Tax Legislation For Old Age Pension Badly Confused

Deadlock May Result From Disagreement

Senate Amendments On Omnibus Bill Rejected By House And Conferees Instructed Not To Consider Sales Tax

Compromise Hoped

Predictions Were Strong Last Night In Certain Quarters That Unruly Action Doomed Tax Legislation At Present

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 12.—Tax legislation for old age pensions was confused tonight as a possible deadlock loomed between the houses over the method of raising revenue.

The house rejected senate amendment to an omnibus tax bill to increase natural resources and occupation taxes and sent it to conference for final drafting. Predictions were strong in certain quarters the action doomed tax legislation and that the committee would be unable to agree on a compromise acceptable to both houses.

Against Sales Tax

The house instructed its conferees, 92 to 40, against any form of a sales or gross proceeds tax after a motion to instruct in favor of a general sales levy was defeated 11 to 117. It was regarded as certain the senate would insist on its one per cent levy on selected commodities.

The house voted down motions to instruct conferees for and against an income tax. An instruction to include a one cent per barrel increase in the oil production tax was ruled out of order.

Committee Named

Reps. Hollis Fraser of Franklin, Jesse James of Cameron, A. T. McKinney of Huntsville, R. H. Good of Cooper and Harold Hankamer of El Paso were named on the house conference committee.

Governor Allred repeated opposition to a general sales tax but declined to state his attitude on a selective tax and indicated another special session would not be called if revenues for pensions, estimated

New Mexico Officers Carrying Hollis Martin Back To Be Charged With Murder Of Three Relatives

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12 — Hollis Martin, 17-year-old filling station attendant, was enroute with officers tonight to New Mexico to face charges in the triple slaying of a family of his relatives.

The youth, arrested here last night in the culmination of a search extending throughout the Southwest, waived extradition and was taken from here in shackles by Sheriff A. S. McCammant of Carrizozo, N. M., the Roswell chief of police and a member of the New Mexico state police.

Didn't Remember Details

Police here said the youth admitted the crime, although he did not remember full details that followed the shooting of his uncle, Willard Shaffer, farmer living near Hondo. Mrs. Shaffer and their 9-year-old son, Tommie, also were slain.

Police said Martin told them of having $11 more when he "came to" some distance from the Shaffer home than he had before the slaying. He was quoted as saying the son, Tommie, caught him taking some of the Shaffers' money and threatened to tell his parents.

Illegal Punishment In Texas Prison To Stop, Nelson Says

HOUSTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Dave Nelson, new general manager of the Texas Prison system, told farm managers and other executives today he was going to stamp out illegal punishment of convicts, and had instructed prison physicians to report immediately any evidence of it they encounter.

"We're going to stamp it out," he declared.

Buffalo Woman Wants To Die And Paper Publishes Request For Appointment

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 12. (AP)—The Buffalo Times, in a copyrighted story, today published the request of Miss Anna Becker, 34, for the Erie County Medical association to appoint a physician to take her life because of her belief she never will recover from injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

Penniless and in bed for two years, Miss Becker praised the London doctor who "confessed" taking the lives of five hopeless invalid patients.

She was awarded $6,000 for injuries sustained Oct. 31, 1933, when a taxi cab in which she was a passenger collided with another car. The insurance carrier for the taxi concern, however, is in the process of liquidation and she can not collect.

Italy Implies She May Quit League Status

Formal Note Of Protest Sent To Sanctionist Nations And Their Actions Branded "Act Of Hostility" To Italy

BY CHARLES H. GUPTILL
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ROME, Nov. 12.—Italy served notice upon the world today that sanctions might drive her from the League of Nations.

In formal note of protest to all sanctionists countries, the government branded the ban on imports from Italy a "true act of hostility."

The document coupled a declaration that "until now" Italy had not wished to leave Geneva with a request for information from each of the member nations on the manner in which sanctions would be applied.

To Hold Countries Responsible

Responsible sources said this clearly indicated Italy might leave the League should the application of sanctions be "too hostile." Whether or not she does so, these sources asserted, she has clearly indicated she will hold sanctionist countries "individually responsible" for actions against her under the league aegis.

Law Sone Named TWC President

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12. (AP) — Law Sone was named president of Texas Wesleyan college here this afternoon by the board of trustees at the college. He will be the first layman ever to head TWC or its predecessors.

Sone, who was present at the trustees meeting accepted the appointment and will assume his duties tomorrow.

Dr. T. W. Brabham, present head who has been named president of McMurry college at Abilene, will remain at TWC until December 1 to aid Sone in launching his work.

Sone, former dean at TWC, has been employed by an insurance company in the last few months. At one time he was superintendent of schools at Panhandle.

Wichita Falls Voters Approve Junior College Construction

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 12. (AP) — By a majority of more than eight to one, Wichita Falls voted today for the issuance of $200,000 in bonds to be matched with a PWA grant of $157,000 for a new junior college to be located in the city. The vote was 896 for the issue and 108 against.

The school is expected to be open by the beginning of the fall term next year.

Other than the PWA grant, 40 acres of valuable land has been donated for the site and the construction of a college building will qualify this city for an approximate $400,000 trust fund created by John G. Hardin and the late Mary Hardin of Burkburnett for support of a junior college.

Italians Said To Have Been Repulsed By Ethiopians In Bloody Battle With Heavy Loss On Both Sides

Expect Big Fight

First Major Battle Of War Is Expected Shortly; Traps Being Set For Italians In Retreat Movements

By JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 12. (AP) — A bloody Ethiopian victory on the southern front, won at a heavy cost of lives to both sides, was officially claimed today by the government.

It was a fight of age old infantry against modern tank and machine gun units of the Fascist invaders,

FACING THOUSANDS

ITALIAN GENERAL HEADQUARTERS ON THE NORTHERN FRONT, Nov. 12. (AP)—Italian scouts reported tonight that nearly a quarter of a million Ethiopian warriors will attempt to throw back the advance of Italy's armies from northern Ethiopia. In addition there are Ethiopian reserves totaling between 200,000 and 400,000 destined to reinforce sectors under attack and to produce an encircling movement," said an Italian report.

a communique said, and the former won.

Fighting Desperate

Despite a withering Italian fire, the announcement asserted, the tribesmen of Emperor Haile Selassie captured four Italian tanks in desperate fighting at Anele, Ogaden province.

The battlefield was strewn with the dead of both armies, the announcement said.

Ethiopia also claimed success in another clash in the same region. The government said its warriors killed six Italian officers and many soldiers, with the remainder fleeing in panic, and captured six trucks.

Ethiopia, an authority said today, expects the first major battle of the almost bloodless war with Italy to be fought within a few days.

It will take place, this source predicted, on the northern front south of Fascist-occupied Makale. Unseasonable rains, however, may delay the engagement indefinitely.

Ethiopia's northern forces are dropping back with large armies seeking to join with better-equip-

Court Rules Slot Machines May Be Seized By Officers

AMARILLO, Nov. 12. (AP) — The seventh district court of civil appeals ruled here today that officers are authorized to seize slot machines without search warrants.

The opinion, written by Justice M. J. R. Jackson, held that there are no property rights in gambling paraphernalia. The ruling affirmed a decision by District Judge W. E. Gee denying C. F. Moore of Amarillo the right to force Potter County Sheriff Bill Adams to return 11 machines his officers had seized or pay damages of $750. The devices were destroyed last January under a court order.

The appeals court held that no search warrant was necessary because Moore was not owner of the places where the slot machines were operated and because gambling equipment is a public nuisance, for which no suit may be brought for recovery.

Sulphur River Conservation District Bill Passes Senate

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP) — Senate passage today sent to the governor a house bill to create the Sulphur River Conservation and Reclamation district.

It embraced Bowie, Cass, Morris, Titus, Franklin, Hopkins, Hunt, Fannin, Lamar and Red River counties. It was planned as a flood control, power and irrigation project.

GOP Opens Up

Dub "Frankly Destructive Roosevelt" Unreliable; Broadside Sarcasm

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Asserting the Work Relief plan encompassed hundreds of "utterly ridiculous and fantastic" projects, the Republican high command today disputed an administration contention that the Works program is "all good solid stuff."

In a formal statement, the Republican national committee dubbed the president "Frankly Destructive Roosevelt," openly expressed doubt that reliance could be placed upon his word; and charged that "hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars have been frittered away," with 11,000,000 still unemployed.

"As examples of what it termed "boondoggling" projects, the committee presented a list which ranged from researchers upon "The Love Life of the Cow" to painting the fire hyrdants in Wilmington, Del., and building islands in a Washington State park.

A broadside of sarcasm was fired at the federal theater project, together with a charge that it was under radical influence and intended to present unproduced plays and rejected manuscripts by a group of writers "regarded by the public as left wing propagandists."

Phone Conference Is Held After Ranger Made Statement

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Nov. 12.—Albert Sidney Johnson, chairman of the Texas Public Safety commission, announced late today that commission members had held a telephone conference and agreed to make the dismissal of Ranger Captain Tom Hickman effective immediately.

"Captain Hickman has said in the newspapers he refuses to resign," Johnson said when asked why the discharge was made effective immediately, instead of on Dec. 1 as agreed upon previously.

Was Head Of Rangers

Hickman was captain of the headquarters company of the colorful peace officers in big white hats, which made him in effect head of all the Rangers.

"We held a meeting last week that was attended by Captain Hickman and had a thorough understanding," Johnson said. "We agreed to allow him until Dec. 1 to resign so he could have time to look around for something else to do."

Johnson declined to say why Captain Hickman was dismissed.

"It is not necessary to give reasons," he said. "Some times people do not have the same views as the people for whom they work. Some times they just do not fit in. His removal was for the good of the service."

"We note that there is some talk

Fifteen-Months-Old Baby Is Killed, Mother Injured When Gun Accidentally Discharges

CLEBURNE, Nov. 12. (AP) — The 15-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Powell, living west of here, was killed and the mother seriously wounded today by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the father's hands.

Powell, hearing a commotion in his sheep pens, started to load the weapon. When it fire the bullet passed through the baby's head and into the abdomen of Mrs. Powell who was holding the child.

They hurried 15 miles to Cleburne with the baby but it was dead on arrival at the hospital here. Physicians said the mother would recover.

No Change In Cotton Plans, Cobb Affirms

Program Of AAA To Be Carried On Despite Any Ruling That Supreme Court Might Issue On Farm Act Validity

Crowd Of 1,000 Hears Chief Of Cotton Division Of AAA Blast Critics And Praise Control Of Production

(By The Associated Press)

TEMPLE, Nov. 12. — Culley A. Cobb, chief of the cotton division of the AAA, said today the government's cotton program would be carried on regardless of any ruling made by the Supreme court on validity of the farm act.

Cobb was principal speaker at a state-wide agricultural conference here at which were 1,000 farm leaders, county agents and farmers from a wide territory.

The cotton chief said that the financing of a four-year program was holding up formal announcement of a proposed new plan.

Program Critics Scored

Cobb scored critics of the farm program, declaring that it "was not necessary to listen to those who would go back to the constitution but that the New Deal was seeking to get for the farmers what was coming to them under the constitution."

He named "governmental handicaps" as the reasons farm progress in the past "had been impossible."

"We have come a long way since March, 1933," he said, "and the New Deal was pledged to equality in agriculture. The only answer to home ownership in the south is controlled production and a fair and stable price. The task of holding out against the enemies of the program will be hard. We must choose between no control and no price and control and a fair price."

Cobb denied that, contrary to "scary tales," the foreign market is being lost.

Bruno's Trial Said "Circus"

Appeal Is Made To Supreme Court For Hauptmann On Tuesday; Deprivation Of Rights Is Charged

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Attorney for Bruno Richard Hauptmann branded his New Jersey court trial a "circus" today in appealing to the Supreme court to set aside his conviction of kidnapping and murdering the Lindbergh baby.

Battling to escape the electric chair, the former German machine-gunner charged deprivation of constitutional rights at the celebrated Flemington trial.

May Get Unwanted Gift

Whether the nine justices of the land's highest tribunal will review the world-famous case may be announced December 23, just in time to give the present occupant of the New Jersey "death house" a welcome or unwanted Christmas present.

Hauptmann was convicted by unanimous vote of 12 jurors. Later, the 13 judges of New Jersey's court or errors and appeals—the highest state tribunal—unanimously affirmed the verdict.

