

Summer School Sessions To Start June 2

Registration for the summer session in Pampa High School will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Monday, June 1.

Classes begin Tuesday, June 2 at 7 a.m. for six days per week. One holiday session will be observed during the summer session on July 4-5. Closing day is July 18.

Courses to be offered include English I, II, and III (literature and grammar); government, Texas History, American and World History, plane geometry, mathematics, Algebra II, boy's and girl's health classes, tennis and girl's physical education; for a $20 fee each course. There will be no charge for the home-making course offered.

Drivers' Education will also be given for a fee of $42. Students are asked to enroll at the east end of the cafeteria. Tuition must be paid in full and only students who have completed the ninth grade are eligible for the summer session.

School Board Rejects Motions To Cut Salaries

Two motions to cut teachers' salaries to meet rising costs of school expenses failed today in a called session of Pampa School Trustees.

Both motions presented by John Gikas and seconded by Warren Hasse were defeated by three other trustees, Dr. R.M. Hampton, Bob Carmichael and Jimmy Thompson.

The first motion was to cut the district's $700 per teacher paid above the minimum state schedule to $500 per teacher failed because Dr. Hampton, Carmichael and Thompson voted against it. The second motion, to cut the increment to $400 above the state schedule, failed for lack of second.

Trustees agreed to discuss the matter again in the next regular board meeting June 15 at Carver Educational Services Center.

Trustees also discussed eliminating 10 teachers to balance the teacher pupil ratio. Fewer teachers will be needed next year, since the district expects to lose 400 pupils, 130 of these in the first grade. No action was taken, but discussion was expected to continue in the June 15 meeting.

Some Stores Will, Some Won't Be Open On Saturday

Adding to the confusion of which stores will be opened and which will be closed on the upcoming Memorial Day Saturday is the announcement from the Downtown Business Association that 25 stores in the downtown area will be closed.

Grocery stores, some department stores, variety stores and most outlets serving the public around the city will be open, however, Saturday for business as usual.

Physician Says Evidence Exists That Some Cancer May Be Contagious

HOUSTON (UPI)—A National Institute of Health physician thinks there is mounting evidence indicating at least one type of human cancer could come from a virus and may be contagious.

Dr. Donald L. Morton, head of the tumor immunology section at the Federal Cancer Research Center in Bethesda, Md., reported today at the 10th International Cancer Congress he has found evidence of a virus in blood specimens from patients suffering from sarcoma.

Sarcoma is a type of cancer which attacks bones, cartilages, muscles, tendons, joints and fatty tissues. Morton said it is a relatively rare form of the disease. The doctor said his evidence that sarcomas are caused by a virus was "strongly circumstantial." He said it could not be definitely proved "until we can get the virus in large enough amounts

NATO Invites Soviets To Talk

Wall Street Report Gives Administration Some Encouragement

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wall Street gave the Nixon administration dramatic news Wednesday and the President apparently gave some of the nation's top businessmen some encouraging reports.

The Dow Jones industrial average — the most closely watched indicator on Wall Street — climbed 32.04 points. It was the largest single-day rise ever recorded, and reversed, at least temporarily, the most prolonged stock market decline since the depression.

The index of 30 selected stocks rose to 663.20 from 631.16 — an even bigger gain than Nov. 26, 1963 after President John F. Kennedy was buried. That day it rose 32.03 points. Nixon met an hour in Washington Wednesday night with 42 leading business and financial leaders. After the

Nixon Plans To Stick To Present Policies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has given some of the country's top business leaders an encouraging report on both the nation's economy and the progress of the Cambodian War.

He apparently told them he will stick by his present policies in dealing with both issues. Nixon met for more than an hour Wednesday night with the 42 business and financial leaders at the end of a day which saw the stock market step into a dramatic reversal in its biggest one-day climb in history.

The meeting was set up in the days before Wednesday's upturn, when the market was spinning steadily downward under the weight of an inflation-weakened economy and fears about new U.S. military involvement in Indochina.

The White House session was held in secret, and the participants were asked not to discuss what went on. But one major corporation executive told UPI afterwards that the President talked for 30 to 45 minutes "in significant depth"

Seniors Plan Mini-Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Seven freshmen and four veteran GOP senators, with White House acquiescence, are mounting a mini-filibuster against a move to limit President Nixon's military operation in Cambodia.

Freshman Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kans., in an interview acknowledged the existence and purpose of a group that has met "informally."

"We believe that every day that passes there is more and more support for the President," Dole said. The Senate has been debating the Cambodia situation for three weeks.

He added that overall in Nixon's presentation "there wasn't much difference from what he has been saying."

Addressing remarks to their fellow classmates will be Randy Cantrell, senior class president; Debbie Veale, valedictorian; and Gayle Griffin, salutatorian.

The seniors will be ushered to their seats and dismissed from the auditorium by the strains of Pomp and Circumstance played by the high school stage band. Musical selections will be presented by the concert choir, who will also lead off the school song "Dear Old Pampa High School."

Parents of graduating seniors are sponsoring Senior Night Activities that will begin with a dance at 10:30 p.m. in the Coronado Inn and continuing until 2 a.m.

For those who do not care to dance, table games will be available in the Emerald Room at The Inn. There will be prizes and refreshments.

Following the dance, there will be a movie beginning at 2:30 a.m. for seniors and their dates at the Capri, "A Man Called Horse," starring Judith Anderson and Richard Harris.

A $50 grand prize will be awarded at the movie.

All seniors are eligible for the prize. Breakfast will be served at 5 a.m. in the First Baptist Church. All events are free.

BALLOON LAUNCH DELAYED

HOUSTON (UPI)—Scientists at Rice University postponed indefinitely Monday's launch of a 15-million cubic foot balloon designed to measure gamma rays because some of the equipment the balloon was to carry was not ready for launch.

North Atlantic Allies Await Reply To Military Talks Offers

ROME (UPI)—The United States and its North Atlantic Allies hope for a Soviet reply within six months to their invitation for talks on East-West troop and arms reductions in Europe, U.S. sources said today.

The 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) foreign ministers who proposed the talks at the end of their two-day spring session Wednesday would like an answer before they meet again in Brussels next December.

Diplomatic sources said the Soviets are likely to oppose any mutual troop withdrawals but are interested in a conference on the subject of European security.

The Allies believe if all goes well, a major European security conference attended by ambassadors or special envoys could be held by mid-1971.

NATO sources said the multilateral European conference would be preceded by bilateral contacts between individual Western and Eastern nations to smooth the way for the wider talks.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers was delighted with the NATO decision, U.S. sources said. They said the United States felt strongly that bilateral discussions should precede any broader negotiations.

Italian Foreign Minister Aldo Moro was assigned by the council to transmit the invitation through diplomatic channels to the Soviets and "all other interested countries."

Officials said these include Russia's Warsaw Pact allies as well as neutral or non-aligned countries.

Diplomatic sources said Russia's reluctance to agree to troop withdrawals is based on its desire to keep men in East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, both for its own security and to keep the Communist allies under control.

Moreover, the Soviets are convinced the United States will withdraw some of its forces unilaterally later next year.

President Nixon To Speak At Graham Crusade On Trip To California White House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon flies to the California White House at San Clemente today for the Memorial Day weekend, stopping en route at Knoxville, Tenn., to speak tonight at evangelist Billy Graham's Crusade.

The crusade is being held at the University of Tennessee's outdoor stadium and it will be the first time Nixon will have been on a college campus since his decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia touched off student violence.

But the University of Tennessee has been relatively free of unrest. There were demonstrations Jan. 15 over the selection of a new president for the university and peaceful rallies after Nixon's Cambodia decision and the killing of four students by National Guardsmen at Kent State.

Nixon and Graham have been friends for years. Graham has spoken twice at the Sunday religious services Nixon inaugurated in the White House.

The White House said Nixon would speak on the problems of youth, particularly the widespread dissent among college students.

"He is President of all the people, Democrats and Republicans and there will not be anything political, I hope, in his visit," said Graham.

"I hope no one tries to make it so, either," he added. Tricia Nixon has secret plans and will not go to San Clemente with her parents.

VC Troops Invade Province Capital

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops shelled and then invaded the Cambodian province capital of Prey Veng early today, battling the defenders in street fighting reported still in progress at mid-morning.

UPI correspondent Robert C. Miller, in Cambodia, reported the Communist troops had blown up all the bridges leading to and from Prey Veng earlier this week in an attempt to isolate the city and close off approach routes for government reinforcements.

They opened their attack on the city at 1 a.m. today with a mortar and rocket barrage and then stormed into the city in street fighting that was reported continuing at 9 a.m. No details of casualties were known.

Prey Veng lies about halfway between Phnom Penh and the border with Vietnam, a few miles north of Highway 1, the thoroughfare that links Saigon with the Cambodian capital.

South Vietnamese troops cleared the highway as one of their first objectives in their cross-border drive.

Allied military spokesmen reported scattered fighting farther north in Cambodia in the Fishhook sector, where guerrilla troops ambushed an American truck convoy Wednesday, killing one GI and wounding four in what was described as a harassment attack.

Military spokesmen said the ambush Wednesday pushed U.S. losses in Cambodia to 223 dead and 834 wounded. South Vietnamese casualties have been placed at 510 killed and more than 2,200 wounded, with Communist deaths estimated at 9,400 dead.

