sent columns racing due west from Kiev on the highway to Zhitomir, southwest along the railway to Zhmerinka and northwest along another railway to Korosten.

Rich booty was gathered by the advancing forces, but the Germans blew up 19 of their tanks and eight big self-propelled guns in one sector. Some 70 guns, 37 tanks and 50 armored cars were captured.

Northwest of Kiev, the Russians forced the Tetarev river and captured Ivankov, 44 miles from the Ukrainian capital and 25 miles west of the Dnieper river. Fifteen hundred Germans were routed.

Youths Steal Car So They Can Attend Game At Amarillo

When Amarillo and Lubbock play football, the custom of the years straightway gets into high gear.

Youngsters clear out for the game, and travel by any conveyance possible.

It used to be possible to ride specials or take private automobiles.

Hundreds would get on the road and use their thumbs to calculated advantage.

War changed all that.

But this morning marked the first report of a stolen automobile figuring into the scheme.

Monroe Williams, of 2139 Nineteenth street, reported to police a few minutes after midnight that his car had been stolen.

Police hearing youngsters were responsible, immediately asked Amarillo police to be on lookout for it.

The car was spotted at the Amarillo city limits. Three Lubbock youths were in it—one of them 16, one 17. The other boy's age was not given in reports to officials here.

Raymond Land, night county jailer, was sent to Amarillo this morning to accept custody of the youths.

He will see the football game before returning.

The three youths won't.

Observing Armistice day, members of Yellowhouse Masonic lodge will gather at the lodge hall on the third floor of the Citizens National bank building Thursday night at 6:30 for conferring of a Master's degree on a service man by an all-service men's degree team, Burl Ham, worshipful master, announced Wednesday morning.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 and conferring of the degree will follow.

Chaplain Randall T. Miller of Lubbock Army Air field will make the principal address of the evening.

All Master Masons are urged to attend the affair, Ham said.

Under sponsorship of the VFW auxiliary, Victory Stars on parade will present two performances, one at 8:15 and the other at 10 o'clock tonight at Lubbock High school auditorium.

Data On Points For Service Men Given

In order for service men on leave to get temporary food rations without the forms usually furnished by the armed services, application for ration points may, in an emergency, be made on forms available at local ration boards, J. Doyle Settle, rationing officer for the Lubbock district Office of Price Administration, announced today.

A service man on leave is expected to apply for his temporary food rations on a form supplied by the armed services, and signed by an authorized officer. He should get this form at the service post when he applies for his leave papers, Settle said.

Settle pointed out that when the alternative form is used, application must be made by the service man in person. If his host wishes to apply for the ration points, only the service form will be accepted by the board.

Dog Near Death From Grieving Is Reunited With Soldier-Master

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11 (AP) — Four months of grieving ended today for Pal, 17-year-old airedale-shepherd when the dog was reunited with its weeping soldier master.

Special Tech. Franklin E. Higgins went immediately to his pet upon arriving in Albany after a 1,300-mile train trip from Camp Crowder, Mo.

The soldier, granted a special furlough on the request of the Red Cross when Pal suffered a stroke Saturday, burst into tears as he picked up and clung to the crying animal. Pal, recognizing him, licked the master's face.

The shaggy black and tan animal which has been dying of grief since the induction of its 22-year-old constant companion, took nourishment and managed a few feeble steps yesterday for the first time since Saturday—almost as if realizing its master was rushing to its side.

ed States' while taking its place on the battlefront and is an indication of the extent to which the British have been pooling their resources with ours so that the needed weapon may be in the hands of that soldier—whatever may be his nationality—who can at the proper moment use it most effectively to defeat our common enemies," he said.

Incomplete Accounting

The figures represent an incomplete accounting. For instance, he said, many supplies and services have been made available by the British to United States forces in North Africa, Sicily and elsewhere for which no report has been received.

Nor do they take into account anticipated exports of raw materials, commodities and foodstuffs for the account of the United States. Previously this country purchased these things, the President said, but the United Kingdom agreed last summer to put them on the basis of reverse lend-lease.