Charges "Mob Spirit"

In asking the Supreme court to pass on the conviction, and, if possible, to grant a new trial, Hauptmann's attorneys con tended in a 32-page petition that "an hysterial mob spirit" prevailed at Flemington and that the jury was presented with "a picture of a circus" which made a "mockery of justice."

"The daily presence of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh at the trial," the petition added, "unduly influenced the jury to view him as the

Prisoners Seized From Sheriff And Hanged To Tree

Mob Estimated At 700 Persons, Including Several Women, Is Judge And Jury For Accused Slayers Of Columbus School Girl; Search Is Reported To Be On For Third Negro

(By The Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12.—A mob estimated at 700 persons, including several women, tonight took two negro youths accused of the murder of Miss Geraldine Kollmann, 19, from Colorado county officers and hanged them to a liveoak tree four miles north of Columbus.

The mob then scattered in search of another negro believed to be implicated in the crime.

Were To Stand Trial

The two prisoners, Benny Mitchell and Ernest Collins, both under 17 years old, were being brought from Houston to Columbus by Sheriff Frank Hoegemeyer and Deputy Berry Townsend to stand trial tomorrow in juvenile court of criminally assaulting and killing the girl on October 17.

As the officers and their prisoners reached the Colorado river bridge at Altair, 11 miles south of here, the mob stopped them, jerked the negroes from the car and rushed them through Columbus to a spot only a mile from the farm of the slain girl's parents. Asked for any last statements, the two youths implicated another young negro living about four miles north of Columbus.

Seeking Third Negro

The leaders of the mob placed carefully knotted ropes around the necks of the pair and pulled their kicking bodies into the air. Leaving the bodies hanging, the crowd then started toward the home of the third negro implicated. Late tonight they were reported still searching for him.

BODY BURNED

RIPLEY, W. Va., Nov. 12. (AP)—The body of an unidentified negro was found hanging from a tree four miles from here late tonight.

The clothing had been soaked in gasoline or oil and the body was burned beyond identification.

Passing motorists saw the flames and discovered the body.

Miss Kollman, honor graduate of Columbus High school, was criminally attacked, slain and her body thrown into Cummins creek, which flows through her father's pasture. The finding of the body next day by a younger brother and the discovery later that she had been severely beaten started a manhunt that ended in the arrest of the two youths.

Had Admitted Crime

Fearing mob action, Sheriff Hoegemeyer took his prisoners to Houston for safekeeping. After their arrival there they admitted the crime in a signed statement, officers said.

The sheriff had hoped to slip the prisoners into town tonight without notice and was approaching Columbus in a roundabout way when the mob intercepted him.

"While we were crossing the bridge over the Colorado at Altair," the sheriff said, "a large body of men stopped us. Before I could make a move, they opened the automobile door and took out the two prisoners. They placed the negroes in another car and sped away toward Columbus.

"Seven cars on the bridge blocked my way so I could not follow

Shorter Hours To Be Sought For Industry

Senator Black Says He Will Make Fight For 30-Hour Week In Next Congress; Says Either It Or Dole

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Senator Black (D-Ala) declared today that private industry must shorten working hours or continue to bear the unemployment burden through dole-financing taxes.

The author of the 30-hour week bill, opposed by many business spokesmen but constituting the major objective of the American Federation of Labor, said in an interview he would seek a vote on the measure when congress returns.

Depends On Public

"I tried to get a vote last session," Black said with a smile, "and I couldn't. Whether the bill is brought up and passed at this next session depends upon the public.

"If the employed want to work longer hours to feed and clothe the unemployed, they will do it. They are doing it now, and private industry will continue to bear the unemployment burden in some way.

"The question is whether industry wants to do it through private employment, which means shorter hours, or through heavy taxes to support an outright dole or a huge continuing system of public works."

Little Hope Held For Lost Fliers

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 13. (Wednesday) (AP)—A flurry of concern for C. James Melrose, overdue on a search for the lost Sir Charles Kingford-Smith, was ended today when it was announced Melrose had been located and was safe. There was, however, no news of Kingford-Smith, for whom Melrose was searching off the east coast of Siam.

Melrose was found on the beach near Parktao, Siam, after making a forced landing because of engine trouble.

It was Melrose who last saw Kingsford-Smith and his co-pilot, Tom Pethbridge, battling a monsoon over the Bay of Bengal on an attempted flight from England to Australia early last Friday morning.

Little hope was held today that Kingsford-Smith will be found. (At Rangood, Burma, yesterday, pilots of searching planes said the hunt was "virtually hopeless.")

Texas Ranges And Livestock Said Above 10-Year Average

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—The United States department of agriculture reported today the condition of Texas ranges and livestock was well above the 10-year average on Nov. 1 and in sharp contrast to the extremely low condition of a year ago.

"Rainfall has been adequate in all sections, except the extreme northern portion of the Panhandle where only scattering showers fell during October," the report said.

Unless rain falls soon in the northern Panhandle, it continued, that section will have to feed heavily through the winter.

Colorado Water Supply Unit Is Defeated In Vote Tuesday

COLORADO, Nov. 12. (AP)—A proposed bond issue of $110,000 for a water supply project here partly financed by a PWA grant was turned down by the voters today, 147 for and 197 against.

The project had been approved by the PWA on the basis of a $101,000 loan and an $82,000 grant.

It called for a reservoir to be built on North Champion creek five miles southeast of Colorado.

Gonzales Turkey Growers Go On Strike For Higher Prices

GONZALES, Nov. 12. (AP)—Gonzales county growers of turkeys were on strike today for higher market prices.

Only a few turkeys have been sold here to date, although the season closes six days hence for shipments east. The majority of Gonzales turkeys were No. 1 birds, and the growers were refusing 17 cents a pound.

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

AGAIN death visits the ranks of the great, taking one of the most popular Presbyterian ministers in the south, if not in the nation, Dr. William M. Anderson of Dallas First church. He was well known and loved in Lubbock, by Presbyterians, business men and school children.

The last time we heard Dr. Anderson was at a Kiwanis club luncheon during his visit in 1933. His week's series of Bible lessons and sermons at the local church was secured by Dr. Jack M. Lewis after a long attempt. This preacher was one of the most sought after speakers in Dallas and could have spent all of his time outside of the pulpit in lecturing if he had cared for the plaudits of the multitudes. We will long remember this friendly man, who read his scripture lesson from memory and preached holding his frayed Bible in his right hand against his shoulder. His sermons were replete with incidents of his experiences with people.

EXPERIENCE OF FAITH

WE remember two illustrations. The day before he came to Lubbock from his beloved Dallas he had been rather despondent as he rode downtown. He picked up a stranger who was waiting for a street car and continued his way. Because he felt so discouraged he was silent and suddenly the can called him by name and told him he had attended services at First church.

As the Presbyterian minister continued through the sparse traffic he described the way as becoming so bright he thought the sun was shining. On an impulse he looked at the man and was awarded with a face of dazzling brightness. The stranger's smile was so beautiful, said Dr. Anderson, his gloomy feelings lifted and in a few blocks he was almost cheerful.

We've forgotten the rest of the story. Hazily we remember that the man had lost his wife and his home and his job but had not lost that thing which Dr. Anderson helped so many of his congregation and those of other faiths to find—a Way of Life that no trials and tribulations could take away.

A HOMEY ILLUSTRATION

THE other was of a time when his lovely little daughter, Sarah Catherine, had come up the stairs to his study after school, bringing a little friend home with her for the first time. "Yo ho," the daughter called. Carrying out a little every day custom Dr. Anderson called down in mock gruffness: "Whatdja want?" In a twinkling the little playmate had turned and was halfway down the stairs when Sarah Catherine, laughing so she could hardly speak, yelled: "Wait a minute, that's my Daddy!"

One of the points to the last story was a homelike description of the Christian's interpretation of the loving kindness of God, Our Father, understood alone by His children.

Although we grieve with his family and congregation over his passing, we know that with Dr. Anderson it is as Ed Hambright said Tuesday, "He didn't mind dying." You see Bill Anderson knew in whom he believed.

THE AMARILLO SPECIAL

A MOTHER who prefers to remain nameless called us to protest the unbecoming actions of several high school girls and boys on the special returning from Amarillo Monday night. She wondered why parents and teachers allowed the carousal of drinking and smoking so evident as the youngsters filed through the cars and thought perhaps a mention of it in The Woman's Angle would help.

We telephoned Mrs. Terrell, dean of girls at Senior High school, who was glad to inform us that the pep squad and band members went to Amarillo in five chartered buses, sponsored by the school, chaperoned by teachers, coming and going in orderly conduct. The school did NOT sponsor the special train, Mrs. Terrell said and was not responsible for the conduct of the pupils. On the contrary the parents who gave their sons and daughters permission to ride the special were the ones who should have disciplined them.

IT'S YOUR PROBLEM

WE'RE not going to tell you how to rear your children, but we'd like for you to know how they act away from home at times. If you are at a loss how to understand them why don't you go to meetings of the Senior Mothers club and discuss your problems with mothers in similar positions?

Mrs. C. E. Love, president of the club, was wondering the other day why parents lose interest in parent-teacher work after their children enter high school. The mothers club was organized to meet problems that arise in high school, but few attend. There are no dues and the meetings, conducted each second Thursday afternoon, do not last over an hour.

Find Out

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Japanese Will Lecture Here

Flood Of Invitations Is Sent Out For Appearance Here Of Dr. Toyohika Kagawa, Noted Christian Leader

A flood of invitations to lectures which Dr. Toyohika Kagawa, Japanese Christian leader, will make in Lubbock Dec. 23-24 has been placed in the mails. Church pastors, Sunday school superintendents and other church officials throughout northwest Texas will receive the invitations.

Doctor Kagawa will appear here under auspices of the Texas Technological college Young Men's Christian association and Young Women's Christian association, which secured assurance of co-operation from local churches before they obtained the speaker.

Invitations Sent Out

Invitations were sent to Baptist and Methodist churches today and 200 will be sent Wednesday to other churches.

Doctor Kagawa will be the principal speaker at the Methodist Young People's conference in Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 28; the Southwide Baptist Training Union conference at Birmingham, Alabama; and the World Volunteer movement at Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 31.

According to announcement sent out by the Christian associations, "Dr. Kagawa is considered the world's greatest Christian leader. He is undoubtedly the greatest force for good in Japan today. The Japanese imperialistic government, which Kagawa attacks regularly, asserts itself that Kagawa is their greatest stronghold against atheistic communism."

Among Top Five

Bishop Arthur J. Moore of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, said of Kagawa: "If I were selecting the outstanding Christian leader of the world today, Kagawa's name would appear among the five whom every thinking person would want to hear — modern, dynamic, moving in a field of interest to young people."

The college associations will await answers to their invitations before setting place of speeches. Doctor Kagawa will give a discussion the afternoon of Dec. 23, his principal speech here that evening, and will conduct a meeting for pastors and other church officials the morning of Dec. 24. He will arrive here 11:50 a. m. Dec. 23 and will leave at 3:50 p. m. Dec. 24.

Needles Is Sworn As Commissioner

Oath of office of City commissioner was taken by B. E. Needles, tire dealer, during a called session of the body Tuesday afternoon.

The commissioners had met to make an official canvass of the votes in last Thrsday's election. Results were unchanged from the count released when polls closed: Needles, 704; Alex McDonald, 494; two mutilated ballots—a total of 1,200 votes.

Needles was sworn in as commissioner of the fourth post by Mayor Ross Edwards. He will attend his first meeting Thursday at the regular session. Only routine matters have been scheduled so far.

Three Southwest Conference Teams Placed In First Ten Of Nation's Major League Football Teams

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Southern Methodist, having removed any lingering doubt about its own class as well as the ruggedness of Southwest football generally, goes to the head of the collegiate class in this week's ranking list.

Based upon the performances inclusive of the last week-end, here's our revised "top ten" today.

1. Southern Methodist; 2. Princeton; 3. Minnesota; 4. California; 5. North Carolina; 6. Texas Christian; 7. Rice; 8. Louisiana State; 9. Alabama; 10. Notre Dame.

A Southwest Plunge

Having survived the barrage that followed our ranking of Princeton at the top last week, over Notre Dame, we have no hesitancy in "plunging" this week on the Southwest, which has three entries in the "top flight" and a sectional record unmatched by any other area of gridiron activity in the country. Taken as a whole the Big Ten is the only conference that can offer the Southwest a real argument.

