Germany Will Aid Fatherland Will Represent Both Nations While Japs Prepare To Intervene If Actual Trouble Begins

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 18.—An amicable settlement of the Sino-Soviet situation which grew out of China's seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway and resulted in the severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries, was expected tonight by diplomatic circles of the capital. The action of the Soviet in severing relations was received with mild surprise here, and while this was regarded as the most grave phase of the recent developments, serious overt acts or a declaration of war were considered improbable both from a military and political viewpoint.

Border Clashes Feared

Outstanding dangers in the present status of the situation, observers tonight said, were the possibility of frontier clashes or the entry of border troops of one nation into the territory of the other. The latter now would be considered an act of war, but such a move would not be expected by observers here to result in grave conflicts.

Organization Of Farmers Advised By Federal Body

Hoover Relief Group Sends Word Out That Its Work Will Be Done Along With Co-Operative Agencies

Legge Issues Call

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Federal Farm Board sent word to American agriculture today to organize.

In a statement, Chairman Legge and Vice-Chairman Stone called attention that the board was directed under the recent farm relief act to do its relief work through cooperative marketing agencies.

The board concluded after several days' study of law that its work was confined almost entirely to contact with the cooperative marketing associations. Therefore the members decided individual appeals would be passed over.

Chris L. Christensen, secretary of the board and a leader in the cooperative marketing movement, estimated that one-third of the 6,000,000 farmers of America are now organized.

No Plans Yet How the board will attempt to encourage efforts to mobilize the farmers into marketing groups was indefinite. Chairman Legge said he hoped the public appeal would help the cause. Pending a reaction to this appeal, no decision has been reached by the board on the extent of the national organization to be required.

Texas Air Crash May Prove Fatal

Queer Mishap Befalls Pair Of Brooks Field Men In Practice Landing; Pilot Bruised, Teacher Hurt

(By Associated Press) SAN ANTONIO, July 18.—The extent of injuries to Lieut. W. E. Baker, 28, Big Stone Gap, Va., a Brooks Field flying instructor, were not definitely determined tonight at the Fort Sam Houston base hospital where he was taken after being in the wreck of an army plane today.

The plane in which Lieut. Baker was riding with a Brooks Field student, Lieut. E. O. O'Donnell, was thrown over its back when making a practice forced landing a mile south of Terrell Wells. Lieut. O'Donnell was bruised and shocked but was released from the hospital late this afternoon.

Condition Is Serious. Lieut. Baker was believed to be suffering from several broken ribs, injuries to the chest, a broken wrist and cuts and bruises about the face. His condition was considered serious.

The plane was wrecked. The motor was torn loose and the upper wings crushed. The fuselage did not collapse, however, a fact to which the two occupants of the plane possibly owe their lives. In the opinion of Brooks Field officers, they said the wheels of the plane probably caught in the high grass of the field to cause the accident.

Unidentified Shepherd, Enraged, Attacked Boss With Knife, Is Version Given By Strickel

STRICKEL, who resides at 1624 Tenth Street, Lubbock, and who has ranch holdings in Cochran county, last night told the Morning Avalanche that he himself shot a Mexican ranch hand following an altercation on a sheep ranch 20 miles south of Lehman about 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The Mexican, identity of whom has not been fixed, was about 35 years of age, Mr. Strickel estimated.

The ranchman's statement to the newspaper was made after the altercation had ended after the affair through local officers who had been informed of the matter but who had not been advised to act for officials of Cochran county, where the shooting took place.

Claims Self Defense. "Yes, I killed him," Mr. Strickel stated. "I shot him once with a 30-30 rifle. I had to do it to save my own life. The Mexican was coming at me with a long, keen-bladed knife and I told him to stop. I stepped backward as he advanced and when he was about an arm's length from me I pulled the trigger."

"Shortly after I left and went to Morton to report the matter to the sheriff there but he was out of town so I came on to Lubbock. I have been trying to get in touch with him all day."

OLD FORT BOUGHT Man Buys Historic Place For Mere $1,500

FORT MCKAVETT, Texas, July 18. (AP)—The principal part of the old Fort McKavett, pioneer outpost which sold for more than $200,000 in 1885, has been bought by W. B. Arnold, for $1,500. His purchase includes the hotel, the old mess hall and the old barracks. The hotel, famous for its having been the lodging place of Robert E. Lee for several months while stationed here is of stone with large rooms and immense locks, the same used when the fort was an army post. The mess hall is occupied now by several families, while the old barracks has been wrecked for its lumber. The post office has been in the hotel building but it, too, will be removed.

Mr. Arnold, who is a trader and commission man, will operate the hotel which has been occupied recently by drillers and tool dressers seeking oil almost in the shadow of the old fort.

LUBBOCK HOUSE-WIFE TESTIFIES

I've Suffered Fifteen Years And Since Taking One Bottle Of Orgatone I Feel Fine

"I've had a long hard struggle with ill health but by the help of Orgatone I have found relief at last," said Mrs. J. C. Harper, of 806 Ave. K, Lubbock, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone representative recently.

"I've had stomach trouble so bad for fifteen years that my life was miserable, she continued, "but I'm a lot better since I began taking Orgatone. I was in such a rundown condition I couldn't eat anything I wanted and was losing in weight and got weaker every day. After eating even the smallest meals I would bloat up and my heart would beat so fast I was afraid something serious would result. I would have severe headaches and was weak and nervous and sometimes thought I would be compelled to stay in bed. I took all kinds of medicine but kept getting worse until I was discouraged and almost lost hope of finding anything that would help me.

"I read so much about Orgatone that I decided to try it. It may be hard to believe, but it's the truth, I feel better than I have in fifteen years, and I've just taken one bottle of Orgatone. I am no longer bothered with my awful headaches, my appetite is splendid and I can eat anything I want without it hurting me in the least. My heart doesn't bother me as it did and I feel better in every way, my nerves are quiet now and I sleep fine every night. I give Orgatone credit for straightening me up and I am glad to give this statement and to recommend it to my friends."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Sunco Drug Store who are direct manufacturers. Adv.

Ex-Kaiser Won't Dare Risk Return Although Legal Bars Are Removed

Whether he wants to or not, former Kaiser Wilhelm, upper left, probably will have to spend the rest of his days on his palatial Doorn, Holland, estate, shown below. For Minister of the Interior Severing, right center, has announced he will again try to exclude Wilhelm from Germany after July 22.

By MILTON BRONNER, NEA Service Writer LONDON, July 18.—The former Kaiser Wilhelm is getting ready to do a sneak into Germany after July 22. That's what monarchists as well as republican Germans would like to know and what they are puzzling about. For after that date the law for the safeguarding of the German republic ceases to be active and there is no legal obstacle to prevent the former monarch from leaving his home in Doorn, Holland, and going into the country over which he ruled for so long.

The republicans, of course, do not want him back, even if he promises to live quietly and undertake no political agitation. Strange as it may seem, the monarchists do not want him back, because, inside Germany, most of them would look upon him as a liability rather than an asset.

How Muddled Came About The whole muddled situation is due to an extraordinary occurrence in the lower house of the German Reichstag the other day. Seven years ago a long series of political assassinations of members of Germany's republican government was attributed to secret organizations of monarchists. Aroused at last, the Reichstag passed a law for the safeguarding of the republic. It provided special penalties for conspiracy against the state or its organs and endowed the administration with special powers. In addition, it contained a paragraph specially making it unlawful for the ex-kaiser to seek to come into Germany. As some of the provisions were contrary to the Weimar Constitution, to pass the bill required a two-thirds majority. This was obtained and the same vote was secured some years later.

