Bills To Provide Centennial Funds Racing Against Time

Grave Dangers Face Sponsors Of Celebration

Final Passage Of Tax Bill To Be Sought Today; About 50 Amendments Must Be Disposed Of Before Action

New Plan Looming

Appropriation Bill Would Be Added To Tax Bill In Order To Get Both Measures Out Of House Today

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—Bills to provide state revenue for a Texas centennial entered a race against time today as the legislature moved slowly toward final adjournment Saturday.

Floor leaders for a bill to levy approximately $3,500,000 in taxes for the centennial jockeyed themselves into a favorable position as the house recessed until tomorrow but the path of the centennial advocates was beset with grave dangers because of the rules governing legislative action in the closing hours.

Permit Final Passage

After losing two efforts to recess until tonight to permit engrossment of the tax bill the centennial supporters succeeded in recessing the house until tomorrow morning. The move will permit final passage of the tax bill tomorrow by a simple majority providing disposition can be made of approximately 50 amendments filed with the speaker.

Under the procedure outlined the house would engross the bill, adjourn for a few minutes and finally pass it, obviating necessity for suspension of a constitutional rule, requiring bills to be read on three separate days. It would have required a four-fifths vote to suspend the rule.

The house appropriations committee sped the other half of the centennial program, an appropriation of $5,000,000, to the house floor. It was passed late yesterday in the senate.

Hopes of centennial sponsors for consummation of their legislative program, rested on chances for speedy senate action on the house tax bill in event it is passed. The bill would come under the constitutional rule and would need a four-fifths majority in the senate to permit final passage.

A plan was under discussion by

Garza Paving To Be Opened Today

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, Nov. 8.—Opening to traffic of nine miles of surfacing on highway No. 7 northwest from Post, is expected to be made either Friday or Saturday, highway officials said tonight.

This amount of pavement has been finished except about 400 feet, G. E. McPherson, foreman, said. Asphalt ran out and a new supply was ordered. It was to have been received here today. Officials of the Morgan Construction company had not reported the supply as arriving.

Completion of the remainder of the paving is expected in three weeks. Rock has been placed alongside the caliche. All caliche has been spread from Post to Southland. It is 25 miles long.

Word came here today that George Fields, Lubbock, was awarded the contract for completing surfacing in Garza county, from Post south to Justiceburg and also in Lynn and Lubbock counties from Southland to Slaton. Grading and drainage is completed on both jobs and surfacing should be finished before summer.

Texas Fugitives Nabbed By Lone Sherman Officer

Two Men Tired And Hungry After 29 Days Of Flight; They Arrive On A Freight

(By The Associated Press)

SHERMAN, Nov. 8.—D. M. (Duff) Hood and son, Carl, accused of the kidnaping of Jack Rapp, Hidalgo deputy sheriff, were captured by a lone policeman late today a few hours after they arrived by freight train from Carthage, Mo., where Clifford Hood, another member of the family, was shot last week.

The two men asleep in a dry creek in a heavily-wooded area and had had no food or water for three days. Their possessions included a pocket knife, a .22 caliber shell and bar of soap.

Freed In Oklahoma

They reported that a railway special officer had arrested them in Oklahoma on their way south but they had been released.

Tired, cold and hungry after 29 days of flight from searching officers, Duff Hood sat in a dingy cell in the basement of the Sherman city hall a few hours later and said he was glad to be captured.

"Tell them I was tired of living the kind of a life I was leading," he said.

Not So Well Satisfied

Carl, 23, was not so well satisfied with his cell. He declared he would not be there if he had been able to keep awake.

His father talked readily and told in detail the wanderings the trio across three states since they overpowered Rapp Oct. 11 between McCallen and Edinburg. Both laughed when they told how they played hide and seek with Grayson county officers for several days before setting out on an aimless trek northward. They declared they were within 50 feet of searching possemen several times.

Head For Sherman

After Clifford was caught, Duff and Carl headed back for Sherman. Taking several days to make the trip, they arrived here on a freight train early this morning from Tulsa and went directly to a hiding place on a creek about a mile west of Sherman.

They will be held for the department of justice.

B. V. Alnip, Sherman officer, made the capture.

Oli Rogers, Carthage sheriff, has declined to turn Clifford Hood over to officers of this county.

Baptist Unit Plan Favored At Convention

Sanction To Unification Of Texas Baptists After Schism Of 37 Years Given; BMA To Take Next Action

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 8. — The Baptist general convention of Texas enthusiastically gave its sanction today to a plan of unification of Texas Baptists after a schism of 37 years. If the Baptist Missionary association, the smaller group, takes like action at Dallas next week the two organizations again will become one as they were prior to the meeting of the Baptist general convention here in 1897.

As the unification plan, formulated by a committee of 25 from each group, was accepted without debate by the Baptist general convention, speakers from the two organizations termed the occasion one of the greatest hours in Texas Baptist history and the audience broke into psalms and hymns of thankfulness. Delegates were urged to pray that the Baptist Missionary association likewise would approve at the Dallas convention.

Adopt New Constitution

The plan entailed adoption of a new constitution. Representation in the convention would be apportioned on the basis of membership in the various churches rather than on the financial contributions of those churches to the Baptist program. The policy of representation according to contributions was one of the things which led the B. M. A. to break away from the general convention after the San Antonio meeting in 1897.

Leaders of the Baptist Missionary association said that organization had a membership of almost 100,000. The Baptist general convention places its membership at about 500,000.

Without debate, the convention

Republican Party's Lowly Estate Becomes Battleground; Borah States That Liberal Leadership Needed

Farley Confident

Other Leading Democrats Are Inclined To Raise Warning Finger; Danger Of Factional Strife Seen

By EDWARD J. DUFFY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Republican party's lowly estate became a battleground today while James A. Farley claimed the 1936 presidential election for Roosevelt.

Senator Borah of Idaho said in Chicago the plight of the G. O. P. was one of getting liberal leadership or death.

In press conference at the postoffice, Democratic Chairman Farley gleefully dismissed the opposition party as "positively through" already. Tuesday's sweep was read by him as meaning a "practically unanimous" victory two years from now.

Raise Warning Hand

Other leading Democrats were inclined to raise a warning hand, however. The danger of factional strife in such overwhelming congressional majorities was recognized. In a day or so, it was indicated, admonitions for caution will be issued.

President Roosevelt still had nothing to say publicly about the elections. His attitude was that the returns spoke for themselves. He had other business.

From New York, meanwhile, came the first news in a long while about the American Liberty League. It has been obvious since its formation that this organization, supported by outstanding figures in both parties, may become a potent political factor. Now that the off-year election is over, it was made clear that the League soon will initiate its New Deal examination with a view to the next election. It is expected to make for more disregard of old party lines than less, by the positions it will take before congress this winter on econmic and social legislature.

"Satisfied With Ours"

Asked whether he expected a new opposition party or party realignment, Farley said: "We're satisfied with ours, we'll let the others decide that. The people are definitely through with the kind of leadership they have had from the Republican party, that's why it is

Creation Of Permanent And Powerful Farm Credit System Being Advocated

Marvin Jones Plans Non-Profit Agency To Aid Farmers

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. — The creation of a permanent farm credit system as powerful as the federal reserve and stripped of all private profit will be proposed to the next congress by Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the house agriculture committee as the key log of a farm legislative program.

The Texan disclosed the plan in its general outlines today, but said details remained to be worked out.

Afford Permanent Credit

Essentially, the setup would be broad enough to afford permanent credit facilities to agriculture in all its operations—credit to be given at cost, plus a fractional charge to build up a reserve and protect against losses.

The system would be operated through the existing farm credit administration. It would be empowered to issue currency — farm credit notes similar to federal reserve notes—and thus to save the interest charges resulting in financing through bonds.

It would use existing facilities of intermediate credit banks, the production credit corporation, and land banks.

Estimate Not Given

The money to start the farm reserve system, Jones added, would come either by earmarking gold now held in the treasury or by direct appropriation of congress. He declined to estimate how much would be needed.

He said the exact rate of interest to the farmers under the proposal had not been determined, but that it probably would not be more than 3 1-2 per cent.

Powerful backing for the plan already has been obtained. Actual drafting of the bill will not begin until after further conferences with administration leaders.

Support Is Expected

Jones said he believed proponents of various efforts at liberalizing farm credit upon a permanent basis would support the proposal, particularly since a federal court has held the Frazier-Lemke act invalid and there is a disposition in some influential quarters not to attempt to go further in the direction of

Bridges Case Goes To Jury

Four Days Of Court Trial Are Closed; Jurors Go To Bed Thursday Night Without Reporting A Verdict

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, Nov. 8.—Following four harrowing days of court trial, which included two night sessions, the fate of Mont Bridges, former Lubbock man charged with murder in the slaying of Jay Donaldson near here last July 1, was placed in the hands of 12 Garza county men tonight.

The jury went to bed without reporting verdict, said Sheriff W. F. Cato.

Penalty Up To Jury

District Attorney G. H. Nelson, who made the closing argument for the state, closing his address shortly after 6 o'clock, did not directly ask for the death penalty. In his closing, Mr. Nelson said that while he had heard references to imposition of the extreme penalty, "I leave that to you twelve men."

Following the closing of the argument, Judge Gordon B. McGuire placed the men in the custody of Sheriff Cato. After supper, the jury

Bronzed-Faced Policemen Turn Pink, Vermillion, Scarlet And Crimson; Prisoners Locked Out

Police Chief Arrives With Gold Badge Shining; Horror Of Horrors—Mystery Of Mysteries—The Key To New Jail Is Missing And Celebration Of Cops Is Turned Into Dud

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Nov. 8—Bronzed-faced policemen turned pink, then vermillion, then scarlet, then crimson.

All was confusion.

A hundred and eleven prisoners locked out of jail!

The situation was unprecedented. Atlanta with two city jails and not a key for the new one.

Gold Badge Shines

Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant, dressed in his finest with gold badge shining, ordered prisoners herded and marched into the new jail.

After 40 years in the old Decatur street building, the police department was all set to take up a new home with all modern conveniences.

Chief Sturdivant took the lead and the parade moved from the second floor of the old structure and halted at the entrance to the new building. Pictures were taken and the order given: "Forward march."

All Is Confusion

Then confusion.

It was 10:35. Turnkey L. D. Cody: "Who's got the keys?"

10:36—Assistant Turnkey W. D. Scott: "I haven't got them, have you?"

10:50—More trouble. Police reporters protested press quarters as badly ventilated and too far from scene of action.

10:52—Chief Sturdivant and police committeemen conferred on outbreak from reporters.

10:55—Turnkey Cody reported his assistant found a man who knew the man who knew where the keys probably might be found.

Quarters Inspected

11—Chief and councilmen, also police committeemen, inspected press quarters.

11:05—Search for keys went on.

11:10 — Councilman announced press wins fight to change quarters.

11:15 — Chief departed saying, "I'm going off for a little while."

11:20—One key is found, but not the cell section.

11:25—Councilmen wagged heads sadly and departed.

11:26—Prisoners marched back in old, dark cells, keenly disappointed.

Someone facetiously suggested the police have one of the prisoners, held for picking apartment house locks, try his hand.

Success At Last

Highway Bids Received For Work In Area

Garza, Lubbock And Lynn Are Included In List; Action Deferred Out Of Respect To A Former Member

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—The Texas highway commission received bids today for highway construction in nine counties and heard requests of delegations from six other counties for various highway projects.

Bids were received on projects in Garza, Lubbock, Lynn, Bell, Cherokee, Hudspeth, Rusk, Wood and Lampasas counties, but the low bidders were not announced.

Hearing Postponed

Out of respect to R. M. Hubbard of New Boston, former member of the commission who died Tuesday, the regular monthly hearing of the county delegations was postponed until Nov. 26, but a somewhat informal hearing was held for several delegations who had not heard of the postponement.

A delegation from Throckmorton county asked from $3,000 to $5,000 a month to complete a gap in highway 120 between Throckmorton and a bridge five miles east of Throckmorton. It was urged that the construction would provide needed employment.

Designation Is Asked

Delegations from Kaufman and Van Zandt counties united in requesting designation of the road between Kaufman and Canton as a state highway. Spokesmen asserted the highway was needed to relieve congestion on highway 15 in the north part of Kaufman county.

The commission gave limited approval to another request of Van Zandt county for 12-mile construction on highway 19 between Can-

Nebraska Will Have Plenty Of Room In State Capitol

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 8. (AP) — Landlord Nebraska will have plenty of room in its $10,000,000 state capitol in 1937 when one of its luxuriously finished legislative chambers will be vacant.

The last of the two chambers was completed just in time for the 1933 legislature but the session convening next January will be the last two-house legislature in the state. Voters overwhelmingly adopted the constitutional amendment sponsored by Senator George W. Norris for a unicameral legislature.

