A progress report on T. B. patch tests was given and it was announced that aid in clothing was sent to a Mitchell County patient at McKnight.

Plans also were made for functioning of a committee to contact other organizations, different communities and persons for volunteer services in the interest of public health in relation to the T. B. Association.

Members present included Mrs. Bruce Johnson, Loraine; Mrs. Ray Messiner, Westbrook; Mrs. C. P. Gary, Colorado City; Jim Bodine, Buford; Elinor Harvey, Colorado City.

Also Mrs. Jack G. Smith, Colorado City, and Frank Ginzel, Colorado City.

Next meeting of the association will be held in July, it was announced at the close of the meeting.

Wool Payment Applications Due Tuesday

Final date for filing applications for incentive wool payments for the 1956 marketing year is Tuesday Mike Custer announced Saturday.

The ASC office manager said applications for payment on either shorn wool or unshorn lambs may be filed in the ASC county office serving the county where headquarters of the applicant's farm, ranch or feed lot is located.

Applications for payment will be based on and must be supported by the original sales document covering sale of wool or unshorn lambs, Custer said.

Carbon copies will be accepted only when they are accompanied by an original signature of the person or firm that prepared the sales document, Custer stated.

1957 Crop Prospects Said To Be Best In Seven Years

FOR AMERICANISM, AGRICULTURE

Junior Chamber Captures Awards At Corpus Christi Convention

Awards for the outstanding agriculture and Americanism projects in Texas were presented Friday to Colorado City Junior Chamber of Commerce in Corpus Christi.

Announcement and presentation of the awards were made at a Friday luncheon at the State Convention, attended by six local Jaycees and their wives. The state awards are for towns of 10,000 population and under.

Accepting the golden "Jackes", traditional first place statuette and award of the Jaycees, was Bob Kirschbaum, 1956-57 president of the local club.

This marks the second consecutive year for the Colorado City Jaycees to win first in the agricultural division. Last year's state winner took second place in competition with all other clubs in the nation.

It is the third first place "Jake" in agriculture for the C-City Jaycees in the past four years, all under the chairmanship of Elmer Martin.

The Americanism projects, co-chairmaned by Bob Ratliff and Francis Winn, were outlined in a scrapbook prepared by Ratliff.

Projects carried out by the Americanism committee in 1956-57 included the "Voice of Democracy" contest at the local high school, Brotherhood Week, the Soup and Bread luncheon to aid needy children at Christmastime, "Atoms for Peace" project scheduled here next month, erection of the election board, support of the annual sessions and adequate salaries for state legislature.

Serving with Ratliff and Winn on the committee were John Russell, Bob Reily and Goodwin Simpson.

The state award in agriculture cited local Jaycees for a successful six-point program that encouraged small-plot irrigation, range seeding and plowing and created better relations and understanding of Jaycees between rural and urban people.

Projects, listed below, required 1,171 man-hours of work on the part of Jaycees during 1956.

1. Secured 22 acres for a range experimental plot from rancher Jinx Powell; gave free demonstration of caterpillar and root plow.

2. Prepared their 4.3 acres of land and planted, plowed, hoed, and gathered cotton on irrigated project.

3. Free salinity chemical analysis in conjunction with Col-Tex Refining Co. laboratory and Mitchell County Soil Conservation District.

4. Awards made to winning team and high individual score on grass judging contests for county school students.

5. Furnished land and water for a three-year experimental plot of grasses and legumes, assisted by SCS.

6. Presented awards for the best showmanship in Mitchell County livestock show.

The agricultural scrapbook was entered in the Agricultural Sweepstakes to compete against the winners in four other divisions. Winner of the sweepstakes was to be announced Saturday night at the Presidental Ball.

Serving on the Ag committee with Martin were Simpson, Russell, Winn, Ratliff and Charles Oliver.

Max Caddell, local delegate to the convention, served on the Travel Trophy Committee.

Other Jaycees attending are Simpson, Doug Keith, Ben Sparks, Johnny Grubbs and Kirschbaum.

Visit in Wells Home

Visitors last week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wells, 820 E. 5th, were the Wells' sons, Jack Wells of Tarleton College in Stephenville; Mr. and Mrs. John Wells and children, Donna, Steve and Jo Ellen of Kermit.

