Texas gulf region preparing for Gilbert

Agencies readying for storm

Local chapters of the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army are not yet actively involved in providing emergency aid to hurricane victims.

However, both of the agencies are accepting contributions to support hurricane relief efforts. Representatives of the American Red Cross and Salvation Army chapters located in larger West Texas cities — such as Midland and Abilene — have sent support vehicles driven by volunteers to central Texas where emergency command posts are located.

But representatives of the smaller Big Spring agencies are awaiting word from their supervisors before becoming actively

Residents heading for higher ground

By JOEL WILLIAMS

CORPUS CHRISTI — Thousands from southern Texas to Louisiana's bayous shuttered homes and shops, packed up livestock and fled to higher ground today as Hurricane Gilbert roared across the Gulf of Mexico.

"This is a killer storm," said Gordon Guthrie, director of the Florida Division of Emergency Management. "I feel sorry for anybody wherever this hits."

Grocery stores ran low on bottled water, batteries, canned tuna and bread as residents laid in supplies. Homeowners covered windows and doors with plywood and shatter-proofing hurricane tape. Offshore oil workers headed inland.

Early today, Gilbert appeared headed for Texas, possibly hitting land by Friday afternoon. The National Weather Service issued a hurricane warning this morning for the southern half of the 370-mile Texas coast from Brownsville to Port O'Connor, a stretch that includes Corpus Christi. Mexico's northern coast also had a hurricane warning. A hurricane watch remained in effect for the remainder of the Texas coast, from Port O'Connor to Brownsville. "The highest probabilities that we have are in the Brownsville, Texas, area as far as the center is concerned," Robert Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said on CBS's "This Morning." "If it takes the north turn, it could actually rake a good portion of the Texas coast."

"Those major destructive winds are going to be in there fairly tight close to the center. But the impacts are going to be felt over most of the Texas area."

Monster hurricane turns vacations into nightmares

By CHRIS ANGELO
Associated Press Writer

CANCUN, Mexico — Hurricane Gilbert transformed this idyllic Caribbean resort into a nightmare for thousands of stranded tourists sheltered in cramped hotels and public buildings.

"Believe me, I will not come back here," said Pete Fournier of Long Island, N.Y.

His wife, Sheila, bemoaned their evacuation from the Villas Playas Hotel. "It had an ocean-front view, which is now washed away," she said.

Bringing winds of up to 218 mph when it hit this Yucatan coastal city Wednesday morning, Gilbert forced about 6,000 tourists to leave their beachside hotels and seek shelter, according to an official with the National Civil Defense System.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said 30,000 workers and residents also sought temporary shelter on the island off the Yucatan peninsula, a popular vacation spot for Americans.

Jennie Valdez, a U.S. consular representative in Cancun, said she did not know how many tourists were in Cancun, but that 40,000 and 45,000 people visit the resort city each month.

As the storm shattered windows, twisted utility poles and flattened homes, about 150 tourists were crammed into a 20-by-50-foot room in Cancun's City Hall.

Gilbert's fierce winds ripped police and radio antennas off the roof above, and stiff palm fronds crashed into windows.

However, some newlyweds took in stride the forced exchange of beach-front views for boarded-up windows.

"The first two days were great," said Joseph Camuccio of Philadelphia, who arrived in Cancun Sunday. He said he and his wife had not eaten in 24 hours and were trying to figure out how to get out of Cancun.

Even as Gilbert closed in on Cancun, many residents resisted attempts by authorities to move them to safer areas.

"There were people who did not want to leave," said an army official who checked the area for stranded residents. "It was something new. They didn't know what a cyclone was."

He said most people, particularly those in low-lying areas, changed their minds once the storm hit.

Mexico's National Weather Service ordered the evacuation of everyone living less than 15 feet above sea level and within 2,000 feet of the Caribbean coast.

Some tourists said that winds made shrieking sounds at the height of the storm. Others compared the noise to the pounding of heavy surf.

Broken windows in the commercial area of the tourist mecca invited bands of young looters.

"They're looting all the stores," said Alfredo Moro Sanchez of the state judicial police. About three or four people were arrested, City Police Director Juan Manuel Arteaga said.

City officials said Wednesday they knew of only two minor injuries caused by the storm.

Dances, contests on Diez y seis schedule

By SARAH LUMAN

A three-day celebration of Mexico's independence from Spain begins Friday evening when a local band opens the Diez y seis Septiembre festival here.

According to Raul Marquez, of the Big Spring Chapter of the League of United Latin American Citizens, the celebration will include local and visiting musical groups, a queen contest, washer tournament, and traditional Mexican food and music including mariachis.

Marquez explained Thursday that the anniversary of Mexico's independence from Spain has been celebrated locally for the past three years. The event is celebrated to strengthen cultural roots, he explained, and proceeds from the celebration are used to fund scholarships for high school graduates.

The events include a kickoff appearance by Los Gallitos, a local band, at 7 p.m. Friday and continue through 10 p.m. Sunday.

The opening celebration lasts until midnight, according to a schedule Marquez released Thursday.

Saturday's events include a 2 p.m. washer tournament for members of the ALSA Club, an event which has proven very popular with the youth of the community, Marquez said. There will be music by Juana Jacas and Mariachi Regional at 2 p.m.; children's pinatas at 3 p.m.; traditional Mexican dancers "Ballet Florecio" at 4 p.m. and an automobile show at 5 p.m.

Sunday night's events include a 6 p.m. exhibit of Ballet Florecio, a 7 p.m. Rock and Roll contest, crowning the fiesta's queen at 8 p.m. and live music from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

On Sunday, the fiesta will conclude with continued traditional Jennifer Vasquez, top, adjusts her sombrero, and a young girl waves a banner, bottom, during the Diez y seis parade last year.

Mexican food beginning at 1 p.m.; a Mexican dance company at 3 p.m. and 5 p.m.; pinatas for children at 4 p.m. and a 7 p.m. Jam Dance Contest.

Los Gallitos and the Edward Martinez band will perform the final dance music of the fiesta from 8 to 10 p.m. Sunday.

City to file for state street-repair grant

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

City workers began conducting a door-to-door survey Wednesday in preparation of filing for a Texas Department of Commerce Affairs grant for street repairs after the city council targeted a west side area for improvements.

Big Spring Public Works Director Tom Decell said the targeted area is:

South of Fourth Street (northern border); north of 11th Place (southern border); Abrams Street (eastern border) to Sunset Boulevard.

There are 161 occupied structures in the target area and the purpose of the survey is to determine the exact number of people who will be affected by the street improvements, Decell said.

Because more people will be affected by the area selected by the council, the chances of the grant application being approved will increase, Decell said.

The grant is for approximately $300,000 and the city will be required to provide about $150,000 in matching funds, Decell advised.

If the grant is approved, the city will use about $100,000 to make street improvements in the Jones Valley area — also desperately in need of repair, Decell said.

The second area runs from Fourth to Second streets and includes San Antonio Way, San Jacinto Street, Galveston Street and Presidio Street, Decell said.

There are 77 occupied structures in this area.

If the grant is approved, repairs to both areas will be completed at the same time, although Decell advised that the city "won't have to meet certain wage scales" for workers on the second project.

Decell presented a slide show that graphically illustrated the "sad shape" of the streets in these areas.

The rate of low to moderate income residents in the target area has a direct bearing on whether the grant will be approved, Decell advised.

Council members also approved advertising of bids for replacement of a roof for the one million-gallon water storage tank located on Scenic Mountain at their Tuesday meeting.

In May, the wooden roof on the water tank caught fire while representatives of an unidentified insurance company were working on it, Decell said.

The fire damaged 20 percent of the tank's roof and it no longer meets state regulations, Decell said.

"Since their (insurance) people caught it on fire, they have to replace it," he said.

Insurance company representatives have opted to purchase an aluminum roof, which Decell said was the "least expensive," although the cost will range from

Oil workers may qualify for retraining

By MICHAEL DUFFY
Staff Writer

Big Spring workers who lost oil and gas-related jobs in the last three years may qualify for federal assistance that would pay them while they retrain for another line of work, according to a Texas Employment Commission official.

As part of the 1988 Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act — signed by President Ronald Reagan in October — oil and gas workers who believe they lost their jobs because of cheaper oil imports between Sept. 30, 1985 and June 1988 can complete a petition that is mailed directly to the U.S. Department of Labor, explained Linda Hall, employment interviewer with the TEC office in Big Spring.

The Omnibus Act broadened the scope of the Trade Act of 1974 designed to help displaced workers, affected by increased imports, return to work in equivalent or better employment as soon as possible, Hall said.

"The new act now includes oil and gas contractors," she said.

Hall advised that the application process for benefits is complicated. A group of three workers, their union or a representative are eligible to file for an application petition, she said.

Linda Hall, employment interviewer with the local Texas Employment Commission, discusses a federal retraining program for displaced oil and natural gas workers with an applicant.

"The program is completely federally funded so companies don't have to worry about their taxes being increased," Hall noted.

Anyone who believes they qualify is being encouraged to come to the TEC office and file an application.

"If they have any problems filling out the application, we will be glad to help them," Hall said.

She encourages people interested in applying to have the petition completed and mailed by Nov. 10.

"They must be received in Washington (D.C.) by Nov. 18," Hall said.

A displaced worker in Big Spring who was employed by a company based in another city is encouraged to fill out a petition even if company representatives have already done so, Hall said.

"It makes no difference if there is a duplicate filing," she noted. If the applicant is deemed eligible, they may receive:

- Special help in finding a new job.

- Training that will enable the applicant to learn a new skill. If the training facility is beyond normal commuting distance, the applicant may be paid transportation and subsistence expenses.

- A job search allowance that is up to 90 percent of the necessary transportation and subsistence costs (up to a maximum of $800).

- A relocation allowance of up to 90 percent may be paid to move the applicant's family to a new location.

Amarillo hit by possible tornado

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Emergency personnel searched through the wreckage of homes in southwest Amarillo early today, searching for victims of a possible tornado that roared through a neighborhood as a furious thunderstorm raced across this Texas Panhandle city.

Golf ball-size hail accompanied the storm and street flooding was widespread following the severe thunderstorm. Two Interstate highways that pass through the city were closed in places with water as deep as five feet in some areas, authorities said.

Officials said they were optimistic that no one had been killed. Amarillo authorities several people suffered apparently minor injuries, such as cuts and bruises, but no one had been treated at area hospitals.

Roofs were blown off, power lines and poles were downed, fences were uprooted and windows were smashed as the violent weather struck a neighborhood and a mobile home park.

Authorities were reluctant to officially call the destructive weather a tornado, but eyewitnesses reported seeing a twister.

Heavy rainfall flooded streets and highways in the Amarillo area.

Both Interstate 40 and Interstate 27 were covered by as much as five feet of water in some areas of Amarillo, the National Weather Service reported.

About two hours earlier, the NWS reported a tornado sighting about 10 miles south of Bushland in the Panhandle. Bushland is located just west of Amarillo on Interstate 40. A tornado warning had expired at 9:50 p.m. when the Texas Department of Public Safety reported a tornado sighting in the southwest edge of Amarillo.

"I saw a funnel 200 yards from my house coming down the alley," said Van Weigle. His wife, Debbie, had looked out the back door first and called him and their friend, Mike Denham.

"We went into the hall. The pressure was heavy in my ears," said Weigle. "It tore off the roof of the house next to us."

The tornado bounced over his house, and then dumped a neighbor's shed in his yard, Weigle said.

"I've never been in one (tornado) before," he said. "It's the kind of thing you joke about until you see one in your alley. It sounded like a train."

Twelve homes were damaged in the area around Weigle's home.

Arlington workers direct letters to DOT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the General Motors assembly plant in Arlington, Texas, presented the Department of Transportation with 5,000 letters Wednesday urging the agency to ease fuel economy standards for 1989 and 1990 model cars, claiming a failure to act could jeopardize thousands of Texas jobs.

"The employees there orchestrated the letters. They were concerned," said GM spokesman John Hartnett.

He said General Motors would have to cut production of its large model cars to meet the targeted fuel economy standard of 27.5 miles per gallon for the 1989 and 1990 model years. The company would like to see the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration set the fuel economy standard at 26.5 mpg.

Both GM and Ford told a hearing of the NHTSA on Wednesday that they could not produce a mix of cars that would have a corporate average fuel economy, or CAFE, at the 27.5 mpg level.

To meet the standards, Hartnett said, "GM may have to eliminate 200,000 large and higher performance cars in 1989 and 330,000 in 1990."

He said the standards could possibly cut 60,000 jobs in the United States for GM workers and the company's suppliers in 1989.

Arlington, with 4,000 employees, would likely be affected because it is one of GM's largest plants and is a final assembly site for such large model cars as full-size Chevrolets, Cadillac sedans, and Chevrolet and Oldsmobile station wagons, Hartnett said.

Law officers fear spread of drug labs

MONAHANS, Texas (AP) — Law officers say the discovery of equipment used to produce amphetamine points to the proliferation of "speed" labs in West Texas and widespread use of the illegal drug.

Officers seized enough equipment to furnish five high-tech speed labs and more than $6 million of near-finished speed in what is being described as one of the largest hauls in the Southwest, police said.

As the probe continued Wednesday, Dennis Blanchard, 46, of Arlington, remained in Reeves County Jail on Wednesday in lieu of bonds totaling $1.25 million.

Police say Blanchard rented two storage buildings where the lab equipment was discovered.