Big Payments And Reduction Are Scheduled

Acreage Cut Of 25 Per Cent Below Average In The Past Of 41,000,000 Acres Sure To Be Ordered

Contracts Signed

Cooperating Farmers Promised More Cash Than They Were Given In 1934; Will Halt Landlord-Tenant Clashes

(Copyright, 1934, By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A 1935 program for America's principal export crop—cotton — which calls for the largest possible acreage reduction and increased payments to cooperating farmers was drafted today at the agricultural adjustment administration.

As yet the plan is labeled "unofficial" but authoritative quarters report Secretary Wallace almost certainly would order an acreage cut of 25 per cent below the average in the past of around 41,000,000 acres.

Contracts Are Signed

The majority of the South's cotton growers already have signed contracts pledging reduction for 1935. Those agreements provide that the 25 per cent reduction is the maximum which may be ordered from Washington.

Only the discovery that funds would be unavailable, one official said, would prevent the increase in payments to southern farmers who are cooperating, or who agree to do so in the future.

At the same time, it was revealed at the farm administration that negotiations are underway with Germany for a deal which would involve exchange of about 500,000 bales of cotton for German goods.

Decrease Is Cited

The decrease in cotton exports to Germany constitutes the principal factor in the decline in cotton shipments abroad and one of the reasons why AAA officials feel that the maximum acreage reduction permissible is imperative for next year.

Other developments which point to the 25 per cent slash are:

Reduced consumption in America; A cotton carry-over on Aug. 1 of more than 10,000,000 bales, the third largest carry-over on record;

Estimates that a yield approaching 11,800,000 bales would be grown next year even if every farmer eligible to sign up reduced in accordance with the 25 per cent direction;

A cotton forecast today which estimated production this year at 9,634,000 bales, an increase of 191,000 over the October forecast.

Arguments Are Convincing

Officials said the arguments for more money to those farmers who did join with the voluntary program

North Avenue H Will Be Widened

Authorization of the widening of north Avenue H from the underpass to the point where it joins the highway was given by City commission in a regular meeting Thursday afternoon at City hall. The street is to be widened to 80 feet and paved by the state highway department.

All but seven of the proerty owners along the route have agreed to the widening and have donated land for the project. Agreements will be sought with the others or condemnation proceedings followed.

Passage of an ordinance fixing a franchise tax for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company here marked the only other major business transaction of the meeting. Routine matters were discussed in the meeting.

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

TWO women's clubs in the city this week have had the opportunity to hear young Alan Lomax, son of John A. Lomax of the University of Texas staff, who with his father has written a large volume "American Ballads and Folk Songs."

Some of us who have been singing ballads and folk songs for years have not given them much thought as to origin. We have accepted them and let it go at that. Not so Mr. Lomax and his father. The two traveled in 1933 through negro prison camps in Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. They have traced the songs back to their origin as far as possible and have collected a vast array of prison, creole, cowboy songs, negro spirituals and breakdowns.

Alan Lomax is rather shy when he begins telling about his work but he warms up when he sings one of those plaintive chants or work songs so beloved by the southern negro. He sings entirely from memory and this is remarkable when you consider that some of the numbers are almost limitless as to verses. His voice is pleasing and has a decided trace of the south.

The young writer's informality is accentuated in his dress. Appearing at the Lubbock Woman's club Thursday afternoon he wore a polo shirt with short sleeves and no tie. Brown oxfords encased sockless feet. As he sings, Young Lomax taps rhythm with his feet.

Negro folk songs are highly rhythmic, said Mr. Lomax. They are built out of spirituals, from ballads, or tales of animal lore handed down from generation to generation. The singing is accompanied with motions of heeing, swinging an axe or chopping wood by the negro convicts. Through their melodies the negroes are able to laugh and sing away difficulties and thus keep themselves from solidifying emotionally during their imprisonment.

A LOCAL POET

LITTLE 10-year-old Bertha Tew over in K. Carter school is going to give Millay and Grace Crowell some competition when she grows up. That is if she continues writing her poetry. We liked the things that she wrote and thought perhaps you would like to see some. Here they are.

The Raindrops

When the bubbles go to sleep
The little raindrops weep and weep
They weep along the window pane
And lie there as they feel ashamed.

The Ovals

The little ovals are running along
With a cheerful little song
When they sing it so sweet
On the paper they look so neat

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving is not for play
Because that is a wonderful day
You eat your turkey and eat your pie
But please be happy and do not cry

Pretty Fruit

Pretty Fruit on the wall
Those pretty, pretty things might fall
On the dirty, dirty floor.
Then we would have no more
We could not eat them at all
If they fell off the wall.

Anyone who is inspired to write so touchingly of simple things already has a better philosophy of life than many grownups. At ten little Bertha has found beauty and song in raindrops falling along a common window pane, in her writing lesson and in a paper border of fruit placed around her school room.

Sailor Dress Is Ideal For School Girl

Navy Blue Woolen Dress Is Trimmed With Bright Red Collar For This Model

Just the merest hint of "nautical" feeling, so beloved by schoolgirls, marks this smart little dress.

The first model carried out in navy blue woolen was especially effective with its bright red velveteen collar trimmed with navy grossgrain ribbon.

As for other colors, there are browns, greens, reds, etc., which would also be smart.

Carried out in red and white plaided tweedy cotton or woolen with plain navy collar, it's jaunty.

All in one material as Copenhagen and navy blue checked wool crepe it's lovely too. The bow tie of plain bright red velveteen will set it off most delightfully.

WHY THIS RARE MOUNTAIN COFFEE GIVES YOU RICHER TANG AND FLAVOR

—Really DIFFERENT from Any Other Coffee Known!—

THERE'S no mystery about coffee. There are many grades of coffee just as there are many grades of silverware. The cheaper coffee comes from the lowlands. And the richer-flavored coffees come from high up in the mountains.

Because Folger's is real mountain coffee—it is deliciously different from the lowland coffees used in ordinary brands. Folger's is grown on tiny plantations high up in the mountains—where clear, bright sunshine, steaming tropical rains, and an odd type of volcanic soil combine to give coffee a rare winy tang and extra rich flavor that makes ordinary coffee taste thin and flat by comparison.

Experts know this. And they'll tell you there's no way of roasting or packaging coffee that can bring out flavor that nature didn't put there in the first place! Delicious tang and flavor has to be grown in—as it is in Folger's!

It may be news to you—but you can easily afford to serve this finer coffee in your home. For even though you may pay a few pennies more per pound for Folger's—it's so much richer in flavor that you can use 1/4th less! That means you get more cups—and after all, that's the way to figure a coffee's cost—by its price per cup.

Folger's fresh mountain flavor is especially appealing to men! This coffee is served in the dining cars of 10 great railroads; in many of the finest hotels and clubs where men's tastes are catered to! Order Folger's for your home today!

TO GET BETTER DRIP COFFEE—Use FOLGER'S DRIP GRIND—Vacuum-Packed! You can't get best results by using cheap coffee or the wrong granulation. Folger's Drip Grind is the same mountain coffee—scientifically granulated for use in dripmakers or vacuum coffee makers. It's more economical, and gives a richer, fuller flavor.

Woman Plans Trip Over Ocean By Motorboat; Take 90 Hours

Daring Adventure Expected To Be Accomplished In August, 1935; Specially-Designed Boat Is Planned

BY MORRIS GILBERT
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The adventurous career of Madame Juanita Desbriere Irwin, Paris-born wife of the American petroleum engineer, Captain Daniel Irwin, is reaching its climax in her plan to cross the Atlantic in 90 hours in a specially-designed motor-speed-boat, built on submarine lines.

"Such a plan," Mme. Irwin told the correspondent, "has never before been attempted. Apart from its sporting angle, its success would be highly interesting from a technical point of view.

"It can be done," Mme. Irwin continued, "and we hope to make the attempt in August, 1935."

THE boat, 65 feet long, 9 feet wide has been designed by John Hacker, naval engineer of Mount Clemens, Mich. Its lines, Mme. Irwin explained, will be similar to those of submarines, so that it can pass beneath the crest of big waves.

It will be completely closed and its bridge will be hardly raised above the general top lines of the craft. Visibility is to be assured by a 15-foot-high periscope. The hull will be of triple thickness of wood, and the vessel is to be divided into several perfectly water-tight compartments. There will be a small cabin below the enclosed bridge, with four berths. The rest of the craft will be taken up by motors and fuel reservoirs with a capacity of 16,000 litres. At present, the plans call for a motor developing about 850 horse-power, with a speed of 35 knots.

THE equipment will include a powerful radio sending and receiving set, a radio compass, a strong searchlight on a military mast, and an auxiliary engine developing 9 knots in case of breakdown.

After consultation with Dr. Kimball of the U. S. meteorological service, it was decided the best season for such a venture is August, because the icebergs which fringe the northern route are then melted.

MME. IRWIN, daughter of a distinguished French army colonel who was an authority on military affairs and a historian of note, was first married to the Count Le Moine des Mares who was killed in active flying service during the Great War. She herself served as an army nurse on the French front and later in the Sahara. With her first husband she visited many distant places, such as the Iguaga Falls in the heart of Africa, and the Chaco country in South America.

Her second marriage, to Captain Irwin, brought her more adventures. She lived for some time in Columbia, Venezuela and the West Indies, where he had oil interests. She traveled along through Brazil, up the Amazon to Manaos.

Mme. Irwin raised leopards in Colombia and some of her favorite pets have been snakes.

These days, she is a volunteer donor of blood, to suffers from infantile paralysis, having been a victim of this illness as a child.

BURNING AUTUMN LEAVES

DENVER (AP)—E. J. Braun, Denver highway commissioner, has asked householders not to burn their autumn leaves on paved or oiled streets as the oil surface might catch fire and that heat will crack concrete.

Priceless jewelry which once adorned women and men of the court of Nebuchadnezzar some 2500 years ago, magnificent sculptures of the Sassanian period, and royal tombs more than 5500 years old, were discovered at the site of the ancient city of Kish in Irak.

Federal Agents Recover $1,460 In Cash, $4,000 In Bank Drafts Of Ransom

Two Persons Are Captured

Net Slowly Drawing On Rest Of Those Implicated In The Urschel Case; Pair Wanted In Oklahoma City

ROSEBURG, Ore., Nov. 8. (AP)—The recovery at Medford of $1,460 of the $200,000 Urschel kidnaping ransom money and $4,000 in bank drafts payable to Clara Feldman, fugitive in the Oklahoma case, was announced today by a department of justice agent.

C. C. Spears, special agent for the department of justice, said the money was found buried in the yard of the house in which Alvin H. Scott and Margaret Hurtienne, his housekeeper, had lived in Medford.

Scott and Mrs. Hurtienne are in custody here. The woman is said by Spears to be a sister of Clara Feldman.

Suffering Injuries

Scott is in a semi-conscious condition in a hospital, suffering from critical injuries received in an automobile accident last Friday.

Scott and Mrs. Hurtienne are wanted in Oklahoma City for questioning in conspiracy charges in connection with the distribution of the $200,000 paid the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, millionaire oil man, in July, 1933. The United States attorney at Portland has filed removal orders against the two.

In addition to the money recovered at Medford, Spears said $1,860 of the ransom currency was found in Scotts possession when he was taken to the hospital after the accident.

FOUR GREAT-GRANDMOTHERS

DENVER (AP)—The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Robertson has four great-grandmothers living, not to mention about 40 other relatives.

Modern ethnologists are inclined to regard the Eskimo as closely akin to the American Indian and therefore a branch of the red race.

Find Men Who Can't Catch Cold

Even Sneezes And Inoculations Prove Ineffective For 24 In Air-Controlled Room; Every Kind Of Test Is Tried

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8. (AP)—The "men who could not catch cold" have given science a new insight into the common cold at the University of California medical school.

Far from being natural immunes, these 24 men were born cold catchers, a group of 21 to 40-year-olds who averaged five to six colds yearly.

Yet they became the men who could not catch cold when living in a special room, air-conditioned, set up in the university hospital under direction of William J. Kerr and John B. Legen, with the aid of the Christine Breon, Herzstein and Jackson funds.

Science already had evidence that the common cold is probably caused by a virus, something invisible under miscropes, and that it also depends on the body's resistance.

The Californians add a third factor, a throw-back to the oldest idea of the layman, that somehow the air itself is partly responsible.

Inoculations Ineffective

The only difference between this hospital common cold room and ordinary quarters was air-conditioning. The room was the usual hospital size for four to six persons. Five to six men lived in it at a time. First they were observed for five to eight days to make sure they hadn't arrived with a cold. Then for the next four to six days they were subjected to what should have been sure-fire exposures to colds.

First a man with a common cold moved in with them. He played cards and ate with them, sneezing the while, and none of them left the room. They all drank out of a common cup. But none caught colds.

'Predisposing Factor' Seen

Next some of them were inoculated with nasal secretions of individuals with colds. This was a method used at Columbia university in demonstrating the existence of a common cold virus.

The Columbia men, shut up in a carefully guarded but not air-conditioned room, caught severe colds. Even when the virus had been diluted by something like 15,000,000 times, they still took cold.

But at California not one man acquired a cold. The experiment points to a "predisposing factor," at present unknown, as a key to common colds.

