Board meets with hospital personnel

By RAY MAYO

The Mitchell County Hospital Board met in a marathon executive session Monday night with various hospital personnel, but took no action other than to call another meeting for this coming Monday at 7 p.m. in the C. C. Thompson Room of the City National Bank annex.

Monday's session was the latest in a series of meetings following the August 1 termination of the Medicare agreement between Root Memorial Hospital and the Secretary of Health and Human Resources because of the hospital's failure to comply with minimum health and safety standards in relation to the medical record department and pharmacy.

Prior to the group going into its six-hour executive session, board member Bob Reilly made a motion to hold the meeting in open, stating that "I wonder if we are meeting legally" and questioning whether or not doctors are considered part of the hospital personnel or rather "paid contractors."

Board attorney Pete McKinney assured the members that the executive session, called to discuss personnel, was legal and that doctors as well as the rest of the hospital personnel are under the supervision of the board.

Reilly's motion was seconded by Mrs. A. K. McCarley but received no support from other board members Bobby Lemons, Jack Perkins, Preston Morris and Herbert Mearse. Glenn Hemphill was not present.

Reilly asked and the board agreed, that the hospital administrative staff leave the meeting while the board met with various hospital employees.

At the beginning of the meeting, the board accepted a petition signed by a number of hospital employees in support of administrator Ray Dillard.

About 25 citizens were present for the meeting and although they were not allowed to sit in on the executive session, most of them stayed until the board reconvened at about 1 a.m.

THE HOUSING project on the corner of Hwy. 208 and east hill received a facelift as volunteers picked up trash along the roadside. Residents in the housing project took advantage of the extra run of the Sanitation department to do some yard work, cleaning, and weeding. The rest of the City is encouraged to do the same thing in their respective neighborhoods to make Colorado City Sparkle.

'Sparkle' week in full force

"Sparkle Colorado City," the annual clean-up campaign, is in full force this week and project chairman Mildred Free reports that a number of projects are underway to help clean up and beautify the town.

"A lot of people started cleaning up last week which was real good," said Mrs. Free, adding that it is hoped that the entire community will participate in the project and that it will become a year-round endeavor.

A number of organizations and local youth groups have been enlisted to assist with the campaign which officially ends Saturday.

Tim Ruland, youth director at the First United Methodist Church, is heading a group of young people who plan to transform some vacant lots into small, park-like settings. The local Jaycees have volunteered to tear down some dilapidated buildings and a group of Boy Scouts will be cleaning vacant lots. It is hoped to enlist the local 4-H organization to clean up the park and ballparks.

"The Optimist Club has been great to help us," she said, adding that the city has agreed to open the landfill free of charge this week to residents wishing to haul trash.

The city also has agreed to a special trash pick-up day the first Monday of each month. At that time, anyone with large items not normally collected by the trash trucks can call 728-3463 to have the items removed free of charge.

Plans to clean up the downtown area also are underway, said Mrs. Free, who notes that the city has agreed to place 35-gallon trash barrels with lids downtown.

"I'm hoping that this week Linda McCombs (Chamber manager) and I will get downtown to talk to the merchants about keeping the downtown clean," said Mrs. Free.

She said that Buzz Rich, director of city services has had the curbs painted and the parking spaces striped in the downtown area.

"Sparkle Colorado City" posters also are planned for merchants to display in their windows, she added.

Mayo named editor

RECORD Publisher Earl Plagens has announced the association of Ray Mayo as editor.

Mayo, a former resident of Colorado City, was previously news editor of the Huntsville Morning News, a daily newspaper in Huntsville. Prior to that he was managing editor of the Corsicana Daily Sun.

A graduate of Colorado High School, Mayo majored in journalism at Angelo State University. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Mayo. His brother, Jerry, is married to the former Sandra Coffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Coffman of Colorado City.

"I look forward to renewing old acquaintances and meeting all the new people who have made Colorado City their home since I've been away," said Mayo.

"The RECORD is a vital part of Colorado City and I want to continue the tradition of good community journalism," he added.

Ray Mayo

Mayo has won a number of awards from the Associated Press and United Press International for short features, news stories and page layout. While in Huntsville, his series on helping the needy for Christmas earned him a first place award for community service from UPI.

Sales tax rebate received

Colorado City this week received a check for $25,406.29 from State Comptroller Bob Bullock as its share of the one percent sales tax collected on sales in June and the second quarter.

