Three representatives of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce will meet March 21 with the U.S. Senate Transportation Subcommittee to propose making U.S. Highway 60 from Amarillo to Farwell a four-lane thoroughfare. The Brand has learned.

James Eubanks, transportation department head of the Amarillo chamber, said the three men along with area government officials hope to convey the necessity of creating a four-lane highway from Amarillo to Hereford to Farwell to Las Cruces, N.M. Highway 60 turns into U.S. 70 at Farwell.

The others who will go to Washington, D.C. are Gene Edwards, chamber vice president and First National Bank of Amarillo president; and Barney Wiegand, chamber highway committee chairman.

"The proposal we're going to make to Congress is that they create a priority-funding program, a 20-year program, funded 90-10, federal-local funds, to develop these highways," Eubanks said.

"There are other highways scattered all over the country that need to be developed also. We're asking Congress to do it. We're not asking that they be made part of the interstate system, but be developed to four-lane, divided facilities that hopefully will some day be designated as part of the interstates."

Eubanks and Wiegand were in Hereford Tuesday to meet with local chamber representatives, including transportation committee chairman Larry Alley, concerning the proposal. Also discussed at that meeting was a last-December conference in Wichita, Kan., which attracted chamber representatives and highway interest groups from 10 states.

"At that meeting, we discussed the idea of presenting a unified proposal to Congress," Eubanks said.

A feasibility study on several highways, including 60 and 70, was done by the Department of Transportation in 1973. The proposal to be made next month concerns all the highways included in that study.

"The pressure is very definitely toward easing off of highway developments," Eubanks said, "and spending more for mass transit and urban projects. We hope to counter some of that."

"That study in 1973 caused the Department of Transportation to say that these routes didn't appear to need anything as far as they were concerned. The highways were reverted back to

FBI Investigates AID Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newly released documents show Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., took an interest in State Department contracts granted to a foundation head who allegedly paid Flood $59,000 for his influence.

It was also disclosed Wednesday that the FBI is examining the contracts in what appears to be a widening investigation into allegations of influence-peddling and obstruction of justice by Flood, a senior House Democrat.

The latest investigation involves $16.6 million in contracts granted by the Agency for International Development, without competitive bidding, to Airline Foundation and an arm of George Washington University, both groups headed by a Dr. Murdock Head.

Former Flood aide Stephen B. Elko has told federal prosecutors that between 1971 and 1974 Head paid $59,000 to Flood, $18,000 to Elko and $10,000 to former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La. Flood, Passman and Head have denied the accusation.

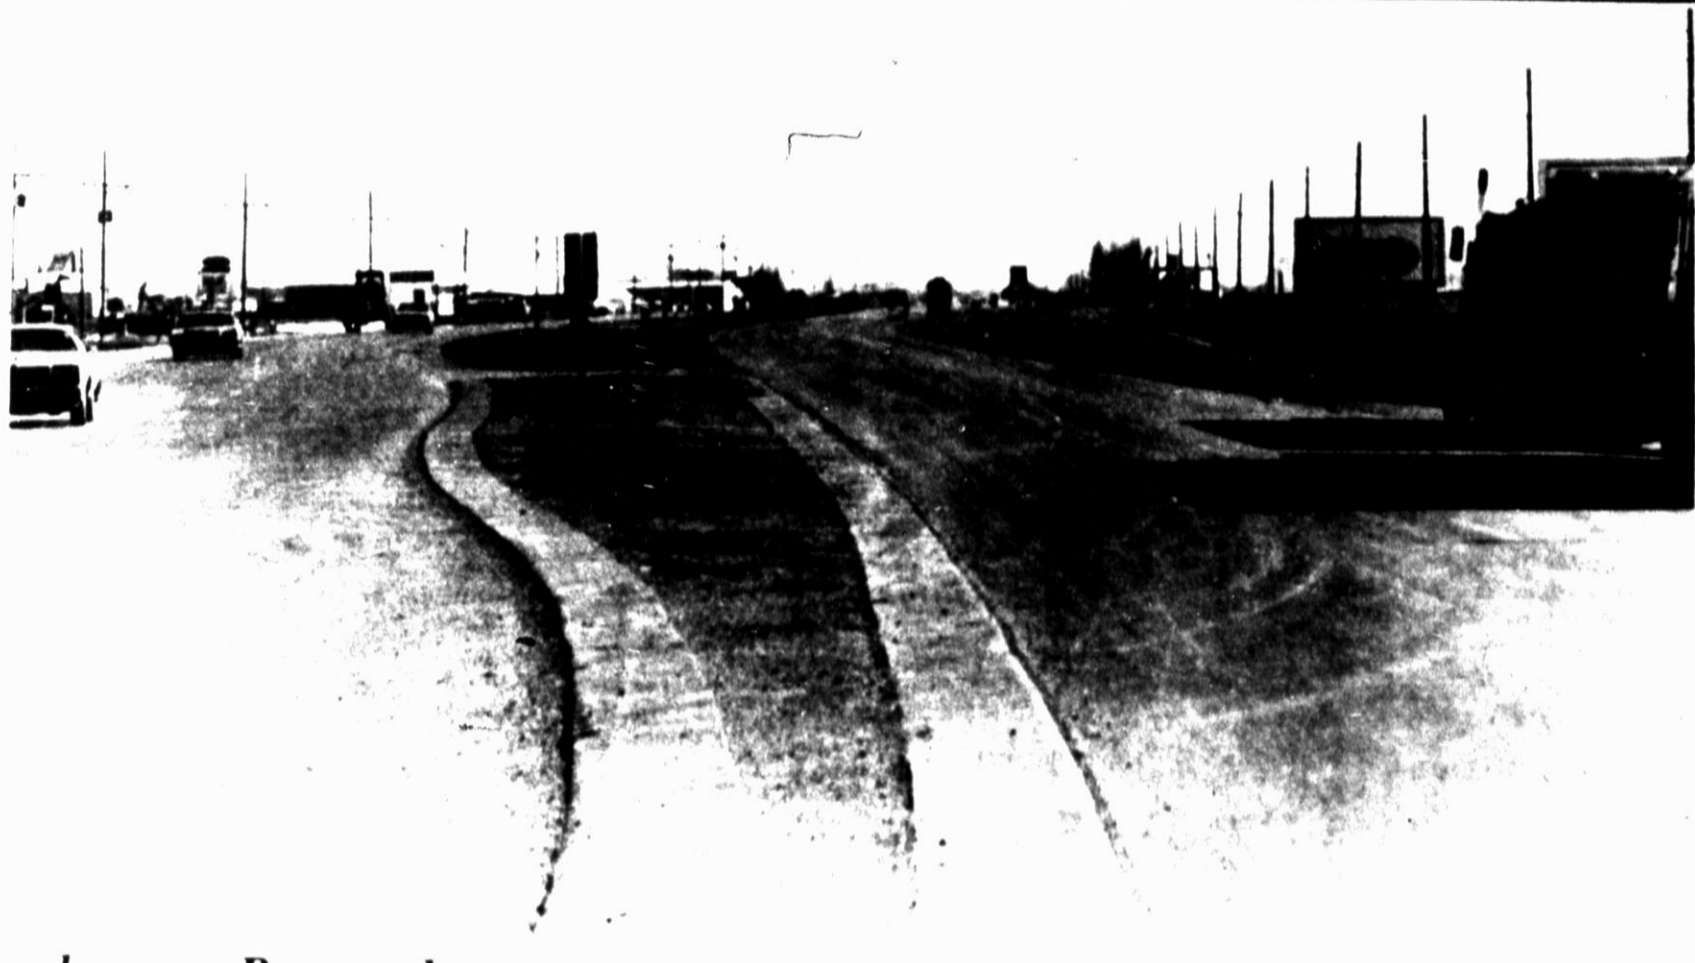

Elko turned state's evidence after being sentenced to three years in prison for taking pay-offs. He is considered a key witness in several investigations, including a probe of Flood and Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa.

News accounts dating back to 1975 had stated that Passman, then head of the House subcommittee handling AID's budget, pressured the agency to keep money flowing to Head's organizations. Wednesday a new document surfaced showing Flood also took an interest in Head's contracts.

The letter, released by AID under the Freedom of Information Act, was dated June 25, 1973, from then-AID Administrator John A. Hannah to Passman.

"In recent conversations you indicated that Congressman Flood had inquired of you as to the status of the Airline Foundation projects," it said. "You can assure Congressman Flood that all of these projects will be funded through to their conclusion."

Development Proposed

All of U.S. Highway 60 from Amarillo to Farwell will become a four-lane, divided thoroughfare if the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce has its way. Representatives from the chamber along with local government officials from Amarillo and Canyon will meet with the U.S. Senate subcommittee on transportation March 21 to discuss the proposal. (Brand photo by Paul Sims)

Hostage Freed by Grabbing Gun

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — No one was more surprised than the police when hostage Robert Herrmann seized an opportunity to grab his abductor's gun and end a 30-hour ordeal with a bank robbery suspect.

"We had no idea he was going to do that," Lt. Roger Evans said in describing how Herrmann went for the .38-caliber pistol Wednesday night while Evans and an FBI agent sat in the back seat of the hostage car negotiating with the gunman, who was in the front seat.

"We had made our plans that if we got the opportunity I was to go for the weapon and the agent was going to go for the suspect," Evans said.

The abductor was identified as Byron

R. Ball, 40, wanted for bank robberies in New Jersey and Ohio.

Evans said Ball had put the weapon down on the seat to light a cigarette when Herrmann made his move.

"The hostage took the gun and gave it to me and the agent grabbed him Ball and that was about the extent of it."

Ball was "surprised and shocked, too," Evans said. "He had been relaxed and I'm pretty sure he was fatigued because he had been up numerous hours. I don't think he had been asleep since this whole thing began."