But this year, to everybody's surprise, it failed, although the vote was 288 for it to 186 against. The vote, which overthrew the measure from becoming law, was cast by the Economic party, moved not by conviction but by a desire for revenge. The German coalition government has in consideration a bill on housing. The Economic party, made up of great landlords, is against this. Some of its leaders told the government they would vote for the safeguarding law if the government would drop the housing act. This the government refused to do. So the Economic party voted down the safeguarding act.

Anti-Republicans Warned Minister of the Interior Severing at once announced that he would bring in a new bill when the Reichstag meets in August. In the mean while, he warned the enemies of the republic that the government was not impotent to protect its existence and authority and could, if necessary, apply Article 4 of the Constitution, giving the President dictatorial powers.

And about the same time, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, Herr Grawert, threw down an open deft to the monarchists. He ridiculed the danger of a monarchist dictatorship and said that if any dictator became necessary, it would be one supported by the trades unions and the great republican organization, the Reichsbanner. He quickly added that such a dictatorship would be only a last resort, since to have to proclaim it would be an avowal of Germany's lack of political maturity. Then he gave royalists this on which to chew.

"This time the working masses will hang those who essay to violate their political rights," said The Berliner Tageblatt, the organ of the democratic party, many of whose members are solid business men and people of the steady middle class, said:

"Although the bill has been defeated, the former kaiser will not ride in on a white horse through the Brandenburg Tor up to his old-time palace.

"Ghosts should remain in their kingdom of shadows. They do not work in a seemly manner in the bright sunlight. But as one cannot rely on the good taste of the gentleman who afflicted us with the Sieges-Alice, there will be no means to prevent him from undertaking an unsuitable week-end in Germany."

It is always unsafe to make predictions as to what Germany will do but diplomatic and business informants have told me they are confident the ex-kaiser will not try to bolt into Germany after July 22, because

FIRST—The close advisers of the ex-kaiser are not sure that his person would be safe inside Germany and furthermore most vital, if he were booted out, it is not certain that Holland would once more give him asylum. In that case his situation would be most precarious, because it would be difficult for him to find a country which would allow him to enter.

SECOND—While the Nationalist party of Germany is always proclaiming that the republic is ruining Germany, this same party is by no means unanimous in desiring a return of the former monarch to the throne. Only a small fraction wants that. A much larger fraction remembers that he not only ran away, but that both he and the ex-Crown Prince formally abdicated all rights to the throne.

Favor Crown Prince's Son For that reason, they favor the eldest son of the Crown Prince, who never advocated any rights that he might have. Also the southern royalists are not in agreement with the Prussian royalists. Bavaria, which makes no secret of its royalist leanings, is all for the House of Wittelsbach which ruled over it for many centuries and which is Catholic.

Furthermore, the great steel and coal kings, who finance the Nationalist party, don't want a monarch at all. They would like a Fascist government with some Mussolini of their own at the top.

THIRD—The bulk of the big and the little business men want to disturb of any kind. They realize that any attempt to overthrow the republic would bring on a civil war, ruin business and give the French government the very excuse they say it wants to continue to keep its troops in the Rhineland.

CLIMB HILLS with a COOL ENGINE all Summer long

EXTRA power for the hills—and anti-knock to keep the engine cool! That's what you get with Conoco Ethyl Gasoline.

Conoco Ethyl is the one fuel for high-compression motors. But it's more than that. It puts new life into old motors, too. It converts the carbon-coated veterans into fiery colts—just "rarin" to go.

Fill your tank with Conoco Ethyl—then pick out the steepest hill you can find and hold tight while Conoco Ethyl releases a flood of power. Up you go—and you reach the summit behind a cool, quiet engine. That's real motoring—and that's the extra satisfaction you get from using Conoco Ethyl Gasoline.

Of course, Conoco Ethyl costs a trifle more than ordinary gasoline, but it saves many times its extra cost by reducing wear and tear and by delivering all the power your motor was designed to develop.

Try Conoco Ethyl on your week-end trip. Then you'll understand.

Glorifying the Summer Girl

An Evening Gown of Blue-Gray Organdie Over a Silver Cloth Slip Is Distinguished for Its Simple Bodice and Scalloped Skirt Incrusted With Silver Lace and Stitched With Silk Thread

LET us be gorgeously and gaily impractical for today, and consider the summer costume in its most beguiling and seductive version.

To be sure, one must sometimes be serious and hard-working, even in those months when the weather is the least in harmony with such a program, and there must be practical clothes—but forget them for the moment.

Let us consider a world of organdies and laces, or diaphanous chiffons and transparent velvets. Let us forget all staid and practical colors. Let us vision lovely yellows, shading deeply into warm orange, or straying into the territory of the greens and coming out chartreuse and those delicate yellow-greens that suggest tropical birds.

Let us remember the delicate pink of the wild rose, and the true blue of the forget-me-not. Think of the tender blue-grays of twilight and the bluish-tint of the dawn.

Then combining our colors and our fabrics, let us proceed to think of the summer girl and her glorification. The successful summer frock of this season must seem to float and flow. It must have motion and a continuity of line. In its most popular version it is long at the sides and the back and short in front, and during dancing or walking, the longer portions float languorously in the breeze.

THIS year's skirt is never a straight line, except for sport or daytime wear. In the evening it is irregular, scalloped, draped, and made interesting by many methods.

Gowns of lace and chiffon, both for afternoon and evening, usually have their own wraps, either a cape that falls negligently from the shoulders and is gathered into a close line at the hips, or a coatee, or maybe it is just a circle or square of the material that takes form when it comes in contact with the frock for which it is intended.

Organdie, that perennially youthful fabric, is smarter than ever this season, and makes some of the most romantic of gowns. It may be self-trimmed, embellished with lace or embroidery, or it may be garlanded with very natural-looking artificial flowers. It quite often has an old-fashioned looking sash, tied in a guileless bow, and naturally calls for the wide-brimmed picture hat.

I. THIS lovely organdie evening dress is blue-gray in color and is worn over a slip of silver cloth. A wide streamer is tied in a bow on the back of the bodice and falls almost to the floor. The very full skirt is skilfully incrustated with insertions of silver lace and stitched with rows of silver thread on the scallops.

II. DELIGHTFUL fragility is suggested by this evening ensemble of black chiffon and white lace. The gown is cut low both back and front, has the narrowest of shoulder straps and is molded smoothly about the waistline. The skirt, full and scalloped, is edged with white lace, and the cape which completes the ensemble charmingly repeats the wide scallops of lace found in the gown's hemline.

III. THIS ultra-smart interpretation of the modish beach pajamas has a coat and very full trousers figured in green, yellow and black with just a dash of red in it. The little accompanying coat is of unfigured green material that exactly matches the green in the print.

IV. MORE striking in its way is this suit of beach pajamas in Chinese red with a complementary blouse in a bright orange hue. There is something contradictorally feminine in the bows at the waist and neckline, but they are charming touches to this comfortable outfit. The trousers are regular Boston bags and can be quickly removed when the wearer gets bored with lolling on the beach and wants to cool off in the rollers. The beach pajama suit is becoming almost a national costume at American watering places, and the most popular version seems to be the ensemble that has the trousers and blouse in one piece and the coat, either long or short, a separate feature.

