Inaugural address...

Reagan rededicates conservative policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, forced indoors by the harsh reality of a record Capital freeze, issued an inaugural rededication of his conservative principles today, declaring "We are creating a new America, a rising nation."

As Washington shivered in 25-below wind chills, Reagan moved his inaugural reenactment indoors, scrapped the traditional Pennsylvania Avenue parade. From the Rotunda under the Capitol dome, he told about 1,000 dignataries — not the 140,000 invited guests — that "there are many mountains yet to climb."

Reagan said he had succeeded in implementing the "new beginning" promised in 1981 and laid down this second-term agenda:

—"We must simplify our tax system, make it more fair and bring tax rates down."

— "A new American Emancipation — a great national drive to tear down economic barriers and liberate the spirit of enterprise in the most distressed areas of our country."

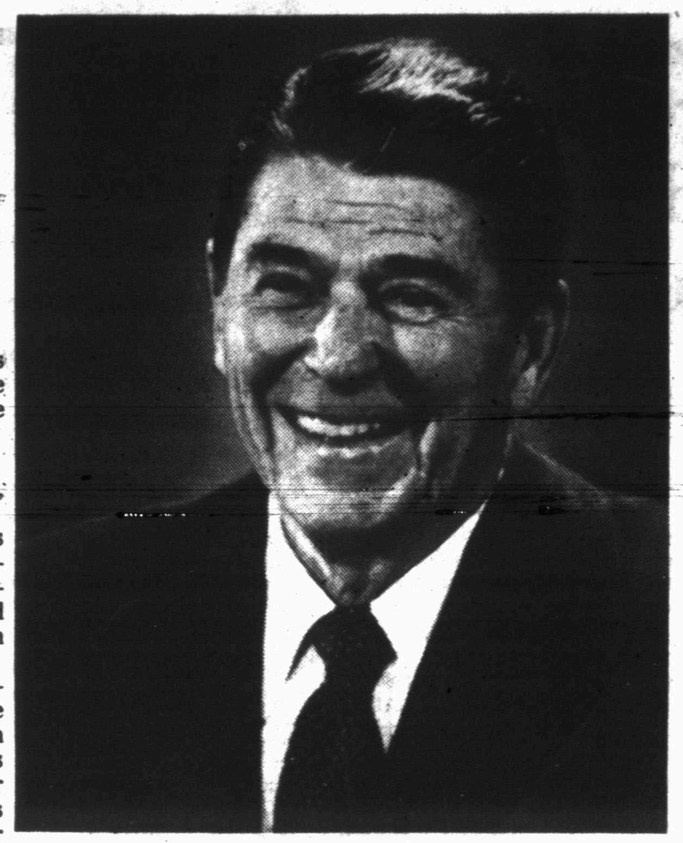

—"For the sake of each child in every corner of the globe, we seek, one day, the total elimination of nuclear weapons from the face of the Earth."

—"I will shortly submit a budget to the Congress aimed at frezing government program spending for the next year...Let us make it unconstitutional for the federal government to spend more than it takes in."

—"We must think anew and move with new boldness, so every American who seeks work can find work."

With a risk of frostbite facing hundreds of thousands of parade marchers, spectators and guests at an outdoor swearing-in ceremony, Reagan accepted the advice of inaugural planners and doctors and canceled the most spectacular events in a four-day, $12-million extravaganza.

The cancellation of the outdoor festivities disappointed thousands who came to Washington to take part in the 50th public installation in office of an American chief of state. The president, who began his day at a worship service, was to spend an hour after lunch at Capital Centre, a suburban coliseum that was being hastily converted to an indoor parade ground for bands to play indoors — with no fear of frostbite.

1st wreck fatality for 1985 reported

Twenty-year-old John Martinez of 2306 Merrill Ave. became Scurry County's first traffic fatality of 1985 following a one-vehicle accident early Sunday morning approximately four miles north of Snyder.

According to Department of Public Safety troopers who investigated the accident, Martinez was driving his 1981 Chevrolet Monte Carlo southbound on U.S. Highway 84 — just south of the intersection of Farm Road 1611 — around 2:15 a.m.

Martinez and two passengers in the car were found by a passing motorist around 2:30 a.m. The motorist transported all three from the scene to Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Martinez died at 3:36 a.m. in the emergency room.

20-vote difference passes Saturday annexation issue

The question of annexing some 60.5 acres west of Snyder into the city limits — which opponents called a "symbolic" vote regarding the construction of Houston Parkway here — received a majority "yes" vote Saturday from Snyder voters.

Only 20 votes separated those for and those against, however, in a light turnout totaling some 282 ballots. By comparison, last April's city council election, which produced what was called a heavy voter turnout, resulted in 1,100 votes cast.

The final vote figures Saturday were 151 for and 131 against.

The ballot had been called after a petition bearing more than 260 names was turned into the city. That petition was circulated by one of two property owners who actually live on the affected acreage — Wayne Bethel.

It was Bethel who commented before the election that he felt annexation was not the real question to be decided by voters, rather whether or not the city should continue with plans to extend Houston Ave. — creating Houston Parkway extending from the Big Spring Hwy. to West 30th St.

Annexation was the only legal question answered, however, since both sides agreed that the street can be built regardless if it is in or outside of the city limits.

A funding decision from federal highway officials regarding some $868,000 to construct the street is expected in March.

