

Jury Acquits Connally

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, acquitted on charges he accepted payoffs of $10,000, says he is considering re-entering political life some day.

A four-man, eight-woman federal court jury deliberated for six hours and 45 minutes Thursday before clearing the former Texas governor of charges he accepted payoffs of $10,000 in 1971 from milk producer lobbyist Jake Jacobsen after helping win higher government milk price supports.

The tall, silver-haired Connally, his family and defense lawyers burst into a round of bear hugs, back-slapping, kisses, smiles and tears after the jury foreman read the verdict.

His wife, Nellie, the only one of the four Connally women who didn't cry, nodded her head and whispered audibly, "Oh, thank you!" Later she squeezed her husband's arm and said, "I know. Now everyone knows what we know."

In freeing Connally, the jury rejected Jacobsen's testimony that he paid Connally $10,000 on each of two visits to his Treasury Department office and later conspired with him to cover up the transaction. Edward Bennett Williams, Connally's lawyer, called Jacobsen a perjurer, a swindler and a scoundrel who bore false witness against Connally to get a light sentence and to cover up for pocketing the cash himself.

Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. told the jurors they must scrutinize carefully the testimony of an informer such as Jacobsen. The jury apparently taking Hart's advice called for a full transcript of Jacobsen's testimony during its deliberations.

The first question newsmen asked Connally as he emerged smiling from the courthouse with Nellie on his arm was whether he would go back into politics.

"I won't think about it for some time, but I hope I never lose a desire to be involved in political affairs," he replied.

When asked if that wasn't a strong indication he would re-enter politics, he replied with a grin, "I've already said enough."

More than 50 reporters and 100 spectators, who waited throughout the afternoon in the courthouse, were surprised when the verdict came. They expected the 5:43 p.m. courtroom session would bring only an announcement that the jury was breaking its deliberations for dinner.

The jury has reached a verdict, Hart said. Connally, who read the Bible during the day of deliberations, remained stone-faced as the foreman said in a firm voice, "We find the defendant not guilty."

But as soon as the jury left the room, Williams rushed forward and gave Mrs. Connally a big hug and a kiss. Then he clutched Connally, Connally embraced his wife, his daughter, Sharon, and his two daughters-in-law, while his two sons gave him hearty slaps on the back.

"I suppose we never felt like there could be any outcome but this, but they made us worry about it for some time" this afternoon, Connally said.

Connally was touted as a leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination until a year ago when he was indicted on bribery charges.

The government's case was based almost entirely on Jacobsen's testimony. He said Connally asked for the money after he helped American Milk Producers Inc. win higher price supports for milk from the Nixon administration.

Jacobsen told of meeting Connally twice and giving him the money. Two years later, Watergate investigators investigated the case, Jacobsen said Connally twice gave him batches of $10,000 as part of an elaborate plot to cover up the payoffs.

Williams said Jacobsen fabricated the story to get a light sentence in the milk case and to escape prosecution in an unrelated Texas bank fraud case. He contended the milk lobbyist, on the brink of bankruptcy in Texas, pocketed the cash.

Connally took the stand in his own defense and when asked numerous times if he ever took any money, replied firmly and slowly, "I did not."

Wilson County Judge R.L. Eschenberg drove around Floresville all day — stopping at service stations, drugstores and supermarkets — to spread the word in John B. Connally's hometown.

The former three-term governor of Texas and Treasury Secretary had been acquitted of charges he accepted bribes from milk producers in return for influencing price supports.

Not that the folks in Connally's hometown ever thought he was anything but innocent. But they were concerned about whether a jury in the nation's capital would acquit him.

Like most government officials, friends and others in Texas, the folks in Connally's hometown said the verdict reaffirmed their faith in the American system of justice.

Another Sweepstakes

Pampa High School's Pride of Pampa Band returned victorious Thursday from Amarillo where they carried another sweepstakes trophy in the region competition.

Jeff Doughten, director, said that only two of the AAAA schools in the meet were awarded sweepstakes trophies. The other winner was Amarillo High School, but one of the three judges rated them two with the other two judges rating one. Pampa was the only school to get unanimous ones from all three judges.

Of 30 schools competing in the meet, only three had won sweepstakes when Pampa's band returned. Two of the winners were Pampa — the Pampa Junior High School Band also snagged one of the big trophies.

Of 19 junior high school bands performing, Pampa was the only sweepstakes winner.

The results Friday in sight reading and concert performances were added to the results of marching contest last fall to determine sweepstakes winners. Winning bands must have earned one rating in all areas of competition. Band Boosters were waiting at the high school band room when the buses of musicians returned Friday. Soft drinks and cookies were served and a drawing was conducted to determine the winners of 100 gallons and 50 gallons of gasoline.

Proceeds from tickets sold for the drawing are being used to send the Pride of Pampa Band to St. Louis in May. More than $1,100 was raised in the effort.

Mike Deanda of 1016 Neel Road was winner of the 100-gallon prize and Jerry Stone of 226 N. Christy won the 50-gallon prize.

Directors of the bands include Doughten, David Emmell, assistant director, Joe DiCosimo, junior high band director, and Sam Watson, director at Sam Houston Middle School.

HUD Pushes Pampa On Flood Insurance

The federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is pushing the City of Pampa, along with more than 300 other Texas communities, to sign up for the Federal Insurance Administration program which would make Pampa residents eligible to receive flood insurance at subsidized rates.

Pampa is one of 329 Texas cities not yet participating in the program.

City Manager Mark Wofford said today he probably would ask authorization from city commissioners at their Tuesday meeting to make application for eligibility under the federal program.

Deadline for application according to J. Robert Hunter, acting federal insurance administrator is July 1.

In a notice to Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, the following statement was made by Hunter:

"As we have communicated to you previously, effective July 1, after a community has been notified of its tentative identification as having one or more areas of special flood hazard, no federal or federally related assistance for construction or acquisition purposes may be approved for use in an area identified by the secretary of HUD as a special flood hazard area unless the community in which such an area is situated is then participating in the National Flood Insurance program.

Such financial assistance includes FHA and VA insured mortgage loans, as well as conventional mortgage loans from federally regulated lending institutions. We urge you, therefore, to submit an application for participation as soon as possible, not only to avoid the adverse consequences of non-participation, but to make available to the residents of your community both the benefits of federally subsidized flood insurance and the protection afforded by the community's responsible regulation of its flood plain.

Along with Pampa, other local area communities listed as not having signed up for the flood insurance program include McLean, Lefors, Wheeler and Miami.

City Manager Wofford said the principal flood-prone hazard listed for Pampa is the along the Red Deer Creek park areas.

not recall flood dangers (except in some of the underpass locations) the city manager said if there are any benefits to be derived from the flood insurance program, Pampa may as well be eligible to receive them.

Currently in Washington, it was learned today from the Pampa News Bureau, there several pieces of legislation that would amend the federal flood insurance program are being considered.

Pay was $1 Per Fire

43 Years of Fire Fighting

BY TEX DEWEESE

Pampa's only volunteer fireman, 74-year-old A.J. Hindman, will retire Saturday after 43 years of service as a fire fighter, dating from the area's first oil well fire back in the 1930s to last Tuesday night's fire at the Packerland Packing Co. of Texas Inc. plant.

Hindman, a Pampa resident since 1926, began his career as a fireman on April 19, 1932, under then Fire Chief Clyde Gold, chief of the city's first paid department.

At that time there were only three paid firemen, the chief and two truck drivers. The rest were volunteers. Hindman was the 20th volunteer to join up.

Pay of the volunteers was set at $1 a fire call, $2 if a hose line was laid to a fireplug. That was the meager salary Hindman received on his call to the most recent fire the other night.

Hindman, however, did not work for the money. He worked at being a volunteer because he loved fighting fires.

He got into the volunteer fire-fighting business because at the outset it offered him a place to sleep. He resided at Central Fire Station for eight years — from 1932 to 1940.

"I had grown to like being a fireman so well, he said, that I just kept on even after I married and moved away from the station. There is something about a fireman's job that gets under the skin."

When Hindman started back in 1932, the three paid firemen had only three pieces of equipment. He said the chief had a Model T Ford and there were two 750-gallon-per-minute pumps.

Hindman served under the only four paid fire chiefs Pampa has had in nearly half a century — Clyde Gold, Ben White, Ernest Winborne and the current chief, Fanace Dyer.

Chief Dyer describes him as a dedicated fireman who never failed to respond to a call.

Hindman has responded to many hundreds of firecalls during the 43 years. He says most outstanding in his memory were the Lanora Theater fire in downtown Pampa back in the 1940s and the Gilkins Apartments fire in the 300 block of E. Kingsmill that claimed five lives in the late 1950s.

The coldest weather he ever encountered at a fire was 5 below zero. It was on the night an arsonist set fire to a fruit market in the 400 block of S. Cuyler.

That happened, Hindman said in 1937 or 1938. And it came about that he was responsible for turning up evidence that resulted in arrest and conviction of the arsonist.

Hindman recalls the first

Pampa area oil well fire back in the 1930s. It was on the Sinclair Lease, five miles south of the city.

Hindman resides with his wife, Hattie, at 416 N. Starweather. Incidentally, Mrs. Hindman is currently in her 34th year as an employee at the C.R. Anthony downtown store.

Hindman says she retired two years ago but, like himself, she still works for the same employer on a part-time basis.

He said he was at home the other night when he heard the sirens, sounding the alarm for the Packerland Packing Co. fire. There were so many he said, "I knew it must be a big one. He jumped out of bed, dressed and was on the scene in a few minutes."

Hindman has only one fond hope about his retirement. He hopes the mayor and city commission will adopt a resolution making him an honorary fireman of the City of Pampa.

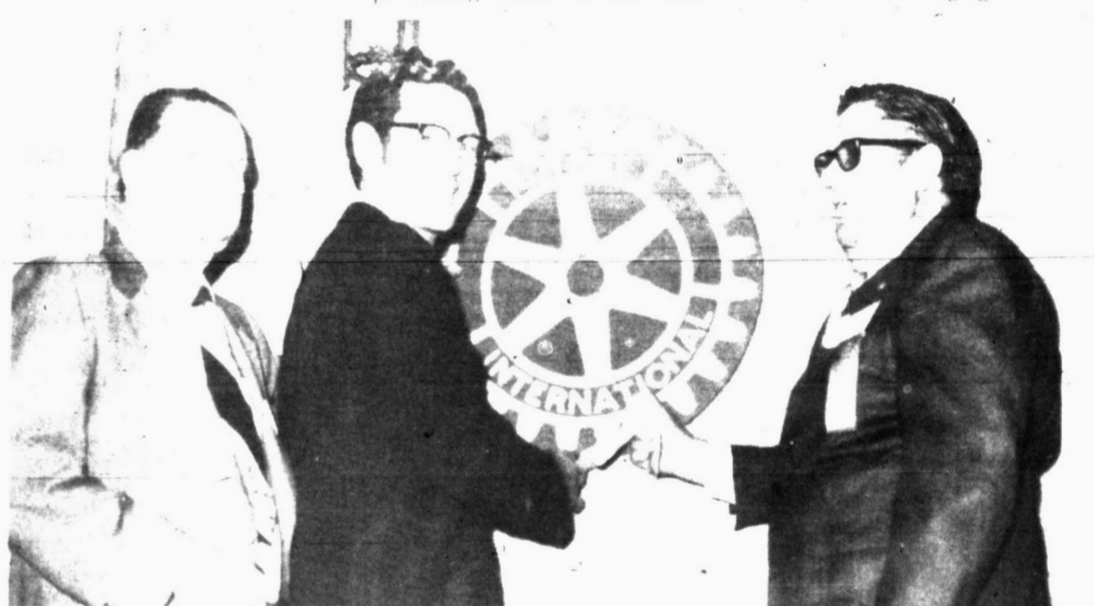

Only paid firemen receive pensions after so many years of service. Volunteers have no reward except memories of their fire-fighting days.

After 43 years at $1 or $2 a fire call, maybe they'll cancel my monthly water bill, Hindman said with a chuckle. Even that would be a nice pension.

Hindman operates his own retail beer business at 316 S. Cuyler.

He says he suspects it will be difficult not to answer the call of the fire alarm when he hears sirens, sounding in the future.

"Retired or not," he said, "I'll probably wind up turning out as usual just to see if I can be of any help."

PAMPA HOSTING — The 18th Annual Conference of District 573, Rotary International is in Pampa through Saturday. About 400 Rotarians and wives are expected to attend the three-day meet before its conclusion. Pictured are Marshall Formby, left, of Plainview, former district governor, C.D. ## Pampa Rotarians Host District Pampa Rotarians are hosting an estimated 400 district 573 members and wives at the 18th annual conference underway at the Coronado Inn.

Those attending the event were saddened with the unexpected death Saturday of Dr. Emil Prohl of Tahoka, district governor, said C.D. Zlomke, host club president.

Zlomke said that the previous governor, Marshall Formby of Plainview, will fill the office for the remainder of the term.

