World War Veteran Has Desire to Kill After Recounting Experiences In France; Menaced Wife

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 1. — Ferdinand Preuss, triple slayer, who wounded three others yesterday, expiated his crime today by committing suicide.

The position of the body, found on the northwestern railroad right of way, indicated suicide. It lay away from the tracks with the left arm and head stretched over a rail. He was identified by a maimed right hand and a fishing license

Felt Desire To Kill

Preuss' wife said he had been drinking steadily for three weeks. The day before Memorial day he spent recounting experiences in France, which led, his wife believed to a desire to kill.

Yesterday Mrs. Preuss told him she would leave him if he did not stop drinking. The threat enraged him and he became so menacing Mrs. Preuss called for help. Neighbors summoned the police.

Officers John Conley, Herbert Hagberg, Joseph Murphy and Bert McInery responded. Conley and Hagberg were shot down by Preuss, who used a repeating shot gun Murphy was seriously wounded. John Chorazak, a neighbor, was the third man to be killed. He had run to the scene out of curiosity, as did two others Frank Vodicak and Gusparos, who were wounded.

Would Eliminate Debenture Plan

Admnistration Leaders Believe Senate Will Uphold Recommendation Of Committee On Farm Bill

By RAYMOND Z. HENLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—Administration leaders expressed the opinion today that the senate will uphold a prospective recommendation of the farm relief conference committee to elminate the export debenture plan from the farm bill expected to be presented to both branches of Congress next week for final approval.

A careful check of the Senate membership was held to have shown that three or four senators who voted for the debenture plan last month have decided to support the conference report recommending its elimination on the theory that farm legislation would be greatly delayed if the controversy over this proposal is further prolonged.

With this siutation in mind, the leaders are prepared to ask a vote in the Senate on the conference report as soon as the conferees complete their work.

If the predictions of the leaders are borne out, the few remaining steps necessary to send a farm bill to President Hoover would be taken without difficulty. The house is expected to approve the conference report practically without debate. In the Senate, the debenture extremists fight wage a last ditch fight to retain the provision they favor.

Considerable discussion provoked by the difference methods by which stabilization agencies would be permitted and details in this connection were permitted to go over until next week for solution.

New Differences Remain In Reparations Problem

PARIS, June 1 (AP)—With the five problem of the redemption of German marks imposed on Belgium during the war still to be settled, the experts at the reparations conference today reached a full tentative agreement on all other details of the reparations problem.

The German and creditor experts who already had accepted the difficulties proposed in the Young plan of settlement today reached a compromise on the conditions to which Germany subordinated her acceptance of those annuities.

Fight For Power Follows Election

LONDON, June 1 (AP)—All three major political parties went into the trenches tonight for a post-election campaign for power.

After the costliest election in the history of England, with expenditures running into millions of dollars,Great Britain found itself today with a new House of Commons but no majority government capable of directing it.

Ramsay MacDonald supplied labor's answer to the question of the hour in England, which is "coalition government or a new general election." The labor leader declared he would use every ounce of influence he possessed to prevent another election for two years.

"If I can prevent it there shall be no disturbance of the country by an election within the next two years, he said.

Spanish Slayer Held Incommunicado In El Paso Jail For Double Murder

Charges Will Be Filed According To Prosecutors

Jose Marin Is Believed To Be Insane; Surrenders To Police After Double Killing Last Friday

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, June 1.—Having surrendered to officers immediately after shooting to death Frank J. Lyons and Herbert D. Oppenheimer, prominent El Paso lawyers, in their officers in the First National bank building yesterday, Jose Marin, 55-year-old Spaniard, today was held incommunicado in the county jail.

District Attorney Stewart Berkshire said murder charges would be filed against the slayer.

Before the shooting Marin had cut the telephone wires into the attorney's office to prevent their summoning aid.

Marin Was Treated

Dr. S. Haffner and Dr. Celestino Ortiz informed the District Attorney that they had treated Marin for nervous disorders during the last two years.

As police officials reconstructed yesterday's double slaying and the motive therefore, they learned that Lyons and Oppenheimer formerly had represented Marin in a number of mining deals. Some time ago Marin sued the lawyers for $100,000 claiming he had been defrauded out of the sum as the result of operations of mining property in Chihuahua. He lost the suit and later sought the assistance of the district attorney in a criminal action, which was denied, following an investigation.

Police believe Marin suddenly became insane.

3,000 Workers In Chicago On Strike

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—More than three thousand iron workers today struck for a dollar a day wage increase.

The latter organization has a membership of 900 and a wage scale of $12 a day, the same as the structural workers. Des Moines University Officials Disappear After Ku Klux Warnings

(By Associated Press)

DES MOINES, June 1.—While sixty Des Moines University seniors anxiously awaited trustees' approval of their diplomas, Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board and three associates tonight apparently had disappeared.

Dr. Shields, Miss Edith Rebman, secretary; E. A. Roberts and H. W. Van Owdel, trustees, checked out of their hotel here this afternoon. The Tribune-Capital said that earlier today Dr. Shields received a letter on stationery of the Polk County Ku Klux Klan. This letter, the paper said, declared that Dr. Shields, was being watched, and that the organization supported "the principles and teachings of Americanism and patriotism that are being set forth by President Wayman and the faculty."

This letter bore only a typewriter signature, "Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

Today the board adopted a resolution that students' credit will depend on the outcome of the investigation of the rock and egg riot on the campus May 11, after the board had ousted the entire faculty.

The trustees urged students to appear before the committee to

Solons Session Promises To Be Hum-Drum Affair

No Flare-Up Is Expected In The Report of Joint Committee Censuring J. T. Robinson for Laxity

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 1. (AP)—If the attitude of early arrivals is any indication, the second called session of the 41st legislature, opening Monday, will be more or less humdrum and inclined to be given up to figures and calculations.

It looks now like there will not be a flare-up over the report of the joint committee which censured J. T. Robison, commissioner of the general land office, for certain of his official acts, especially his alleged lax administration of the reappraisement fund of 1925.

To Let Matter Rest

Consensus seems to be to let the matter rest where it is. It is pointed out that the suggestion made to the attorney general's department to sue for a strict accounting of the fun ought to wind up the whole unpleasant affair to the satisfaction of everyone.

Every member hopes to avoid any prolonged wrangle looking to the bringing of impeachment charges against the long-time state official. Representative Grady Woodruff of Decatur gave notice during the regular session that he would push action by the legislature, "in justice to the state as well as to Mr. Robi-

Embarassing Exposures Promised In Cleveland Butcher Knife Slaying

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, June 1.—Assistant Prosecutor Frank J. Banking Company Stops Business

CHICAGO, June 1 (AP)—Taylor, Ewart and company, investment bankers whose annual business last year amounted to $50,000,000, suspended operations today as a consequence of the action of New York and Chicago banks in calling in their demand loans.

The investment firm, through B. F. Taylor, chairman of the board, issued a statement that said while it was in the least temporary financial difficulties, there should be no loss to any firm or individual if the banks would co-operate.

No reason was given for the action of the banks in calling in loans which amounted to approximately $4,000,000. L. R. Billeth, secretary treasurer of the investment house, said. He estimated its securities were in excellent condition.

He said he saw no reason why his firm should not be able to meet every obligation if given the opportunity to liquidate.

A CROUCHING PANTHER

Fort Worth baseball fans are expecting great things from the Panther club since the change of ownership last Thursday. Both Laird and Robinson are interested enough in the future of Fort Worth baseball and are sufficiently heeled to give Jake Atz material of the championship class. The fact that the club is in the market for two big-time pitchers and another player at the present time indicates that the owners mean business.

Of chief concern to the followers of baseball in Fort Worth and throughout Texas was whether or not the new owners would retain the veteran Jakie Atz as manager of the club. Immediately after the deal was closed, Robinson stated emphatically that Atz could remain at the helm of the Panther cause as long as he chose. Jakie came back with the statement that he would stay in Fort Worth until he was kicked out.

The venerable pilot, who has directed the Cats through the last dozen seasons, is respected throughout the circuit. Jake and his fighting Cats are always welcome in any Texas League city. Fort Worth fans would as soon lose their franchise as Jake Atz. It is no secret that several other cities in the league have made an attempt to secure the services of the Fort Worth manager.

SPUDDERS REBEL

Manager Jim Galloway and his Wichita Falls Spudders are finding the going rather rough in the Texas League race. Picked at the beginning of the season as a strong contender for the flag, the Spuds have proved one of the greatest disappointments in the league. Usually blessed with strong pitching, the Wichita Falls club is floundering in second division at the present time, mainly because of poor hurling. The cry for a change in managers has started in Spudderville and it will not be at all surprising to see Carl Williams, now at Abilene, back at the Wichita helm before many moons.

In Saturday's encounter with Shreveport, the Spudders outhit the Louisiana team but were nosed out in the tenth inning when the Sports scored two runs to win, 5 to 4. Goff hurled a nice game for the Galloway crew, but his mates failed to deliver in the pinches and another ball game was lost. The defeat, coming when the Beaumont Exporters beat Houston, put the Wichita team a mere half-game out of the cellar.

LET'S SUPPORT 'EM

This afternoon at Merrill Park, the Lubbock Hubbers take on Lamesa in what promises to be a jam-up baseball exhibition. The local nine hasn't been doing the best in the world so far this season, but nevertheless, deserves the support of Lubbock fans. A winning ball club cannot possibly be assembled in the short span of one month. One year ago today, a West Texas League team was furnishing sportsmen of this city their baseball recreation. Now that the Hubbers have dropped out of the Class D circuit a semi-pro aggregation will have to suffice and it will take time to develop another team such as was managed by Sled Allen back in the good old days.

The locals should have a much stronger team on the field here today with the shortstop problem ably solved. Ater arrived last night and is in splendid condition for action today. His presence in the lineup will give Lubbock an infield that will rank with the best in this section. In case Jackson does not get back from Austin, Hensley Marshall and Wilson will roam the outer gardens. Volney "Satch" Hill will do the chunking for the locals and if the Tech hurler has his "spitter" working the visitors are slated for a tough day.

ROSE OF SHARON WINS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 1. (AP)—Rose of Sharon won the 55th running of the Kentucky Oaks, $10,000 added race for Phillies here today. Lady Broadcast was second and Current was third. Time for the mile and an eighth was 1:51 flat.

Four Records Are Shattered As Far West Hogs Honors

Cardinals Capture Championship for Third Year In Row; Win by Oferwhelming Margin

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, June 1.—Four record smashing performamances, including a sensational half mile in 1:52 1-5 by Phil Edwards of New York University, brought the fifty-third Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. Track and field championships to a climax today as Stanford University won the team title for the third year in a row.

The Cardinals from Palo Alto, coached by "Dink" Templeton, not only gave the Far West its eighth triumph over a span of nine years, but did it by the most overwhelming margin in thirty years.

Not since 1899, when Pennsylvania's great team won with a record total of 87 points, beating its nearest rival by 29 points, has any team captured the historic meet by so one-sided a margin as Stanford.

Score 45 3-8 Points

Stanford scored 45 3-8 points. Southern California tallied 21 points and Pennsylvania finished third with 18 7-8 points.

To Phil Edwards, the dusky N. Y. U. flier and Canadian olympic star, went the main honors as he shattered the 14-year-old half mile meet record of 1:53, equalled Ted Meredith's American outdoor record of 1:52 1-5. He was only three-fifths of a second behind the world's record of 1:51 3-5, made by Dr. Otto Peltzer of Germany at London in 1926.

The Far West took its share of the record-busting honors when Jesse Hill of Southern California broad jumped to a new meet mark of 25 feet 7-8 inch, while Harlow Rothert of Stanford clinched the shotput title with the toss of 50 feet 3 inches which he made in the trials yesterday and which was good enough to beat his teammate, Eric Krenz, the 1928 champion.

Harvard Star Victor

Another long-standing record was toppled when Jimmy Reid, Harvard captain, came from behind in the two mile to win in 9 minutes, 22 seconds. This barely displaced the record of 9:22 2-5, made by Ivan Dresser of Cornell in 1919.

A fifth record was bettered when Sid Kieselhorst, of Yale, retaining his title won the 220-yard low hurdles in 23 3-10 seconds. 3-10 second better than the mark set in 1898 by A. C. Kraenzlein of Pennsylvania. Because of the stiff wind at his back, however, Kieselhorst's mark was ruled out.

The final team scores:
Stanford 45 3-8.
Southern California 21.
New York University 14.
Yale 13 5-8.
Pittsburgh and California 11 each.
Cornell 10 5-8; Georgetown 10 3-8; Colgate 9 1-4.
Princeton and Penn State 9 each.
Brown 8 1-2. Harvard 8 3-8; Maine 6. Bates, Holy Cross and Syracuse 4 each. Columbia 2. Michigan State 2 1-4. Dartmouth 1. College of the City of New York, and M. I. T. 3-8 each.

No Pull For Umps Says Vet Arbiter

PITTSBURGH, June 1. (AP)—The business of umpiring is not as tough as it used to be, still it's far from an easy job, says Bill Klem of the National league staff.

"Umpiring," says the veteran Klem, "is one job where you're on your own. There's no pull, no influence, no affiliation that will help you.

"The only favorable side concerns the hours. I remember what the late Tim Hurst, a famous umpire, said: 'If my old man knew that I didn't have to get up until noon and was through work every day at 5 or 5:30 o'clock, he wouldn't believe the money was honest.'"

Qualifiers Lead Here By Bussey

Play in the Lubbock Country Club's qualifying tournament for the West Texas open to be held at Stamford, June 10, 11 and 12 will be completed Wednesday, it was announced last night by Ross McWhorter, chairman of the golf committee.

Each member of the club who plans to enter the championship tilt at Stamford is required to play 72 holes before Wednesday in order that the most consistent golfers can be chosen from the membership.

Up to last night only four scores had been turned in to J. W. Byrne, golf pro at the Country club. Of this number, several low scores were registered. Clinton Bussey's 70 score for the 18 holes was the best of the lot. E. T. Daniels of Idaho came next with a 72. Bob Peck was close behind with a 74 and V. O. Jennings had a 76.

The local organization will be represented by at least a dozen golfers when the West Texas tourney gets under way on June 10.

French Tennis Aces Turn Back Tilden And Hunter In Quest Of Court Laurels

Miss Helen Wills Is Only American In Fina! Round

By THOMAS T. TOPPING
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, June 1. (AP)—In two great tennis battles here today Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter stormed the ramparts of French supremacy and failed.

Big Bill was beaten by his old foe, Rene Lacoste, 6-1, 6-0, 5-7, 6-3, in the semi-finals of the French championship.

Shortly before, Jean Borotra, the Bounding Basque, came from behind to trim Hunter in the quarter-finals, 6-8, 10-8, 4-6, 8-6, 6-9.

The renowned three musketeers of France are in sole possession of the field with Lacoste already in the final and Henri Cochet scheduled to dispute the remaining semi-final with Borotra tomorrow.

Helen Wills Remains

Only the capable figure of Miss Helen Wills, who reached the final in defense of her women's singles crown by defeating England's Miss Eileen Bennett, 6-2, 7-5, remained to represent the United States. France placed its leading woman player, Madame Renee Mathieu, in the final against Miss Wills by a victory over Fraulein Cecilie Aussem of Germany, 8-6, 2-6, 6-2.

Except for a few moments in the third set when Big Bill provided the high spot of the match by winning four straight games and the set Lacoste was in the driver's seat throughout.

Hunter's Reverse Is Surprise

Hunter's defeat at the hands of the oldest member of the French triumvirate came as something of a surprise as he was leading Jean by two sets to one when play was called on account of darkness the previous day. When the match was resumed Hunter spent himself in an unsuccessful effort to win the long deuced set which would have given him the match and could offer little resistance in the closing set.

Although Miss Wills is a prohibitive favorite to win the women's coronet for the second straight year, French fans are hopeful that Madame Mathieu will be able to perform the rare feat of winning a set from the American.

Lubbock Hubbers Meet Lamesa Nine Today At Merrill

Strong Dawson County Aggregation Will Find A Changed Lineup On Lubbock Team Today

The revamped Lubbock Hubbers clash today with one of the strongest semi-pro baseball clubs in West Texas, the Lamesa All-Stars. Today's encounter starts at 3:30.

Opposition for the Hubbers today is an aggregation that has seen years of service. The majority of the members of the team have played side by side for the past several years and have developed into a strong baseball unit.

Lubbock's lineup for today include a star who is well-known in Lubbock. A former Lubbock high school sensation, Raymond Ater, returned last night from A & M where he has served as captain and shortstop of the Texas University freshman nine during the past collegiate season. A flashy fielder and a consistent hitter, Ater has proved one of the most promising baseball stars to report to Billy Disch in several years. He will fill the shortstop position for the locals today.

Volney Hill is slated to start on the mound for the Hubbers today and Clarence Hodges, his Tech battery mate, will do the backstopping. Del Morgan will hold down first base and Rigney second base for the Lubbock nine with Ater and Red Wooten on the left side of the diamond.

Jackson, Marshall, Hensley and Wilson are the outfielders on hand for fly-chasing duties.

Old Timers Today

By GEORGE STOVALL

Sam Crawford, one of the leading major league sluggers for many years when playing the outfield for the Detroit Tigers, lives at Pico, Cal., a suburb of Los Angeles, where he played for a time in the Pacific Coast league before ending his active career in baseball.

"Wahoo Sam" Crawford for a number of years has been coach of the University of Southern California baseball squad and has developed many strong Trojan nines. Last summer he accompanied the Southern California baseball team on a successful tour of Hawaii and Japan.

"Wahoo Sam" was one of baseball's most feared batters when in his prime with Detroit. He's still able to go up there and show his college proteges how to hit. The old Tiger outfield of Cobb, Crawford and Jones was poison to opposing pitchers. The Cobb-Crawford duo produced many runs for the Tigers. Fleet-footed Ty would get on base and Wahoo Sam would rescue him with a mighty wallop.

Crawford was a hard, consistent batter for many seasons in the American league. For a number of years he was given an outfield place on "All-American" teams picked by American league experts.

Sam owns a walnut grove at Pico, but likes to jump into a uniform each spring to coach college players. He still possesses enough baseball ability to give the youngsters a run for their money. And he knows baseball, too, plenty of it—for he was for years a member of one of the smartest clubs in baseball—Detroit.

Jimmy Foxx Bangs Way Into Batting Lead In American

Versatile First Baseman Tops Onrushing Athletics With Average of .424; Cochrane In Second

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—Topping the onrushing Athletics with an average of .424, Jimmy Foxx, Connie Mack's versatile workman who is enlisted as first baseman this season, replaced Bill Kamm of the White Sox, as the American League batting leader at the end of the sixth week of play, according to unofficial figures today.

Foxx added 43 points to his average during the week, and his teammate, Mickey Cochrane, picked up another 38 points to go into second place with .382. Kamm dropped 49 points and slipped into third place with a mark of .366. Other leaders: Jamieson, Cleveland, .358; Harlesky, Boston, .357; Fothergill, Detroit, .357; Manush, St. Louis, .356; R. Johnson, Detroit, .347; Dickey, New York, .346; Gehringer, Detroit, .341; Alexander, Detroit, .341.

Detroit found the pitching a little more difficult to hit during the week and sloughed off 13 points, dropped to .304, while the Athletics boosted their average from .297 to .306 to grab the leader in team batting. Both of the leaders have six men in the .300 class.

Other clubs in the league had yet to defeat old George Uhle, of the Tigers. The veteran right hander was forced to pitch 29 innings in two games, but he won them both and raised his mark to nine straight. For the first time of the season Uhle required help when he was relieved after the twentieth inning of the long game with the White Sox. Bob Grove, of the Athletics, participated in only a part of the game and his mark was stationary at six victories and one defeat. Grove still topped the strike out list with 53. Rip Collins, of St. Louis and Eddie Rommel of Philadelphia, each won one during the week for marks of three triumphs and no defeats.

St. Louis continued to lead the team fielding with an average of .976, and the Senators remained in second place with .975.

Other leaders: Home runs, New York, 34; individual home runs Gehrig, New York, 11; doubles, Alexander, Detroit, 16; triples, Blue, St. Louis, 5; stolen bases, West, of Washington 6; double plays, New York 1, Chicago 1; runs batted in, Simmons, Philadelphia 43; runs scored, Gehringer, Detroit, 38; team runs, Philadelphia and Detroit, 232; opponents runs, Philadelphia 133.

Yanks Find Star Receiver In Him

It's beginning to look like the New York Yankees are finally to have catching that befits a championship club.

Since the beginning of the season, Young Bill Dickey from the hills of Arkansas has given the Yanks that which they haven't had since old Wallie Schlang was sitting behind the log—fast, aggressive and heads-up receiving.

Dickey has already shown he is a master at the mechanical end of his position and makes up for his lack of experience with the American League hitters by plenty of catching intelligence.

He throws the bases as accurately and with as strong an arm as any catcher in the younger circuit. He also is giving every evidence of being a first-class batsman. He hits the ball with force that sends many of his drives for extra bases.

Young Dickey is tall for the present-day run of catchers. He stands 6 feet 3 inches. Larry McLean and Connie Mack were of this elongated type and if the kid comes up to their standard he will most certainly do.

While the Yanks of the past years may have been one of the greatest teams in history, the backstop department has been more or less of second division caliber. Benny Bengough is smart and a good hitter, but an ailing arm has kept him from greatness. Pat Collins, now with the Braves, and John Grabowski had and still have virtues, but speed isn't one of them. The others that filled in at various times all lacked something to remedy that chronic weakness.

But now Miller Huggins thinks he's found the solution to the problem. If the Dickey kid keeps up his fine work of the early season, the catching staff will take their hats off to no other department of the champions.

Frank O'Doul's Heavy Stick Work Is Playing Big Part In Holding Phillies In Race For National League Gonfalon

Former New York Giant Is Only Regular In Senior Circuit With 400-or-Better Percentage; Now .422

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Frank O'Doul, the reformed pitcher, continues to do much better with his mat, now that he has transferred his main headquarters from the Polo Grounds to Philadelphia. The one-time southpaw owns a gaudy mark of .422, the only 400-or-better percentage for a National League regular, according to averages issued today and including games of last Wednesday. O'Doul's heavy sticking has played a big part in keeping the Phillies at the top of the team batting heap with .314, the only .300 club in the League.

O'Doul also leads in runs scored with 37, while Chick Hafey of St. Louis and Charlie Grimm of Chicago are tied for the top in runs batted in. Each has 34. Andy High of St. Louis has collected the greatest total of hits, 55, while his teammate, Frank Frisch, has hit 17 doubles to lead. Lloyd Waner of Pittsburgh sets the pace in triples with six and Melvin Ott of New York, in home runs with 11. Ott also was tied with Lou Gehrig of the Yankees for the inter-league home run title. Kiki Cuyler of Chicago has the largest total of steals, 11.

Grimes Tops Pitching

Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh continues to lead the pitchers. He has won eight games and lost none, in addition to saving several other for which he can receive no credit in the records. Grimes has worked 83 innings in eleven contests, seven of which have been complete games he leads in both innings and full games. Guy Bush of Chicago has won five games, and Sylvester Johnson of St. Louis, four, without a defeat for either.

Ervin Brame of Pittsburgh, Clise Dudley of Brooklyn, Herald Haid of St. Louis and Elmer Hearn of Boston complete the undefeated circle. Jesse Haines of St. Louis, with five victories and one reverse, is the highest ranking defeated pitcher.

Following O'Doul in the individual batting tables are these regulars: Hendrick, Brooklyn, .394; High, St. Louis, .382; Stephenson, Chicago, .370; Cuyler, Chicago, .367; Frisch, St. Louis, .365; Herman, Brooklyn, .364; Klein, Philadelphia, .356; Friberg, Philadelphia, .353; and Terry, New York, .348.

Rogers Hornsby just misses the first ten, despite the surge which carried him from mediocrity to a mark of .343 within two weeks. He is twelfth, behind Walker of Cincinnati, who has .347.

Following the Phillies in the team batting table are the Cubs, who have .294, a single point more than the Pirates can show. The Cubs lead in team fielding with .974, two points more than the Giants have. The Phillies are third with .970.

American Golfers Lose Final Fling

Last Match of Yank Ryder Cup Stars Goes to Britons On Eve of Departure For America

LONDON, June 1. (AP)—The American Rider cup team's final fling of its 1929 invasion of England today found native born British golfers more than holding thir own.