As for annexation, the Snyder city council is expected to meet in a special called session later this week to canvass ballots. The meeting is tentatively set for Thursday.

Computer contract approved

Scurry County commissioners Monday morning agreed to a contract submitted to them by the Snyder city council for shared services of the city's IBM 36 computer system.

Under the agreement approved Monday, only the Scurry County Tax Assessor-Collector's office will be added to the computer. The local sheriff's office already currently shares computer space on the city system.

The contract does leave the county the option of adding other offices on the city system, however.

As of 11:30 a.m. Monday, the court had also approved:

—Advertising for bids from local financial institutions to serve as the depository for county funds. These will be opened at 11 a.m. Feb. 11.

—Advertising for bids for a three-wheeler turf truckster to replace a one-ton truck for the Towle Park maintenance department. These bids will be opened at 11 a.m. Feb. 4.

—Advertising for bids for two pickup trucks for Pct. 4. These bids will be opened at 11:15 a.m.

Some 1984 tax changes to affect farmers

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Tax season has again begun and individuals filing 1984 tax returns again face changes enacted by the U.S. Congress.

For an overview of these changes, the SDN contacted Larry Anderson, local certified public accountant who specializes in tax work with the firm Anderson, Vestal and West here.

In Tuesday's newspaper, the SDN will publish tax law changes which will affect 1985 returns.

As for 1984, he noted one important change which affects county farmers, a concession from the Internal Revenue Service regarding any crop disaster insurance payments received during 1984.

If such payments were received, the IRS will allow farmers to carry it as income during 1985 if they normally would have carried payment for the crop over into the next year.

In discussing other aspects of 1984 tax laws, Anderson noted locals should be advised that:

—The depreciation life on real estate has been increased from 15 to 18 years for purchases made after March 15, 1984.

—The long term capital gain holding period for assets acquired after last June 22 has been decreased to six months (from one year).

—It will now be more difficult for people to average their income. To be eligible, this income must now have increased at least 140 percent above the average income for the previous three years. (Under the old law it has been 120 percent of the previous four years.)

—The Investment Tax Credit (ITC) has also been changed on business automobiles. The maximum limit is now $1,000. There were no limits under the old tax laws. For cars bought after June 18, 1984, the depreciation expense is $4,000 in the year the car was purchased and $6,000 each year thereafter until the basis is used up.

—For persons needing out-of-town medical treatment, they can now deduct up to $50 per night for overnight lodging. This was not an allowed deduction under the old law.

—Over-the-counter medication can no longer be deducted as part of medical expenses. Prescription drugs will be treated the same as other medical expenses such as doctor bills, however.

—All tax shelters must be registered with the IRS. A list of investors will be provided to the IRS.

—Persons not itemizing can still take advantage of the charitable tax deduction–25 percent of the contribution up to $300 (a $75 total) for both joint and single returns.

Arms negotiators will face dapper, combative Texan

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Soviet negotiators come up against John G. Tower in forthcoming long-range nuclear arms talks, they will be facing a dapper, combative Texan.

In his nearly 24 years in the Senate, where conviviality and clubbiness are the rule, Tower earned a reputation as a prickly conservative and a relentless fighter for President Reagan's defense budgets, including the missile buildup that he will now be seeking an agreement to curb.

He and the late Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., led the fight against the SALT II treaty limiting nuclear arms, which former President Carter withdrew after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan in 1979 weakened its already faltering prospects.

On the other hand, Tower supported the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile treaty and the SALT I interim agreement.

As chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, he was one of the strongest congressional supporters of Reagan's policy of building up U.S. military muscle to give the Soviets more incentive to bargain on arms control.

He disagreed with Reagan's proposals for fixed deployment of the MX missile, however, preferring the Carter plan to shuttle the weapons deceptively among scattered bases.

He sought to expand his panel's jurisdiction over arms control, cutting into the traditional domain of the Foreign Relations Committee.

In 1981, he got into a bitter shouting match over military spending priorities with GOP Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, chairman of the subcommittee that oversees the Pentagon's purse strings.

Tower, 59, the son of a Methodist minister, is a one-time Democrat who worked as a radio announcer, insurance salesman and political science professor before his election to the Senate in a special election in 1961. The election was called to pick a successor to Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson, who had been elected vice president.

Last year, he chose not to seek re-election. A Republican associate said he had decided, after his long battles on Pentagon spending, that "enough is enough."

Harvester, UAW tentative accords

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 11,000 International Harvester workers will hold ratification meetings later this week after the company and the United Auto Workers reached a tentative agreement ending a two-day strike, officials said.

The strike began at midnight Friday after negotiations broke down and affected workers in eight states. They were to return to work today, according to Harvester spokesman Bill Greenhill and UAW spokesman Peter Laarman.

New Mexico entered the Union on Jan. 6, 1912, becoming the 47th state.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our beautiful college sophomore came home for the Christmas holidays, and her father and I were thrilled to see her. We live in the Midwest, and she goes to an Eastern college where she's a top student.

Now for the bombshell. She told me that she had had an abortion two months ago! I nearly dropped dead. I didn't even know she wasn't still a virgin. She said she had been intimate with two boys—both college students. Worse yet, she wasn't sure which one got her pregnant. (I am shaking so hard as I write this, I can hardly hold the pen.)