Allied troops operating in the Fishhook found more hidden arms and supplies despite the harassment attacks, reporting 27 tons found by one unit of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division alone. Spokesmen said the cache included 3,720 rifle-grenade rounds.

South Vietnamese soldiers in the same vicinity turned up 48 tons of rice while losing four killed and nine wounded in a skirmish.

Texas Attorney General Overturns Previous Decision On Health Department Ruling

AUSTIN (UPI) — Attorney General Crawford Martin said Wednesday the State Health Department can not force ambulances to carry a trained attendant to care for the patient and another to drive the ambulance.

The decision, in effect, overturned another decision on the same subject he delivered April 13.

In 1943, the legislature said all ambulances must carry a "first aid kit." But it left to the health department the power to regulate what the kit must contain as long as the list was "reasonable."

The State Board of Health issued a minimum equipment requirement list in 1968. However, one fourth of the ambulance operations in service do not meet these requirements.

Martin's opinion of April 13 backed the health department's move to increase the minimum requirements that ambulances must carry. The health department decided to file suits against the ambulances not meeting these requirements. But before it did it wanted Martin to reconsider his ruling because "some of the ambulance people just felt his opinion was questionable."

Martin said the state health department has authority only to set the standards for the first aid kits specified as minimum equipment by the legislature. He said all items the board names as standard must be reasonable and said the board should keep in mind the dictionary definition of a kit is a "box, bag or container."

He said state officials cannot expand beyond items that are "customarily or typically carried in an ambulance first aid kit."

His decision, therefore, said the state health department could not require ambulances to carry a trained attendant in addition to the driver. Under present regulations, an ambulance only needs to have a driver and an attendant to care for the patient is not required.

State Health Commissioner Dr. James Peavy said he still wants to go ahead with suits against 19 ambulance companies that are operating without the equipment specified for the first aid kit.

"The whole thing costs less than $200," Peavy said. "Most of them admit that this is the minimum type of equipment. Most of them agree that this is not an unreasonable list of items."

However other officials claim ambulance operators do not buy the equipment and many of them do not bolt it down rather than use it. Statistics reveal 216 of the 845 ambulance companies in the state are not adequately equipped and 277 of the 1,428 emergency vehicles on the streets lack some of the items listed as "minimum" for the necessary care of accident victims.

Rice President Says Students Entitled Only To Good Education

TEXAS CITY (UPI) — Dr. Frank E. Vandiver, acting president of Rice University, said Wednesday the only thing a college student is entitled to is "a good education."

He asked junior college students who go on to senior colleges "to help the administration."

City To Explore Guidelines For CA Construction

City Manager Charles Hill said today the city expects "reasonably soon" to get an opinion and guidelines on legal procedure for the sale of revenue bonds to make possible construction of a civic auditorium in Pampa.

Hill and City Atty. Bob Gordon conferred for two hours yesterday with bond attorneys in Dallas on various aspects of the city's role in construction of the auditorium under terms of the M.K. Brown Foundation trustees' offer to provide money for building and equipping the structure.

The foundation's offer consists of $400,000 in cash plus income from foundation holdings to retire bonds issued by the city to pay the remaining cost of the auditorium.

Hill said attorneys for the law firm of Dumas, Huguinin and Boothman in Dallas stated they would study the proposal and submit a written opinion at an early date.

"As soon as we get the guidelines to follow," Hill said, "we plan on going ahead immediately with our plans."

Pampa Man Charged With Providing Alcohol To Minors

A Pampa man was fined $200 Wednesday by Justice of the Peace Ed Anderson after entering a plea of guilty to charges of providing alcoholic beverages to minors.

Nickey J. Green, 23, 340 Anne St., was fined after complaints were signed by the parents of three juveniles, two age 15 and one age 14.

City police found the three youth in Green's car shortly before 11 a.m. Wednesday. Officers had been searching for one of the boys, reported missing by his mother Wednesday.

SGT. LARRY MAY ... killed in action

Services Pend For WD Hero

WHITE DEER (Staff) — Mr. and Mrs. Roland P. May of White Deer received notification late Monday afternoon their son, Sgt. Larry Allen May, had been killed in Vietnam on a combat mission May 23. The detonation of a communist booby trap brought death to the White Deer soldier who had arrived in Vietnam approximately three weeks ago.

The body of Sgt. May is being flown from Vietnam to the United States. Upon arrival on the west coast, the body will then be flown to Amarillo and brought to White Deer from there. Funeral details and arrangements will be announced on arrival in White Deer by Carmichael-Whitley Funeral Directors. Family spokesmen have indicated that the funeral services will be held in Sacred Heart Catholic Church in White Deer.

Sgt. Larry Allen May was born June 4, 1947 and was voluntarily inducted into the army on April 15, 1969. He was a 1965 graduate of White Deer High School and was a student at West Texas State University until his induction into the Army.

His death in action came two years and two months after the death of another White Deer soldier, Cal Johnson.

Former Pampan Promoted To New Scout Post

Charles Beard, formerly of Pampa, has been named program director of the Three Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America, at Beaumont. Beard had been serving as district scout executive of the Beaver and Big Thicket Districts.

In his new assignment, Beard will be working fulltime with numerous volunteer committees in the camping and program areas of the 13 counties of the council. He will also serve as local coordinator of tours and expeditions of scouting groups to national and regional events.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Beard, 1022 E. Francis and the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Carruth, 1400 Bond.

Suharto Says Troops Should Be Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American and South Vietnamese forces as well as Communist troops should be withdrawn from Cambodia, according to Indonesian President Suharto.

Suharto, scheduled to pay a courtesy farewell call on President Nixon today, told newsmen at a reception at the Indonesian Embassy Wednesday "I believe that all foreign forces should be withdrawn from Cambodia."

Speaking through an interpreter, Suharto added: "That would include U.S. and South Vietnamese forces as well as Communist troops."

Methodists Convening In Abilene

Methodists in the Northwest Texas District are convening in Abilene's St. Paul Methodist Church today for their annual conference.

Dr. Gaston Foote of Fort Worth will be conference preacher.

Attending from Pampa are Dr. H. Dewitt Seago and John Rosenberg, both of First United Methodist Church; Rev. W.C. Rucker and Earl Black of Harrah Methodist Church; Rev. Max Browning, Mr. and Mrs. James Hall Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McClelland, all of St. Paul Methodist Church.

The conference was slated to get underway at 10 a.m. today and continue until mid-afternoon Sunday. Highlighting the event will be the official merger of the former West Texas and Northwest Texas Districts and the confirmations of appointments to conference churches.

Among the dignitaries attending will be president-elect of McMurry College Dr. Tom Kim, formerly of Korea and Texas Technological teaching staff, who is replacing the retiring president, Dr. Gordon Bennett.

Dr. Luther Kirk of Pampa, conference district superintendent, will be leaving administrative work this year, upon completion of the six-year limit, to return to pastorate service.

SPS To Present Industry Report

The Target Industry Report recently compiled by Southwestern Public Service Co. for the company's trade area will be presented at a meeting set for 10 a.m. next Thursday in the West Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

The report deals with the customized industrial development of the area.

Don Lane, chamber of commerce president, said today the report will be made along with a brief explanation. Chamber directors and members, Industrial Committee members and officials of the Pampa Industrial Foundation are especially urged to attend the meeting, Lane stated.

Car-Cycle Crash Injures Three, One Seriously

A 13-year-old Pampa youth was reported in satisfactory condition at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo today with injuries sustained when two motorcycles and a car collided near 21st and Lynn streets late Wednesday afternoon.

Bray James Caldwell, 13, 2108 N. Dwight, suffered leg injuries when his motorcycle was struck by an automobile shortly after 5:30 p.m. Wednesday. Caldwell was taken to Highland General Hospital and transferred to Amarillo when it was determined treatment required the services of a specialist.

According to police reports the driver of the car, Cecil Allen Smith, 16, 2239 Lynn, was traveling west on 21st street when the motorcycle came out of an alley and was in collision with the car.

Another motorcycle, following Caldwell's vehicle, crashed into the car. The driver of the second cycle, Demos Gregory, 13, 1922 N. Faulkner, and a passenger on Caldwell's motorcycle, Danny J. McQuire, 13, 1820 N. Zimmers, were taken to Highland General, treated for minor injuries and released. Smith was not injured. Damages were estimated at $200 to Smith's car and $300 to each of the motorcycles.

Stereo Player, Speaker Stolen

Police today were investigating the theft of a stereo tape player and speaker from a car parked at Pampa High School Wednesday.

David Turner, 125 N. Paulkner, told officers the stereo was taken from his car sometime during school hours. Turner valued the equipment at $80.

Moon Stone Dates To Planet Formation

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—One of the Apollo 12 moon stones, formed 4.6 billion years ago and the most ancient lunar or earth rock man has ever seen, may help scientists prove all parts of our solar system formed about the same time.

The space agency says the lemon-size stone is "clearly the oldest rock yet found on the moon," dating back to the time scientists believe the sun and its planets were born.

Space agency officials announced discovery of the rock Tuesday and said it was unlike anything else brought back to earth by U.S. moon explorers. They said its chemistry was "unique" and that it was 20 times more radioactive than other lunar samples.

"If there was one dream or one hope that many people had from before the first landing on the moon, it was that we eventually (find) a sample that would date back to formation of the planets and perhaps even the solar system," said Dr. Paul Gast, chief of lunar and earth sciences at the Houston Space Center.