Evans said Ball told him that "he wouldn't give up because of his past life." Ball offered no resistance after his gun was taken.

Herrmann, a 38-year-old postal worker from West Manchester, told reporters he was treated "okay" by his abductor. "My greatest concern was last night with the boys," he said, referring to the first 17½ hours of the ordeal when his sons — Rob, 10, and Mike, 7 — also were held by Ball. They were released by Ball on Wednesday in exchange for another car provided by the FBI.

"After that, everything was a lot better," Herrmann said, adding that he talked little with his captor.

Asked if he ever considered jumping out of the car, Herrmann said: "Yes, I thought about it many times. But then I thought not."

Hawkins Rape Trial Delayed

With half of the jury in the Samuel Christopher Hawkins III murder trial still to be picked in Lubbock, it is nearly a certainty his trial for aggravated rape in Deaf Smith County scheduled to begin next Tuesday will be postponed.

Hawkins is on trial in Lubbock for the May 3, 1977, stabbing death of Abbe Rodgers Hamilton, of Borger. He also has been indicted for the murder of a 12-year-old Amarillo girl and the 1976 rape-stabbing of a young Hereford housewife.

The Amarillo father of two children is accused of being the so-called Travelling Rapist, who terrorized Panhandle women for almost two years.

His murder trial in Borger was moved to Lubbock on a change of venue.

If convicted on the capital murder charge, Hawkins will face either death or life imprisonment, according to Texas law.

Andy Shuval, Deaf Smith County district attorney, said Hawkins probably will be tried on the Hereford rape charge no matter what the outcome is in Lubbock.

"If he's guilty in Lubbock and gets death, we're going to try him because nobody has been killed on a death penalty yet. The courts tend to look at these death penalty cases so carefully that oftentimes they'll reverse a case on some minor point that nobody ever considered during the trial," said Shuval.

"The reason we want to try him is, even if the death penalty case is reversed, we'll have a good, solid conviction to keep this dangerous man, if he is found guilty, in the penitentiary."

Shuval said the Hereford trial will begin "as soon as possible."

Six jurors have been chosen in the murder trial.

Senate Considers Canal Neutrality

WASHINGTON (AP) — The outcome of the Senate's first procedural vote on the Panama Canal treaties gives no sure indication whether the pacts eventually will be approved or rejected.

By a vote of 67-30, the Senate agreed to stick to its plan of considering the treaty to insure the waterway's neutrality before dealing with the proposal to actually hand the Canal Zone over to Panama.

The vote Wednesday came on a proposal by Sen. James Allen, D-Ala., a leader of the treaty foes, to reverse that order.

Although both sides scanned the roll call for indications the vote might indicate how undecided senators might eventually vote on the treaties themselves, there seemed to be few if any clues.

Sens. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., and Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said their votes for Allen's motion should not be taken as a sign they will support the treaty opponents in the final voting.

"In no way should my vote be taken as anything more than supporting Sen.

Allen's motion," said Ford, one of the undecideds. "I will continue considering every amendment to these treaties, vote by vote."

The leadership of both parties opposed Allen's move.

More debate is expected this week, with no votes planned until next week when efforts to amend the treaties will begin.

The bipartisan leadership has lined up overwhelming support for amending the neutrality pact to include guarantees of the United States' right to intervene militarily to keep the canal open while also spelling out priority passage for U.S. warships in time of emergency.

Allen said considering the neutrality pact first was "putting the cart before the horse."

But Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., expressed the strategy of the treaties' supporters for taking up that agreement first: "I want to know where we stand the next day. I want to know where we stand on Jan. 1, 2000."

No Relief Seen as Beef Prices Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers are seeing beef prices climb to their highest levels in two years and not much relief is in sight, according to the Agriculture Department.

Preliminary figures show that the average retail price of beef, measured on an all-cut basis, climbed to almost $1.47 a pound last month, a two-cent gain from December.

According to USDA records, the January price was the highest since beef averaged more than $1.48 a pound in retail stores in January 1976.

The January price was up 5.7 percent from last September when beef nationally averaged less than $1.39 a pound.

Pork prices also have climbed from their low marks of last fall to more than $1.32 a pound in January, a 4.3 percent gain from less than $1.27 last October.

Together, beef and pork make up a major part of the American food budget. Thus, when their costs increase, the family food bill is usually affected right away. Department economists have been predicting for some time that 1978 meat prices would be higher, particularly for choice cuts of beef which USDA includes in its price analysis. That is meat from choice-grade cattle which have been fed grain before slaughter.

Despite the sharp increases in recent months, no one is predicting that retail beef prices will climb to the record levels of a few years ago. In July 1975, the average all-cut retail price of beef was $1.61 a pound. Pork rose to a peak of about $1.59 a pound in October of that year.

The underlying reason for rising beef prices is that cattle producers, financially hardpressed for several years, voluntarily undertook to reduce their herds by sending surplus cows, calves and other cattle to slaughter.

This resulted in consumer beef prices being held in check the past two years, averaging less than $1.39 a pound over the entire 24 months against the record annual average of $1.46 in calendar 1975.

By the beginning of this year, the U.S. cattle inventory was pared to 116.3 million head, a 12 percent reduction from the Jan. 9, 1975, peak of more than 132 million.

Thus, USDA says there will be 2 to 4 percent less total beef on the consumer market this year than in 1977.

But there will be perhaps 10 percent more pork than in 1977 and broiler production may be up 6 percent or more. That means more competing meats for consumers to choose from this year. It also will help temper future beef price increases.

Further, inventories of feedlot cattle — the kind that produce the choicest beef — are up substantially from last year, meaning that retail prices could ease back a bit later this winter and early spring if the live cattle market weakens enough.

Department analysts say, however, that this may be temporary and that cattle market prices are due to go up again later this year.

Moreover, the reduced cattle inventory points to further declines in beef supplies over the next few years and gradually increasing cattle prices, according to the analysts.

The average price of choice-grade steers in January, for example, was $42.81 per 100 pounds, up from $42.50 in December.

Dummar Admits Lying To Hide Involvement

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Melvin Dummar admits he wove an intricate fabric of lies to cover up his involvement with delivery of a disputed Howard Hughes will.

"I was trapped," he told jurors at the Mormon Will trial Wednesday. "I told everybody a lie that I hadn't seen it or had anything to do with it and I didn't know how to stop it."

In a probing cross-examination, attorney Paul Freese explored the conflicting stories Dummar invented in the months after the will was found naming him as heir to one-sixteenth of Hughes' fortune.

The attorney cited the most damaging evidence yet in the effort to discredit Dummar.

That Dummar's wife liked to spell their name "DuMar," the same spelling used in the will.

That Dummar's aunt who worked for "Millionaire Magazine" would have known much about Hughes.

That Dummar's aunt and cousin pounced on his newfound fame and offered to start a business to sell Melvin Dummar promotional items.

Catholic Guerillas Using PLO Weapons

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Roman Catholic guerrillas in Northern Ireland have received new weapons from the Palestine Liberation Organization, an authoritative security source says.

Among the weapons are half a dozen American M60 machine guns and explosives, the source told The Associated Press.

The source declined to be identified or give many details. But it is known that the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing has received at least one shipment of arms from the PLO in recent months. Five tons of PLO hardware — mortars, rocket launchers, automatic weapons and explosives — were intercepted in Belgium last November. The arms were hidden in electrical transformers en route from Cyprus to the Irish Republican.

"The IRA have plenty of weapons," the security source reported, "although we've captured a lot of their arms including American ArmaLite rifles."

Webster To Take Charge of FBI Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — William H. Webster officially takes charge of the FBI today, hoping to polish the bureau's tarnished image and make it a model of law enforcement once again.

President Carter planned to attend the afternoon swearing-in ceremony in the FBI building that is named for J. Edgar Hoover, the symbol of the bureau's past. Chief Justice Warren Burger was to administer the oath of office.

Webster, a federal appeals court judge, becomes director at a difficult time for the bureau. Its once-unquestioned reputation as the nation's premier law enforcement agency has been tarnished by disclosures of illegal or improper acts by FBI agents, including break-ins, illegal wiretaps and political harassment.

Webster has pledged to make the FBI a model law enforcement agency. The bureau plans to put new emphasis on white collar and organized crime and official corruption. The bureau also is committed to a less active role in crimes such as bank robberies and car thefts, which local police usually can handle.

Carter Jobs Program May Help 4 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration wants most of its job training and public service employment money to help those out of work for long periods of time.

The program, sent to Congress on Wednesday, would authorize $11.4 billion to provide jobs and training for more than four million Americans. It would reduce aid to those who are laid off but are likely to be rehired in an improving economy.

The money, for a 12-month period beginning Oct. 1, would represent a $1.8 billion increase over current spending.

Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., chairman of the House employment opportunities subcommittee, called the proposed changes confusing. He asked whether the plan really simplified or further complicated the federal jobs subsidy program.

To help the long-term unemployed, Carter would train 800,000 people who cannot find jobs even when the economy is healthy.

The program aims to reduce the hiring of middle-income people by hundreds of cities and states which have used the workers to supplement basic services, such as fire and police protection.

Paul Harvey News A First Bouquet for Richard Nixon

After he was no longer a political threat, Hubert Humphrey received an outpouring of admiration and affection. The tributes ranged from the President's "greatest American of our time" to the Vice President's "he taught us how to live and how to die" to the giant bear hug from Sen. Barry Goldwater.

These accolades from left and right and high and low finally caused the "happy warrior" himself to call a halt. "I've had enough epitaphs," said Humphrey, "for a hundred men!"

Publications which had recently linked Humphrey with cash payoffs from Howard Hughes cleaned up his biography to exclude anything less than laudatory.