Of course I forgave her, and I told her to go to confession. She said she had already gone. She begged me not to tell her father.

Why, oh why did she tell me? There is nothing I can do about it except feel rotten. How I wish she hadn't told me! Should I tell my husband? He would be crushed. I feel very guilty keeping this from him because we've always been so close.

Please tell me what to do. I don't think I can handle this alone.

SICK AT HEART

DEAR SICK: Tell your priest, tell your God, and if that doesn't lighten your burden, talk to a counselor, but please don't tell your husband. It would be a kindness to spare him the heartache you are experiencing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Although this is too late for Christmas, I have some advice for your readers that is applicable all year:

When the mail carrier leaves mail for someone not living at your address, i.e. mail for 913 South Elm St. delivered to 913 North Elm St., do not write "Wrong Address" on the envelope and drop it into a mailbox!

A postal employee may not know that the letter was delivered to the wrong address—he may assume that it was incorrectly addressed, in which case the letter will be returned to sender, if there is a return address on the envelope. If there is no return address on the envelope, it will go to the dead-letter office.

So instead of writing "Wrong Address" or "Not for This Address" on the letter (or package), write "Delivered to Wrong Address," then place it where your mail carrier, who probably made the error in the first place, can see it and deliver it to the correct address.

JIM MILLER, POSTMASTER, JUNCTION CITY, KAN.

DEAR POSTMASTER: Thanks for the helpful information.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: It is Christmas Eve. I have just finished wrapping my mother's gift—a large, expensive color TV. She is elderly and living on Social Security, and she'll love it.

But I have just decided to give her another, more important gift: the gift of myself.

I will drive her to the supermarket instead of letting her walk to a high-priced convenience store.

I will take her to the long-running play she wants to see, which I have seen five times.

I will invite her to dinner more often, not just on holidays and special occasions.

I will curb my anger at her forgetfulness, and try not to answer a request on short notice with, "I don't have the time."

And above all, I will tell her I love her—something I haven't done in years.

I have read many, many letters in your column from people like me—full of regret after their parents were gone. In this case, it's not too late.

As I write this I am in tears at my thoughtlessness. But thank God they are not tears of grief at my mother's funeral. Please sign me ... JUST WOKE UP IN CALIFORNIA

Jesse Jackson denied visa to South Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Africa, saying the time is "not opportune," has denied the Rev. Jesse Jackson a visa to visit the racially segregated, white-ruled country next month.

The South African ambassador, Bernardus Fourie, did not say why the country believes a February visit by Jackson would be inopportune.

The Pretoria government had granted Jackson a visa to visit Jan. 4 to Jan. 12, but Jackson asked to delay his trip until Feb. 3. That is when Desmond Tutu, an anti-apartheid leader and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, is scheduled to be enthroned as Anglican bishop of Johannesburg.

Daily demonstrations against South Africa's apartheid policy have been held for two months at the South African Embassy in Washington.

WTC to be site of preliminary pageant

For the first time in several years, Snyder will host the Kids of America preliminary pageant to choose area children and youth for the national contest in Dallas.

The fine arts theater on the Western Texas College campus is the site for the contest slated for Feb. 2. Officials of the Darry Modeling Agency of Dallas, sponsors of the contest said that boys and girls from birth to 17 years of age may participate in the talent contest, the beauty competition or the beautiful baby division.

A three-minute talent contest is open to children and youth from three to 17 with judging based on skill and entertainment value.

The beauty competition is a separate contest, but individuals may enter both. Contestants will be judged modeling casual and formal wear (street-length dress for ages 3-12 and evening gown for ages 13-17). A personal interview with the judges will also be required.

In addition to trophies, crowns, medals, banners and flowers, the top five winners in each age division will receive their entry fee paid to "Grand Finale '85," the national competition. The national contest is set for the Loews Anatole Hotel in Dallas July 30-Aug. 4.

A beautiful baby division for ages 0-35 months has also be slated with the top five finalists also competing in Dallas.

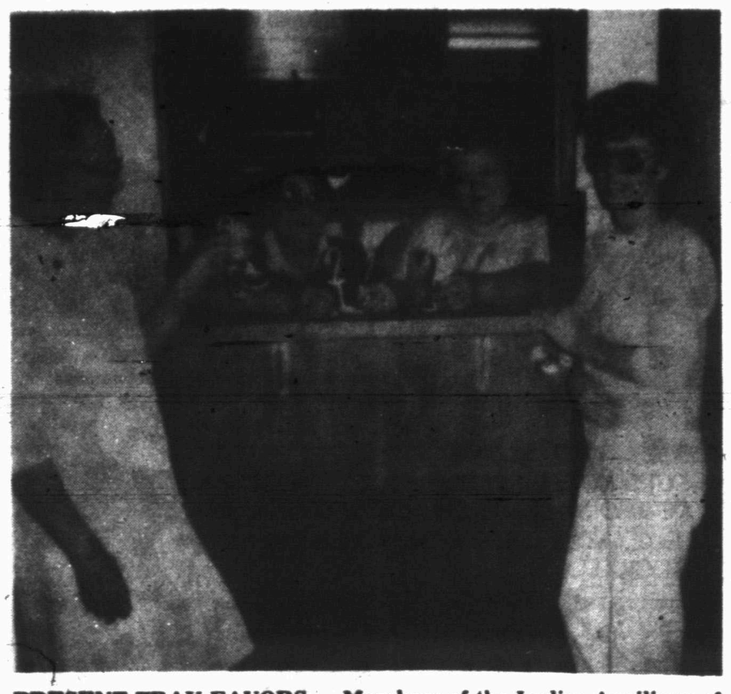

The agency also plans to offer a photogenic division. Judging will be done from photographs submitted prior to Feb. 2.

