

After recess...

Hot foreign issues face Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislators are eagerly lining up to vent their anger at the Soviet Union for shooting down a South Korean jetliner and air their concerns about the continued presence of U.S. Marines in Lebanon as Congress gets back to work after a five-week recess.

Anxieties about record budget deficits and a crowded agenda of fiscal and domestic issues, including a list of money bills that require action before the Oct. 1 start of the new fiscal year, also faced members of the House and Senate gearing up today for a final legislative burst before the coming election year.

But the focus early this week will be on the Soviet Union and one of its interceptors that on Sept. 1 destroyed a South Korean jumbo jet carrying 269 people, including 61 Americans. Among the passengers was

Rep. Larry McDonald, D-Ga.

"Rhetoric is the most important thing we can do sometimes and our words, in this case, are our real instrument of retaliation," Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said Sunday. "People (legislators) will be vying for the opportunity to be indignant, and they should."

Early business also included eulogies today for McDonald and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who had 42 years' experience in Congress and died of a ruptured coronary artery at his home in Everett, Wash., a few hours after denouncing the Soviet attack at a news conference.

Dan Evans, former Republican governor of Washington, was to be sworn in today as Jackson's successor. Evans was appointed by the state's GOP governor, John Spellman, to serve until a special election Nov. 8 in which Evans will be a candidate.

Baker, speaking on CBS' "Face the Nation," also said a bipartisan "statement of outrage and indignation against barbaric actions by the Soviet Union" would be introduced in the Senate and voted on Wednesday. A House vote also is expected this week.

Attention will be given to the lack of say from Congress in the deployment of 1,200 U.S. Marines in Lebanon and their recent casualties resulting from the continued civil war between religious factions there.

Some lawmakers have said President Reagan has failed to comply with the spirit of the 1973 War Powers Act that would limit the stay of the Marines to a maximum of 90 days — an initial 60 days and a possible 30-day extension — unless Congress approved.

Ask Us

Q. — Are there any plans to implement a "milk ticket" for Snyder school children?

A. — School officials indicate that there is no set directive given to Snyder principals regarding collecting the daily 20 cent requirement for milk. Regarding this, no changes for the immediate future are planned. One alternative to bringing 20 cents every day is followed at some elementary campuses, but it is not a systemwide concept. At these schools, students may give their teachers $1 a week. It is then the teacher's responsibility to keep up with the money.

Diplomat accused of spying

MOSCOW (AP) — A U.S. diplomat and his wife have been accused of spying in Leningrad and the diplomat has been asked to leave the country, the official Tass news agency said today.

There was no immediate confirmation of the report from the U.S. Embassy here. Officials who would be able to comment were not in their offices when The Associated Press telephoned.

According to Tass, "Vice Consul Lon David Augustenborg of the U.S. General Consulate (in Leningrad) and his wife, Denise Augustenborg, were detained flagrante delicto in the area of Leningrad on Sept. 11 as they were carrying out an act of espionage."

Tass said an investigation "fully exposes the U.S. diplomat and his wife as being engaged in intelligence-gathering activities incompatible with their official status."

The agency said Augustenborg "was declared persona non grata for his illegal acts of spying."

'Extralegal' system is used

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Lawyers say an "extralegal" system used by Jefferson County officers to arrest suspects without warrants violates the constitutional rights against unreasonable arrest and detention.

But law enforcement officials insist it protects the rights of the suspects.

"You can say that in Jefferson County, we go to great lengths to protect a person's rights," Beaumont Police Chief Willie Bauer told the Houston Chronicle in a story published Sunday.

Under the system, police obtain an "accusation bond" from a justice of the peace. If the accused person cannot post the bond, he may be held while police continue their investigation.

Law enforcement officials say the suspect benefits because he does not face the stigma that would result if police filed charges immediately, only to have them later dismissed after further investigation.

Rainfall slight in Snyder

The official rain total from Sunday's shower in Snyder was .20 of an inch, but select areas of rural Scurry County received more.

Rain gauges around the Ennis Creek area recorded up to 1 inch of needed moisture while Fluvanna and Dermott rain watchers report .50 and .40 of an inch respectively.

At the Ira community, the total was much the same as Snyder's with .20 of an inch noted. Only a trace of rain was experienced at Hermleigh and at Polar.

School open house tonight

The six Snyder elementary school campuses will open to the public Monday night beginning at 7 p.m.