Although the August check is less than the $30,458.98 received for the same period last year, the payments to date total $166,277.50, a 9.32 percent increase over 1983.

Loraine's payment totaled $1,303.20, up from $496.14 for the same period in 1983. Loraine's 1984 payments to date are $4,748, down 30.20 percent compared to 1983.

Westbrook received $1,714.94 with year-to-date payments totaling $8,150.45.

Bullock explained that although bookkeeping changes that were part of last year's tax deadline speedups made the August 1984 payments smaller in many cases, year-to-date comparisons can be made accurately.

For The Record

By RAY MAYO

While growing up in the oil fields of west Texas, a favorite expression in our household was "Don't ever say what you're not going to do, because that's usually what you'll end up doing."

Consider me guilty as charged, because that's exactly what I've done. Way back in 1966 when I graduated from Colorado High School, I recall saying that this town held no future for me and that I was going to where the grass is always green and the trees grow tall.

But, I'm back and glad to be here.

When I was offered the job as editor of the RECORD, I didn't have to think twice about accepting the job—it's something that I've wanted to do for quite some time.

And with your help, I think we can make the RECORD the best little newspaper in Texas.

By your help, I mean that I'm going to rely on you, the readers, to help keep us at the RECORD informed on the comings and goings of Mitchell County residents.

In short, we want your news. We want to be able to tell our readers about club meetings, family reunions...anything that will be of interest to RECORD readers.

Of course we'll continue to report public meetings and cover school and public events, but there's a whole lot more to a community newspaper than reporting meetings and that's why I'm asking for your help in letting your fellow readers know what's going on in your club, organization, church or school.

Call us at 728-3413 or come by the RECORD office at 156 E. Second and share your news with us.

xxx

I'll admit that Colorado City is in stark contrast to the piney woods of east Texas, but there's something here that can't be found anywhere else—the warmth and friendliness of the people.

I'm afraid I've put that warmth and friendliness to the test since my arrival here a few days ago.

Moving is never an easy experience and traveling 450 miles with a U-Haul trailer and two dogs in tow can only be described as something beyond totally awesome.

But, thanks to a lot of people, in less than a week I was able to locate a lake lot, have it cleared and get my mobile home moved on it and utilities hooked up from scratch.

Since this is my first column for the RECORD, I'm going to devote the rest of it to a public "thank you" to a lot of nice people who made my move more of a pleasure than an experience.

Former neighbors VERNON and FLETA LEWIS played a big part in my move by helping me locate a lot at Lake Colorado City even though at last count TERRY REVIS was still trying to sell me on a house in town.

A lot of credit has to go to GLENN and MIKE HEMPHILL and their crew at Mitchell County Utility Co. for their help in getting water lines and septic system installed in less than a day. DONNIE PHILLIPS (who still managed to run a ditch digger with a broken wrist), LARRY BLAIR, LUPE JARAMILLO and FLORENTINO MARTINEZ didn't let the heat or the dust keep them from getting the job done in record time.

JESSE GONZALEZ gave up a couple of late afternoons to get the electricity going and SANTOS REYES spent part of his Saturday afternoon to make sure that I had air conditioning.

Not to be forgotten are the friendly folks at Villa Inn who put up with a cranky editor and two barking dogs for several days. RUTH and BUDDY MILLER and BETTY STUBBLEFIELD must have breathed a sigh of relief when I checked out.

I'm sure there are many more who deserve credit for making my move as painless as possible, but special thanks go to former neighbors BIM and RAY ANNE CARLOCK and to former part-time mom BETTY OYLER for their encouragement and assistance.

Average Payment can help smooth out high summer electric bills.

In the summer, intense Texas heat can make your air conditioner work longer and drive your electric bill up in a hurry.

Our Average Payment Plan can help by "averaging out" your payments. You still pay for all the electricity you use, and your payments will still vary from month to month. However, in high-use months you pay for less electricity than you use, and in low-use months you pay for more.

Average Payment can help smooth out high summer electric bills. It's available to both residential customers and churches.

A Look Back — And, What's Ahead

If you're old enough to remember when bread was ten cents a loaf and steak was 50 cents per pound, you might have a tendency to say, "Those were the good old days!"

Bread and steak haven't been priced at those levels since 1946 when an hour's work brought little more than a dollar's wages.

According to Robert H. Tweedy, manager of strategic business planning with Allis-Chalmers, the price of food — expressed in hours of effort — is a much better bargain today.

For example, an hour's work today will buy twice as much food as it did in 1930.