Walter Hagen, captain of the American team and four times winner of the British open avenged two previous defeats by Archie Compston when he downed the famous British pro' one up in a 36-hole match at Blackwell Park, Birmingham. Against this American triumph however, Britons could point to Henry Cotton's 6 and 5 victory over Horton Smith at Coulsdon Court and Abe Mitchell's triumph in a 36-hole medal competition at the opening of the new Selsdon Park golf course at London. In this latter event, two Americans, Ed Dudley and Johnny Farrell, were second and third respectively.

After his triumph over Compston, Hagen caught a train for London where he picked up the main body of his Ryder Cup argosy and traveled to Southampton where they were to sail for home aboard the Leviathan at dawn.

Starr Continues Murderous Pace In Texas League

Shreveport Backstop Far Ahead of Closest Rivals In Hitting; Randy Moore Has Most Hits

DALLAS, June 1. (AP)—Francis Starr, sensational Shreveport rookie, who has been hitting at better than a .700 clip for the past fortnight, had a .462 average through games of Thursday and was far ahead of his closest Texas League rival, Hanson of Beaumont, with .373. Other leading batters were:

Wetzel (SA) .370; Langford (SV) .367; Blackerby (WA) .363; Sullivan (WF) .363; Lapan (WF) .359; R. Moore (DS) .359; Bennett (WF) .355; Snyder (HN) .349.

Another Shreveporter, Whelan, led in runs scored, with 45. Blackerby and Sanguinet, Waco, Martin Houston, and Urban, Fort Worth, each had counted 38 times.

Randy Moore, Dallas gardener, had banged the most hits, 71. Wetzel, San Antonio, and Davis, Dallas had 67 and 62, respectively.

The clouting Cubs, Sanguinet and Blackerby, continue to run a neck and neck race for homer honors. Sanguinet had poled 12 through Thursday, Blackerby 11. Larmon Cox, Fort Worth, was next with seven.

Pepper Martin, Houston, held his lead over the base thiefs with 10 to his credit. Flackamper, Dallas, and Whelan, Shreveport, were crowding him with nine apiece. Eddie Moore, Fort Worth, had stolen eight.

Although his teammate, Dumovich, had a better average, Earl Caldwell, Waco righthander, had even more games than any other pitcher, eight. Lindsay, Houston, has struck out 42 batters.

Pyle's Pilgrims Set Dizzy Pace In Bunion Jaunt

Pavement Pounders Have Broken All Existing Records In Current Race Across Country

SAFFORD, Ariz., Jun 1 (AP)—C. C. Pyle's plodding pilgrims, nearing their goal in the dash afoot across the United States in search of gold at the end of the trans-Continental Rainbow, have broken all exisiting records for long distance running.

The Bunioneers have covered 2,883.4 miles of the trek to the Pacific Coast, and are expected to end the jaunt at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles, on Sunday night, June 16, two weeks from tomorrow.

The pace set by the leaders is almost 70 hours faster, at this stage than it was last year. Only 47 seconds separate Pete Gavuzzi and John Salo, and they have been averaging close to eight miles an hour under all sorts of conditions.

The lead has changed hands several times, and today in the 43-mile jaunt from Duncan, Ariz., to Safford, Salo sliced Gavuzzi's lead of 21 minutes and ten seconds, reducing it to 47 seconds.

PARIS, June 1. (AP)—Knute Hansen, Danish heavyweight once a contender for the title, has developed the artistic temperament and relieves the monotony of training for his coming fights in Paris by painting landscapes.

He rather resented the flippant remark of a sports writer who suggested that "he should specialize in painting black eyes."

Hansen said, without cracking a smile, that he intended to apply for entry into the Salon next fall.

Athletes From 30 States Compete In Annual Event

Froebel High of Gary, Ind., Wins Meet With 42 1-2 Points; Columbus Youth Is Sensation

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP)—A world's record went tumbling and three world performers were equalled, as 900 athletes from 30 states finished competition in the University of Chicago's twenty-fifth National Interscholastic track and field championship meet today.

Jack Keller of East High, Columbus, Ohio, after tying the world's record in the 120 yard high hurdles, came back to smash the world mark in the 220 yard low hurdles by scissoring his way over the barriers in :24. This performance clipped two tenths of a second off the old record.

Athletes from Froebel High, of Gary, Ind., captured the meet by scoring 42 1-2 points, with Arsenal High of Indianapolis, Ind., second with 28. Fort Collins, Colo., winner of the 1928 meet, was third with 26 1-3.

In the Academy section, Moosheart, Ill., won the title for the second successive year, with 42 points. Lake Forest, Ill., 1928 runner-up, again was second with 33. Culver Military Academy was third with 32 1-2 points and Terrill Academy of Dallas fourth with 22 1-2.

Ralph Metcalfe, sensational 16-year-old negro sprinter from Tilden Tech., Chicago, tied two world's records in winning both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. He stepped the century in :09 3-10 and captured the 220 in :21 2-10.

Former Bat Boy And Score Keeper Now Rivals Texas League Pitchers

FORT WORTH, June 1. (AP)—The Texas league this year offers baseball romanticists a situation perhaps unparalled in annals of the diamond.

One chapter might be entitled "From Bat Boy to Pitcher in Four Years." It is an echo of the Fort Worth nine, frequently characterized as the greatest class A team ever assembled, that swept to seven consecutive Texas league pennants and six Dixie championships.

Three players are involved—a star outfielder on that memorable team, the club's bat boy and score boy. That was their status four years ago.

Ziggy Sears, the outfielder, who was shunted from team to team after the winning Panther outfit collapsed, now has donned the umpire's blue.

After two years' schooling in a class D circuit, Vincent Devaney, the one-time bat boy, is a regular hurler on the 1929 Fort Worth team. Sometimes his mound opponent may be Bud "Lefty" Myres, the lad who once posted balls and strikes. Myres now is pitching winning ball for Houston.

Texas fans, who would make the drama complete, suggest a game between Fort Worth and Houston, with Devaney and Myres as opposing pitchers and Sears "calling 'em" behind the plate.

It is their first year in the Texas league for both pitchers, and both seem destined to stick. Sears rapidly is gaining a reputation as one of the league's most competent arbiters.

A-B's Set Pace In City League

The third week of the City Baseball closed Friday with all indications of a tough scramble for leadership among the four teams in the race for the city championship.

With the Auto-Barbers setting the pace, the four amateur clubs appear unusually well matched in all departments. Stronger pitching has been in evidence during the last week.

A more versatile defense has put the Auto-Barbers at the top of the city league ladder. The presence of a number of Tech baseballers on the team has given Manager Chisum a slight edge over the remaining clubs in the race.

Standing of the teams:

HOOKS AND SLIDES

By Henry L. Farrell

TONY BARES HIS PAST

Tony Lazzeri, who pooshes 'em up from second base for the New York Yankees, opened his soul and made a general confession recently to Harry Burndage, of the St. Louis Star.

"Poosh 'Em Up" Tony confessed the guilt of having been invited to leave school by the principal and admitted the sin of having aspired to be a prize fighter.

"When I was in school," Tony told the reporter, "I boxed, played ball and did everything but study. I guess I would have been kicked out of school long before I was had it not been for the fact that I pitched on the school team."

"I WANTA WORK, PA!"

"In 1918 they held a council on me and I was expelled from the school, for which I voted all of them my thanks and best wishes. I didn't tell the old man that I was fired from school. I told him I wanted to go to work, so he told me to pack a lunch and come with him the next morning. We went to the iron works where he was a boiler-maker and I was started in as a helper, heating rivets and tossing them to the riveters. My pitching experience stood me in good stead and I could throw a rivet with the best of them. I was soon earning $4.50 a day at the iron works and was making a little money on the side playing semi-pro baseball. I quit pitching about that time and decided that I would play shortstop.

BATTLING FIRST AMBITION

"In the meantime I trained regularly for my career as a prize fighter, for, although I had caught on as a shortstop for the Golden Gate Natives, a good semi-pro team, I had no idea of ever playing professional baseball. I had been running around with a lot of punk pugs in the neighborhood and when I was 17 years old I was matched to fight Pete Carlo, a wop, at the Association Club. My old man had warned me a dozen times that he wouldn't let me be a fighter and if there was any fighting to be done in the family he would do it. But when he heard about the match he called me aside where my mother couldn't hear and said he would be there for the fight.

PETE'S PA SAYS "MALEY"

"Carlo's father came into my dressing room before the fight. He felt my leg and arm muscles and announced that his Petie wouldn't fight me that night. The promoter tried to get me another match but couldn't and when the old man saw me he asked: 'Wassa mat!' I told him that Pete had refused to fight me and he said: 'Why you no licka da hell out of him in the dressing room?'

"That ended my career as a pug. I went on working at the iron works and kept playing baseball with the Golden Gate Natives until 1922, when, just as I was about to become a regular boilermaker, Tim Harrington, a friend, induced Duffy Lewis, manager of the Salt Lake City club of the Pacific Coast League, to give me a trial. That started me in professional baseball and here I am. But I still carry my card in the boilermakers' union."

Floyd County Area Cotton Acreage To Get Standard Seed

Bright Prospects Looming For Season; Planting Is Nearly Over; Opinions On Amount Differ

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, June 1.—Sixty to 70 per cent of the cotton acreage in Floyd county had been planted up to Wednesday and if weather conditions permit the entire acreage will be planted this week, according to the opinion of several farmers and gin men of Floydada and South Floyd county. Ideal conditions offered by the warm clear weather of this week following the heavy rains of this month started the planting in earnest. The growers are optimistic ovtr the prospects for an unusually good crop.

Opinion varies as to the total acreage of the county. In the south portion it is believed that the increase will not amount to a great deal and in some instances a slight decrease in acreage is reported. While none of the farmers from the north part of the county were interviewed, it is thought that a slight increase in the acreage has been made there.

G. T. Assister, who has a large acreage in cotton, in the south part of the county, and who is interested in a gin at McCoy, states that dry weather is the greatest need at the present time. "The cotton will be slightly later than usual due to late planting, but I have never seen a poor crop here after we had received a good underground season," Mr. Assister stated.

"There is a slight increase in acreage around my neighborhood and there is also an increase in the number of farmers planting standard seed." G. L. Fawver, of the Baker community, reported. A light shower to bring the cotton up that has been planted shallow is needed at this time, Mr. Fawver believes.

"From indications I would believe that there has been a slight decrease in acreage over the county but I feel sure that the amount of standard seed being planted has increased," W. F. Weatherbee, former manager of the Farmers Gin and for a number of years a Floyd county farmer, stated.

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, June 1.—Today brings the dedication for service of the new $23,500 First Presbyterian church and the formal opening to congregation and public.

Rev. E. C. Lambert, pastor, came to Snyder one year ago from Tulia, and with an unusual congregation to work with, has given the city one of the finest church homes in West Texas.

The new church is 50x66 feet with the exterior built of solid face brick. The seating capacity in the auditorium is 225, with a choir loft in the rear seating 18 persons. In addition to a minister's study and session room on the first floor, there are three large Sunday school rooms.

Opening day will be entirely in the hands of the Presbyterian congregation, with the remainder of the week showing a wonderful evidence of Christian love in the disposition of other churches to join in thanksgiving with the Presbyterians. On Monday night, the First Christian church will have full charge of the services with sermon by Rev. Thomas M. Broadfoot and special music by the choir of that church. Tuesday night, the Methodists with Rev. G. S. Hardy and choir will have charge. Wednesday night, the Baptists with Rev. W. F. Ferguson and Thursday night, Church of Christ with Pastor W. M. Speck. Odds Bring Happiness To Girl

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, June 1.—You might call Jeanne Norris' success luck or pluck. Or you might call it self-expression, in spite of genuine odds.

Jeanne was born on the west coast, of rich parents who traveled extensively. Before she was 11, little Jeanne had gone around the world a couple of times on her father's yacht. Her favorite deck sport was dancing in the winds, with her tiny skirts blowing in the South Sea and other ocean breezes.

She attended school in Seattle, Los Angeles, Chicago, Paris and Berlin, dividing her attention between art and the classics. As she applied herself to her studies, visions of herself dancing on the stage floated over the pages.

Wins Acclaim of Paris.

She had taken dancing in California and finally decided to train intensively for it in Paris. After three years of hard work the most pefect moment of he life arrived. She made her debut and received acclaim.

"Just a few days later—as I was dreaming of dancing all over the world—the doctor ordered me to quit," this lovely blonde picture-of-health told the story. "My heart just couldn't stand it. It wasn't merely a temporary rest. I must quit for life."

Days of near-despair followed. She wandered about the beautiful streets of Paris, numbed by her disappointment. One day luck took a hand in things. As she passed a street with little shops she realized that for the first time since her breakdown, she was noticing something in a window. It was a hand-tooled purse, a beautiful, artistic thing, with slender, leafed trees and fine flowers on it.

Shopkeeper Explains It.

She entered the shop and asked to see it. While she looked, the pleasant little French shopkeeper chatted with her. Yes, it was a beautiful thing and a beautiful girl made it and others like it for them. Yes, the customer could have any kind she wanted. She could even visit the girl who made them and order her own.

"I became fascinated the minute I saw the process," Miss Norris recalled. "Here was a lovely, artistic thing I could learn, was my first reaction. I located a school immediately and started taking lessons. The work was completely absorbing. What with long hours working and over-time taking art and visiting museums for new design ideas I was so busy I forgot my life failure!

Her Spirits Return.

"One day I was astonished to hear myself singing happily as I worked," Miss Norris smiled as she told it. "I seemed to have recovered my spirits. I had work that I loved and it gave me artistic expression, too. Moreover, I found that working with one's hands is the sanest and best way to overcome disappointment."

Last year Miss Norris got homesick for America. She came to New York and opened a little studio in Greenwich Village. There, in cozy, colorful surroundings, where she can glimpse a bit of a garden and a few trees, she spends happy days hand-tooling leather belts, bags, purses, writing pads, book covers. The increasing vogue for book-reading she pronounced a great benefit to her business. For book-covers are her best sellers.

Painting Aids Life In City

By NEA Service

OSLO, Norway, June 1.—If the summer's painting program has home builders racking their brains for color schemes, they would find it well worth their time to visit this town and study its painting scheme.

The town is divided off into sections, each section being painted a different color. One section is blue, another is green, another rose, another white, and so on.

Every home is painted because of some scientific reason. In sections where the sun is brightest, green predominates, because it rests the eyes. Red would throw back the light, causing strain and irritation.

One section is painted a peculiar tint of blue steel, because it gives more protection from the sun's heat than any other color.

SHOWER COMPLIMENTING MRS. TILLMAN REEVES

Complimenting Mrs. Tillman Reeves, nee Miss Mae Dunn, one of Crosbyton's recent brides, Misses Grace Nixon and Illyne Butler entertained Tuesday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Lee Self in the Johnston duplex on third street.

A color scheme of pink and white was very delightfully carried out. The hostess and their helpers, Misses Jenny Dunn and Jewel Butler, were charming in pink and white dresses, baskets of pink roses tied with white ribbons and pink and white crepe paper streamers added a dainty touch to the occasion. Miss Nixon met the guests at the door and presented them to Miss Butler, who presided over the register. Fruit punch was served from a rose laden table to about one hundred guests.

HAVE SUCCESSFUL MEET

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church enjoyed a gratifying response to invitations sent out Wednesday afternoon. About one hundred ladies called during the afternoon and others sent in their aprons containing generous offerings.

Members of the society acted as hostess and angel food cake and ice cream were served amid a profusion of garden flowers in a rainbow color scheme.

MRS. CHASE COMPLIMENTED

One of the most colorful and elaborately planned social affairs of the spring was the shower given by Mesdames R. P. Parker, R. D. Shaw and Albert Littlefield Tuesday afternoon complimenting Mrs. Carter Chase, nee Miss Ruth Smith, one of Crosbyton's May brides. The affair was staged at the Queen theater and a color scheme of purple and gold was carried out in the decorations and refreshments of fruit punch served from a lace covered table centered with canterbury-bells and larkspur.

The hostesses were assisted by Miss Ouida Smith at the punch bowl, Miss Mildred Weekly of Vernon presided over the register and Miss Mary Sue Shaw pinned on each guest a miniature airplane as favors. Miss Elsie Crausbay, in a Spanish costume, was a very gracious usher for the occasion, while Miss Pauline Buck gave several piano solos and Celestine Owen read.

In a place of honor were seated the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Sep Smith, and Mrs. W. C. Chase, mother of the groom. In a very realistic manner an airplane, the Spirit of Crosbyton, with motor wide open, landed on the stage bearing a miniature bride and groom and laden with a profusion of lovely gifts for the bride. Misses Anola Ballowe and Mattie McDonald, pilots, unloaded the plane of its burden of gifts and presented them to the bride. About one hundred ladies and girls were present.

OBSERVE BIRTHDAY

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church observed their regular annual birthday program and offering Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ernest Woods on south Berkshire street with members of the auxiliary acting as hostesses.

The subject for the afternoon's program was, "Mexican Womanhood", and the free will offering of $21 was sent to the two schools for girls supported by the auxiliaries in Mexico. The program was opened by Rev. J. W. Gregg reading the scripture lesson and prayer led by Rev. T. M. Johnston, pastor of the Methodist church. Mrs. J. W. Gregg gave the welcome address and an explanation of the work being carried on by the two girls schools to be the beneficiaries of this year's offering.

A beautiful and impressive pageant "Our Neighbors Needs", was rendered by Misses Hazel Boyd, Aline Freeman and Mrs. Sam Brawner. The three characters represented the Virgin Mary, Mexican womanhood and the Woman's Auxiliary. At the close of the pageant Miss Elizabeth Fuller sang the prayer song for Mexico. Miss Pauline Buck gave a piano selection and little Mary Ann Dickey of California, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Aynes, gave several pleasing readings.

At the social hour, brick ice cream with angel food cake in a color scheme of red, green and white, Mexico's national colors, was served to about forty members and guests.

TO BEAUTIFY GROUNDS

The Crosbyton school board has under advisement the beautifying of the school grounds. If the plans now under consideration materialize the ground will be leveled up and put in condition for the planting of trees which will be done this winter or next spring. Trees will be put out along each side of the three walks leading to the two school buildings. Tile will be placed underground for sub-irrigation purposes and grass will be put out on the entire campus.

Flower beds will perhaps be added by the assistance of the women's organizations which when completed will be one of the beauty spots of the city.

Other speakers of the evening were: Judge Edgar Hutchins, Rev. C. E. Dick and Judge E. A. Watson. A. A. Hatchell was master of ceremonies.

Slatonites Visit New Hope In Good Will Trip Friday

Delegation Of Fifty Makes First Booster Tour Of Season; Get-Acquainted-Better Program Given

SLATON, June 1.—The first good-will trip to be made this season by Slaton business men was made Friday night when a delegation of fifty people visited New Hope, nine miles west of here, where they were met by a crowd of 150 people of that community at the school building for a get-acquainted-better program.

J. N. Townsend, principal of the New Hope school, gave the welcome address, to which response was made by Horace Hawkins, president, T. A. Worley, jr., vice-president, and L. A. Wilson, secretary, of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce. W. H. Smith, chairman of the public relations committee of the Slaton Chamber, also made a brief address.

Musical Numbers Given

Four musical numbers were given by pupils of the New Hope school, directed by Miss Frances Griffin and Mrs. J. N. Townsend. A violin number, a piano number and two vocal numbers were included. Miss Guffin has been teaching music in the New Hope schools.

H. L. Henderson, J. L. Gassaway and L. A. Wilson sang a trio, after which Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Clark rendered several Hawaiian selections playing their steel guitars.

At the close of the program, ice cream was served, furnished by the Slaton visitors, and cakes were served by women of the New Hope community.

The next good-will trip to be made by Slaton people will carry the delegation to McClung next Friday night.

12 FIRES IN MAY

Loss Here During Past Month Is $50

Fires in Lubbock during the month of May caused a loss of less than $50 according to L. H. Simpson, city fire marshal.

Only twelve alarms were recorded and the total loss makes an average of approximately $4 per alarm, which is believed an outstanding record for a city of about 25,000 population.

Ninety alarms, averaging a loss of $120 per fire, have been recorded since January 1.

Herman Foster transacted business Saturday in Post.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvey Ater, of Ropesville, were Saturday business visitors here.

Hendricks Says Orgatone Kept Him On Job

Popular Meadow, Tex., Farmer Suffered 22 Years With Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

"Honestly, I have improved so much in the past few weeks that my friends hardly know men o first sight, and when they ask me what brought about the change I just tell them Orgatone," said A. E. Hendricks, of Meadow, Texas, while in Bowen's Drug Store, a few days ago. Mr. Hendricks is a well known farmer living on rural Route 1, and has lived in this section for many years and is a well known and popular citizen.

"Orgatone has done so much for me," Mr. Hendricks continued, "I feel like I ought to tell everybody about it. I had been suffering with kidney trouble and rheumatism for twenty-two years and got in such a bad shape I felt like it would only be a question of time before I would have to give up my work around the farm. I heard so much about this Orgatone treatment that I started taking it. Well, it has simply put me on my feet in first class shape and I can do as much work as anyone now, and I never miss a day from it.

"My stomach was in such a bad fix I couldn't digest anything and what I ate always hurt me, and seemed to give be no strength. The rheumatic pains in my legs and hands kept me in constant misery. I suffered a great deal with my kidneys which caused sharp pains in the small of my back and made it hard for me to get a good night's rest. I took all kinds of treatment and medicine but nothing did me any good. I was miserable and felt like I would just have to give up work because there was many a time I wasn't able to hardly get about, let alone try to work.

"I was induced by the high endorsements, for Orgatone, to give it a trial, and it has done more for me than all the treatments and medicines I have taken. My relief from the two bottles I have already taken is wonderful. I feel like a new man and have gained in weight and strength. I felt better after using my first bottle, and my second bottle gave me a fine appetite and fixed me up, so I could sleep like a log. My stomach felt easy and I was able to go about my work while I was taking this bottle. I can now eat anything I want and all my troubles and miserable feelings are gone. Orgatone has been of untold benefit to me and I am glad to endorse it because I know it's value, and I will tell any body who is trying to find relief from their suffering what Orgatone has done for me."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Adv.

Legislature

son." But there is a soberer thought which seems ample to stem the tide. Observers do not believe Mr. Woodruff's movement will attract little more than the well-known "corporal's guard."

Considering this an accurate disposal of the Robison matter, there looms ahead only columns and volumes of figures.

Will Compute Expenses

Expenses of the state government for the next biennium will be computed and finally totalled between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000.

Considerable adding and subtracting will be done to arrive at financial needs of the highway department for next two years and, this fixed, the legislators will get down to brass tacks and pass an adequate gasoline tax and motor vehicle registration bills. No one is able to say whether the gas tax will be three cents or four, but it is pretty safe to say the present two cent tax will be increased by either 50 or 100 percent. Likewise, it is not in invasion of the realm of speculation to state that the present registration fees will be reduced some 35 percent. These dispositions come naturally from the attitude exhibited during the regular and first special sessions.

Regulate Public Utilities

With the figuring out of the way, there will be nothing much left to dispose of except regulation of public utilities, taking for granted the Governor will give a trial to the prison concentration bill hatched out in the closing days of the first called session.

Prognosticators are not giving regulation of public utilities much chance. The proposition was considered very thoroughly in the past. The many factions with their compromising ideas could not get together. The legislators are due for a spell of homesickness when they get through with their figuring.

Tariff Bill

not present evidence at the house ways and means committee hearings.

The minority leaders said they were willing that a vote be taken at not later than a certain date and that ample time be allowed for settlement of differences in conference. Speaking for his colleagues, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the committee, said they were opposed to fixing a definite date for a vote.

The North Carolina senator thought a final vote should be taken before November 1.

The schedule relating to farm products will be the first considered by the committee.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Democratic support of the program to dispose of the tariff bill before the regular session begins in December eased up the congressional situation today and set republican leaders to planning a new on a recess over the hot summer months.

This threat of Washington's summer heat also appeared to be giving President Hoover a whip-hand on his entire extra session program, lending force to the drive to dispose of the farm relief controversy at an early date.

Summer Recess Hoped

If farm relief and the census-reapportionment bills are enacted and definite assurance given of a final vote on the tariff measure before December, Mr. Hoover will sanction a congressional recess until September.

Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, the ranking democrat on the finance committee announced today after a conference of the minority members of the committee, that the democrats would agree that a date be fixed assuring final disposition of the tariff before the regular session in December.

With the conferees of the senate and house on farm relief about ready to abandon the controversial export debenture provision of the senate bill to which the president is so strongly opposed, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, looked ahead to a recess beginning about the middle of the month and carrying over until September.

$8,000 in valuations, started the June building record in Lubbock Saturday, and the total for the week amounted to $33,500 for ten permits.

May's program aggregated $272,897, for 54 permits. The year's record was increased to $2,342,037.

Permits issued Saturday were: J. R. McKinley, for $4,000 brick veneer residence at 1910 Twenty-Fifth Street, W. S. Moss, contractor; W. C. Cosnoe, for $4,000 brick veneer residence at 1905 Twenty-Fourth Street, W. S. Moss, contractor.

Dan Cupid Gets On Job

Deluge of Marriage Licenses Greet Month of June In Lubbock; "Uncle Billy" Gets First Wedding

Cupids arrows recorded more victims during May than the piercing darts of marital discord, records in Lubbock reveal.

While less than two weeks ago plans for June weddings seemed scarce, marriage licenses issued at the county clerk's office during the last week increased May's total to 49.

On the other hand, there were 25 petitions for divorce filed during the month.

"Uncle Billy" Clark, Lubbock's marrying justice of peace, reported the first June wedding. Miss Edith E. Newton became the bride of J. L. Hansen at a ceremony performed by the Justice of Peace early Saturday afternoon.

Others who secured marriage licenses yesterday were: C. C. Galbraith and Miss Beulah Frances Cole. Wilburn Edelmon and Miss Ruth Officer. Doyle Ferrell and Miss Mamie Houston.

the water even higher than it is now.

Two industrial plants the Petroleum Iron Works and the International Harvesting company, are shut down.

The Sabine Airways, local airplane operators, kept three planes in the air all day today, taking passengers to Dallas, Orange and Houston.

The Trinity river at Liberty was thought to have reached its crest yesterday and began falling in the afternoon. It had reached a stage of 28 feet, 2 inches.

The oil field workers, Tom Kelly and Drew Carter, in the South Liberty field, received injuries, the latter probably fatal ones, in a gas explosion in the tool house of Riviere No. 4 at South Liberty Friday night.

Possible damage to 15,000 acres of rice, the major portion of Liberty county's crop, was feared when the Lovers Canal company flume at Mors Bluff was washed out. If the Flume can be repaired before a long, dry spell, the rice will be saved.

Streams Move Slowly Gulfward At Houston

HOUSTON, June 1 (AP)—While the waters of Houston's most disastrous flood in the last quarter of a century continued to recede tonight, crests of about a half dozen streams in South Texas moved slowly gulfward, inundating additional thousands of acres.

Buffalo Bayou was fast draining off the watershed above Houston and was expected to be back within its banks here before dawn.

As water rolled back from homes, business houses, streets and bridges, Houston residents began counting the losse which were estimated to run into the millions.

Conflagration Threatens

Danger of a serious conflagration here persisted tonight.

Most of the transportation facilities, paralyzed by the raging waters, were back in use, and traffic was moving over many of the bridges which had been covered with water.

Traffic in the ship channel was at a standstill today as the swirling waters reached that point. No ship had gone up the channel since yesterday. Great sections of the east bank of the channel were sloughing off.

With Beaumont isolated, the swollen Neches river threatened to break all previous high marks near that city. Precautions against the caving in of the eastern ramp at the Neches river bridge here were being taken with 20,000 sand bags ready as reinforcements.

The Brazos, Neches, Sabine and Trinity rivers were not expected to reach by Tuesday.

State prison farm properties near Huntsville were flooded today and residents of Brazoria county, bordering the Gulf, accustomed to floods, were unconcernedly awaiting for the Brazos to reach its peak, certain that thousands of acres of land would be covered. Three state prison farms are located in that county.

Lynchburg, where Buffalo Bayou and the San Jacinto rivers converge, was a lake and water surrounded the public square at Wharton on the Colorado river.

Search For Victims

Although Houston officers scouted reports that a man and boy had drowned in the rampaging Bayou here, they were making a thorough search of the waters.

One Killed In Nebraska Floods

FALLS CITY, Neb., June1 (AP)—Sudden floods in southeastern Nebraska streams today took one life, caused two train wrecks, drove scores of families from their homes, and caused great property damage.

Cecil Vader, 16, of Falls City, was drowned when he was swept away by a fall of water which covered the highway south of here.

Rescue workers spent most of the day taking families from their farm homes in the lowlands by motor boats.

High water which weakened bridges and washed out railroad tracks near Auburn, Neb., north of here, caused two train wrecks. No one was injured, but many head of hogs were drowned.

Upwards of 70,000 acres of land was under water.

LUBBOCK ADVERTISED

Kansas Accountant Visits After Hearing of City

"Have heard so much of Lubbock since being in Texas that I decided to visit a few days here," says H. E. Carmack, Abilene, Kans., public accountant, who is looking over conditions here with a view to locating in this city.

"While in several North Texas cities, where I have a number of clients, I questioned 15 business men with reference to a logical location in this state and 14 of those men advised me to look things over in Lubbock," he said. "Lubbock is assuredly one of the best advertised cities in Texas. If you don't believe it, just get out among other cities and ask questions."

More than 300 courses will be offered ofr instruction during the session, faculty members announced. Of this amount, approximately 100 will be for graduate students.

not be replaced for many years to come. He drew a distinction between distilled and fermented liquors, saying that "Distilation is the act of man and has been responsible for practically all the evils which 'liquor' has inflicted upon the human race, while fermentation is the act of nature, and that to many must mean, in the most reverential sense, the act of God."

Would Bar Distillation

His plan would bar "all alcoholic products of distillation" but would permit the control, manufacture and sale of all malt, brewed and fermented beverages by the states within their own borders.

All four of the prize winning plans agreed upon the present impractibility of repealing or amending the Eighteenth Amendment.

Justice Hoyt pointed out that "the Eighteenth Amendment prohibits the manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.' Despite popular belief," he continued, "it does not refer to 'alcoholic beverages,' what it bans is 'intoxicating liquors,' and if these two words could be defined intelligently it would solve the whole problem."

The winning manuscripts were selected out of 71,248 plans submitted.

Federal Building

occupied various courts here for the past several months and, should the commissioners accept a bid for the site from the government, it is unlikely that the problem will be solved. It is understood, from good authority, that United States District Attorney Dodge maintains the government will not accpet any title the rounty authorities can make to the property, without the signature of F. E. Wheelock to a quit claim deed.

Mr. Wheelock, with W. E. Rayner, now deceased, deeded the courthouse square to Lubbock county, when the county was formed, the dedication deed containing a clause to the effect that the property was to belong to the county, for so long a time as it shall be used by the public for public purposes.

Following the commissioners' first action of voting the site as a donation to the government, advices from Washington brought the attorney General's information that the property could not be accepted without a fee simple title.

One Waiver Signed

In an attempt at clearing up this legal tangle, a suit was filed in the Ninety-Ninth district court, several months ago. Mr. Wheelock was not made a party to the suit, but Mrs. Rayner, widow of W. E. Rayner, was named in it. She signed a waiver to the property, and Judge Clark M. Mullican's decision was to the effect that the county had full and complete title in the property and could do with it as desired.

The proposition of receiving bids si a result of the suit before Judge Mupllican. Statute provisions make it necessary, if the county wishes to dispose of its property, to advertise for bids. Understanding prevalent here is that the commissioners' court has the power to accept or reject any and all bids received.

Others May Bid

The government's bid will probably be surpassed by one or more individuals. Should some individual bid as much as $50,000 for the property and the government's bid be considerably beneath this, there might arise further complications, should the commissioners dispose of the site at the lower figure.

Even if the court accepts the highest bid offered, there yet remains the fact, based upon statements credited to the U. S. district attorney and others that no clear title could be obtained without the signature of Mr. Wheelock.

There has been $335,000 appropriated by the congress for the purpose of building a postoffice and federal building here. This can not be utilized until a site has been acquired that is suitable to the government. The structure, when completed, will accommodate both the postoffice and the federal district court, with other government toffices that might be located here.

Legislators Begin To Arrive In Austin

AUSTIN, June 1. (AP)—Members of the legislature were beginning to arrive tonight for the second called session, which opens Monday.

Governor Moody received at least five telegrams from members of both houses today asking when he intended convening the special session.

He issued his formal proclamation fixing June 3 as the date last Thursday, but he sent word to both houses before sine die adjournment of the first called session two weeks ago that he had selected this date for the second session.

Sixty Diplomas Are Stolen

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 1.—(AP)—Sixty diplomas for prospective graduates of Des Moines university were taken today by an unidentified man from the home of George Newcomb, business manager of the university after Newcomb left the house, a man requested the diplomas from Mrs. Newcomb, saying he was to take them to the university, they could not be located there.

This announcement was made a few hours after the apparent disappearance of Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board; Miss Edith M. Rehan, secretary, and two other trustees.

A fiery cross was blazing on the campus tonight, but was creating little attention. This followed receipt earlier in the day by Dr. T. T. Shields of a letter which the Tribune Capital said was on the stationery of the Polk county Ku Klux Klan. The letter declared, the newspaper said, that Dr. Shields, a Canadian, was being watched by the Klan, which was in sympathy with the efforts for "Americanism and patriotism" of President H. C. Wayman and his faculty.

Ruler Spends 64th Birthday In Royal Bed

WINDSOR, June 1.—(AP)—A definite feeling of relief characterized the news and comment of the illness of King George tonight following issuance of a medican bulletin. His majesty must spend his 64th birthday tomorrow in bed at Windsor castle instead of being the central figure in the ceremony of trooping the colors.

The sovereign is cheerful despite his renewed affliction after his long winter of illness. His bed is mounted on rubber wheels and can easily be moved from corner to corner of his big bedroom in Victoria Tower to catch the sunshine. A military band in the castle grounds plays his favorite airs.

Law Laws Peril To Married Life

By NEA Service

MILWAUKEE, June 1.—Present laxity of marriage laws, according to Dr. John A. Lapp of Marquette University, is a serious threat to modern family life.

"The foundation of the family —the marriage contract—has come to be a mere scrap of paper to hundreds of thousands," he says.

Different state marriage laws are conflicting with one another, he explains. One state marries a couple. Another divorces them. Another state makes divorce easier; another makes marriage easier. In brief, according to Dr. Lapp, marriage laws should be uniform.

"Our marriage laws are in chaos," he says. "The only reliance in law today is to seek a uniform statute in every state fixing a minimum requirement of a certain number of days after a license is granted before a ceremony can be performed; prohibiting marriage of parties outside the state without a license from their home county; and requiring that licenses must be secured in the home county of one of the parties."

Excellent Crop Prospects Throughout South Plains

Practically All Cotton Planted And Much Is Up

Many Acres Grain Sorghum Also Planted, With Good Stands Evident; Increase In Number Of Farms

With many acres of cotton up to a good stand, practically all of it planted, and with a big percentage of grain crops seeded, considerable of this up and growing, general crop conditions throughout Lubbock county and the South Plains are in a shape to bring exuberance of expectations from farmers.

Added to the present fine condition of the big crops—cotton and grain sorghums—is an accumulation of fine farm gardens, orchards with fruit-laden trees and an ever-increasing quantity of purebred dairy cattle, hogs and poultry.

Economic Background Good

The entire aggregation of prospects, however, have behind a foundation of healthy economic conditions. Then came the rain of Friday night, quite general over the South Plains, to add its quota to this bright aspect.

Don L. Jones, superintendent of the State Experiment Farm, located east of Lubbock, says:

"Conditions are about the same now as they were at this time last year, excepting we have considerable more moisture in the soil. Planting is about the same, with approximately the same acreage to cotton, perhaps less wheat and more than likely bigger acreage in grain sorghums.

Rain Did Good Friday

"Friday night's rain did much good, and came at a time when nearly all farmers had completed planting. The showers of the past week or so are much better than the sand storms we were experiencing about the same time last year."

D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county agricultural agent, is authority for the statement that most of this county's cotton is planted and lots of it is up. "Considerable grain has been planted," he declares. "While the rain was not exactly needed for other than wheat, that crop benefitted greatly by it and the others were given just that much more moisture as a reserve. Being light, the rain did not damage small cotton by washing it out or covering it with soil."

Cotton Acreage Same

Both Eaton and Jones are of the opinion that this year's cotton acreage is about identical with that of last year, between 175,000 and 200,000 acres. If there is any increase it will likely be because of many new farms being put in since last year. The yield for the county last season was approximately 36,000 bales—only about half a crop.

There will be as much, probably more grain sorghums this year than there were last, when about 120,000 acres in Lubbock county were planted to these. The average yield of these was about one ton of heads to the acre.

Gardens and orchards give more promise for 1929 than they did for 1928, despite the fact that a few farmers suffered losses by hail storms. This loss was not considerable and where occurring, did not completely destroy either gardens or growing fruit, except possibly in isolated cases.

Bank Deposits Show Gain

Economic conditions, as reflected by deposits in the three Lubbock banks, and by information giving similar facts from banks of a number of key cities of the South Plains, are better, by dollars and cents, than they were at the same time in 1928.

As of May 24, 1929, for instance, total bank deposits in Lubbock were $4,392,560.75, as compared to $4,158,884.48 on the same date in 1928. This is a gain of $233,676.27.

The figures above are credited to the three banks as follows:

Total deposits as of May 24, 1929:
First National, $1,703,262.67.
Citizens National, $1,606,405.49.
Lubbock National, $1,082,892.59.

Total deposits as of May 24, 1928:
First National, $1,720,177.58.
Citizens National, $1,394,587.99.
Lubbock National, $1,044,148.01.

IS SEED SPECIALIST

Goeth Farm Scene of Bushels Of Certified Seed

There are farmers who specialize in poultry, or dairy cattle, or hogs, and there are other farmers who specialize in other things. On the South Plains, natural breeding ground for grain sorghums, a number of farmers are specializing in the raising of certified seed of many varieties.

W. A. Goeth, residing about two miles west of Abernathy, has selected for his specialty the raising of certified kaffir corn and milo maize. Last year, from 30 to 35 acres, he threshed 500 bushels of kaffir and 900 bushels of maize. The yield was from only about a 60 per cent stand of kaffir and a 70 per cent stand of maize.

"This year I have already planted 90 acres to bagged seed of kaffir and about 17 acres to maize," Goeth relates, "and have about 10 acres of hegari planted. All of this is certified seed."

Mr. Goeth declares that there is a much better season in the ground this year than in several years. His kaffir is up and part of his maize.

Supervises Loans To Flood Victims

L. EMORY WHITE

COLUMBUS, S. C., June 1. (AP) There is no "red tape" in the way L. Emory White does business for the government.

In less than two months' time he has distributed $4,488,000 in federal loans to 16,984 farmers in flood and storm areas of southeastern states. Many of them got their money within five days from the time they made application for it.

At the same time he has been a good husbandman of finance, carefully going over the individual's need of seed, feed and fertilizer and advising with him on the most economic amount to borrow. Some applications have been declined and others reduced to some extent. To May 1, the number of applications for loans received was 19,777 as against 16,984 approved.

An appropriation of $6,000,000 for the loans was carried in the second deficiency act, approved March 4. White was put in charge of the farmers' seed loan office here and the first loan was made March 18.

HERE'S MONEY MAKER

Regular Income From Cows; Fewer Acres Believer

A believer in diversification and in the saying, "Fewer acres properly cultivated mean more money," Clarence Goodnight, young Lubbock county farmer residing on the Plainview highway about five miles north of Lubbock, has put his beliefs into every day practice, with results that tell their own tale.

Goodnight's farm is of 80 acres. In addition to the usual run of crops, principally grain sorghums, he successfully nurtures a fair-sized garden and orchard, as well as milking several dairy cows, raising hogs and chickens. His orchard consists of numerous plum, peach, cherry, apple trees and grape vines.

Average 300 Pounds

Seven fine grade milch cows average 300 pounds of butterfat per year, each, Goodnight surmises. He uses milk to feed to 10 or more hogs and about 150 chickens. Of the chickens 70 are hens and the others baby chicks.

"It costs me about $12 a month to feed my cows," he says, "in addition to the home-grown feed used. The purchased feed consists principally of cottonseed meal, which I mix with grain sorghums. Their rations, which include feeding eight heifer calves, are about 20 pounds of hegari a day, or some two tons a month."

Last year Goodnight realized about $400 from pork that he sold. He sells approximately 15 dozen eggs a week.

SHEEP VS. BLUE WEED

Elimination Of Pest Certain With Grazing Of Ewes

Fritz Fuchs, one of Lubbock county's two master farmers, who resides a few miles east of Abernathy, utilizes a means of making money which works three ways. He has been using this means for quite a few years and every farmer can learn a valuable lesson in economy and profits from this fact.

From the looks of a number of nearby farms to that of Mr. Fuchs his wise practice has been utilized by others of the vicinity.

Bothered with Weeds.

About five years ago Mr. Fuchs was bothered with a great growth of blue weeds on his farm. He purchased 100 head of young ewes and put them to grazing on pasture land and fields among the blue weeds. Today his farm is clear of this parasite.

But that is not the best part of the story. Every year he reports a crop of lambs averaging 100 per cent of his original 100 ewes. These he sells off, the sales averaging, year in and year out, approximately $10 per head.

The tale is not yet ended, however. There is a wool clip each year that nets about $250 to $300, enough to pay all feed costs for all his sheep.

When the ewes get old he sells them and buys another 100 head of young ones, thus keeping up the yearly crop of sheep at the same number.

Thirty-one cities in the world have more than 100,000 telephones.

The first pawnbroking establishment is said to have been opened in Bavaria in 1198.

Sweden has approximately 178,000 motor vehicles, an increase of 170,000 in 10 years.

Chicago has installed its millionth electric meter. It is in the plant of the Chicago Daily News.

Waving Wheat Field At Tech

As Texas Technological college students departed last week from the campus to their homes, or elsewhere, for the summer months, and summer school students arrive this week for attendance at the next session, they were greeted and will be greeted by the verdant sight of 15 acres of wheat as the green-carpeted lawn of the campus.

Casual observers might surmise that these 15 acres, while looking nice and green and quite pleasing to the eye, because of their proximity to the college buildings and to the city of Lubbock, is not exactly a wheat field. It is that, however, and Dean A. H. Leidigh, of the Texas Tech school of agriculture, as well as A. W. Provence, business manager, are looking forward to the green stalks and heads turning to yellow and harvest-god within a few weeks. Beyond this golden age will come the harvest the harvest and the work of Tech Aggie students will be turned into cash for the coffers of the institution.

Which brings forward the information that Texas Tech is in the farming business. Teaching of agriculture is being done by the practice of agriculture. There are some 100 acres of the college's 2,080 acre campus now being farmed. Twenty acres of this is put to cotton production, 640 acres are being used as pasturage for the Animal Husbandry department's excellent herds, about 80 acres given to feed crops and the balance rented out.

H. M. Bell, superintendent of the Tech farm, supervises all practical operations of crop cultivation. All work is done by students of the school of agriculture, of which this year there were 149 enrolled.

This year's crop of cotton, already planted, is the WesTex variety which was developed about 10 years ago at the State Experiment farm east of Lubbock by R. E. Karper, then superintendent, and which has become a leader on the South Plains.

The past two years have witnessed good crops on the Tech farm. Yes, like the average farmer, Farmer Tech has his problems of Johnson grass and blue weeds. These are being whipped out well, however, the art of hoeing on the 100 acres last year being reported as quite effective. Tech Aggies know how to handle their hoes.

Diversification Reigns

Farmer Tech does not grow any one crop. King Cotton does not rule him. There are 20 varieties of beans being raised, 18 varieties of cotton, 120 different kinds of milo maize heads planted. These are being raised and studied in relation to germination, there being the quick and slow varieties and the hard and soft varieties. This is a study that is being worked in connection with Agronomy problems, studied in the Aggie class rooms, under Prof. H. J. Bower.

There will be about three or four acres of Alfalfa seeded, to see if terracing will aid in giving higher production.

Other experiments are made by Farmer Tech on more or less smaller scales. He practices diversification and specialization and studies every phase of every problem known to farms and farmers. The story of the Tech dairy herd, the dairy products department, and other departments make another story.

Daily Increase In Receipts Of Milk For Cheese Plant

Factory At Abernathy Is Making Over 600 Pounds Of Cheese Every 24 Hours; Overworked

Running its receipts of milk up to past the half-way mark of capacity, the Struve Cheese factory, at Abernathy, which opened for business last Wednesday, reports almost 6,000 pounds of milk handled Saturday. The opening day witnessed the handling of 4,500 pounds, the second day 4,600 pounds, the third day 5,500 and the fourth almost 6,000.

Daily production of chees at the factory is between 500 and 600 pounds, of American cheese, made into squares and cylinders. The cheese figures approximately 11 pounds to the 100 pounds of milk.

Farmers Elated

Daily production of cheese at the community and for a radius of some 15 or 20 miles, reaching into both Hale and Lubbock counties, are elated over this new market for their products, particularly considering the price paid, 50 cents per pound on a butterfat basis, f. o. b. factory.

On top of the price paid for their milk the dairy farmers get the whey, which is left after the butterfat is extracted. This they use for feeding to poultry and livestock.

Visitors at the cheese factory, since its opening, number into the hundreds daily, officials of the company report, and much interest from every part of the South Plains is manifest.

To Make Tests

The company will, later on, make tests of every cow owned by the farmers who sell to them. These tests will be made every two weeks and accurate records kept on each cow.

At the rate of milk receipts it is anticipated that soon the plant will be running to its full present capacity of 10,000 pounds of milk a day. This capacity can be doubled with the addition of another big vat, the machinery having a capacity of handling 20,000 pounds of milk each day.

ATCHISON TO CONDUCT SCHOOL

C. J. Atchison, choir director at the First Methodist church, will today officiate in that capacity for the last time until the summer season is over.

During the summer, Mr. Atchison will conduct a studio, at 2118 Fifteenth Street, where he will offer instruction in voice.

Thirty-five states have passed laws stating that physical education must be part of the public school curriculums

Tells Old Story

First Floyd Town Had Restriction

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, Jun 1. — A town that was deeded to the people of Floyd county, but which was to evert back to its owner should the land ever be used for the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors is today but a level stretch of land used for farming purposes. Not a business structure remains to mark the founding of the first town in Floyd county, which was given to the people with this unusual restriction.

The story was brought out by R. E. L. Muncy, one of the first Floyd county settlers, at the old Pioneers Day here recently. The town referred to was Della Plains which was the first town in the county and one of the first on the Plains. Following the organization of the county in 1890 and the selection of Floydada as the county seat Della Plains was deserted by the few that had invested in its future.

Sudan Students Present Gifts

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SUDAN, June 1.—The senior class of this year, before leaving the school, placed in the lower corridors of the high school building immediately facing the entrance two trophy cabinets. They did this to establish a precedent and to commemorate their own passing.

This class numbered 19 to stay with the work throughout the year. The entire number graduated. One remarkable feature of this class was the presentation of a diploma to Mrs. Frances Gaddy Stegall, a young mother who should have graduated a year ago, but for leaving school on her marriage.

Dr. J. M. Gordon of Texas Technological college was the commencement speaker, while the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. C. R. Hooton, pastor of the local Methodist church.

Floydada Active With Construction

Number Of Buildings Being Put Up; Changes Made In City's Business Section, New Stores Coming In

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

FLOYDADA, June 1.—With the announcement of the lease of a building on California street to J. C. Penney, national wide dry goods firm, and the remodeling of several other business establishments, approximately $10,000 in permits for remodeling of buildings in Floydada were let by City Secretary Burl Bedford.

Of this amount $2,600 will be spent on the Penney building in order to give it the regulation J. C. Penney store front. The firm will open for business about August 1, according to Jack Parsons, manager of the Penney store at Lubbock.

H. P. Watson Variety store will occupy the building on California street now used by Arwine Drug company and there will be $2,500 spent on remodeling this building. The Arwine Drug company will move to the Boerner building on the same street which was formerly occupied by the Olympic Theater. Boerner will spend $2,500 for repair work and remodeling of this building.

The Olympic Theater will move to its new $40,000 home on West California street following its completion this month.