"They were probably going to distribute in this area," said Det. Sgt. Larry Bledsoe of the Midland police narcotics unit. The size of the bust "is indicative of the popularity of it. That worries me."

The storage buildings were searched late Monday, after an investigation by Pecos police and the Reeves County Sheriff's office led to the location, Pecos Police Chief Troy Moore said. Inside, officers found "brand new" lab equipment, valued at $200,000, used to "cook" methamphetamine.

Ten gallons of "meth oil" also found in the storage buildings, was sealed and sent to Midland Tuesday for analysis at the Texas Department of Public Safety lab, Moore said. A DPS chemist estimated its street value at $6.1 million, he said.

"That meth oil was in the last stage before it was what we call 'powdered out,'" said Art Van Dorn, commander of the Permian Basin Drug Task Force who surveyed the equipment.

"The equipment was the very latest, very high-tech, and would have been used to set up very good labs," Van Dorn said.

"It is probably more equipment than I can remember being seized anywhere, including East Texas. And in East Texas, years ago that's where most of the labs used to be."

Moore said Blanchard was arrested last Friday for possession of cocaine.

"We are still investigating, but it is pretty evident that one man would have had a problem loading and unloading all of that equipment," Moore said.

Lawyers warned about soliciting

AUSTIN (AP) — The president of the State Bar of Texas says there was nothing improper in his and the bar's warning of lawyers about illegal or unethical soliciting of business from victims of the Delta Flight 1141 plane crash.

The Austin American-Statesman reported Wednesday that some lawyers had raised questions about bar president Jim Sales' role in the warning.

Sales denounced what he called "scurrilous charges and innuendo" that (some plaintiff's lawyers are) trying to insert into the media to discredit what has been the first effective deterrence of prohibited lawyers' conduct before it happened."

Within hours of the crash that killed 13 people Aug. 31 at the Dallas-Fort Worth airport, Sales announced an aggressive bar effort to prevent improper solicitation of business from victims or their families.

A news release issued by the bar on the day of the crash said, "At a time of intense emotional distress, no one need make immediate decisions concerning legal matters or legal representation."

"At no time did we suggest they not hire a lawyer," Sales said. The advice to victims was that they wait a little while and then consult with people they trust, he said.

Clean up of Rio Grande proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The author of legislation authorizing the United States to negotiate with Mexico over cleaning up pollution in the Rio Grande says he's optimistic Mexico will back efforts to stop the large-scale dumping of raw sewage.

Legislation permitting the bilateral negotiations cleared the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Wednesday and passage by the full Senate without amendments would send it to President Reagan's desk for his signature.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, author of the bill — which passed the House last fall — said he met with officials in Mexico a week ago and they assured him of their cooperation.

His counterparts in Mexico "expressed an interest and will be recommending positive action on an agreement to both the incoming and outgoing presidents. As soon as passage, I hope within 60 days to have ready for presentation (a cleanup proposal) to the president of Mexico. Hopefully Nuevo Laredo will be the first project," de la Garza said.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said 25 million gallons of raw sewage is dumped daily into the Rio Grande at Nuevo Laredo, across the border from Laredo.

"There is no more major health hazard than polluted water coming down that river," said de la Garza, a Mission Democrat. "In the Lower Valley, 90 percent-plus drinking water comes from Rio Grande."

Under the bill, the State Department, acting through the head of the U.S. International Boundary Water Commission, would negotiate with Mexican officials to find ways to clean up the Rio Grande and make recommendations for the construction of treatment facilities.

Pesticide abuse causes poisonings

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Pesticides banned in many developed countries cause more than 300,000 cases of chemical poisonings each year in Mexico, Mexico City's leading financial newspaper El Financiero reported.

Longterm effects of the banned chemicals such as DDT and parquat include cancer, sterility, genetic mutations and skin diseases, the report said Wednesday.

Although the chemical products are used to increase crop yields, abuse "causes serious ecologic and health damages, for agricultural workers as well as consumers," according to a report of the Mexican Association of Studies for Consumer Protection.

Mexico permits use of 29 pesticides banned in the United States, the Soviet Union, Switzerland, France, Finland, New Zealand and 11 other countries. Two years ago, 36 agricultural chemicals banned elsewhere were allowed in Mexican fields, the report said.

Man receives death sentence

HOUSTON (AP) — A man who shot and killed a Houston restaurant manager and shot the victim's wife in the head and left her for dead has been sentenced to death by injection.

Ricahrd Lee Beavers showed little emotion Wednesday when jurors ruled that he should die for the death of Doug Odle.

"I'm just relieved it's all over," said Jenny Odle, 24, who crawled to safety after the Aug. 16, 1986, shooting and recovered to become the star prosecution witness against Beavers. The bullet destroyed her left eye and caused some brain damage.

City holds memorial

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Blacks and whites gather tonight in the church where four black girls were killed by a Ku Klux Klansman exactly 25 years ago in memory of the victims and the civil rights struggle that changed Birmingham.

"We as a city are merely looking at ourselves, and saying that we remember," said Betty Lee, a member of a biracial group that planned the memorial service at the 16th Street Baptist Church.

Among those scheduled to speak are the Rev. John Cross, pastor of the church when the Sept. 15, 1963, bombing occurred, and Mayor Richard Arrington, a black man whose election was one result of the fight for equal rights that racked the city in the 1950s and 1960s.

The four girls were killed minutes after a Sunday school lesson on "a love that forgives," Cross said. "That's what we really had to practice for the next several weeks and months and years — and even now."

Although some city leaders had worked for healing prior to the church bombing, it was that event, among numerous bombings and civil rights demonstrations, that spurred the city to make major changes.

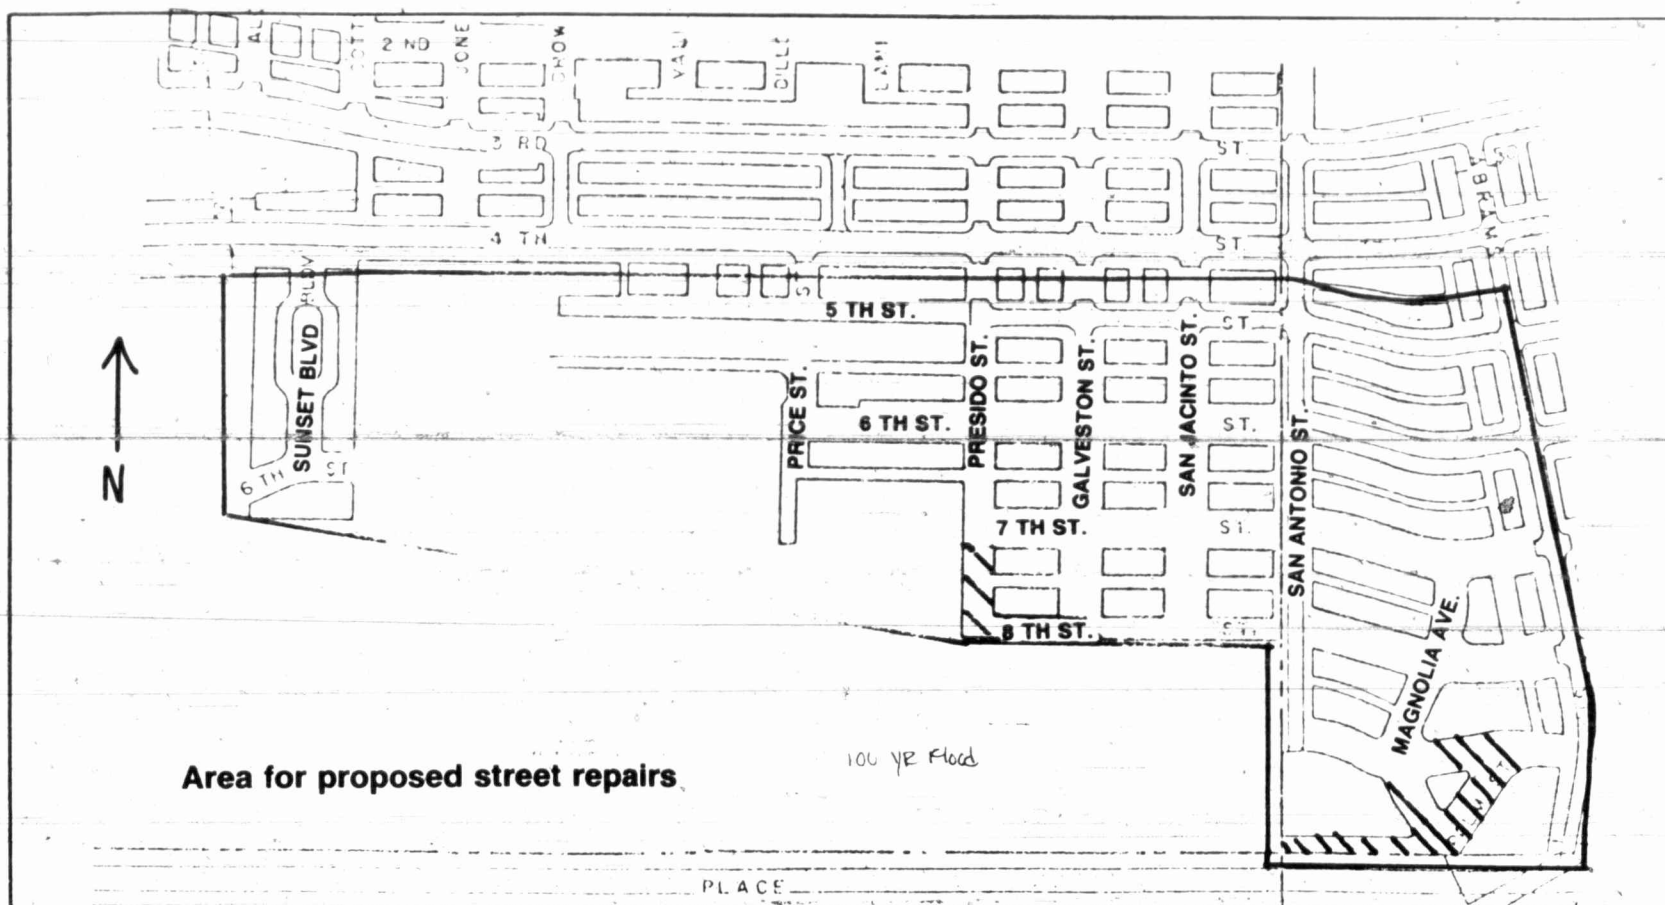

The City Council now has six blacks and three whites. Chris McNair, father of one of the bomb victims, was elected to the Legislature and now sits on the Jefferson County Commission.

"I can't erase it out of my life," he said of the bombing, "but I try my best not to rely on it as a crutch."

In addition to killing 11-year-old Denise McNair, the bomb took the lives of Addie Mae Collins, Cynthia Dianne Wesley and Carole Robertson, all 14.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who had called Birmingham the nation's most segregated city, preached at the combined funeral of three of the victims.

Sarah Collins Riley, 12, was injured by the blast.

Mosquitoes

Q. Does Howard County have a mosquito district?

A. No. Howard County does not have a vector control department, but the City of Big Spring does. If someone in the outer regions of the county wanted to know how much it would cost to set up a mosquito district in their area, they would need to contact the Health Department or one of the Howard County Commissioners, according to James T. Luck R.S. of the Howard County Health Dept.

Sheriff's log

Howard County Sheriff's Department officers reported the following incidents as of 8 a.m. today:

• David Timmons, 27, 111 Grant St., was arrested on charges of revocation of probation for delivery of a controlled substance. He is being held without bond in Howard County jail.

• Keith Carson, 1004 Bluebonnet St., surrendered on a warrant for revocation of probation. Carson, 27, was serving probation for delivery of marijuana.

• Holston Banks Jr., 23, 1106 N.W. Seventh St., was released on $5,000 bond. He had been arrested by city police on charges of unlawfully carrying a weapon and criminal mischief.

$100,000 to $200,000. Concrete and steel roofs for the structure are also available, he said.

The council held a public hearing — although no one in attendance commented on a proposal to adjacent to Trinity Baptist Church, 810 E. 11th Place.

Decell said the church owns property on both sides of the alley.

Members voted to approve the sale to church officials at the $750 property market value while retaining utility easements.

The council later passed an ordinance approving the church's request.

Decell said church officials have previously paid $1,700 in administrative and appraisal fees.

He informed the council that church officials plan to install speed bumps or a fence to deter "high speed traffic from going through ... they are afraid someone's going to get hurt."

In other action, the council approved the renewal of two livestock permits for horses — which are allowed in the city limits.

Councilwoman Gail Earls said owners of chickens would like to meet with the council to discuss revising the ordinance that prohibits fowl and swine from being kept in the city limits.

Until recently, numerous exceptions to the ordinance have been made, however, the council has taken a hard line stand and has refused to even hear requests.

City Manager Hal Boyd said, however, that discussions will be held on possible revisions in the ordinance at a work session slated for later this month.

tion; and a lump sum payment (not to exceed $800) to help the worker become settled.

A weekly Trade Readjustment Act allowance that becomes available when the applicant exhausts state unemployment compensation, including extended benefits.

The maximum number of weeks of state unemployment compensation, extended benefits and TRA benefits cannot exceed 52 weeks, except that up to 26 additional weeks may be paid to workers in approved training.

The act provides benefits for a variety of oil and natural gas workers, including those who were employed in exploration, drilling or production.