A presumption that the air itself is involved is strengthened by a statement by P. L. Davidson, an air-conditioning engineer, that a man uses daily three and a half pounds of food and 35 pounds of air, and that the food supplies 40 per cent of his energy, while the air yields 60 per cent.

British Proposal Is Not Approved

LONDON, Nov. 8. (AP)—Naval circles expressed the belief today a British compromise proposal is not likely to meet the full approval of the Japanese delegates to the naval conversations.

While the Japanese declined to comment until a complete study is made of the plan, press reports from Tokyo indicated there was considerable opposition because the entire program of the Japanese was not accepted as presented.

Both the Japanese and the Americans, however, regard the proposal of equality in principle as a great change of attitude on the part of the British, since the latter previously opposed equality for Japan and supported the American stand.

R. L. Craigie of the British delegation visited the United States delegates today and informed them of the British proposals to the Japanese. There was no indication of a change in the American opposition to equality. The delegates from the United States reiterated their desire to continue naval limitation as provided by existing treaties.

BUYING TO START

FORT WORTH, Nov. 8. (AP)—G. W. Barnes, assistant state director of drouth relief, said drouth cattle buying would be resumed in 74 counties in West Texas and the Panhandle Monday. One hundred thousand head of cattle will be purchased within 30 days, he said. Fifteen veterinary inspectors have been sent into the field by Dr. R. L. Darby, field inspector in charge of the United States bureau of animal industry.

The state relief organization civil works in North Carolina gave employment to 967,545 persons during the fiscal year of 1933-34.

Melvin Purvis Is The Kind Of Fellow Who Wouldn't Write Home About Killing Dillinger And Floyd

TIMMONSVILLE, S. C., Nov. 8. (AP) — The kind of fellow who wouldn't write home about killing John Dillinger or "Pretty Boy" Floyd—

That's Melvin Purvis, of the department of justice, according to his family.

Quietly proud of their brother, his sisters here say he has "yet to mention Dillinger or any of them" in his letters.

"We wouldn't know Dillinger was dead if we had to depend on him to find out," one affirmed. "He doesn't comment on one thing about his work, except that he likes it 'fine'."

Father Purvis and the seven other childrep are still sitting around dazed at the sudden rise of the family's "quiet son" to national eminence as a super-detective.

He was the fifth of eight children. His mother died during his youth.

Liked Books, Horses

Shy and reticent, young Purvis buried himself in books or went off on lone horseback rides on his father's farms near Timmonsville, his birthplace 31 years ago.

To the others, as they look back on their brother's boyhood, he was something of an enigma—the same sort of human puzzle he became later to a succession of "No. 1" public enemies who never knew where to look for his surprise traps until they snapped shut.

Never, said a sister living here, did he give any indication of growing into the man whose marksmanship is credited with at least a part in the slaying of such desperadoes as Dillinger and Floyd.

"Didn't Care For Guns"

"He really didn't care for guns and that sort of thing," she recalled. "He went hunting sometimes but not as a real hobby."

As a boy ranging the wide acres of his father's tobacco and cotton plantations, he took a lively mechanical interest in automobiles, and loved horses—an affection later transferred to dogs in the crowded cities.

In high school he was a football player and debater but dropped both activities upon entering the University of South Carolina in 1920. There he worked as a claim adjuster to earn his education.

Graduated in law in 1925, young Purvis practiced with a Florence, S. C., law firm for two years before going to Washington, where he got a job with the department of justice.

Trailed Auto Thieves

For three years he chased automobile thieves and the like in the Carolinas and Texas. And then in 1931 he became head of the department of justice bureau at Birmingham, Ala.

Soon afterwards he was transferred to Chicago, helped investigate the collapse of Samuel Insull's industrial empire, and received promotion to the chief post of the Chicago staff.

Then headlines blazoned his career as he and his agents toppled arch-criminals from the thrones of organized crime in America.

Behind the headlines moves a wiry 130-pound southerner, not always in the best of health but with intensity glinting from his brown eyes as he takes up each new trail.

According to a scientist, the average amount of absolute rest during a night's sleep is only eleven and a half minutes, there being muscular or mental action the remainder of the time.

Allotments For November In Texas Announced By Johnson

AUSTIN, Nov. 8. (AP) — Adam R. Johnson, state relief director, notified county relief administrators today as to their allotments for November.

Federal relief money was forwarded to the counties last week and state warrants, representing money from the state relief bond issue, will be mailed this week.

A total of $3,147,600 has been allotted for the entire state. The amounts allocated to individual counties are based on estimated case loads and the unobligated balances on estimate sheets submitted by administrators.

Bridges Case

began deliberation.

J. E. Vickers, Lubbock, opened for the state, consuming an hour in his talk. He was followed by Tom Garrard, Tahoka, former Lubbock attorney and associated with T. L. Price, Post, in the defense. The latter closed the defense and then the district attorney, G. H. Nelson, closed.

Defense attorney Tom Price tonight declined to state definitely that he would ask for a change of venue in the other case against Bridges. He also is charged with the slaying of Miss Bertha Gordon. Price, a former district attorney of the 106th district, admitted he was seriously considering asking change of venue, probably to Lynn county. He said that he could not state definitely his actions until after a verdict was given in the Donaldson case.

Policemen

arrived and turned them over to Police Investigator Owen, who announced "the prisoners shall sleep in the new jail tonight."

6 p. m.—Moving day postponed. Prisoners must wait until tomorrow.

Then, too, it was discovered the new police headquarters didn't have telephones in the station lieutenant's office.

It might be embarrassing one of the officers said, to have some citizen call up for a burglary and be told by the operator that "police are not listed."

accepted the recommendation of its committee on time and place that the next meeting be held at Houston, which has not been the host city since 1919.

The committee's recommendation that the meeting month be changed from November to January was rejected, however, after considerable discussion. The committee suggested that the convention year should correspond with the calendar year but a majority of the delegates decided that weather and other conditions in January might reduce the attendance. As a result the convention will meet Nov. 5-8, 1935.

Big Jim Sees 1936 Success

Other Leading Democrats Are Inclined To Raise Warning Finger; Danger Of Factional Strife Seen

through. There will be opposition to Roosevelt in 1936 but it won't amount to anything."

The Republicans, in his view, will have a hard time finding a man to make the "sacrifice" in running against Roosevelt. He referred to Senator Vandenberg, Republican reelected in Michigan as "too smart" to take the nomination.

"And he didn't do so good," the postmaster general elaborated. "His majority was cut from 600,000 to 75,600."

Some of the results Tuesday pleased the Democratic chairman, it was said, and others were disappointing, but by and large his expectations were fulfilled.

Here For A Long Time

He conceded that Republicans still held offices in some places, but insisted the New Deal was here "for a very long time."

"Unless we make mistakes, it will be longer than that," was his parting shot.

Unbowed by the Democratic sweep in Idaho after his campaign there against NRA, AAA and other new dealings, Borah said he was coming back here to continue his opposition. He thought the progressive party made a nice start in Wisconsin, and opined that there is no room " for an old conservative party."

"Under Theodore Roosevelt the Republican party was the most liberal," he said. "There is plenty of opportunity for that kind now. It is the only kind of Republican party that can exist."

Omens Not Overlooked

Within the regular Republican leadership, omens of the election were not being overlooked. Chairman Henry P. Fletcher went to New York to counsel on rebuilding the party along a more liberal pattern. What sentiment he found was a subject for guess; but it was considered significant that state powers of the party there had put forward a liberal in their unavailaing attempt to capture the governorship.

Also, one of the few Republicans to survive the New Deal landslide there — Representative Hamilton Fish;—had demanded that the G. O. P. assume more "human and liberal policies."

The attitude of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan was awaited. A dissenter from the "old guard" philosophy, his reelection advanced him to a party prominence that could not be denied.

Fertile For Conjecture

The whole field was fertile for conjecture. Despite the setbacks, the "old guard" was not expected to give over without a scrap.

Aglow over his progressive party sweep in Wisconsin, "Young Bob" LaFollette made his realignment forecast as he entered the white house to lunch with president Roosevelt.

This may bring about an interesting situation, barring the Republican party—as one of the opposition—going more to the left than the New Deal. It is said that, by 1936 or 1940, a presidential campaign will find Roosevelt holding the New Deal to what he likes to call "the middle" while the Republican party remains to its right and another major party takes the field to the left.

Is Only Speculative

Such a possibility is but speculative now, to be sure. But the attitude of Borah, who heretofore has invariably supported the Republican nominees in national campaigns, tended today to line up with it.

The differences over economic and social philosophy are extant in the Democratic organization as much as the Republican. The party strength now, what with holding some four-fifths of the public offices over the country, is not calculated to keep it entirely unified.

Barring an almost super-human success by President Roosevelt in reconciling these elements, the next two or six years may see deep national division that will decide political campaigns along economic lines as against party lines to a greater extent than 1932 and this week.

If the New Deal should succeed immeasurably, the administration normally would be expected to argue for another vote of confidence on the grounds of "conserving" business and employment gains that have been made.

If it should be still far from its goals, the possibility of going before the electorate on a more leftish platform would be presented.

Personal Inspection Trip To East Texas Is Planned

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (AP) — A personal inspection trip into East Texas will be made by Secretary Ickes to determine how the oil administration's enforcement drive against illegal oil in that area is progressing.

Ickes is to speak Wednesday at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute in Dallas. The following day he plans to visit the East Texas oil area.

Football Trip Is Ended In Tragedy; Two Die In Crash

CARRINGTON, N. D., Nov. 8 (AP) —A football trip ended late today in a tragedy near Heaton when the assistant coach and one member of the Minot Teachers college squad were killed and six others taken to hospitals with injuries as their bus left the road and overturned.

The two killed are Oran Marean, Minot, assistant coach, and Allan Aufforth, Kenmare, co-captain.

Cotton Program

were as convincing as those for the 25 per cent acreage slash.

Farmers who reduced acreage this year have complained that they received, in some instances, less for their product than non-cooperators, even after the latter paid the Bankhead bill tax.

The view of AAA directors is that voluntary programs must be made attractive to farmers or cooperation will be lacking. Then too, the Bankhead bill may not be in effect for 1935. The threat of that compulsory measure caused many farmers to join in the voluntary plan who otherwise would have planted all their land to the staple.

Try To Avoid Clashes

An attempt will be made in the 1935 cotton program also to avoid landlord-tenant clashes over benefit payments. The latter have protested in instance after instance that the landowner took more than his share of the rental payment.

The government rents the land from the landlord, paying him three and one half cents a lint pound for the average yield of the soil in the past.

The landowners' division of this rental with the tenant has produced so much trouble that proposals have been made for a reduction in the government's rental payment and an increase in the parity payment, now a cent a pound.

ton and Grand Saline with the county to go ahead with preliminary work with the understanding that specifications, the right of way and the construction engineer must be approved by the highway department.

Conditional Approval

The commission also gave conditional approval to the request of a delegation from Raines county for construction of eight miles of highway 42 from Emory north to the Hunt county line through Point.

County Judge Norman Coffee of Stinnett appearing in behalf of Hutchinson county, requested (1) Connection with a project now under construction on highway 209 between the city limits of Borger and the main street of Borger; (2) A survey on highway 117 from Stinnett north about six miles, for right of way; (3) An estimate on construction of about four miles on highway 209 from the Carson county line east to present construction.

that measure.

As Jones proceeded with his plan, a new step was taken by already existing farm credit agencies to give more help to the soil tiller.

The farm credit administration announced that loans by farm production credit associations would be extended to cover repair, alteration or improvement of farm dwellings. Such advances will be eligible for guarantee by the federal housing administration up to 20 per cent of the principal said W. I. Myers, farm credit governor.

centennial floor leaders to add the appropriation bill to the tax bill as an amendment to get both of the bills out of the house tomorrow. The senate appropriation bill also comes under the constitutional rule in the house.

Amendments Hurled

Amendment after amendment was hurled at the tax bill by the house today as opponents sought to delay a final vote. As each amendment was disposed of another would be filed with the speaker.

Only two of the amendments were adopted, one eliminating a section that would have repealed the law against slot machines and another to strike out the tax proposed on fountain syrups.

While the house wrangled over the tax bill the senate passed finally a house bill to authorize the centennial commission to seek private finances for the observance.

A movement will be attempted tomorrow to make effective immediately a delinquent tax penalty and interest remission bill that was passed finally yesterday and sent to the governor today. The bill did not receive a two thirds majority in the senate necessary to make it operative on signature by the governor. A resolution will be proposed to both branches directing tax collectors to accept payment of delinquent taxes as soon as the bill is signed by the governor.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has indicated strong support for the measure and her approval was regarded as certain.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS . . . a doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

Robbers Invade Town, Bind Watchmen And Loot Bank; Hamilton Is Active

Small Amount Of Cash Taken

Bandits Burn Their Way Into Vault; Upper Section Not Molested; Some Currency Is Said Destroyed

CLEBURNE, Nov. 8 (AP)—A Gang of six robbers invaded the little town of Rio Vista before dawn today, overpowered two night watchmen and robbed the First State bank of between $300 and $400.