Interested persons may obtain more information about the pageant by calling 573-9862.

Book continues trend to bridge racial gap

By JODY TAYLOR
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — When Linda Bragg wrote her novel, "Rainbow Roun Mah Shoulder," it was because she was fascinated with the character, not specifically because she wanted to close the chasm of racial differences.

Ms. Bragg, a teacher of creative writing and Afro-American literature at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, based her novel on the life of a black woman who lived in Greensboro. The character, named Rebecca Florice Letenielle, discovers that she has psychic power to heal.

"It is part fact, and part fiction," Ms. Bragg said. "The woman I created for the novel has a conflict in her desire to be a normal person and live a normal life, and to not deny the gift she has been given."

Rebecca Florice Letenielle is a black woman who is strong, but also must deal with conflicting feelings. Too often, Ms. Bragg said, the black woman is portrayed as the traditional mammy figure.

"What she is is very wise and very loving," Ms. Bragg said. "What I wanted to do was show weakness and pain — to make that person three-dimensional.

"In some ways, my novel is a very feminist book," she said. "The heroine is strong, determined, undefeated, self-aware. She also knows she needs friendship. Even though she longs for a normal kind of marriage and family, she doesn't turn her back on her mission."

Black characters have not been portrayed as three-dimensional as a general rule, Ms. Bragg said. What she has done in the book is not new, she says, but a continuation of a trend that will be necessary to close the racial gap that continues to exist.

"(The perception) is being corrected by black women writers of the past 15 years," Ms. Bragg said. "There has been a large concentration of feminist themes among black women writers lately, so I can't say that this has never been done before."

There is work to be done, though, and Ms. Bragg says the media play a major role in the continuation of black stereotypes.

"We are almost answering the media — providing a counterbalance," Ms. Bragg said. "Popular culture perpetuates the stereotype. Racism and a history of oppression has given black women their strength. Black women are strong, but when you recognize only that, you deny them the rights to being a whole person."

"Rainbow Roun Mah Shoulder," which was Ms. Bragg's first novel, won the North Carolina Cultural Arts Coalition-Carolina Wren Press contest as the best book by a North Carolina minority writer in 1983.

While white writers are rarely categorized as "white," Ms. Bragg says it does not disturb her to be referred to as a "black writer." Though it does signal a continuation of racial differences, she says those differences may need to be accentuated to eliminate them.

"I recognize the reality of being a racial minority," Ms. Bragg said. "It's still a factor, based on continuing racism, continuing differences. It comes out of cultural differences we can't ignore.

"I tell my students that you can't heal a wound unless you clean it out," she said. "We have to find out what we did to each other and find out what has to be done now."

Ms. Bragg, who worked on "Rainbow Roun Mah Shoulder" for five years, has begun work on another novel. This one also deals with a black woman, but this time, the character is evil.

"That surprises people because of the subject matter I picked for the last (book)," Ms. Bragg said. "This is the dark side of what I chose (for the first book). It is not a story of possession.

The bidding guides the play

Listening to the bidding is the first part of bridge expertise. Acting properly on what you've heard is part two.

After partner's takeout double of one diamond, South had just enough strength to jump to two hearts. This bid shows 8-10 high card points in most partnerships, and is not even forcing. Since a bid of one heart would be made with zero high cards (rather than allowing the opposition to play one diamond doubled), it makes sense to jump with eight or more high-card points. You need to let your partner know that you have positive values that might produce enough tricks for game.

West now bid three clubs, although vulnerable, and North bid right to four hearts. The opening lead was the diamond king, followed by the diamond ace and the heart eight. Declarer won the heart ace, played a low heart to his 10, and trumped his last diamond in dummy. Next he played a spade to his king. West won the ace and exited with a spade. Eventually, since spades failed to divide, declarer had to lose a club trick.

Acting properly on what he had heard would have saved declarer's day. Since West was long in both minors, he should be short in spades. The winning line is to win the first heart in the South hand, ruff a diamond in dummy and lead back a heart to the South hand. Now a spade led toward dummy's jack leaves West helpless. If he ducks, the jack will win and he will be put back on lead with the ace with no safe exit card. If he rises with the ace immediately, the jack in dummy will be the winner to take care of declarer's losing club.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I realize you don't know anything about football and don't care about it, so I promise you we'll leave right after the fourth quarter!"

DENNIS THE MENACE

"BUT I DID TRY TO COUNT SHEEP! WHAT COMES AFTER ELEVENTEEN?"

49ers shock Dolphins in Super Bowl, 38-16

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) - When the San Francisco defense went after Dan Marino, he had nowhere to go. When the Miami defense went after Joe Montana, he went wherever he wanted.

"When you hear all week long, 'Miami, Miami, how're you gonna stop Miami?' you get to feeling overlooked, Montana said. "Nobody was asking, 'How're they gonna stop us?'"

Miami still doesn't have an answer.

Neither, for that matter, does any other team in the National Football League - save for the Pittsburgh Steelers. But for that loss last Oct. 14, the 49ers would have finished this season 19-0.

