Dulles Asks 'Cease Fire'

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles called today for a prompt cease fire and "equitable conditions" to end the fighting in Formosa Strait.

In a major policy speech in the United Nations General Assembly, Dulles said this should "eliminate provocations" and leave for later peaceful solution the Nationalist and Red Chinese claims and counterclaims.

If current U.S.-Red Chinese talks in Warsaw fail to lead to settlement of the Formosa crisis, Dulles said, "the United States reserves the right to bring this matter to the United Nations."
He said Communist Chinese aggressive moves toward the Quemoy and Matsu islands pose "a grave threat with ominous implications" which endanger world order.

Attacks China Grab
Dulles said the Quemoy issue is "a simple one: Armed conquest." "There are two indisputable and decisive facts," he said, "These are:

"1. The Chinese Communist regime has never during its nine years of existence exercised authority over Taiwan (Formosa), the Penghu (Pescadore) or the offshore islands."
"2. The Chinese Communist regime is now attempting to extend its authority to those areas by the use of naked force."

Dulles said the United States did not ignore the argument that the Chinese conflict is "civil war." (See DULLES, Page 2)

Hoffa Nears End Of Testifying

By DICK WEST
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamsters president James R. Hoffa neared the end of his marathon stand before the Senate Rackets Committee today but faced a new fight with the union's watchdog monitors.

As Hoffa was testifying before the committee about a fantastically complex Florida land deal Wednesday, the court-appointed board of monitors moved to head off his plan to hold a new Teamsters election.

Two of the three monitors asked Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts to block the proposed election in February on the ground a democratic vote could not be assured until reforms are made in the giant union. Letts plans to hold hearings on the petition in about a week and will rule later.

Hoffa made it plain the purpose of the election would be to get rid of his court-appointed "watchdogs."

Filing the petition were Martha F. O'Donoghue, chairman of the monitor board, and Godfrey Schmidt, representing the rank-and-filers whose charges that Hoffa's election last year was "rigged" led to creation of the board. L.N.D. Wells Jr., monitor representing Hoffa's leadership, filed an objection to the petition.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the Senate committee might wind up its seven-week investigation of Hoffa's affairs today and recess for two months. Kennedy said the committee would review further with Hoffa the bankrupt Teamsters-sponsored Sun Valley development in Florida plus "several new things."

Charge Of Murder In Slaying

EL PASO (UPI)—A 17-year-old El Paso boy today faced murder charges in the gang-war slaying of Julio Duran Jr., 14, an orphan.

Police said Andreas Martinez Wednesday admitted he shot his 22-caliber rifle into a group of boys, after 15 members of the X-14 gang had engaged 10 members of the Cypress Kids gang in a "zip" gun war near a housing project playground Tuesday night.

It was El Paso's second teenage "gang war" death in 16 days. Police rounded up 25 youths during their investigation and Wednesday announced a crack-down on the gangs.

Martinez told police he went home for his rifle after the "zip" battle started and returned to the scene.

"I didn't mean to hurt anyone," Martinez said. "I just meant to scare those guys off when they started shooting at us with their zip guns."

Officers arrested the 17-year-old after he returned to El Paso from Juarez, where officers said he spent Tuesday night in a bar. Young Duran, who lived with his brother and sister-in-law, was found shot once in the back in a dark alley near the playground. He died while being rushed to El Paso General Hospital.

A police roundup of suspects produced a small arsenal of weapons, mostly "zip" guns made from automobile radio antennas. Capt. John Fuller of the El Paso county detention home said the new outbreak of teen-age violence was approaching the 1951 level when 52 known gangs operated in the city. A drive of all law enforcement agencies put an end to the violence at that time.

Little Rock Private School Corp. Meets

By BRUCE MILLER
United Press International
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—The Little Rock Private School Corp. meets today to elect officers and decide when and how to go about re-opening the city's four high schools as private, segregated institutions.

The corporation will first have to get the permission of the Little Rock School Board to lease the buildings, but that was not expected to present any difficulty.

The school board takes the view it is a creature of the state Legislature, which made the laws under which the schools can be reopened as private institutions, and must obey it.

The plan also appears to have the blessing of Gov. Orval E. Faubus, although he did not immediately comment.

The government certainly will challenge in court any reopening of the schools.

Justice Department officials indicated privately in Washington they believe reopening the schools as private institutions is unconstitutional.

They said such a move could be challenged in a federal court on the ground it is a dodge to avoid obeying the Supreme Court's order to open the schools immediately to Negroes.

The members of the corporation are six prominent Little Rock residents.

Missile Gives Rocket Data

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The 33rd successful flight of a short-range Redstone, now part of the free world's defense arsenal today furnished Army rocketeers with data to use in developing rockets of the future.

The Army said the veteran Redstone, which blazed out over the Atlantic in a perfect launching Wednesday, "emphasized the record of accuracy and reliability" the missile has achieved.

Used as the first stage of Jupiter C rockets in five Explorer satellite launchings, the Redstone is now assigned to troops in NATO and is capable of hitting targets up to 250 miles away with a nuclear warhead.

Stangland's trouble began in 1944 when the government penalized him $394.24 for allegedly producing 30 acres of wheat when his federal allotment was for 14 acres. Stangland refused to pay, and over the years mounting interest levies boosted the total to nearly $600.

Last May, the government seized Stangland's bank account and then his tractors.

Judge Robert A. Grant ruled Wednesday the attachment of the tractors was faulty because it subjected Stangland to "multiple liability." The judge said the writ of seizure for the tractors was issued without mentioning the amount taken from the bank account.

However, Grant did not rule that the government's seizure of the property was wrong, thereby putting Stangland's tractors in jeopardy again.

Body Of Fireman Still Missing

BAYONNE, N. J. (UPI)—The body of the fireman who should have saved a Jersey Central commuter train from plunging into Newark Bay—but didn't—still was missing today, leaving wide open the question of why the tragedy occurred.

Investigators had expected the body of fireman Peter Andrew would be aboard the lead locomotive of the train that ran through an open drawbridge Monday, killing possibly as many as 48 persons. When the engine was retrieved late Wednesday night, however, the body was not found.

Had Andrew's body been found in the cab, investigators had hoped its position might have helped solve the mystery.

The second engine, which was in tandem with the first and was believed empty of personnel, was to be raised about mid-afternoon today.

Porters seeking the cause of the wreck also wanted to run tests on Andrew's body to determine whether, by some twist of fate, he might have suffered a seizure just before the wreck, as engineer Lloyd Wilburn is believed to have.

Autopsy reports on the body of Wilburn, retrieved shortly after the accident, showed he had died apparently of a heart attack.

Hudson County Prosecutor Lawrence A. Whipple said Wednesday the train should have been stopped by an automatic derailer after it went through three warning lights but was going at "an abnormal rate of speed" and bumped over 500 feet of ties and shot into the water.

Informed sources said Adams received direct word from the vacationing President this week that it is entirely up to Adams whether he should resign. These sources said the President and his aides are determined to do nothing that could be interpreted by Adams as pressure on him to quit.

These same sources noted that the President's current attitude is something less than the vote of confidence he gave Adams several months ago when he said "I need him."

At the same time, GOP informants said that when Adams goes, the likelihood is that Eisenhower will not name a single successor to his "chief of staff," but rather will spread Adams' duties among several White House staff members.

Many Republicans feel that Adams' usefulness to the administration was doomed by the Democratic sweep in the Sept. 8 Maine elections. Although the Adams case was not an open issue in the Maine campaign, a number of top Republicans believe that the GOP cause has been hurt by his retention and that he must go before the November congressional elections.

But Wednesday an attractive brunette said she was McPartland's true wife and the mother of their 10-year-old son, Donald.

Mrs. Ida McPartland, Mill Valley, Calif., said her husband had commuted between his families in Monterey and Mill Valley for 10 years.

The second Mrs. McPartland, a leading member of the Pacific Grove Parent Teachers Assn., acknowledged they had never been married.

"I confirm the story," Eleanor said. "Other than that, I have no comment to make at this time."

Ida said she let the bizarre situation go along through the years because her husband repeatedly promised to give up Eleanor.

"Why, he made that promise as late as last week," Ida said.

At the time, McPartland was spending two weeks with his Mill Valley family. He returned home just before his fatal heart attack.

Son Visited Father
Ida said she and McPartland were married in September, 1943, in Tyler, Tex. She said he walked out on her 10 years ago and moved in with Eleanor. Ida and McPartland were never divorced.

Eleanor and McPartland had five children—Tam, 10, Tip, 9, Lad, 7, Jan, 6, and Tor, 4.

Meanwhile, McPartland continued to visit Ida in Mill Valley while living with Eleanor at their comfortable home in the Monterey Peninsula Club area. Donald occasionally visited his father in Monterey.

McPartland wrote 12 paperback novels. His big success was "No Down Payment," which was a best seller that was later made into a movie. It told of the financial and amorous entanglements of several middle class couples on the San Francisco peninsula.

GOP Says Adams To Resign Shortly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican sources said today they expect Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams to resign shortly on the basis of word from President Eisenhower putting it squarely up to Adams whether he stays or goes.

The expectation is that the embattled Adams, under fire for his gift-taking relations with Boston millionaire textile tycoon Bernard Goldfine, will quit by this week-end.

Informed sources said Adams received direct word from the vacationing President this week that it is entirely up to Adams whether he should resign. These sources said the President and his aides are determined to do nothing that could be interpreted by Adams as pressure on him to quit.

Romantic Plot Is Revealed

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI)—A romantic plot as strange as that in any of his spicy novels has come to light with the death of novelist John McPartland.

McPartland, 47, author of "No Down Payment," died at his home here Sunday. His wife, Eleanor, and their five children received a flood of messages expressing sympathy.

But Wednesday an attractive brunette said she was McPartland's true wife and the mother of their 10-year-old son, Donald.

Three Communist Boats Said Sunk

By AL KAFF
United Press International
TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—Nationalist Sabrejets shot down five Soviet-built MIG 17 jets and probably damaged another in two separate air battles near the off-shore Quemoy Islands, the Nationalist Air Force announced officially tonight.

An Air Force communique said that the American-made Sabrejets also sank three Communist PT boats and damaged a fourth while flying cover for a convoy that again carried supplies to Big Quemoy.

The air force said its planes suffered no losses. All were flown by Nationalist Chinese airmen.

But U.S. Air Force planes and surface vessels were on convoy escort duty in the Formosa Strait, with orders to shoot back if attacked.

"The U.S. planes might just follow the MIGs to mainland China bases and bomb those bases," Maj. R.G. Martin of the U.S. Marine Corps said. Martin is spokesman for the U.S.-Taiwan (Formosa) Defense Command.

