

Apparently the president is trying to win a legal decision by waging a public relations and popularity contest through the media of television. He continues to plead for the country to forget Watergate, put it behind us he says.

The president and his aides, etc., have yet to explain how the country, in good conscience, can brush off the appearance of criminal acts and wrongdoing in the highest office of the nation. Other high-ranking officials in the administration, from cabinet members down to plumbers, have been either convicted, indicted, or are in the process of being tried, and presumably the offenses they are alleged to have committed were either in support of the president's political campaign or official activities.

No right thinking person is out to get the president, nor are they interested in the president being got. But every right thinking person wants, and is entitled to, the truth where the public trust is involved. The press, investigating committees and grand juries should not get off of anybody's back until all of the facts have been uncovered and made public. Then, and only then, can the president be exonerated of any misdeed, or else impeached so that the office can be fumigated and sterilized.

All Richard Nixon has to do to put Watergate behind us is to put on the naked truth and streak through the halls of Congress.

If we can just get by for the next six weeks without a killing freeze most of the fruit crop will be home free.

MISS HAZEL MERRITT

Rites held Friday for Miss Hazel Merritt

Funeral services for Miss Hazel Merritt, 64, a lifetime resident of Castro County were held Friday in Dimmitt's First United Methodist Church.

REV. J. LENNOL Hester officiated, assisted by Rev. Gene Wisdom.

Miss Merritt was found dead at her farm home near Hart March 13. Castro County Justice of the Peace Mary Jo Smith set the date of death as March 7 and ruled death due to natural causes.

A farm owner and former history and civics teacher at Dimmitt High School, Miss Merritt was a member of a prominent Castro County pioneer family. An authority on Castro County history, she was active in the annual Old Settlers' Reunion and was chairman of the county's Diamond Jubilee Historical Pageant in 1966.

After serving as sponsor for Dimmitt High School senior classes for many years, she helped organize the DHS Ex-Students Association. In the early 1950's she organized the Dimmitt High School chapter of the Future Teachers of America and served as its first sponsor. The local FTA chapter bears her name.

IN 1952 she helped organize the Dimmitt Business and Professional Women's Club and served terms as local president and area director.

Miss Merritt was the main organizer of the Friends of the Castro County Library, and played a key role in securing the county's new library. She served as chairman of the county library board and was a past president of the Dimmitt Book Club.

She was also a past president of Delta Kappa Gamma, professional teachers' sorority, and the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First United Methodist Church and served as a liaison officer for the local American Field Service chapter.

Miss Merritt was a life member of the Dimmitt Parent-Teachers Association and was a former vice-president of the local PTA.

SURVIVORS include two sisters, Miss Sarah Merritt of Amarillo and Mrs. Dee Kendrick of Hart; four brothers, Claude of Kit Carson, Colo., John and Glenn of Dimmitt and Percy of St. Vrain, N.M.; eight nieces and nine nephews.

Burial was in Castro Memorial Gardens under the direction of Dennis Funeral Home.

Little Dribblers start title race

The annual Dimmitt Little Dribblers Tournament will get underway tonight (Thursday) in Dimmitt High School gym.

THE EIGHT Major League teams — fifth and sixth graders — will play four games per night Thursday, Friday and Saturday in a double elimination tourney to determine the final league placings.

An all-star team will be named after the championship games Saturday night to represent Dimmitt in the National Little Dribblers playoffs.

The league's Minor League teams will not have a tournament this year, according to Kenneth Cleveland, league director. The early playoff schedule, lack of gym facilities and conflicts with volleyball tournaments crowded out the Minor League tourney this year, Cleveland said.

IN FIRST ROUND action tonight, the Aggies will meet the Razorbacks at 5 o'clock, the Bears will take on the Horned Frogs at 6, the Raiders will face the Mustangs at 7, and the Longhorns will tangle with the Owls at 8.

Friday night, the first-round losers will play at 5 and 6, and the first-round winners will meet at 7 and 8.

Saturday night's schedule calls for the seventh place game at 5 p.m., the fifth place game at 6, the third place contest at 7 and the championship bout at 8.

THE FIRST round of tourney action tonight will pit teams that haven't met each other before, since the season was cut short before round-robin play could be completed, Cleveland said.

"We had to cut the regular season short because of the addition of a state tournament and an invitational tournament for qualifying teams," Cleveland explained. "The Little Dribblers program is still growing across the country, and these additions moved our end."

An Easter man was injured in a freak auto accident that took the life of a Friona woman last Thursday night in Amarillo.

MELVIN BARTON, 42, of Easter was injured when the car in which he was a passenger plunged off an overpass on the Canyon Expressway and landed in the eastbound lanes of Interstate 40. The driver of the car, Mrs. Peggy Fern Milloy, 42, of Friona was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Texas Hospital following the accident.

Barton remained in High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo at presstime with back injuries.

Mrs. Carol Rogers, 22, of Amarillo, a passenger in a pickup which was struck by a guard rail during the incident, was treated and released Thursday night at Northwest Texas Hospital.

Sol Causey, 42, of Amarillo was the driver of the pickup struck by the guard rail. He reported that he saw the falling car and guard rail as he was driving east on Interstate 40. The guard rail struck the hood and windshield of the Causey vehicle and separated into two pieces.

MRS. MILLOY was pinned in the overturned car more than 30 minutes while rescuers attempted to free her with the aid of a wrecker truck.

Funeral services for Mrs. Milloy were held Saturday in the Sixth Street Church of Christ in Friona. Terry Brown, minister, officiated. Survivors include a daughter, Miss Sherley Milloy of the home; two sons, Joe Mark of the home and Randy of Canyon; her mother, Mrs. Carrie Shirley of Friona; a sister, Mrs. John Hand of Friona; and one grandchild.