Instead, Sunday's 38-16 victory was San Francisco's 18th of the season, an NFL record, and the 49ers' second Super Bowl victory in four years.

"Dan Marino is a great quarterback, a great young quarterback," 49er coach Bill Walsh said, "but in my mind, Joe Montana is the best quarterback in the game today and maybe of all time."

It was supposed to be the greatest Super Bowl ever.

Instead, just as last year's pregame publicity blitz bombed under the weight of the Los Angeles Raiders' 38-9 blowout of the Washington Redskins, so did Sunday's super-hyped meeting disintegrate by halftime.

The Dolphins rushed just nine times, a Super Bowl low, for 25 yards, and Marino was forced to go to the air 50 times, a Super Bowl high.

"All we heard all week was what a quick release Dan Marino had and what a good offensive line they had," said Gary Johnson, one of San Francisco's shuttling defensive linemen. "I guess we took it personally."

When the 49ers' secondary took away his deep receivers, the immobile Marino was all but helpless - sacked four times, the most in any game in his two-year pro career and the first time his sacks outnumbered his touchdown passes (one). Montana also was sacked. Once. For five yards. When it didn't matter.

When Montana's receivers were covered, he could always call his own number. He did - five times, rushing for 59 yards, a Super Bowl record for a quarterback, and a touchdown.

If Montana didn't feel like passing or running himself, he had Wendell Tyler and Roger Craig behind him. They plowed through the Miami defense for 123 of the 49ers' 211 yards on the ground.

The 49ers' offense in general and Montana in particular did just about anything they felt like doing as San Francisco won its second Super Bowl and Montana his second most valuable player award.

"He was outstanding in every way," Miami Coach Don Shula said. "Every time it seemed we had some kind of pressure on him, he scrambled and made big plays on his own. He just knew what to do with the football the entire day."

"It is tails," the president said.

The game began somewhat like the grand battle everyone expected it to be. Miami scored the first time it had the ball, on Uwe Von Schamann's 37-yard field goal. San Francisco scored on its second possession, on Montana's 33-yard pass to Carl Monroe. And Miami scored on its second possession, on Marino's 2-yard pass to Dan Johnson.

The first quarter ended with Miami on top 10-7. But the end of the quarter also signaled the end of Dolphins' offense.

They had rushed for 12 yards; they got 13 the rest of the way. They had managed seven first downs; they got 12 the rest of the way. Marino had passed for 103 yards; he got 215 the rest of the way, more than half of that when the game was out of reach in the fourth quarter.

They got two field goals - one an outright gift - in the final 12 seconds of the second period after the 49ers had punched in three more touchdowns on Montana's 8-yard pass to Craig, Montana's 6-yard run and Craig's 2-yard run.

The 10 points in the third quarter - Ray Wersching's 27-yard field goal and Montana's 16-yard pass to Craig, giving him a Super Bowl-record three TDs and 18 points - enabled the 49ers to tie the Raiders' year-old Super Bowl record for the most points in a game.

Western welcomes Amarillo in conference action tonight

Basketball fans can expect to see some exciting action at Scurry County Coliseum tonight, where Western Texas College entertains the Badgers of Amarillo in a doubleheader.

The contests bring together teams which are tied with each other in Western Athletic Conference play.

In the 6 o'clock tipoff game, Coach Joe Cushing takes his Dusters against Kelly Chadwick's Lady Badgers. Both are 4-1 in conference play and locked for second place.

Both Western Texas and Amarillo arrive for the 8 o'clock men's game with 4-2 WJCAC marks. They are tied with New Mexico Military Institute for third place.

Dusters vs Amarillo

The recent loss of a couple of players has hurt Chadwick's team inside strength, but the Lady Badgers are still one of the top teams in the league.

Debby Jones leads the 16-6 Badgers with 17.1 points and 6.8 rebounds a game. Pam Cox is averaging 10.5 points.

The Badgers have been averaging 70.7 points while shooting .490 from the field and .653 from the line. They are giving up 59.5 points a game.

The Dusters are 21-4 and riding a four-game winning streak. They have won six of their past seven games.

Western is keyed inside by 6-2 sophomore Clara Campbell, who averages 16.8 points and 10.8 rebounds. The Dusters boast a well-rounded offense. Also figuring in the scoring are Patti Hayes, Renvy Evans and Lyndy French, who average 11.6, 10.1 and 9.9 points respectively.

WTC is averaging 72.4 points and allowing 63.5 while shooting .425 from the field and .606 from the line.

Westerners vs Amarillo

Western overcame a three-game losing streak by defeating conference opponents Clarendon and New Mexico Junior College last week. The Westerners, under first-year head coach Phil Spradling, are 14-5 for the season.

Amarillo, 14-2, lost to Midland in overtime last Monday, then popped Frank Phillips on Thursday.

Coach Mark Nixon's Badgers are led by Andrew Kennedy and Steve Dailey, who account for 43.8 of Amarillo's 79.6 points a game. Kennedy, who averages 21.4 of those points, is also the Badgers' main rebounding strength. He pulls down 8 a game.

Dailey is one of the league's top shooters, hitting .629 of his shots from the field, while teammate Mike Sanders is knocking down .912 of his attempts from the freethrow line.

