800 Hospital Patients Are Burned to Death In Beds

By The Associated Press.

HILO, T. H., Sept. 5—The Kilauea volcano resumed activity today with molten lava bursting forth with loud reports, according to messages received here today from Thomas Boles, superintendent of the Kilauea National park. The lava, according to the message, was hurled from 100 to 150 feet in the air, and streamed down the cone of the volcano.

Patients Burn

By The Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—An Eastern news agency report from Haranomachi today stated 800 patients in the imperial university hospital at Tokio, were burned to death and that the imperial palace had been opened to refugees.

The report said some large buildings had escaped damage including the department of justice, navy, supreme court and house of representatives buildings and the Tokio prefectural office and the imperial hotel.

The buildings reported totally destroyed include the bank of Japan, the Mitzui bank, the Yasuda bank and the Third bank.

Princesses Nagato Kuni and Hiroko Kanin and Prince Kanina are reported safe.

Bodies Fill Canals.

TOKIO, Sept. 5.—Yokohama is a charnel house, the canals and water front are filled with dead and the stench from decomposing bodies is unbearable, according to refugees arriving from the stricken city today. It is estimated that more than 200 foreigners lost their lives there.

Most of the dead and injured among the Yokohama foreigners were those who were caught by the earthquake and fire while shopping in the downtown districts. Thousands of the terror stricken natives drowned in the canals when seeking safety from the raging inferno which followed the tremblor.

The earthquake left great gaps in the pavements and wrecked most of the buildings. Fire, which started in numerous places at once, completed the destruction. The American and British residents of Yokohama, who escaped the disaster, are gathering the bodies of foreign victims for burial at sea.

As far is known only one American lost his life in Tokio. He was W. T. Rinne of the General Electric company, who was killed in the collapse of the company's building.

The remnants of the native population of the ruined city are gathered under the bluffs, without food and shelter. Their condition is pitiable.

Americans who lost their lives in Yokohama include Captain MacDonald of the Grand hotel, a Mrs. Loot and son, recent arrivals, and Max D. Kirjasoff, American consul.

To add to the dangers, infuense crevices opened in the streets in some places isolating entire blocks and making it absolutely impossible for those within these sections to find safety from the fire.

Texan Safe.

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 5.—A message received here today by R. Walter Davis, Sutton county ranchman, announced the safety of his son, Walace Davis of Sonora, junior journalist in the University of Texas, who was a reporter on the Japanese Advertiser at Tokio at the time of the earthquake and subsequent tidal waves and fire.

Davis reached Japan early in Aug. with W. D. Hornaday, Austin, university publicity director. Both were last heard from in a letter dated Aug. 8, when Hornaday planned to leave Tokio for Shanghai, China. He presumably followed this schedule as Davis' message did not mention him. The Davis family was returning to Sonora from a three months' automobile tour to the northwest when they received the message radioed to Manila, cabled to San Francisco and thence by telegraph here.

LOCAL JAPANESE TALKS OF QUAKE

Recalls Experience in Earthquake When He Lived In Japan

Hirosaburoo Lida, 49, a native of Kiyosumacki, State of Aichiken, Japan, who resides at the St. James hotel here, and who is believed to be the only Japanese living in the city, was living in his native town during the earthquake disaster of 1801, in which many thousands of the Japanese perished. In Kiyosumacki 73 people lost their lives during the earthquake. The town at that time was composed of approximately 700 houses.

The earthquake of 1801 was not as great a disaster as the present one, but to those in the area of destruction, it was a great disaster, according to Iida.

For centuries the Japanese have experienced earthquakes, and most of the houses are of a construction which allows them to sway during earthquakes.

Iida has visited both Tokio and Yokohoma and remembers many of the places said to have been destroyed in the two cities. He explained that the streets were narrow and teeming with people at all hours, and that a panic would spread rapidly. The residences are made of a substance resembling fiber and are usually easily destroyed by the elements.

Iida's home was approximately 200 miles from the capital. Through trains running about every two hours. Kiyosumacki is in the rice growing district. He does not believe the town was destroyed by the earthquake.

Before coming to the United States Iida was a rice broker in Nagoija, a city of more than 200,000. Nagoija is 20 miles from Kiyosumacki, and is 200 miles from Tokio.

Iida came to the United States in 1907. He first made his home in San Francisco, and has been a resident of Denver, San Antonio, El Paso, Childress, Fort Worth and other cities. He came to Wichita Falls in 1918 during the oil boom. Iida is said to have made several small fortunes in oil ventures.

Iida's relatives are in the drug business at Kiyosumacki.

INDICTED OIL OPERATOR CAUGHT

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 5.—Frank McDowell, former president of the Graham, (Texas) National bank, who is under federal indictment alleging conspiracy and embezzlement of more than $60,000 of the bank's funds, has been apprehended by department of justice agents in Los Angeles, Cal., it was said today at the offices of the department here.

McDowell, who was prominent as an oil operator prior to his connection with the Graham bank, was indicted by a federal grand jury after he had left Graham in Feb. 1921. He was apprehended by department of justice agents several months later as a fugitive from justice, and was released under $10,000. His case was to have been tried at Wichita Falls last May, agents said, but he failed to appear and his bond was forfeited by the court. Judge J. C. Wilson, sitting at Wichita Falls, directed that he be apprehended or released on $5,000 bond to appear for trial.

His apprehension in Los Angeles followed a nation wide search.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 5.—Negotiations for purchase of Valparaiso university at Valparaiso, Ind., by the ku klux klan have been dropped, it was announced today by Milton Elrod, editor of "The Fiery Cross," a klan publication. Technicalities in the charter and deeds of the university will prevent the klan from assuming control of the institution, Mr. Elrod said. He added that klan officials will take no further action toward acquiring the institution.

YANKEE FLIERS DESTROY SHIPS OF OLDER NAVY

Proud Ships of "Fighting Bob" Fleet Succumb To Air Bombs

STARTS SCRAPPING

Virginia and New Jersey Added to Host of Ships In "Graveyard"

By The Associated Press.

ABOARD U. S. ARMY TRANSPORT FT. MIHIEL, OFF CAPE HATTERAS, N. C., Sept. 5.—A spectacular show, staged by army airmen over this famous graveyard of ships, marked the beginning today of the scrapping of American war craft, required under the naval limitation treaty.

The ships to be dtstroyed were once the proud Virginia and New Jersey, which made up a part of the American battle fleet which "Fighting Bob" Evans led in the memorable cruise around the world in 1907.

The success attending the efforts of the army fliers from Langley field, Virginia, who, operating under perfect weather conditions, were stimulating a defense of American shores from an enemy attack, was greater than that with which they met in 1921 in the sinking of a German warship turned over to the United States after the world war. Improvement of instruments and personnel in the two years was demonstrated clearly. It required just 30 minutes for the sinking of the Virginia, eight planes flying at an altitude of 3000 feet accounting for her with 13 1100 pound bombs.

The New Jersey proved more difficult of destruction, however. After two attacks on the New Jersey, which left her still afloat, but leaking, the assault on the Virginia began at 11:54 a. m. The fourth bomb released struck the hull at the aft turret and converted her superstructure into a tangled mass of steel. Both smokestacks and cage masts, three anti-aircraft guns and part of the armor plate was torn from the aft turret.

Before that, two bombs had been put overboard close alongside and the ship began to list. Other bombs fell close to the starboard side and apparently ripped open the ship's hull as she went down to starboard, rapidly turned bottom-side up at 12:20 p. m. and disappeared bow up four minutes later.

The New Jersey anchored half a mile away from Diamond Shoals light ship still was afloat, but was listing badly to port as a result of the dropping of six 1001 and two 1000 pound bombs close beside her hull. Few direct hits were scored on her, and her superstructure was only slightly damaged.

Primarily the maneuvers today were not for the purpose of sinking the two obsolete battleships. They were designed to show first the ability of land planes to defend the coast from enemy attacks and points far distant from their permanent base, and second to demonstrate that accurate bombing was possible from an altitude in excess of 10,000 feet.

The two battleships attacked today were the first to be designed and built after the lessons learned in the Spanish-American war. They were laid down in 1902 and completed in 1916 at a cost of more than $6,000,000 each. They were of 14,949 tons displacement and 435 feet long overall. They carried four 12-inch and eight eight-inch rifles in six turrets two forward, two aft, and two amidships.

New Pinchot Conference Results in Miners Accepting 10 Per Cent Raise

"CHECK-OFF" MODIFIED

Operators Tentatively Abandon Demand For Arbitration

By The Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 5—Representatives of anthracite mine operators and officers of the miners' union today agreed in conference with Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, to material changes in positions which they have hitherto held, and which have resulted in suspension of mining. The operators group tentatively abandoned their demand for arbitrations which the union as unyieldingly opposed.

Miners union officials definitely accepted the ten per cent wage increase which Governor Pinchot tendered in an effort to compromise the dispute but asked more than that amount for day laborers employed in and around the mines. They did, however, agree to modify the demand for a "check-off" system of union due collection, by limiting the amount which could be collected by it from individual miners.

RUNS AMUCK AND SHOOTS TWO DEAD

By The Associated Press.

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va., Sept. 5.—Two persons are dead and three are seriously injured as the result of William Shane's running amuck at Farmington, near here, this afternoon. Going to the house where his wife is said to have resided since they had separated, Shanes shot his daughter, Mrs. Lettie Fletcher, through the heart. When Mayor A. C. Fisher attempted to arrest him, he shot the mayor three times. Then going to his home he fired promiscuously a number of shots from his porch. One of the bullets struck Mrs. May Ramage, standing on the porch of a house nearby. Shanes then killed himself after trying without result to set off a charge of dynamite in his home. Mayor Fisher and Mrs. Ramage are in a critical condition in the local hospital.

Rangers Or Police Fail To Discover Missing Minister

By International News Service.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 5.—Fear that Rev. J. T. Rengro had been slain by his enemies because of his activity in lecturing for the ku klux klan, was expressed by the missing lecturer's relatives who arrived here today to assist in the search for him.

Renfro disappeared from this city while here for a short rest on Aug. 22. No fear was felt for him until he failed to keep an engagement for a lecture. Shortly after this three handbags were found on the bank of the San Antonio river, which were identified as his property.

Word was also received from Sinton telling of death threats Renfro had received from time to time because of his klan activities. Relatives claim that he was followed to San Antonio and killed.

Police aided by state rangers, stationed here are searching the city in an effort to either locate Renfro or find his body. Police officials express the belief that he has met with foul play.

ITALIAN DEFY FOLLOWED BY CONSTERNATION

Desperate Fight Being Made By Delegates To Hold Ground

ITALY MAY LEAVE

Much Disappointment Felt Over Apparent Failure Of First Trial

By The Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 5.—The superstructure of the league of nations of which an American president was the chief architect, is imperilled, and in the British view the very foundations of present-day Europe are shaken.

Such, briefly, is a summary of the situation at Geneva tonight because of Italy's refusal to recognize the right of the league of nations to intervene in her dispute with Greece.

Developments today are regarded generally as bringing the ague fight into the open, with England on one side, insisting upon respect for the league and Italy refusing to abide by covenants to which she had subscribed.

"Stand by the league guns to defend the league," was the slogan often heard tonight. Several of the delegates added: "Let Italy leave; the league can continue without her."

Consternation and a deal of sadness prevailed everywhere, for it is generally, although reluctantly, admitted that the league has been unable to withstand the first great test of its practical use as machinery for regulating difficulties between nations, since one of its leading members has declined to concede its competence. Hence there is a growing sentiment among the smaller countries that, if the league covenant applies to them, it apparently does not bind the great powers of Euro.

All the more do they feel convinced of this because the proportions which the Italian and Greek conflict has taken are deemed by them to be unjustified by the original cause of the controversy, serious and regrettable as was the murder of the Italian officers.

The hope is not abandoned; there are stout hearts among the statesmen of the half hundred countries represented at Geneva, who, believes in the league and in the ideal of conciliation and arbitration which the league voices, refuse to accept that action of any member, powerful or weak, can succeed in ruining the league as a power for good.