Southern Methodist's "Pony express" turned in the season's most convincing intersectional performance by trouncing the strong U. S. L. A. aggregation at Los Angeles, 21-0, yesterday. This was the eighth straight victory for the Mustangs, no longer to be classified merely as an "aerial circus" but a powerful, well knit and well coached outfit. S. M. U. is the only team to defeat Rice, last year's Southwest conference titleholder. The Ponies turned the trick, 10 to 0, and also handed Texas its worst beating, 20 to 0.

Frogs In Way

Texas Christian, also unbeaten and untied in eight games, remains to bar Southern Methodist's path to Southwest honors. They play on November 30. T. C. U. wasn't so impressive last Friday night, however, in overcoming Loyola at New Orleans and may be knocked out of the title picture by either Texas, this Saturday, or Rice next week.

Princeton, California, North Carolina and Louisiana State all justified their high ratings by last Saturday's decisive performances.

Arkansas Hopes To Smother Mustang Hopes On Saturday

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 12. (AP)—Coach Fred Thomsen today gave his University of Arkansas Razorbacks defensive plays he charted from information obtained from the Southern Methodist - U.C.L.A. game.

Then he ran the Porkers through a fast work out as he speeded preparation for the game here Saturday with the undefeated S. M. U. Ponies.

Thomsen indicated he would try to stop the galloping Mustangs from getting too near the goal line in the Arkansas homecoming game.

Scrimmage was eliminated from the week's program to prevent possible injuries.

Texas Aggies Wind Up For Scrap With Feathered Team

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Texas Aggies swapped punches with the freshmen in scrimmage today as they speeded preparation for Saturday's battle with Rice at Houston.

The regulars sprinkled laterals and forwards with ground maneuvers, and the freshmen heaved passes to give the varsity a chance to tune an aerial defense.

Coach Homer Norton said all his players were in top form except Nick Willis, guard, and Waylon Manning, halfback, who are out from injuries.

Horned Frogs Brush Up For Texas Longhorns At Austin

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12. (AP)—The T. C. U. Horned Frogs turned their attention to their offense in practice here this afternoon, polishing their aerial attack and working on new plays designed to penetrate the University of Texas defense in Austin Saturday.

Coaches Dutch Meyer and Bear Wolf reported that all injured players would be in top form for the contest, Holt, Harrison, Linne and Lester having fully recovered from hurts suffered the last three weeks.

Mack Clark, assistant athletic director, announced that tickets to the S. M. U.-T. C. U. game are now selling on the goal line, demand having been brisk all day.

Demos Of Nebraska Will Not Permit Norris Retirement, Roosevelt Quoted As Saying

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—President Roosevelt was quoted today as saying the Democrats of Nebraska should not permit Senator George W. Norris, Republican independent, to carry out his announced plan to retire.

Representative Coffee (D-Neb.) said that was the president's response when he asked him what he thought of Norris' intention.

The presidential sentiment will be highly agreeable to the majority of Democrats in the state, Coffee asserted.

Auburn's Threat

'Li'l Brother' Of Jim Shines

Taught By Famous Brother Of All-American Fame, Billy Helps Lead Alabama Poly To Victory This Season

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 12. (AP)—Just like an old suit of clothes, the tricks of the gridiron trade have been handed down by Jimmy Hitchcock to Brother Billy.

And, how the younger brother of Auburn's former all-American halfback is mastering them!

Young Billy, a sophomore, broke into varsity competition with an outstanding performance in the opening game with Birmingham-Southern. He was a sensation returning kicks.

He Resembles Jimmy

He's a triple-threat halfback, and has developed rapidly under the tutelage of Brother Jimmy, Auburn's backfield coach and an all-America member of the Plainsmen's team in 1932.

Billy runs like his older brother and resembles him in other ways. He aspires to follow in Jimmy's footsteps, but has a tough road to travel to reach the heights Jimmy did.

"I'm out to win on my own merits," he says, "and not on Jimmy's record." His temper is aroused if anyone suggests he's riding along on Jimmy's coat-tail.

A Gangling Youth

Billy, six feet tall and weighing 150 pounds, graduated from Union Springs, Ala., high school and then entered Staunton (Va.) Military Academy, where he was the highest ranking cadet scholastically in 1932-33. He is 19 years old.

The younger Hitchcock is one of Auburn's smartest students, having averaged 94.12 in the second semester of the 1934-35 term.

At Staunton he was an all-state athlete in three sports—football, basketball and baseball—and there on the gridiron he was hailed for his ability to run back kicks. He plans to coach and teach after finishing school.

Developed By Brother

Billy is a great open field runner. He passes and kicks well, and is a good defensive player. In tight quarters, however, he still needs developing, and that is what Brother Jimmy is teaching him now—how to dart into the open.

After his excellent performance against Birmingham-Southern, Billy ran approximately 50 yards against Tulane before being stopped on the one-yard line, then scored a touchdown against Kentucky on a 19-yard sprint. He is Auburn's regular left halfback, the position formerly held down by Jimmy, and is improving with every game.

Like Jimmy, the younger Hitchcock is a good baseball shortstop. Jimmy was signed by the Yankees after graduating and played the last two seasons with Binghamton, N. Y., a Yankee farm. He was with Wheeling, W. Va., in 1933.

Billy also is a good basketball player, either at center of forward.

Methodists To Dispute Rules Of 'Geography'

Path To Rose Bowl May Be Barred By Location; SMU Plans To Set Precedent If Rules Allow

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 12—Positive "tops" in football technique, Southern Methodist's prancing, undefeated Mustangs admit complete failure in geography and confess they don't recall a Mississippi River ever being listed as a natural barrier to a Rose Bowl in California.

Disturbing reports have sifted through from the Pacific slope to the home corral of the Mustangs. They said a team west of the Mississippi has never been invited to play in the Tournament of Roses classic on New Year's Day.

River Or No River

Coach Matty Bell, cunning ringmaster of the razzle-dazzle Methodist aerial circus, quietly spoke the sentiments of his lads and announced they would seek to set a precedent.

Not offensively—just hopefully—Bell said 10 days ago:

"We most certainly would like to have a chance at the Rose Bowl—River or no River. And who wouldn't? My boys have a rough schedule to beat but we'll be gunning for the honor."

To Get Welcome

Today the Mustangs were en route home after stamping the University of California at Los Angeles yesterday in the Coliseum, 21-0. The classy herd of "wild hosses" will be greeted by thousands of Dallas's football groggy fans.

The police and firemen's band, the mayor and city council, the chamber of commerce and the sidewalk quarterbacks" will gather at Union station to roar welcome to a team that has scored 217 points against the enemy's 12 to rank first offensively and defensively among the nation's better teams.

Out Of Race, Baylor Bears Prepare To Meet Centenary

WACO, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Baylor Bears, after an Armistice day rest, were back at hard work today preparing for their invasion of Shreveport Saturday to battle the strong Centenary Gentlemen.

Coach Morley Jennings said his team came out of the University of Texas game without injuries and will have its full strength ready to throw against the pupils of Curtis Parker. He planned to save his regular backfield as much as possible for the S. M. U. game next week in Dallas.

That would give Doc Hensley, Clois Mansker, Charlie Burke, John Manning, Charlie Crenshaw, and one or two others who have warmed the bench most of this season, a chance to display their wares.

The Gentlemen have been beaten twice by Southwest conference teams this season and Jennings said he expected to give them a real battle despite his team's lack of success so far in conference games.

Another Gas Spot Is Hit In Well

(Special To The Avalanche)

SEMINOLE, Nov. 12. — Another pocket of gas, this time 3,035,035 feet, has been found in the W. T. Walsh-Harry Adams No. 1 Averitt, three miles north and west of here. The test is shut down at 3,090 feet to change from rotary to standard tools.

Drilling will be resumed as soon as the change is effected. It will be several days.

Gas was first picked up at 2,785-95 feet as the 8 5-8 inch casing was being cemented at 2,811 feet after drilling 2,817 feet. The gas threatened to blow out the casing.

Differences as to the top of the Yates sand, in which the bit is now drilling, are reported. One statement said the top was 2,939 feet and another 3,060 feet. Elevation is 3,222. Base of the salt was given as 2,779 feet.

Location is in section 228, block G. W. T. R. R. survey. The test had a fishing job for a collar at 3,035 feet.

RETIRED OFFICER DIES

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 12. (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, 71, U. S.A. retired, who served 40 years in the army, died here today of stomach ailment.

In the World war he commanded the 79th division, U. S. army in this country and in France. His division captured Montfaucon, highest point on the Meuse-Argonne battlefield.

Improper Care Of Players Is Fatality Cause

Coaches Agree Grid Casualty List Swell Because Of Lack Of Medical Care And Use Of Faulty Equipment

BY BOB CAVAGNARO
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Lack of supervision and medical care, as well as faulty equipment, must be charged with responsibility for the majority of football deaths this season in the opinion of leading coaches and officials.

Although a few saw the so-called "slow whistle" as a contributing factor, a nation-wide pool today by the Associated Press disclosed an almost unanimous belief that the mounting death toll was due in the main to failure to safeguard high school and sand-lot players.

38th Death Reported

They pointed out that 29 out of 38 fatalities already reported have occurred in high school games and others of the "pick-up" variety, while only three casualties have occurred among college players. The 38th fatality, a schoolboy, was reported in Lincoln, Kas., today.

Satisfied with the rules of the game, Leonard "Stub" Allison, coach of the undefeated California Golden Bears, sounded the keynote for a majority of coaches.

"The fact that increased serious injuries are in high school and corner lot football games convinces me it is almost entirely the case of inadequate physical supervision," he said. "Despite the fact more youngsters are playing the game annually, very few sand-lotters or schoolboys have the benefit of physical examinations at the start of the season and day-to-day check ups.

"In any game of physical exertion serious injuries are likely if players are not in proper shape physically. Hundreds of youngsters playing football are not physically qualified. I don't think any change in the rules would remedy the situation, but strict physical examination and supervision would eliminate most of the injuries."

Others Share Belief

This belief was shared among others, by Biff Jones of Oklahoma; Fred Thomsen of Arkansas; Gil Dobie of Cornell; Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern; Elmer Layden of Notre Dame; Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago; Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech; Harry Kipke of Michigan; Bill Spaulding of the University of California at Los Angeles; Cecil Muellerleile of St. Louis university; Alvin Bell of Little Rock, Southwest conference official.

The "slow whistle," which was adopted last year to open up the game and give the ball-carrier chance to gain every inch of ground possible, came in for criticism from Hunk Anderson of North Carolina State; Jimmy Kitts of Rice; Tiny Thornhill of Stanford; Jack Haggerty of Georgetown, and B. L. Eberts, an official in the District of Columbia.

INCOME INCREASES

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Consolidated net income of the Central and Southwest Utilities company and subsidiaries for the third quarter was reported today at $280,540 after charges and taxes but before providing for cumulative unpaid dividends. This compares with a net profit of $292,196 in the third quarter last year.

Loss in the nine months period ended September 30 declined to $209,385 from $240,068 in the corresponding 1934 period.

Rough Sailing Seen For Wild "Tex" Tonight

Strong Man Stratton Favored To Take Barnacle Bill In Top Go Tonight; Hallas To Meet Larry Tillman

TONIGHT'S CARD

The preliminary: Joseph Bauer, Milwaukee, vs. Rex O'Sullivan, Amarillo. One fall or 20-minute time limit.

The semi-final: Billy Hallas, El Paso, vs. Larry Tillman, Muskogee, Okla. One fall or 30-minute time limit.

The main event: Sailor Tex Watkins, Post, vs. Walter Stratton, Des Moines. Two out of three falls, or 2-hour time limit.

Local wrestling fandom got a small taste two weeks ago of the kind of grappling expected in the main event of tonight's bill at Sled Allen's Auditorium.

At times, it looked as if Walter Stratton, the tremendously muscled man from Iowa, could have handled the situation at any time he desired; now and then Sailor Watkins looked good enough to come through with one of his innumerable nasty tricks. But their first meeting ended in a draw after 30 minutes of excitement.

Tonight Watkins and Stratton, of about the same size and build, will wrangle in a finish match, until one has taken two falls or until two hours is up. It is not expected to be a limit match.