According to Roy C. Sparkman, registration chairman, 249 Rotarians had pre-registered for the conference and at least 150 more are expected before the Saturday noon conclusion of the three-day meet.

Highlight of today's activities will be the Governor's Banquet at 7 p.m. with Dr. Charles Jarvis, a San Marcus dentist, as speaker.

Other events today included the first plenary session at 8:30 a.m. in M.K. Brown Auditorium and an all-conference luncheon.

Saturday events in the program call for a 7:30 convention breakfast in the Starlight Room at the Coronado Inn and an incoming officers breakfast in the Terrace Room both at 7:30 a.m. The second plenary session will be at 9 a.m. and an all-conference luncheon at noon.

Rex McAnelly, conference chairman, said Thursday, "We've got quite a program outlined. Dave Smith of Austin is here. He's a representative for Rotary International."

At the plenary session today, Smith presented a "Report on Rotary" to the conference members. President of Dave Smith Public Relations and Advertising Smith was a radio and television broadcaster in Austin and Amarillo before establishing his firm in 1961.

He has been a broadcaster of Southwest Conference football on the Exxon Network for more than 20 years.

Dr. Prohl, who died Saturday of a what was described as a massive heart attack, was a retired physician, surgeon.

Cleanup Dates Set For City

Pampa's annual cleanup campaign will run through the month of May.

The following dates for trash pickup in the city's four wards were set at a meeting today of the Chamber of Commerce, Fire Prevention and Safety Committee with city officials.

Ward 1 — May 5, 9, Ward 2 — May 12, 16, Ward 3 — May 19, 23 and Ward 4 — May 26, 30.

Congress Hesitates on Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress appears willing to grant part of President Ford's appeal for emergency humanitarian aid for South Vietnam, but seems certain to deny any substantial military aid or to meet Ford's Saturday deadline.

An unresolved dispute over what some senators consider to be too slow a rate of evacuation of Americans from South Vietnam could further delay funds for evacuation operations and other humanitarian purposes.

Nevertheless, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Thursday that the White House was pleased with the progress Congress was making. President Ford said in a speech Wednesday he did not intend to hold Congress strictly to his April 19 time limit.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee was meeting today and hoped to get word from the administration that the departure of Americans from Saigon is being speeded up. Failing such assurances, the committee is withholding a final recommendation for $200 million in evacuation and humanitarian aid funds.

In the House, the International Relations Committee was meeting to hear Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on the South Vietnamese situation. Thursday, the committee recommended 187 to provide $125 million in humanitarian and evacuation funds.

Congressional sources said that if the White House can assure the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the evacuation of Americans is being accelerated, the way will be clear for Congress to provide President Ford with $200 million or more of the $500 million in humanitarian aid he requested.

Gov Supports Amendments On Tuesday

AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe says voters should approve legislative pay raises and increased pensions for retired teachers and state employees.

Briscoe urged voter support Thursday of the two constitutional amendments on next Tuesday ballot.

A lot of us know people on fixed incomes are among those who have been most severely affected by inflation, the governor said.

He said the increase in legislative salaries from $400 to $600 a month is a small one.

The men and women elected to handle multimillion-dollar budgets and all of the public services we expect from state government are paid only $4,800 a year, he said.

INSIDE WASHINGTON
Wilbur Mills Facing Choice

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
WASHINGTON, April 18 — Rep. Wilbur Mills has made his choice.

If the once-powerful Arkansan has to decide between returning to Congress or resigning, he will give up the seat he has held since 1939.

Mills doesn't want to do either. Private hope of the former chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee is to serve out his current (18th) term, to which he was elected last year despite strident opposition — the first he encountered in many years.

But if it gets down to a question of having to return to the House or quitting, Mills will quit.

That's what he somberly told a close colleague before explaining for a Navy sanitarium in south Florida. Mills was urged to undergo treatment there by the doctors in charge of his case at the Bethesda Naval Hospital. He was accompanied by the institution by a Navy noncom.

In Mills' talk with his long-term friend, he stressed his "sheer inability to face going back to the House."

psychologically is another matter.

While demand for Mills' resignation has been voiced in the Arkansas legislature, constitutional authorities in Congress assert there is no way that can be legally enforced. In support of that contention, they cite the constitutional provision that the House and Senate are sole judge of their membership.

However, it's conceded public clamor could pressure Mills to quit.

At 66, with 36 years in Congress, he is entitled to maximum pension — within a few thousand dollars of his $42,500 salary.

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Who is the boss? A la the Supreme Court, their word supersedes the Constitution. Again, a la Kissinger, he seems to be the big Chief. Or why the expense of a President or a Congress? — J.S.

ANSWER: We would like to say with Thomas Jefferson that the people are the bosses of their own lives; or that the individual is supreme. But it would appear that too many individuals no longer are ready, willing or able to stand on their own two feet, and are willing to accept what their masters in the government decide is best for them.

What's Ailing Him

Particularly, the friend stressed there is no clamor in the House for Mills' resignation.

As far as it's concerned, he can do as he wishes.

"You were officially seated and sworn in when this Congress convened," pointed out the friend, "and as far as the House goes, that holds for the tenure of this Congress. No one in the House is calling for your resignation, or is likely to. Legally there are no grounds for that. John Rooney (D., N.Y., long-time chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee) was away virtually all of last Congress because of illness, and no one said a word about it."

"You've got a lot of friends in the House, and they'll be glad to see you back. So don't do anything rash. No one can make you resign if you don't want to. Take your time and think things out. If you do, everything is bound to come out all right."

The old friend didn't explain the reason for this counsel, but it was based on what the Navy doctors said is at the root of Mills' problem, as follows:

"As long as he persists in blaming others for his difficulties, he isn't going to get well. His trouble is psychological, no physical. Once he takes himself in hand and faces squarely up to the fact that he alone is the cause of his illness, then he'll be on the way to recovery."

"Whether he can do that, only time will tell. Physically there is no reason why he shouldn't be able to do that; there is nothing chronically wrong with him. But whether he can adjust

Telling Her Off

Rep. Bella Abzug, rancorous radical, militant women's libber and strident dove (except where Israel is concerned), got a stinging dose of her own medicine from an unexpected source.

It was from a young man she was grilling for the job of administrative assistant.

Known among colleagues as "Bellowing Bella," Ms. Abzug is notorious in Capitol Hill for her large turnover in her staff — around 100 per cent annually. Although an inveterate do-gooder and champion of the poor and downtrodden, she is apparently a harsh, overbearing and penny-pinching employer.

Among congressional employees, her office is widely and unfavorably known as "a place to stay away from if you don't want to be abused and imposed on."

The young applicant had several high academic degrees, previous congressional staff experience, and a record as a liberal.

Ms. Abzug interrogated him closely on his background. Particularly she asked a lot of questions about his attitude regarding Vietnam and the Middle East. Finally, after exhaustive probing, she said she would let him know.

By this time thoroughly convinced he didn't want the job, the young man rose and said, "Ms. Abzug, can I ask you one question?" She nodded.

"Why is it," he inquired quietly, "that all my friends warned me not to apply for this job? Why is it that without exception they told me you are the meanest and most disagreeable person in Congress to work for; that if I got the job, I would regret it and probably wouldn't last beyond my first paycheck?"

"Why is it you have that kind of a reputation?"

Startled, for a few moments Ms. Abzug stared at him in astonishment. Then, letting out a bellow of rage, she shrieked, "Get out of here, you blankety-blank, and don't ever let me see you again."

"You won't," triumphantly grinned the youth as he sauntered out.

Doctor's Advertisements

An important break with an antiquated tradition happens this month as Chicago-area physicians, those just now going into business, will be permitted to advertise in newspapers.

For centuries doctors have operated under the mystique that their profession would be somehow soiled if some one member of their class so much as hinted he would do such a dastardly thing as advertise.

With the astronomical cost of opening practices, including malpractice insurance fees and so forth, now doctors must battle unconquerable odds in setting up shop. Without the ability to post public notice of their whereabouts, their prices, and other claims of proficiency, they have found life especially difficult.

There are hidebound practitioners who complain that the new standard of allowing advertising is "unethical." The complaint is unconvincing, especially when it seems unethical to deny patients easier accessibility to doctors.

The relaxed standard will be limited, however, only to permit in the ads about as much information as can be found about a doctor in a telephone directory. Patients and doctors would be much better off if ads could contain full-blown advertising techniques, with even competitive fees publicized.

'Domestic Passport' Out

It is a happy circumstance that Attorney General Edward H. Levi pulled back a Justice Department recommendation that every American be required to prove legal residence before applying for a job, the so-called "domestic passport" plan.

While his announcement does not mean such insidious ideas are forever banned from the American political landscape, a new age of freedom and birdsong and petalstrewn roadways ushered in, we do find Levi's choice of words intriguing, in terms of legal philosophy.

Conceived as a deterrent to illegal immigration, the scheme, declared Levi, would come close to a violation of something akin to a constitutional light. With such language as that, Levi should have been a lawyer.

LAND AND LAW
Congress A Zoning Board?

The world's biggest zoning board. That's what Congress would become if Section 503 (d) of the National Land Use Bill pending before the House of Representatives (HR 3510) becomes law. Under this provision, no rules or regulations proposed by the federal regulatory agency created by the statute would take effect until they had been submitted to Congress and not been disapproved by both houses within 60 days.

The basis for this provision is quite understandable. Regulatory agencies established by Congress have frequently flaunted the will of their creator. In setting up agencies, Congress has usually compromised between a specific, detailed description of their duties and a broad grant of power.

As a result, regulatory legislation usually assigns a certain overall task to any agency and confines it with a series of generalizations, each urging in essence the accomplishment of a particular good or the avoidance of a specific evil. A majority to pass a law can be glibly on this basis despite the absence of a consensus on many specific policies or program that would be undertaken by the agency. The agencies thereby end up with enormous amounts of discretion.

Section 503 (d) is an attempt to avoid such problems, but it can only result in more. The Interior Department is charged with establishing rules and regulations under the proposed bill, and when it does, some people will win and others lose. Individuals and groups differ enormously on how the land should be used and regulated.

Not only are obvious groups such as developers and environmentalists concerned, but also farmers, labor, apartment and shopping center owners, mortgage investors, retailing companies, industrialists, utilities, tenants organizations, local and state officials, lumbermen, cattlemen, civil rights group, mineral and mining interest, consumer organizations etc. etc. Many of these and their lobbyists, lawyers and experts will descend on Washington to plead their causes. Those who don't like the contemplated rules will seek changes and those who do will want to make sure that they remain intact.

Congressmen will be placed in the position of land planners, deciding which of competing interests should be favored — and that at least should be an enlightening experience for them. They will then realize that there is nothing special unique or magic about "planning." They will know why those with the biggest political or financial clout tend to win and why planning "solutions" depend on the opinions, tastes, perspectives and personal interests of the decision makers. Perhaps "planning" will be shorn of that mystique which presently surrounds it.

Those who do not favor proposed rules for certain reasons will seek out groups that dislike them for other reasons. And strange alliances will be formed, as often occurs in politics.

The goal will be to draft changes acceptable to a majority in both houses. Compromises based on political considerations will emerge which can have little relationship to the best, wisest, efficient or effective use of the land, that precious resource which the bill allegedly is designed to save.

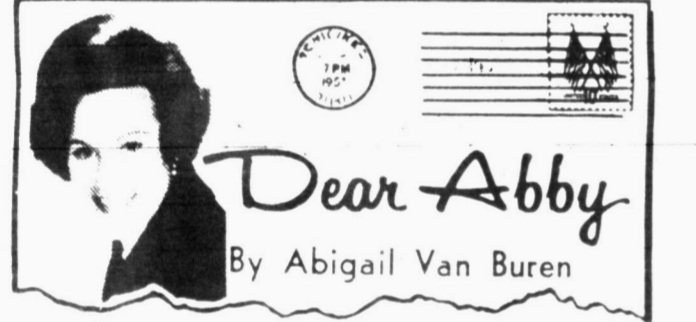

Despite its imperfections, however, Congress is about as capable of solving land use problems as any agency it sets up. Any government body with power over the land will operate under comparable pressures and with corresponding inclinations. Anyone with doubts on this score should examine the history of zoning in this country. There too a struggle has continually existed between a host of varied interests and winners and losers are usually determined on the basis of the political pressures they can exert.

Even if a national land use bill is passed without 503 (d), much the same problem will still exist for Congressmen. They will be pressed continually to make changes in the legislation or to obtain favorable ruling of the agencies concerned. Whether they want to or not, they will take on duties ordinarily performed by zoning board members. So many constituents are involved in or benefit from land use that the legislators will not be able to remain aloof. Much of their time will be needlessly consumed in the process and Congressmen already have to little available to pursue diligently their existing duties.

One of the problems that zoning has created is that it preempted the bulk of time of local elected officials, leaving them little left for more vital matters. It has been variously estimated that municipal councils spend 60 to 90 per cent of their time on zoning.