Signor Salandra's entire argument today was that the question arising from the assassination of the Italian mission should be settled by the council of ambassadors, and not by the league, because it was the ambassadorial body which had appointed the mission to fix the frontier between Albania and Greece. That body, the living organism of the great peace conference, was empowered with the execution of the terms of the treaties.

The head of the Italian delegation accused Greece of cleverly seeking to escape from her responsibilites, and of diverting world attention from the murder of the Italian officers to Italy's seizure of Corfu, by denouncing this seizure as an act of dangerous aggression.

It was not Signor Salandra, but Mussolini, who seemed to be addressing the council of the league today at its dramatic session. As the good natured appearing former premier read his fateful message, the crowded chamber thought to hear in fancy not the voice of Salandra, but that of his facisti chief and leader, who has suddenly loomed on the stage of

ALLIES STATUS IN TURKEY UP

Question As To What Will Be Done About Diplomats There

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Discussions are in progress among the allied governments respecting thef uture status of their diplomatic representatives in Turkey. The question to be decided is whether Great Britain, France and Italy, as well as the United States, will continue their present embassies in Constantinople, or reduce them to the basis of legations.

With the abolition of the capitulations and the reduction of allied foreign interests generally in Turkey, it is held in some governmental circles that Turkey's size and population, which is little more than 12,000,000 scarcely justify the continued maintenance of full allied ambassadoral staffs there.

In the case of the United States, the question doubtless will be decided when Turkey ratifies the new treaty with America. At that time a successor to Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, the present United States commissioner in Turkey, who is vested with full diplomatic power, will come up for discussion.

Whatever the allies and the United States do regarding the character of the diplomatic establishments in Turkey, it seems clear that they have no intention of removing their staffs to Angora, for there is a complete lack of housing facilities in that primitive little Anatolian town. In addition, the diplomats would suffer considerably because of their isloation, as the seat of the nationalist government is not well equipped with railroad and telegraph facilities.

Great Britain will probably follow the example of the United States by appointing a diplomatic or consular agent at Angora, who will report to British diplomatic headquarters at Constantinople. The fact that the American representative at Angora now lives with his wife in a freight car at the railroad station because of his inability to obtain a house fit to live in, shows how serious is the problem faced by foreigners in getting appropriate accommodations.

Busy August In London.

August—usually dull in London—has been a month of remarksbe activity this year. The leisure classes left town as is their custom, but the influx of an unprecedented number of Americans and provincials from the northern continental countries and from Scotland kept the theatres and dance halls busy. The West End shops had the best August in their history. The good weather helped brighten the last weeks of summer in the British metropolis.

The merchants and railways early in the season got together and decided to boom London as an admirable place for a holiday. Apparently the provincials have found it so, for daily they have been packing every London bound train.

Accidents Don't Stop Them.

Recent airplane accidents on the English channel route between Paris and London failed to deter Americans from enjoying the novelty of traveling by air. Statistics just compiled show that in spite of frequent mishaps and forced landings the Yankee visitors constitute by far the greatest percentage of passengers on the British and French planes.

One aviation official explains this by saying that the Americans have a more adventurous spirit and are willing and ready to "take a chance," whereas the Briton or the Frenchman prefers the more prosaic train and boat.

The British rank second in the number of their nationals who travel by air, while the French, who might be expected to patronize heavily an industry so actively promoted by their governments, are a poor third.

The principal attractions to Americans in flying seem to be, first that important factor speed; second, avoidance of the annoying change from train to boat which is inevitable in the ordinary mode of travel between Paris and London; third, freedom from customs delays; fourth, the fact that flying gives them a thrill and something to talk about at home.

Yes, They Have No Potatoes Over in Germany

German policeman protecting vender selling potatoes in market square in Berlin.

Local shoppers who find the crowds on market day a bit heavy and prices high should look at his photo. This crowd, carrying baskets fulls of worthless marks is almost mobbing a vender in a Berlin market place in an effort to purchase at fabulour price a potato.

The recent action of the French aviation companies in reducing the fare for the flights in the two cases from $30 to $20 has resulted in even greater patronage by American business men and tourists. For a long time the visitors from the United States have shown a marked preference for British machines, and it was to overcome this that the French authorities decided to make the ten dollar reduction. This has made the air journey only slightly more expensive than the trip by rail and channel steamer. The British concerns still charge the old rate, and in fair weather their machines are crowded to capacity.

GAS COMPANY HELPS CUSTOMER SAVE GAS

By The Associated Press.

GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 5.—Gas companies generally seek to aid consumers of gas in efforts to reduce their gas bills by preventing waste of gas. An educational work by the Galveston Gas company is typical of similar efforts by most of the large gas companies. The Galveston Tribune tells of the booklets and personal work by gas company men to inform customers of the economies that may be worked out and says:

"This course has been taken by the gas company on the theory that waste is inherently wrong. It is true of course, that if customers waste gas the company gets paid for it, but the fact still remains that waste has occurred.

"That the campaign of the Galveston Gas company for economy in the use of gas has brought about results is indicated in the following facts.

"During July of 1922 the company had 6,997 customers. Sales for that month to these customers amounted to 17,619,000 cubic feet of gas.

"During July of 1923 the company had 7,104 customers. Sales for that month to these customers amounted to 17,414,000 cubic feet of gas.

"These figures show that during July of 1923 the company had 107 more customers than were on the books during the same month of 1922 and that sales of gas were 205,000 cubic feet less for the month just past than during the corresponding month of last year.

"Officials of the company hold that this saving of gas has been the result of the company's policy of showing customers how to economize by getting the best results possible from the gas burned."

ITALIAN DEFI

Europe. No state would wish to belong to the league, read Signor Salandra if membership meant renunciation of the right to defend its national dignity. Italy had not menaced world peace and there was not sufficient reason for the application of the articles of the covenant cited by Greece which were founded on the supposition that danger of war existed. Until the ambassadorial body pronounced judgement, he contended, any action by the league was out of place, because of the league's evident incompetency.

M. Politis remarked that the Greek government repudiated energetically any allegation that it was morally or materially responsible for the odious crime committed on its territory. Greece, he declared, did not wish to evade the prerogatives of the council of ambassadors, but on the contrary had asked that the council pursue an investigation. Italy, however, in bombarding Corfu had created a situation which justified Greece in appealing to the league.

M. Politis insisted that in his suggestion of yesterday that the league council appoint a neutral commission to inquire into the crime Greece was using common sense, and trying to be fair all around, for his proposed league commission could proceed with its work in conjunction with the ambassadors' council. Not only Greece, but Italy, was bound under the circumstances to refer the dispute to the league of nations; both in letter and spirit the covenant of the league demanded it. If the council of the league accepted the Italian point of view, then, said M. Politi, it was tantamount to ruin of the past of the league.

Lord Robert Cecil's quietly voiced warning that if the treaty of Versailles of which the covenant of the league is an integral part, was to be disregarded, the re-organization of Europe was endangered, has caused a profound impression and has served to emphasize the gravity of the political crisis into which Europe is plunged. The council chamber was crowded with visitors, including Americans, and Lord Robert's warning statement was received with vigorous handclapping.

"Once again," said a Swiss newspaper tonight, "events demonstrate that we can impose peace only by war. So long as the leage of nations has no powerful army, it will only keep from fighting those who are incapable of employing with advantage the eternal argument."

Without taking action, the council adjourned, in order to permit the members to study the Italian statement. It is expected that another meeting will be held within a day or two.

TEACHERS CAN ALWAYS LEARN

Shely Raps Instructors Who Believe Have Reached Education Limit

T. H. Shelby, University of Texas, educational department, head of the district teacher's institute now in session at the First Baptist church, Ninth and Burnett streets, who was the principal speaker at the general assembly meeting, during the morning bitterly denounced teachers and instructors who believed they had acquired a sufficient amount of education and believed they could no longer be taught.

"The time will never come when one person will know everything. No matter how well educated a person may be there is more to learn. The most well educated men we have in the world are seeking additional knowledge.

"When one receives the degrees and goes forth to teach others there will be many problems confronting them that we couldn't find in the schools and colleges. Individuals are different, the things that appeal to one will not appeal to others. The things we believe others may not believe. Our opinions are quite different upon many subjects and we can be taught by one another."

The program was carried out according to schedule, and with promptness and precision. After the general assembly meeting the teachers went to the various sections.

In the primary section Miss Frankie Smith of the Junior high school gave demonstrations on music contests for first and second grade students. The section is being supervised by Kate Haynes, Alamo school.

C. F. Walker, superintendent Henrietta schools, delievered a splendid address on "Suppression of Genius." Mr. Walker reviewed some of the great men of history, men of genius. He expressed the thought that there were many geniuses attending schools whose talents were b eneging MyTH whose talents were being suppressed. Such students being in most instances declared "queer" or their talents not receiving the proper development.

Superintendents of various schools met during the session before the noon hour. The discussions being mainly the methods of conducting the management of schools, teachers meetings, teachers reports, and the advancement of ideals in schools.

The principal address of the afternoon was delivered by W. L. Hughes Agricultural & Mechanical college educational department, whose talk of the rural schools and their advancement was appreciated by visitors.

R. T. Ellis, secretary Texas State Teachers' association was a visitor He will speak to the delegates today.

W. S. Wilson, superintendent of schools at Archer City spoke on the 'Variability of Grades.'

Primary teachers are praising the art exhibit of children' work which was assembled by Jennie Roberson, art supervisor of city schools. The exhibit is declared by teachers to be the best ever assembled in the state.

RED CROSS GETS FIRST JAP GIFT

The gift of $100 in five $20 bills which a man gave to Judge R. V. Gwinn at the courthouse Wednesday morning to be turned over to the Red Cross chapter with instructions it be used for Japanese relief was the first donation received for this cause, acording to Mrs. T. B. Smith, secretary of the local chapter.

According to Mrs. Smith the Rtd Cross chapters of America will send $5,000,000 to Japan to be spent in relief work by the Red Cross over there. This amount will be divided among the various chapters of America. Mrs. Smith said any further contributions received would be applied to the quota of this chapter.

Child-birth

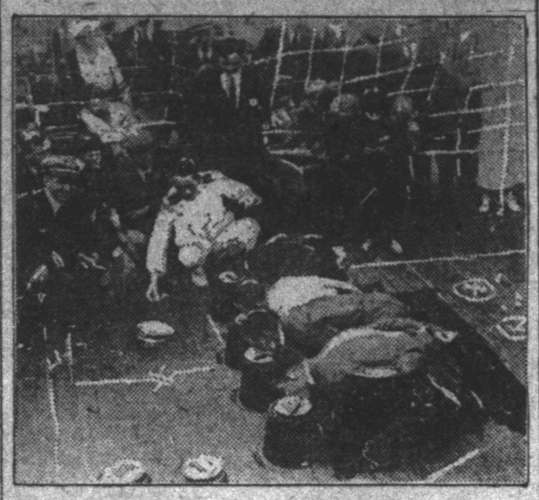

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Harriman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse, and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., Bk 44, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Novel Pie Eating Contest Bring Joy To Passengers on U. S. Liner America.

Pie Eating Under Difficulties.

New York, The average person is thoroughly familiar with the number of "freak races" with which time is passed and spectators are entertained at picnics. The sack race, potato race, thread and needle race, have been indulged in by the great majority of people at various times. These races are popular forms of amusement when deck games are in sway on the steamships of the United States Lines, which ply the North Atlantic. They are being rapidly superseded, however, by new games on the S. S. America. Many are the inventions of Second Steward George Grinnel.

Grinnel, who is a Naval Reserve veteran, devised most of the games he is introducing on ship board, while in service. When the ordinary forms of recreation palled, Grinnel would get some of his cronies together and get up games to pass the time and amuse the onlookers. Among these was his now famous pie-eating race, which is bound to keep its witnesses in a state bordering on hysteria.

Several persons are entered in the contest, which is held on deck. A rug is placed on the deck, on which the contestants kneel. Before each is placed an upturned bucket, on which is a plate with a wedge of pie. At a given signal the entrants in the pie-eating race must place their hands behind their backs, bend over and start, or at least try to start, eating the pie before them. Then the fun begins.

