"We have such a successful girls' softball program here," he continued, "that they all want to play there."

Over 100 exhibitors expected for arts & crafts festival here

More than 100 exhibitors from throughout the Southwest will be on hand for the first annual Snyder Arts and Crafts Festival, set for June 15-16 in Scurry County Coliseum.

Original art, limited edition prints and handmade crafts will be among the items exhibited. Hours are Saturday, June 15, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Mel Prather, organizer for the event, said he hopes the local festival will achieve four goals. These include building a festival that will draw attention to Snyder, providing local crafters another opportunity to exhibit their works, attracting artists and craftspersons from throughout the country to Snyder, and encouraging citizens from neighboring communities to visit Snyder.

"Naturally, the most important goal we hope to accomplish is to create an arts and crafts festival that people will enjoy and tell their friends about," Prather said. "When you do that, you'll find the other goals are much easier to achieve."

The festival will offer original art and limited edition prints by some well-known artists including David Brownlow of Fort Worth, R. C. Cheyenne Holder of Clovis, N.M., Kacy Stadter of Graford, and Jackie Hinderlitch, also of Clovis. The more unusual exhibits include stained glass by Violet Babb of Colorado City, stained glass paintings by Sue Ruley of Alpine, cedar chests by Ron Cramer of Clovis, and terracotta ceramics by Elaine Mighton of Tulsa, Okla. Alan Weltman of Corpus Christi will be exhibiting his sea shell shaw boxes; Margie Coleman of Midland will be offering baskets with quilted tops; and Harry Hunt of San Angelo, will be showing his hardwood replicas of antique cars. Nail art by Don and Ruby Elliott of Midland will be offered, as well as "tree spirits" by Marcy Ellul of Hobbs, N.M.

There will be finished and unfinished furniture booths, as well as ceramics, clothing, jewelry, decorative wood, quilted rugs and wall hangings, wind chimes, candy, and punched tin. Other participants will offer soft sculpture, porcelain dolls, cloth dolls, children's toys and furniture and stained glass.

Several local artists will be exhibiting in the festival. Those include Darlene Beard, who will be featuring ceramics, and Peggy Kennedy, who will offer quilt and chenille items, including soft sculpture and clothing.

"By bringing people to Snyder, we hope to have an even greater impact on the local economy," said Prather.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A loser is a guy who kills his body to science, and science contests the will."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

It is often suggested that the benefits of living in West Texas is one of the world's best kept secrets. Joel Hook, owner of McDonald's, moved to Snyder from California.

Hook, on several occasions, has mentioned the climate and open spaces as two positives for our areas. "The climate here is as good as California and people would kill for the wide open spaces you have here."

Hook has suggested that we need to better market these assets.

Another asset came to mind when reading an item by Stephen Henry in the Levelland News-Press about the cost of single-family homes when compared to other parts of the country.

Home prices increased in 37 states last year, but the average price declined six-tenths of a percent in Texas. The average price in Texas was $65,638 compared to $73,449 in New Mexico.

The highest price in the United States was in Hawaii where a typical home cost $281,042. Others were $168,840 in Massachusetts, $166,423 in California, $152,157 in Connecticut, $141,701 in New Jersey, $127,628 in Rhode Island, $124,245 in New York, $115,288 in New Hampshire, $114,974 in Maryland, $101,784 in Nevada and $98,708 in Virginia.

There is a story that needs to be told.

O.G. Nieman told about a teacher friend of his who retired after more than 30 years in the same classroom.

In response to a question, the retiring teacher agreed that the room must be full of knowledge.

"I suppose it is. I brought it in day after day for years and my students seemed to take very little out...so it must have accumulated."

Wind-swept storms dump 1.2 inches on Snyder area

Thunderstorms rode strong winds into Scurry County again Thursday evening, this time dumping more than an inch of rainfall on Snyder residents and causing minor damage.

According to the water pump and filter plant, Snyder received 1.23 inches of rainfall during the period between 7 a.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. today.

Snyder has received 3.63 inches of rain in the past week — almost half of the entire year's total of 7.51 inches.

Wind gusts estimated at up to 55 miles per hour caused a number of trees to be blown over, particularly in the western portion of the city. Several individuals contacted law enforcement authorities about 10:17 p.m. in reference to power failures.

TU Electric reported power outages affected about 143 people. Two poles were blown down southwest of Hermleigh and an electrical wire was down in the 4000 block of Houston Ave. Power was restored in most cases between an hour to two hours.

For the year, Snyder's 7.51 inches — remains behind the 10.5 inches received during the same period in 1990, but ahead of the 1989 total-to-date of 5.49 inches.

The city received .82 of an inch Wednesday and had picked up 1.58 inches Sunday and Monday. Forecasts indicated a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms again this evening.

Area rain reports this morning indicated that Snyder received the most moisture in the county Thursday evening. Ira reported 1.1 inches while Hermleigh called in .89. Fluvanna picked up 1.1 inches and Dermott reported 1.2. A report from several miles out the Roby Hwy. indicated .7 of an inch east of Snyder.

Lake J.B. Thomas benefitted from Thursday's showers. The lake picked up 1,000 acre feet and now contains 32,700 acre feet.

Texas jobless rate falls to 6.4 percent

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas unemployment rate in May tumbled to 6.4 percent, the lowest rate since February, the government said today.

The April statewide jobless rate was 7.1 percent. In May a year ago, Texas had 6.3 percent unemployment.

Nic Santangelo, analyst for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the drop doesn't signal an improving economy.