A comparable situation must not develop on Capitol Hill. Congressmen should not have to set aside consideration of bills affecting war and peace, recession and property to discuss or argue with constituents about location of a factory, whether a large housing development should be allowed or if enough open space has been provided. This is bound to occur once the federal government assumes responsibility in the use of the land.

Should Newlyweds Bill "No-show" Guests?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I see eye to eye on almost everything, but we have one major difference of opinion. I can't stand people who use dirty four-letter words, and my husband says that that's the way some people talk, and that I should accept them for what they are and try to get over my hang-up.

Sorry, but I can't. I wasn't brought up that way. It's not that I'm a prude, Abby. I've heard all the words and I know what they mean, but I don't see why people who talk dirty can't go out of their way to avoid offending those of us who have this so-called "hang-up" about four-letter words.

What is your feeling about this?

HUNG-UP

DEAR HUNG-UP: I'm hung up, too, because I wasn't brought up that way, either. But some of the most humane, constructive and interesting people I know occasionally resort to four-letter words. And some of the most intolerant, hypocritical, narrow-minded bigots wouldn't think of using such language.

The sensitive, considerate person who normally uses four-letter words will watch his language out of respect for those in his company whom he knows are offended by it. But one can't always judge a person's worth and character by his language any more than one can judge a book by its cover.

DEAR ABBY: Please help settle an argument. Rob and I had a large church wedding for which we sent out formal invitations six weeks prior to the wedding.

The RSVP's were addressed to my parents and stamped, so all the people had to do was sign their name and drop it in the mailbox.

Out of 175 invited guests, we heard from only 150.

We also had a formal reception, and of those who accepted, 15 couples didn't show up. My parents had to pay for 30 dinners that were not touched. (We never received a note or even a phone call from the no-shows.)

I am all for sending each of these "no-show" couples a bill for their dinners. Rob says to drop it and forget the whole thing. What is your opinion?

BURNED IN METHUEN

DEAR BURNED: I'm with Rob.

DEAR ABBY: Everywhere I go, I see more and more how to "hook."

The latest is on how to make love. I have nothing against that. I'm sure a lot of people need help in that area, but I would like to make one comment.

We read so much about the importance of "foreplay." Most men are in too big a hurry to get right down to the sex act, not realizing it takes a woman longer to get warmed up. Very little, however, is said about "afterplay" — which, I think, is equally important.

If a man would just take his lady love in his arms and hold her, and maybe give her a little kiss on the nose afterwards, it would mean so much.

So many men just roll over and give the little lady their back for the rest of the night. Abby, will you please pass this along to your male readers, if you think it has merit? Thanks.

LOVES TO BE LOVED

DEAR LOVES: Consider it passed. I wonder how many women have suffered in silence from such a seemingly minor oversight?

Senator Mansfield said there was enough Vietnam blame to go around — but Ford refused his share.

Nixon's lawyers are trying to get back his presidential papers. He wants to recycle them into money.

In a TV interview, Haldeman said he didn't love Nixon. It was just a political romance.

Now that the "domino theory" hasn't worked, Ford may try checkers.

Kissinger promised Ford he would stay on so Americans will think he's still president.

Fourth Graders Spread Musical Joy in World

By JANE MARSHALL

Henry Kissinger should have joined the Lamar PTA program which the school fourth graders presented Thursday.

The youngsters, in lively and sincere fashion, took an imaginary trip around the world and showed that it really is a small world after all.

They made it seem so simple for the world of different peoples to be friends and sing and dance together.

The program, presented in Lamar gymnasium, was a complete geography lesson: costumes, facts, songs and dances.

They waltzed with Matilda in Australia; waddled with penguins in Antarctica; stomped with the Swiss song "Vreneli"; and had danced to the Mexican "Sing Chiapanecas".

Their worldwide trip also included stops at South America, Japan, Egypt and Netherlands plus several side trips around North America.

Teachers Frankie Jones and Hazel Plaster made most of the costumes; Melissa Pirkle was choreographer.

After their journey, the group's narrators, Darla Denham and Stacy Pierce, concluded that they were glad to be back in the U.S. and in Texas.

Sixteen of the fourth graders squared off and square danced to Texas Star.

The youthful singers seemed to put the most gusto into "God Bless America" and "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

The Lamar fourth graders in the program were: Gaye Hurst, Mary Lynch, Cathy Meadows, Melissa Wells, Rosetta Young, Sheri Dominey, Pam Brown, Cecil Dowdy, Randall Harden, Cliff Kelley, Bard Knutson, Steve Lofton.

Bobby Murrah, Mike Nelson, Steve Organ, Randy Parsley, Johnnie Spotts, Jimmy Walker, Donnie Winegeart, Joe Bob Holmes, Chris Mitchell, Steven Robertson.

Developmental Class Displays Crafts

Baker School principal Floyd Sackett and aide Marge Hulsey with Gregory Count and Majuanta Slater.

Ruthiea Morgan, teacher; Marilou Cunningham, Teacher aide; and Marge Hulsey, volunteer

The developmental Class of Baker Elementary School this week displayed their crafts at the Carver Center curriculum room, 321 W. Albert St.

This was their second annual crafts display.

The youngsters will sell their crafts from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday at Carver. The ceramics and foam art will be offered for a suggested donation, according to teacher Ruthiea Morgan.

All the items were made in class.

Marilou Cunningham is teacher aide and Marge Hulsey is volunteer aide for the special class.

The students who exhibited their crafts are Edward Ryan, Dicky D. Hendricks, Majuanta Slater, Mark A. McMinn, Steven R. Counts, Gregory Counts and Randy Sewell.

Rejects Day Care Rules

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. William T. Moore, D-Bryan, threw the bill in his trash can.

Moore was angered by the Senate's overwhelming rejection Thursday of a proposal by the governor to tighten regulations for child care schools and extend state licensing requirements to church-sponsored homes for children. Senators voted 19-11 against even considering the measure.

Moore blamed Evangelist, Lester Roloff for the Senate's 19-11 vote against considering a compromise on the measure originally requested by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to give state welfare officials authority to enforce standards for child care institutions.

The bill also would have extended state licensing requirements to homes for children 16-18 years old.

The Texas Supreme Court blocked welfare officials' efforts to close Roloff's Rebekah Home for Girls in Corpus Christi last year by ruling licensing requirements do not apply to facilities for children over 16 years old.

Briscoe asked legislators to change the law this year partially in response to the Artesia Hall scandal.

The director of Artesia Hall, a private school near Liberty, Tex., was indicted in 1973 for murder in the roach poison death of a teen-age girl.

"I'm convinced that this bill is needed," Moore said. "As far as I know Brother Roloff is the only one that won't like it."

The new Khmer Rouge leaders of Cambodia tightened their hold on Phnom Penh today and moved to put down the last pockets of government resistance in the provinces.

The black-clad guerrillas, riding in captured American-made jeeps and armored cars, patrolled the capital as the Communist-led Khmer Rouge took over running the city.

Diplomatic sources in Saigon said an air force pilot for the defeated government bombed a radio transmitter just south of Phnom Penh.

Sketchy reports reaching Saigon said some members of the fallen Cambodian government were setting up an anti-Communist resistance base outside Phnom Penh.

A handful of Cambodian rulers, including the brother of exiled President Lon Nol, heeded guerrilla surrender demands and turned themselves in to the ruling "revolutionary liberation committee."

But most of Cambodia's deposed leaders fled the war-torn capital by plane and helicopter to scattered enclaves still held by anti-guerrilla forces or military bases in neighboring Thailand.

Gen. Sak Sutskhan, the leader of the defeated army and acting president of the fallen government, landed in Thailand this morning aboard a Cambodian air force plane.

Diplomats in Saigon said two former prime ministers — Sirik Matak and In Tam — planned to meet at the encircled provincial capital of Battambang, 148 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, to map resistance to the rebels.

But Battambang, Cambodia's second largest city, appeared likely to fall to the Khmer Rouge before long. "I think Sirik Matak and In Tam will go to the forests to fight a guerrilla war," the diplomats said.

Reports reaching Saigon said the guerrillas were assaulting Battambang as well as the provincial capital of Svay Rieng, 70 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The insurgents imposed a news blackout on the Cambodian capital, halting Radio Phnom Penh broadcasts and cutting off communications with the outside world.

Some residents of Phnom Penh feared a looting by the victors, but the Khmer Rouge said there would only be reprisals against high-level leaders.

Chau Seng, a member of the revolutionary politburo, said in Paris the defeated leaders would be brought to trial and judged "in a humane way" if taken into custody.

"You've seen that there is no bloodbath in Phnom Penh," he said. But reports from outlying "liberated" areas captured during the final three-month advance on Phnom Penh told of thousands of villagers killed by conquering Khmer Rouge forces.

Foreign diplomats correspondents and relief workers caught in the capital, including some Americans, were holed up in the Hotel Le Phnom under Red Cross protection.

The International Red Cross

in Geneva lost radio contact with the hotel Wednesday but later received word that "all is well."

Crocker Found Guilty, Gets 10 Years, Fine

HOUSTON (UPI) — Oil field consultant Kerry Andrus Crocker, convicted of using radioactive material to castrate his 14-year-old son, says he always loved the boy.

"I love my son. I hope someday, somehow this will become known," Crocker said after a jury sentenced him Thursday to the maximum 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Defense attorney Jimmy James said the verdict will be appealed.

"We feel the jury reached a verdict that was based on emotion rather than evidence," James said. "There was not a shred of evidence to support that verdict."

A six-man, six-woman jury found Crocker guilty and then deliberated an additional hour and a half on the punishment.

He was convicted of exposing the boy to cesium pellets while the child slept during weekend visits during 1972.

Crocker, 44, was twice divorced from the boy's mother.

Prosecutor Mike Hinton told the jury Crocker mutilated the boy to gain revenge against his ex-wife or because he was mad at the child for not wanting to visit more.

Kirk, who was 11 at the time, testified he was frightened by the mysterious capsules he found stuffed between couch cushions, under a pillow in his father's bed, in television earphones and in a sock carried at arms' length by Crocker.

'Revenue Sharing Unequal in State'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Texas discriminates against women and minority groups by using revenue sharing money to fund agencies such as the state's cosmetology commission instead of social programs, according to the Texas League of Women Voters.

League representative Linda Avena told the Senate Finance Committee Thursday Texas will not use revenue sharing funds for any agency which already receives federal monies.

Federally funded agencies, such as the Department of Public Welfare responsible for a number of human needs programs, were left off the revenue-sharing gift list, while other agencies not noted for their impact on social problems, such as the Texas Cosmetology Commission and the Texas Amusement Machine Commission, received revenue sharing allocations. Mrs. Avena said

She said the League of Women Voters filed a complaint with the Justice Department alleging discrimination against minorities and women, but nothing has been done to change the state's allocation policies.

While the federal funds accounted for only 3 per cent of the state's budget, Mrs. Avena said, the money was enough to avoid "a fiscal crisis" that would have forced a budget cut or an increase in taxes.

Molly Carlton Receives Council-Scholarship

The Gray County Home Demonstration Council has awarded their 1975 4-H Scholarship of $300.00 to Molly Carlton of the Lefors 4-H Club.

Molly is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Welborn of Lefors. She is a senior at Lefors High School.

The 4-H Scholarship is given to any 4-H Club member who has completed or is enrolled in their third year of 4-H Club work and plans to enroll in College in the fall following graduation. They must submit a 4-H recordbook for judging.

Molly has been an active 4-H member for eight years. She is currently serving as president of the Lefors 4-H Club and chairman of the Gray County 4-H Council and Member of the District 14-H Council. Last year Molly received the Gold Star Award the highest award a 4-H member can receive in the County for outstanding 4-H Club work.

Molly plans to attend Frank Phillips Junior College for two years and transfer to Texas Tech to complete her degree in home economics.

