Millikin to Resume Vigil With Death At Huntsville Prison

Quanah Parker's City—
Use Them For Good—

Sewer assessments made by the city for service to home owners must be paid promptly, and if such payment is not made, service will be discontinued and suit entered, the council decides. Collection of sewer fees is part of the municipal business and should be treated in a business-like manner. Telephone companies, electric companies and gas companies all discontinue service if bills are not paid promptly. There is no reason why the city should not do the same.

Suits for delinquent assessments will prove rather expensive, and can only be instituted at a rather heavy commission, the experience of other cities shows. Property owners in the future should not be allowed to become in arrears to the extent where court action would be worthwhile. A prompt discontinuance in service will prevent it.

There is food for thought in the declaration of G. C. McGown that dairy cattle in north and West Texas are "scarce and high." Many farmers are planning to increase their dairy herds about the first of the year when the Kraft cheese plant opens here. Those who are planning such an expansion should begin now to hunt their dairy stock, judging from the difficulty which the Wichita county agent is having in securing suitable cattle.

Increases in dairy herds in Northwest Texas should be made with the best stock available within the means of the dairy owner. Indications are that the dairy industry will develop rapidly in this section. Good stock will prove more economical and more profitable in the long run.

Quanah will stage its "Harvest Moon Celebration," Friday and Saturday, commemorating the opening of the Colorado-to-Gulf highway. Baldwin Parker, grandson of Cynthia Ann Parker and son of Quanah Parker, for whom the town was named, will take a leading part in this celebration which recalls the past while planning for the future. These celebrations are interesting, not only because of the good programs which are usually given, but because of the contrast drawn between West Texas today and West Texas of little more than a half century ago.

Austin is now involved in one of its recurring efforts to open moving picture shows on Sunday, the Texas capital city being the only one of importance in the state which does not provide the Sunday movies. When Austin was a member of the Texas association baseball league it had Sunday baseball, and it has consistently opened its fair on Sundays. Its drug stores, cafes, swimming pools and other enterprises have a rushing trade on the Sabbath, but the city has more or less turned thumbs down on the Sunday movies in the past. Consistency seems as much of a jewel in the capital city as anywhere else in Texas.

In Wichita Falls we have Sunday pictures, Sunday baseball and various other Sunday amusements operated as private enterprises and very little is said about the matter. Yet, early this fall a large number of persons protested the opening of the Texas-Oklahoma fair on Sunday, although it was a public enterprise of an educational and inspirational nature. Logically, it seems that this is discriminating against the better and more worthwhile of two choices.

Whether for good or evil, opposition to Sunday amusements is losing ground so rapidly that the matter is now more or less accepted as a phase of modern life which can not be changed. Accepted as such, it seems to this writer that by far the best thing that could be done would be to utilize and direct these amusements into channels that would work for the general public good, and for the cause which originally set aside the Sabbath from other days of the week.

LAST AVENUE FROM DEATH THOUGHT SHUT

Jury Reached Verdict Shortly After Consideration Was Started

FOUND TO BE SANE

Condemned Man Declares "It's All Right With Me, I Guess"

Special to The Record News.

LOCKHART, Texas, Nov. 1.—Found sane by a jury in 22nd district court here today, A. V. Millikin, convicted slayer of Mrs. Virginia Petty of San Antonio, tomorrow will resume his vigil with death in a gloomy cell of the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

In company with Sheriff W. M. Ellison, who has guarded Millikin in both of his fights for life here in the last 12 months, Millikin will take his last outdoor ride tomorrow afternoon.

Apparently there is no avenue through which Millikin may escape his electrocution, set for next Friday in the third reprieve granted by Gov. Dan Moody in order to allow time for the completion of his sanity trial.

This was the second time that Millikin has heard his death sentence read in Lockhart's court room. On Nov. 11, 1926, he was sentenced to the chair for murder.

It was revealed by one of the jurors that the verdict was reached in less than five minutes.

Millikin received his sentence bravely, without any apparent show of emotion. There was a quiver in his voice, however, when newspaper men talked to him immediately after sentence was passed.

"I haven't got anything to say. It's all right with me, I guess," were the first words he spoke.

Notice of appeal was given by Judge William E. Hawkins, defense counsel, and his partner, Clarence J. Ginn, declared "we are not through.

Crack German Pilot Killed In Nose Dive

DESSAU, Germany, Nov. 1. (AP)—The Junkers company's crack stunt pilot, Karl Plauth, was killed today when his plane crashed from an altitude of 2000 feet. The plane fell while he was executing a nose dive. He tried in vain to right the machine when he reached an altitude of 1200 feet.

Josephine Cameron King Dies at Portland Home

PORTLAND, Maine, Nov. 1. (AP) Mrs. Marion Josephine King, wife of Louis M. King of this city and for many years prominent in the dramatic world as Josephine Cameron, died today at the age of 79 years. Her first husband was Philip A. Cohen, New Orleans merchant.

Tuesday were reported by the Texas Electric Service company bureau as follows: Maximum temperature, 85; minimum temperature, 63; temperature at 5 p. m., 82; southeast breeze; partly cloudy; average wind velocity one mile per hour; maximum wind velocity, seven miles per hour; barometer, 29.08.

Wichita Falls Peach Tree In Bloom As Weather Man Plays Tricks

An Ohio town which reported flowers and fruit trees in bloom in October has nothing on Wichita Falls in the way of weather freaks for the month.

This was revealed Tuesday by Mrs. O. B. Brook, who reported to The Record News that a peach tree in her back yard at 1003 Mississippi street has recently produced an entire new crop of leaves, and has more than 25 blooms. There are also many buds on the tree, Mrs. Brook said. The tree produced its regular crop of fruit in the spring, and the second blooming is attributed to the unusually warm weather which has been experienced here during October.

Baptists To Hold Convention In Auditorium—"Completed or Not"

Texas Baptists, when they convene here Nov. 16, will meet in the new auditorium whether it is completed or not. This decision was reached Tuesday following a meeting at the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce in which prominent members of the denomination, Mayor R. E. Shepherd and chamber officials took part. Although the building is not completed the committee will make temporary arrangements to handle the convention.

Briefs Presented

An early final disposition of the injunction suit against the city to prevent it receiving money on $214,000 worth of warrants sold to insure completion of the auditorium and other projects will probably allow the building to be finished. Judge W. W. Cook of the 78th district court, before whom the suit was heard, Tuesday mailed copies of the briefs to Judge Ernest G. Thornton who, with Judge J. A. Martin, sat in the case with Judge Cook. Judge Cook will have the responsibility of making the decision, his colleagues serving in an advisory capacity.

Judge Cook said the decision might be rendered Wednesday afternoon as he will confer with Judge Thornton by telephone if he does not come to Wichita Falls. Judge Martin is here and he and Judge Cook have already been in conference.

Attend Conference

Those attending the meeting at the chamber of commerce were Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church; the Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor of Lamar Avenue Baptist church; the Rev. Harley J. Bailey, pastor of the Highland Heights Baptist church; J. C. Mytinger, R. E. Huff, Burton Stayton, W. L. Robertson, Solon Featherston, W. N. Bonner, William E. Young, W. E. George, Herbert R. Voelcker, architect who drew plans for the auditorium, Mayor Shepherd and Hubert M. Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce.

BANK ROBBERS MAKE GETAWAY

Texas City Institution Loses Heavily From Raid

GALVESTON, Nov. 1. (AP)—Peace officers of south Texas late Tuesday had little or no clues to follow in the search for two unmasked men who held up the First National bank of Texas City at 1:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and escaped with between $8000 and $9000. No one in Texas City has been found who actually saw the men leave the bank after they locked in the cashier and a girl employe in the vault.

Sheriff R. E. Kirk was attempting to trace a large sedan seen in Texas City this morning on the theory that the bandits escaped by automobile. Two such sedans had been noticed in Texas City before the robbery and their occupants had acted suspiciously, it was reported.

The robbery consumed only about four minutes and attracted no attention. Chester M. Griffin, cashier, and Miss Elizabeth Lege, clerk, were alone in the bank when the bandits entered. The men covered Mr. Griffin with revolvers, ordered the cashier and the girl into the vault and locked the vault after taking all the currency in sight.

Griffin and Miss Lege were locked in the vault about ten minutes until other employes of the bank, returning from lunch, released them. In the meantime the bandits apparently made good their escape without attracting any attention. One of the men was described as tall and slender, the other of medium height. The smaller man wore dark glasses.

Principessa Mafalda Toll Placed At 314

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 1. (AP)—A total of 314 persons perished in the Principessa Malfalda disaster off the coast of Brazil last week, it was shown today in final figures made public by the local office of the Navigazione Generale Italiana, owners of the vessel.

There were 945 survivors.

The ship's complete passenger and crew list numbered 1259 persons.

Rock Island Gets Permit Issue $40,000,000 Bonds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. (AP)—The Rock Island railroad obtained permission from the Interstate Commerce commission today to issue $40,000,000 in 4 1-2 per cent gold bonds. Funds derived from the sale will be used to pay off approximately $28,000,000 in note indebtedness now falling due and in part to reimburse the road's treasury for expenditures already made upon additions and betterments.

Death Claims Father Of Wichita Residents

Word of the death of George W. Massie Sr., of Austin, father of Mrs. Horrace Robbins of Wichita Falls and of George W. Massie Jr., of Wichita Falls, was received here late Tuesday night. Mr. Robbins, Mrs. Robbins and Mr. Massie will leave here early this morning for Austin.

George W. Massie Sr., had been in ill health for some time prior to his death. He had lived practically all of his life in Austin, being connected with the McKean-Ellers wholesale company. He was 75 years old at the time of his death. George W. Massie Jr., is office manager of the Robbins company here.

Fort Worth Fire Loss Shows Marked Decrease

FORT WORTH, Nov. 1. (AP)—Fire loss for Fort Worth in October was the smallest in several months, the damage from blazes totaling only $28,960, according to the report of Fire Marshal Claude Ligon. The loss for October, 1926, was $72,905. October's figures bring the total loss for the year to $843,060, as compared with $482,534 for the first 10 months last year.

WICHITA AREA SOAKED BY HEAVY RAIN

Precipitation Here Totals 1.67 Inches During Brief Storm

LIGHT HAIL FALLS

Youth Injured When Autos Collide In Blinding Rain

An end to the summer weather which has characterized the last few weeks in Wichita Falls seemed likely late Tuesday night as the temperature dropped steadily after the heavy rain here. A sharp north wind was blowing shortly after midnight, with indications that the temperature would go even lower before morning. Amarillo reported much colder weather, but no rain. Weather forecasts for Wednesday said "clear and cooler" for west Texas.

Heavy and almost blinding showers, accompanied by a considerable electrical display and a slight fall of hail swept over Wichita Falls and the immediate territory north and west shortly before 7 o'clock Tuesday night. The downfall, as reported by train dispatchers of the various railways, was confined to this region, no rain having been reported in Breckenridge, Ellasville and other southern points.

Heavy Wind.

Heavy showers fell in the western area in and near Electra about 5:45 o'clock and at Grandfield toward the north about 6:30, pushing southward towards Wichita Falls.

The rain began here at 6:45, ushered in by a 40 mile wind that spent its force, however, in a short while, diminishing to an average velocity of ten miles per hour. Total precipitation, as reported by the Texas Electric Service company bureau, was 1.67 inches during the most severe fall, which lasted slightly over an hour and a half.

Youth Injured.

The rain is held responsible for an automobile accident that happened shortly before 7 o'clock, in which Gus Meyer, 100 Galveston, was painfully injured. Meyer sustained a severe gash above the left eye and injuries on the hand when the car in which he was riding and one driven by Ben Colbert, negro employe of the Texas Garage, collided near the intersection of Ninth and Lamar streets. He was riding with Carl Hall, route 5, who escaped uninjured, Meyer was given first aid treatment by Dr. L. D. Parnell.

Colbert, who told officers he was blinded by the downpour of rain, was released on cash bond after a charge of negligent collision had been booked.

Hello Girl Has 'Cusser' Arrested For Back Talk

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1. (AP)—Elmer Manhart, cigar store clerk, was in the city jail here today because he told a telephone operator what he thought of her when she gave him the wrong number.

The telephone company rules forbid an operator to talk back to a customer but they do not prohibit her from calling the police. Miss Frankie Unger did just that. Manhart, so she said, was beautifully profane when he got the wrong number.

He was booked for disturbing the peace.

Commissioner Sets Bond For Bride at $1000

AUSTIN, Nov. 1. (AP)—Bond for Mrs. Louise Cain, 15-year-old bride charged with accessoryship in an alleged counterfeiting "ring," was set at $1000 by the United States commissioner here today.

Mrs. Cain was followed here by officers from San Antonio. Her husband, accompanying her, escaped, but two men were arrested in the same connection. The federal grand jury in session will investigate.

Cannibalism Fails To Save Pair From Death

Japanese Fishing Boat Picked Up With Two Bodies Intact and Others' Skeletons

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 1. (AP)—Dead of starvation despite evidence that indicates they had devoured the bodies of seven or eight of their shipmates, the last two survivors of the crew of the Japanese fishing smack Ryo Yei Maru meaning "good and prosperous," arrived at Port Townsend today, aboard their pilotless vessel after drifting with the sea currents more than 4000 miles from the coast of Japan.

Physicians from the United States quarantine station who went aboard the Ryo Yei said there was no question but that cannibalism had been practiced by the last survivors of the crew. The bones of seven or eight human beings were found aboard the derelict, which bore unmistakable evidence of many months at sea.

Consul Identifies Ship

The Japanese boat was picked up by the freighter Margaret Dollar off the Washington coast yesterday and towed to quarantine at Port Townsend. United States customs officials took charge of the boat, which was of sturdy and fairly recent construction.

Y. Hanawa, Japanese vice-consul in Seattle, went aboard the ship today and determined its identity. The name of the vessel was painted in Japanese characters on its prow and stern.

The bodies of the two last survivors, emaciated and partly mummified, will be taken ashore as soon as the vessel is fumigated. No food or water was found in the ship and the engine was disabled, it being apparent that the fishermen had been unable to make repairs at sea.

Papers Shed No Light

Papers found aboard the derelict were brought to the consulate here, where they were found to be letters, telgrams, and receipts all bearing the name of Tokizo Miki, believed to be captain or owner of the boat, but no explanation of the disaster which overtook the vessel and its crew was contained in the documents.

Captain H. T. Payne, master of the Margarpt Dollar, expressed the opinion the men had been dead for a month or more and that the vessel probably had been drifting for at least 100 days.

The bodies of the two Japanese were found in bunks in the tiny, dark cabin aft of the engine room. They were in natural postures as if the men had failed to awaken from a deep sleep.

Boat Was Small

The boat was about 85 feet long, of 15-foot beam and 12-foot depth. It was equipped with a gasoline engine in addition to the hemp, canvas, and bamboo sails. The sails were torn to shreds by gales and standing gear on the deck was twisted and bent. The hull was barnacle-encrusted and dragging sea weed two feet in length.

Caught in a northwest gale, the ship dragged anchor when first brought in, but was pulled off the beach and towed to a safe anchorage near Glen Cove.

CHIPPS READY IN LAW SUIT

Norris May Ask Delay Because of Wife

By Universal Service.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 1—Pending the presentation of affidavits from physicians attesting that Mrs. J. Frank Norris must undergo an operation and is not able to testify in the $150,000 damage suit which D. E. Chipps Jr., filed against the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, Judge Hal Lattimore postponed the trial today until tomorrow morning.

Young Chipps filed the suit against the pastor as a result of the slaying of his father in the preacher's study, claiming that his father was slain "without cause or reason." Dr. Norris was tried and acquitted of the murder charge in Austin last February.

When the case was called today, Marvin Simpson, counsel for Dr. Norris, told the court that he anticipated filing a motion for continuance due to the fact that Mrs. Norris, who is a material witness for her husband, was ill and would not be able to testify.

"Wild Bill" McLean, who is representing Chipps in the civil suit and who was a special prosecutor in the pastor's murder trial, answered Simpson with the suggestion to the court that before a continuance was granted that a postponement until Wednesday be ordered to allow physicians to examine Mrs. Norris.

McLean also announced that the plaintiff was ready for trial and would contst any motion for a continuance.

COURT HALTS TRIAL TO HEAR DISCLOSURES

Statement of Juror Offered That Acquittal Meant Automobile to Him

EMPLOYER CALLED

Reporter Credited With Discovering Plot and Telling Government

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Jury tampering alleged to have been done at the instance of Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil king, through the William J. Burns detective agency, brought the Teapot Dome oil conspiracy trial before Justice Siddons to a sensational halt today.

Two jurors of the Fall-Sinclair panel have been named in affidavits and in testimony before the grand jury as having been tampered with.

One of these is Edward Kidwell Jr., a leather worker, who is declared to have boasted that a verdict of conviction would mean nothing to him, whereas a verdict of acquittal would bring him an automobile "a block long."

Affidavits relating this conversation were made public by the government attorneys.

The name of the other juror has been told in secret to the grand jury which was hastily convened to investigate the charges of jury fixing. His identity cannot be disclosed at present.

It is fully expected that Justice Siddons will order a mistrial when court convenes tomorrow morning.

Both sides have joined in the request that the jury be discharged.

A. Mason Day, vice-president of the Sinclair exploration company, 55 Liberty street, New York, was charged by the government with being the "contact man" between the "real employer" of the Burns agency and the detectives themselves.

He lived at the Mayflower hotel, where the defendant Sinclair has stayed during the trial. He has admitted being in the employ of Sinclair.

During the past two weeks, however, he has been living at the home of Donald Woodward, young head of a large Washington department store.

Both men were before the special jury today.

Woodward is the employer of one of the jurors in the Fall-Sinclair case.

Developments rivalling the dramatic sensations which rocked the capital to its very foundations during the Harding administration oil scandals in 1923 promised by the government as the magnitude of the alleged plot is unfolded to them in the grand jury room and from evidence being collected in New York and elsewhere.

More than a dozen indictments are expected to be returned by the grand jury against persons involved in the affair. These may include one or more members of the jury, some of the private detectives who are alleged to have had the jurors under surveillance, and also other persons well known in the society circles of the capital.

A number of the 20 Burns operatives who were sent here to "work" this afternoon were placed in the custody of United States Marshal Synder this afternoon at the close of the grand jury session.

It is impossible at this time to foretell the extent to which the alleged jury tampering plot has involved persons who have been interested in the progress of the trial.

In a joint statement issued tonight Martin W. Littleton and George P. Hoover, chief counsel for the defense declared they were in complete ignorance of the affidavits, or the matters they set forth, until late last night. The statement added:

"This morning the Washington Herald published a sensational forecast of the fact that such affidavits would be submitted. Counsel for the defense learned in addition to this that the district attorney is now considering a grand jury investigation of the whole matter and this fact is being published.

"The position for counsel for the defendants which was presented to Judge Siddons in chambers in full is that the publication of the affidavits and of all the matters in connection therewith, and the effect of such publication, make a mistrial necessary, and counsel for the defendants join with counsel for the government in the request for a mistrial."

Reporter Tips Deal.

When court adjourned for the day the jurors were allowed to go their several ways as they have been permitted to do every day since they were sworn to try the case.