His statement was the second in a week that U.S. planes might adopt a "hot pursuit" policy and chase Red aircraft to their mainland bases. Rear Adm. Ralph S. Clarke, commander of Naval Task Force 77 in the Formosa Strait, said last Thursday that pilots under his command were given permission to carry out "hot pursuit" if attacked. He indicated this would be right up to and perhaps over the China mainland, at the pilot's discretion.

The latest aerial and sea battles took place after two Nationalist LSTs, each capable of carrying 1,300 tons of cargo, landed their supplies on the beach at about Quemoy under a rain of about 1,100 Red shells.

At the same time, a U.S. military spokesman disclosed that American jet fighters flying cover over the convoys and protecting Nationalist planes dropping supplies on Little Quemoy have been ordered to "shoot to kill" if Communist MIGs attack.

The United States backed up this warning by sending F104 Starfighters on patrol over the Formosa Strait for the first time today. The better than 1,000-mile-per-hour planes are the world's fastest.

Two Nationalists patrol craft armed with three-inch guns and lighter machineguns were brought under fire, and one was hit. Another Nationalist vessel took it in tow until emergency repairs were made to its engine.

The convoy then moved on to Liao Lo Beach on Quemoy and two Nationalist landing ships nudged up to the beach with critically-needed supplies. The defense ministry said they unloaded completely and withdrew safely despite a bombardment of 2,055 shells.

It was the seventh convoy to try to crack the Red blockade since Sept. 7, and it marked the first time the Reds have hit escort vessels. Earlier the Reds hit the landing ships but the Nationalists claim five were unloaded safely this week.

Rear Adm. Liu Hsiang-tu, spokesman for the ministry of national defense, denied reports that American or Nationalist garrisons on Quemoy were suffering from a good shortage. Other sources said there were food stores of two to three months on Quemoy.

But he emphasized American jet planes would not strike into Red China unless "provoked." He said the U.S. forces were here for defense purposes and "not to make war."

Martin made the statement shortly after the Nationalist Defense Ministry announced a fleet of transport planes flew through the Formosa Strait.

NEW BUICK IS SLEEK, LOW

Sleek and low describes Buick's new styling for 1959. The model shown is the luxurious two-door Electra hardtop which measures less than 55 inches in height yet retains approximately the same head-room as last year's Buick. The "delta-wing" styling of the rear fenders that flare out to a point, and twin headlights that are set on an angle give the new Buick a look that is light and jaunty. The Electra is powered by a 401-cubic inch V-8 engine with 10.5-to-1 compression ratio. The new Buick goes on display tomorrow at Tex Evans Buick Company, 123 N. Gray. A sneak preview is slated tonight.

Monday, the jury awarded $300 a week for 35 weeks to Henry Shelton when it found that he had sustained injury to his diaphragm and 80 per cent permanent disability. Shelton is a long time resident of Gray County. In his suit against the Texas Employers Insurance Association he had asked $35 a week for 401 weeks.

Shelton had worked as a roustabout on oil and gas leases belonging to Joseph W. Gayden. On Oct. 29, 1957, he was cranking an engine that backfired and threw him on his back.

Dalsing lost his balance while swinging a sledge hammer, damaging his back.

"But we can scarcely accept the view that nations are entitled to seize territory by force just because it is near at hand," he said.

Renews The Request

In his policy review, Dulles also:

—Formally proposed creation of a General Assembly committee to report next year on useful U.N. action to achieve the international cooperation in the peaceful use of outer space.

—Renewed Eisenhower's suggestion for a "standby U.N. peace force." Dulles said Washington conceived this not as a combat force, but as a group that "would observe and patrol and by its very presence make visible the interest of the world community in the maintenance of tranquility." The Big Five permanent members of the Security Council would not be asked to contribute personnel.

—Pointed to a "significant breakthrough" in the disarmament impasse in recent months through talks or plans for talks on nuclear test suspension and measures to prevent surprise attacks. He said the assembly might "give encouragement to the forthcoming negotiations."

the 1958 State Fair of Texas. Approximately 4,000 high school musicians will take part in the Music Festival activities.

They will present concerts throughout the day at three fairground locations: the Magnolia State, the Hall of State plaza and in the Auditorium of the Hall of State. A gigantic musical pageant featuring all 4,000 instrumentalists and singers will be presented in the Cotton Bowl starting at 8 p.m. A brilliant fireworks display will climax the festival.

US, Red China In Closed Door Talks

WARSAW (UPI) — Ambassadors of the United States and Red China spent nearly two hours behind closed doors today, bargaining hard for peace in the Far East. They will meet again Sunday.

Jacob Beam and Wang Ping-nan entered the conference room at Myslewski palace punctually at 10 a.m. They made no comment on the discussion.

Genuine secrecy cloaked the progress of the talks, and the best newsmen waiting outside the white-and-gilt doors of the conference room could hope for a revealing intonation in the non-committal comments made by the two men on arrival and departure. (One clue to progress in the

SEATO Meet In Windup

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Allied military leaders wound up a three-day meeting here today with an agreement to strengthen the anti-Communist defenses of Southeast Asia.

A communique issued at the close of the semi-annual SEATO conference said leaders of the eight member countries are "well satisfied with . . . significant progress in the development of defense plans against Communist aggression and subversion."

talks came from the Communist New China News Agency in Tokyo. It quoted the official Peiping People's Daily as saying there would be no cease fire in the Formosa Strait during the Warsaw talks.)

Today's meeting was the 75th in a series of generally unproductive ambassadorial conferences that began in Geneva more than three years ago.

Eddie Fisher In Appearance

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Singer Eddie Fisher, perspiring and suffering from a high temperature, kept a personal appearance date Wednesday night at the Los Angeles Press Club but refused to discuss his marital problems.

The boyish-faced crooner, whose dates in New York with actress Elizabeth Taylor were blamed for his separation from Debbie Reynolds, sang several songs before a capacity audience in his first public engagement since the break-up of his marriage.

Asked if he had anything to say about his personal problems, Fisher said:

"I was told I wouldn't have to answer any personal questions. I'm just here as Eddie Fisher."

Execution Slated For Tonight

AUSTIN (UPI) — Marshall (Boll-weevil) Lampkin has been denied a plea for stay of execution and is scheduled to die in the electric chair shortly after midnight tonight.

The State Board of Pardons Paroles Wednesday denied a plea from the Luling Negro, convicted of killing Ernest Webb Jr., his white landlord, at Luling in January, 1956.

Luling has received nine stays while his death sentence was appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. Austin attorney Arthur Mitchell presented the new request for the stay of execution, telling the three-man board that he had asked the Supreme Court for a rehearing of its denial of an appeal for Lampkin.

But the board members, in a unanimous decision, expressed be-

LITTLE LIZ

Why is it that in a group of four each person seems to talk about one third of the time?

On The Business Scene

The Department of Commerce reported that cash dividend payments by corporations issuing public reports totaled 302 million dollars in August, a 4 per cent drop below August, 1957. For the first eight months of 1958, dividends totaled $6,573,200,000 against $6,628,700,000 in the comparable 1957 period.

Fir plywood prices rose to the highest level since June, 1956 at most Northwest mills. They were quoted at 80 dollars a thousand square feet, against recent quotations of 76 dollars and a low of 64 dollars last May.

The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized freight forwarders to increase rates and charges on traffic to and from New York City by 20 cents a 100 pounds. The commission gave forwarders the increase as an emergency measure rather than permit a general increase of 3 per cent at this time on all forwarded traffic east of the Rocky Mountains.

The Commerce Department estimated world production of natural rubber in July was 172,500 tons, against 197,500 in July, 1957. The latest figure brought production for the first seven months of 1958 to 980,000 tons, against 1,077,500 for the same period of last year.

School Lunch Boxes Can Contain Menu Magic When Mother Uses Imagination

Want to be a menu magician when preparing school lunch boxes? Instead of giving your small fry a steady diet of standard sandwiches, why not vary fillings or choose from a tempting array of different menu ideas?

By using aluminum foil to seal in freshness and flavor, you can assemble many tasty combinations at your leisure, label each package, then refrigerate or store in the freezer until needed. And labels are no problem, because a convenient set of them is now inserted in each regular-size box of Alcoa Wrap.

Home economists at Aluminum Company of America test kitchens have many suggestions for good, nutritious school lunches. For example, you might try curried turkey rolls, celery sticks, crunchy apple, and, for a "sweet" treat, prosciutto cookies.

CURRIED TURKEY ROLLS
1 1/2 cups diced turkey or chicken
1 1/2 cups diced celery

1/2 cup salted cashew nuts
1 cup seedless grapes
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
Salt, pepper
8 frankfurter rolls, unsliced
1. Combine turkey, celery, nuts, grapes, mayonnaise, curry powder, salt, pepper, to taste; toss lightly.
2. Cup around top of frankfurter rolls about 1/2 inch from edge; scoop out center almost to bottom; fill with mixture.
3. Place each filled roll in center of square of Alcoa Wrap; bring up side and ends of foil to cover roll, sealing tightly. Refrigerate, or may be stored 4-5 days in freezer.

PORCUPINE COOKIES
1-3 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup thick sour cream
3 ounces bitter chocolate, grated
2 1/2 cups shredded coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda

1/2 teaspoon salt
1. Cream butter, sugar until light and fluffy.
2. Add sour cream; blend well.
3. Add grated chocolate, coconut, vanilla; blend thoroughly.
4. Sift flour, baking powder, soda, salt together.
5. Add to mixture; blend.
6. Drop by teaspoonfuls on cookie sheets.
7. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven, 350 degree F.
8. Yield: Approximately 4 dozen cookies.

For sandwiches with a difference, here are some especially tasty fillings.

DEVILLED EGG SANDWICH
4 hard-cooked egg yolks
2 tablespoons salad dressing
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon grated onion
Salt
1. Mash egg yolk; add dressing, vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, onion, salt. (Spreading bread for lunch box with a thin coat of butter at room temperature prevents sandwiches from becoming soggy.)

Is Morning Treat

First thing in the morning is when minutes matter most! Too often, breakfast is forgone in favor of a few more minutes in bed. Then a fast dash and the breakfast skippers are off to school or to work.

Breakfast-in-a-Glass is a new early morning treat combining cereal, milk and fruit. It's cool, quick and nourishing. What could be faster than to drink your breakfast and still know that you were getting all the essential food elements? It takes less than five minutes to mix and there is just time enough to toast a slice of cinnamon bread to serve with it.

BREAKFAST - IN - A - GLASS
2-3 cup cooked oatmeal, chilled
1 cup cooked apricots, drained
2 to 4 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups milk
Place all ingredients in bowl. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until smooth. (If blender is used, blend for 1 minute.) Makes 2 servings.