Also covered are independent mud company workers; geological crews; seismic and geophysical crews; and drillers and pumpers.

Hall said that as of last week, 10 representatives of companies in Big Spring have applied, but we'd like to have a lot more people in here.

A determination about whether well service companies will be included in the retraining program has not yet been made, she said.

Hall estimated 72,000 oil and gas workers statewide were affected by oil imports — 24,000 in the Permian Basin alone.

Relief

involved in the relief efforts.

Lt. Tex Ellis, with Big Spring Salvation Army, said he is on standby, and could be called in to service should the Salvation Army need additional help in providing hurricane relief.

The local Salvation Army is accepting donations of canned food that will be provided to hurricane victims if needed.

The food can be delivered to the Salvation Army collection point located at 308 Aylford St., Ellis said.

The Big Spring Chapter of the American Red Cross does not have an emergency vehicle to send to the Red Cross staging area in San Antonio.

But the local organization will accept cash donations that will fund hurricane relief efforts provided by the Red Cross, said Marianne Brown, executive director.

Donations to the American Red Cross can be sent to P.O. Box 1970, Big Spring, 79720. The donations should be labeled "for disaster relief," Brown said.

The Midland chapter of the American Red Cross has the capability of providing disaster welfare inquiries for people who are unable to contact relatives who live in an area hit by the hurricane, said Elvis Curb, executive director of the Midland branch of the Red Cross.

People should first try to contact their relatives by phone, Curb said.

"If after a period of 72 hours after the disaster, they still cannot ascertain the condition of their relatives, then we will initiate communication for them," said Curb.

Representatives from the Midland Red Cross have left to provide emergency assistance at the staging center in San Antonio and the Texas Office of Emergency Preparedness in Austin, he said.

The American Red Cross' disaster relief efforts are dependent upon public donations, he said.

"We have to rely on donations, and thank God the people have come through in the past," Curb said. "And hopefully, they'll come through again this time because it's going to be a big one."

Some Big Spring ham radio operators are monitoring events in towns that are threatened by the hurricane, however, they are not permitted to broadcast, according to Charles Ussery.

Ussery, 604 W. 16th St., said it appears residents of Galveston are in the process of evacuating today and shelters in coastal cities are being prepared.

"People are bracing and getting ready for it. They've been through it before," he said.

While listening to his ham radio, Ussery said he has learned that hotels and motels "200 miles north of Beaumont are filled up. Everyone is moving inland."

Electricity in Jamaica has been turned off and contact there can only be made through battery operated radios, Ussery said he has learned.

"I'm really limited by the FCC (Federal Communications Commission) as to what information I can give because I don't want to give conflicting reports with what is officially being broadcast," he said.

Police beat

Big Spring police reported investigating the following incidents:

• Richard Lee Sanchez, 27, Corpus Christi, was arrested Wednesday night on charges of public intoxication and criminal mischief over $200/under $750 after allegedly kicking out the rear windshield of a police car while officers attempted to arrest him. He was transported to the Big Spring State Hospital for emergency committal.

• Two 14-year-old male juveniles were arrested after allegedly breaking the front window at Circle J Drive-Inn, 1200 E. 4th St., with the intent to commit theft.

Beauty spot

The Chamber of Commerce has announced the traditional Beauty Spot awards to local businesses and residences for the month of September. The Area Beauty Spot award was presented to the Municipal Auditorium and the Commercial Beauty Spots were awarded to Duncan Drilling Co., 402 E. FM 700; and Hoolamans Restaurant, 700 E. FM 700. The Most Improved Beauty Spot was given to Citizens Federal Credit Union, 701 E. FM 700.

The Residential Beauty Spot Awards goes to Joe and Donna Earhart, 902 Douglas; Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Carlisle, 608 W. 15th; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Gum, 1509 Tuscon.

Mike's switch fooling no one

Look at Macho Mike Dukakis, up there on the turret of an M-1 tank, a green Army helmet jammed down over his ears, military coveralls cloaking his Boston suit and tie, aiming a 7.62mm machine gun for the television cameras. Little did we know that, behind the facade of a onetime Harvard professor and liberal governor of Massachusetts, there lurked a hidden hawk, a revanchist Rambo eager to defend America's global interests with military might.

Or so Mr. Dukakis would have us perceive after a week of staged events designed to recast his anti-defense record into one of a Churchillian champion of peace through military strength. We aren't convinced. And, as the polls have shown, neither is the American electorate.

Fearful of being pinned down in a politically vulnerable position by George Bush's withering soft-on-defense barrage, the Democratic presidential nominee has dropped to his knees and enacted a battlefield conversion for the network film crews. Under such desperate circumstances, even the most hypocritical, opportunistic flip-flops on key issues are performed without a trace of shame.

Thus, the doctrinaire dove who as governor tried to stop the Massachusetts Army National Guard from conducting training exercises in Central America now unabashedly wraps himself in soldier's garb and proclaims his born-again commitment to a strong American military.

This is the very same candidate, in fact, who snubbed repeated official invitations to visit major military installations in his state, a common practice for nearly all governors; who blocked the Air Force's plan to install in Massachusetts a communications link for transmitting presidential orders in the event of a nuclear attack; who criticized American military intervention in Grenada, Libya, and the Persian Gulf.

And, as if the tank ride weren't ludicrous enough, he even invokes the still-popular name of Ronald Reagan, baldly suggesting that Dukakis' views on superpower relations are closer to those of the president than are Mr. Bush's.

Suddenly, the administration's Strategic Defense Initiative, which Mr. Dukakis has ridiculed for months as a wanton "fantasy," now has his support, albeit at a fraction of the funding level that it currently enjoys.

After opposing virtually every major defense modernization program of the 1980s, from the MX and Midgetman missiles to the B-1 bomber and a 15-carrier Navy, Mr. Dukakis now declares his support for some form of new land-based intercontinental-ballistic missile. But he declines to mention that no new launcher of any kind can be developed unless he abandons his commitment to the nuclear-freeze movement's proposed ban on flight tests of ballistic missiles.

Gov. Dukakis' panic-driven lunge from the liberal left to the mainstream of American national-security policy as implemented by both Democratic and Republican administrations betrays an unmistakable air of insincerity, if not outright duplicity.

Just as the Democratic convention in Atlanta sought to obscure from the voters the party's true agenda, so Mr. Dukakis seems intent on winning the election by projecting a false image of his views.

In so doing, he risks exposing himself as a candidate whose thirst for power is utterly lacking in principle. Certainly his recent performance was unconvincing to the workers who jeered at him at a defense plant near Cincinnati as he lamely protested that his new political line is genuine.

Nor can Mr. Dukakis' rhetorical somersaults instill confidence in his judgment, regardless of whether one agrees with his old positions or his new ones.

The Democratic nominee can win in November only if the American voters embrace the decidedly liberal stance he has established during two decades of public life. His current mistake is to follow the cynical advice that the electorate will more easily swallow a big lie than a little one.

What kind of man reads Cosmo?

"I've been married to your mother for 20 years," one friend recalls his father saying, "and I still don't understand her."

Pete Hamill.

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

The things that get left on one's desk.

I don't know who the guilty party is, but I returned from lunch the other day to find a copy of Cosmopolitan on my desk.

Now, I consider myself to be a fairly avid reader, but for some reason Cosmo has never been high on my list. I really don't have a firm reason why, but maybe it's because some of the article titles scare me away.

After all, how many guys out there are panting to read stories with titles like, "Expectant Mom at the office," or "Beauty bar: Are bad makeup habits ruining your looks?"

I guess that attitude might make me sort of a chauvinist, but it's a risk I can live with.

So, anyway, I found this copy of Cosmo on my desk and, deducing that someone either just left the darned thing there or wanted me to read it, I picked it up.

I glanced at the table of contents at first confirmed my darkest fears about the magazine. Titles like "My husband left me for an older woman," and "The grand passions of Colette" immediately caught my eye.

That and a few of the lingerie ads.

One title, however, caught my

Beyond the realm attention. There, on page 218, was an article with the heading, "What men talk about when they talk about women."

This could be interesting, I thought.

The article — written by Pete Hamill — dealt with how we guys attempt to decipher that divine mystery that is woman — and how we relate our discoveries to our fellow males.

Now, I know what I talk about when I talk about women, but I was curious to know if my opinions were normal for men. Am I right? Wrong? Mediocre? Am I a pig, or just your normal run-of-the-mill confused male person?

Hamill's first point is that we think women analyze men too much. OK, I can buy that. I've dated very few women who — by the way — didn't want to have a frank discussion about the direction the relationship is taking.

Honest, ladies — you do talk like that.

But when men get past the bewildered stage about women, Hamill states, "... they make a number of clear points. To start with, men actually like women."

"They might make generalized statements of puzzlement and even anger about what they perceive to be woman's nature. Some have been made nervous or fearful. Others have been reduced to open hostility by a run of bad luck. Many are still trapped in the old macho codes. But in general, men truly like women."

Hamill then states that men will also admit that they'd rather share their lives with a woman than remain permanently in the company of men. "... They like being with women. They like being with them even more than they like being with men," he stated.

Some men carry wounds that accompanied the open hostility of the women's movement — hurt feelings, uncertainty and divorce, to name a few — but most of us still need women, Hamill noted.

I'm with you so far, Pete.

Hamill then listed the qualities we guys most want and admire in women. Some may sound like clichés, and some women will undoubtedly say, "Yeah, sure, and they want to sell me a bridge in Brooklyn, too," but I want to state for the record that I agree with his assertions.

The most desired qualities are: Intelligence — The most important quality of all, men say. "Men make a clear distinction between ignorance and stupidity," Hamill states. "Ignorance is easily remedied by intelligent human beings through work. But not many men linger very long with truly stupid women."

Humor — Humor also is a highly-desired trait, but Hamill makes a distinction between humor and sarcasm. "Humor is shared with others. It isn't a weapon used to lacerate its victims and leave them bleeding upon the floor. Lily Tomlin has it; Joan Rivers does not," he writes.

Self-reliance — "To be sure, the most insecure men are still attracted to (dependent) women, for reasons that are obvious: These men apparently find their identities in playing the Rescuer, the Gallant Knight, the Protector. But to most men, such women are just a pain in the ...," Hamill states.

Beauty — Hey, what can I say? We're human, aren't we? But just because we pause to look, don't automatically assume we touch, Hamill writes.