Students Here To Get Speech Consultation

Interviews of school students and pre-school age children in need of speech correction will be conducted in Colorado City public schools Monday.

Dr. Empress Zedler, director of the speech and hearing clinic at Southwest Texas State Teachers College, will give the interviews.

Sponsored by the Hutchinson School and Primary School Parent-Teachers Association, the one-day program will be held in all of Colorado schools beginning 8:30 a. m. at Primary School, said Mrs. Bill Carter, Primary School P.T.A. president.

Mrs. Carter said if as many as 60 children are in need of speech correction, the state will help to obtain a speech therapist for Colorado City.

She said that the two P.T.A. organizations are paying Dr. Empress' expenses and that there would be no charge for children who get consultation.

An installation ceremony will be held prior to July 1 when new officers will assume club duties.

Moisture Soaks To 54 Inches In Some Areas

Heavy rains this week soaked farm lands and boosted the 1957 crop prospect to a high peak.

Harold Stephens of the Soil Conservation Service and County Agent Jack Burkhalter both agree that the outlook is better than it has been since 1950.

Moisture Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning wet county cropland to 54 inch soil depths in some areas.

Stephens and Charles Walker Friday ran penetration checks in the western half of the county and reported land southeast of Alexander's store and soaked moisture to a 54-inch depth on bedded areas.

Other spot checks revealed 16 inches of moisture a mile north of Rogers on bedded land. Half mile east of Cuthbert on bare range land, the rain had gone only four inches deep while range land under tabosa cover had absorbed enough rain for an 18-inch penetration.

Stephens said he and Walker checked three conditions at Vincent moisture was five inches deep on bare range land, 22 inches deep on range land under buffalo grass and where chiseling had been done on bare ground a 15-inch depth was recorded.

A mile north of Buford on bedded land, moisture had penetrated to 19 inches on bedded land.

Stephens said he was not able to check in the eastern half of the county but expected that moisture there was even deeper because of more rainfall.

He said the most significant thing about the checks was that they showed the importance of cover.

He said rain would help get seedlings started in rangeland areas that are bare and that it would help root plowing and seeding where brush is plowed out and land seeded in the same operation.

Stephens also reported that considerable damage had been done to some conservation terraces but where good terrace systems were laid fields were holding a lot of water.

"A lot of washing was evident in fields with no terraces," he said.

Burkhalter said enough moisture was put down to replinish sub soil to plant crops on later.

He said the rain was good on land in conservation reserve because cover crops can be planted to prevent blowing hazards.

"It is also good on ranges to bring out grass early and farmers who use chemical mesquite control methods now have favorable conditions," Burkhalter said.

"Chemical control requires vigorous growing conditions and moisture will promote that condition," he said.

The county agent said the moisture is ideal for small grains because it will help to finish the crop.

Stephens and Burkhalter said that as soon as the weather turns warm it will be good for planting cotton.

12 Report For Tennis Instruction Saturday

APRIL MOISTURE HITS 3.78 INCHES

2.55 Inches of Rain Boosts April to Wettest in Years

Exceeded only by 1949 and tied by 1923, April '57 will go down as the wettest April for Colorado City in 34 years.

Only .1 of an inch is needed to boost the reading of 3.78 inches to an undisputed second with overcast skies still promising more rain.

In 1949, the reading for April was a high 4.74, surpassed only by 1922 when 12.28 inches fell.

The driest April since 1920 was in 1933 when no rain was recorded.

Official count for Colorado City's rainfall Thursday was 1.52. More rain Friday and a sprinkle Saturday morning brought the total for the twoday period to 2.55.

Workers at Lake Colorado City said Friday the lake level had risen to nearly four feet and Saturday had reached four and a half feet hovering about five feet from the spillway top.

The level is expected to rise a few more inches with water still pouring into the lake.

At Loraine, K. L. Taylor said he measured 1.45 inches Thursday and two inches Friday which brings the total there during a week of rain to 6.60 inches.

Taylor's readings is far ahead of most other county areas except in the Fairview Community where Mrs. O. R. Carpenter said six inches fell during the extended rainy period.