Then, leaving Watchmen Matt Akins and W. A. Crow bound and gagged with adhesive tape, they drove out of town in two automobiles without anyone having seen which way they went.

Rio Vista is located six miles south of Cleburne.

Currency Destroyed

In burning their way into the vault, the robbers destroyed some currency. Most of their loot was silver coin. They made no attempt to break open the upper section of the vault, which was protected by a time lock and contained about $5,000 in currency.

Investigating officers were of the opinion the gang of robbers came to Rio Vista from some Texas city where they have their headquarters.

Neither Akins nor Crow, his father-in-law, was able to give much information that might be used in identifying the robbers, due to being blindfolded.

Sheriff Oran Smith of Johnson county was trying to pick up the robbers' trail but had only meager clues to work on.

Hamilton Recognized As Robber Of Oklahoma Bank

OKEENE, Okla., Nov. 8 (AP)—Three men robbed the First National bank of about $1,000 and escaped late today with three hostages. One of the hostages, C. C. Wisdom president of the bank, said he recognized the leader as Raymond Hamilton, fugitive Texas Desperado.

Kidnaped with Wisdom were Bill Westfall, a customer, and Wisdom's sister, a bank employe.

The bandit car fled in the direction of Kingfisher.

There was no shooting and no one was injured.

TOOK PILLS FOR 30 YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Mr. Forsythe Endorses ALL-BRAN for Constipation

If you suffer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this voluntary letter:

"After taking pills and tablets for about thirty years for constipation, I started to take your ALL-BRAN three times a day according to directions. Today I can eat cheese, and that is binding, and certainly feel fine."—Mr. Ed. Forsythe, Box 219, Youngstown, N. Y.

Science says ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

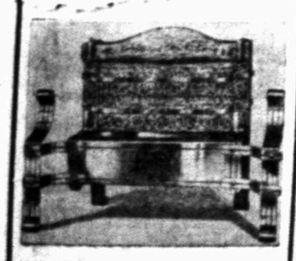

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using patent medicines—so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In serious cases use with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Four Men Burned To Death In Grain Elevator Explosion

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Nov. 8 (AP)—Four men burned to death in a fire that leveled the mammoth Chesapeake and Ohio grain elevator here late today.

The dead: George Martin, Jacob Ellis, sr., George Thomasson and Charles Shelton.

One other man, Jacob Ellis, jr., was seriously burned and three others at work in the elevator escaped unhurt or with minor injuries. The fire was believed to have started from a dust explosion. The property loss was estimated at $2,000,000.

Doctor Jailed After Slaying

Woman Described As Intended Victim Said Recovering In Hospital; Man Is Charged In Death Of Another

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 8. (AP)—While the woman police described as his intended victim, was recovering in a hospital, Dr. William Jacobs, 45-year-old prominent Santa Barbara physician, was held in jail today charged with the murder of another woman.

He is accused of killing Mrs. Lillian H. Newlon, 50, and wounding Miss Adelaide E. Flint, 49.

They were shot down when they refused to heed the physician's command to stop. Miss Flint, a former patient of the physician, suffered a shoulder wound.

He Admits Shooting

Police Chief Jess Butts said the doctor readily admitted the shooting. He surrendered after taking poison but after treatment at a hospital he was transferred to the jail.

The surgeon had been in legal skirmishes involving both women. Miss Flint, whom Mrs. Newlon was attending as a practical nurse, was once sued for alienation of the doctor's affections by Mrs. Jacobs. Simultaneously Dr. Jacobs filed suit for divorce.

Both actions were dropped but later Mrs. Newlon's son, Raymond, and the doctor, sought complaint against each other, Raymond claiming the physician shot at him and Dr. Jacobs saying the young man had beaten him. Assertedly insulting letters written by Mrs. Newlon were the cause.

New Alignment Of Political Parties Is Predicted By Wisconsin Senator

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (AP)—A new alignment of political parties was predicted today by Senator LaFollette, Wisconsin progressive. He made his forecast as he entered the White House for a luncheon with President Roosevelt.

LaFollette came to Washington in response to an invitation extended by Mr. Roosevelt before Tuesday's balloting in which the Wisconsin senator was returned to congress as a progressive.

LaFollette spoke about a new political lineup in answer to inquiries from newspapermen.

"Since the beginning of this economic crisis," he said, "I have stated repeatedly that I felt certain it was of such far reaching nature it was bound to produce a political realignment.

"I think the victory of the progressive party six months after it was organized is significant to this extent: It gives it practical demonstration of what many have contended theoretically, namely, that a new part with a sound, fundamental and far reaching program to meet the issues created by this economic crisis draws its support from the farmers, wage earners, independent business and professional men and their families for the simple reason that after all their economic interest in this crisis is the same."

Come-Back Is Proving Steep

Half A Hundred Former House Members Find That Trail Is No Easy One; Only Twelve Make The Grade

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The old come-back trail proved steep for a half hundred former house members who sought election.

Only twelve made the grade.

Some of the victorious carried better-known names like Earl C. Michener, a Michigan Republican. Back in 1926 he led in an attempt to impeach Federal Judge George W. English of Illinois. English resigned and the impeachment case was dropped.

Played Hero Role

Then there is Melvin J. Maas, a Minnesota Republican. Once a man stood up in the house gallery and threatened members on the floor with a pistol. Many scattered or slid under desks but Maas boldly walked to the disturber and ordered him to drop the pistol. He did.

A third comeback is Republican Dewey Short of Missouri. He once was the "baby member" of the house. Progressive George J. Schneider, coming back from Wisconsin, used to be a Republican.

Democrat James McAndrews, returning from Illinois, illustrates the reward of perseverance. He served in six congresses—12 years—before he was defeated in 1920. Two years ago he ran against Fred A. Britten, Republican, and was defeated. Now he has whipped Britten.

Some Unsuccessful

Some of the unsuccessful also were well-known, as the big, strong-voiced Republican John C. Schafer of Wisconsin, once a railroad engineer. When he was in the house members came to expect that every time Representative Blanton (D-Tex.) then a dry, got to his feet, Schafer, a wet, would start a friendly but biting exchange of sarcasm with the Texan.

Republican Burnett M. Chiperfield of Illinois also found himself in the ranks of the shut-outs. Every year on the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday, Chiperfield used to don a swallow-tail and wing collar and make a speech about the emancipation.

HUGE RAILROAD PROGRAM

PITTSBURGH (AP) — American railroads have decided to equip approximately 2,000,000 freight cars with a new type of air brakes. The program will cover ten years with $29,000,000 a year being spent.

Uncle Sam's tars are heavy eaters. When the fleet was in Atlantic waters this year, orders were placed for 2,000,000 pounds of milk, 900 tons of flour, 32 carloads of fresh eggs, 1,800,000 pounds of sugar, 2,000,000 pounds of beef, 200,000 pounds of canned tomatoes, 190,000 pounds of dried apricots, 200,000 pounds of vegetable shortening, 700,000 pounds of fresh vegetables, 150,000 pounds of pickles and a carload of turkeys.

Court Upsets Marriage Plans

It was announced by Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, daughter of the late President Wilson and divorced wife of United States Senator W. G. McAdoo that the wedding of her 19-year-old daughter Ellen (right), to Rafael Lopez de Onate (left), actor in Spanish talking pictures, had been postponed indefinitely. The marriage plans were upset when a county clerk in Riverside, Cal., refused to grant a license without proof that the groom-to-be was not of Filipino or Malay blood under the California law prohibiting mixed marriages. The actor, whose stage name is Ralph Navarro, says he is of Spanish ancestry.

September has always had its present number of days, but it has not always been the ninth month. Until the calendar was changed by Julius Caesar, it was the seventh month and was named for the Latin word "septem," meaning seven.

England Known As Safest Place For Royalty; Guarded By Scotland Yard

LONDON, Nov. 8. (AP) — Titled celebrities attending the wedding here on November 29 of the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina, should derive comfort from the fact this is about the safest spot in Europe for a nervous king, president or dictator to spend a few pleasant hours.

The recent assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia at Marsaille focused attention on the remarkable success of Scotland Yard in making England a haven for crowned heads, both foreign and domestic.

Members of England's present ruling household are notorious for the almost casual manner in which they move about their realm. The protection they enjoy is so unobtrusive as to be virtually invisible.

Guards Kept Hidden

At the race courses, tennis arenas and other public functions there is apparent absence of any precaution against would-be assasssins. The king and queen are there, perhaps only a few feet away, chatting with other members of the royal party, and not a plain clothesman in sight!

Their feeling of security doubtless is partly due to the fact there has not been an attempt on the British royal family since an anarchist fired three shots at King Edward, then Prince of Wales, at Brussels more than a half-century ago. Yet they also realize that Europe is thronged with cranks who would welcome an opportunity to take a pot-shot at them, simply because they are rulers.

A close network of secret agents covering the whole of Europe keeps Scotland Yard supplied with information and the chance that any suspect can get into England undetected is slim.

The Yard, in fact, concentrates upon "covering" a possible attacker, rather than in guarding the man he is expected to assail. Thus the country's few home grown terrorists are effectively "cased" whenever members of the royal family are in their vicinity.

It was not always thus. Each summer when Queen Victoria traveled the 500 miles from London to Balmoral Castle, Scotland, she insisted that a guard be posted every 200 yards along the railroad. The precaution required 4,000 sentinels.

Tax Situation To Be Studied

Senate Adopts Resolution To Create Committee To Make Inquiry And Report Back At Regular Session

AUSTIN, Nov. 8. (AP)—The senate today adopted a resolution creating a committee to study the tax and financial situation of the state with the view of distributing the tax burden more equitably.

The committee of three will report to the regular session of the next legislature, preparing remedial legislation if any is deemed necessary. Expenses will be paid out of the contingent funds of the forty third legislature.

"It is evident that under our tax system as now administered," the resolution said, "the state is not collecting sufficient revenue to meet requirements fixed by the legislature.

"There now exists a deficit of $14,000,000 and despite economies by the forty third legislature expenditures from tax funds now appear to be seven per cent in excess of revenues."

The resolution said further that the value of taxable property in Texas was at least $10,250,000,000 and only $3,198,117,451 was rendered for taxation in 1933.

The committee was instructed to revise means for amending the laws on taxation so "inequalities and unfairness which now exist in our system and its administration will be elminated as nearly as possible."

Texas Refineries To Face Charges

LONGVIEW, Nov. 8. (AP)—Three East Texas refineries were named in seven suits filed in district court here yesterday by assistant attorneys general, charging violation of Texas railroad commission orders.

The suits, filed by H. D. Bishop and Edward Clark, charged violations of purchasing, handling and transporting and receiving oil produced in excess of the commission's allowable.

The Locke Refining company of Gladewater was charged with transporting, purchasing and handling 7,551 barrels of illegally produced oil and with failure to make daily reports to the commission.

Charges of having bought, transported and handled untendered oil in the amount of 13,868 barrels were filed against the Illinois Refining company. It was also alleged it had failed to make commission reports.

The Culver Refining company was charged with purchasing, transporting, and handling 10,854 barrels of untendered oil and with violation of several state oil conservation laws.

Fourth Co-Defendant In Insull Case Declares He Lost Money In Ventures

CHICAGO, Nov. 8. (AP) — The fourth of Samuel Insull's co-defendants in the Insull mail fraud trial told the jury today that in spite of losing most of his personal fortune in Insull stock he held the Chicago utility executive in high regard.

Frank K. Shrader, a quiet soft spoken man of about 45, took the witness stand before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson after an hour's testimony by three other witnesses on words and phrases of high finance.

Holds Most Of It

"In invested $450,000 in the stock of the Corporation Securities company," Shrader said under questioning by tAtorney Charles Lounsbury. "I sold $30,000 worth, and still have the rest."

The stock in the company, under fire as a hundred million dollar swindle, is now worthless. Shrader's loss was partially offset, he said, by cash dividends of $30,000.

"I have been acquainted with Insull for 25 years," Shrader told the jury. "When this corporation was formed, I had the highest confidence in Mr. Insull's ability in the utility field, and I still have."

He Held Posts

Shrader held posts both in the Corporation Securities company and in Halsey Stuart and company, the La Salle street investment banking house which helped form and launch the ill-fated Corporation Securities company.

Through Daniel Upp, sales manager of Halsey Stuart and Co., the defense tried unsuccessfully to introduce a chart showing the "typical setup" of holding and investment companies, offering to prove from it that the Insull system was built on standard lines.

Judge James H. Wilkerson sustained government objections that the chart had no supporting data.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Tech And Hardin-Simmons Gridmen Ready To Renew Warfare This Afternoon

Teams Meet At 3:15 In Ninth Straight Game

Cawthon To Send Mixed Lineup Into Fray Against Sophs Of Cowboyland; Cranfill's 11 Arrives Late Last Night

Nine consecutive years of football rivalry, during most of which the team from Abilene has exercised superiority, will have gone on the records when the Matadors of Texas Tech and the Cowboys of Hardin-Simmons university conclude their abuse of each other at Tech Field this afternoon.