Now, without paying for them, the chief executive said, the United States will get such items as rubber from Ceylon, Trinidad, British Guiana and British Honduras, sisal and pyrethrum from British East Africa, asbestos and chrome from southern Rhodesia, cocoa from British West Africa, tea and coconut oil from Ceylon, and benzol and tar acids from the United Kingdom.

The presidential report was the twelfth to Congress since lend-lease was inaugurated in March, 1941, and it dealt entirely with reverse lend-least from the British commonwealth. It took no direct note of demands originating in Congress for investigations and closer checks on lend-least activities.

Higher Prices Seen On Some Farm Crops

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP) — War Food Administrator Marvin Jones predicted today that because of the rise in wartime costs higher prices may be needed for some farm crops.

In announcing the 1944 farm goals, which call for an all-time record agriculture production, the administrator did not name the crops and said that prices of most farm products are high enough to encourage maximum production.

and captured most of the territory on the south side of that stream along which the Germans had formed the eastern end of their "winter defense line."

Casalanguida, 15 miles inland from the Adriatic, and Roccasicura were taken in the advance.

The American units of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army, in addition to seizing the two hills northwest of Mignano, attacked and drove the Germans from the southeast slopes of another mountain barrier southwest of that town.

Mount Rotondo, only a mile and a half northwest of Mignano, overlooks the valley leading to Cassino, 73 miles southeast of Rome, and was taken after the Americans had broken up preparations for another large German counter-attack west of Venafro. A concentration of mortar and artillery fire falling among the Germans made them disperse.

160 Miles Above Rome

Leghorn, on the west coast some 160 miles above Rome and Pescara, less than 25 miles up the east coast beyond the present advance position of the British Eighth army, both have been bombed frequently from the air since the Allies invaded Italy.

"At Leghorn, the biggest port on the west coast between Naples and Genoa," the Air Force statement continued, "the obsolete cruiser Quanto has been scuttled, probably blocking the harbor entrance, and a 330-foot merchant vessel appears to be scuttled at the outer harbor entrance.

"Two 400-foot merchant vessels and two small vessels have been moved to positions in the southern harbor entrance to act as block ships. The activity of ships in and out of Leghorn has been markedly decreased in the last two weeks."

The statement added that photo reconnaissance also showed that the south quayside at Pescara had been demolished by mining.

(The reference to an enemy evacuation in the air force statement suggested that the Germans, in the case of Leghorn, might fear an Allied amphibious thrust at the northern coast of Italy from Allied-held Corsica. From Bastia it is only 75 airline miles to Leghorn).

Wilson Is Honored

In Washington, President Roosevelt arranged to place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in traditional ceremonies at Arlington National cemetery, but government offices, in contrast to the days of peace, ordered a full working day.

The capital also paid tribute to the memory of the president during the first World war years—Woodrow Wilson—in services arranged at the Washington cathedral.

In London, the few public ceremonies were brief without pageantry or oratory, and newspapers, subscribing to this as a practical measure, emohasized the urgency of smashing the enemy in the next year.

To Forego Observance

Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers ordered all United States forces under his command in Britain to forego all observance and work all the harder to bring an end to this war.

That was the word, too, for American armed forces in all other theaters.

This Armistice day finds some 10,000,000 Americans under arms in an Army and Navy that still is expanding. They are on duty in virtually every continent and sea around the world.

In contrast, on Armistice day, 1918, 4,000,000 had been mobilized—and half were in Europe.

The exciting news of peace that came on Nov. 11, 1918, stilled the guns of a conflict that brought death to 8,538,000 men and wounded 21,219,000. Casualties for this world conflict will not be known exactly until after the new Armistice day, but some estimates place the total already at 25,000,000.

Prayer For Allied Forces Is Fitting

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

As we end in silence the eleventh hour of this Armistice day in honor of the brave men who have died for our country, let us not forget a prayer that strength be given to the living—to the gallant Allied forces which soon will launch their crucial offensives of the war, and to the home-fronts which must not falter in this fateful moment.

The signals are now fairly set for the Allied offensives in both the European and the Asiatic theatres, and the way things are developing we are likely to see them go into action at somewhere near the same time. This doesn't necessarily mean that we are to expect the big shows to open tomorrow, or a week from tomorrow, for it takes much time to prepare for any great operation and especially an amphibious one. However, it can be said that the preliminaries are well advanced.