The story of the amazing plot to tamper with the trial of the conspiracy case was first laid before the government prosecutors

Pollard Denies Ruling Made Automatic Tax Board Can Meet

AUSTIN, Nov. 1. (AP)—Attorney General Claude Pollard late Tuesday dismissed as "plain imagination" a published report that he had ruled that the state automatic tax board can hold a special session and reduce the state ad valorem tax 15 or 20 per cent as advocated by Governor Dan Moody.

Mr. Poolard said he has not yet prepared the opinion sought by the governor on the question, but might do so Wednesday. He expressed surprise that any apparent attempt was made to say what his ruling will be. Earlier in the afternoon, he said he had not given the requested opinion "much study."

"I have made no ruling nor announced any," the attorney general said. "Anything else is plain imagination."

Proposing the reduction, if legal, the governor Monday asked an opinion, declaring that state finances and treasury surplus now better than anticipated the July meeting of the tax board, seems to justify a cut in the 25 cent rate.

Mitchell Funeral Services Held As Thousands Pay Last Tribute

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—John J. Mitchell, dean of Chicago bankers, and chairman of the board of the Illinois Merchants Trust company, and his wife, were buried here today.

Burial, which was private, at Graceland cemetery, followed final tributes paid by thousands of Chicagoans to the two victims of the automobile accident last Saturday morning.

Simply were the funeral rites conducted at St. James Episcopal church, in that section of Chicago's lower north side so replete with traditions of the growth to present-day eminence of pioneer families, among them the Mitchells.

Fifteen truck loads of flowers, large quantities of wreaths, palms and ferns filled the church as the Rt. Rev. Herman Page Bishop of Michigan and former rector of the church, officiated.

Bishop Page had officiated at the christening of the Mitchell children, the eldest of whom, John J. Mitchell Jr., is expected to carry on for his famous father.

Names famous in Chicago's social and financial roster were represented at the church.

CREDIT MEN PLAN BANQUET

Noted Speakers on Program Here Thursday

Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham, Texas, is to be one of the principal speakers at a banquet and entertainment to be given by the Retail Credit men of Wichita Falls at the Kemp hotel Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced Tuesday. The local association on this occasion is to be host to a number of delegations of credit men from Electra, Vernon, Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Seymour, Archer City, Henrietta, Bowie, Olney and a number of other Northwest Texas towns, and several speakers of state wide reputation are to be presented, officials in charge said.

Among the speakers is to be Dr. Robert Stearns, president of the Retail Credit Mens' association of Texas, who is also the credit manager of the A. Harris and company of Dallas; J. E. R. Chilton, secretary of the state association, and secretary of the Retail Merchants' association of Dallas; J. E. Zeigelmeyer, director of the National Association of Retail Credit Men, and several other officials. The entertainment to follow will consist of several musical numbers, it is said.

G. W. Sosebee, president of the local association, is to preside at the affair. Other officers of the organization are E. L. Buelow, first vice president; Miss Sarah Haley, second vice president, and Mrs. Leslie Huffhines, secretary.

Vick Makes Bond of $2,000 On New Charge

Dr. J. T. Vick, held in the county jail on a charge of performing an illegal operation filed Sunday, was released from confinement Tuesday after completion of bond of $2000.

The complaint, similar in nature to three others pending against the physician, was filed by E. F. Fruechte, assistant district attorney, after a hearing held Sunday afternoon before Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn. The charge alleges an illegal operation Oct. 20 on a 17-year-old Vernon girl.

The girl, confined in a local hospital, is said by attendants to be in a serious condition.

Officers Renew Search For Youth's Assailant, After First Clues Fail

Questioning of two suspects proving futile in officers' attempts to identify an assailant who robbed and attacked Louis Pickelsimer, 17-year-old Gary, Okla., youth, last Saturday, county authorities late Tuesday began work on a third bundle of facts which they indicated probably would lead to an arrest after the unraveling.

The discovery of the second suspect was related at the courthouse late Tuesday afternoon by Constable Frank Morgan, who returned worn and unshaven from a four day jaunt into Oklahoma in search of a man answering the description of the assailant who beat up his road companion, stealing his shoes and cash. Mr. Morgan said the suspect was located early Sunday morning in Lone Wolf, Okla., by a group of Mangum deputy sheriffs. They were joined by a Lone Wolf deputy, who aided them in surrounding the home of the alleged assailant. An entrance was made into the house, and the man found, Constable Morgan said.

"But," he continued, "confronted by the suspect, the Lone Wolf deputy swore that he had had supper with our man in a Lone Wolf cafe at 11:30 Friday night, just a few hours before the crime was committed in Iowa Park."

The first suspect, arrested in Fort Worth early Sunday, was released after questioning Monday.

Pickelsimer, confined in the Wichita General hospital, is reported gradually improving.

New Nathan Lynch Store Here Joined In Annual Chain Sale

The Wichita Falls Nathan Lynch store, 724 Indiana avenue, is to be included Wednesday in the observation of the fifth anniversary of the chain of five Lynch stores maintained in surrounding communities, and is to observe the occasion, like the other concerns, in offering a gigantic sale on all merchandise, it was announced Tuesday by officials of the company. Although the Wichita Falls branch has been in operation here only a short while, the firm is to be included in the anniversary sale as an act of appreciation for the patronage of the customers here, and to give those unacquainted with the firm an opportunity to inspect its organization, it was explained.

The Lynch stores were originated five years ago when the first of the chain was opened in Burkburnett. Displays of creditable merchandise with a sale price attached that was extremely moderate are considered the two factors that led to the success of the firm there, and which led the owners to establish a branch firm in Olney. Later, other stores were opened in Archer City, Nocona and Vernon, and ultimately in Wichita Falls.

Since the sale today is to be the first offered the public by this concern in Wichita Falls, a special effort is to be made, it was said, to offer merchandise characteristic of the store at a veritable slashed rate. This is to be possible, it was explained, since Mr. Lynch, owner of the chain, in buying for the six firms at once, is given the advantage of a reduction in cost, thereby making it possible to make exceptional rates in current prices.

Grand Opera Society To Be Completed Today

Tentative plans for the formation of the Wichita Falls Grand Opera organization, which is sponsoring the appearance here of the Chicago Opera company, were reported by a special committee appointed for the purpose at a meeting of the guarantors at the chamber of commerce Tuesday.

Final action was deferred until Wednesday, or until it became known if those who have been selected to attend to all preparatory work will be able to serve. Other details of the organization, publicity campaign, sale of tickets and social and club work will be announced at the meeting Wednesday, it was said.

The permanent executive committee which is in charge of the preparations for the opera consists of Harry Hines, chairman, N. H. Martin, J. T. Harrell, Horace Robbins, W. M. Bonner, T. B. Noble Jr., Henry Ford, John F. O'Donohoe, Arthur Rayzor, Jack Barnard, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal and J. Alvin Gardner.

Gay Halloween Observed By Electra Residents

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 1. —Halloween passed quietly over Electra with the usual carnival spirit, dances, entertainments and parties, but without an accident to mar the occasion. According to officers who patrolled the streets during the evening, the enormous crowd was well behaved and there was a scarcity of drunks, reckless drivers and other law breakers who usually abound in large numbers at such times.

Electra streets were the scene of mad carnival Monday night until a late hour. Colorful costumes lent a gay air to the occasion. The P.-T. A. carnival attracted an enormous crowd.

Monday evening marked the close of a series of Halloween affairs which have claimed the attention of the social set for the past several weeks.

Visitors Here Approve Wichita Falls' Slogan

Charles W. Gold, vice-president and treasurer of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, and Fred B. Mitchell, of the loan department of the company, both of Greensboro, N. C., were in Wichita Falls Tuesday, the guests of G. H. Watson, manager of the branch office here. Both arrived here early Tuesday morning from Amarillo, and left Tuesday night for a continuation of a tour to all branch offices throughout the southwest. Mr. Gold, visiting Wichita Falls for the first time, expressed a favorable opinion of the city to officials of the local branch, and observed that "the slogan of your town is a good one."

Confederate Children To Hold Meeting Today

The Children of the Confederacy will meet at the home of Miss Wilma Brown, 1616 Tenth street, at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when business matters important to the organization will be transacted. This organization assisted in the entertainment of the delegates to the state convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy here last week.

TAILORING FIRM MOVES.

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 1.—Effective November 10, the Ashley Tailoring company, now located at 118 North Waggoner avenue, will open for business in new quarters, according to the owner and proprietor, J. M. Ashley. The new location is across the street in the building formerly occupied by the Family grocery.

Miss Oscar Lillian Bilbro, 1300 Harrison street, and her sister, Mrs. Hugh Walker of Bowie returned Tuesday from Lubbock where they were called by the death of their uncle, Dr. O. L. Thweatt. Funeral services for Dr. Thweatt were held in Post. He was a widely known physician of West Texas and had practiced in this territory for many years.

187 ATTEND OIL BANQUET

Industry Leaders Discuss New Problems

The initial meeting of the Wichita Falls Wildcat association, organization of oil men, was a pleasant surprise to local officers as well as visiting oil industry leaders at the banquet Tuesday night at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club. There were 187 men present at the banquet and more than 200 tickets had been sold, the attendance being held down by the rainstorm.

Urges Co-Operation.

J. Edgar Pew, former president of the American Petroleum Institute, former president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association and president of the Sun Oil company; J. D. Collett, president of the oil and gas association; J. P. Laney, secretary, W. H. Francis, official of the Magnolia Petroleum company and E. H. Eddleman., receiver for the American Refining company and former vice president of the Continental Oil company, were the speakers. Roy B. Jones, a vice president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association and president of the Panhandle Refining company was toastmaster.

"The oil industry needs no legislation if we well observe and enforce the conservation laws which have already been passed," declared Mr. Pew in discussing the present situation of the industry.

"The high peaks of flush production have disturbed the oil market periodically during the past five years, flush peaks are the disturbing element now and more are coming but if many more come it will mean the ruin of the small producer," declared Mr. Pew.

He urged support of the wildcat association in the work of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, declaring that no industry "needs co-operative associations more than the oil industry."

Mr. Collett, introduced by Mr. Jones as the "present and next president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association," was given a standing ovation by the Wichita Falls oil men.

He declared that he concurred with a recent statement made by E. W. Clark, A. P. I. president, who declared that "fundamentally the oil business was never in a better position but its immediate condition was never worse."

Situation Not So Bad.

"The nerves of the oil industry are on tension because we were thrown off of our balance in trying to figure out our status. The whole world has taken notice of the industry's condition and many movements are on foot to help the oil business," he said.

"But, like a man going through a clinic, if we would get away from the immediate statistics, the situation would not look so bad. We are prone to exaggerate some phases of our problems but much good is going to come from the many specific moves under foot to help the industry."

Mr. Laney read a brief report of the association's activities during the first seven months of this year, pointing out that a vast amount of data had been furnished the legislature and much oil legislation had been introduced.

Orations From Francis.

Applause given a talk by Mr. Francis indicated that it was the oratorical gem of the evening, the Magnolia official interspersing many bits of humor with a strong plea for closer co-operation between independent and major operators and urging support for the oil and gas association.

Outlining the work of the association, Mr. Eddleman said that its chief purpose has been to secure oil industry legislation but that plans are under way for other movements, notably creation of favorable public sentiment and the assurance of accurate sub-surface geological data to be obtainable for all interested.

COTTON FIGURES

Jardine Admits They Are From Private Source

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. — Cotton "carry-over" figures from the department of agriculture which have caused disturbances in the cotton market are drawn in a large part from private sources, Secretary Jardine declared today.

In the department's report of September 15, 53 per cent of the total in bales represented figures from private agencies and 47 per cent from official census bureau figures, Jardine said.

"It will therefore be seen that the figure of 7,800,000 bales was not official in the sense of having been entirely compiled from data gathered under government supervision," he added. Representative J. H. Aswell, democrat, of Louisiana, had urged Jardine to "bring to a close the controversy over the figures."

Attractive Program Given By K. of P. Lodge

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 1—The Knights of Pythias held high carnival Monday evening in their hall on Front street, with an open meeting.

A 20-piece band, composed of musicians from the different towns in this district dispensed music during the evening. Quincy Wilson presided over the meeting and the program.

W. W. Shuler of Wichita Falls, spoke on "Pythianism" and E. E. Rogers of Electra talked on "The Size of Texas."

During the stunt hour Elzie Shaw won the prize in the airplane race, Porter Sheldon won in the obstacle race and Hillard White in the fencing contest.

"The Lesson of Friendship" was given by W. E. Latham, illustrated and exemplified by J. Ray Corder, after which a luncheon of chicken, cake, hot rolls and coffee was served to approximately 200 guests and members.

Next Monday night will be "Old Timers Night" when the "old timers" will have charge of the meeting and confer the first rank upon three candidates.

Tuesday night Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Latham, J. Ray Corder, Fred Music and T. E. Shaw went to Vernon to assist in conferring the third rank.

Richland Farmer Dies While In Automobile

CORSICANA, Nov. 1. (AP)—W. C. McDaniel, 56, prominent Richland farmer, stocker and banker, was found dead Tuesday afternoon sitting in an automobile a short distance west of Richland. Heart disease was given as the cause of death. His wife and three sons survive.

Many Get Back Young Appetite

Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing, is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness, headaches; and, worst of all, you get thin, pale and weak.

If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Pape's Diapepsin handy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after your meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it.

Follow the experience of thousands who again have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Pape's Diapepsin to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in 5 minutes.

Tickets to Talley Concert Ready Soon

The Womans Forum wishes to express appreciation for the consideration of the people of the city in the matter of reserving seats for the Marion Talley concert which is to be an event of November 25 at the city auditorium. Since a floor diagram is just now becoming available, it has not been possible to give those reserving seats an accurate statement as to position of seats.

Mail order reservations have been opened with Mrs. W. W. Cook as chairman, causing a little difficulty due to the fact that there is as yet no seat plan for the auditorium, according to Mrs. G. B. Smedley, chairman of arrangements.

Within a few days, however, those who have reserved seats for the concert will be informed as to seat number and row. A large number of seats have already been sold. Mrs. Cook may be reached at telephone number 6073.

Abstract Companies Hold Halloween Dinner

The abstract companies entertained with a Halloween dinner in the basement of the court house, Monday noon. After an enjoyable repast, ribbons were drawn from the "witches pot," which contained favors for each one and a "honey moon" chest of silver for Mrs. Ruth Welchel, who is a recent bride among the abstractors.

Those present were: Misses Fay Brown, Lenna Davis, Ruby Pratt, Mabel Donegan, Mary Foster, Elizabeth Tucker, Marie Harris, and Mesdames Irene Hughes, Louise Hardeman, Queen Wilkinson, Rose Roberts, Mary Frances Anthony and Ruth Welchel.

Lamar Baptist Circles Hold Meetings

The Mary Williford circle of the Women's Missionary society of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church met Monday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. J. J. Bozman on Harvard street. Devotionals were led by Mrs. A. J. Catlin. A food sale for Saturday was planned and will be held at the Saunders store at 720 Indiana during the morning hours.

The Bible study hour was conducted by Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor, who led the discussion on the first four chapters of Matthew.

Those present were: Mesdames J. L. Beavers, J. E. Strain, E. S. Richardson, V. M. Tillerson, J. W. Givens, Catlin, A. P. Perry, W. N. Rawls, H. M. Marshall, who was a visitor, and the hostess.

Blanche Walker Circle.

The Blanche Walker chapter met with Mrs. L. E. Dodd at her home in the Ray-Massey addition Monday afternoon with ten members present. Mrs. L. H. Hood gave the devotionals. Mrs. E. G. Guy and Mrs. E. H. Day were taken into the circle as new members. All members of the circle took examinations on the mission study text "How To Pray."

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. E. G. Guy on the Iowa Park road, November 14.

Junior Girls Auxiliary.

The Junior Girls auxiliary met Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with Mrs. J. L. Powell Jr., leading the lesson and general discussion. The general program for the afternoon was followed. Seven members were present.

LOVE LENDS COURAGE

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

You Can Inspire Man You Love to Achievement

By Beatrice Fairfax.

HERE is a letter from a girl who is thoroughly happy, light-hearted and care-free as one likes to think all young girls are or should be. She is not only happy, but she knows why she is happy. She has a wonderful mother, a good home, friends, a sweetheart. And she is content and proud to be a girl.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I haven't the slightest idea that you will print this letter. But anyway, I must tell you what a lovely help your column has been to me.

"I have a wonderful mother. I always confide in her and she tells me right from wrong and always has me read your column.

"A few evenings ago in your article you gave advice to bashful girls and boys. You said, 'love brings courage.'

"How true those words are! I know from experience and I would love to tell you my story.

"Three years ago I went with a young man who belonged to a club of boys—and they were only boys in their ways—so clean and good. But it seems they all had a story about girls. Now they are so disgusted with girls they don't bother with them any more. And I don't blame them!

"Why are girls so foolish! Men do not really care for a girl who tries to be like a man. Girls were made to be girls, not to imitate anyone else. I know from experience that the girl who is her natural self is loved by everyone.

SHE MEETS A BASHFUL YOUNG MAN.

AND FINDS FINE QUALITIES UNDER THE SHYNESS

"To get back to my story, this young man introduced me to his club friends and they took a liking to me—especially one young man who had been admiring me for a year and had been trying to bring about an introduction.

"He was so terribly bashful! But he asked Dad's permission to go about with me and we became great friends. I was so disappointed in him because of his bashfulness. Then I decided to try to help him get over being so bashful. Now everyone admires him. He is the type any girl would dream of—tall, dark and handsome.

"He gives me all the credit. He says he is a changed man because I had faith in him. It was hard to help him, but I am rewarded by his love and we plan for the future.

"As you, yourself, say, 'Love brings courage.' That is what it brought my future husband. He has gone into business, is working his way up and has completely forgotten his bashfulness.

"If only girls would be girls and do little deeds like that, it would pay them so much better than running after smooth-tongued men. Then, too, if all girls would confide in their mothers, so many girls would not travel off the path. If a girl demands respect she gets it.

"My suggestion to bashful young men is, forget your bashfulness when you see The Girl and get introduced to her. Maybe she will help you overcome your shyness. 'Love brings courage.'

"My friend calls me his pal and sweetheart. If more girls were pals and sweethearts of really fine young men what good times they would have.

"Your column is wonderful and I hope you will have all the success in the world."

Dear Pal and Sweetheart, how refreshing it is to read of your happiness! How we rejoice with you and like to think of the busy, loving, joyful future awaiting you.

Pal and Sweetheart has a recipe for popularity, success, love and happiness, dear girls, which you cannot do better than try.

Confide in your mother. Talk over with her, affectionately the difference between right and wrong.

Get your father's O. K. of the man who interests you. One man's unprejudiced opinion of another is always worth heeding and respecting, especially when the one man is your father, who values your happiness above his own.

Be content to be a girl. Do not imitate men. Why should you? You may accomplish much in life in competition with men. It is natural and wise, doubtless, that you should have your work and career. But what career can compare in usefulness, peace and joy with that of being "pal" and "sweetheart" to the dearest man in the world, his helpmate and inspiration, comrade and wife, head of his home and, let us hope, mother of his children!

I can wish you no better fate, dear girls who read this column, than that, following the example of my correspondent, you may become Pal and Sweetheart to the Dearest Man in the World.

A Young Mother Asks About Her Willful Child

A YOUNG mother from California writes a letter asking for advice about the management of her little daughter. She says in part:

L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

"My young daughter is just twenty-two months old, and she worries me a great deal, and I find it very difficult to make her behave.