Railroad taxes devoted to highway purposes amounted to less than two and one-half per cent of the total highway income.

DAIRYING PROFITAB

Farmers Near Littlefi Making Good Profits

As proof that markets come whe production prevails is revealed i the statement of David F. Eaton Lubbock county agricultural agen made relative to the opening of th Struve Cheese factory, at Abernath last week.

"It is a peculiar thing," declare Eaton, "but everywhere there de velops a community-wide interest i any one form of agricultural specialization, from the production end of things, the market and manufacturing institutions sooner or later will come.

"Take the Abernathy area. It was in the northwest section of Lubbock county, near Abernathy, that our first development in better dairy cattle started a few years ago. I know there are at least 300 or more purebred cows in that area. Farmers of that section have gone in more for dairying than perhaps any other section of the county. It all started with a few fine cows and a purebred bull."

Cottletown Man To Face Murder Trial

CALDWELL, June 1. (AP) — Ed Goerner, 58, is scheduled to go to trial here Monday on a charge of murdering his wife two years ago at their farm home at Cottletown, near Bastrop. The case was brought here on a change of venue.

Goerner denied the charge, claiming he was in a corn field several hundred yards away at the time the shooting occurred, and that he heard no shot. The affair occured in April, 1927.

Goerner is a brother of H. L. Goerner, Dallas county superintendent of schools.

Cost of education for the 1,378,751 children in Illinois is set at $104.02 a year for each child.

Vigorous Buying By Bulls Marks Saturday Market

Movement Is Launched In Utilities In Final Of Stock Transactions; Entire List Strengthened

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Bulls launched a vigorous buying movement in the utilities in the final transactions of today's stock market, which strengthened the entire list, as it was slipping under weekend liquidation and short selling. The Associated Press price index of 20 leading utilities rose more than 2 points to a record high level, and this but six days since the index of 20 industrials dropped to a new low for the year. Rails and chemicals were also well supported. The day's business, however, was comparatively light, with only 1,533,770 shares changing hands.

Response Disappointing

The response to the record breaking weekly reduction of $232,000,000 in brokers' loans was rather disappointing during the first hour, when gains were confined to 2 or 3 points. This encouraged bearish operations, appearing to be centered in Radio, which was depressed 3 points to 84, a new low for the movement. Despite the reduction of brokers' loans, the credit situation still caused uneasiness, although the federal reserve bank statements showed further improvement at New York. Accounts for the entire system, instead of declining further, turned sharply upward, reaching a total of $6,194,000 in contrast to $904,426,000 a week ago.

Mounts Six Points

Federal Light and Traction and Standard Gas and Electric were high fliers of the utility group, both mounting about 6 points.

New York Central was a strong spot of the rails, getting back to 200 with a gain of about 4 points, only about 4 points from its record price. Columbian Carbon, Commercial Events, Union Carbide, and Allied Chemical sold up from 4 to 6 points and Burroughs Adding Machine leaped 10.

Cotton was again under pressure, losing about 50 cents a bale lower. Foreign exchanges were quiet, with marks and sterling showing some firmness in response to the reparations agreement. The Japanese yen and the Spanish peseta, however, both dropped to new lows for the year.

Wheat Prices Rise Following Slumps

Market Right-About-Faces Saturday After Series Of Setbacks; Agressive Buying Finally Reached

BY JOHN F. BOUGHAN
Associaat Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, June 1. (AP) — Quick right-about-face action of the wheat market today brought about price upturns strongly in contrast with the recent long succession of setbacks. Aggressive buying on the ground that the lowest quotations on wheat for at least some time had been reached was felt. Best prices of the day, however, were not maintained in the face of profit-taking during the late transactions.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1 4c to 7 8c net higher, corn 1-4c to 1c up, oats 5-8c to 1c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Accompanying the rise in wheat values today were estimates from one of the foremost unofficial crop experts here that the outlook was for 70,000,000 bushels less spring wheat production in the United States this season and 110,000,000 bushels less in Canada than last year.

Contributing to the upward course of wheat values today were indications that considerable export business in No. 2 hard winter wheat from the United States had been done overnight.

Corn, oats and provisions were responsive to the renewed strength shown by wheat values. Cash corn in Liverpool brought within 2c a bushel of the price of wheat. The majority of corn traders today were expecting good-sized decrease in the corn visible supply total Monday.

Daily Markets

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK
FORT WORTH, June 1. (AP)—The supply of cattle and calves at Fort Worth for Saturday's trading was lighter than usual. While the receipts called for 300 cattle, 100 calves and 400 hogs, 272 cattle were all direct and through billing which left very few for the day's market. The three cars of grass steers that did not clear on Friday sold Saturday at $9.75 or about steady.

The few bulls that sold were common light weights and cleared from $6.50 to 7.25.

A few cows were offered at a steady to lead in prices from 4.50 to 9.75. Bulk calf values were steady with a steady to lead of 6.00 to 11.00. No trading took place in the sheep market. Quality was lacking in the hog market while the best rail butchers sold at 10.55. The market was called steady. Best truck butchers sold at 10.50.

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK
KANSAS CITY, June 1. (AP) — Livestock trade this week was marked by material price advances on better grades of fed steers and yearlings. A weak undertone prevailed on the less desirable grades and the price spread within which the lighter cleared widened considerably. The same tendency is evident in the she stock contingent. Replacement stock was in larger quota with prices firm to slightly higher. Chicago had a top of $15.10 on choice medium weight yearling steers while in Kansas City and Chicago highly finished yearling steers scored $15.00, aggregate receipts were around 149,500 against 163,253 last week and 163,443 the same period a year ago.

Continued liberal receipts of fat hogs prompted price declines of 25 to $1.00. Fed lambs mostly 75c to $1.00 off. Total offerings approximated 217,500, a decrease of 28,000 from last week, but 24,000 heavier than a year ago.

Hogs were unevenly 15@50c under week ago. St. Louis had a last top of $11.00. The supply totalled around 47,050 as compared with 512,300 last week and 559,991 the corresponding week a year ago.

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Moderate rallies from a slight opening decline met a renewal of liquidation in the cotton market today. October sold off from 18.26 to 18.22 and closed at the lowest, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 7 to 10 points.

The opening was steady under overnight selling orders. Trade buying on the decline with covering for the short-end sent prices up a few points with July advancing to 18.18 and December to 18.53. The market weakened again later in the morning under a renewal of near month liquidation.

The lowest levels of the day were reached in the late trading. July sold off to 18.06 and December to 18.

Trading in contracts for next May deliveries began this morning, the first sale reported being at 18.72 and that delivery closed at 18.65. The private crop report was issued during the middle of the morning stating the condition of the crop at 72.8 against 72.8 last year.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week is estimated at 92,000 bales against 90,000 last year.

Careless Spenders—Please Don't Read

Why Many Women
Never Bother to Go to "Sales"

It is often inconvenient to leave their work at the advertised hour.

The "special bargains" are usually the wrong shade or size.

They know that they can find what they want, exactly when they want it in our store without fighting "bargain crowds."

Experience has taught them that our Everyday Low Prices are as low, and often lower, than so-called "sale prices."

Telephone Girls Cited For Deeds Of Public Service

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Three women and one man today were announced as 1928 winners of the Vail silver medals and $250 each awarded annually by the Bell Telephone system to those of its employes who during the year have performed the most "noteworthy public service."

The four are Mrs. Mabel Hite, Potter, Neb., Olin E. Perdue, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Athea P. Marks, Saticoy, Cal., and Miss Anna C. Yurecsko, Rockaway, N. J.

Plane Lands Safely

Mrs. Hite, a telephone operator was cited for alertness and responsiveness in sensing an emergency under unusual circumstances." Through her efforts a mail plane pilot made a safe landing during a blizzard in a field marked by flares held by men summoned by the operator.

Perdue, a line measurer, saved a fellow employe from drowning.

Mrs. Marks was cited for "courage and devotion to the public service" during the St. Francis dam disaster when she remained at her post to warn residents of the Santa Clara, Cal., river valley that the dam had gone out although aware at the time that the flood waters might reach her.

Miss Yurecsko, hearing that an automobile had plunged over an embankment on railroad tracks near Rockaway warned train dispatchers and summoned police and hospital aid for the injured, thus averting the probable wrecking of a passenger train.

Now You Can't Say This Gun Isn't Elevated!

NEA New York Bureau

If this gun isn't elevated, it's glorified, anyway. The weapon, a three-inch anti-aircraft gun on the U. S. S. The Florida was stopping in the Hudson river at New York City when a cameraman came snooping aroundd.

Littlefield Area Draws Attention

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, June 1. — The large loan companies are becoming very much interested in this section of the country, as evidenced by the many loans placed among the farmers of this section. One agent reports having closed loans aggregating $348,000 to 109 farmers in this action, on long time with low rate of interest.

The president of another large association reports having approved a loan for $75,000 to the Littlefield college, with which to make their improvements, and the loan is to be closed in a very short time, and building of the administration building and the improvement of the 10-acre block will start immediately.

Many other loans on farms in this vicinity have been approved, as well as loans on town property in Littlefield.

There is every indication for a prosperous year, with good crops, and there is a general feeling of optimism among the farmers and business men.

Cannon Calls For Leader Opposition

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP) — Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today called on anti-Smith democrats of his native state of Virginia to carry forward a determined opposition to the state party leaders who supported Alfred E. Smith in the last presidential campaign.

Announcing that he would refrain from participation in the democratic primary next August for the nomination of candidates for state offices, Bishop Cannon, who stumped the South for President Hoover, expressed the "hope that other anti-Smith democrats will abstain from such participation."

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Allene Sumner

A tiny one-floor white and green-shuttered Colonial bungalow is being built for the "honeymoon cottage" of Anne Morrow and Charles Lindbergh, sez rumor, as workmen admit that they have been working for months upon such a cottage on the Maine summer home grounds of Dwight Morrow.

The little cottage is complete in itself with its own boat dock and bathing beach, but is only a few hundred feet from the Morrow home.

Any number of wisecracks will be made, of course, at Lindy's temerity in daring to reside so near his in-laws.

But perhaps Lindy is a bright enough young man to realize, as have so many fresh husbands, that in-laws are apt to be much more of an asset than a liability.

DANNIE

Dannie learned that Dannie is hero of one of the short stories in Vina Delmar's new collection of shorts called "Loose Ladies." Every Monday Dannie's mother-in-law gave him a $20 bill and a good talking-to because she had to do it. A good front porch or hammock book, proving again that black is never black and white is never white, and all the people sufficiently spotted with black to be labeled "loose ladies" are capable of infinite self-sacrifice and other virtues.

BETTER WORLD

Mrs. Betty Ann Wagoner of New Orleans can see for the first time in 48 years. She was born blind and given sight by a miracle of modern science just a few days ago. Now she wants to learn to read. Here is a pretty commentary to the effect that the world is improving. For Mrs. Betty Ann Wagoner was given her sight in a hospital charity ward. If she had been born blind in this age she would know how to read, too. No blind child born today would be permitted to live 48 years without being taught to read.

SHE SHOWED HIM

Here's another woman, Mrs. Rosalind McGuinness of Brooklyn, arrested on a charge of speeding and reckless conduct, stopping to call the cop who did the deed "a dirty Irishman" and other choice epithets while she hurled telephone books and everything else within reach at him.

None of "us girls" can deny that we don't take kindly to criticism, from husbands criticizing the set of the hat to policemen daring to accuse us of reckless driving.

On the other hand, none of us can deny that policemen have a little habit of "getting away with murder" and need an occasional rebuke from one or both sexes.

And again they're saying that predetermination of sex before birth is a sure thing in the future, if not now. This time it's Dr. Oscar Riddle of the Carnegie Institute Station for Experimental Evolution who says

Every Woman Loves To Shop Around For Hats

By MME. LISBETH

Every woman loves a new hat. It makes her feel like a new woman. Gloom passes and inhibitions fade away before the magic of a new and becoming head piece.

More brim is being allowed on milady's hat this season, which is said, in some quarters, to be the forerunner of the large hat for hot weather. These prophets declare that the summer dresses, with their longer lines and lingerie details, call for the larger hat.

However that may be, small hats of various degrees of draping and decoration are foremost in the styles, in the ratio of at least four to one, according to the models illustrated.

Above, at left, Laura LaPlante wears one of those tight fitting little turbans so well liked to wear with fur collars. The one pictured is of hunter's green felt, and it is worn with a green coat trimmed with red fox.

The white vagabond shape is next illustrated—a simple tailored model, but feminine nevertheless, with its rolling brim and becoming to Mary Nolan of the screens. The same young woman displays another sports hat at the upper right. It also is a felt in bright salmon color—a shade especially suited to blondes.

With a tailored suit of gray kasha Laura LaPlante uses a gray felt tam. It's a fetching little chapeau with a bit of sailor swagger.

The broad brimmed summer hat is pictured at the lower right. It is a straw colored leghorn trimmed with band and streamers of pale green ribbon velvet.

Cheops Wasn't So Hot A Mason

CHICAGO, June 1.—A small piece of mortar from the pyramid of Khufu, estimated to be 6000 years old and built by the Egyptian king, Cheops, was recently brought here for testing by the laboratories of the Portland Cement association.

The composition of the piece was found to be a weak, easily decomposed mortar made up largely of impure alabaster.

In the dry, hot climate of North Africa, where this pyramid has stood for thousands of years, this type of composition withstood the ravages of time. However, the association reports that if erected in a climate similar to that of the United States, it would have decomposed in a short time.

All kinds of mortars and cements have been tested in these laboratories. Just recently they analyzed concrete from the Arch of Titus in Rome.

Recreation Club Planned In Lubbock By Dallas Man; Project Provides For Expenditure Of $150,000 In Building

A CLUB building, offering recreation, literary and social benefits for members, will be organized in Lubbock if the plans set underway here by Theodore Sansom, Dallas, head of the Recreational Clubs association, go through to completion.

Mr. Sansom arrived in the city several days ago and since his arrival has talked to a number of citizens regarding his plan.

Would Build Buildings.

Proposals for the local organization will necessitate an expenditure of $100,000, a sum not to xceed one-half of which will be raised by initial membership fees, and Hr. Sansom will provide the other $50,000, he explained.

An adequately equipped library, an auditorium, lounge room, dining room and space for indoor sports will be facilities of the building which will house the club if the plan is consummated.

"I have already secured the approval of churches, literary clubs, and educational authorities in my endeavor," said Mr. Sansom. "A tentative organization, forming a nucleus around which the project will be formed, is composed of Rev. H. L. Munger, pastor of the First Methodist church; Dr. J. C. Granbery, head of history and sociology at Texas Techonological college; Dr. J. M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. W. P. Jennings, pastor of the First Christian church; Rev. L. G. Williams, rector of the Episcopalian church, and Mayor H. D. Woods."

Granbery Praises Plan.

In speaking of the proposal, Dr. Granbery said, "The plan outlined by Mr. Sansom is most attractive. It would perhaps be difficult to think of any greater need in Lubbock at the present time. Such a center would be a moral force of incalculable value. If the financial side of the enterprise could be handled satisfactorily, I believe that a center of character described by Mr. Sansom would at this time fill a place in our civic life for which some of us have been longing."

With plans for a rental library, dining service and entertainments, the club will have a commercial feature which will be open to public patronage, Mr. Sansom explained. The club proper, however, so far as social benefits are concerned, will be for members only.

Auditorium of the building will be available for civic meetings and entertainments, it was explained.

The Second Census In Crosby County

BY JAMES T. BUCK
Crosbyton, Texas

At least some of the many Avalanche-Journal readers must have read my article with interest on the first census of the United States and Crosby county in last Sunday's issue, for a few have so expressed themselves, and I feel encouraged to give a review of the second census of the county, that of 1890. The census of 1880 showed a total population of only 31 souls in the entire county, but the next decade showed a substantial increase, for 347 names appear upon the enumeration rolls of the next census.

However, Crosby county still had the appearance of being an uninhabited expanse of prairie, with scattering houses wide apart, no farm land in cultivation and with but few fences, large stretches of country being enclosed with barb wire to hold the stock of the big ranches, and the traveler could go for miles and miles in any direction before a fence would halt his progress, so thinly settled was the county at that time. Estacado was the only town in the county, and it was scarcely large enough to command the dignity of being called a town. All the South Plains country was attached to Baylor county for judicial purposes, with Seymour, about 160 miles distant, as the site of justice, up to 1886, when the population of Crosby county had grown sufficiently to justify a county organization, and on petition an election was held Sept. 11, 1886, for the purpose of selecting a county seat for the embryo county. The Quaker village of Estacado, in the extreme southwestern part of the county, and an imaginary town below the "cap rock" called Tilford in the eastern part of the county were voted upon for the site of justice, and the Quaker village easily won the victory and thus Estacado became the first county seat of Crosby county. In the following general election in November the county officers were selected and when they qualified the county government began to function. These first officers were G. W. Swink county judge, E. B. Covington county attorney, Paris Cox district and county clerk, Felix S. Franklin sheriff, T. H. Lewis county treasurer, "Uncle Hank" Smith tax assessor, Henry C. Knight surveyor, W. F. Leonard hide and animal inspector, A. W. Lewis, C. M. Tilford, Joe Sherman and J. P. Brown county commissioners. As before stated, all this plains country had been attached to Baylor county for judicial purposes up to this time, and when these newly elected officers went to Seymour to be sworn in, and when filing into the county judge's office for this purpose, the judge on looking up asked, "Are you the gentlemen from Crosby county who come to qualify for office," whereupon Felix Franklin, the newly elected sheriff, acting as spokesman answered: "We are the men from Crosby county who have come to take the oath of office, all hell could not qualify us." Upon the organization of Crosby county that tier of South Plains counties, including Motley and Dickens, were attached to Crosby for judicial purposes, namely: Floyd, Hale, Lubbock, Hockley, Lamb, Cochran, Bailey and Gaines.

Now, getting down to the census of Crosby county in 1890, ex-Sheriff Felix S. Franklin was the enumerator for Crosby county as well as for Lubbock, Hockley and Cochran counties, extending to the line of New Mexico.

Lubbock county was then exceedingly thinly settled; Hockley was still less settled and Cochran had not one permanently settled within the county, all the territory embraced in these three counties being given over exclusively to cattle raising, with only a few very large ranches within their bounds. Mr. Franklin commenced his enumeration at Estacado on June 2 with the name of George M. Hunt, farmer, as the first appearing on the list; then came his wife, Lena T. Hunt, and their children, Irwin L., Sylvia B., Myrta E., Lottie A., Alvin G. and Clifford E. Following then came John W. Allen, farmer, and his wife, Lela A. and children Roy L. and Benjamin F. The enumerator then enumerated himself as a farmer, his wife, Fannie L., his daughters, Jennie B. and Mary D. Then David P. Allen, blacksmith, and his wife, Hettie A. and sons Claude C. and James A. Next day he was still at Estacado and recorded the names of John E. Underhill and wife Susan J.; Frank J. Brown and wife Mary J. with Edna L., Frank A. and Edith, his children, all at public school. Ephriam Y. Lee stock raiser, and his wife Alice J. On June 4 Enumerator Franklin was still in Estacado and enumerated Mary C. Cox, who was the wife of Paris Cox, the Quaker leader, and their children, Charlie A., Oscar L., Bertha and Fletcher. Next comes Charles Holmes, who is listed as a merchant and farmer, and his wife, Mary E. and children Rosa B., Linn H., Henry C., Sarah S., Fredie and Nancy J. Allred. James C. Murphy, farmer, with his wife, Ella, and children Ernest, Rena B., Albert and Lee Murphy. Then comes the names of the first physician in the county, Dr. William Hunt and his wife, Elizabeth, and children Linton D., Thomas R., James L., Nora P. and Alistus W. Hunt. On June 5 Warren C. Dockum is listed as a carpenter with his wife Sarah A. and children Charles A., Colonel C., Mayle G. and Bertie R., all at school, and Walter Hunter, a laborer. Then comes Serena A. Hammer and her sister Rebecca F. Hammer; Madison S. Hadley, farmer, and his wife Casandrew and John M. and Elizabeth D., adopted children. Dr. William V. Marshburn, the second physician, who resided across the line in Lubbock county, and his wife Azora and their two children Clara and Albert L. Mahlen P. Marshburn, farmer, his wife Nancy and their children Elsie, Austin and Ina. On June 6 Seth Janeway is listed as a hotel keeper and his wife Susanna E., and their widowed daughter, Cynthia A. Cox and her son Ernest C. Cox, Luther C. Janeway, Daniel O. and Ada M. Janeway, Luther J. Hickerson, a carpenter, Arthur T. Walker and his wife Mattie A. Walker; Herbert C. Hume, merchant; John P. Kerlin, farmer; Henry B. Byers, a cowboy; Joseph P. Brown, stockman; John D. Caldwell, carpenter, wife Sallie A. and children Kennie L. and Yetta L. Edward T. Cox, merchant, next appears with his wife Ora M. and children Marian, Hattie N. and an unnamed infant. Edward B. Covington lawyer, Henry C. Knight, surveyor, and Thomas McDonald, a cowboy. On June 8 Mr. Franklin was still at Estacado and enumerated John M. Bird, stockman, and family, Sallie H., his wife, Ella P., Leia M., and Annie E., and James K. Milwee and his wife Louisa and two daughters Nellie and Pauline. Thomas J. Wilson, a stockman, and his wife Fannie T. and Alec L. Mills. Harvey Underhill and wife Annie A. Andrew H. Underhill and wife Jane N. and children, George C., Albert G., Elvin A., Clayton H. and Edna A. June 9 Gabriel S. Conroe, a blacksmith, was listed, with his wife Fannie J. and children Katie J., John W. and Ivan L. James E. Overhulse, and wife Mary C. Fannie M. and two stepsons, Augustus and Churchwell Lewis. On the 10th he found George H. Overhulse, farmer, and Robert Linn, his wife Arcola A. and children Ada V., Emma L., Jesse I., Maggie M., Hattie B., Thomas W., Robert E. and Ella; and on June 11 he enumerated George W. MISS BAIRD ON VACATION

Miss Louise Baird, Lubbock county home demonstration agent, has gone to Vernon, where she will visit homefolk several days, during her annual vacation. From Vernon she will go to Tennessee for a visit with relatives.

Chic Ensemble

Grey kashamoussa fashions a sports ensemble of coat and beret for Florence Walton, the American dancer who runs a chic modiste establishment in Paris.

The coat has considerable flare, deep pockets and raglan sleeves. It does not fasten. The little modified beret has scant fullness and uses a little button to top it.

Miss Walton's frock is a printed crepe de chine in black and white with a dash of red. The scarf of red is Paris' latest choice in shape, being one of the long ones that can be tied in a bow under the chin, wound round the neck and tied in back or worn, as Miss Walton wears it, with one end down the back and one down the front.

Grand Jury Here Returns 15 Bills

The Lubbock county grand jury recessed Friday until June 24, after returning a total of the prohibition laws, two for forgery, two for swindling, one for assault with intent to commit rape, three for theft and one for driving a car while intoxicated.

Seven arrests have followed the indictments. These are: E. R. Patterson, burglary; Roy Odom, pro law violation; B. L. Thomason, statutory offense; Burley Baggett, theft; T. J. Wren, pro law violation; G. W. Allen, pro law violation, and Arthur McCann, alias L. W. Slade, alias Lee Allen, burglary.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

One word has steadfastly crept into the vocabularies of women everywhere until it has become comparatively dominant. It is smartness. Nowadays one wants to be "smart." What does the word mean? And why is it so important?

MME. RUBINSTEIN

It means fashionable, briefly. But not all fashionable women can be called truly smart. So it must mean something more. I think it means the briskest, freshest, most completely neat and perfect way of being fashionable. Not just keeping up with the styles, but adapting the styles to yourself with the best taste possible, and with the most delightful of results.

If you think that this subject is far afield from the beauty specialist's work, I think you are going to discover yourself mistaken. For today the field of the beauty specialist is wherever she can assist in creating beauty. Fashion designers and stylists are working closely with the beauty specialist to create harmonious ensembles of costumes and cosmetics, of faces and figures and clothes that are artistically lovely.

I am going to tell you all I can about smartness, because it is the keynote of the modern woman's personal appearance. It is the thing she strives for in her dress, her accessories, her good looks, her cosmetics, her way of entertaining and living, in short, in everything she does by which other people judge her.