Welfare Personnel Located

WASHINGTON (AP) — HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. said Wednesday that a computer search has found 7,074 military personnel on welfare rolls in 24 states and the District of Columbia.

A followup investigation will be made to determine if these persons are eligible for welfare or if fraud is involved, the secretary of health, education and welfare said.

The 7,074 were among more than two million military personnel on active duty throughout the world whose Social Security numbers were checked against the Social Security numbers of welfare recipients.

The computer check called Project Match previously has turned up 13,000 civilian government workers also receiving welfare through the Aid to Families With Dependent Children program.

Last year, HEW checked its own payroll against the District of Columbia's welfare rolls and found 216 employees on welfare. It later discovered that 95 were entitled to the benefits, 75 were ineligible, 43 were overpaid and three were underpaid.

"As in the case of the civilian matches announced last November, the next step will be to document earnings and eligibility of the military personnel," Califano said in a statement.

"HEW audit personnel will work with the military services in assembling the information on earnings, and with the state family assistance agencies to ascertain eligibility."

Some 78 percent of the nation's AFDC recipients live in the 25 jurisdictions checked. Califano said checks will be made against the other state welfare rolls within 90 days.

Among the civilian cases, he said, 955 have been turned over to the district for eligibility review and 5,100 will be forwarded to the states in the near future.

The 24 states are: Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York City, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas,

Conviction Upheld

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Tuesday affirmed 5-4, the conviction and 50-year prison sentence assessed Oscar Dovalina in Houston in the attempted capital murder of state narcotics agent Jerry Powell.

The split decision reflected disagreement over whether the indictment against Dovalina was "fatally defective" under the new Penal Code.

Witnesses testified that after Powell and a Houston detective had arrested Dovalina and two others, Dovalina, while handcuffed, reached over from the back seat and stabbed Powell in the head, cheek, nose and groin.

A female companion, Sylvia Nerios, got Powell's revolver, and Dovalina allegedly said, "Get the pistol, Sunshine, and shoot him."

She pointed the revolver at Powell and pulled the trigger twice, but it did not fire because the safety was engaged, witnesses said.

Powell escaped, and Dovalina fired at him.

Later, in a high-speed chase, Dovalina attempted to fire an M-1 carbine at a pursuing Houston police officer.

Dovalina contended that the indictment was fundamentally defective because it did not allege that he acted with the specific intent to commit the offense of capital murder.

The indictment said, in part, that Dovalina did "knowingly and intentionally attempt to cause the death of Jerry Powell."

"The dissent would hold that the evidence is insufficient to support the conviction because the proof did not show that appellant Dovalina shot Powell with a gun but only shot at him."

The dissent said, "In light of today's majority opinion" and a previous decision — "the mere allegation of 'attempt' as a conclusion in an indictment for the attempted capital murder of a peace officer is sufficient to allege 'the specific intent to commit capital murder,' a necessary element of the general attempt statute, and further such indictment need not set forth what the defendant did in the attempt to commit capital murder without the same being fundamentally defective."

Chicago Daily News To End Publication

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Daily News, noted for a history of excellence in writing and foreign reporting, will cease publication with its March 4 edition.

Publisher Marshall Field made the formal announcement Wednesday, less than three weeks after he said the board of directors was "contemplating" a shutdown of the city's last remaining afternoon newspaper.

The Daily News, with an accumulation of 15 Pulitzer Prizes during its 102-year history, reported losses of $11 million in the last year and $21.7 million since Sept. 30, 1974. Its average daily circulation declined from 397,598 in 1974 to 329,078 last September.

The Daily News' demise will leave two dailies in Chicago.

The Tribune Co. shut down only afternoon competitor, in 1974 and extended the morning Chicago Tribune to "24-hour" publication including afternoon editions.

Field Enterprises canceled a Daily News promotion campaign early this month, giving notice to some 985 employees that the newspaper's long-rumored demise was near.

Governor Dolph Briscoe will undoubtedly be the center of attention in the upcoming campaign, although it's hard to imagine this governor being involved in anything very exciting, much less generating any excitement himself. His opponents will try to strike sparks, of course, and Attorney General John Hill, generally regarded as Briscoe's No. 1 rival, has been trying hard for months...but about the only sparks Hill has been able to generate have come from a political rival who opted out of that race before it ever started: Comptroller Bob Bullock.

"And former-Governor Preston Smith would like to strike sparks, too, but not even an Eagle Scout could start a fire by rubbing Preston Smith and Dolph Briscoe together. Dolph is too well insulated, and Preston's voltage is much too low.

"Not much is likely to happen in the Governor's race...Briscoe hasn't been ardent enough to create good enemies and his prospective opponents haven't developed enough charisma to create ardent friends...so maybe the voters of Texas will be able to give deserved attention to some of the lesser offices which may have greater impact on the public welfare: the race for Attorney General, for example, and the race for State Treasurer.

"A young fellow, one-time Texas

Aggie Quarterback and more recently the able chief clerk for Comptroller Bob Bullock, named Harry Ledbetter has launched an energetic campaign for the office of State Treasurer, and will bear watching. He is now a business and financial consultant in Austin, and can bring some expertise to the musty office occupied for so long by Jesse James and now held, by appointment, by Warren G. Harding...both men whose principal qualification for the post has been a famous name.

"Ledbetter might do as much for the office of State Treasurer as his old boss, Bob Bullock, has already done for the office of State Comptroller. If he does, Texas taxpayers will be a lot better off."

Highway

Eubanks said a point to be mentioned to the transportation subcommittee will be that U.S. 60 provides a strategic connector length in tying the southern route into Interstate 40 on a diagonal cross.

"Highways are our transportation lifeline out here sitting in the country's breadbasket and meatbasket. We've got to have the improved highway facilities in order to move our commerce, move our goods, continue growth.

"In addition, these highways throughout the country, this one (60) in particular, fill a strategic gap in the interstate system."

Alley said that a loop through Hereford would have to be considered in any highway development because of the impact of a four-lane stretch through the city.

"It's not feasible to bring it through Hereford," Alley said. "We need a loop around the city."

Alley said the transportation committee which is comprised of himself, Elmer Brown, James Gentry, R.L. Blakely, Melvin Jayroe and Hans Bralten, are "just getting started" in planning the chamber's role in supporting highway development.

allegations, except to issue a blanket denial.

Passman, who has retired, said he is too sick to answer questions about the matter except to deny taking money from Head.

James Sharp, an attorney for Head, said Wednesday that Head never gave anything of value to Passman or Flood. He said neither the FBI nor the Justice Department has contacted Head about the matter.

According to former AID officials and to the newly released documents, Passman made repeated calls to AID officials on behalf of Head's projects in the early 1970s.

One AID official, Jarold A. Kieffer, resigned in 1975, complaining of improper influence by Passman. He said he was asked for his resignation when he refused to drop his objections to granting Head a new $5 million contract.

Kieffer's bosses at the time say his resignation was unrelated to Head's projects.

Head's work for AID involved birth control — producing films and training materials, conducting seminars for Latin American leaders and publishing a multilingual magazine. Their quality has drawn mixed reviews, including high praise for some of the films.

However, the General Accounting Office said in 1976 that Head's organization showed "repeated apparent non-compliance" with terms of its agreement.

More recently, AID officials allowed a Head contract to lapse on grounds that AID is negotiating with Head over nearly $400,000 in what the agency said were possible excess charges for films and seminars.

Kieffer, head of AID's population control projects, described pressure by Passman to fund a $5 million project Head was pushing in late 1974, even though other population projects were being reduced by Passman's subcommittee. A $2 million version of the project was approved more than a year after his resignation.

Kieffer's immediate superior, AID Assistant Administrator John A. Murphy, wrote to him on Nov. 21, 1974, saying: "My conclusion is that, with some restructuring and additional budgetary justification, the proposal merits funding commencing in FY 1975." Fiscal year 1975 was then nearly six months old.

Kieffer says he took Murphy's memo as an order to grant the new contract. He protested on Nov. 25 about what he called improper congressional influence.

Kieffer said Murphy had told him earlier of "congressional intervention."

"As you have related to me, a powerful congressman has directly and secretly demanded that you arrange for AID to make a large grant from this year's scarce funds to finance the...proposal," the memo said.

"Moreover, as you related to me, the

'HONEST ABE' FETED UNEVENLY

CHICAGO (AP) — Abraham Lincoln, the 16th president, who is credited with having proved to the world that democracy can be a lasting form of government, is not unanimously honored within that same category.

Only about 30 states in the United States observe Lincoln's Birthday as a legal holiday, according to The World Book Encyclopedia. Most of those states do so on his actual birthday, Feb. 12, but a few celebrate it on the first or third Monday of February.

The first observance of "Honest Abe's" birthday was in 1866, the year after his assassination.

Women's Division Seeking New Blood

Local women are reminded that they now have the opportunity to enroll as new members of the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division during their annual membership drive.

Membership is open to anyone interested in working for the betterment of Deaf Smith County. Those interested in joining are urged to contact any member of the Women's Division or the Chamber office for more details.

The Women's Division is active in a number of community projects throughout the year. This variety of activities affords its members the opportunity to work on projects which hold particular interest for the individual worker.

The upcoming Miss Hereford Pageant is a major undertaking of the Women's Division and one which requires hours of work and preparation. The pageant's past success reflects the dedicated efforts of the organization. The local pageant is the Women's Division's first project each year, but each of the WD activities is a major function.

The current membership drive, which will end Monday, is in the form of a contest for its membership. First and second place cash prizes will be awarded to the two women enrolling the most new members. First prize is $50 and second place offers $25.

Carrell Ann Simmons heads up the membership committee. Other members of this task force are Shirley Barber, Betty Gilbert, Billie Hopson, Thelma Marsh, Irene McKinster, and Wilma Taylor.