"My husband says she is so full of pep, and that's why it is so hard to quiet her. He believes in a light spanking when she gets 'mulish.' Do you?

"When she does not get what she wants she lies on the floor and cries and kicks her feet. Now you might say: 'You give in to her; that's why she does those things.' But I don't believe I do. She is very foxy, and it isn't that she does not understand. It is just that she doesn't want to understand."

Well, there is one consolation. Your daughter evidently has plenty of sense and plenty of pep. If you can just manage to induce the child to forget her tempers and her willful ways, she stands a good chance of making the sort of woman that the world needs.

It may be that without realizing it you are continually thwarting your child in her small undertakings. You may be so keen about her happiness, her welfare and her every movement that you get on her nerves. Let the child alone. Let her follow her own inclination up to the point where she endangers her own safety or encroaches upon the rights and comfort of other people.

The chances are that you talk to her father and to your intimate friends about her in her own presence. Don't imagine that she isn't taking it in.

Avoid conflict. Divert her attention from the forbidden object. In that way you avoid impressing the forbidden thing upon her mind. The tendency of all modern discipline is along lines of prevention.

A very young child does not understand the reasons why certain things must or must not be done; but she can readily understand the approval or disapproval which her action brings. Try ignoring her completely when she "gets mulish."

Somehow I have a "hunch" that your little girl needs an atmosphere of calm and quiet and peace for her turbulent spirit. Children sense tension in the home atmosphere and it influences their conduct more than most people realize.

It is nearly always the insignificant details which we are apt to overlook that cause the big upheavals in life. Big dangers gain our immediate attention, and we try to remedy them before the danger is done. It is the small matters that pile up, one on top of the other, until they manufacture a mountain of trouble.

As for the spanking, I honestly think that whipping a child is an admission of weakness on the part of parents. But I have known spankings to get very good results, despite all that modern child training experts say to the contrary. If parents were big enough, and wise enough, and patient enough, and determined enough, they could manage their children by their superior will power, by tactfully diverting the child from wrongdoing, by filling his time with undertakings that would make him forget to misbehave and by surrounding him with influences that would keep him in the path of right thinking and right living.

Simple Recipes for Candy

By Hannah Wing.

USING fruit juice in candies gives a wholesome sweet that is good for the system, and one that the children will enjoy eating as well as making.

Even a young child can make this one:

2 tablespoons orange juice
Yolk of one egg
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Sifted powdered sugar

Mix fruit juices and rind; let stand thirty minutes, strain and add to slightly beaten egg yolk. Add powdered sugar gradually, stirring constantly until mixture is stiff enough to hold its shape.

Lemon Creams.

2 cups sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup water
Yellow coloring

Mix sugar, water and lemon juice and boil without stirring until a little dropped in cold water forms a firm ball. Set in a pan of cold water and beat until the mixture begins to look cloudy. Add yellow coloring and drop on waxed paper to form wafers.

These creams are popular even at mother's afternoon tea.

Taffy is always fun. Lemon juice is more wholesome than vinegar and gives a glistening white candy of a pleasant, not-too-sweet flavor.

Lemon Taffy.

2 cups sugar
4 tablespoons water
4 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter

Melt butter, remove from heat, add sugar, lemon juice and water, stirring until well mixed. Cook until a little dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Pour on buttered plates and when cool pull until white and glistening. Draw into long narrow strips and cut in places with scissors or sharp knife.

Food Poisoning May Cause Hives

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

HAVE you ever had a case of "hives?"

If so, you know the torture of itching. You likewise know the joy of scratching—short, fleeting joy, but still a joyous relief.

DR. CHAS. A. L. REED

The word "hives" used to be applied to group, chicken pox, and to a creeping blistery affliction of the skin called herpes or "shingles." It is now very generally restricted to "nettle rash," which the doctors call urticaria.

Urticaria, or nettle-rash, is not a disease in itself. It is only a symptom. The first thing a doctor thinks of when he sees an attack of nettle-rash is "some kind of food poisoning," and very often he is right. But nettle-rash is not always due to food poisoning. The cause may be any one of quite a large number of things. The immediate cause of the pink and white wheals that form on the skin and which are so troublesome and itchy, is an irritation of the tiny nerve endings just below the surface. This excites the small blood vessels and lymphatic vessels of the skin and produces in them a violent and purposeless activity, and so the wheals are formed. The swelling keeps the blood from circulating freely in the "wheals" and in that way keeps out the oxygen of the blood. You scratch to force in the oxygen to give the swollen patches a little air.

Now these nerve endings may be and often are excited by some poison in the blood; not any poison, but some particular one to which the patient is particularly sensitive, and which is not necessarily a poison to another person at all. The commonest of these are the products of certain foods. Nearly every food contains some protein, which is the nitrogen part of the food. The actual composition of this protein varies very much. It is the business of the liver to change food protein into blood protein, but in some people this change does not take place thoroughly, and some of the food protein gets into the blood unchanged, and then it is highly poisonous. Again, it is the business of the lining of the bowel not to let protein substances through into the blood, and if this defense breaks down, the blood is invaded by poison, and nettle rash may be one of the results.

Other blood poisons that may cause nettle rash are the toxins generated by septic teeth, tonsils or bowels. Local irritation, like nettle stings, insect bites and "the itch" (scabies) can also show themselves in urticaria. Very susceptible people may suffer in this way from a sudden change of temperature, such as a hot or cold bath, or may come out in a rash whenever they wear certain kinds of clothing, handle certain plants or come in contact with certain chemicals. One of the symptoms of the nervous disorder called hysteria is the tendency on the patients' skin to break out in nettle rash whenever it is touched, and the doctor can write his initials on the patient's back with his finger, the wheals springing up wherever it passes.

To discover what food, if any, is responsible, a good method is to keep a diary, with all food taken entered on one page and any nettle rash attacks on the opposite page. This may detect the offending substance. Some foods may simply be avoided, but if you get nettle rash from milk or eggs it would be wise to consult a doctor about desensitising treatment.

The childish skin trouble "lichen urticatus," little hard red spots, is probably due to heat, either of clothing or of the room.

Tomorrow: Homework.

TRUE, all blame or reproof is not cruelly meant, though men flinch at the weight of a word, and the critic may speak with a kindly intent when his speech is as sharp as a sword. There is tonic, sometimes, in the turn of a phrase that can rouse men from dangerous spells, and can set their steps back into purposeful ways by the effort its candor compels. But the best aid of all that a toiler can find from day's dawn till the setting of sun comes when some one cries out, in a voice clear and kind, just this message: "Well done, friend, well done!" How it lightens the way and it brightens the day, how it helps in the race to be run, when over the tumult one hears a voice say: "Well done, friend, your task is well done!"

Fashion Fads and Fancies

By Mildred Ash

THE Light of Asia is reflected in the rich colorings and resplendent embroidery of the Mandarin coats, which are again so smart for evening wear. Of Chinese silk, elaborately embroidered, or of sumptuous brocade, these wraps satisfy the season's demand for glamour.

Hiding His Head is a typical gesture of the ostrich. Those wearing many of the elaborate evening wraps, with masses of ostrich at cuffs and neckline, have much of their heads hidden by the enormous feather collars. However, this does not prevent them from being seen, in which ambition they are totally unlike the bird whose feathers they've acquired.

Gypsy Girdles Are Girlish in the slim effect they impart to the figure they swath. Wrapped twice about the hips, such a girdle is made of very wide and supple ribbon, which is often matched, in a narrower width, for an accompanying shoulder bow. Velvet or metallic brocade ribbon is equally smart.

Stealing Brightness from Steel—Many of the most distinctive black lace or transparent evening gowns accent steel bead embroidery. Large floral motifs are especially effective.

Feeling Their Importance—Buckles of odd shapes, mounted in large stones, are demanding recognition as the most interesting trimming note of the latest frocks. Imitation rubies, aquamarine and topaz are among the settings most desired, although rhinestone and pearl buckles are still in demand. Jeweled buttons to match are used upon many of the most exclusive models.

FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling Mystery of New York Night Life

By Ann Lisle

Wilkes Offers Advice.

"ALL right," Jill answered Dan. "Why not get married right away? But not tomorrow. Wednesday. Make it Wednesday, Dan . . . . Folly may not be back tomorrow. And a girl wants her mother at her wedding."

ANN LISLE

"Make it Tuesday," Dan said.

"All right," Jill agreed wearily. "Tuesday then."

The die was cast. Tomorrow was the last day for Jill Hathaway. . . . . Suddenly she remembered that she had made MacNeil Shannon promise that he'd never even try to speak to Jill Hathaway again. But Tuesday she'd be Jill Ames . . . . And then if he ever spoke to her, it would be too late. She laughed then. Bitterly. But her voice was gentle as she said:

"I'll be a good wife, Dan. I will. I will!"

It was one in the morning when Jill got into her shabby little room at the Xavier. She had found a message in her box bidding her telephone Sam Kerby. But of course she didn't. Not at one a. m. She thought she knew what the message was—most likely that Folly would be home by dinner tomorrow night. It didn't matter much. She couldn't make it matter. Even knowing that Folly was her mother, Jill could never make herself feel that Folly was a salient part of her life.

She ignored Sam's message and went to sleep, never dreaming that Folly Duane had gone out of her life forever.

And in the meantime, down in the cottage where Anna Heath lay dead and where Vivian was fighting for sanity, Roy Scarlett was reaping a sudden whirlwind from the tares he had sown so casually and with so little actual joy in the sowing. He was facing Detective Wilkes and thinking that the detective with the hyena laugh and the look of triumph on his little pig face couldn't be real . . . It couldn't any of it be real when it was all so darn night-marish. But Wilkes' oily voice demanded attention.

"I'm here to investigate my client's death. I am acting as the—legal representative of Miss Bonnie Clair, deceased. I've got to do the right thing by the woman—since she met death by foul play."

"By accidental drowning," Roy corrected, wearily.

"She was murdered," Wilkes said grimly. "Think I didn't see the black hairs on the oar that you said hadn't any bearing on the case?"

"Who could have——"

"We'll get to that. Now in the bungalow where you was the guest of Miss Clair there was also a Mrs. Duane——"

"The one we found," Roy managed. "Out by the lily-pads?"

"Sure. Duane and Kerby, the theatrical manager. Where's Kerby?"

"He got out," Roy said wearily. "He didn't want to be mixed up in it. You see when the girls didn't come back and it got to be two or so, we went down to the lake and got a look at that boat out there tied to the lily-pads. We weren't sure it was our boat. But it didn't look good. So Kerby got into his bus and slipped off to town. He had no more to do with it than I had——"

"Sure, I know that," Wilkes agreed. "The foul play wasn't on that side of the lake——"

Then Roy went mad. He had a sudden hysterical feeling that the first thing he knew Wilkes was going to be pinning this to Vivian. And he began accusing himself of things—and making rash declarations and incriminating himself as fast as he could. He was interrupted by the approach of Dr. Potter, who came out with a warning: "Mrs. Scarlett is sleeping. I think we should consider her. Suppose we go around to the other side of the garden."

"I'm glad you're here, Doc," Wilkes said genially. "You see Miss Clair hired me to get the goods on Mrs. Scarlett and you so she could persuade Scarlett here to divorce his wife."

The doctor did not reply until he had directed his inquisitor and the gray lipped Roy to the other side of the house. Then he said quietly:

"Well, how yellow are you Scarlett? Were you falling for that?"

"I guess I was," Roy confessed with something disarming in his frank acknowledgment.

Potter looked at him strangely. Then he said quietly: "I'm nothing to Mrs. Scarlett. Nothing but the doctor who was pretty much able to manage her demented mother . . . And Nurse Adelaide is my wife."

"I knew that," Wilkes confessed with a chuckle. "It was my business to discover that. But Miss Clair offered me five hundred berries to trace Mrs. Scarlett's movements, and since she didn't confide what use she expected to make of the information it wasn't my business to tell her that this establishment was a private hospital and not a love-nest."

Roy groaned. Potter called the detective a yellow cur. And Wilkes looked at his pudgy hands and said lightly:

"Hard names break no bones. But they might cost you folks a useful friend. What you want is to have me report accidental drowning in the case of them two dames that got tipped over out on Lily-pad Lake. What you want is for me to lose all interest in the death of Anna Heath and the way it ties up with that accidental drowning out over the swamp. Is that right?"

"Name your price," Roy said in a tortured voice.

Wilkes looked at him reproachfully. "I'm a disinterested party that wants to let the dead past bury its dead. Moreover, I want to leave the living without any ghosts to bury . . . So now for the neat little sum of one grand, Scarlett, I'll hand you a hint of something I dug up on the Clair matter and wasn't planning to include in my services which was priced at five hundred. I always did count on collecting about a thousand berries from you—and to show I'm a good fellow, I'll write Clair off my books and tell you what you'd ought to know without charging you for your girl friend's job."

Roy's hand doubled into a fist. But Dr. Potter spoke warningly.

"Isn't your wife's peace of mind—and freedom from blackmail—worth a thousand dollars, Scarlett?

"It's worth a——" Roy began, and stopped short. He had been on the verge of saying it was worth a million, but he realized that Wilkes might try to collect. So he said quietly: "It's worth a lot."

"Then you go in and tell your wife that you're game to adopt the Hathaway girl and see if she doesn't get well so darn quick you'll be ashamed you didn't insist on paying me five grand instead of a measly one," said Detective Wilkes.

A Casual Invitation After a Dance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: When I am at a dance and a man asks me to dance with him, and when we are through dancing he thanks me for the dance, is it proper to say anything at all? What should be said? E. T.

YES, say something that shows your pleasure in the dance, something short and gracious, for there is time for one statement: "The dance was delightful, Bob," or "I enjoyed the dance so much, Bob. It was delightful."

Catherine Moore Becomes Bride Of Dwight Ross In Beautiful Ceremony

Amid beautiful and profuse flowers and autumn foliage which breathed a spirit of serene simplicity, Miss Catherine Moore, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Moore, became the bride of Dwight Ross in a beautifully impressive wedding ceremony performed at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening by the Rev. F. A. Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, at the home of the bride's parents at No. 4 Crestway, in the presence of about 300 friends and relatives.

The ceremony was performed in the spacious living room of the Moore residence which was decorated in a single color of white, at the north end of which had been constructed an improvised altar embanked with fern trees and plumy giant white chrysanthemums entwined with smilax. Tall lighted white tapers were set on either side of the altar and formed a clever color idea of virgin white with the large center of grouped chrysanthemums which was the background of the altar.

The aisle which led from the south entrance to the altar was marked by eight cathedral candles entwined with mingled smilax and white chrysanthemums and the bridal rope which was lowered following the bridal procession.

Bride's Gown.

The balustrade and the hall was embellished by numerous chrysanthemums of bronze, orchid and yellow with the niche at the head of the stairs bearing a gigantic basket of vari-colored flowers. The entire stairway was a bank of ferns and green foliage interlaced here and there with the colorful chrysanthemums.

The bride entered from the south entrance on the arm of her father. She was beautiful in a dress of bridal satin and train of Brussells lace caught at the neckline. She wore a Juliet cap of pearls which was in harmony with her bridal gown of simple Juliet design of tight basque with bouffant skirt of uneven hemline. She carried a huge arm bouquet of white roses and lillies-of-the-valley with the bouquet streamers falling to the floor forming a long train just the length of the train.

The bride was preceded by her matron of honor, Mrs. Ray Puckett, sister of the bride, whose gown was of four blending shades of chiffon from flesh pink to deep rose and fashioned to fit clingingly. The skirt was draped and caught at the hipline with a ornament of self material. A single rose at the shoulder was the sole other bit of adornment.

Miss Jeanette Moore, also sister of the bride and maid-of-honor, followed Mrs. Puckett in the bridal procession. She was immediately followed by Mrs. Eugene Clarke whose dress of pink heavy corded taffeta identical to that worn by the maid-of-honor, was fashioned in bouffant style with uneven hemline and ankle length in the back. The dresses were embellished by a row of alternating pink and green flowers, which descended from the waistline to the bottom of the skirt and set off the abbreviated cape collar, and by rows of knife pleated ruffles which finished the collar and the two-inch tucks circling the bouffant skirt of the gowns. A glimpse of green velvet ribbon was seen now and then in the gowns of the attendants. Pink satin slippers were worn by the attendants to the bride.

The train bearers, little Misses Virginia Moss of Tulsa, Okla., and Martha Scott, were also attired in flesh pink, their daintily ruffled dresses and pink slippers completing the ensemble of pastel pink. The crepe de chine dresses of the train bearers were adornd with rosettes of self material and French flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, H. Grady Ross of Tulsa, Okla. He entered from the north entrance of the living room and met the bridal procession at the altar.

Wedding Party.

The mother of the bride was dressed in a beautiful evening dress of transparent royal blue velvet with rhinestone and pearl trimmings and wore black satin slippers with rhinestone buckles.

Mrs. Grady England played Lohengrin's wedding march accompanied on the violin by Mrs. Jouette Bonner. Other musical numbers were a violin solo "At Dawning," Cadman, by Mrs. Bonner, and a solo, "I Love You Truly," by R. E. Shepherd accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Shepherd. Mrs. Bonner and Mrs. England played the soft strains of "The Melody of Love" during the ceremony.

The house party for the wedding and reception which followed the ceremony were the following: Mesdames W. S. Abbott, Anderson Kemp, John Harris, Wilbur Cahoon, W. U. McCutchen, S. M. Gose Jr., and Misses Chrystelle Waggoner and Ethel Moran. Receiving at the door were: Mesdames C. D. Shamburger, T. W. Roberts, Guy Raley, O. T. Bacon and John B. Rhea.

The bride's cake was a huge two-tiered confection of pink and green with decorations of green doves, green and pink sweet peas, roses and lillies of the valley. Individual cakes of green and pink and dainty ice cream slippers of the same colors were served the guests during the reception.

Mrs. Ross' going away costume was of natural colored Kasha and black coat of English worsted with a large cape collar of kalinsky sable dyed fur which also decorated the coat front to the hemline. She wore a rayon hat with all other accessories to harmonize.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross left directly following the ceremony for a wedding trip to New Orleans and to Cuba. Upon their return they will be at home at 2125 1-2 Avenue I.

The bride attended Ward-Belmont two years and was enrolled for one semester at the University of Texas. She has also studied music in New York for two years. She has been a popular member of the younger set of the city.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ross of the city but formerly of Madill, Okla. He is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma at Norman, in the class of 1921. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma social fraternity. Mr. Ross is engaged in the oil business in the city.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Harry Hall of Charleston, W. Va., who has been the guest of Mrs. Ross for the past two weeks, Mr. and Mrs. H. Grady Ross of Tulsa, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hamlin of Springfield, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Moss of Fort Worth.

First General Forum Meeting Well Attended

In presenting Miss Aree McDonald, dramatic reader of C. I. A., Denton, on the program of the opening general meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon, the Womans' Forum again gave the city a program of keen enjoyment. The auditorium was filled at the opening meeting.

Miss McDonald in her interpretation of "Mary Rose" held her audience as if they, too, were under the spell of the "mysterious island." As "Mary Rose," the leading character, she was perfect. Tears and smiles mingled on the faces of her hearers, as they did in lives of the minor characters, who lived with, and for, "Mary Rose." Personally, Miss McDonald is quite like the charming characters Barrie creates as no other author can.