Through greatly improved farming methods, coupled with new technology, today's farmer has been able to multiply production manyfold — and do it with less land and less labor.

Tweedy, who is also former president of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, says that industry has played a major role in helping the farmer.

Much credit goes to the 70-year saga of tractor horsepower replacing millions of horses and mules — as well as backbreaking days of endless toil in the fields.

Today, a farmer can cover as many acres of ground in an hour as he did in a dawn-to-dark day behind a pair of mules.

To celebrate the 70th anniversary of tractor manufacturing by Allis-Chalmers, Tweedy recently noted a number of milestones in tractor engineering.

Among tractor firsts:

In 1914, the first model "10-18" rolls off the assembly lines. It was powered by a 10 drawbar horsepower, two-cylinder engine that burned gasoline for starting and kerosene for running (Kerosene was cheaper than gas).

Prior to and during World War I, a flurry of innovations in tractor design whetted the appetites of farmers eager to put these new machines to use in place of their horses and mules.

Developments surviving the era included the power takeoff, diesel engine (for larger models), electric starting and lights.

Farmers in the late 1920's were energy conscious, too.

One Allis-Chalmers staffer stripped a tractor down to its essentials to produce a unit which accomplished more work with less labor and fuel. The unit offered a motor sealed against dirt and grit with oil and gas.

filters as standard equipment.

(This also was the last tractor produced by the company to be painted green. The next new model captured the eye of farmers and townspeople alike with its "Persian Orange.")

In 1932, the company rolled out the model "U," complete with low pressure rubber air tires. Because of the improved traction efficiency, the unit increased field performance by 25 percent — and changed the course of the entire tractor industry.

Tractor production was curtailed during World War II, but afterwards, boomed again.

In 1948, U.S. tractor production reached an all-time peak as almost 530,000 wheel-type units rolled off assembly lines.

Tractor horsepower was increasing rapidly. About 90 percent of the units built in 1950 had less than 35 horsepower; by 1960, that figure had dropped to 17 percent. Today, the average farm tractor has more than 100 horsepower.

In an effort to boost engine horsepower, designers looked to the turbocharger, a device on the engine to increase air pressure within the engine and allow more fuel to burn in the combustion process.

AC unveiled the first diesel-powered farm tractor equipped with a turbocharger in 1961.

The progress continued as crop production increased in the 1970's to the point that the crop of one acre out of three was exported.

Four-wheel-drive units increased in popularity.

Operator comfort rose to the number one consideration. Cabs, air conditioning, fancy seats and other features made the job of running a tractor as comfortable as possible.

Among other developments, units with more than 180 horsepower, front-wheel-drive assist, and power shift transmission.

And adds Tweedy, "Tractors of the future will be still more sophisticated, have on-board computers, do less tillage, promote conservation farming and have even more operator comfort than today's units.

Who's to doubt him?

That extra energy Popeye gets from spinach is no joke. Dieticians say that spinach is exceptionally high in nutritional value. Starting in the 1920's, spinach received much publicity for its wealth of calcium and iron, along with Vitamins A and C. But research has found spinach is also rich in oxalic acid, which prevents the calcium from being utilized by the body.

Magenta, the brilliant red aniline dye derived from coal tar, was discovered in 1859 and named in commemoration of the bloody battle of Magenta, when the Austrians were defeated by the French and the Sardinians.

Early in April 1865 President Lincoln told his wife and a friend that he had dreamed he was awakened by sobbing and followed the sound to the East Room of the White House, where mourners surrounded a catafalque and an honor guard told him: "The president... killed by an assassin." Within two weeks the slain president lay in the room.

Geothermal energy literally means "earth-heat" energy, and geothermal area are those areas where the heat is great enough and close enough to the surface to provide a heat source. In addition, the heat source must be in or near an area of permeable rocks which contain enough water to transfer the heat to the surface — either along fractures or through drill holes.

The odds are millions to one against a collision between a comet and the earth, which however, did pass through the tail of Halley's comet May 19, 1940, with no effect. But banging into a comet's nucleus — Halley's weighs 30 million tons — could be devastating. Some astronomers credit comets with causing the cataclysmic Siberian explosion in 1908 that made railroad tracks heave 400 miles away.

Political Awareness workshop set

Katie Dixon

Local women are invited to attend a workshop designed to emphasize the role of women in politics August 18 at St. John's Methodist Church in Lubbock.