Brants return from four month stay in Galveston

By MYRTLE SHEFFY

Bill and Belle Brant are home after a four months stay in Galveston. Bill was burned with ammonia last year and has had much treatment on his legs at John Seely hospital there. Belle says they enjoyed Galveston, climbing the sea wall, picking up shells, watching the ships come in, making friends along the beach where Bill could sit in the sun. She helped her son Ronnie and Pat McAfee and son Shannon move into their new home in Houston. The Brants came home by El Dorado to visit her daughter Lorena Warnock and kids Gary, Charlene and Susie. They stayed there for several days. And last week they visited her son Jay and Emma Fay McAfee and children in Amarillo.

HAROLD AND Shirley Stephens went to Trinidad, Colo. weekend before last where they met Ray and Eleanor Koehler of Fort Collins. They visited a day or two then a terrific snow storm and blizzard came in so the Stephens hurried to get by Raton Pass and did before they were closed in. That is the fear anyway.

Mamye Birdwell had surgery at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo last week. Her daughter Bobbie Dodd was with her as were her sons Kent and Bill, Kathryn and Mary Jo.

"BURR" was the book reviewed by Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview. This was at the regular meeting of Dimmitt Book Club Wednesday afternoon. 33 ladies heard the history of our country from the American Revolution for a hundred years. Jefferson was president when Burr was vice-president. The book showed many of our heroes with clay feet or at least faults, as our present government men have. Gore Vidal, the writer of the book, had the same stepfather as Jackie Kennedy Onassis. His mother married Auchincloss, as did Jackie's mother. They did not care for each other. Seems Washington, Jefferson and Hamilton made deals to get things done also. The Federalists under Hamilton wanted the rich landowners to rule the country. The other party called Republicans then, are now Democrats, wanted a more liberal voting, not another king deal. You need to read the book.

covered in green linen with a rose arrangement, using the St. Patrick motif.

The Book Club has new dishes which are a pretty white porcelain.

MRS. RICHARD Wooten was hostess at a bridge party Thursday. She served a shrimp salad and those cute timbales shaped like flowers and butterflied and a very good banana nut cake that Darlene Wooten made. Good food, yes! Her guests were Gladys Cleavinger, Maggie Boren, Jeanie Miller, Dorothy Elder, Cletha George, Retta Cluck, Opal Bearden and Myrtle Sheffy.

Tuesday Cletha George cooked a good dinner for friends Beulah Wright of Hereford, Vera Webb, Ruby Webb, Leola Haberer, Retta Cluck. The ladies played "84" in the afternoon.

Clint and Mae Cox sold their land in Missouri and are in Dimmitt. They were looking for a house. Didn't hear if they found one. They are visiting friends the Jimmy Georges, Brad Fulfers and others. Clint's father owned land south of town 25 years ago.

GLEN AND Mona Merritt and Mrs. Jim Harsh went to Minnesota last week by car. Mrs. Harsh visited a daughter. Glen and Mona went through Mayo Clinic. Glen was called home for his sister Hazel's funeral service. The girls came home later by car. I visited with Pod or Paul Merritt who came from Colorado and Percy and Patsy who live on a ranch west of Clovis. All the family, including cousins, nieces and nephews, came for the service. Hazel was a longtime friend of all of us and will be missed.

Ethel Womble, a former teacher at Flagg and Dimmitt, came. She visits Helen Richardson, as did Leila Petty of Tulia and Lila Mae Hunter of Dalhart. Mrs. Homer Hill, Mrs. Tump McLain and Bonnie Futrell of Hart were in town. I saw dozens of others also.

I went out to the high school gym Friday afternoon to watch the Little Dribblers play basketball. They are good. I have a grandson, Scott Sheffy, who plays on the Mustangs. And all the mamas and dads were instructing their own little guy. Anne and Charlie Armstrong say of course number 9, Brian, is the star. Mrs. Gonzales has two on the same team and a number 4 Jeffrey is very good. And I heard tell that Joe Nino, my neighbor, is one of the best. Even Don Nelson thinks David is a star. Anyway, it was fun watching.

I MET Mrs. Carmen Pigg. A very pretty mamma with a boy playing ball. She says her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Bearden of Hart were here for a visit with her and Vanessa this week.

Glen and Diane Hatla and boys Todd and Tracey went to Littlefield to visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. Jim J. Latimer. This was March 12, Diane's birthday. They took the family and some friends out to dinner. Then another day Glen's grandmother took the family to K-Bobs for dinner after Todd played Little Dribblers. He was one I saw too. There are dozens of little boys playing. I only saw one game so forgive me for not knowing all the boys. That is a good thing to keep them busy.

Herb and Mary Burnham and three sons of Albuquerque were weekend guests of her parents B. M. and Viola Nelson and brother Don and Verbie and kids.

Mrs. Daisy Wallen of Olustie, Okla. has been a house guest of her sister Cora and Raymond West. They were having dinner with the Rebekah Lodge girls, as were a hundred other folks. It was a good meal too. Mrs. J. A. Leeth of Amarillo was a guest of Mrs. L. A. Leeth last week.

Do remember to go to the Secret Granddaughters Tea Thursday evening at the east cafeteria, South Grade School, 7:30 p.m. Sponsors are Mrs. Snider, Mrs. Hottel and Mrs. Bagley.