Do not think for a minute, please, that being smart means being showy, or extreme or in any way vulgar. That colloquial sense of the term is something else entirely. All smartness in the modern sense is characterized by the element of good taste. Many smart women are conservative. Many others follow fashion to its newest and most striking extremes. But the moment that either ceases to observe good taste and fitness and the circumstances under which she happens to be living, she ceases to be smart.

It takes brains to be really "smart." Not money—many women manage to be extremely smart on the tiniest of incomes, while other wealthy women never succeed in being anything but unattractive and dowdy—even with natural beauty of face and figure. Just brains. And for this reason I feel that the trend toward smartness is ushering in a new era of personal beauty. For beauty mixed with brains is a fascinating and delightful combination. It leads to all kinds of interesting things.

Given brains—the right sort of brains, which means intelligence in using one's mind and body—any woman can be beautiful, and more than that, she can be charming.

Just now it's smart to be healthy looking. And I believe that it never again will be smart to be anything else. Gone is the day of the pale, languid, sickly beauty, who fainted at the least excuse, just to prove how very delicate and feminine she was. Gone is the day when some women were pretty and others were plain just because they happened to be born that way.

Now all women may be attractive because all women can be smart. Smartness is the ideal, and it is the ideal that every woman may attain if she has a normal quota of intelligence.

Highway Signs Destroyed As Soon As Put Up

AUSTIN, June 1. (AP)—"Road shooters" didn't even wait until the state highway commission had finished installing markers on 17,000 miles of road to begin to test their marksmanship on the signs, according to Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, who said he had observed markers damaged on stretches as long as ten miles.

Edison And Ford Popular In City

Lindbergh, Hoover And David Lloyd-George Given Wide Vote In Opinion Of Lubbock Citizens

As the world views greatness, naming one outstanding individual in all the world today, as the greatest of the great—might be considered upon first thought a small undertaking. But naming ten such persons who can rightfully claim the honor and distinction, is not so easy as one might think, if interviews with a number of Lubbock's "busy" business men and women are to be taken as a criterion.

Nevertheless, who's who in the world today—in the field of science, engineering, invention, aviation, politics, sports and so on—will be seen to vary with personal opinion. However, according to the decision of Lubbock citizens, including a banker, a doctor, a realtor, a minister, a barber, a merchant, a stenographer and a beauty parlor operator—it appears that Thomas Edison has unanimously won a place in the sun—as the world's most outstanding, most interesting, most popular and most appreciated person living. Other popular idols of the day are Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, Chas. A. Lindbergh and Lloyd George, who have been acclaimed favorites and vie with each other in ranking from second to fifth place in the hall of fame or popular choice.

White's List Varies

Dr. W. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist church, said that he had purposely not chosen his list from the world's greatest spiritual leaders but that he had taken a general estimate more or less from what the world considers great. They are as follows: Charles Evans Hughes, Herbert Hoover, David Lloyd George, of England, Venizellos, war premier of Greece, Thomas A. Edison, E. Stanley Jones, Jane Addams, Millican, a scientist in California, George Washington Carver, a colored scientist, and Benito Mussolini, of Italy.

C. F. Drexel, vice-president-cashier of the Citizen's National bank, names as the greatest men of world affairs, Thomas A. Edison, Benito Mussolini, Henry Ford, Lloyd George, Gen. John J. Pershing, Poincaire, prime minister of France during the World War, Charles A. Lindbergh, Richard E. Byrd, aviator-explorer of the Arctic region, Einstein, scientist professor, and George Bernard Shaw, philosopher and writer.

Turk Makes List

Charles F. O'Neall, realtor, gives as his first choice Thomas A. Edison; second, Kenal Pasha, Turk dictator; third, Henry Ford, and places as fourth, Herbert Hoover. Others he mentions are Lloyd George, H. G. Wells, author, Benito Mussolini, Colonel W. E. Gorgas, engineer of the Panama Canal, Arthur Baden Powell, originator of the Boy Scout organization in England, and Jan Smutts, South African statesman.

Ira Doak, proprietor of the Doak Barber shop, names first Mayo Brothers of Rochester, Minn., physicians of world note, second Thos. A. Edison, third, Charles A Lindbergh, with Richard E. Byrd fourth. Others named are: General John J. Pershing, of World War fame, William Howard Taft, General Goethals, engineer of the Panama canal, Einstein, Padrewski, the famous musician and Macroni, the inventor of wireless telegraphy and radio, Jack Parsons, manager of the J. C. Penney company, declared that he was too busy to make his decision further than to name four men whom he considers the outstanding figures in the world today, Thomas A. Edison, Herbert Hoover, Charles A. Lindbergh and Henry Ford.

Names Beauty Expert.

Mrs. H. Paul Moore, proprietor of the Charlotte Beauty Shop, after naming as the world's favorite quartet, Edison, Ford, Lindbergh and Hoover, breaks into the field of beauty culture naming specialists and inventors of the trade and later expresses her like for sports by naming two of the world-famed champions, and as still another favorite, John D. Rockefeller, the great financier. Others named by Mrs. Moore are: E. E. Frederic, inventor of the permanent wave, Dr. G. A. Ward, specialists in facial surgery, General John J. Prshing; with Babe Ruth, famous baseball home run hitter, and Jack Dempsey, heavyweight prize fighter.

Miss Margartte Whipp, stenographer for the Texas Life Insurance company, names first on her list of the ten greatest men, Dr. Charles Reighn Scoville, minister, second Charles A. Lindbergh, with Edison third, Ford, fourth, and others as follows: Edgar A. Guest, author-poet, John J. Pershing, World War general, Commander Richard E. Byrd, explorer of the North Pole, Dr. Long, author of English literature, with Dr. Hugo Eckener, flyer of the Graf Zepplin airship.

Krueger Favors Mayo

Dr. J. T. Krueger, of the Lubbock Sanitarium, names as one of the outstanding men in the world of medicine, Dr. C. H. Mayo of the Mayo Brothers, and as an outstanding inventor, Thomas A. Edison, with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh as the world's greatest aviator and ambassador of "Good Will." Others named by Dr. Krueger, were George W. Bostic, Baptist minister, Andrew Mellon, financier, Will Rogers, comedian, Herbert Hoover, president, with John D. Rockefeller as the greatest living benefactor to the human race, giving as he has multiplied millions to medical research work, and the building of churches and the endowing of libraries, while H. G. Wells was named by Dr. Krueger as one of the great present day writers.

Necessity Brews Strange Liquor

By NEA Service

CHICAGO, June 1.—Necessity is the mother of invention, and Jerry Parrish needed a drink bad so he invented the "gas cocktail."

Jerry, a "bo" of points north, south, east and west, arrived here with little money and lots of nerve—in addition, he had a violent thirst. He panhandled 20 cents, 15 cents of which went for a room, and the other five for a rubber hose.

Jerry retired to his room, got himself a glass of water, attached the hose to a gas pipe, inserted it in the glass of water and turned on the gas.

"I let it bubble for a minute," Jerry told police, "and then I swallowed it. Cheapest drunk I ever did know. Throw a swell party for a nickel. And, what a wallop."

"A Man's Reach" Is In New Novel Era

Stubbins Gives True Life In Book From Meador Print

THOMAS Alva Stubbins, author of "The Patriot" fulfills the prophetic utterance of the critic, who said American fiction will be, and is now being transformed by the new science and that veritable second Renaissance is now in progress, in his novel, "A Man's Reach."

"A Man's Reach" is so true to life that one publisher to whom the manuscript was submitted wrote, "we can not think that one could write so clearly in places unless he actually had seen those things and scenes and places in his own life and the lives of others."

And the inference the author drew from the ensuing correspondence was that if the words "An Autobiography" had been given as a sub-title this publisher would have jumped at the chance of giving the book his imprint. The author declined to give such a subtitle.

"A Man's Reach" is divided into four books and there is not a dull page. It grips so hard that an attorney for a great trahscontinental railroad wrote, 'the story is so good I could hardly lay the manuscript down yesterday.' It is not the stereotyped presentation of the same old them of yesterday and today but it is truly unique just as Minnie Hoover Linton, editor, wrote, "a plot that makes a startling novel."

"A Man's Reach" might well be called 'An American Saga—Beginning with the Year 1875 and Extending to January First 1929."

"A Man's Reach", by Thomas Alva Stubbins, 200 pages, Meador print.

Galveston Beauty Pageant Expected To Be Gala Event

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

GALVESTON, June 1.—With the first contingent of foreign beauties here, the advance guard of domestic contestants sailing today from New York and another foreign group, including Brazil's $10,000 prize beauty, Senorita Olga Bergamini De Sa, arriving Tuesday, Galveston today was completing arrangements for the handling of the greatest crowds in the history of the International Pageant of Pluchritude. This event, only world beach beauty classic ever staged, is to begin here next Saturday, June 8, and last five days.

Forty-three or more beauties, including ten foreign representatives a score or more of state beauties and fair emissaries from America's biggest cities, will take part this year. Accompanying the beauties are newspaper correspondents from all represented parts of the world—in fact, about five times as many as have "covered" the pageants in the past. Included in the party are five from Brazil and Spain's only newspaper woman.

Prize Novel Author Wrote Because She Grew Lonesome; Wrote What She Saw

FORTE MOTTE S. C., June 1 (AP)—Because a boy grew up and went off to school, his mother turned to writing as a means of passing the lonely hours.

And because this mother lived on a Carolina plantation where life is placid and strangers are few, she wrote of what she saw and, specifically, she wrote of the negroes she saw.

Had To Do Something

Mrs. Julia Peterkin possibly would never have written had she not felt the need to do something with the time suddenly given a mother whose child no longer needed her care. She tried music, but her heart was not in music. The suggestion that she write came from her teacher, Henry Bellaman of Columbia S. C.

And out of that suggestion came "Green Thursday" and "Black April" and, finally, "Scarlet Sister Mary" which won the Pulitzer prize.

All are tales of the same seacoast plantation, of the negroes who live as they have lived since slavery days. "Black April" has his counterpart and the magdalene who gave her favors but kept her heart, lives as surely as Mrs. Peterkin made her live in her prize novel.

Mrs. Peterkin started to write because the placid existence in this little township was not enough to keep alive her intense interest in the world outside her door. Music failed and because she was disappointed with her progress, she tried to divert her teacher's attention by telling him incidents of her plantation life. He urged her to write them.

"I told him I couldn't write a decent letter," Mrs. Peterkin says. "He insisted and I tried several sketches. Then Carl Sandburg came to Charleston on a visit and Mr. Bellman brought him up to Forte Motte."

There was the turning point. Sandburg was enthusiastic and the southern woman was won over.

Mencken Liked Them

"I asked them for the severest critic in America and they told me of Henry Mencken. I sent him my sketches and he wrote that he liked them."

These sketches appeared and then came her first book. "Green Thursday" and, in a measure, "Black April," were well rounded sketches, but sketches none the less. "Scarlet Sister Mary" was a novel, breathing the aroma of damp soil and scorching cotton fields, of love and laughter and a code of morals which are peculiarly negroid.

Cast a Spell

"Before I sent the first sketches away," Mrs. Peterkin confesses laughingly, "I called in an old negress who is supposed to be able to cast spells. I asked her if she could cast a spell on them so that those who read would like them. I suppose she did and maybe the spell is working still."

Mrs. Peterkin and another Carolinian, DuBose Heyward, are credited with writing the most intelligent literature of the southern negroes. And as Heywood's "Porgy" captured the Pulitzer award as a play last year, so "Scarlet Sister Mary" carries on the tradition this year.

Book News Notes For This Week

A POEM, moving swiftly with the force of a story in telling the story of a man who more than two thousand years ago created, out of bronze and marble, gold and ivory, figures of imperishable dignity and power, is found in "Pheidias" by John Galen Howard, published by McMillan.

In this poem the great sculptor is made to tell of his life—of his father, Charmides, who first taught him to handle tools; of his queenly mother, and of his studies in Athens and in Argos; of his friends, Aeschylus, Pericles, Myron, and Sophocles, of the war with the Persians; of his love for the exquisitely beautiful woman who . . . had a gift of silence as to things

She did to make one happy;

of his long years of labor at Delphi, and at Olympia, where the lofty god Zeus took form, and at the new Acropolis.

Mr. Howard has succeeded in presenting a great man's life in rich and fluent verse—a novel departure in poetry.

A German, Erich Maria Remarque, has written the story of the war's "lost generation."

Herr Remarque's novel, "All Quiet on the Western Front," which has just been published in America, is an international work. Written without obvious bias by a German private of French descent, it already has been translated into all the European languages.

The tragedy of war's effect on soldiers who are hardly more than boys is the novel's theme. For it tells of Paul Baumer, a youth who was called to the colors when he was 18 and of others, even younger and less mature, who followed him into the trenches.

The many admirers of Susan Ertz's delightful novels will be pleased to learn that a novel from her pen is announced for publication this summer by D. Appleton and company. The title will be "The Galaxy," and in it the author of "Madame Claire," and "Now East, Now West," has written her first book in two years. One can be assured that "The Galaxy" will be one of the most popular novels of the coming season.

Courses in "boyology" will be conducted this summer by the Knights of Columbus at Cliff Haven, N. Y., and Jackson's Point, Ontario.

"SANTI"

A novel, by R. A. Baldwin, Lubbock County lawyer, is attracting attention of literary critics from almost every point of view—the best possible recommendation a novel can receive.

WHAT REVIEWERS ARE SAYING:

"For a first novel, 'Santi' is remarkably well done. The author has told a story that takes a vice-like grip on the reader's interest as the tale unfolds, so that it becomes difficult to lay the book down before the end is reached. The author wastes no words, the story moving from one situation to another with swiftness and dramatic sense to a logical climax."—Syracuse (N. Y.) Post-Standard.

"In the gradual destruction of Santi's body and character, we may read the author's novel—crime does not pay. A simple story, well told in a direct, forceful style."—Brooklyn Citizen.

"The steps by which Santi assisted himself to his fate are increasingly fearful and wonderful as they proceed. This extraordinary volume should not be left lying round to pollute the young of the present day."—New York Sun.

"A former member of the Texas Legislature writes a first novel, 'SANTI, the Brief Career of a Modern Young Criminal'. The author is prejudiced against college education, and believes that intellectualism is synonymous with crime. The analytic processes of Santi and his author are identical."—Roanoke (Va.) World-News.

"Mr. Baldwin could not have set himself a greater task than to present for the lay reader what is little less than a revelation of the aspect in which criminals present themselves to the legal mind. 'Santi' presents many angles. Perhaps it is best summed up in the statement that it contains an analysis of the evolution of a subtle intellect along wholly unintended lines in the processes of high education. Santi stands forth clearly outlined. His counterpart is seen in every graduating university class. Of course he is the victim of an obsession. Psychology and philosophy have played him a scurvy trick. Real life is full of such examples. This is what makes 'SANTI' interesting. One reads the story and looks about him with a somewhat better understanding of some of his acquaintances. 'SANTI' is worth reading to those interested in the study of crime, its evolution and causes. The story is well written. The action is snappy. The situation is dramatic, possibly in one or two instances a little overdrawn."—Brooklyn Daily times.

"SANTI is a story of an attempt at the perfect crime. The deterioration of the man is shown by the accumulation of colaless,ue details that is absorbingly interesting from both a pathological and literary view. The author has an easy, graceful, fluent style. He lays bare the soul of the thrill murdered with a master hand."—Paterson (N. J.) Morning Call.

"SANTI belongs to the young intellectuals who make a god of 'calm, cool reason.' He plans in cold blood a heinous murder that would do credit to the front page of any sensational newspaper. His degeneracy is told with the understanding and pity which has come to Mr. Baldwin through long study and observation of the criminal mind. In SANTI he has portrayed intimate knowledge of the stages of a depraved mind and he has made his story an absorbing one from start to finish."—The Jewish Record.

"SANTI is a novel that deals with the life story of a morbid young chap, egotistical, self-centered, scornful of everybody about him. His wanderings to a logical ending are full of incident. The story carries the reader along."—Boston Globe.

"The author has a considerable depth of human contacts. He does no preaching in the book, but simply states the case for the reader's conclusions. Santi, sinking lower and lower, unbouyed by any consideration whatever of right and wrong, illustrates for the author's purpose the futility of a purely intellectual makeup and training. Mr. Baldwin tells the history of Santi in a fluent, readable way, making his early home life a pleasing contrast to the boy's fiendish ingenuity of mind. Santi is written from a full mind, and arouses interest in the author's future literary output, perhaps in other than criminal novels."—New Bedford (Mass.) Evening Standard.

"SANTI is an absorbing tale, a penetrating analysis of the criminal mind, well written and interesting. The tale is told in rapidly moving word picture, thrilling to the end."—Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) Record.

"The special problem in criminality introduced by the 'young intellectual' type pursuing the 'perfect crime' engages an interesting study in novel form. SANTI, as a study of the psychological background and manifestations of the 'thrill murder' type of criminal, has a place of its own in modern writings. It delineates the procession of mental attitudes which lead up to the making of a criminal out of an educated and highly intellectual youth. SANTI will be of especial interest to the student of criminality."—Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

"Mr. Baldwin has just completed a novel called 'SANTI,' published by the Meador Publishing Company, Boston. It is partly a crime story and party a psychological analysis, made possible by the author's experience as a practioner at the bar. We need more novelists in Texas, and Mr. Baldwin has becomes one, with prospects of becoming better known than heretofore."—State Press, in Dallas News.

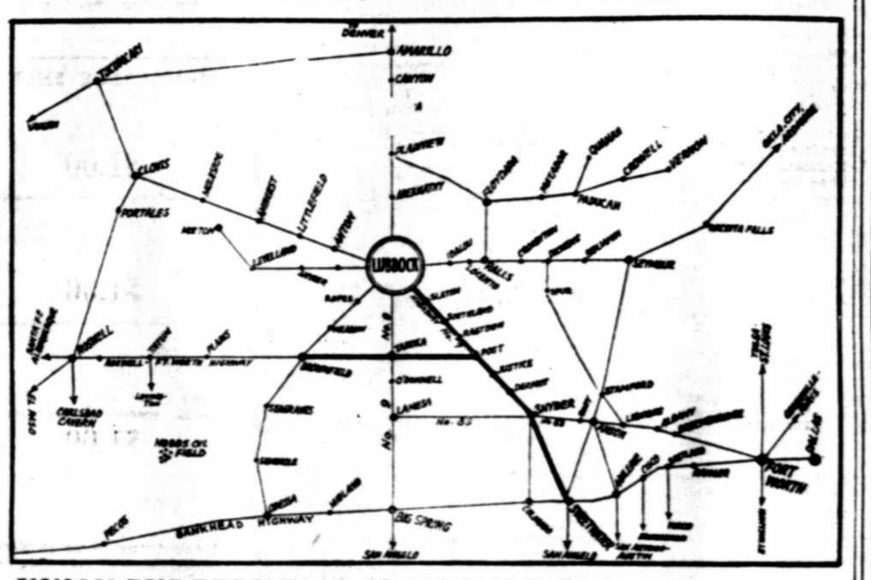

"Francis Roland Santi murders a man to prove that cold logic can produce a perfect art. 'The wages of sin are death,' says the author, and he proves is conclusively in the complete breakdown of the moral fibre of Santi."—Amarillo News and Globe.

"R. A. Baldwin, Slaton lawyer and West Texas' newest author, has plumbed the depths of psychology in his book, 'SANTI,' which recently came off the press and is now on sale at the book stores. The layman who reads this mystery story can hardly comprehend how a man could weave such a gripping story and at the same time teach a powerful lesson. Santi, central figure of the story, is a modernistic youth of the type of Loeb and Leopold and around him Baldwin builds a story which causes the reader to finish the book at one sitting. The work is a remarkable literary production and is certain to be a big seller. However a storm of protests from universities and professors of some of the sciences is likely to descend upon the head of the Slaton lawyer when the book finds its way into the halls of the colleges."—West Texas Today.

SANTI sells for $2.00 everywhere. Order from your book dealer, or direct from the publisher.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Be not a witness against thy neighbor without cause; and deceive not with thy lips.

Say not, I will do so to him as he hath done to me; I will render to the man according to his work.—Proverbs, xxiv, 28, 29.

SOMETHING ABOUT BUILDING

TO some people a building record doesn't mean a thing.

There are many persons who don't care a hoot whether Lubbock has 30 millions or 30 cents in building permits for any month or any year. The subject is just so many statistics to them.

But to the men who watch dissemination of the nation's finances, and who count upon that dissemination to make profits for themselves and their investors, building records mean a lot. Ask any realtor, any loan appraiser, any banker in the city and he'll agree that such is a fact.

Building permits for the month of April including statistics compiled by the 616 leading cities of the United States, were released the other day and a perusal found Lubbock perched upon the 58th rung of the ladder—just 57th from the top. That's news as well as statistics.

Now if Lubbock were 58th in population the city's position in the construction race wouldn't be of much import—in fact nothing at all to write about. But when you stop to consider that a new city in a new country holds a place which should more plausibly be held by scores of older and larger places, then the fact means something.

In the entire Southwest Lubbock was outranked during April by Houston, San Antonio, Dallas and Fort Worth, in Texas, Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and Denver, Colorado. Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Louisiana, Arkansas and Arizona were all included in the Southwestern sector.

In conclusion it might be well to repeat the assertion that to some people a building record doesn't mean a thing. But to others it means growth progress and the right place in which to make an investment which will be followed by a financial return.

And that's that.

SENATE SECRECY AND THE PRESS

Burke said there were three estates in Parliament; but in the reporters' gallery yonder there sat a Fourth Estate more important far than they all.—Thomas Carlyle.

Judging from their debate, most United States senators would be loath to admit the slightest applicability of the British statesman's dictum to their own sacrosanct assembly. The forbidding of floor privileges to all reporters because of the alleged offensive enterprise of one shows how panicky and illogical senators can suddenly become in a rush to assert their dignity.

In its occasional collisions with legislative bodies the press has never come off second best, and there is no indication now that it is to be hampered in its collection and distribution of news relating to the senate. For it is the senators themselves who have made a joke of the "secrecy" of the most closely guarded executive session. Why pillory newspapermen for printing facts communicated to them by senators themselves?

The comedy of the situation is intensified by the disclosure that the senator most active in denouncing the reporters' lack of ethics in recording what happens in "secret" session has himself furnished material for such an article. There seems to be no practical way to prevent senators from telling tales out of school. But the session from which the general public is excluded has no rightful place, and those senators who content that every session, even if discussing presidential appointments or delicate foreign relations should be wide open, are to be enthusiastically hailed as the champions of the people or of the newspapers.

The senatorial output of oratory on this subject is confusing the issue. Let the senators put the "blame" if any, where it belongs: on its own members. They might test their authority by holding an executive session to pass a resolution of censure on one or more of their number and then see if the news is printed—as it probably would be.

MYTHICAL "SUMMER SLUMP"

In early and experimental stages of advertising certain months of the year were poor in business. Mid-summer was one of these periods and the "summer slump" became a byword among merchants. It was accepted as a necessary and incurable evil. Instead of increasing their advertising to improve business, merchants virtually suspended advertising on the theory that business was not to be had.

Suddenly someone discovered that "the summer slump" was an hallucination of an unbusinesslike mind. It must have been a distinct shock to the old-timers when they discovered that the reason they were not doing business in the summertime was beause they were doing no advertising. It did not speak well for the vision of these pioneer business men that they were so long in learning this secret of advertising; that advertising should be used most extensively at those periods in the year when business needs an artificial stimulant. The business of advertising is to make business.

With the aid of newspaper advertising many businesses have transformed the "summer slump" into a "summer boom." They have produced goods the public needs and wants during the warm months and have carried the news to the consumers through advertising.

Those who have something to sell—locally or nationally—will neither see nor feel this mythical slump if they do more and better advertising. There is more employment and therefore more money in circulation during June, July and August than during any other three months of the year. Why then should there be less business?

Spooning while running an automobile isn't love.

He laughs best who laughs last. Save in politics, where the hilarity is continuous.

Our prophecy is that white house relief will be a crying demand if congress stays in session all summer.

It does not appear likely that railroad crossing markers will ever taken as seriously as detour signs.

It can always be said of the woman who marries a man to reform him that she selected her own vocation in life.