Preceding her introduction of Miss McDonald, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, Forum president, made announcements concerning membership cards and explained the recent benefit performances as being for the benefit of the forum building. The three benefits under the management of the forum, cleared nearly $1700, she stated and were: The fair pageant, staged by Miss Marguerite Fisher; "The Show-Off," directed by Mrs. T. A. Hicks; and the cabaret dinner-dance under the chairmanship of Mrs. G. B. Smedley.

Mrs. A. R. Bleakley announced the flower show would be held again this year, on November 18.

Mrs. Jimmie Allred, talented pianist, gave a number from Chopin, which was a happy prelude to Miss McDonald's appearance.

Following the program, Samuel Tunt of Kansas City, art dealer, artist and personal friend of Ben Foster, gave an instructive talk on the Ben Foster collection of paintings, which is adorning the walls of the club-house, this week and next.

A pleasant half hour was spent after the program in an informal reception for Miss McDonald and an inspection of the pictures.

The following ladies were hostesses: Mesdames E. L. Fulton, J. W. Caldwell, Ben Schultz, W. F. Pagan, J. A. Bonham, J. E. Shipley, and Misses Marguerite Fisher and Dorothy Nolen.

Wouldn't it be too bad if Bobby Stayton let his present day hobby of fishing get the better of him and he spent a great deal of his time out in the woods angling? What we mean is that Bobby is far too handsome a lad to be spending even five weeks of his summer fishing as was the case last year. Bobby has a mania for angling and his summer vacation was spent at his favorite pastime in Colorado.

The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Stayton of 1811 Ninth street and will celebrate his fourth birthday in December. He has pretty hazel brown eyes, dark hair and a flashing, bright smile.

Besides fishing, Bobby likes to play with his 9-year-old brother, Billy.

Women's Club Plans Benefit Dance

The Business and Professional Women's club met Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. for the regular weekly session with Miss Ethel Andree, vice president, presiding.

Plans were completed for a Thanksgiving dance to be held November 22 at the Woman's club house, the affair being a benefit dance. Tickets will go on sale shortly at $1.50, it was decided. This will be the first benefit dance of the season and special preparations are being made for a number of features.

It was voted that plate reservations, hitherto a policy for the Tuesday night 6:30 dinners, were to be discarded and all club members choosing to eat at the Y. W. C. A. will obtain their meal in the cafeteria if they so desire.

Recent Bride Inspiration For Lovely Country Club Luncheon Tuesday

Mrs. Bryant Edwards, recent bride, was honor guest at one of the prettiest bridge luncheon parties given this season, Tuesday at 1 o'clock, when Mrs. Frank Cullum entertained 13 tables of bridge at the Country club. Mrs. Edwards, with Mr. Edwards, has just moved to Wichita Falls from Henrietta.

The table was decorated in a general color scheme of orchid and yellow with chrysanthemums of those two colors forming the predominating note. The table was set in a "T" shape and was decorated with flowers and beautiful autumn foliage the entire length and lighted with tall tapers of orchid and yellow. Orchid and yellow wax flowers set here and there at the table were filled with candies bearing out the general color scheme.

Favors were china dolls of pastel shades and place cards were of the two colors, orchid and yellow. The four-course luncheon carried out the bridal idea with its heart shaped appointments.

Mrs. Wilbur Cahoon received high score, a Dresden China poudre jar with raised flower decorations, while second prize was awarded Mrs. Charles Clough, a sandwich tray of orchid satin.

The honoree was presented a Dresden chint candelabrum, while Mrs. C. B. Hamilton of Olney, sister of the hostess, was given the house guest prize of orchid satin finished compote. Cut prizes were small silver vanities.

In the receiving line were Mesdames Cullum, L. H. Cullum, Hamilton and Mrs. A. B. Edwards.

Guests were Mesdames Edwards, Hamilton, L. H. Cullum, Cahoon, John Blain, Frank Timberlake, T. F. Delaney, Billy Maloney, Joe Mayfield, Henry Welch, W. S. Abbott, H. B. White, F. Parsons, A. D. Duck, Jim Barnard, Leslie Sheldon, C. C. Myers, Alfred Miller, Leslie Stringer, O. B. Kiel, John Harris, Raymond Myers, Dudley Golding, Harry Myers, Jack Barnard, Clough, Walter Bachman, Dillard Anderson, Ike Upchurch, C. I. Francis, W. B. Omohundro, Harvey, Charles Anderson, J. A Kemp Jr., Charles McGaha, J. L. Jackson, Sam Mann, Jouette Bonner, and the following guests from Henrietta: Mesdames Carl Green, George Alexander, Brack Staggs, Cedrick Taylor, Million, and Misses Margaret Smith, Suda Willis, Vera Hale, Ivy B. Larkin, Margaret Noble, Dorothy Dale, and Ruth Payne of Henrietta.

Zundelowitz P.-T. A. Meets Tuesday

Zundelowitz P-T A. met Tuesday afternoon at the school with an interesting program of music and inspirational talks.

Mrs. P. B. Cox chose as her subject "Child Welfare," which proved to be most interesting to the mothers present. Musical numbers by the children of the school glee club led by Miss Vaughn were given. Dr. Paul Henry Packard gave a short talk in conclusion of the afternoon's program.

Helen Adams and her mother, Mrs. Adams, gave a piano duet from the overture of "Poet and the Peasant." Following the business session, a picture was presented to Miss Kimball, who is a teacher at Zundelowitz, for having the most mothers present representing her pupils.

T. E. L. Class Meets At Church

The T. E. L. class of the Lory Memorial Baptist church met Monday at 3 o'clock at the church. Plans were discussed for the future and it was decided to meet the first Tuesday in each month.

The following were present: Mesdames O. C. McWhirter, C. W. Briley, L. W. Abbe, A. L. McCloskey, F. H. Conatser, E. T. Wells, S. A. Byrd and W. D. Allison.

The class will meet Tuesday, December 6, with Mrs. O. C. McWhirter at her home, 1412 Twelfth street.

QUITAQUE P.-T. A. BUSY.

QUITAQUE, Nov. 1—More than $80 was taken in Friday night at the carnival put on by the P.-T. A. at the high school auditorium. The different shows that were given were enjoyed by many. The main play in the auditorium was enjoyed by more than 500.

After expenses are paid there will be something over $60 to be used in equipping the play grounds.

Sam Houston P.-T. A. Closss Campaign

Sam Houston P.-T. A. has taken a great deal of interest during the past few weeks in obtaining members for their organization. Reports are to the effect that the "Blues" were most diligent in their work inasmuch as Thursday afternoon they will be entertained by the "Reds." The following announcement was reported: "The Losing side, the "Red" will entertain the winning side, the "Blue" Thursday at 3:30 in the afternoon, as the result of the P.-T. A. membership contest. Come and be entertained if you are a Blue. Help entertain if you are a Red. We need you. Let's make it 100 per cent."

Speaking of Little Old New York

ACCORDING to a New York newspaper, the school population of that city passed the million mark last year. There is a further increase this year of about 21,000, bringing the total enrollment to the impressive figure of 1,034,822.

According to the same newspaper the number of children who are receiving education at municipal expense is equal to the combined populations of the states of Vermont and Rhode Island.

Indeed, they are numerous enough to replace the population of Albany, Cincinnati and Indianapolis.

Men who shape the destiny of Greater New York appear to be determined that all the children of all the people on Manhattan Island shall be given developed brains and trained hands.

Jackie Coogan's Wealth

JACKIE COOGAN, through his father and his broker, paid $100,000 for fourteen lots in the Hollywood district. Then it became known that Jackie has purchased in recent years thirty different pieces of property.

His most valuable single holding is a $300,000 business block.

He owns two ranches, a group of store buildings, a residence, a public garage and numerous improved and unimproved business corners. In the year 1924 alone Jackie invested more than $500,000 in real estate.

His broker let the reporters know that the real estate holdings alone, at their present rate of increase in value, would make the boy actor a multi-millionaire before he is 21.

Jackie is a romantic personality of the screen. His father is his guardian, his broker makes his investments. If he keeps on he may be in the Ford or the Rockefeller class.

Borah's Irish Blackthorn

SENATOR BORAH of Idaho is ready to use the big stick on the old gurd of the Republican party unless the old guarders agree to a definite stand on the prohibition issue.

His big stick is a huge Irish blackthorn. Rev. Father M. J. Keyes, a Catholic priest of Idaho, is an admirer of the senator. He visited Ireland. He purchased the blackthorn and he expressed it to America to his senatorial friend with instructions to make use of it where it would do the most good.

All the forecasters predict a very lively presidential campaign next year with the western senator leading the fight for a platform declaration on prohibition enforcement by the master minds who name candidates and write platforms for the republican party.

Not Moral Turpitude

VIOLATION of prohibition and narcotic laws does not constitute a sufficiently grave display of moral turpitude to warrant the deportation of aliens, the United States court of appeals, sitting in Atlanta, decided in the case of Nicholas Skrmeta of Savannah in the good old state of Georgia. Nick is privileged to continue his habitat under the flag of the free.

How It Happened

FORMER Congressman William D. Upshaw of Georgia has furnished an alibi. He is not guilty of misuse of his franking privilege. An irresponsible clerk is responsible for the mischief done. Irresponsible clerks or careless reporters are ever getting prominent citizens of high standing in awkward places the country over. Dismiss the irresponsible clerks and chastise the irresponsible reporters who make life miserable for the truly great.

A Long Hop

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The last movie in New York for the delicate minded has passed. The Capitol has gone Roxy. Formerll, this was the only theater in which the all necessary presentation was quiet, seemly, and in some measure coinciding with the motion pictures presented. Now a fullblast organ has been installed; the orchestra, once the pride of the city, has been submerged in a narrow pit, the stage has been outfitted with a moving platform and other popular devices and star vaudeville performers have been hired to jazz up the show. In place of the classic overture, we now have the "Capitolians," a jazz orchestra on the stage, whose members can Charleston, sing mammy songs and generally get hot, as the vernacular has it. In place of the subdued yet graceful dancing of the Chester Hale girls, we have a group of underdressed chorines descending an illuminated stairway. O Tempora, O Mores!

I accept the passing of summer . . . The chimney sweep is around, collecting orders to clean out fireplace flues . . . The first small yellow chrysanthemums are budding out in the garden . . . The hickory nuts are kicking under my feet and the squirrels make a terrible chatter of morning . . . The beach is practically deserted, even on the bluest and warmest of mornings, all the clattering fraulein and their charges having migrated south to West End avenue and Riverside Drive . . . The grass no longer needs cropping . . . The 5:13 to Mamaroneck arrives here on the edge of dusk . . . Pumpkins lie shimmering in the fields along Weaver street and the roads to White Plains . . . Lights bloom out early in all the little houses.

I was dining with friends, and my hostess told me of the inconceivable stupidity of their janitor. "He's really a moron" she said, "—a Czech, I think." "Yes" wisecracked her husband, "a blank Czech!"

William Randolph Hearst has bought the old Belmont mansion at Sands Point, Long Island. The baronial shack contains an electric elevator which thoughtfully deposits such guests as like service right down on the beach. Mrs. Belmont, natives of Port Washington used to say, objected strenuously to the sightseers who used to gallop to view the old Sands Point light house. That light house has been removed during the last few years, but maybe Mrs. Belmont had her sense of privacy so shattered by what England calls "trippers" that she just wasn't able to enjoy the manse any more. Anyhow, it's sold.

Dirty little boys run up to you as you try to park your car in the narrow confines of MacDougal street, crying, "Watch y'r car for yuh, mister." And when you come out of the restaurant where you have to ring the bell and ask, sotto voce, for Antoine or Sebastiano or Jules, when you cross over under the glaring arc lights of the Provincetown Playhouse, and seek your chariot once more, the same little boys are still on the job, dirtier than before, more exigent than before. This MacDougal street always makes me think of some incredible stage setting, it is so noisy, so melodramatic, so overemphasized, so Belasco. I expect some preposterous Lulu Belle to step out from the crowd and do her stuff, as the people on the bylines applaud. It is a sordid, pushing, polyglot, altogether amusing thoroughfare. And the last is irony!

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Had Good Intentions — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi's going to do her Christman shopping early. She's got the best intentions in the world but she makes a slight detour in following them. Hats—a whole window of them made her remember that she needs one. The two color felt she wears goes very smartly with her tweed suit, but for other clothes, other hats.

Where is the Christmas list now, forgotten in favor of this felt with the tiara trim on which ostrich brushes are mounted. Doesn't it look French? Doesn't it look new? Doesn't it look as though Mitzi should own it? Well, she should and undoubtedly will.

It's so unusual. The crown, for instance, is melon shaped. A bow takes the place of the brim in front. There's only one thing to remember when looking at a hat like this—to have it sent home. There's only one thing to forget when Mitzi goes Christmas shopping and that's her list, her ambition, and her money. She does all of them.

Mitzi finished by getting this small black velvet model with the feather trimmings at the side—side trimmings are of great importance in the millinery world right now. after all, she has done a day's shopping even though it wasn't the shopping she meant to do. It's good Mitzi started her Christmas shopping early—she needed too!

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is

LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the famous director,

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a quearulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. De Brissac makes love to Hattie as part of her training for screen work and Hattie seems powerless to resist him. She refuses to go with him on his yacht away from her family, however. O'Malley, to whom she becomes engaged, advises her to try to get work at another studio and invites a lawyer to look over her contract with De Brissac. A rival studio gives her a part and she goes to work for them.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

It soon became evident that Mr. Mortimer assumed skill in all who worked for him. What would he say to her when he discovered that she didn't know her job? For she didn't. She didn't know much of anything. De Brissac had coaxed and cajoled, had stung and then patiently guided. But this man merely told her what emotion she had to express, expecting her promptly to express it. She didn't know how; hardly, indeed, heard him. She had never been trained to attentiveness. He would give her lines, offhand, to be uttered before the camera; but she couldn't keep them in her head.

At noon he led her aside and bluntly asked what her experience had been. This by an old English stairway. She wondered how the carpenters could make it look like elaborately carved wood. It wasn't anything of the sort. She knew they knocked these sets together in no time at all—a day, or two, or three.

He said—"Sit down here. Now tell me, what did you do before this De Brissac picture?"

"I worked in a printing shop, wrapping magazines."

"You weren't in pictures?"

"No, sir."

"Nor on the stage?"

"No, sir."

"No experience at all, eh?"

"Well—no, sir."

"But good God, when I undertook to pay you a hundred and fifty dollars a week, I did suppose that you" . . . he kicked angrily at a tread. "So I've got to take time every day for two months teaching you the things I'm paying you to know."

Her head dropped downward. She couldn't lift it.

"Just stop and think what this means. You're selling for a high price something you haven't got. You're getting money under false pretences. Oh my God, can we wonder that outsiders say we picture men are a pack of damn fools? . . . Well, what're we going to do about it?"

She was crying now, but got out huskily the words—

"I don't know."

"What did de Brissac hire you for, anyway? Just as a type? Has he gone off his head? . . . Oh, well, go and get some lunch and come ready to learn something. Crying isn't going to help us a damn bit. I'll just have to see if I can get anything at all out of you. If I can't, it'll make a lovely picture."

That was how the gulf between them first opened up. From day to day it widened. And as her sense of failure deepened it seized on her immature faculties like a paralysis. There were scenes on that set, as the days and weeks went by, that she could live through only because her spirit was benumbed. It became, in a defensive instinctive way, calloused. She worked on, because she had to work on. She couldn't speak at home of her failure, confusedly saw, the day drawing swiftly nearer on which her salary would stop. They'd never offer her another job here. Even though she was learning a little, doing her best every day, doggedly fighting it out, she couldn't please Mr. Mortimer. She was the wrong kind for him. And she could never go back to Earthwide. They'd hardly forgive her for jumping her contract and leaving a lawyer to tie up the loose ends. She was afraid to meet any of them, even on the street.

It would have helped if she could have had some little information of the progress on the other picture. De Brissac had promised to make her, and she still deeply believed in him. But no one spoke of it. She watched feverishly the notes and announcements of pictures in the newspapers and eagerly bought and read the picture magazines. But there was never a word. She couldn't understand it. The fantastic thought came that they might have suppressed it as a punishment to her. In such moments she quite forgot all it had cost. And she hardly dared speak about it to Henry. She even began, as fantastically, to fear that they might some day release the picture just to exhibit her little self to the whole world for the imposter she was.

Henry, for that matter, needed cheering nearly as much as she. The San Francisco men delayed endlessly. He was beginning to dream of raising the capital in New York. There, after all, was the real money. And she blindly encouraged him. The only small thrill in life for her these days arose from the knowledge that she could cheer him. A girlish ideal of marriage, of the helpmate, was her support.

One morning they went out on location in Pasadena. On the way back they stopped at Franks Restaurant, in Beverly, three limousines full of them, for lunch. De Brissac was there.

Hattie couldn't eat. She couldn't enjoy a friendly tone of the crowded room . . . Charlie Chaplin, in make-up and costume chatting vivaciously with Rob Wagner, outlining with a deft little rush of pantomine a play he meant to write one day (she caught a phrase of it here and there)—Agnes Ayres and Lila Lee and May MacAvoy talking from table to table—Conrad Nagel and Jack Holt eating the clawless lobster of the Coast—solemn authors from the East sitting at an end table with the Screen-Writers Guild—at other tables Sir Gilbert Parker and Edward Knoblock and Somerset Maugham — it seemed almost a village scene, everybody knowing everybody else, a gay picture of oddly painted faces and costumes exquisite and grotesque and of friends moving from this table to that for a brief visit, all stared at by a few family parties of Iowans . . . for there, with two other of the Earthwide directors, sat de Brissac.

She had to fight down a tendency to flush. His hand was all right, though she thought she saw a white scar across the back. He smoked his cigarette with his old easy grace, laughed in his offhand way. He even gave her a careless nod across the room. As if nothing had happened. She felt afraid. Her one thought was to get out without having to speak to him. She couldn't do that. But she couldn't leave before the others in the Plantagnet party, and he managed to catch up with her as she was opening the screen door.

He said then—perfectly de Brissac, without a flutter of the nerves (her pulse was racing like mad)—"You haven't tied up with Mortimer for more than the one picture, have you Hattie? . . . No? . . . Well, don't."

That was all. It puzzled her. He turned to light a cigarette at the gas flame on the counter, and let her go.

(To be continued.)

"You haven't tied up with Mortimer for more than the one picture, have you, Hattie?"

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occure from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us, to that effect.

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly, and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It rops your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

The ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?

Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

Whosoever therefore shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation: of him also shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glory of his Father with the holy angels.—Mark viii, 36-38.

"I AIN'T NO BOY"

HARRISBURG, Pa.—"Boy, take off that cap," said Judge W. M. Hargest, interrupting a case and turning to a witness near the bar. "I ain't no boy," replied a little colored girl pulling off the cap and displaying a boyish bob. She then sat down again and replaced the cap. Deliberately and pensively the judge wiped his spectacles.

Chief Faults of Wives Recited By Gathering of Their Husbands

Chief Faults in a Wife Which Got the Highest Votes Among a Gathering of Husbands Were: Nagging, Jealously, Oversensitiveness and Lack of Domesticity — With Temper and Nerves Close Seconds.

The worst fault that a wife can have is to be a nagger," said a man who was one of a group of men discussing the frailties of women. "Though a woman has all of the virtues under the sun, they are as nothing if she is a nagger. For the tongue of the nagger is as the pebble in the shoe, a thorn in the flesh, a stinging gadfly, a hair shirt, anything that torments you without seasing, that rubs your nerves raw, and that will not let you rest day nor night.