V. A SUMMER ensemble entirely of lace combines a frock and a cape of flesh pink thread lace. The gown is cut low both back and front and has a slightly raised waistline. The skirt has deep points at the sides and back. The cape may be worn open or held tightly about the figure below the hips to give the new outline known as the mermaid silhouette.

VI. EQUALLY suitable for either afternoon or evening is this delightful summery frock of white organdie. It is bound in blue organdie and its surface is delicately decorated with hand-painted flowers. About the waist is a sash of folded blue and chartreuse ribbon. At the neckline revers fold back to form a V. The hat is of white straw and has blue ribbon streamers.

Picture Hanging Is Recognized Art

By HILDA HUNT

Everyone will agree that there is an art in hanging pictures. It is also a recognized fact that the majority of homes pictures are badly hung or, perhaps more correctly speaking, badly placed. To begin with, we do not buy pictures to suit the room, as a rule, but because they appeal to us. The matter of fitting them is often left for future consideration or for none at all. Consequently they are not decorative units like a certain table, sofa or chair, purchased with a view to fill a given space in a given room and harmonious with its color scheme.

We can however be safe if we confine ourselves to buying health good pictures—reproductions of the work of the masters, past and present—provided, of course, the reproductions are worthy ones.

First of all shun the hackneyed. There are certain pictures that have been used to death. They are so often repeated in "everybody's" home that they only irritate those with any individuality of their own.

Avoid the "calendar art" types and the harrowing sentimental, such as "The Doctor" or the just plain sentimental as the "Soulful Doggie," whose place is in the nursery. Avoid cluttering the walls, and omit everything that is not really desirable. Where one picture is sufficient for the wall space available, do not use more.

Pictures may be successfully hung on a slightly figured wall paper, but where the paper is more or less well covered with the design as in a cretonne or scenic effect, no pictures should be hung in period rooms. Where the rooms are not strongly period in character, there is much more latitude, but pictures must be hung with a discern-mate eye. There should be no monotony in choice, but subjects that are alien in character should be avoided. The Madonna does not go very well with a fox hunt.

Suitable Frames Frames also should not be incongruous. Oil or wooden frames are a pretty safe proposition, but they should not be hung together. Usually the less the frame the better.

Heavy, overdecorated frames detract not only from the picture, but from the repose of the room. The decorative value of the picture in the frame should be considered.

The picture with its frame is a decorative unit. It should neither be so prominent that it jumps at you the minute you enter the room, nor so unobtrusive that it will sink into oblivion. In the framing of pictures one must visualize the picture with its frame in the actual position it is to occupy.

The sketch shows an excellent example of a picture of decorative character in a period room, properly hung and excellently framed. The picture is well balanced in the center of a wall panel on a line with the eye, and above a lounge XV sofa. It is balanced by a picture of similar size and frame, and of an allied subject, on the opposite side of the room over a desk. These are the only two pictures in the room, and add to its dignified elegant and uncluttered appearance.

Business School Has Picnic Here

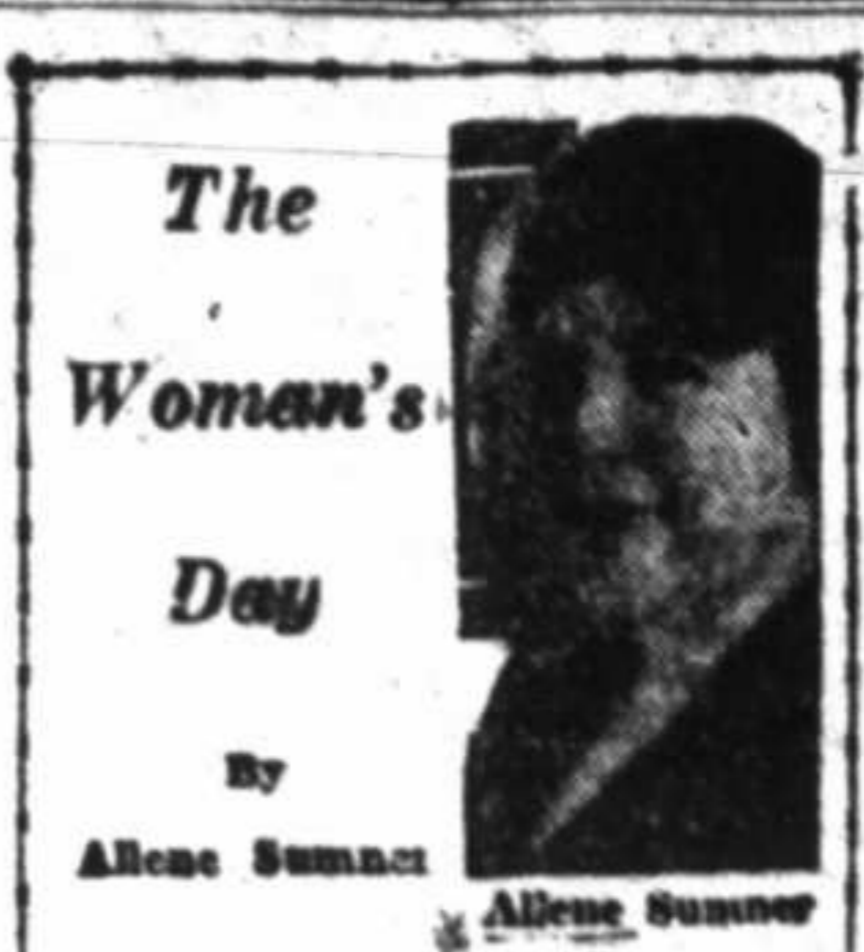

Chicken Dinner Feature Of Outing; Swimming Party Enjoyed By Pupils, Plus Guests Of College

Promoting a more friendly relationship between the student body and seeking to create a keener interest through recreation combined with work, Draughton's Business college of Lubbock, last night entertained its students and several guests with a swimming party and picnic at Tumble N.

Approximately 50 students, about half of the enrollment, were present for the affair and made the trip to the pool in a big truck furnished them.

Following a plunge a chicken dinner was served them and during this stage a picnic was set aside and presented to President H. G. Payne, to be eaten today.

The group was accompanied by W. J. Jacobs and Miss Addie Fisher, instructors of the college, and two special guests, Miss Lucile Bruce of Littlefield, and Miss Bernice Mason.

The Woman's Day By Alice Sumner

If you are a housewife, and if you saw "a little piece in the paper" the other night entitled "Housewife Puts In Long Hours," you probably gave vent to your pent-up and outraged emotions in one of several ways. You may have snorted or swore or tuttered or declaimed.

For if there's one thing that women—"housewives"—have known and have struggled to put across for years and aeons and centuries, it's this fact.

The fact is described in the same "little piece in the paper" as "an interesting revelation."

It seems that the "interesting revelation" was the result of an investigation run by Miss Hildegrade Kneeland of the U. S. Agriculture Department's Bureau of Home Economics.