At the Greentop Cafe in Westbrook, Mrs. Otha Conaway said the rain gauge accounted for 3.5 inches during Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Charles Stubblefield at the Landers Community said she measured .8 of an inch Thursday and 1.2 inches Friday for an even two inches.

Robert Bolin at Spade said his gauge recorded one and a half inches of moisture. At the Buford Community, Mrs. J. F. Bodine reported 1.75 inches while Mrs. Charles Williams at the Payne Community recorded 2.2 inches during the two days.

Mrs. J. C. Womack southeast of Cuthbert said that her rain gauge was filled to 3.8 inches. However she said neighbors had caught more than four inches in large vessels and that the fine hail that fell might have caused her gauge accuracy to be impaired.

Mrs. D. J. Barber at Westbrook said rain for Thursday and Friday totaled 3.3 inches.

FOR THREE OPERATIONS

Public Works Gets $76,491 of Budget

Public works will bite $76,491 off Colorado City's $369,616.68 municipal budget for 1957-58.

Public works, which includes the street department, sanitation department and cemetery maintenance will consume nearly one-fifth of the total budget.

Under the budget last year, public works was allocated $73,658.40 which was $2832.60 less than outlined for 1957-58.

For public works during the next 12 months, your tax dollar will pay in the street department, supervision, $36000; labor operations, $16,000; labor maintenance, $3000; retirement, $350.

Social security, $580; office supplies, $50; building repairs, $200; road material, $5000; tools and supplies, $2000; maintenance of equipment, $6000; equipment rental, $400; spetial services drew an absolute zero. Last year, $60 was spent in the special service bracket.

Travel, $50; street lights, $6000; equipment, $2000. No funds are set up for curbs and gutters and judgments which last year cost $92.95 are not provided for.

Expenses for operation of the street department account for $47,230 of public works which also is the largest chunk.

The sanitation department will be allowed to spend $26,850 of public works money.

In this category, your tax dollar will be spent for labor operations, $19,500; retirement, $300; extra labor, $100; social security, $450; minor tools, $200; chemicals, $500; maintenance of equipment, $1300; equipment hire, $200 and $4300 for equipment.

Labor operations for maintenance of the cemetery will be $2000; social security, $45; supplies, $150; building repairs, $200 and insurance $16.

FFA Teams Enter Contest At Texas Tech

Six high school agricultural judging teams were in Lubbock Saturday for the annual bi-area contest at Texas Tech.

James Trammell, vocational agriculture teacher, said grass, meats livestock, dairy, poultry and land teams participated in the all-day event.

Teams included Richard Keathley William Adams, Gene Blassingame, meats; Melvin Walker, Dwayne Carpenter and Charles Wiggins, livestock.

Also Perry Mitchell, George Davenport, Morris Hammond and Dickie White, Dairy; Clifford and Clifton Franklin, Marvin Holman and Billy Wood, poultry; Robert Holman, James Harris and Rex Northcutt on the land team supervised by Gene Williams, junior high agriculture teacher.

Trammell said approximately 1600 boys entered in the competition and that a free barbecue was served after the contests.

HEALTH HINTS

Body Strength Halts Most Germ Invaders

Bacteria are the most numerous forms of plant life, and it's little wonder: under favorable conditions a single bacterium can become 536,000 in 15 short hours. Why is it then, constantly surrounded and assaulted by them as we are, that we don't fall victim of their attacks more often? Because six conditions must be present in any disease infection.

First, there must be a reservoir of germs; second, there must be a mode of transmission; third, there must be a susceptible host; fourth, there must be a mode of entry into the host; fifth, there must be favorable conditions for growth; and sixth, there must be a mode of exit. If any of these conditions is lacking, there is no disease.

Consider the human body as a fort surrounded by bacterial enemies. Always there is skirmishing with some of the commoner varieties, and sometimes they overwhelm by their numbers and strength. But as long as the outer wall remains intact, battlements manned with defenders, the fort is safe.

The sum total of human defensive forces is called resistance. "Immunity" to this or that specific disease is part of the defensive pattern. It varies in different persons and at different times in the same person. Some people are born with a "natural" immunity to certain diseases. Others get an "acquired" immunity through shots or by recovering from an actual infection.