Stratton is the favorite. He's faster, better trained as to the finer points of the game, and he's so much stronger that there is no comparison. Given the opportunity to employ that peculiar man power, Stratton should get his man handily.

But the Iowan may have trouble keeping Watkins out of his hair and eyes, not to mention the headlock which Watkins applies and under cover of which he applies his own particular brand of "rugged individualism." He battered Dorry Detton's nose all over the Mormon's face in a bloody match last week. He will find it more difficult to hold Stratton still long enough to get in much dirty work, but it will come in spurts, as frequently as Tex gets an opening, and there'll be fun for the watchers tonight.

Billy Hallas, veteran El Paso performer, and Larry Tillman should provide an interesting match in the special event this evening. They are fast, efficient grapplers. As far as the science of wrestling is concerned, the semi-final tonight will be the only match productive of much wrestling.

Jittery Joe Bauer, the native German, naturalized in Milwaukee, should handle Rex O'Sullivan, youngster from Amarillo, in the preliminary show. Bauer is always good for a laugh, if for nothing else. He gets almost as much fun out of wrestling as the patrons do out of watching him clown.

Another Extension Class Is Organized By Tech Tuesday

Ninth organization of extension classes on the South Plains was perfected Tuesday night at Tahoka by J. F. McDonald, Texas Technological college extension director. Curriculum construction will be studied weekly by Tahoka and Lynn county teachers at the Tahoka High school, beginning Dec. 4.

Sixteen will take the course. Included in Tuesday's attendance were County Supt. H. T. Caveness of Lynn county and Superintendent Barrett of the Tahoka school system.

First meeting of a class of 14 persons who will study art composition will be conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Slaton High school by Mrs. C. E. Hooper, part-time instructor in architecture. The class offers credit in public school art.

A Slaton class in curriculum construction, which met last week for the first time, will be instructed each Thursday evening at 7 o'clock by Dr. R. E. Garlin, education professor. Thirty persons have enrolled.

RAIL OFFICIAL DIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Harry G. Clark, 60, executive vice president of the Rock Island railroad, died suddenly today of heart trouble at his home in suburban Glencoe.

Lieb To Move?

Off on the wrong foot by losing the first two games of the season, the University of Wisconsin's football team likely will have a new coach by the end of the season, according to reports. Dr. Clarence (Pat) Spears, above, present mentor, is said to be on the way out, with Tom Lieb, former Notre Dame star, and current head coach at Loyola college, San Francisco, due to replace him. Lieb, below, formerly served as the Badgers' line coach.

Plainview And Cowboys Play

Lubbock Junior Team Reaches High Point Of Season Here Thursday When Plainview's Juniors Invade

The week won't be without its football game in Lubbock, although the Texas Tech and Lubbock High clubs are not scheduled.

On Thursday afternoon, Coach Mule Davis' Lubbock Junior High school Cowboys clash with the Plainview Junior High school Bullpups in what is figured to be the high point of the season for both clubs.

They've met once before this season, the Cowboys and the Bullpups, with the Lubbock team winning, 21 to 6. Tomorrow's game is expected to be jammed with action.

Hoping that the citizens will turn out to see the present Cowboys who someday will be Lubbock High Westerners, the school is selling tickets in advance. They are priced at 20 cents for adults, 10 cents for students. Members of the squad are peddling the ducats.

Unsold Certificates Expected To Be Received In City Soon

Unsold Bankhead cotton exemption certificates of 1934, pooled last year and not re-pooled, will be sent to Lubbock county soon from College Station, where they are reported to have been sent from Washington recently, it was announced yesterday by W. M. Emmons, cotton administator.

"We have not received the certificates but we have been told to look for them," Mr. Emmons said. "Due notice will be given when they are received."

Lubbock county is expected to receive around 1,800 of these unsold certificates. They are the last batch to come and will bring the total available bales to approximately 84,000.

Chlorine, deadly gas, in combination with other chemicals is an efficient antiseptic.

Matadors And Westerners To Take Things Easier Rest Of Week; No More Games Slated

Day Of Rest Given Yesterday Before Teams Start Grind For Games At San Antonio And Plainview Next Week

Lubbock's two defeated but unbowed "major league" football teams, the Texas Tech Matadors and the Lubbock High Westerners, face this week, as their reward for trying, a period of lighter work. No games are on the books for them until Friday and Saturday of next week.

Coaches Cawthon and Dutchy Smith caught up with office work yesterday, giving their Matadors the day off after the signing of Armistice football Monday had left them a defeated ball club, 7 to 6. University of Arizona's Blue Brigade of gridders returned to Tucson with their first victory over Texas Tech, and visions of an undisputed Border conference championship shining before them.

To San Antonio Next

The Westerners took it easy, too. Somewhat banged up after Monday's bad licking at Amarillo, the high school boys deserved the rest. There will be no hard work for them this week. They had worked hard in an effort to upset the one-sided dope and smash Amarillo, but were smashed themselves, 34 to 0, by a championship calibre Sandie team on Butler Field.

Next on the Tech schedule is St. Mary's university of San Antonio. The game will be played in the South Texas metropolis one week from Saturday. Frank Bridges, former mentor at Baylor and Hardin-Simmons, coaches the Rattlers of St. Mary's, who are enjoying their first "big time" schedule of football since the resumption of athletic enterprises three years ago.

The Matadors will leave probably a week from tomorrow for San Antonio fr their first game with the Rattlers.

Keenly disappointed as a result of Monday's loss to Arizona, although he had anticipated such a turn of events, Coach Cawthon has had little to say about the game, one way or another.

Better Punting Won

Line Coach Dutchy Smith said that it was superior punting that won the game for Arizona. George Jackson and Dave Wynne, Arizona's punters, consistently got off nice kicks, which either went out of bounds or were killed deep in Tech territory. Tech's punting was the poorest of the season, made to look even worse because of the punt-catching genius, Ted Bland, Arizona safety man, who took them all in stride, returned them for good gains.

Smith had praise for his linemen, especially for the ends, particularly for Red Ramsey, big left wingman who distinguished himself in Monday's game.

Coach Weldon Chapman of Lubbock High, too, was disappointed, but "It was just about what I expected. We were roundly outclassed. Amarillo has a fine team, good enough, at its present stride, to win a second straight interscholastic league championship."

Westerners To Borger

The Westerners have finished their home season. They go to Borger next week, Friday, to play the Borger Bulldogs, a team which surprised by defeating Plainview early in the season but which fell before Amarillo and Pampa by decisive scores.

After next week's games, the Matadors come home for Thanksgiving to meet Gus Dorais' University of Detroit Titans, a powerful club of their section, and the high school Westerners go to Plainview for the wind-up game with the District 1 team. Tech journeys to Oklahoma City on Dec. 7 for a post-season skirmish with Oklahoma City University's Goldbugs.

Big Spring, San Angelo Tie Will Remain Deadlock

SWEETWATER, Nov. 12. (AP) — The District Three executive committee late today ruled the San Angelo - Big Spring scoreless game yesterday a tie.

A committee deadlock was broken by R. S. Covey, the Sweetwater member, after Big Spring contended that the school principal had refused to agree to decide the game by penetrations. Coaches Bristow and Taylor had agreed to decide the game by penetrations. Coaches Bristow and Taylor had agreed to decide the game in that manner before the game. Bristow, the Big Spring coach, agreed, he said, because he understood it was a rule of the Interscholistic league and did not rest with school officials.

A decision by penetrations would have given the game to San Angelo.

Texas Senators Petition For Change Of Name Of Goat Meat

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—Texas senators decided today that mutton and lamb would be a tastier name for goat meat than "chevon" and petitioned the secretary of agriculture to change the designation.

Thirteen years ago the secretary approved "chevon" at the insistence of the sheep and goat raisers association, said a resolution by Senator E. M. Davis of Brownwood which the senate adopted.

The name worked a hardship, it said, resulting in a curtailed market.

The Italo-Ethiopian war has increased the demand for stamps from Italy and Ethiopia among stamp collectors.

Newly Discovered Hormone Helps Men Past 40
Generally around and after 40 one's vigor becomes impaired and his vitality lowered, due in many cases to mental and physical fatigue or to tired, sluggish glands.
A newly discovered hormone (gland activator) has been found to be of remarkable help in improving vigor and increasing vitality. Clinical tests with this hormone have produced amazing results.
The hormone, fortified by other valuable agents, is now available in tablet form under the trade name of Zo-ak (blue package for men—orange package for women) and may be obtained at Mark Hadley Drug, who will refund your money if you do not feel considerably benefitted after taking Zo-ak uninterruptedly for one month.
An interesting booklet: "For Men Who Want to Live," tells more about the hormone and how it helps men past 40. This booklet, written by a distinguished American physician, will be sent to you free in sealed envelope by ZO-AK CO., 56 W 45 St., N. Y.—Adv.

Pilot Of Stratosphere Balloon Flight Describes Thrilling Aerial Adventure

Capt. Anderson Details Epic Hop; Could Have Gone Higher

Flier Says Only Discomfort Experienced Was In Clearing Rock Bowl; Temperature Got To 76 Degrees Below

BY CAPT. ORVIL A. ANDERSON
Pilot Of The Stratosphere Balloon, Explorer II
(Written For The Associated Press)
(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press)

KIMBALL, S. D., Nov. 12.—The third stratosphere balloon flight sponsored by the United States Army and the National Geographic Society, as far as Captain Albert W. Stevens and I were able to tell, was a success in every way.

The flight itself was fine, but the waiting for satisfactory weather was hell.

Could Have Gone Higher

We went up to 73,000 feet and could have gone 5,000 feet higher in safety. We experienced no discomfort although temperatures outside were as low as 76 degrees below zero. Inside the gondola temperatures went no lower than 28 degrees above zero.

From a study of maps we were convinced yesterday that satisfactory conditions prevailed after six weeks of waiting. We gave the order to start inflating about 1 p. m. Sunday.

We started actually putting in gas but were subjected to delay as a result of a fabric flaw and we had to do a field repair job. We were not able to get off until about 7 a. m., Monday, cutting two hours off our flight. This made it mandatory that we eliminate the intermediate stop at 53,000 feet, and that we go instead straight to the top, which we did.

Had To Rise Quickly

We cleared the rim of the bowl by about 50 feet. We had to take off in the direction of the highest cliffs. We left about 800 pounds light, this being necessary because we had a northwest wind running at the takeoff and the balloon had to be shot into the air pretty fast.

About 50 feet over the rim, a stiff down draft struck the balloon, making it necessary to discharge 750 pounds of ballast rapidly in order to avoid being thrown down against the cliff.

Was Toughest Spot

This was the toughest spot of our flight. After reaching an altitude of about 15,000 feet, I slowed our rate of ascent so that Capt. Stevens could rig the instruments which trailed underneath the gondola ropes. After we had both returned to the gondola, we sealed the parts and started up again.

We then started what instruments were not already in operation, including our air purifier. Capt. Stevens kept an eye on all the instruments, while I watched navigation, trying to maintain an ascent of 400 feet a minute. As the balloon approached the height at which the bag was fully expanded I slowed the climb to 200 feet a minute in order to avoid strain.

Reached Top In 4 Hours

We reached 73,000 feet four hours after our takeoff. As this was the approximate height desired I stopped the balloon and maintained that altitude for an hour and 40 minutes, starting down at 12:30 p. m.

At the peak of our flight we were hovering over the Niobrara river in northern Nebraska.

I attempted to pick out stars in the heavens, but was unable to see any. The moon was not out yet. The sky was a dark blue, tinged with purple.

Earth Last Detail

Beneath us, nearly 14 miles, the earth lost much of its detail and the horizon was an indistinct blur. Railroads and highways were scarcely visible. Only rivers, towns and small checker board design of farms could be seen.

The instruments were all working perfectly. The balloon functioned properly, and everything went on schedule.

Valving (releasing gas) to begin our descent, we slipped down through the stratosphere to 25,000 feet before we began to toss over ballast.

Drop Ballast

From 16,000 feet to the ground we let drop some 2,000 pounds of ballast. Excess cargo was dropped with parachutes. At 15,000 feet we picked out a suitable landing area, but maintained our descent at about 500 feet a minute.

At 1,500 feet I tossed overboard the last battery and began paying out 40 pound sacks of lead dust. In this manner the balloon's drop was slowed to 100 feet and then to 50 feet a minute.