GEORGE AND Josie Bradford spent a few days in East Texas visiting her relatives, a brother Rev. Johnny Roden at Denton, and another brother at Fort Worth. They went on to Blossom and Paris, the old home farm there. The Bradfords have a pretty gold color new car to tour in.

Don Johnston of Killeen was a guest of his mother Pearl Johnston and his friend Edwin Cartwright. Don and his aunt Ruby Sims and her friends Mrs. and Mrs. Jewell Arent of Tulia were Sunday dinner guests of Pearl. Mrs. Arent is an organizer of the CowBelles Club. They are also with cattle feed lots east of here or near Tulia.

Gary and Janet Pool of Lubbock were Sunday guests of her parents Carl and Frances King and kids.

Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Pearce have bought and moved into the Sal DiCuffa house on West Bedford. They have the Dimmitt Distributors and go to church with the Methodists. Do go by 111 SE 2nd, the store, and meet the Pearces.

Bill and Avis Burnham have moved back to Dimmitt from Friona. I saw them at church with his brother James and Mildred.

ALLAN AND Peggy Webb went to Lubbock Sunday to have dinner with daughter Kristi and Steve Edwards. They attended church at Forest Heights or anyway the Methodist Church that Jim Pickens pastors.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Durbin visited her brother-in-law and sister at Girlstown at Whiteface on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Caton. Bill is head cook for the 55 girls and the house parents. He says the home needs "Beef". They have had lamb and pork donated. It takes much food for that many people. Mrs. Durbin says they have plenty of clothes at this time. If you have money, beef or clothes, call Mrs. Durbin or Jack Cartwright at the sheriff's office.

The Durbins went north to Texline last week to visit their son Harold and Marilyn Durbin and children. Harold works on the Matt Irwin ranch that reaches into New Mexico. They went through sleet, rain, dirt and sunshine that day.

Lois Waggoner visited her brother Enzo Ewing in the hospital at Tulia. Enzo is very ill. And E. R. and Lois's guests Sunday were their family Earneine and Charlie Turner and Quita and Dean of Tulia, Donnie and Ann Cook and children of Amarillo and Katy Waggoner of here.

THE FIRST anniversary party Sunday at South Hills Manor was a big success. Everyone wore the St. Patrick green clover. The ladies, Mrs. Justice and Mrs. Hazel Dunn served green lime punch and cookies from a pretty table with fresh flowers to decorate. Many guests attended from here, Hereford, Littlefield, Friona, well everywhere seems like. Charles Harris from Lee Street Baptist Church gave the meditation, "Thoughts on Thanking God for all the good things we have." And Don Nelson sang several songs accompanied by Mrs. Boyers from Hereford.

Much visiting by all. Milt Hardy has been in the hospital for several days. He is a resident of the home, but he is much better now.

The Sheffy clan went by Ted and Dorothy's house Sunday afternoon to meet the newest addition to the family - Richard Shey Wallace of Tulia. His parents are Rick and Beth. He is a very handsome and charming fellow, three weeks of age.

Virginia Sheffy was among several going to Shamrock Saturday. She represented the Jaycees here. I didn't get other names. The kids, wearing green costumes, rode a float in the big parade to celebrate the Irish day.

MR. AND MRS. Earl Lust were hosts at a Sunday night birthday supper honoring the birthdays of Mildred (Mrs. James Bradford) and Loyd Lust, their son, of Littlefield. March 14 and March 13 were the days. Other guests were James Bradford, Jim and Jean, Mrs. Leona Stiles, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Lust, and Jeff, Bob Bradford of Lubbock, Mrs. Mack Steffy of Hart, Mrs. Mack Vann and son Todd of near Spade.

and James were quite busy helping Mrs. Leona Stiles move from her Big Square farm to Ruskin Circle Apartments on Butler Road. Mrs. Stiles with her family, the Luts and quite a delegation from eastern Kansas, came to Castro County in March, 1909. They thought they were coming to a warm land but as far as the eye could see these plains were covered with snow, but in two days the ground was warm again. No roads then. Most of these families built the two story big square houses, hence the community's name.

ATTEND CHURCH

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

JAMES ROBISON

JOHN MCKAY

Evangelistic rally to be held here March 25

Evangelist James Robison of Fort Worth will be preacher for a one-night evangelistic rally at the Dimmitt High School auditorium, Monday, March 25 at 7:30 p.m.

THE RALLY, sponsored by various area churches, is expected to draw an attendance of 1,000 to 1,200 persons.

The meeting is open to the public and other churches, according to John Street, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and chairman for the rally.

Sharing the program spotlight with Robison will be other members of his evangelistic team including gospel singer John McKay and organist Rich-ey Craig.

Guest soloist will be Mrs. Jeanne Copeland Rogers, 24, of Hurst. She is a regular performer on the evangelist's weekly television program, "James Robison Get-Together," as well as frequent soloist for Robison's crusades.

ROBISON'S half-hour, syndicated TV show, "Get-Together," is carried over Channel 10, Amarillo, 8:00 a.m., and Channel 11, Lubbock, 8:30 a.m. each Sunday.

At 30, Robison has preached his simple gospel message face-to-face to some six million people, more than had heard Billy Graham when he was that age.

"He has conducted more than 350 crusades in some 30 states. At these evangelistic meetings, usually held in large auditoriums or football stadiums, he often preaches to crowds of 8,000 to 10,000 nightly. Robison also speak to some 200,000 high school students each year on such subjects as personal responsibility, youth problems and moral character.

MORE THAN 200,000 people have made personal commitments of their lives to Christ in response to his ministry. Of these, some 100,000 were making their first decisions for Christ, accepting Him as Lord and Savior.