The skin and the mucous membrane which lines all body openings is the human body's "outer ramparts" in the defense against disease organisms. Nothing is really "inside" the body until it has pierced either the outer layers of skin or a mucous membrane. As mechanical barriers, skin and membrane can withstand repeated onslaughts of germs without harmful results. But they can do more than that. Under normal conditions the chemical action of secretions—sweat, saliva, mucous, gastric juices—can either kill or disarm germs.

But sometimes, perhaps thru a simple scratch, or when germ hordes are too numerous to turn back, external defenses are breached. When this happens white corpuscles are called on. White cells have the power to engulf and destroy germs. With the aid of a microscope it is possible to actually watch a white cell "consume" germs such as those which cause tetanus.

Natural resistance can be lost or weakened by a variety of bad habits. Malnutrition will weaken it, but so will overeating which taxes the liver and kidneys and clogs the blood with wastes. Worry is another friend of disease germs, and impure air, dissipation, lack of bodily cleanliness, want of proper exercise, continuous work unrelieved by open air recreation all will lessen natural resistance to disease.

FORAGE PROGRAM NEEDED

Pastures Can't Take Abuse for Big Profit

Pastures will take no more abuse than any other farm crop, says Extension Pasture Specialist E. M. Trew. High producing pastures can be unprofitable, he adds, if utilized improperly or given poor grazing management.

A sound forage program that will meet all needs for grazing, hay and silage requires considerable planning. Trew says the number one consideration is the use of plants adapted to local soil, climatic and livestock conditions. While the best quality forage is always more desirable for any livestock and especially dairy cows, hogs, or poultry; Trew points out that some types of animals can get along on lower quality forage much better than others.

Proper pasture establishment gets a strong initial boost when good quality seed are used to insure better stands. Planting the right amount of seed at the right time on a well-prepared seedbed will put the finishing touches on this phase, Trew asserts. Recommendations call for planting in a band above a fertilizer band placed 2 to 3 inches below and to one side of the seed. Soil may be firmed with a press wheel at or after seeding.

Don't start grazing until plants are well established, Trew warns, and always stop grazing at the right time. Overgrazing reduces production! Practice rotation grazing, he urges. It means the use of a high percentage of available grazing; rest for plants between grazings; use of plants when palatable and nutritious; and the use of growth not needed for grazing as hay or silage.

Properly grazing and fertilizing adapted plants is the best means of weed control, Trew says, and vigorous pasture plants will greatly reduce this problem. Weed control becomes unprofitable in cultivated pastures not containing good stands of adapted desirable plants.

Other tips in a good forage program include planned seasonal grazing; proper fertilization; proper irrigation; and the use of pastures in cropping systems. See your county agent for assistance in making your plans, suggests Trew.

Systems Result

Healthier root systems and higher per acre plant populations resulted in 1955 and 1956 cotton tests when fungicides were mixed with covering soil at planting time. However, Plant Pathologist G. M. Watkins says the fungicide treatments were only partially effective in controlling cotton seedling disease complex.

No single fungicide or mixture of fungicides gave good results over all locations on all soil types tested. No general recommendations can be made for Texas at the present time, Watkins says, although better test results were generally obtained with mixtures of two or more fungicides.

Fungicides Used

Dust fungicides used in 1953 tests tended to be toxic, relates the specialist, therefore only sprays were used in last year's experiments. Tests were planted at two locations in each of three cotton-producing areas of Texas. Two nozzles sprayed the soil immediately ahead of each covering device while a third nozzle sprayed soil as it was rolled over the seed. Sprays were applied at a 10 gallon per acre rate.

Vancide 51 and Dithane D-14 were the only fungicides to give any measure of control when applied alone. Other chemicals such as Captan, Zineb, PCNB, and Puratized Agricultural spray were not effective in single applications.

Watkins credits some of the improvement in 1956 results over those of 1955 to using all spray applications and a more efficient spray nozzle arrangement which gave a more thorough mixing of fungicides with covering soil. Research is still seeking a more satisfactory answer to the seedling disease problem, Watkins concludes.