Brief programs are planned in the respective school auditoriums. Parents and friends of local school children are then invited to tour classroom areas.

Local charged after stabbing

A 17-year-old Snyder man was pronounced dead of stab wounds and an 18-year-old arrested in connection with the incident during a dance Saturday night at the Towle Park National Guard Armory.

The suspect remained in Scurry County Jail Monday morning under a $10,000 bond. He is currently charged with murder.

According to police reports, a female caller who did not identify herself reported a stabbing at the armory at 10:20 p.m. Saturday.

Rodney Melendrez of 2011 Ave. K was rushed from the armory to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by units of Aid Ambulance Snyder. He was pronounced dead around 10:58 p.m. in the hospital emergency room.

Investigators at the scene were given the name of a suspect in the case shortly after 10:30 p.m. At approximately 4 a.m. Sunday, 18-year-old Alvin Molina was arrested by police and now stands charged in connection with the crime.

Molina, who listed a local address of 1211 29th St., was arrested by police at another residence near his home.

According to investigators, both Molina and Melendrez were attending a "Quinciana" or 15th birthday dance for a local girl at the time of the stabbing.

Melendrez was employed by N-L Well Service and a member of the Our Lady of Guadalupe Church.

He was born in Snyder and had lived here all of his life. Funeral services were set Tuesday at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Arrests made for cut tires

Snyder police arrested Saturday afternoon two suspects in connection with the Friday evening slashing of 15 tires on vehicles outside a local private club.

As of Monday morning, the 15 incidents were being handled as one case, prompting felony charges against the pair.

Taken into custody were 42-year-old Desiderio Castillo of 404 27th St. and 23-year-old Richard Allen Vansickle of 309 36th St. They were arrested around 5:54 p.m. and charged with 15 counts of criminal mischief.

Both men are free after posting bonds of $1,500 each in connection with the case.

1 percent increase...

Court adopts 1984 tax rate

As projected earlier, the Scurry County Commissioners Court Monday morning approved a tax rate for 1984 equaling just over 15 1/2 cents per $100 valuation.

This will then finance the $3.9 million tax share of a some $12 million 1984 County Budget. This estimate includes the $6.7 million operation of D.M. Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

To county taxpayers, the new rate equals an approximate 1 percent increase over last year, due in large part to a drop in oil values here.

The tax share is also down from last year's total tax requirement which was in excess of $4 million.

The 1983 tax rate was .1478 cents per $100 valuation.

Criminal mischief complaint frequent

Five criminal mischief complaints were filed with city police during the weekend.

Paul Thompson of 1707 Cedar Creek Dr. called police at 1:57 p.m. Saturday to report the vandalism of his car. He told officers that the gas cap cover had been broken off his late model Chevrolet while parked at Snyder High School Friday night.

Darlene Brewer of 1505 20th St. filed the second complaint at 6:26 p.m. Saturday. She told investigators that someone had apparently broken the left rear window in her 1970 Chevrolet station wagon while it was parked at her residence earlier in the day.

the Scurry County Courthouse offices. It is expected to require some $2.4 million in tax dollars, part of an overall budget estimate of $3.2 million.

—Road and Bridge Fund: it goes toward each of the four county commissioner's precinct operations including all work done on county roads. The fund is divided among the four precincts and is expected to require a total of some $531,000 in tax dollars, part of an overall budget just over $1 million.

—Hospital Operations Fund: it entails a subsidy payment for Cogdell Memorial. Its tax share is projected at $300,000 during the year, less than 5 percent of the facility's operating budget which totals in excess of $6.7 million.

—Hospital Interest and Sinking Fund: it goes toward retiring the bond debt which financed the wing addition at Cogdell Memorial. A payment this year of $623,000 is required and county officials note that only two more of these yearly payments are required before this bond note is retired.

—Board of County Development Fund: it is a relatively small tax share used to fund the chamber of commerce-associated BCD. In tax dollars of 1984, some $51,000 will be required as part of its overall operation of $59,000.

U.S. concedes warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States now concedes the Soviet pilot who downed a South Korean airliner may have fired warning shots before loosing his fatal missiles, but the State Department says there is no indication the crew of the doomed jetliner saw or heard a warning.

"The fact is that it was an unarmed, civilian airliner, and it cost the lives of 269 innocent people," the State Department said.