But he said no one anticipated it would happen this quickly. The "very exciting" discovery, he said, was announced simultaneously in Houston and at an International Space Congress meeting in Leningrad, Russia.

Colored light gray with cloudy white crystals and darker gray "marble cake" streaks, it measured three-fourths of an inch thick, an inch wide and 1.5 inches long.

The first hint it was different, Anthony J. Calo, director of science and applications said, came when its radioactivity was measured. He said that test showed the rock contained "20 times as much uranium, thorium and potassium as any other lunar rock."

Calo said after this discovery plans were laid to cut the rock as carefully as if it were a rare virgin diamond. Early this month, he said, a single slice was given to a team of scientists from the United States and England for initial studies.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A leading financial writer noted the other day that the stock market drop this spring, although seemingly steep enough to strike terror in the ranks of investors, had produced little or none of the 1929 type panic.

This could mean that modern investors are men of true grit. Or it could mean that modern investors don't understand the situation. Or it could mean that economist Paul Samuelson is right.

According to Samuelson, "The weakness in the market is not explicable in terms of weakness in the economy."

Rather, he says, "The market's performance is a political and sociological reflection of what's going on in the nation."

The postulation that people buy and sell stocks because of political and sociological factors was, to me, both novel and intriguing. I had always assumed that the only motivating force behind the stock market was greed.

Samuelson's theory does, however, explain the absence of panic. If people aren't in the market for the money, then they have no cause for swindling out the window as the Dow Jones average fades into the sunset.

For instance, one of the market's bigger daily drops came after President Nixon announced his decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia.

The stock selling wave that accompanied that action probably was touched off by dovish tycoons, such as Samuel J. Toro.

Mrs. Toro: "Did you hear the news about Cambodia, dear?"
Toro: "Yes, I did, and I intend to register a protest."
Mrs. Toro: "Are you going to Washington and join the anti-war demonstration?"
Toro: "No, I'm going to call my broker and sell 1,000 shares of International Waterdown."

Mrs. Toro: "Won't you make a lot of money on the transaction?"
Toro: "Certainly I'll make a lot of money. But that's not the point. I bought this stock to show my support for the Nov. 15 moratorium last year. By unmooring it now I can demonstrate my opposition to any expansion of the war."

Mrs. Toro: "But the President says American troops will make only a limited foray into Cambodia and will withdraw by July 1."
Toro: "In that case, maybe I'll only sell 500 shares."
Mrs. Toro: "The President also says the Cambodian incursion will hasten eventual peace in Vietnam."

Toro: "Okay. I'll sell 100 shares as an antiwar protest and 400 shares as a protest against environmental pollution."

Ziegler Gets Surprise Dunking

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's press secretary, Ron Ziegler, was shoved fully clothed into a swimming pool by a Democratic congressional employee during a cocktail party that looked like something from the pool-dunking days of the Kennedy era, it was reported Tuesday.

The man who pushed Ziegler into the water was later shoved in himself, followed by several other party goers, according to Maxine Cheshire in a column appearing in today's editions of the Washington Post.

The article identified Ziegler's pusher as Len Bickwit, who is employed by the Commerce subcommittee on the environment chaired by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

Wholesale Prices In Spiraling Trend

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices rose again this month as the nation remained in the grip of an inflation in some ways worse than the price spiral that accompanied the Korean War.

The Labor Department reported Tuesday the wholesale price index for May rose 0.2 per cent, resuming its climb after having been unchanged in April.

For the motorist, the figures probably will mean higher retail gasoline prices. The department said the wholesale price of gasoline led the 0.3 per cent advance in industrial commodities.

There was both good and bad news for the food shopper. Meat and fish declined while vegetables, fruit, milk and live poultry increased. Processed foods and feeds declined 0.7 per cent overall and farm products dipped 0.1 per cent.

Wholesale price increases often show up as higher retail prices during the next month. When the wholesale price index remained unchanged last month after 17 straight months of increases, Nixon administration economists cited it as evidence that inflation was being brought under control.

The wholesale price index this month was 116.8 per cent of the 1957-59 average. This means it cost $116.80 to buy the same wholesale commodities that could have been obtained for $100 in April or $100 a little more than a decade ago. The index was 3.5 per cent higher than it was a year ago.

Wholesale prices rose 10.7 per cent during the 37 months of the Korean War. During the most recent 37 months of the Vietnam War, wholesale prices have advanced 10.9 per cent.

In related economic developments: —The White House disclosed President Nixon has invited nearly 100 business and financial leaders to a White House dinner today at which they will be briefed on his decision to send U.S. troops into Cambodia and the status of the economy. —The Commerce Department reported its index of leading business indicators declined 0.1 per cent in March. This index includes eight statistics that usually foreshadow changes in the economy.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—When viewed in the future with the benefit of hindsight, "the hysterical reactions" to events in Southeast Asia and to recent trends in the domestic economy will "prove to have been unwarranted," Argus Research Corporation says. Furthermore, the company foresees in the next few weeks "a considerable restoration of confidence" in the security markets as fears of new escalations in the war "subside."

The bear market we are now witnessing is "the most vicious since the days of FDR and Hoover" and it has "absolutely murdered" numerous stocks, according to Walston & Co. However, the company adds bear markets "usually go way to low, much further than really justified," thus many stocks today will "prove to be cheap" in the long run.

Hayden, Stone, Inc., expects periodic rallies but views anticipation of an aggressive turnaround as "illogical" until some favorable news replaces the current "dark military, monetary and political clouds."

1970 is not 1907 nor 1929, Loeb, Rhoads & Co. says. Not only are there "immense chances of institutional nature" but the current recession was not "triggered by some major distortion in the credit, investment or consumption areas." Rather, it was started as "a controlled experiment" to fight inflation and there is no basis to believe that it "will go out of control," the firm adds.

Secretary Assures Allies Of Decreasing Indochina Role

ROME (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers has assured America's allies at today's North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting that U.S. troops will cease their active combat role in Indochina within a year.

U.S. officials said Rogers has repeated President Nixon's promise to withdraw all American troops from Cambodia by July 1, the officials said.

He met privately Monday with several delegates to the two-day NATO Council of Ministers meeting opening at 10:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. EDT).

The sources said Rogers told the foreign ministers the Nixon administration believes the presence of Soviet pilots in Egypt has brought a new "qualitative element" into the Arab-Israeli conflict but has not yet necessarily altered the balance of military power in the Middle East.

Few Cabinet Officials To Speak At Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Few top Nixon administration officials plan to take part in commencement day ceremonies on the nation's troubled college campuses.

President Nixon has not scheduled any commencement addresses, the White House said. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew plans to address graduates of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., on June 3.

Of the 12 cabinet members, only five have speaking plans, a survey of their offices showed. Two of the administration's top-ranking black officials, HUD General Assistant Secretary Samuel C. Jackson, and HEW Assistant Secretary James Farmer, will make several commencement addresses.

Among cabinet officers who turned down invitations, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz said, "just could not work it into the schedule." Attorney General John N. Mitchell "felt he should be here," Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy was "so heavily committed for major speeches in June that he declined all commencement addresses," and Secretary George W. Romney of Housing and Urban Development did not wish to commit himself that far in advance, their offices said. Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin had been scheduled to speak at the University of Illinois next month, his office said, but the event was canceled, and Secretary of State William P. Rogers has no commencement plans either, his office said.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount did not get any requests, a spokesman said, adding that "he would have been happy to speak."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and most other members of the military establishment are avoiding civilian campuses, the Pentagon reported.

Laird will speak June 3 at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. Navy Secretary John H. Chafee will address commencement exercises at Central Connecticut State College in New Britain on Sunday.

Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) officials have a flurry of commencement plans, headed by Secretary Robert H. Finch, who is scheduled for addresses June 2 at Arizona State University in Tempe and June 12 at Ohio State University in Columbus.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel will speak June 6 at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N.J.

Other cabinet members with speaking plans are Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe and Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, each with three scheduled appearances.

OVERDUE DEBT

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Owners of a local restaurant said a man repaid a 27-year-old debt Tuesday for a meal he ate in 1943 and was unable to pay for because he forgot his wallet. They said the man explained he had been out of the country and was unable to repay the $120 debt until now.

Viet Cong Terrorism May Increase

SAIGON (UPI) — This could be the year of the terrorist in South Vietnam according to Vietnam expert Douglas Pike, who has written a study entitled "The Viet Cong Strategy of Terror."

The publication of Pike's latest work was particularly timely. It coincided with the release in Saigon of a South Vietnamese government study which reported the highest number of civilians killed in terror attacks since the Saigon government started counting in 1966.

It said 456 civilians were killed, 871 injured, and 320 kidnapped by the Communists in the week ending May 13.

"The capability, scope and importance of this sort of mass terror operation has broadened steadily in the past 18 months. We can expect to see it grow in importance," Pike said.

Traditionally, the Communists have used terror for three reasons, wrote Pike: To diminish the opposing force, to sustain Communist morale, and to disorient and psychologically isolate the individual.

But, in the past, terror has been just an ingredient in the entire Communist program. The Communists sought to produce "an underpinning of terror, an ominous specter always hovering in the background, ideally threatening but never emerging."