Urged on by the bystanders, the contestants vainly endeavor to bite at the dainty. This is made extremely difficult because of the position they are in, which makes it very hard to keep from falling forward, as the arms cannot be used to aid the balance. One person will finally manage to get a bite of pie and lift his head to chew it. His appearance is invariably greeted with roars of laughter, for the pie used is huckleberry, which is usually liberally smeared about the contestant's face.

As the buckets are so low that it is practically impossible for the "racers" to maintain their equilibrium, the ravages caused by the pie filling to the countenances of the contestants is considerable, for invariably some one will fall face downward. Fun of a slapstick nature it is true, but a game which is proving more popular every trip of the America. Only occasionally does anyone manage to eat the larger part of his pie, under the contest conditions, and to the winner goes a whole pie, but not of huckleberry.

There are many other novel games, played aboard the America in which the majority of passengers join. Among these is one for women only, to demonstrate the old belief that the average woman cannot drive a nail straight.

Each contestant is given a regulation carpenter's hammer, a long nail and a big block of wood. It is necessary, to win this contest, to drive the nail completely into the wood in three strokes of the hammer. This may seem easy, but very few women are able to do it, though practically all on board the America try whenever the game is played. Many men fall at this contest, too, and it has been noticed that the "sterner sex" hits its collective thumb more and raises a greater fuss as a result than do the women.

Another game is "Are You There?" In this the entrants, blindfolded, crawl about on deck, endeavoring with long paper wands, with which they are armed, to strike their opponent, calling out with each blow, "Are you there?" More often than not the two persons playing the game are crawling away from each other, wildly striking the deck as they cry "Are you there?" to the atmosphere, to the great delight of the spectators.

Push ball is also played on board the steamship America. In this a large number of passengers may take part at once. A big net is erected on the after deck to prevent the ball from going overboard, and for long periods teams struggle here for the pushball championship of the big liner.

The Spring and Summer days on the ocean are conducive to outdoor sports and every effort is made on the America, as on the other steamships of the United States Lines fleet, to see that passengers have the opportunity to indulge in their favorite exercises.

ALL TEXAS BANKS TO HAVE CHANCE AT STATE FUNDS

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 5.—Every bank in Texas will be given opportunity to bid for deposit of state funds during the coming year, Treasurer C. V. Terrell announced Monday. He began mailing out blanks on which banks will submit application for funds, and data concerning the bonds to be made in order to qualify, and facts concerning the banks' capital stock and deposits, as basis for limit of deposits.

The interest rate will be four per cent on all funds, as fixed by the rate-making board Monday.

Withdrawals will be "horizontal" or pro-rated among all banks, instead of being drawn from the banks paying the least interest, as heretofore, under competitive interest-rate bidding for money.

SPARKMAN ENTERS STATE OB RACE

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 5.—Representative Robert E. Sparkman of Italy, Ellis county, will enter the race for state commissioner of agriculture next year, his friends at the capitol learned Monday. Mr. Sparkman will run for the state office whether or not Commissioner George B. Terrell is a candidate for re-election, it was learned.

Mr. Sparkman served as a member of the house committee on agriculture. He was author of the "chicken stealing bill," which would have assessed penitentiary sentences for conviction of the theft of chickens turkeys or pigeons.

THREE CITIES BID FOR POSTAL MEET

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 5.—Delegates from New York, Kansas City and Nashville, will bid for the 1923 convention tomorrow when the final session of the 13th biennial convention of the National Federation of Postoffice Employes opens at El Paso. Delegations from cities desiring the convention have come to El Paso with invitations from business organizations and administrations of their respective cities in an effort to get the meeting. New York, it was indicated, was favored by many delegates.

The convention in El Paso will close with election of officers. Although the meeting is scheduled to end tomorrow, it is possible that part of Friday may be consumed in finishing business of the convention. Today's sessions were devoted to the consideration of resolutions. Postoffice clerks endorsed and proposed a three-cent basis for first class mail rates. They also adopted a resolution seeking an increase of practically 40 per cent in salary scales for various clerk grades. It was voted to increase the entrance minimum from $1,400 to $2,000 and in salaries for special clerks grades were placed at a maximum of $2,600. Resolutions will be presented at the next session of congress.

NOTHING TO FEAR.

In an intelligent review of the financial, agricultural and oil situations, Frank Kell, substantial pioneer citizen of Wichita Falls, told the members of the Technical club Tuesday night, that "the country is on a sound basis," and that we have nothing to fear.

There is much consolation to those of us who are weak-hearted in what Mr. Kell had to say. We are much given to panicy feelings and meaningless raving when oil drops or things go wrong in a business which affects us. But, Frank Kell, who is intimately in touch with things commercial and financial, tell us our fears are unfounded, and all men who know him knows that he can not be far wrong. His success was not built that way.

Frank Kell is no idle conversationalist who deals in vagaries and worthless prophecies. He is the type of man who has played a leading part in making Wichita Falls what it is today. His vision, and the vision of such men as Frank Kell builds communities—is tempered with keen judgment. He does not belong to the type who go swirling around the country telling us what is the matter with us; he does not paint Italian sunsets that are not real.

And in plain, vigorous language, shorn of the flowers of oratory, he has delivered a message to the people of this community which they well may heed. Included in the subjects treated by Mr. Kell were the oil situation and Wichita Falls' great irrigation project. It is unreasonable for us to expect the oil market to remain the same month in and month out, he told the Technical club. Other markets fluctuate—why shouldn't the oil market see its ups and downs?

Sure enough, why shouldn't it? And isn't it a fact that the basis of the general complaint about the price of oil being cut, is just that? That we have somehow gotten the idea that the oil market should be stationary.

In the irrigation project, Mr. Kell sees relief for the farmer of this section. It will increase the value of his land and the size of his crop, if he takes advantage of it.

Referring to immigration, Frank Kell takes the view that immigration, while it should be restricted, should not be such that it keeps the desirable foreigner from our shores.

Summing up, he finds the country on a sound basis, and his findings are backed by logic which is indisputable. We can not have everything as we want it, but any man who will let his investigation into the standing of his nation, carry him to foreign shores, is sure to arrive at the conclusion that we have nothing to fear; that conscientious endeavor in this land of ours is sure of its reward. And it is well now and then to have men like Frank Kell remind us that it is so.

A JOB FOR MAGNUS.

John Bull has another hard luck story. Thousands of tons of German potatoes have been dumped on the English markets, causing a serious loss to English growers. German dumping has forced the price of potatoes down to $27.50 a ton, whereas the growers say they are losing money unless they are able to get $30 a ton. If Magnus Johnson were over there he would insist that it was the province of parliament to fix the price of potatoes. But just now Magnus is looking after the American wheat business.

WHY IGNORE TEXAS?

Atlanta is in the field for the next democratic national convention. It has been sixty-three years since a national party convention has met in one of the cotton states. It resulted in a split and a divided democracy and paved the way for the election of Abraham Lincoln. If Atlanta captures the democratic convention will history repeat itself?

Speaking of cotton states if the fleecy staple has anything to do with it, why shouldn't the national convention come to Texas? Texas has the largest electoral vote of any southern state. Texas produces a third of the cotton crop. Texas produces five or six millions of pounds of wool every year.

Texas is the former home of Col. E. M. House, Albert Sidney Burleson, T. W. Gregory, Cyclone Davis and a whole host of lesser lights. Texas democrats say they nominated Woodrow Wilson at Baltimore. They prevented the defeat for renomination of Thomas Riley Marshall at St. Louis, where Joseph Weldon Bailey and James E. Furguson saved the scalp of the Hoosier.

Texas is the home of Col. Thomas B. Love who failed to nominate McAdoo at San Francisco but is very insistant that he is going to nominate that gentleman wherever the convention may be held next year. Why should the democratic convention go to Georgia? It is true that it was the birth place of William Gibbs McAdo. It is also true that in 1920 at San Francisco the McAdoo delegates from other states voted to seat the contesting delegates from Georgia.

This happned; the regulars were thrown out and those who claimed their seats were admitted to the convention. Then what followed? Every mother's son voted against the nomination of McAdoo. They landed in the Cox column without delay after A. Mitchell Palmer's little house of cards had tumbled.

BLACK PANTHERS CAGED

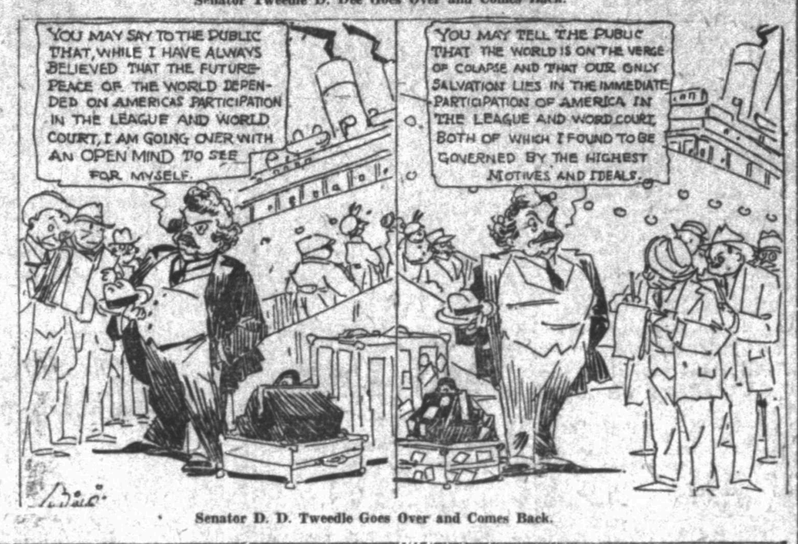

And now the Black Panthers are to be caged. They are the Philadelphia owners of an oil refining company. They gathered in $1,250,000 of stock holders money and then they fled to California. Now they are to serve terms in a federal penitentiary. The Black Panthers went out for all in sight. Now Uncle Sam will see to it that they sing low in a penal thicket for years to come. It is never possible to fool Uncle sam for any great length of time. He may limp along with a leaden heel at times, but he gets there just the same.

THE BRIGHT SHAWL

"At least repeat what you have heard to Escobar; is it Andres or Vincente?"

The name of Andres' brother was spoken so unexpectedly that Charles Abbott momentarily lost his composure. "Vincente!" he exclaimed awkwardly. "Was that the other brother? But he is dead!"

"Not yet," she replied. It is planned for tonight, after dinner, when he is smoking in the little upper salon."

Agitated, at a loss for further protest, he rose. He must go at once to the Escobars, warn them.

"I'll be going," he said abruptly.

"Naturally," she returned; "but what about your coming back? That will be more difficult, and yet it is necessary. Ah, yes, you must pretend to be in love with me; it will be hard, but what else is there? A dancer has always a number of youths at her loose heels."

"You will be laughed at, of course: the officers, Santacilla and Gaspar, will be unbearable. You will have to play the infatuated fool, and send me bouquets of gardenias and three-cornered notes, and give me money."

"I'll be going," he repeated. She asked, with a breath of witsfulness, if he could manage a touch of affection for her? Charles Abbott replied that this was not the hour for such questions. "The young," she sighed, "are glacial." But that, she proceeded, was exactly what drew her to them. "I promise never to kiss you again, or, if I must, solely as the mark of brotherhood. And now, go back to—Andres."

She backed away from him, superb in the shawl, and again she was rayed in the superlative beauty of her first appearance. The woman was lost in the dancer, the flesh in the vision, the art.

"You could be a goddess," Charles told her, "the shrine of thousands of hearts."

The declaration of his entire secret was on his lips, but, after all, it wasn't his. There was a possibility that she had lied about Vincente, and at this second he might be dead, the volunteers waiting for him, Charles Abbott, below.

CHAPTER XII.
The Patriot's End.

Charles found the Escobars family seated in the sombreness of drawn curtains, and all of them with their faces marked with tears. Surprised by his abrupt appearance, they showed no emotion other than a dull indifference.

"My dear Abbott, Vincente, our brother, has made the last sacrifice possible to men,' said Andres. "He died at noon, sitting in his chair, as a result of the fever."

This was tragic, but, with a deeper knowledge of the dilemma facing them, Charles was actually impatient. "What," he demanded, "are you goihg to do with the body?"