TILSON ASSERTS LEADERS OF HOUSE "SERVE," DON'T "BOSS," IN DEFENSE OF CHARGE MADE BY ANGRY SENATORS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Staff Writer for Central Press

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The United States senate has been harshly criticized of late—accused of subordinating the country's welfare to politics.

This charge makes many senators very sore.

The senate (they say) is pulbic opinion's last stand.

A skimpy half dozen of strong leaders (according to the angry senators) have gained control of the house of representatives, which they boss so absolutely that it no longer is any more responsive to the voters' wishes than its few leaders' private secretaries.

"What a perfectly ridiculous idea!" exclaims Col. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, G. O. P. floor manager in the lower house of congress.

"Just one thing, and only one thing, enables those of us who occupy positions of leadership to lead—and that is our selection, by those who follow us, to serve as their leaders.

"Nicholas Longworth could be supplanted, as speaker, by an adverse majority, if it existed, at any time.

"A caucus chose me for the post of Republican floor leader, and another caucus can take it away from me whenever it has the necessary ballots.

"We cannot squeak through by a narrow margin, either. If there were a formidable minority against us, inside our own party, by combining with the Democrats it could make our positions impossible for us.

"We don't boss. We serve."

Then it is a fair conclusion that the house of representatives, after all, is more responsive to popular opinion than the senate?

"Certainly," replied the colonel,"—as it was expected to be.

"A member of the lower house, elected for only a third as long as a senator, andid representing only one congressional district, as compareed with a senator's entire state, naturally is closer to his constituents than a member of the upper chamber.

"It works out that way in actual practice, too. A stronger tendency to play politics is evident in the senate than in the house of representives.

"For instance—all those senate investigations in recent years!

"Not that I am offering a defense for those who were investigated—but it was plain enough that the inquiries themselves were launched for political purposes."

Why, however, should the temptation to play politics be stronger upon a senator than upon a representative?

"A place in the senate," answered the G. O. P. leader, "is a greater prize than a seat in the house of representatives—greater in itself, and besides, half the senaters consider themselves presidential possibilities.

"A man who will not necessarily sell his soul for his chances as a representative may be tempted to sell it for his senatorial prospects. Some do."

"The senate also," continues the colonel, "is a chamioerful of individualists.

"The senate rules have made for that.

"In the old days, when it was a small body—only 26 to begin with—doubtless there was considerable room for individualism. That tradition survives.

"The lower house's total membership is too large for that."

"The popular choice of senators," observed the New Englander, "has had a decided effect.

"When they were chosen by their various state legislatures, it was of the utmost importance to a senate candidate to help his own party to win his state, in order to have a legislative majority to elect him. But his state once won by his party, he usually was safe personally.

"Today, directly dependent on popular votes, as he is, he must make his appeal as wide as he can—perhaps regardless of party.

"The natural result has been a great weakening in party solidarity."

"Due to the direct primary, admitted the colonel, "to some extent the same thing is true in the house of representatives. Party lines are not what they were but the breakdown is nothing like as serious as in the senate.

"An occasional candidates for representative may be driven to the tactics of a demagogue to carry his district—but, at the worst, he is only a small demagogue, because he has only one congressional district to carry.

NORMAL BODY CHEMISTRY REQUIRES ALL VITAMINS IN MAINTAINING HEALTH

A Lesson On Vitamins

The vitamins that are accepted by all the authorities are vitamins A, B, C, D and E. A, B, C and D are all necessary for the normal chemistry of the body, so the absence or insufficiency of them will undermine the health.

Vitamin A is known as the growth and anti-ophthalmic vitamin (the latter because its absence causes an inflammation of the eyes). Especially necessary for integrity of mucous membranes, growth and resistance to infections. Stored in the body for a short time, so its absence is not noticed immediately. The foods that are highest in this vitamin are: Fish oils and fats, butter, egg yolks, milk, green vegetables and some root vegetables such as carrots and sweet potatoes. Seems to be connected with the coloring matter of plants.

Vitamin B is known as the anti-neuritic vitamin, for its absence finally results in an inflammation of the nerves. Necessary for the integrity of the intestinal tract, and thus the appetite, and for growth. Is not stored in the body, so when not taken there is a fairly rapid evidence of its absence. Research is showing vitamin B may consist of two or even more vitamins, one which prevents neuritis and another which prevents pellagra; this latter is called the P-P factor (pellagra-preventive). Some authorities call it Vit. F. Foods highest in vitamin B are: tomatoes, (raw, canned or dried), spinach, cabbage, beans, yeast and yeast extracts.

Vitamin C is known as the anti-scurvy vitamin, for its absence leads to scurvy. Not stored in the body for long, so its absence quickly leads to scurvy, which is manifested by hemorrhages in the mucous membranes and skin, loosening of the teeth, and defects of the deposits of lime in the bones. Foods high in vitamin C are: fresh fruits, especially lemons and oranges, tomatoes (row, canned or dried), raw cabbage and lettuce.

Vitamin D is known as the anti-rachitic vitamin because it has to do with calcium (lime) utilization and its absence produces rickets in babies and children, and porosity and fragility of the bones and teeth of adults. You remember I said vitamin C also had to do with calcium deposition in the bones and its absence caused loosening of the teeth? Now perhaps it is the absence or insufficiency of vitamins C and D that may be factors in the cause of pyorrhea, or at least a lowering of the resistance so it can occur.

D might also be called the sunshine vitamin, for it differs from the other vitamins in that it needn't be taken in with the food IF the skin has an adequate exposure to the sunlight or the artificial sun rays (the ultra-violet ray machines), for these rays seem to produce this vitamin, or something that functions just as well. Nature has been niggardly in providing foods with vitamin D perhaps for this reason. Vitamin D is highest in fish oils. Eggs yolks and milk contain a small amount. Other foods exposed to the ultra-violet rays will also develop vitamin D.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MILDRED LAWRENCE falls in love with STEPHEN ARMITAGE, who is lured away from her by PAMELA JUDSON when she tells him that Mildred is trying to marry her brother, HAROLD, for his money. Harold fears HUCK CONNOR because he holds a check which he forged. Huck is infatuated with Pamela, who plays him to make Stephen jealous. When Pamela maneuvers Stephen into an engagement, Huck frames him for the theft of an auto and causes his arrest. Pamela breaks their engagements, but Mildred goes to see him in jail and promises help.

Harold had once confessed his fear of Huck to Mildred and said that he threatened to "get Armitage" to keep him from marrying Pamela. With this as a clew, she determines to force Harold to aid Stephen and is shocked to hear of his death—apparently accidental. Then she tells Stephen her suspicions but they have no proof and things seem hopeless.

In desperation, Mildred goes to Pamela and tells her story. Pamela sends her to MR. JUDSON, who is impressed by what she says and takes her to headquarters where she repeats her suspicions about Huck. Mr. Judson puts up bail for Stephen's release and Pamela goes to see him and asks forgiveness. She also plans her wedding and picks out her ring.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

A few seconds before the shot that was meant to kill Mildred was fired, an incoming train disgorged its passengers for that station and the first of the stream, hurrying toward the street, sa wher pitch forward in a headlong fall down the stairs.

One of them, a young man with a cauliflower ear and a quick eye, sprang forward to catch her. He succeeded in breaking the fall but they both went down together.

Others came to his assistance, but in attempting to get Mildred on her feet they saw that she was unconscious.

By this time a guard had appeared upon the scene. He took instant and efficient command of the situation. The passengers, all but a few of the more curious, went on their way, not one of them suspecting that the girl had been shot.

New York listens to her noises with but half an ear. A pistol shot, muffled as in this case, would be unheard except by those who chanced to be at close range.

And Mildred's would-be assassin, although his nerves were unsteady and his shoulders jerked spasmodically in a queer twitching motion, had still enough command of his judgment to choose an instant that would give him all the advantage when he pulled the trigger.

His right hand was on his side to the building. To anyone approaching fro mthe rear he was hidden from view by the piled-up boxes. He would scarcely be noticed by anyone coming toward him as he faced the subway entrance, which would prevent him from being in the direct line of vision of all but those coming up to the street.

That was the chance he had to take, but shooting a young girl on a busy New York street could not be without its hazards. The thing was to "get her on the spot."

He'd been told to pick the first opportunity. As there was no one near at the instant Mildred pasued to get out her change, he decided the time was ripe to obey orders.

Mildred was no more to him than a wooden target would have been. His mind was filled with the promise of immediate transport to his private heaven when the job was finished. He needed no other inducement to have it done as soon as possible.

His half-satisfied craving for drugs was sufficient to prime him for the murderous deed he'd undertaken, although the man who waited to know the result was well aware of the fact that the priming itself was a factor against success.

It was a risk the man was compelled to take. He hadn't anyone at hand to send out on such a cold-blooded task except this lost creature.

This was not a gang war — he could get help from Duke and his men only up to a certain point. Huck had to do his own fixing, he was told.

So he sent for Snifty—even Huck didn't know his surname. One glance at him and Huck saw that Snifty would promise anything he asked. But he couldn't send him out as he was; he'd flunk it sure.

It was necessary for Huck's purpose to satisfy Snifty's craving just enough to bolster his nerve up to the point where murder was no more to him than the price of a few hours of happy oblivion to torture, and yet stop short of giving him enough of his drug to make him forget what he was sent out to do.

Snifty had picked up the trail shortly before Mildred left Mr. Judson. When he fired and saw her fall he turned and walked away with no thought in his mind but to get back to Huck and colect his pay.

From across the street came a man who had seen Mildred go toppling forward, but even he had no suspicion that she'd been shot. He did not notice Snifty, who was cunning enough not to run.

When the man saw that Mildred was receiving aid he went back to his fruit stand. His gallantry in going to her assistance was rewarded by the loss of an apple apiece to a couple of street urchins who made off in haste when they saw him returning.

His interest in Mildred died right then, and although he was an observant man he failed to see Snifty hasten toward a parked taxicab as his nerve began to fail him.

When it was discovered that Mildred had been shot she was carried into a nearby drug store, where she revived before the ambulance which had been hastily summoned arrived.

The ambulance surgeon decided to take her to the hospital, though he told her the wound was superficial—"just a tiny splinter off the acromion. You'll be able to go home tonight."

As it was her shoulder that burned like fire Mildred assumed that it was her "acromion."

Before she was helped out to the ambulance she answered a number of questions put to her by a policeman. She said she did not know who had shot her, mindful that Inspector Markeson was not ready to make public the developments in the Judson case.

But she was almost overcome with terror. She knew now that Huck, should be caught and charged with murder, never would let her tell what she knew on the witness stand if he could prevent it.

"He knows I've been to headquarters with Mr. Judso ," was the thought that ran through her mind with a fearful significance back of it.

At the hospital, she asked to be allowed to telephone. She was told to rest a while first, but her nervous anxiety was so apparent the nurse relented and called the number she gave for her.

"Ask for Mr. Judson, please," Mildred directed excitedly.

Reminiscences Of An Old Timer

A Series Of Articles, Anonymously Written By An Old Timer In The South Plains Section

THE ONLY son of a wealthy East Texas man got tangled up with bad company and only the prominence of his family prevented his being completely ostracized—the eternal triangle was not looked upon as leniently then as it is now. The young man was hustled off to Colorado, they thought in order to hush matters up, but he felt his disgrace very keenly and determined to live his life his own way, so adopting an assumed name he came to West Texas instead of going to Colorado. He tried hard to live up to the reputation he had established in his home town—tried to be a real bad man and chances are he would have made a success at the attempt had destiny not decreed otherwise.

One day he was thrown from an outlaw horse and very badly broken up—as he was being cared for by this good woman, he gained a new appreciation of life. "Aunt Nan" as the man now affectionately calls her, instilled a reverence for women in his heart that is still there. Her loving patient care of him, the kind Christian spirit that emanated from this home and the faith and trust she maintained at all times re-established his viewpoint.

Moves To Dallas

Instead of dying with his boots on, as was predicted, he is now living in Dallas, one of that city's most highly respected and successful business men. He gives freely of his money to charity and is always ready to head the list in any drive for Christian activities. He gives all the credit of his success to the influence of Mrs. J. B. Green, who he says, gave him a helping hand and a kind word when he was sliding swiftly down the long grade. Many others testify to this woman's lasting influence for good.

Another woman who stood side by side with those already mentioned, is a sister of Mrs. J. B. Green, affectionately known as "Aunt Mary." Her husband is W. N. Green, a brother of J. B. Green. The two families came to Lubbock together and were a part of a colony of 41 souls that left Thorp Springs for the west to establish homes. Mary was a leading spirit in every gathering, I remember—still is, for that matter. She used to sing like a bird—I loved to listen to her—I will never forget the first Christmas these sturdy pioneers spent on the Plains. Homemade presents were plentiful, rag dolls, bright red mittens, pop corn balls and taffy candy. George W. Hunt was Santa Claus, I remember. Two trees were set up in the blacksmith shop—the only building large enough to accommodate the crowd and every body was there. Oh! never have I heard such singing as ascended to the heavens that night. Sylvia Hunt, played the organ and sang soprano, Mary sang alto, A. J. Clark, tenor and Flu Anderson, bass. Folks don't have such gatherings any more—they don't make the effort to be real friends. In pioneer days when sickness, death or trouble came to the home of a neighbor, every one turned out to help—now one hardly knows the name of the next door neighbor.

I recall that Mary rode a mustang pony, and that she had a three horned side saddle. You never caught women riding astride then. One day Mary and a neighbor woman were on the way to town, (they lived on the north side of the canyon), there were so many antelopes grazing in the canyon that their horses were frightened. There is something about a deer or an antelope that frightens horses very much. Mary's horse went wild and run until he became tired then she a cucumber though and just let him run until h became tired, then she turned him around and came on to town. She told me in confidence recently that she was sure there was at least 1,000 of the animals feeding just about where Tumble-N is now located. Antelope were so numerous at that time that it was almost impossible to have gardens or truck patches. Wolves were quite plentiful—not the coyote of today, but real loboes.

Gathered At Well

The community gathering place for a long time, was a well in the courtyard. Here every one gathered to pass the time of day and to hear of Plains activities. We cow hands would gather here and swap yarns. If a new school ma'am had put in an appearance anywhere on the Plains, she was generally the subject to discussion. School ma'ams were pretty popular in those days. They hardly ever taught but one school for some cowhand would snap each one up before she had time to teach a second term. Joe Boyd and I ran many a race only to find someone else had beat us. Folks staid married in those days. Companionate marriages was unheard of. I remember Frank Wheelock was so afraid he would not be able to keep Sylvia, he married her two times in the same day. It was this way—you see he got his license in Lubbock, the first one issued too—George Wolffarth sold it to him. Sylvia lived at Estacado, and since there was no preacher living in Lubbock, they were married at Estacado. He wanted to be sure his wedding was legal; he took no chance, but getting one of the Sanders boys, and Irvin Hunt for witnesses, he took the preacher and drove back over into Lubbock county, and was married again sitting in a buggy on the lone prairie. He done a good job of it anyway—he has still got her.

her the receiver. "Here's your party," she said, "but don't alk long."

"This is Millred Lawrence," Mildred sand when she heard Mr. Judson's voice. "I'm in a rospital. Can you come here right away?"

"What has happened? Where are you?"

Mildred told him. "Please don't say anything to Stephen," she begged.

"He hasn't got here," Mr. Judson replied. "But Ive telephoned the jail; everything's all right."

"Is Pamela with him?"

"No, she's here."

"Don't let her go out, and please hurry. The nurse says I mustn't talk any more now."

"I'll be over directly," Mr. Judson promised and hung up.

Mildred waited for him in a fever of anxiety.

"Did you send a policeman to the jail with your lawyer?" was the first thing she said when he entered the ward where they had put her to bed.

Mr. Judson nodded.

"What happened?" he asked.

Mildred told him briefly.

Mr. Judson's face blanched as he listened. He realized then to the fullest Huck Connor's implacable nature.

"I sent for you so you'd see that you've got to believe Huck Connor will do anything," she said. "And there was a policeman at the drug store who asked me a lot of questions. I didn't tell him any more than I had to because I was afraid it would get into the papers and Huck would find out how much Inspector Markeson knows."

"You're a very brave girl," Mr. Judson commented. "But we won't let you take any more chances. I'll tell Markeson of this at once. He'll see that nothing gets into the papers through the police."

Mildred relaxed with a sigh of relief. Then her face clouded over again.

"I suppose I can't keep it from my mother," she said.

"You might if we can keep the police reporters from getting it."

"She's so worried about me," Mildred explained, "and I'm scared, too, Mr. Judson. I'm sure Huck knows he's suspected. If he didn't know it he wouldn't have disappeared."

"We'll find him," Mr. Judson responded grimly. "We have the advantage, for whatever he may believe you have told us he does not know that we have his thumbprint and if it is his. That will make him less cautious."

Mr. Judson understood the unspoken thought behind the words. He, too, felt that if Huck knew of the evidence against the murderer that was now in the possession of the police he would take a swift vengeance on the girl whose disclosures had linked his name with the crime.

"How long are they keeping you in?" he asked, speaking as though there were a matter of small importance.

"I am going home tonight," Mildred told him, "after I've telephoned mother that I've met with an accident."

Mr. Judson's face became grave in spite of his efforts to appear unconcerned with the answer.

"Don't you think it would be advisable for you to remain here for a few days?" he asked, and added quickly: "Where you can have better care."

Mildred smiled. "You don't know what a wonderful mother I've got. Besides, I'm not really hurt. The bullet just clipped the tip of my shoulder."

"It will require dressing, and a hospital is the proper place," Mr. Judsan began firmly but Mildred interrupted him.

"It would worry my mother needlessly to have me here," she said quietly.

Mr. Judson stopped beating around the bush. "But it may be dangerous for you to place yourself where Huck Connor can reach you," he pointed out.

"I don't think he'll bother with me," Mildred answered. "Now that he knows I've been to Inspector Markeson he'll be too busy keeping himself from getting caught to have any time for me.

"You're just talking to keep up your courage," Mr. Judson remarked, "but there is something in what you say. Having made one attempt upon your life, the man probably would consider it too dangerous to try again. He will expect us to guard you, which we most certainly shall do well."

Mildred plainly showed the relief she felt at his words.

"You'll go home in my car and there will be a plainclothes man with you wherever you go from now until Connor is lodged in jail," Mr. Judson went on, but if he could have known what was transpiring elsewhere at the moment as a result of Huck's orders he would have been less confident of lodging Huck in jail.

Galaxy Of Stars Booked For Appearance Here This Week

Clara Bow Gives Headliner With Film At Lindsey

Mary Pickford, Jno. Gilbert and Other Stars To Play

LUBBOCK theater-goers will have a choice menu of films to select from this week according to the bookings announced yesterday by the managements. A galaxy of stars appearing in the latest stories and releases offer much for amusement during pleasure-seeking moments.

The plots run the gamut of thrills, mystery, love, comedy and pathos. One can attend Clara Bow's "Wild Party" which is to be on at the Lindsey for the first five days of the week and see modern youth in its greatest moment, see Ben Lyon and Antonio Moreno in "The Air Legion" which shows at the Lyric on Monday and Tuesday and get the thrills of hazardous aviation, over to the Lindsey on Friday and Saturday and see Eddie Quillan and Alberta Vaughn in "Noisy Neighbors" and how love will find a way, to the Lyric Sunday where John Gilbert presents gangland in "Four Walls" or to the Palace 3 days starting today to see Jean Hersholt, Lena Basquette and Richard Cortez in "The Younger Generation."

Still there is Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl" which will be shown at the Lyric on Wednesday and Thursday or later in the week, Tim McCoy in "Riders of the Dark" for further amusement.

Then too there's vivacious Bebe Daniels who'll offer entertainment at the Palace on Wednesday and Thursday in "What a Night."

It will be a full week indeed.

Jean Hersholt Is Master In Drama

"The Younger Generation," adapted from the stage play "It Is to Laugh," by Fannie Hurst will be the attraction at the Palace for three days starting today. The colorful adventures of an East Side family that rises from proverty to affluence. While youth struggles for prestige and wealth, the older generation pines away in sorrow.

Pathos, love, humor and thrills are presented with rare understanding of human emotions. One of the greatest heart interest dramas ever made into a photoplay.

Jean Hersholt has the stellar role. It has been pronounced the best piece of work this talented actor has ever done. Supporting Hersholt is an all star cast including Lina Basquette, Rosa Rosanova, Ricardo Cortez, Rex Lease, Martha Franklin, Julianne Johnston, Jack Raymond, Sydney Crossley, Otto Fries, Julia Swayne Gordon and Donald Hall.

The production was made under hte skillful direction of Frank Capra, who was responsible for "Submarine." Teddy Tetzlaff was cameraman.

Alberta Vaughn In Talking Debut Here

Alberta Vaughn makes her bow as a talking picture actress in "Noisy Neighbors" which is on at the Lindsey during the last two days of the week.

If there ever was a story made to order for sound purposes by reason o ftitle and situations it is "Noisy Neighbors."

Eddie Quillan, Alberta Vaughn and Theodore Roberts are said to show emphatically the value of voice recording to a story, and "Dad" Quillan, who appears in the picture with the entire Quillan family of vaudeville fame, registers perfectly. Others who give fine performances are Russell Simpson, Jane Keckley and Ray Hallor.

Running through the story is a pretty romance between the vivacious Alberta Vaughn and Eddie Quillan, who manages now and then to take time off from comedy byplay for his love affair. "Noisy Neighbors" is a Paul Bern production. Scott Darling is credited with the scenario.

Lyric Film Shows Hazards Of Flying

Ben Lyon & Moreno In Gripping Story Of Aviation

Presenting what is described by critics as a most appealing epic of the intrepid flyers who carry the mails across country through storm and stress by night and day, "The Air Legion," featuring Ben Lyon, Antonio Moreno and Martha Sleeper, comes to the Lyric Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

Based upon an original story by James Ashmore Creelman, the photoplay depicts with the rare fidelity the hazards that are faced by the air mail pilots on every trip that is undertaken in their fleet but fragile planes, which must go forward in every variety of weather that the mail connections may be maintained.

Against this background is presented a gripping dramatic narrative involving the "ace" pilot of an air mail office and the son of a flying captain under whom the former served in France until the captain's heroic death. The boy develops a "yellow" streak in the mail service, which is drastically cured by the ex-soldier, notwithstanding that both are in love with the same girl.

Gilbert In Gang Picture At Lyric

What's the first thing a man would notice on returning to civilization after an absence of four years.

John Gilbert supplies the answer in his new starring picture, "Four Walls," which shows today at the Lyric Theatre. Gilbert plays the role of an ex-convict who returns to the East Side of New York after four years in Sing Sing.

Ever since he did "Twelve Miles Out" John Gilbert has wanted to make a gangster picture which in his mind would be truly perfect.

The opportunity came to him with the purchase by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer of the famous stage play which is a story of gangster life in New York City's East Side.

"My Best Girl" Is Unique Story

One by one the fetishes of the motion picture industry are being destroyed. And now comes Mary Pickford to shatter an old screen dogma by making a picture without a "heavy."

"My Best Girl," the noted star's latest producetion which comes to the Lyric theater next Wednesday and Thursday is a comedy-romance with a 5 and 10 cent store background. But the element of "menace," heretofore considered essential to a well constructed plot, is entirely absent. Practically every film production embodies this so-called requirement.

Mary Pickford, herself, imbued with the pioneering spirit, suggested the theme of the story to Kathleen Norris, who wrote the original novel on which the picture is based.

McCoy Supported By Veteran Stars

Two of the best known character actors of the screen will be seen supporting Tim McCoy in his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "Riders of the Dark," which is on at the Lyric Friday and Saturday.

These are Roy D'Arcy, who played the Crown Prince in "The Merry Widow," and who was the villian of dozens of other big films, and Frank Currier, who has devoted fifty years of his life to stage and screen entertainment.

Jeanie MacPherson has written 38 scripts for same director—Cecil B. DeMille.

"Wild Party" With Clara Bow Being Held At Lindsey

"It" Girl Gives New Modern Youth Production

"The Wild Party," a romantic comedy, starring Clara Bow, with Fredric March, Marceline Day, Shirley O'Hara, Joyce Compton, Adrienne Dore, Jack Oakie, Jack Luden and Ben Hendricks, jr. Directed by Dorothy Arzner. At the Lindsey theater five days, starting today.