The change in the evidence the Reagan administration has amassed in its worldwide campaign to rebuke the Soviets for their action came in an unusual Sunday morning news release from the State Department. No officials were available to comment on it.

Reagan had declared Sunday a national day of mourning for the victims of KAL Flight 007, including 61 Americans.

The written statement said government linguists using electronic enhancement techniques and replaying the tapes of Soviet air-to-ground transmissions hundreds of times "were able to interpret three passages more clearly" than when the White House released an earlier transcript of the conversations last week.

In the revised version, the Soviet pilot's radio transmissions indicate he fired his cannon nearly six minutes before he used heat-seeking missiles to shoot down the Korean Air Lines Boeing 747.

"This additional analysis of the tapes reinforces our belief that the totality of the events remains exactly as stated by the U.S. and Japan," the State Department said.

ERs cannot treat seriously injured

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of lives are needlessly lost each year because people with serious injuries are taken to hospital emergency rooms that are unable to care for them, says the chief of surgery at San Francisco General Hospital.

"I don't think the public understands that the great majority of emergency rooms cannot take care of the severely injured patient," said Dr. Donald Trunkey, who specializes in emergency room surgery.

"That's not because it's a bad hospital. It's because they don't have the surgeons and anesthesiologists there to greet the patient," he said.

San Francisco General is a trauma center — a hospital specially prepared to begin care for dying patients in a matter of minutes. Trauma is the medical term for injuries and wounds.

"In a good trauma center, if somebody came in dead or dying they should be in the operating room in 10 or 15 minutes," Trunkey said in a telephone interview.

In cities with trauma centers, an astounding 20 percent of people found on the street seemingly dead after accidents will leave the hospital alive without brain damage, he said.

In the typical emergency room, such patients would not survive.

If regional trauma centers were established nationwide, Trunkey estimates that 24,000 lives would be saved each year.

One study in Portland, Ore., — where there is no trauma center — found it takes surgeons an average of an hour and 15 minutes to get to the hospital. For many patients, that is too late, Trunkey said.

Trunkey calls trauma a "disease" and "the No. 1 medical and social problem in the United States today." It's a disease of the young — the No. 1 killer of people ages 1 to 38.

More years of life are lost to trauma than to all other diseases combined, Trunkey said. Diseases kill more people than trauma, but because trauma strikes the young, it robs its victims of more years of their lives.

In 1982, 165,000 people lost their lives to trauma; twice as many as that were permanently disabled.

The principal difference between a trauma center and an ordinary emergency room is that surgeons and anesthesiologists are in the emergency room around the clock.

"It's not an equipment problem; it's a people problem," Trunkey said. This does not mean, however, that all hospitals should have doctors continually present, ready for emergencies. The costs of those specialists is too high for that.

But regional centers could be established in every locality simply by reorganizing resources. It could be done with little or no cost to the taxpayer, Trunkey said, and with no more surgeons and anesthesiologists than we have now.

Trunkey, 46, has been involved in trauma care since 1968, when he was a surgical resident at San Francisco General under Dr. William Blaisdell, who established the hospital's trauma center.

Trunkey works an 85 hour week, not uncommon for a surgeon. But because of his specialization in trauma he spends more time on call than most surgeons — about six or eight 24-hour periods a month.

Trunkey is increasingly becoming a crusader for more governmental attention to trauma care.

"It boggles my mind why the American people will tolerate killing more people each year in road accidents than in all of Vietnam," Trunkey said. "I think the great majority of people really don't believe you can prevent accidents."

He wrote an article on trauma for the August issue of Scientific American, calling attention to the problem.

At the entrance to the Archives Building in Washington D.C., are inscribed these words: "What's past is prologue."

A D.C. cab driver says, "What that means is you ain't seen nuthin' yet!"

Historians have been able to predict where we are going by taking an analytical look at where we've been. Generally, experience teaches; "what's past is prologue."

I think that is not true anymore.

In stage three of our nation's social evolution we confront one unprecedented experience.

While the United States turned from an agrarian to an industrial unprecedented experience.

There was blood on the wheels of the industrial revolution.

Now ours is becoming an "information based" society. Technology — this time computers and robotics — again is attended by dislocation and anguish.

But never before in human experience have we had two basic lines on the chart going in opposite directions: the population curve is upward — ever more people — while the "need for people" is in decline.

As farmers we always needed more field hands.