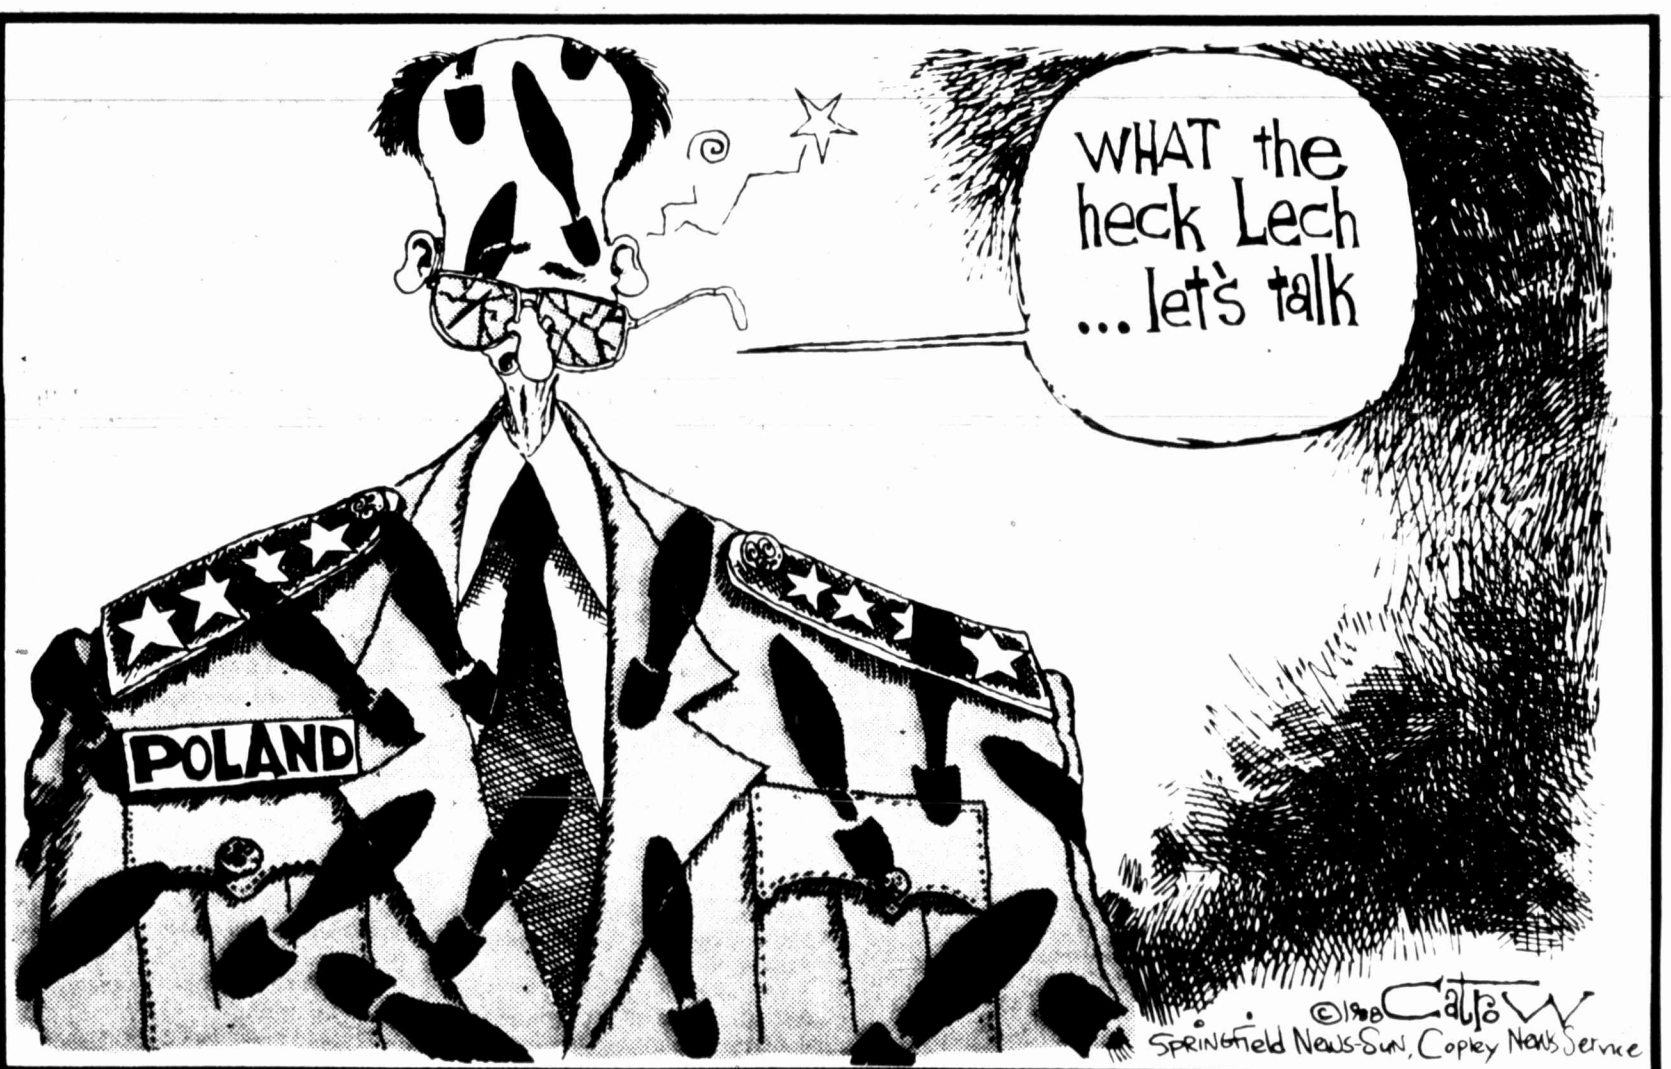

"If a woman is walking with a man, and he turns to glance at a passing beauty, she should not succumb to jealousy. Most likely, he is simply observing a lovely apparition. He might do the same with a Porsche," he states.

Sex — It's important, to be sure, but like a lot of things, it has its place.

"The surest way for a woman to lose a man is to discuss — even with him — the second feelings of some former husband or lover," the current man can virtually hear her gossiping about himself at some venue in the future," Hamill writes.

In short, women: We love you, we care about you and we want you to be with us. And, believe it or not, we admire you as much for your mental as your physical attributes.

We're not such bad people once you get to know us.

GOP: Demos mismanage Congress

By PAUL FURIGA
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON— In election years reporters learn to be wary of overblown partisan rhetoric on Capitol Hill.

In the exchange of charges and counter charges, congressmen tend to ignore minor details — like the facts.

Even so, when numerous congressmen of one party agree on the existence of a serious problem during an election year, it's worth investigation.

That's the case with Republican claims that Democrats are mismanaging the Congress and stifling the minority.

Republicans have spent much of this century as the minority party in Congress. They last controlled the House in 1952-54. The Senate has been in Democratic hands for almost as long a time, except during Reagan's first term 1980-84 when the GOP briefly held sway.

Republicans have no chance of gaining control of the House this year, but nonetheless they have been complaining loudly about the way the Democrats run things on Capitol Hill. Their complaints are a mix of partisan bickering and worthwhile discoveries that ought to be raised between elections if they are serious about reform.

It's easy to dismiss their claims that congressional committees are not producing enough bills, compared to 10 years ago. For the party of "less government" to claim that Congress should be turning out more is disingenuous. The public hasn't noticed a reduction in congressional busywork, and if it did, it would certainly applaud the change. The most telling Republican complaints are discoveries akin to that which greets first-time visitors to the Capitol. Visitors expect to see the House chamber filled with 435 lawmakers, all engaged in the legislative process.

But these days only about 30 House members are on the floor between votes, few of them listening to what is said. Who knows what the rest of the members are up to.

The Republicans are also upset about other aspects of the lawmaking process as carried out by the Democratic majority. Items:

Last year 45 laws were "lacked on" to an all-encompassing "continuing resolution" just before Christmas. The bills covered $44 billion in funding that had not been approved by committees — the leadership just pushed them through without debate.

The Democrats have made the most of House rules that allow them to limit and even forbid debate on any bill. According to the Republicans, 12 percent of votes on legislation were without debate 10 years ago; it was more than 50 percent last year.

One of the most unusual of the Democratic tactics is the "self-executing" rule, which the GOP complains is legislative sleight-of-hand. A "self-executing" rule was used to kill a Republican-led welfare reform measure last year.

The self-executing rule allowed Democrats to say they favor welfare reform while voting against the Republican version of the bill. The Republicans say the use of self-executing rules has grown from almost zero to 17 percent of all legislation last year.

The last major complaint Republicans make of the Democratic leadership is that it has exempted Congress from all workplace safety and equal opportunity laws of the last three decades. Equal pay, overtime, occupational safety — even fire codes — don't apply in Congressional offices.

While the Republicans say this last item demonstrates that the Democratic leadership is corrupt, they neglect to mention that a majority of Republicans wish many of those laws never existed, and that many voted against them.

The alleged tyranny of majority congressional Democrats makes good election-year fodder for frustrated Republicans. But it should be of equal concern to voters.

Recent news stories have noted that a congressman who survives his or her first term has a 98.5 percent chance of re-election. Even Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega would admire those odds.

Voters hold the power to clear the House chamber of whatever ills reside within its marble walls. Until they accept that responsibility, all of us — Democrat or Republican — get the Congress and the "tyranny" that we deserve.

Yonkers to submit altered plan

NEW YORK (AP) — After returning an $819,200 contempt fine, a federal judge told Yonkers officials and other parties in the city's desegregation case to move quickly on any changes to a proposed housing plan.

U.S. District Judge Leonard Sand, who ruled in 1985 there was housing segregation in the state's fourth-largest city, said Wednesday he would allow revisions in the plan, but insisted they be finished by Sept. 30.

Sand added that he expected both sides in the desegregation lawsuit would get together and work things out because the city had learned what one councilman termed "a very expensive civics lesson."

The new plan, designed to lessen the impact of 200 units of low-income housing by mixing some of it with middle- and upper-income units, must be approved by the Justice Department and Sand.

It must then be formally approved by the City Council before it can replace the original plan Sand imposed.

The refund meant that Yonkers' contempt had cost it $450,505. Although the escalating fines had totaled $819,100 before last Thursday, $368,595 of that had been designated for city schools.

Fetal tissue offers medical hope

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Medical researchers say transplanting tissue from freshly aborted human fetuses holds great promise for sufferers of Parkinson's and other diseases, but they admit that ethical questions must be resolved before launching widespread experiments in the new technique.

A special National Institutes of Health advisory committee was turning to those questions today in a second day of hearings expected to focus on ways to guard against commercial trafficking in fetal tissue and to discourage the prospect of people becoming pregnant with the intention of having an abortion to provide treatment for a relative.

Meanwhile, a ban against federal financing of such research is likely to remain in effect for several months at least.

Dr. Lars Olson, professor of neurobiology at Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, told the panel the technique also has been used in Mexico, China, England and Cuba.

There are no known cases of fetal tissue being transplanted as a treatment for Parkinson's disease in the United States, but several animal studies have suggested the procedure can be effective.

"The animal data ... are so promising we have approached a point where I believe it is unethical not to do this in human studies," Olson told the committee.

Parkinson's, which causes a loss of muscle control, is caused by a shortage of cells that produce a brain chemical called dopamine. It is these dopamine-producing cells that are transplanted from fetuses.

Reagan's removal was suggested

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A White House aide raised the possibility of removing President Reagan under the 25th Amendment during the Iran-Contra scandal because he was inattentive, inept and lazy, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

James Cannon, confirming reports in a new book, said Wednesday he wrote a March 1, 1987, memorandum to then-Chief of Staff Howard Baker Jr. expressing the concerns about the president by a group of Reagan aides.

The next day, Baker, Cannon and two other aides observed Reagan before concluding the president was competent to perform his duties, according to the book.

Baker later said that even though he accepted Cannon's concerns as legitimate, he never seriously considered invoking the amendment.

The existence of Cannon's memo is reported in "Landslide: The Unmaking of the President, 1984-88," by Jane Mayer.

Cannon, who had served as domestic policy adviser to then-President Gerald R. Ford, said he began his memo to the incoming chief of staff with this startling recommendation:

"Consider the possibility that section four of the 25th Amendment might be applied."

Waiting in vain

MASERU, Lesotho — Rural Basotho horsemen line the street that Pope John Paul II was expected to be driven along after his arrival in Lesotho. However, the Papal plane was unable to land in Maseru due to inclement weather conditions.

Pope's visit stirs

Violence in Lesotho

MASERU, Lesotho (AP) — Pope John Paul II said today he was saddened by the bloodshed that occurred during a shootout between police and guerrillas that ended the hijacking of a busload of pilgrims on their way to see him.

Three gunmen and a hostage, a young woman student, were killed in the shootout Wednesday in this small kingdom surrounded by South Africa. Eleven pilgrims were wounded.

The pope made his first public comment on the incident at the end of a mass he celebrated today to beatify a French evangelist. Two million worshippers had been expected to attend the mass at a race course, but only 50,000 turned up.

"I have come to southern Africa as a pilgrim of peace, bearing with me a message of reconciliation," the pontiff said. "I am saddened to learn that others on their way to join me in this pilgrimage have been the victims of a hijack that caused such anguish and ended in bloodshed."

The pope resumed his five-nation southern Africa tour after a dramatic day in which bad weather forced the papal plane to divert to Johannesburg in South Africa, the one country in the region the pontiff had been trying to avoid.

A heavily guarded 10-vehicle convoy took the pope to Lesotho by road through South Africa, where racial issues had led Catholic bishops to advise against a papal visit. Minutes after John Paul reached Maseru, shooting broke out between police and gunmen holding about 70 Catholic pilgrims hostage in a bus in the capital.

Sister Rita Brassard, an American with the Papal Visit Office, said the injured included two nuns.

"One of our students is dead," she said. "Survivors said there were bullets everywhere. These little grenades went off. They tried to jump through the windows."

Talks center on union legalization

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Lech Walesa faced talks with senior communist officials today after he took a tough line on legalizing Solidarity and the government cautioned against an "all or nothing" approach.

"There is no freedom without Solidarity," Walesa told reporters waiting at a church complex where he spent Wednesday night. "We will know more tomorrow."

The banned labor movement's leader traveled from his home in Gdansk to Warsaw late Wednesday for today's talks, but refused even to discuss a government report that he would be meeting with officials led by Interior Minister Gen.

Czeslaw Kiszczak. The ruling Politburo, in a statement issued by the state-run news agency PAP Wednesday, saying, "A desire to narrow down the talks to bargaining in line with the unfortunate principle of 'everything or nothing' is a great misunderstanding."

Walesa was sharply criticized by some union members for ending the strike without a firm guarantee that the union would be legalized.

A Solidarity conference held over the weekend in Gdansk said that legalizing the union must precede any real dialogue on the country's future.

1994 Winter Games in Norway

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The International Olympic Committee today awarded the 1994 Winter Games to the Norwegian city of Lillehammer, dashing U.S. hopes of hosting the Games in Anchorage, Alaska.

The announcement was made by IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch following a vote by members of the organization.

Lillehammer will become the second Norwegian city to host the Winter Games. Oslo organized the 1992 Games.

Prime Minister Gro Harlem Brundtland of Norway was in Seoul this week lobbying for Lillehammer among members of the IOC. She called Norway the "cradle of winter sports" and praised Lillehammer's compact sports center.

Samaranch's announcement triggered shrieks of surprise from spectators at the outdoor news conference in the garden of a Seoul hotel.

Sofia, Bulgaria, had been widely expected to be chosen as the first East bloc nation to hold the games based on the strong support from its citizens.

Anchorage and Ostersund, Sweden, were the other contenders for 1994.

Women ignored in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev's reforms have ignored Soviet women, who spend their days doing back-breaking physical labor in poor conditions but have no significant political power, women complained in two Soviet newspapers.

In articles published in Wednesday's edition of Pravda, the country's leading newspaper, and the Sept. 9 edition of New Times weekly, women complained that their country had created a "third sex" — women who do exhausting labor and are not respected as women.

"I'm not calling for extremism, but most women's voices are audible only in their kitchens," wrote Larisa Kuznetsov in the New Times weekly.

The women also complained that birth control was unavailable and the infant mortality rate was too high.

The glittering image of Raisa Gorbachev, the articulate, stylish wife of the Soviet leader, has helped obscure the fact that 70 years after the Russian Revolution, many women here still must work at demanding jobs for low or modest pay, the women said.