THERE'S a "Wild Party" on over at the Lindsey theater and none other than Clara Bow, the "It" and "Flaming Youth" girl is the hostess. Clara had such a good time last night, or this morning rather with her guests that she has decided to make a five-day affair of the entertainment and will act as hostess until Friday. "The public is cordially invited to attend."

Clara has an opportunity in this film to demonstrate her prowess as a speaking actress, and she makes every line effective. It is an agreeable surprise for the army of film fans who have hitherto seen but not heard, their idol.

The story of "The Wild Party" from the pen of Warner Fabian, author of "Flaming Youth", is a tale of a girl who falls in love with one of her teachers, a young man who returns her love in spite of her capricious attendance at wild parties. Underlying the spirit of unfettered youth, however, is th esteadfast loyalty of the girl for her chum and room mate, and when the critical test of that loyalty comes, Clara tells a lie to save er girl friend from disgrace. The climax forces Clara to leave college, but the professor, the man she loves, decides that he too, will forsake the academic existence for the prosaic life in the busy workaday world.

Movie rights to four more musicals purchased. They are "Hold Everything," "Spring Is Here," "Treasure Girl," "Here's Howe."

"Hell's Angels," One Of Costliest Of Filmland's Pictures Finished At Last

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 1—At last the "Hell's Angels" camera equipment has been stored way. As far as the cameramen are concerned, the picture is finished. It's up to the cutters now.

In Hollywood that's considered big news. To the rest of the world it may be an interesting item. But then the rest of the world hasn't watched Howard Hughes, filmdom's youngest producer, spend more than $2,500,000 in filming this air spectacle based on the World War. And the rest of the world hasn't laughed at the slow progress of this production which ranks second only to "Ben Hur" from a cost standpoint.

Hughes wanted every air scene to be just so, even to the extent of having the clouds in exactly the right positions. And Hughes, having lots of money, kept shooting until he had these sequences the way he wanted them. A total of 87 airplanes, all authentic war type ships, were used in the picture. One scene alone showed 40 planes in aerial combat.

At the present time 12 cutters are busily engaged in trying to make a coherent 12,000-foot picture out of the 2,000,000 feet of film which has been shot. And this must be done in time for the picture to open in New York next September.

Ever since the tremendous hit scored by "Broadway Melody", moviana's depicting back-stage life in the theater fast enough. Every studio is making them. The latest one which has been brought to our attention is Colleen Moore's next vehicle, "Footlights and Fools." William Sieter, who directed the star in her first talkie, "Smiling Irish Eyes," will direct her. Alice Day has been signed as the ingenue, but the rest of the cast is still to be picked.

It begins to look as if Hal Skelly, noted stage comedian, is through with his first love for good. As a result of his work in the talking version of "Burlesque" he was offered a five-year contract by Paramount. Naturally he signed. His next film will be "Womantrap", in which he will be supported by Evelyn Brent and Chester Morris. William Wellman, who always will be remembered for his masterpiece, "Wings", will do the directing.

Richard Barthelmess is due for plenty of ups and downs in his next picture, "Young Nowhere." In this film, from the story by I. A. R. Wylie, Dick will play the role of an elevator boy. He will be back in Hollywood from his vacation about June, to start work.

HIS HAS HAPPENED

After three years as private secretary to ATTORNEY JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, NAN CARROLL discovers she is in love with him. Having a high sense of honor, Nan believes she can no longer work for him and determines to resign. Her resignation is postponed, however, because she knows Morgan is going to need a faithful secretary during his defense of BERT CRAWFORD, a supposed friend, who is indicted for embezzling funds accumulated in a whirlwind stock-selling scheme.

Non distrusts Crawford and IRIS MORGAN, beautiful wife of the lawyer. By means of a listening-in device, Nan hears Crawford "fix" a witness, ALICE BELTON, former switch-board operator. Nan confronts him with what she has heard and, realizing he is trapped, Crawford asks her to name her price. She tells him that her price is for him to give up Iris Morgan.

He at last agrees and Nan agrees to keep silent. Morgan defends Crawford so ably that every prediction is for an acquittal. On the last day of the trial, Nan prepares to go to the courtroom to hear Morgan su mup the case before the jury, when Iris Morgan comes in and leaves little Curtis, her boy, on Nan's hands while Iris hurries to Crawford's side. Nan is furious. When the child at last falls asleep, Nan finds beside him a note, evidently taken from his mother's handbag, in which Crawford protests his love for Iris and virtually admits his guilt. Nan is in bitter conflict. Shall she take the note to Morgan in order to save his professional honor, or shall she withhold it, knowing its contents and proof of his wife's faithlessness will break his heart?

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

Asking Evans, the grumpy middle-aged law clerk, to keep an eye on the sleeping child, whom he had made comfortable on a couch in the father's private office, Nan snatched up hat and coat and ran for the elevator. As it descended, clerks, and executives, all laden with Christmas gifts and beaming with holiday goodfellowship, she prayed alternately that there might still be time fo rthe incriminating letter to be used against Crawford, and that there would not be time—that the jury might already have brought in its verdict.

"Maybe he will be found guilty! Why hadn't I thought of that alternative?" Nan's milling thoughts took on a new turn as she battled Christmas shoppers on the crowded downtown streets. "I'll pray for him to be found guilty before I can reach the courthouse," she decided childishly. "Goodness knows that's the only prayer I can put any heart into."

Her lips moving wordlessly, she pushed through the crowds. The spirit of Christmas was everywhere but in Nan's heart. Salvation Army Santa Clauses dangled bells over the pots and grinned at wide-eyed children through their white whiskers; women with their arms full of parcels admonished children to "Stay right by Mama, now!" Traffic cops struggled with hopeless jams of cars with unusual amiability; shop windows were crowded with useless dainties of pink silk and lace, and there was joy everywhere—but in Nan Carroll's heart.

"Hey, wanna be killed, sister? Watch where you're going!" And a traffic officer reached out and yerked her to safety. Then he grinned at her and wished her "Merry Christmas!" before he sent her on her way.

"If I'm killed I won't have to tell him," Nan told herself wretchedly, but her life-loving body skipped out of every danger that threatened it in the crowded streets before she reached the courthouse.

The imminence of Christmas had cheated Crawford of a large audience for his verdict, whatever it might be. There were only a few loiterers about the courthouse as Nan ran panting up the steps. A deputy sheriff recognized her, greeted her with a "Merry Christmas, Miss Nan!"

"Any news yet, Bill? Or has Mr. Morgan finished his speech?"

"The Morning Sun reporter said they were expecting a verdict any minute," the man told her. "Mr. Morgan finished his speech about an hour ago, and the district attorney only took about 10 minutes for his final summing up. Knows he's licked, guess. You'll find Mr. Morgan in the judge's chambers, Miss Nan, unless the jury's coming in."

She thanked him and hurried into the courtroom where the Crawford case had been tried. There were less than a score of spectators. At the press table a group of reporters, including two women feature writers, were idly talking and joking; and at the counsel table sat Iris Morgan and Bert Crawford, their heads close together, their voices low and earnest. At the sight Nan's anger rose again in a hot tide, and she beckoned to a bailiff lolling in the doorway.

"Tell Mr. Morgan that I must see him immediately," she ordered. "He's with the judge, I believe."

The man was turning away to obey when another bailiff appeared from the passage leading to the judge's chambers, his manner brisk and important.

"I'm afraid it's too late now, Miss Carroll," the bailiff she had addressed told her. "The judge is coming. Looks like the jury has reached a verdict."

Along with the other spectators, Nan stood at attention while the judge entered and took his seat. Then the members of the jury filed in, looking vastly relieved and proud of themselves. When they were in their places Morgan hurried in and went straight to Crawford, throwing an arm across his shoulder as if to demonstrate to the world that this man was his friend no matter what the verdict might be.

There was not time to speak to him. It was too late anyway . . .

". . . And what is that verdict, gentlemen?" she heard Judge Haswell's grave voice inquire.

"We find the defendant not guilty!" the foreman answered loudly.

There were a few cheers, quickly broken off by the sharp rap of the judge's gavel. A moment later the judge had adjourned court; Crawford was blithely shaking hands with the jurors, and Iris Morgan, in an excess of joy, was throwing her arms about her husband's neck.

"That there's the greatest lawyer in the middle west," her bailiff friend told Nan feelingly. "It's got so a jury won't convict a man that John Curtis Morgan defends, because they believe him when he says a man's innocent. Reckon you're right proud to work for a man like that, Miss Carroll!"

"I am!" Nan choked—and fled.

She could stand no more. And if Morgan caught sight of her she would have to congratulate him. She could imagine the hurt in his eyes if she failed to do so. . . Why, all these years he had brought his triumphs to her with the vanity of a small boy, sure that she would understand.

She did not stop until she reached the crowded shopping district, and then only because traffic compelled her to do so. She had no idea where she was going—certainly not to the office!—but she could have sobbed with rage at being stopped.

"What are you so sore about, Nan? Christmas grouch?"

A hand touched her shoulder and she whirled to face Willis Todd, whom she had not seen since the night early in November when she had refused his offer of marriage—that memorable night when Willis had forced her to realize that she was in love with a man who was already married.

Her face cleared somewhat. She was amazingly glad to see him, had missed him. . . "Hello, Willis! I've missed you. Friend or enemy?" Her brown eyes smiled at him wistfully.

"Friend," he grinned. "Let's have lunch. I've wanted to call you up a hundred times, but I didn't dare. Knew you had a right to be good and sore at me. The Traylor all right? Won't be many people in the dining room today. Everybody's snatching a quick bite, but maybe you're in a hurry, too, with Chilstmas shopping to finish up?"

"No," she answered, following him into the lobby of one of the most exclusive hotels in the city. "I want to dawdle over lunch, if you don't mind. Everything's been so hectic lately. . . Um! Nice table. Flowers and everything. Thank heavens, there's no orchestra. . . . You order for me, Willis."

It was nice to have him opposite her at table again, nice to have him thinking of her, waiting on her. No one else had ever discovered that she needed and liked being waited on. But Willis had always been a dear. Why couldn't she love him instead of John Curtis Morgan, who only needed her but did not love her? Maybe that was why . . .

"Is the Crawford verdict in yet?" Willis asked interestedly, when he had given the order.

"Just. Not guilty," Nan answered stiffly. Now why did he have to bring that up, just when she was beginning to relax a bit?

"Congratulations for you and Morgan are in order, I suppose," Willis said. "I knew you two believed Crawford innocent, or Morgan wouldn't have defended him, but personally, I believe the big blond windbag is guilty as hell! How he could have fooled you—"

Her pride was stung, but an irresistible desire to confide in someone made her answer, in a low, rapid voice: "He didn't fool me, Willis. I believed he was guilty all along, but since he was Mr. Morgan's best friend—"

"A swell friend he is!" Willis jeered. "What I know about Crawford and— But never mind that now. What's that you're saying about believing Crawford guilty? Has the Great God Morgan fallen and suppressed a little evidence?"

Nan snatched her hand away, her eyes blazing. "He still believes that Crawford was innocent! I don't know why I started to confide in you, Willis. I might have known we'd just quarrel, because it concerns Mr. Morgan. But I've been so troubled, so torn with doubts as to what my duty is . . . " And to the amazement of the waiter who was bringing the consomme she began to cry.

"Eat your soup, honey," Willis urged, as the waiter scuttled away. "You're going to tell me anything you please and I promise not to fight. I like and respect Morgan and I love you—love you—well enough not quarrel with you any more for loving him, instead of me. And you have my word that anything you may tell me will go no further. But I think you know that. You've done a goodish bit of confiding in the past, you know."

She smiled at him, dabbed at her tears with her napkin, and obediently drank most of her consomme before she began her story. The waiter left them in peace so long that Bert Crawford's letter had been slipped across the table before the entree was served.

"What shall I do about that—thing Willis?" Nan asked in a small voice when the young man had finished reading the letter. "I hurried to the courthouse with it, so that Mr. Morgan could do whatever he thought best with it, in case the jury had not reached a verdict. But I was too late. 'Not guilty'" she re-

Farm Relief Fight Overshadowed By Tariff Battle

Sharpest Firing Centering Around Sugar Duties With Veto By Hoover Not Unlikely, Dutcher Discovers

Agricultural Fight Just A Sham Battle; Green Raps Working Conditions And Labor Takes A Hand

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 1.—The big legislative fight in Washington right now is over the sugar tariff.

All the rowing over farm relief legislation seems like so much shadow-doxing insofar as the ultimate result is concerned. There is no great doubt anywhere that the administration's $500,000,000 farm measure, without the debenture scheme, will eventually become the law.

The only other thing congress is worrying about is the tariff and it is worrying worrying about that a great deal. It is worrying all the more as rumors spread to the effect that President Hoover is likely to veto the republican tariff bill by the time the senate gets through tacking on a few more higher duties. According to those who have the best reason to spread the word around, Hoover is opposed to any sugar tariff boost.

A Real Battle

Pop-guns and cap-pistols are exploding on all sides over other sections of the tariff bill, but the real artillery is booming at the proposed increase of the duty on foreign sugar to three cents a pound. The attack is being led by American sugar producers operating in Cuba, with able support from the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, the Cuban government, the American Chamber of Commerce of Cuba, the American Federation of Labor and an assortment of other organizations and members of congress.

On the other side are the beet, cane and corn sugar producers operating entirely in the United States who will benefit by any increase, and members of congress from sugar producing states and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Sugar comes into the United States from Cuba, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines, but most of it comes from Cuba. With a preferential of 20 per cent Cuban sugar now pays a duty of 1.76 cents a pound; with the proposed three cent duty it would pay 2.4 cents.

The low tariff group arguments include these:

That the proposed rate would mean an increased "direct sugar tax" of about $150,000,000 a year for consumers in addition to the existing "tax" of $283,000,000.

That it would be in no sense farm relief, but would only benefit American sugar manufacturers and lay a new burden on farmers along with other wage earners.

That most beet sugar factories are highly prosperous and that the biggest, the Great Western, pays 30 or 40 per cent on its common stock.

Assail Working Conditions

That the beet industry, as President Green of the A. F. of L. says, employs "women, children and Mexican labor at indecent wages and under intolerable conditions of employment."

That the carbonated beverage industry, which has to preserve a top rate of a nickel on soda pop, would be "ruined" by higher priced sugar.

That the tariff commission reported to President Coolidge that a rate of 1.23 cents would give domestic sugar all the protection it needed.

That the investment in Cuban sugar is largely American and that this, along with the interests of the Cubanse themselves, also should be protected.

That further tax on Cuban sugar merely operates as a bounty for Hawaiian and Philippine sugar and that Hawaiian sugar furnishes the real competition for the beet interests.

Domestic sugar producers have not been so vociferous, but they reply:

That foreign sugars have been dumped into the American market below cost of production and that sugar was selling at its lowest price in history.

That if relief is not granted the domestic industry may have to "surrender the field to foreign competition" in which case consumers might witness a repetition of 1919-20 prices. A strong American sugar industry, it is argued, is the cheapest insurance against foreign control and high prices.

Cuban Control Unshaken

That, regardless of any change in duty, Cuba will continue to control the portion of American sugar requirements no tsupplied by domestic sources because of her preferential.

That the increase is too small to affect prices of the commercial foods, consuming half the annual American sugar consumption, including candy, ice cream and beverages.

That the sugar farmers need relief.

Hawaiian and Philippine sugar producers, subject to no tariff duty, naturally subscribe heartily to all this. But they are taking no open part in the big battle.

peated with a shrug. "Shall I give it to him now?"

Willis Todd looked at her with amazement in his gray eyes. "Why, for heaven's sake? To warn him that his wife's going to skip out with his best friend, a man he has just saved from the penitentiary? If this thing's true, they're going to skip anyway, and Morgan might as well not know it till they do. You don't want him killing Crawford, do you?"

Her gasp of horror answered him. "And you don't really want Morgan to have it out with his wife, and then forgive her, do you? Not if you really love him, you don't! The sooner she's gone the better off Morgan will be, though he won't know it for a long time. No, Nan, you can't show this letter to Morgan! Better tear it up."

But Nan did not tear it up. She folded the stiff sheet carefully and thrust it into her handbag. "Thank you, Willis," she smiled at him. "I just wanted to be convinced logically. I really would have died before I would have hurt him by showing him this letter!"

In New York

By Swan

NEW YORK, June 1. — It has been estimated by persons who should know what they're talking about that not more than 10 per cent of the population of New York is aware of the amazing changes which take place in the city from month to month.

I am inclined to believe a recently overheard statement that one could remove almost any prominent skyscraper and, unless the fact was reported in the newspapers, only a relatively few persons would miss it.

And these relatively few would shrug their shoulders and comment —"Oh, the Woolworth building is gone this morning. Must have torn it down last week. Fast work, eh!"

Strangers in town notice the startling changes almost immediately, and of late months I have made it a practice to go about with a tourist in order to catch up with things that have escaped my attention.

The yarn is told of the clerk who went on his vacation, remaining in Europe for several months and when he came back couldn't find the office building in which he worked. Consulting a policeman on the corner, he was eyed curiously for a moment.

"Say, Rip Van Winkle," so the legend goes, "Don't you know there's been a hotel and a bank there since you last heard of it."

This, however, belongs to the climate stories so popular around Southern California.

The last word in swank can be found in a barber shop which has opened for business on one of the upper floors of the New York Central building.

Wandering in for a hair trim or a neck shave, it seems indeed a far cry from the days when we gathered around a copy of Police Gazette and Puck out in Oxnard, Cal. In those grand old times one could be almost certain of finding a couple of good loafers from the town band or the country baseball team. Splotches of ineradicable tobacco juice gave color and atmosphere to the floor decorations—and women entered only when taking their small sons out for a haircut.

But here, alas, on the fourth floor of an office building one might as well be in the old Peacock Alley of the Waldorf. For there are writing tables where one may pen a note home while waiting for a barber to shout "next!" There are cozy divans and lounges and couches. The walls are of heavy walnut, and no sign of tiling insults the eye. About the walls are collections of rare engravings, gathered from the four corners of the world by a collector whose hobby is pictures dealing with the barber's art.

In one corner is a museum, recalling to mind those far-away days when the wandering barber was also the itinerant doctor. Here one is led to recall that barbers were early day surgeons and that barber-surgery once fought it out with the rising tide of science in London — giving way at last to two groups, one of which eventually became the British Academy of Medicine. Here are the cups such as were used for "bleeding" th kings and the knaves alike; the bottles of leeches and the instruments of the 16th century.

Oh, For The Life of A Salesperson!

Clerks In Local Stores Give Lowdown Of Shopping, How It Should Be And How It Is; Not So Bad

Some of the many odd, interesting, peculiar, vexing, sad, amusing and humorous incidents have been related in snapshot interviews by clerk's assistant managers, and proprietors of several local shops and stores.

"Do we have interesting experiences, you say—and, How?" sniffed a pretty saleslady in a Broadway department store. The comely young matron who later confided that she had had four years experience with "'em," bursted forth in a veritable volcanic discourse, lecture, address or what not—on "How People Should Shop." "Of all things I hope to do when I quit work, I'm going to write a book on the subject. And when I write it, I want every housewife, husband and child in the country to read it and profit thereby."

They "Just Look"

For so many customers simply do not know what they want when they come shopping. Many simply want to see some "merchandise" when we ask to wait on them. They have no idea of the price, size, quality or color in many instances, and blurt out "you know that that ain't the right trimin' fer a taffeta "soluable dress," meaning of course, an "ensemble suit." I enjoy showing goods when people appreciate it but on the other hand salespeople have anything but a "picnic", as many customers seem to think. They should serve the public awhile, and then they would treat salespeople commonly known as "clerks", with at least a degree of consideration and courtesy. A lot of customers demand that we show them so and so, as that's what we are here for. And when told that we do not have the item, or are temporarily out of the wanted, size, color or price, they snort—"such a town anyway!"

Should Be Taught

"How to Shop" should be taught in the schools, everywhere—for in this business age, customers should not be so "slow" on shopping! Parents at least should teach their children to know values, qualities, prices and so on—first of all, for their own good, as well as from the standpoint of economy also. For when children grow up they should know how to do things in a business-like way. We also need to teach both children and adults business manners, and how to treat and meet the public. Teach them also to have tolerance for the clerk's shortcomings, as well as their own, and not to distrust all salespeople. We have so many experiences every day, some are extremely humorous while others are extremely nerve wracking to both the customer and the clerk. Oh! I simply could write a book on the subject," concluded the young saleslady as she stepped across the aisle to wait on a fluffy young Miss with an animated smile."

Another saleslady in this same store, declared that more than once had she had customers rip out, "Oh! I can get this silk in Dallas or some other place, for $2.50 that you are asking me $2.69 for." To these we make reply, it may be true, but had you ever stopped to figure up your railroad fare or "gas" for the trip?"

Have Many Experiences

"Every day we have numbers of odd experiences" explained the assistant manager of a popular variety store. "Many of these experiences are amusing and all are filled with human interest. We often have farmers and others come in and inquire if we handle 'tin lizzies' or a certain make of windmill or plow? We daily have trouble with customers running down lost parcels, money, checks—and, yes, many lost children! While still others meet and greet relatives, fast friends or fond lovers—in our store, smiled the assistant manager,—and all in all we have many strange, odd and interesting happenings from day to day. And as for exchanges and refunds, we are often asked to make them on even so small a sale as a nickle's worth of candy."

Other proprietors of local stores state that among the varied daily routine of serving the shopping public, they have a real problem with the 'shop-lifters!' One variety store recently had lost a number of $1.50 fountain pens, and among other things, a leather purse belonging to one of the saleslad'es. Two or three other saleslaides in as many other shops and stores, report a similar loss of handbags and purses not to mention an expensive fur coat. One woman proprietor declared that one day last week a whole tray of cuff-links, stick-pins and tie-clasps disappeared and as yet, had not returned to their owner. Many other items had also been missed from time to time involving greater losses," she declared.

Shoe Boys Are Heard

While in a certain other downtown department store, salespeople simply exclaimed with disgust, at the way "some customers" treat clerks. Shoe department boys also come in for their share of disapproval of the "manner" in which some girls and women display their anatomy when having shoes fitted and are up in the air over the question they'd have them know.

Women of the ready-to-wear department of this same store declared that among their daily experience a young flapper had recently exclaimed in a frivolous apologetic manner, while donning a new dress in a fitting room, "Dear, you'll have to excuse me, for I don't have on many clothes!" And to the saleslaides' great amazement, the Washingtonian Miss wore nothing beneath her frock—but her "birthday dress."

CROCKED COLORS

In wearing a hand-colored frock or any dress whose color is bright be sure to wear shields as many of the delicate new fabrics are done in paints and crock from perspiration. Some of them even wash successfully but run under the arms when shields are omitted.

Amsterdam has a river called Y; in China there is a city called U; and in Sweden a town called A.

ALTON, Ill., June 1.—Mrs. Binnie Burton probably bought her clothes with her own money. Otherwise, her darling husband wouldn't have been so eager to cut up her shoes and take her nice new underclothes.

But Binnie didn't pay for them, so he amused himself with a large knife and his wife's shoes. The little wife complained, Binnie was arrested and they went to court.

Mrs. Binnie, Burton charged, wouldn't keep his home tidy and refused to cook for him. Mrs. Binnie charged that she couldn't keep a stitch of clothes because of her playful mate's cutting ways.

The judge told Binnie he must replace the ruined clothes and sent the both of them home to patch up their troubles and keep the peace.

Display Ancient Irish Confetti

CHICAGO, June 1.—Bricks taken from walls of the ancient city of Ur of the Chaldees, made 5500 years ago showing the fingerprints of the makers, were displayed at the American Ceramic Exposition here recently.

In contrast, more than $250,000 worth of the finest American chinaware, glass, pottery, stoneware, tile, terra cotta, brick and other ceramic wares were shown.

One of the exhibits, was a new "mystery material," as yet unnamed, which it is claimed, is so light and yet so strong that it may be possible to build structures which will tower 125 stories high. It will not break down at a temperature of 3250 degrees and is an excellent insulator against cold and heat.

It means something definite when thousands of people who formerly owned and drove far more expensive cars are now driving Chryslers by preference.

Today there is a general recognition of the fact that Chrysler has obsoleted long-established standards.

By scientific distribution of car weight, by new utilization of fuel, by advanced carburetion and correctly applied thermo-dynamics, Chrysler engineering has created a new performance.

