In Jerusalem...

Worst Arab Rioting Erupts

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli troops shot and wounded four Palestinian demonstrators today as the worst Arab riots in years swept Israeli-occupied territories after a Jewish gunman's killing spree on the Temple Mount shrine.

The military command said troops opened fire on a mob that assaulted them in the West Bank town of Nablus. One youth was hit in the leg and the condition of the other three was not immediately known, a spokesman said.

Police and troops stopped Arabs marching down main business streets of Jerusalem's Arab sector and arrested 15 people, Israel radio said. Hospitals reported treating about 125 injured Arabs and Jews, including 15 or 16 with bullet wounds.

In Beirut, a rocket grenade hit the third floor of the U.S. Embassy at 4:30 a.m. today, knocking some concrete loose, and the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio reported a telephone caller said the attack was in response to Sunday's fatal shooting in Jerusalem which killed two Arabs. An embassy spokesman said no one was hurt.

Israel radio identified the gunman as Alan Harry Goodman, 38, and an Israeli reporter said he was from Baltimore. The chief of Jerusalem's police captured him after a 30-minute shooting spree in the golden-domed Mosque of Omar, on the Temple Mount, the site from which Moslem tradition says the prophet Mohammed ascended to heaven.

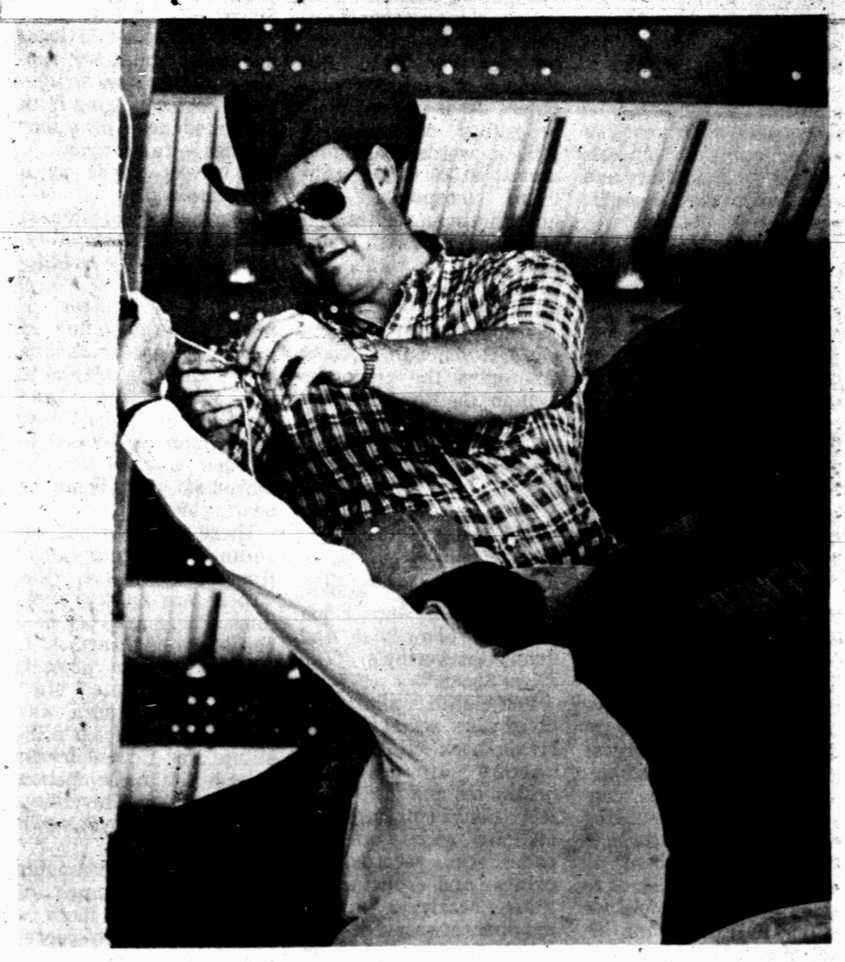

Goodman was drafted two weeks ago and attached to a unit in Nablus on the occupied West Bank, military officials said. The daily Maariv said he told police he acted to avenge the deaths of 34 Israelis in a Palestinian terrorist attack on a bus four years ago.

The newspaper quoted him as saying he acted alone "on behalf of the whole Jewish people." But police sources said investigators were checking whether Goodman was linked to the Kach movement, offspring of the militant Jewish Defense League in the United States.

Kach, in a statement issued in New York, said it neither supported nor condemned the attack but called Goodman a "a hero who tried to liberate the Temple Mount from the hands of foreigners."

But a Kach spokesman in Jeruslam described the attack as "a deviant act by a sick man" and said no record of Goodman was found in the group's files.