"First of all, the Texas data is highly volatile. But more important, you have to look at the trend. We're about where we were in January which suggests a rather ongoing sluggishness," he said.

The state's unemployment rate was 6.4 percent in January but has swung widely since then.

"There's very little that suggests anything you would call good (about the economy). We're following national economic trends," Santangelo said.

The U.S. unemployment rate rose to 6.9 percent last month, ending a one-month reprieve from the steady climb that has occurred since the recession began last summer. In April, the nation's jobless rate fell from 6.8 percent to 6.6 percent.

In Texas, nonfarm employment growth for the 12-month period that ended in April slowed for the third consecutive month.

Over the year job gains occurred in the construction and mining divisions. But those were partially offset by a loss of nearly 12,000 jobs in manufacturing, the bureau said.

The aircraft and parts manufacturing industry accounted for more than three-fourths of the division's job losses.

In contrast, the service-producing sector added almost 90,000 jobs for the year.

Across the country, total civilian employment was 116.6 million, down about 800,000 from the 117.4 million-strong work force in April.

"We're really just holding steady rather than anything improving. A good way to say it is that we're at a juncture now," Santangelo said. "We're poised to go on with the recovery if some of the numbers start to break in right...or perhaps extend the recessionary pressures if such things as retail sales, housing starts, and construction don't improve."

Goodfellow remains under consideration for possible closure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The independent base closing commission decided today to keep Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo under consideration for possible closure.

The Base Closure and Realignment Commission will compare Goodfellow and Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado over the next week before deciding what base should remain on a list of installations targeted for closure.

The commission will compare the Air Force's figures on the two bases with data on the installations compiled by the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress. The next step would be to decide whether to visit Goodfellow.

"It's not good news. We had hoped to keep Goodfellow off the list. We're still hoping we can do it within a week. Good news will have to wait a while," a Texas congressional staffer said.

Goodfellow is one of three Texas installations the commission included in a list of 36 for possible closure or scaling back.

The commission, which released its own list last Friday, is also reviewing a list of 43 major and minor installations that the Pentagon had already recommended for closure or realignment.

The commission must submit a final list to President Bush by July 1.

Five other Texas installations are also being scrutinized by the commission for possible closure, including three that were on the Pentagon's list and two others that were added by the commission last week.

Regents ban smoking in UT system

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas System Board of Regents has banned smoking at all facilities statewide and ordered that campus tobacco sales be phased out.

Regents unanimously adopted the ban Thursday as part of an anti-tobacco education program after their 4-4 split vote killed a measure that would have required the system to divest of its tobacco stocks.

Gov. Ann Richards had supported a student group, Students Against Tobacco Investment, that pushed for the liquidation of the stocks. The Texas Board of Health also backed divestiture.

CAMP WANNA-READ — Many children, kindergarten through sixth grade, were present Wednesday at Scurry County Library to work on projects in conjunction with Camp Wanna-Read, the summer reading program. They began by creating a banner to be displayed in the Children's

Patriots get too much praise says gulf war soldier's widow

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The Patriot missile doesn't deserve the praise it's received over its performance in the Persian Gulf War, said the widow of a U.S. soldier killed when an Iraqi Scud missile smashed into a barracks in Saudi Arabia.

Hope Simpson, 20, was told by the Army Tuesday that a computer flaw kept the Scud-busting Patriot system from protecting her husband.

The Scud's 800-pound high-explosive warhead turned the building into an inferno, killing 28 soldiers and injuring 98 on Feb. 25. It was the biggest single loss of American troops in the Persian Gulf War.

"There was something wrong with the Patriot and I think it shouldn't be praised as much as it is," said Mrs. Simpson, who married Spc. Brian Simpson five days before he was sent to Saudi Arabia.

"I now know his death could have been prevented," she said.

The Army disclosed Tuesday that a computer problem in the Patriot air defense system that permitted the Scud missile to enter Saudi Arabia unopposed had been detected five days before the fatal attack. Patriot missiles intercepted virtually all other Scuds in the war.

The computer in the Patriot battery whose radar had picked up the incoming Scud failed to track the missile as it roared toward Dhahran. Therefore, no computer instructions were given and no Patriot missiles were launched, the Army said.

"The Patriot did a lot of good and saved a lot of lives, but it didn't save every life," Mrs. Simpson told the El Paso Times. "People should know it isn't 100 percent effective."

Brian Simpson was an Army reservist dreaming of a career as a rock 'n' roll drummer when he was called back to duty Jan. 31. He had left the service in July 1990 after a four-year stint.

Dr. Gott By Peter Gott, M.D.

Circumcision is complication-free

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband is 37 years old and has never been circumcised. What are the possibilities of having the procedure done at his age, and are there any complications we should be aware of?

DEAR READER: Circumcision in adults is commonly performed and is safe. It is usually considered in the presence of symptoms, such as repeated infection of the penis.

As you can imagine, the immediate post-operative period is quite uncomfortable and patients are rarely eager to resume sexual activities for a few weeks. Nonetheless, this is a "bread-and-butter" operation for a qualified urologist, and complications are virtually non-existent.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with an ascending aortic aneurysm. My doctor has taken a position of following up with me every six months since he feels surgery is next to impossible in this area. Do you agree with his reasoning?

DEAR READER: Unfortunately, I do.

The aorta, the major artery that supplies blood to the body, is shaped like an inverted "J."

The short arm (ascending aorta) leaves the heart, travels toward the neck and then curves downward (the aortic arch) in the upper chest, where the long arm (descending aorta) continues into the lower abdomen. Aneurysms (ballooning out of weakened portions of the aorta) are much more common in the descending aorta; surgery to repair or replace these defective portions is standard.