Industry could always make room for more.

But the information based society diminishes the value of people. Too many people become a liability.

Policiticians, labor leaders and educators are urging a cacophony of proposed remedies.

A campaign handle in the next presidential campaign will be "a national industrial policy."

One presidential hopeful, Colorado's Sen. Gary Hart, insists a national industrial policy is needed because "traditional policies are increasingly irrelevant to the unique economic realities of this decade."

More than 30 bills were introduced in the 98th Congress which, collectively, would establish a national industrial policy.

What is "a national industrial policy?"

Specific recommendations differ, but labor leader Lloyd McBride shucks down to the cob: "Government must direct our economic future; not just 'let it happen.'"

Harvard professor Robert Reich calls this "the next American frontier."

Enormous big-brother bureaucracy determining for you what is good for you is not new. It's "socialism" and the dozen nations which have tried it are already backing away from it.

The crux of the onrushing dilemma is this:

When a robot can do the work of a hundred men and a computer can think for a thousand, the future does sound alarming.

If, at long last, our problem really has become "too many people," why do our planners so carefully avoid saying that?

Smoking blocks taste

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about the person who had no sense of taste or smell for 20 years. I wondered if he smoked. I lead quit smoking clinics as a volunteer with the American Cancer Society. During one group meeting a man in his early 60s told us he had not been able to smell or taste anything for five years.

He had to ask his wife to smell his shirts and his food to warn him of odors. No one could find the cause of his problem. Then, one day, a doctor finally suggested that his smoking might be related to it in some way.

Within a week after the man quit smoking in our clinic he arrived with a big grin on his face. He could hardly wait to tell us: "I want you to know that I've always loved cucumbers and it has been a real disappointment to me that I haven't been able to taste them for five years. For the first time, at noon today, I could begin to taste the cucumber in my salad." His sense of taste and smell improved dramatically within two weeks.

I have never observed a similar miracle in seven years of leading these clinics, nonetheless I am reporting it to you because it did happen to this man.

DEAR READER — Thank you for sharing your experience with others. Certainly smoking does decrease a person's ability to taste. I have had many patients who quit smoking for such reasons as a recent heart attack volunteer to me how much better their food tasted after they quit. They didn't know what a pleasure eating could be. And of course smell is affected by smoking. That is part of the reason smokers do not realize how bad their habit smells to a non-smoker.

I think all smokers would enjoy their tastes and smells more if they stopped smoking. But for the person who has had a total loss of taste, it is a good idea to have a medical examination for possible causes.

The factors related to loss of taste and smell are fairly complex and not completely understood. But I am sending you The Health Letter 20-4, Taste and Smell, to update you on the current state of knowledge about it. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am interested in food containing amino acids. I had a very miserable itchy rash and hives last year and again recently. My doctor gave me a shot and several medicines but they proved to be temporary. I suffer weeks or longer.

He suggested it may be my diet and a lack of amino acids, but I have not been able to get the information I need about foods. I had to get my hair cut because of the scabs on my neck where I scratched while asleep.

DEAR READER — I do not know what you have from your description but I would suggest you see a dermatologist. If you are eating a balanced diet you should have enough amino acids.

All proteins are made of combinations of amino acids. Some foods contain all the essential amino acids your own body can't manufacture. These foods are milk, red meats, fish and poultry. Of course milk products do, too.

But your problem sounds like an allergy or a contact dermatitis. In that case you need to know what the rash is and what is causing it before you can be properly treated.

Protesters gather at dock site

HOUSTON (AP) — A Soviet freighter detained by the U.S. Coast Guard was set to depart the Port of Houston today and a second Russian ship was due to dock — although longshoremen say they may not unload it, officials said.

The General Kravtsov, detained by U.S. Coast Guard officials for not having the necessary paperwork, produced the required documents Sunday and was given clearance to leave the port today, a U.S. Customs spokesman said.

The ship was the first Soviet freighter to dock in Houston since Korean Air Lines Flight 007 was shot down Sept. 1, killing all 269 people on board.

While the crew waited aboard the ship Sunday, members of the Jacinto City chapter of the American Legion held a memorial service for the victims close to the dock, which was roped off and guarded by police officers.

Legion members carried an empty coffin draped with a U.S. flag to an area, offered their prayers and ended the ceremony with a three-gun salute.

A second Soviet freighter, the Novovolynsk, was expected to arrive in Houston early today with a load of general cargo.