"I speak as one having experience, for I am married to a woman who would be an angel if she were not also a nagger. She is everything that is fine and admirable in character. She is the soul of loyalty and devotion. She would die for me if it were necessary, but she makes my life such a burden to me by her nagging that there are times when I would be glad to die myself. For she is one of those who can never say anything once and let it go at that. She says things over a million times, and she harps on the same thing until it maddens you.

"I did not marry to get a jailer, and so I have seen no reason why I should give up several harmless little habits of mine. One of these is smoking, another is reading at night, another going out very occasionally of an evening. My wife objects to all of these and also to my drinking coffee black. And for thirty years, with deathless optimism, she has fought them.

"In all that time I have never lit a cigarette, or turned on my light for an hour's enjoyment with a book, or started downtown, or drank my morning coffee without hre going over the same old protests about how I was wasting my money, injuring my health, and so on. I must be a grand and glorious feeling to be able to do what you want to, when you want to do it, and the way you want to do it, without anybody making a comment on it.

"A long time ago I lent an old friend a little money that he has never been able to repay. And another time, many years ago, I made a bad investment and lost a thousand or so. I have never heard the last of either transaction. Every time there is anything we can't afford in the family my wife drags up the money I lent to poor old Jim. Every time I contemplate a new business venture she throws in my teeth how little judgment I have, as witness that time I guessed wrong about the stock market.

"Of course, the result is that I have learned not to tell her anything that I can keep from her, because I don't want to be nagged about it if it goes wrong. And then she nags me because I don't confide in her!"

"I think that jealousy is the worst fault that a wife can have," said the second man, "and the hopeless thing about that is that it is sheer insanity. It is a hallucination where a woman sees things that aren't there, so there is no way to keep yourself from getting in bad, no matter how discreet and circumspect you are. And there is no arguing or reasoning with it, because a jealous woman is just plain nuts.

"Now look at me. Heaven knows I'm no sheik. I am a plain, fat, middle-aged man getting shy of hair. There is nothing about me to attract the eye of any flapper, and I haven't money enough to interest the gold-diggers.

"You would think any wife would consider me a safe bet, but not so.

"If I even speak to a girl on the street, my wife gets green-eyed and accuses me of trying to flirt with her. I can't even be decently polite to any woman under 80, and who isn't getting toothless and crippled up with rheumatism.

"I wouldn't dare to have a girl in my office, or to take an old woman friend out to lunch. And if at a dinner party I show any interest in my partner, or dance with a woman twice, we have scenes and tantrums when we get home. Why, my wife is even so jealous of my mother and sisters that she is not willing for me to visit them, and when they come to see me we all feel that we are sitting on a dynamite cache that is liable to explode at any minute."

"The worst fault a wife can have," said the third man, "is sensitiveness. My wife is one of those delicate, sensitive creatures who keep their feelings spread all over the place, and no matter how you watch your step you are always trampling upon them.

"She is a trouble hound who can find something to get hurt about in the most casual statement, and who can scent out a hidden criticism in a remark about the weather.

"If I happen not to be hungry, she is cut to the quick because she knows I don't like the cooking; if I forget any little fool anniversary it is because I have grown tired of her; if I neglect to kiss her and pay her a compliment, it is because I don't love her, and then she turns on the hydrant and floods the place with tears. I pledge you my word I spend half my time apologizing for things that I don't know I've done, and I sometimes wonder if it wouldn't be mighty peaceful and soothing to have a wife with a sense of humor and a hide like a rhinoceros."

"I think that the worst fault a wife can have is for her to be undomestic," said the fourth man. "My wife is handsome and intelligent, a good woman and a charming one, but she just hasn't any gift as a homemaker. I furnish the raw materials for making a home, a good house, good furniture, good food, but she does nothing with them. Everything in our house is topsy-turvy.

"There is never a meal on time, or one that isn't so badly cooked that it is first-aid to the undertaker. The kitchen is always a clutter of dirty dishes and pots and pans. The floors always need sweeping, the beds making. The children are neglected. Their faces always need washing and their hair combing and their stockings darning. I see all the money I make wasted, everything going to wrack and ruin, and I feel that I could forgive my wife every other fault on the calendar if only she would make us a comfortable home."

"And while you are talking about the aggravating faults of wives, what about temper? What about the wives who are viragoes! What about the wives who boss their husbands around and treat them as if they were morons? What about the wives with a reformation complex? What about the wives who always tell you what mother says? What about the wives who have a mania for new cults, and who ring in a new religion or new dieting system on you every other week?" demanded the other men.

"Each man thinks the brand of aggravatingness that he has to deal with is the worst," said the first man.

MENU HINT.

While there are summer as well as winter pancakes, we usually think of them as a cold weather dish. So-called caramel pancakes make a change from the ordinary way of serving and children enjoy them as much as grownups. They make a nice luncheon dessert for the school children or may be served at supper just as well.

Cereal with Top Milk
Sliced Oranges Caramel Pancakes
Coffee, Cocoa or Milk

Bran Muffins—Diabetic.

One cup sour milk, two cups bran, three eggs, beaten separately, two tablespoons butter, one level teaspoon soda, pinch salt. Beat egg yolks and add melted butter. Add soda to bran and add alternately with sour milk. Fold in beaten whites. Bake in moderate oven 25-30 minutes. This makes twelve muffins weighing thirty grams each, containing approximately, protein 2.23; fat, 3.71; carbohydrates, 1.8.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for It."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or when you even suspect the approach of constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease!

Only one word of warning: the above advice is true of genuine Castoria. The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature is genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know as to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

NO DIPLOMA YET

Yaqui Joe, the Sonora Indian youngster schooled in the wiles of the wrestling game by the wily old master of them all at the 145-pound limit, Matty Matsuda, still has not learned enough to steer clear of the wolfish Dutch Mantell. Joe, in town the past several days on stop-over, preliminary to leaving for matches in the east, carried with him a thickly-bandaged digit, result of recent altercation with the Luxembourg monkey-man. Mantell, who calls the Indian a savage, but who himself wolfs at least one raw hamburger steak a day and resorts to biting, gouging and kicking when in the ring, nearly chewed off one of Joe's fingers the other night. The Indian, it is said, may be forced to amputate a portion of the index to avoid blood poison complications that appear on the verge of setting in.

* * *

Some people in this neck of the plains call that wrestling. They hardly could call it "framed" wrestling. Strangely, there are many fans who seem to enjoy watching the apish Mantell use this kind of tactics. That is a matter of taste. Some of us have peculiar tastes.

* * *

Speaking of tastes, here's one of another sort:

That displayed by a young woman the other evening in a down-town eatery, making a meal of apple pie and fried prunes. Alternating, first a bite of pastry, then a slug of the Irish, apparently contented and enthusiastically enjoying the repast.

* * *

The insurance firm which the other day wrote accident policies covering an entire Oklahoma football team displays a taste for the unusual and if not for the unusual at least for taking a sporting chance where the odds are many.

* * *

There's the rural correspondent whose taste, if not the best, is refreshing in the combination method he uses in reporting to this sports page the athletic news of his village, telegraphing: "The Manitou boys' basketball team lost to Byers (or some such club) in a hot game last night. Manitou school officials plan immediate installation of shower baths."

* * *

Biffer vs. Grappler.

Back to the wrestlers, Bob Edgren, one of the smartest sports writers in the game, doubted through these columns Monday morning that a topnotch wrestler could beat any one of several topnotch boxers in a mixed match. Sir Robert declared he did not believe; among others, that a wrestler could beat Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney. Perhaps Tunney could run too fast, but Jimmy Londos, the Greek heavyweight matman and close friend of Dempsey, they say, has trimmed Jack in any number of private mixed matches behind closed doors with the understanding that Dempsey endeavor his utmost to score a knockout on the wrestler. A wrestler has too many routes in which to travel at taking a boxer to the floor. He can cover up, weather an attack of fists long enough to clinch, for instance, or he can stand back, let the boxer lead, fall away from the punch and take the boxer down with his feet (like Yaqui Joe does). A wrestler can go on his hands and knees and the second a fighter steps in for a rabbit punch (the only blow in this case he could land), lunge in and grab the biffer by the legs. There are others.

Princeton-Ohio State Mill Draws Spotlight

By ROBERT A. HEREFORT.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Although every section of the country can boast what the bizarre lingo of sports calls "grid classics" Eastern fields are particularly prosperous in first class football attractions this coming week-end.

Princeton, one of the few undefeated and untied teams of the East draws the sports spotlight to Tigertown when it encounters Dr. Wilce's rejuvenated Ohio state fighters in the leading inter-sectional affair of the day.

Harvard, which renewed an old union by giving Pennsylvania Princeton's place on her schedule will travel to Philadelphia for another interesting contest.

Yale Meets Maryland.

Yale, which has rallied from the defeat at the hands of the fighting Georgia eleven to establish itself as one of the East's really great elevens and a favorite for the sectional championship, will meet another southern invader, Maryland, at the Yale bowl.

Where these contests featuring the old "Big Three" members may have the more color, the struggle between Pittsburgh and W. and J. at Pittsburgh will find more at stake. Pittsburgh, crushing its way to the front with convincing victories over West Virginia and Carnegie Tech is undefeated and untied and is making a serious bid for national mythical championship honors. W. and J. also has suffered neither a tie or a defeat and boasts one of the finest backfield combinations in the East.

Dartmouth and Brown meet at Providence but much has been taken from the glamur of this usually first rate game by the complete collapse of the once famous "iron men."

Army Rests for Micks.

Army, resting for Notre Dame on the following Saturday meets F. and M. at West Point, while navy, with an interesting little brawl scheduled with Michigan a week from Saturday, will also take things easily against West Virginia Wesleyan at Annapolis.

West Virginia journeys out to Columbia, Mo., to repay a call which the Tigers made to Morgantown last year.

The southern headlines are the Florida-Georgia and Alabama Kentucky tilts at Jacksonville and Birmingham; Notre Dame and Minnesota fighting to keep their undefeated records, will hold the attention of midwestern fans, while Washington and Stanford meet on the coast.

Texas A. & M. and Southern Methodist university, undefeated in conference play, meet at the home of the Aggies in a game which may decide the championship of the southwest.

M'COY SIGNS FOR BRACE.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1. (AP)—Johnny McCoy, El Paso, Texas, flyweight who last Friday won the right to sit on the throne recently vacated by Fidel Labarba—as long as the regal chair remains in California—has been signed for two November fights. Fred Winsor, manager of the world title holder, today announced McCoy would fight Freddy Imperial, at Fresno November 14. The weight will be 116 pounds and the distance up to ten rounds. McCoy's second November bout will be ten rounds at 118 pounds against Chuck Hellman at Portland, Ore., November the 21st.

Race horse named after Loyola university quarterback. Let's hope the nag doesn't try any delayed passing.

Strange as it may seem, this new barefoot football squad is said to be giving the OTHER teams cold feet.

GOLFERS, BEWARE!

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Golf scores are expected to soar as the result of the appearance on the market of a newly patented automatic stroke recorder.

The device is shaped much like a pedometer, used to measure walking distances and works on the same principle.

Mickey Walker Batters Old Mike McTigue Into Dreamland

Middleweight King Needs Less Than Round To Defeat Old Warrior

RINGSIDE, COLISEUM, CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—In exactly two minutes and fifteen seconds, of as furious punching as has ever been seen in a Chicago ring, Mickey Walker, middleweight champion of the world, tonight battered into utter helplessness, Mike McTigue, the former leader of the light heavyweights. And it was fully five minutes after the bout had come to its sudden and spectacular finish, before McTigue was able to look up from where he was sprawled on a chair in Walker's corner and take anything like a lively interest in what was going on about him.

Four times in that furious two-thirds of a round, McTigue was dropped. Twice he hung helplessly across the lower rope of the ring. Three times he struggled to his feet, his game old spirit carrying him on. As rapidly as he was up, Walker, rushing from his post in the distant corner, was on him, and his savage right hand crushed home. There followed a flurry of Walker punches, rights and lefts, all to the jaw. The blood spurted from Mike's face, his knees sagged and eventually he went down.

There was no withstanding the avalanche of leather that was hurtling at him tonight.

When McTigue had dropped for the fourth time, a certainty to be counted out, his manager, Jimmy Johnston tossed in the sponge.

McTigue fell for the final time in Walker's own corner. It was utterly impossible to drag the fallen gladiator across the ring to his own corner, and it was fully five minutes after that before the first aid of Johnston and the wrecking crew had revived Mike enough for him to pose for a picture with his conqueror.

In the semi-windup, which wasn't staged until after the Walker-McTigue doings, Roleaux Saguero, the Cuban, registered his third straight knockout, locally. His victim this time was Benny Ross of Buffalo. He lasted one round and 23 seconds of the next.

When Referee Dave Barry came into the ring to handle the second bout of the evening, his appearance was the signal for a terrific uproar, one part of the house cheering, the other booing the man who had figured so prominently in the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

During the first round of the bout, which was between Joe O'Malley and Johnny Sherrod, the crowd took up the counting "one-two" and so on up to fourteen.

It was far and away the most enthusiastic outburst ever inspired by a referee in this city, and the enthusiasm was limitless, whether the rooters happened to be for Barry or against him.

COWBOY MAY FIGHT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. (AP)—A six foot three, 200-pound cowboy, Dick Shelton of Fort Worth, who has been wrestling 900-pound steers off their feet at the Madison Square Garden rodeo, is being sought as a heavyweight boxing hope. Enterprising managers have pointed out to him that he can make more money fighting than he can wrestling longhorns. If he passes up the boxing "rocket" he may find a future on the mat. Wrestling a mere man should be easy.

SAN MARCOS WINS.

SAN MARCOS, Nov. 1. (AP)—The San Marcos Academy Cubs won an overwhelming victory from the St. Mary's academy eleven of San Antonio here this afternoon, 60 to 0.

Princeton Tigers continue practice drill, despite rain, boasts New Jersey sheet. My, my, what hemen those boys are! No galoshes or anything. Tek! Tek! Tek!

Frogs To Be At Best For Hogs

Crippled Christians Round Back Into Shape

FORT WORTH, Nov. 1.—Definitely in the race again for the championship of the Southwest Conference football title by their 14-0 victory over the Baylor University Bears Saturday in Waco, the T. C. U. Horned Frogs Monday resumed practice with more ginger than they have shown this year.

Coaches Matty Bell and Ed Kubale were disappointed over the loose game the Frogs put up against the Bears but elated, nevertheless over the victory and the success of the Christians in breaking the tie jinx that has followed them in their other two conference contests. The Purple's mentors realize the Frogs have a dangerous opponent Saturday in meeting the Arkansas Razorbacks on Frog field.

Although Coach Schmidt's Crimson eleven has shown but little power in their combats with other conference teams so far this year, their decisive victory Saturday over the strong Louisiana State University eleven is proof that they have greatly improved and may prove the undoing of the Fighting Frogs.

The Frog squad should be back in shape before Saturday unless more men are injured in practice this week. No serious injuries resulted from the clash with the Bears. Captain "Blackie" Williams seems about recovered from the lame ankle and Fullback Orrin Thompson has practically eliminated the limp from his leg. Amos Melton, Frog center, seems to be recovered from an injury to his side, "Slim" Stedman, star Frog end, is still using a cane to get about on his bad ankle but may be able to get into the Arkansas game.

34 Conversions Made In Revival At Burk

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 1.—Thirty-four conversions have already been made at the revival which is being held at the Baptist church here by the Rev. M. B. Hayes, rector, and Herbert Tindley, singer from Lubbock. The meeting started Sunday morning. Sunday evening the evangelist preached on "The Two-fold Effect of the Cross," and Monday evening on "Knowing Jesus." A record crowd attended both services.

The meeting will continue until the end of next week, with the next Sunday services being concentrated on the young people.

HUGHES HEADS DELEGATES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. (AP)—Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, will head the American delegation to the Pan-American Congress at Havana, opening January 16.

Youth Killed As Auto Overturns

KNOX CITY, Tex., Nov. 1.—Floyd Chesnut, 21, was killed five miles north of here tonight when his automobile overturned on the Knox City-Benjiman road. Chesnut's skull was crushed and he was otherwise bruised and mangled. Some mystery surrounds the accident as the road at the point where the car overturned is straight. A witness who saw the youth just before the crash stated he was driving at a ver yhigh rate of speed. The boy was sitting on a box resting on the chassis as the car had been stripped down.

Chesnut came here yesterday seeking work and today said he was going to see his uncle, E. V. Landreth, who lives near here. The youth was from Brazos.

Jewelry Salesman Loses $70,000 In Diamonds

CHICAGO, Nov. 1. (AP)— J. S. Alexander, a salesman for a New York firm, reported to the police today that he had been robbed of diamonds valued at $70,000.

Alexander said he was displaying them to Nathan Kahn, West Side jeweler, when two men held him up and drove away in a motor car in which a third man waited.

Playing 'em Over
With the Dixie Champions

The Spudders won their seventh straight game from the Atzmen Saturday, May 14. The contest was staged at Panther park and Tom Estell blanked the enemy before the home town boys while the Spudders slammed Watt and Moore for 11 hits and seven runs, making the victory margin, 7 to 0. Estell gave up five hits.

Wichita Falls clubbed over two runs in the first frame, scoring on Mann's single, a fumble, Lamb's double and an infield out by Jenkins.

Turgeon and Swenson singled in the fourth after there was one out. Lapan and Estell walked, forcing in a run and then LaFayette singled to score two more.

Lapan and Estell walked again in the sixth. LaFayette forced Estell at second. Mann singled scoring Lapan and Fitzgerald singled to score LaFayette.

LaFayette was the high hitter with two doubles and a single. Mann and Swenson each got a couple of safe blows.

HAGEN SHADES JACK FARRELL

Johnny Farrell Loses To Tommy Armour

CEDAR CREST COUNTRY CLUB, DALLAS, Nov. 1. (AP)—Walter Hagen, the invincible, pulled a typical comeback today and defeated Jack Farrell of Glen Head, N. Y., 3 and 2, after he had trailed the New York youngster almost all the way. "The Haig" came through with a victory in spite of the fact he was missing many of the long putts that he ordinarily makes and was finding the rough and the woods now and again. He was four behind when he started the afternoon round and did not come to the front until the 27 hole. After that, however, he was master of the situation while Farrell seemed to crack.

The match was really decided at the 28th hole where Farrell pushed his second to the rough and then dropped an approach into a ditch near the green.

Farrell was not the only crack player to fall by the wayside however. His namesake, Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., struggled vainly all day to down Tommy Armour, the open champion, but Armour forged ahead in the afternoon to win 4 and 3. It was a battle of friends, Armour and Farrell having paired throughout the winter in many matches and exhibitions. Both had won a number of winter fixtures.

Cruickshank Loses.

Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., another heavy winner in the winter circuit, lost a heartbreaking battle when Anthony Manero of New York, came back in the afternoon to win, 4 and 2. Manero was four down in the morning, and finally squared the match at the 27th, outputting Cruickshank on the last nine to win.

Albert Aleroft of Youngstown, Ohio, who dazzled galleries yesterday by beating Hagen on the first 18 and scoring 144 to tie for second over the 36 qualifying holes, caught a tartar in Morte Dutra of Tacoma, who stroked the Youngstown pro out of the picture 12 and 11 in the most crushing defeat of the day.