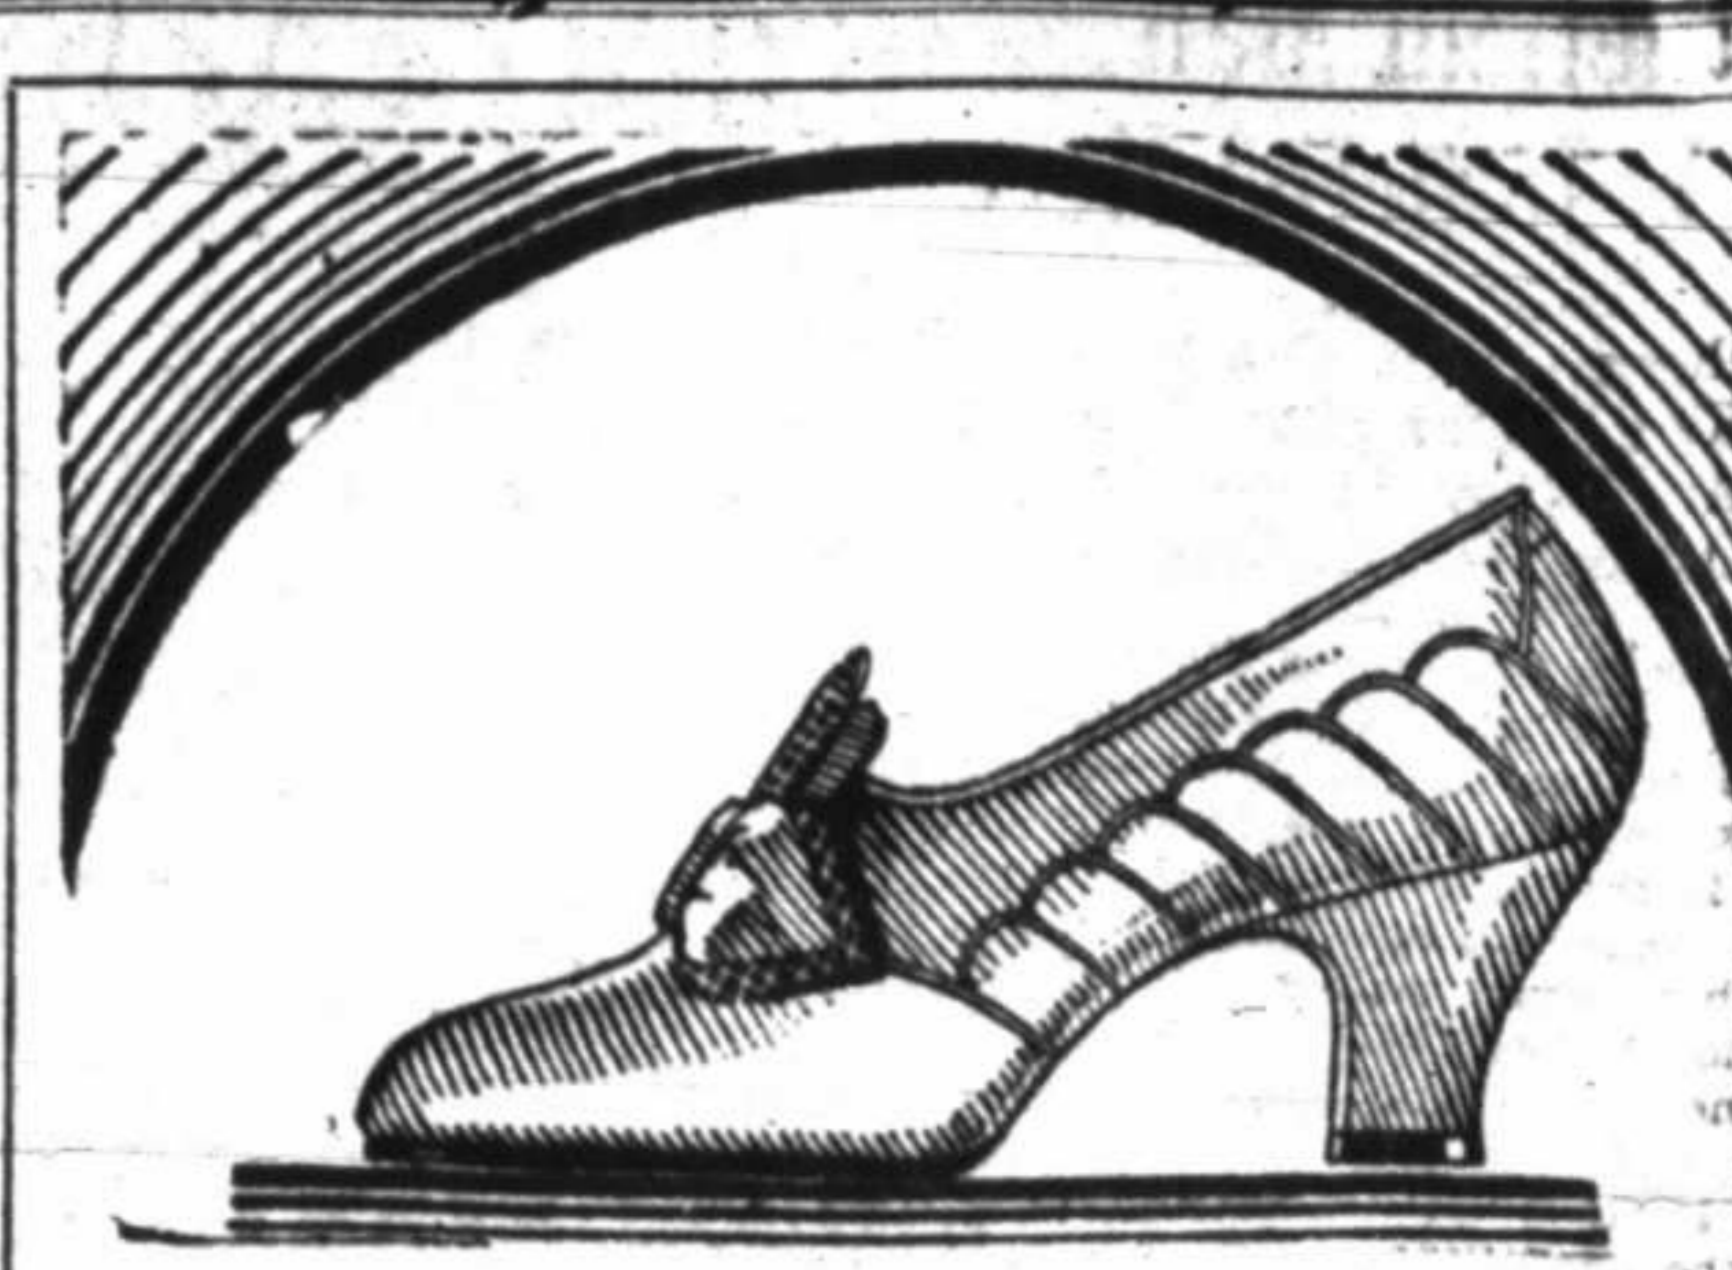

The bureau survey the work of more than 2,000 housewives. They performed on city housewives, farm housewives and small town housewives.

HOUSERS THEY WORK The report says that more than a thousand of the women worked more than 48 hours a week. Six hundred worked more than 56 hours a week and 1,500 worked more than 42 hours. The average for the 2,000 was 51 hours, or more than a seven-hour day. The farm woman's average ran up to 62 hours; the small town woman's working day ran about 51 hours and the best record, that of 48 hours, belonged to city housewives.

Now the amazing part of this investigation to me is that housewives put in such short hours. I supposed that the world was finally to be informed in indisputable statistical form that these long hours ran up to something like a 12-hour day at least.