In contrast, the ascending aorta is technically much more difficult to repair. Not only is it in a relatively inaccessible location (in the chest); it provides most of the circulation to the brain. Thus, repair of aneurysms of the ascending aorta are hardly the routine procedures used to repair those in the descending aorta.

Obviously, if semi-annual monitoring with X-rays or ultrasound examinations shows the aneurysm is enlarging, your doctor will have to reconsider because the risk of the aneurysm bursting might well exceed the risks of surgery.

While you are waiting to see what happens, be sure to follow your doctor's advice. For example, if you have hypertension, the aneurysm may grow more quickly; your blood pressure should be brought under control as soon as possible to prevent this complication.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Actress fears role as dumb blonde will typecast her

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Christina Applegate frets that her role as Kelly Bundy on television's "Married ... With Children," is typecasting her as a dumb blonde in a short skirt.

"You can't play a character like that for five or seven years and not get identified with it," she said. "It can become a black hole from which there is no escape."

"Sometimes it seems as if the only thing anybody in the audience cares about is how short Kelly's skirt is on that particular episode," she said.

Dear Abby

Victim's Silence Allows Rapist to Go Unpunished

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I worked in a large office building. Each day my husband would drop me off in the morning and pick me up after work.

One day I took my break a little later than usual and went to the restroom down the hall from the office where I worked.

As I entered the restroom, I was grabbed from behind by a man who told me if I screamed or struggled, he would strangle me. Right there in the restroom that man raped me! I didn't know who he was because he wore a ski mask. After he finished, he said if I told anyone, he would hurt my 2-year-old son. Abby, he even told me the cross streets where my son was in day care!

I was so frightened, I told no one, not even my husband. For six weeks I found excuses not to go to work. When I finally told my husband, who had known something was wrong but had no idea what it was, he was so angry, he kicked a two-foot hole in our wall!

Since then, I have made a police report, but because so much time has gone by — and all the evidence has been destroyed — there is little hope of catching him.

I have contacted the Rape Crisis Center, moved my son to another day-care center and have filed for workman's compensation. I am also seeing a psychologist to help me deal with the mixed-up emotions I am feeling.

I want to tell other women that if something like this ever happens to them, to report it immediately! Hiding it was the worst mistake I could have ever made. Now they may never catch the creep who did this to me.

SCARED AND STUPID

DEAR SCARED: Thanks for giving me this opportunity to tell my readers that all rapes should be reported immediately. (For the record: A person is raped when another person forces her (or him) to have sex against that person's will.)

Many victims of rape fail to report the crime because they are ashamed or embarrassed. That's a big mistake. The rapist is then free to rape another victim.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very successful businessman. He is also a habitual liar. When we are out socially, and especially on vacations, he tells such outrageous lies that I am embarrassed. He has tripped himself up many times, and vows he will never lie again — but he continues to do so.

It's bad enough that he lies to others, but he also lies to me — usually about insignificant things. I can't understand him. We've been married nearly 25 years, and his lying has become such an issue between us that I nearly left him twice! I love him, but I don't like him because he lies so much. Perhaps if I knew why it is so hard for him to tell the truth, I could cope better. Please help me.

A LIAR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Chronic liars are insecure people who feel the need to appear better or more important than they are. Some merely exaggerate; others fabricate or "embroider" a story to make it more entertaining. Perhaps if your husband felt more comfortable just being himself, he would stick closer to the truth.

PROPERTY TAX PROTEST AND APPEAL PROCEDURES THE SCURRY COUNTY APPRAISAL DISTRICT MAILED NOTICES OF APPRAISED VALUE IN MAY, 1991

The Law gives property owners the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these procedures if you have a concern about:

- *the value placed on your property;
- *exemptions that may apply to you;
- *cancellation of agricultural appraisal
- *whether your property is taxable;
- *which local governments should be taxing your property; or
- *you think the appraisal district has done something else that adversely affected you.

INFORMAL REVIEW:

Taxpayers are encouraged to make an appointment with an appraiser to discuss their property value. This may be done by calling 573-8549. They should bring information to substantiate why they feel that their property value is incorrect. The appraiser will discuss their property and may recommend an adjustment to the Appraisal Review Board. If the taxpayer is satisfied with the adjustment, he does not have to appear before the ARB.

REVIEW BY THE APPRAISAL BOARD:

If you can't resolve your problem informally with the appraisal district staff, you may have your case heard by the Appraisal Review Board.

The Appraisal Review Board (ARB) is an independent board of citizens that reviews problems with appraisals and other concerns listed above. They have the power to order changes to solve problems. If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (called a NOTICE OF PROTEST) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing. You'll receive written notification of the time, date, and place of the hearing. The hearing will be informal. You and the appraisal district representative will be asked to present evidence about your case. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented. You can get a copy of a protest form from the Appraisal District office at 2612 College Avenue, or the Appraisal District in your county.

NOTE: YOU SHOULDN'T TRY TO CONTACT ARB MEMBERS OUTSIDE OF THE HEARING. THE LAW REQUIRES YOU TO SIGN AN AFFIDAVIT SAYING THAT YOU HAVEN'T DONE SO BEFORE THE ARB HEARS YOUR CASE.