Both teams last night were straining at the leashes of time which separates them from the ninth annual kick-off. The ball will be put into play at 3:15 o'clock in the first daylight game of the season for the home team.

Dope Doesn't Count

While Tech for the fourth straight season stands out as a top-heavy favorite, the betting is little bettter than even. Wagermakers as well as ordinary fans and the Tech gridders themselves have learned through bitter experience that when Cowboys and Matadors meet on the gridiron, pre-game dope doesn't mean a thing.

The Matadors were overwhelming favorites in 1932. Even before that, one could never tell before hand what would happen and upsets in the series have been common. But in 1932, a year after Tech had enjoyed its first victory over Simmons in four years, a hustling gang of Cowboys turned rodeo artists for an hour, lassoed and tamed the Matadors, 13 to 12. All bets have been off since that Thanksgiving Day.

Today they're back at it again, the Matadors and their oldest consistent rivals. The athletic warfare bloomed in 1916, one year after Tech's beginning, and has been going without a break since then.

They've Heard About It

Few of Coach Leslie Cranfill's boys today will remember the intense warfare of the past, the genial Cowboy coach sends a team of sophomores on the field this afternoon. But they must have heard of this rivalry; they've been working hammer and tongs for the past week in preparation for the game, drilling behind locked gates for the first time this season, cooking up all sorts of trickery, witchery and bad medicine for their Lubbock antagonists.

Against Cranfill's sophomores, Coach Pete Cawthon plans to start a mixture of regulars and shock troopers this afternoon. A glance at the starting lineup above show that he is taking no chances by sending in a full team of shockers. Clark and McKeever in the backfield are first string men. Gaines Davis and Truett Owen, guard, are regulars, and outstanding linemen.

That their home town fans believe there's a chance that the Cowboys will spring another surprise, such as that sprung in 1932, and defeat the Matadors is indicated by the fact that a few hundred Abilene folks are trailing the gridders today. In addition to the famous Cowboy band and the almost equally famous Cowgirl pep squad, a hundred or so fans are expected to arrive today. Three hundred tickets were sent to the Abilene agency.

Wiley, Payne, Sears

As a sidelight, the band angle might be considered. The director who helped make the Cowboy band an organization of international popularity, D. O. Wiley, now wields the baton in front of the Texas Tech musicians.

Another sidelight: One of the most popular coaches in Tech's history, Vic Payne, is now Les Cranfill's right-hand man at Hardin-Simmons.

Still another note of interest: Headlinesman at today's game will be Ziggy Sears, well-know Texan who went "up" last spring to call balls and strikes in the National Baseball league.

Through The Years

Here's the results of Tech-Simmons games since 1926:

1926: Tech 0; Simmons 0 (tie).
1927: Tech 10; Simmons 6.
1928: Tech 0; Simmons 19.
1929: Tech 0; Simmons 21.
1930: Tech 6; Simmons 20.
1931: Tech 6; Simmons 0.
1932: Tech 12; Simmons 13.
1933: Tech 7; Simmons 0.
Total wins: Tech 3; Simmons 4.
Total points: Tech 41; Simmons 79.

Cranfill led his Cowboys into Lubbock last night at 10:20 o'clock, two hours later than scheduled time. They traveled by bus, experiencing motor trouble on the way. The squad unloaded at Snyder for a light workout. Cranfill brought 26 men to Lubbock, leaving behind one of his best reserve tackles, Tindall Jones, but bringing Billy Harris, and end. Both were injured last week. Jones so seriously that he could not play today.

Ford Frick To Succeed John Heydler As National League Prexy: Traband Is Advanced

Former Newspaperman, Youngest Man Ever Given Post, Is Elevated To Presidency Of Senior Baseball League

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—A young newspaperman from the farm lands of Indiana, Ford Christopher Frick, was named today the ninth president of the National League successor to John Heydler and the most youthful man ever to attain the post.

In unanimity, the owners of the eight clubs in baseball's senior circuit elevated the 39-year old head of the league's publicity service bureau to the presidency, honored Heydler by creation of a new office for him for life as "chairman of the board," and appointed Harvey Traband secretary and treasurer.

Magnates All Agree

It took the magnates just 1 1-2 hours of peaceful session to agree unanimously with forecasters who predicted such a slate immediately after Heydler announced unexpectedly last Friday that ill health was forcing him to relinquish the presidency after 17 years. At Frick's request his term was set at one year.

The new president, who will be 40 in December, is the second youngest major league head in baseball history. Only Ban Johnson, who organized and became president of the American League in 1901, was younger at the time he took office, 36.

Worked In Colorado

Born on a farm in Indiana several miles from Kendallville, Frick was graduated in 1915 from De Paul university, where his 17-year old son Frederick is now a freshman, and immediately started teaching at Colorado college. In 1916 he began writing sports on the Colorado Springs Gazette, took over rehabilitation work for the army in Utah, New Mexico, Wyoming and Colorado in 1918 and returned to sports writing on the Colorado Springs Telegraph in 1919.

Frick joined the staff of the New York American in 1922, moved over to the sport pages of the New York Journal in 1923, and wrote baseball as well as other sports, until he was appointed head of the National League service bureau last February. He is well known as a radio sports commentator, but he has agreed to retire from the air as soon as his present contract expires about New Years day.

Traband's Work Increases

Traband, who as secretary and treasurer takes over half the combined posts Heydler held, has been secretary to the retiring president for nine years.

Frick will continue to head the service bureau, he said. While no announcement was made as to salaries, it was believed that Frick was raised from the $12,000 he received as bureau head to about $20,000, while Traband will receive about $12,000 as secretary and treasurer.

Rice Star May Not Play Game

Boil On McCauley's Foot May Change Things; Rice Meets Arkansas, Texas Takes On Bears; TCU Plays Loyola

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A boil may play an important part in this year's Southwest conference football championship. The conference's crucial combat will be Saturday at Fayetteville between Rice institute and the University of Arkansas, and the eventual outcome may hinge on John McCauley's boil. The powerful Rice signal barker and line crusher, has a boil on his instep and may be prevented from playing. He has been out of practice sessions several days. McCauley says he is going to play, boil or no boil. Coach Jimmy Kitts refuses to comment on the situation, but one thing sure, Jimmy isn't very happy over McCauley's boil.

The Fayetteville game easily tops Saturday's conference program which puts Texas A. and M. at Dallas against Southern Methodist, and Baylor at Austin against the University of Texas. Texas Christian journeys to New Orleans for an intersectional melee against Loyola.

Owls Are Favored

Rice will be playing to retain an undefeated record, and for undisputed first place in the conference race. The Owls, offering a powerful line and three versatile backs in Bill Wallace, John McCauley and Harry Witt, loom as the class of the conference, but McCauley's boil threatens to wreck the perfectly developed backfield combination.

The Rozarbacks are in excellent condition with such stars as Oliver Criswell, Paul Rucker, Choice Rucker, Ralph LaForge and a ripping line that averages 200 pounds. It will be home-coming day for Arkansas which makes the Owls assignment just that much tougher for the Razorbacks have scored their most startling upsets on home-coming days. Officials expect a crowd of 15,000.

A small crowd is expected at Dallas where Texas A. and M. and Southern Methodist will compete. Only a few miles away the $10,000 added Waggoner handicap will be run at Arlington Downs, and the sporting population of North Texas will be there. Homer Norton plans to send a lineup of sophomores and squadmen against the Mustangs as a reward for his youngster's victory over Baylor and last week's tie with Arkansas. The Mustangs, even though Shuford and J. R. Smith are injured and may not play, are strong favorites.

Chevigny Warns Steers

Coach Jack Chevigny has warned his Texas Longhorns to be ware of the Baylor Bears. Chevigny fears a "slip-up" for the eleventh annual clash between these two aggregations. Bohn Hilliard and Jack Gray, two outstanding Texas stars, will be ready after being out several weeks with injuries. The Bears dropped a 34 to 12 game last week to Texas Christian, but are always dangerous because of Joe Jack Pearce who easily ranks as one of the best passers the conference. The Texas Christian frogs are at top for their game against Loyola, and are favored to win.

Lubbock Cowboys Beat Littlefield

Coach Mule Davis' Lubbock Junior high school Cowboys defeated the Littlefield Juniors, 36 to 0, on the latters' field yesterday afternoon.

After a close first half, during which the Lubbock team had enough opposition to keep them from scoring more than two touchdowns, the Cowboys ran wild in the second half to pile up the score.

Pirman Williamson, halfback, scored two touchdowns for Lubbock both on end runs after long gains down the field. Bill Sessums, fullback, also scored two. Herbert Leaverton made one through the line, and Martin Ruby, end, intercepted a lateral pass and tore out for a touchdown.

The Cowboy kicking department was off yesterday; every attempt to convert after touchdowns was fruitless.

D. H. Stockton, guard, played a good game in the Cowboy line.

Big Battle Of Backfields Is Promised Here

But Issue May Be Up To Lines When Amarillo And Lubbock Tie Up In Important Scrap Monday Afternoon

Lubbock High schools' high-geared backfield gallopers and the hard-running bludgeoners of Amarillo should have engaged in a terrific struggle before the shadows thicken about Matador Field next Monday afternoon.

Neither secondary unit has been successfully stifled this season.

The Sandstorm backfield's greatest strength is in the consistency and powerhouse roll of its offensive. The foursome is composed of workmanlike men of relatively equal calibre.

John Harlow, reformed tackle, a 174-pound fullback, is possibly the most earnest line-pounder in the district. Harlow weakens an opposing line with his lethal rushes and he is not at loss in a broken field.

Waggoner Clears Way

Glenn Bufkin, Coach Cherry's 165-pound ball-carrying wingback, is almost as good a ground-gainer as Harlow. Bufkin is the fastest-of-the quartet and usually carries on deceptive plays when the ball is shuttled about behind the brawny wall that is the Sandstorm line.

Bufkin's mate is R. C. Waggoner, 152-pounds of blocking halfback. Waggoner has not carried the ball in his life but it is he with resounding body contacts, who careens wound-be tacklers out of the path of the bearers.

Last and least, as far as weight is concerned, is little Johnny Stidger, versatile little 148-pound quarterback. It was grinning little Johnny, a raw and untried recruit, who was rushed into the Amarillo-Lubbock game last year to kick the point after touchdown that gave Amarillo a 7 to 6 victory over the Westerners and saved the Sandstorms' much publicized record of no defeats and no stalemates on a plot of prairie at the edge of the town which is designated Butler Field.

Sandie Backs Heavier

Harlow's heft tips the weight average of the Amarillo backs slightly over those of Lubbock. The Sandies specialize in straight-way smashes at the line, while the Westerners are more adept at the "button-button-whose-got-the-button" sort of attack.

The two backfields stack up about even in the matter of passing, but the Sandies are stronger in the pass defense department. Lean Fullback Harlow passes them into the arms of such receivers as Amarillo's all-district wingman Peterson and Stidger for respectable advances this season.

Lubbock's Morris White is faster than anything Amarillo can produce. "Squarehead" Barnes and hard-working "Horse Car" Calhoun are as vicious a pair of blockers as there is in the schoolboy league. Field General Robert Allen Hill is a quarterback of intelligence and can capably take his turn at the ball carrying.

That will be the backfield situation when the two outfits lineup next week. Maybe the lines will determine the tide of battle.

New York Banker Nominated President USGA For 1935

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (AP)—Prescott S. Bush, New York banker and a former secretary and vice-president, today was nominated for the presidency of the United States golf association for 1935. Election at the annual meeting in January heretofore always has followed nomination.

He succeeds Herbert Jaques, of Boston, who held the office for two years.

Nominated with Bush on the official slate are Vice-Presidents, John G. Jackson and Archie M. Reid, both of New York; secretary, Frank M. Hardt, Philadelphia, treasurer, Harold W. Priece, Boston; counsel, Morton G. Bogue, New York.

Bush was secretary of the U. S. G. A. 1928-1932 and a vice-president 1933-34. He also has been chairman of the championship committee the last two years.

All the other officers, except Hardt, were officers last year and with the exception of Reid, were renominated for their present posts. Reid was secretary 1933-34.

WOMAN INJURED

After working out with Texas Tech early in the season, Elton Murphy, above, moved to Abilene and showed up in the Hardin-Simmons squad. He's regular tackle for the Cowboys, who play here this afternoon. He's all yours, Matadors.

Auto Racing Will Be Armistice Day Attraction Here

Professional automobile racing is scheduled to make another bow in Lubbock Sunday afternoon, starting at 2:30 o'clock, over the newly constructed five-eighths-mile track south of the city.

Promoted by Louis Shell and Jack McCreary, the opening race featuring well known drivers of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma, and one free-for-all stock car race.