Amarillo shoots .550 from the field and .703 from the line as a team. The Badgers are giving up 61 points a game.

The Westerners are led by James Dawn's 17.2 points and 6.4 rebounds. Alvin Hicks averages 13.7 points, Floyd Singleton 13.1 and Victor Spencer 12.7.

Other Games

In other doubleheader action tonight, Odessa is at Howard College and New Mexico Junior College is at South Plains. In men-only matchups, Clarendon plays NMMI in Roswell and Midland takes on Frank Phillips in Borger.

Tigers beat Fort Stockton; try Lamesa again Tuesday

FORT STOCKTON – Snyder's Tigers broke open a close game late in the third quarter and went on to roll past Fort Stockton, 65-51, in District 2-4A play here Saturday.

The game was a makeup contest for the Tigers, who improve to 9-13 on the season and 4-2 in district action. Snyder will travel to Lamesa on Tuesday for its next outing.

The Tigers had taken a 20-16 lead after eight minutes, but led only 30-28 at halftime Saturday. Down by five at one time in the third quarter, Snyder rallied to tie the score 40-40 as the game entered the final period.

"We were down by five points in the third quarter and it was almost like Pecos all over again," said Coach Larry Scott, whose Tigers were shocked by Pecos a day earlier. "We were playing pretty good defense but they were making their outside shots. We changed to a half-court trap defense with Mike (McWilliams), Charles (Bollinger), Wade (Forga), Trey (Tippens) and Jackie (Anderson) and they did a real good job of keeping Fort Stockton where they couldn't get their shots off. I don't know how many steals we had, but it was a bunch."

Snyder came on to take a 16-point lead and outscore the hosts 25-11 through the final eight minutes of the game.

The Tigers got 33 of their 65 points from the 6-4 duo of Chris Garrett and Trey Tippens. Garrett scored 17; Tippens 16.

Jackie Anderson also landed in double figures with 12 points while Wade Forga and Mike McWilliams added 6 each.

Scott's Tigers play league-leader Lamesa on Tuesday, then take on second place Andrews Friday - a crucial pair of ballgames.

"We can't afford to lose. Well, we can, but we don't want to. If we lose one we've got to get some help from somebody else and we don't want to have to rely on that," said Scott.

The Tigers lost to Lamesa earlier, 77-74 in overtime.

"That was one of our better games. We'll have to have an equally good game this time. We'll have to shoot better freethrows. We were 13 for 32 against Fort Stockton," he said. "We have a tendency to make it hard on ourselves. In both games (Pecos and Fort Stockton last week) we had lapses where we had six straight turnovers. That's what Lamesa goes for. We can't have that Tuesday."

SHS girls pounce on Fort Stockton

The Lady Tigers, now 17-5 on the season and 6-2 in District 2-4A play, will entertain Lamesa on Tuesday.

The Tigers jumped on Fort Stockton 14-7 in the first quarter and increased the lead to 27-12 by halftime. A 15-9 third quarter gave the Panthers no chance at a comeback.

Carie Housden punched in 15 points and had 8 steals for Snyder, which also got its usual 19 points and 9 rebounds from Karlene Thompson. LeeAnn Pierce scored 6 points while Donna Anderson pulled down 8 rebounds.

In the junior varsity game, Robbie Merritt and Teri Henry canned 8 points apiece as the Cats stopped Fort Stockton 34-28.

The Cats also host Lamesa on Tuesday. Game times will be 6:15 and 8 o'clock at the high school gym.

Tech Raiders looking tough

by The Associated Press

The Southern Methodist Mustangs have finally succeeded in getting some national respect.

But what about the fast-improving Texas Tech Red Raiders?

"I think people tend to forget about us out in West Texas," said the Red Raiders' Quentin Anderson. "When we've been beaten this season, it was by good teams like Washington, Iowa, Nebraska and Houston. And two of the games were in overtime."

Tech gets its chance for some national publicity this week when it hosts the high-flying Mustangs on Saturday night.

SMU should be ranked No. 2 in the nation by then.

The third-ranked Mustangs, who outlasted stubborn Texas Christian 74-70 on Saturday, will probably pass Duke in The Associated Press poll.

The Blue Devils lost two games last week and the Mustangs should settle into the No. 2 spot behind unbeaten Georgetown.

No SMU basketball team has ever been ranked that high.

"Whether we deserve to be ranked that high is up to the writers and broadcasters but I believe we've earned it," said SMU center Jon Koncak.

"We've done all we've been asked to do so far," said guard Butch Moore.

Baylor Coach Jim Haller said don't overlook the Red Raiders, who gave Arkansas a severe beating last week.

"I was tremendously impressed," said Haller. "I don't think any team could have stopped Tech. Nothing worked against them."

Tech Coach Gerald Myers said the Red Raiders aren't looking to far ahead.

"We're looking at a real tough game against A&M on Wednesday night and not even thinking about SMU," Myers said.,

SMU is now 15-1 and off to the best start in the school's history. The Mustangs are the only unbeaten team in Southwest Conference play with a 5-0 ledger.

Houston and Texas Tech are tied for second place.

The Cougars bounced Arkansas 78-73 in Hofheinz Pavilion, Texas Tech routed Baylor 92-71 in Heart O' Texas Coliseum in Waco, and Texas A&M sped past Texas 66-61 in Austin.

The speedy Mustangs will get two severe road tests this week.