REVIEW BY THE DISTRICT COURT:

After it decides your case, the ARB must send you a copy of its order by certified mail. If you're not satisfied with the decision you have the right to appeal to district court. If you choose to go to court, you must start the process by filing a petition within 45 days of the date you receive the ARB's order. If the Appraisal District has appraised your property at $1,000,000 or more, you must file a notice of appeal with the chief appraiser within 15 days of the date you receive the ARB's order.

MORE INFORMATION:

You can get more information by contacting your Appraisal District at 2612 College Avenue, Snyder, Tx 79549 (915) 573-8549 or the Appraisal District in your county. You can also get a pamphlet describing how to prepare a protest from the Appraisal District or from the State Property Tax Board, 4301 Westbank Drive, Building B, Suite 100, Austin, TX 78746.

DEADLINE FOR FILING PROTEST WITH THE ARB

(the deadline is postponed to the next business day if it falls on a weekend or holiday)

USUAL DEADLINE: On or before May 31 (or 30 days after a Notice of Appraised Value was mailed to you whichever is later)

LATE PROTEST: (If you miss the usual deadline for good cause. Good cause is some reason beyond your control, like a medical emergency. The ARB decides whether you have good cause.) Late protests must be filed before the day the ARB approves records for the year. Contact the Appraisal District for more information.

SPECIAL DEADLINES:

CHANGE OF USE: (If the Appraisal District has informed you that you are losing agricultural appraisal because you changed the use of your land.) Change of use protests must be filed before the 30th day after the notice of the determination was mailed to you.

ARB CHANGES: (If the ARB has informed you of a change that increases your tax liability and the change didn't result from a protest you filed.) ARB Change protests must be filed before the 10th day after the notice of the determination was mailed to you.

If you believe the Appraisal District or ARB should have sent you a notice and did not, you may file a protest until the day before taxes become delinquent (usually February 1). The ARB decides whether it will hear your case based on evidence about whether a required notice was mailed to you.

Patients are advised of AIDS death

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Officials at Harris Methodist-Fort Worth have set up a telephone line for surgery patients who may have been attended by a medical technician who died in March of AIDS.

Ricardo Martinez, 34, was hired as a surgical technician in November 1980, assigned to the plastic surgery service. His main duties included transporting patients and handing instruments to surgeons.

In August 1990, Martinez notified the hospital that he had AIDS and took a one-month leave of absence.

"When he returned to work, he was still a surgery technician, but he was reassigned to duties more in keeping with his physical abilities," hospital administrator Chuck Brosseau told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

"He was responsible for cleaning, pre-packaging and sterilizing equipment used in surgery."

By then, Martinez's health had begun to fail, said his brother Robert Martinez.

"He couldn't stand up for six or eight hours," the brother said in a telephone interview Thursday. "Each month it got worse and then it got to the point where he really couldn't work that much."

Richards signs bill and says health insurance will be next

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers aren't through with insurance yet, Gov. Ann Richards said.

After signing a sweeping insurance bill Thursday, Richards indicated she may call the Legislature back into a special session next year to tackle health insurance.

"We have health insurance left to do. I hope very much that we are prepared to address health insurance next year," she said.

In Texas, health insurance rates are not regulated and there are about 3.1 million people, or 17.4 percent of the state's population, who do not have any health coverage.

Richards said the bill she signed Thursday will not lower rates immediately, but may lead to reductions in the future.

"Not only do we have the strongest piece of insurance reform in the nation, we also have an industry that is now dedicated to making it work in Texas," she said during a packed bill-signing ceremony.

Richards said the legislation increases consumer protections, while also giving insurance companies more flexibility in charging rates.

The so-called flex-rating system "should in the long haul give us some relief in rates but it will not be immediate. Time will tell the tale," Richards said.

A co-sponsor of the bill, Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, backed up Richards' remarks, saying, "If the companies will conscientiously approach that flex rating band, then we're going to have some important rate relief."

Under the bill, the State Board of Insurance will set a benchmark rate for automobile and homeowners' policies, but allow insurers to charge rates up to 30 percent above or below that mark.

Legislative leaders said competition between the companies should then drive premiums downward.

Rod Bordon, of the Office of Consumer Protection, said the new law "grants new and expanded rights to policyholders in dealing with their insurance companies."

This bill comes on the heels of the 1989 insurance reform bill which followed the 1988 record failure of National County Mutual Fire Insurance Co. in Dallas. Since that failure, and others, the State Board of Insurance has been under attack for not protecting policyholders from financially shaky insurers.

The moment Richards took office in January she battled with the Insurance Board, which led to the resignation of former chairman James Saxton.

Most of the provisions of the new law will take effect Sept. 1.

The law will:

- Require insurance companies to respond to claims in a timely manner.

- Expand the powers of the state's consumer protection office.

- Create a fraud investigation unit.

Ruling praised by workers

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Garment workers say a judge's ruling against an El Paso company will help them reform the industry in West Texas.

State District Court Judge Peter Peca ruled Thursday that the DCB Apparel Group was partly responsible for back wages of workers for its subcontractor, Sonia's Apparel.

Those wages total $24,000, according to the Texas attorney general's office.

Employees have been waging a hunger strike in hopes of cleaning up area sweatshops and improving working conditions in the city's garment industry.

"It is going to help in some ways," Angie Reynoso of La Mujer Obrera, a workers' group, told television station KDBC. "Their making the contractors responsible for back wages, it is going to have some effect."

The Epsom Worldwide Pairs

The sixth Epsom Worldwide Pairs takes place today in thousands of bridge clubs all over the globe. The first time the event was held, every table started play at exactly the same time. This meant people in some countries were playing in the middle of the night. Now a more civilized approach has been adopted: clubs play whenever they like on June 7.