Current officers of the Women's Division are Margaret Formby, president; Mary Herring, first vice president; Carrell Ann Simmons, second vice; LeJean Henry, secretary; Glenda Gerles and Janet Welty, directors.

Association of W's Elects New Officers

Officers of the Hereford Chapter, Association of the W's, were elected Saturday during a regular business meeting in SWPS Reddy Room.

To be installed next month are Irene Mullins, president; Patricia Vogler, legislative chair; Melaine Mullin, recording secretary; Wilma Bryan and Leta Kaul, membership chairmen; Melaine Mullin, recording secretary; Wilma Bryan and Leta Kaul, membership chairmen; Patricia Vogler, legislative chair; and Audrey Allen, hospitality chairman, to be assisted by Mildred Guinn.

In other business, Association members agreed to pay registration fees for local delegates planning to attend the National Congress for Educational Excellence, which will be convening this weekend in Tulsa, Okla.

Prior to the business session, Mrs. Vogler reported her recent trip to Washington, D.C. as representative of the Citizens Forum of the Panhandle. A number of guests were present for her report. After discussing the Pro-Family, Pro-Life Coalition's luncheon for the nation's Congressmen, Mrs. Vogler reviewed the goals of the Association of W's.

Approximately 20 were in attendance for the program and luncheon.

Mrs. Morgan Hostess To LAE Club Members

In her book, Mrs. Eisenhower offered personal sketches of famous personalities whom she had interviewed, including Golda Mier, Ruth Belle Graham (wife of evangelist Billy Graham), Charles, Prince of Wales, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, the late Mao Tse-tung and Mamie Doud Eisenhower.

Pet Ott introduced her sister, Ethel Logan as a guest.

Other members in attendance were Madeline Bell, Leola Cook, Opal Elliston, Tresa Hale, Lucille Hughes, Allyne Johnson, Aileen Montgomery and Mrs. Ott.

Pruning Roses Advised For Quality Blooms

COLLEGE STATION — Pruning roses will improve the size and quality of blooms, and now is the time to get the job done, says a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Prune hybrid tea roses in mid-February in Central Texas but delay pruning in North Texas until late February or early March," points out Everett Janne.

"Annual pruning make roses easier to care for in addition to producing top quality blooms," adds the horticulturist.

To tackle the pruning job, Janne suggests a good set of hand shears, a sharp pruning saw, a pair of long-handled loppers, pruning paint and a pair of heavy leather gloves. Gloves will protect hands from thorns. The saw will help remove heavy basal canes over two years old while loppers will cut large canes of the past season and shears will handle smaller branches. Cover all cuts and ends of canes with the pruning paint to prevent entry of diseases and insects.

Begin by cutting back top growth to 12 to 15 inches above the ground. Keep four to six healthy canes arising from the graft or bud union or within 4 to 6 inches above the union.

"Remove all dead, diseased and injured twigs and branches as well as all of the thin spindly growth often found at the base of an old established plant," advises Janne.

Since most climbing roses produce a great abundance of flowers in early spring, delay major pruning of these types until after the spring flush of bloom, says the horticulturist. On healthy, vigorous climbers, remove or severely cut back any cane over two years old. Thin last season's growth at least one-half and cut back to within several feet of the base to encourage new growth.

"Roses will usually start growing within two to three weeks after pruning. Be ready to start your preventive disease control program against Black Spot at this time and continue every two weeks until frost. Remember three or four properly cared-for rose bushes will provide all the cut flowers needed in the average home. Determine the size of your rose bed by the time you can devote to their care and not by the space available," notes Janne.

Cathy Koelzer Wins Ms. Koelzer Wins Sales Honor

Cathy Koelzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Koelzer, 424 Ave. J, has been honored for her performance in The Southwestern Company's nationally-known summer marketing program.

While in competition with over 6,500 students from all over the United States, Ms. Koelzer earned the company's top sales award for ranking in the top percentage of student dealers in personal sales. Ms. Koelzer has been asked to return as a Student Manager in the company's summer program. Her selection was announced after consideration in the areas of initiative, self-motivation and determination.

Ms. Koelzer is a 1974 graduate of Hereford High School and is now attending Texas A&M University.

Ann Landers Snoring Solution

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For years my husband worked nights. He crawled into bed when I crawled out to get our four children off to school. Now he has the day shift so we are sleeping together - or trying to. He takes the middle of the bed, throws his arms around and clips me at least three times during the night. The worst of it is his snoring. I am a light sleeper and he is unconscious the minute he hits the bed. I've tried carpalps, a pillow over my head and even made a chin strap for him. It falls off. A little snoring I can take but he snorts, gurgles and barks. The walls shake.

Our sex life is super and we love each other a lot, but it's impossible for me to get a night's sleep when we are in the same bed. Last week I moved to the guest room. He's mad. I'd love to spend the night with him but it's more than I can stand. Am I a villain to pull this "brother-sister act" as he calls it? Please advise. - Konked Out

DEAR KONKED: If your sex life is super, why does your husband call it a "brother-sister act"? Since he becomes unconscious the minute he hits the bed there should be no complaints. Solution: After he falls asleep, move to the other room. Set your alarm so you can crawl back into his bed ten minutes before he gets up. This should satisfy him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How can I let someone I like a lot know that he would be much more socially acceptable if he wore dentures? This certain somebody goes around with that toothless, gummy look. He always puts his hand up to his mouth when he smiles, so I'm sure he's aware of it. Having a meal with him is almost more than I can stand. He looks like he's going to swallow his nose when he chews - or I should say, gums - his food. Also, there are so many things he can't eat.

I would appreciate some words of wisdom from you on how to broach the subject. (P.S. Why don't they know better?) - From Kentucky (Lexington)

DEAR LEX: People who go around toothless usually have had some problem with dentures that don't fit. They get disgusted and give up. This is a sad mistake.

Tell your friend you want him to have dentures made and offer to find him a good dentist who will do the job. Then go ahead and make an appointment and accompany him on the first visit. (P.S. Don't worry about offending him. He will probably be pleased that you cared enough to show an interest.)

DEAR ANN: This is strictly an MYOB situation. My dear friend is 60 pounds overweight. Her nine-year-old daughter weighs 150 pounds. The poor kid is so fat she wears slip-on shoes because she can't bend down to tie her laces. I dread dinner invitations at their house because I can't bear to watch that child stuff herself with four helpings of everything.

I realize a tendency to be overweight can be hereditary, but why would an obese mother encourage her fat daughter to have two desserts? This woman is not ignorant. She has had five years of college. Can anybody help? - I'm MMOB

DEAR M.: The school nurse might be your best ally. Quietly call the child's teacher and inquire about the possibility of the nurse inviting the mother to school for a conference. That child is in big trouble.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBCEK

A male reader wishes to be heard.

"I wish to comment on a column you had a few weeks ago where you accused husbands of apathy toward a wife's problem of what to fix for dinner. Your exact words were: 'I don't know of a woman alive who has not begged her husband for suggestions for dinner.' I don't know of a husband alive who has not constantly ordered. 'I don't care.'"

He continues, "Perhaps the main reason 'I don't care' is consistently ordered may be seen in the following exchange: Wife: Honey, what would you like for dinner tonight? Husband: I don't care. Wife: Please don't say that. Help me decide what to fix. Husband: All right. . . how about spaghetti? Wife: No, I'm really not in the mood for spaghetti. I'd rather have something more meaty. Husband: Okay, how about a pot roast? Wife: We can't. I'm saving our last roast for day after tomorrow. It's too big for the two of us and we'll have someone in. Husband: Well then, why don't you just fry up some chicken? Wife: We don't have any. I took those last two fryers to the church potluck last Sunday. Husband: If we don't have anything, let's just go out for dinner. Wife: You know we can't afford it. We've gone out too much lately. Besides, my hair is a mess and I don't have a thing to wear. Husband: What do we have then? Wife: I could thaw out some hamburger and fix your favorite casserole. Would you like that? Husband: I don't care."

Author's Postscript: If the writer had taken his vignette one step further, we would have the wife thawing the hamburger and serving his favorite casserole. He would look at it and observe, "Is this the casserole with the imported eagle eggs, $35 worth of shrimp and clams, the secret sauce that takes 12 hours to prepare and marinate and can only be served during a full moon?" (His wife nods enthusiastically.) I had it for lunch."

"Why didn't you tell me?" "I don't care."

Kuhn Opposition Grows

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A bloc of baseball owners is working slowly behind the scenes to send Commissioner Bowie Kuhn back into the full-time practice of law.

An Associated Press survey indicates that nine of the 26 owners today would vote in a secret ballot to fire Kuhn, who has five years remaining on a seven-year term. But one owner who was identified as being against Kuhn said his team was standing firmly in the commissioner's corner.

The private lobbying against Kuhn hasn't reached the roll call stage yet, but owner Brad Corbett of Texas is thought to have approached several of his colleagues about dumping the commissioner.

Corbett had Kuhn's head in his hands three years ago in a meeting in Milwaukee when the commissioner's contract came up for renewal. The Rangers' owner was one of four American League executives aligned against Kuhn at the time, enough opposition to make him one-term Bowie.

But in an 11th-hour gambit, Los Angeles owner Walter O'Malley convinced Corbett and New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner to change their votes.

The other nay-sayers in 1975 were American Leaguers Charlie Finley of Oakland and Jerrold Hoffberger of Baltimore. Ray Kroc of San Diego was adamant in his opposition, but was coaxed to change his National League vote at the last minute for the sake of unanimity.