"It is placed in dignity on a couch, and we have sent to Matanzas for a priest we can trust. He'll be here early in the morning, and then—and then—we must forget our love!"

"You must do that now, without a minute's loss." Charles urged them. "You can wait for no priest! The Spanish government knows he is here: tonight, after dinner, he was to have been taken. The house will be stood on its roof, every inch investigated. You spoke once, of Narcissa—what might horribly swallow you all. Well, it has almost come!"

Andres' grip tightehed; he was pale but quiet. "You are right," he asserted; "but how did you find this out, and save us?"

That, Charles replied, was of no importance now. What could they do with Vincente's body.

It was no longer a question of the dignity, the blessing of the dead, but of the salvation of the living! Vincente's corpse revered a few minutes before, now became a hideous menace.

Undoubtdly soldiers were watching, guarding the house; a number of men in nondescript clothes went lounging persistently under the rows of Indian laurels below.

A hundred practical objections immediately rose to confront every proposal. Carmitta and Narcisa were sent from the room, and a discussion was in progress of the possobility of cutting the body into minute fragments.

"If that is decided on," Domingo Escobar declared, "I must do it; my darling and heroic son would approve; he would wish me to be his butcher."

Andres, harder more mature, than the elder stopped such expressions of sentiment. It would make such a mess, he reminded them; and then, how far could the servants, the hysterical negroes, be depended upon? Thy would soon discover the progress of such an operation

Charles suggested fire, but the Spanish stoves, with shallow cups for charcoal, were useless, and the ovens were cold; it would create suspicion to set them to burning so late in the day.

"Since we can't get rid of it," Charles declared, "we must accept it. The body is there, but whose is it? Did you send a servant to Matanzas?"

Two servants had gone, a Jamaican negro, huge and black, totally unlike Vincente, and a Cuban newly in the city, a mestizo, brought in from the Escobars' small sugar estate near Madriga.

Andres at once appropriated Charles' idea. Their mother and Narcisa, he proclaimed, must go out as usual for their afternoon drive, and he would secure some clothes that belonged to Juan Roman, the mestizo. "What," Charles Abbott asked, "shall we say caused this servant's death?"

Andres faced him coldly. "This pig of a countryman I killed," he said. "The Spanish will understand that. They have killed a multitude of us, for nothing, for neglect in polishing the back of a boot. It will be more difficult with the servants,—they are used to kindness, consideration, here, but they, too, in other places, have had their lesson. And I was drunk."

In spite of Charles' insistence, he was not permitted to assist in the carrying out of the details that followed. He sat, walked about, alone in the drawing room. After an interminable wait he heard the report, faint and muffled by walls, of a pistol, and then running feet passed the door. Domingo appeared first, a glass of brandy in his shaking hand:

"He has gone, in a sack, to the thrown into the sea———the blood bid his face. Ah, Jesu! But it was successful—a corporal looked, with the hundred doblons I pressed into his hand. He kicked the body three times, thrust a knife into it, and said that there, anyhow, was one less Cuban."

CHAPTER XIII.
The "Lover."

Nothing considering the aspirations of Charles Abbott, could have been more ironical than the phase of life he entered upon the acceptance of La Clavel into the party of independence. The entire success of this dangerous arrangement depended on his ability, to create an impression, where he was concerned, of unrelieved vapidity.

He was supposed to be infatuated with the dancer and be lingered, not wholly sober about the fashionable resorts, sent her flowers and composed, in a cold distaste innumerable short variations on the theme of a fluid and fatuous attachment.

In reality, he had been repelled by the actuality of La Clavel: he had an unconquerable aversion for her room with its tumbled vivid finery, the powdered scents mingling with the odors of her body and of the brandy always standing in a glass beside her. Yet the discrepancy between the woman herself and the vision she bred continued to puzzle and disconcert him.

She had an insatiable appetite for compliment; and sincere in his admiration for her impersonal aspect, Charles was content to gratify her: except when, in spite of her promise not to, she kissed him ardently. This never failed to annoy him, and afterwards she would offer him a mock apology. It detracted he felt, from his dignity assaulted, insidiously the elevation of his purpose in life.

He cherished a dislike, part cultivated and part subconscious, for women. All his thoughts and emotions were celibate, chaste. Such a scene had just ended. La Clavel was at her glass, busy with a rouge pot and a scrap of soft leather: and Charles was standing stiffly by the door. She had used, in describing him, a Spanish word, which, he had an idea, bore a close resemblance to "prig."

He knew, carefully watched all her various dependents: Calixto Sola, the hairdresser, too volatile for any convictions, but because of a spiteful injured disposition, not to be trusted. Then there was La Clavel's maid, Jobaba, a girl with an alabaster beauty indefinitely tainted by Africa. Jobaba was, Charles, decided, the most corrupt being he had ever encountered. Her life away from the St. Louis was incredibly, wildly debauched. Among other things, she danced, as the mulata the rumba, an indescrible affair; and she had connections with the rites of brujeria, the degraded black magic of the Carable in Cuba. She was beautiful with a perfection of grace, except for the direct gaze of her brown eyes, which revealed an opacity, a dullness, like mud. She reported, the dancer told Charles, every possible act and speeche of her mistress to Santacilla.

The chambermaid who attended La Clavel's room had lost a lover with the rebel forces of Gen. Agramonte, and, was of use to Charles.

While his duty was, on the surface, direct and easy, it was complicated by the need for constant watchfulness, a wit in countless small details. Supporting, well enough, the boredom of his public role, he had to manage with an unfailing dexterity the transmission of the information that came to the insurrectionists through La Clavel

If he runs on that kind of a platform, he is sure to be defeated.

"The secret of success in marriage" we read "is to reveal some new trait of character every now and then." Our view is, from a man's standpoint, that the average he-man has so many different traits that his marriage will be more successful if he will supress some of them.

The same thing might be said of women. But, after all these years, we are not going to be foolish enough to start an argument about women and marriage. There really isn't anything to argue about.

We can't say that we exactly blame Dempsey for demanding so much money for his fistic encounters. That is, viewing it from Dempsey's standpoint. He knows that one of these days some bright young chap with tin ears and wallop like a Missouri mule is going to ring down the curtain on him.

So Dempsey is going to get his while the getting is good, and as long as a gang of sport lovers are willing to pay the price, why should he worry?

For Baby's First Clothes

One mother says:

Most young mothers make their first baby's clothing too small. It is best to buy year-old patterns. A safe rule to follow in cutting an armhole is to make it large enough to slip the hand through easily. Necks should measure at least nine inches—if too large at first, they are easily drawn up with tape. Many a baby is cross and restless through being trussed up in tight clothing.

More Truth Than Poetry

INEXPLICABLE

Time was when the job of a Romanoff czar
Was rated exceedingly high;
He travelled about in a gold-mounted car,
And drank the best French extra dry.
Whenever by envious knaves he was shot,
Or the murderous Nihilists treed him,
His nearest relatives would earnestly plot
To pick out the man to succeed him.

So greatly esteemed was the Romanoff throne,
So much was the crown in demand,
That the monarch dared not walk the Prospekts alone.
And slept with his pistol at hand.
Grand dukes were all searched who dropped in for a call,
To the end that no trouble be started.
And weapons were checked on a rack in the hall,
Where they stayed till the callers departed.

And then fell a time when no moujik or serf
Who for dinner must tighten his belt,
Would exchange his rude cottage or lowly thatched turf,
For the house where the Romanoff's dwelt.
Nobody dared say he was heir to the crown,
Lest the bolshevik soldiery snatch him,
And rush him away to the handiest town,
Where at dawn they would deftly despatch him.

But now the grand dukes are engaged in a fight—
Quite safely beyond Russia's borders—
They're scheming to prove which has got the best right
To wear the high Romanoff orders.
This singular action has left me nonplussed,
As to why they should plot I am hazy;
They must either believe in a bolshevist bust,
Or else the whole bunch has gone crazy!

WHAT TODAY MEANS

By MARY BLAKE

VIRGO

Use diplomacy and control your tongue in domestic affairs today. There is imminent danger of family trouble, which may develop into a serious conflict unless you repress your feelings and thoughts. Do not do anything today which can be put off until tomorrow.

A child born today will be steady, perservering and brilliant in classes, but apt to follow the letter rather than the spirit of the law.

If today is the anniversary of your birth, you have a personality that will always interest others, whether it delights or irritates them. Yours is an enigmatical nature, and you have no intention of solving the riddle, as you love the dramatic demands of a complexity of motives and situations in which you are both hero and villian.

Eternally, you are stern and rigid puritan, and somewhat tyrannical in disposition. You could spend a great deal of your time, if not all of it, moralizing to others and criticizing their conduct.

But there are times when you fling away all pretenses and live jealously and even riotiously. Of course, this usually happens outside your habitual environment, and it is just as well that it does. After one of these rare periods you will be genuinely conscience-stricken and live righteously until the mood grips you the next time. But both in gaiety and remorse you are obviously unconscious and uncritical of your own actions, because you do not wish to be.

Mentally, you are eager and alert, but unanalytical. You have no curiosity about the fundamental varieties of life.

You are kind, generous and thoughtful when it amuses you to be, but vengeful and unforgiving when you are irritated. However, it must be admitted that these periods of rancor do not last very long, and what you thought in wrath you often utter in jest.

Emotionally, you are erratic and sudden in your likes and dislikes. You are at times affectionate and responsive, even with people of whom you intellectually disapprove. At other times you are capable of liking those whom you admire most.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

William T. Armitage, bishop of Wisconsin.

William H. H. Miller, lawyer.

Jane Addams, social reformer.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg. Eighth and Indiana

Into What Size Farms Should The Surplus Lands on the Irrigation Project Be Divided?

SOILING DAIRY COWS.

Green feed is most desirable for dairy cows where maximum milk production is desired. A good pasture supplies this need, but it has been found that if green stuff is cut and fed to the animals that an acre of ground will support more stock than if they are allowed to gather the feed themselves.

This method of feeding is called "soiling" and crops grown for this express purpose are called "soiling crops."

Almost any crop that can be cut for hay may be used for soiling, as well as other crops that are seldom used for hay making.

Rye, wheat, oats, corn, the grain and sweet sorghums, field peas, alfalfa, clover, the millets, and many others are used for soiling.

Where land is valuable such crops are often planted so as to mature in rotation and thus the animals are fed green stuffs during the greater part of the season without resorting to the use of silage or pasturage.

While soiling allows the keeping of a greater number of animals to the acre, yet it adds considerably to the labor involved in keeping a dairy herd and this must be taken into account.

Root crops are often fed instead of soiling crops, but their great bulk and low feeding values make them much less valuable.

Civic League Plans Booth For T-O Fair.

Discussion of plans for the booth to be conducted during the Texas-Oklahoma fair featured the business session of the Civic league held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the library.

Mrs. Charles Fogenphol was appointed general chairman and she will be assisted in completing the arrangements for the booth by Mesdames Joseph Mayfield and Frank Kelm.

Two shifts will work during the fair, the selection of league members to conduct the work to be made at a special committee meeting to be held this week.

The clean-up campaign preceding the fair to be conducted by the sanitary and city beautiful departments of the league who will co-operate with Dr. A. H. Douglas, was discussed, and it was decided that the yards, school and church lawns will be inspected the last week in September following which the prizes offered by the city beautiful department will be awarded.

Mrs. T. R. Brunson, chairman of the citizenship department outlined her entire program for the year which will include some of the best speakers to be procured, also a course in public speaking to be conducted by Mrs. Abbott.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. B. F. Johnson, and a good attendance was reported.

The meeting was preceded by a session of the executive board at 10:30 o'clock and at the noon hour the board served a dainty plate luncheon.

During the business session plans were made to care for the girl the auxiliary has adopted and who they are training for a missionary nurse, and for boxes to be sent to Buckner's orphan home. Splendid reports were also heard from circles which met during the summer.

Mrs. Ada Moore led the devotionals, taking for her subject, "Preparation," and by Mrs. Knox Findley who spoke on "The Church as an Industry," declaring it to be the largest industry in the world today.