In this hand from last year's event, South upgraded his hand slightly by opening two clubs rather than two no-trump. North drove to a slam.

Declarer started with 11 tricks. He won the diamond lead in hand, led the club queen to dummy's king and called for a low heart, winning with the king when East played the 10. That was still only 11 tricks, but the diamond ace dropped East's queen, setting up dummy's jack as the contract-fulfilling trick.

However, in a tournament every trick is important. Declarer proceeded to run his club winners. That left dummy with two spades, queen doubleton in hearts and the diamond jack. East held four spades and the heart ace. South retained four spades and a heart.

What could East discard on dummy's diamond jack? If he discarded the heart ace, dummy's queen would be established. But when he released a spade, declarer's four spades were all winners. East had been squeezed in the majors and was left to regret not having taken the heart ace at trick three.

Who was the declarer? Wan Li, the chairman of the National Congress of the People's Republic of China. Wan Li and his partner, Rong Ledi, finished second in the world.

Pippen's defense key to win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Michael Jordan picked up two quick fouls in Game 2 of the NBA Finals, and it appeared the Chicago Bulls, already in trouble, were truly in dire straits. As it turned out, those fouls were probably the best thing that could have happened to them. After Jordan's quick fouls, long-armed Bulls forward Scottie Pippen took over the defensive assignment on Magic Johnson. Pippen admitted Thursday that he surprised even himself with an exceptional job, hounding Johnson all over the court. The Bulls, who had lost the opener of the best-of-7 series 93-91, wound up blowing out the

Mets 11, Indians 5
Chad Lancaster smacked three hits and scored twice, Kendall McCasland ripped a double and a pair of singles and Dusty Stone popped twin doubles to lead the Mets to an 11-5 win over the Indians Thursday.

Chase McJimsey and Corey Knipe each singled and doubled, Albert Perez, Jonathan Adams and Braden Doolittle accounted for two hits apiece and Dee Newberry and Rocky Glover drilled a single each.

Matt Tucker punched a triple for the Tribe followed by Levi Mandrell's two doubles and a two-sacker and a base hit by Matt Boyd.

Paul Camp and Casey Chaney both managed two hits while Scott Reston, Chris Hill, Bryson Jenkins, Jared Boyd and Bryan Fitzhugh knocked a single apiece.

Cubs 16, Pirates 5

The Cubs pounded out 32 hits Thursday to drive past the Pirates in 8-9 Year-Old League action.

Heath Pinkerton added three singles, Ryan Grady, Matthew Billings, Robert McDaniel, Mike Martinez and Robert Stanley all slapped a pair of hits and Justin Humphries and Brice Wilkins knocked a single apiece.

Ryan Martin doubled for the Pirates, Matthew Grimmert hammered a two-bagger and a single, Thomas Rinehart, Craig Forbes, Brandon Casey and Nick Garcia belted two base hits each and Justin Greer and Josh Levens popped a single apiece.

Jeff Fuentes of the Indians pounded a three-sacker and a single Lakers 107-86 to even things at one game apiece.

The Bulls made an NBA Finals record 61.7 percent of their field goal attempts, but it was their defense that made the difference.

"We've seen exactly what our defense can do against this team," Pippen said Thursday before the Bulls worked out at the Forum, site of the next three games. "We can control them."

About his superb job on Johnson, who was limited to 14 points, seven rebounds and 10 assists and appeared exhausted at times in the second half, Pippen said, "Yeah, I was surprised."

"I felt like I could pressure him; I guess I wasn't surprised." Bulls coach Phil Jackson is keeping quiet about whether he'll start Jordan or Pippen on Johnson in Game 3 Friday night. "We'll wait until tomorrow," he said.

Pippen admitted he didn't expect to defend against Johnson more than occasionally in the Finals, saying, "That was never in the makings."

It became "in the makings" when Jordan picked up his two quick fouls, and Pippen said it was clear Johnson wore down "because I was wearing down."

Pippen also deflected some credit to his teammates.

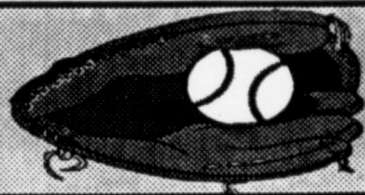

"I think our team really made a conscious effort to step up (defensively)," he said.

Seles, Vicario meet in final

PARIS (AP) — What next?

After watching Steffi Graf suffer the most ignominious loss of her brilliant pro career, French Open fans are ready for anything in Saturday's final between top-seeded Monica Seles and Graf-killer Arantxa Sanchez Vicario.

Graf's 6-0, 6-2 defeat, coupled with Seles' victory over Gabriela Sabatini in the other semifinal Thursday, ensured Seles a longer reign as No. 1 in the world.

"Normally, Monica would win," Graf said of the final. "But if she (Sanchez) plays as she did today, it will be a good match."

"I placed my balls well, I hit them well, I didn't make many mistakes," Sanchez said.

Houston area clubs square off for title

AUSTIN (AP) — Klein Oak baseball coach Dale Westmoreland says it's only fitting that two Houston-area teams will battle for the Class 5A state championship.

"The scouts say that the best talent is in Houston," Westmoreland said after his team eliminated Keller, 2-1, in the semifinals Thursday. Klein Oak on Friday night will battle Clear Creek, which defeated San Antonio Clark, 6-5.

"If we do have to lose, it should be against another Houston team," Westmoreland said.

Justin Thompson struck out 11 and walked none in Klein Oak's victory over Keller.