ORDINANCE NO. 18
An ordinance repealing all ordinances, or parts of ordinances, or amendments thereto, that conflict with the terms or conditions of this ordinance and enacting in lieu thereof a new ordinance regulating plumbing work in the city of Pampa, Texas, defining certain terms, providing for certain exemptions, providing for the enforcement of this ordinance and the issuance of permits and establishing certain fees, providing for specifications, materials and methods of plumbing installations, providing penalties for violation of this ordinance, providing a severability clause, and prohibiting work without a permit.
No person, firm or corporation or other entity shall install or perform any plumbing work as defined in this Code without first having secured a permit in accordance with the provisions of this Code.
No person, firm or corporation or other entity shall cause or permit any plumbing installation to be connected with the City water or sewer system or to any gas distributing system nor shall such person, firm, corporation or other entity permit the use of any such plumbing installation or gas flow through the same which has been inspected and approved as herein provided.
No person, firm or corporation or other entity violating any of the provisions of the Ordinance shall be liable to a civil penalty not exceeding two hundred dollars ($200.00) and each day and every day that the provisions of this Ordinance are violated shall constitute a separate and distinct offense. In addition to the said penalty provided for the right is hereby conferred and extended upon any property owner owning property in any district where such property owner may be affected or invaded by a violation of the terms of the Ordinance to bring suit in such court of competent jurisdiction therefor and obtain such remedies as may be available at law and equity in the protection of the rights of such property owners.
By the passage of this Ordinance, no presently illegal use shall be deemed to have been legalized unless specifically such use falls within a use district where the actual use is conforming thereto. Otherwise, such uses shall remain nonconforming uses where recognized as an illegal use the case may be. It is further the intent and declared purpose of this Ordinance that no offense committed, and no liability penalty or forfeiture, either civil or criminal, incurred prior to the time the existing Plumbing Ordinance was repealed and this Plumbing Ordinance adopted, shall be discharged or affected by such repeal, but prosecutions and suits for such offenses, liabilities, penalties or forfeitures may be instituted or caused presently pending proceeded with in all respects as if such prior ordinance had not been repealed.
This Code does not relieve from or lessen the responsibility or liability of any person owning, operating, controlling or installing any plumbing gas piping or gas-fired appliances for damages to person or property caused by any defect therein, nor shall the City be regarded as assuming any such liability, by reason of the adoption, authorized herein of certificate of approval issued as herein provided.
All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Mrs. Cockrell To Become Mayor of San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Lila Cockrell says her election as mayor of the nation's 10th largest city demonstrates voters recognize women can make contributions in government.

Mrs. Cockrell will assume office on May 1, making San Antonio the largest city in the nation with a woman mayor. San Jose, Calif., where Janet Gray Hayes was elected last November, has been the largest city with a female chief executive.

Before that Patricia Lattig of Oklahoma City recently reflected to a four-year term held the honor.

"I feel that a person who is qualified — regardless of sex, national origin, religion, color, creed or whatever — should have the opportunity to serve and I'm going to serve on the basis of just doing my best."

Mrs. Cockrell, who served in the WAVES during World War II, said Wednesday.

"I just think this is the international year of the woman and I think here in San Antonio we have already celebrated it. We elected three women judges and I think it's the time when the citizens really are recognizing women as individuals and contributors to their society and their community."

Mrs. Cockrell, 53, won the office by defeating beer distributor John Monfrey by 8,000 votes in a runoff election Tuesday.

Sex was not an issue throughout most of the campaign, but some observers felt a turning point in the race came last weekend when Monfrey supporters broadcast a television commercial of a woman saying she would vote for the businessman because "I think a woman's place is in the home."

Mrs. Cockrell polled 5,439 votes to 47,287 for Monfrey in a heavy turnout. But voters elected only three members of her establishment Good Government League ticket to the nine-member council, with independents lining the other spots.

Mrs. Cockrell, whose husband is executive director of the Bexar County Medical Society, said several women around the nation followed her campaign.

At the National League of Cities meeting in December, I was elected the national chairman of women in municipal government and of course many members throughout the

Okays Maximum Crude Oil Production in May

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Railroad Commission, noting a reduction in oil imports today, authorized another month of maximum crude oil production in May.

Commission chairman Ben Ramsey said crude imports into the United States were 3,639,000 barrels a day for the four-week average of April 4 that is a decrease of 134,000 barrels a day compared with the Jan. 3, 1975, figure.

The crude oil import picture still has room for improvement, Ramsey said.

The three-member commission has authorized production of 100 per cent of the allowable for all but a few Texas oil fields continuously since April, 1972.

Nominations for Texas' crude for May totaled 4,016,980 barrels daily, down from the 4,044,756 barrel per day demand in April. Natural gas nominations totaled 27,231,868 cubic feet daily, down 521,000 cubic feet a day from April.

Calls American Diet Unhealthy

United Press International — The standard American diet is unhealthy and contributes to tooth decay, obesity and heart disease, food activist Michael Jacobsen said today.

Kicking off Food Day activities in more than 20 states, Jacobsen said, "Our food policies have been guided by economic interests rather than nutritional or humanitarian interests. We're encouraged to eat foods bad for our health."

Jacobsen is the creator of the Food Day efforts, which are similar to the ecology concern of Earth Day. He is a Washington biologist who began promoting Food Day on a shoestring six months ago to inform the public about hunger, nutrition and corporate power.

He was interviewed on the NBC Today Show.

Food Day activities, were scheduled today in many areas ranging from universities to small town fairs.

The project is sponsored by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a consumer-oriented group who repeatedly has warned against chemical additives in food and poor nutrition habits of Americans.

Esther Peterson, consumer advisor to Giant Food, a Washington-area supermarket chain, proposed in a full page newspaper ad today a "Terrific Ten" program of good foods, including whole wheat bread and vegetables with "crunch."

The nation's Roman Catholic hierarchy, joined Food Day observances by calling for an American food policy governed by the needs of the hungry rather than profits.

The Department of Social Development and World Peace of the U.S. Catholic Conference also urged development of a comprehensive national food policy and warned against government promotion of corporate controlled agriculture. Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., told a New York meeting commemorating Food Day that big corporations are behind the rise in food prices. "By virtue of their size, these firms control markets, set prices, decide what's in stores, where it comes from, what it should look like, and, most of all, how much profit they make from it," he said.

Historic Medical First: Patched Heart Via Leg

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Doctors said today they patched a hole in the heart of a 17-year-old girl without using

PATIENTS SHOULD BETOLD BLOOD PRESSURE READINGS

Since high blood pressure can be treated effectively and brought under control, it is important for the public to understand the importance of having their blood pressures checked regularly. Ray W. Gifford, MD, head of the department of Hypertension and Nephrology, Cleveland Clinic Foundation, said recently.

Patients should be told how high their blood pressures are, he said, at a CIBA Pharmaceutical Company Medical Horizons postgraduate education symposium in Cleveland. Ohio Dr. Gifford said he encourages patients to take their own blood pressure readings at home.

"It is best for the patient to actually see how high his pressure is, and be aware of how it comes down as he takes the prescribed medication," he said.

general anesthesia and without resorting to open-heart surgery. They said it was a historic medical first.

Ochsner Foundation Hospital said a surgeon and a heart specialist implanted a steel and dacron umbrella-like device in the heart of Suzette Marie Creppel of New Orleans on April 8. She is in fine condition, the hospital said.

The hospital said doctors made a small incision in her right leg and passed a catheter, or tube, through a large vein leading to her heart to correct the defect, a hole in her heart's wall, she was born with.

At the end of the catheter was a capsule containing two small umbrellas an inch and a half in diameter when opened.

By manipulating the controls of the device outside her body, the two umbrellas expanded on either side of the defect between the upper chambers of her heart, sealing the hole and making it unnecessary for her to undergo open-heart surgery. The procedure could eliminate the need for open-heart surgery to correct certain heart defects in children," the hospital said.

The 90-minute medical procedure was carried out by Dr. Terry King, a pediatric cardiologist, and Dr. Noel Mills, a cardiovascular surgeon. Although the entire procedure took 90 minutes, doctors needed but seven minutes to actually implant the umbrellas.

The hospital said King and Mills were developing several of the devices to correct three separate types of heart defects.

"The project was conceived in hopes of finding a safe method for repair of heart defects such as atrial septal defects (defective heart walls) using cardiac catheterization techniques which potentially would be less costly, shorten the hospital stay and eliminate the need of a heart-lung machine," King said.

Soviet 'Rising Star' Ousted by Brezhnev

MOSCOW (UPI) — Only eight years ago, Alexander N. Shelepin ranked as the Kremlin's rising young star, a wily politician working his way to the top of the Soviet hierarchy.

Today, Shelepin's career lay in ruins.

The Communist party Central Committee ousted the 56-year-old bureaucrat from the ruling Politburo Wednesday, stripping away the power that made the former KGB police chief a serious challenge to Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The Politburo is the center of all power in the Soviet Union. Shelepin's ouster came as a clear victory for Brezhnev, who emerged from the Central Committee meeting with a vote of confidence for himself and his policy of detente with the West. The committee also set next Feb. 24 for the key 25th Congress of the Communist party. The congress meets every five years to review party policy, and some Western observers have speculated Brezhnev will announce his retirement at this time.

Western diplomats said Shelepin fell victim to a long power struggle with Brezhnev, who waged a slow but determined campaign to crush his rival.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, APRIL 19

Your birthday today: So much happens this year that you'll have to reorganize. Think of yourself as a freer, more effective human being and as an active citizen in community issues. If you're young enough to be able to switch, you change vocations and/or relocate. If not, you've got new ways and methods to consider putting into use. Today's natives focus on extreme, often unrealistic goals.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Premature moves are characteristic today. Don't respond immediately or say what you will do before it's time to bring others in on the situation. Romance sparkles.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Exchange news and views and expect some disagreement. Financial matters move swiftly; check your figures. Travel requires special care; hazards exist that aren't obvious.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Fortune smiles; you receive results from past efforts and your position improves spontaneously. Until sunset, you speak too quickly, perhaps harsher than circumstances merit.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Get down to business. Sentiment plays little part in your activities. Avoid speculative deals and friends who are always ready with quick schemes. You can improve your public image.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: It's your turn to call the shots, carry responsibility and see that things go right. Personal touches are indicated.

FONDA SOUGHT HOLLYWOOD TUP! — Actress Fita Gam turns producer with "Build a Ship" and will negotiate with Henry Fonda for the starring role.

since no amount of money can buy the cooperation you need.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Perspective is difficult when you're at such close range. Don't be upset about finding your schedules curtailed. The shortest, most direct course is best.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: First find out where your friends stand, then choose your own direction and stick with it until you're in the clear. Don't hurry since you will simply complicate the situation.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: You reverse roles today. Be at ease; you will regain any standing you wish in due time. Conflicts arise over use or sharing of space and facilities.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Lay out a full program. The day gets lighter and easier to cope with as it progresses. Avoid haste or waste; travel as little as you can conveniently manage.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: You face hard choices between duty and self-indulgence. Try to determine which of your responsibilities comes first. Take a break to enjoy an interesting evening.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Settle on a main line of approach, then stay with it. A notebook entry serves to fix a passing idea for future follow-up. Later hours deserve a complete change of pace, scene and mood.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: There's no point in keeping up with neighbors or competitors—you can't. Get around this situation and competition by doing something entirely different.

Washington Watch

Texans Back Abortion Bill

News Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — Both Texas senators voted with a majority of the Senate last week to defeat an amendment by anti-abortionists that would have prohibited the use of federal funds to finance abortions.

By a vote of 54-36, the Senate, aided by Texas Republican John Tower and Democrat Lloyd Bentsen, tabled an amendment to a nurse-training bill that sought to prevent the use of federal funds for abortions, except when such pregnancy termination was necessary to save a mother's life.

Bentsen then voted to approve, and Tower to disapprove the $2.6 billion health bill. It passed, 77-14. This expense amounts to about $32 per average taxpayer.

HEROIN SUPPLIES

NEW YORK — Current heroin supplies, from the Far East, Middle East and Mexico, are considered higher in quality and much more potent — 15 per cent pure, compared to an average of 1 to 5 per cent pure a year ago — leading to higher overdose rates, reports the Health Insurance Institute. — CNS family.

Ever since the Supreme Court's decision to legislate most abortions, Congress has been flooded with mail and pressured by lobbyists representing both opponents and proponents alike. Such controversy and the fear of fueling it with prolonged emotional debate on the issue probably influenced some senators to vote the amendment down.

The amendment was sponsored by conservative Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., a leader of the Senate anti-abortionists. Liberal and conservative voting patterns in the Senate were clearly cast aside on this particular abortion vote. Such liberals as Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, William Proxmire, D-Wisc., and Vance Hartke, D-Ind. voted for the Bartlett amendment, while traditionally staunch conservatives like Tower and Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn. voted against the abortion ban.

One possible problem with the Bartlett amendment was that it failed to define what constitutes an abortion. When, at one point, Bartlett said that life begins at the moment of conception, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D. Mass., himself a Catholic and avowed abortion opponent, pointed out that Bartlett's interpretation could prevent federal involvement in the use of some contraceptive devices, such as the "morning after" pill. Kennedy voted against Bartlett's amendment.

On final passage of the nurse training bill, Tower joined with 12 other conservatives and one liberal to oppose the expenditure.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

April 19, 1775:

On its way to destroy a military cache at Concord, a 700-man British detachment encounters about 77 colonial Minutemen drawn up on the Lexington green. Major John Pitcairn orders, "Lay down your arms, you damned rebels, and disperse!" An unidentified shot — "the shot heard 'round the world'" — rings out, eliciting British volleys that kill eight Minutemen and wound 10; one British soldier is wounded slightly. The British proceed to Concord, and destroy what remains of the arms cache. During the British troops' return to their longboats and barges in the Charles River, colonial snipers inflict a heavy toll. On this first day of the American Revolution, the British suffer 273 casualties, the colonists 95. The colonists then lay siege to Boston.