In addition to his crusade audiences, Robison reaches thousands of people through his television ministry.

The TV ministry consists of two thrusts. One, a half-hour syndicated program titled "Get Together" airs each week over about 40 stations. The other is a series of three one-hour, prime time specials carried in different communities across the nation with the support of local churches.

His background includes a childhood of abject poverty in Houston and Austin, and a youth in which he was shuttled back and forth between his natural mother and foster parents in Pasadena.

HE ATTENDED East Texas Baptist College, Marshall.

McKay, 39, a graduate of North Texas University, Denton, has been a member of the Robison evangelistic team since 1965. He is also recording artist on the Singcord label, a division of Zondervan Publishing Co.

Mrs. Rogers, a former junior high music teacher in Hurst, is also well known in Fort Worth entertainment circles for her leading role in various professionally staged musical productions, including "West Side Story" and "Show Boat." Her first commitment is serving Christ with her life and talents.

Work is resumed on executive article

The Texas Constitutional Convention resumed consideration of the proposed article on the Executive Branch on Friday, reported State Representative Bill Clayton (D-Spring-lake).

THE CONVENTION delegates had completed work on the major portion of the article before the death of Convention Delegate Hawkins Menefee on Wednesday, after which the delegates recessed two days for memorial services.

Once finished with the article on the Executive, the Convention will begin consideration of the Finance section of the proposed constitution. Representative Clayton reported that he felt debate on this article would be quite extensive.

Clayton also reported that the Convention's toll-free information number, 1-800-292-9600, not only is available to answer questions about the Constitution and the Convention, but also may be used by the citizens of the state to register their opinion on various issues before the Convention.

"For example," Rep. Clayton stated, "if someone in West Texas wants to express his opinion on putting the 'right-to-work' provision in the new constitution, all he or she had to do is to call the 'free' phone number and tell the operator of his or her opinion." The results of the phone-in survey are tabulated daily and weekly.

You'll need to begin to think seriously about your garden and flower beds as it'll be time to plant soon. The average date of our last killing frost is April 10, so it's safe to start planting some things about April 1. If any of you want any pointers come by or call for our excellent garden publication "Home Gardening in Texas". With the inflationary prices in our food stores (and everywhere else) it will be wise to plant a garden for fresh use and for canning and freezing.

the dates of the second annual "Bake and Take Days". You're invited to bake your favorite "goodies" and take them to a neighbor, friend or shut-in and wish them well. Let's all participate in this worthwhile event. It costs you mostly in time but the rewards are well worthwhile.

Reserve May 1 for a very important meeting to be held at the Hilton Inn in Amarillo. The Family Living-Youth Task Force of the Panhandle Economics Program will sponsor the program "The Conquest of Cancer". Watch for more details. Luncheon tickets are $3.75 each — please let me know if you desire a ticket. You may prefer to eat somewhere else close by or in the Hilton Restaurant.

TO HELP stretch your food dollars you might be interested in using soy protein. There are three ways that it is available in supermarkets. The ground beef/soy protein mixture is a combination of 75% ground beef to 25% soy protein. Find this in the meat department. Dehydrated soy protein to mix with ground beef is packaged. It must be rehydrated before mixing with meat. The other form is dehydrated soy protein to mix with diced or chopped chicken, ham, tuna or other meats. This must be rehydrated with water or broth before mixing with meat.

If any of you would like more information call or come by for the publication "The Protein Power of Soybeans". We have this ordered and it should be here in a week or two.

JANUARY hatchings of egg-type chickens and broiler chickens are well above totals of a year ago.

Here are weeks best food buys

Fryer prices leveled off to a "good value" range recently, and supplies are ample, according to one observer.

ATTRACTIVE prices appear on whole fryers and mixed parts — and egg supplies are plentiful, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, reported.

"At produce counters, fresh vegetables are in more generous supply this winter than a year ago because of increased acreage," she said.

"Substantially larger supplies include lettuce, broccoli, carrots and celery."

"However, onion stocks are lower than they are in most other seasons, and storage stocks of fall-crop potatoes were four percent less than the small volume for the same date a year earlier — and prices have been advancing in recent weeks."

"HIGH PRICES on potatoes are expected through the spring months at least," the specialist predicted.

Turning to fruit, Mrs. Clyatt cited grapefruit as the item in peak season and apples as continuing in good supply. Prices are unchanged for both.

"Pineapple supplies are seasonally high, tangelo season is almost over, and there's a seasonal decline in tangerines. Oranges, bananas, pears and strawberries are worthy of consideration, price-wise."

Beef values this week include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and ground beef.

"PORK REMAINS on the high side, and features are scattered," Mrs. Clyatt said.

"A few features show up on Boston butt roasts, end chops, loin-end roasts and quarter-loin cut into chops. Smoked cuts include some hams, bacon and roll sausage. Ham prices are working up toward Easter levels."

By MARY EDNA HENDRIX

Our community has been saddened and will feel the great loss for years to come in the death of Hazel Merritt. We will miss her at the library since she had served on the library board for nine years and was the chairman for five years. She helped me when I accepted the job as librarian and any time I needed some information I always called Hazel. Others in different organizations have told me they always called Hazel when they needed to know something about their club. She was a wonderful person and was always doing something for others.

ON SUNDAY afternoon March 10 I attended the autograph party honoring publication of the new book by Father Stanley, "The Early Days of the Oil Industry in the Texas Panhandle." This party was sponsored by Christian Mothers and Catholic Daughters of Nazareth. Ray and Edna Riley (a library board member) from Dimmitt and the editor of the Tulia Herald, Mr. Baggerly, were there among several from Nazareth that I knew. Father Stanley has written several books and is working on another one at this time.