Longshoremen would be needed to help unload the cargo. But Miller Barrington, president of Local 24 of the International Longshoremen's Association said, "I really don't know if we'd work it."

The General Kravtsov originally had planned to depart Saturday after loading a cargo of liquid tallow through a pipeline.

The Coast Guard, however, detained the ship because the crew only had a copy of the certificate of financial responsibility, which proves the freighter's owners have the money to clean up an oil spill should one occur.

Customs supervisory inspector Treemon Baker said the crew got the original certificate Sunday afternoon.

Bald men gather for convention

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — "Combless and proud of it" could have been the slogan as bald-headed men gathered for a convention aimed at instilling pride and promoting a positive image.

Nearly 300 men from six states, Canada and Sweden — all with nary a hair — attended the get-together Saturday sponsored by the Bald-Headed Men of America's Club.

"I founded the club back in 1973, when everybody was organized for everything," said president John Capps of Morehead City. "I felt bald-headed men needed to be organized, to instill pride and dignity at being baldheaded, to promote a positive image and outlook."

The club has 10,000 members from all 50 states and 26 foreign nations, Capps said in a telephone interview.

Automobile tire distributor Mark Adams, of Tega Cay, S.C., won the convention's "prettiest head" award.

Other winners included Bob Hood of Milwaukee, Wis., for the "best all-around bald head," and Haywood Jones of Durham, N.C., for the "best solar dome."

Dean Kartalas of New York won the "most kissable head" award. Bill White of Raleigh, N.C., got the "1983 Crystal Chrome Dome Award," which Capps said was the second-highest honor.

Capps said he was given a "perfect 10 award." "I turned it down but they insisted," he said.

Jackson plans 11-day tour

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, off on an 11-day tour of Europe, says he aims to gauge European opinion about a possible black U.S. presidential candidate and register voters among 50,000 U.S. troops in West Germany.

Jackson's itinerary was to have included the Soviet Union, but those plans were canceled after the Soviets shot down a Korean airplane.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If you fall down in or near your home, the chances are you will be a casualty. It may be hard to believe, but nearly 13,000 Americans were killed last year from falls around the house, while about 2 million others were incapacitated for short or long periods of time.

Since the dictionary defines an accident as "an unfortunate event resulting from carelessness, unawareness, ignorance or unavoidable causes," it can be assumed a large percentage of these casualties could have been averted by intelligent attention to principles of safety.

Many accidents, for instance, occur in the home workshop, with only a comparatively small number due to the misuse of tools, power or otherwise. The greatest number are caused when somebody slips or trips over something on the floor. Home do-it-yourselfers can hardly avoid spilling something on the floor once in a while.

The important safety rule in this case is to stop what you are doing at once — instantly, not a few minutes later when you have finished what you were doing. If it's a liquid, wipe it up. If a non-liquid, pick it up. You can slip on a small piece of paper as easily as you can trip over a screwdriver.

Falls in the shower take place for a number of reasons, but the most common is because of the absence of adhesive strips or suction mats on the floor. There should be bars at two or three locations which a person can hang on to when changing positions. When there are elderly persons in the house — and perhaps even when there aren't — a non-slip sitdown area should be provided, especially if the shower is over a bathtub.

If you are standing on a ladder you are fishing for trouble if you reach out to use a screwdriver, hammer, paint brush, or roller. Every ladder carries a warning on which is the highest step you can use safely. It's usually one or two steps from the top, more if it's a long outside ladder.

Why do people over-reach? Simply because they don't want to be bothered getting down and moving the ladder a little. Also, be sure the ladder is solidly set before you get on it and that it is far enough away from the house. An extension ladder should be one-fourth as far from the house foundation as the total length of the ladder. Thus, if you are using a 20-foot ladder, its bottom should be 5 feet from the foundation.

Back in the home workshop, another troublemaker is the failure to concentrate, especially if somebody comes into the area while you are operating a power machine. If you are sawing or sanding or grinding or anything else and somebody comes in, turn off the machine immediately, then look up and reply. Be certain you disengage the plug from the electric outlet before you make any adjustment to the machine. It is a matter of record that accidents with power tools occur more often when you are familiar with a machine than when you first use it. Familiarity often breeds carelessness.