The shift in communist strategy is toward the use of mass terror. Pike offers as his prime example of the new shade of terror the Communist massacres in Hue, in February of 1968. The slaughter of more than 3,000 Vietnamese civilians in Hue has been termed the war's most brutal and senseless example of terror for terror's sake. But Pike disagreed with this analysis.

The Communists realized they could not hold Hue. But the Communist underground in Hue had exposed itself and destroyed its cover. It became necessary for the Communists to kill witnesses, to "liquidate" anyone in Communist hands who could identify individual party members. Kill secretly and hide bodies carefully.

Pike used the example of the Hue massacres to demonstrate that the Communists have changed from their traditional limited use of terror to a broader general terrorism. In light of the Allies' Cambodian campaign and the destruction and capture of Communist supplies, perhaps terrorism is the only strategy remaining for the Communists in South Vietnam. But it is too early to tell whether the Communists will be content to accept victory by default, in the form of a protracted war.

Supreme Court Denies Hearing To Houston Firm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday denied a hearing to a Houston firm which claimed it should be allowed to keep $10 million in funds from natural gas supplies.

The court's brief order concerning Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. leaves standing a Federal Power Commission (FPC) decision that the funds should be distributed to customers who are mostly utility firms in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mark Memorial Day With Family Picnic | Frosty Fruit Bombe Guarantees To Sustain

Memorial Day is just two days away and when the weatherman cooperates, the family usually thinks about a holiday picnic. It's a chance for the whole family to get together and enjoy the outdoors. And you, as a homemaker, will enjoy it more if you make it simple for yourself. Plan an easy-to-transport and easy-to-serve picnic. For the fun of it, have the members of your family create their own sandwich masterpieces. It takes the work out of serving.

Special sandwich ideas come quickly when you supply a wide variety of ingredients. Start out with wafer thin sliced meats of several different varieties. Some people like hard salami, a smoked sausage mildly seasoned with garlic, and an all beef bologna with a distinctive smoky tang. Perhaps an all pork sausage which is mildly flavored with garlic and not smoked, could be combined with a finely chopped, cooked sausage that is mildly flavored

The sausage is sliced wafer-thin to let the flavor come through. The slices are extremely thin and tender, making them excellent for layering in sandwiches. The bigger the appetite, the thicker the layers.

You'll also want to provide vegetables, cheeses and a variety of breads like hard rolls and small French breads. Spread the rolls with mustard or butter; layer with lettuce or cheese and the family is off to a great start to make-it-yourself sandwiches.

So it's fair game for the adventuresome sandwich maker. The men in your family will show their sandwich-making skill as they decide which breads, cheeses and vegetables they want to combine.

Reputation As 'Perfectly Smashing Cook'

It's possible to gain a reputation for being a perfectly smashing cook without really trying, with a few recipes such as this one for Frosty Fruit Bombe to your credit. Little skill is required as the freezer does most of the work for you, and using a high quality ice cream and sherbet, delectable eating is guaranteed.

An ice cream bombe can be prepared in many variations but the underlying plan is always the same. With a pretty mold to hold things together, two or more flavors of ice cream or sherbet are layered and frozen into a concoction that is as pleasing to see as it is to eat.

This Frosty Fruit Bombe combines ice cream with sherbet for special effects in flavor and color. As the recipe is so easy, perhaps the greatest know-how will be required at the ice cream case. Choose a brand that you know means quality. Your Bombe will be as excellent as the ice cream and sherbet you choose. The "something special" about this Frosty Fruit Bombe is the center filling of spicy whipped cream. It's a do-ahead dessert that is a perfect follow-up to a glamorous Memorial Day dinner party.

It also waits patiently if you are bringing after-theater guests home for dessert.

FROSTY FRUIT BOMBE

(Yield: 10-12 servings)
1 quart party peach ice cream

1 pint lime sherbet

1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

1/2 cup powdered sugar

1 cup whipping cream

Walnut halves.....

Chill a decorative 1 1/4 quart mold one hour. Remove from freezer. Using back of spoon or spatula press party peach ice cream evenly over interior of mold to make a shell one inch deep. If ice cream becomes too soft, return to freezer for five minutes, then continue spreading. Freeze about two to three hours, until firm.

For the center layer, spread lime sherbet evenly over the party peach shell and refreeze several hours.

In a small bowl mix cinnamon and powdered sugar. Pour whipping cream into a chilled mixing bowl and beat until frothy. Gradually add cinnamon-sugar mixture and beat until stiff.

Fill center cavity of mold with whipped cream mixture and freeze until serving time. Unmold by setting bombe in pan of tap water for five to 10 seconds.

Good sources of vitamin C or ascorbic acid should be eaten daily. This vitamin is needed by the body because it does many things for it. Vitamin C is needed to help resist infection to make cementing materials that hold the body cells together to make the walls of blood vessels firm and to aid in healing wounds and broken bones.

Your Horoscope JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, MAY 29
Your birthday, Friday, is a day of great responsibilities. You are coming your way in the year ahead. Your ambitions are subject to sudden setbacks and equally sudden successes. You must be ready to make adaptations on short notice. Friday's natives tend to have refined tastes, some vestive and critical attitudes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Fill out the workweek evenly despite the urge to quit early or to leave things unfinished. Make no promises now. Your tact is needed with close associates.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your work is uphill, with other people intent on their own concerns or even competing with you. Do what you can without creating an atmosphere of discontent.

EMINI (May 21-June 20): Your imagination provides a fresh approach. Immediate cooperation may be difficult to find, erratic when you do find it. Stay lively, cheerful, and on the move all day.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Home and business interests probably clash now. Something has to give if you don't manage a balance. Lushing off in another direction is not the answer.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): There is unavoidable haste and stress in getting the workweek closed out. Keep a cheerful attitude. Put personal concerns to the back of your mind until evening.

loved ones, something that sets the tone for a rewarding weekend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be proud of the way you rise to Friday's passing crises with tact and persistence in the evening review the events so as to be prepared for future incidents.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): On this complex day do one thing at a time and go on to the next. The evening is more comfortable — but don't look back, just go onward.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your approval of a "Mamma doll" who could have a "baby doll" horrified me, too.

I have young children and I know how they play, and it's not necessary for them to have such toys. A baby being born is beautiful and sacred, and not something for dirty-minded little boys to snicker at. And don't tell me young boys are not dirty-minded, because they are.

ALSO HORRIFIED
DEAR ABBY: I have six grandchildren, and I am much more "horrified" to see them playing with toy tanks, machine guns, and pistols than I would a doll who can wet her pants and give birth. Wetting the pants and giving birth are natural and normal, and we can't "protect" our young from the essential facts of life and the wonders of mother-nature.

After all, many small children know where eggs and kittens and puppies come from, so what's wrong with a Mamma doll?

Highlights And Sidelights From The State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association
AUSTIN — Big turnover in state jobs is costing taxpayers $19 million a year.
Henry Rothell, associate administrator of Texas Employment Commission, said the turnover of 26.48 per cent is due to "competitiveness" of industrial salaries.
"The state is acting as a training agency for private industry at a cost too expensive to follow," the veteran employment executive reported.
Despite difficulties in retaining skilled personnel, state employees have received substantial pay raises from the last two legislative sessions. Unemployment rate for the state as a whole continues well

Employees in convention here were urged to continue working with legislative bodies to help solve the problems.
INDUSTRIAL RACE ON — Plans for establishment of 126 new manufacturing plants and expansion of 176 existing plants in the first five months of 1970 are reported in "Texas Industrial Expansion," published by UT's Bureau of Business Research.
Twenty-nine new plants reported in May alone are located in Aransas Pass, Commerce (2), Corpus Christi, Corsicana, Dalhart, Duncanville, El Paso, Fort Worth (4), Galveston, Garland (2), Grand Saline, Houston (3), Katy, Laredo, Lubbock, McGregor, Mineral Wells, Pearlland, Richardson, San Marcos, Seabrook, Stanton and Tyler.

Thirty new plants to be expanded right away are located in Amarillo, Baytown, Big Spring, Bishop, Clarksville, Dalhart, Decatur, Elsa, Fort Worth, Friona, Garland, Gatesville, Houston (4), Lone Star, Lubbock, Lufkin, Marshall, Odessa (2), Palacios, Plainview, Post, Seabrook, Stafford, Texas City, Tyler and Waco.
DRAFT QUOTA SET — Texas draft call for June is down again — from 834 in May to 801, and no man will be inducted with a random sequence number higher than 170.
State quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in June is 2,320, less than half the May figure of 5,828.

Those with random sequence numbers 1-215 will be the only ones sent for these exams. No men with random sequence numbers above 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice.
Men born in 1951, who have no random sequence numbers, will not be called for this purpose. A drawing will be held later this year to establish the numbers for the 1951 group. All volunteers at the draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for induction by random sequence number.
Texas' induction quota is the state's share of June's national call of 15,000 men, all for the Army.

FLOOD COVERAGE STARTED — Areas of Baytown and Dickinson Bayou in Harris and Galveston County are the first two Texas communities to establish eligibility for emergency food insurance.
Insurance at federally-subsidized premium rates may be obtained up to $17,500 for single family homes and up to $30,000 for two- to four family dwellings. Small business coverage also is available. Home rates range from 40 to 50 cents per $100. Contents may be insured up to $5,000.
Twenty-three other Texas political subdivisions have filed for certification of eligibility for the coverage, and 60 others in their office, and a vacancy May. It also created when a judge is removed for cause. So ruled Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:
Political party precinct committeemen are not entitled to compensation or expense allowances for attending a county executive committee meeting.
Mental Health-Mental Retardation commissioner may remove his deputy for constitutional cause without MHR board approval.
Former Brownwood fireman who was rehired is eligible to participate in the city retirement fund though he now is over 35; however, to get credit for previous service, he would have to refund contributions earlier made and withdrawn.
State Board of Morticians has authority to request disinterment of a body by a county medical examiner, and the examiner may order disinterment if facts show need for inquest.