Simultaneous Assaults

Actually there probably will be not one but several almost simultaneous assaults launched in both Europe and Asia. The idea will be to bedevil the enemy on as many fronts as possible at the same time—to weaken him by dividing his forces. Hitler and Hirohito will be as busy as hound dogs with fleas.

Indications are that when the day for the big invasion of western France arrives the main cross-channel assault will be supported by thrusts at numerous other points along the coasts of France, the low countries and Norway, though some of these will be feints and won't be developed.

An invasion of southern France through the Rhone valley may also be expected, bringing into action the 300,000 or more French soldiers who are waiting feverishly in North Africa for a chance to fight again for their country. A drive into the Balkans is another contingency.

Many Pronged Affair

The offensive against the Japs will be a many pronged affair. Observers generally expect it to develop into a vast pincers movement, with the main claws reaching out for Japan from India in Southeast Asia and from the American strongholds in the southwest and western Pacific.

Thus far Burma has been mentioned most frequently as the main sector for the offensive under Lord Louis Mountbatten from India—the left claw of the pincers. Burma will indeed figure heavily, since it is China's backdoor to the outside world, but it would be a mistake to assume that the opening up to Burma alone would solve all the Allied difficulties.

It's quite on the cards that Mountbatten may carry out other major operations. One drive, for instance, might take the Allied forces across the Malay peninsula and Thailand into French Indo-China.

Broader View Given

Sir Robert Lee Craigie, former British ambassador to Japan, in a speech in London yesterday, gave the broader view to the Mountbatten show. He mentioned not only Burma but Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies.

In any event, the invasion of Burma must be preceded by amphibious operations to clear the Japs at least out of the Andaman islands.

Over in the southwest Pacific the fighting on Bougainville island represents one of the preliminaries to the big drive. This is the drive the Japs are battling without much hope to save their key base of Rabaul to the north.

By Armistice day next year the Allied fortune should be bright. The war in Europe likely will be a thing of the past, and the full might of America and Britain will have then turned on Japan. No man can forecast the length of time it will take that striking-power to crush Nippon, but we can at least believe that, come another November eleventh we shall have put the sign of death on the brow of Japanese militarism even if the war isn't finished.

School's Honor Roll Is Named

Announcement of the names of Senior High school honor roll students featured the observance of national education week in city schools Wednesday.

Another event was the presentation of a Latin-American playlet by pupils in room 206 of Dupre school under direction of Miss Ruby Nell Smith. Participating were Ned Hardin, Joyce Worrell, Jack King, Janice Duncan, Jimmy Richards, Elizabeth Stanley, John R. Nelson, Jan Casady, and Betty Armstrong.

High school honor roll students are those who have made at least one grade of "A" and none below "B."

Billie Puryear, Billy Slagle and Pat Williamson, all made five A's, leading the honor roll, and those making four A's and a B, included Elizabeth Craig, Mary Lois Findley, Sam Henly, Mary Bell Richards and Mike Sellen. James Allen, Coleman Archer, Betty Bomar, Irene Crim, Willa Farris, Billy Masters, Herbert Puryear, Alice Sweet, and Louise Battin, all made four A's.

Ted Forsythe and Zackie Reynolds were the only two students rating three A's and two B's.

Students rating three A's and a B were Ellen Ann Alford, Martha Bucy, Billye Jo Cantrell, Rose Mary Dawkins, Robert Griffin, Patricia Groves, Curry Hope, Elizabeth Howard, Wesley Joosten, Daisy Kilpatrick, Marinelle King, Barbara Leonard, Charles Luling, Gene Malone, Olive Matthews, Hazel Merideth, Jewell Alice Pharr, Norma Grace Reid, Gene Stephens, Jean Van Meter and Joyce Yocum.

Two A and three B students were Charles Kelley and George Wray.