Being less-tender, veal steak is best prepared by a moist heat method of meat cookery.

Celebrate Fish And Wine Week With Shrimp Pacifica High In Flavor Favor

Wine and fish make many a tasty dish, and high in flavor and favor among them is Shrimp Pacifica.
You don't need an excuse to try this attractive, interesting luncheon or supper specialty, but October provides three timely ones. Both the fish and wine industries are celebrating then. For wine, it's National Wine Week (October 11-18); for fish, the National Fish and Seafoods Parade (October 6-12), and that includes the Shrimp Fiesta, too.
As with other fish and wine combinations, you'll find that glasses of well-chilled white table wine served with it will enhance the goodness of this dish with an Hawaiian accent.

SHRIMP PACIFICA
(Serves 6)
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 large onion, thinly sliced
1 cup thinly sliced celery
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 1/2 cups chicken stock (canned or bouillon-cube broth may be used)
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 cup California Sauterne or other white table wine
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 pound shelled, cooked large shrimp
1 (9 oz.) can pineapple tidbits, drained
1 (4 oz.) can mushroom stems and pieces, drained

Add chicken stock, cornstarch mixed with wine, and soy sauce; stir over medium heat until mixture boils and thickens. Add shrimp, pineapple and mushrooms; cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Serve piping hot over mounds of rice.

OUTWARD TO THE STARS (22)—A Trip to Mars

By Don Oakley and Ralph Lane

(1) Just as proposed designs for manned space stations are many and varied, so is the case with interplanetary spacecrafts. Sketched above are four of the many suggested types, all of which could be built in orbit from materials ferried up from Earth.

Design at (a) is termed a minimum interorbital vehicle and makes use of currently available chemical fuels and lightest possible construction. Propellant is carried in pressurized capsules attached to outriggers.

An ion-drive ship, the idea of Dr. Ernest Stuhlinger of the U.S. Army Ballistics Missile Agency, is shown at (b). A nuclear reactor at bottom ionizes cesium atoms, which provide low but continuous thrust to move the ship sideways through space.

Another ion-drive vehicle is this conception, at (c).

At (d) is an atomic-powered design, with the reactor contained in smaller "dumbbell" at bottom. Designs (a), (c) and (d) are proposals of the British Interplanetary Society.

(2) In the briefing room on the space station, the Mars crew studies the path they will follow, the transfer orbit diagrammed on wall chart. Using the minimum amount of fuel, the journey will take no less than 260 days.

In addition, it will involve a waiting period of 450 days in orbit around Mars before Earth and Mars are in the correct position for the return.

In terms of energy required, however, the voyage will be little more difficult than one to the Moon. Once escape velocity from Earth is achieved (25,000 m.p.h.), a spaceship could, theoretically, coast to any part of the universe.

(3) Some eight or nine months out from Earth, which is now but a bright dot among the stars, the Mars ship (or more probably, fleet of ships) goes into orbit beside Mars' tiny (five-mile diameter) outer moon, Deimos. A rocket plane, carried by the spaceship, begins a descent into the thin atmosphere of the red planet. In the distance can be seen the speedy inner moon, Phobos (10-mile diameter), which makes three circuits of the planet each Martian day. The old mystery of the "canals," and the question of life on Mars may be solved from one of these moons before man actually lands on the planet.

Westerns Yank Up Curtain On Their New TV Seasons

Television In Review
By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A couple of Westerns—ABC-TV's "Sugarfoot" and "Wyatt Earp"—yanked up the curtains on their new seasons Tuesday night.

"Sugarfoot," said to say, is no longer a true sugarfoot. Last fall when the series was launched, its lead character—played by Will Hutchins—was an oddball among heroes.

He was a fumbler, a naive babe in the Western woods who bumbled his way home.

It's obvious one year later that this is no longer true. Sugarfoot has undergone a change of character.

He has lost most of his gawkiness. He is more sure of himself, harder, tougher. He is moving steadily toward the standard Western hero type—the superman.

Typical Superhero

As for "Wyatt Earp," he is, of course the typical superman. I suppose he would have to be to survive with a name like Earp.

He outshoots and outwits all other actors hired for the show. His only distinction is his touch of dandyism—he dresses like a frontier Lucius Beebe.

There are indications, however, that Earp's character is undergoing a change, too. He is becoming more reflective. He worries—as he did Tuesday night—about killing.

And like the reflective Matt Dillon of CBS-TV's "Gunsmoke," he shows an occasional tendency to ponder about the meaning of law and enforcement.

There was one other show on Tuesday night that should have been a premiere, but wasn't. It was a sample film that Orson Welles wrote, produced, directed and narrated for a possible TV series. It never made it.

Welles Still Tops

After watching the Welles' show on NBC-TV's anthology series, "Colgate Theater," I can understand why. It was simply too good for TV—it frightened off the fraidy-cat TV programmers.

Welles' half-hour piece—"The Fountain of Youth"—had its flaws, most noticeably a flabby ending. But its merits were large.

It was a terribly imaginative piece of tongue-in-cheek drama, pieced together with wit and extravagant whim. With all of his posturing, Welles still stands head and shoulders above most of the sausage makers of TV films.

The Channel Swim: Carol Lawrence of "West Side Story" signed on for NBC-TV's "Swiss Family Robinson" which is set for Oct. 12 ... Two Johnny Green musicals are planned for CBS-TV's "Dearly Playhouse" ... CBS-TV is trying to sign on Polly Bergen for a 90-minute spectacular slated for early next year.

Shirley Jones is the lead contender for the role of "Eileen" in CBS-TV's "Wonderful Town" spectacular on Nov. 30 ... Jack Paar was offered a once-a-week early evening half-hour show on NBC-TV, "The Best of the Jack Paar Show," but turned it down.

The whole Danny Thomas TV family has been signed for an upcoming "Lucille Ball-Desi Arnaz Show" on CBS-TV ... There are reports that NBC-TV's "Youth Wants to Know" is shaky—that it's been told it can't be carried unless it lands a sponsor.

NBC-TV will carry an early morning course in "Atomic Age Physics" starting Oct. 6 — 300 colleges and universities will offer credit for the course, designed primarily to aid 15,000 high school science teachers ... Ray Bolger and the Ritz Brothers will appear on the special "Ginger Rogers Show" on CBS-TV Oct. 15. Shirley Temple and her three kids—Susan, 10, Charles, 6, and Lorie, 4—will be members of the cast of NBC-TV's "Mother Goose" on Dec. 21.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

State Sometimes "Inherits" Property

Made your will? If not, the estate of Texas may wind up as owner of your estate upon your death. Under our statutes, the estates of persons having no heirs, who die intestate revert, or "escheat," to the State.

Such provisions have been carried over from the English common law. There, under such circumstances, the estate escheated to the British crown. The theory of the process is that the sovereign (or State), having been the original owner of all lands before they were parceled out to individuals, is entitled to a return of such lands when the possibilities of legal inheritance have been exhausted.

This idea has been expanded to include personal property as well as real estate. It also applies in the case of a person absent for a term of seven years and not known to exist who leaves no heirs and no will.

Presumably, there is hardly a person who does not have some individual or charity that he would prefer to have his estate, rather than have it go to the State by default, so to speak. Yet, surprisingly, estates worth many thousands of dollars do escheat to the various states from time to time.

Now, before you shrug the matter off with the idea that these statutory provisions could not possibly apply to you, better think a minute. Suppose you and your spouse have no heirs besides each other and your children. Many people of all into this category.

In event of a catastrophe resulting in death for you and your entire immediate family, no legal heirs would remain. Therefore if you had no will, your property would go to the State. In preparing a will, it is possible to provide for such an eventuality.

In this hypothetical case, you would probably want to designate some friend as executor, to take care of all necessary arrangements and then distribute the estate according to your wishes.

On the other hand, if you have plenty of possible heirs, a will could be used to designate which of them shall participate in the division of the estate. And even if you wish your property to be distributed entirely in accordance with our statutes of descent and distribution as explained in previous columns, a will can perform useful functions. Among other uses, a will could provide for an orderly and economical partition of your property, preventing any waste of the assets by heirs impatient for a settlement.

What happens to property which escheats to the State? Following certain required legal formalities and court proceedings, all escheated lands are set apart to the Permanent Free School Fund of the State, and may be leased and sold by the Land Commissioner under certain regulations. Escheated personal property is sold by the local sheriff under a court writ and the money received therefrom paid into the State Treasury.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

The wise girl is the one who stores away summer finery in fresh, clean condition. Gloves and hats, shoes and jewelry, dresses and handbags should all be stored away clean in dust-proof containers. This girl gives summer shoes (left) a dry suds bath before putting them away. She stores summer hat (upper right) in quilted glazed chintz box with see-through lid which permits her to identify contents at a glance. Even gloves and summer lingerie get a thorough sudsing (lower right) before they are stored away. She uses a little plastic suction cup to help swish soap through the fabric. Her dresses are laundered and pressed before she stores them away in zippered garment bags until next summer.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am afraid I see if the baby is all right? She doesn't think I am capable of watching. Don't tell us to move as we are living with her and we can't afford a place of our own yet. Do I have to stand this or not?

GOING CRAZY

DEAR ABBY: You do not! Have a lock put on your bedroom door.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 25 years old, yet he complains if he gets less than 16 hours sleep a day. We can't go anywhere because he is always sleepy. If he worked hard it would be different but he rides around all day and doesn't do any hard work. On our wedding anniversary (our first) he did take me out but we came home at 9:30, although he didn't have to go to work until 4:30 the next afternoon. What can I do to get my husband to stay up and pay some attention to me? I never see him. Please print this. It might wake him up.

NO WRITER

DEAR ABBY: Certainly not! Each gift deserves an individual "thank you." Get busy and write them!

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 17. My grandparents are invalids and very old. My parents expect me to stay here with them and not go anywhere. I know they only have a few short years to live but do you think I should give up the best years of my life, giving up parties and dates to take care of them?

OLD PEOPLE SITTER

DEAR ABBY: Surely you are not expected to stay with your grandparents night and day? Someone else in the family can relieve you one or two evenings a week. In the meantime, be thankful that you are the one who is young and healthy and doing the "sitting" instead of "being sat" with.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do about a mother-in-law who walks in and out of your bedroom all hours of the night to look and

IGNORED

DEAR ABBY: It will take more than a letter to "wake him up." Your husband should make haste in the direction of the nearest doctor. No man, aged 25, needs 16 hours of sleep a day.