SCHOOL LITE PICKED — Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation accepted a 200-acre site a mile south of Brenham and named architects for the $3 million "first phase" of new Brenham State School. Survey showed 1,262 Washington County citizens are willing to work as volunteers to assist the mentally retarded at the facility.
Board also accepted $102,020 in federal and state grants for services to the mentally ill and retarded. Richmond State School received $73,995 for the second of a three-year physical development research grant for semi-ambulatory retardates.
These state schools received U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department grants for student work experience and training: Abilene, $4,700; Austin, $4,800; Mexia, $4,800; and Travis, $4,700.
Texas Research Institute for Mental Sciences, Houston, got a $9,025 Texas Foundation for Mental Health and Mental Retardation grant for research on alcoholism.
AG RULES — Judges may retire when eligible on any date they choose and create a vacancy

Figures will allow for production of 3,309,344 barrels of crude oil daily. Present allowable permits a top of 3,543,562 barrels a day.
Just three of 13 major purchasers suggested more oil in June. Four asked less, and six were content with the same as this month's allocation. Written nominations came to 3,157,227 barrels a day for June, 94,624 less than May.
RATES UP — Higher fire, extended coverage and homeowners insurance rates are due to go into effect July 1, if the State Board of Insurance follows its staff's recommendations.
However, the Board knows of no company request yet in the making for higher auto policy premiums.
Board staff said new building coverage will vary in price according to construction, location and use.
Homeowners' policies may go up as much as 18 per cent statewide, but fire coverage will increase only about 1.7 per cent, under staff recommendations pending before the Board.
SHORT SNORTS — West Texas feedlot owners are asking the State Water Quality Board to exempt them from water pollution regulations because their lots are in dry areas where the run off won't flow into a stream or river.
Tommy Townsend of Paris now is acting sergeant-at-arms of the Texas Senate, succeeding Jeff Davis of Austin, who resigned.
Finding out who owns how much in delinquent ad valorem taxes on what kind of property to which of the 3,300 taxing authorities in the state is the job the Delinquent Ad Valorem Tax Study Commission hopes to finish before the next session of the Legislature.

Scientist Close To Leukemia Cure?

HOUSTON (UPI) — A French scientist is working on a cure for leukemia which involves making the body work harder to fight and kill its own cancerous cells.
Dr. Georges Mathe said at the 10th International Cancer Congress his process has been significant success since it began. Seven of the 12 patients he has treated with this method are alive and have been free of leukemia symptoms from two to five years.
Mathe said his treatment involves three steps. First, a treatment is administered designed to wipe out a large number of the cells. Second, X-rays are used to treat the central nervous system which reduces still further the number of leukemia cells. Third, patients are given two substances to make their natural immunity to disease work harder to kill the rest of the cells.
Mathe said Monday the treatment apparently makes the body work more effectively to fight the cancerous cells than it normally would.
Many scientists believe the reason the normal immunity to leukemia cells doesn't work is because there are just too many of the cells and the body's natural immunity is simply overwhelmed by sheer numbers. These scientists say that if the number of leukemic cells can be reduced below the one million mark, the body can effectively kill the rest of the diseased cells.
But Mathe said his combination of drugs, X-ray and stimulation of the body's immunity forces, is still in a stage too early to tell if it really leukemia cure.

South Texas Cities Lose In Population

2-36 SOUTH TEXAS ... By United Press International Preliminary census figures from the Rio Grande Valley show many South Texas cities and counties have lost population for the first time in 100 years. Officials are livid.

Texas District Accused Of Civil Rights Violation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has accused a school district in Southwest Texas of violating the 1964 Civil Rights Act by discriminating against Mexican-American schoolchildren.
It was the first action involving Mexican-American school problems taken under the 1964 statute. The Justice Department filed a complaint and a request to intervene in a private suit previously filed by the parents of eight Mexican-American children.
The suit accused officials of the Sonora Independence school district in Sutton County with racial discrimination. The government said Tuesday the district has no Mexican-American or black teachers and provides unequal educational opportunities for Chicano children by failing to offer bilingual and other programs to help Spanish speaking children overcome language and cultural barriers.
The government also said pupil assignment zones had resulted in one elementary school with a 100 per cent minority enrollment and a lower percentage of Mexican-Americans in other schools in the district.

Town Has Big Plans But Thwarted By Train

TEIGNMOUTH, England (UPI) — For months, Teignmouth hotel owners and shopkeepers had been planning for the May 25 arrival of British Rail's special tourist train.
At 12:30 p.m. a special reception committee of Teignmouth officials stood on a gaily decorated train platform and watched the special train approach—and roar right on through.
A British Rail spokesman explained later the engineer thought the first stop was at Torquay.

Texas Regents Will Discuss Withdrawal From SWC

By ROLAND LINDSEY
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The board of regents of the University of Texas, home of the nation's No. 1 football team, meets Friday to study reports on whether the Longhorns should consider withdrawing at least partially from the Southwest Conference.

The board, meeting in El Paso, will hear reports from Athletic Director-Head Coach Darrell Royal and the school's athletic council chairman, J. Neils Thompson, on their reaction to proposals from some quarters that the huge state school secede from the league.

Texas officials are obviously irritated at action taken at the spring conference meeting that would limit the school's golf schedule, and also at a reprimand of two Texas baseball players and Coach Cliff Gustafson. So for the second time this decade, there have been hints dropped that Texas might get out of the conference. But they are tight-lipped about what recommendations—if any—Thompson and Royal will pass on to the regents meeting Friday at the University of Texas at El Paso.

There appears to be no clear sentiment among the regents themselves. Chairman Frank C. Erwin Jr. of Austin calls the question a "serious concern" and Regent Jenkins Garrett of Fort Worth says it may be "a sports writer's question that got blown up out of proportion."

The Longhorns threatened six years ago—at another meeting in El Paso—to quit the league. The regents then appointed a committee to study the school's athletic policies, but no action ever came from that study.

The matter surfaced again this spring after the conference censured Texas pitcher James Street and catcher Tom Harmon for their part in a fracas in Austin April 18 in which Baylor baseball Coach Dutch Schroeder was knocked unconscious in a collision with Street.

At that same meeting, the league representatives placed a limit on the number of non-conference tournaments—a member golf team can enter, severely curtailing the schedule of the Longhorns. The action had a lesser effect on other conference schools where less emphasis is placed on golf. Lou Maysel, sports editor of the Austin American-Statesman who is often a bellwether of changes in Texas sports policies, said in a recent column the school's first step toward leaving the Southwest Conference might be to withdraw from the league golf competition.

Erwin said the regents Friday will receive a report on the situation from Royal and Thompson, "and after we receive the report we will decide what, if any, action we wish to take on it." Erwin added "we could just receive the report and do nothing—I don't know that there's going to be any action taken one way or the other."

Atlanta Wins, 8-1

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Rico Carty, who has hit in 40 of the Braves' 43 games, collected three singles and drove in a run to pace the Atlanta Braves to an 8-1 rout of the Houston Astros Wednesday night.

After recovering from the case of TB and a shoulder injury, Carty started late last year and hit .342 in 104 games. Now he's back in his prime and is the first player in several years who'll take a 400 average into June. He's 15-for-28 in his last eight games for a .536 clip that's boosted his average to .432. He was hitting .436 when the 31 string was snapped.

"Everything is just lovely," Carty beamed after the win over Houston. "We want to win and we think we can."

The Braves wrapped up the victory with a six-run second inning. Carty singled in the first run of the inning to knock out loser Denny Lemaster and Orlando Cepeda then slammed Jim Ray's first pitch for a three-run homer. Phil Niekro, 5-6, pitched a five-hitter to get the win.

In the other games, Pittsburgh blanked Chicago, 4-0. Cincinnati edged San Diego, 6-4. New York shut out St. Louis, 3-0. Philadelphia beat Montreal, 3-0, and San Francisco routed Los Angeles, 11-3.

In the American League, Washington beat Boston, 7-5. Kansas City nipped Chicago, 4-3. Baltimore defeated Cleveland, 5-4. New York topped Detroit, 4-2, and Oakland topped California, 4-3. The Minnesota at Milwaukee game was rained out.

Tony Perez hit his 17th homer to take over the major league lead—a two-run shot in the eighth inning that snapped a 4-4 tie as the Reds topped the Padres. Clay Carroll, who came on after rookie Wayne Simpson was lifted for a pinch batter with the Reds trailing by two, got the win.

Bob Moose pitched a four-hitter and Roberto Clemente batted in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the fifth as the Pirates beat the Cubs. Ferguson Jenkins, struggling with a 3-7 record, took the loss.

Orioles Increase Eastern Lead With 5-4 Victory Over Cleveland

By GARY KALE
UPI Sports Writer

Relief specialist Dick Hall, who will be 40 on Sept. 27, finds the generation gap is helping to widen the Baltimore Orioles' lead in the American League East.