On Wednesday, SMU will be at Texas and must travel to Lubbock on Saturday.

Houston and Tech are 4-1.

Speaker defends remodeling rips

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis, criticizing recent news reports about the cost of renovating a speaker's apartment near the House chamber, today defended the work as necessary and proper.

"There has been a continuing implication that the work done on the speaker's apartment was somehow wrong when, in fact, it was sorely needed to correct the disgraceful and hazardous cnodition into which it had fallen," Lewis said.

The apartment, which includes a dining room, kitchen and bedroom, is adjacent to the speaker's office. The complex of rooms is located behind the House chamber, in the west wing of the Capitol building.

According to some reports, renovation of the speaker's apartment and furniture for it cost about $160,000. Dick Merkel, Lewis' press secretary, said he didn't know the exact cost of the work.

Beginning his second two-year term as speaker, Lewis, D-Fort Worth, today issued a statement blasting news reports for "implying" that "it was somehow wrong for the speaker to maintain an apartment in the Capitol."

Rather, he said, state law for several years "has provided for such facilities for both the lieutenant governor and the speaker" and space has "been used for that purpose for decades."

Two years ago, Lewis said he hoped to raise money from private sources to pay costs of the remodeling. However, he said today, "Circumstances beyond my control have prevented it."

Suspect flees license charge

Snyder police logged seven misdemeanor arrests Saturday and Sunday in addition to filing charges of driving with a suspended license and fleeing from a peace officer against a man who has not yet been arrested.

According to reports, officers spotted a man — whom they knew to have a suspended license — driving around town shortly before 5 p.m. Sunday.

When they attempted to stop the suspect he ran from officers and escaped arrest at that time by entering an east Snyder residence.

In all, four suspects were jailed for DWI one for public intoxication and two on misdemeanor warrants over the weekend.

Car fire doused

Snyder firemen extinguished a minor car fire Saturday afternoon, an incident reported around 6:17 p.m. in the 900 Block of East Highway.

According to reports, a 1979 Camaro owned by Yolanda Gutierrez of Snyder sustained minor damage to the engine compartment.

Last in tax series provides facts on calculations, credits

EDITOR'S NOTE: This last article in a series of five on preparing 1984 income tax returns gives information on calculations and credits.

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you don't trust yourself to figure out how much tax you owe, let the Internal Revenue Service do it.

The IRS will do just that — if you complete the preliminary work and your income after adjustments is $50,000 or less. If you had too much tax withheld in 1984, the IRS will send you a refund; if you still owe, the agency will send you a bill and charge no interest or penalty if it is paid within 30 days or by April 15, whichever is later.

The agency will not do the calculation if you itemize deductions or use income averaging. In addition, all your income must have been from wages, tips, interest, dividends, pensions. And the return must be filed by the April 15 deadline.

Filers of Form 1040A who want the IRS to figure the bottom line must first fill in any of Lines 1 through 19, 21a, 21b and 24a that apply and Schedule 1 if that is used. Filers of the long Form 1040 must fill in any applicable Lines 1 through 37 and 41 through 64 and any separate forms or schedules.

In either case, if you are filing a joint return, indicate in the margin of the form under "adjustments to income" how much of the income listed is yours and how much is your spouse's. Attach a copy of Form W-2 and sign your return.

The IRS is willing to do these calculations because so many taxpayers copy down the wrong figure when they use the tax tables to see how much they owe.

The agency will also calculate two special tax breaks: the newly revised credit for the elderly and the permanently and totally disabled, and the earned-income credit for low-income working families with children.

If at the end of 1984 you were 65 or over or you were under 65 and retired as permanently and totally disabled, you may be able to avoid tax on part of your income. You will have to file Form 1040 plus a Schedule R to get the credit.

The earned-income credit can be worth as much as $500, even if you pay no taxes. The credit, aimed at keeping low-income families off the welfare rolls, is for those whose incomes are under $10,000. It may be claimed on either Form 1040 or 1040A.

You will have to do the calculations, but the child-care credit can provide a tax reduction of up to $1,440 to help offset the expense of having someone care for your children or a disabled adult while you work. The credit declines as income rises; the maximum is for those with incomes up to $10,000; income above $28,000 qualifies for a credit of up to $960.

To see if you qualify, get IRS Form 2441. Publication 503 gives full details on how to claim the credit and will also explain whether you have to pay Social Security taxes on the wages you pay someone for caring for your child.

There are two other commonly used credits, which provide a dollar-for-dollar refunds. Use Form 1040. The political credit is available on 1040A as well.

You may take a credit for up to half of what you gave in 1984 to political candidates or campaign committees — but the credit is limited to $100 for joint returns and $50 for other filers. Don't confuse this with the $1-per-person checkoff on the tax return; that money, which does not affect your refund or tax payment, goes to a joint fund for presidential candidates.

A credit is allowed for 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent on insulation, storm windows and other means of weatherizing your principal home if it was built before April 20, 1977. A separate credit is permitted for 40 percent of the first $10,000 spent on buying and installing a solar-, wind- or geothermal-powered system in your home.

Plane crashes, catches fire

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A chartered Lockheed Electra turboprop carrying up to 74 people back to Minneapolis after a gambling junket crashed and burned shortly after takeoff early today, and three people survived, authorities said.