DEAR ABBY: My son and his wife come to visit us every Sunday and they bring their two little children. These children act like they were raised in the wilds of Africa. They never speak, they shout. They turn the chairs over and play "rocking horse" and take the sofa cushions out and push them across the floors. They wipe

Halliburton Ladies Have Bunco Party

Halliburton Ladies Club held its recent meeting in the Halliburton Conference room with Mrs. Boyd Butler, Dave Wilson, Buddy Cuthorn and Eddie Parker as hostesses. During a brief business meeting, Mrs. Boyd Stewart was elected treasurer for the remaining three months' term.

Bunco was played during the evening with prizes awarded to Mrs. Wayne Cook, Marvin Ingle and John Christner. Refreshments of cakes and chips were served during the bunco games; Brownies and coffee later in the evening.

Members attending in addition to those already mentioned were Mrs. Doug McBride, Austin Wilson, Earl Weatherford, Floyd Betts, R. E. Klingenberg, Dewayne Reeves, Joe Crotts, Charles Ogle, and Burl Skinner.

Eta Iota Chapter Has Guest Night

(Special to The News)

CANADIAN — Eta Iota chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha entertained their husbands and guests at a dinner at E. J.'s Cafe recently.

Attending were Messrs. and Mrs. Warren Pickens, Bob Tippetts, Bill Morris, Charles Cook, Dorsey Tubbs, Jim Waterfield, Johnnie Morris, Rex Kennedy, Mrs. Bob Fry, Virginia Whipple, Glen Bill Walker, Messrs. and Mrs. Paul Read, Johnnie Cardinal, Grady Burnett, and J. D. Bessie.

The evening was spent in playing bridge and dominoes.

Now is a good time for sun-worshippers to get in shape. For women, this means working on winter-roughened elbows and perhaps, giving the back some gentle care. Backless fashions are more flattering if the back displayed is as pretty as possible. For a clearer skin and healthy glow, use a back brush when bathing.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A BRACE OF BRACELETS
"Take two... they're chick!" — that's fashion's byword in bracelets as shorter sleeves on new suits and dresses emphasize the need for wrist adornment, the Fashion Coordination Institute announces. Bracelets, worn in pair on both arms, lend attractive silhouette symmetry, the Institute finds.

Bright Cottons Look Good As New Next Spring With Proper Storage This Fall

We're back to the sound of the old school bell, and teenagers everywhere are prepared for campus and fall with brand new school clothes.

It's time to store away for another year the bright cottons and delicate pastels of summer. And the teen-ager who wants them to look new and fresh when she next wears them will store them away neatly, carefully, and only after they have been thoroughly cleaned.

Next summer may seem a long way off, but you'll be mighty pleased when it rolls around and you can just take your clothes out and put them on, without having to get them into shape first. It's attention to small details that makes your clothes look smart as much as the money you spend on them.

Before you put away your light dresses, wash them, paying particular attention to the places most likely to get soiled. Use a small brush and soap or detergent suds on the hem, collar, waistband and sleeve edges before you immerse the entire garment. And if your blouses, skirts or dresses are drip-dry, finger press them before you put them away in tightly-sealed garment bags.

Don't put your summer shoes away without cleaning them. A light touch of a sudsy sponge will remove any mud or grime. Use shoe trees, too, so that the shoes will hold their shape during their long winter's rest.

Brush off your summer hats and place them in clean, transparent boxes on the closet shelf. Next time you want them you won't have to plow around, handling every item till you find the right one. You'll be able to see at a glance which one you want.

Your summer gloves should be washed, and your handbags clean, before they are stored in plastic folders for next year's use.

Caring for your clothing in this fashion will give you a feeling of well-being. Neatness is the first rule of good grooming, and no one isn't aware of cleanliness, small rips that need mending, or clothing that's hanging haphazardly on closet hangers can possibly look chic or smart when she goes out.

Garments that have been carefully mended, cleaned and stored will last a lot longer and look as good as new when they are returned to circulation.

The weeks and months pass quickly for active teen-agers. And before you know it, the warm weather will be back again. One bright, sunny day, you'll decide you're ready to wear that pretty pink dress and all its accessories.

But if you haven't stored it away in good, clean condition, YOU'LL be ready, but the pink dress WON'T.

"History Of Federation" Topic For Initial Meeting Of Art, Civic Club

LEFORS — Mrs. C. H. Gustin, president, was hostess recently to the first meeting of the season of the Lefors Art and Civic Club with a salad supper in the civic center.

Following the supper, a business meeting was held and a program, "History of Our Texas Federation," given by Mrs. L. R. Spence.

Mrs. Spence stated, "The goals of Federated Clubs are to develop leadership, strengthen membership, serve the community, and educate our youth to fine citizens."

"In small things — liberty, in large things — unity, and in all things — charity," is the motto of the club.

"The Seventh District has the largest membership. There are five thousand members in the General Federation," she said.

"Texas Federation was organized in 1897 in Waco, Texas and is the most creative body in the world today. She closed with the following quotation, 'Be proud of the time in which you have lived. So live, that the time may be proud that you have lived in it.'"

Mrs. Gustin presided over the business session leading the club collect and calling the roll, which was answered with "What the Word Federation Means to Me."

Discussion was held concerning the cemetery project, during which it was decided to sell brick block markers.

Members present were Mrs. C. H. Gustin, R. H. Barron, L. R. Spence, Bill Watson, Charles Gustin, James Jinks, Bill McBee, Ray Boyd, Earl Atkinson, C. C. Mullins, Carl Ferguson, Jerry Jacobs, Eldon Carter, Carl Hall, Howard Archer, Bob Peterson, D. D. Lewis, Ray Jordan, and Miss Norma Lantz.

Comfort is important for a person's general outlook. And especially hot day calls for plenty of comfort. Women who think they are cooler because they wear fewer layers of clothing actually contribute to their own warmth. An under and outer layer insulates the skin against outside heat and helps absorb perspiration.

News In Literature, Fashions Presented At DKG Sorority

Beta Delta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held its monthly meeting Saturday morning at nine-thirty in the City Club Room.

Mrs. Kenneth Walters, chapter president, presided during the business session in which reports were given by the secretary, Miss Mary Reeve; treasurer, Mrs. San Irwin; membership chairman, Miss Ruby Trusty; council of clubs representative, Mrs. L. K. Stout; and senior citizens committee chairman, Miss Lillian Mullinax. Mrs. Walters reminded all members of the coming regional meeting to be held in Clarendon, October 25.

Miss Sibyl Turner, program chairman presented Mrs. Lillian Carr, Canadian, and Mrs. McHenry Lane, who reported on news in literature and fashions. Mrs. Carr gave brief sketches of two historical novels, "Close Pursuit" by Katherine Newlin Burt and "Winthrop Woman" by Anya Seton. For something light and humorous she recommended Jean Kerr's "Don't Eat the Daisies."

Mrs. Lane, assisted by Mrs. James Webb with appropriate background music, presented the latest in fashions from head to toe, including perfumes and accessories.

Miss Evelyn Milam presided at the coffee service. Hostesses for the meeting were Mesdames John Evans, J. B. Austin, D. V. Biggers, and R. H. Sanford.

BAR PINS ARE BACK

Those saucy little bar pins Grandmother used to favor on her lapel are back in style, the Fashion Coordination Institute reports. Plain tailored or stonemounted, the newest bar pin beauties make a hit when worn in pairs, one above the other, in a staggered design on the new, bulky looking sweaters and smart new overblouses.

RUTH MILLETT

The board of education of a large city has found it necessary to adopt a policy as to what school children can and can't wear to classes.

The new ruling will make it possible for school officials to send Sis or Junior home for a change of clothing if either one shows up in some weird or outlandish outfit.

School children are going to look like school children in this particular city — and not like young hoodlums from a street gang.

The school board is doing the kids a favor. A boy or girl who is neat and appropriately dressed behaves better than one who has gotten himself up to look as much like a freak as possible.

The pity is that more and more school boards are finding such rulings necessary. What's wrong with parents who let their sons sport ducktail haircuts, bleach their hair and go with their shirttails hanging out? What's wrong with parents who don't insist that their daughters dress like young ladies?

Are they scared of their children? Are they afraid to say flatly, "You aren't going out of this house looking like that?"

They must be. If they weren't, school boards wouldn't have to be taking over the parents' job of seeing that their children dress in decent, appropriate and becoming fashion.

But if parents lack the gumption to say, "You aren't leaving this house looking like that," it's a good thing school boards are beginning to stand up and say, "You aren't coming in this school looking like a hoodlum."

Harvesters Hope To Swat Yellow Jackets Saturday

MOVE OVER BOB HOPE!

Babe Wows 'Em

Rick Pezdirtzpurely paydirt*

Basically, we are an optimistic soul, expecting to have taxes abolished any day now and ready to stage a head-on collision with Prosperity at every corner.

If for no other reason, then. This leads to our picking of the Pampa High Harvesters to blacken the eyes of Arlington Heights in Fort Worth Saturday night.

And you can bet, after a fine week of workouts, Babe Curfman has several tricks up his coat sleeves, with which he plans to kazo the Yellow Jackets. He ain't resorting to the DDT's, either. But Pampa's high spirited huskies should win. Depending, of course, that they play in Fort Worth like they've practiced here all week.

No book-making, please. But it'll be: PAMPA 21, ARLINGTON HEIGHTS 8.

The District Picks

This is the week most of the colleges spring into activity, with a flurry of major games on tap from coast to coast. Autumn Madness is upon the land.

Last week, the pickings were plush indeed. We hit 13 winners, had one loss (Littlefield 14, Plainview 8) and one tie (White Deer 6, Stinnett 6). This 13-1 forecasting, or a license to lie as Babe Curfman sez, brought a percentage of .929. That, along with the previous week's poor 7-4 guessing, puts us at an even .800 level for the infant season.

This week's other District 3-AAAA team's non-conference games are toughies, in that most are rated as toss-ups. Here's hoping.

The Area Games

The area games:

Lefors 44, Sunray 6... like it or not H. W. Callan's Pirates are our No. 1 Class A club in the state, until somebody whups 'em.

White Deer 20, Spearman 8... the Bucks bounce back from last week's 6-6 stalemate with Stinnett.

McLean 27, Groom 13... No. 3 in a row for Jack Riley's big snipers.

Canadian 33, Shamrock 12... everybody's kicking the Irish.

Stinnett 44, Panhandle 6... ditto for the Panthers.

And The Colleges

The college games:

Texas 37, Georgia 13... the Royal lancers.

A&M 27, Texas Tech 15... too much Ed Dudley.

Rice 14, LSU 13... don't wag a penny.

TCU 27, Kansas 6... the Frogs live up to press notices.