To Crash Wall

An added feature of Sunday's program will be a wall crash. Pop Mayfield, Oklahoma City driver, will attempt to send his speeding motor through a double wall in an act similar to Otto Flynn's daring motorcycle wall crash.

Other drivers who will participate in the Armistice day attraction are Poses Reeves of Oklahoma City, Sam Wolfe and John Croft of Monahan, Dick Thompson and Orville Hoops of Plainview and Buster Charleston of Midland.

The stock car event is open to all car owners who can pass the qualifying test. The race probably will be limited to ten automobiles.

The new track has been constructed at the motorcycle polo field a few miles out and east of the Tahoka highway.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

BIG SPRING, Nov. 8. (AP)—Victor Pierce alias Victor Wilkerson, wanted in Atlanta, Ga., for murder and robbery in connection with the slaying of Stanley Dodge in Atlanta Feb. 27, 1934, was arrested here today by Sheriff Jess Slaughter. Officers here had been working on the case through information the department of justice supplies.

Cowboys Work Up New Plays To Try Today

Hardin-Simmons Team Drills Behind Locked Gates Before Heading For Lubbock; Squad To Be At Full Strength

(Special To The Avalanche)

ABILENE, Nov. 8.—Fortified with three days of secret drills, topped off with a long skull practice Wednesday night, the Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys left here today for Lubbock where they are to engage the Texas Tech Matadors Friday afternoon. Coach Leslie Cranfill boarded the bus with 25 men, who expect to ride into the Plains city late Thursday afternoon.

Cranfill reported all his men with the exception of Tindall Jones, reserve tackle, in the best of condition for the game. The injuries of big Bill Harris, left end, have healed and he will be ready to take his place in the lineup.

Really Complicated

The Ranchers spent their last day's drill working on plays the details of which remain unknown even to the faithful, because it was a secret session that was really secret. One rumor had it that the Cowboy coach was hatching some plays that were so complicated that even the players couldn't understand them.

As a matter of fact, the chief reason for closing the gates this week was to keep out stragglers and enable the men to concentrate better on their workouts, get in the right mental attitude, and go about their drills undisturbed. And indications are that the Cowboys are all set to give the favored Matadors a lively afternoon's entertainment.

Band, Cowgirls Coming

The ball club will be followed Friday morning by a large delegation of students. Among these will be the famous Cowboy band of 50 members and the colorful Cowgirls.

Men who made the trip: Winters, Neely, Harris, Terry, and Scroggins, ends; Green, Rhome, Beason and Murphy, tackles; Calloway, Routh, Sasser and Garber, guards; Hall, Jarnagin and Miller, centers; Addington, Buccamy, Davidson, Tyler, White, Rigsby, Milby, Emery and Jeter, backs.

Coach Is Injured; May Not Be Able To Play Monday When Sandies Pay A Visit

Although he missed an important workout yesterday and may not be able to stand on his feet and do much running around today, Morris White, halfback on the Lubbock High school team, probably will be ready to start against Amarillo's Sandies Monday afternoon.

White has been ailing from an attack of blisters, two on each foot, which threatened Wednesday night to prove serious. The attending physician ordered him to stay off his feet as much as possible. He was treated again last night and improvement was noted.

In yesterday's drill at Fair Park, Backfield Coach Berl Huffman was the principal casualty, although several gridders sustained scratches and bruises. Taking part in scrimmage, Huffman suffered a shoulder injury. He may not be ready to go Monday.

This Is Strange; Mustangs May Use Passes In Ag Tilt

DALLAS, Nov. 8. (AP)—It may be that those air-minded Mustangs of Southern Methodist university may try to pass their way to victory over the Texas Aggies in the Methodists' homecoming game here Saturday.

Coach Ray Morrison took one set of backs and ends and drilled them on some new puzzlers today while the rest of the squad alternated in the lineup which fought the offensive overhead thrusts of a freshmen eleven drilled in the Cadets' short punt and double wingback formations. Coach Dutch McIntosh, who scouted the Aggies when they fought Arkansas to a 7-7 tie last Saturday, called signals for the offensive yearlings.

One of the busiest men on the defensive team was Whitney Baccus, halfback, who played so well against Texas for the mustangs. The prospects of Harry Shuford, quarterback and star line-rammer, playing against the Aggies appeared better as he worked out.

The "Lido eye operation" is becoming popular in Tokio, where one surgeon is prospering because Japanese women want their eyes to open wider and give them a "soulful look."

Mulberries are a menace to the dried-fruit industry because they harbor eggs of the raisin moth.

Three Class B Scraps Booked For Afternoon

Ralls Meets Crosbyton In Important Game; Tahoka Plays At Brownfield, Levelland At Littlefield Today

Three important Class B football games are scheduled in District 3 of the Texas Interscholastic league today, and another, probably the most important of all, is booked for Monday.

In a feature tilt today, the Ralls Jackrabbits entertain the Crosbyton Chiefs. Should Ralls win, the Jackrabbits will be favored to cop the championship of the northern half of the district. The game is scheduled for the Ralls field at 3:30 o'clock. Old rivalry will be renewed; the teams have played 13 games, Ralls winning 10 of them, losing one and tying the others.

Although they are out of the running in the southern division, Tahoka's Bulldogs and Brownfield's Cubs tie up today in a conference game at Brownfield. The Tahokans, consistent losers this season, are due to find the going tough.

Levelland's Loboes, until a week ago favorites to win the district championship, only to have the possibilities yanked away from them in a district executive committee meeting, will tangle with Littlefield's wildcats on the latters' field this afternoon. A Littlefield victory would give Coach L. T. Barksdale's men a chance at the title, since they tied Ralls in a former game. But Levelland is a favorite to win. Victory will not aid Levelland, however, since the team was forced to forfeit three of its four conference games when it was discovered that an ineligible man was playing for the Loboes.

Spotlight On Slaton

Eyes of the southern part of the district will be turned on Slaton Monday when Paul Wright's Tigers, undefeated in conference games, meet the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes, coached by Ted McCollum. The game is to determine the southern half winner, and the victor will be picked to win over the northern division champion in the district title game Thanksgiving.

Fight Promoter Is Held For Mexican Authorities

Man Declares He Was Bilked; Counterfeit Tickets Claimed To Have Flooded Arena

BROWNSVILLE, Nov. 8. (AP) — William T. Holifield, fight promoter, was detained here today at the requests of Mexican authorities for allegedly "running out" with part of the receipts of the Arizmendo-Armstrong figha last Sunday night in Mexico, D. F. He also is wanted by United States postal officials.

Postal officials requested Brownsville police to hold him in connection with an indictment returned in Fort Worth last summer charging misuse of the mails. This charge, police here were informed, grew out of mining company operations in Nevada. Holifield said he thought the postal case had been "cleared up" following a hearing in Washington last summer.

Holifield was taken into custody Monday night upon his arrival from Mexico, D. F., by airplane. In explaining the situation, Holifield claimed the fight arena was "flooded with counterfeit tickets."

He said the "gate," amounting to 26,000 pesos, was insufficient to pay all the fighters and expenses after 9,400 pesos had gone to the Mexican government for taxes. He said his receipts should have been about 40,000 pesos, as there were 19,000 occupied seats.

"Outside of the fact that we were bilked by counterfeit tickets," Holifield said, "there was nothing wrong at Mexico City. However, I did not have enough money to pay Arizmendi and Armstrong all they were entitled to, and was returning to the United States to raise the balance."

He said he came out of Mexico with 8,000 pesos which he was using for current expenses.

While police held Holifield here under $1,500 bond, which he supplied in cash, Chief of Police John T. Armstrong said no specific charge had been presented against him by Mexican authorities.

Committee On Temperance Of Methodists Given Approval

FORT WORTH, Nov. 8. (AP)—Election of a standing committee on temperance and social service was voted by the Central Texas conference, Methodist Episcopal church, south, at the opening session of the sixty annual session here last night.

The cabinet of presiding elders recommended the appointment of the committee through which the Central Texas conference can express itself on the question of temperance and social service.

Daily sessions will be continued until the announcement of appoints by Bishop Boaz next Sunday night.

Oil Companies Seeking Lands

Brisk Bidding Is Featured In Race For Mineral Leases On Large Tracts Of Land Over Gulf Coast Area

AUSTIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—Oil companies bid briskly today for mineral leases on large acreage tracts of state land in the Gulf coast counties.

J. H. Walker, state land commissioner, received 22 bids offering substantial bonuses for tracts in Brazoria, Matagorda, Victoria, Calhoun, Chambers and Jefferson counties. Bids were asked on tracts in 10 counties, aggregating 44,300 acres.

Awards Withheld

Award of leases will be withheld pending a study of the bids by Commissioner Walker.

Bidding was brisk for leases for six tracts of 960 acres each in the Gulf of Mexico of Jefferson county. Twenty two tracts were offered at minimum of $10 an acre.

Rowan and Hope, San Antonio, offered $3,006 cash, one seventh royalty and an additional $106,560 out of one fourth of six sevenths production on each of tracts 5, 6 and 7. The Humble Oil and Refining company, Houston, offered a straight one sixth royalty on each tract and $51,000 cash on tract 5, $76,000 on tract six, $101,000 on tracts seven and eight, $76,000 on tract nine and $51,000 on tract 10. Adam Richetti Started Back To Missouri To Face Charge

LISBON, O., Nov. 8 (AP) — Adam Richetti, gunman pal of Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, was turned over to Missouri officers this afternoon and started back to Columbia, Mo., to stand trial on two murder charges.

The Missouri officers were given custody of the prisoner after a brief hearing before Judge W. F. Lones. Richetti had been taken to Lisbon from Cleveland serretly this morning, and arrangements for the hearing were kept secret to avoid a crowd in the courtroom.

Prosecutor George Lafferty, of Columbiana county, presented to the court requisition papers honored by Governor George White.

Repeal This Evil Law

UNLESS Congress has the wisdom to repeal the provision, when it assembles next January, the income tax payments of all persons making federal income tax returns next March 15 must be opened to public inspection. This is mandatory under an amendment to the revenue act passed last spring.

In purchase of this amendment every person making a return will be required to file with the internal revenue collector a separate form on pink paper, giving the amount of his gross income, deductions, net income and the amount of tax paid. The pink slip will be bound and made available by the collector for inspection by the public or, in other words, by any person who for any reason, good or bad, is interested in knowing how his neighbor manages to keep the wolf from the door.

It is our opinion that this spreading before the public of every man's most private concerns is not good public policy, because the evils certain to flow from it will far outweigh any benefits even remotely possible in the way of improved administration of the tax law.

The arguments in favor of the amendment were, first, that publicity of returns would promote honesty in the making of returns and, second, that it would serve to reveal possible loopholes in the law, which Congress then could plug up.

As to the first of these, we not only doubt that publicity actually would promote honesty to any important extent, but believe, on the contrary, that it would furnish motives for even greater deception on the part of the dishonest, at the same time creating an assumption of honesty that might lead to lax enforcement. The income of the small taxpayer in general comes from salary or wages, on which the Treasury already has a check in the sworn payroll statements required of all employers. For the detection of deception in the larger returns the Treasury now has ample means, which it should not be encouraged to neglect.

Against the claimed but, as it seems to us, dubious advantages of publicity must be weighed its only too evident disadvantages. These may be summarized in the statement that opening income data to the general public means opening them also to the criminal, to the mere busybody and to the promoters of all manner of fraudulent, near-fraudulent and get-rich-quick schemes. And this is not just a surmise but is based on the actual experience that followed the enactment of a publicity provision in the Revenue act of 1924.

Collectors then were besieged by persons eager to consult the returns. A thriving business was done by those who used them to compile "sucker lists," which they sold to a host of questionable enterprises.

Repeal of the publicity provision in the 1934 act should be the first business of the next Congress when it assembles in January.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

BRIG. GEN. FRANK T. HINES, U. S. Veterans' administrator, is a cautious man where issues with political considerations are involved. You can safely bet he was speaking by the book when he hinted that elimination of all interest charges on bonus loans might be a good compromise on the American Legion's immediate bonus payment "recommendation."

Although he was careful to say President Roosevelt had expressed no opinion, the General's comments on interest cancellation were made in the White House lobby a few seconds after he had left FDR's office.

At the time the bonus issue first got hot again, and well before the Legion met at Miami, this column pointed out that the administration probably would propose that interest on bonus loans be forgiven in an effort to stave off cash payment. Those veterans who "borrowed" fifty per cent of their service certificates' face value would not find much of the remaining fifty per cent left in 1945 if the interest on their "loans" continues to run.

Frank Belgrano, Jr., new National Commander of the Legion, was quick to take issue with Hines. He said the Miami convention's mandate to recommend immediate payment of the bonus would be carried out.

What Belgrano did not say was how hard the recommendation would be pressed. The Legion's executive committee meets in Indianapolis late this month to decide that point. Of course the overwhelming majority by which the boys asked for cash on the barrel head must influence the committee considerably.

Commander Belgrano personally is in a rather unique position. As new chief of the Legion he must perform lip service at least for bonus payment. As an official of the Bank of Italy it might be suspected his private views would lean against asking the government to lay out an extra two billion dollars at this time.