Contacts with several ownership sources have provided a list of at least nine owners who are opposed to Kuhn today. They are Finley, Corbett, Hoffberger, Steinbrenner and Kroc — the same owners in opposition in 1975 — plus four more: Gene Autry of California, Bill Veck of the Chicago White Sox, Ted Turner of Atlanta and Bob Howsam of Cincinnati.

But Steinbrenner asserted in a statement the Yankees would have "absolutely no part" in any "Dump Kuhn" plan.

"No one in baseball has been penalized more, with the possible exception of Charlie Finley, than we have... I certainly don't agree with every decision the man makes and there may be differences in our philosophies on some things, but he has one of the toughest jobs in the world, trying to keep peace among 26 of the most cantankerous individuals in the world, and he has done a pretty damn good job.

"He has given stature and strength to the office of commissioner and it is about time more owners stood up and supported him and gave him the credit that is due instead of trying to undermine the office," said Steinbrenner.

There is disagreement over how many more negative votes would be needed to fire Kuhn. Some owners say five more anti-Kuhn owners would produce a simply majority of 14 (out of 26 clubs), tipping the balance against the commissioner. Since there is no procedure for dismissal, however, other owners contend the rules for renewing the commissioner's contract must apply.

Those rules mandate that the commissioner receive positive votes from at least three-quarters of the owners in each of the two leagues.

"I think it would take far more than a majority vote," said American League President Lee MacPhail. "If the commissioner was convinced that a large number of clubs were against him, I think he would resign."

Kuhn has refused to comment on the matter.

Corbett, the chief anti-Kuhn lobbyist, did not return the calls of The AP. But earlier in the week, Corbett was quoted in the Dallas Times-Herald as saying: "We're gonna get him (Kuhn)."

Kroc said Corbett approached him about buying out the remaining five years on Kuhn's contract.

"We had conversations on other subjects and it came up in conversation," Kroc said from Chicago.

"I would participate, and Brad has indicated that there are a number of other people who would participate."

Finley, the biggest thorn in Kuhn's side, has been calling for the commissioner's ouster for some time. Wednesday, he was happy to do it again.

"I'd stand on top of the Sears Tower — the largest building in the world — waving a sign, 'Fire Bowie!'"

Finley says Kuhn's interventions in Oakland operations have ruined him financially and forced him to try and sell his troubled club. In 1976, Kuhn canceled Finley's $3.5 million sale of three of his top players, saying the deals were not in the "best interests of baseball."

Last month, Kuhn voided Finley's trade of pitcher Vida Blue to Cincinnati.

With his latest decision,

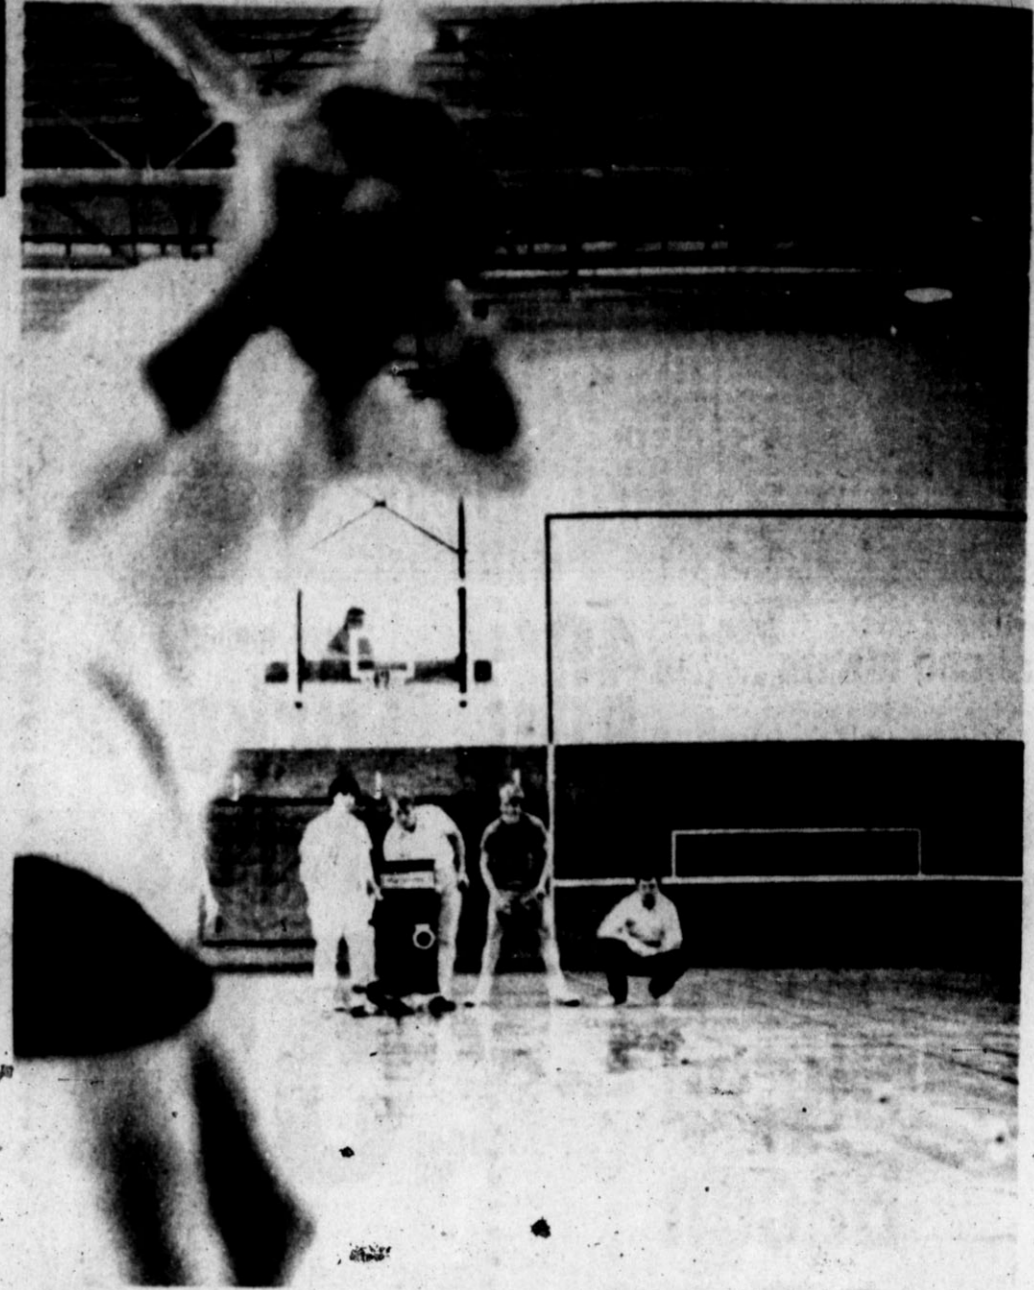

Kuhn apparently lost the support of Howsam. A source said Howsam circulated to all the owners and general managers transcripts of the Blue hearing, Cincinnati press releases on the subject and Howsam's opinions.

One baseball executive said Howsam's presence in the anti-Kuhn camp was significant since he is one of the sport's most respected and influential officials.

Still, the anti-Kuhn forces, not unified on any course of action, are in the distinct minority and some of them are afraid to go public for fear of being on the wrong side of a bloody war.

"I think the commissioner is assuming too much control of our private business," said Kroc. "I agree with the philosophy of the commissioner to maintain absolute integrity in the game. But I think he has gone far afield."

A majority of the owners do support the commissioner, including Peter Bavasi, president and general manager of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Making Do

When Mother Nature gets testy the only thing one can do is make the best of it, as HHS baseball coaches David Ashby [kneeling right] and Mickey Miller will attest. The Whitefaces have been limited to indoor practices due to the abundance of snow lately. The coaches have been working on the teams' timing, however, with the use of an automatic tennis ball server. ## Lubbock Golf Shifted Here

By BOB NIGH
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces may find themselves with an edge when the Lubbock Invitational Golf Tournament is played on the Pitman Municipal courses here Friday and Saturday. The Herd, faced with a drastic shortage of playing time along with the rest of Panhandle area teams due to snow, will play host for the tournament with a field of 12 teams possible.

"We offered to let them (Lubbock) use our course since they still had snow on theirs," HHS golf coach Terry Russell said this morning. "We are faced with a serious situation with the beginning of district play coming up next weekend, and they accepted."

If all the teams originally entered into the tournament decide to come to Hereford the local course will be full. Russell reported that expected teams include New Mexico Military Institute, Pampa, Borger, Amarillo High, Caprock, Tascosa, Palo Duro, Lubbock High, Coronado, Monterey, and two Hereford teams.

The Lubbock Invitational is the second round of action for the Whitefaces, who finished second at the Roswell Invitational two weeks ago.

Coach Terry Russell's linksters placed above the rest of District 4-4A teams at Roswell with a 638 total, 10 shots behind champion Roswell. Montgomery finished fourth in the tourney (649), while Coronado (662) was sixth, Plainview (698) ninth, and Lubbock High (732) 10th.

Mike Hill led the charge for the Herd at Roswell, finishing second in medalist play with a 77-76-153 total. Hill finished second to Roswell's David Blewitt (149), and he and teammate Tommy Weaver (157) finished second (310) in two-man play behind Blewitt and Robert Runa of Roswell (303).

Other Whitefaces and their scores from Roswell included James Lyles, (81-82-163), James McDowell (83-82-165), and Miles Goforth (85-92-177).

Russell will field two teams for the tournament this weekend with a trio of three-year lettermen heading up the varsity. Seniors McDowell, Weaver and Kelly Kitchens, all three-year monogram winners, will be joined by two-letter winners seniors Hill and Lyles on the varsity.

The Herd B team will be made up of Goforth, Keith Pagett, Jeff O'Rand, Randy Marrs, and Bill Kirk. Goforth, Pagett, and O'Rand are juniors, while Marrs is a senior and Kirk is a sophomore.