Nevada's Lehman Caves— Small But Mysterious

By GARY EVERHARDT
Distributed by
Copley News Service

Absalom Lehman searched for gold and silver for almost 20 years before resigning himself to ranching. Then, in the spring of 1885, the earth he had probed for so long in vain revealed a treasure infinitely more valuable than mere minerals. Ab stumbled across a cave that changed and enriched his life. I know a visit to Ab's namesake — Lehman Caves National Monument — will enrich your life, too. A section of the earth's crust in Nevada near the Utah boundary one mile square and 300 feet deep contains a cave system that is relatively small when compared to Carlsbad Caverns or Mammoth Cave National Parks. Because it is smaller, however, you'll get a more intimate feeling for the cave, its beauty, and its mystery. In a modern world of "exact" sciences and technology it's refreshing to hear that there are over 20 theories to explain the formation of helictites; these small root-like cave structures ignore gravity. They "grow" in any direction. Or, perhaps, you can develop your own theory that will show how shields or palletoes are formed. Looking like two huge plates stuck together, these shields are common here, though rare in other caves. Why? Your guess is as good as mine. This is a "living" cave. Until Ab's discovery 90 years ago these patterns in stone had been forming unseen in total darkness for four million years. Today, with each drip, splash, or trickle of calcium-laden water the cave continues its beautification process. Only one thing has changed. Now you can witness this phenomenon.

Because caves are so unfamiliar and mysterious we have nothing with which to compare them except the things we know in the "outside" world. So in Lehman Caves you'll find a cypress swamp, the leaning tower, the parachute, the upside-down elephant, or practically anything else you'd like to imagine.

At the cave entrance on a lower slope of the east side of Wheeler Peak is the visitor center which is operated by the National Park Service (Department of the Interior) and the U.S. Forest Service (Department of Agriculture). The monument lies within the Wheeler Peak Scenic Area of Humboldt National Forest.

National Park Service and U.S. Forest Service rangers present evening programs at the visitor center from June through Labor Day. A short nature trail and old log cabin will introduce you to the natural and human history of the area. Indoor exhibits help explain the cave and surrounding countryside.

Rising to 13,063 feet, Wheeler Peak dominates the area. The scenic area and surrounding National Forest lands offer hiking, fishing, and hunting.

Points of interest include ancient bristlecone pine forests, a permanent ice field, and the world's largest mountain mahogany tree.

Limited motel accommodations are available in Baker, Nev., five miles east of the monument. A cafe and gift shop at the visitor center are open from Easter through September.

Three U.S. Forest Service campgrounds are within a 12-mile radius of the caves. Wildlife is abundant and around camp you may see mule deer, kit fox, rabbits, and a variety of birds.

Another Old South Tradition Dies

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Another tradition of the Old South has died.

The Peabody Hotel, where each afternoon for half a century a quintet of performing ducks waddled through the lobby to the strains of martial music, has closed its doors. The Mississippi Delta begins in the lobby of the Peabody Hotel in Memphis and ends on Catfish Row in Vicksburg, author David Cohn wrote in 1934.

In its heyday, the 12-story, red-brick hotel built 50 years ago was the center of social activity in a city that billed itself as the cotton capital of the nation.

Debutantes and cotton planters danced to the big bands in the rooftop ballroom. The Skyway Land barons spent days in the lobby, talking and watching the five ducks swim in a marble fountain.

The Peabody is the Paris Ritz, the Cairo Sheppard's, the London Savoy of this section, Cohn wrote in his book, "God Shakes Creation."

"If you stand near its fountain in the middle of the lobby, where ducks waddle and turtles drowse, ultimately you will see everybody who is anybody in the Delta and many who are on the make," the Greenville, Miss., writer said.

Through 50 years and numerous owners, one Peabody tradition remained. Each morning, five mallards left their pens on the roof and rode an elevator to the lobby. They spent the day swimming in the ornate fountain.

At 3 p.m., a red carpet was rolled out and appropriate march music played. The ducks waddled to the elevator and rode back to their quarters.

The ducks made their last walk early this month. A day later the owners of the Peabody filed for bankruptcy.

The city is studying the possibility of buying the Peabody and renovating it, then leasing it to a private firm. Such action would require the Tennessee General Assembly to grant authority to issue bonds for the project. So far, there has been no legislative action on such a bill.

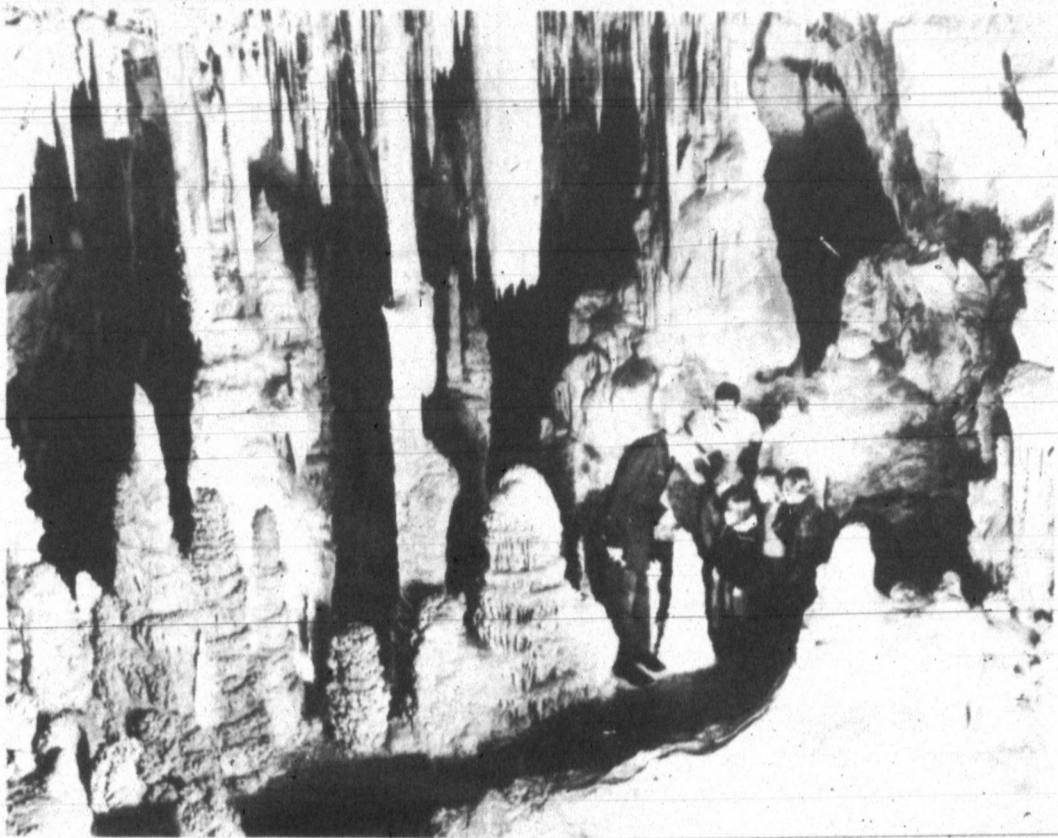

The Peabody, meanwhile, is almost empty. One entrance is padlocked. Security guards are on duty to make sure no assets are misplaced. The water in the fountain has been turned off and the ducks are at the farm of their owner, B. B. Hamilton.

Chandler has suggested that the ducks be moved to a fountain at City Hall, but no action has been taken on the request. The ducks will not, however, end up on anyone's dinner table.

"If there's no longer a place for them, I'll keep them at the farm," Hamilton said. "They'll have a good home."

At Wit's End

By ERMA BOMBECK
My husband believes if God had meant for man to put a nail in the wall, he would have given him a rubber thumb.

On the other hand, I have never gone around making holes in the wall indiscriminately, but unlike him I do not feel that a hole is an open incision.

We have argued about this for years. For every nail in our wall, there has been a battle and an ultimate decision handed down by the Supreme Court.

When the phone company cut out a little box near our woodwork to bring lines into the house, he bowed his head and said, "Our wall has been violated."

When we put up our house numbers he said, "There is no need for this. I know where I live."

We have the only cup dispenser that hangs over the shower curtain rod like a swing.

Last week, I put my foot down. "This house has all the personality of a recovery room," I said, "and that is about to change."

He put down his paper. "I want you to hang up this macramé ceiling planter."

"You want me to hang what from where?" he asked slowly.

"My macramé ceiling planter from the ceiling."

I haven't seen that look on my husband's face since he had a $5 check bounce that he wrote to his college alumni.

"Get hold of yourself!" he commanded. "Do you realize you are talking about a drill? I would have to get a ladder and measurements would have to be precise...and we'd have to find a stud and plaster would drop a blizzard on the carpet...and it would turn out to be a real head knocker."

"Other people have them hanging around," I said defensively.

"Other people have light switches cluttering up every entrance, but do we want that?" "Yes!"

There have been two other events that have taken longer to perform than the hanging of the hook for the macramé. Michaelangelo took four and one-half years to paint the ceiling of the Sistine chapel and of course the Suez Canal took ten years to complete.

He spread the dropcloths, brought in extra help to assist with the measuring, cut a pattern for the hole and asked for complete silence while he drilled.

I know you'd love to hear his answer when I tell him this evening that the hook has to be moved over two feet so the plant will get full sun. So wherever you are, just raise your windows at 7 p.m.

Making A New Life

Work Eases Problems of Widowhood

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN
HOW DOES A WIDOW come to terms with grief and the problems involved with making a new life for herself? For some the answer lies in taking over a husband's business.

"This may be a widow's way of creating a memorial to her spouse," says a well-known psychiatrist. "His business and interests are her links with the past and ties to the future."

Conversations with widows who have followed their husbands' footsteps in the business world seem to support this observation. All said work — essential for financial security — had become a major way of easing grief and loneliness.

On-the-Job Training

Louise Ross of Ross-Matthai, Inc., a New York City firm that specializes in tabletop fashions, recalled her shock when her husband died 10 years ago: "I'd never worked. My life had been a round of card parties and charity luncheons that suddenly didn't make sense. What I knew about his business I had learned by osmosis — what he told me at the dinner table."

For starters, Mrs. Ross went to work selling in the showroom, but now says she's into everything except the factory end of the business, which is her husband's partner's domain.

She credits the business with giving her a new life. "I'm not dependent on my daughter or her family. I'm able to do much more than I ever did. I wouldn't give this up and go back to card parties for anything."

The road to recovery via a job was easier for Reba Fitzgerald of Fitzgerald White Trucks and Engine Rebuilders in Huntington, W. Va., because she stepped into the business in 1950 when her husband developed heart trouble and so she was better equipped to take over the driver's seat when he died in 1964. Her struggle has been one of assuring men that a woman knows her way around the very male-dominated field of trucking: "I'm the first woman distributor for Ford industrial engines and the only woman ever to have a White Motor Co. dealership. I'm a director of a bank. Even so, I have to use psychology on men to convince them I know my job."

Mrs. Fitzgerald feels that working has been good for her and has helped make her independent, a sentiment echoed by Mary Duenow of St. Paul, Minn. Although she had a hand in the business while her husband was alive, Mrs. Duenow feels her growth and finding herself came through assuming responsibility for the dozen Kentucky Fried Chicken franchises that she's operated since his death.

On Her Own
"At first I had trouble making decisions on my own," she says. "For years, I'd depended on someone else to discuss things with. Then all of a sudden there was no one to say, 'Yes, you're right' or 'No, you're wrong.' It took a while before I learned to depend on myself. Women should be able to do this even when there is no crisis in their lives."

Bea Decker of Pittsburgh, Pa., was inspired by her own experience at the time of her husband's death to found the Theos Foundation with 21 chapters across the United States, which help the woman alone come to terms with grief. She feels a job helps a widow.

"No matter what problems she'll encounter, work is important if she wants to adjust to being single again and determine her identity," Mrs. Decker says. "Families and friends may be understanding, but widowhood is something a woman faces alone. The business world provides a neutral territory where she can work out her problem and come to terms with it."

This view is one held by Arlene Holmes of LeMoyno, Pa. Widowed nearly 10 years ago, shortly before the birth of her

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

In a team-of-four match, the element of luck is greatly reduced, for a simple reason: the possession of good cards has no part in determining the final result.

Being more specific, suppose Team A, consisting of four players, is playing against Team B, also composed of four players. On a given deal, two of the member of Team A, sitting North-South, bid and make a grand slam in notrump. Later on, two of the member of Team B will have the equal opportunity of sitting North-South and holding the identical cards. So if they also bid and make a grand slam in notrump, the result of the deal is a "tie," with no winner and no loser.

But, on occasion, luck enters into the picture. Such was the case in today's deal, which arose in the match between Italy and United States during the 1975 World Championships.

East-West vulnerable. East deals.

Pass 2 ♦ Pass 3 ♥

Pass 3 NT Pass 4 ♦
Pass 4 NT Pass 6 ♣

Opening lead: Four of ♥.

The above was the bidding sequence with Franco and Pittala, of Italy, sitting South and North respectively. On West's opening heart lead, Franco, with his heart in his mouth, put up dummy's queen — and breathed a sigh of relief when the queen won the trick. Had East held the king, South would have been down automatically, since the loss of a trick to the ace of trumps would be inevitable.