As we approached the landing site, I dropped a drag rope, but motorists who were following us did not understand that we wanted them to act as an anchor by grabbing the rope. We were then traveling about 11 miles an hour.

Abandoning the attempt to land the balloon without deflating the bag, I let it settle to within two feet of the ground, and then I pulled the rip cord, releasing all the gas from the bag instantaneously.

There was no vertical jar, although the gondola did roll over to an angle of about 90 degrees. None of the instruments were damaged.

Final Drafts On Projects Will Be Filed On Monday

Final drafts of applications to the PWA for a dairy manufacturing building and stadium at Texas Technological college will be completed by Friday, when the college board of directors will meet in Fort Worth to approve applications, and will be filed Monday.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, college president, left Tuesday evening for Fort Worth to assist Wyatt Hedrick architects in drafting final plans. The drafts will be filed at the request of the federal PWA office in Washington.

A grant of $67,000 for the stadium was approved on basis of a preliminary draft and a loan of $33,000 is pending. Application for a $80,000 dairy manufacturing building was made when a preliminary draft was filed.

Doctor Knapp said he knew of no other business to be brought up at the called meeting of the board of directors.

First Junior High Student Council Members Are Named

Fifteen students from the fourth through the eighth grades were selected Tuesday afternoon to form the first student council for Junior High school, according to Houston Hinson, adult advisor and teacher in this school.

These students were selected by the Junior High faculty, and from this group the council officers will be chosen. Work of this council will be to act as a governing body for school patrols, both outside and corridor, and to deal with other problems for the welfare of the school.

After officers have been selected each home room will be given an opportunity to submit its idea of rules, and from these a system for the entire school will be compiled.

Council members chosen Thursday are: eighth grade, Charles Hawes, Billy Trice, Dorothy Bussey, Mary Ann Stephenson, and Woodie Tudor; sixth, Wilda Bobo, Eleanor Porter, Marion Chandler, and Marilyn Radebaugh; fifth and fourth grades, Amos Howard, jr., Dorothy Ann Dooley, and Imogene Bell.

Activities Still Slack Around Yoakum Test; Oil Still Rising

SEAGRAVES, Nov. 12.—Reconditioning of a water well and installation of better connections is the work now going on at the No. 1 L. P. Bennett of C. J. Davidson and Honolulu Oil Co., in Yoakum county.

No indication has been given as to when drilling will be resumed in the test. It is expected almost any day.

It is understood that 2,000 barrels of storage will be used at the test.

The crew operating the test has been broken up, a number being sent to another operation of Mr. Davidson, in Gaines county on the Dr. E. H. Jones ranch. Davidson is drilling for Wahlenmaier and York, and Harper, about 15 miles northwest of Seminole and about the same distance west of here.

Oil is said to be rising in the Yoakum test, at the rate of around 200 to 300 feet per day.

Relief On The Way Out

ON December 1, if the government's plans are carried out, the Federal Emergency Relief administration will come to an end by being merged with the Works Progress administration. Thereafter those in need of relief will be divided into two groups, unemployables and employables. Upon the states and the communities will fall the job of caring for the unemployables, without any help from the federal government. The Works Progress administration is to care for the employables.

On January 1, last, the number of persons on relief, including children and transients, reached the peak of 20,952,570, about 17 per cent of the entire population. It has been estimated that about 20 per cent of that peak relief load, or 4,000,000 persons, will be classified as unemployables because of physical handicaps, because they are under or over working age, because they are widows with babies, etc. By last August the total number receiving relief had fallen to about fifteen and a half million, or about 12 per cent of the entire population, but it is probable that the unemployable group shared in that decrease to only a slight extent.

In addition to caring for the unemployables, a sizable job in itself, the states and their subdivisions will be expected to contribute about one dollar for every three dollars advanced by the federal government for WPA. Mr. Hopkins has said that the average non-federal contribution, mostly in the form of supplies and materials, would run from 25 to 30 per cent of the WPA expenditures, or practically the present average non-federal share of relief expenditures.

As the plans are laid, then, the states and their communities are expected by the administration to bear an increased share of relief expenditures and the federal government a decreased share. This promises to bring sharply to the front in the next congress the question of relief expenses. If the states and the communities are to assume an extra share of the cost of relief—of course, in the end they bear all of it—they naturally will expect to have more to say than thus far they have had in determining what the policy of spending shall be.

SUNDAY REGIMENTATION

That foxy statesman Kemal Ataturk has ideas about how to take an accurate census. Last Sunday the second count of the population of the Turkish Republic took place. On that day everyone had to remain indoors, except those with permits to be abroad—the police, physicians, newspaper men, and a few others. When the enumerators had finished their work, cannon were fired as a notification to the public that they could once more roam abroad.

Inasmuch as our government plans a number of census activities through the WPA and other branches, the notion may occur to someone in Washington that the job can be facilitated and made more accurate by adopting Kemal Ataturk's plan. We offer the suggestion to some of the Republican propagandists that they attribute the idea to someone in the administration, and then attack it ruthlessly.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

The burden of the word of the Lord to Israel by Maiachi.

I have loved you, saith the Lord. Yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother? saith the Lord: yet I loved Jacob,

And I hated Esau, and laid his mountains and his heritage waste for the dragons of the wilderness.

Whereas Edom saith, We are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places; thus saith the Lord of hosts, They shall build, but I will throw down; and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and, the people against whom the Lord hath indignation for ever.

And your eyes shall see, and ye shall say, The Lord will be magnified from the border of Israel.—Malachi, 1:1-6.

FRIENDLIEST MAN

John L. Horgan is credited with having one of the best memories in the country. For thirty years he has been in the hotel business and in that time has contacted some thirty million guests in his establishments. Out of that number, he can remember by name and face at least one million people, and can greet them readily. He has a "nodding acquaintance" with over five million people, and he constantly astounds his guests as he calls them by name after long periods between meetings. Mr. Horgan is now managing director of the Hotel Edison, New York City.

UNIQUE IN BASEBALL

Archie Campbell of the P. C. L. Hollywood team, won the ball game, had one assist, and one put out, and only threw one ball. San Francisco and Hollywood were playing at Los Angeles. First half of the 9th inning for S. F., one man out and a runner on second. Score 4 to 4. Campbell relieved the pitcher. He threw one ball, batter hit to first baseman, who threw to Campbell covering first, giving Campbell the put out. Runner on second tried to score but Campbell threw him out at the plate for an assist. Hollywood then came in, scoring one run, for a 5-4 victory.

The BLUE DOOR

by Rachel Mack — © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

RUTH WOODSON, 19 years old, an orphan, leaves Brooklyn for the mid-west by bus, seeking a job. Unable to pay her fare, she is put off the bus in a small town just as a storm is breaking. She seeks shelter at an old stone house with a blue door and faints from hunger.

PENNEY, the old housekeeper, opens the door. Ruth is carried upstairs by the old woman, assisted by JOHN McNEILL, a young man from next door. The old woman mistakes Ruth for ELAINE CHALMERS, whose grandfather built the house. Ruth does not deny this. She resolves to quit the old house next day but becomes interested in John.

Elaine, meanwhile, at Graycastle College, vows in a sorority meeting to win the love of her first sweetheart, John McNeill. Though "almost engaged" to an Annapolis man, to a famous orchestra leader, and to the wealthy TEDDY VAN HARRINGTON, Elaine decides to capture another heart. She writes John McNeill, telling him she plans to visit Worthville and hopes to renew their friendship. Lacking a stamp, the letter lies on her desk unmailed.

Penney tells Ruth that the next day will be her 75th birthday and pleads with her to make a two-weeks' visit. Ruth recklessly consents.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

When Ruth awakened on her second morning in the quiet old Hunter mansion she did so without any feeling of guilt or remorse. Having made her decision to remain, she resolved to enjoy her stay to the fullest. The stage was set for a fortnight which she had every reason to believe would be the happiest of her life.

True, there was the possibility of Elaine Chalmers appearing on the scene, but this was remote. The girl had, of course, written Penney that she was arriving "in a few weeks." Penney's eyes had hardly deceived her on that point. "I'll be gone," thought Ruth, "with a week or two to spare. I'll have had my little masquerade, and no harm done—unless maybe to my own heart! I'll leave a note behind me, asking forgiveness. And that's all there'll be to that."

That other cloud on the horizon, Penney's "queerness," Ruth dismissed also. Aside from the matter of the blue door, Penney seemed normal and reliable. Ruth had enough natural curiosity to wonder about the old woman's strange regard for her freshly-painted door, but intuition warned her not to pry. Good guests never turn detective.

Someone was whistling on the lawn outside. Ruth hoped she knew who it was.

Wrapping herself in the bathrobe that Penney had lent her, she ventured across the room and peeped out. John McNeill was there, looking up at her window.

He called out ceremoniously: "The McNeill heir greets the Chalmers-Hunter-Deal heiress and invites her for a buggy ride at 5 this evening."

Ruth clutched the clumsy robe at her neck and drew nearer. "Do they still use buggies in Ohio?" she asked soberly.

"Eight-cylinder ones, mostly. Wilst go, fair maid? Or Wouldst choose to languish in thy ratty tower?"

Ruth called, "I'll go, of course, idiot. But make it a country road. I don't feel like meeting people. I'm here for a rest."

"So that's what you're here for," John McNeill replied cryptically. "I've been waiting for you to tell me."

"Well, she said, "now you know!" She recklessly blew him a kiss and withdrew, her heart pounding foolishly. Presently she heard him drive away.

Ruth, dressed, wished that she had a gift for Penney's 75th birthday.

"Imagine not being able to buy her anything," she thought regretfully. "Not even narcissus bulbs, like the ones I got Cousin Bessie."

Cousin Bessie! How unreal she seemed now. Ruth counted back—one two, three nights ago the Lawrences had loomed as colossal figures in her life. Cousin Bessie's home had sheltered her. Cecil's selfish little habits had angered her. Letty's cold-as-steel jealousy had driven her out into the inhospitable streets to escape. And now they seemed far away and unimportant, like people in a dream.

"I must write to Cousin Bessie," Ruth decided. "She'll worry about me if she doesn't hear." And yet she knew the worry would be mild. In Bessie Lawrence's world of fantastic manuscripts, nothing could seem very strange, not even Ruth's impulsive flight.

For a hopeful moment or two Ruth considered asking the Lawrences to send her clothes to her. Then she dismissed the idea, realizing that she must wait until she could receive them under her own name. She thought regretfully of the things she so needed and must do without. How rash she had been to come off in such a headlong way!

Ruth went downstairs and, while Penney was bringing her breakfast to the table, went into the drawing room and raised the lid o the old square piano which she had polished the day before. Running her fingers over the tinkling, yellow keys she played "Happy Birthday to You!" and sang it precisely, using Penney's name in the refrain to make it personal.

The old woman came to the door, coffee-pot in hand and beaming with pleasure. "Mercy me, Miss Elaine! I remember they used to sing that song at your birthday parties. And now yo're singin' it special for me!"

Ruth smiled absently as she rose from the piano and kissed the old woman's withered cheek. She said, "We used to sing it at Sunday School too, Penney." She was thinking of the last time she had heard it. The children in her Sunday School class had sung it on her 12th birthday and she was supposed to respond by dropping 12 pennies into the class bank. The cousin with whom she was living at the time had failed to supply her with the meager handful of copper pieces which would have saved her pride, and Ruth had stood blushing and pulling at her handkerchief while the children stared . . . She came back from the past and smiled at the attentive old woman.

While Ruth was eating, Penney brought up the subject of clothes. She said, "Miss Elaine, if you don't want to wire back for your clothes—to school or home or wherever you forgot and left 'em — there's somethin' else we might do about it. We might find you something in the storeroom. That box your mother sent for Saint Stephen's rummage sale last spring got here too late. The ladies were right put out, knowing what good things your mother always sends. When it finally got here I dragged it up to the storeroom. It's not been opened."

"Oh!" said Ruth, her eyes sparkling. "Do you suppose any of the clothes would fit me?"

"You mean are there any of your clothes in the box, Miss Elaine?" asked Penney, puzzled.

"Yes," answered Ruth. She would have to watch herself.

"Why, half of 'em at least is yours, Miss Elaine. I mean it's always been that way. Finish off your breakfast and we'll go up and see what's there."