Just why the government should get all hot and bothered about the housewife's seven-hour day is beyond me. After all, her husband is probably working at least one or two hours longer than that, and her wage-earning daughter who probably comes home at night to help poor mother get the dinner on the table and then wash the dinner dishes, is working a longer day, too.

Rune stones dug up at Lund, Sweden, puzzled archeologists until it was found they were a hoax.

TOUR IS PLANNED

LAMESA, July 18.—Although very little wheat has been raised in Lynn county this year, prospects were never brighter for a big cotton crop this fall. Cotton, though a little late, is growing rapidly as a result of the warm weather which has followed the rain of two weeks ago. Many farmers report their fields full of blooms, and several have been displaying in town large bolls. Spotted sections are in need of rain, but as a whole nothing is suffering seriously. The wheat, turn-out was light, although the acreage was very small. The largest fruit crop ever raised in the county is now being gathered, and practically every farm family is busy with a steam pressure canner.

How to Achieve Beauty

In determining what colors you should wear each season, it is important to know what colors are predominant in your skin, hair, and eyes.

At first thought this may seem a somewhat silly statement, since every woman believes she knows what her natural coloring is. Unfortunately, however, (or perhaps fortunately, since variety is the spice of life), this matter is not so simple as it seems.

Probably you think of yourself as blonde, brunette, or medium, since these are the usual classifications, and so you decide that you can wear certain colors which are generally considered becoming to the blonde, the brunette or the medium type.

Actually, while there are definite types that may be described thus, there are a great many more women who have light hair and eyes and dark skins, or dark hair and eyes with fair skins. And these types defy the classification of blonde, brunette or medium, as these classifications are based upon hair coloring, which is only one way of designating type. It is of the utmost importance in choosing your colors—

In filing petition for divorce in the district court here Thursday a Lubbock man states that his wife has deserted him and that during their stay together she made life so miserable for him that it was almost unbearable.

He charges that she inevitably picked a quarrel with him, accused him of paying attentions to other women and that she ruined a perfectly happy home. About a year prior to the time of his filing for divorce he alleges she left him and went to another city, saying she would never live with him again, gave him to understand that she no longer cared for him and that he need not expect her to return.

The man says that a rightful division of all the property was made between them and he asks the court to dissolve all marriage relations and confirm the terms of the settlement.

Cotton Promises Lynn Prosperity

(Special To The Avantage)

LAMESA, July 18.—Although very little wheat has been raised in Lynn county this year, prospects were never brighter for a big cotton crop this fall. Cotton, though a little late, is growing rapidly as a result of the warm weather which has followed the rain of two weeks ago. Many farmers report their fields full of blooms, and several have been displaying in town large bolls. Spotted sections are in need of rain, but as a whole nothing is suffering seriously. The wheat, turn-out was light, although the acreage was very small. The largest fruit crop ever raised in the county is now being gathered, and practically every farm family is busy with a steam pressure canner.

Tiny Keith, a 326-pound life guard at an Indianapolis bathing pool, claims to have rescued 1,133 persons from drowning.

Loughran Beats Braddock Decisively In 15 Rounds

Light Heavyweight Champion Holds Complete Command Through Fight With Jersey Jimmy, Kid Challenger

Tommy Gives Masterful Exhibition In Bout At Yankee Stadium To Retain Crown: Battle Resembles Teacher Giving Lesson To Pupil

By ALAN J. GOULD.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, July 18. (AP)—Tommy Loughran dominated the light-heavyweight division tonight by administering a New Jersey challenger, Jimmy Braddock, in 15 rounds that for the most part were dull and one-sided.

Few masters of ringcraft have ever manifested so clear and undisputed superiority as did Loughran in the skillful manner he cuffed, punched and punished.

Decision Is Formality

In the opinion of a majority of ringers, Loughran won 12 or 13 rounds. The unanimous decision of the two judges and referee, Eddie Forbes, at the close of the bout was a mere formality.

On just two occasions in the first and seventh rounds was the world's 175-pound champion apparently in any danger. Almost the first punch of the fight, a short inside left by Braddock, opened a severe cut over Loughran's left eye. This not only started a stream of blood that half blinded the titleholder but so flustered him that Braddock was able to land telling punches to the head and body.

Safely past this bothersome episode, Loughran had Braddock in distress in the seventh round. In the previous rounds, the facial damage was evened when Tommy opened a gash at the side of Jimmy's eye. As they emerged from a 17-up near the end of the seventh, Loughran's face quickly became a mass of blood from a fresh cut almost in the center of his forehead, apparently it was caused from a grazing left. It was claimed in Loughran's corner that the challenger had butted the champion to open the cut.

Instead, Loughran, hastily repaired, came out in the eighth to turn the match into a rout and cuff Braddock all over the ring for the rest of the fight.

Round One

Loughran led with his left jab and handled the challenger easily in a clinch. The champion came out of the mixup with a nasty gash over his left eye. Blood streamed from the cut. It seemed to spur the champion into action and the fight began at a fast clip. Braddock smashed a hard right to Tommy's head but missed two swings. Loughran kept jabbing with his left but was unable to keep the challenger from coming in close with a body attack. They were in a clinch at the bell.

Round Two

They swapped punches in the center of the ring and clinched. The champion fought carefully, showing a healthy respect for Braddock's right. Tommy slipped and only a clinch saved him from slipping to the floor as he dodged Jimmy's charge. The challenger was forcing the fight but missing as often as he landed.

Round Three

Loughran boxed and jabbed as he sought to stop Braddock's doggedly persistent rushes. The challenger started a fresh flow of blood from the cut over Tommy's eye and gave the champion both fists in a lively mixup. Loughran's defensive tactics slowed up the fight. Loughran backed up against the ropes. Loughran chose to fight and smashed Braddock solidly about the head. One of the champion's jabs opened a cut on Braddock's nose just before the end of the round.

Round Four

Round Five

Braddock drove a right hook to the ribs and repeated with an uppercut that landed under Tommy's heart. They spent a lot of time clinching at the champion's side. Loughran clearly outgeneraled the young Jersey man. Loughran smashed a series of rights to the jaw and took a light left to the body as he sidestepped Braddock's counter attack. Tommy's left seemed to puzzle the challenger but he connected with the champion's jaw with a hard overhand right. Loughran hooked his left to the body as the round ended.

Round Six

Braddock came out of his corner with head lowered to open a determined charge. He forced the champion to ring bell and found difficulty connecting. Loughran sidestepped and jabbed to upset the challenger's rushes. Repeatedly he threw Jimmy off balance and punished the challenger about the head at close range. Braddock was left floundering but kept up the pursuit. One of Loughran's sharp lefts opened a cut at the side of Braddock's right eye. The champion had his young rival in a bad way at the bell.

Round Seven

They came out for action and each with patched up eyes. The champion took a severe hard left to Braddock's head and blocked the challenger's counter. Loughran had Braddock backing away from his two fist drive. Just when Loughran appeared to have Jimmy in distress another severe cut was opened by a glancing blow to the champion's forehead. In a twinkling, Tommy's face was a mass of blood. Loughran backed away and appeared half blinded by the stream but he had a smile as he came to his corner at the end of the round.

Round Eight

Loughran came out to set a fast pace. He first was fighting with a succession of sharp clouts to the challenger's head and the crowd was in an uproar. The champion had Braddock missing badly. They clinched after exchanging lefts to the body. Tommy took a left smack to the head but cuffed Jimmy around the ring. The champion handled his young rival as a master would his pupil. Braddock was taking a scientific boxing lesson at the bell.