SEVEN PERSONS KILLED PER DAY

Public Safety Department Compiles Report on 1956 Traffic Accidents

The annual statistical breakdown of Texas motor vehicle traffic accidents for 1956 was released today by Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The report, entitled "7 A Day", got its name from the fact that an average of 7.13 persons per day were killed during the year 1956. In regard to this Col. Garrison took stock of the fact that the statistical picture probably will look no better during the current year.

Death Count

"Today seven persons were killed; tomorrow seven more persons will die in traffic accidents and so on throughout the year until we reach the end of 1957 when our 1956 death count of 2,611 will be exceeded."

The report, compiled by Chief N. K. Woerner of the department's Statistical Division, shows that, in addition to an average of seven persons being sent to their graves daily in Texas 305 persons suffered injuries in 625 daily accidents. And in what is termed a conservative estimate, the report states that the average dollar loss per day during 1956 was just short of two-thirds of a million dollars.

Eventhough 64 more persons were killed in Texas motor vehicle traffic accidents in 1956 than in 1955 the statistical information does suggest a chance for improvement in the future. There were five deathless days in 1956, as compared with three the previous year, and two of those days fell together on June 5 and 6.

Rural Accidents

In rural fatal accidents the effects of better highways evidenced in the fact that head-on collisions were reduced from 27.8 per cent in 1950 to 20.9 per cent in 1956. Woerner said this decrease was due primarily to an increase in the number of rural miles of divided highways.

A reduction in the number of sharp curves on rural highways has helped in reducing the "run-off-roadway" accidents from 28.8 per cent in 1950 to 22.2 per cent in 1956.

Younger drivers and newer vehicles were involved in more than their share of accidents. Of all drivers involved in rural accidents, 14.8 per cent were under 30 years of age this group represents 31.2 per cent of the licensed drivers in Texas.

One-third of the vehicles involved in rural accidents were one year old or less. This is emphasized by the fact that 60 per cent of rural fatal traffic accidents involved only one vehicle. On this point Woerner concluded that possibly drivers are placing too much confidence in their newer cars.

Black Day

November 24 was the black day in Texas last year with 29 persons killed the greatest number of any day in 1956. This number, with an additional 9 killed November 25, made that week end the deadliest on Texas Highways for the year with 38 persons killed in 24 accidents.

In reviewing the traffic accident information in "7 A Day" the state police director said speed continues to be the leading causative factor in traffic accidents.

"In 87 per cent of the rural accidents last year, one or more traffic law violations was a causative factor. At the top of the list driving too fast for conditions resulted in more accidents than any other violation."

State Capitol NEWS

Not many housewives would put a Danger sign over their front door! Yet, unless more people suddenly become "safety conscious" that sign wouldn't be a bad idea at all. Home accidents can kill! Carelessness and negligence in the home cause a death every 16 minutes and produce some disability every four minutes, reports the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

Falls are the home's greatest hazard, claiming a total of 14,000 lives annually. Burns are next in the grim order and about 5,400 people die yearly as a result of them. Poisoning and carelessness with firearms each cause slightly over 1,000 deaths a year, and almost 6,500 people annually succumb to a list of varied causes.

More children under 14 are killed by home accidents than by any single disease. Here's how to minimize the dangers to children in your home. Label all medicines and store them out of children's reach; make sure all firearms are unloaded and stored safely; keep matches and knives out of reach; and don't leave scissors, pins, and sharp tools within children's grasp.

Check Questions

How safe is your home? Check yourself on these questions asked by the safety council. Are too many electric appliances running from any one outlet? Are rugs kept from curling and slipping? Do you immediately wipe up water or grease spilled on the floor? Do you have a safe can opener such as the swing-away wall type? Is there a nonslip floor in the shower? Are all flammable liquids labeled and sealed?

Keep a first aid kit handy at all times. Remember someone is hurt in the home every seven seconds.

EARL WEBBER

25 YEARS SERVICE

This is the fourth in a new series of special Col-Tex presentations recognizing long and valued service of those employes who have been associated with Col-Tex 25 years or longer. Col-Tex is proud of its workers who have contributed their efforts so many years for the company's success.