Mrs. Walker from Plainview was the guest reviewer for Esta Vandiver at the Dimmitt Book Club on Wednesday, March 13. Mrs. Walker gave an interesting review of the book "Burr" by Gore Vidal. This novel is in the form of a memoir, told partly by Burr at the end of his long life and partly by a young journalist in whom Burr confides. Though the memoir and itself and the young journalist are fictional, the facts are actual.

EDNA Riley, Jeanie Miller and I went to Lubbock for the dedication of the George and Helen Mahon Library. This is a beautiful building and as usual I enjoyed the children's department more than any other section. Mrs. Ella Mae Platz is the children's librarian and her decorations and furniture were so clever! We visited with Hoyse McMurtry, the architect, Mr. William Stewart, Director of Libraries, Helen and George Mahon, who were the honored guests, Mr. Ray Janeway, Tech Librarian, Mrs. Walker from Plainview, Judge Shaw and several librarians from surrounding towns.

Interesting people in the library: Carolyn Watts brought her mother, Mrs. Earl Hampton from Brackettville. Mrs. Weldon Skinner brought her mother, Mrs. Britain from Abilene. Mr. Skinner had been in the week before to visit. Mrs. Leona Stiles from Big Square came in with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Earl Lust. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kirkpatrick came in. This was Mr. Kirk's first time to see the library and we are glad he is able to be out now. Ron Golden came in for a quick tour. Mr. Jim Golding and Ben came in while Ben was here for Spring vacation. Then so many came in to give memorials for Hazel Merritt.

THE LIVESTOCK and livestock products index is down three percent from last month but is seven percent above Feb. 15 of 1973.

Feedlot odor control is big problem for feeders

With water pollution control requirements now being met by most of Texas' large livestock and poultry feeders, more attention is being directed to the complex problem of odor control.

DR. JOHN M. Sweeten, agricultural engineer specializing in animal waste management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that odors from confined livestock and poultry feeding operations can often be reduced by heeding, or taking advantage of, natural processes that influence odor production. Three such factors are temperature, moisture and oxygen supply.

"For instance, feedlot odors are more severe during warm weather than during cold, dry periods," explains Sweeten. "Bacterial decomposition virtually ceases below 35 degrees but is extremely active in warm weather. Hence, proper waste management is more critical in the summer when odor production is the greatest."

"Experiments have shown that manure odor intensities are also proportional to moisture content. This is readily evidenced by the fact that feedlot odors are maximum soon after rain. Also, handling manure in liquid form in confinement buildings usually produces more intense odors than does handling of manure in solid form," notes the specialist.

With a moisture content of 65 percent or more, manure is effectively saturated and thus poorly aerated, so that anaerobic bacteria (those that need no free oxygen) can decompose the organic matter. The end products of anaerobic digestion include carbon dioxide, water, heat and methane plus odorous gases such as hydrogen sulfide, ammonia and several volatile organic compounds.

ON THE other hand, manure with a moisture content below 50 percent will have enough free oxygen for aerobic bacteria to digest the organic matter. These bacteria do not produce odorous compounds. For deep pits or lagoons used for handling liquid manure, aerobic digestion could be accomplished by injecting air with floating aerators or air compressors, suggests Sweeten.

"Dry, well-aerated manure on feedlot surfaces has little odor. Thus, prevent wet spots around water troughs and feed bunks and maintain adequate, uniform slopes for rapid feedlot drainage," advises the engineer.

Rapid dewatering of runoff retention ponds using irrigation equipment is also important for odor control, as these ponds are often major sources of feedlot odors. Research by the US Department of Agriculture in Nebraska showed that 80 percent of the solids in feedlot runoff can be settled out before reaching retention structures, thus leading to less odors and larger runoff storage capacity.

Another approach to odor control is to separate odor sources (feedlots) from odor sensors (humans) through initial site selection to achieve dilution below odor threshold levels (levels at which odors become offensive). The size and type of feedlot operations, animal waste management practices, present and expected land use patterns, and climates should be considered when choosing the site," contends the specialist.

SWEETEN believes that research on the production and control of feedlot odors is in an embryonic stage. He suggests that future research be aimed at standardizing odor measurement techniques, determining odor emission rates, and identifying odor dispersion patterns.

"Meanwhile several livestock and poultry feeders are caught between public pressures for clean air on the one hand and a lack of technology for odor abatement on the other. Better understanding on the part of feeders, rural residents, regulatory agencies and the courts as to the technical and economical limits of odor abatement will become increasingly important in the future," contends Sweeten.

CLEAN RUGS and carpets with a vacuum cleaner. Shaking or beating them breaks threads, damages the backing and tears the binding. Hanging them over a line strains fibers, causing them to break, warns Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

On Wall Street
By Bob Hill
Lentz, Newton & Co.

Remember the 1950s when prospectors with Geiger counters roamed the wilds of Utah, New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado stalking the hard to find uranium outcrops? Well, there's a uranium boom going on that makes that era of uranium barons and penny uranium mining stocks look like child's play.

THE DIFFERENCE today is that the big mining companies are dominating the play while the individual prospector has disappeared and the smaller mining companies have been absorbed by the major uranium and mining companies. Dollars make the difference. The stakes are huge because most of the surface uranium has already been mined and now shafts will have to go deep into the earth to find suitable uranium ore. The Atomic Energy Commission estimates that uranium industry will have to invest $18-billion in exploration, mines and mills in order to meet the demand for nuclear fuel by the year 2000, just 26 years from now.