Making two A's and two B's were Billy Adair, Madine Bell, Hermaneh Bray, Nelda Chapman, Margene Fry, Frances Groce, Jeanette Hamilton, Bob Hassell, Don Holt, Lomar Jackson, Richard Kelishy, Jackie Lewis, Russell Logan, Venita McCleskey, Louis Ray Mills, Dwain Parrack, Floyd Rector, Earnestine Snider, Oleta Stewart and Slenna Waldena.

Students making one A and three B's were Pat Allgood, Dorothy Brown, Ralph Bucy, Margy Bullen, Giles Carter, Eleanor Ferguson, E. T. George, Russell Lawrence, Jerry Lemond and Peggy Strickland.

Just Another Day To Fighters In Pacific

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC Allied Headquarters, Nov. 11 (AP)—Heavily engaged in war close to home, Americans and Australians in the southwest Pacific paid little heed to Armistice day.

Soldiers and civilians from Gen. Douglas MacArthur on down went about their business as usual.

American and Australian flags flew from military buildings and on the street civilians paid no attention as the armistice hour of 11 o'clock came and went.

In Anzac memorials throughout the commonwealth, however, tribute was paid to the dead of the first world war in ceremonies attended by high military and government officials.

WLB Chairman Admits Setback

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 (AP) — Chairman William H. Davis of the War Labor board acknowledged today that the coal mine controversy had damaged the board's policy in dealing with strikes, but declared the wage stabilization policy was not impaired and avowed his determination to hold the line against all assaults.

Davis asserted in a press conference statement that the way to close the gap between wages and living costs is to bear down on prices. "Any other course," he said, "would be following a will-o'-the-wisp." He said that the wage stabilization policy "has been firmly maintained and I believe that it will continue to be firmly maintained."

Referring by implication to the board's policy of refusing to consider the demands of employes while they were on strike, Davis' statement said: "The controversy in the coal fields has greatly injured the policy of the War Labor board in dealing with strikes, and I believe it has greatly damaged the American labor movement, but it has not impaired the wage stabilization policy, as all the more thoughtful observers are beginning to point out, and as will become increasingly clear as time goes on.

Not Surrendering Program

"So far as I am concerned, I have not begun to surrender and do not intend to surrender any part of the wage stabilization program. As chairman of the War Labor board I am bound to adhere to and apply that policy, and as a citizen I believe it is essential to the American worker and I have just begun to fight for it."

Davis did not mention directly the negotiations between Secretary of Interior Ickes and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, while the miners were on strike last week. He said that although it would be "foolish to say" that the board's policy of not dealing with strikers has not been damaged, that policy will be maintained.

Davis said that a recent letter of his to Vice President Wallace on wage stabilization had been "widely misunderstood and misapplied." He said the letter pointed out that in the major basic industries "the price of labor, which is the hourly wage, has been held substantially constant since Sept. 15, 1942, while the price of other things which the wage and salary earners buy has not been held so constant.

Deductions Said Erroneous

"This has been taken to mean that I think that those wage rates should now be increased to match the cost of living increase since Sept. 15, 1942. That erroneous deduction should be corrected. In my opinion exactly the opposite course should be followed. Wage rates have been stabilized substantially as of Sept. 15 and should remain stable. Those prices which have not been so well stabilized should be firmly held, and, so far as practicable, brought back to the Sept. 15 level, in my opinion."

Davis told newsmen that in his opinion the increase in the cost of living over the increase in wages was "not a very great difference" and added that even if a wage increase was to be allowed in the basic industries "you are not going to catch up because prices will go up too."

Funeral Set Today For Rev. T. H. Davis

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock today in the Shallowater Methodist church for Rev. T. H. Davis, 84, of Shallowater, who died about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night, in Lubbock General hospital.

Rev. J. E. Peters, pastor, will officiate.

Mr. Davis, a Methodist minister 60 years, who had lived at Shallowater for the last six years, was widely-known throughout the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist church.

The Shallowater chapter of the Masonic lodge will have charge of special graveside services for Mr. Davis, who was a Master Mason. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Survivors include his wife; three daughters, Mrs. George Smallwood of Lubbock, Mrs. L. E. Baker and Mrs. L. B. Rice of Shallowater; eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are under direction of Rix Funeral home.