In the Pravda article, entitled "Why I Can't Be a Minister," Y. Barulina, an adjuster at Moscow's ZIL auto plant, wrote that "almost 3.5 million of us toil in conditions that don't meet occupational safety regulations."

Barulina said that although Gorbachev's economic reforms should in principle improve life for Soviet women, it isn't happening.

What's more, the typical Soviet woman, no matter how successful at her job, is expected to bear the burden of housework, said Barulina.

Cell differences found in alcoholics

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — White blood cells reproduced from the cells of alcoholics differ from the cells of non-alcoholics in at least one key way, and researchers said Wednesday the findings could help prevent the disease.

The findings, reported in the mid-September issue of the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, tend to confirm epidemiologic evidence of an inherited aspect to alcohol dependency.

The research, led by Dr. Ivan F. Diamond of the University of California-San Francisco, involved the progeny of cells taken from lifelong alcoholics and from a non-drinking Mormon group. White blood cells from both groups were raised in a laboratory culture for up to six generations over seven or eight days without any exposure to alcohol.

The scientists found a difference between the cells descended from those of alcoholics and the cells raised from non-alcoholics, centering on the production of a molecule called cyclic adenosine monophosphate, or cAMP. The molecule relays messages from outside the cell to various locations inside and is necessary for nearly every metabolic function.

The cells reproduced from those of alcoholics showed surprisingly high levels of cAMP, three times the level found in the progeny of cells taken from the non-alcoholics.

Diamond and fellow researchers

Laura E. Nagy and Adrienne Gordon also found the cells with the high cAMP levels had an increased sensitivity to alcohol; the cAMP levels dropped by an average of 39 percent after exposure to alcohol.

The progeny of cells taken from non-alcoholics showed no significant change over a 24-hour period. "Because the sensitivity could be genetic, we now have to go out and do genetic studies in families and confirm that this increased sensitivity to alcohol is the reason why certain people are at risk to become addicted to alcohol," said Diamond, who is director of the Ernest Gallo Clinic and Research Center at UCSF.

Diamond and his colleagues are planning such a study.

Anniversary

The Alvin Hiltbrunners

Alvin (Red) and Velta Hiltbrunner, 110 61 Box 327, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception Sunday, from 2 to 4 p.m. at East Fourth Street Baptist Church.

The couple's children, Alvin and Betty Hiltbrunner, and Ray and Glenna Hiltbrunner, will host the event. Servers will be their grandchildren: Dana, Lana and Randall.

Hiltbrunner was born in Wheeler County.

Mrs. Hiltbrunner, the former Velta Cates, was born in Grey County.

The couple met at the movies in Shamrock, and were married Sept. 20, 1938 in Twitty, with Rev. Virgil Lollar, officiating.

They have four grandchildren,

MR. AND MRS. ALVIN HILTBRUNNER and have lived in Shamrock, Colorado City and Big Spring during their marriage.

Hiltbrunner served as a police officer for the City of Big Spring for 16 years, and was self-employed, before retiring in 1978. Mrs. Hiltbrunner was a dietitian for Cowper Hospital for 10 years.

They owned and operated Alert Ambulance in Big Spring until 1978.

They are members of East Fourth Street Baptist Church.

When asked to comment about their marriage, they said, "Our marriage led to a good 50 years together, and two sons and four grandchildren. Working together and loving each other enriched our lives and gave us strength to overcome the difficulties."

All friends are invited to attend the reception.

Girl tests hospitality

DEAR ABBY: For the last year, a young woman has been pursuing me. She has always been open to our children's friends, so it was only natural for us to make Agnes' welcome.

However, it seems that Agnes wants to see "John" every night, and since she lives some distance away, she brings a change of clothes and comes to our house straight from work. Of course, she then has dinner with us, or if we dine out, she goes with us.

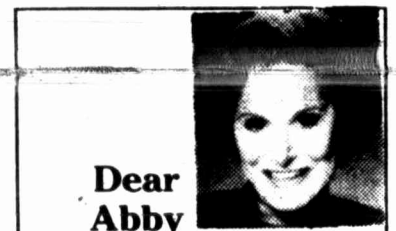

I have talked to John about this, and he says he doesn't invite her. I believe this because I have heard his end of telephone conversations, and this aggressive girl will not take "no" for an answer. Agnes is neither homeless nor friendless — she just wants to get her hooks into our son.

We hate to be rude, but either she doesn't seem to realize that she is imposing or she doesn't care. Please help me. It's getting to the point where neither my husband nor I wants to face what we know will be waiting for us when we get home from work.

JOHN'S LONG-SUFFERING MOM

DEAR MOM: How old is John? If he is an adult, ask him to tell Agnes to please discontinue the practice of coming to your home directly from work. If John is not an adult, then order him to tell her. And if he doesn't do it, either you must tell her politely but emphatically — or tolerate the imposition.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for five years. We are childless by choice, because we enjoy our carefree lifestyle.

My sister has four children and my brother two. I am beginning to feel more and more pressure to invite these spoiled, self-indulgent nieces and nephews to our home.

Since we live near a nice lake with swimming privileges, my sister and brother think that this would be an ideal vacation spot for their children.

Abby, I love my nieces and nephews, despite their shortcomings, but I am reluctant to invite them to sleep over. If I invite one, I will be expected to invite all the others, and then I'll be trapped forever. I really don't want the responsibility of looking after children.

I see them in their own homes occasionally, and only when it's their birthdays and Christmas.

I am beginning to feel guilty each time my sister or brother brings the subject up, and I am running out of excuses. As an aunt, would it be shameful of me never to have them in my home to spend the night? What do you think?

NO CHILDREN, PLEASE
DEAR NO CHILDREN: I think you are missing an opportunity to give your nieces and nephews a chance to know and love you. You say you "love" them; why not give them a "trial" run?

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

GENERAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 8, 1988

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 8 proposes a constitutional amendment providing that when the federal government reimburses the state for expenditures of state funds dedicated to acquiring rights-of-way and for constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways, such federal funds must also be used for those purposes.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment and/or clarification providing that federal reimbursement of state highway dedicated funds are themselves dedicated for the purpose of acquiring rights-of-way and constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways."

fer monies from the fund into the general revenue fund to alleviate a temporary cash shortage in general revenue. The legislature could make appropriations from the fund on approval by a three fifths vote of each house to make up the difference between anticipated general revenue and appropriations. On approval of two thirds of the members of each house of the legislature, the legislature could appropriate monies from the fund for any purpose.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment establishing an economic stabilization fund in the state treasury to be used to offset unforeseen shortfalls in revenue."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 5 proposes a constitutional amendment that establishes the Texas growth fund. All investments of the Texas growth fund must be directly related to furthering economic growth and employment opportunities in Texas. At least 50 percent of the fund must be invested in equity and/or debt security for the initial construction, expansion, or modernization of business or industrial facilities in Texas. Not more than ten percent of the fund may be invested in venture capital investments. Of the funds available for venture capital investments, not more than 25 percent may be invested unilaterally, and the remaining investments must be matched at least equally by funds from other sources. The Texas growth fund will be managed by a board of trustees consisting of four members appointed by the Governor and one member from and elected by the membership of each of the following: The Board of Regents of the University of Texas System; The Board of Regents of the Texas A&M System; The Board of Trustees of the Teacher's Retirement System of Texas; The Board of Trustees of the Employee's Retirement System of Texas; and the State Board of Education. The trustees may set the investment policy of the fund, enter into investment contracts, and take any action necessary for the creation, administration, and protection of the fund. The amendment authorizes the Board of Regents of the University of Texas System and the State Board of Education, in managing the permanent university fund and the permanent school fund, to acquire, exchange, sell, supervise, manage, or retain any kind of investment, including investments in the Texas growth fund. The fund will be phased out after the tenth anniversary of its creation, but the Legislature may create a second growth fund by a two thirds vote of each house.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

The constitutional amendment to provide for the investment of the permanent university fund, the permanent school fund, and public employee retirement systems in the Texas growth fund created by the amendment, which will directly create, retain, and expand job opportunity and economic growth in Texas."

Mars As it Gets Closer to Earth

At 8:18 P.M. PDT Sept. 21, Mars will be 36.5 million miles from Earth, closer than at any time since 1971 or until 2003. The event is called "Perihelic Opposition" because Mars is near Perihelion - its closest approach to the sun - and near opposition, or on the opposite side of Earth from the sun. Not all oppositions bring the planets so close. During a 1995 opposition, the planets will be 63 million miles apart.

Position in the Sky East-southeast

One hour after the end of twilight northern hemisphere observers will see Mars low in the east-southeast sky.

To the naked eye and through binoculars, Mars is the brightest "star" in the evening sky. It has a reddish-orange tint.

A telescope with a 2.4-inch aperture used at a magnification of 100 shows Mars as a small disk with vague dark features.

At 150 magnification, a 3-inch refracting telescope or 4-inch reflecting telescope should reveal major dark features, a polar cap and any dust storms.

A 6-inch telescope at 250 to 300 magnification. Seasonal variations in the polar caps and changes in the color and shape of Mars' features can be seen. Mars is represented upside down as one would see it in a telescope.

Through a Telescope

Mars Watch

Mars' closest approach in 17 years, and the best Northern Hemisphere view of the planet in 113 years, has backyard astronomers peering excitedly through telescopes. The Romans named Mars after their god of war because of its red color, probably caused by iron-rich dust believed to cover the planet. Mars has half the diameter of Earth and about one-tenth the mass.

March of compassion

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — Less than halfway through his 2,000-mile "Faithwalk" aimed at drawing attention to the plight of Mexicans who live and work in garbage dumps, the Rev. Rob Schenck is full of enthusiasm for his cause. Faithwalk is an outgrowth of Schenck's concern for an estimated 1 million Mexicans — known as pepinadoras — who eat, sleep and work in large municipal garbage dumps.

"Imagine that smell multiplied a thousand times, and you might be able to understand the conditions that these people live in 24 hours a day," he said Monday as a garbage truck passed by in Bowling Green.

Schenck, a 29-year-old Assembly of God minister, and his trainer, Louis Costley, passed through this south-central Kentucky city as they continued a journey that began Aug. 1 in Buffalo, N.Y. The journey will end Nov. 26 when supporters join them to cross the Rio Grande from Laredo, Texas, into Mexico.

Schenck visited Mexico City in 1982 and was shocked by the living conditions and spiritual despair the pepinadoras endured.

"These people live and die in the dumps," he said. "I counted 21 dog carcasses in one area where they gathered water. Women give birth on piles of trash. Children play with the trash. It's a hell on earth."

By drawing attention to the pepinadoras, Schenck hopes to raise $1 million to build clinical facilities and recruit volunteers to aid in construction and medical and dental care.

"We also want to help these people in their spiritual beliefs," Schenck said. "One man told me 'to God, I am a dog.' I told him that God did not create (him) to live as a dog. There's so much we must do to reassure these people that they are not forgotten."

Faithwalk has received support from the Roman Catholic Church and most Protestant and Pentecostal denominations.

"The support we have received has been tremendous," he said. "The people we've met in Kentucky have been really hospitable."

The mission has carried two men through New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Kentucky.

Deficit reflects import decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. merchandise trade deficit shrank to $9.5 billion in July, the lowest monthly imbalance since December 1984, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the dramatic 28 percent improvement in the trade deficit reflected a small increase in exports and a big decline in imports.

The latest trade deficit was certain to cheer Republican presidential candidate George Bush, who has been trying to deflect charges from Democrat Michael Dukakis that the country's soaring trade deficits demonstrate a major flaw in the Reagan economic program. The July deficit was substantially better than economists had expected. The government did, however, boost the June deficit to $13.2 billion from the originally reported $12.5 billion.

The June deficit was the biggest trade shortfall since a $14.4 billion deficit in February, a figure that had sent the Dow Jones industrial average tumbling by 100 points.

A local country band will play in the finals of the KMFM Battle of the Bands competition Sunday at the Permian Basin Fair in Odessa.

The band also will perform Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the Howard County Fair, said James.

The Debbie James Band, based in Big Spring, is one of seven finalists in the contest, which begins at 2 p.m. in the Ector County Coliseum. It is the only Big Spring band to make the finals of the event, said James.

The winner of the contest will receive a $1,200 prize and will be scheduled to open for Michael Martin Murphy during one of his performances.

At the movies

The following movies will be showing this weekend at local theaters:

"Big Blue," rated PG, and "Die Hard," will be showing at The Cinema in College Park.

"Big Blue" is an action-romance about the outlawed sport of underwater free-diving, the goal of which is to swim as deep as possible without an oxygen tank. Jean-Marc Barr stars as the man who must choose between his love for the sea and Rosanna Arquette.

"Die Hard," features a New York City cop (Bruce Willis) who finds himself trapped in a Los Angeles office tower that has been seized by terrorists on Christmas Eve. He's the only hope for a group of hostages that includes his estranged wife.

"Tucker," rated R, "Stealing Home," rated R, "Big," rated PG, and "Young Guns," rated R, will be playing at Movies 4.

"Tucker" tells the story of Preston Tucker (Jeff Bridges) who invented and tried to mass produce "the car of tomorrow today." The innovations Tucker incorporated into his cars challenged the Detroit automobile makers, but rather than adopt Tucker's high standards sought to put him out of business.