The old man of the Baltimore mound corps threw just four pitches—Wednesday night to beat the Cleveland Indians, 5-4, for his fifth victory in six decisions. To achieve the triumph, Hall induced Ray Fosse to pop out with runners on first and third, ending a three-run Indian uprising in the seventh inning.

Hall, who has been pitching in the majors for 13 years, had to admit "this is undoubtedly the easiest victory I ever earned." He has pitched only 20 2-3 innings this season and all but one appearance has been short and sweet.

The six-foot, six-inch, 220-pound Hall checked Cleveland lead in time. The three runs provided the Indians with a 3-2 lead, but Baltimore came back in its half of the seventh inning to go ahead on Don Buford's two-run single. Starter Jim Palmer hit his first homer of the year for the Orioles as they maintained a 7 1/2 game lead over New York.

In other AL action, New York stopped Detroit, 4-2; Washington defeated Boston, 7-5; Oakland edged California, 4-3, and Kansas City tripped Chicago, 4-3. Milwaukee at Minnesota was rained out.

In the National League, Atlanta routed Houston, 8-1. Pittsburgh blanked Chicago, 4-0. Cincinnati beat San Diego, 6-4. New York shut out St. Louis, 3-0. Philadelphia topped Montreal, 3-0, and San Francisco mauled Los Angeles, 11-3.

Singles by Danny Cater and Curt Blefary accounted for three runs in the first inning, providing Yankee southpaw Fritz Peterson with his seventh victory in nine decisions. Joe Niekro suffered his fourth loss to square his record for the season.

Midland Lee Sandout Signs Cage Agreement At West Texas State

CANYON — Dan Boyce, a standout guard, has signed an athletic scholarship agreement with West Texas State University basketball coach Dennis Walling.

The 6-1 Boyce averaged 17 points per game and seven assists at Midland Lee High School in Midland.

Boyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boyce, was named Most Valuable Player in the "Tall Texan Tournament" at Midland and was named to all-tournament teams at Brownwood and Plainview.

"Dan is the first freshman guard we've signed this year," said Walling. "He has outstanding quickness and shooting ability. He is a great competitor and is capable of playing Missouri Valley Conference basketball."

West Texas State is presently being considered for MVC membership.

Boyce, who plans to major in education at West Texas State, led his team to a 27-6 season record this past year.

Will Wheelwright Lounge Be Next Bachelors III?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Another Bachelors III episode may be unfolding—this time in New Orleans.

An article in this week's edition of Sports Illustrated says that fullback Ernie Wheelwright of the New Orleans Saints has opened a night spot in New Orleans in a building reputedly owned by underworld chieftain Carlos Marcello.

The situation is similar to the Bachelors III situation involving quarterback Joe Namath of the New York Jets last summer. Namath was forced to sell his interest in the Manhattan nightclub when the American Football League learned that the place was frequented by underworld figures.

"We expressed our concern to Wheelwright a couple of weeks ago, and we are continuing to explore it," said Rozelle. "Our security people talked to him in the very early stages and they told him they thought it would be wise if he did not get involved. But he went ahead and opened it anyway. We must get as much information as we can then decide what course of action we can take. We'd like to have pretty strong information before we give him an ultimatum. You might say the Namath situation developed in similar fashion."

Wheelwright's connection with the underworld stems from the ownership of the building where his bar, Ernie Wheelwright's Central Park South, is located, according to the article. The article says that law enforcement authorities feel that the landlord of the bar is really Marcello, the most powerful Mafia figure on the Gulf Coast.

ERNE BANKS, ever the happy optimist, has something more to jump for joy about than merely another sun-shining Chicago day. His 50th home run was another milestone in his career with the Cubs.

Shaving Strokes by Frank Beard

15—Waggle Your Putter

In putting, some of the seemingly littlest things can make the biggest difference. Like a waggle, for instance.

At least eight million words have been written about the value of a waggle when you're addressing a drive or an iron shot, but how often have you heard it said that a waggle can be a big help on the green?

A waggle, of course, is any little movement to break the tension just prior to a shot, usually following the early-path backswing will take.

Before hitting a putt, employ some preliminary movement to relax and get improved rhythm. Raise and lower the putter, or draw it back slightly a couple of times. If you watch the pros prepare to putt, you'll see almost as many variations of wagging as there are players, but they all serve the same purpose.

In reality, you are starting your stroke with your waggle, although you want to return your clubhead to its accustomed position square to the ball before your backstroke. Doing anything from a standing start is much more difficult than preceding it with a slight movement. So waggle your putter, too.

Thomas Tourney Is Set

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—"If I ever get any better, I'm going to be a helluva player," moaned chunky Lee Trevino, striking briskly off the 12th green after backhanding in a birdie putt on the run.

"I've got to see a doctor," the wise-cracking Texan told the crowd of autograph seekers and reporters clustered around him. "I've got some vertebrae out and my back is killing me."

Bad back or no, Trevino fired a three-under-par 67 in Wednesday's pro-am and is one of the favorites in the $150,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Classic which begins today at the short, tight and sunbaked Colonial Country Club course.

Dapper in checkered green pants and solid green shirt, the colorful Trevino called his score "only par out there" and predicted other sub-par rounds in the tournament.

Tour veteran Gene Littler added credence to that prediction with a sizzling 63 to finish lowest in the pro-am, and 37 others in the field shot par or better.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player bypassed the tournament to take a break before next month's U.S. Open.

Despite the absence of golf's "big three" the tournament has attracted 21 of the 30 top money winners and 16 champions from 22 tour events already played this year.

This field includes defending champion Dave Hill, the only two-time winner here, and such notables as Masters champion Billy Casper, U.S. Open king Orville Moody and PGA winner Ray Floyd.

Others considered strong contenders for the $30,000 top prize money include Tommy Aaron and Tom Weiskopf, who finished 1-2 in last week's Atlanta Classic after a playoff with Homero Blancas, Dan Sikes and Lee Elder.

Killing The Butterflies

"THE RICH & POWERFUL ARE KILLING ALL THE BUTTERFLIES. IF YOUR CHILDREN ARE TO SEE BUTTERFLIES YOU MUST BE A REVOLUTIONARY AND YOURSELF TAKE CONTROL OF YOUR LIFE AND ITS SURROUNDINGS."

That's what the poster said. And it wasn't posted in some (openly) socialistic organization's meeting hall, either; but in a prominent place, just inside the entrance of a Colorado elementary "public" school.

Just what does the poster mean? We submit that it is one of the most cleverly done pieces of socialistic propaganda we have ever encountered and, as such, a blatant, although insidious, attack on capitalism, private enterprise, and the concept of private property.

We say "clever" and "insidious" because, obviously, anyone daring to criticize the poster is immediately open to charges of attacking the child who created it (we're not, our concern being with the adults and system that put such distorted ideas in the child's head), of supporting the "rich and powerful" against the "poor and downtrodden," of being the enemy of butterflies, and against a clean environment, motherhood and apple pie in general.

But let's take the several elements of the poster one at a time.

To begin with, the charge that the "rich and powerful are killing all the butterflies" is, at best, only a half-truth. To the extent that butterflies are killed (if they are) by pesticides, insecticides and other pollutants, all of us who make use of them, the rich, the middle-income group, and the poor alike are all guilty.

So why, it must be asked, were the rich (who, incidentally, are taxed heavily to support the very school in which the poster appeared) singled out to begin such a malicious attack? In an institution, supposedly dedicated to educating children, rather than brainwashing them, the appearance of such a poster is inexcusable.

And what are young children, with their impressionable minds, to think of the words, "you must be a revolutionary" in a day and time when the word "revolutionary" is almost universally understood to mean indulgence in violence?

If the poster had said something to the effect that, we, all of us, must revise our thinking with respect to protecting and conserving our environment, that would have been not only understandable but commendable.

But, to advise becoming a "revolutionary" immediately following the vicious polemic against the "rich," followed by the further advice to "take control of your... surroundings," is nothing less than an invitation to resort to the use of force and to invade the property of one's neighbors.

Which brings us to the final element of the butterfly poster.

Certainly, to advise children (and the advice applies to adults, too) to take control of their life (which actually means to get themselves in hand and accept responsibility for their own actions) is admirable advice. But, to incorporate with that advice the further injunction to "take control of your surroundings" which may, and often will, include the property of others, is to advise the child to trespass, invade, and "take control" of property belonging to others and, as such, to encourage it to indulge in, not only an immoral act, but an illegal act, as well.

Happily, however, there is a message in the poster which the brains behind it, obviously, didn't intend. When it finally dawned on the child in the captive system that the compulsorily financed "public" school system violates the advice to "take control of your life," it is just possible that the children viewing the poster will begin to see both it and the system in a new light.

Hopefully, too, the poster will cause some rethinking on the parts of others who, until now, have tended to look upon the government school system as a sacred cow.

Throw Out Non-Students

There is a message to heed and a lesson to be learned, we believe, in three recent news stories.

Story No. 1: Since November 1, 1967, the Senate Subcommittee on Investigations, Government Operations Committee has been conducting a rather continuous probe of riots, civil and criminal disorders in America. The hearings thus far have amassed nearly 6,000 printed pages of testimony plus hundreds of documents. Relative to the riots and criminal disorders on college campuses, the probe indicates that little more than 2 per cent of the nation's 8.5 million graduate and undergraduate students have participated in mob action; and that only a fraction of 1 per cent have indulged in criminal behavior. The probe further suggests that much of the leadership for mobocracy comes from a small group of "professional non-students" on campus, whose purpose is not to study or to learn but to lead hate-America radicals.