Gene Sarazen, cocky little New York Italian who set a course record of 68, was carried to the 37th hole by Jack Curley of Marlsborough, Mass. He eliminated Curley one up on the 37th hole.

Klein Beats Mehlhorn.

Bill Mehlhorn, of New York, another favorite, lost to William Klein of East Williston, N. Y., on the 36th hole one up when his putt rimmed the cup and bounced out giving his opponent a one-hole advantage.

Charles Guest of Hollywood won handily from Roland Hancock of Wilmington, N. C., and Al Espinosa of Chicago was not pushed to defeat Mel Smith of Portland, Ore., 5 and 4. Harry Cooper of Los Angeles put Eddie Murphy of Chicago out 7 and 6 and Ed Dudley, another Californian, led James Guilane of Bartlesville, Okla., most of the way to win 8 and 7. Joe Turnesa of New York survived easily eliminating Charles McKenna, Rochester, N. Y., 5 and 3.

John Golden of Paterson, N. J., was five down at the end of the morning round but he played brilliantly in the afternoon and downed Charles Koontz of Lincoln, Neb., 2 and 1.

Harold Long of Raleigh, N. C., and Francis Gallet of Wauwatosa, Wis., were the other victors eliminating Willie Kidd of Minneapolis and Bob Shave of Aurora, Ohio, 4 and 3. In the final match of the day Ralph Beach, Bethesda, Mr., eliminated Fred Baroni, Pittsburgh, Pa., one up.

Tunney Receives $1,009,000 for His Tiff With Dempsey

By MURRAY LEWIN
Universal Service Staff

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, received $1,009,000 as his purase for his trouble with Jack Dempsey in Chicago in September. Included in this is $18,000 the erstwhile marine received for motion picture rights.

Tex Rickard revealed today for the first time that Tunney worked on a double percentage basis. As champion, Gene received 50 per cent of the first $1,500,000 taken in and 35 per cent of everything over that amount.

Tunney's end for the battle alone reached $991,000 or $9,000 less than the $1,000,000 Rickard had originally posted as Gene's purse. According to Rickard, Tunney returned the extra $9,000 upon being paid off.

Although Tex had previously announced that he cleared a mere $420,000 profit on the show, he said today that after a complete checkup, he discovered that the profits reached $570,000.

The promoter added that he had Tunney bound to a similar contract for next year in which the big boss agrees to defend his title under Rickard's auspices on or before Oct. 10, 1928. Tex contended that the date and opponent is left to him and that Tunney has no say in either matter.

Gymnasium Classes Begin Next Monday

Regular classes in the business and professional men's gymnasium club recently organized, will begin Monday, said A. B. Ross yesterday. Women's classes will start Tuesday.

The new gym is to be partially open to members this week, Ross said. Shower baths are ready and the bulk of gymnasium apparatus has been installed.

SORDS POINTS

He Believes in Keeping Busy

By JACK SORDS

The lightweight division is going full blast again. Sammy Mandell is ready, after a slumber that threatened for a time to outsmore the one taken by Rip Van Winkle, to allow someone to take a sock at the crown on his royal head. There is such a mad scramble among the contenders for a shot at the title that the days this division outranked the heavyweight class for popularity are recalled.

Among the contenders striving to wrest the crown from Mondell is Billy Wallace, hard-hitting Clevelander. So confident is Wallace that he can lick Mandell that he offered to fight the champ for nothing. He packs about the meanest right-hand wallop in the class, and was the one who started Sid Terris on his hit the canvas complex.

He was born June 21, 1901, in Dawson, Alaska, and started fighting in 1920. He surprised the boxing world last December with his knockout victory over Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion. That seemed to be the fight that put him on the road that may lead him on to the top of the lightweight heap.

His idea in keeping fit is to keep fighting. He's always willing to fight anybody, anytime, anywhere. He has agreed to meet Jimmy McLarin, another conqueror of Kid Kaplan, in the near future.

Patterson, Former Sox Hurler, Dies

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 1. (AP)—Roy C. Patterson, pitcher for the Chicago White Sox during the period of 1900 to 1906, when that team was known as the hitless wonders, died in the Montgomery county home at Blackrock last Saturday, it was learned today. Found wandering the streets of Bridgeport, near here, about 10 days ago, very ill, he was sent to the Alms house.

Patterson for several seasons was one of the leading pitchers on the Chicago American league team. Records credit him with winning 29 games in 1900 and leading the American league in the first year of its existence.

He was a factor in giving the White Sox the pennant in 1900 and again in 1901 when one of his teammates was Clark Griffiths, now president of the Washington club. The year the White Sox won the pennant and the world's championship as well in 1906 Patterson was released.

Efforts are being made to find his relatives, supposed to be in Baltimore.

MICKS TACKLE GOPHERS NEXT

Michigan Sails Into Amos' Chicago Maroons

By FRED VAN DEVENDER
Universal Service Staff

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—The football spotlight of the west next Saturday will be focused on South Bend, Ind., where Minnesota and Notre Dame will indulge in a little argument over which is the better team.

Both teams are superbly coached by two of the greatest men in the game, Rockne for the Irish and Doc Spears for the Gophers.

The teams for the most part will employ different styles of attack, the Minnesota offense depending on power and running, while Rockne will depend on running and passing.

The great picture of the game, however, it is expected, will be the battle between Herb Joesting, smashing all-American fullback from Minnesota and the Speedy, flashy Flannagan of Notre Dame, all-American halfback.

Joesting has been pointed for this game. His work this year has not shown what it did last season, but he was injured in one of the early games and was not able to participate in all of the battles.

But there will be other big games on that day. Michigan will bring her great eleven to Chicago to play A. A. Stagg's Maroons at Stagg field.

Northwestern and Purdue play at LaFayette, while Illinois, the conference leader following last Saturday's win over Michigan goes to Iowa City to play the Mediocre Iowa eleven.

Wisconsin plays a minor opponent in Grinnell at Madison, while Ohio state journeys east to battle Princeton.

Indiana, whose band and not the football thrilled Harvard last Saturday will play Michigan state at Bloomington.

Parisian girls are now wearing "kiss curls." But the boys have the power to show whether they are manned right.

Rockne Only One of "Grand Old Men of Football" Still Riding High

Younger Coaches Cause Yost, Stagg, Warner, Dobie, Bezdek to Slip But Canny Knute Carries On

BY BILL BITT.
Staff Writer for Central Press and The Record News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. — The football season half over, and only one of America's grand old men of football still riding high on the crest of current fame.

He is Knute K. Rockne, reverntly referred to as the grand old wizard of Notre Dame.

This graybeard of the gridiron, young in years but a Solomon-like ancient in the wisdom of the booting business, has clung to his fame because he never has had to stage a come-back. He never went away.

Time was, when the teams of Fielding H. Yost, the old man of Michigan; Glenn "Pop" Warner, the Red Star of Carlisle; Hugo Bezdek, Grim Potentate of Penn State; Alonzo A. Stagg of Chicago; Gilmor Dobie, the gloomy one of Cornell, and Bill Roper, mighty pigskin prince of Princeton, had things all their own way.

Small schools, and many not so small, quailed and quaked, fled and fell before the awful brilliance of the Yostmen or a gang led by the great Stagg. The old men of the gridiron had things their awn way. Their boys won—and won again.

For many more years than other Big Ten schools like to remember, the Michigan Wolverines were mighty under the touch of Yost and Stagg's Maroons dragged countless scalps back to Chicago to gloat over their fallen football inferiors.

Glenn Warner's system worked wonderfully at Carlisle where his Indians once dominated for years the national football scene. Then Glenn achieved great success at Pittsburgh and at Stanford.

Hugo Bezdek made the Nittany Lions of Penn State the most powerful team in the east. Gloomy Gil Dobie had his great moments at Cornell while Bill Roper's Tigers of Princeton year after year successfully held up the honor of the now dissolved Big Three.

Meanwhile Knute Rockne of Notre Dame was frantically trying to keep up with the parade of the big pigskin machines—and succeeding. Year after year his Fighting Irish were famous.

Now, times have changed. Young men, striplings just out of college have taken charge of football teams and have walloped the newer machines of the old men until past football prowess is now forgotten.

And the old men? All but one has suffered keenly as a result.

Yost no longer leads Michigan. Stagg is trying a comeback of some sort. Warner already has tasted defeat this year. Roper's Princeton Tigers have seen better days, Dobie might well be gloomy and Bezdek is just coming out of the woods after suffering bad seasons.

Knute Rockne alone continues to successfully defy the younger coaches. He is the true grand master of the game. His teams seem to get better year after year instead of deteriorating.

Somewhere Rockne must have hidden a formula of football success, a true fountain of football youth which keeps his gridiron brains fresh and keen and just a bit ahead of the rest of the crowd.

LONGHORNS WON'T PLAY NOTRE DAME NEXT YEAR

AUSTIN, Nov. 1. (AP)—Notre Dame university will not play the University of Texas Longhorns at the Texas state fair on October 13, 1928, L. Theo. Bellmont, athletic director of the university said Tuesday after receipt of a wire from Knute Rockne, coach of the famous Micks eleven.

"Sorry but faculty will not OK game, regrets," was the message Rockne sent Bellmont replying to the Longhorn invitation to play at Dallas.

OWLS HAVE TASK

HOUSTON, Nov. 1. (AP)—Rice players and coaches faced this week the man-sized task of whipping into shape a footbal l team with some chance of beating Saturday the powerful Centenary college Gentlemen, conquerors, if you please, of two southwestern conference elevens, the S. M. U. Mustangs and the Baylor university Bears.

IT'S UP TO MACK SAYS TY COBB

Confers With Connie On Possible Retirement

DETROIT, Nov. 1. (AP)—If any announcement of Ty Cobb's retirement from baseball is to be made it will follow a conference on Thursday between the "Georgia Peach" and Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, Cobb told the Associated Press Tuesday just before departing for Philadelphia.

"I'm not yet ready to say whether or not I am going to quit the game," Cobb said. "But I am pretty tired of baseball—I've played a long time. If I do make up my mind to quit it will be announced after I have had a conference fith Connie Mack on Thursday. I would not want to say anything for certain until I've talked with Mack."

Cobb characterized Manager Mack as a "wonderful fellow; one of the finest I've ever known," and declared that if he did play baseball next year it would be under Mack's management.

"I've got some ideas I want to talk over with Mack," he said, "and I want to get his advice before I make any kind of an announcement."

QUITAQUE TEAM WINS.

QUITAQUE, Nov. 1.—The Quitaque football Panthers motored over to Matador Friday evening and played a fast game, with a score resulting in a 13 to 0 win for Quitaque.

The Quitaque Panthers are scheduled to play as follews: will play Silverton at Silverton Friday, Nov. 4, will play Spur at Spur, Nov. 11 and Roaring Springs on the home ground Nov. 18.

SPIDER KELLY DIES.

ROCHESTER, Minn., Nov. 1. (AP)—Death today tolled off the final found for Spider Kelly, once an outstanding contender for the prize ring's lightweight championship. Ending a fight of several years against disease Spider dide in a hospital here from a blood clot on the brain after an operation for mastoid trouble. He was 55 years old.

Varsity Books Six Conference Games

AUSTIN, Nov 1. (AP)—The grid battle between the Arkansas Razorbacks and the Texas Longhorns contracted for 1928 gives Texas six conference games for 1928,. the most the Steers or any other conference school has ever scheduled in one season.

The T. C. U. Horned Frogs will meet the Steers in the first clash in Fort Worth around October 1, and then follow the Hogs, Rice, S. M. U., Baylor and A. & M.

Arkansas, the Mustangs and the Aggies will be played in Memorial stadium while Baylor and Rice will also be played away from home.

TURKEY BEATS HEDLEY.

TURKEY, Texas, Nov. 1—Turkey defeated Hedley on the local gridiron Friday by the score of 12-6. This makes the fourth consecutive win for the Turkey eleven.

CHILLICOTHE JOINS IN FETE

To Send Crowd To Quanah Indian Celebration

CHILLICOTHE, Nov. 1. (Sp.)—The town of Chillicothe, represented by a group of citizens several hundred strong, and the Chillicothe municipal band, will join in with the city of Quanah in its two-day Indian Harvest Moon festival which will likewise celebrate the opening of the completed grade from Chillicothe to Quanah of the Colorado to Gulf highway.

The Indian ceremonial is scheduled for November 4 and 5. It will be featured by a re-blessing of the city of Quanah by Baldwin Parker, Indian chieftian and son of the famed Quanah Parker for whom the town is named, and by initiation of President R. W. Haynie of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce as a full-fledged chief of the Comanches.

Indian war dances, tribal feast of the Harvest Moon on raw beeves donated by the Quanah Chamber of Commerce, and Indian rituals and ceremonial music will be other features of the two-day event. Visitors from many towns in the Quanah trade territory are expected in town Friday and Saturday to witness the unique affair.

COURT HEARS PLEA IN ROOM

Jurors Excused As Lawyers And Judges Confer

by Don K. King, a reporter for the Washington "Herald." The manner in which he discovered details of the plot was related to the grand jury this afternoon.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, assistant government prosecutor, characterized the work of reporter King and the Washington "Herald" in uncovering details of the plot as a "real civic service."

Pomerene declared that the attempt to "fix" the jury was of even greater consequence than the original theft of Teapot Dome, for the reason that it struck at the very heart of the judicial system and the constitutional progress of the government.

Today's startling developments climaxed the series of rumors which have been circulated during the last 10 days concerning alleged attempts to "fix" the jurors.

This morning's edition of the Washington Herald had given blase Washington a general suggestion of what the day would bring forth and the courtroom was packed to overflowing—noted lawyers vainly pleading with bailiffs for admission.

Pomerene Tells Court.

As Justice Siddons took his place on the bench to resume proceedings, Atlee Pomerene, special prosecutor, arose and announced:

"We have a matter which gives the United States Attorney and special government counsel grave concern, which we present to your honor for your consideration in the form of affidavits."

Justice Siddons, his face betraying the importance with which he viewed the matter, asked Pomerene if he wished to present the affidavits in the presence of the jury. The prosecutor explained that he preferred to submit the matter to the court only.

The jury was excused.

Counsel for both sides were asked to meet Justice Siddons in chambers.

What went on there was not made public, the court sealing the lips of all lawyers and stenographers.

At 1:30 o'clock Justice Siddons again mounted the bench.

An anouncement that a mistrial was to be ordered was anxiously expected. But the court said he would announce the decision in the morning and court was adjourned for the day.

The four affidavits were released this afternoon after other major phases of the sensational developments had been placed before the grand jury.

Story of Plot.

The story of the whole alleged jury fixing attempt as told to court and grand jury is substantilaly as follows:

At the outset of the trial—even before a juror had actually been chosen, William J. Burns, head of the detective agency which bears his name and chief of the investigation bureau of the department of justice during the Harding administration when the Teapot Dome scandal took place, was seen in Washington by heads of the secret service.

Albert B. Fall, charged with Sinclair of conspiracy to defraud the nation of its oil reserves, has lived there during the two trials which grew out of the oil scandals. He also stayed there with his family when he was secretary of the interior in 1921-23.

Fall and his family registered there the week prior to the opening of the present trial—a day or so after the U. S. supreme court handed down its famous decision invalidating the Teapot Dome lease and charging the two defendants with "conspiracy, fraud and collusion."

Not only did Burns take over a suite at Wardman, but his two chief representatives in the national capital, Charles G. Ruddy and G. H. Robbins, also registered as the trial preliminaries got under way.

Burns Men Picked.

More than 16 operatives of the Burns forces—the pick of its "shadow" men from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington and other points were assembled here.

Each of the operatives, according to the afidavit of Neil Burkinshaw who with Donald A. King, shares the credit for the expose of this most amazing jury tampering attempt, was given a designation other than his name.

These Burns operatives were then assigned to various hotels and rooming houses throughout the city.

On the very day that the jury was sworn all but one of its 12 members were placed under surveillance. The man not watched, according to the reports of the Burns agency which were seized by government agents, was Robert C. Flora, juror No. 6.

TURKEY ROAD VOTE CALLED

$25,000 Bond Issue To Build Lateral Roads

TURKEY, Texas, Nov. 1.—The Turkey road district will hold an election Saturday, December 3, to determine whether $25,000 worth of road bonds shall be issued for the purpose of building lateral roads. Turkey already has a trade territory of over 200,000 acres of land, and when the new roads are completed about 50,000 acres more of land will be added to Turkey territory.

Turkey is on the Ozark Trail, or highway 86, and highway 86 is intersected at Turkey by highway 16 which runs south to Matador and Dickens. When the new roads are completed Turkey will have first class roads running in all directions intersecting state highways.

72 Delegates Attend Federated Mission Meet

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 1.—Five different churches were represented at the meeting of the Federated Missionary societies at the Methodist church at 2 o'clock Monday. A census of the 72 women present revealed the fact that there were 18 Baptist ladies, five Presbyterian, 10 from the Thrift Methodist church, 25 from the local Methodist church, five from the Texhoma Methodist church and nine visitors from Wichita Falls churches. The meeting was opened with the song, "Near the Cross," which was followed by a prayer by Mrs. W. W. Cook of Wichita Falls. Mrs. H. S. Van Cleave read the devotional after which the minutes of the previous meeting held in May were read and approved and a report of all committees heard with Mrs. Hattie Buchanan, president, presiding.

The program was headed with a talk by Mrs. Knox Finley, president of the Federated Missionaries in Wichita Falls and Mrs W. W. Cook, past president, on their own organization. Mrs. E. B. Gorsline spoke on "Welfare Work" and Mrs. C. B. Jetter on the placing of good literature in the reach of boys and girls. Wayne Sommerville discussed the book, "Straightway to Tomorrow."

The rest of the program follows: Reading by Billie Walker; piano duet, Mrs. J. D. Majors and Mrs. J. L. Caffee, vocal duet, Mrs. W. D. Utts and Miss Flo Hall; vocal trio, Mesdames W. E. Hogg, T. C. Garrett and Pat Morrison.

SIX HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Auto Turns Over Three Times at Archer City

Six persons were injured, two critically, as the result of a triple turnover of an automobile one mile south of Archer City Monday afternoon as John Massie, Waurika, Okla. deputy sheriff, and members of his family were on their way from points in Texas to their home in Waurika, relatives reported here Tuesday.

Massie has been in an Archer City hospital since the accident in an unconscious condition but Tuesday his condition was thought to have been slightly improved. It was believed that he was suffering with a fractured skull.

His daughter, Miss Ella Massie, also reported slightly improved, received internal injuries and many cuts and bruises. She is in the Archer City hospital.

His son, Charlie Massie, is in the Archer City hospital with cuts and bruises and Mrs. Charlie Massie Tuesday was taken to her mother's home in Waurika.

Mrs. W. F. Massie, daughter-in-law of John Massie, was at the home here of her aunt, Mrs. O. G. Baker at 2200 Buchanan. Her condition is not serious. Her two-year-old son, W. F. Jr., was badly injured but Tuesday was able to be removed from Archer City to the Waurika hospital.

Mrs. Baker was told that as the party was driving into Archer City at a rapid rate of speed, the automobile, driven by John Massie, struck a rough place in the road and turned completely over three times.

The occupants were all cut by the flying glass from the sedan. The car was standing upright when it had quit tumbling.