The shortage of oil and natural gas has accelerated the search for other fuels to avoid a critical power shortage by the end of the 70s. The US now has 43 nuclear reactors producing electricity. Plans call for 140 nuclear reactors in operation by 1980. In order to meet the demand for fuel in 1980, 35,000 tons of yellowcake will be required annually to produce atomic fuel for the plants. That's almost triple last year's US production. 160,000 tons of yellowcake will be required annually by the year 2000.

The Atomic Energy Commission has a nonmilitary stockpile of 38,000 tons of uranium concentrate with which it is making enriched fuel, but this stockpile will be used up by 1978 and the utility companies will then have to get their fuel supplies direct from the uranium producers.

A NEW group of competitors have jumped into the uranium mining field and they have lots of dollars to spend. They are the major oil companies. The country's largest producer of uranium is Kerr-McGee Corp. Gulf Oil, Continental Oil, Exxon and Getty Oil are also involved to various degrees.

Uranium fuel now sells for about $7 a lb., but the price is expected to rise to $15 or $20 by the mid-1980s. There is even some talk of a $30 a lb. price by then. Spokesmen say that even with a $20 or $30 per lb. price for yellowcake, the cost of nuclear fuel will still be competitive with fossil fuels. The big unknown is inflation and this is why the uranium producers don't know how to price nuclear fuel for delivery over the next 10 to 15 years. At the moment, uranium mills are operating at 50-50% capacity, but this will change by 1976 or early 1977 as nuclear power plants start lining up long-term supplies of fuel.

"Many look on falling leaves as a disposal problem," Springer said. "And there are still those who burn leaves or send them away with the garbage. But the same leaves that are a nuisance this fall can be excellent compost next year. All you need is a bin of wire or scrap lumber — tucked away at the back of your lot — and you are in business."

"Raking and hauling the leaves is okay," Springer said, "but I've found that a power mower with a grass catcher will do a pretty good job of shredding the leaves and blowing them into the bag. This can save a lot of raking, but it won't work if the leaves are thick."

For more detailed how-to information about composting and mulching for homeowners, contact the Soil Conservation Service and ask for the leaflet, "Mulches for your Garden". Home and Garden Bulletin 185.

Anglers who fish for bass with traditional flies (as opposed to deer-hair bugs and poppers) are just about as scarce these days as the horse and buggy. But in 1895, the halcyon days of bass fly fishing in America, Charles F. Orvis, the early Vermont fly-maker, listed 58 patterns in his catalog. . . . Today, bass-fly devotees must use large trout ties, as a glance at the 1972 catalog will show.—SPORTS AFIELD

RECP sign-up period to conclude March 29

By CHARLEY E. HILL
Executive Director
1974 RURAL ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The 1974 RECP has been developed and a ten day sign-up period has been set for March 18 thru March 29, 1974. This program will operate differently than in the past in that priorities will be set within practices in determining eligibility for cost-sharing. There is a $2500.00 per person per year National Limitation and the States or Counties could not alter this amount.

Castro County received $24,149.00 of which $1,207.45 was transferred to the Soil Conservation Services leaving $22,941.55 for cost-sharing the following practices:

- RE-7 Terraces
 - a Standard
 - b Parallel
- RE-8 Diversion Terraces
- RE-14 Reorganizing Irrigation Systems
 - a Tailwater Recovery
- Pits
 - b Land Leveling
 - c Irrigation Pipe

Request for cost-sharing is not authorized where Land Leveling is the only measure or component to be performed, since Land Leveling by itself cannot be considered as the reorganizing of an irrigation system.

Requests will not be approved for assistance and cost-shares obligated until positive assurance is provided that the practice is ready to be performed; therefore, you are urged to visit with the county that will do the work and the Soil Conservation Service and develop a conservation plan prior to coming by the ASCS Office to sign up. Cost-share practices requested at this time must be carried out by Aug. 30, 1974.

NO GRAIN RESEAL AND EXTENDED COTTON LOANS FOR 1973 CROPS

There will not be a reseed program for the 1973 crops of grain and soybeans and the 1973 Crop Cotton Warehouse Storage Loans will not be extended.

The StakHand® 30 System makes haying a one-man operation!

HESSTON StakHand 30

builds up to 3-ton compressed stacks of hay or stover!

Harvesting a hay crop always has been slow, expensive work. It required a lot of labor, a lot of equipment, and lots of luck to stay ahead of the weather. Now, the Hesston StakHand 30 System solves those problems for the family sized farm or the operation with a medium sized hay acreage. One man can build compressed Hesston HayStaks 8' wide, 14' long and 9' tall, weighing up to three tons... without leaving his tractor seat. You may have enough hay to keep it working at top capacity all through a long harvest season...or you may have some hay of your own, and stack some for your neighbors...then put your StakHand 30 to use stacking stover such as corn stalks, milo or soybeans. Any way you use it, you'll find putting up hay is easier, faster and more profitable than ever before in Hesston's world of one-man haying.

Springer tells Rotarians of flood-control construction

Flood control work is currently underway along the Running Water Draw, and according to David Springer of the county Soil Conservation Service office here, seven dams will eventually help to control flooding.

SPRINGER told members of the Dimmitt Rotary Club at their noon luncheon Friday that plans for the flood control project were first introduced following extensive flooding in Plainview during the 1950's.

Work on the project is taking place in Curry County in New Mexico and Parmer, Castro, Lamb and Swisher counties in the Texas Panhandle.

"There will eventually be seven structures in the flood control system," said Springer.

"There will also be side draws at Bovina, Hart and Edmonson," he added.

Work is currently underway at a side draw at Bovina, and according to Springer, work on a side draw at Hart will begin in July.