Senator Key Pittman's announcement that he intended to introduce a bonus bill was a final tip-off to the White House on how tough the fight is going to be.

Pittman's plan of issuing bonds to make the payments, retiring the bonds with profits derived from coining silver, figures further to win support from the "white money" inflationists.

Last time, Pittman voted against the bonus. When such an administration stalwart goes over to the other side—even though impelled by the heat of a political campaign — FDR can see storm signals plainly. Which accounts for the "feeler" put out by General Hines.

COLOSSUS: Donald Richberg professes to be neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet but Washington observers are wondering whether he hasn't considerable vision regardless.

When Richberg was made overlord of NRA in the recent reorganization he told friends he was betting the guillotine would catch up with him just as it did with General Johnson.

But now the President truly has put the amiable Don on the spot. If he carries through as executive director of the National Emergency council under that job's vastly increased powers and comes out with a whole skin, he will be hailed as a miracle man indeed.

Under FDR's latest executive order the whole cabinet becomes part of the Emergency council. As the council's guiding head it becomes Richberg's duty to mull over all cabinet reports and recommendations, summarize them and indicate the proper conclusions from the evidence therein.

Oldtimers who have seen many government officials come and go say it is only a question of time before Richberg runs afoul of some pet project of a cabinet officer with possibly disastrous results.

Not having the same interests in it as the cabinet officer he will view it with detachment and lack of bias and calmly put the kibosh on it. Then will come the fireworks, predict the sideliners.

When a cabinet member takes a sore toe to the White House and says either he or the man who stepped on the toe must go it puts the President in a tough spot. Chief executives have a horror of losing members of their official family. Witness the reluctance of FDR to accept the resignation of Treasury Secretary Woodin. Witness Ray Moley's removal from the State Department when Secretary Hull made it a showdown.

Mr. Roosevelt has given ample evidence of his confidence in the ability and judgment of Richberg. He has promoted the former labor lawyer step by step until he bestrides the cabinet like a Colossus.

But most cabinet officers don't like to be bestridden. There is tough going ahead for Richberg.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

INSIDERS remark that the Treasury is sure hungry for cash these days. The Internal Revenue boys are turning the heat on everyone who might possibly owe the government a dime with a ferocity they have never shown before.

In the past, if you had an argument with Uncle Sam about the legitimacy of some tax item, a revenue field agent would call to talk things over. He would listen politely to your version of the contested item. Then he would tell you what he was going to recommend and invite you—if he didn't see things your way — to present your rebuttal to the same authority at the same time. It was all very amiable and easy going.

But it doesn't work that way any more. Nowadays field agents are ferreting out every possible tax claim and demanding at least a partial settlement regardless of the merits of the case. If you balk you are threatened with an immediate assessment — which these agents now have authority to levy on their own responsibility.

An assessment is no fun. You either pay it within sixty days or you're liable to a stiff fine and a jail sentence with no back talk allowed as to whether the tax was legally levied. The best you can possibly do is pay up and sue for recovery later—and Uncle Sam can make that process both painful and costly.

These strong-arm tactics are getting results. Corporations and wealthy individuals have kicked in literally millions of dollars in the past few months on disputed items—many of which have been argued for years. Somehow New York doesn't care for the new system. You even hear it referred to as blackmail. But the smartest lawyers in Wall Street haven't been able to dope any way to escape the pressure.

GRAVY: Well-posted insiders have suddenly developed an intense interest in real estate. Dozens of plans are afoot to "help out" the government by financing mortgages, promoting construction or forming pools to acquire potentially valuable property.

Promoters of these plans are trying to keep them dark. They all aim to get into action before the competition gets too keen. One of the most ambitious schemes calls for the formation of a real estate trust company which would lend money on a tremendous scale on mortgages only. It would start with a large capital investment and finance itself further by the public sale of debentures which would be secured by the mortgaged property in general. There's precedent for the idea. The Credit Lyonnais has worked it successfully in France for years.

Three factors contribute to all this enthusiasm. First is the conviction in informed circles that real estate has at last touched bottom—which makes any property now earning its way look good for investment purposes. There are a surprising number of these even in New York. Second is the prospect of inflation—which would enhance the value of poorer properties. Third is the firm belief that the government's hot fire under housing will cook a lot of rich gravy for those who are smart enough to scoop it up.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

by Mabel McElliott

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS RAEBURN is the prettiest girl in Larchneck, fashionable New York suburb, but her father's financial reverses make it hard for her to keep up with her crowd. Wealthy SYLVIA RIVERS schemes to force Boots to resign from the Juniors. Deeply hurt, Boots accepts the attentions of RUSS LUND, the swimming instructor.

She realizes she is in love with Russ when he tells here he is going away. He wants her to elope with him but Boots asks for time to think it over. She dreads the time when her mother will hear about her withdrawal from the club.

Unhappy and restless, Boots goes for a morning walk and meets DENIS FENWAY, young author. They have a long talk and Denis is moved by the girl's obvious unhappiness.

Boots goes to New York on a shopping trip and on the train meets Russ. Again he asks her to marry him and Boots concludes it is the best way out of her troubles. Denis sees her in a hotel lobby with Russ.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

The girl facing Russ was blond, honey blond, and her brows were sketched in lightly with a black pencil. They formed half moons, inverted, over light-blue eyes rimmed with mascara. She had on a pink house dress, not too clean, two or three buttons missing. Her white shoes were well worn and the laces knotted carelessly where they had been broken. The room in which she sat was the kitchen of a flat in a group of flats, an unbroken stretch of sameness in a dreary block. Stove, sink, refrigerator were present in all their modern compactness, but in spite of the shallow molding of imitation tile, in spite of the gingham curtains at the windows, the room had a sleazy, down at the heels air.

"What's she like," the girl asked.

"She's cute." Russ said cautiously. He fumbled in his pocket for a cigaret and, finding one, lit it. "She's class," he further added. "They have—the old man has a big house up in Larcheck."

"Rich, huh?" the blond girl asked interestedly, tracing a pattern with her forefinger in the crumbs scattered on the enamel table top.

He shrugged. "Maybe. Anyhow, they've got something."

"Well, I'll give you a piece of my mind," the blond girl said dispassionately, rising and languidly turning on the hot water faucet. "I think you're plain nuts. Marrying her!"

"Aw, can that!" The scowl gathered, darkened, on his face. "Wait till somebody asks you for advice."

"It's none o' my business, of course," pursued the girl, quite as if he had not spoken. "It's your funeral . . . I'll wash those after a while, Lou," she said in an aside to a thin, big-eyed young man who now sauntered in. She stacked the dishes, three or four greasy plates, several cups and saucers chipped and cracked in various places. Further than that, by way of tidying up, she opened the oven door, thrust a stew pan with gravy and remnants of something that looked like stew clinging to its aluminum interior within. She ran a gray dishcloth casually over the surface of the corrugated drainboard and, reaching up, switched out the light.

"Those'll keep," she said impersonally to the two men. They followed her into the adjoining room where the conversation presently resumed.

"Can you come with us tomorrow? That's what I want to know," Russ demanded, stretching his length out in a deep overstuffed chair with sagging springs.

His brother's wife shrugged snapely shoulders. "Oh, guess maybe," she told him vaguely. "I was going to take a run over to Brooklyn to see the folks but that can wait. But what are you going to do with her,—where are you going to go afterward? Back to the old folks?"

Russ grinned. "Might not be a bad idea, at that."

Lou, taking no part in the discussion, switched on the light in a curious looking lamp which had obviously been picked up in one of those gaudy booths which offer prizes for shooting down a certain number of woden moving ducks on a trolley. The base of it was fashioned of imitation copper and represented a geisha girl, curiously attired in a pair of scanties and a beaded brassiere. The shade was deeply violently pink. Under this extraordinary lamp Lou unfolded the evening paper and began absorbedly to read.

The room, high-lighted by the geisha girl's bulb and by various side fixtures on the distempered walls, was revealed as a living apartment some nine or ten feet square. Two mean rectangles of windows looked out on the street, guiltless of trees. The only articles of furniture in the room were a day bed, covered with a scalloped and tasseled cover of dark green corduroy, the two chairs the men occupied, and a gateleg table with two imitation candlesticks upon it. There were no books. There were several pictures in cheap gilt frames of toothy film stars in various incendiary attitudes. Lou's wife, who had been christened Sophie and who now answered to the name of Gloria, was always promising herself "to pu up some drapes" but somehow she "just never got around to it." Small wonder that the room presented, therefore, an uncompromisingly bare appearance.

Russ found no fault with it, however. Tilted back in his chair, his large boots very much in evidence,

Letters To The Editor

Negro Health Week Is Explained By Avalanche Reader

Editor, The Avalanche: As chairman of the Negro Health Week committee, I am taking this method of reminding our people that the health activities are still in force and continues throughout the year. At any time I can be of benefit in the way of health talks I will be glad to serve.

In the 1934 National Negro Health Week observance, Snyder, Texas was among the succesful participants to receive a certificate of merit by the United States Public Health Service according to announcement by Mrs. S. L. F. Wilson, former teacher.

Negro Health Week is observed during the first week in April of each year and was sponsored in Snyder by the Volunteer Health League. The Mayor of the city P. T. A., church, school and entire community cooperated in making possible the carrying out of the successful program last April.

Health week activities included: Health talks in school and church, health songs, posters, general house and yard beautification, and trash hauled away. The fly was given much attention, the bath, toothbrush, clean hands, nails, face and clothing were featured. We concluded with a health play.

The National Negro Health Week was inaugurated in 1915 by the late Booker T. Washington and is now observed in many sections of the United States.

In 1933 Littlefield colored section received a certificate of merit. And why not the colored section of Lubbock?

Thank you.

Chairman Negro Health Week Committee.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE, No. 47

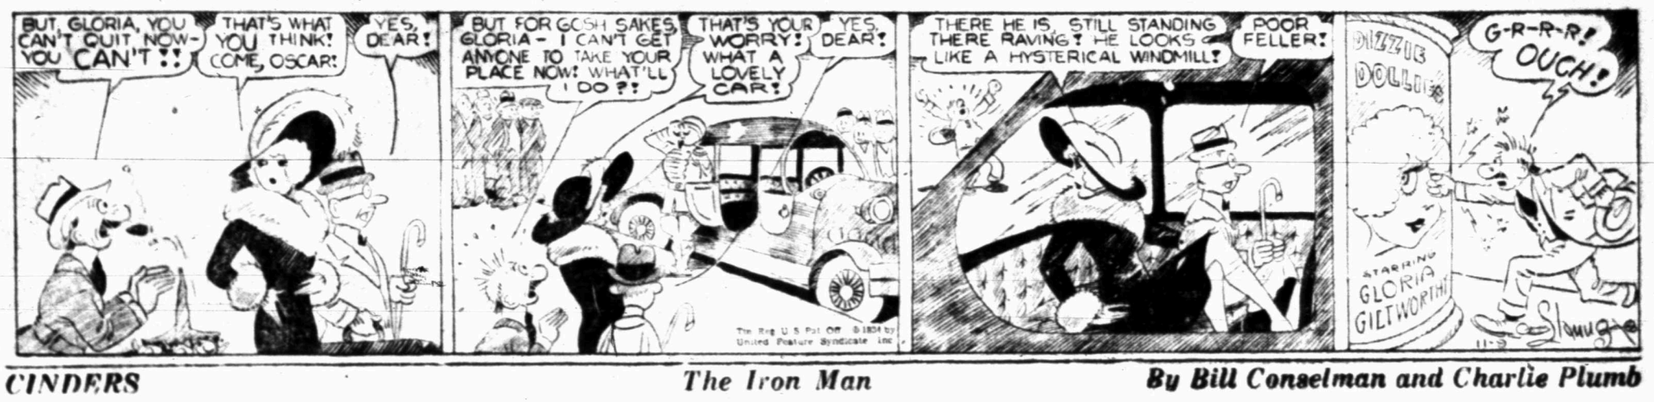

The last day of the games had come. For the last time the inmates of the cell were taken to the enclosures near the entrance to the arena. Maximus Praeclarus alone was left behind. "Goodbye," he said. "Those of you who survive the day will be free. May the gods give strength and skill to your arms."

From within the enclosure, where they were confined, Tarzan and his companions could hear the sounds of combat and the shouts of the audience, but they could not see the arena. Sometimes two men, sometimes four, sometimes six would go out together. But only one, two, or three ever returned.

The afternoon grew late. Metellus had fought with a gladiator, both in full armor. Hasta and Tarzan had heard the excited cries of the populace. There was an instant of silence and then shrieks of "Habet! Habet!" "It is over," whispered Cassius Hasta. "Caecilius Metallus was my best friend."

Cassius paced nervously to and fro while Tarsa stood with folded arms watching the door. After a while it opened and Metellus crossed the threshold. Cassius uttered a cry of relief and rushed forward to embrace him. Just then the door swung open and an official entered. "Come, all of you," he said. "It is the last event."