Tee time for both Friday and Saturday has been set for 9 a.m. Russell said.

Durham Top Bowler In Womens' Tourney

Beverly Durham won both the singles and all-events titles in the Hereford City Womens' Bowling Tournament concluded at Bowling's Bowl last weekend.

Durham claimed the top individual play money with a 664 series, and carded a 1,980 figure to walk away with the all-events crown as well.

The team winner in the tournament was B&R Welding with a score of 2,389 over Mar-Lo Chemical's 2,355 and Big T-Pump's 2,354. Members of the winning team included Billie Easley, Sue Barrett, Rochelle Ruland, and Mickey Bronniman.

Mar-Lo Chemical players included Sheree Rampley, Kelly Dewbre, Karen Cantrell, and Margaret Collins, while Carleta Watts, Diane Nunley, Patti Owens, and Annie Brown made up the Big T-Pump team.

Watts and Owens combined for a 1,267 score to claim the doubles title over Dewbre-Rampley, who posted a 1,250. Owens was also second in all-events behind Durham with a 1,879 total and tied for second in singles with Lani Walterscheid with a 655 total.

Tech-Aggie Tilt On Regional TV

DALLAS (AP)—The Texas A&M at Texas Tech postseason tournament basketball game in Lubbock will be regionally televised Saturday, the Southwest Conference office announced Wednesday.

The tipoff, which is being reinstated for the tournament, is at 3:10. SWC officials, who did away with the tipoff this season as an experiment, said the teams need to get used to it again before they start NCAA playoffs.

Other games and times announced by the SWC include Southern Methodist at Baylor, 3 p.m.; Texas Christian at Arkansas, 7:30 p.m. and Rice at Houston, 8 p.m.

The winners of the first-round games advance to the finals of the postseason tournament at the Summit in Houston. The survivor of the round robin plays Texas in the Summit Saturday, March 4, for the right to represent the SWC in NCAA playoffs.

Texas and Arkansas tie for the regular season championship but Texas got a bye through the league's intricate tiebreaker system.

Tar Heels Need Recharging

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
The North Carolina Tar Heels seem to have a power shortage just when they need a spark.

Playing tonight against North Carolina State and then again Saturday against Duke, injuries have short-circuited the nation's eighth-ranked team in the most crucial part of their Atlantic Coast Conference schedule.

They have already lost starting center Rich Yonaker to injury and backup center Jeff Crompton to ineligibility. Now forward Mike O'Koren is "extremely doubtful" for the last two games of the regular season and Phil Ford is "50-50."

"This would be a very difficult game even if we had all our players healthy," says North Carolina Coach Dean Smith as he looks forward with apprehension to tonight's game with North Carolina State. "We had everyone for our first two games with State and both were close. Now we have to play at Raleigh, where we lost last year."

Ford, North Carolina's spark-plug all season, hurt his wrist in a game with Virginia last weekend. But it is the loss of people like Yonaker and O'Koren that will especially hurt the Tar Heels, points out Smith.

The biggest game of the week for North Carolina, however, will be played in Chapel Hill on Saturday. No matter what the Tar Heels do tonight, they must beat Duke to win the ACC's regular-season title.

Duke made that circumstance a reality by beating Clemson 78-62 Wednesday night.

Elsewhere, No. 7 DePaul whipped the Air Force Academy 54-41; No. 16 Detroit walloped St. Francis Pa. 121-89; 17th-ranked Syracuse edged Niagara 70-69 and No. 18 Georgetown nipped George Washington 78-77 in overtime.

Jim Spanarkel scored 22 points and Mike Gminski 21 to lead Duke past Clemson for the Blue Devils' 20th victory of the season. The Blue Devils took a 43-23 halftime lead behind freshman Eugene Banks' 14 first-half points and it was enough of a cushion to withstand a late rally by the Tigers.

Center Dave Corzine scored 18 points and Joe Ponsetto 11 to power DePaul over Air Force. The victory was the 10th straight for the Blue Demons and their 23rd in 25 games this season.

John Long scored 29 points and grabbed eight rebounds and Terry Tyler contributed 24 points and 11 rebounds as Detroit defeated St. Francis.

Marty Byrnes hit a layup with 18 seconds left to lead Syracuse over Niagara. Roosevelt Bouie blocked a jump shot attempt by Garry Jordan with five seconds left to end Niagara's hopes for an upset.

Steve Martin made two free throws with 37 seconds remaining in overtime to boost Georgetown over George Washington. Georgetown guard Craig Eshberick put the Hoyas into the overtime period with a spectacular 40-foot desperation bomb with one second left in regulation time.

End Season

The Stanton freshman basketball team completed their season recently with a party at the REC Medallion Room. The party, which included 32 students, was sponsored by the players' parents. The players presented coaches Dan Gillison and Larry Sowers with team trophies and each boy received a "Dogie Power" shirt. The Dogies finished second in the south zone with an 11-8 record. Shown are (front l to r) Stanton cheerleaders Alice Vargas, Corina Suarez, Jill Pickens, Lori Warren, Dana Ullbarri; (second row l to r) Eddie Lindeman, Garry Parman, Harold Terry, Tona Pena, Kenneth Waters, Danny Cornelius; (3rd row l to r) Mike Martinez, Quinten Mercor, Curt McNaney, Derek Dirks, Terry Blackwell; (top l to r) Eddie Chavarria, Nick Whatley, Bert Wofford, Steve Bartels, Mike Fraser. ## 'Reggie' Candy Bar Debuts in New York

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) - A four-piece combo decked out in Yankee pin-stripes struck up the strains of "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey," swung into "Give My Regards to Broadway" and followed with "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

Two stiff-backed uniformed security detectives stood grim watch over a glass-encased baseball, representing Reggie Jackson's historic third home run in the final World Series baseball game last Oct. 18.

Reggie showed up in a blue velvet jacket.

It was a great day for Reggie and his new candy bar - launched Wednesday with all the pomp and pageantry of a coronation.

"God is here - what else can I say?" said the often controversial, yet highly sensitive outfielder of the New York Yankees.

The band played "I Ain't Misbehavin' Now." Thus was fulfilled a prophesy made by the hard-hitting out-fielder several years ago when he was performing with the then world champion Oakland A's.

"If I ever got to play in New York," he said, "I would have a candy bar named after me."

Now he has. Ronald T. Cappadocia, president of Standard Brands Sales Company, explained to a press conference luncheon of about 200 that the idea of merchandising a candy bar named for the famous Yankee blossomed last May 1. Later it was sealed through a series of phone calls.

"It takes God nine months to make a baby," Cappadocia said. "It took 11 months for us to produce 'Reggie.'"

"Reggie" is the name of the two-ounce piece of confectionery which should be on the shelves in May. It is round - not oblong like the Baby Ruth or Butterfinger. It has a caramel center surrounded by peanuts with what its wrapper calls "a delicious chocolate covering."

Clad in an orange and blue wrapping, it is distinguished by a picture of Jackson completing a home run swing. Calories aren't listed. Ladies, it must be at least 500. The suggested retail price: 25 cents.

Apart from commercial considerations, there is a certain status symbol in having a candy bar named after you. It may stem from the "Baby Ruth," which was popular while the Bambino was hitting all those home runs. He never got a nickel out of it. And the "Oh Henry!" was giving small kids cavities before Henry Aaron was born.

Perhaps no candy bar in history has been launched with greater fanfare than sweet "Reggie."

The Terrace Room at the fashionable Plaza, just off Central Park, was teeming with advertising and marketing executives in their pin-striped suits. Television cameras were all over the place.

George Steinbrenner, the papa-san of the Yankees, and his aide, Al Rosen, flew up from Florida for the occasion. Reggie's ma and pa and a plethora of aunts and uncles came in from Baltimore and Philadelphia.

The band played "Tie A Yellow Ribbon Around the Old Oak Tree."

Young girls in blue Yankee caps and Yankee pin stripes passed out small canvas satchels, labeled "Reggie ... Is Here!" The sacks contained a box of four candy bars and an engraved plaque, personally signed by the man himself.

"Reggie signed 500 of these - personally with his left hand," one of the Standard Brands execs said.

Reggie couldn't help getting sentimental.

"I'm 31 years old," he said, his eyes welling. "You may have me around until 1998. But when I finally lie down, when God has had enough of me, I want to show that there is something more important than all this glitter - fancy clothes, cars, things like that."

"I want to bridge the gap from the financial empire to down where I came from."

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Martina Navratilova has been seeded No. 1 in the $100,000 women's professional tennis tournament beginning Monday.

Tournament officials announced that Evonne Goolagong of Australia was seeded No. 2, followed by Virginia Wade of Britain, Wendy Turnbull of Australia, Rosemary Casals, Britain's Sue Barker and Australians Dianne Fromholtz and Kerry Reid.

The tournament, part of the Virginia Slims circuit, runs through March 5. First prize is $20,000.

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) - A record 78 colleges have entered the 57th Intercollegiate IC44 indoor track and field championships at Princeton's Jadwin Gym, March 4-5, meet director Art Farnham said Wednesday.

Farnham said 1,176 athletes have been nominated for the 15 events for the Saturday and Sunday afternoon meet.

Lemons, Brewer Top All-SWC Selections

DALLAS (AP)—Arkansas' deadeye shooter, Ron Brewer, Baylor's slick, playmaking guard Vinnie Johnson, and Texas Coach Abe Lemons earned the top laurels on The Associated Press 1977-1978 All-Southwest Conference basketball team.

Brewer, a 6-foot-4 guard who averaged 17 points per game, was the catalyst to the first team ever to be ranked No. 1 in The AP poll. The Razorbacks stumbled at Houston to lose the top spot.