Thompson (12-3), selected by Detroit with the 32nd pick in the recent major league draft, allowed five hits in outpitching Texas A&M recruit Trey Moore, who lost his first game after 15 victories.

"I've had better stuff," said Thompson. "My fastball had pretty good zip to it, but I felt like my curveball was hanging too much."

Klein Oak scored the winning run in the bottom of the last inning when Mike Pitts hit a two-out two-strike drive that scored Neil Erlich, who worked Moore for the only walk he gave up. The hit off Eric Kunz, who had relieved Moore with one out, easily would have gone for extra bases but Pitts officially was credited with a single.

"As soon as I hit it I knew it was in the gap," Pitts said. "We had been hitting him pretty good, we just couldn't get anything to fall."

Keller was eliminated with a 33-4 record.

Brendan Daly scattered eight hits and Clear Creek stole eight bases in Clear Creek's victory over San Antonio Clark.

Shawn Buhner's two-run double in the sixth gave Clear Creek a 6-3 lead.

Daly (12-1) retired the side in the seventh, getting three straight ground balls as Clear Creek (26-7) advanced to Friday's championship.

Earl Nelson (11-4) suffered the loss. He allowed six hits in seven innings, striking out 10 and walking 10.

In a Class 4A semifinal earlier Thursday, pitcher J.J. Velasquez doubled home the winning run as Robstown defeated Crowley 4-3 in eight innings.

Robstown, a runner-up last season, will play West Mesquite, which rallied for five runs in the sixth inning, with the tying and winning runs scoring on an out-field error, to defeat West Orange-Stark 8-7.

All championship games are scheduled for today.

Robstown (26-6) and Crowley (28-8) each scored one run in the final inning of regulation — Robstown on Robert Cervantes' double, after Velasquez had walked, and Crowley on Johnny Isom's single, after Scott Hilaman had been hit by a Velasquez pitch.

The senior left-hander gave up four hits and two runs in the first and allowed only two hits in the final seven innings.

Bank pleads no contest to violation of code

AUSTIN (AP) — ClayDesta National Bank, owned by former gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams, has been ordered to pay more than $1 million in restitution after pleading no contest in connection with an insurance scheme which prosecutors said the bank had planned to take statewide.

The Midland bank was convicted Thursday of a misdemeanor charge of criminally violating the state insurance code under a program in which customers seeking car loans were forced to buy costly life insurance.

ClayDesta, founded by defeated Republican gubernatorial nominee Williams in 1982, was ordered by Travis County Court at Law Judge David Puryear to pay up to $1.13 million in restitution, plus a $500 fine and court costs.

The sentence followed terms of an agreement the bank negotiated over several months with Travis County officials.

Wayne Merritt, president of ClayDesta for the past six months, hailed the end of the Travis County investigation.

"As far as I'm concerned, this is the conclusion of the matter, and we're very pleased that it's going to be over so we can lift this cloud that's been placed over the bank and go back to doing what banks do," he said.

ClayDesta pleaded no contest to a charge of contracting with car loan broker Lloyd Williams Jr. of Houston, who prosecutors said "unlawfully solicited, marketed and required credit life and disability insurance in hundreds of transactions" and was not licensed to act as an insurance agent.

Under the scheme, high-risk customers were required to purchase expensive credit life insurance policies, underwritten by Service Life & Casualty Insurance Co. of Austin, as a condition of obtaining car loans from ClayDesta, said Travis County Attorney Ken Oden, who prosecuted the case.

Such insurance would pay off the loans if the buyer could not pay because of illness or death. State law allows a banker to require such insurance, but it bars a lender from dictating where the insurance must be purchased.

The bank received 50 to 85 percent of the $900,000 in premium payments, Oden said.

Some 986 people, mostly in metropolitan Dallas and Houston, received the insurance during the approximately four months the program was in operation from October 1989 until it was ordered stopped in February 1990, Oden said. But he said the bank had planned to "massively expand" the loan program statewide.

"The purpose of it was to make a lot of money, and it was making a lot of money," Oden said.

Oden said Lloyd Williams, who is not related to Clayton Williams, was the first and largest insurance broker involved in the bank's credit life insurance program and wrote about two-thirds of the policies involved.

Two other brokers already have been convicted in connection with the case, Oden said. In addition, several consumers have filed a lawsuit against Service Life and Casualty and Lloyd Williams. Other entities, including the State Board of Insurance, still are investigating, Oden said.

Under Thursday's agreement, neither ClayDesta bank nor any of the bank's officials can face further criminal charges in the Travis County investigation.

ClayDesta agreed to repay all premiums it received plus interest to consumers wishing to cancel their insurance.

Consumers choosing to keep the insurance also will receive a return of the premiums paid to the bank plus interest, and retain the insurance at no more than 15 to 50 percent of its original cost.

Oden said Clayton Williams and his wife, Modesta, both served on the bank's board of directors at the time the insurance plan was approved, and that board members were given regular updates on it.

"The members of the board of directors clearly knew about the program and the methods of its operation," Oden said.

Clayton Williams' office in Midland said Williams was out of town, and referred all questions to Merritt. Merritt said Clayton Williams no longer was on the bank's board of directors.

The Travis County investigation began in September. During last fall's gubernatorial campaign, Williams said the investigation was politically motivated and denied any wrongdoing.

Oden said although he supported Gov. Ann Richards, he denied any political connection to the investigation.

Richards said Thursday morning that she was not aware of the pending ClayDesta plea. But she said it was ironic the plea came the same day she signed insurance reform legislation. Richards made insurance reform a key plank in her campaign.