Next came a low trump, South's king falling to West's ace. A heart was returned, dummy's ace winning. Three more rounds of trumps then followed, after which the ace and king of diamonds were cashed. South's last five cards were a trump, a heart, and the Q-9-3 of clubs. West's last five cards were the king of hearts and four clubs. When South, to trick nine, led his last trump, West was squeezed if he discarded the heart king, dummy's ten would become a winner, and if instead he tossed away a club, declarer would make four club tricks. So South, with Lady Luck's assistance, fulfilled a poor slam contract.

When the United States held the North-South cards, South stopped at five spades and also made 12 tricks. So Italy won many points on the deal. Had the slam contract gone down of East held the heart king, or a squeeze was not operative, then the U.S. would have won many points. But, as was stated, luck was on the Italians' side.

Mrs. Hayes Named Rho Eta President

Rho Eta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi recently opened their first meeting in the Las Pampas Gallery. Mrs. Henry Gindorf of the Gallery introduced the members to various artists and sculptors who are showing their works at Las Pampas Gallery.

Following the program, members adjourned to the Flame Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas Building to conduct their business meeting, with Diane Grooters, president, presiding.

Members of the executive board elected to take office for the coming year were Vicki Hayes, president; Connie Holland, vice-president; Jenny Dorman, treasurer; Debbie Callison, recording secretary; Marilyn Mitchell, corresponding secretary; and Martha Porter, extension officer. Other elected were: city council representatives, Sharron Hurst and Jan Reader and city council representative alternate, Lucy York.

Installation of these officers will be on May 13. Cathy Green, member of the ways and means committee, announced the stationery has arrived and members should pick up their notes, recipe cards, and stationery to sell.

Pat Rich announced that the next City Council meeting would be hosted by Pat Lee and that old and new representatives for the coming year are invited to attend.

Following officer and committee reports, members voted for Rho Eta's Girl-of-the-Year, who will be announced at the Founder's Day banquet which will be held at the Country Club, April 29.

Members planned social events and service projects coming up in May. Rho Eta's annual salad supper will be on May 20, and a couples' party will be on May 13.

Ramona Houseman, Joyce Barrett, Lucy York, and Jenny Dorman made program reservations at the Gallery and hostesses were Sharron Hurst and Debbie Callison.

Members present were Jan Reader, Linda Aftergut, Joyce Barrett, Ramona Houseman, Jenny Dorman, Pat Rich, Vicki Hayes, Cathy Green, Connie Holland, Debbie Callison, Sharron Hurst, Pat Winkleblack, Lucy York, Nancy Sowers, Carolyn Maxey, Marilyn Mitchell, Pam Crockett, Martha Porter, Diane Grooter and Georgia Mack, sponsor. Nita Hill of Xi Beta Chi was a guest.

20th Century Culture Reports

Given on Early American Crafts

The Twentieth Century Culture Club was recently hosted in the home of Mrs. Doyle Osborne with Mrs. Paul Turner serving as co-hostess. The program "Early American Crafts" was given by Mrs. E.W. Hogan and Mrs. L.J. Zachry. They were introduced by Mrs. J.R. Donaldson, president.

Mrs. Hogan stated that the American colonists brought varied traditions with them which had to be adapted to the conditions of a pioneer society. In doing so, they added a disciplined look that was typically American. To help preserve these early authentic furnishings a renewed interest in these early arts and crafts has developed.

Some of the crafts developed in the 18th and 19th century were candlemaking, braided rugs, patchwork, painting of various kinds, popcorn chains, and different kinds of needlework. Mrs. Hogan said candlemaking was one of the first crafts developed as it was a necessity for lighting. These were made from tallow wax candles were too expensive to make and burn.

Weaving was taught the girls at an early age as flaxseed grew well in the area. Linen was the first cloth made. From their old worn clothing and linens Mrs. Hogan told that braided and hooked rugs were made. These are still popular in the homes with early American decor.

Knitting was a necessity for the early colonists and the girls were taught to knit sometimes before they learned to read. The speaker stated that socks, scarves, caps, sweaters, etc. were knitted.

Only one form of American needlework in entirely American patchwork. Every scrap of cloth was saved and the women began to make patterns from them. Mrs. Hogan told that Betsy Ross made the flag for the Continental Army from patchwork.

Various types of painting such as painting on glass, china, and velvet and also tole and tinsel painting were done. Most girls schools offered painting on velvet and china and these were considered accomplished arts.

The simple popcorn chain originated in the colonies. When Christmas came they made these for their Christmases, thus creating the first American Christmas decoration.

Mrs. Hogan reported that needlework such as embroidery, crewel, needlepoint and crochet were widespread in the colonies. Little girls were taught to embroidery at five. In the schools for girls, embroidery was part of the curriculum. The cross-stitch was mostly used for samplers. Girls would start these and work on them several years. Upon completion they would be framed and hung.

Needlepoint became the most popular embroidery during the Victorian Era in the colonies. Mrs. Hogan said examples of this, still in perfect condition after one hundred years, have served as models for today's designs. Martha Washington worked one of the first examples of needlepoint to be called American.

The second part of the program was given by Mrs. Zachry on "American Furniture." In the period from 1650 - 1690, she stated that furniture making in the United States began with the Pilgrims. This period is called Jacobean. Basic necessities were the order of the day and the furniture was mostly quite crude from oak and pine. Since space was at a premium, chairs and benches served as tables when the backs were put down. The earliest tables were just long boards resting on trestles and were moved out of the way after eating.

Mrs. Zachry said benches were the more common but few have survived. Three types of chairs were known — the wainscot, Brewster and the Carver.

The most decorative pieces of the period were the chests and boxes. These were used for storage and doubled as a bench and probably a table.

The William and Mary Period from 1690 to 1720, Mrs. Zachry stated was a transitional period bridging the gap between the massive simplicity of the earliest years and the sophisticated lines of the later 18th century. Oak continued to be used but was being ousted by walnut and maple. Painting and turning remained important parts of decoration and veneers of considerable beauty were an innovation at this time.

The Dutch settlers around New York contributed the cupboard. This was painted with designs of fruit, birds, and flowers. The John Games family is identified mainly with the furniture of this period.

In the Queen Anne Period 1720 - 1750, the curve really took over and the principal wood became walnut. There was little new in furniture forms, but there were marked changes in chairs. The daybed took on the appearance of the sofa.

Mrs. Zachry spoke next of the Chippendale Period 1750 - 1790, whose chief characteristic was the sophisticated carving, identified by its Rococo exuberance. This was the glory period of cabinetmaking, they were seven to eight feet tall and access to the top drawers required a step ladder.

During the Federal Period, 1790 - 1825, radical changes took place — the curves were out and more geometric shapes were in. Caved surfaces gave way to flat ones and the chief decorating devices were painting, inlays and veneering. The highboy and the lowboy went out of style. A new form was the work table or sewing table. A new style of easy chair was found, the Martha Washington chair, Mrs. Zachry said.

In the 19th-Century the new American nation was pushing westward and with it came the Empire style. The newest thing in materials was cast iron. The "more-upholstery-than-frame" look to cover up the invention of the coil spring was in. A new craze for bamboo, especially for bedroom suites, was strong.

The speaker stated that Duncan Phyfe was one of the first cabinet makers to operate a factory, he supervised over 100 workers.

Mrs. Zachry concluded that American furniture has been a remembrance of things past.

THEIR DAY — The congregation of Church of God will honor the Rev. and Mrs. John Waller on Pastor recognition Sunday. The couple's friends are invited to the 9:45 a.m. observance at the Church of God, Gwendolyn and Sumner Streets, Sunday.

Christ Ambassador Day Assembly To Celebrate

According to an announcement by the pastor, R.L. Courtney, The First Assembly of God Church will have some special guests for services Sunday. They will be the Doug Jones Family of Canadian. The Jones Family will present music and singing which will be climaxed by the ministry of Evangelist Doug Jones.

The Jones Family has travelled throughout the country conducting Evangelistic Crusades having recently served as the pastor of the First Assembly of God in Canadian. After having served the Church in Canadian the Jones Family again will be traveling in Crusades after this year's school term is completed.

Services will observe National Christ Ambassadors Day in Assemblies of God Churches throughout the United States. Christ Ambassador or CAs is the designation given to the youth of the Assemblies of God, and special emphasis will be placed upon the youth of First Assembly and their involvement in the ministry of the church.

Involvement comes through the ministry of "Speed the Light", the missionary effort of the young people. "Speed the Light" is the means whereby the young people of the Assemblies of God Church provide equipment and materials to help missionaries in their efforts to carry the gospel around the world. During the last thirty years since the inception of this program the youth of the Assemblies of God have purchased cars, trucks, airplanes, boats, donkeys and bicycles to assist the missionaries in foreign countries.

The public is invited to the service. Activities will begin with Bible Study at 9:45 a.m., followed by the 11:00 worship hour.

The evening activities, which begin at 6:30 p.m. will feature more singing by the Jones Family along with a Bible message by the Jones.

The church is located at the corner of South Cuyler and Brown Street in Pampa.

World Condition To Be Topic For Evangelist

The Rev. Olen Bachler, of Katy, Tex., will be the evangelist for a revival at Pampa Chapel, 711 E. Harvester, beginning Sunday and continuing through Sunday, April 27.

Bachler will be presenting messages on prophecy and world conditions most of the evenings and will be teaching from a 20 foot illustrated chart. He has made a trip to Israel and will show pictures concerning developments over there in relation to the scriptures. Services will begin 7:30 p.m., except on Sunday when the service will be at 6:00 p.m.

Dow Chooses 'Creating Word' For Serman

The Rev. Norman D. Dow Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, 525 N. Gray, will be in the pulpit Sunday morning to speak on "The Creating Word of God". The text will be "For it is the God who said, Let light shine out of darkness," who has shown in our hearts to give the light of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