Brewer was a unanimous choice by the SWC coaches as Player of the Year.

Johnson, a 6-foot-1 junior college transfer who learned his basketball on the playgrounds of Brooklyn, was named The Newcomer of the Year. Johnson led the league in scoring with a 21-point average and narrowly missed a berth on the first team All-Conference apparently because of the Bears' second division showing.

Lemons, the folksy and foxy coach of the surprising Longhorns, was a runaway pick by his fellow coaches of the Year. However, Gerald Myers of Texas Tech and Rice's Mike Schuler each received one vote. Such is the buildup in SWC talent that the second team could give the first team fits.

Arkansas landed Brewer, Sidney Moncrief and Marvin Delph on the first team. Texas had guard John Moore and inside muscle man Ron Baxter.

Texas Tech's Mike Russell was in the tie with Delph for the final spot.

Johnson led the second team which included high-scoring Jim Drivacs of Texas and three University of Houston stars Cecile Rose, Mike Schultz and rebounding whiz Charles Thompson.

Baxter was the only sophomore on the first two teams.

Juniors included Moore, Moncrief, Johnson and Krivacs. Brewer, Moncrief, Delph, and Russell were repeaters off the 1976-77 team.

Lemons, 56, came off a 13-13 year to mold a 22-4 club that was ranked as high as No. 12 in the nation during the year. Texas split with Arkansas which breezed through the league unbeaten last year.

Lemons had said before he came to Texas after tours of duty at Oklahoma City and Pan American that he was looking forward to working at a place that had its own school song.

"I've coached teams that didn't have one," he said. "All I could do was sit around and hum."

Blazers In Good Shape For NBA Player Draft

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

In case the Portland Trail Blazers are unhappy with their present squad; which happens to be running away from the rest of the National Basketball Association, they can do some instant rebuilding in June.

They will have as many as three choices in the first round of the college draft; thanks to a series of trades involving Moses Malone, Wally Walker and Archie Clark - yes, the same Archie Clark who retired two years ago.

Besides their own first-round pick, the Blazers also own Buffalo's top choice, which they received in exchange for Malone last season. They also can exercise an option to take Detroit's No. 1 pick, which the Pistons had sent to Seattle for Clark several years ago, and which Seattle dealt to Portland in exchange for Walker this winter.

If Portland prefers, it can elect to take Seattle's 1979 first-round choice as payment for Walker. The Blazers would thus enter this summer's draft with "only" two first-rounders.

Is all that clear? If not, don't worry. The draft situation is so confusing the NBA recently sent a memo to all clubs in an effort to clarify who owns what pick.

Don't even bother trying to determine when your favorite team will get to pick, because so many clubs are bunched around the .500 mark that a team can move up or down as many as a half-dozen places in one week.

The number of first-round choices each club has is a bit simpler to figure out, although a total of 14 trades already have been made involving No. 1 picks in the 1978 draft. More are likely to be completed before the June lottery is held.

As of now, Atlanta, Boston, Milwaukee and Washington head into the draft with two first-round choices each. Seattle also can go in with two No. 1's, depending on what Portland elects to do regarding the Walker deal.

On the other hand, six teams presently are without first-round picks - Buffalo, Cleveland, Denver, Detroit, Houston and Los Angeles.

If the teams were to finish in the current positions in the standings, the coin flip for the right to pick first in the draft would be between Indiana and Kansas City. Indiana has the worst record in the Western Conference, while Kansas City owns the No. 1 pick of the New Jersey Nets, as a result of the Tiny Archibald trade made in 1976, and the Nets have the worst record in the East.

An interesting sidelight, as the draft nears, will be the final value of the draft picks NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien awarded as compensation when teams signed players as free agents last summer.

Golden State received Los Angeles' highest No. 1 choice as partial compensation for the Lakers' signing of Jamaal Wilkes and New Jersey received Houston's first-round pick, which had been obtained by Buffalo for Malone, as compensation for the Braves' signing of Mike Bantom.

At present, those would come out to the fifth and sixth choices overall - which should translate to a couple of blue chip prospects.

New Champ Still Has Lot to Learn

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - The black gunfighter's hat was enough to draw stares when he walked through the lobby of a midtown hotel. But there were also tentative glances of recognition for the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Leon Spinks was in the big town, a town where Muhammad Ali once said: "I can walk down the street and cause a traffic jam."

It was a week ago today that Leon Spinks awoke as the heavyweight champion of the world, conqueror of "The Greatest" and he says now "I haven't really gotten into it. I still got a lot of things to learn."

But the 24-year-old veteran of eight pro fights indicated that he has a winning attitude as he approaches a job that could be much, much tougher than beating Ali in the ring - battling the endless comparisons that will be made between him and Ali, possibly the toughest act in the world to follow. It is an act that hasn't seen its last curtain yet.

Spinks' approach is much more subdued than his clothes: "Try to understand me and you'll like me."

He was loose Wednesday night during an interview for which he wore all black plus two false teeth that plugged the now-famous gapped tooth grin that can spell malice as well as friendship.

"The whole world seen it," Spinks said of "The Greatest" and he says now "I haven't really gotten into it. I still got a lot of things to learn."

Jackson St., SU Tourney Favorites

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - The Southwestern Athletic Conference basketball tournament begins tonight, with Jackson State and Southern University rated the favorites.

Southern tied Jackson State in the final conference standings Wednesday night when Prairie View forfeited a conference game that had been interrupted Feb. 3 by a free-for-all brawl.

Southern was ahead 68-64 when that game was halted with 10:41 to play, and conference officials decided that the game should resume at the point it was halted. The Prairie View team failed to show up to resume play Wednesday night, and a forfeit was declared.

That left Southern with a 9-3 conference record, identical to that of Jackson State.

Jackson State, which beat Southern twice in regular season play, drew a bye in tonight's opening round of the SWAC tournament at the Baton Rouge Civic Center.

Tonight's first round matches Mississippi Valley State with Texas Southern, Southern with Prairie View, and Grambling with Alcorn. The tournament finals are Saturday night.

No matter who wins the tournament, the conference still will sit out postseason play.

"We're in what is called our grace period," explained Southern Coach Carl Stewart.

The conference is moving up from the NCAA's Division II to Division I this year and must wait until the 1980-81 season before being eligible to compete in the NCAA playoffs, the NIT or other top tournaments.

The special resolution that granted Division I status to six of the seven SWAC schools gave the schools three years to comply with the higher division's more stringent academic requirements. Mississippi Valley State decided to remain in Division II.

Division I schools aren't allowed to give athletic scholarships to anyone who didn't maintain a "C" average through high school. Division II schools are not bound by that rule.

Blazers Bench Comes Through

By The Associated Press
The Washington Bullets had Portland's Bill Walton and Maurice Lucas in foul trouble and were up by 12 points.

So you can forgive Washington Coach Dick Motta if he seems especially dejected by Portland's 105-97 National Basketball Association victory.

"Portland's bench was the difference," Motta moaned. "When Walton and Lucas got in foul trouble, they had someone else to call on. That's why they're on top."

It was Lloyd Neal and Tom Owens who came off the bench Wednesday night, combining for 27 points and leading the Blazers to their come-from-behind victory.

"Our reserves won this for us," Coach Jack Ramsay agreed. "Our regulars were sluggish and weren't getting the job done, but our bench came through again."

Neal scored 16 of his 19 points in the second half as Portland overcame a 70-58 deficit to win going away. Johnny Davis also came off the bench to score 14 points for the Trail Blazers.

In other NBA... games Wednesday, Atlanta downed Phoenix 107-95, New Orleans defeated Golden State 116-91, Seattle stopped New Jersey

94-83, Detroit held off Houston 119-108, Kansas City edged Los Angeles 127-122 in overtime and Indiana squeezed by Denver 99-96.

Kings 127, Lakers 122
Five points by Scott Wedman in overtime paced Kansas City to victory. The Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had sent the game into the extra session when he hit two free throws with no time remaining on the clock.

Pacers 99, Nuggets 96
Ron Behagen scored 21 points, including 11 in the final quarter, as Indiana overcame a 40-point performance by Denver's Dan Issel had the ball stolen from him by Indiana's Ricky Sobers with 16 seconds remaining in the game and Denver trailing by just two points.

Jazz 116, Warriors 91
Center Rich Kelley scored 27 points and grabbed 21 rebounds as New Orleans snapped an eight-game losing streak. Leonard "Truck" Robinson added 25 points and 18 rebounds for the Jazz.

Hawks 107, Suns 95
John Drew pumped in 34 points and held Phoenix rookie Walter Davis to 16 points, eight below his average, as Atlanta topped the Suns.

Martha Angle and Robert Walters

No premium on humans

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Soaring rates of alcoholism, drug abuse, crime, suicide and mental health problems have become the human cost of transforming small communities throughout the West into "boom towns" to provide energy for the rest of the nation.

The Environmental Impact Statements required under federal law before energy development projects can begin often don't contain "even a single reference to actual persons" and the problems they are likely to encounter, said Freudenburg.

National Conciliation Evident in China

TOKYO (AP) - The decision of China's moderate leaders to spare the lives of the Gang of Four reflects a mood of confidence and national conciliation on the mainland.

It apparently was reached by men and women who feel secure in their new positions of power, fear no major threats from the radical leaders of the party they crushed 16 months ago, and want to rally the 800 million Chinese to the arduous campaign of industrial modernization they have set for them.

A leading law authority, Prof. Han Yu-tung, told the Hsinhua news agency Tuesday that Mao Tse-tung's widow, Chiang Ching, and her three radical allies, former Politburo members Yao Wen-yuan, Chang Chunchiao and Wang Hung-wen, would be dealt resolute blows. But he said "according to the party's consistent policy, we will not eliminate them physically."