The "storeroom" proved to be one of the big, unused bedrooms on the second floor. It was in a state of riotous disorder, but the smell of moth balls attested to Penney's struggle to keep the room free of those particular pests. The old woman pointed to an immense carton of heavy cardboard. "That's the box, Miss Elaine."

As she opened it, Ruth fell on her knees with a cry of delight. Penney said, "You'll recognize your own clothes. Maybe they're a little out of style, to your way of thinkin', but they'll do fine."

There were two evening dresses on top. One was shell-pink velvet, the other was cream-colored lace. "Oh-h!" breathed Ruth, and held them up in front of her. The velvet, she saw, was cut with a deep back decollete. The lace frock had

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

ALTHOUGH almost everybody has missed it, President Roosevelt has set the stage for dramatization of his farm program and political conquest of the West in 1936. He has accepted an invitation to address the American Farm Federation Bureau on the same day—December 9—that the Supreme court listens to arguments against the processing tax in the Hoosac Mills case.

The White House is secretive about its plans but here's how the act will be staged: Mr. Roosevelt will be recounting AAA's benefits to farmers on the day that conservative lawyers for New England textilers will be charging that the processing tax is unconstitutional and the road toward bankruptcy. Receiver for the Hoosac firm is William M. Butler, who was GOP national chairman under Calvin Coolidge. Mr. Roosevelt will not miss this chance to pit the New Deal against the Old Deal.

The President may also appear before the federation as a paid member of farmers' union. As a Hyde Park agriculturist he has been asked to join the Cook County Farm Federation of Illinois. The fee is $2.

CHAMPION: After an absence of almost two months from Washington FDR impresses his friends as a subtly changed man. He is no longer the exuberant, wise-cracking Chief Executive he used to be. He takes more time to decide major questions, he weighs his words, he asserts and assimilates more carefully.

He seems to feel no lack of confidence in future economic and political developments, but he wouldn't show it if he did. He exhibits the same differences which all Chief Executives betray when it dawns on them that reelection is less than a year off. He is more wary. This presidential caution will explain many moves still in the making. He is feeling his way toward the ballot-box, getting his political legs again.

But it would be a mistake to conclude that he will cater to the conservatives for long. Mr. Roosevelt has returned to Washington in a gambling mood. His restraint is personal rather than political. If necessary, he is ready to proclaim himself in 1936 as the champion of the farmers and workers against the "exploiters"—as Rex Tugwell hinted in his recent speech on the coast.

OUT: William E. Borah has virtually abandoned presidential ambitions if the Idahoan's friends in Washington can be trusted. The distinguished lone-wolfer has built up satisfactory publicity for his coming run for the Senate. He will use whatever White House backing he has to influence platform framers and candidate pickers.

That's bad news for Herbert Hoover, for the Senator makes no effort to conceal his animosity toward the former President. Mr. Borah's favorite is understood to be Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, although he has been casting shy glances at Alf Landon of Kansas.

Eastern talk of Borah has died down since he renewed his demand for certain inflationary measures. Old Guarders who spoke favorably of him in early spring now dismiss him with a shrug. When their attitude was relayed to Idaho's favorite son he replied with a grim smile: "Yes, I know it. They got off me when they found they couldn't use me."

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE refusal of Judge Martin T. Manton of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals to rule favorably on the plea of J. Edward Jones — oil royalty king — for what amounted to exemption from the jurisdiction of the Securities Exchange commission was an important triumph for the latter and a blow to Wall Street right-wingers. The die-hards—while harboring no great affection for Jones—did cherish the hope that his action would determine the commission's legal authority and thus serve their purposes without involving them in any way.

This development has a significant bearing on the Meehan case. If Mike should insist on challenging the commission by refusing to heed its summons for a hearing he now runs a real risk of being adjudged in contempt. That might land him in the hoosegow—which would be highly humiliating.

Some half dozen other big-time operators are reliably reported to be quaking in their boots for fear their turn is coming next.

"MEDDLING": Charges are circulating freely in New York that Jim Landis and his confreres have turned their backs on Joe Kennedy's safe-and-sane policies and are about to plunge into a spree of "headline hunting" that will drive everyone to cover and disrupt the market.

The double-cross is heatedly alleged since Landis publicly announced, only a few weeks ago, that he contemplated no departure from the principles established by his predecessors. The real situation is that the commission—which is conceded by impartial observes to be unusually fair and scrupulous for a government agency — was caught up in the sudden wave of administration apprehension about a runaway market and was also goaded into action by stinging criticisms of lax enforcement. Those who should know continue to be confident that there will be no interference with legitimate trading.

Some of the boys are certainly hard to please. Until the Meehan business broke they were razzing the daylights out of the commission for allowing all sorts of market phenagling to go on under its nose. Now that it shows signs of clamping down on manipulators they are squawking about "government meddling."

REVERSAL: New York bankers are keeping a wary eye on the federal reserve. They agree in principle that something should be done to cut down mountainous excess reserves but are a trifle uneasy about the precise formula to be employed.

The suggestion of Benjamin Anderson — Chase bank economist—that the Federal Reserve banks should start selling government securities inspires no enthusiasm. The banks are fearful that such sales would drive the government bond market down and impair the value of their own extensive investments in federal obligations. Federal Reserve authorities recognize the force of this objection and are unlikely to take a chance on upsetting the psychological apple cart. However, they may try a milder variant of the same idea—reducing federal reserve holdings of short term governments by quietly failing to renew investments in maturing issues and taking a cash payoff instead. This wouldn't attract much attention and would have virtually no effect on the market—so the banks wouldn't mind it—but on the other hand it would probably make very little impression on excess reserves either.

Financial experts believe the Federal Reserve's most useful weapon in combatting inflationary tendencies will turn out to be its newly authorized and never used power to increase member bank reserve requirements. That would cut down excess reserves with the smoothness and finality of a guillotine — but it would represent too abrupt a reversal of policy to be tried just yet.

BETTER: The plan sponsored by Senator Augustine Lonergan of Connecticut to have the federal government help out the beleaguered New England textile manufacturers by selling them cotton at seven cents a pound meets no favor in New York.

It's pointed out that this would mean a net loss to Uncle Sam of about $15,000,000—one more straw on the taxpayer's back—with no hope of recovery. Financial men suggest the fifteen million could be used to better advantage in financing new machinery for antiquated cotton mills and in developing new markets for cotton goods.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS, No. 45

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"All ye Canaanites, sing the praises of the heavenly visitor!" cried Arbela. The people fell upon their knees and paid homage to Lady Beth, who saw now that she was restored to her status of divinity. But no one came near to Niarchus, who lay motionless on the ground.

Lady Beth knew that he must have been grievously injured by his fall. Though he had tried to kill her, she felt a certain pity for the miserable creature. When she saw that none aided him, she approached him and knelt down beside him, and saw a pool of blood at his head.

Slowly now the elders came forward curiously. They looked at the priest and nodded their heads ruefully. "He will surely die," said Zidon. "It is the will of Baal. We can do nothing." Lady Beth saw, too, that he would die unless the flow of blood were quickly stanched.

She thought of the small first-aid kit in her pocket. Should she try to aid this brutal man? To stand idly by and see him die would be inhuman. Yet, if she saved him, she knew he would show no gratitude — but only that fiendish hate which had brought her near death!

WHAT'S WRONG

In The Scene?

Spot the Error in this movie scene and win a guest ticket to the Palace Theater.

Study it carefully and you'll find out why movie directors grow old before their time—why their hair is grey around the temples when other men are just beginning to shave.

Clip each photo as it is published, pin on another sheet of paper, circle the error and write as briefly as possible what the error is and why it is an error.

THIS IS NO. ONE OF THE SERIES OF FOUR

When the entire series of four scenes have appeared bring to the Classified Contest Editor, Avalanche-Journal. The ten persons submitting the BEST, CORRECT entries will each receive a guest ticket to the Palace Theater.

Salesman Tells On Himself Here

WHETHER or not his evaluation of Gov. James V. Allred's political prowess has changed, K. M. Camp said here Tuesday he has no doubt about the sportsmanship of Texas' young chief executive.

Mr. Camp was on a Pullman coming to Lubbock. Across from him in the section sat a serious, but pleasant man who was an accomplished conversationalist. So talk turned here and there, finally resting on politics.

"We need a governor more than anything else—one who will put pressure on the legislature and make it work," Mr. Camp remarked.

A moment later he felt a confused burning of his cheeks.

"I am Jimmie Allred," the vis-a-vis had said, introducing himself.

Aged Sudan Man Dies On Monday

SUDAN, Nov. 12. (Special) — Armistice day claimed George C. Barnes, 92, Union veteran of the war between the states. He died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. H. H. Weimhold after an illness of a month.

Mr. Barnes was buried here this afternoon after 3 o'clock funeral services read at the Methodist church by Rev. A. C. Hanes. World war veterans were pallbearers.

The veteran came to Texas, 11 years ago, and had lived nine years at the Weimhold home. For 47 years he taught school in Missouri, 27 years of that time at one Saline coutiy institution. Tributes to his educational contribution were paid at the funeral by William Biggers and W. N. Bobbitt, superintendent and principal, respectively, of the school system here.

Other survivors are: Three sons, Lucian of Columbia, Mo., Paul of Sedalia, Mo., and Grover of Brooklyn, and seven grandchildren.

six-cent cotton," he added, "then for my part, I am ready to let them go."

Cobb dwelt at length on the new cotton program.

"The new program," he explained, "will provide the producer with the full power of government influence to help himself. The plan is not perfect, but as we gain experience we move forward to a more perfect plan."

Cobb declared that no state had done a finer job than Texas under the federal cotton control program.

ped troops from Addis Ababa. Another object is to draw the Italians southward into mountain peaks, where contact with the rear can be maintained only with the greatest difficulty.

Large forces from Addis Ababa started five weeks ago to join the northern armies of Ras Seyoum and Ras Kassa, but their progress is necessarily slow. They now are at least five days' journey from the Tigrean army, it was estimated.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—Profit realizing held sway during all but the early part of today's stock market session.

An opening buying push was quickly reversed, although while it lasted it was sufficiently brisk to leave the ticker tape lagging behind transactions. Volume tended to dwindle as prices receded.

A few sections of the list showed independent strength, especially Radio Corp. issues and Western Union. Rails held well most of the time. Higher priced industrials and specialties bore the brunt of the profit-taking.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .7 of a point at 53.3. The major portion of the dip was accounted for by the loss of 1 point in the 30 industrials used in the compilation, at 72.3, while the rail and utility components were each .4 of a point lower.

Turnover in the stock exchange, on an hourly basis, was the lowest for several days and after the opening rush there were times when the tape moved desultorily. Business done was 2,147,510 shares.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Cotton futures today spurted from $1 to $1.25 a bale as reports reached the market that the northern section of the belt was in the grip of a cold wave.

Freezing temperatures were reported over a wide area and this coupled with excessive rains in other sections resulted in traders believing the crop had received a major set-back. The last ginning reported showed that Oklahoma, North Texas and Arkansas were far behind with this year's yield, and this was the area where the cold and rain settled today.

The December position gained 24 points today to finish at 11.60, Jan. was up 25 points at 11.55 bid, while final prices of 11.47 for March, 11.45 for May and 11.37 bid for the 1936 October option showed good sized advances.

Since the release of the last government crop estimate there has been an important reversal in speculative sentiment. Professionals and some public interest has switched to the bull side of dealings, and with hedging pressure lifted from options the market had made good gains in the last five or six sessions.

By advancing 24 points at New Orleans, middling reached an even 12-cent level.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—An advance of more than $1 a bale in cotton today was attributed to continued trade and commission house buying promoted by unfavorable weather in the south and firm markets abroad. The market closed steady at net advances of 22 to 26 points.

Prices were firm from the start with opening advances of 8 to 11 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables, over-holiday reports of freezing weather in parts of the southwest and rains particularly in the central belt.

Closing quotations were 2 to 5 points off from the best under realizing. Houses with foreign connections were again good buyers and there was a further good trade demand in the near months.

Exports today 40,867, making a total for the season of 1,786,968. Port receipts 51,727. U. S. port stocks 2,976,728.