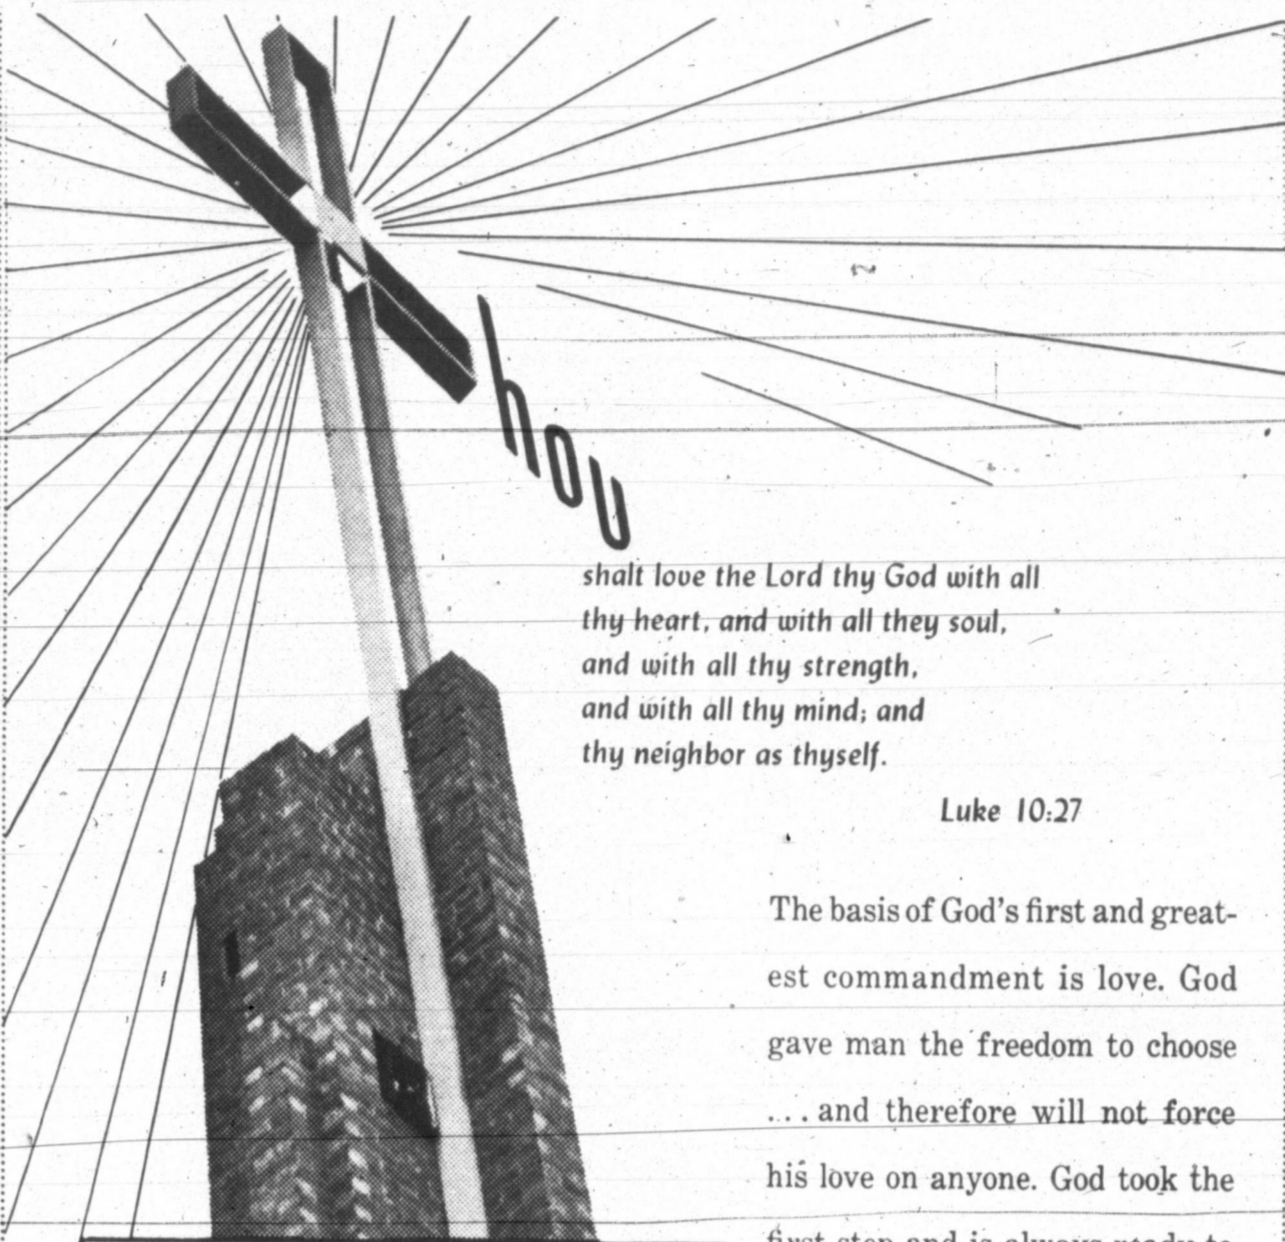

Assisting Rev. Dow in the pulpit will be ruling elder Wilber R. Whitsell, Jr. Minute for mission speaker will be Floyd Sackett.

Special music will be provided by the Pampa Junior High Freshman Girl's Choir under the direction of Miss Elena Donald. Church school begins at 9:30 a.m. and worship services are 10:45 The Diaconate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the west room and choir rehearsal is Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

An investment in Your Future ...ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.

Luke 10:27

The basis of God's first and greatest commandment is love. God gave man the freedom to choose ... and therefore will not force his love on anyone. God took the first step and is always ready to receive any who would come to Him.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Pampa, PD Both Strong

Pampa put itself in the favorite's position for Saturday's District 3 - AAAA Track Meet with its impressive Amarillo Relays championship but Harvester coach Scott Dunnam is far from taking the meet for granted.

In fact, Dunnam would like to see Palo Duro named at least a co-favorite, in the meet, which will be held in Amarillo's Dick Bivins Stadium. According to the Pampa coach, the Dons are worthy.

"There's no doubt about it," Dunnam said. "They've really got me worried and concerned. I just hope we can compete with them. I feel like we can."

PD is not the only school which could press Pampa for its first championship since 1972, as Tascosa and Amarillo High have enough good people to make things interesting.

"Tascosa is going to have to be strong because of their sprinters," Dunnam said. "The thing that's gonna hurt Tascosa is their depth - they just don't have a lot of people."

"I feel like Amarillo High could be strong, also, because of their field event strength and they've got two pretty decent milers and two or three fairly decent hurdlers and one good quarter miler (Charles Freeman)."

Palo Duro and Pampa are closely related with their exceptional balance. The Dons are paced by hurdler Gregg Sellmyer, quarter miler Dennis Sell, weight man Joe Wilson and long jumper David Beezey.

Sellmyer won the Amarillo Relays 120-yard high hurdle championship with a career-best 14.3, which was a half-second better than Pampa's Howie Lewis. The two should be one of Saturday's more interesting matchups, in both the highs and 330-yard intermediates.

In the latter, Lewis has a season-best 39.3, which he ran in the finals of the Perryton Sports Festival and in the preliminaries of the Amarillo Relays. Sellmyer's fastest is one second slower, a 40.3.

Palo Duro's top 440 man, Dennis Sell, has run 51.2 this year and has to be considered the favorite in the quarter. Pampa's Barry Lemmons, Chuck Quarles and Mike Glover will try to head the PD runner in the event.

Glover will be seeing his first meet action since he pulled a hamstring muscle in Odessa's West Texas Relays over a month ago. He will not, however, run in either the 100 or 220.

"He's done fairly good this week. He's still not at top speed," Dunnam said.

Wilson has thrown the shot put 51-5 1/2 feet and discus 148-2. He will be favored in the shot and should finish second in the discus (Amarillo High's John Mouser has a 150-6 season best). Pampa's weight men include Frankie Lemons, David Hampton, Joe Ferris, Graig Hill and Bruce Graves.

Beezey, in the broad jump, has gone 21 feet 8 inches and will be matched against Berger's David Sargent, who has often done better than 22 feet. Pampa's Willis Price, Benny Fallon and Phil George are Pampa's long-jump entrants in the district affair.

Price will be one of the busiest competitors Saturday, competing in the broad jump, high jump and on both the sprint and mile-relay teams. He could win the high jump if Amarillo High's Delbert New (6-8 this season), Tascosa's Scott Roberson (6-2) and Rick Fiel (6-2) aren't careful. Price is consistently at 6-0 in the jump.

Lewis, for the first time this season, will be entered in the high jump, as Dunnam will attempt to offset Amarillo High's field-event strength

The pole vault will likely be the most spectacular event of the meet with four entrants who have gone at least 13-6. Amarillo's Charles Morris has done 14 - even, one of the state's top marks, while at 13-6 are PD's Neil Burum, Amarillo's Carl Spengler and Pampa's Garland McPherson.

McPherson vaulted 13-6 to win the event in the Amarillo Relays a week ago.

Other Pampa entrants will include the sprint-relay team (Quarles, Rick Leverich, Price and David Caldwell) and the mile-relay team (Lemons, Lewis, Price and Noel Hansen).

Leverich, Caldwell and Billy Joe Mathis will be entered in the 220, while Leverich, Caldwell and Steve Hancock will compete in the 100. Leverich placed a surprising third in the 220 in the Amarillo Relays.

Hansen is entered, along with Clinton Henry, in the 880. Hansen lately has been running close to last year's form, when he didn't lose a race the entire season. In fact, his 1:59.4, which he ran in the Relays, might have been a few seconds better had it not been snowing and windy.

Prelims in the running events and field-event finals will begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. Running-event finals will start at 8:30 p.m. Junior varsity entrants will run first in each event.

Young, Haynes Take Track Honors

Cindy Young, Pampa, placed second in the 100 yard dash with a time of 11.9 seconds at the University Interscholastic League track meet Thursday in Lubbock.

Other locals who placed included Delinda Howard, McLean 32-2 1/4, fourth in triple jump. Sheri Haynes, McLean, 7.3, first in 60 yard dash. Haynes, 11.7, second, 100 yard dash. Kristy Berry, Canadian, 26.3, second, 220. Melinda Hunt, McLean, 65.7, fifth, 440. Cristy Cullender, Canadian, 11.5, second 80 LH; and Delinda Howard, McLean, 12.7 fourth, 80 LH; and Darla Moore, Wheeler, 12.8, fifth, 80 LH.

Canadian and McLean came in first and second in the 440 relay with times of 51.7 and 52.3. Canadian placed first in the 880 relay with a time of 1:50.1 and McLean came in sixth with 1:58.8.

McLean finished sixth in the mile relay with a time of 4:49.4.

Texas Woman Leads Dinah Shore Tourney

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) - Little Sandra Palmer was prepared.

The pretty lady from Texas showed up here three weeks ago to get ready for the $200,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle championship golf tournament.

It paid off Thursday. In the past, I've been disappointed in the way I've played in this tournament, the 5-foot-1 1/2, 117-pound Miss Palmer said following her first-round 70, a two-under-par score that put her one shot in front of four other women pros. "I've never spent much time preparing, though. Regardless of what happens this year, I'm really prepared. This is my third week in Palm Springs, and I've played at least nine holes every day."

Miss Palmer, 34, carded 34-36 over the par-72, 6,347-yard Mission Hills Country Club layout on a day when winds gusts as high as 30 miles-an-hour.

Tied at 72 were Sandra Haynie, last year's U.S. Women's Open and LPGA champion, vivacious French-Canadian Jocelyn Bourassa.

Longhorns To Dedicate New Stadium

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) - Dedication ceremonies will be held Saturday for the University of Texas $25 million baseball stadium, Disch-Falk Field.

Allan Shivers, chairman of the UT System Board of Regents, will preside at the ceremony between games of the Longhorn's doubleheader with TCU.

Honored guests will include members of the Disch and Falk families. The stadium was named for two former Texas baseball coaches - the late W.J. "Uncle Billy" Disch, who coached from 1911 to 1939, and the retired Bibb Falk, coach from 1940 to 1942 and again from 1946 to 1967.

Disch compiled a 512-180 career coaching record at Texas and won 20 Southwest Conference championships. Falk also won 20 conference titles and had a 477-177 lifetime coaching record at Texas.

SMU Mustangs Beat Baylor

DALLAS (UPI) - The SMU Mustangs defeated Baylor 8-1 in a tennis match Thursday despite the Bear's Danny Dobbs upset of George Hardie in No. 1 singles, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

SMU won six matches in straight sets, but were forced into three sets to claim the last two doubles victories and a valuable conference match point.

Betty Burfeindt and Kathy McMullen.

Another shot back were five more ladies, including Jane Bialock, who came here off back-to-back victories in Phoenix and Tokyo. The others were Susie McAllister, Debbie Austin, Mary Lou Crocker and Jan Ferraris.

Joanne Carner, last year's LPGA Player of the Year, finished the first-round four shots behind the leader while defending champion Jo Ann Prentice had a 78 and 19-year-old Laura Baugh, the glamor girl of the tour, shot a 75.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast only light winds today with temperatures in the 80s.

Hope Brightens on End Players-Owners Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A possible settlement of the long dispute between the pro-football players and the owners shaped up slightly today with both sides agreeing to resume bargaining talks next week.

James Searce, deputy director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said an all-day session between representatives of the NFL Players Association and the NFL Management Council representing the owners Thursday was "productive." He announced that the union and owners had agreed to set up subcommittees which would resume discussions Monday or Tuesday.

The sessions would be the first formal reopening of negotiations between the union and the owners since last summer when the players called off a 42-day strike which disrupted the pre-season schedule and went to camp without a contract.

Searce called the two disputing sides together Thursday after the players association announced this month that its demands were being whittled down, including many of the so-called "freedom issues" which played a major role in the strike. Among the demands jettisoned were those involving player curfews and fines.

But the union also declared that the controversial "Rozelle Rule" allowing the commissioner to set compensation if a player plays out his option and goes to another team was no longer a negotiable issue and should be settled in the courts. The management council strongly disputed the claim in a statement released in New York Thursday.

The NFL Council, in its statement, told the union: "We do not see how the subject matter of player retention and movement can be eliminated from bargaining, the entire subject of player retention and movement - whether after a player is drafted, while he is under contract, or after an option payout - must be resolved in collective bargaining."

Aggies Begin To Scrimmage

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) - Texas A&M went through a light contact drill Thursday to get ready for Saturday's scrimmage marking the end of the third week of spring training.

Coach Emory Bellard announced the scrimmage will start at 11 a.m. rather than the usual 2:30 p.m.

The defense continued with its recognition and assignments against Ole Miss offensive formations, the offense worked on timing and play execution.

Four To Play Richest Tourney

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) - Evonne Goolagong wants the money. Olga Morozova wants the prestige. Chris Evert wants the practice.

The three will be playing along with Billie Jean King this weekend in the richest, four-woman tennis tournament ever staged.

The Legg World Series of Women's Tennis Tournament offering $100,000 in prize money at the Lakeway World of Tennis begins Saturday.

Miss Goolagong plays Mrs. King in one opening match and Miss Evert plays Miss Morozova in the other opening match.

The winner will receive $50,000; second-place $25,000; third $15,000, and last $10,000. "It'll be a great thrill to play in something like this - not just for the money but for the honor too," Miss Goolagong said Thursday at an airport news conference. "Well, the money's nice too."

Any winnings by Miss Morozova go to the Russian Tennis Federation.

But she would like to add prestige to her country's tennis program.

"It's not like in the United States - or Australia where tennis is very big," Miss Morozova said. "I hope it's going to make tennis in my country more popular."

Miss Evert arrived Wednesday and began practicing immediately.

"I'm not used to playing someone as good as Olga right off," she said.

Mrs. King is scheduled to arrive today.

The two arrivals Thursday found temperatures in the 80s, and the weather windy and humid. The Lakeway tennis facilities include a 1,500 seat outdoor arena and a 2,000 capacity indoor stadium.