Excellent and inspirational talks were made by Misses Alma Lee Joiner, Emma Carter and Mrs. Homer McGregor. Miss Joiner spoke for her subject, "Evangelism in the Local Church;" Miss Carter spoke on "The Golden Hour of Church Evangelism" and Mrs. McGregor's subject was "Young Reserves." Mrs. Webb talked on "Church Courtesy" and a general discussion followed.

Prayers for the afflicted Japanese offered by Mrs. O. L. Powers and W. H. Davis concluded the session.

Au Revoir.

Now that the summer is coming to a close, and "good-bys" are the most frequent things that happen throughout the day it will not be amiss to give them a little consideration.

It is a peculiar thing that no matter how fond we are of a person, the parting becomes tedious if it is strung out too long.

If some one escorts us to the station, and we have a long wait for the train, we will find ourselves longing to read the magazine we were saving for the trip.

Human nature is about the same in all of us—and if we feel that way—he must, also.

The ideal way to say, "good-bye" is to cut it off sharp and crisp—don't leave any frayed edges.

Nothing is more effective than a graceful exit. Something he will remember with a long sigh, as he retraces his way from the station without you.

Rather have him catch mbis breath at the suddenness of your departure than sigh relief that "at last" you have gone.

With Russell Gore Writes On In Collaboration

EAST OF SUEZ

Pau Lin is her Chinese name. But this girl is not Chinese. So the Pau Lin which her father, Lin Fo, gave her in the cradle, with the consent of Pau Tsu, her mother, has become Pauline.

The keys of Pauline's car are clutched in her slender fingers. Her lusterless black hair laid on the small arm crooked on the desk, is about all that can be seen of her. But as she weeps the fingers clutching the keys are alternately revealed and concealed in the rhythm of grief. A wrist watch peeps out and then disappears.

The straw hat flung on one of Uncle Sam's irreproachable Spanish roan leather chairs and the Georgette crepe of Pauline's frock are those of an American girl, a Phi Beta Kappa in her college class of 1922, born here, bred here and now weeping because if she goes back there she can never return to the land where a Chinese woman may clutch the keys of her own six-cylinder car.

Pauline is of the new world. But her husband, Fou Wang, is of the old. An "indemnity student" at the state university. So many sent each year, you will recall, by the Chinese government, in gratitude for American remission of Boxer damages. They come for six years and then must return.

Pauline married Fou Wang in his first year at college. Now the United States commissioner is fingering in silence strips of colored paper which show that Fou Wang has bought passage for himself and Pau Lin to China. A honeymoon, he has gravely explained. His mother, and his mother's mother are waiting to clasp his bride to their bosoms.

"But don't you see," the commissioner explains once more, "that your wife is Chinese now. She married you before the law was altered to permit American-born girls wedding aliens to retain their citizenship. Take her back now and she can not be with you during the four years more you will study here. Pauline must stay with your mother and grandmother."

Fou Wang is of the old China. He has paid the passage money. All plans have been made. It is deeply regrettable. But is it his fault? And, besides what greater joy for an affectionate and respectful wife than to be clasped—and permanently detained—in the bosoms of elder Chinese women who will take the nonsense out of her during his four years of absence. Fou Wang says none of this. It is implicit in the courteous shrug of his shoulders as the commissioner ceases to speak. Fou Wang does not need to speak. Ten thousand years of little speech have made his shoulders eloquent.

Pauline has dried her slanting eyes. She is smoothing the folds from her georgette crepe frock. She has retrieved the floppy Fifth avenue straw hat. The faintest touch of deference is in the presentation of the keys of her own car by this American-born daughter of the rich restaurateur to the penniless student who is taking her to a China as strange to her as it is to you or to me. One suspects that he has disapproved of her carrying the keys.

Pauline has consulted her vanity case. She is powderin, her nose. She smiles a little, rather wanly. The faintest touch of the imperative is in his suggestion that, the interview over, they must do some shopping for the journey east of Suez. The faintest touch of the American girl's reveration to the ancient status is in the impulsiveness with which she thrusts her check book on him.

Another dab of powder on the nose and Pauline rises to face her fate. She has come to this office Pauline. She leaves it Pau Lin—a Pau Lin who dreamed that ten thousand year ago she was a Phi Beta Kappa x x x

Her husband goes out first.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Cream Cocoanut Pie—Three eggs one-half cup sugar, one and one-half cups milk, one cup grated cocoanut, two tablespoons confectioners' sugar, pinch of salt. Line pie tin with crust; beat yolks of eggs, add milk, the half cup of sugar, and cocoanut. Put in pie and bake. Beat whites of eggs stiff, add the two tablespoons of confectioners' sugar, cover pie and brown in oven.

SOME HOT WEATHER DESERTS

Coffee Ice Cream—Two cans condensed milk, one-half pint cream, one pint strong cold coffee, two quarts milk. Very little if any sugar is required. Smooth and fine. Leave out coffee if desired add another pint of milk and flavor with vanilla. Ice should be chopped very fine for freezing cream.

Ice Cream Surprise—Boil one cup water and one-half cup sugar three minutes. In separate dish mix three tablespoons grated chocolate and one teaspoon arrowroot with two-thirds cup of milk; add this to the first mixture; stir and boil three minutes, take from fire and add one teaspoon vanilla. Serve hot on slices of ice cream.

Pineappel Sauce for Ice Cream—Put a cupful of fresh pineapple juice in a saucepan with a cupful of granulated sugar and cook for ten minutes. Add the beaten yolks of two eggs, and whip with an egg-beater over boiling water until foamy. Take from the fire, add the whipped whites of eggs and serve hot with ice cream. If the pineapple syrup is used, omit the sugar.

Berry Sherbet—Wash enough berries to make one pint of juice, add one pint (two cups) of sugar; after the sugar is dissolved add one pint of water and the juice of a lemon. Press through coarse lace or cheesecloth and freeze. All fruit sherbets may be made by the foregoing directions.

SUGGESTIONS

Lace For Undergarments—Valenciennes lace is made of cotton thread. If the mesh is round the lace is a German val. If it is diamond shape it is a French val.

Yarn Book-Marks—To make a very inexpensive and attractive bookmark requires but a piece of ribbon the length desired and a bit of yarn. This book mark is one of the things that the yarn, in and out stitch down the can be made from the scrap bag. Run sides of the ribbon. Make a yarn doll about one to one and a half inches long and attach to one end of the book mark. On the other end put a light steel or wooden paper knife, a pencil or if it be for a man, a cigar cutter. For sorority or fraternity houses, the color of the organization can be used.

Heart and Home Problems Solved

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man, engaged to an girl and crazy about another. Next door to us there is a girl who has come to live with her grandpare s because her own father and mother have separated. Naturally I see quite a bit of her in a neighborly way, but I have not taken her anywhere because it would not be fair to the girl I had expected to marry.

For three months I have tried to get over caring for the neighbor girl, but I find it impossible. I have tried to put her out of my mind and be faithful to my sweetheart, but it seems useless. The worst of it is that now my sweetheart bores me and I no longer enjoy her company.

I have almost decided that I cannot marry her. Would you advise me to tell her I no longer love her as I did? Or do you think I ought to be faithful to my word and marry her whether I love her or not?

FICKLE.

I never advise marriage without love. Probably you had better tell the girl that you do not love her as you thought you did, and therefore you release her from the engagement and forget about you. Such a thing is a disagreeable matter and ought to teach you to be more cautious next time and not become engaged unless you are very sure of your love. Betrothal is a most serious affair and should not be gone into lightly.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a daughter eighteen years old who for three years has teased her father and me to let her have her hair bobbed. We have not approved of bobbed hair and have refused to give our consent. Lately we have been talking it over and we are afraid we have been wrong in denying her a thing which she wants so much.

Do you think bobbed hair will go out of style soon and therefore it would be foolish to give our consent now?

MARY'S MOTHER.

Bobbed hair shows no signs of going out of style. Many have let their hair grow, but on the other hand many are bobbing their hair this year who have not done so before. It seems to me you are quite right in deciding to let your daughter do a thing which she desires so very much.

WEAK, RUN DOWN AND AILING

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Relief When Other Medicines Failed

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I was weak and run-down and had trouble with my side. I had been taking medicine for a long time and nothing seemed to do me any good. My husband went to the drug store and he said to the clerk, 'I want the best medicine you have for women's troubles.' He gave him a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me. In a short time I was able to do my housework, and now I am not only able to do every bit of that and washing and ironing, but I help my husband at the store."—Mrs. L. K. MYERS, 1409 E. 14th St., Winston-Salem, N. C.

SCIENCE ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained And Improved — Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The triumph of scientific pharmacy is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach, and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab on the tongue at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Genuine Calotabs are sold only in trade-marked packages, price 10c and 35c. Your druggist offers to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—Adv.

Appetite Gone?

A tempting, delicious looking meal—all the choicest morsels from a well stocked pantry. The fragrant aroma of all these good things failing to put a keen edge on your appetite—failing to arouse, in any degree, a hardy relish for the food so attractively placed before you. Why?

Scores of men and women are faced with the same misfortune. After a day of toil—when they are tired—when good things to eat should be ravishly sought to recharge their vitality and fit them for play time—their stomachs turn. They are worn down, played out. Food has no appeal. To them it is sickening. The aroma of appetising things nauseates them.

Red blood cells are missing. Red blood which should be coursing through your veins strengthening your vitality—adding to your strength—keeping you healthy and fit—is not to be found.

S. S. S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. What use is an automobile without a battery? What advantage is a dynamo without electricity? Your body is a human dynamo. Your blood cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. Weakened blood cells make you like the storage battery with dry cells—power is lacking—energy gone—productive qualities at the lowest ebb. S. S. S. supplies the red blood cells—the spark that recharges your system.

Mr. James Chaloupka, Sherman School, Chillicothe, Ohio, writes:

"I feel like a new man after taking S. S. S. It gave me a better appetite and cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads."

Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S. S. S.—the great blood purifier. Give nature a helping hand. Get back the lost appetite—the missing vitality—the keen, sparkling eyes—that look of determination. The best way to start back over the road to well being is with S. S. S. Nerves will become stronger. S. S. S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor, and a more "up and going" appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all leading drug stores. Try a bottle and see for yourself. The large size bottle is more economical. Get one today.

Wheeler Hurls Great Game To Beat Cats, 3-1

PANTHERS GET THREE HITS OFF RIPPER AND BUT ONE IS HONEST TO GOODNESS BLOW

Dallas Locker Gets Eight Assists Which Is Probably a League Record and None Were Easy; Sam Ross Twirls Good Ball Game But Not Good Enough.

BY BILLIE SMITH.

Wheeler the Ripper held the league leading Panthers to three measly blows yesterday, while the Spudders got to Lefty Sam Ross for the sum of 10 hits, which when totaled gave the locals a 3 to 1 victory over the Cats.

Of the three hits the Cats obtained off Wheeler only one was a real blow. A scratch hit coupled by Cecil Coombs' two base muff on Clarence Kraft's easy fly gave the visitors their only run of the game. Up till the fifth inning Wheeler had held the Cats runless and hitless, the side being retired in order.

The first blow the Cats registered was a very doubtful one. Moore hit a hot one through Barrett's legs and according to the be judgment of the scorers the Cat's burly catcher was credited with a single. The second hit, the only clean blow the Cats secured during the game was a single by Hoffman to right, while in the ninth Calvo beat out a very scratchy sort of hit to Barrett.

Locker Sets Record.

Dallas Locker set what is probably a Texas League record for assists for a first baseman. He handled eight assists and some of them were difficult to get to. The long boy went after everything that came in his direction and some that didn't. Once or twice he went over in front of Barrett to pick up grounders.

Rip Wheeler, as a result of Locker's sensational fielding accepted five putouts, which is quite a good day's work for a box man.

The game was one of the fastest played here this season. It took just one hour and 20 minutes to complete the contest. Usually the Cats and Spudders take more than two hours to play a ball game, but in the last two games fast time has been made.

Ross Also Good.

Sam Ross, who acts in the capacity of a relief hurler for Atz's "will be" champions, pitched a creditable game, holding the Spudders to three runs. However, Ross was aided by good fielding on the part of Panther infielders. Twice, double plays cut down threatened rallies. Ross whiffed six Spudde batsmen.