Unlike the Soviet party in Stalin's time, the Chinese Communists have no tradition of executing dissident political leaders. Since the proclamation of the People's Republic in 1949, no major figure is known to have been liquidated.

However, it is probable that many Chinese would not have been astonished if Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, the radicals' chief victim, had ordered them eliminated. That he and his moderate colleagues refused to yield to this temptation helps lighten a once-heavy political atmosphere.

When they arrested the radical foursome in October 1976, the moderates - led by old revolutionaries and a cooperative newcomer, party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng - had reason to worry over the consequences of their bold and dramatic move. Mao, who backed the radicals in his old age, had died only a month earlier. From their positions at the top of the power structure, the four controlled the press, culture and education. Comparatively young, they appealed to millions of hot-eyed revolutionaries in the universities and to the middle-aged group which resented the tenaciousness of their elders.

At the time of their seizure, there were persistent reports that some moderates wanted to execute the "gang" at once. Instead, they were confined to their homes, silenced, and made the butt of a massive campaign blaming them for nearly all the ills China had suffered in the past decade.

The campaign, which continues, differs little from the one the radicals waged against former chief of state Liu Shao-chi and Teng, his No. 2 man, during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution.

The measures Chiang Ching and her allies used then ushered China into a new dark age. The arts were heavily censored and restricted, honest differences of opinion were forbidden, the press was allowed only to reflect the radical line, and personal freedom was limited.

The abolition of these strictures and the introductive of what Mao once called "liveliness and personal ease of mind" was widely welcomed. Observers, travelers and analysts all agree that most Chinese have reacted to the new way of life with enthusiasm.

Townsend Plan Dying

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) - The National Townsend Plan, a stepchild of the Depression, was a country doctor's vision that fired the imagination of thousands and fostered the Social Security Act. Now it is dying.

The plan becomes defunct at the end of the month, splitting into state chapters with no central core, but the life went out of it long ago because of a dwindling and aging membership.

In a way, the Townsend Plan was a victim of its own success, its goals absorbed into the Social Security Act of 1935. But surviving "Townsendites" still say that if Congress had chosen the Townsend Plan, the nation's pension fund wouldn't be facing future bankruptcy.

The Townsend Plan preceded Social Security by two years. Dr. Francis Townsend, a South Dakota native, was 66 and a retired doctor when he wrote a letter that was published in scores of newspapers.

The letter - written after Townsend saw starving, unemployed people rummaging through garbage cans behind his Long Beach, Calif., home - outlined his vision of a national insurance plan. Until he died in 1960, Townsend devoted his life to the plan.

The insurance would have been financed by a flat 2 percent tax on gross income over $250 a month, with no loopholes. Money garnered from the tax would have paid for programs comparable to those now in Social Security - monthly income to the retired, education for the disadvantaged and aid to women who head households.

Townsend touted the plan as the solution to both old age security and unemployment. Those over 60 would retire, opening the job market to the young.

Hundreds of thousands who had watched the Depression rob them of their savings and shatter their dreams turned to Townsend with hope. Townsend Plan chapters sprang up in every state during the 1930s.

The chapters operated until Townsend's death, but the indifference of the young helped kill the plan.

"There was no new blood," said John Doyle Elliott, secretary of the plan from 1947-1976 and now, at age 71, the organization's principal lobbyist in Capitol Hill.

Some of Townsend's proposals echoed principles espoused by Socialist Party candidate Norman Thomas, and Elliott said Townsend was maligned as a dictator by some. But, said Elliott, the plan "is social, not socialistic."

He said that under the plan, an average retired worker now would get monthly benefits of about $600, compared to the approximate $250 from Social Security.

Elliott said Congress incorporated most of the plan's principles into the Social Security Act of 1935 but altered one important part; how industry is taxed.

"Industry's contribution is not nearly what it should be," Elliott said, explaining that it would be three times higher under the Townsend Plan's uniform 2 percent tax on all gross receipts.

Small businessmen and working men made up the bulk of the Townsend Plan's membership but it crossed all affiliations. "It was the experience of the people who came together in the heart of the Great Depression," Elliott said.

U.S. Edges Closer To Liking Smith Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - After months of hostility toward white Rhodesia's efforts to find an internal solution to its racial problems, the United States is edging closer to accepting Prime Minister Ian Smith's plan.

Rhodesia announced last week an agreement between Smith and three black moderate leaders on a formula for transferring power from Smith's white supremacist government to Rhodesia's black majority.

Britain, the former colonial power in Rhodesia, and the United States have been promoting a rival settlement plan under which Smith would surrender power to the British, who would then arrange for elections within six months.

But the administration on Wednesday called Smith's latest efforts a "step in the right direction," a sharp turnabout from more than six months of uninterrupted administration hostility.

The internal settlement plan announced by Rhodesia calls for a transition to black majority rule with no British role and with whites retaining certain privileges for a temporary period.

In a move one U.S. official attributed to "incompetence," the Senate Department initially denounced the accord. But it then retreated to a position of neutrality.

On Wednesday, the department went still further by conceding that the agreement had some merit.

"The movement reported in Salisbury is a significant step in the right direction," department spokesman Hodding Carter III said.

The statement appeared to reflect the U.S. desire to reserve Anglo-American unity on the Rhodesian issue.

The British government, under pressure from conservative elements sympathetic to Smith, also has indicated that the Salisbury agreement represents an important step forward.

The U.S. statement contradicted remarks by Andrew Young, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, who was denounced the agreement as a recipe for black civil war in Rhodesia.

Young is concerned that the Patriotic Front, which is waging an externally based guerrilla war against the Smith regime, will refuse to accept any solution acceptable to the Smith government.

Vivian "Sailor Joe" Simons, who died in Toronto, Canada, in 1965, was the world's tattoo king. He had a total of 4,831 tattoos.

Diagnoses - Final Word

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Overruling lawyers' gripes about "purchased testimony," the Supreme Court Wednesday said diagnoses given for insurance companies do not leave doctors open to malpractice suits.

Winner of the case was Dr. George W. Sibley, who was hired by Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co. to examine Thomas H. Johnston Jr.

Johnston had filed a workers compensation claim, and was denied benefits on the basis of Sibley's diagnoses that his back was not injured in an on-the-job accident.

Disagreeing with the diagnosis, Johnston sued Sibley for malpractice.

A Dallas district court threw out the case, and the Tyler Court of Civil Appeals agreed. The Supreme Court upheld the lower court judgments without adding an opinion of its own.

The appeals court said Johnston had no standing to sue because it was undisputed and no physician-patient relationship existed between him and Sibley.

Such a relationship must exist before a malpractice suit can be tried, the court said. It said the only duty Sibley owed Johnston was not to injure him during the examination.

Johnston's lawyers said in their appeal to the Supreme Court that it should establish that doctors have a duty not to harm patients in other than physical ways.

"Purchased testimony is suspect always, but if there is no duty, with the consequent liability, truth and justice will die under the oppression of falsehood, negligence and indeed malice," Johnston's appeal said.

First Ranger Killed Since 1917

DENTON, Tex. (AP) - The expression on the deputies' faces was more of disbelief than grief. A Texas Ranger had been shot and the shock of it all overshadowed the sadness.

Bobby Paul Doherty, 41, had become the first Ranger to be shot to death on duty in 61 years.

Doherty was a familiar face around the Denton County Sheriff's office. The deputies, Department of Public Safety officers, and fellow Rangers couldn't grasp the fact that he was dead. They still made references to him in the present tense.

The young undercover agents who had accompanied Doherty and three deputies on a drug raid that had netted them about 40 pounds of marijuana may have looked tough when they started out on their rounds Monday night, but now they were jittery, with the ever-so slight appearance of fear on their faces.

They have watched in horror as one of their own had been shot in the head with a .38-caliber revolver. After the one fatal shot, the young officers arrested Gregory Arthur Ott, 27, a graduate student from North Texas State University, who graduated last December magna cum laude.

The shooting occurred outside Ott's home in nearby Argyle. He was charged with capital murder of a police officer early Tuesday. If convicted, he could receive the death penalty.

As people tend to do when someone they know dies, Lt. Jim Neal reminisced about the fun times he and Doherty had shared. "Tonight Monday night before he left, we were playing around here, just having a good time. He seemed happy as he could be," said Neal.

"This had to be a fluke...just a damned fluke," he added, his voice tapering off to silence.

And a fluke it must have been, for not since 1918 had a Texas Ranger been shot to death in the line of duty.

Denton County Sheriff Kenneth George said Doherty, three of his deputies and two state undercover agents, had gone to Ott's rented home after receiving a tip that he and a roommate were selling marijuana.

According to George, the undercover officers purchased a quantity of marijuana. A short time later, when they returned to the house, the pair attempted to flee through a back door where Doherty was waiting. It was here he met his death.

Authorities said Ott immediately laid down his weapon and surrendered.

The roommate was being held at the Denton County Jail and charges were not filed immediately.

Department of Public Safety officials expressed both sadness and surprise that one of their elite corps of Rangers had been killed. It was September 1918 when Sheriff Dudley White Sr. met death in an ambush outside a house in the East Texas town of San Augustine.

White's son, Dudley Jr., himself a retired Ranger, said in a telephone conversation from his Austin home that learning another Ranger had died was "an emotional experience." He said he remembered clearly that day when he was 7 years old and "they came and told us my daddy was dead."

Doherty too leaves survivors - his wife, Martha, and two children, Kelly Lyn, 17, and Buster Wayne, 16.

Funeral arrangements for the slain Ranger are pending at Fort Worth, where Doherty lived.

Dr. Joel Butler, NTSU psychology department chairman, described Ott as an "eccentric" who came barged into his classes. He said Ott once took a course dealing with the psychology of people who commit crimes.