"Size of the water control structures will vary, most will cover about 200 acre-feet and be about five feet deep overall," Springer told his audience. "The dams will be built and paid for by the SCS, and once they are completed, they will be turned over to the county."

Horn cindermen win at Hale Center Saturday

Hart's Longhorn cindermen racked up their second track victory of the season Saturday as they won the Class A division of the Hale Center Relays.

THE HORNS finished with a total of 123, followed by Hale Center with 107½, Shallowater with 53½, Kress with 52 and Lubbock Christian High with 47.

Speedster Jimmy Brown captured the 100 yard dash with a time of 10 flat while Jimmy Smith finished third with a 10.5 clocking.

Smith was also second in the 220 yard dash with a time of 24.4.

Brown finished second in the long jump with a distance of 24 feet, ½ inch and Randy Finch was third with 18 feet, 2½ inches.

STEVEN FINCH was first in the 440 with a time of 52.9, followed closely by brother Randy with a time of 53 flat.

The 440 relay team of Brown, Finch, James McLain and Smith turned in the first place time of 45.2.

The mile relay team made up of Steven and Randy Finch, McLain and Brown also captured first with a time of 3:36.5.

Barry George won second in the high jump, clearing 5 ft. 8 inches. George also won third in the pole vault.

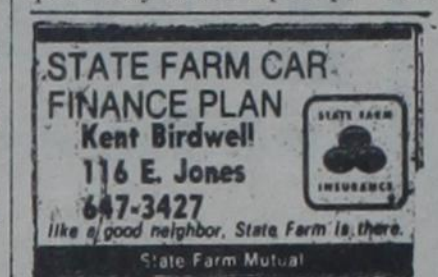

ROD RODRIGUEZ finished first in the 330 yard intermediate hurdles with a time of 43.5.

Springer pointed out that the landowner will have complete control of the area where the structures are built and will be solely responsible for deciding if fishing and other recreational activities may take place at the dams. The SCS will only be responsible for the engineering.

EACH OF the dams will be constructed of earthen material. Crews will make a core trench, then begin packing in materials. After construction is completed, the dam banks will be sodded.

Approximate cost of each of the dams will be $250,000.

"There will be very little maintenance of these dams once they are turned over to the individual counties, once sod is established, they will require only minor upkeep," said Springer.

Tidwell Spraying Service offers complete aerial help for crops

A familiar sight in our area during the crop season is one of the yellow-and-black planes of Tidwell Spraying Service swooping low over a field, doing its vital work to keep the crop healthy and insect-free.

Depending on conditions and the time of year, the plane may be fertilizing to help get a crop up, ridding it of insects or fungus, killing out the weeds, or defoliating the crop for a more efficient harvest. Aerial spraying can help solve a big majority of the threats to your valuable crop.

Tidwell Spraying Service is the oldest aerial spraying firm in Castro County. M. A. "Buster" Tidwell started the business here in 1958, when the Dimmitt Airport consisted of a dirt runway and half a dozen homemade hangars.

In 16 years' service to local farmers, Tidwell Spraying Service has expanded in both size and capabilities. The company has always used the best planes available and the most modern equipment and chemicals to help give local farmers that extra advantage in their crops.

Tidwell Spraying Service now uses two big Thrush Commander spray planes. Built by Rockwell International, the Thrush Commander is the largest production spray-plane on the market today.

Teaming with Tidwell in the Thrush Commander cockpits is Bryce Dowell, a Dimmitt native who has been with Tidwell Spraying Service six years, the last four as a spray pilot.

"The main thing we want the farmers to know," Tidwell says, "is that when they need us, we're ready to go."

HAS SPRING REALLY SPRUNG? — Spring has arrived early in the Texas Panhandle, at least according to the fruit trees. Warm temperatures over the past weeks have brought out a profusion of blooms but wary weather-watchers are still looking for the cold snap at Easter that could spell the end of this year's fruit crop.

Look close to home for outdoor activity

High prices and the gasoline shortage might discourage many persons who normally enjoy outdoor recreation.

YOU SHOULDN'T let these factors spoil your fun, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials.

The shortages and the high prices are discouraging, but they should alter rather than stop outdoor recreation efforts.

Recreationists should look closer to home instead of driving many hours looking for a good time.

For example, state parks are within short drives of Texas' metropolitan areas, offering camping, picnicking, swimming, hiking and fishing.

REMEMBER too, say department officials, that you don't have to drive 100 miles to get a change of scenery. You can find it under a tree or along the stream bank in your nearest city park.

The great thing about finding your recreation close to home is that you can spend more time having fun and less time driving.

Fishermen can find some action in their metropolitan area. True, a town lake probably won't be a great black bass hot-spot compared to that one 300 miles away, but then, black bass aren't the only fish in the stream.

Most town lakes offer at least two excellent but generally ignored fish species which can give you plenty of action — carp and sunfish, according to department officials.

THE CARP is regarded as a trash fish in this country, but this prejudice stops at the borders. In Europe and oriental countries carp are more highly regarded, both as a sporting fish and as a table fish.

When hooked, carp put up a battle which some fishermen claim rivals the more popular game fish, and carp grow much larger than most of Texas' native game fish, over 30 pounds.

Sure, sunfish are small, but they are easy to catch, and this is a big plus when you take the kids fishing.

The great thing about fishing for sunfish and carp is that it is almost impossible to overfish the species. Carp are considered undesirable, so you catch as many as you like. Thinning out the sunfish population will actually result in better fishing and bigger fish.