The pilot of Galaxy Airlines Flight 203 had reported vibration and wanted to return to the airport, said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Ed Pinto in Washington, D.C.

A sheriff's deputy said he saw the plane on fire before the crash, said Washoe County Sheriff Vince Swinney.

Airport spokesman Rich Peacock said the plane carried 68s, said Richard Kajans of the Truckee Meadows Fire Department, spokesman for federal investigators at the crash site.

Pinto said the plane was a Lockheed Electra 188, a four-engine turboprop with a passenger capacity of 96 which were built from 1957 to 1961. About 100 are still in use around the world out of 170 built.

Two other Electras have crashed in the past seven months, killing seven people. James Ragsdale, director of public relations for Lockheed California Co. in Burbank, said that while a federal report is not yet complete, company investigators saw no similarities in those two crashes. Two crashes of Electras in 1959 and 1960 killed more than 160 people.

Survivor George Lamson Jr., 17, said the crash "happened so fast he couldn't remember anything," his mother, Adrianne, said in St. Paul, Minn., where the family lives. Her husband also survived but was in critical condition with burns.

A 16-year-old male juvenile was being held in county jail juvenile dentention facilities Monday following his arrest on sexual assault charges early Monday morning.

Police responded to a call from the parent of two young boys — ages 8 and 11 — around 1:45 a.m. Monday. Officers were told the pair had been sexually assaulted by the suspect.

Investigation reports were sketchy early Monday, but it is thought the alleged incident occurred sometime over the past several days.

The suspect was identified and detained for questioning shortly after 2 a.m. Monday and officially arrested and charged at 5:36 a.m.

The case has now been turned over to District Attorney Ernie Armstrong — who serves as juvenile prosecutor — for further action.

Your Birthday

January 22, 1985

Heavier demands may be made on you this coming year at work or in your career. Don't shirk these extra burdens because they could lead to additional compensation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In career situations today you will be reasonably lucky, but your good fortune will have its limitations. Don't push it too far. Your Astro-Graph predictions for the new year can help guide you to happier tomorrows. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Plans you are optimistic about should not be discussed with negative individuals today. Their dismal outlook could discourage you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Proceed cautiously in joint ventures today. Surface conditions may appear promising, but negative undercurrents could lead to complications.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be diplomatic and tactful in important relationships today, especially with people whose assistance is essential to you at this particular time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In situations where you are working shoulder-to-shoulder with others today, do not pick the easy tasks for yourself and leave the difficult ones to them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Just because someone you know is a glib talker, it doesn't mean that he is also a wise investment counselor. Seek a second opinion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Honor your promises today, even if it causes you a degree of inconvenience. Others will judge you by how well you keep your word.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Look for the virtues in associates today, not their faults. If you criticize another, he may snap back at you and attack your less charming traits.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually you're a fair and generous person, but today these qualities may be neglected and you could be more concerned with getting than giving.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be your own person today, but do nothing at the expense of others. A failure to abide by the golden rule will create problems that could be avoided.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not let a past grievance precondition your thinking toward another today. Wipe the slate clean and begin anew.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Disappointment is likely today if you expect others to do more for you than you will do for them. Don't make demands they can't comply with.

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read an article that stated that weight lifting destroyed rather than constructed muscle mass in the older person. It said that the older person does not replace the muscle tissue used in strenuous exercise, and that weight lifting therefore produces less muscle rather than more.

I'm 62 and in better physical health than when I was in my 40s, since I have gotten into a running and diet program. That reduced my weight from 196 to 160. My endurance has increased as you have said it would (beyond anything I thought possible nine months ago) and I would like to build up my strength, too. Would it cause any problems if I began a weight-training program, working into it gradually as I worked into running?

DEAR READER — Most people who have experience with strength training and muscle building probably would disagree strongly with the article you quoted. We all lift weight, even if it is just our body weight. Compare your leg muscles now with the way they were before you started your running program. Most runners develop better thigh and calf muscles, although they are not huge, since the maximum weight they have to lift is your body weight.

If you overdo weight training, you can defeat your purpose of developing muscles. That is true for everything, not just older individuals. However, for other reasons, people over 40 should indeed follow a careful training program. This can be done while also developing muscle size and strength. One does not have to strain to the maximum to develop strong muscles. One also does have to exhaust the muscles, and should not to be successful. I see no reason why healthy older people cannot do moderate strength training to develop and maintain muscles, and muscles will increase in size despite your age.

I'm sending you my most recent discussion of this, The Health Letter, Special Report 19, Strength Training: How and Why. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 64-year-old male in good health, but I have bilateral inguinal hernias. The doctor felt there was little danger that I might have any strangulation. He recommended, though, that I have surgery within a year or so, since my health is good and healing would be better than if I needed surgery at age 75 or 80. Do you agree with this?

The only information I have on hernias is from the late '70s, and perhaps surgery may be slightly different today.

DEAR READER — Things have not really changed. An inguinal hernia is a defect in the abdominal wall where the cord to the testicle passes into the scrotum. The muscles in the area may be torn, or the actual ring and canal through which the cord passes may be enlarged and weakened. The problem cannot be corrected except through surgery that repairs the abnormal or torn structures.

Unless there is a complication, there is no need to rush into surgery. However, if surgery is to be done — and it usually is warranted — there is no reason to delay unless the patient is ill. It is true that you will probably recover quickly if it is done now.