"Big" tells the story of a little boy who visits a traveling carnival and asks a fortune-telling machine to grant his wish to be "big." The next thing he knows he's inside the body of a 35-year-old man (Tom Hanks) and on his way to New York where he climbs the corporate ladder of a toy company.

"Young Guns" tells the story of six young men who are hired to take care of the ranch of an Englishman. When he is killed by a neighboring rancher, the young cowboys ride off in search of revenge led by Billy the Kid (Emilio Estevez).

'Far Side' creator takes 14-month break

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Cartoonist Gary Larson, whose "The Far Side" comic appears in more than 800 newspapers, will take a 14-month break from his work beginning this fall, his syndicate said Saturday.

"Even revolutionaries need to refuel," Universal Press Syndicate president John McMeel said.

Larson, 38, who lives in Seattle, will stop distributing new cartoons Oct. 30 and will begin again Jan. 1, 1990.

Larson, who has said in the past that he sits down at his drawing table and "gets silly," is famous for cartoons about cows that honk at humans, dinosaurs that smoke and woman with beehive hairdos.

During his time off, Larson wants to rest and travel, said spokeswoman Diane Galante. She said he currently is on a trip outside the country.

County fair begins Monday

By STEVE GEISSEN
Staff Writer

The 16th annual Howard County Fair will begin Monday at 4 p.m. and continue through Sept. 24 at the Dora Roberts Fair Building.

The fair will feature commercial booths, art and cooking contests, a petting zoo, a battle of the cheerleaders, a carnival and circus, contests, a barbecue cook-off, musical entertainment, and agriculture shows.

Admission prices are $2.50 for adults, (12 and older) and $1 for children ages 6-11. Children under 6 years old are admitted free.

On Tuesday — senior citizen and teen day — tickets for senior citizens and teen-agers cost $1.50.

Entries to be judged in the creative arts, cake day, flower show, art and photography, and agriculture contests will be accepted Monday from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Entries to be judged in the country store division should be submitted Monday from 10 a.m. to noon.

There is no cost for entering the arts and crafts, flower or cooking competitions, said Ruth Mitchell, Howard County Fair Association

Steers face Bulldogs

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers and Plainview Bulldogs have a lot in common.

Both football teams have new coaches that are familiar with each other, both have played the same opponent and, most importantly, both are looking for their first wins. Barring a tie, one will get that first mark in the "W" column Friday night when the two square off in a non-district football clash at Plainview's Bulldog Stadium.

Plainview coach Steve Parr and Big Spring mentor David Thompson are no strangers to each other. Both were coaching in District 3-3A last season; Parr at Slaton and Thompson at Post. Both think highly of each other's coaching abilities.

"I know coach Parr well and he's a good friend of mine," said Thompson. "He produces good football teams and he's a good coach."

"Coach Thompson does a great job of coaching," said Parr. "He does a fine job of turning kids into good football players."

While both coaches admit they and their teams are still adjusting to each other, the bottom line is that both need a win.

The Bulldogs, of District 3-5A, lost their season opener to Lubbock

DENNIS HARTFIELD

Estacado 34-16, and were defeated last week by Clovis, N.M. 7-0. Estacado is ranked number 10 in the state, and Clovis is ranked number three in New Mexico.

The Steers lost their season opener last week, a 30-18 decision to Lubbock Estacado.

Parr stepped into a little brighter situation than Thompson. The first year Plainview coach inherited 30 lettermen, including three offensive and 10 returning defensive starters. Last year the Bulldogs finished with a 4-6 record. From a 6-4 squad, Thompson inherited 12 lettermen, including three offensive and two defensive returning starters.

Coach Parr said his team played much better than it did in week one against Estacado. "We did a poor job of stopping Estacado. We played much better defense against Clovis. We scored 16 points against Estacado and we were trying to figure out how we scored. Offensively we didn't move the ball at all. We scored on a 85-yard kickoff return, a field goal, and they fumbled down deep in their territory and we scored."

Against Clovis the Bulldog offense looked much better. Tailback Stan Robertson rushed for 102 yards in 20 carries and fullback Brian Braizer rushed for 126 yards in 18 tries out the Wing-T attack.

"We moved the ball up and down, but not in the right place. Penalties hurt us also. We got inside the 10 and didn't score. We also had a touchdown called back because a penalty. We had the opportunities and didn't take advantage of them," Parr said.

The Plainview offense will be hampered with the absence of tackle James Cargill, picked by Dave Campbell's Texas Football Magazine to be one of the best linemen in the state. The 6-7, 291-pound senior is out with back problems. "We're working three people in his place. I don't know who'll start yet," Parr said.

The Big Spring defense also had a hard time stopping the Matador offense, as the Mats rolled up 384 yards offensively, including 340 on the ground. Linebacker Jason Phillips led Big Spring with 18 tackles. End Kevin Pirkle followed with 17 stops.

"We're trying to work on our tackling techniques," said Steers defensive coordinator Dwight Butler. "We had super effort. We've just got to get them to tackle."

Hunting will be good in southwest Colorado

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Here's a message for hunters who want to venture out of state:

The area surrounding Cortez, Colo., in southwest Colorado, is expected to have prime hunting conditions when the state's deer and elk combined rifle season begins Oct. 15. According to Glen Hinshaw, Information Specialist for the Colorado Division of Wildlife, "As a result of four consecutive mild winters, southwest Colorado's big game population is in excellent condition."

Antler restrictions in some areas have increased buck/doe ratios for deer. This should provide excellent opportunity for bucks in the 20-to-24-inch category and a better than average chance for larger bucks, Hinshaw said.

For more information concerning motel and campground accommodations, licenses, restrictions and regulations, contact the Cortez Visitor Center at (303) 565-3413.

Thursdays
Notes

Big Spring Steers quarterback Rance Thompson is currently the state's fifth leading passer in Class AAAA after his performance against Lubbock Estacado.

Thompson completed 10 of 22 passes for 247 yards. The leading passer is Brownwood's Brad Butler, who completed 24 of 36 passes for 353 yards.

But the thing about Thompson is that his total is for one game while the others have two games under their belts. As far as district play goes, the Steers are currently leading 4-4A in total offense, averaging 417 yards per game. Sweetwater is next, averaging 400 yards per game, and Pecos follows at 346 yards per game.

Sweetwater's Kenneth Norman is the district's leading rusher, averaging 198 yards in two games, and a whopping 11.7 yards per carry. Fort Stockton's Joe Parks is the top receiver, with seven catches for a 21.7 yard average.

Defensively, Sweetwater is tops by a large margin. The Mustangs defense is allowing a mere 33.5 yards per game. Pecos follows with 182 and Fort Stockton is third, allowing 183 yards per game.

Here's news from the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association . . .

In couples nine-hole play last Thursday, two teams shot five-under-par 32 to tie for first. A playoff on the scorecards — after three holes — gave top honors to Jimmy and Georgie Newsom, Ormer Decker and Ina Stewart. They won out over George and Betty Murphy and Jim and Annie Ward.

Tammy Newsom and Patsy Sharpnack shot a one-over-par 38 to win nine hole scramble play on the front nine Monday. They won by three strokes.

In a couples' tournament tournament last week, Jim and Annie Ward won first place in the first flight, shooting a 145 for the two-day play.

Coahoma cowboy Wacey Cathey continues to lead the bull riding competition in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Cathey has earned $57,198 in prize money. Second is Gary Toole of Magnum, Okla. with $49,830 and third is Bowie cowboy Tuff Hedeman with $48,829.

Lake J.B. Thomas has a new record for blue catfish, while black bass, crappie and some white bass catches escalated at Lake E.V. Spence.

The new record for blue catfish is a 27-pounder caught by Rayford Boyd and Bill Burnett of Big Spring. They hooked the fish on a trotline baited with shad. Also at Lake Thomas, Ronnie Gaskin and Albert Carlisle of Big Spring caught catfish weighing nine, 15 and 30 pounds.

At Lake Spence, T.J. Jeter of Big Spring caught 50 catfish weighing up to six pounds.

Ray Dabney of Big Spring caught crappies weighing seven and 15 pounds. Gary, Wanda and Glenda Gillihan of Big Spring caught 30 crappie.

Local boxer Juan Baldwin is getting ready for his second professional bout.

Mr. Baldwin, sporting a 1-0 record, will go against Arturo Saucillo of Houston Oct. 8 in Las Vegas.

The bout will be televised by S&M Sports, a cable station.

Baldwin is tentatively scheduled to box again Oct. 24 in Dallas.

The Big Spring Lady Steers volleyball game, scheduled for Saturday at Steer Gym against Andrews, has been moved to Andrews.

Work will be done on a blown transformer this weekend and there will be no electricity at the school, so the game had to be moved to Andrews. Junior varsity action begins at 2 p.m., followed by varsity play at 3.

Also the freshmen tournament set for Saturday, will have all its games played at Goliad gym.

Registration's now underway for the Oct. 1 Fall-Fest at Dora Roberts Community Center, located by Figure Seven Tennis Center.

Fall-Fest is composed of various team competition in many events. The team that accumulates the most points is the overall winner.

Entry fee is $120 per team, limited to the first 20 teams to enter. Entry deadline is Sept. 26. Teams will be composed of four males and four females. All contestants must be 16 years old or older.

To enter, or for more information, call Linda Perez at the Big Spring YMCA at 267-8234.

Lewis makes vow; Norway gets Winter Games

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Dapper but temperamental, a team leader living apart from the team, Carl Lewis blew into town in a white silk suit and rode off into seclusion after vowing to reclaim the title of fastest man alive.

Lewis headed the first wave of American track and field athletes to the Games as politics began to take a back seat to sports today, despite the curious absence of the Libyan team after it was prevented from leaving Tripoli.

Death threats were reported against the Japanese team and the wife of Swedish tennis player Mats Wilander if they came. Wilander pulled out several days ago, claiming a leg injury.

Lillehammer, Norway won the bidding to host the 1994 Winter Olympics Games, setting off a jubilant celebration among Norwegians and sending away disappointed delegations from Anchorage, Bulgaria and Sweden.

All four cities made hour-long presentations to the IOC's 94th Session. Lillehammer's speech was made by Norwegian Prime Minister Gro Harlem Brundtland, who called on the IOC to return to "the cradle of winter sports."

The Winter Games have been held in Scandinavia only once, in Oslo in 1952.

Anchorage brought in a State Department official from Washington to show it had President Reagan's backing. Bulgaria had its culture minister and Sweden's delegation was led by King Carl XVI Gustaf.

The man who would be king of these Games, though, is Lewis, who is seeking to match the four golds he won in 1984 in the 100, 200, 400 relay and long jump.

"The gold medal for the 100-meter race is mine," Lewis declared cockily, dismissing the thought of losing again to Canadian Ben Johnson. "I will never again lose to Johnson."

Johnson, the world record holder at 9.83 seconds, has beaten Lewis in six of their last eight races outdoors.

Lewis said he wouldn't allow further interviews before his competition and huffed he will go home if SEOUL — U.S. Olympic star Carl Lewis waves to photographers Wednesday upon his arrival to Seoul at Kimpo International Airport to participate in the Summer Olympic Games starting Sept. 17.

reporters bothered him. Unlike most of the other 12,000 athletes already in Seoul, Lewis has two houses he can stay in outside the Olympic Village.

Other Americans and he has demanded special parking pits.

He is also the only athlete with his own glossy guide listing his achievements.

Other glamour athletes, though, were quite a bit more accessible.

Jackie Joyner-Kersey, a favorite in the heptathlon and women's long jump, was available for autographs and chats over breakfast at a downtown hotel.

David Berkoff, world record holder in the 100-meter backstroke, is attracting crowds because of his unusual submarine style start, which usually puts him ahead of all his madly thrashing rivals about one third the way through the race.

"I'm not the only one who does this, but I guess you could say I get the most attention for it," said Berkoff, 21, a Harvard student from Willow Grove, Pa. "Perhaps I've made people believe it works."

"There are always people who moan and groan about things and are skeptical about anything new," he said. "I think it's time swimming had something revolutionary."

The Olympics may not have Libya when the Games open on Saturday, but officials aren't sure whether the absence is due to the boycott in support of North Korea,

Sweetwater back makes AP Honor Roll

By The Associated Press

Springtown's Todd Wageman scored six touchdowns in four different ways against frustrated Stephenville last week.

Wageman's versatile performance earned him the spotlight in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Wageman rushed 57 and 14 yards for touchdowns, caught TD passes of 22 and 30 yards, threw a 74-yard touchdown pass and returned a punt 45 yards for a touchdown.

Wageman also had non-scoring returns of 60 yard on a punt and 62 yards on a kickoff in a 48-0 victory.

Wageman also had a 40-yard punt return that was headed for a touchdown until he developed a leg cramp.

Alice's Ben Mirelez was almost a prolific in a 49-20 victory over Killebrew, scoring five first half touchdowns.

Mirelez scored on runs of 21, 1 and 22 yards, an 89-yard kickoff return and he caught a 24-yard touchdown pass.

It was also a big scoring night for Savoy's John Barron, who rushed for four touchdowns, returned an interception 52 yards for a touchdown and scored four two-point conversions.

Barron rushed 276 yards on 23 carries and added nine tackles as a defender in a 52-6 victory over Fruitvale.

Beaumont West Brook linebacker Lincoln Lewis, who transferred from West Orange-Stark two years ago, helped beat his former teammates and end their 24-game winning streak.