"Yes, there is a touch of irony there," said Richards, who narrowly defeated Williams last November.

While Oden said credit life insurance itself is not "inherently evil," he called the way the business has been run and regulated in Texas "a shameful, ugly mess."

initiative to sell the stock for health reasons could not muster one more vote needed to win approval because of the legal and economic issues posed by the sale of the UT System's highest performing stocks. One regent was absent.

"There is a key legal problem as I see it," Ray Farabee, general counsel for the UT System, told the Austin American-Statesman. "There is a policy on the books that says the fund shall not be invested to achieve... social or political purpose."

The bulk of the UT System's $70 million of tobacco stocks is in the Philip Morris company, the world's largest food-packaging company, university officials said.

UT also owns shares in RJR Nabisco, Loews Corp. and two other tobacco-related companies, UT officials said. The UT System has investments and assets totaling about $4 billion.

Under the policy approved by regents Thursday, smoking is immediately banned in all UT System buildings, dormitories, stadiums and other facilities. That includes the Frank Erwin Center, where concerts and athletic events frequently are held, and Memorial Stadium, where UT football games are played.

Also, tobacco sales will be phased out on all 15 campuses in the UT System. Current contracts will be continued but not renewed, and vending machines will eventually be removed, officials said.

Woman given second life sentence

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) —The bizarre trail of death left by a woman who blames a curse for the deaths of six of her children has come to an end.

Diana Lumbra, 32, pleaded no contest in Lubbock County district court Thursday to murdering her 2-month-old son, Jose Lionel Garza, Jr., in 1978, and was sentenced to life in prison for the second time in a week.

Last Thursday, Ms. Lumbra pleaded no contest in Parmer County district court to murdering 2-year-old daughter, Melinda Ann Garza, in 1982.

In exchange for her plea, the state dropped charges that she murdered two other daughters and the daughter of a cousin.

"I wish I could say she will never walk the streets again, but unfortunately there is no life without parole in Texas," said Rebecca Atchley, who prosecuted Ms. Lumbra in Lubbock County.

"Hopefully, with three life convictions, the parole board will take a long look before releasing her."

Ms. Lumbra has been accused of killing five of her children and a sixth child who was the daughter of a cousin. The deaths occurred between 1976 and 1990.

An investigation into the death of another of her children, Christopher Lumbra, was recently halted due to a lack of evidence.

A jury in Garden City, Kan., where Ms. Lumbra had moved, convicted her last October of murdering her 4-year-old son, Jose Antonio, on May 1, 1990, and she was sentenced to life in prison.

Prosecutors say evidence shows she likely smothered the children.

The life sentence levied Thursday will run concurrently with the Kansas sentence. The Parmer County life sentence is consecutive.

Ms. Lumbra will be eligible for parole in Kansas in 15 years. If she is released, she would immediately return to Texas to begin serving jail time.

Tony Wright, who represented Ms. Lumbra in court Thursday, said his client pleaded no contest to avoid the pain of a murder trial.

"Diana was fully cognizant of the conditions and pleas and agreed to it," Wright said. "She felt the plea was the best way to put all this behind her."

When District Judge John McFall asked Ms. Lumbra Thursday if she realized pleading no contest carried the same weight as a guilty plea, she replied, "Yes sir."

After being sentenced, Ms. Lumbra asked for a few minutes alone with family members who attended the hearing. She spoke to them in Spanish and began weeping as she was handcuffed and taken back to jail.

Ms. Lumbra has claimed that her mother-in-law cursed her, damning all of her children to early deaths.

Investigators in all of the children's deaths say evidence and testimony from doctors indicated she sacrificed her infants for the attention.

"I believe she knew killing all of her children was wrong. But the attention she got was more important," Mrs. Atchley said.

Several doctors who observed Ms. Lumbra's case said she suffers from Munchausen's syndrome by proxy, a condition in which a person constantly complains of acute illness in loved ones, giving a dramatic history, all of which is false.

"She fits the Munchausen's profile without question," Mrs. Atchley said.

In the Lubbock County case, Ms. Lumbra was accused of smothering her son while he was recovering from illness in a hospital room.

"Our case was strong," Mrs. Atchley said. "Medical records show the boy's condition was improving. Then she is left alone with him for 15 minutes in his hospital room and the child dies. There was enough there for the doctors to make some conclusions."

Organic growers think big

MEXIA, Texas (AP) — Growing organic is growing up.

Gone are the days when growing plants without the aid of pesticides, herbicides and chemical fertilizers meant growing small.

Take the Franks family. They have a 35-acre orchard with 3,800 trees near Mexia that grows nothing but organic peaches.

Linda Franks and her son, Rob, say their orchard is the largest certified organic peach orchard in the state.

"And there were a lot of people who didn't think it could be done," Rob said recently while walking through the sandy soil of his orchard.

Rob, 22, and his twin brother, Steve, run the orchard during most of their free time from college.

Rob said this is the first year their produce is fully organic. The state requires growers to refrain from using chemicals for three years if they wish to certify their produce as organic. The first two years their peaches were considered transitional organic produce, he said.

Rob said he and his father began researching the organic market after he started reading about the harmful effects of pesticides and herbicides. Linda added that her oldest son, Jim, got a nose-bleed one year after spraying chemicals.

She said her husband, Ron, who is in the insurance business, put considerable thought into whether organic produce was a fad or a trend. In the end, he decided the future looked bright for organic growing.

So far, the Franks family seems to be on the right track.