Ritchie Loses For Governor

Vote Count Is Completed On Thursday And Harry W. Nice Has Plurality Of 5,569 In Race For Chair

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8. (AP)—Albert C. Ritchie has been defeated in his attempt to gain a fifth consecutive term as governor of Maryland.

The state's new executive will be Harry W. Nice, Baltimore attorney, whose election Tuesday on the Republican ticket was not definitely determined until the vote was completed today.

Defeated In 1919

Nice is the man whom Ritchie defeated in 1919 when he was elected for the first time. In that election, the official vote gave Ritchie a plurality of 165 votes. Virtually complete results in Tuesday's balloting give Nice a plurality of 5,569 out of approximately half million votes.

Returns received yesterday had Ritchie in the lead and afternoon newspapers announced the Democratic governor had been re-elected to a fifth term. Then the lead dwindled rapidly and on the report of 15 precincts from Frederick county, Nice jumped into the lead.

He Gains Steadily

From that point forward Nice gained steadily, but it was this morning before the majority of Democratic leaders confessed defeat—as far as Ritchie was concerned.

The Democratic candidates for other state offices, for United States senator and for five of the state's six seats in congress were elected by pluralities running as high as 100,000. In the sixth district, however, former Representative Frederick Zihlman had a lead of several hundred votes over Representative David H. Lewis, Democrat, with sufficient precincts to change the trend still to be heard from.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. — Post-election demand for stocks slackened today and the market sold off a trifle after a four-day advance.

Although many brokers and security analysts expressed their belief in inflationary tendencies, traders were in no rush to expand their holdings of shares and commodities.

The upturn in the preceding session tempted profit-taking. As stocks eased after the opening, trading quieted and the turnover dwindled to 843,310 shares compared with a 1,111,090 yesterday.

Commodities retreated with stocks, causing traders to mix a liberal amount of skepticism with the inflationary sentiment engendered by prophecies the Democratic election sweep meant more heavy government spending. Wheat dropped back 1 1-3 to 1 3-4 cents a bushel. Losses in rye ranged up to 2 3-4 cents. Cotton dipped 30 to 40 cents a bale, the market paying little attention to the latest crop report.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. (AP)—The government report placing the indicated crop at 9,634,000 bales had no appreciable effect on the cotton market today and the price movement was irregular. March contracts after selling off from 12.34 to 12.27 during the morning, rallied to 12.35 but eased again later, closing at 12.28. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 6 to 8 points.

Following a steady opening, prices yielded slightly under southern and foreign selling in the later deliveries and showed net losses of about 5 to 8 points before business was suspended to receive the government report. When trading was resumed, active months sold off another few points under liquidation.

The market met increased trade buying or covering at this point however and there were rallies which carried prices up to 1.24 for Decembe and 12.36 for May or back to about yesterday's closing quotations. The volume tapered off on the bulge and prices sagged in the late trading under a little southern selling or scattering liquidation, closing within a point or two of the lowest for the day on most positions.

Reports from Washington indicated that officials of the agricultural adjustment administration were considering the acreage curtailment program for next year, but that no final decision had been reached on the reduction to be asked for. There was much discussion of the probabilities in this direction but figures mentioned were evidently considered indefinite and traders appeared to be awaiting an official statement which is expected some time this month. Exports today 31,712 making 1,530,216 so far this season. Port receipts 24,885. U. S. port stock 3,151,715.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 8. (AP)—Total cattle at eleven markets approximated 33,000 as against 38,038 last Thursday and 31,007 a year go today. There were no material price changes in slaughter steers and yearlings at the various markets, althougn in the late trade at Chicago strictly choice light steers and extremely heavy steers were reported as much as 25 lower. Contest Over Old Control Seen

Old Line Democrats Declare They Will Repudiate Upton Sinclair; He Claims That He'll Do That Too

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8 (AP)—The die was cast today for a contest between Upton Sinclair's "Epic" faction and old-line Democrats for control of the party in California.

The former socialist, defeated by the Republican Governor Frank F. Merriam in his bid for the governorship as Democratic nominee, nevertheless gained a foothold in other state offices.

Olson Is Elected

Culbert Olson, Sinclair's chief campaign lieutenant, was elected to the state senate. "Epic" backers captured at least 17 seats in the assembly and one of the four places on the state board of equalization.

The call to battle for control of the party was issued by Olson in his capacity as Democratic state central committee chairman.

"Only those who remained loyal to the Democratic party during the recent campaign will remain in the party and recognized as Democrats," he said after a Los Angeles meeting at which Sinclair acted as chairman.

Repudiation Promised

William B. Neblett, law partner of United States Senator William G. McAdoo, replied that the "Democrats will repudiate Epic." Sinclair countered "the Democrats will repudiate Neblett."

William Jennings Bryan, jr., whose father was once the national leader of the party, said: "Upton Sinclair, who is not now and never was a Democrat, must no longer be regarded a leader in the Democratic party. His invasion has been repudiated."

Senator McAdoo remained aloof. He said he "voted the Democratic ticket all the way through."

The only doubtful California seat in the California congressional delegation was in the twelfth district, where John N. Hoeppel, Democrat, was leading his Republican opponent, Frederick Houser, 43,645 to 42,028 in returns from 365 of 430 precincts. If Hoeppel wins it will be a gain of two in the state's representation for the party. Twelve of the 20 house seats were won by Democrats.

Returns from 10,251 of 10,721 precincts gave for the governorship: Merriam 1,071,318, Sinclair 833,212.

Moscow's Brides Being Made Happy

MOSCOW, Nov. 8. (AP)—Weddings in Soviet Russia are beginning to take on the romantic trimmings of the bourgeois west.

In the October Quarter of Moscow a special room has been provided in the registration bureau where couples may sign the marriage contract. It is furnished with orinetal rugs, elaborate hangings, overstuffed furniture and flowers.

The young woman registrar is smartly gowned and wishes the couples happiness with all the grace of French and Italian municipal marriage officials.

Formerly weddings, deaths and births were all recorded in one room. But brides protested vehemently against being married in the same room where weeping widows were recording the deaths of their husbands. Many letters appeared in the Moscow papers appealing for the separation of marriage bureaus from the barren offices in which other vital statistics were kept.

The October Quarter was the first to work a reform, but letter-writers are keeping up their barrage in the hope of effecting a change throughout the Soviet Union.

Only Five Refiners Have Not Signed An Agreement

TYLER, Nov. 8. (AP)—Only five refiners today had not signed the purchasing agreement with major companies and Jules Constantin, president of the Independent Refiners of East Texas, expressed the opinion they would be signed today.

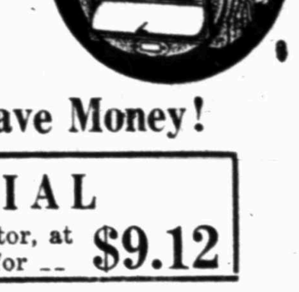

The plan would stabilize the gasoline market.

Contracts are similar to those used in October when the majors refused to carry out its provisions because an insufficient number of refiners signed. Recently the independents again asked that majors agree to the plan if a full one hundred per cent of the refineries signed.

Carload Rates Are Advocated

Examiner Says Present Relation Of Rates From Texas And Other States Prejudicial To Texas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8. (AP)—Establishment of carload rates on cotton from Texas to southern mill points substantially the same as those from Oklahoma, distance considered, was recommended to the interstate commerce commission by Examiner G. H. Mattingly in a report made public today.

Mattingly said the present relation of rates from Texas and other southwestern states to southern mill cities was prejudicial to Texas.

Practice Unjustified

He held that the practice of some carriers in making a 3 cent charge for stopping a shipment in transit was unjustified, as was a requirement that a minimum of 15 bales be covered by one bill of lading.

Examiner Claude A. Rice, submitting some of his conclusions in a separate report, recommended that the commission eliminate provisions restricting consolidation to transit points.

Mattingly said rules permitting one shipper to obtain a rate advantage over another by substitution of freight bill in connection with transit, was in violation of the interstate commerce act, but recommended that determination of how to correct the situation should be "deferred" for further consideration.

Differentials Set

Rice, in his separate report, recommended these differentials in cents per 100 pounds, as flat cotton and compressed cotton, on shipments from southwestern points to the gulf ports:

Minimum rates of 25,000 pounds on flat and 75,000 pounds on compressed cotton: one hundred miles, 1 cent; 125 miles, 2 cents; 150 miles, 3 cents; 175 miles, 4 cents; 200 miles, 5 cents; 225 miles, 6 cents; 250 miles, 7 cents; 275 miles, 8 cents; 300 miles, 9 cents; 325 miles, 10 cents; 350 miles, 11 cents; 400 miles and over, 12 cents.

Between rates subject to minimum weights of 25,000 pounds and 50,000 pounds; 150 miles, 1 cent; 200 miles, 2 cents; 250 miles 3 cents; 300 miles, 4 cents; 350 miles, 5 cents; 450 miles, and over, 6 cents.

Rice recommended the commission should find intrastate carload rates on cotton shipped from Texas points to ports in that state prejudicial "to the extent that they are or may be lower than those found" in his reports as reasonable for interstate transportation.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

he looked around him complacently and reflected that this flat of Lou's was a nice little dump and a bargain at $35. Of course, it was all right for Lou to settle down this way. He drove a truck for a bakery company, delivering from door to door and made, Russ admitted naively, "good money." Gloria wasn't a bad sort, although she had a nagging tongue and was always wanting to know what he did with his salary. He, Russ, had different plans for his own life. He'd travel some more, see the world first, then settle down in Larchneck with a real gentleman's job. The kid would see to it he knew the right people. After that everything would be easy.

He emitted a yawn that was almost like a splitting scream in its depth and vigor and Lou looked up incuriously, frowning over his headlines.

"You wanta hit the hay?"

Russ flexed his muscles, standing. They rippled under his blue shirt sleeves and Gloria gave him a glance of grudging admiration. The big bum, she said to herself with good-humored contempt. I guess

Meantime Denis Fenway, riding home on the 10:30 train, shaking from his feet the dust of the city's hot pavements, was conscious of a deep sense of irritation and disappointment. Naturally, he told himself for the hundredth time, it was none of his business what Boots Fœburn did with herself. Why, he scarcely knew her; had only spoken to her, all told, for five or ten minutes. Yet there had been something so virginal, so untouched about her that it had been a shock to see her emerge from that obviously second-rate hotel on the arm of a big bruiser . . .

"I've seen that chap before," Denis told himself, annoyed at his inability to remember when or where. As the train clicked over the ties, eastward bound, the air grew cooler, became salty. Denis' fist crashed into his open palm.

"The life guard," he said aloud. An elderly lady in the seat ahead peered over her rimless glasses at him. The young man must have been drinking, she reflected. Yet he looked perfectly all right . . . nice-looking, too. Quite handsome. A pity . . . a pity!

Yes, he remembered now. Ah. But probably Boots had met the fellow by accident. There wasn't any real significance in their being together. For an instant a chill feeling of guilt swept Denis' conscience. Why hadn't he acknowledged the fact that he had seen her, at least by a bow? Why had he looked away, so quickly and coldly, pretending he did not recognize her? He admitted he had been a bit caddish in his reactions.

Oh, well, tomorrow he would call her up and let her know about this opening at the publishing house. It might lead to something. Or perhaps he would drop her a line, sit down at Lois' little guest room desk when he got home. He liked the idea of writing that girl a note. Something simple and friendly. He might even suggest their meeting in town for tea whenever she went in to see Masterson.

He got off the train at Larchneck in a fine glow and swung up the street away from the station, smiling to himself. Yes, he would do that. He would write her at once ... stroll out to the post box with ... he'd have it first thing in ... morning.

Suicide Case Again Probed

All Records Of The District Attorney's Office In Death Of Jean Harlow's Husband Are Subpoenaed

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8. (AP)—The county grand jury, today subpoenaed all records of the district attorney's office in the suicide two years ago of Paul Bern, film director husband of Jean Harlow, blonde screen siren.

The grand jury subpoenaed, among other documents, the suicide note which Bern was supposed to have written Miss Harlow shortly before he shot himself as he stood before a mirror in the bathroom of the home he built in Beverly Hills for his bride.

In this note Bern said his act was the "only way to make good the frightful wrong I have done you, and to wipe out my abject humiliation."

A postscript said: "You understand last night was only a comedy."

Records of statements taken at the time of the suicide by investigators of the district attorney from relatives and friends also were subpoenaed.

What these statements were never has been disclosed, but at the conclusion of the investigation, Fitts announced he was satisfied Bern had killed himself.

Pair Indicted

The grand jury last week indicted District Attorney Buron Fitts and his sister, Mrs. Berthal Gregory, who acted as his secretary, on perjury charges.

Although Fitts would not comment on the jury's lastest action, it was suggested at his office that the summoning of the documents "probably is to go into expenditures of the district attorney" in the investigation of the film director's suicide. It was indicated, however, that the jury might wish to go into circumstances of Bern's death.