If you have a project which calls for repeated operations of the same task, don't do them all at once. Vary the type of work you are doing every so often. Monotonous chores cause boredom, which causes carelessness. If you feel the least bit tired, stop and rest a while or quit for the day. Fatigue not only can get you into an accident, it can cause you to do poor work.

So many products necessary to home maintenance have chemicals in them that you are wise always to work where there is plenty of ventilation and no open lights. Do this even when you are sure there is no danger of fire or an explosion and you will get into a habit that may save your life someday when you make an error of judgment.

Fortunately, many manufacturers whose products once were dangerous are now making them without flammable and volatile formulas. Read the labels carefully, but no matter what they say, play it safe.

Some other safety measures include not wearing loose clothing in the workshop; not smoking; wearing goggles when grinding or performing any tasks when particles might fly; not using a file without a handle; checking hammer heads before using; locking up acids, solvents, etc., in cabinets so they won't be accessible to children, and not using dull tools, which cause more accidents than sharp ones.

Dear Abby

Husband's Trip to Altar Tempts Wife to Stay Home

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a well-known professional man in our area. His secretary, who has been with him for four years, has asked him to give her 19-year-old daughter away in marriage. The secretary is divorced, and her ex-husband (a local resident) refuses to participate in or even attend his daughter's wedding although his name is on the invitation.

No one even mentioned the above to me until all the plans were made. I know the secretary but have never met her daughter.

I feel very uncomfortable about this and have told my husband that it is bound to create some speculation as to what the relationship between him and his secretary really is.

My husband said he had no choice because "they have no male family member to perform the duty." Am I wrong to be upset? And do you think I should attend the wedding?

WITHHOLD MY NAME IN FLORIDA

DEAR WITHHOLD: Are you wrong to be upset? No. Your husband should have discussed it with you first. Should you attend the wedding? Yes. It would look worse if you didn't.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have been married a year and two months to a wonderful man. (He's 22 and we are in the military.)

We are very happy, but we have problems making love. I seem to hold back, and much as I want to, I can't seem to let myself go. My husband has been very patient with me, but I know he can't enjoy himself because of the way I am.

We've discussed the problem together and think maybe I should seek professional help. Where should I go?

UPTIGHT IN CHICAGO

P.S. Don't tell me maybe it's because I married young. I've had a lot of trouble in my life. I've been raped twice — the first time by my father.

DEAR UPTIGHT: First you should be examined by a gynecologist to determine whether there is some kind of physical problem. If there is none, there's a strong possibility that you are uptight because of your rape experience. Go to your nearest rape crisis center. It doesn't matter how long ago the rape occurred, if it hasn't been dealt with and resolved, it needs to be.

DEAR ABBY: I direct a charitable organization that provides full scholarships to deserving youths. These scholarships cover tuition, books, room, board, laundry, etc. for the duration of college. There are no repayment obligations of any kind.

Abby, don't you think the parents of our scholarship recipients should express a word of appreciation to our organization for the exceptional benefits their sons and daughters receive? An annual note, maybe "Thanks for the $6,000 gift you gave our son (or daughter) this year?"

Would you believe that we have spent as much as $20,000 to educate one youth whose parents have never once said thank you?

I predict that unless people begin to acquire a sense of gratitude for the generosity of others, the wells of charity are going eventually to dry up. Any comment?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: An expression of gratitude from the parents of students who benefit from scholarships would seem minimal, and the students themselves should also thank their benefactors.

Bears get win; Frogs tied up

The Baylor Bears produced the proudest moments for the Southwest Conference Saturday night while Jim Wacker's debut as Texas Christian coach was a "whacky" one.

The Bears, using three quarterbacks in Coach Grant Teaff's wide-open, full-throttle offense, beat Brigham Young University at their own game, scoring touchdowns.

Baylor gunned down BYU 40-36 on a two-yard touchdown run by Alfred Anderson in the final minute of play.

Wacker saw his Horned Frogs drop a certain touchdown pass with five seconds to play then watched Ken Ozee's partially blocked 35-yard field goal just clear the crossbar for a 16-16 tie with Kansas.

In other games involving SWC teams, No. 15 ranked Southern Methodist barely survived Grambling 20-13, Houston fell 29-7 to Miami, Texas Tech lost 28-13 to Air Force on regional television, Arkansas edged Tulsa 17-14, and Rice lost its 14th straight game, 21-17 to Minnesota.