The Panther hurler looked good in the opener, as Bescher and Coombs, the first two batters up were retired on strikes, while Weiss popped out to Moore.

Bobby Tanner opened the second round with a double left, but was caught at third trying to reach the bag on Barrett's grounder to Tavener. Barrett moved up on Berger's grounder to second, and scored on Art Weiss' double to the left field fence.

The Spudders added one more in the third and enough to cinch the game. Bischoff singled to right and was sacrificed to second by Wheeler. Bischoff caught Ross and Moore napping and stole third. Bescher slipped a single by third, scoring Bischoff.

Incidentally George Bischoff had a perfect day at bat. He went up three times and collected two singles and a double.

Cecil Coombs let Kraft get to second in the fifth by dropping his easy fly in center. Kraft moved up to third on Hoffman's infield out, and scored on Moore's hit through Barrett at second. That was the only time a Cat had reached first or any other base, and Calvo was the only other Cat to get as far as second.

Bischoff and Wheeler, both registered singles in the fifth, but the rally was cut short when Bescher lined into a double play, second to first. Bischoff's last hit, a double, came in the seventh.

A single by Bescher to left opened the eighth and paved the way for the last Spudder score. Coombs walked, and on Weiss' infield hit to Ross, which he beat out, Bescher scored, when Kraft dropped the throw to first.

After Ross had whiffed in the ninth Calvo scratched a single to second, Sears walked, the only one issued by Wheeler, but Edington hit a hot liner to Coombs in center, the latter doubling Sears at first.

NEAR PERFECT RIP!

HOOVER TO MEET ALL TITLE CONTESTANTS

DULUTH, Minn.—Although the definite date and the number of challengers for the Philadelphia gold challenge cup race here in September are yet undecided, Walter M. Hoover, holder of the cup which is emblematic of the world's singles sculling title, is taking no chances on his condition.

The champion, engaged in one of his strenuous training programs, is featuring long rows to return him to the form which he hopes to display in his defense of the trophy. A fifteen-mile row twice a day is the usual course for the champion.

Hoover is hopeful that Edward Maguire, new national champion, will challenge in time to qualify for the coming race. Maguire, a Buffalo policeman, who acquired his sculling title at the recent national regatta at Baltimore, was quoted by Duluth Boat Club rowing officials as saying that he probably would challenge Hoover if he could get another leave of absence.

In addition to Hilton Belyea, former Canadian champion, and Maguire, Hoover hopes such scullers as Granville Gude, Washington, D. C., and W. E. Garrett Gilmore, Philadelphia, Canadian champion, will challenge. The champion insists that all aspirants for his title be given an opportunity to enter the coming event.

Curing Your Golf Troubles
By Jim Barnes

Dear Mr. Barnes:

I have been playing golf a little more than a year, and am well past middle age, though my muscles are still very supple for one of my years. I would like your advice on the following points: How far back should I take my club on the drive? Is it essential to keep the left arm absolutely straight at the top of the swing? Should I get better results from an open or a square stance?

G. K.

Answer

Considering your age and the fact that you are late in beginning the game, my recommendation to you is to try no more than a three-quarter swing—that is, to have the club but slightly beyound the perpendicular at the top of the back swing, and you may find that you get better results by shortening it even below that. You can hardly hope to develop a loose, free swing, and will have to do most of the work with the arms and hands. Where this is true it isn't necessary to carry the club even to the perpendicular.

It is advisable to keep the left arm as straight as you comfortably can. The length of the backswing will have much to do with that. If you use no more than a half swing, you can keep the left arm straight. Or, in other words, when you have carried the club back as far as you can without bending the left elbow, that is far enough.

If you are inclined to be a bit stout, you will probably find a slightly open stance better suited to you. With a short back swing, you won't need to do very much pivoting, and a somewhat open stance will enable you to follow around with the shoulders and body better so that you finish the stroke with the shoulder facing fairly well in line to the hole, as they should be.

(Jim Barnes will suggest a remedy for your golf faults. Write him care of the sport editor, enclosing stamped envelope if you want a personal reply.)

BIG FOOTBALL GAMES AT TEXAS STATE FAIR

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 5.—The big athletic stadium at the fair grounds will be the scene of at least four major caliber football games during the state fair of Texas, Dallas, Oct. 13-28 this year. In sequence as to dates the four games to be played during the fair are:

Saturday, Oct. 13.—Opening day: A. & M. College of Texas vs. Sewanee.
Tuesday, Oct. 16: S. M. U., Dallas, vs. Missouri School of Mines.
Friday, Oct. 19: Grubbs Vocational School vs. Wesley College.
Saturday, Oct. 20: University of Texas vs. Vanderbilt.

The A. & M.-Sewanee and the Texas vs. Vanderbilt games will of course be the outstanding contests of the state fair football season, and it is expected at least 1,000 students from A. & M. will come to Dallas on special trains.

ST. PAUL RETAINS LEAD BY DIVIDING 2 GAMES

By The Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 5.—By dividing a double header today with Kansas City, St. Paul retained leadership in the American Association race by a margin of two games. The veteran Charlie Hall pitched the Saints to a 8 to 3 win in the first game, while in the second timely clouts gave the Blues victory, 9 to 3.

Prison Clothing Plants Proposed By Governor Neff

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 5.—Proposal to loan machinery and other necessary equipment free of charge to the state for establishing a state garment manufacture at the state prison, the products of which would be used in state institutions, was made to Governor Neff today by a committee representing the Texas Garment Manufacturers' association. The committee protested against a proposed contract for prison labor with a private concern.

It was announced by the committee, headed by Carl Pool, president of the state association, that a movement to prevent carrying out any contract with private concerns would be inaugurated in the courts if such contracts are closed.

The manufacturers' proposal is a proposed to name a committee from its organization to assist the prison commission and state officials in instituting the garment manufacture.

Governor Neff expressed no opinion on the proposal, the committee said, and did not agree to present the proposal to the prison commission.

The manufacturers proposal is a new turn in the controversy over prison labor, the subject of an investigation by the last legislature. Members of the committee said they had been reliably informed that the prison commission is giving consideration to a new labor contract.

Suicide Pact

Takeo Arishima and Mrs. Akiako Hatano.

Japan today is in the throes of the greatest scandal in years. Takeo Arishima, most prominent Japanese novelist, and Mrs. Akiko Hatano, also prominent in literary circles, are dead. Both were married. Their deaths are the result of a suicide pact because they realized the hopelessness of their love affair.

Take It Or Leave It

By BILLIE SMITH

Today will be the last appearance of the league's champions here this season. Jake Atz will pitch either Joe Pate or Lefty Johns, while manager Berger may give Dick Morgan, a righthander recently secured from the Panhandle-Pecos league, a chance. Morgan arrived in the Spudderville Tuesday.

Rip Wheeler was well on the way to a no-hit game yesterday till Barrett failed to make connections with Moore's hot grounder in the fifth. The scorers decided that Barrett wasn't supposed to handle the ball anyway so gave Moore a hit. However, in the eighth Dutch Hoffman hit one to right that was a clean blow. The only other one of the Panthers secured was in the ninth by Cuba's own Jack Calvo, and it was about as scratchy as the one that Moore hit.

Dallas Locker, although supposed to be playing first played all the way from home plate to second yesterday. He ran up to grab easy hit rollers and several times went over in front of Barrett to take grounders out of his hand. Locker's sensational playing around the bag made fans forget that Hooks Cotter was out, and reminded them of "Ace" Elliott. First is Locker's natural position anyway, as he had played there more than any place else till he came to the Spudders.

Locker's performance of eight assists and 12 putouts in a single game is probably a Texas league record. Billy Bee, veteran sports writer on the Fort Worth Star Telegram says for all he knows it is a league record, if not a world's record.

As a result of Locker's activities Rip Wheeler was credited with five putouts, being forced to cover the initial bag just that many times. 'Twas quite a bit of work for the Ripper in one day.

Buddy Tanner was forced to do a little elevating to get Stump Edington's hot liner down to third in the opening round. It robbed Edington of a double or a triple.

Because of the fact that Goldie Rapp has received so much publicity during the past two or three years fans are prone to ride him when he makes a bobble or fails to slap out a hit every time he comes to bat. Some fan had something to say about every move Rapp made yesterday.

Down at Baylor university, the 1922 Southwestern football champions, Coach Frank D. Bridges has mailed out a letter to his athletes who are to report to him soon, that reads like this: "Dear Champions, 'Beat A. & M. and Get Texas' will be our motto for the coming season." Coach Bridges won the distinction of being only coach in the Southwestern conference to win two championships in one year. He brought the title to his school in both football and baseball.

However, Texas A. & M. and Arkansas loom up as the two most formidable championship contenders. The Aggies lost but few letter men and have a strong freshman squad to draw from, and the same speaks for Arkansas. Baylor lost nine first string men by graduation. Texas will probably have a strong team but being under a new coaching system they are not expected to make a showing like the Aggies or the Razorbacks will. S. M. U. must also be counted in, for Ray Morrison has gathered together a goodly number of grid stars.

CHAMPION PUTS IN DAY OF HARD WORK

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Displaying astonishing speed and ring cunning, Jack Dempsey today started his final week of training in preparation for the defense of his title against Luis Angel Firpo. He engaged in six furious rounds of boxing in addition to tugging at the chest weight, shadow boxing and peppering the punching bags for four rounds.

The champion, refreshed from his lay-off yesterday, was eager for work and his trio of sparring partners suffered a severe pummelling. Dempsey mixed speed with defensive tactics, stepping around his opponents with the speed of a lightweight, and forcing the pace with characteristic aggressiveness. When he finished the 10-round workout he was dripping with perspiration, but breathing normally, indicating that his wind is perfect.

JAPS TO IMPROVE ROADS FO RAUTOS

TOKIO.—Japan is carrying out a great scheme of road improvement, despite the opposition of landowners who have caused suspension of the construction of the new Tokio-Yokohama automobile road, and the difficulties caused by yearly heavy rains.

The government has in hand at present the widening of the old Tokaido road, over which the Daimyos used to travel from the western provinces to the Shogun's court at Yedo, now Tokio, and which extends from the capital to Kayoto. This road, which for miles is lined by great trees and crosses the Hakone mountains, is being widened and substantial stone and concrete bridges are replacing the old wooden structures.

In the time the road will make one of the finest drives in the East, through one of the most picturesque sections of Japan, touching Kodzu, a famous seaside resort; Odawara, another seaside city; Miyanoshita, well known to American visitors to Japan and Hakone Lake, where there is an Imperial Palace.

Second Game Is Called In 4th on Darkness With Rookie Hurling

By The Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Sept. 5.—Beaumont took the first game of a doubleheader with Houston today 11-0. The second was called at the end of the fourth inning with Houston leading 5-0. The Buffs rallied in the late innings, pounding Eberhard diligently, but were stopped short of victory. Pence, a recent addition to the Buff staff, performed well with a wet ball in the second game, allowing but a single hit in four rounds. The Exporters close their home season tomorrow. Score:

FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Football practice in earnest started Monday when the new coach L. W. Houtchens, took charge. Forty men are out for the team. Houtchens won his letter in football for two years at T. C. U., Fort Worth, and seems to be handling his men well. Graham High is striving to get the district championship this year, despite the fact that she was knocked out last year by failing to register with the league on time.

Luis Angel Firpo Of Royal Descent

By The Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 5.—Luis Angel Firpo is a direct descendant of the Italian nobility of the 12th century.

Shortly before he went to the dog-park this afternoon for a sparring session in which he all but knocked out three of his helpmates, Luis received an official-looking sheepskin, decorated with gold seals, a coat of arms and latin writing.

There is some latin below a shield telling about the audaciousness of the family of Firpo and then, in the history of the family, it is said the first Firpo as far back as known, were of the highest caste, owned castles and were intrepid warriors.

Luis Angel was right proud of the sheepskin and his barrel-chest swelled a little as he exhibited it.

At the dog park, Firpo sparred six rounds with Joe McCann, Frank Koeble and Natalio Pera.

Grid Chances Boosted With Report Of Coffey; Junior Squad Larger

Coach McCallum Puts Squad Thru Pair Of Workouts Daily.