Round Nine

Loughran lost no time poking his efficient left hand into the challenger's face. Jimmy did not seem discouraged but apparently realized that his main chance was to connect with his right, providing he could find the target. Loughran out-matched the challenger at every turn but Jimmy kept boring in. One of Braddock's blows started the blood flowing again slightly from the champion's cut head. The challenger absorbed two stiff lefts to the head and had his counter blows plucked out of the air. Braddock missed an overhand right by a foot and the crowd groaned as the round ended.

Gives Braddock Boxing Lesson

Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion of the world, gave a masterful exhibition at the Yankee Stadium last night in defending his title from Jimmy Braddock, young Jersey challenger in 15 rounds. After a somewhat shaky start, during which he sustained bad cuts around the eyes and forehead, Loughran came back to give Braddock a boxing lesson in a bout that was one-sided throughout the last eight rounds.

Houston Buffaloes Take Third Game In Row From Cats By Pounding First Hurler From Box; Sullivan Is Victim

tion written all over his face. The challenger worked both fists to the chest, forcing the champion to a clinch. Loughran brought his defensive tactics into play to check Braddock's lunges. He brought Jimmy up short once and then again with right uppercuts. Loughran picked off most of Braddock's blows and put the challenger repeatedly off balance by clever use of his left. They were sparring at the bell.

Round Eleven

Braddock plunged right in where he left off, still hunting for Loughran's chin; instead, his own was clipped by a right uppercut. Loughran chose to fight and smashed Braddock solidly about the head. One of the champion's jabs opened a cut on Braddock's nose just before the end of the round.

Round Twelve

Braddock stalked the champion about the ring without getting much satisfaction. The champion, realizing the big margin he had piled up on points, took no chances and stayed strictly on the defensive. The crowd clapped for action and got clitches. Tommy danced in and out of his rival's reach, meanwhile massaging the challenger with his left. The champion fired both hands to the Jersey boy's head and ducked a vicious left just as the bell sounded.

Round Thirteen

Braddock bored back into a flurry of blows. The crowd yelled as the champion speared Jimmy with his left and skipped out of the challenger's reach. Tommy was content to spar and clinch but Tom took one to the face. The champion waded in for a moment with both hands, punishing Braddock about the body.

Round Fourteen

Braddock plunged in with a body attack and drove the champion to the ropes. Tommy gestured to Braddock to step in and fight. The challenger let both fists fly and clipped the title holder on the jaw. Both appeared to be exchanging remarks that were anything but complimentary. Tommy in derision and Jimmy in some desperation. Meanwhile Braddock connected with an overhand right to the head but took punishment at close range. Loughran smacked his right to the face and took a straight left to the jaw. The challenger missed half a dozen other swings just as the round ended.

Round Fifteen

Braddock charged in taking another series of baffling pokes from Tommy's talented left. Loughran held up the challenger easily, but was forced into a corner by Jimmy's impetuous rush. Loughran landed his right to the head and avoided another of Jimmy's wild plunges. They were tied up most of the time in clinches but Loughran took a few light blows to the head in a corner. They were sparring at the bell.

Round Sixteen

Because he ran with a strong wind at his back, Sidney Kinsler's recent mark of 25.3 seconds for the 220-yard low hurdles was not allowed. The record made by Krasinakis of Penn in 1935, is 24.4.

ANNUAL JULY CLEAN SWEEP SALE

The Time When All Spring and Summer Merchandise is Discounted 1-2 to 1-4 in A Quick Complete Clearance

ALL PRICES ARE CASH!
NO RETURNS—NO EXCHANGES—
NO APPROVALS — ITS THE TIME
— WE GIVE BROOMS AWAY

Sales here have but one object. There are no secrets or under cover motives about them. We can frankly take you into our confidence and tell you the whole story, for it is a simple matter-of-fact business proposition for both of us. Throughout the season you expect us to show you ample assortments in all lines so that you may have a variety of selection. This we are glad to do, but toward the end of each season we must clear this merchandise away if we are to be able to present new lines during the new season. The only method we know is to completely sacrifice profits in a quick boni-fide old time value giving sale. That's the whole story—that's why we have only two such events a year—why values in these events are so outstanding. Past events have proven the truth of all these statements. They have also earned for us a reputation regarding sales that we guard most jealously. Hemphill Wells Co's Sales ARE DIFFERENT— You too should enjoy some of the benefits.

Local Men To Be Sent To Highway Confab In Altus

Carlsbad Cavern Association Will Hold Session In Oklahoma Town On Monday Of Next Week

Following a meeting of the highway committee of the Lubbock chamber of commerce Thursday morning a decision was made to send a delegation to the Carlsbad Cavern highway association meeting in Altus next Monday. Plans also were made to cooperate with the Morton chamber of commerce in the promotion of a highway, and agreement reached to render support toward securing state and federal aid on the Avenue H highway.

To Return Tuesday Representatives will leave from this city to Altus Sunday, returning Tuesday.

"Since all traffic from the north and east going to Carlsbad, El Paso, and southern California would pass over the Carlsbad Cavern highway and through Lubbock our interest in the meeting at Altus should be pronounced," said R. J. Murray, chairman of the highway committee.

The Morton chamber of commerce has solicited the aid of the local organization toward promoting a highway from Lubbock, via Morton to Fortales and Elida. N. M. A committee from Lubbock will meet with the Morton group in that city July 30 to aid in the enterprise.

New Kind Of Bait Limberger Cheese Attracts Fish

TROUP, Texas, July 12. (AP)—If the "cats" aren't biting, maybe it's because your bait doesn't smell good enough.

Nightwatchman Laney, of Troup, says that if a catfisherman mixes limberger cheese with cotton, fixes it on the hook, drops it into the waters where catfish are supposed to thrive and doesn't get results quickly it's because the "cats" simply aren't.

The nightwatchman says he learned the trick from a catfisherman on the Mississippi river some years ago.

Spur Fair Dates Set; Two Men in City Talk Plans

E. M. Wilson, assistant district manager of the West Texas Utilities company, and Wilburn S. Patrick, secretary of the chamber of commerce, both of Spur, were visitors in Lubbock Thursday in interests of the Northwest Texas fair to be held in that city.

The two men conferred with officials of the Panhandle South Plains Fair association while here regarding the various important matters to be considered in the promotion of such a project. They announced the dates of the occasion to be October 10, 11 and 12.

Mr. Patrick stated that plans are being formulated at this time for bringing an agricultural exhibit to the Panhandle South Plains Fair from Dickens county.

Miss Louise McIlhenny has returned from an extended visit with relatives in San Angelo.

Old Clothes Are Needed, Is Plea Of Workers Here

Salvation Army Officers In City Say Many Needs Ask For Help; All Kinds Of Garments Requested

Old clothes—eye sores to some of us—blessings to others! The local headquarters of the Salvation Army Thursday made an appeal for all old clothes that can be used, anything in the least wearable. Shoes, suits, shirts, dresses—all of these articles are in demand. Families over the city of Lubbock are in need—some of them have almost no clothing at all, while some of them are suffering for the want of food. In every city the same problem faces the people and the Salvation Army daily sends out its corps of workers for relief.