Arkansas 22, Baylor 10... the Porkers are rough in their own back yard.

West Tex. St. 19, Va. Tech 12... the Buffs bash 'em.

Others:

Hardin Simmons over Tulsa, McMurry over Howard Payne, East Texas State over Abilene Christian, Texas Western over North Texas State, Georgia Tech over Kentucky, Clemson over Virginia, Mississippi over Memphis State, Florida over Tulane, West Virginia over Richmond, Maryland over Wake Forest.

And, Oregon State over Southern California, Stanford over Washington State, Oregon over Idaho (sorry Babe), California over the College of Pacific, UCLA over Pittsburg, Penn. State over Nebraska, Iowa State over Drake, Missouri over Vanderbilt, Oklahoma State over Denver, North Carolina over North Carolina State, Duke over South Carolina, Villanova over Westchester State, Boston College over Scranton.

ALL A's AND YOU LETTER

DENISON, Tex. (UPI)—Denison High School plans to award varsity letters complete with sweaters just like the boys on the football team wear — to top academic students.

The idea stems from a committee named last year to appraise the school's mathematics and science program and to plan for accentuating this line of work.

Here are the point spreads on other major week end games:

South: Duke 1 over South Carolina; Georgia Tech 6 over Kentucky.

In the other intersectional headlines, Texas was picked by 7 over Georgia for their night game at Austin, Tex.; UCLA was 7 over Paschal 27, Amarillo 19... the Sandies ain't got what they had last year.

Sunset 16, Tascosa 14... the Bisons' Jerry Rhone hit 10 of 12 passes, three for TD's in last week's 33-12 Sunset romp over Dallas Samuell.

Lubbock 28, Odessa 20... the home field advantage pays off.

Palo Duro 21, Midland 7... the Bulldogs only nicked Lamesa, 8-5, last week. The Dons are a much better than that.

Tulsa Central 22, Borger 12... the big guess.

Plainview 27, Brownfield 6... the Bulldogs can't let two 2A schools whip 'em on successive weekends.

Clarendon 15, Gruver 13... no more heartbreaks for the Broncos.

Memphis 21, Wellington 7... the Cyclones strike.

Canyon 28, Perryton 26... the Rangers could upset the applecart.

Quanah 29, Crowell 6... who dat, Crowell?

Vernon 23, Childress 6... the Bobcats are lacking this year.

Moheette 35, Channing 14... and on to the district crown.

Booker 32, Miami 20... so maybe we're wrong.

And, Oregon State over Southern California, Stanford over Washington State, Oregon over Idaho (sorry Babe), California over the College of Pacific, UCLA over Pittsburg, Penn. State over Nebraska, Iowa State over Drake, Missouri over Vanderbilt, Oklahoma State over Denver, North Carolina over North Carolina State, Duke over South Carolina, Villanova over Westchester State, Boston College over Scranton.

Daily News Sports Editor

When beaming Babe Curfman climbs upon the pulpit and begins making like a silver-tongued public orator, if you're anywhere in the neighborhood... Stop, Look and Listen.

The big man is easy to listen to. When he speaks you stop whatever you are doing and listen, especially if you are moving the yard or polishing the car or something equally easy to stop.

If Curfman gets the heady football play out of his Pampa High Harvesters in Fort Worth Saturday night, like he got the laughs out of the Rotary Club here Wednesday noon... it's in the bag mom, Arlington Heights watch out!

Gaily bedecked in a grey flannel suit, white shirt, red necktie, and white handkerchief, adroitly folded in his breast pocket, the Babe had the Rotarians rockin' and rollin' with glee.

The accomplished knife-and-fork league talker, introduced three of the backs he hopes to turn loose for no less than a handful of touchdowns against Arlington Heights this week; Quarterback Buddy Rawls, Fullback Mert Cooper and Halfback Terry Haralson.

The boys had this to say: BUDDY RAWLS — "Our mistakes beat us at Wichita Falls. We have a pretty good chance of whipping Arlington Heights, and maybe by a good sized score. If we don't (a pause to eye Curfman) I know what will happen when we get back."

MERT COOPER — "I think the whole team is real disappointed about our game last week, how we didn't play like I know we can. We want to show everybody how good we really can play. We'll win at Fort Worth Saturday night."

TERRY HARALSON — "I think we've got a good chance of beating them (Arlington Heights) but I just hope we can do a good job doing it. Not make many mistakes."

After his young warriors had had their say, Curfman said, "Working with these kind of boys, and seeing 'em develop into men, leaves a wonderful feeling deep down in your heart." It was the Babe's only serious sentence all afternoon.

Upon being introduced to the Rotarians by Jack Miller, Curfman said his introduction sounded like somebody's obituary. A visiting Rotarian from Idaho startled Curfman, who used to be a head mentor at the University of Idaho.

"When I heard there was a guy here from Idaho, I thought they'd come back after me. If he'd have been an internal revenue man, you'd have seen me crawling out of here under the tables."

"They've asked me to get up here and do some prognosticating. That's just lying around, so that's what I'm gonna do."

The cool coach in the grey flannel suit continued, "The last two days of drills here have been the finest I've ever had anywhere. After we viewed the film of the Wichita Falls game (34-2 loss) we put on our war-bonnets Monday afternoon, and I mean really went to work. If the kids have a bad game down in Fort Worth Saturday night, we'll have to stop charging for the games and start charging to watch 'em practice. They really look good working out."

"When I got back from Wichita Falls, the dog quit biting the mailman and went to chewing on my leg. They were real nice to us down at Wichita Falls though, when the score got so bad, they were kind enough to shut off the score board lights. (Electrical trouble left the scoreboard and press box dark the last eight minutes of the game.)"

"I was asked yesterday what the score was going to be against both clubs are expected to get no farther than the second division in their respective districts. But that doesn't mean they won't have a slam-bang affair Saturday night. Each squad realizes this is the "opportunity of gold" to sneak into the win column.

It was the same story last year, with Pampa slipping away with a tight 7-6 verdict, thanks to a second quarter score by departed Don Bigham and his ensuing extra point. Halfback Jim Sprinkle had scored moments earlier in the second, on a 54-yard punt run-back.

Sprinkle is back with the Yellow Jackets this year, and figures to deal out plenty of misery to Pampa Saturday night.

Sprinkle's return is not a bird omen. But the return of 10 other seasoned lettermen may be something else again.

Without a grid conquest since the 1956 season, the Jackets are an unproven bunch, but appear to have strong points, at least on paper, which usually stacks up in coaches' minds as something less than a hill of beans.

Joining Sprinkle in the Yellow Jacket backfield are a pair of talented signal-barkers, seniors John Hornburg and Joe Lee Burns. A good running attack is paced by halfback Jackie Pitts and fullback Larry Leonard.

Main drawbacks on the Arlington Heights squad, as readily described by Coach Roy Curry, who dropped nine games without winning in his rookie season at the Fort Worth school last year, are a lack of depth and a "too small" line.

He lists his main strength, however, as speed, a little item of enough importance to strike fear into any lion-hearted opposing coach.

The Yellow Jackets, operating from the straight T-formation, absorbed a tenth loss in two years at Amarillo last Friday night, 27-12, at the hands of Tascosa, the club Pampa opens District 3-AAAA play with two weeks hence, after opening at home next week with El Paso Bowie.

Pampa's young Harvesters have high hopes of sweeping their next three games, Arlington Heights, El Paso Bowie and Tascosa, before enjoying an open date to take stock of themselves before battering into Amarillo's Sandies on Oct. 17.

Harvester coaches, Babe Curfman, Eural Ramsey and Duain Lyon, who publicly praised the hard work done by their crew this week, stressed offensive pass patterns and pass protection in Wednesday's light tapering off drills, as they spent the better part of three hours pounding more and more football fundamentals into the heads of a 34-man traveling squad. The Big Green will leave here 8 p.m. Friday morning, lunch in Wichita Falls, scene of a 34-2 setback for the Harvesters last Friday night, and arrive in Fort Worth about 4:30.

The squad will be billeted at (See HARVESTERS, Page 13)

Bad Match!

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Mrs. Bobbie Mendoza, wife of former Texas Christian University football player Chico Mendoza, filed suit for divorce Wednesday on grounds that her husband was more interested in football than matrimony.

Face Arlington Heights In Cowtown; Kickoff 7:30

It'll be a couple of weeks before Jack Frost disposes of summer insects, but that ain't soon enough for the Pampa Harvesters. They figure to kill off at least one big mess of Yellow Jackets no later than Saturday night.

By "spraying" the sky with passes and grinding out the ground yards, Pampa's pepped-up Big Green regard themselves as one or two touchdowns better than Arlington Heights Yellow Jackets.

You'll know if they're right come Saturday night. The two teams line up at 7:30 p. m. in Fort Worth's 20,000-seat Farrington Field to kickoff in a meeting of "have-nots."

Both clubs are expected to get no farther than the second division in their respective districts. But that doesn't mean they won't have a slam-bang affair Saturday night. Each squad realizes this is the "opportunity of gold" to sneak into the win column.

It was the same story last year, with Pampa slipping away with a tight 7-6 verdict, thanks to a second quarter score by departed Don Bigham and his ensuing extra point. Halfback Jim Sprinkle had scored moments earlier in the second, on a 54-yard punt run-back.

Sprinkle is back with the Yellow Jackets this year, and figures to deal out plenty of misery to Pampa Saturday night.

Sprinkle's return is not a bird omen. But the return of 10 other seasoned lettermen may be something else again.

Without a grid conquest since the 1956 season, the Jackets are an unproven bunch, but appear to have strong points, at least on paper, which usually stacks up in coaches' minds as something less than a hill of beans.

Joining Sprinkle in the Yellow Jacket backfield are a pair of talented signal-barkers, seniors John Hornburg and Joe Lee Burns. A good running attack is paced by halfback Jackie Pitts and fullback Larry Leonard.

Main drawbacks on the Arlington Heights squad, as readily described by Coach Roy Curry, who dropped nine games without winning in his rookie season at the Fort Worth school last year, are a lack of depth and a "too small" line.

He lists his main strength, however, as speed, a little item of enough importance to strike fear into any lion-hearted opposing coach.

The Yellow Jackets, operating from the straight T-formation, absorbed a tenth loss in two years at Amarillo last Friday night, 27-12, at the hands of Tascosa, the club Pampa opens District 3-AAAA play with two weeks hence, after opening at home next week with El Paso Bowie.

Pampa's young Harvesters have high hopes of sweeping their next three games, Arlington Heights, El Paso Bowie and Tascosa, before enjoying an open date to take stock of themselves before battering into Amarillo's Sandies on Oct. 17.