Chances for a winning college football team in Wichita Falls this year were increased greatly Tuesday morning when "Java" Coffey, star high school tackle of the high team last year reported for practice. Coffey has been doing hard work during the summer and is in fine trim, tipping the scales at 178 pounds. Java has had two years' experience on the high school team and was regarded as one of the best tacklers in the state in 1922. He bears the distinction of being the best high school tackle to appear on the Cleburne field according to scribes in that city.

Another tackle reported for college practice Tuesday. Big Conlin McLaren, who has played with the Clarendon College in the past, and should prove an important cog in the college team. McLaren weighs in the neighborhood of 200 pounds and the majority of this avoirdupois is muscle.

Will Get Electra Player.

According to reports Johnson, backfield man for Electra for four years, is attempting to persuade Stearns of Electra to attend the Junior college and should these two men decide to play with the local team, the foundation of a strong backfield has already been formed.

Ralph Harper, who played with the local high school in the past and who made his letter with John Tarleton last year intends to play with the local college team but due to an injured foot will not be able to play for two weeks.

The college men reported for practice early Tuesday morning and after a brief skull practice with the coach on various rules went to the field and took a light workout in track uniforms. Most of the time was spent in handling the ball and instructions in covering the ball. A brief session of passing the ball was also given. In the future the men will report both in the morning and afternoon in order to get in shape by the time the season opens.

High School Also Out.

In the afternoon the high school aspirants, numbering nearly 50, reported for practice and went through practically the same practice that the collegians underwent in the morning.

Although the last year's line has been badly shattered, with the amount of material on hand a strong line should easily be developed in a brief time. The line will have to be constructed around Baldwin, Harris, Copeland, Waggoner, Shaw, and Brackan. The last three named are ends and will be ably assisted by Don Cameron. Baldwin, Copeland, and Harris will only be playing their second year of football but with the experience secured last year should develop into some of the best men in the state.

Waggoner will be working for his fourth letter and Shaw for his third.

Brackan earned his first letter last year but if predictions are carried out will be one of if not the most valuable man on the team. With practically no experience last year Brackan developed into one of the fastest and most consistent players on the team. Although not weighing over 140 pounds Brack could deliver one of the hardest tackles ever witnessed in high school football.

Howle and Tyson will be two more linesmen back and both men with the training secured last year should prove valuable to the team.

In the backfield Stringer, Chewning, Taylor, Moore, Deems, Mackechney, will be none of the old men back for the season.

Tommy Miller, who has been injured early in the season for the past two years is back for work and seems to be in the best of condition.

Athletic Commission Sides Against Dundee and Leonard Bout Postponed

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Johnny Dundee, featherweight champion and lightweight title aspirant fought and lost one battle today, but it was not with Benny Leonard.

Before a special meeting of the New York State Athletic commission, this afternoon, Dundee protested vigorously against the postponement by Promoter Jimmy Johnston of the Italian's scheduled match tonight at the Yankee stadium with the lightweight champion, but after hearing all the evidence, the boxing solons sanctioned the postponement.

The commission ruled that Johnston was within his rights in taking advantage of a clause in the fight contract permitting its abrogation in the event either of the principals was defeated in any other engagement before the title match. Dundee recently was outpointed in a bout with Eddie (Kid) Wagner in Philadelphia.

Dundee's attitude, meanwhile, may result in abandonment of the match altogether. After Johnston's proposal to stage the bout at the stadium on Sept. 28, Dundee told the commission he would give his answer on Friday, but to newspaper men later he flatly declared he would not go through with the match at all. Billy Gibson, Leonard's mangar, however, agreed to the postponement date.

Postal Men Meet.

MUNDAY, Texas, Sept. 5.—Postmasters and rural carriers from the counties of Wilbarger, Foard, Baylor and Knox, met here Monday for the purpose of organizing a service council. Owing to the heavy rains in this section Sunday night, only about 25 were in attendance. Many interesting talks were made, and the organization was perfected, under the name of Four Counties Service Council. Postmaster Spencer of Crowell was elected chairman, Postmaster John Atterbury of Benjamin, vice chairman; and rural carrier, Doss of Vernon, secretary and treasurer. The next meeting will be at Crowell on May 30, 1924. Postmasters and carriers were present, from Vernon, Crowell, Foard City, Benjamin, Knox City, Vera, Goree, Bomarton, and this place.

Special Prizes.

VERNON, Sept. 5.—The Ke Milling company has announced special prizes in the culinary department of the Wilbarger county fair that opens on Sept. 19. The prizes in this department are expected to draw a large number of contestants this year.

Stock Market Which Was Temporarily Halted Shows Recovery

Features.

Total stock 558,300 shares.
Twenty industrials averaged 92.98; net .78.
High, 1923, 105.38; low 86.01.
Twenty railroads averaged 79.66; net gain .70.
High 1923, 90.63; low 76.78.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The upward movement of stock prices, which was temporarily halted yesterday by selling reported to have been based largely on the Japanese disaster, was resumed intoday's quiet session.

Short interests apparently disappointed at the relatively small volume of liquidation brought out by the Japanese news, began to cover from the outset. This buying was augmented by the operations of pools and other speculators for the advance who began to discount the benefits that would accrue to American companies from orders for reconstruction and relief work in Japan.

Steel, food and textile stocks were the principal ones bid up in expectation of increased Japanese business.

Gains of 2 to 3 points also were recorded by such representative shares as Baldwin, DuPont, American Can, Mullinson silk, Gulf States Steel, Corn products, Julius Kaiser, American Woolen and Loose Wiles Biscuit. National Biscuit and Continental Can touched new high prices for the year.

Chemicals and shippings also gave good demonstrations of ground strength. Davison chemical spurted 1¼ points to 49 after selling as low as 43 1-4 and Allied Chamical, American Agricultural Chemical, common and preferred closed one to three points higher. Marine preferred closed 3½ higher at 27 1-4 and American International corporation gained 1½.

A brisk demand for Chicago and Alton preferred, presumably based on reports of higher earnings, featured the railroad list the stock closing nearly three points higher at 84 after selling as high as 8 3-8. Gains of one to 1½ points also were established in New York Central, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Canadian Pacific.

The money market exhibited an easier tone. Call money opened at 3-4 but eased off to 5 and thence 4½. Time money was quoted at 6 bid and asked with demand slightly in excess of supply. The commercial paper market was more active with an increasing amount of prime names going at five per cent.

Demand sterling established a new low for the year at $4.50 5-8 and then bounced back to $4.52 1-8.

German marks also established a new low for all time at 3½ cents a million.

French and Belgian rates showed slight recessions.

Fort Worth Livestock.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 5.—The cattle market opened steady on desirable cattle. Receipts were estimated at 4,000 head of cattle and 2,000 calves. Several cars of steers sold at 7.10 and a consignment of choice yearlings went at $8. The best calves in carlots were clearing around $6, with choice odd drafts up to $7. The market closed weak to lower on cows and mixed stuff. Calves remained steady throughout the session.

Good strong cutters sold at $2 to 2.50 for the most part and the canner range was around 1.50 to 1.75 on the bulk. Best fat cows, in odd drafts, ranged around $4 to 4.25. Demand for bulls was unchanged, the good kinds making $3 to 3.75 with fair to medium bulls going at 2.25 to 2.75.

Steady prices prevailed in the calf section and the market made moderate progress, although quality was not very good. A few cars were desirable enough to clear around 5.50 to $6.

Sales of stockerfs were made on a slow market at rates that were about steady.

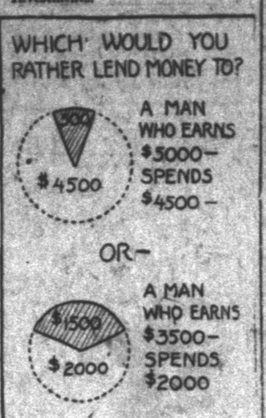

A very uneven market prevailed for hogs, prices showing a decline of 10 to 25 cents. Shippers made purchases at 9.50 and the packers bought up to 9.40. Most of the supply was taken at a spread of $9 to 9.25.

Good pigs sold readily at 6.50 to 7.00.

Sheep house receipts were estimated at 5,000 head, but of that number 3,300 were on through billing. Prices faced a slightly downward revision.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Dont buy a stock simply because it pays a high dividend.

The mere fact that a high dividend is being paid should make you more careful in selecting that stock. Remember that a dividend may be changed at any time. It is not like bond interest which is fixed.

A dividend should be earned by a wide margin so it can be maintained in periods of poor business. Furthermore, part of the earning ought to be re-invested in the business so that it will grow and become more valuable. As far as the company is concerned, a dividend once paid is money gone forever.

Be sure that a dividend is being earned by a wide margin and forget its size

FAIR VISITORS TO HEAR CRACK BAND

Visitors to the Texas-Oklahoma fair and exposition to be held here Oct. 1 to 7, inclusive, will have an opportunity to hear and see Al Sweet's Huzzar Band, which is internationally known as a feature musical organization. The contract for this famous band has been signed between Al Sweet and fair officials, according to C. H. Verschoyle, secretary of the fair association.

The entertainment committee has been successful in securing some of the best feature acts and novelties. The artists who will headline the features are stars. They were secured through one of the largest and most reliable booking agencies in New York. This being the first time booked for appearances in the southwest.

Entries are being received daily for the Bench Dog Snow for all breeds. The show will be under auspices of representatives from the American Kennel association. The judges will be selected from other cities.

An unusually large poultry exhibit is assured. Hundreds of entries are being received and more room will probably be needed for the exhibiting of the birds, according to Ira D. Brown, director and superintendent.

Excellent progress is being made in preparing the hangars for display of the different exhibits. A number of carpenters and other workmen are at work daily. The race track is being sprinkled and dragged and will be in good condition for races.

AID SOCIETIES TO MEET SECRETARY OF TEXAS-OKLA. FAIR

C. H. Verschoyle, secretary of the Texas Oklahoma fair and exposition, will meet presidents and chairmen of the local civic and aid societies of the various churches at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the chamber of commerce rooms, 806 Scott street. The meeting is of vital importance to aid societies and Mr. Verschoyle is exceedingly anxious that all churches have representatives present.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The reactions of yesterday were not only recovered but prices made new high ground for the movement in the cotton market today. December contracts which had sold off to 24.61 yesterday under the shock of the Japanese disaster, advanced to 25.51, or 89 points net higher, and the highest price touched since the publication of the government's crop figures last Friday. December closed at 25.48 with the general market closing firm at a net advance of 81 to 94 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 19 to 22 points on relatively firm cables, reports of wet weather in the south and trade buying. The advance was momentarily checked by rather a loose bullish weekly report from the weather bureau than expected, but the trade buying continued with the market showing increasing strength and activity during the early afternoon on reports that spinners were fixing prices and that the spot basis in the southwest was firmer. Commission houses buying became more active as prices worked higher and stop orders were uncovered. October sold up to 25.58 and January to 25.28 or 88 to 98 points net higher and the market closed within a few points of the best. Exports today 3,100, making 340,522 so far this season. Port receipts 19,606. U. S. port stocks 219,214.

MANY SPANISH WAR VETERANS IN THIS CITY

"We are finding out there are many more Spanish American veterans in Wichita Falls than we had any idea were here. They are calling us to get lined up with the post we organized Tuesday night," W. R. Duke, adjutant of the local post tentatively organized Tuesday night said Wednesday.

A charter has been applied for and with the coming in of so many veterans who are eligible for membership the local post plans to make it one of the livest in the country. W. S. Langford is commander and he with W. R. Duke, adjutant will attend the national convention of Spanish-American war veterans to be held at Chattapooga, Tenn., Sept. 20.

A recruiting committee was selected and is composed of W. S. Langford, D. M. Perkins, W. W. Gardner, E. T. Duff, J. C. Bradshaw, W. R. Duke, W. P. Thurman, Dr. J. R. E. Richardson, E. G. Pesse J B Hatchitt, Charles Pogenpohl and T. B. Smock.