TICKER NEWS

Courtesy Norman Mayer & Co.
250 New Cotton Exchange Building

NEW ORLEANS.—Cotton News Bureau Observer says: Of great interest to the cotton trade is the claim that many Spinners are buying futures as a hedge against their raw material wants in the last half of this season. This would account very satisfactorily for the persistent buying of late in the face of a continued lack of speculative interest in the market. It is said that spinners are buying futures instead of spots. In the first place, because it is easy to buy futures and hard to buy spots and in the second place because it is less costly to carry contracts than to carry the actual stuff. This hedge buying by spinners undoubtedly was a factor in the early trading today and it easily offset and absorbed all the hedge selling the market had to take from the direction of merchants buying the crop from first hands.

NEW ORLEANS.—Total stock of cotton on shipboard at the three leading gulf ports today 220,798 bales against 70,821 a year ago.

NEW YORK—Garside estimates October domestic consumption of cotton at 555,000 bales against 449,136 in September this year and 523,032 in October last year.

NEW ORLEANS wires: Market has little or no give to it. Acts higher.

so that they may go home and have adequate time to rest before returning for their evening classes.

Thursday the Mothers council of Senior High will be special guests for the pageant to be presented during the regular assembly period. Following the pageant the council will be hostesses to the faculty at a tea given in the home economics department. The pageant, in which seventy-five high school students will take part, is being presented for the benefit of school patrons as well as the regular student body.

Oberholtzer To Speak

Superintendent K. E. Oberholtzer will be speaker at several clubs during the week. He will speak at the Rotary club, the A. B. C. group, and on Thursday he will address the Parent-Teacher association of Central Ward school on "The Changing Curriculum." Carrol Thompson, principal at Junior High school, will be speaker for the Lions club luncheon, and R. W. Matthews, Senior High principal, will be in charge of the program presented Thursday before the Kiwanis club.

Junior High school will turn its students out at 2 p. m. today to make room for parents who will be attending classes for the remainder of the day. With ten minute classes these parents will go through the regular daily schedule of their children as teacher explain new assignment plans and classroom procedure. A special exhibit showing education methods in the days of the "little red school house" and today has been prepared in the library.

The chapel programs have been arranged at Junior High school for the benefit of parents. On Thursday afternoon at 2:35 fifth and sixth grades will present their program, and on Friday afternoon at the same time the seventh and eighth grade students will give a program.

At George M. Hunt school mothers have been invited to a spend-the-day party on Thursday. They will take their lunches, and enjoy all the experiences of a school day with their children.

SWEITZER ACQUITTED

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Robert M. Sweitzer's campaign to vindicate the name he bore with honor for 24 years in Cook county Democratic high councils triumphed tonight when a criminal court jury acquitted him of charges that he withheld $414,129 from the county clerk's exchequer.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Enigmas about Canada's wheat marketing policy, intensified by this country's new trade agreement with Canada, had pronounced bearish effects on wheat values today.

Complete absence of details relative to the United States-Canadian trade agreement was a specially disturbing market factor making for trade nervousness because of apparent likelihood the agreement would vitally influence future wheat prices.

Wheat in Chicago closed unstable at the day's bottom level, 1 cent to 1 3-4 cents a bushel lower than Saturday's finish, Dec. 94 3-8@94 1-2, corn 1-8 off to 1-8 up, Dec. 59 3-8@59 1-2, oats at 1-8 decline to an equal advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Nov. 12. (AP)—Receipts for three-day period were: Wheat 33, corn 8, oats 2 and sorghums 4 cars. Wheat No. 1 red winter 1.18 1-2@1.18 1-2; No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing 1.19 1-2@1.38 1-2. Barley No. 2 nom. 62@64; sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs. nom. 1.06@1.08; No. 2 white kafir nom. 1.06@1.08.

of a legislative investigation," Johnson continued. "If such an investigation is made we'll be glad to appear and uphold our action."

Representatives Sam Hanna of Dallas introduced a resolution in the Texas house at Austin today calling for such an investigation. Rumors flew about the state capitol that a raid by two Rangers on a swank resort between Dallas and Fort Worth had something to do with Hickman's discharge.

Hanna's resolution called for an inquiry by a committee to throw light on a "mystery which has given rise to many rumors striking at high public officials, baseless or otherwise."

"Tip Off" Claimed

He declared Hickman had said a high state official was acting as a "tip-off" man and that it was not his fault that when he sought to raid the resort the day before it was raided successfully by other Rangers he found only a few persons present.

Johnson said that when reoprts first began to be circulated that Captain Hickman was being dismissed members of the commission refused to discuss it bacause they had agreed to let the widely known terror of bank robbers make the announcement in the form of a resignation as a courtesy to him.

McCormick Succeeds Him

Captain J. W. McCormick has been promoted to fill the place of Captain Hickman, with the rank of senior captain, Johnson said. He will be assigned to Austin, and McCormick's place filled from the ranks, the Public Safety commission chairman announced.

Hickman, an ex-cowhand, rodeo judge and performer, made his greatest fame as a peace officer when with others he waylaid and killed two robbers fleeing with $30,000 from a bank at Clarksville, in Red River county.

He was named senior captain of the world-famous Rangers last September. He returned to the force earlier in the year after an interval during which he was an inspector for the state comptroller, charged with enforcing cigaret and beer tax laws. He had resigned when former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson took office in January, 1933.

Hickman is 49 years old. He joined the Rangers in 1919, and the next year was promoted to captain. For a time he was stationed on the Mexican border.

Three Central Texas Bankers Indicted For Embezzlements

WACO, Nov. 12. (AP)—Indictments charging three Central Texas bankers with embezzlement aggregating $31,782.33 were among 28 bills returned by a federal grand jury here today.

John E. Lastovica, assistant cashier of the First National bank at Temple, was charged with making false entries and embezzlement of $2,309.03; H. C. Surghnor, cashier of the same bank, was charged with embezzlement of $13,7773.30, and William Cecil McClellan, assistant cashier of the Citizens National Bank of Waco, was indicted for alleged embezzlement of $15,700.

WPA Projects Are Advanced

Allotment Of Federal Funds For Eight Projects In This Area Announced; Provide Jobs For 293 Workers

Eight WPA projects in Plains area districts 17 and 18 were furthered Tuesday, when announcement was made by the Associated Press of allotment of $62,085 in federal funds.

Jobs for 293 are provided on the projects. The allotment for projects today raised the total number of WPA jobs opened to remove persons from the dole in Texas to 74,756, Robert J. Smith, deputy state administrator, announced.

Projects Authorized

Projects authorized Tuesday with WPA allotment, sponsor's contribution and average number of persons to be employed, included:

Castro county—at Flagg, landscaping school grounds, federal funds of $2,706, sponsor's $176, employing 46.

Crosby county—at Crosbyton, public school improvements, $8,000, $2,943.43.

Abortion Trial Is Opened Monday

After a day largely spent in presentation of and action on defense motions, jury was completed at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for trial in 99th district court of Dr. O. C. Boone, Lubbock chiropractor who is charged by indictment with abortion.

Judge Clark M. Mullican overruled two motions for severance, a motion to quash the Boone indictment, and a motion demanding that the state turn over to the defense a statement in writing purportedly made by defendant.

Taking of testimony will begin at 9 o'clock this morning.

An abortion case against K. C. Stacy was called and reset for the week of Dec. 9, after both Stacy and Dr. Boone had asked that the other be tried first.

Bledsoe, Crenshaw & Dupree and George S. Berry are attorneys for Doctor Boone. Tom Garrard of Tahoka appeared for Stacy.

Three defendants waived jury trials and entered pleas of guilty before Judge Mullican. Fred Sloan and Lewis Woods, negroes, were sentenced to six months in the penitentiary for theft of chickens, the sentence being suspended on recommendation of Burton S. Burks, assistant district attorney. Burks said that Will Ellis, who is serving sentence for murder in New Mexico, had told officers he was the principal in the theft.

Is Given Two Years

I. E. Wallace, already under two 2-year sentences for theft, pleaded guilty of theft of an automobile June 27, 1935, from A. A. Hutton. He was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary. Max Coleman represented Sloan, Woods, and Wallace.

Orville Tuttle, indicted for burglary, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned before Judge Mullican. Tuttle said he previously had been convicted of a felony. His case was set for trial Thursday morning.

C. A. Bostwick, facing five indictments alleging forgery and one alleging rape, appeared before Judge Mullican, but did not enter a plea. He conferred with District Attorney Daniel A. Blair and Burks preparatory to arraignment.

Program On Education Given At Lions Luncheon Tuesday

Giving physical evidence of local educational work, a chorus of 30 seventh and eighth grade boys from Junior high school, sang half a dozen numbers for the Lions club at its observance of National Educational week yesterday noon.

Sherman Cowan was the soloist, giving two numbers. David Cole was the announcer of numbers. Mrs. E. E. Key, teacher, was pianist for the group and also director.

J. Y. Boyd was program chairman for the day. President Hurley Carpenter announced Lon Ingram would be in charge of next week's program.

Carroll Thompson, principal of junior high, in a talk on educational matters, in Texas and the nation, sought to "bring closer to home, the real meaning of education and to show what the schools of the country are doing." Statistics on the part education plays in American life were quoted.

Kenneth Oberholtzer, superintendent of schools, a guest, spoke briefly, on "our belief in the equality of opportunity," as given by the federal constitution. "There is no greater institution in our scheme that gives equal opportunity to boys and girls than the schools," he added.

Three Lubbock Men Return With 400 Pounds Of Deer

Three deer which, when dressed, will weigh more than 400 pounds were brought back by three Lubbock men from a New Mexico hunt.

The men were E. K. Hufstedler, jr., who bagged a 9-point buck; Delmar Keeler, who got a 10-point buck and the largest of the three deer; and Charles Churchwell, who bagged a spike. They hunted about 50 miles northwest of Quemado, and reported sight of many herds apparently well-grazed.

Tax Legislation

to cost $10,000,000 annually, were not provided.

"I think everyone is tired," the governor said. The present session will end Thursday.

Reach Agreement

A conference committee on a district and county officers salary bill reached agreement on basic principles but slow progress marked meetings of a conference group on liquor control legislation. Another major topic reached a final stage with appointment of conference committees on a bill to license automobile drivers.

"I may be signing my political death warrant but you had best accept the senate amendments," Rep. Herman Jones of Decatur said. "The senate has sent back a better bill than you will get from a conference committee."

Predicts Sales Tax

Jones said the conference committee would eliminate an income tax amendment voted by the senate and would come back with "a straight general sales tax that you will be forced to accept in the closing hours or fail in raising pension costs."

Jones asserted the senate did not favor an income tax but was forced, by parliamentary maneuvering, to adopt it.

Rep. Hollis Frazer of Franklin, co-author of the house bill, said he believed a compromise could be effected. Frazer said he was pledged against a sales tax and would not sign a conference report proposing it.

Motion Fails

The motion to accept senate amendments failed, 117 to 23.

Conferees on the officers salary bill hoped to present a report tomorrow embodying the principle of commissioners courts fixing compensation between 1935 earnings and the maximum allowed under fees.

A senate provisions was accepted to permit an increase of one per cent per $1,000,000 valuation in counties with high renditions.

Commissioners of Dallas, Harris, Tarrant and Bexar counties would decide upon establishment of a separate officers salary fund which would be required in other counties. The state would contribute 14 cents per capita maximum to pay a share of criminal case costs.

Begin Work On Bill

Three to two dry majorities in both contingents of the liquor bill conference committee indicated no possibility for material disagreement. They began work on a lengthy bill prepared by Senator Clint Small of Amarillo, author of the senate plan, and two others.

Small said it did not deviate from principles approved by both houses.

Limited To Packages

Liquor sales would be limited to unbroken packages. Beer and wine up to 14 per cent alcoholic strength could be sold by the drink but holders of that type license could not operate a liquor package store.

An exception would permit package stores in hotels to deliver packaged liquor to rooms of bonda fide guests.

It contained also the small definition of an "open saloon" which banned sale by the drink and consumption on the premises.

The governor would appoint a Texas liquor control board of three members. It would elect an administrator.

The whisky tax would be 80 cents a gallon with lower rates on liquor of lower alcoholic content, beer and wine.

tion. Officially there were no details.

Italy's note warned sanctionist nation vigorously of the "moral and psychological consequences" of sanctions and stated they would prolong the "world's economic discord."