According to department officials, using local facilities has a side benefit. As the demand increases for these facilities, public officials will look to more recreational opportunities to meet these demands.

Water importation re-evaluation may be a reality soon

"Re-evaluation of the West Texas-Eastern New Mexico Import Project may come sooner than most of us had hoped possible," according to A. L. Black, president of Water, Inc. Even federal officials involved in branding the project "economically infeasible" less than a year ago are having second thoughts, he noted.

BLACK WAS referring to comments made by members of the Southwest Federal Regional Council during a briefing in Austin. The Council is made up of representatives of regional administrators and directors of federal agencies operating in Texas and its four bordering states.

Willard E. Lewis Jr., special assistant to the Secretary of the Interior, Albuquerque, N.M., noted that despite the Bureau of Reclamation and Corps of Engineers findings announced last year, the "door was left open to further consideration of the economic feasibility if circumstances changed in this country."

"I would suggest to you," Lewis said, "that we may well be entering a time when the economics of agriculture changes substantially."

"The basis of that study (on importing water) essentially was on the basis of surpluses, and by and large those surpluses do not exist now — and it may well be that under other economic conditions that the project might some day be feasible from an economic standard," he said.

COUNCIL Chairman Arthur W. Busch, regional administrator, Environmental Protection Agency, opined that if inter-basin transfer of water becomes a reality, the quality of it is "paramount". He concluded that pollution control efforts may make more water available for movement to other areas "subject to political realities."

"These comments," Black said, "are encouraging. They are coming from the same agencies that less than a year ago were saying 'no way'". Black concluded that "the truth is, the world must have the production of our area, no matter what the cost."

VETERANS' SERVICES

By BEDFORD W. SMITH
County Service Officer

Our report will be very brief this week. We'll have more to say when we return from the Spring Service Officers Conference in Waco today and Friday. This annual conference for the 164-county VA Regional Office in Waco will be held at the Waco Plaza Hotel. Because of this conference our office will be closed Friday, March 22; but we'll be open for business again on Monday, March 25 with office hours each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from about 9:00 a.m. until noon, and 1:00 to 3:00 p.m., as well as by appointment and at other times for emergencies.

We may note that President Nixon has designated March 29 as Vietnam Veterans Day. This will be the first anniversary of the day when the last American combat troops were withdrawn from Vietnam and the American prisoners of war were freed. All citizens should observe this day with thanksgiving and prayer for our troubled world and nation.

Don't be fuelish.

If we don't use our heads now we may freeze our tails later.

Here are a few cold facts for you:

First, America is devouring oil faster than she can replace it.

Second, every one of us wastes between 30% and 40% of the energy we consume.

And finally, at the rate we're going, it's only a matter of time before we run out.

That, in a nutshell, is what the energy crisis is all about.

Now we can all sit around and try to figure out how we got into this mess, or we can do something to help get ourselves out of it.

And right now, there's one thing we can do that makes a lot of sense. We've got to change our old habit of wasting energy. And start a new habit of looking for ways to save every bit we can.

It's not going to be easy. But on the other hand, if we don't do the hard thing now, things are going to get a lot harder later.

MAKE THIS THE WINTER OF 68.

So how can you conserve fuel, and still live in a healthy environment? By cutting down on your personal fuel consumption every chance you get.

One important way to cut down is on the fuel you use to heat your home. By adjusting your home thermostat to the recommended fuel-saving temperatures: No higher than 68 degrees during the day. And down to 55-60 degrees at night.

You'll not only help save a lot of energy. You'll save about 15% of your fuel bill.

Of course, you might be a little cool occasionally. Particularly when you're inactive. So you'll probably want to keep your favorite sweater handy. You'd be surprised how a light wrap can keep you warm. Just as warm as if you'd upped the thermostat three or four degrees.

SLOW GOING'S BETTER THAN NO GOING.

The second big way to cut down on your personal use of fuel is to take it easy when you drive.

This means keeping your speed under 55 miles per hour. If you can go any slower, so much the better. Best mileage on your car occurs around 35 mph.

In addition, avoid stop and go driving, and "jackrabbit" starts. They're murder on gas!

Don't idle your engine more than two minutes.

And just plain cut down on driving. Consider starting, or joining, a car pool. And when you use your own car, make trips efficiently. If you can combine daily errands to the supermarket, drugstore, the bank and the cleaners, you'll use a lot less gas in the long run.

And obviously, the less gas we use, the longer the gas will last.

TURN EM OFF. TURN 'EM ALL OFF!

O. K. So you turn down the thermostat, and you drive a little slower. Any other ways to save fuel?

You'd better believe it!

Lights, appliances, and television sets all eat energy. So turn them all off the minute you're finished with them. And unplug "instant-on" TVs. They use fuel even when they're off.

Ranges, dishwashers, and washing machines consume their share, too. So use them conservatively. Do not pre-heat your oven more than a few minutes, and choose the exact temperature needed. When it comes to washing and drying clothes and dishes, try to run only full loads. And use the shortest drying cycle possible. Don't use these appliances between 4 and 8 p.m.

Then look around for luxury fuel users that you could eliminate. Decorative lighting outdoors, for example.

75 WAYS NOT TO BE FUELISH. THEY'RE FREE!

You've just read a few of the ways you can save fuel without major inconvenience. Once you get into a fuel-saving frame of mind, you'll probably find plenty of others.

For that matter, energy savings experts have found several hundred ways to conserve fuel. And they've put many of the really good ones into a helpful fact sheet that's yours absolutely free.

Just fill out the coupon and send it off today. After all, the sooner we all start saving the fuel we have, the longer we'll all keep from freezing our tails.