Sponsored nation-wide by the Women's Division of the United Methodist Church Global Ministries Board, the workshop will introduce women to the political process and to encourage their participation as candidates.

Workshop trainer will be Katie L. Dixon, who is currently running for her third term as County Recorder of Salt Lake County Utah. She is the only elected woman official in her county, which contains more than half of the population of the state of Utah.

A graduate of Utah State University, she is also active in the National Association of Counties and is vice president of the National Association of County Recorders and Clerks.

A highlight of the local workshop will be a panel of elected women sharing their experiences in moving into and up in political roles.

"The end goal is to have a minimum of 250 women nationwide trained to run for local and state offices by 1986," according to Mrs. Donna Echols, the Workshop chair. She is a minister's wife and has worked on local, district and conference levels of United Methodist Women. She is coordinator of Christian Social Involvements for UMW and has worked at all levels of local churches.

Mrs. Echols points out that barely 10 percent of all elected offices in the U.S. are held by women, and he believes two things must happen to increase this representation for women.

"We must increase the pool of potential candidates significantly; that is, reach out and identify active women in the communities, churches and organizations," she said.

"Also, support systems must be developed, tapping those women who do not want to enter public leadership but who can choose to support women candidates by managing a campaign.

The final block of time will include individual action plans—a time to analyze personal skills, make a commitment to involvement and share these plans with others.

A one-hour theological session preceding the workshop will be optional for those interested in worship and the theological grounding for action in politics.

An additional, lunch-hour feature will be Pat Berry, Political Awareness Coordinator of Mesa Petroleum Company in Amarillo, speaking on "Corporate America Believes Women Should Be Politically Involved."

Cost of the workshop is $25, and reservations, which include lunch, are due by August 11. Additional information from Helen Releford, Lubbock (806) 792-0367.

St. John's United Methodist Church is located at 1501 University, right across from the Texas Tech campus, Lubbock.

Stephens committee selected

A steering committee of citizens campaigning to elect Steve Stephens as representative of the 66th legislative district has been selected for Mitchell County.

Heading the committee is Virginia Fuller. Working with her will be Erna Lou Burt, Flo Caldwell, Kenneth Cowan, M.D., Marcelene Cox, Margaret Latimer, and Bobbie Steakley.

Stephens, president and co-founder of Town & Country Food Stores, is running on the Republican ticket and is conservative in his political policy. He believes that Texas government is a large business and needs to be run as such.

He is reportedly well qualified in that area. "In my business, operating more than 90 food stores throughout Texas and Southern New Mexico, I have had to make sound business decisions on a daily basis," he relates. "As past president of the Texas Retail Grocers Association and now as vice chairman of Legislation for the National Association of Convenience Stores I have had to continue to work closely with both state and national legislative bodies.

It is this combined experience I want to take to Austin to provide strong representation for the District."

Topping his list of priorities is our greatest long-term concern-water. Following closely, are the issues of education, jurisprudence, (including prison system), highways and job opportunities.

Stephens is a native Texan and has lived in San Angelo for the past 22 years. He is married to the former Pollyanna Allison.
They have two daughters.

He holds a BA in Economics
from the University of Texas, Austin, served in the U.S. Air Force for four years and is a member of the First Presbyterian Church, San Angelo where he serves as Elder.

He will be running against Dick Burnett, current state representative, who won the 1983 vote by 4,609 votes over republican candidate Don Dorsey.

Burnett is also from San Angelo and has also served as representative of Concho, Irion and Tom Green Counties in District 60.

FRANCO & FRANCO have contracted to do the concrete work at the Dell Barber park and gazebo and are setting forms for the sidewalk. Water lines have already been laid and the park is nearing completion.

Recovery gains momentum

By JOHN TOWER

U.S. Senator

America's exceedingly strong recovery continues to gain momentum across Texas as well as the rest of the nation. From all economic indications, this recovery is developing into one of the strongest in recent history.

On the national level, factories are operating at their highest capacity in four years, an average of 81.7 percent in June.
Domestic auto sales increased to an 8.3 million annual rate in June, 19.9 percent higher than during the second quarter in 1983. The Index of Industrial Production in June was 21.3
percent above the recession's low and 8.1 percent above January 1981 levels.

Additionally, consumer prices have risen only 4.2 percent in the past 12 months. The 1983 inflation rate was 3.8 percent, the smallest annual rise since 1972. It was only 1979, that an inflation rate of 13.3 percent was plaguing our nation.