Harvester coaches, Babe Curfman, Eural Ramsey and Duain Lyon, who publicly praised the hard work done by their crew this week, stressed offensive pass patterns and pass protection in Wednesday's light tapering off drills, as they spent the better part of three hours pounding more and more football fundamentals into the heads of a 34-man traveling squad. The Big Green will leave here 8 p.m. Friday morning, lunch in Wichita Falls, scene of a 34-2 setback for the Harvesters last Friday night, and arrive in Fort Worth about 4:30.

The squad will be billeted at (See HARVESTERS, Page 13)

It's A Boy, O Boy, O Boy

The big man was going about, jamming "black cegars" between the teeth of friends and well wishers, like any happy new father.

"Have a stogie," yipped Duain Lyon, The Pampa High line coach, "I'm a father."

Duain's becoming a daddy isn't anything new, he's already got two up-and-growing cheerleaders, Susie, age 5; and Sandy, age 3.

But this time, Lyon had the special suspender — snapping grin planted all over his face — his wife presented him with a fine 6 lbs. 12 oz. tackle Tuesday.

This morning Coach Lyon was still scratching his noggin, wondering what to name his first son. "We just took it for granted it'd be another girl. Only had girls' names in mind," Lyon confessed with a big chuckle.

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Mrs. Bobbie Mendoza, wife of former Texas Christian University football player Chico Mendoza, filed suit for divorce Wednesday on grounds that her husband was more interested in football than matrimony.

SWC Clubs Put On Finishing Touches For Grid Lidlifters

The Rice Owls completed their last heavy workout Wednesday in preparation for their opening football game Saturday night with Louisiana State University.

The Owls did little heavy contact work and spent most of the session on dummy scrimmage.

Both first and second string centers, Charley Pollard and Jim Stroud, did not attend the practice.

At College Station, unhappy Coach Jim Myers called Wednesday's workout of the Aggies, "lousy, terrible, the worst I've seen."

Coach Myers added, "If anyone looked good, I didn't see him."

The Aggies open their season Saturday in Dallas against Texas Tech.

Jr' Highs Open Today

This is Kickoff Day for Pampa's two junior high football teams... the Rebels of Robert E. Lee and the Reapers of Pampa Junior High.

Coach Gene Chance's Reapers open in Harvesters Park at 3:45 today against Amarillo Fannin while the Rebels of Coach Norman Phillips travel to Amarillo for a 4 p.m. engagement with Bowie.

Starters in the Rebel backfield will be Butch Crossland at quarterback, Robby Robinson and Dennis Mills at halfbacks and Randy Haralson, younger brother of the Harvesters' Terry Haralson, at fullback.

Chance will be counting on these boys in the Reaper backfield: Max Patton at quarter, John Arthur at full and Gerald Beem and Ronnie Ingle at halves.

last of two-day drills Wednesday and started to take things easy as practice was tapered off for the Bears' opening game Saturday against Arkansas at Little Rock.

The Bears put in a long session on play timing, and also worked on passing. Contact work was limited to groups. The afternoon session was spent in a blackboard drill and review of films of last Saturday's scrimmage.

Coach Sam Boyd scheduled a single light workout under the lights tonight, because classes begin during the day. Another night practice has been set for Little Rock Friday night.

At Dallas, two former Abilene High School players — fullback Jim Welch and halfback Gynn Gregory, highlighted the workout at Southern Methodist University.

Both players looked good in ballhandling, blocking and defensive play during the single workout.

Report on Georgia
The University of Texas Longhorns, meanwhile, listened to a scout report on Georgia, the Longhorns' first opponent of the season, which described the Bulldogs as headed for the bowl front.

Defensive coach Charley Shira said "Georgia was a young ball club when we met it last year and wasn't polished, but the Bulldogs were really on the upswing at the end of the season and should be able to pick up where they left off."

Coach Darrell Royal's players went through a routine drill Wednesday, tapering off for the game with Georgia Saturday night.

Shy On Depth And Passing, Red Worries

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Lack of depth and an inexperienced quarterback are the two glaring weaknesses of an otherwise good Army team. As a result, Coach Earl (Red) Blaik has designed a "more open attack" for the 1958 edition of the Black Knights of the Hudson.

"You might say we're going to the pro philosophy," Blaik said. "They can't play the rugged style without fear of destroying some of their salaried help, and we have nothing but inexperienced men after our first team."

The departure is quite radical for Blaik-coached teams which, in the past, have stressed power football and little in the way of pass patterns. However, his hand has been forced this season, and if the Cadets hope to stand up under such opponents as Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Rice and Navy, they will have to operate under an entirely new setup.

Two position switches and one personnel change will occur in this week's starting lineup for Pampa. Speedy Rex Williams has moved into the starting backfield, replacing Gary Wills at halfback. Williams will open at the right half post, with Jerry Daniels, the starter there last week, shifting over to left half. Dependable Mert Cooper will be at fullback, and Buddy Rawls at quarterback.

On defense, Watkins will play the middle guard position, replacing Clements, while stout Harold Stokes will fill the gap. Watkins leaves at defensive end. Glover will see double-duty at end. Benjie Stout and Scott will hold down defensive tackle posts with Simmons and Matlock as inside linebackers and Bobby Stephens and Cooper as outside linebackers. Halfbacks will be Rawls and Daniels.

Terry Haralson, the youngster who clipped off 27 yards in six carries during brief second half action last week, and Clovis Shipp.

Fred's Gone, Hack Wins One

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Smilin' Stan Hack is only minding the store for the St. Louis Cardinals but he aims to show a profit just the same.

Announced as the interim manager when Fred Hutchinson was fired Wednesday, Hack made a successful debut Wednesday night in a 5-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. Hack's objective is to make up a 2 1/2-game deficit and beat out the Cincinnati Reds for fourth place.

The loss cut the Braves' first-place margin over idle Pittsburgh to 5 1/2 games but their magic clinching number is still only three. The Braves can cut it to two when they play the Cardinals again tonight and then could clinch on Friday night.

Ernie Banks hit his 47th homer to lead the Chicago Cubs to a seven-inning, 6-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the only other National League game. The Detroit Tigers beat the New York Yankees, 5-2, and the Boston Red Sox topped the Kansas City Athletics, 4-2, after a 6-3 defeat in the only American League activity.

Rookie Gene Green knocked in two runs with a homer and a triple as the Cardinals kayoed 20-game winner Warren Spahn in six innings and handed the Milwaukee southpaw ace his 11th setback.

Banks hit a two-run homer high over the left field roof at Connie Mack Stadium, Philadelphia, and rookie right-hander Bob Anderson limited the Phillies to five hits in the rain-shortened game.

Mickey Mantle hit his 41st homer, a blast that cleared the right field roof at Detroit and was estimated at 500 feet, but Jim Bunning held the Yankees to only six other singles for his 13th triumph. Reno Bertoia knocked in three runs with two homers as Harry Chitt.

the Tigers dealt 21-game winner Bob Turley his seventh loss and took the season series, 12-10.

Bill Renna, subbing for Ted Williams, hit a two-run homer and Don Buddin and Frank Malone also homered for the Red Sox, who broke an eight-game losing streak in the nightcap. The Athletics won the opener on a grand slam homer by catcher

DON'T WAIT TO 'OUT GROW IT'

One of the most common and yet most unscientific statements to plague us today is the one that says, "The child will outgrow it in time."

How can one "outgrow" such disorders as Asthma, or Epilepsy, or nervousness? Just what process will be at work while the child "outgrows" it?

Reminds me of a thirty-six year old father of a good sized family who waited from age one to age thirty-six to "outgrow" Asthma.

Dr. Gordon Miller D.C.

ma. It twisted his features and humped over his body and just kept right on. Nobody had told this thirty-six-year-old man that his Asthma was supposed to have been "outgrown" many years before. Five years ago he stopped having Asthma. Hasn't had it since shortly after he came to the Miller Chiropractic Clinic to tell us he was tired of waiting to "outgrow" it.

Parents that are waiting for their child to outgrow some thing have been purposely confused by someone and are doing a grave injustice to their loved one.

Let someone help. Do something about it. Consider this actual clinic case from the Miller Chiropractic clinic files, then take the hint and personally investigate. It costs nothing to learn the truth.

A boy, age 12, had been having Asthma attacks with increasing frequency for six years. His doctor told him that he might grow out of it, but he gradually grew worse. Nothing seemed to offer anything other than relief temporarily, so his parents finally decided to try Chiropractic.

The Miller Chiropractic Clinic made a spinal analysis and Spinal X-rays to locate the cause. Bear in mind that in Asthma the muscles located in the tubes leading to the air sacs of the lungs are contracted, closing the tubes and keeping the air in and out. Nerves make muscles contract and relax. Faulty nerves cause trouble.

Gentle adjustments and spinal corrections restored order and this boy's Asthma promptly vanished and has not returned at anytime during the past several years. His headaches, poor appetite, and nervousness went away with the Asthma. No. 1765.

For health's sake, personally investigate. What have you got to lose except bad health?

Red Shows Ignorance

Anastas I. Mikoyan, Soviet Deputy Premier, recently in discussing democracy and freedom, sneeringly asked:

"What sort of liberties, what sort of rights do the five millions unemployed Americans now have? They have lost their right to work! Do they have the right to leisure, to study, to health protection?"

Tut! Tut! Mr. Mikoyan. You are either a faker or sublimely ignorant, in posing that question.

The fact of the matter is that an unemployed American has those rights enumerated by Mikoyan — plus the right and obligation to seek productive work of the sort he would like to have and for which he can qualify. And further, the Soviet Deputy Premier should be informed, if he doesn't already know it, that the average American industrial worker, temporarily out of work, can buy more with his unemployment compensation benefits than the average employed Soviet worker can buy with his wages.

The Soviet Union has long bragged about its ability to provide full employment for its people while taunting America on its recurring periods of unemployment. Well, it would be a cinch for us to avert these periods of unemployment, if we abolished free enterprise and chained every worker to a state-controlled job. Soviet style. You can bet your bottom dollar, there isn't a single American worker employed or unemployed, who would be willing to abandon his freedom, to become a serf at low wages.

Man's True Nature

True moral law must be the outpouring of man's understanding or natural law. No other conclusion is possible. It would be contradictory. Natural law is the fact. Moral law is the degree of understanding man can acquire of the facts relative of his own nature and the nature of the world in which he lives.

The errors which man has made relate in the main to a failure both to understand this fact, and to understand all the other facts relative to his existence. It could be stated that man's basic problem is ignorance respecting nature.

If man is able, finally, to understand himself, he will surely acquire freedom. So long as man continues to imagine himself as being something that he is not, he will experience continual frustration and heart-break. Nothing is quite so real as reality.