Here's a game-by-game look at SWC Week II:

Frogs tie in final second

FORT WORTH - For a step, tight end Dan Sharp had a victory in his grasp. Then the ball hit the ground and so did Jim Wacker's chances for a victory in his debut as Texas Christian football coach.

Sharp's drop of a certain touchdown pass at Kansas' two-yard line with five seconds to play meant TCU's Ken Ozee had to kick a 35-yard field goal with a second to play for a 16-16 tie. He did so but not before the ball had been tipped by a Jayhawk lineman.

"It beats losing by a bunch," Wacker said, experiencing only his second tie in over 100 games as a coach.

A crowd of 27,244 fans showed for the debut. It was the largest opening-game crowd since 1963 when 28,000 watched another TCU-Kansas game.

SMU defense saves No. 18

SHREVEPORT - SMU is still the winningest team in the nation, but the Mustangs can give thanks to Grambling's poor punting game.

Two bungled punts led to two touchdowns in the Mustangs' 20-13 victory, their 18th consecutive without a loss.

SMU is idle this week, and Coach Bobby Collins is glad.

"Our defense is headed in the right direction but our offense is definitely behind," said Collins. "We'll give them a couple days off but on Wednesday we're going to have to hit it hard."

SMU gained only 182 yards and just 102 of them on the ground.

Tailback Reggie Dupard suffered a shoulder injury and did not play in the second. X-Rays proved negative and Dupard only suffered a bruise.

Razorbacks survive 'Cane

FAYETTEVILLE - "It wasn't very artistic but it was a success," said Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz, who watched his Razorbacks tiptoe past Tulsa 17-14.

Arkansas jumped to a 17-7 lead and had to survive a Golden Hurricane rally which included a failed 43-yard field goal attempt into the wind at the final gun.

Freshman fullback Derrick Thomas rushed for two touchdowns for Arkansas and Greg Horne kicked a 38-yard field goal.

Baylor Bears outgun BYU

WACO - It lasted almost four hours and produced nearly 1,000 yards in offense.

But the Baylor Bears grabbed the most real estate behind Alfred Anderson's career rushing effort to beat Brigham Young University 40-36 and their excellent quarterback Steve Young, the great-great-grandson of the founder of the Mormon school.

BYU's total offense was 494 yards with Young getting 464 running and passing (351 passing, 113 running).

Baylor won the game with a 75-yard drive on eight plays. Anderson dove over from the two with 49 seconds left.

Anderson's two rushing TDs give him 28, breaking the school record of 26 by Walter Abercrombie.

His 25 rushes for 144 yards was the best game of career.

Cougars cough up loss

HOUSTON - Houston came up with an old problem - turnovers - and the Miami Hurricanes continued to take advantage of the tradition in the Astrodome for a 29-7 victory, their fourth in a row over the Cougars.

The Cougars yielded three turnovers en route to a 31-12 loss to the Hurricanes last year and quarterback Lionel Wilson led the way in increasing that total to four interceptions and one fumble in Saturday's loss.

Tech chokes on wishbone

COLORADO SPRINGS - Texas Tech Coach Jerry Moore visualized Air Force as a team without a weakness. Unfortunately, for the Red Raiders his crystal ball had 20-20 vision.

"They ran the Wishbone-T just about as well as you can run it," Moore said after Air Force had rolled to a 13-victory for the regional TV cameras.

Quarterback Marty Louthan ran for three touchdowns and passed for 158 yards. Tech's only bright spot was tailback Robert Lewis, who gained 133 yards on 22 carries.

For U.S. Open crown...

Connors outlasts Ivan Lendl

NEW YORK (AP) - Jimmy Connors was on the ropes, like a boxer trying to roll with the punches.

His stomach was upset, his toe was hurting, the heat was oppressive and Ivan Lendl was serving rockets at him. This clearly was not a very good situation for the defending U.S. Open Tennis champion.

Connors and Lendl had split the first two sets of the men's singles final Sunday, but the tide was rolling the Czech's way in the third one. After losing the first set 3-6, he had salvaged the second 7-6, winning the tiebreaker 7-2. Lendl had a 5-4 lead in the third and was serving for the set. One more game and he would be just one set away from his first grand slam victory.

It never happened. Inexplicably, Lendl committed a double fault. Like a balloon that suddenly springs a leak, all of the air seeped out of the steely-eyed Czech. Connors suddenly had the opening he needed and the 31-year-old didn't miss it.