Rome's request or a reply recalled that the Fascist grand council is to meet Nov. 16 and the cabinet Nov. 30. Sanctions go into effect Nov. 18.

It was thought likely that responses would be considered at these meetings and appropriate actions taken.

Firm Stand Expected

(Authoritative sources in Paris said France and Great Britain were drafting identical replies to the Italian protest and indicated both nations would stand firm for sanctions.

(Reliable British sources said it was inconceivable the Italian notes would have any effect upon the application of sanctions).

Gov. McNutt Of Indiana Tells Solons FDR Will Win Again

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana today predicted in an address to the Texas legislature that President Roosevelt would be renominated without opposition and elected by an overwhelming majority.

He challenged New Deal critics for their attacks on the president's policies and asserted administration efforts toward recovery were favored by the citizens generally.

Mob Lynches Two Negroes

them. None of the men was masked although some carried guns."

After the mob had dispersed in search of a third victim, somebody cut down the bodies and left them lying under the tree. The two ropes, each with its hangman's noose, were taken into Columbus and placed in a drug store, where they were viewed by hundreds of the curious.

News Leaks Out

In spite of Sheriff Hoegemeyer's efforts to keep the transfer of his prisoners secret, the news leaked out early this afternoon and a restless, sullen spirit gripped the town.

"We knew all afternoon this was going to happen," several citizens remarked after the double hanging.

Not a shot was fired during the entire procedure, either when the youths were wrested from the officers or when they were hanged to the liveoak.

Traveled 14 Miles

The mob, after seizing the pair, formed a procession of scores of automobiles, sped northward to Columbus, passed unmolested through the western part of town and on to the scene of the lynching. They traveled a distance of about 14 miles.

Coroner E. G. Thrower held an inquest as soon as the mob had dispersed and returned a verdict of death at the hands of persons unknown.

Did Not Recognize Anyone

Deputy Townsend said he did not recognize any members of the mob. He said he was sure the sheriff did not recognize any of them.

"I don't know just what we'll be able to do about it," the deputy said. He said neither he nor the sheriff was roughly handled by the mob, which left the officers under guard while the hanging was carried out.

R. A. Weinert, district attorney, was busy with a session of court at Seguin. Notified of the lynching, he said he did not know just what course might be taken. The grand jury meets at Columbus the first Monday in December.

Searching For Thieves

Miss Kollmann was killed when she rode into her father's pasture in search of thieves who had been stripping pecan trees.

One of the negroes picked up a limb and knocked the girl from her horse. Each of them accused the other of that act, the officers said. Then they both attacked her. By that time Miss Kollman was unconscious and they carried her body to the creek and threw it into the water, their confessions said.

The girl was a member of a prominent Colorado county family and was valedictorian of her graduating class.

real prosecutor and constantly presented to the jury the picture of a bereaved father for whose sorrow the world demanded a sacrifice."

Impaired Verdict

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, in his charge to the jury, was said to have "protrayed emphatic approval of the state's theories and witnesses and thereby impaired a free and unbiased verdict."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz was accused of "appeals to prejudice by inflamatory argument" and with having "bullied" Hauptman and other witnesses on cross-examinations.

These arguments were advanced unsuccessfully before the court of errors and appeals.

The Supreme court petition was filed with the clerk of the court by Egbert Rosecrans, the only defense attorney who has been admitted to practice before it.

Respite From Monday's Cold Is Given In City On Tuesday

Respite from Monday's freezing weather came with Tuesday's bright sunshine and rising temperatures.

A high of 66 degrees was recorded at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the main line station of West Texas Gas company. Low of 25 degrees was touched on thermomters at the state experiment sub-station. The gas company said 27 degree temperature was constant from 2 to 6 o'clock that morning. Temperature at midnight was 37 degrees.

Warmer weather is expected to dry out the cotton so that picking can be resumed within a few days. Sappy bolls were killed by the freeze, which also was expected to cause cotton to open more rapidly.

Proclamation Issued By FDR

President Proclaims Thursday, November 28, As National Day Of Thanksgiving In U. S.; Cites Closer Feeling

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Roosevelt, proclaiming November 28, Thanksgiving day, proposed today that America remain at peace as an example to the world.

His proclamation:

"I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States of America, hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-eighth of November, 1935, as a day of national thanksgiving.

Has Come Closer

"In traversing a period of national stress our country has been knit together in a closer fellowship of mutual interest and common purpose. We can well be grateful that more and more of our people understand and seek the greater good of the greater number. We can be grateful that selfish purpose of personal gain, at our neighbor's loss, less strongly asserts itself. We can be grateful that peace at home is strengthened by a growing willingness to common counsel. We can be grateful that our peace with other nations continues through recognition of our own peaceful purpose.

"But in appreciation of the blessings that divine providence has bestowed upon us in America, we shall not rejoice as the pharisee rejoiced. War and strife still live in the world. Rather, must America by example and in practice help to bind the wounds of others, strive against disorder and aggression, encourage the lessening of distress among peoples and advance peaceful trade and friendship.

"The future of many generations of mankind will be greatly guided by our acts in these present years. We have a new trail.

"Let us then on the day appointed offer our devotions and our humble thanks to almighty God and pray that the people of America will be guided by him in helping their fellowmen.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington this 12th day of November, in the year of Our Lord ninteen hundred and thirty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixtieth."

Theft Of Mares Is Believed Cleared With Vernon Arrest

With arrest at Vernon Saturday of Joe Key, clearing of theft here Oct. 3 of two 1600-pound mares from W. L. Jackson of Lubbock was believed made, said Sheriff Tom Abel this morning. The mares were recovered.

Key has been charged with horse theft in a complaint filed with Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg.

Sheriff Abel said that Frederick, Okla., officers had asked custody of Key in connection with an Oklahoma horse theft.

The sheriff's department also is investigating the passing of two worthless checks in payment for horses in Lubbock county. One animal was purchased from Peters & Mullins and one from Travis Tubbs with worthless checks, the sheriff said.

A large truck was used in transporting Jackson's animals, it was said.

and brilliant buttons down the puffed sleeves, a tiny round collar front of the tight bodice. It was torn a bit in the flounce, but half an hour with a careful needle would restore it. Ruth caressed the pretty things with trembling hands.

"Here's a coat," said Penney, dragging out a woolen garment and casting it aside. "You don't need that—"

"Don't I!" said Ruth in a tight voice. She saw that it was a blue winter sport suit with three-quarter length coat ad a round, trickily cut, gray fur collar. In the box were two contrasting skirts to go with it and several smart sweaters. The sweaters needed only a tender dousing in soap flakes and a few skillful stitches to make them perfect again. "Handmade!" Ruth thought rapturously.

Penney said, "I reckon it's warmer than the suit you've got with you. This pretty weather won't hardly last."

"I can use it nicely," Ruth said quietly.

"That's good," Penney replied. They explored deeper. There was a winter coat of black material, conservatively cut and collared with black fox, which Ruth persuaded Penney to take as her own. There was nothing else, however, that the old woman wanted since she always wore "plain black," she said, and had a chest full of things already that she had accumulated from "Miss Gwen's boxes."

Ruth found an exciting dress of dark blue crepe which she felt sure had been Elaine's. It had a monk's hood collar, a silk rope belt and the most wickedly alluring sleeves imaginable. There was the faint odor of an exotic perfume clinging to it . . . Ruth thought, "I'll wear this for John—" and her heart skipped three beats.

In the bottom of the box were a few pieces of lingrie, several small felt hats, an evening coat of brown velvet, and three pairs of shoes. "This is lucky, too," said Ruth. The gold evening slippers were hardly scuffed at all; the walking oxfords were worn but still shapely; the severe black pumps (minus one buckle, but otherwise perfect) were all a girl's heart could desire. Their size, six double A, did not dismay Ruth; her own trim foot was only slightly shorter.

"Penney," she said, gathering up her chosen clothes as Cinderella might have done before the ball, "let charity fall where it will—"

"What say, Miss Elaine?" asked Penney, getting up stiffly. But already she had forgotten the girl's queerly spoken words. "This room needs tidying up," she remarked. "I hope you won't tell your step-father how I let things go. I don't want to be pensioned off.' Again that look of apprehension—and something else. Could it be craft?

Ruth was too happy to wonder

Cobb To Talk At Plainview

Crowd Of Several Thousand Persons Is Expected To Hear Cotton Administrator At 2 P. M. Today

PLAINVIEW, Nov. 12. (Special)—An address will be made in Municipal auditorium here at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by C. A. Cobb, cotton administrator for the AAA.

Reports here indicate a crowd of several thousand South Plains farmers is expected. The meeting has been advertised as far south as Big Spring and Sweetwater and west to Midland.

H. H. (Bill) Williamson, director of the state extension service, is expected to accompany Mr. Cobb here, as well as several other College Station men. Jack Shelton, assistant; A. L. Smith, head of the cotton allotment board, and several others, are to be in the party also.

Cliff H. Day, Hale county cotton farmer and chairman of the state cotton advisory board, is to preside. Mr. Day has written every county agricultural association in this section inviting them to attend and to have as many cotton committeemen and farmers from their counties come as possible.

Present status of the cotton program is to be discussed by Mr. Cobb, according to reports. He may also touch on the program for next year, although no advance information on this question has been received here.

Good Delegation From Here To Attend Affair

County Agent C. C. Jobson and several of his staff are expected to go to Plainview this morning to hear C. A. Cobb, Washington, director of the cotton division of the AAA, speak in the city auditorium there this afternoon.

A large number of farmers also will attend from the county, Mr. Jobson said. He added he had been told by many farmers they planned to make the trip.

In Plainview Mr. Jobson will confer with County Agent Leader O. G. Tumlinson.

Marion Mardecal, of Lamar county, Ala., lived his entire lifetime of 85 years in the house in which he was born.

Hope and Slide were to open, he said he had been informed. Barton did not close.

None of the rural high schools, Prenship, New Deal No. 3, Roosevelt and Shallowater, closed for the picking work. However, they closed their sessions at 1 o'clock in the afternoons, on bright days.

ANTON TO OPEN BIDS

ANTON, (Special)—Sealed proposals for construction of a waterworks system in Anton will be opened November 27, Mayor H. G. Richards announces. The system will be built with a PWA loan and grant. Bonds were voted here some weeks ago. Harry N. Roberts, Lubbock, is engineer for the city.

San Diego Fair Is Closed On Tuesday

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 12. (AP)—The last of almost five million spectators who saw the San Diego Fair was ushered out of Balboa Park today and workmen began refurnishing the exposition for a "bigger and better" reopeing Jan. 15.

"Taps" sounded the close of the fair's first run at midnight but the gates were not shut until 2 a. m. as 400 policemen shunted the last of a horde of souvenir hunters outside.

New buildings to cost $1,000,000 will be added to the $20,000,000 layout before the reopening. Exposition officials said virtually every exhibitor was expected to return for next year's show which will close Sept. 9.

A midnight ceremony brought the exposition to a temporary end after five successful months.

Supplemental Budget Voted For County By Commission

Because additional funds are required for meeting financial needs over the remainder of the year, beginning Nov. 1, a supplemental budget calling for an increase of $8,475.13 in county operating expenses over the budget for 1935, adopted in August, 1934, was voted Tuesday by commissioners.

Total surpluses and balances of $67,148.08, however, more than offset the necessary increase, it was reported by County Auditor H. Y. Boyd. The increase resulted from general, library, Slaton park, and road and bridge Nos. 2 and 4 funds.

Need for better permanent storage facilities for food products conserved by farm women in the county, and the need for orchards in producing a more balanced farm diet was explained to the commissioners by Miss Norfleet Grimes, who reported on her first month's work as county home demonstration agent.

Warm Floors

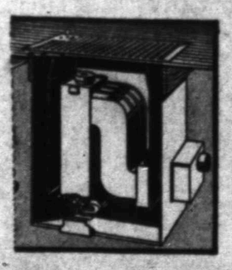

All The Time... With This CARE-FREE HEALTHFUL HEAT

You don't have to have a central heating plant these days to have warm floors.

Floor furnaces provide warm floors. There is no sweating of the walls. The flame does not come in contact with the air you breathe. Products of combustion are carried outside the house. You have healthful air in a room. No oxygen is taken from the room for combustion. A Floor Furnace is installed in the floor and nothing shows but a handsome bronze grille.