In the last three weeks, according to reports here Thursday, 181 garments have been handed out, together with 42 pairs of shoes. The supply is now running low, others are needed and at once. Captain and Mrs. W. T. Wilson, in charge of operations in this city, state that they will be glad to send for the clothes if called at 1639. Anything that can be worn will be acceptable and appreciated.

VERDICT NOT GUILTY The case of the city of Lubbock vs. Dewey Cravens, tried Thursday in the recorder Corporation Court, resulted in a verdict handed down by the jury of not guilty.

Cravens was being tried upon a charge of assault with complaint filed by Dr. G. G. Castleberry.

The United States supplies one-fourth of the world trade in chemicals.

STREETS ARE MARKED UVALDE, July 12. (AP)—Street signs have been placed, houses are being numbered and sidewalks are being built preparatory to obtaining free mail delivery here.

A post office inspector will make an inspection within the next week to determine if the service can be granted. It is thought that the business section and some of the older residential districts will be eligible for this service.

MAY MOVE CROP

WASHINGTON, July 12. (AP)—Secretary Hyde believes there is a possibility that the Florida citrus crop this year can be moved without exposing areas in addition to those now quarantined to the risk of infestation.

Pimples do not embarrass me now... they are all gone!

WITH the last blemish gone, confidence returns. More friends—more invitations—more good times. With the joy and pride of possessing a clear skin, self-respect increases.

Everybody wants to be attractive. It is a just and natural ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils, eczema and other skin eruptions as being an indication that the body's power of resistance is low.

The sure way to remedy this condition is to restore the red-blood-cells to normal.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

"S.S.S. has brought me health and happiness"

S.S.S. helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state. Healthy blood nourishes the body and works against infection and disease.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

If you are troubled with so-called skin disorders take a few bottles of S.S.S. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the remedy, which is made from fresh vegetable drugs, and has stood the test of over 100 years.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

The Passing Show of 1929

It's a show that changes every day. Keeps abreast of the times. Always up to date—ever in step with the mode, or a little ahead—turning the spotlight for you on the things that are new, smart, stylish, convenient—desirable.

The Passing Show of current times—the advertisements in The Avalanche and Journal. Packed with interest—alive with the vitality and surging change of this modern day.

The advertisements are more than reliable buying guides. Indications of quality they are, surely—for today no manufacturer can win lasting success by buying publicity for a cheap or shoddy product. Advertising weeds out the unfit. But more than that—advertisements are the fascinating daily record of progress in industry—of advances in the world of goods and services. And of such things you need to be fully informed—for you are the one who buys them.

Buy intelligently—with open eyes. Read the advertisements every day. Compare values . . . know what's new, what's better, and why. When you start out to spend your money—be informed!

Make it a habit to follow the advertisements. Every day there's a new edition of The Passing Show!

THE TECH'S LIBRARY NEEDS

There is such a thing as being "penny wise and pound foolish."

Governor Moody is facing a stiff problem—this business of operating efficiently the State of Texas.

However, knowing the Governor as he is in matters of this kind, this newspaper would not publicly hope he will seriously consider the "penny wise and pound foolish" angle of the problem which confronts us all.

There is little doubt but what the Governor would like to build new structures for every institution in Texas—if the money were available.

There is little doubt but what the Governor would like to build new structures for every institution in Texas—if the money were available.

A WISE DECISION

In view of the recent severe criticism of propaganda in the schools, the decision of the National Educational Association to bar all "special pleadings" from the classrooms on Tech needs a library badly.

Organized propaganda, provided it is not dictated by selfish motives and the source from which it emanates is not concealed, has its legitimate uses in the modern scheme of things.

The immature minds of school children, however, lack this power of judgment.

HENRY FORD'S INTUITIVE MIND DOES NOT ALWAYS HIT THE MARK

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Henry Ford, who recently gave his blessing to private monopolies in general and to a national power trust in particular, never ought to be taken too seriously without thorough investigation.

He is taken seriously, but it is dangerous because the flattery kings hazards his guesses in general and to a national power trust in particular, never ought to be taken too seriously without thorough investigation.

Not counting vacuums, human minds split into two grand divisions—the thinking mind and the intuitive variety.

The intuitive mind operates by reason. Seeking some truth, it tests its conclusions as it goes along, proving each one or discovering wherein it is mistaken.

When he claims to have accomplished it, he undoubtedly believes he has done so—and perhaps he has in reality.

For one thing, he lacks the most rudimentary sense of humor.

Never was there a more absolute despot, temporarily—benevolently so, but any tastes, failings, habits, likings or antipathies which differ in the slightest from his own, in his judgment are silly at best—at worst, downright wicked.

When he sailed for Europe to end the World War he certainly was free from the anti-Jewish complex which subsequently afflicted him.

The SHINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURHAM inherits $10,000 from an elderly aunt the day she is graduated from college, and the girl immediately tells her how she ought to spend it.

Next day Molly meets Jack, and tells him she has decided to look for work. Molly can really write very well, she means to look for a position on a newspaper, and have a career of her own.

So Molly put on a blue crepe de chine ensemble and a little dark hat. And Rita wore a black dress, with a hat of lipstick red.

When she was with Rita, Molly seemed very young and sweet and fragile. She thought herself that she looked countrified, and attempted sophistication with plenty of rouge and lipstick.

"Wipe it off," commanded Rita. "You look like a nice child masquerading as a chorus girl. It's a good idea to look intelligent when you're trying to get a job."

"But let me say to you with great frankness that there is just one course to pursue. If it is the law it is your duty and that of every other citizen to be obedient thereto."

Rita turned to her newspaper. But Molly was too excited to read. Her own folded papers across her knees.

Molly was going to look for work in a newspaper office. She was a bit vague about the best way of offering her services. It sounded awfully conceited to say she would like to write editorials.

One thing she wouldn't do—and that was society. She didn't particularly care for women's clubs either. But probably it would be just as well to do almost anything, just to get started.

"Where are you going first?" she asked.

Rita mentioned a store well known for its sport shop.

"But I'm not sure of myself. I'm scared to death," protested Molly.

"Oh, I borrowed a hundred for the party," explained Molly, "and I've some left. I haven't any idea how long it takes to settle an estate, or how long it will be before I get my $10,000. I'll have to be careful until I hear something definite from

Legends Of Villa's Exploits Are Still Thrill To Romantic Mexico

PARRAL, Chihuahua, Mexico, July 18. (AP)—English legends of Robin Hood, and Arthurian days have their modern counterparts in Mexico's hero worship of Pancho Villa, the dashing, elusive bandit leader of a decade ago.

Although he has been in his grave less than 10 years, the very mention of Villa's name still elicits placid smiles from those who would oppose him were he alive today. To Mexicans he had the equivalent of "it."

However much they deplored Villa's cruelty, natives admit that Pancho was "muy hombre," which is to say, "very much of a man." His followers in Parral, no matter how low their estate, still are idolized. A husky grinning peon, his sombrero lathered and his sandals twisted, commands admiring glances from passersby as he shuffles down a street—because he once rode with Villa.

Here in Parral, where the roisterous revolutionist was killed, tourists visit his unmarked grave. Some go to his ranch, but the chief attraction is the corner of that sleepy, adobe-ringed main plaza where Villa was killed.

One can hear as many versions of his assassination as he has patients to seek out. A story that Villa coveted a neighbor's field, and consequently was shot by the young farmer's cohorts, has gained wide credence. A senator from this district, however, frankly admitted responsibility for the shooting, although many disbelieve his account.