Story No. 2: This Fall, tens of thousands of students will be told: "Sorry, no room" when they apply for college admission. Over 35 per cent of 314 of the nation's largest schools reported that they will be forced to reject qualified applicants, according to two leading educational associations.

Story No. 3: One hundred "campus protesters" occupied a school building at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, Virginia. President T. Marshall Hahn, Jr. (a) ordered the immediate clearing of the building; (b) ordered the immediate arrest and suspension of the students who refused to obey his instruction; and (c) further notified the mob to get their belongings and leave, with the warning that if they came back on campus they would be deemed trespassers.

When, according to the educational authorities themselves, "thousands" of qualified and decent American youths will be turned away this year for want of room, does it not make sense that every non-student criminal should be expelled now, without further ado? Let's make room for those who wish to go to college to study, to learn how to be productive citizens and lead contributive lives. The vast majority of students in our colleges and universities are there for an education. It is time to kick out the non-student criminals. If President Hahn can do so, so can other school authorities. Let's insist they do.

Sensing The News By THURMAN SENSING

The Voice Of The People
As an expression of public sentiment, nothing beats an election. Nowadays there are innumerable polls purporting to show what the people think. But an election provides the only definitive presentation.

The truth of this observation was evidenced by the recent Democratic primary election in Texas where incumbent Senator Ralph W. Yarborough, a "dove" on Vietnam and an advocate of "liberal" causes, was defeated by Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., former congressman from the Rio Grande Valley. No early public opinion polls indicated the extent of conservative sentiment among Democratic voters in Texas this spring, but the election showed that it exists in massive proportions.

Mr. Bentsen hammered hard at Senator Yarborough's record of support for the 1969 Vietnam moratorium and on his votes on such issues as busing of school children and the volunteer prayer amendment, as well as on the Senator's political alliance with radical Senators such as Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and George McGovern of South Dakota.

The Democratic voters of Texas were unprepared to return to the Senate a man committed to the national "liberal" coalition.

Highly significant was the fact that Senator Yarborough was one of the four Senators from Southern or border states who voted against Judge G. Harrold Carswell for the U.S. Supreme Court.

Mr. Bentsen now will face U.S. Rep. George Bush, the Republican nominee for the Senate, another strong conservative. Thus the voters in Texas will have to decide which of the two candidates is the most conservative and is best qualified to serve the state in the Senate.

No doubt the defeat of Senator Yarborough has sent shock waves through "liberal" ranks in all parts of the country. It is a clear indicator of public sentiment outside the radical enclaves in the Northeast.

The Southern and border Senators who joined Senator Yarborough in voting against Judge Carswell must be the most alarmed by the action of the voters in Texas. Senators William Spong (D-Va.) and Marlow Cook (R-Ky.) surely are enormously relieved that they are not up for reelection this year and thus aren't exposed to the voter retaliation that struck Senator Yarborough.

Senator Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) is exposed, however. He is seeking reelection, and people outside the State of Tennessee cannot help wondering whether the voters of the Volunteer State will send Senator Gore into retirement as the Texas voters retired Senator Yarborough.

Senator Gore is every bit as "liberal" as Senator Yarborough. Indeed Senator Gore has played a more conspicuous part than Senator Yarborough in trying to reduce the nation's nuclear defenses against aggression. And as the Soviet strategic military threat now looms larger than ever, it is not unlikely that Senator Gore's membership in the anti-preparedness bloc in the Senate will be a subject of voter attention in Tennessee this year.

The primary election in Texas and the upcoming general election in Tennessee are important factors in the changing national political complexion. The "liberal" news media focus attention on the minority of radical dissenters, many of them concentrated in the Northeast or resident in the privileged sanctuaries of large universities. But the solid evidence indicates that the protesters don't speak for the American people. The protesters are opposed to the strong America and hate the free enterprise system that gives this nation its prosperity and well-being, but they are only a small segment of the more than 200 million people of the American Republic.

Americans of middle age who have youngsters in college and talk to them seriously about the state of their institutions learn that in most colleges and universities the radical or hippie element is small. But the radicals get the national publicity. Because of their activism and the confusion of administrators, the left-liberal often take over the college newspapers. The need, of

Time Has Arrived To Put Stop To All The Violence

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Correspondent

There is little the average person can do about the widening of the violence of the Vietnam war into Cambodia, except to convey his feelings about it to his representatives and the President in Washington and to hope that it will be, as the President has promised, a limited operation which will actually shorten the war.

But there are two things every American can do about the most immediate consequence of the Cambodian adventure, the widening of violence in our own country:

He can refuse to indulge in violence himself, either in thought, word or deed; and he can make known his abhorrence of violent talk or action by others, whether they be heckling politicians or "armed agents of law enforcement."

If America is to survive this period of crisis bearing a resemblance to a free democracy, we must put down the weapons of violence, both physical and rhetorical, both those that penetrate and rip the flesh and those that bruise and inflame the soul.

In this bloody month of May people shot to death by National Guard troops at Kent State University in Ohio. Fifteen other students were wounded by the gunfire and an unknown number of police and guardmen injured by missiles.

We have seen two students killed and nine wounded by police at Jackson State College in Mississippi.

We have seen six men killed by police during rioting in August, Ga.

We can argue endlessly about who are the guilty—those who actually fired the guns or those who created situations in which the need to restore law and order combined with human weakness or stupidity or fear or cruelty to produce tragedy.

But, unless everyone of us is willing to accept ultimate responsibility for what goes on in this country, we can look forward only to a lengthening course, is for an end to apathy on the part of responsible Americans of all ages, parents and youngsters. There should be public insistence that the media end its unbalanced news coverage of national disturbances and devote its attention to investigating the sources of the radicals' financing instead of lavishing publicity on the radicals' propaganda doings.

College and university administrators have an obligation to the taxpayers to remove from student bodies those "students" who want to make revolution in campus halls. To this end, radicals should be ousted from campus newspapers and responsible, patriotic college students be placed in charge.

The primary election in Texas suggests that this course of action would sit well with the electorate. The American people aren't radical and they don't want to be represented by men who won't stand up against the radicalization of America.

list of victims to mindless, senseless violence which, eventually, could consume us all.

As much as — perhaps more than — the undisciplined violence of rioters we have to fear the disciplined violence of the law.

As much as — perhaps more than — the undisciplined violence of rioters we have to fear the disciplined violence of the law.

At Kent, soldiers, for some still unknown reason, let loose an indiscriminate fusillade. At Jackson, highway patrolmen pumped possibly 140 bullets into a dormitory in response to an alleged two shots from a sniper. In August, the six dead were riddled by buckshot in their backs.

And in Chicago, a federal grand jury has found that police "grossly exaggerated" a shoot-out with Black Panthers last December in which two Panthers died. Police fired some 82 bullets into their apartment. Only one bullet was proven to have been fired out.

In all these incidents, hate on both sides, preceded the bullets and hate, on both sides, only increased when all the bullets were spent.

By the nature of the roles they have chosen to undertake in society, and by virtue of the hands, a heavy burden falls on the guardians of the law.

To expect wisdom, restraint and self-control from law officers under the most extreme provocations — and nothing less can be expected — is not, however, to absolve anyone else of a responsibility.

The time has long passed when calling a policeman "pig" was clever, if it ever was. It is low and vile. To point to the violence and obscenity of racial discrimination or of war as justification for violence and obscenity on the city street or the college campus has become the shoddiest of excuses.

The actions of the war protester may one day be seen to have hastened the end of the war, but it also accomplished something else: It war makes killers of young men, it war makes killers of young men, it war makes base passions which all of us harbor. If the price of the war has been high—too high—in discord—at home, the price exacted by those who would end the war has also been unbearably high.

Not all of us, thank God, have taken to the street with rock or firebomb or construction worker's hard hat, but all of us are guilty of taking up the verbal weapons of hate.

We must, and we can put these weapons down now. The other kind will follow.

HOW TO ADDRESS OUR LAWMAKERS

You may want to write your senators and representatives in Washington and Austin. Here are their addresses.

Sen. Grady Haslewood, Canyon, Texas

FEDERAL
Rep. Bob Price, 107 Cannon House Office Bldg., Washington, D.C. 20515

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their mind, so, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

Editor:
Since the days of Horatio Alger, the mean people have graduated to throwing brick, cement chunks and using rifle-fire to defy the good people.

The Rover boys would never have resorted to such outright violence, and with the passing of that age we are losing the benefit of verbal fighting.

For example, what became of the good old phrases like the following—

"You'll never take me alive," sneered the villain. How many people can show you how to sneer?

"I'll get you for this snarled the bandit." (Can you snarl?)

"He sat with a smirk on his face." (Can you smirk?)

"He looked at his foe with disdain." (Can you look at anyone with disdain?)

"His eyes beamed with hate." How do eyes really beam showing hate?

"His haughty look was fearsome." (How do you look haughty? Let's see you do it.)

"A look of scorn was on his face." How do you fix your face to look with scorn?

"She looked abashed" can you look abashed?

"His look of complete abjection touched her heart." Imitate that one.

"She shot him an accusing look." (No gun?)

"He replied with an acid look."