The injured were rushed to the Archer City hospital immediately after the accident.

First Freight Train On New South Plains Line Enters Quitaque, Turkey

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Nov. 1.—Count Turkey and Quitaque among the railway centers of Texas!

The first revenue freight train on the new South Plains line of the Fort Worth and Denver railroad pulled out of Estelline for Turkey and Quitaque this afternoon at 2 o'clock, inaugurating the first raiload service into those thriving centers of the great plains country of Texas.

The history-making train was made up of eight cars, consisting of two carloads of flour and six carloads of other commercial products consigned to merchants of Quitaque and Turkey.

Service on this newly completed 40-mile stretch of the new road will be limited for some time, according to O. M. Smith, general freight and passenger agent of the Denver road. Carload shipments only can be transported over the new line, as there are no depots or agents in the towns enjoying train service for the first time. Shipments must be prepaid until these details can be attended to, Mr. Smith said. It will also be advisable for shippers to send representatives to supervise the handling of their shipments until railway officials are assigned to the work, it was said.

Towns along the 40-mile stretch which was opened today are Quitaque, Turkey, Parnell and Tampico.

Council's Threat Brings Rush To Pay Sewer Tax

Threats of the city council to order all delinquent sewer tax payers cut off from service brought 40 payers into the city hall Tuesday and collections were $435. The delinquents kept W. R. Hyer, city tax collector, busy all day. Mr. Hyer estimates there is some $30,000 in this tax due the city and that most of it is collectible.

The major portion of the delinquent funds, according to the collector, became due when the suit to restrain the city from forcing payment of the tax was being decided in the courts. The average residence pays the tax at the rate of 50 cents a month. A graduated scale is used for rooming houses and hotels.

AUSTIN, Nov. 1. (AP)—C. A. Leddy, Dallas lawyer, recently appointed by Governor Dan Moody to section B of the supreme court commission of appeals, took the oath of office Tuesday under ministration of C. M. Cureton, chief justice of the supreme court.

Shooting of Producers Fails To Affect Seminole Toboggan

TULSA, Nov. 1.—Seminole field's output is still "down."

Monday morning it gauged 404,385 barrels from 959 wells, compared to 403,390 barrels from 958 wells Sunday and 405,334 barrels from 954 wells Saturday.

Apparently the shooting program is not accomplishing the results that Seminole operators anticipated that it would. The three days' gauges follow:

Area—	Monday	Sunday	Saturday
Little River	46,893	44,185	44,809
Bowlegs	118,831	121,428	119,244
Earlsboro	143,427	145,672	150,380
Seminole City	63,275	62,876	64,474
Searight	25,949	26,229	25,827
Totals	404,385	403,390	405,334

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM CO. BUYS ALAMO REFINERY IN HUTCHINSON

PLANT WILL BE MADE LARGER

Phillips Saved From Building Plant

Special to The Record News.

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Nov. 1. The Phillips Petroleum company today announced that it had purchased plant and assets of the Alamo Refining company at Borger, Hutchinson county, Texas Panhandle and will immediately enlarge it from a capacity of 2000 to 7500 barrels a day.

The Alamo refinery was built by M. P. Youker of Amarillo, vice president and general manager. O. L. Cordell, who helped build the Alamo, is now in charge of the sales department of Phillips.

The purchase will save the Phillips company from building a plant as it planned to do.

Gas Sellers Have Troubles

HOUSTON, Nov. 1. (AP)—Entrance of gas utilities into the house heating field has been accompanied by many trials and tribulations, J. W. Duvall of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric company, Oklahoma City, told delegates to the southwest division, natural gas department of the National Gas association at its convention here today.

It was the principal address on the program and discussed house heating with gas. Mr. Duvall's conclusion was, however, that "the small home owner need not suffer today for the lack of satisfactory heating equipment for never in the history of the gas appliance business has there been such a wealth of well designed and efficient heating equipment, even though the home owner had experienced difficulties in the beginning, due, Mr. Duvall thought somewhat to faulty installation. In the conversion of coal equipment to gas Mr. Duvall though it could better be handled by the utilities than by plumbers "who idea of a conversion job sometimes was to place a cheap gas burner in the fire door of the coal equipment in such a manner that it would readily be removed for coal burning."

Casinghead Plant In Sibley Pool Expected

Special to The Record News.

RANGER, Nov. 1.—The Chestnut and Smith Corporation is expected to erect a casinghead gasoline plant somewhere in the vicinity of the Sibley pool, nine miles south of Ranger at an early date. The company announced several month ago that as soon as the production of gas in that pool justified the expenditure it would put in a plant there. Gas production in the pool now is considerably more than 50,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The Mook Texas Oil company has completed its Casey wildcat, a mile west of any other production in the Sibley pool, as a gasser. It is making 24,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily and is also spraying about five barrels of oil. The gas has been tested and according to an official statement tests close to one gallon per thousand cubic feet. The pay sand in this well was found at 3020 feet and was drilled into only six feet.

ACTIVITY PICKS UP IN WILBARGER AREAS.

Wilbarger county seems to be in line to furnish a flock of new wells as quickly as they can be drilled. Since the Texas Company brought in its No. 1-B Waggoner in section 17, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, and Smith and Brady completed their No. 1, Waggoner in section 31, eight new wells are being started close in.

The latest locations are Petroleum Producers company No. 1, W. T. Waggoner and Texas Company No. 2-B Waggoner, both offsets to the producer which has been reported flowing 600 barrels daily. Petroleum Producers' location is in the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 16. Texas Company's No. 2-B is a south offset to No. 1-B.

Smith and Brady are following a line to the south of their producer, locations for Nos. 2 and 3 being 300 and 600 feet from No. 1 respectively. Fain-McGaha are starting a well across 40 acres to the east and Waggoner Refining company is beginning its No. 1-E in the southwest of the northeast of the northeast of section 31. Phillips Petroleum company, a leader in Wilbarger development, is to drill its No. MM-1 on its lease in section 31. Murchison Oil company's No. 1, Waggoner is located in the northeast corner of the west 40, south 160, north 200 acres of section 3, S. P. R. R. survey.

Initial production in the Smith and Brady well was 125 barrels and the Texas well was decidedly better, so the ever thirsty pipelines should gain nourishment in the two areas within the next month.

PETROLEUM-KEMP.

Petroleum Producers company's No. 1 Kemp and Kemper in block 49, Kemp's Wichita Valley lands, Wichita county, is drilling at 1692 feet and will be looking for the 1800 foot sand this week.

ATLANTIC- ROSE-RICHARDSON.

Atlantic Oil Producers company and Frank P. Rose have made location to drill their No. 1 Richardson, two miles south of Megargel in Archer county, and located in the northwest quarter of section 2425, T. E. & L. survey.

THROCKMORTON COUNTY.

Bridwell, Heydrick and Hickman have reached a depth of 1160 feet in the test drilling on the Upshur county school lands of northern Throckmorton county.

RICHARDS-YOUNG.

Richards et al, have made location to drill their No. 2 J. A. Young, 724 feet south of No. 1 in section 2426, T. E. & L. survey, southwest of Megargel but in Baylor county. The No. 1 was completed as a dry hole at a total depth of 1465 feet.

NORTH OF ANCEL.

One mile north of the Ancel pool in eastern Wilbarger county, Muse and Robertson have spudded in and are drilling below 200 feet in their No. 1, W. A. Womack, located in section 1, block 7, H. & T. C. survey.

ATLANTIC-WILSON.

Atlantic Oil Producing company is reaming at a depth of 1465 feet in its No. 5-A Wilson, located in the D. L. & C. survey, Archer county.

TEXAS-BURNS.

The Texas Company and L. T. Burns have started drilling and are down 300 feet in their No. 1 Burns, located in block 27, Harris subdivision of Archer county.

STEED-PERKINS.

COTTON PRICE GOES HIGHER

Receipts On Market Here Shows Decline

With the beginning of the end of the cotton season dawning, as evidenced by unusually light receipts at Wichita Falls cotton yards, prices paid for the staple showed a tendency to improve Tuesday with the market closing 15 points higher than the close of Monday.

Range of prices paid by Wichita Falls buyers was from 16 to 20 cents on a middling basis.

The poorer quality of snaps brought the lower price. Grades continue fair, with the staple holding its high quality for this time of the season.

Only 60 bales were reported received by local cotton yards Tuesday.

No change was registered in the cotton seed market, Wichita Falls gins continuing to pay $36 a ton for prime seed.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today with the price movement rather irregular. After selling off from 20.47 to 20.22, however, January rallied, closing at 20.42, compared with 20.26, at the close yesterday. The general market closed very steady, at net advances of 11 to 16 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 9 to 11 points. Active months sold 20 to 22 points net higher in early trading on covering, combined with trade and commission house buying, promoted by fear of a cold wave in the south, and relatively steady Liverpool cables. This demand was supplied by realizing together with some southern selling, and the mid-day market eased under liquidation by longs who seemed disappointed over the failure of demand to become more general on the early advance.

Early gains were lost, December selling off to 20.15, and March to 20.40, net declines of about 4 to 6 points, but the market firmed up again in late trading on reports that freezing temperatures were in prospect for some part of the southwest by tomorrow and publication of a report from Washington that the carryover estimate of 7,800,000 bales published by the department of agriculture last September was not official.

Prices rallied almost to the high point of the morning, and showed recoveries of 15 to 20 points from the lowest at the close.

A private crop estimate of 12,620,000 bales evidently was without much effect on the market, which some took as indicating that November 1 indications were expected to show very little change compared with the October 1 figures.

The holiday in New Orleans and in some of the markets abroad was considered partly responsible for the small volume of business and much of the trading was attributed to further evening-up of commitments in preparation for next week's government report.

Private cables reported continental and Bombay buying in the Liverpool market.

Exports today 122,750, making 2,214,656 so far this season. Port receipts 109,079.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. (AP)—The cotton seed oil market was quiet today and without special feature. Trading was again largely of a local character with prices sensitive to small orders either way. Prices declined 6 to 10 points early in sympathy with lard and refiners pressure, but recovered part of the setback on covering on the late rally in cotton and closed 1 to 3 points net lower. Sales 14,200 barrels. Prime crude 9.12½; prime summer yellow spot 10.55; December closed 10.65; January 10.74; March 10.96; May 11.14.

Gas Assured For Knox County

Special to The Record News.

KNOX CITY, Nov. 1.—The city council of Knox City has granted a gas franchise to C. O. Moore and associates operating under the firm name of Stamford Gas company. The contract calls for gas installation in this city within 120 days.

The gas supply will come from a line extending from Childress to Stamford, which is to furnish several other towns along the route. A ditcher has been put in operation on the north end of the line and it is understood that another machine will soon begin near here.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 1. (AP)—Wheat was a little lower Tuesday with exporters bidding $1.33 to $1.34, basis No. 1 hard delivered Texas gulf ports and mills cutting a penny off the poorer grades. Milo and kaffir were two cents a bushel higher on better out of state demand for the threshed grain while the heads were reduced about $1.50 per ton.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1. (AP)—With world stocks of wheat showing 19,150,000 bushels increase, the wheat market underwent a sag at the last today. Reports of fine weather in Argentina and of excellent crop prospects throughout that country acted also as a bearish influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛ to ¼@⅜c net lower, with corn at ⅜ to 1⅛c advance, oats showing ⅛ to ⅜c gain at ⅛ to 1⅛c advance, oats showing ⅛ to ⅜c gain, and provisions varying from 15c decline to a rise of 12c.

Corn developed strength, although crop estimates today by Chicago private statisticians proved to be about as expected. Including the visible supply, however, total stocks of corn for the 1927-28 season are 2,782,000,000 bushels, or $1,000,000 bushels less than last year. Oats sympathized with the action of corn.

Foreign and local holders were sellers of January lard, and this circumstance together with lower quotations on hogs weakened the provisions market.

Stock Market Prices Held To Narrow Range As Bulls And Bears Fight For Control

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Special stocks featured a slip-shod market today. The opening was fairly firm but found the professional element in rather undecided mood so that prices held to a rather narrow range. Some better buying developed around midday as money eased a little but renewed pressure was brought to bear on the weaker industrials in the final hour that more than offset what gains were scored. Mack Truck was the outstanding feature of weakness as it dropped rather sharply following publication of the quarterly statement. Radio and Greene Cananea led the advancing group as pool operations were resumed.

Cotton rallied further on continued frost advices while the grain market remained irregular. Foreign exchange remained steady but quiet.

The monthly report of the Federal Reserve bank of New York should prove of interest to all interested in security price fluctations. For the first month since September, 1926, the statement shows a net export of gold for September of this year of about $11,000,000 more than was brought in. The accumulation of the major part of the world's gold in this country has been the foundation of the record easy money conditions. The export balance for September was small and promises to be offset by an import balance for October. Some day, however, there will be a series of months when gold shipments will exceed imports and the money market will undergo a radical change.

Floor traders voiced the opinion after the close that the short interest in motors and steel is larger than it has been in six months. The battle between the bulls and the bears in these two industrial leaders has been among the fiercest experienced although conducted rather quietly in recent sessions. Buyers are those who believe the bankers and others who took a long position many months ag are holding their stock while selling is largely from professional circles where belief reigns that fourth quarter earnings will be well below those for the third period of the year. The zero hour will be reached a week from Thursday when the General Motors directors meet for dividend.

Volume of Mack offerings was rather a surprise in that although poor earnings were shown the company reported a substantial amount of cash assets on hand. Larger holders of Mack refuse to lose hope that it will be taken in by General Motors but in the emantime the continued disappointing earnings have tired out some of the followers of this group. A number of stops were caught when the stock hit par and immediate demonstration was given of how little protection such orders give. Hudson Motors and others followed the afternoon decline in General Motors, being effected by similar forecasts as to less income in the final months of the year.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. (AP)—Successive bear drives against stocks believed to be in a vulnerable position owing to the unfavorable trade conditions, notably the sugar and rubber groups, caused a reversal of the stock market's upward trend in the final hour of trading today.

Heavy selling for both accounts carried American sugar common and preferred, Cuban American sugar preferred and Cuban Cane sugar preferred all to the lowest of the year and reduced materially earlier advances of 1 to 10 points which had been scored in an unusually broad variety of stocks. An outbreak of liquidation in Mack Trucks, carrying it down 5 points, was supplemented by free offerings of other automotive shares, notably General Motors, which relapsed over 3 points from its best figure.

RICHFIELD OIL COMPANY OF CALIFORNIA.
5 Lear Record.

The Richfield Oil company of California was formed in 1926. It owns and controls nine oil subsidiaries which have been or are in process of being liquidated or dissolved, with the exception of two which will be operated by the parent company.

The company's business consists of the refining of petroleum and the marketing of its products under the trade name of "Milage" and "Richlube." The company and its subsidiaries own or control approximately 33,000 acres of proven and potential oil lands in southern California. In the spring of 1927, the company had 176 wells. The output of the of the producing wells, together with the purchases of crude oil, averages about 40,000 barrels daily.

The main refinery of the company is at Hynes, California and has a daily capacity of 27,000 barrels of crude. It has other refineries at Huntington Beach, Bakerfield, Fellows and Los Angeles. The concern has a contract with Marland Oil to purchase all the latters production in the Seal Beach pool and has run an eight inch pipe line to that field to handle this business.

Funded debt consists of $13,262,000. Capital stock outstanding consists of $5,833,500 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred of $25 par, and $29,027,822 in common of $25 par.

An initial dividend was paid on May 1st on the preferred stock and since that date there have been regular quarterly dividends of 43 3-4 cents a share. On the common stock the regular rate is 25 cents a quarter. An extra of 15 cents was paid February 1st.

For the six months ended June 30, 1927, the company had a net income of $1,483,547. As of March 31, 1927, total current assets amounted to $12,087,065, total liabilities to $5,597,091, and net working capital to $6,489,974. Book value of the common stock amounted to $27.02 a share.

MOHAIR SHIPMENTS.

KERRVILLE, Texas, Nov. 1. (AP)—Completion of shipment of 1,450,000 pounds of the fall clip of mohair was announced today by the Schriener Wool and Mohair Commission company. It was one of the largest shipments of the year.

R. G. Wentworth representing S. C. Murfitt, Boston, bought 450,000 pounds and J. M. Lea, representing Draper and company, Boston, the remainder.

Grown hair brought 53½ to 55 cents and kid hair from 63 to 65 cents.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. (AP)—Cotton goods were steadier today and a little more business was reported in the carded and combed yarn cloth divisions. Very mild weather continued to hold back fall sales in garments and winter wear merchandise. Burlaps were steady, some Calcutta cables showing slight advances. Raw silk showed little change. Silk goods were selling moderately for spring.

Pecos Producers To Continue Oil Proration Plan Without Gulf

Producers of Pecos county will continue to operate under present arrangements of the pro-rate plan despite non-participation of the Gulf company, it was announced after a meeting of operators in Fort Worth Monday.

The announcement was made by W. A. Moncrief, vice president of the Marland Oil company of Texas, chairman of the producers' committee.

The capacity of the recently completed line of the Illinois Pipeline company to Del Rio was placed at 13,000 barrels daily and was taken into consideration in figuring each producers' equitable part of the available outlet. With the 30,000 barrels capacity of the Humble company, this gives the Pecos pool an outlet of 43,000 barrels daily effective November 1. Gauge of the individual wells for finding the share of this outlet belonging to each for the next 15 days now is in progress.

WICHITA FILM OPENS SUNDAY

Scenes of City Shown In Movie Here

Complete picturization of the city of Wichita Falls will be given at the Olympic theater when "The American Girl" will be shown for four days starting Sunday, according to announcement made Tuesday. A preview showing of the film depicts the growth and inevitable expansion and presents a series of pictures of the finest scenes in the city.

Down town buildings, residential sections and the finest architecture are included. The following business houses are shown: Texas Electric Service company, Modern Appliance company, McFall Brothers, Phonograph Shop, Wichita Hudson-Essex, Langford Motor company, Perkins-Timberlake company, Fox-Brown Chevrolet company, Draughon's Business, Wichita Falls Building & Loan, Wichita State Bank & Trust company, Wichita Falls Brick & Tile company. In addition to these, views have been taken of the Country Club Estates, showing the fine homes and spacious landscaping of the drives and lawns. Miller's Winter Garden is also shown.

The most striking feature of the entire film is the sky-line of Wichita Falls. It presents a story to the eye of the flourishing expansion and the impressive office houses, hotels and buildings of the heart of the city.

School - College Notes

Charles H. Richards told the students of the high school and Junior college about his experiences as a big game hunter in South Africa Tuesday morning in chapel. He described the country as sparsely forested with here and there a river and small lake. These small lakes are often the only water in the vicinity and are therefore the watering hole for large numbers of all kinds of animals. They resemble the hubs of a large wheel with the deeply worn animal paths as the spokes.

In this portion of Africa which extends 1500 miles to the south of the Congo region is found 130 different kinds of animals; it has a greater range of animals than any other spot in the world. This plateau country is the most desirable place in Africa to hunt, for if one goes in the winter, he need have no fear of snakes, fever, or sunstroke. The most dreaded snake is the mamba of which there are two varieties, the green mamba and the black mamba. The green mamba is a tree snake and grows to be about 10 or 12 feet long.

WRITERS CLUB MEETS.