Man's ignorance of his true nature and the true nature of the world in which he finds himself results in an abysmal failure in the area of human relations. Whether we are considering individual relationships or national and international relationships, the matter is the same. We know so little about our real selves that we fail of applying the Golden Rule respecting other men. Yet, in those instances where we do apply this rule, it is as tho a benign providence smiled upon our efforts.

Man, tho rational appears at times to be filled with irrational fears. He distrusts himself, and consequently he distrusts others of his species. Man finds less difficulty in understanding the nature of birds and animals than he finds with himself.

The outpouring of this fear expresses itself in man's dedication to ideas which rely upon the use of force. Man is almost universally preoccupied with the use of force. If he is not plotting and scheming on how he is to proceed to compel others to his will, then he is worrying and fretting about how to prevent others, by force, from compelling him to their will. Most men can recognize that aggressive force is evil. But having admitted this, most men still pursue the exploration and the exploitation of others by force, which is inevitably characterized as defensive in nature.

It may be that as these days go by, a new world war will break upon our heads. Right now, both in the far and middle east it will take only an unguarded moment, a thoughtless act, and many great nations will find themselves at each other's throats. Without exception, each nation will claim that it was the other side which incited the outbreak. None of us will ever admit of aggression.

Nor does it appear likely that many of us will ever decide that the way to stop aggressive actions is other than by a use of aggression in reserve which we call defense.

What appears to us most evident, is that in such violent and recurrent holocausts as war, man is acting contrary to his own nature. Man does not improve his situation on the plane by killing other men. Tho he may rationalize his position and conclude that he must do so, the fact remains that his only advance toward civilization occurs when he is dedicated to minding his own business and letting others mind theirs.

What is wrong is that men do not put enough attention on the subject of freedom, which is deeply ingrained in their own natures. Instead, as we have stated, man abandons freedom in midstream because he is filled with fear and is convinced that others, too, have long since abandoned freedom.

Each side in any conflict appears to feel that it is impossible to support the freedom concept because others will not support it. Therefore, there is no one ready and willing, even at this late date, to blaze a trail into a world which may lie ready before us, but awaits the magic touch of the individual so dedicated to freedom upon the usage of force.

Liberty is precious and must be preserved. But it cannot be preserved by means which deprive other men of liberty. The end sought, which is liberty for all, cannot be obtained by means of slavery for some.

Harmonies Of Competition XIV.

Here is the last installment of Frederic Bastiat's chapter on "Competition" in his book "Harmonies Of Political Economy."

"Political Economy, we must say, has not yet exerted herself sufficiently to dissipate this fatal illusion, which has been the source of so much heartburning, calamity, and irritation, and of so many wars. This science, from a profound not very philosophical, has exhausted her efforts in analyzing the phenomena of production. The very description of the science, in fact, convenient as it is, is not in harmony with its object. Agriculture, manufactures, commerce, may be an excellent classification, when the object is to describe the processes of art; but that description, however essential in technology, has little connection with social economy. I should even say that it is positively dangerous. When we have classed men as agriculturists, manufacturers, and merchants, of what can we speak but of their class interests, of those special interests of which competition is antagonistic, and which are placed in opposition to the general good? It is not for the sake of agriculturists that agriculture exists, of manufacturers that we have manufactures, or of merchants that we have exchanges, but in order that men should have at their disposal the greatest amount of commodities of every kind.

Competition Is Moral

"Consumption, its laws, what favors it, and renders it equitable and moral — that is the interest which is truly social, and which truly affects the human race. It is the interest of the consumer which constitutes the real object of Political Economy, and upon which the science should concentrate its clearest lights. This, in truth, forms the bond which unites classes, nations, races—it is the principle and explanation of human fraternity. It is with regret, then, that we see Economists expending their talents and sagacity on the anatomy of production, and throwing into the fag-end of their books, or into supplementary chapters, a few common-places on the phenomena of consumption. Have we not seen a justly celebrated professor, suppressing entirely that branch of the science, confining himself to the means, without ever speaking of the result, and banishing from his course everything in connection with the consumption of wealth, as pertaining, in his opinion, to morals rather than to Political Economy? Can we be surprised that men are more struck with the inconveniences of Competition than with its advantages, since the former affect them specially as producers, — in which character they are constantly considered and talked of, while the latter affect them only in their capacity of consumers,—a capacity which is altogether disregarded and overlooked?"

"I repeat that I do not deny or ignore, on the contrary, I deplore as much as any one can, the sufferings attendant on Competition; but is this any reason for shutting our eyes to its advantages? And it is all the more consoling to observe these advantages, inasmuch as I believe Competition, like all the great laws of nature, to be indestructible. Had it been otherwise, it would assuredly have succumbed to the universal resistance which all the men who have ever co-operated in the production of commodities since the beginning of the world have offered to it, and more especially it would have perished under the levee on masse of our modern reformers. But if they have been foolish enough to attempt its destruction, they have not been strong enough to effect it."

Progress From Misery

"And what progressive principle, I would ask, is to be found in the world, the beneficent action of which is not mingled, especially in the beginning, with suffering and misery? The massing together of human beings in vast agglomerations is favorable to boldness and independence of thought, but it frequently sows private life from the wholesome restraint of public opinion, and gives shelter to debauchery and crime. Wealth and leisure united give birth to mental cultivation, but they also give birth to pride and luxury among the rich, and to irritation and covetousness among the poor. The art of printing brings home knowledge and truth to all ranks of society; but it has brought also affliction and doubt and subversive error. Political liberty has unchained tempests and revolutions, and has modified the simple manners of primitive nations, to such a degree as to induce thinking men to ask themselves whether they would not have preferred tranquillity under the cold shade of despotism. Christianity herself has cast the noble seed of love and charity into a soil saturated with the blood of martyrs."

"Why has it entered into the designs of Infinite Goodness and Justice that the happiness of one region or of one era should be purchased at the expense of the sufferings of another region or of another era? What is the Divine purpose which is concealed under this great law of solidarity, of which Competition is only one of the mysterious aspects? Human science cannot answer. What we do know is this, that good always goes on increasing, and that evil goes on diminishing. From the beginning of the social state, such as conquest had made it, when there existed only masters and slaves, and the inequality of conditions was extreme, the work of Competition in approximating ranks, fortunes, intelligences, could not be accomplished without inflicting individual hardships, the intensity of which, however, as the work proceeded, has gone on diminishing, like the vibrations of the pendulum."

Knowland, Brown Tiff Is 'Big Show' In California

Robert S. Allen is on vacation. During his absence, his column today is by Edward Kennedy, assistant editor and publisher, Monterey, Cal., Peninsula Herald.

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Assistant Editor and Publisher
Monterey Peninsula Herald

MONTEREY — The bitter clash between Senator William F. Knowland and Attorney General Edmund G. Brown for governor in the big show of the 1958 campaign in California.

It overshadows, in public interest here and throughout the country, the contest of Governor Goodwin J. Knight and Representative Clair Engle for the U.S. Senate.

Much more than the governorship of that nation's second largest state is at stake.

If Knowland loses, it will be a disastrous blow to his political future. If he wins, he will be a more powerful figure in Republican politics than he has been even as his party's leader of the Senate. He will control the big California delegation in the 1960 national convention.

If Brown wins, he will have a commanding position in the Democratic national picture.

Knowland's decision to run for governor, instead of seeking reelection to the Senate was a big gamble. There is little doubt that it was dictated by White House aspirations. History has shown that governors of big states have a much better chance of becoming President than members of the Senate.

This does not mean that Knowland hopes to be the Republican nominee for President in 1960. A number of factors, including his fellow California republican, Vice President Nixon, stand in the way of this.

Knowland has indicated that he is not planning to attempt to wrest the nomination from Nixon in 1960. He has said that if elected he expects to serve out his four-year term as governor. He is undoubtedly sincere in these statements.

His program, it would appear, is to put himself in a more strategic position for 1964, or in the event that unexpected developments should occur before then.

Knowland apparently feels that age and time are on his side. He is 50.

Brown is 53, and in the same position in this respect.

Knowland probably also is genuinely interested in giving California a more conservative Republican government and organizing the state as a Republican stronghold. He has regarded the Knight administration as wishy-washy.

Knowland was at first inclined to resist Knowland's attempt to get the Republican nomination for governor. But as he saw his supporters dwindling in favor of the energetic Knowland, he withdrew and ran for the Senate instead.

In announcing his candidacy, Knowland espoused a "right to work" law for California. This has won him the special enmity of labor leaders, who are out to beat him at all costs. Apparently, however, Knowland figures he can count on reaction to union scandals, even among the ranks of

NEW YORK — CUFF NOTES:
In case anyone doubted it, a Mexican wall (bricks laid with half-brick size interstices) will stand up in a 63 mph wind. We had up a wind off the Sound in a sudden squall last Sunday and although other objects and constructions went down the Mexican brick wall stood firm and true. I have been wanting to use a high-class word like interstices for a long time, but I'm sorry a tough squall which fendered a lot of sailboats had to be the justification for it. —Treasure Item: a note from a Lubbock Tex., editor, gourmet, dieter and all-around terrific fellow, who confesses that he, too, has belted up to the bar across which Diamond Jim Brady was served, but his encounter was when the grand old item was in the Murray Hill Hotel, which is where Brady used to polish it with a well-placed elbow. "I well remember the Old Murray Hill bar in the days before my widely heralded and properly celebrated reformation. I dunno which part of it Jim liked to work at, but I know I've had a drink slid across that hallowed area because I worked it from one end to the other with great enthusiasm."

Of All The Quiz Shows, Mac Was On Honest One!

By HENRY McLEMORE

On my one and only appearance on a quiz show, it would be my luck to draw an honest one.

I can imagine few things nicer than to be told by the man in charge of the answers that I was going to reach the $53,000 level, if I proved to be as ignorant as a near-sighted rhesus monkey.

Or to be taken to a secluded spot behind the water cooler by the show's producer and made to memorize the inventor of the flour sifter, the author of "Bartholomew," the composer of "Seeing Nellie Home," Home Run Baker's nickname, the name of the juvenile lead in "Tillie's Punctured Romance," and the name of the ocean which surrounds Bermuda.

That would be comforting. With such a head-start a man could enter the contest with alacrity, sure that he wasn't going to make a dunce of himself. What could be more fun than feigning ignorance over say, the name of Ben Hur's favorite chariot horse, and then coming up with the correct answer in the nick of time? And for five or six thousand dollars, too!

That's the sort of situation a man dreams of. It would be like getting hold of tomorrow's Santa Anita results today.

But the wheel didn't spin that way for me.