"I don't mind the heat," Miss Goolagong said. "I'm used to humidity like this because in Australia it can get very hot. I'm looking forward to playing outdoors because I've been playing indoors for so long."

Evert and Morozova play at 10:30 a.m. CDT Saturday. The 1 p.m. Goolagong-King match will be telecast nationally on ABC. The third-place match will be held at 10:30 a.m. Sunday and the championship match at 1:45 p.m. also on national television.

Pitcher Quits

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Juan Marichal knew it was time to quit and Thursday he did just that.

Marichal, the one-time Dodgers' Enemy No. 1, donned a Los Angeles uniform earlier this season as a free agent on a 30-day trial last year for Boston.

"I think I was prepared for this," said the 36-year-old high-kicking former San Francisco Giant hurler. "Any time you prepare yourself for something, you feel better about it. It's better to retire before people retire you. You have to make that decision before somebody else makes it for you."

Marichal's decision came the day after he was pulled from the mound after giving up seven hits and four runs in less than three innings against Cincinnati. It was the second time he was relieved in a game after joining the Dodgers a month ago.

"I worked hard to get in shape but when you get to my age, it's tougher," he said. "I would really like to have pitched for the Dodgers. They have a chance to win the pennant and I would have loved to be part of it."

"But in spring training, I promised (General Manager) Al Campanis and I promised myself that if I couldn't do the job, I would get out."

Campanis said, "We feel we were right in taking a chance on him. When you are looking for a starting pitcher, you always try to obtain as many candidates as possible. Juan has a real gentleman about what has happened I made a mistake and I'll be the first to admit it."

The Dominican-born Marichal had his greatest successes with the Giants from 1960 through 1973 and had a career record of 243 wins and 142 losses. He had a lifetime record of 37-18 against the Dodgers and was 21-4 against them in San Francisco.

Marichal plans to rejoin his wife and four daughters in San Francisco. They plan to remain there until June, when they will return to the Dominican Republic.

He said he will operate his 1,065-acre banana and rice farm and visit the United States frequently to look after his real estate interests. He said his only connection with baseball will be the organization of a Little League in his homeland.

"I like kids, especially those who don't have anything," he said. "I know it was hard for me when I was a kid, just to be able to buy a bat and a ball."

Warriors Win Another in Playoff

SEATTLE (UPI) - Golden State star Rick Barry was not disturbed at all by Seattle's home-court advantage in the NBA playoffs Thursday night.

Three Raiders Are Injured

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) - The Texas Tech Red Raiders now have three regulars sidelined by spring training injuries.

Starting defensive tackle Ray Hennig and starting offensive tackle Greg Davis both suffered knee injuries Thursday.

Coach Steve Sloan said it was too early to tell how long they will be out of action.

"Both of those guys were doing a good job for us," Sloan said. "I don't know yet who we will move up to replace them, but we will decide tomorrow."

The Red Raiders already lost starting defensive end Louis Jones to a knee injury.

The Raiders will take today off and will have a full-scale scrimmage Saturday.

"Sure the fans are a factor," said Barry after the Warriors' 105-96 victory. "You know when you're playing well you're spoiling 14,000 people's evenings."

And Barry was playing well. His 33-for-21 field goal shooting and 33 points were instrumental in helping the Warriors to a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven quarter-final series.

The game was close throughout, with the teams never separated by more than eight points and only one or two baskets apart most of the way.

"The intensity was so great in the opening minutes that several faceoffs threatened to erupt until official Manny Sokol called a time out in the first quarter to warn coaches and players the next player who put up his fists would be thrown out of the game."

The fight threats subsided but the game remained intensely physical.

The Warriors, who played a strong defensive game, didn't manage to take the lead for good until Barry flipped passes to teammates in the last quarter to break an 80-80 tie.

"Defensively, we prevented the weak side pass to the strong side," Warrior Coach Al Attles said. "George Johnson and Charlie Johnson gave us a big lift. Derrek Dickey was particularly good on the boards and broke loose for some layups."

Charlie Johnson registered 24 points, only one less than Sonic high scorer Tommy Burleson, who had 25.

Even though the next game between Seattle and Golden State, which will be televised nationally, will be played Saturday in Seattle, Attles is sitting pretty now.

"The important thing is that we'll have the home court advantage once again," he said.

Sonic Coach Bill Russell, who said his team should have won because they had the Warriors playing at their pace, said Seattle would try to make a few adjustments.

There are two quarter-final games scheduled for tonight, Washington, with a 2-1 lead in games, is at Buffalo and Chicago, also leading 2-1, is at Kansas City Boston, with a 2-0 lead, is in Houston Saturday.

On March 30, 1945, the Russian invasion of Austria forces retreat of Nazi soldiers.

THEN AND NOW — In her early films, Sylvia Sydney often played the drab heroine of heavy social message drama in such pictures as "and American Tragedy" and "Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Today, in right photo with Shirley Jones, she is getting motherly roles like the one in "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams," in which she played Joanne Woodward's mom. But she's not at all worried about her motherly image. She has written two books about neeplepoint and sometimes sells a "study" to such critical customers as the duchess of Windsor for $1,200. Miss Sydney has played opposite of such actors as James Cagney, Frederic March and Gary Cooper. She now lives in New England where, when she's not acting, she enjoys raising pug dogs for show.

Northrup Corp., Others Answer SEC Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Securities and Exchange Commission said Thursday Northrup Corp. and two other defendants have answered charges that a $30 million slush fund was established by the company for illegal political contributions and payments to foreign agents.

An SEC spokesman said the consent judgments were expected to be filed in the U.S. District Court Thursday.

A consent decree does not admit guilt but promises not to repeat the disputed action. The suit, filed Wednesday, was the fourth in six weeks in which the SEC alleged major corporations established funds for political contributions and for diversion into foreign accounts.

With the exception of United Brands Co., which allegedly used $2 million to bribe government officials in Honduras and Europe, most of the funds sent overseas have not been traced.

Suits are pending against Gulf Oil Corp. and Phillips Petroleum Inc.

The SEC alleged that Northrup sent $467,000 to a foreign subsidiary, then returned it to the United States for untraceable political contributions. Most of the $30 million was unaccounted for.

Named as co-defendants with the Los Angeles based aerospace giant were Thomas V. Jones, Northrup's chief executive, and James Allen, a vice president and board member who resigned four months ago.

Jones, Allen and unnamed others, the SEC charged,

"dispersed in excess of $1.1 million in Northrup corporate funds to a foreign consultant, William Savy, and two of his alter ego corporations purportedly as bona fide consultants' fees. In excess of $476,000 of these disbursements were converted to cash and returned to Stanley Simon, an agent of Savy stationed in New York City."

The SEC further alleged that during 1971, 1972 and 1973 the company made secret contracts in which "approximately $30 million of Northrup corporate monies was or would be dispersed."

It asked the court to appoint a special master to investigate.

Failure of a public stock-issuing corporation to disclose the expenditure of its funds is a violation of federal law. The SEC is a government agency that regulates the stock market and public corporations.

Court Order Declares DeDiego May Be Tried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Court of Appeals has ordered that Felipe DeDiego, a member of the original Watergate bugging team, may have to stand trial in connection with the 1971 Ellsberg break-in.

DeDiego was one of a handful of persons to be freed of Watergate related charges.

A three-judge panel ruled Wednesday that U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gessell had no right to dismiss the indictment against DeDiego in the Ellsberg case without giving Watergate prosecutors an opportunity to present their case.

DeDiego was a member of the team that planted a wiretap at the Democratic National Headquarters in the Watergate complex on Memorial Day weekend, 1972, but was not present when the burglars were arrested during a second attempt the following June 17. He was not charged with the Watergate break-ins.

He was also a member of the team that helped pull off the break-in at the offices of Pentagon papers' defendant Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office in Beverly Hills, Calif., during Labor Day weekend 1971.

DeDiego had been indicted March 7, 1974 along with other members of the White House "plumbers" — including former White House aide John D. Erlichman and three other members of that unit, all of whom were convicted in a trial last July.

Biggest GNP Plunge Since Post-War Days

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department said today the real Gross National Product, a key indicator of the nation's economic health, plunged 10.4 per cent in the first quarter. It was the deepest decline since the post-war reconstruction of 1946.

In another measurement of the GNP, the Commerce Department said production fell faster than prices could rise in the first quarter. In this measurement of the GNP the decline was 3.2 per cent, the first in five years.

Commerce said inflation abated sharply in the first quarter with prices rising only 8 per cent compared with 14.4 per cent in the previous quarter. This demonstrates the decline in productive capacity and consumer spending during the first three months of 1975.

War on cancer going slowly

By IRWIN J. POLK, M.D.
Copley News Service

We're not winning the war on cancer.

Cancer is still the second leading cause of death in America, claiming more than 330,000 lives a year or 20 per cent of the deaths from natural causes. In addition, cancer causes more than 7.7 million hospital-days annually for its victims. Cancer is indeed still with us despite the vast sums of money we spend.

We've spent hundreds of millions. Cancer research took about a fifth of the budget of the National Institutes of Health last year, or about $350 million. Overall, government-supported cancer research costs the taxpayer about $600 million a year. In addition, a good share of the $100 million raised by the American Cancer Society goes to research. So the budget for studying cancer is certainly not small.

Yet the deaths from cancer continue to mount. Twenty years ago 15 per cent of the deaths reported to life insurance companies were caused by cancer, today, 20 per cent. Nor are data for the individual types of cancer more encouraging. In the past 20 years there has been no change in the chance of survival for the patient with cancer.

Most patients who get cancer die of cancer. So doctors do not speak of cure rates, but rather of five-year survival rates. A patient, for example, who has cancer of the lung and lives with it for five years is included in the data under the heading: lung cancer, five-year survival. Note that these figures do not indicate cures, but only the fact that the patient is alive after five years with the diagnosis of cancer.

Incidentally, he is still included as a five-year survivor if he dies of his cancer on the first day of his sixth year. So figures for improvement in patients who are known to have cancer are, at best, discouraging.

Let's look at some of those figures. Lung cancer accounts for 10 per cent of all cancers. In the decade from 1940 to 1950, the five-year survival rate was 4 per cent; from 1960 to 1970, 9 per cent. This means that of 100 men who were diagnosed as having lung cancer in 1950, only eight were still alive in 1955. Of 100 men with the diagnosis of lung cancer in 1970, only nine will be alive next year. Not much improvement there in the survival statistics.

The situation is somewhat better for cancer of the large bowel. In the 1940-49 period, the five-year survival rate was 32 per cent, today about 44 per cent. But for leukemia the situation is tragic: the survival rate has risen from 3 to 5 per cent for acute leukemia over the past 20 years, from 23 to 30 per cent for chronic leukemia. Cancer of the uterus accounts for about eight per cent of all types of cancer. The survival rates there are about 50 per cent and haven't changed much over the years.

What about breast cancer? That accounts for about 12 per cent of the cancer victims. The five-year survival rate from 1940-49 was about 53 per cent. It is now 64 per cent. So despite the possibility of early detection in breast cancer, one-third of the women who get breast cancer will not survive past five years. These figures include, of course patients in whom the diagnosis is firmly established and who receive various types of treatment currently thought to be helpful. The data for untreated patients will differ.

But the conclusion seems clear. Despite the expenditure of huge sums, the statistics on cancer cures are not improving. Twenty years and several billion dollars later, we haven't really licked cancer. In our third year of the "war on cancer," we are not making any notable progress.

Nurse Sleeps, Fire Burns, Children Die

BELGRADE (UPI) — A children's nurse has admitted she was sleeping on duty when fire swept through the ward of a children's hospital three weeks ago and killed 25 infants less than one week old, judicial sources said today.

Nurse Jadranka Bolf told an investigating judge she was asleep in a room adjacent to the ward when the fire broke out on March 28, sources said.

The investigation also determined that she was not properly qualified for the job, which she had been performing for eight months. She said she had no special instruction in her duties but had learned by observing other older nurses.

The judge also said it took an hour from the time the fire broke out to the arrival of the fire brigade and said his investigation would try to determine why no one attempted to break into the ward and rescue some of the children during that period.

De Loma Inc.

Genevieve Henderson and Mardelle Hunter

De Loma Inc. will be one of the many real estate agencies observing National Realtor Week beginning Sunday. They also will be celebrating their first anniversary in May.

Genevieve Henderson, broker and realtor, presently is teaching an adult education course on real estate in Amarillo.

"The laws have really changed since I took my first realtor's exam, and they are about to change again," said Ms. Henderson.

"Myself and my associates have over 75 years of experience in the real estate business," she added.

"There has been a record turnover in residential sales this year," said Ms. Henderson. Speaking for the firm, she said, "If we can help Pampa, we want to, it has done a lot for us. She added that it isn't easy finding houses for all the people coming into the city.

DeLoma is a member of the Multiple Listing Service and Ms. Henderson said, "We couldn't survive without it."