"We get calls every day," Rob said, adding that they ship most of their produce to Dallas, Austin and Houston.

"It amazes me that the urban areas are the ones we deliver to," Linda said, adding that people who live in rural areas don't seem to demand the pesticide-free fruit as much.

Rob says 15 to 25 percent of their produce is lost to insects. A conventional grower loses about 15 percent on average.

"We can't fight the worms," Rob said. "We have to share."

He says his family doesn't buy natural predators for the orchard like some growers, but he does use a special plow from Italy to remove weeds from the base of the peach trees.

Bush joins boo-hoo bunch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Get out your handkerchiefs. The sensitive new politician has arrived.

Sen. Tom Harkin, who is looking into a White House bid, cried in New Hampshire last week. President Bush did it Thursday in Atlanta. Who'll be next?

"I love it," said Rep. Patricia Schroeder, who knows something about the subject. She cried at a 1987 news conference announcing she would not run for president, and has yet to hear the end of it.

"Anytime I go to any city to talk, that's the first piece of film the TV stations pull out," said the Colorado Democrat. "They've just decided that's the only thing I've ever done that counted."

Bush was telling the Southern Baptist Convention how he had prayed and cried before sending Americans to war against Iraq, and he became tearful at the memory.

"Like a lot of people, I've worried a little bit about shedding tears in public, or the emotion of it," the president said. Then, as his eyes welled up, he added, "There we go."

Bush told reporters later that he wasn't embarrassed by his tears.

"No, I do that in church," he said.

"I was trying to speak to them from the heart. ... I'll never forget that day. I knew what was over the horizon in terms of our air war, and I stood there with the tears coming down my face, and that's the way it was. So why not say it?"

For Harkin, an Iowa Democrat testing the waters in the state that holds the first presidential primary, the moment came in Concord, N.H., during a meeting with about 30 disabled people.

He was reading aloud a letter handed to him by a mentally retarded woman. She said she had been in a state school for 23 years and could not get the education she wanted. Congress, she wrote, is too concerned with young disabled people and ignores those over 21, like herself.

Harkin, a disability rights activist who has a deaf brother and knows sign language, stopped abruptly after a few paragraphs. He took off his glasses, pulled out a handkerchief and wiped his eyes. "I apologize," he told his listeners. "This brings back a lot of memories."

His tears may have done the same for some New Hampshire residents. It was in their state, nearly 20 years ago, that Democratic presidential hopeful Ed Muskie appeared to weep slightly after a newspaper printed innuendos about his wife. Maybe that dampness on his face was tears; maybe it was snowflakes. In any case, his campaign never recovered.

President Reagan was a master of the art, to the point where his voice would break at exactly the same part of a story no matter how many times he told it. But Schroeder, for one, doesn't put Reagan's tears in the same category as the latest developments.

"I think people always dismissed that because he was an actor. People thought he had trained himself to turn it on or turn it off," she said.

Doubtless it was the real thing when White House chief of staff John Sununu, formerly governor of New Hampshire, choked up during his last speech to the state legislature. But the tears some spotted on his face did not affect the trajectory of his career or his reputation as a hard-bitten political operator.

Cancer center to expand

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Texas regents have approved a $248.2 million expansion of its M.D. Anderson Cancer Center that will add a patient care and research complex as well as a separate clinical services building in the next five years.

The University of Texas System Board of Regents, which oversees the 37-year-old cancer center complex in Houston's Texas Medical Center, said Thursday the new facilities will be open in phases between late 1995 and late 1996.

"M.D. Anderson has experienced tremendous growth in the demand for services by Texans in the last decade," said center president Dr. Charles A. LeMaistre. "However, much of the new construction is related to the obsolescence of the older buildings that no longer can handle the new technology of cancer care and research or the large levels of care provided to our patients."

Architects for the expansion, which will add 875,000 square feet to the world renown cancer center, will be Lockwood, Andrews & Newman Inc. of Houston and HKS Inc. of Dallas, who will oversee the project jointly.

The expansion will be funded by a mix of revenue bonds, institutional earnings and private philanthropy.

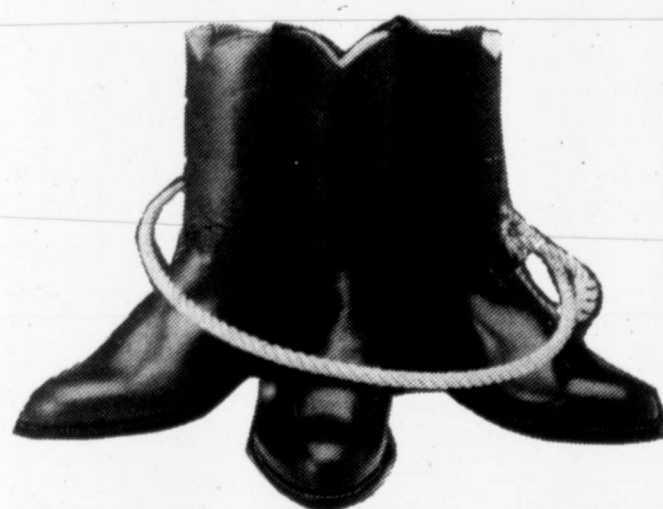

The research laboratories will be added in a six-story structure to the west of the current complex while the additional patient care will be located in a nine-story building in the same area. Together they represent $206.2 million of the project.

The clinical services facility, estimated at $42.4 million, will offer new cancer prevention and screening programs and provide more outpatient care in a 10-story building to the east of the existing buildings.