All Americans, not just the rich, benefit from this strong economic recovery. Because the poor spend most of their money on the basics—food, housing, energy and medical care—they have been aided the most by the cost of living decreases.

Texas is fortunate to be in a good economic position. Although some parts of Texas are prospering more than others, I believe all Texans will benefit from the national recovery.

Of major consequence to Texas, Hispanic unemployment today is seven-tenths of a percentage point below that of January 1981, a larger decrease than had been seen during the previous four years. This indicates that we are making real progress in closing the gap which has caused Hispanics to suffer more severely than the population at large. The unemployment rate across Texas is 4.8 percent compared to a high of 8.7 percent just a few years ago.

In Texas, our economic difficulties arose primarily due to factors not connected with the national recession. In the past, the strength of the south Texas economy has been dependent upon the retail trade from Mexico.

As important as the Mexican economy is and will continue to be in the Southwest, never again must we allow our economy to become inextricably bound to that of our neighbors to the south.

We have initiated several measures to benefit South Texas such as the establishment of Foreign Trade Zones.

This will serve as a long-term vehicle for the Hispanic business community to seek economic opportunities. Hispanic business has experienced a 65 percent growth rate over the past five years. Three of the fastest growing Hispanic businesses in the nation are located in Texas.

I believe this recovery will continue at the speed and strength it has demonstrated. It is a strong signal that good economic times lie ahead for America.

Legislation protects Texas grain farmers

By LLOYD BENTSEN
U.S. Senator

As farmers in Central Texas begin harvesting their grain this week, they'll have one less worry on their minds.

They won't be risking the loss of their crop should it be stored in a grain elevator that goes bankrupt.

In one past, when a grain elevator has declared bankruptcy, the grain that was stored there has been treated as an asset of the elevator, and usually has been impounded and sold to pay the elevator's debts.

Farmers who stored their crops in the elevator were treated as unsecured creditors, even when they produced receipts specifying the amount of grain they had stored.

And even those farmers who had a chance of recovering their grain had to wait to claim it until the overloaded, slow-moving bankruptcy courts had resolved the case.

Farmers caught in this situation have had to sit by and see all or part of their marketable assets sold off or go bad in storage during lengthy court proceedings.

For three years, I have joined with several of my Senate colleagues in trying to correct this injustice.

Four times we have managed to shepherd legislation through the Senate, only to see it stall in the House of Representatives.

This year we prevailed.

Legislation has just been signed into law, as part of a broader bankruptcy bill, that will help farmers who are trapped in this situation.

For the first time, farmers now have a priority claim on their grain and are treated the same as other secured creditors in an elevator bankruptcy case. Their claim cannot be denied unless the court secures it with a lien. And documents such as scale tickets, not just warehouse receipts, are now valid as evidence for the amount of grain farmers maintain they have stored.

The new law also limits the court to 120 days for deciding the deposition of the grain, which will help ease the cash flow bind for the farmer and will lessen the risk of having the grain go bad.

Another part of the law ensures that proceeds from the sale of this grain will not be taken from the farmer to pay court costs associated with the bankruptcy.

This law will not solve all the problems created by grain elevator bankruptcies. Nor does it address basic issues such as proper financial and operating standards for grain elevators.

But it is a significant first step toward protecting the property rights of our farmers, just as depositors are protected when they keep their money in a bank.

Given the volatile nature of grain production and marketing, our farmers risk enough without having to face the possibility of being devastated by a bankruptcy that was no fault of their own.

Tax questions to be answered Tuesday

Mitchell County residents who have questions about state taxes will have a chance to meet with a representative of Comptroller Bob Bullock's Abilene office in Sweetwater on Tuesday, August 14.

Tax representative Mary Sue Riskus will meet with local taxpayers at the Texas Electric Reddy Room from 3-4 p.m.

"If Mitchell and Nolan county area merchants, or anyone else for that matter have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing tax forms, Mary Sue Riskus will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

All propane users will be able to buy prepaid tax decals for their motor vehicles at this time. All vehicles that burn propane are required to have this decal.

Bullock reminded those taxpayers who are unable to meet with his representative on August 14 that they can still get their questions answered quickly by calling his toll-free tax information number in Austin, 1-800-252-5555.

The Abilene office serves Mitchell, Taylor, Brown, Callahan, Comanche, San Saba, McCulloch, Eastland, Fisher, Haskell, Jones, Mills, Nolan, Scurry, Shackelford, Stephens and Stone-wall counties.