A perfectly-balanced chassis, with buoyant vanadium springs anchored in moulded blocks of live rubber instead of ordinary metal shackles, supplemented by hydraulic shock absorbers, means an entirely new and delightful comfort in riding.

Take a demonstration. Learn for yourself the difference between Chrysler performance and the others.

New Credit Corporation Founded By Ford Is Success

Financing Of All Ford Cars To Be Handled By Firm

Universal Credit Co. Will Operate In All Nations Where Ford Products Are Sold; In U. S. Now

ONE of the developments of the past year which created national interest in both automotive and financial circles was the organization of the Universal Credit company for the purpose of financing exclusively the time sales of Ford products throughout the country.

Untimately service of a similar nature will be provided in all countries where Ford products are sold, George Benson, local Ford agent, is led to believe.

Universal Credit company is specialized financial institution created to provide uniform and authorized time payment plans at low cost for the purchase of Ford products on the installment basis. The company in the first year of business just closed has made sound and gratifying progress.

Does Big Business

Up to date, UCC has purchased installment contracts in excess of $75,000, which establishes a new installment record for an organization that has been operating just one year. In the short space of one year, the company has grown from an organization of ten people to one employing almost a thousand.

Officials of the company have pointed out the fact that the organization has for its primary purpose the sound financing of Ford products with no profit for the concern itself.

This reduction in the cost of credit is made possible by the many economies that arise from the operation of an authorized plan, on the basis of a nation-wide volume, and dealing exclusively with the Ford dealer organization. Simplicity of forms, special bookkeeping and statistical machinery and general uniformity of proceedure all under centralized control and management, are constantly contributing to cut these costs.

Cost Is Watched

Originators of the UCC plan realized that the cost of credit is just as vital as the cost of any other material that goes into the building of the automobile. It is in every sense a commodity which becomes a part of the completed article before it is ultimately sold to the public.

Thomas A. Edison, the famous inventor and one of the outstanding geniuses of modern times, is a strong believer in installment selling.

"People who work for wages seldom come into the possession of considerable funds. Unless they save, they can hardly ever buy an article costing over $50 or $100. Their incomes, however, justify the possession of more expensive articles that contribute to their comfort or their enjoyment, such as automobiles, radios, and books, as well as many household conveniences. There is no reason why the manufacturer of these articles should not aid in the purchase by shifting the point of saving from before purchasing to after purchasing."

MORE CRIMES LIKELY

LOS ANGELES, June 1 (AP)—Evidence connecting Dr. Frank P. Westlake, suspected of slaying Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, with still another death, has reached Captain William Bright of the sheriff's office, he asserted last night.

Revealing no details, Captain Bright said the new case was not that of Joseph Van Zandt, for whose drowning in a well Dr. Westlake was under suspicion 32 years ago in Perry, Illinois.

Scores View New First Showing of Marquette Here

The new Marquette by Buick, which was on display for the first time at Kent Buick company Saturday, attracted scores of motorists during the first day of its showing in Lubbock.

Smart lines, roomy interior and general sturdiness jump out at you in the first glance of the new companion car to the valve-in-head favorite. Built in the Buick factory of the same high-grade of material that is put into the more expensive Buick, the Marquette comes out as a fairly large-sized car in the medium priced range.

Conventional engineering has enabled Buick to produce this low priced machine built of Buick quality materials. Outstanding among the differences in the Marquette and the Buick valve-in-head automobile, is the L-Head motor with a 67 1-2 horsepower. Other "special" features in the Buick are replaced in the Marquette with sturdy, conventional engineering.

Not only is the Marquette a popular priced car, but it is a popular sized car. The machine fully equipped weighs less than 3,000 pounds. With its comparatively large size and weight and sturdy build, it has been geared to run between 68 and 70 miles an hour. Gasoline consumption is said to be about 17 miles on the gallon.

Good Performer.

So far as the car is concerned, it is nothing new in principle. But it does feature itself in the way it is put together and the various accessories applied to make it what the manufacturers call "The best performing engine in its price class."

The Marquette on display here is a standard sedan, the highest priced job in the new line. Frank D. Kent, president and manager of the local Buick house, expressed high enthusiasm over the reception given the car during its first day's showing.

"It should prove to be one of the most popular cars on the market," he said last night, when the last visitor had left the show rooms.

GLOVE CARE

With the advent of longer gloves with new frocks, glove care assumes importance. Never roll used gloves into a ball. Smooth out fingers, and blow air into them and fold carefully. Do not pull gloves off or on by the cuffs. Never put them away damp from rain or perspiration. When washing them, use soap flakes and add a little glycerine.

Commercial Field Showing Increase

Trucks, Coaches And Buses Being Shipped Out From Dodge Factory In Larger Quantities

(Special To The Avalanche)

DETROIT, Mich., June 1.—Increased business activity in the commercial car field is evidenced by shipments of trucks, buses and motor coaches of Dodge Brothers for the first four months of this year compared to the corresponding period of 1928.

Truck shipments during this period represented an increase of 12 per cent greater than April a year ago.

In the motor coach division, sales have exceeded last year's record by 52 per cent, and school bus sales have increased 42 per cent over last year's mark.

"These gains show the rapid trend toward motorized passenger transportation as developed in the motor coach bus field," said C. W. Matheson, general sales manager. "Their dependability, safety, comfort, fine appearance, long life and economy are qualities that buyers demand in operation, whether it be in congested city streets or in sparsely settled rural school districts.

"The epanding domestic and foreign markets for trucks is reflected by the increasing demand reported from our international dealer organization. Unfilled orders in the truck division of the company represent a gain of more than 400 per cent over a year ago."

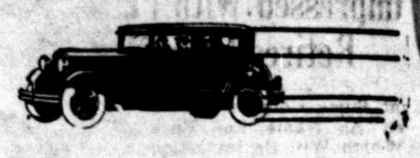

California Pastor Facing More Suits

LOS ANGELES, June 1 (AP)—The Rev. R. R. Shuler, whose radio sermons already have brought three libel suits against him, today was named defendant in a fourth $100,000 libel action instituted by Wilbur C. Curtis, a candidate for a municipal judgeship.

Curtis claimed Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, had declared that if the candidate was elected it would be a "public calamity."

The Rev. Shuler formerly was pastor of the University Methodist church at Austin, Texas.

About 100 years ago about 35,500,000 acres of Michigan were covered with forest. Less than 8 per cent now remains, according to the U. S. Forest Service.

New Buick Dealer Here Announces Policies Of Firm

Frank Kent, Head Of New Concern, Impressed With Plains; Slaughter Retires From Motor Car Business

Kent Buick Company Chosen As Name For Firm Which Will Be Instiltion Of Local Nature

KENT Buick company, Lubbock's newest automobile institution, which succeeds Slaughter Buick company, 1008 Avenue J, announced yesterday its policies for operation and began business at the same location that has housed the Buick agency in Lubbock for the last three years.

Frank D. Kent, president and manager of the new concern, comes to Lubbock after more than three years in Fort Worth, where he is well known in automobile circles. Before coming here, he was connected with the Webb-North Motor company, Fort Worth Buick dealers. Prior to his connection with the Panther City Buick house, Mr. Kent served in the capacity of manager of the G. M. C. Truck company in Fort Worth.

Impressed With Plains.

Mr. Kent has been profoundly impressed with the business outlook for Lubbock and intends to make the "Hub of the Plains" his permanent home.

"Kent Buick company will be a Lubbock institution," Mr. Kent said yesterday, "and we hope to grow with the city. A policy of fair play and public service is uppermost in our minds now and will remain so. The change of ownership will not mean that we plan to revolutionize the automobile business in Lubbock. Only sound policies will be followed."

Coincident with the opening of the new concern will be the first showing of the new Marquette. The first of these new six-cylinder products by General Motors arrived in Lubbock yesterday and is on display at the show rooms of the local house.

Gough Motor Co. Has Record Day

What is thought to be the largest single day's business by a Lubbock automobile house was recorded here last Wednesday by Gough Motor company, local Studebaker-Erskine distributors.

The first Relay truck to be delivered from the local concern, priced at $3550, have the big impetus to the record sales. A Studebaker President Brougham and two used cars ran the total sales for the day to $6,745.

Union Trucking company, operating between Lubbock and Lovington, N. M., purchased the truck while the Studebaker President was delivered to Roswell, N. M.

A. ... Lowe, special field representative from the Relay manufacturing plant, was in Lubbock to assist in the demonstration and delivery of the Relay truck.

Verily, Verily, Time Is Valuable

Lubbock Folks Aren't As Punctual As They Might Be, 'Folks In Know' Claim

There are many who are still governed by the position of the sun, and often old Sol does not agree with that little modern instrument called a watch, a casual survey of civic clubs, churches and board of directors in Lubbock reveals.

As a part definition, "Time is an alloted, appointed, fixed, or customary period," Webster tells us.

The average Lubbock business man or church goer is unconventional enough to ignore time with elasticity in fulfilling engagements. And yet, most of those men are successful in their chosen professions.

Punctuality Valued.

A board of directors meeting of a New York corporation was called for 1:30 p. m. on a certain day. At 1:29 o'clock doors of the directors room were closed. Each of the 12 directors had arrived. Those men, most of whom are millionaires, value punctuality. Such rigid observance of time has contributed largely to their success. Hazarded by distance and traffic congestions, they keep their appointments.

Here in Lubbock, where the business man needs only to step across the street, or telephone his wife that he will attend a directors meeting, or whatnot, the percentage of those who observe timeliness is surprisingly low.

Lots of Excuses.

"Met an old riend from home. We had to talk over old times. Just couldn't get away." "Got tied up with an insurance salesman thought I'd never break loose." "Was over at the sample room. Did not realize it was getting so late." "Had to take my wife and the children over to Mrs. Jones'." "My secretary is on her vacation, and I do all the office work." "Didn't realize it was noon; the morning passed off hurriedly." "We have the car in the garage and had to walk."

These are but a few of the alibis heard in many circles of the city where late arrivals are numerous.

Investigation proves that an average of less than 5 out of 15 directors of a certain organization of the city arrive on time for scheduled meetings. "And those five are not always the same persons," said the secretary. "It seems that there is a universal idea that a meeting is designated to be held at 7:30 o'clock in order that it may begin at 8 o'clock."

Clubs Have Trouble.

Service clubs of the city, whose luncheons are designated to start at exactly 12 o'clock noon, have the same problem. Each member of a luncheon club is requested to leave his place of business five minutes before 12 o'clock. Two-thirds of them arrive five or 10 minutes late and as a result the food service does not start until 12:10.

Church service hours are not governed by lack of observances of punctuality, it was revealed. The Lubbock pastors start their sermons on time, but they point out that disturbances created by late arrivals breaks into the planned points of sermons.

Called "Selfishness."

"Failure to be on time is an overt measure of selfishness," said one clubman, who professed to be timely in everything he does." The man who is delayed by flimsy activities which can be postponed gives no consideration to the person who might be on time and whose time is equally as important as the former's. There are some men who actually think their positions are of such importance that no explanation is necessary when they arrive late. Such a person should consider Henry Ford. The automobile manufacturer says punctuality is 'the margin' between success and failure."

CURTAIN PINS

Pinch clothespins, or those called "patent clothespins" are excellent savers for window curtains when kept attached to drapes and used to pin back glass curtains each night.

Hupp Seeks Best In Motor Metals

Factory Has Complete Laboratory For Testing Of Materials For Blocks; Mayari Iron Used

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DETROIT, Mich., June 1.—A veritable chemical laboratory in which all kinds of steel and iron are twisted, distorted, pulled to their uttermost limits are subjected to every known scientific test for strength, durability and performance is the division in which the motor blocks for all Hupmobile cars are tested in the Detroit factory.

True to its tradition of never being satisfied with the adequate, but always seeking the best, Hupmobile engineers go the limit in testing raw metals. It is not enough that an occasional motor block is tested and thoroughly checked as it comes from the production line. Contrary to ordinary practices, Hupmobile tests have single motor block throughout its manfacture and finally examines it with a special device, the use of which was pioneered by Hupmobile.

Ever since it sinception this company has maintained a highly organized and unusual efficient corps of metallurgists. Their job is to analyse every kind of metal used in the construction of Hupmobile cars. Particularly are they interested in the composition and structure of the meals used in engine blocks. Years of unceasing experiment have developed a special metal for this part of the engine. It is called Mayari iron and it is held in unusually high regard throughout the automobile industry because of its outstanding qualities.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT . . . BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Drop of Gasoline Will Move Car For More Than 1 Foot

(Special To The Avalanche)

TOLEDO, O., June 1.—Through the medium of an efficient automobile engine a single drop of gasoline will roll an automobile weighing nearly a ton and a half over more than a foot of highway.

This sample of the marvelous power developed in the modern automobile was figured out by Werner Fetz, research engineer for the E. L. Bruce Lumber company of Memphis, Tenn., after he had completed a recent 2,000-mile trip through the east in his Oldsmobile Six landau.

Alternate at Wheel

For the first 1,000 miles of the trip Mr. Fetz and a companion alternated at the wheel of the Oldsmobile, each driving 100 miles at a time, and made stops only for gasoline and one meal. The remainder of the trip was made by Mr. Fetz alone but it showed equally outstanding car performance.

At the conclusion of the trip the engineering mind of Mr. Fetz was intrigued by what a fine automobile today can and does accomplish and he figured to the drop of gasoline how much power was developed.

Owners Talks Mileage.

"Car owners talk a good deal about the mileage their cars make per gallon of gasoline," said Mr. Fetz. "I doubt, however, that the majority of them realize what their statements involve. We may discuss the billions of dollars spent during the war, or the hundreds of light years a star is away from us, but since we cannot visualize such figures they have absolutely no meaning.

"It is the same with gasoline mileage. Take, for example, a car which averages 17.8 miles per gallon and see what this consumption of gasoline actually means after we have reduced these figures so that we can grasp them more easily.

"Seventeen and eight-tenths miles represents 93,984 feet, and one gallon of gasoline contains 68,602 drops. Consequently it requires 3.73 drops of gasoline to move the automobile one foot.

Chrysler Testing Carried Complete

(Special To The Avalanche)

No part of a Chrysler car is so small, its function so insignificant, as to be slighted during the period of probation on which it is put, before being assembled in the completed product.

In the huge engineering building of Chrysler Motors at Highland Park, Detroit, hundreds upon hundreds of accessories are constantly being tested for the Chrysler "65," "70" and Imperial cars.

Not only are devises invented by Chrysler engineers put to the most rigid tests before being adapted for use in these products, but all equipment submitted by outside manufacturers for use in these cars is also subjected to the most minute examination, so they will live up to the hig standards set for all Chrysler-built products.

To the layman entering experimental rooms in this laboratory, it appears that a hundred Rube Goldberg engineering cartoons have suddenly come to life. Here, without apparent rhyme or reason, many different types of motor car accessories are performing those duties they wil eventually perform in a car.

By Jove, Chappie! Tourists Have To Learn Abroad

(Special To The Avalanche)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 1.—"Wash the windscreen and the quarter back lights of this saloon, please, and adjust the strangler and the suction wiper. Then fill the tank with anti-pinking petrol."

What does it all mean? It's merely an English motorist telling a mechanic to clean the windshield and the side and rear windows of his sedan, and to adjust the choke and the windshield cleaner. His reference to petrol, more familiarly known on these shores as gasoline, indicates his perference for anti-knock fuel.

Motorists who take their cars abroad this summer for a motor trip in England will learn an almost completely new automotive vocabulary. They will learn, for instance, that the fenders are wings, the hood is the bonnet, and the hop i sthe hood.

The transmission, they will find, is known as the gearbox, and spark plugs are always "sparking plugs." The carburetor undergoes slight change to become "carburetter." Motor trucks are known as lorries, and their capacity is referred to as so many hundredweights, abbreviated as cwt.

you can't substitute adjectives for engineering

When somebody invents a car that will run on superlative adjectives, the motoring millennium will surely be with us. Up to date, however, the efforts to substitute adjectives for engineering have been such dismal failures that the verbally-operated car still seems a long way off.

So until the "hot-air" motor is perfected, the Chrysler-built De Soto Six will continue to depend on its engineering and leave the adjectives to the other fellow.

Because it is typically Chrysler-engineered, De Soto Six already has achieved an admirable record of economy and durability, and has earned the praise of thousands of owners by its gratifying performance, its handling ease and its low cost of operation and maintenance.

In addition to its ability to perform and keep on performing, it is handsome and comfortable. Chrysler-designed brakes give it exceptional safety.

Here is a six-cylinder car priced well below $1,000 that inspires real pride of ownership. The purchase of a De Soto Six is the kind of economy dictated by wisdom and not necessity.

Before you take a demonstration just ask yourself what a motor car ought to do. You will find that De Soto Six exceeds all your expectations.

ETROIT, Mich., June 1.—Keen terest in the recently announced ection of A. R. Glancy, president d general manager of the Oak- nd Motor Car company, to a vice residency in General Motors, is idenced here in automotive cir- es.

illys-Overland In Second Place

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

TOLEDO, O., June 1.—New car istrations of the ten leading kes in all states, for the first ee months this year, and in 14 tes for April, place the Willys- erland company in second posi- in the automobile industry in t of increase over the same per- of last year.

nalysis of the Whippet and llys-Knight increase over last r, as compared with the gains of manufacturers, places the s-Knight registration gains in d place with an increase of per cent, while the Whippet is 33.1 per cent. This places increase of Willys-Knight reg- rations above the increase of the ustry as a whole. Of the ten car nufacturers listed, si showed a in comparison with last year's trations, while four made gains om Willys-Knight's increase in the current year, it is evident the Toledo manufacturer is getting a considerably greater share of the six cylinder business in the Willys-Knight price bracket than last year, with an apparent influence toward increased profit possibilities during the second quarter.

How Is She Hittin'?

Pertinent Facts About Automobiles By Israel Klein, Science Editor For NEA Service

BY ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

The high compression and fast-speeding engine in use today has raised the importance of the spark plug in the proper operation of the motor. Considerably greater demand is made upon it and a greater variety of plugs has been found necessary to furnish the best performance under varying conditions.

To operate the motor efficiently, therefore, the motorist should become acquainted with proper spark plug operation and adjustment.

A large percentage of engine trouble may be traced to the spark plugs and eliminated by konwing what to do under the circumstances. If the motor is hard to start, if it missed at low idling speeds, if it is sluggish, if it loses power on long runs, at high speed, on hills or on a hard pull, the spark plugs should be examined. Any of these conditions may be due to dirty plugs.

All that is needed to correct such faults is to clean the plugs or, if the car has gone some 10,000 miles with the same spark plugs, to replace them with new ones. This mileage is about the limit at which engineers put the life of spark plugs. After that they cannot be expected to operate efficiently.

To clean spark plugs, fill the lower part of the plug with alcohol, metal polish or equal parts of ammonia and water, and let stand for a few minutes. Rub the carbon from the insulator with a cloth-covered stiff wire or wooden peg. Then wipe the plug dry. Clean the points with emery cloth and adjust the points.

Adjustment of the spark plug gap is important. The gap for use in average motors should be not wider than .025 inch. For high compression motors it should be .020 inch. At the same time the distributor contact points should be adjusted. These should be between .015 and .020 inch in width of gap.

The reason for the shorter gap in spark plug and distributor in high compression, high speed motors is that less time is afforded the ignition coil to build up the voltage necessary for the proper spark.

Even when the motor is not of the high compression type, if it is operated at high speeds, it requires a different type of spark plug from that used for average driving. And even with the proper spark plug, the distributor may cause trouble.

If the gaps between the distributor contact points are too wide, trouble may be experienced at high speed, while satisfactory operation may be had at low speed. And if the gap is too small, the trouble may be reversed.

Too small a gap in the distributor may cause almost constant contact from one point to another, there will not be a clean, sharp break as required for proper operation, and the coil will not be able to build up a high enough voltage to deliver to the plugs.

The ignition system therefore should be checked up every 1000 miles, with special view toward keeping the breaker contacts clean, square, and at the proper gap, cleaning the spark plugs and checking up the gaps betwen the electrodes.

American Cars In Foreign Winning

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

DETROIT, June 1.—Europe was given another demonstration of the all-around performance of which American automobiles are capable when American entries carried off most of the prizes in the 2,730 mile tour of France organized by the Motorcycle club of France. The tour, which was for both automobiles and motorcycles, consisted of nine-day runs of approimately 310 miles each, with intermediate days in the various provinces devoted to speed contests, hil climbs, starts with cold motors and other events designed to bring out the real qualities of the cars.

The Ansaldo Cup for all-round performance, the most coveted prize in the competition, was won by an Essex, driven by Andre Morel, a noted French driver. It finished without penalizations. Adding to the performance was the fact that a second Essex, driven by Lamy, also finished with a perfect score.

Who are the people who have made this car such an overwhelming success?

The New Pontiac Big Six is scoring a tremendous success. All previous Pontiac production records have been surpassed in meeting the enthusiastic demand for this car. But the most interesting phase of Pontiac's latest and greatest success lies, not in the number of people who are buying it, but in the kind of people. They give the real clue to what this car provides.

The New Pontiac Big Six was created for those progressive people who had been seeking a finer low-priced automobile. It was designed to enable them to step up the quality of their motor cars without stepping out of the low-priced field. As a result, they have bought the New Pontiac Big Six by tens of thousands, enabling us once again to tell the familiar story . . . Pontiac Six reaches a new high point in sales.

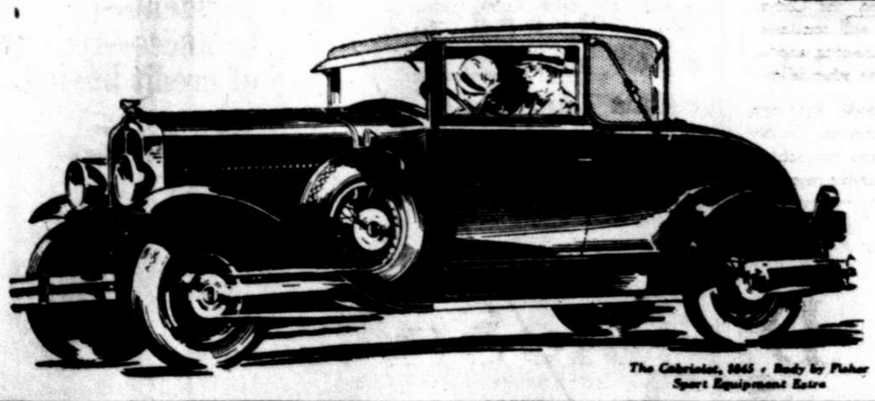

A special demonstration has been arranged to show how thoroughly the New Pontiac Big Six lives up to its name. If you will come in for this demonstration, you will learn the reasons for Pontiac's success.

Battles of Civil War Not Over As Vets Still Fight

CHICAGO, June 1 (AP)—All of the battles that the civil war started haven't been fought yet.

After desultory skirmishing since major actions in 1923 and 1924 John N. Stewart has been victorious on another front in his campaign to restore his name to the roster of Gen. George G. Meade post of the grand army of the republic.

His courtroom strategy won a directed verdict from Judge Michael Feinberg, who ruled that his name be restored.

Stewart was ousted from the post by a court martial in 1923 on a charge of diverting funds. He was exonerated by the national encampment at Boston in 1924.

Despite the action, he claims and defense witnesses agreed, the local post refused to restore his name to the lists. Members testified that it was their feeling that Stewart should apologize to the post and apply for a new membership rather than obey the national body.

But even though the battle is going against them, members of the local post are not retreating. Six of them stamped their canes on the floor to register emphatic disapproval of the decision. Then they held a council of war with legal aides to prepare an appeal.

Toy Tunnel Aids City Below Level

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, June 1.—Bush Terminal in Brooklyn, sometimes known as New York's "City Within a City," is adding a toy vehicular tunnel to its already extensive underground system.

Tractors, a little larger than toy automobiles, will pull four by six foot trailers through this tunnel, which will extend from one end of the Terminal to the other, connecting the various enterprises within it. Some 35,000 persons live here and all are engaged in various trades. The tunnel is expected to collect goods from different buildings so that they can be shipped out quickly in full carload lots.

"Suppose there are 17 manufacturers in the different buildings connected by the tunnel," says W. L. Sturges, mechanical superintendent of the Terminal. "If they all have small shipments for Philadelphia they can be brought together to make up one carload lot."