Mexico is rife with legendary accounts of Villa's bravery, his cruelty and marksmanship, his cunning his love affairs and his irresponsibility—a quality which apparently has made him all the more admired. He is the hero of song as well as of story.

Many such legends have been printed in Spanish, but no complete English anthology has appeared. An El Paso newspaper man now is winnowing out material for a biography of Villa from an immense collection of pictures and data that he collected after the rebel's death.

CLUB MEET CLOSES

Encampment In Dawson One Of Best In History

LAMESA, July 18. (Special)—Boys and women clubs of Dawson closed Wednesday one of the most successful encampments ever held in the county, according to W. W. Evans, county agent, who, with Miss Genevieve Chipman, home demonstration agent, had charge of the program.

Miss Myrtle Murray, district home demonstration agent, and county agents from adjoining counties aided in the program.

Various contests were conducted and many from this county signified intentions of attending the short courses at Texas A. and M. college.

AGAINST AMENDMENTS Dawson County Voters Are Opposed To Changes

LAMESA, July 18. (Special)—Dawson county voted two to one Tuesday against proposed amendments to increase the governor's salary from $4,000 to $10,000 and to enlarge membership in the supreme court from 3 to 9.

General sentiment in the county seems to favor increase in governor's salary provided a definite amount would be set, and expressions were thus submitted in election ballots.

"Why should I be glad?"

He pressed her hand lovingly as he saw the quick tears gather. "All right, Sweetheart, I didn't mean to be hateful. If you're glad, I'm glad. I'd some news of my own, and you sort of took the wind out of my sails, that's all."

"What's your news?" She was frigidly polite.

Brokerage Loan Statement Worries Wall Street

Federal Reserve Figures Divulge Record On Loans

Stocks Move Irregularly In Financial Markets; Grains Are Set Back After Huge Advance On Wednesday

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Price trends were irregular in today's stock market. Treasury announced the Thursday morning brokerage loan statement as follows:
The loan statement published after the close of the market disclosed a new all-time record for loans placed against Federal Reserve certificates of $5,813,000,000, an increase of $2,000,000,000 during the week. A large top in Federal Reserve loans at this time was viewed with apprehension.

Call Money Eases Off
The Federal Reserve condition statements failed to clarify the clouded credit situation. Call money eased from 8 to 7 per cent. Borrowings totaled $375,000,000. A reduction of only $16,000,000.
Business news continued largely favorable.
Steel shares were firm.
Radio rallied about 3 points in what appeared to be a driving in of shorts.
Several of the utilities were again heavily bought.

Grain Set Back
In the commodity markets grains met a setback as profit taking in wheat was prompted by reports of better weather in Argentina.
Corn sold off about 2 cents. Cotton reacted for a time but closed fairly steady.
Foreign exchanges were marked by a sharp rally in the Canadian dollar, reducing the discount to 1-5 of a cent. Sterling cables fell back 3-8 of a cent to $4.65-16. Japanese yen lost 1-3 of a cent.

Speculative Buyers, Plus Those With Short Funds, Sucked Under As Slump Comes Thursday

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—Eleventh hour speculative buyers of wheat today met with a Waterloo. Especially was this the experience of those who either had scanty financial resources, or who lacked nerves of steel.

Yield To Be Low
Observers put the 1929 yield of wheat in the United States at 175,000,000 bushels about one-third of last year's harvest.
A temporary advance when wheat was strong earned the corn market up the first time this season to $1.00 a bushel for December delivery, representing the new 1929 corn crop.

Washington Sees Silver Lining To Clouds Of Russian-Chinese Break

Chiang Kai-Shek Summons Aids Into Conference
The break between Russia and China has become a diplomatic actuality with the German government's agreement to take charge of Russian interests in China and Chinese interests in Russia.
Formal notification of Russia's decision to cease relations with China was received at Nanking in a second note from Moscow, which carried out the warning of the first Russian note of July 13.
Leaders Confer.
President Chiang Kai-Shek, summoned nationalist leader after receipt of a telegram from Gov. Chiang Kuo-shan-Liang that the situation is extremely grave in view of Russian troop concentration along the frontier.
The nationalist government apparently retained hope of an amicable settlement with Russia. Japan was possibly prepared to intervene between Russia and China in the interest of peace in the Far East. Premier Hamaguchi and Foreign Minister Shidehara, who are not officially informed of developments, conferred on the situation as conveyed in press reports.
Troop movements were reported on both sides of the frontier. No fighting seemed to have developed.
PEIPING, China, July 18 (AP)—Foreign diplomats here were inclined tonight not to take a very serious view of the Manchurian situation despite severance of diplomatic relations between Russia and China.
They believed it possible an armed conflict could be avoided and thought the question probably would be discussed internationally especially if trans-Siberian traffic on the Chinese eastern railway should be suspended for some time or if the Chinese should be unable to maintain peace and order in Manchuria.

Levens Will Ask Law Striking At Sidewalk Sheiks

Following recent reports to police headquarters that "sheiks" have packed at curbs to invade women's parade with them, a war on "sheiks" is being planned, according to J. C. Levens, assistant attorney of Lubbock who will go before the city commission soon in an effort to influence the creation of an ordinance against this offensive practice.
"This practice has become one of the greatest menaces officers confront," said Mr. Levens. "Two young girls recently reported that a pair of men unknown to them stopped three times in efforts to pick them up. There are one to three such complaints every week."
"Mashing is a most pungent gesture of disrespect for organized society and participants of such practice in many cases fall into clutches of the law on statutory charges."
"Every city should have an ordinance against such promiscuous invading of women. I intend to do all I can to bring about creation of the ordinance."

Tick Eradication Is To Be Carried Into 11 Counties

(By Associated Press) FORT WORTH, July 18 (AP)—Tick eradication work will be extended to 11 counties early next year, according to present plans of the Livestock Sanitary commission. Plans have been announced for beginning work in February and March in Adams, Wilbarger, Comanche, Hill, Palo Pinto, Rock, Cherokee, Duval, parts of Live Oak and Fort Bend and the west half of Anderson counties.

The commissioners said that with sufficient appropriations Texas could eradicate cattle fever ticks in four years. An appropriation two years hence of $2,000,000 would effect this result, they estimate.

Ten counties are scheduled to be released from quarantine next December.

Scabies have been eradicated from practically all sheep flocks in Texas but during the past 12 months have been found in many goat herds according to Carroll Drew, chief inspector and J. H. Rasco, chief sheep inspector.

Buried Treasure! Houston Man Seeks Hidden Gold

HOUSTON, July 18 (AP)—Postmaster Roy B. Nichols is looking for someone who has a little spare treasure in his yard which needs digging.

His quest is the result of a call which he received during business hours from two overalled, grinning negroes who carried picks and shovels.

"Is you 'one wanted to know," "de postmaster general?" Nichols explained that he was a mere postmaster but the negroes concluded that he would do.

"Well, his ebony-hued questioner went on, 'we want you to give us a permit to dig some treasure.'"

"Where," the postmaster countered.

"Any place, jest any place," the eager darkies assured him.

"De hoodoo man told us that there was some treasure buried round hereabouts and we calculates on finding it. We quit our jobs so we'd have more time to look for it."

After considerable persuasion Nichols obtained a promise from the negroes to go back to work on the condition that he would notify them if any buried treasure sites turned up.