ONE DEAD IN OIL FIELD EXPLOSION

CORSICANA, Tex., Sept. 5.—Onie Lee Rascoe, 20, is dead, and J. C. "Buck" Morgan, 25, is seriously injured in the physicians and Surgeons hospital in Corsicana as the result of a boiler explosion at the drilling location of McDonald Brothers on the Dr. A. N. Brown tract, one half mile east of Richland this morning. Bob Whiteside was considerably burned and bruised.

Ambulance Driver McMahan brought the dead and injured to Corsicana. Rascoe died on the way to Corsicana. Morgan's body is a solid blister, also bruised and mangled from flying steel.

400-BARREL WELL ON WILSON LAND

After penetrating the sand about a foot the Henley and McCarty Oil company are reported with a 400-barrel producer in their first test on the Wilson, farm in block 645, south of the Chenault-Johnson well.

The oil hit the crown block and the well appears to be one of the best producers in that part of the field. It has been shut in while tankage is being built.

WHEAT MARKET REMAINS FIRM

Suspension of Business Of Chicago Grain Company Does Not Affect It

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Despite announcement of suspension of business by a grain company here the wheat market today showed firmness, helped by export buying of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat and of 250,000 bushels of rye and from 4 to 11 points below the previous day. Closing: September 4.36; December 4.31; March 3.66; May 3.75.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 7.75 to 8 cents for fine granulated, but the demand was only moderate.

Refined futures nominal.

Chicago Livestock.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Cattle 19,000; native steers and yearlings 15 to 40 lower; top matured steers 12.00; heifers 12.40; fed beef steers 10.00@11.50; canners, mutters 10 to 15c lower. Vealers steady; bologna 4.00@4.25; vealers to packer 10.50@11.00; outsiders around 11.50; canners around 2.50@2.65.

Hogs 36,000; opened 15 to 25c lower; closed 25c lower; 160 to 230 pound averages 9.25@9.50; top 9.50.

Wheat closed steady at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4c off, September 1.01 3-8 and December 1.05 5-8 to 1.05 3-4. Corn finished 1-4 to ½c down, oats unchanged to 3-8c lower and provisions at 2 to 10 cents decline.

Corn and oats were depressed at times by the closing out of trades by an embarrassed grain company. Something of an offset, however, resulted from reports that two or three weeks of favorable weather was yet needed to mature the corn crop in some sections.

Provisions were weak in sympathy with the hog market.

Cottonseed Oil Stronger.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Following an irregular start, cottonseed oil turned easy under local selling on the poor showing in lard but towards the last the market advanced sharply on coverig, prompted by the strength in cotton. Closing bids were six to 24 points net higher. Sales 21,600 barrels. Prime crude 950 bid; prime summer yellow spot 11.30@11.50; September 11.32; December 9.62; March 9.80, all bid.

OIL SITUATION HAS BEEN WORSE

The oil situation is bad enough, but not as bad as it was in 1919, in the opinion of Thomas L. Coplin, deputy oil and gas supervisor.

What has saved the present situation to some extent, according to Mr. Coplin, is that the producers have stopped drilling, whereas in 1919, with the market congested and the crude market demoralized, producers kept right on producing, depending on volume production of cheap oil to pull them through.

As far as the immediate future of the crude market is concerned Mr. Coplin intimated that he did not believe it had yet reached its low level. "The oil business, when it gets bad," he said, "is like a boil. It must get worse before it can get better."

So few applications are being made for drilling permits, he said, that he can easily remember most of them without referring to any records.

If a smaller manufacturer were to attempt to build the Studebaker Big-Six—and put into it the same high quality of materials and workmanship that Studebaker does—the selling price would certainly be $3500—perhaps more.

You can't judge Big-Six value by the price tag. Mark this—

Prices of motor cars are based upon what it costs the manufacturer to build and market them—not upon intrinsic values.

The devouring monster in production costs is overhead expense, which varies with the number of cars produced, and the ability and facilities of the manufacturer. Heavy overhead makes high selling prices inevitable, regardless of the value—or lack of value—of the product.

Studebaker overhead is low because it is distributed over six times as many units as are built by any manufacturer who competes with the Big-Six.

There, in a nutshell, is the reason for the greater dollar-for-dollar value of the Big-Six.

Big-Six performance on hills or open roads or in the thick of traffic is unexcelled. Big-Six reliability and freedom from repairs is common knowledge. Big-Six appearance is impressive, suggesting power and stamina. Big-Six comfort is unsurpassed in any car, at any price.

Big-Six closed cars are completely equipped, including such unusual items as an extra disc wheel with tire, tube and tire cover (two on Sedan); handsome nickel-plated bumpers, front and rear; large, enameled steel trunk; gasoline signal mounted on instrument board, and many others.

Big-Six popularity is a result of Big-Six superiority. Materials and workmanship are unexcelled in any car, at any price, and unequalled in any other car at—or near—the Big-Six price.

After 71 years, the name Studebaker enjoys confidence and respect more than ever. Big-Six means big value—more than ever.

CITY MUST GET TOURIST PARK

Lions Club Believes Thousands Passing Through Need Accommodation

That Wichita Falls must have a modern tourist park by next summer to accomodate the thousands of tourists who pass this way every season was the combined opinion of the members of the Lions club at the regular weekly session held Wednesday noon in a luncheon at the Kemp.

The question of securing Scotland park as site for the proposed tourist camp has been abandoned and another location sought, Frank Cripliver, chairman of the park committee reported. He said probably a site in the neighborhood of the Harwin school would be chosen. The matter will be brought before the chamber of commerce business council at its nex. meeting.

H. J. Bruce, secretary of the club and one of the most loyal members since the organization began here, submitted his resignation at the Wednesday meeting. A resolution of regret and a postponement on the action of the resignation followed.

Miss Daisy Wharton of the fine arts faculty of the University of Wyoming entertained with a violin selection accompanied by Mrs. F. H. Collard at the piano.

FIVE PAIRS SEEK MARRIAGE RELEASE

The following suits were filed in the office of the district clerk Wednesday:

H. W. Davies et al against Marx Matson company, debt.

Goebel Wright against Mabel Wright, divorce.

H. W. Means against Thelma Means, divorce.

Fred Ulmer against Agnes Ulmer, divorce.

H. H. McMinn against Inez McMinn, divorce.

Emma Washington against James Washington, divorce.

DIVORCE WRANGLES OCCUPY JUDGE

Divorce cases and the taking of default judgments occupied the time Tuesday of Judge E. W. Napier, who opened up a new term of the Seventy-eighth district court.

The taking of the default judgments and the setting down of cases for hearing are preliminary steps to clear things out of the way for the main causes to be heard this term of court. A number of suits filed by the city tax collector's department against delinquent tax payers are to be heard before Judge Napier.

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

All school teachers attending institute have been invited to see the Strand picture "Enemies of Women," as the guests of the chamber of commerce and the Parent-Teachers' association.

As most the school teachers are women it is probably well they see "Enemies of Women."

Our sporting sports editor who usually wears his hair about like Firpo combs his raven locks, has bought a bottle of that jelly bean cottolene grease to try to comb his hair with. The teachers institute has done that for him.

Paving on Avenue A between Monroe and Giddings street completed Tuesday afternoon.

It is rumored a fire station is going to be built on the courthouse campus. This will give the fire boys an opportunity to court the pretty deputies at the temple of justice while waiting for the fire song. The system has worked so well at the city hall that all the women deputies have married recently.

Miss Eunice Jackson, deputy district clerk, returned to her duties Wednesday after vacationing two weeks.

Five divorces filed Wednesday.

Still cool and cloudy.

If all the ammunition sold since last Saturday hit its mark, bird season would be over now.

The hunters are getting sweet revenge on the fishermen now by telling how many they killed at one shot.

History seems to be repeating itself with Rome and Athens at war.

A number of offices which have been operating in the morning only will be open for business in the afternoon after Sept. 16, the baseball season being over then.

Judge Gwinn says he knows some newspaper reporters he wished were justices of the peace a few days so he could write them up.

Town Stuff will trade with you judge.

The courthouse which has been doing very little business during the summer month is now assuming its pristine pep and in a few days every office will be working overtime.

Town Stuff would like to know what ever became of that committee who was going to see about getting some new paving for Ohio and Indiana streets.

Roy Staton, J. M. Arrington, Andy Anderson and L. L. Taylor returned Wednesday from Elk City, Okla., where they went on a prairie chicken hunt. They report the game plentiful and stated that they bagged their share.

"Blackmail" Says Jones Accused of Attacking Woman

On a charge that C. C. Jones assaulted his wife in a local rooming house some time ago T. C. Simms is suing the former for $20,000 damages in the Eighty-ninth district court before Judge Martin, argument being closed late Wednesday afternoon and the case going before the jury to be considered at 9 this morning.

This case has produced more sensational turns and evidence than any civil suit tried at the local courthouse in recent years. C. C. Jones, 75 years old, through his attorneys H. Y. Cummins and John Davenport alleges the suit against him for $20,000 is a blackmail scheme entered into by Simms and his wife to extort money from him. Simms alleges through his attorneys J. M. Martin and Jos. H. Aynesworth that the attack he says Jones made on his wife caused her to suffer physically, ruined her health, caused her great mental stress and resulted in great expense for doctor bills. The husband also alleges he has been deprived of his wife's services as she, before the alleged attack worked in a local department store.

Attorney Cummins for the defendant and Aynesworth for the plaintiff in their addresses before the jury waged a legal duel that, according to one witness was surcharged "with fire and brimstone." Cummins plead the impossibility of an old man 75 years old being guilty of what he was charged with. The defense attorney also said if Jones had been guilty of the assault the officers of the law would have long since had him arrested and he would have faced a criminal charge.

Attorney Aynesworth bitterly attacked Cummins for "deliberately assassinating the character of a man who comes before a court to seek redress in a civil suit." The jury in the case will convene at 9 this morning and begin its deliberations.

STATE INDUSTRIAL SURVEY PROGRESS

The state-wide industrial survey of manufacturing industries undertaken by Burt C. Blanton, industrial engineer and manager of the industrial department of the Texas chamber of commerce, is now practically one-fifth complete, and considerable data and information has been compiled which is of importance from a statistical standpoint and of interest to the citizens of Texas.

"The last government census of 1920 gave the state of Texas a total of 5,724 industries, representing a total capital investment of approximately: $586,000,000: and value of manufactured products at approximately $999,000,000. Mr. Blanton said, "while figures compiled to date show in excess of 9,520 manufacturing industries, with a total capital investment, based on replacement cost of approximately $65,000,000, and value of products in excess of $1,100,000,000."

"There are now 57 classes, or groups of industry in the state, and 10 of these groups, namely (1) power and light plants; (2), ice and cold storage plants; (3) textile industries; (4) cotton gins; (5) cottonseed oil mills; (6) compresses; (7) cement manufacturing plants (8) flour mills; (9) natural gasoline plants; and (10) oil refineries; represent a total capital investment based on replacement cost of in excess of $438,000,000." Mr. Blanton said "with a total of 2,799 respective industrial plants."

"Power and light plants lead with a total capital investment of $150,000,000," Mr. Blanton said, "while the other respective groups in their relative order are: cotton gins, cottonseed oil mills, and compresses; $108,000,000: oil refineries; $75,000,000; textile industries $37,000,000; ice and cold storage plants; $30,530,000; flour milling industry $29,990,000; cement manufacturing plants $11,500,000; and natural gasoline plants approximately $6,000,000."

"Texas is destined to become the leading manufacturing state of the southwest, within the next 25 years," Mr. Blanton said, "due to the unlimited natural resources and a completement of constituents and facilities available for successful industrial development."

EXTRA—BUDDY MESSENGER IN "BUDDY AT THE BAT"

"What You Waste in Youth, Must Be Worked for in Old Age"

Thriftiness in youth means ease and comfort in old age. Wastefulness in youth may mean discomfort and want in the days when the shadows lengthen.

Youth is the time for pleasure, but a sensible, regular savings plan should also be provided for. In the young man's budget, proper allowances can be made both for amusements and pleasure, and for saving.

Even a small amount, deducted from the weekly wage envelope, and put aside in the bank, will accumulate through the weeks and months and years into a substantial emergency fund. This bank helps thrifty savers to accumulate money. One dollar or more opens a bank account.