Dog Who Won Wings Is Reported Missing

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 11. (AP)—Mister, the dog who trained through flying courses and won a pair of wings along with his master, is missing.

Lt. John Michael Conroy of Buffalo, N. Y., now stationed at Peterson Field, reported the famous year-old police dog was seen last near a Colorado Springs hotel.

Mister trained with Conroy at Santa Ana, Calif., Sequoia, Chico and Luke Fields. When Conroy went from Chico to Luke the dog was not permitted to ride with cadets on the bus, but friends chartered a bus for Mister.

Ofter photographed doing his tricks, the dog regularly stood at attention with the cadets when an officer entered the barracks.

Eden Praises Parley Work

LONDON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, making a report on the Moscow conference to the House of Commons, declared today the meeting had "exceeded my hope" and had "brought a new warmth and new confidence into all our dealings with our Soviet and American friends."

The dapper foreign secretary, wearing a red Armistice day poppy in his button hole, received loud applause from the Commons and then proceeded with a description of the results achieved at the tripartite parley.

Achievements Said Solid

"The actual achievements of the conference seem to me to be solid enough," he appraised, "but it was the friendly atmosphere of mutual interest and mutual confidence in which all these conferences took place which, to me, will always make the Moscow conference memorable."

He said a large measure of credit for success of the meetings must go to Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov for his handling of the long and complicated agenda and added that Secretary of State Cordell Hull must have felt the results justified "his very gallant venture in making this long flight" from the United States."

Of measures which were taken to shorten the war, Eden declared, "the results of our discussions can only be made public as they develop at the expense of the common enemy. I have confidence that the development will be found generally satisfactory by the members of all parts of the House."

A three-volume work was written by D'Aguesseau, one-time French chancellor, using only the moments he waited for dinner.

Why You May Be HARD of HEARING

The position tells why thousands are HARD OF HEARING, annoyed by BUZZING, RINGING, HISSING HEAD NOISES, CLOGGED UP FEELING IN EARS, DIZZINESS.

Hard impacted wax plugging up ear canals, and pressing on sensitive ear drums keeps out sound waves, makes your hearing bad.

To remove this wax obstruction that interferes with normal hearing and may cause severe irritation use Orotone Ear Drops as directed. They contain an ingredient especially recommended for this purpose.

A. M. Bestehenen, Newark, N. J., writes: "Before using Orotone Ear Drops, I was so deafened that I could not hear the clock tick. After using Orotone, I can now hear the clock tick with both ears."

You will be amazed how clearly and distinctly you HEAR again when wax obstruction is removed. Get O-R-O-T-O-N-E at any druggist.

If You Lose Your Rationing Coupons—

Board Outlines Procedure In Getting Duplicate Book

Persons who lose their ration books henceforth will be required to advertise their loss three times in the press, before they can obtain new books.

This requirement was announced Wednesday following a conference of Lubbock county rationing board officials, and applies to gasoline and sugar-coffee rationing books and to other rationing books which may be issued in the future.

They explained the procedure as follows: When a book is lost, the first thing the owner should do is to insert a newspaper advertisement. After the ad has run three times, the newspaper supplies the owner with an affidavit attesting to proof of publication. He should take this with a clipping of the ad to the rationing board office, 1215 Texas Avenue, where he must make application and a sworn statement that the book has been lost.

Officials emphasized that it will be needless to go first to the rationing board, that the initial act should be the insertion of the newspaper advertisement.

The plan is designed, they said, to aid the holder in locating his book and to protect him from use of the book by some unauthorized person.

INSERT A "3 DAY AD" IN THE LOST & FOUND COLUMN

A Small INEXPENSIVE "10 Word Ad" in the Lost and Found Column of the Avalanche-Journal, published for three days, will comply with the ruling now in force. Here is all it will cost to place such an ad in the Avalanche-Journal—

10 WORD AD PUBLISHED FOR— 3 Days WILL COST YOU ONLY— $1.10

IF Within THREE DAYS your RATION BOOK is not returned, the Avalanche-Journal will furnish you with an "Affidavit of Publication" This signed and notorized statement contains a copy of the ad, and certifies that you have complied with the Rationing Board's advertising regulation. Just attach it to your application for replacement.