"When he double faulted on set point, I said, 'Well, if he's going to do that, he's going to give me a chance,'" said Connors.

It was an invitation to take back the match and Lendl didn't have to ask Jimmy twice.

"I started getting in there and jumping on my returns more," Connors said. "I hit them more solid and started doing something with them instead of playing him back."

Connors won that game and the next one, taking the set that he had been just a Lendl serve away from losing, 7-5.

"My spirits lifted about 50 or 60 percent and I think his dropped a little from that point," Connors noted. "He played a pretty awful game to lose the set. He missed three or four balls for no reason."

Connors' insight was on target. The double fault had taken its toll on Lendl.

"I never really recovered from having set point and double faulting," he said. "If you make a mistake like that, you really don't deserve to win."

No problem there. He didn't win. Connors came out roaring in the fourth set, breaking Lendl's service in the second game.

"I tried to jump on everything and get on top right away," said Connors, who now had his fifth U.S. Open title and the 100th singles championship of his brilliant career in sight.

Despite earning $657,000 this year and more than $4 million in his career, Lendl has had to battle the stigma of never winning a major title.

Lendl's problem with winning a major is similar to the one Martina Navratilova faced on the women's side of the Open, richest of all Grand Prix tournaments.

Navratilova had won the other majors but never had claimed an Open title. That was why her 6-1, 6-3 rubout of Chris Evert Lloyd in Saturday's women's final was so satisfying.

"Everyone was putting pressure on me, but I kept telling myself that I was going to enjoy the tournament, win, lose, or draw. And I did," she said. "I was really intense during the whole match and I wasn't going to let it get away."

There was no danger of that happening as Navratilova dominated Lloyd and claimed the $120,000 first prize as well as a $500,000 bonus from Playtex for winning her third title on three different surfaces this year.

Navratilova also shared the women's doubles crown with Pam Shriver, beating Rosalyn Fairbank and Candy Reynolds 6-7, 6-1, 6-3, picking up an additional $24,000 for that title.

Cowboys sputter early, ignite to blast Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) - At first the Dallas Cowboys pretended again they wanted to be their own worst enemies, but this time quarterback Danny White sensed a difference.

"It was almost scary. It was so similar to the Washington game, except Washington dominated us," said White following the National Football League team's 34-17 triumph Sunday over the St. Louis Cardinals. "Today, it was our fault. Today, we knew we would come back."

Dallas, which rallied from a 23-3 halftime deficit before prevailing 31-30 over the Redskins in its opener last Monday night, this time revived earlier after lagging 10-0.

Ron Springs' first of two touchdown runs launched a Cowboys offensive comeback in the second quarter. Meanwhile, four interceptions of Jim Hart passes bottled up the St. Louis attack. And the winning team, while improving its record to 2-0, coasted after building a 31-10 lead in the closing period.

"Every one played very poor in the first quarter," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, who at the afternoon's end was breathing more easily on his 59th birthday.

"I don't know why, but we came on in the second quarter and played very well. We were very tired all week - the hot weather and coming off the Monday night game," said Landry.

At the outset, to be sure, a pair of lengthy returns by Stump Mitchell were most responsible for placing Dallas in a hoie.

The third-year Cards back first hauled a John Warren punt 16 yards to the Cowboys' 39, setting up Hart's scoring bomb to Roy Green on the next play. Not long afterward, following a 28-yard Mitchell return to the 43, it became 10-0 on Neil O'Donoghue's field goal from the Dallas 13.

White, who completed 19 of 27 passes, zipped a 19-yard bullseye to Tony Hill to set up Springs' first touchdown, a plunge from St. Louis 1, but a turnaround lingered late into the opening half.

Still trailing 10-7, the Cowboys moved ahead on White's 10-yard flip to Drew Pearson. Only 19 seconds later, Dallas made it 17-10 when Everson Walls pilfered a Hart pass and Rafael Septien

Tigers place second, ready for lose to 5A

Fatigue got to the Tigers Saturday, but Coach Leslie O'Pry doesn't believe that will happen Tuesday when the girls resume District 2-4A volleyball play here.

The Tigers, who had lost their opener in the Snyder Tournament on Friday, played three matches Saturday and pushed Amarillo Palo Duro to an extra championship match before falling to the Dons.

"We had a 45-minute workout that morning and