"He looked at his foe narrowly."

"He nodded his head sagely." Nothing to do with the sage you find in dressing.

These rioters are not only costing the nation millions in money, they are destroying our good old-time language.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Passenger pigeons once were regarded as America's most numerous birds, flying in flocks estimated at between one and two billion. The World Almanac notes that the species became extinct in 1914, when the last specimen died at the Cincinnati Zoo. The passenger pigeon's swift decline is attributed to disease, destruction of its food supply and its ruthless, unrestricted slaughter by man.

Tough Battle Shaping On Safeguard Expansion

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Battle lines already are forming for the struggle over President Nixon's plans for expansion of the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system (ABM). Under present plans the issue will be joined next month in the Senate.

The broadly based coalition of opponents, which nearly defeated Safeguard in the Senate last year, is now being reformed. Anti-ABM scientists have been meeting here with lawmakers and their aides to update their arguments of last year.

The House of Representatives has approved the President's "phase 2" expansion plan. Opponents think their chances are bright, however, in the showdown anticipated when the Senate considers the House-approved defense authorization bill.

Supporters of the Safeguard plan will get some added strength in the next week or two. Plans are going forward for a new citizens' committee, also with a broad base, to drum up support for the ABM as the renewal of the Safeguard fight approaches.

Henry Cabot Lodge, the former GOP senator from Massachusetts who was later ambassador to the United Nations and to South Vietnam, is slated to head the bipartisan group with Dean Acheson, former secretary of state and adviser to Democratic presidents.

Fund raising for the new pro-ABM group is underway. Mindful of unfortunate experiences of the past, however, representatives of the new committee are seeking financial support from individuals who have no ties to the so-called military-industrial complex and no defense contracts.

VOTE SHIFT: — Public relations campaigns will not win the Safeguard battle, however, and ABM supporters face an uphill fight. This year, as we have previously noted, statistics seem to favor ABM opponents. A couple of senators who helped provide last year's tie vote victory will not be on hand this time. A couple of others are cool to the expansion program, which is keyed, in part, to the fledgling missile threat of Communist China.

Communist China's successful launching of a satellite, confining Peking's progress toward intercontinental missiles may have helped Mr. Nixon in this respect. Some Safeguard supporters contend that it has persuaded a couple of wavering senators to go along with the President.

There is concern, however, that the sharp Senate reaction against the movement of U.S. troops into Cambodia could spill over into other defense controversies such as Safeguard's second round and other controversies included in the big defense authorization bill.

As proposed by the President, the "phase 2" Safeguard plan calls for one additional anti-missile site, additional short-range antimissile missiles at two sites approved last year, and advance land purchases for five more ABM sites, which would require additional congressional approval later.

LAIRD JOINTING — Anticipating the Senate battle, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has been plugging hard for the Safeguard expansion in speeches and in testimony before Senate committees; he has presented two lines of argument.

In the first place, the secretary has been arguing that continued AFM progress by the U.S. is necessary for success in the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT) talks with Russia. Unilateral curbs, he says, would be a "grave error."

The secretary explains that an arms limitation agreement could allow for a certain level of antimissile forces in the U.S. and in Russia. He says that if such an agreement is arrived at, "it could be consistent with the deployment of Safeguard."

At the same time, Laird is painting a grim picture of the strategic weapons build-up in the Soviet Union. He has been saying that he was conservative last year when he aroused congressional skepticism with predictions of continued Russian deployment of the giant SS-9 missile.

As frequently happens, when congressional action is in prospect, Laird has also been taking the wraps off other previously classified data. For example, he has disclosed: —That Moscow "has effectively test-fired" a new antimissile missile, which will supplant the "Galosh" missile already deployed in ABM installations around Moscow.

—That the Russians are testing a Polaris-like, submarine-fired missile "with a range much greater than the range of any missile we have developed."

—That advanced long-range "ben-house" radars, which could be the forerunners of an expanded Soviet ABM, are already deployed around Russia.

Overreaction Is Invited By Industry's Pollution

By PAUL HARVEY

The United Auto Workers, presently bargaining for a new contract, have made pollution an issue. The UAW will demand a pollution-free automobile and reduced pollution in and around car factories.

Let's assume they mean well. Not everybody in this nation-wide cleanup does, you know.

Surely 90 percent of the crusaders against pollution are idealists, genuinely seeking to protect our environment. But the other 10 per cent — organizers of current demonstrations — include organizers of other recent demonstrations, and some of these leave the impression that they are more interested in disrupting than in accomplishing anything constructive.

They see an opening for attacking and discrediting "the business establishment" and, let's face it, some industries have asked for it.

A friend of mine, Leonard Savage, with interests in Oklahoma City and Tucson, remembers the oil business of 30 years ago in Oklahoma.

Then oil companies let salt water run into streams and killed fish and wildlife and cattle. When anybody complained, the companies came up with same excuses we're hearing today:

"Control is too expensive." "Public will not pay higher prices..."

"Industry will be driven elsewhere..."

Finally it got so bad the cattlemen had to gang up and get the Oklahoma Legislature to approve adequate controls. And the controls were enforced.

And the oil industry did survive.

Now we are at the same place with some industries polluting air and water and distressing the soil.

And if they wait too long to pick up after themselves, they will surely face punitive laws.

But between now and then, these industries may be subjected to boycotts, picketing and, perhaps, violence. These exigencies could cost them a lot more than a cleanup.

Some industries and utilities, on their own and without coercion have taken expensive remedial steps to reduce pollution, some even to reverse it.

But none has properly publicized these efforts. They could be examples for other industries to emulate. And they could milk some of the venom out of the professional troublemakers who have infiltrated the cleanup movement.

Otherwise, we justify their wrath and invite resultant government snooping.

A member of the Virginia House fought and won a battle against pollution. His bill to preserve the environment was designed "to preserve the water for the use of the inhabitants of the town of Winchester by preventing frogs from running at large therein."

That bill was introduced in the Virginia House of Burgesses...

By a member named George Washington...

More than 200 years ago. So it's not new for some to have to be forced to do what they'd ought to do.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Mike Connors star of the "Mannix" television series, has been nominated for an Emmy and says candidly: "I'd certainly like to win it."

The handsome former UCLA basketball star was nominated for best performance by an actor in a leading role in a dramatic series.

It's possible Connors turned in the best single acting job of the year in one of his show's episodes, "The Sound of Darkness," in which he loses and regains his eyesight.

"I'd bet you anything I wouldn't have been nominated if I hadn't done that particular episode," Connors said, grinning.

As the only private eye on television during the past season, Connors explained that few award dinners—whether on Broadway, movies or in television—play the difficult straight parts.

"It's the flashy, gimmick roles that get the attention—alcoholics, prostitutes and the rest," he said. "But the best advice I ever got was from a man who won his Oscars the hard way, Spencer Tracy."

"One day when I was making the 'Tightrope' series, Tracy was working on the lot and flagged me down. 'I watch you show all the time and you do great job. I always believe what you're doing.'"

"He asked me to stop by his dressing room and advised me to concentrate on the simple form of acting. He said if I did,

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI)—How much do you really know about your nation's leader?

Answer the following questions. If you get all 10 right, apply for a job on the White House staff. Eight or more and you would make a good Republican precinct captain. Seven and you're a careful reader of newspapers.

1. Richard Nixon's birthplace was (A) Whittier, Calif. (B) Chester County, Pa. (C) Yorba Linda, Calif.

one year in the eyes of my peers.

"The public has to like what you stand for if you're going to sustain a show on television," Connors concluded. "Evidently, viewers like what Mannix is and does."

They also dig Mike Connors.

5. Nixon was turned down for a job with the FBI shortly after his graduation from law school. True or false?

A. True. A sudden budget cutback forced the bureau to temporarily stop hiring.

6. Richard Nixon met Pat Ryan at (A) a football game (B) tryouts for an amateur theatrical (C) church (D) a political rally.

A. (B) Tryouts for an amateur theatrical and they both got parts.

7. When they met, Pat Ryan was a (A) school teacher (B) nurse (C) social worker (D) shop clerk.

A. (A) School teacher. But she had worked as a shop clerk and buyer and bit player in movies to raise money while going to the University of Southern California.

8. Richard Nixon proposed marriage to Pat Ryan the first night he met her. True or false?

A. True. But it was a couple of months before she accepted.

9. Pat Nixon's middle name is (A) Lois (B) Thelma (C) Gladys (D) Alice.

A. (B) Thelma. Her Irish father nicknamed her Pat and it stuck.

10. Since becoming President, Nixon has traveled outside the United States five times. True or false?

A. True, not counting occasional overnight trips to an offshore island estate in the Bahamas. The five trips were to Europe, around the world, visits just across the border to Canada and Mexico and a trip to Midway Island to meet South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

FISH-FOR GOLD

SENS, France (UPI)—They're fishing in the Yonne River today, but not for fish—for gold. In the past several days, passersby have found an estimated $8,200 in gold coins on the river bed.

The coins—including Mexican pesos, English sovereigns and Tunisian pieces—were spotted from the banks when the river level dropped to work on a new dam upstream.

The coins have been handed in to police, pending investigation.

WHO SAYS?

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Who says money is tight and business is suffering?

Nevada's gambling casinos reported record winnings of $132.8 million during the first three months of 1970. The record take, before taxes and business expenses, increased 19.4 per cent over the same quarter of 1969.