Lewis returned an interception 34 yards in the final seconds that insured a 10-7 victory.

West Brook's Matt Jackson also provided last minute excitement, booting a 40-yard field goal with 52 seconds to play, scoring the points that beat the Mustangs.

Orangefield blanked Coldspring 35-0 with the help of senior linebacker John Worthy, 5-7, 150, who had 10 tackles and recovered three fumbles. Coldspring netted only 69 yards in total offense.

Mission's Nati Valdez caught 11 passes for 257 yards in the Eagles' 39-17 over Flour Bluff.

In other outstanding performances:

—Sweetwater running back Kenneth Norman rushed 259 yards on 22 carries and scored on runs of 29, 37, 30 and 9 yards in a 34-7 victory over Abilene.

—Wolfe City running back Heath Davis rushed 317 yards on 19 carries and scored on runs of 64, 54 and 89 yards in a 28-7 victory over Lone Oak.

—Ricky West of Irion County scored on runs of 62, 5, 25 and 20 yards and gained 197 yards on 30 carries in a 48-19 victory over Fort Davis.

—Midland Lee running back Ferris Strambler gained 180 yards on 7 carries and scored on runs of 75, 29 and 21 yards in a 24-6 victory over Del Rio.

—Sherman running back Rod Schiller scored three second quarter touchdowns and rushed 114 yards on 23 carries in a 33-14 victory over Denison.

—Rankin's Joe Apalos rushed 223 yards on 10 carries and scored on runs of 66 and 61 yards in a 22-7 victory over Forsan.

—Brownwood quarterback Brad Butler completed 16 of 30 passes for 225 yards and had touchdown passes of 24 and 3 yards in a 23-19 loss to Kerrville Tivy.

—El Paso Hanks benefitted from multi-talented Edward Smith, who caught three passes for 76 yards, returned a kickoff 81 yards for a touchdown and returned a punt 56 yards to set up another score in a 41-27 victory over El Paso Irving.

—El Paso Riverside quarterback Gabe Herrera completed 13 of 23 passes for 169 yards and three touchdowns and rushed 64 more yards on 8 carries in a 28-7 victory over El Paso Coronado.

—Dalhart's Mike Johnson gained 230 yards on 16 carries and scored on runs of 51 and 35 yards in a 34-14 victory over Stratford.

—Vidor running back Mack Brown help snap a 19-game losing streak, rushing 162 yards on 20 carries.

Hershiser keeps streak alive

By The Associated Press
Orel Hershiser has pitched three straight shutouts and hasn't been scored on for 31 consecutive innings, yet he's only halfway to Don Drysdale's record of 58 2-3 innings.

Hershiser doesn't think he'll reach that record.
"What Don's done is one of the most unbelievable feats in baseball history and it's one of those records that'll never be broken," Hershiser said Wednesday night after pitching a six-hitter to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 1-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves. "I don't even think about it."

Hershiser, 21-8, has thrown six consecutive complete games, giving him 13. He has six shutouts, tying teammate Tim Lincecum and Cincinnati's Danny Jackson for the league lead. He's not thinking about trying to beat out Jackson as the best pitcher in the National League.

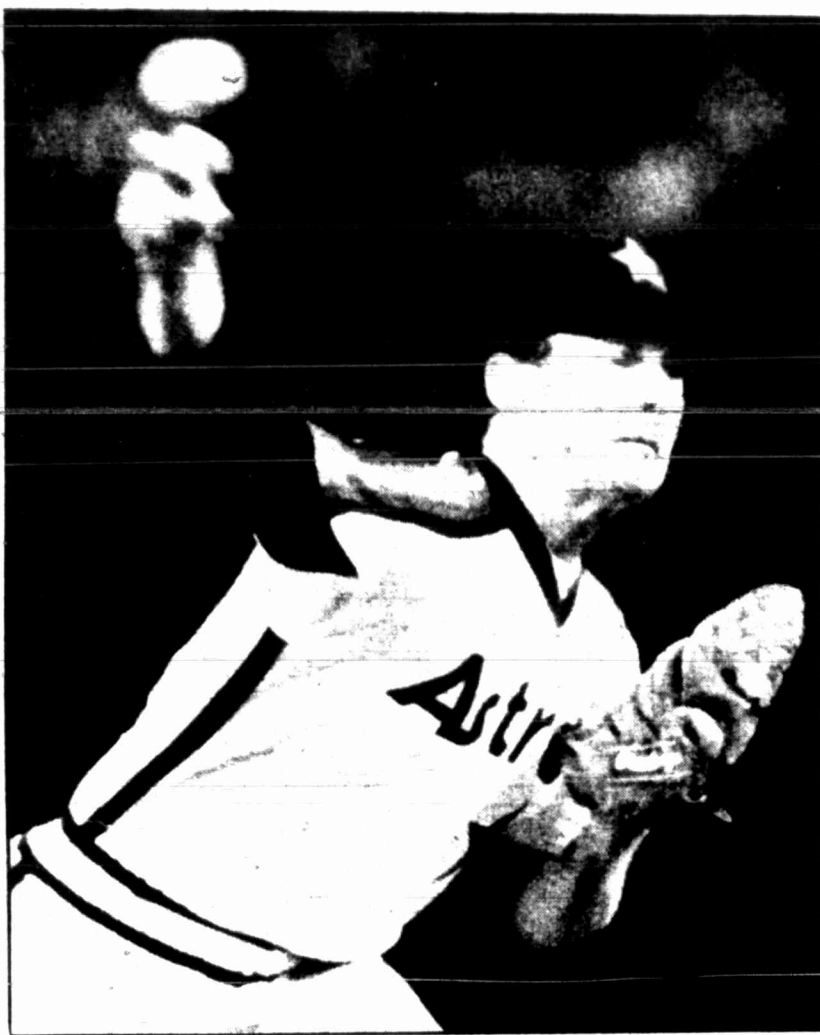

"I have three starts to go and a playoff game to worry about," Hershiser said. "I'm not thinking about Danny Jackson and the Cy Young."

In other games, Houston beat Cincinnati 7-1, New York beat Chicago 3-1, Pittsburgh beat Montreal 4-1 in 12 innings, Philadelphia beat St. Louis 9-2 and San Francisco beat San Diego 6-5.

Hershiser, who has more shutouts than the Baltimore Orioles, the New York Yankees or the Atlanta Braves, didn't think he had his good stuff.

"Tonight's game was the worst I've pitched and the most inconsistent I've been in the last five or six games," said Hershiser, who stranded Atlanta runners in scoring position three times, including a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the seventh inning. "I made some bad pitches, and I still had some zeros. I never really had anything to work with, and I couldn't get into any pattern."

Kirk Gibson walked to lead off the ninth and, with Gibson running on a 2-2 pitch, Mike Marshall hit a line drive down the right-field line for a double as Gibson scored.

CINCINNATI — Houston Astros pitcher Nolan Ryan unleashes a pitch during their game with the Cincinnati Reds at Riverfront Stadium Wednesday night. Ryan struck out 13 batters and only allowed four hits while throwing a complete game.

Rick Mahler, 9-15, remained winless since Aug. 5. He pitched a five-hitter, striking out three.

Astros 7, Reds 1
Nolan Ryan pitched a four-hitter, struck out a season-high 13 and stretched his streak without a walk to 20 consecutive innings.

"I threw the fastball about 75 percent of the time," Ryan said. "This is the most consistent I've been all year. I've had command of my pitches."

Ryan, 12-11, won his third straight and pitched his fourth complete game. He leads the National League with 221 strikeouts and has fanned 10 or more batters seven times this season and 181 times in his career. He has pitched consecutive complete games for the first time since 1983.

Ryan outpitched Jackson, 21-6, who gave up all seven runs in 5 1-3 innings. Rafael Ramirez drove in four runs with a double and a homer.

Despite the victory, the Astros remained 6½ games behind the Dodgers in the NL West.

Mets 3, Cubs 1
Sid Fernandez and Roger McDowell combined on a four-hitter and New York won for the sixth time in seven games, lowering its magic number to nine in the National League East.

Fernandez, 9-10, pitched seven innings before being taken out because of soreness in his left knee. He gave up three hits, struck out eight and walked three. McDowell pitched two innings for his 16th save.

Calvin Schiraldi, 8-12, lost his fourth consecutive game since beating Atlanta on Aug. 25.

New York scored in the second on Howard Johnson's RBI triple, Wally Backman's RBI double and Mookie Wilson RBI triple.

Pirates 4, Expos 1
Bobby Bonilla hit a three-run homer in the 12th inning, his first home run since Aug. 14.

Jose Lind hit a two-out double off Tim Burke, 3-4, and Andy Van Slyke was intentionally walked before Bonilla hit his 21st homer.

Brian Fisher, 8-10, allowed one hit in two innings.

Phillies 9, Cardinals 2
Bob Sebra won for the first time since July 12, 1987 and Lance Parrish hit a two-run homer.

Jackie Gutierrez hit a two-run single in a four-run third inning as the Cardinals lost their third straight. St. Louis was outscored 30-5 in those three losses.

Sebra, 1-2, allowed two runs and four hits in five innings. Greg Mathews, 4-6, gave up six hits and five runs in 2 1-3 innings.

Vince Coleman stole three bases and has 75 for the season and 401 in his career, the fastest to reach the 400 mark.

Giants 6, Padres 5
Don Robinson gave up eight hits in seven innings and San Francisco tied a National League record with four sacrifice flies as the Giants completed a three-game sweep.

Robinson, 7-4, struck out one and walked none. Craig Lefferts got the final out for his ninth save.

The stage is set for Fenway showdown

By The Associated Press
Bring on the Yankees! Roger Clemens and the Boston Red Sox are anxious to play and rest of the American League East is eager to watch.

Tonight at Fenway Park, New York and the division-leading Red Sox begin the biggest four-game series in baseball this year. Clemens will oppose Rick Rhoden in a rivalry that is not even when the standings mean nothing.

Boston starts with a 4½-game lead after both contenders won Wednesday night. Milwaukee, which won, and Detroit, which lost, are 5½ games behind.

"It's been tough to keep our stopped cheering, it was almost time for tonight's action.

"I think the Red Sox are in a great position," Baltimore manager Frank Robinson said. "This four-game series will tell a lot. I think Detroit is so beat up that it's between Boston and the Yankees. And if they split, the Yankees will have a difficult time."

"What gives the Yankees a chance is they've seemed to pick up some momentum and confidence. That gives them hope. They at least have hope of taking the three out of four they need to stay in it."

Detroit also needs New York to do well. But the Tigers, who have lost 19 of 23, have their own problems.

"You don't make up ground by what the other teams do," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said. "You need to win yourself."

Yankees 7, Indians 5

Dave Winfield hit a three-run homer in the first inning, leading New York to victory in Cleveland. The Yankees won for the sixth time in seven games.

Rich Dotson, 10-9, ended his five-game losing streak. Dale Mohoric pitched 3 2-3 innings for his sixth save.

Winfield hit his 25th homer of the season and 203rd for the Yankees, tying him with Roger Maris for seventh place on the team's all-time list. New York went on to a 6-1 lead against Rich Velt, 0-0.

Jay Bell hit a solo home run and Mel Hall had a two-run double for the visiting Indians.

Blue Jays 3, Tigers 2

George Bell's tiebreaking single in the eighth inning helped Toronto continue Detroit's slump. The Tigers led the AL East by four games before sliding.

The score was tied at 1-1 when the host Blue Jays loaded the bases in the eighth against Walt Terrell, 7-14. Bell met Mike Henneman with a single and another run scored on a wild pitch.

Fred Lynn led off the Tigers' ninth with his 22nd home run, but Duane Ward, 9-2, finished for the victory.

Detroit played without Alan Trammell, who was hit by a pitch Tuesday night and left the game. His status is day-to-day.

Rangers 9, Athletics 1

Texas' rookie battery of pitcher Kevin Brown and catcher Chad Kreuter was too much for Oakland.

Kreuter, in his first major league game, hit a leadoff single and three-run homer during a nine-run fifth inning.

Brown pitched a six-hitter in his first big league appearance since 1986. He lost his shutout in the ninth on Terry Steinbach's RBI single.

The visiting Rangers pounded Dave Stewart, 18-12, for all nine runs.

Lakers coach turns producer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pat Riley, whose coaching abilities were once thought not to go beyond his movie-star looks and tailored suits, is taking his concept of teamwork from the basketball court to the corporate boardroom.

And when Riley, who "guaranteed" the Los Angeles Lakers would win consecutive NBA championships, says something, people listen.

Riley, who said he wrote the book "Showtime," to dispel the myth of the Lakers being a Hollywood team, added to his effort with the August release of a 24-minute video entitled "Teamwork."

Distributed by Irwindale, Calif.-based Barr Films, the videotape describes Riley's philosophy on what makes a winning team — whether on the basketball court, in an office, at a school or at home. It also includes game footage of the fast-breaking Lakers.

"To me, teamwork is the essence of life," the 43-year-old Riley said. "It is essential to families, businesses and sports. Unless a person can really understand the sacrifice, energies and emotions it takes, it's not going to work."

Any opponent who wants to rush out and buy the video, which retails for $595 and is also available in 16-millimeter film, may be disappointed by the tried-and-true values expounded as the Lakers' secret.

"I don't think anybody has their own secret," Riley said. "If we believe in the world being a mentor, then there are no original ideas. People have educated us and we make those ideas. Every great idea is born out of someone else's."