I wound up on Groucho's show, and you can bet your life that Groucho never has tipped anyone off, unless from the edge of a balcony. Judging by the help I got when I was on his show, the most talkative of the Marxes wouldn't help you to get home, even if you were lost.

Instead of trying to help the nervous contestant (which I was) Groucho does his best to rattle you. It is his aim, or so it seems, to dredge to the bottom of the contestant's ignorance. If you look smart, it annoys him. If you act smart, you get the works from the man on the stool.

I write about this because, now that quiz shows are a bit suspect, I have suffered a loss of prestige. My win on Groucho's show helped me in my social climbing, at which I am very ambitious. Three days after winning I was asked to join a bowling club — the same one from which I had been blackballed a month earlier. No less a person than a member of the state legislature called me by my first name, and my laundry at last got around to leaving the starch out of my shirts.

Since the quiz show scandal broke, my shirts are coming back as stiff as an armadillo sewing basket, the legislator has gone back to calling me "Bub," and I am expecting to have to turn in my bowling shirt with the big lettering on the back.

Groucho had plenty of opportunity to tip me off to the answers if he had cared to, because we had our faces made up in the same dressing room. He could have somehow brought into the conversation something about Angola goats, and that would have been a help, because later on I couldn't think of a goat that started with a "A." That cost me several hundred bucks.

Groucho appeared more startled than anyone else when I won some money. He seemed to think that it was an insult to his show that an old like me had walked away with a bit of the swag.

If he wants me to appear again, I'll bring my own water cooler to hide behind. Or, it he would prefer, a large potted palm!

It's Up To You

Government Should Not Determine Interest Rates

An important function of interest rates is to maintain a balance between saving and spending. If capital is scarce, interest rates will correct the situation by inducing more saving and less spending. Conversely, if capital is plentiful and interest rates fall, there will be less saving and more spending. A free market for interest rates so that the needed adjustments are made promptly will maintain equilibrium and be a powerful factor in ironing out the peaks and valleys of boom and depression.

Free interest rates also direct the flow of funds into the various investment channels. This distribution of savings as between savings banks, commercial banks, insurance, annuities, mortgages, bonds, stocks, real estate, and business enterprises is also a very important factor in maintaining the balance necessary to avoid depression. It directs capital and labor away from the making of things that are less wanted and into the production of goods and services that are in greater demand. Thus more human wants are satisfied.

The judgment of government officials cannot be depended upon to meet these intricate and ever changing requirements. If government agencies fix low interest rates, thus stimulating spending and discouraging saving, the result will be an artificially induced boom such as we had in the late twenties, leading on to the great depression beginning in 1929. On the other hand, if high interest rates are maintained, legitimate and necessary spending of many kinds would be unduly retarded.

We do not believe that government can determine interest rates without upsetting this delicate balance and interfering with the smooth functioning and efficient operation of the production machine. The good of all requires that freedom in the market place determine interest rates as well as wages and prices. Under that system more wealth will be produced and as a result we can have more of all useful things including sure and culture than is possible under a system of government-managed interest rates. The same is also true for much the same reasons with reference to wages and prices. Freedom so that essential adjustment can be made promptly and continuously is the biggest part of the answer to most of our economic problems.

The Doctor Says:

Burning sensations of the tongue and mouth are evidently extremely common.

—Is there any hope for the relief of a burning tongue? — Mrs. H. G.

A—It is claimed that this sensation may be related to general diseases, such as pernicious anemia, diabetes, vitamin A deficiency, or conditions in which there is a lessening of salivary output. Visible signs of irritation of the delicate mucous membrane are commonly present.

In later years, dryness of the mouth resulting from lessened secretion of saliva is particularly common. Of course, local conditions in the mouth may also be responsible. Excessive smoking and irritating substances in food or drink are other possibilities.

Q—I acquired a serious bronchial condition from mustard gas in the First World War. When the doctors said they could do nothing for me in 1930, I moved to a dry area of California. However, I seem to have less trouble in a moist area of California and wonder how this could be. — W. H.

A—Conditions such as bronchitis and sinusitis are sometimes affected favorably by change of climate. Apparently no one can tell in advance what climate will be of benefit, since there is a great deal of individual difference.

Hence physicians frequently advise a person who is making such a change to try several places before deciding to settle. The one to choose is the one which seems to give the greatest amount of relief.

Q—Until recently I was always said to have a good figure and was in demand for modeling. I have been married for four and one-half years and have two children. After each of these was born, my breasts became smaller and smaller and now I have become the butt of jokes about flat-chested women. What to do? — Mrs. J.

A—This is a curious experience, but one which I judge is fairly common. The giving of appropriate hormones occasionally produces a temporary stimulation of the growth of breast tissue, but is generally considered inadvisable.

I fear there is nothing which can be recommended as a satisfactory and safe procedure in a situation such as this.

Q—Can one take too much orange juice? In the past year I have been drinking at least eight ounces a day but find myself breaking out with eczema. — Mrs. A. E.

A—This sounds as though some kind of allergy to orange juice was present. Also some people find that orange juice irritates the digestive tract.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The word today is that President Eisenhower will be singing that old Democratic prosperity song when he goes campaigning coast to coast this fall.

The song was "Happy Days Are Here Again," and none ever will forget it who attended the 1956 Democratic national convention at which FDR accepted his second term nomination.

If labor leaders and Democratic strategists are quick to challenge so optimistic a campaign theme, the President might counter that it is at least as appropriate now as it was back there nearly 25 years ago when the Deal chorus was singing Roosevelt on his way. More appropriate, perhaps in terms of unemployment which is the basic political measure of prosperity, recession and depression. There are fewer than 5,000,000 persons unemployed in this campaign year, whereas the unemployed numbered slightly more than 9,000,000 in 1936.

Like Told Worst Over
Unemployment was a nut which FDR was unable to crack. It took a world war to crack it for him, despite pump-priming and job-making federal spending, which seemed extravagantly large at the time, but which was not much compared to current government outlays.

Eisenhower resisted, in the last session of Congress, Democratic efforts to spend the nation out of recession and unemployment. FDR's record was pretty good evidence that it cannot be done. Year-long Eisenhower has been telling the public that the current slump would be temporary.

His economic advisers are telling him, now, that the worst is well over, that since June most economic indicators have shown a substantial slowing of the de-odical "The Farm Income Situation. These advisers are confident that by late October the encouraging signs will have multiplied in number and in degree, thus enabling the President, if he desires, to tell the voters that the United States is on the way back to record prosperity.

Economy Less An Issue
There will remain the tough and dangerous problems of currency inflation, rising prices and shrinking dollar purchasing power. All will be a long way from well on the domestic front. But Republican tacticians are hope-fully confident that recession will not be so damaging to them in November as they had feared in May.

Economics is not an area of discussion in which Eisenhower feared most at home. He is likely to enter it, however, because Democratic leaders and their labor associates evidently intend that business conditions shall be a prime 1958 issue. It will not be as lush an issue as some of them expected. Nine months ago Leon H. Keyserling predicted that unemployment would be 7,000,000 in the first quarter of this year. Keyserling was chief economic adviser to President Harry S. Truman.

Eisenhower, of course, will depend wholly upon his economic advisers in his 1958 campaign speeches. He is no economist himself. Confronted on taking office in 1953 with the economic controls enacted after outbreak of the Korean War, Eisenhower abolished them after discussion at the first business meeting of his new cabinet. The big decision having

Television Show A Dramatic Cheat

Television in Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — No Place To Run, a play offered by CBS-TV's "Studio One" Monday night was a dramatic cheat.

It posed the problem of an upright citizen, a man of rigid standards who had once committed a crime, who found himself trapped in the clutches of a blackmailer. It solved the difficulty by having an extra character kill the blackmailer in the last five minutes, a terribly shoddy device.

Harry Townes and Rosemary DeCamp starred in the piece and both worked effectively.

Tommy Rettig, former star of "Lassie" was billed, but didn't appear because of illness. His part was taken over by Buzz Martin who also worked well. The play itself wouldn't be worth devoting much space to except that I think in some future time it will make a fascinating study for some sociologist interested in contemporary attitudes. The man of rigid standards, we were told, was wrong. "Integrity can be carried too far," belovs his father-in-law, "and when it is, it becomes destructive."

Wife & Son Agree
The wife of the man with standards agrees. So does his son. And in a climactic scene, the hero gives in — he apologizes to his son who has just swiped the family car and has been picked up for speeding and admits he was wrong for trying to set down rules for living.

Along with many of TV's family situation comedies, "No Place To Run" typifies the growth of what one sociologist, David Riesbeen taken, the cabinet meeting broke up. As Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey came by, Eisenhower caused him to pause. "George," said the President, "I hope to heaven you know what you are doing."

Farm Price Subsidies Decrease
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government spent $1,072,688,152 to support farm prices in fiscal 1958, about a quarter of a billion dollars less than in the preceding year.

The Agriculture Department reported Monday that the cost represented the difference between what the government paid for surplus farm crops in the 12 months ended last June 30, and what it was able to sell them for. The department's investment in farm surpluses as of June 30 was reported at $7,029,695,000 compared with $7,338,081,000 one year earlier.

Wheat, corn, and cotton were the major items in the inventory which included crops actually in government hands or covered by price support loans. The government owned or held under loan wheat valued at more than $2,368,000; corn valued at $2,369,000,000; and cotton valued at more than $545,000,000. Tobacco stocks under loan were valued at $566,883,526.

'Truth Squad' Hits HST

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A Republican "truth squad" has accused former President Harry S. Truman of "blithely and irresponsibly shifting the blame" for any American defense lag to the GOP when the Democrats were responsible.

The "squad," headed by Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), was sent here by the Republican National Committee to "correct" last week at a Midwest Democratic gross misstatements made last week at a Midwest Democratic conference.

Hickenlooper called Truman "an expert at lagging behind on defensive strength, but his memory is short and very convenient."

Truman said at the Democratic meeting last Friday that America's defenses were so weak "it almost makes me sick."

Members of the squad also included Rep. William Hill (Colo.), ranking GOP member of the House Agriculture Committee; Sen. Carl T. Curtis (Neb.) and Sen. Andrew P. Schoppel (Kan.), chairman of the GOP senatorial campaign committee.

son" will have some of its scenes taped in advance — those that show a storm at sea and some other scenes involving the use of animals. ABC-TV's new daytime line-up after much shuffling, now looks as if it will be stacked in the following order come Oct. 13, the debut date: "Day in Court," "Peter Lind Hayes Show," "Beat the Clock," "Liberace Show," "Chance for Romance" and "Mother's Day." The "Romance" show will be emceed by John Cameron Swayze; "Mother's Day" by Dick Van Dyke.