Lyrics written by the club members featured the program of the Junior College Writers club Tuesday afternoon. Sarah Walton, Edra Robinson, Dorothy Reed, Mrs. Fay Yauger, and Flora Roberts read original poems which were discussed by the club.

A committee consisting of Miss Eva Weber, Mrs. Fay Yauger, and Sarah Walton was appointed to decide what publications the club would study. Miss Josephine Luton was voted in the club as a new member. Miss Eva Weber, Sarah Walton, Edra Robinson, Flora Roberts, Dorothy Reed, Mrs. Fay Yauger, Frank Ward, and Ralph King were present at the meeting which was presided over by Sarah Walton, president.

PARADE PRIZE.

A two and one-half pound box of candy was presented to Jessie Lucile Railey Tuesday morning in assembly by Sheldon Hale, chairman of the Junior college pep committee. Miss Railey won the prize for having the best decorated car in the parade last Saturday.

Another parade will be staged by the high school next Saturday before the Electra game. This parade will also be in charge of C. C. Frazee, boys' gymnasium instructor and another prize will be given for the best decorated car. Mr. Frazee announced that no car would be allowed in the parade that was not decorated.

RIDER WARNS STUDENTS.

A plea was made by Dean Rider in assembly Tuesday morning that the students of high school and Junior college aid in discouraging small children from asking for rides and hopping cars. The action was taken to prevent accidents.

MERCHANTS PRAISED FOR SCHOOL INTEREST.

Appreciation for the support that some of the merchants are giving the school athletic committee was expressed by Jimmy Hale in assembly Tuesday morning. The Hub and McClurkan's are furnishing megaphones for both schools and Landon Hill is furnishing caps for the high school pep squad. The caps will be earned by the pep squad just as the boys on the teams earn their sweaters, by faithful and hard work.

Deaths

BAIN HAYS.

Bain Hays, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays, who live on the Burkburnett road, died in a local hospital about 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The body is being held at the Merkle Undertaking company, pending funeral arrangements.

The boy is survived by his parents.

MRS. CATHERINE ROGERS.

The body of Mrs. Catherine Rogers, 58, of Quanah, who died in a local hospital late Monday afternoon, was forwarded Tuesday afternoon to Quanah for burial. Mrs. Olga Knight, daughter of the deceased, accompanied the body to the place of burial.

Pioneer of '84 Tells Realtors Of Prospects For Wichita Falls Today

"The future of Wichita Falls, as that of any city, is in the hands of its young men and women," C. W. Bean, pioneer settler of this city who now resides in Long Beach, Calif., said in an address before the Real Estate board at its weekly luncheon Tuesday. Mr. Bean came to Wichita Falls in 1884 and lived here until 10 years ago.

"I saw this city go through its first great crisis in 1895-96," Mr. Bean said. "It survived and went on to greater growth and prosperity because its young citizens of that day successfully fought to overcome the obstacles of financial depression. The Wichita Falls of today will survive any business depression and go on to a greater future to the extent that its young business men and women rally to its cause."

He urged the large landowners in the Wichita valley to cut up their big tracts into smaller ones and establish model poultry and dairy farms so that prospective buyers may be brought here and thoroughly convinced of the possibilities of this section. He declared the opening of the Kraft cheese factory here to be one of the best things that could occur in the community.

"I never saw a dairying country that wasn't prosperous," he said.

Mr. Bean was introduced by Mrs. M. M. Adickes, who said that he was one of the pioneer residents who "helped make it possible for this city to be a real livable place."

Another pioneer resident, J. A. Ward, briefly addressed the realtors, urging that more attention be paid to securing small factories and the subdividing of Wichita Valley lands.

Bar Hears Address On Life of Foch

Dr. John R. Sampey, president of the Baptist Theological seminary of Louisville, Ky., gave members of the Wichita Bar association a short resume of the life of Ferdinand Foch Tuesday noon at the Wichita club. Dr. Sampey championed preparedness and while he said he was an ambassador of the "Prince of Peace" that his Christ was not one who under just provocation would not fight. He recalled the chasing of the money changers from the temple as an example.

Dr. Sampey said he had great interest in military affairs and had studied the lives of all of the great generals from Hannibal to those of the present generation. Robert E. Lee was described as his greatest hero and could be matched against any of the others.

Harrison To Speak At Ad Club Meeting

Approximately 12 members of the Advertising club of Wichita Falls are expected to attend the annual state convention which opens its three-day session in El Paso on November 10, it was announced Tuesday by P. B. Roberts, chairman of the "On to El Paso" committee. Among those who announced their intention of attending Tuesday were Charles E. Spragins, Paul P. Colvert and Alva Willgus.

The convention is being looked forward to with considerable attention by members here, especially, it was said, since Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce will represent Wichita Falls in one of the main addresses of the meeting. Mr. Harrison is to speak on the subject, "Community Advertising."

Sliding Pole Inventor Killed By Automobile

NEW YORK, Nov. 1. (AP)—Captain Daniel Lawler, veteraan fire fighter, the man who introduced "the sliding pole" in city fire houses half a century ago, died today from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile driven by a police sergeant. He was 74 years old. He joined the department in 1875.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

The State of Texas:

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County Greeting:

Know ye that Geo. A. Mawman, administrator of the estate of Christina Ruschhaupt, deceased, having filed in our county court his final account of the condition of the estate of said Christina Ruschhaupt, deceased, together with an application to be discharged from said administration, you are hereby commanded, that by publication of this writ for 20 days in a newspaper regularly published in the County of Wichita you give due notice to all persons interested in the account for final settlement of said estate, to file their objections thereto, if any they have, on or before the December term 1927, of said county court, commencing and to be holden at the courthouse of said county, in the City of Wichita Falls on the first Monday in December, A. D., 1927 when said account and application will be considered by said court.

Witness, Elizabeth Hall, clerk of the county court of Wichita county.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at my office in the City of Wichita Falls, this 29th day of October, A. D. 1927.

(Seal) ELIZABETH HALL,
Clerk County Court, Wichita County, Texas.

By M. F. YEAGER, Deputy.

PASTOR TALKS TO AD CLUB

Kellems Tells Of Church Advertising

Dr. Jesse Kellems, evangelist and student of world affairs, addressed members of the Advertising club assembled Tuesday in their noon luncheon, on the subject, "Church Advertising." The speaker was introduced by Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, where Dr. Kellems is appearing in a two weeks revival before leaving for foreign missionary fields he has identified with his life during the last few years.

Dr. Kellems approached his subject and defined the principles of church advertising through the process of criticising the methods employed to a great extent by America in the advertising of her nation abroad.

Americans Abroad.

"America is known to the foreigner only by the kind of men we send to his country," he explained, "and I regret to say that the type of advertising he is broadcasting is not of the highest. America is advertised at present by her 'jazz language,' her movies, her dances, her 'terrible jazz songs,' her murders, her political corruption and other testimonials that do not represent the true soul of America."

"This can be attributed partly to the newspapers," he said. "They print these things purposely, and often leave out those things that would truly represent this country."

"Church advertising," he said, "is aiming at the same goal. We are trying to sell religion, but we are trying to advertise it truthfully."

Considerable discussion of the coming state convention of Advertising clubs at El Paso was held. P. B. Roberts, chairman of the "On to El Paso" committee, reported that at least five members of the club would attend.

At the suggestion of the president, T. A. Bradley, the club voted to endorse the 11th annual Red Cross roll call and to offer its assistance in the movement.

Contest Planned.

In line wit hthe coming advertising campaign for the Wichita Irrigated valley, the club, on motion of Alva Willgus, voted to hold a contest within its membership for the best advertising featuring some aspect of Wichita Falls. The contest is to be further planned by a committee of three members, to be appointed later by the president.

Dr. F. R. Collard explained to the club the need for a Wichita county health association and urged all to attend a meeting to be held in the courthouse Nov. 10 at 7:30 p. m., during which the organization will be outlined. Dr. John R. Potts of Fort Worth, it is announced, will hold a tubercular clinic during the day and will preside at the organization meeting that night.

Vernon Welfare Drive May Start Nov. 15

VERNON, Nov. 1.—Plans for the annual welfare drive in Vernon will be mapped out at a meeting next Monday evening of the special committee of fifteen appointed last year at the annual meeting. The meeting next Monday will take the form of a banquet, according to Dr. E. L. Moore, president of the Wilbarger Welfare association.

Dr. Moore is anxious to get the campaign started and have it concluded before Thanksgiving Day. He says the plans to start the drive about November 15.

Noted Figure Wed Fifty Years

John Sharp Williams, former United States senator from Mississippi, who recently celebrated his fiftieth wedding anniversary with Mrs. Williams, is shown here with his granddaughter, Miss Polly Elizabeth Williams, seated on the porch of the senator's Cedar Grove plantation home in Yazoo county, Mississippi.

JAY WARD
Typical American Boy

Little Jay Ward is the Typical American Boy, as acclaimed by 10,000 American legionnaires and many thousand Frenchmen and will appear Thursday and Friday on the Majestic vaudeville program.

Jay was selected out of a group of 100 boys as mascot for the Pennsylvania delegation to the American Legion convention. He went to Paris with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ward, known in the theatrical world as Ward and Dooley. It was while appearing at the Empire theater in Paris that he was elected mascot of the entire A. E. F.

Jay is unusually versatile on the stage and imitates Will Rogers with such accuracy that he never fails to win the hearts and applause of his audience. He is a comedian too but in spite of his talents is an ordinary boy with a goodly amount of boyish meanness.

* * *

Laura La Plante climbs another rung on the ladder to universal popularity through her interpretation of the stellar role in Universal's "The Cat and the Canary," the fascinating mystery-drama which enjoyed continued country-wide success, as a stage play from the pen of John Willard.

Go to the Strand theater this week if you want to enjoy an evening packed full of thrills and delicious suspense. You'll be hanging on to your seat for dear life from start to finish.

The story is characterized by interesting and effective photographic shots, reflective of the genius of director Paul Leni. His instictive sense of beauty and drama bring into play an interpretation of the values of the plot, producing the audience-reaction so eagerly sought after by directors.

In order to achieve his objective, Leni has made full use of the laws of action and reaction by using suspense - lifting interludes to heighten the dramatic tension through laugh-provoking intervals.

Laura La Plante as usual, gives an eminent performance fully justifying her stellar prominence in the movies.

G. P. Brown of Olney, left the Wichita General hospital early Tuesday morning after treatment for bruises about the head sustained about 3:30 a. m. Tuesday when the automobile in which he was riding and one said to have been driven by L. L. Littleton collided a few miles from Wichita Falls on the Lake road. Mr. Brown was riding with B. F. Nesbett, also of Olney, who escaped from the accident uninjured.

FIRE LOSSES HIT LOW MARK

Damage For October Totals $3,900, Report Shows

Losses resulting from fires in Wichita Falls during the month of October aggregated $3900, a relativeley small figure when compared to losses of other months this year, according to the report issued Tuesday by Fire Chief J. L. McClure.

Firemen during the month answered 24 calls, seven of which were false, the report states. A total of 3400 feet of hose was laid, and 166 gallons of chemicals used. Property involved in fires aggregated $57,600, and total insurance involved $48,000.

ELECTRA SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Nov. 1.—Mesdames J. M. Hemby and Doc Fisher entertained with one of the most unique parties of the year Saturday afternoon with a Spanish party at the Country club. The club rooms were prettily decorated with Spanish moss, American Beauty roses, red and yellow dahlias and bronze chrysanthemums in Spanish vases, ferns, palms and Spanish shawls.

Upon arriving the guests were entertained with Spanish music played on a steel guitar by Misses Beatrice Delashaw and Bell, who were dressed in Spanish costumes. In the bridge games, Mrs. Edward Schlaffke won high score prize, a hand-painted Mexican vase; Mrs. J. H. Marriott Jr., won second high, an armadillo sewing basket, while low score went to Mrs. Bart Magee, a hand-painted bird picture. All prizes were acquired in Mexico.

The refreshments consisted of individual cakes, salted nuts, figs and nut ice cream frozen in the shape of Spanish guitars and were served on trays with attractive covers of orange, purple, green, red and brown. Misses Beatrice Delashaw and Bonnie Jennings entertained with a group of Spanish selections during the refreshment hour. The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Misses Babe Helen Jennings, Madeline Williams, Maxine and Ruth Marie Fisher who were dressed in Spanish costume. About sixty guests were present.

North Circle Social.

In accordance with the custom of the members of the North Circle of the First Baptist church to celebrate the birthdays of the different members of the circle as they arrive, a double birthday was celebrated this week in honor of Mrs. W. J. Holder and Mrs. W. A. Gault. The entertainment was given at the home of Mrs. Gault, which was tastefully decorated in autumn colors and Halloween favors.

The guests were ushered into the rear door where the hostesses told them they were glad they had called and hoped they would come again. On their departure through the front door the guests were told how glad they were to see them and invited them in. Each guest had her fortune told and a dramatic contest and a horror game were enjoyed. Several songs and readings were given. Each of the hostesses received several nice remembrances.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie and whipped cream and coffee were served to Mesdames P. W. Tubb, E. V. Hannah, Elsie Weaver, J. T. Taylor, Charles Kessee, P. E. Griffin, W. C. Gossage, C. F. Birkhead, F. L. Stephens, W. B. Babcock, H. F. Hill, G. R. Morrow, W. E. Reneau, Sullivan, Smalley, C. F. Peterson, W. M. Stom and E. M. Francis.

Pals Club Party.

The members of the Pals club with their chaperone, returned to their homes in Electra Sunday evening after the most enjoyable week-end in the history of the club.

The club members, with their chaperone, Mrs. Loden of the Loden Studios, left Electra Friday evening and pitched camp on the banks of Beaver Creek. A radio was among the camp equipment and before the departure a telegram had been sent to WBAP broadcasting station of Fort Worth with greetings to Al Olson, their favorite singer, who, on Saturday afternoon, dedicated his program to them.

Saturday was spent in hiking, horseback riding and radio programs and sketching. Miss Margaret Moore made an oil sketch of the camp.

Sunday morning the club listened to the morning services by the Rev. Hawkins over the radio. Sunday afternoon a party from Electra composed of Mrs. L. A. Ballard of Wichita Falls, Mrs. Lee Ballard, Mrs. Moore, Pug Sanderlin and Scotty Lane motored to the camp and partook of an excellent dinner prepared by the members of the club. Later, they all returned to Electra.

Those making up the camping party were Misses Margaret Moore, Brunetta Clonninger, Anna May Myers, Violet Guthrie, Maurine Holder, Irene Ballard and the chaperone, Mrs. Loden.

Birthday Surprise Party.

Miss Elvire Bissell entertained Saturday evening with a surprise party at her home on the Rio Bravo lease, in honor of Miss Dorothy Vandeventer. The occasion was the honoree's birthday. The guests gathered at the home of Mrs. Freeman Orman and marched in a body to the Bissell home, where Miss Vandeventer was later brought.

The rooms were decorated in Halloween colors which was also carried out in the refreshments and favors. Games and contests were enjoyed until a late hour when refreshments of birthday cake, whipped cream and punch were served. The large birthday cake with its candles was the center of attraction. Miss Vandeventer was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts.

Those present were: Misses Margaret Hughes, Rosemary Magee, Fay and Ruth Andrews, Rose Marie Turner, Evelyn Kilpatrick, Oleta Wilson, Helen and Berneice Goontz, Preston Ashley and Blennie West. Messrs. Shirley Shonafelt, Ray Orman, Geraldine Orman, Paul and Gordon Roberts, Ewell and Coy Sandifer, J. W. Alexander, J. W. LeBus, Coy Ballard, Connis McGrew, J. M. Ashley, Foster Wilson, D. C. Priddy and Trueman Vandeventer.

Miss Bissell was assisted in the entertainment of the guests by Mrs. Bissell, Mrs. Tom Vandeventer and Mrs. John Shaw.

days reaching us from one of our shareholders in South America who has been saving $100 a month with us since July 4th, 1922. He now has $8663 in this account of which he has saved $6700 and we have earned him $1963 in dividends. For every month last year he saved $100 and we earned him more than $67. Pretty good, isn't it, saving $100 a month and getting $67 a month interest? He will continue this right along a few years more and have $20,000 in cash of which he has saved $12,000 and the company has earned $8000 for him.

Health and Diet Advice

Author of
"The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

A UNIQUE HEALTH SERVICE

Several years ago when I began writing for publication, the main object I had in mind was to distribute knowledge which had come to me through years of private practice. My readers have probably noticed that I seldom quote any other author, but choose to write my articles from my own personal experiences with patients.

The practical information I give I attempt to present in a simple manner so it may be understood by anyone. The language I use is much the same as I would use if you consulted me in my private practise, and my only desire is to help you in every way to understand the science of health.

In place of consulting with only a few each day, I am now giving these messages to several million people on the North American continent.

Those of you who have corresponded with me may wonder how I can answer so many thousands of letters which I receive, and perhaps you will be interested in knowing just how I carry on such an extensive correspondence. The simple fact is that I have succeeded in giving health advic on a quantative basis.

Because of understanding different problems which confront the health seeker, I have prepared special articles on thousands of subjects regarding the cause and cure of different diseases, so when you write to me, in addition to my necessarily short personal reply, I can enclose thousands of words of advice on the subject in which you are interested. These special treatisies on different diseases have been prepared in advance so you receive an answer to your letter within a few days.

The greatest problem is that correspondents insist on asking me to diagnose their disorders which, of course, I cannot do by correspondence. No attempt is made in this department to do the work which is naturally that of your family physician. If you have been properly diagnosed and do know the name of the disorder from which you are suffering, I am always glad to send you my opinion about the best methods of treatment.

Always remember that the advice I send you is only my own opinion based upon my own study and my experience with thousands of patients in a lifetime of practice. Do not expect me to criticize the opinions of other doctors, or to attack any method of treatment which I do not believe in advocating. I am too busy giving you my advice to use the space in this column or in my correspondence with you in criticizing or condemning the advice of other physicians.

You can help me a good deal and also help yourself and the cause of health education in which I am interested, if you will make your letters short and to the point, trying to keep them to only one or two hundred words.

Many who desire a personal reply neglect to give their address, and are disappointed in not receiving a reply owing to the fact that there is such a limited space for answering questions. This is a special service which I am giving you in cooperation with The Record News, and we have only the sincerest desire to help you in solving your health problems.

QUESTION: Mrs. E. J. writes: "I am going to be a mother. What should I eat or drink so that I may nurse my baby and have plenty of milk?"

ANSWER: Keep on a well balanced diet before your baby is born and then afterwards if your milk is not sufficient, increase the amount of liquids you use, or drink milk part of the day, both for its nourishing qualities and because of the additional liquid.

QUESTION: Mrs. M. C. R. writes: "You always mention boiling vegetables. I always understood that boiling takes out all the nourishment, whereas steaming keeps the nourishment in them. Please give me your opinion."

ANSWER: Steaming is better than boiling, and I consider cooking in the new aluminum ware the best method of steaming vegetables, as they are really cooked in their own juices, and very little of the organic salts and flavoring is lost.

QUESTION: J. K. asks: "What causes the heart to murmur, and is a murmuring heart curable? Is it a dangerous defect?"

ANSWER: Most heart murmurs are curable, and are usually caused by some kind of pressure against the heart due to an overloaded stomach or too much stomach or intestinal gas. I have examined many patients who were more than eighty years of age who have had heart murmurs since early life. If these murmurs are only evidenced in a mild form they are not particularly dangerous.