Riley, who got his 500th victory when the Lakers defeated the Detroit Pistons in Game Seven of the NBA championship series in June, said he was inspired by coaches like John Wooden, Bobby Knight and Tom Landry and by such motivational books as "Choosing Your Own Greatness" and "Game Plans."

Although he's read books on the much-touted Japanese management style, Riley said "there's nothing better than American free enterprise" and that Japan will feel a backlash from its teamwork concept.

"Japan will become a victim of its own management style once workers feel they can be more than what they're allowed to be," he said.

And what of his own concept of teamwork?

The video outlines Riley's theory of "Teamwork" by spelling it out: Togetherness, Equality, Attitude, Meshing, We vs. I, Organization, Role-playing, Kindred spirits.

Riley, whose job may be seen by some as little more than ego management of his star players, said the Lakers are not what the sports media makes them out to be.

"The perception of this team that I coach — Showtime, Hollywood, flashy — the idea perpetuated by the media, that the team lacks substance, wins only on talent and doesn't have the same kind of depth as other teams, I've tried to dispel that notion."

"I wrote the book to show what the inside scoop is about the L.A. Lakers, that they do contradict their reputation."

"They are a hard-working, blue-collar team that happens to be working in Hollywood."

Riley, a member of the Lakers' famed 1972 champions and later the team's radio announcer, lectures to up to 50 corporations per year about the principals of teamwork.

Steers

up here (line of scrimmage) instead of back there (downfield). But if we continue to improve, we'll be all right."

Offensively, the Steers played well against Estacado. Junior quarterback Rance Thompson passed for 247 yards and Steer rushers gained 165 yards more, led by tailback Dennis Hartfield's 70 yards.

Thompson said the reason for that success was the consistent blocking of the offensive line, composed of center Terry Ward, guards, Pete Buske and John Sotello and tackles Jessie Rios and Mike Calvo.

Parr is impressed by the Steer offense. "Big Spring poses a problem because of its balanced offensive attack. They can throw the ball and we've played against two teams that haven't thrown the ball. It will be a good test for our secondary. I know they'll score some points. I just hope we can score some points, too," Parr said.

Coach Thompson is prepared for the brute strength of the Plainview squad. "This is a big squad. I hope this is one of the bigger squads we'll play. They will run right at us. Plainview is a pretty good football team."

To get to Bulldog Stadium take the Dimmitt exit off Interstate 27. Go to K-Mart, turn right on Yonkers St. The stadium is located at 24th and Yonkers.

Oilers leave town early

HOUSTON (AP) — The Oilers are taking no chances on being blitzed by Hurricane Gilbert. They're scrambling all the way to Tennessee.

The approaching hurricane, which may hit the Texas coast by the weekend, is forcing the Oilers to leave town early for Sunday's game against the New York Jets.

The Oilers planned to fly to Memphis, Tenn., after today's workout in Houston and will hold drills there Friday and Saturday.

The hurricane threat also has forced Oiler Coach Jerry Glanville to suggest Oiler family members get away from the storm by going to Dallas.

"It's one of the few times we recommended someone go to Dallas," Glanville said of the home of the in-state rival Cowboys. "We just told them don't buy any hats or banners."

Akeem must stay put

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has refused to prohibit Houston Rockets center Akeem Olajuwon from leaving the country to play basketball in Italy.

Olajuwon, seeking to renegotiate his contract with the NBA Rockets, has not publicly announced plans to leave the country, but his former girlfriend, Lita Spencer, sought a temporary restraining order to keep Olajuwon in this country.

a mixup in arrangements or some other reason.

Libya's team was told in Tripoli it cannot go to Seoul, and it never left the country, sources in Seoul said.

The team was gathered at its hotel the night before its scheduled departure on Sunday when it was informed of the decision, according to the sources, who spoke on condition of confidentiality.

Seoul Olympic officials confirmed that none of the 12-member team had checked into the Olympic Village by Thursday, four days after the squad was due to arrive.

It was not known what role Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi had in the action, or if he was even aware that the team had failed to depart, the sources said.

"They were ready, with their Olympic uniforms and at the hotel," one of the sources said.

The Seoul Olympic Organizing Committee said that although no Libyans had arrived by late in the day, it was continuing to list Libya among the record 160 nations scheduled to participate in the Games. To qualify as a participant, a country needs to enter a single representative, whether that person is an athlete or an official.

Libya wavered on accepting an invitation to the Games until May, but had been preparing a representative team for the Olympics after deciding not to join a North Korea-led boycott.

Despite deteriorating relations with the United States, Libya was among the 141 nations who entered in the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles. Libya has never won an Olympic medal.

ELMORE CHRYSLER-DODGE & JEEP AND CHRYSLER MOTORS ANNOUNCES THE CAR BUYER'S BILL OF RIGHTS

1. EVERY AMERICAN HAS THE RIGHT TO A QUALITY CAR

You want a car that will start every morning. In numbing cold or in downpours of rain.

You want a car that wallages well. And give you years of satisfaction.

You want quality. That's your right. Your undisputed right.

Quality should also be the first and foremost commitment of the carmaker. Without it he becomes morally and fiscally bankrupt. Chrysler has no intentions of forsaking this commitment.

Since 1980 Chrysler has initiated Five Key Quality Programs that involve every member of the work force, every level of management. Top, middle and first rung.

These programs touch every phase of the car building process. From drawing board to final inspection. The goal: to top the quality of imports. An ambitious goal, but results are already showing it is within reach.

Lowest Recalls. On average, over the last 8 years, Federal Government records show that Chrysler has the lowest safety recall record of any American car company for passenger cars registered for the '80 through '87 model years.

And over the last 5 years, a lower average safety recall record than such prominent imports as BMW, Porsche and Volvo.

2. EVERY AMERICAN HAS THE RIGHT TO LONG-TERM PROTECTION

Chrysler has consistently led the industry in long-term quality protection. In 1980, Chrysler introduced the innovative 5 Year Protection Plan that protected the most important and costly part of your vehicle, the engine and powertrain, as well as protecting against outer body rust-through.

In 1987, Chrysler extended this protection substantially to 7 years or 70,000 miles, plus 7 years or 100,000 mile protection against outer body rust-through,* inclusive of every car, truck (except Jeep vehicles) and mini van Chrysler builds in North America. This plan was an unprecedented move.

Now, Chrysler breaks new ground again. With its new Crystal Key Owner Care Program that comes with the Chrysler New York. It is a remarkable warranty. It protects the entire car for 5 years or 50,000 miles. It covers engine, powertrain, air conditioning, steering, rust, suspension, electrical everything right down to the door handles! All you have to do is take care of normal maintenance, adjustments and wear items.

Not even Rolls Royce or Mercedes Benz can match this warranty.

3. EVERY AMERICAN HAS THE RIGHT TO FRIENDLY TREATMENT, HONEST SERVICE AND COMPETENT REPAIRS

Dealer service is the key link in the relationship between the car buyer and the carmaker. Fully aware of this, Chrysler (under the direction of Lee Iacocca) has taken specific action to strengthen this relationship, and the results have been very gratifying.

Highest Satisfaction. Chrysler owners have the highest level of satisfaction of any buyers of American cars. Higher than GM owners. And significantly higher than Ford owners.

As Lee Iacocca says, "The next great leap forward in the car industry isn't going to happen in Detroit. It's going to happen at the dealership." Chrysler is stressing customer service to dealers in the form of educational programs, dealer incentives and motivating awards.

If Dodge, Chrysler, Plymouth, Jeep and Eagle dealers do their job right, there is much to gain. The dealer will have achieved one of the highest goals in the auto industry, a satisfied customer.

4. THE RIGHT TO A SAFE VEHICLE

Safety is a right we all desire, not just for ourselves, but for our families, too. That's why Chrysler has committed enormous resources and talents to building you a safe car. And that commitment has taken hold.

Chrysler is the first American car company to offer air bags as standard equipment. And by 1990, Chrysler will feature driver-side air bags on every car it builds in the United States.

Every Chrysler-built passenger car has over 30 safety features standard for 1988. And Chrysler plans to add many more features between now and the 1993 model year.

The passenger compartments for coupes and sedans provide protection because of the vehicles' unitized body construction.

By 1992, Chrysler will have spent 440 million dollars on testing to learn how to enhance your safety.

Chrysler Motors has a Safety Shield Program from design through assembly. Safety components are identified by a safety shield, so everyone at the factory knows its importance to safety.

This program guards against the malfunction of critical items such as brakes, wipers, steering systems and starters. And is one of the prime reasons why Chrysler Motors has the lowest average percentage of safety-related recalls for any American car company.

5. THE RIGHT TO ADDRESS GRIEVANCES

If you have a warranty-related problem with your dealer, you have an impartial car ready and willing to listen to your side of the story, at no cost to you. The Customer Arbitration Board.

This Arbitration Board consists of three voting members: a local customer advocate, a technical expert and a person from the general public. And not one of them is affiliated with Chrysler in any way.

All decisions made by the Board include the action to be taken by the dealer or Chrysler and the time by which the action must be taken.

All decisions are binding on the dealer and Chrysler, but not on you, unless you accept the decision. The whole process normally takes no longer than 10 days. We believe this Board is, without question, the best in the industry.

6. THE RIGHT TO SATISFACTION

Chrysler believes there's no secret to satisfying customers. Build them a quality product. A safe product. Protect it right, with the longest powertrain warranty in the business. Service it right. And treat them with respect. It's that simple.

And Chrysler is doing exactly that. The profits coming from you, the customer.

J.D. Power and Associates, one of the most respected research organizations in the industry, surveyed over 2,000 owners of 1987 passenger cars for product quality and dealer service. The results: Chrysler Motors has the highest Customer Satisfaction of any American car company. Two years running, for overall product quality and dealer service.

We've come a long way, but everything we've accomplished thus far is just a fraction of what Chrysler has planned for the future.

Because Chrysler believes it's our job to satisfy your needs. We have the obligations. You have the rights.

"QUALITY IS YOUR RIGHT. AND WE INTEND TO SEE THAT YOU GET IT."

Lee Iacocca

JEANE DIXON'S Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Family relationships improve dramatically. Your new, more relaxed approach at work makes you easier to be around. Productivity rises. Travel will make business especially interesting. Those looking for romance will find it. You need to make a major decision about your lifestyle. It may be time to sever certain ties. You feel more positive about your home or business by December. Search for knowledge.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: tennis' Rosemary Casals, actress Lauren Bacall, actors Peter Falk and Ed Begley Jr.,

guitarist B.B. King, outfielder Tim Lincecum.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do not let the weather affect your vacation fun. Plan alternative ways to go if you hit a roadblock in your search for funding. A small business deal is more important than you know.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You could find a company or individual with deep pockets and an interest in your pet project. Put your ideas to work in a practical way. Look for ways to make a relationship happier.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your mission is not to change the whole world, just your corner of it. Improve your methods. Do not bite off more than you can chew. Strike a better balance between work and play.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Excitement grows when you think about a new adventure just ahead.

you do not try to go too far too fast. A relationship begins to provide the support you deserve.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Get away for the weekend if you can. Escaping the maddening office power plays and political ploys is a wonderful tonic. Romance looks lively. Know your own heart. Avoid making rash promises.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Career progress will continue through the rest of the month. Tie up loose financial ends before the weekend. Our faults lie not in the stars but in our human weaknesses. Stay positive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may be on a collision course with a colleague. Be sure you have invested in the right facts and figures. Travel for business, not pleasure. Work and romance do not mix now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Excitement grows when you think about a new adventure just ahead.

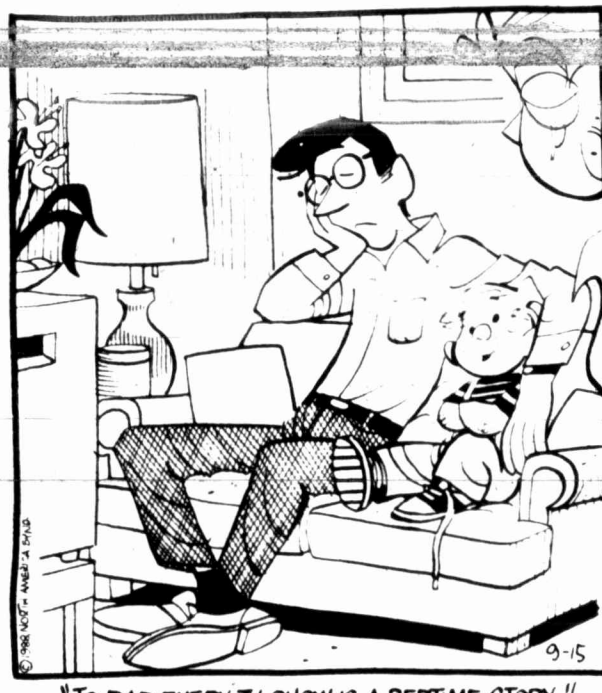

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Super ideas are worth whatever time and money you must invest to make them work. Be diligent about your duties. A completely honest discussion is necessary to set a relationship right. Show affection.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): From the moment you get out of bed this morning, good things should happen. You have every right to demand and receive loyalty from those who work for you. Try to hire team players.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your plans may not go according to schedule. Be versatile. Your imagination leads you to explore the unknown. You make a beautiful discovery. Talking with good friends reduces tension.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Give the most help to those who will really appreciate it. A financial situation can be brought under control if the whole family cooperates. Travel in the interest of solidifying a new relationship.