Thirty-minutes has stretched into more than 30 years for Earl Webber. That's right.

Webber, night foreman for Col-Tex Refinery, traveled here from Woodville, Okla., in 1926 to visit his brother, the late Frank Webber, a Col-Tex employee. He was asked to work about 30 minutes at the plant, "picking up a few things."

That 30-minute job at Col-Tex was Feb. 10, 1926. And Webber has been an employe at the refinery ever since, beginning with general work and maintenance and progressing to gasoline treatment, stillman and foreman.

The veteran Col-Tex employe, one of the "seniors" on the plant force, has been night foreman since 1948. It's a job that requires reajustment of family life because of the night hours, but one he says is all right.

Webber was married in Woodville to the former Beulah Crabtree on Christmas Eve, 1918. The couple lives here at 322 Chestnut. A daughter, Mrs. Earline Sellier, is a local beauty shop owner. Two sons are employed in West Texas—Wayne Webber with Dow Chemical in Rule and Harry Webber with Shell Oil in Denver City.

Before moving to Colorado City, Webber was employed at a gin and saw mill in Oklahoma, the state where his family moved after traveling down the Mississippi River from the original Webber home place in Illinois.

Webber likes his job at Col-Tex and is proud to contribute to its quality production. He is a long-time member of First Baptist Church and an ardent fisherman at Lake Colorado City.

"Standing Room Only" depicts the story of a family who is going on vacation. The maid decides not to go, so each member of the family asks a friend to go in her place. And sure onugh — there is not room.

Characters are Glenda Dillard as Julia Curtis, the mother; Frankie Moore as Harry Curtis, the father; Shirley Davenport as Nancy Curtis, the teen-age daughter; Johnny Brown as Sid Curtis, her brother.

Wanda Brown as Jane Harper, a neighbor; Charles Sherman as Robert Harper; Betty Lloyd as Fran Weatherby, Nancy's girl friend; Bobby Stewart as Jack Stevens, Sid's pal; Mary Chandler as Della, the maid.

The six-room residence will be shown by the 1949 Study Club in its annual pilgrimage of homes May 9 from 7 p. m. until 9 p. m.

Refreshments for the tour are to be served in the spacious back yard of the home.

Green textone walls of the living room-dining room combination form a pretty background for Mrs. Rudd's chosen colors of coral and brown.

Hanging over the 100-inch couch is a mirror which hung in Dr. Rudd's father's drug store in Burleson for 50 years. Hand-crafted antique birds, made in Germany 200 years ago, accent the buffet. The pewter birds were a gift to the family from Mrs. Rudd's mother.

The picture window, giving a view of the front lawn, is flanked by modern print draperies of brown, gold, grey and coral.

Double windows in the dining room area give a view of the back yard.

Master bedroom has two large closets with sliding doors and a private bath. Four corner windows are covered with egg shell draperies of Itasca fragile fabric.

Bedroom for Larry, the Rudd's son who is now attending New Mexico Military Institute, is done in red and gray. Green walls and green Celánese taffeta curtains serve as a background for a red and gray bedspread and red and gray rag rugs. His furnishings are early American maple.

Sharp contrasting colors are featured in the third bedroom, which belongs to Ann, who is now attending the University of Texas.

The second bathroom is finished in green and brown.

Yellow textone walls in the kitchen are decorated with Ann's and Larry's baby plates. Double windows over the sink provide a view of the back lawn.

Yellow inlaid linoleum covers the cabinet and floor.

The den is finished with knotty pine walls, accented by green figured curtains.

A Dutch gate provides entrance to the back yard from the garage and carport.

Exterior of the home is of buff brick with green trimming and gray asbestos shingles.

Women Invited To Fellowship Program

Every church woman of the community is invited to attend the May Fellowship Day program Monday afternoon, sponsored by the Colorado City Council of Church Women.

The invitation was extended by Mrs. J. D. White, president of the council.

Joe Bell will be guest speaker for the program in St. Luke Methodist Church. Theme for the afternoon will be "Community Morals Are Ours".

Mrs. P. H. Pace will direct the worship period.

May Fellowship Day highlights some selected aspect of Christian social relations, according to Mrs. White.

"It seeks to educate and influence local church women to accept their responsibilities as Christian citizens," she said.

"Church women must understand the urgent issues of our time—social, economic and racial.

"Church women must take action toward meeting human need and take responsibility for the building of a Christian world order."

This year's program will begin at 3 p. m., according to Mrs. White.

Sh-h-h-h! Baby's Asleep!

And it's a serene, peaceful, dreamless kind of sleep because she knows no fear. She is utterly content in your care and protection.

You anticipate all her needs. You feed and clothe her. You play with her. You nurse her when she's sick. Whether she laughs or cries, is good or naughty, you love her.

Just now you expect nothing in return. But as she grows older you will expect her to show her love for you by respecting your wishes and obeying your commands. When she is kind and thoughtful you will be happy.

You are a child of God, receiving such love from Him as you bestow on your own child. How long has it been since you showed your love for Him in return?

Visit with Him through prayer and daily Bible reading; and on Sunday worship Him in Church with real love in your heart.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Housewarming Given Miss LaVaden Miles

By MRS. C. C. HAMILTON, Record Correspondent.

LORAINE — Miss LaVaden Miles was honored with a housewarming in her recently remodeled home one and a half miles east of Loraine Tuesday afternoon.

Hostesses were Mrs. K. L. Taylor, Mrs. Edwin Hallmark, Mrs. J. E. Price, Mrs. Floyd Griffin, Mrs. Marshall Bruce.

Mrs. Griffin greeted guests and after greetings by Miss Miles, who has been an invalid most of her life and confined to a wheel chair the past several years, Mrs. Hallmark and Mrs. Price poured punch and served cookies.

The refreshment table was laid with pink linen cloth finished on edge with deep lace. An arrangement of pink roses centered the table. Tea napkins were white with words, "Welcome To Our House" written in black and drawing of tiny houses and trees above writing in corner of napkins. Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Guy Hildebrade, sister of the guest of honor, showed gifts which were displayed in bedroom of home.

Mrs. Allen Beaty, niece of honoree, presided at the register. Roses were used to decorate the party rooms.

Miss Miles and her brother, Ted Miles, live on the old homestead, which was bought by her parents in 1905 and which they settled in 1906.

Since the death of their parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Miles, Ted, who was born in 1909 and LaVaden, born 1912, continued to live on the home place since all the other brothers and sisters had married and had homes of their own.

LaVaden, had infantile paralysis when she was only 19 months and was never able to walk without crutches. For many years she was able to attend church and visit relatives and was able to go about easily on crutches, but for several years she has been confined to a wheel chair.

This however has not kept her from accomplishing the things she loves to do. She has done much pretty handwork, does all the cooking, and her house is neat always. Up uptil two years ago, they, like many other farmers, had barely the necessities of life, until the new highway 80 was started through this part of the country.

The new Highway, which took off a strip across the 200 acre farm and caliche which was sold to the construction company netted Ted and LaVaden about $16,000. Ted and LaVaden, two of 13 children, were given the farm, when their brothers and sisters donated their share in the 200 acres to them.

After they recieved money from the highway rights and selling of caliche, the brothers and sisters wanted them to raze the old home and for a time they made plans to do this, but for sentimental reasons they could not make up their minds.

Then they began the job of remodeling and the entire home has been redecorated and new doors wide onough for LaVaden to roll her wheel chair through have been installed.

Also added in the utility room, which is new to the home, is a new automatic washer that enables LaVaden to do her own wash, which had been done by her sister, Mrs. Guy Hildebrand, and other relatives.

Ted and LaVaden looks forward to the visits from their brothers and sisters and their children and are prepared to entertain them. They have a baby bed with dolls, small toys and tricycles, cars, trucks and all other things that children may play with when they visit them. Those attending the house warming were Mmes. Virgil Wimberly, C. T. Beights, Jim Johnson, W. S. Thomas, Charlie Hamilton, Clyde Smith, W. R. Bruce, A. B. Smith, Wiley Walker, Percy Bond, Harold Martin, Allen Beaty, Guy Hildebrand, Floyd Coffee.