The gunman, wearing an army uniform and carrying an M-16 rifle, struck at one of the most sensitive places in the Israeli capital. The golden-domed Mosque of Omar is on the the Temple Mount, location of the Wailing Wall which is Judaism's holiest shrine. Moslems revere the site as the third holiest after Mecca and Medina, and riots broke out immediately as word spread that the attack was under way.

RODEO'S COMING—Employees of the Scurry County Coliseum were busy this morning hooking up auxiliary P. A. systems and finishing up preparations for rodeo season. The coliseum will play host to the Western Texas College—NIRA rodeo beginning this Thursday, April 15. College action will continue through Sunday and Scurry County Junior Rodeo action is set to begin April 22. (SDN Staff Photo)

GOP Visits Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Republican Party officials planned to tour this city's hotels and meet with Dallas officials this week to resume negotiations aimed at satisfying President Reagan's wish and holding the 1984 GOP convention here.

"They want it badly down there," GOP Chairman Richard Richards said from Washington Sunday. "I think we're going to get together."

The party's convention site selection committee, headed by Richards, will meet with Dallas officials today and Tuesday and then report to the GOP executive committee, which will meet here Wednesday.

"Assuming we get together on the terms of a contract, I think the site committee will recommend Dallas," said Richards, adding that the recommendation would then have to be ratified by the Republican National Committee when it meets in June.

Woman To Testify

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Prosecutors planned to call a Corpus Christi woman to the stand in the capital murder trial of Stephan Peter Morin, after she testified at Morin's examining trial that he held her captive for 12 days.

The trial of Morin, charged in five slayings in three states, was to resume today.

He is being tried on a charge he shot Carrie Marie Scott to death in the parking lot of a San Antonio restaurant on Dec. 11 while trying to steal her car. He also is accused of wounding Dru Valdes, a companion of Miss Scott's, in the same shooting.

Morin has pleaded guilty to murdering Miss Scott, but State District Judge David Berchelmann said that corroborating evidence is required in addition to the guilty plea in capital murder cases.

Defense To Open Case

DALLAS (AP) — Defense attorneys open their side of a racially sensitive trial today in an attempt to show three Limestone County officers did not cause the drownings of three teen-agers through negligence.

The youths were among several thousand blacks at Lake Mexia last June 19 for an annual celebration of Juneteenth, which commemorates the day in 1865 that Texas slaves learned of their freedom.

Testimony indicated the officers hustled the teen-agers through the crowd to a 14-foot boat they had brought across the lake from a sheriff's command post.

The boat, which had neither life jackets nor running lights, capsized 40 yards from shore. The three youths — one of whom could not swim — drowned. The two white officers swam back to shore and the black officer clung to the overturned craft and was rescued.

Crisis Focuses Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — The confrontation between Argentina and Great Britain over the Falkland Islands has focused new attention on the South American nation's ambitious nuclear program, particularly the question of how soon Argentina may be able to produce atomic weapons.

"They haven't got the bomb yet, but they're not that far away. They have, or are putting into place, most of the elements needed to make the weapons," said one U.S. nuclear expert, who declined to have his name used.

His judgment was shared by several other people who follow nuclear proliferation.

Although Britain has long had nuclear weapons, they are expected to play no role in the looming confrontation. The British have four Polaris missile submarines part of NATO's nuclear deterrent force.

One Dead, Two Hurt In Crash

A head-on traffic crash Sunday afternoon about four miles north of Roscoe on U. S. Highway 84 resulted in fatal injuries to one person and sent two others to hospitals with serious injuries.

All of those involved were from Snyder.

Pronounced dead of head injuries at the scene was Mrs. Corenne Isbell, 67, of 104 Browning, who was driver of a car headed north.

Mrs. Isbell's car was in collision with a car driven by Perry Don Robertson, whose brother, Mark Robertson, was a passenger. The sons of the Rev. and Mrs. David Robertson of Snyder, they were returning to Southern Methodist University, where they are students, following a visit home.

Perry Don Robertson, 21, was taken to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. He had a broken jaw and a shattered heel, along with possible internal injuries. Mark Robertson, 18, was taken to Rolling Plains Hospital in Sweetwater, where he underwent surgery for a ruptured spleen. Both were reported in stable condition.

The accident occurred about three miles north of a highway construction site where traffic on the divided highway is diverted to two lanes. It was believed that Mrs. Isbell became confused and failed to return to the proper lane when she reached the end of the construction segment.

Ironically, Sunday was Perry Robertson's 21st birthday, and Mrs. Isbell would have been 68 today.

Also, Congressman Charles Stenholm had just announced that Mark Robertson was one of four selected for Lyndon Baines Johnson and Omar Burleson Congressional internships from the 17th District.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Isbell were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

She is survived by a daughter, Cleta Ramby of Abilene; and three sons, Edwin Isbell of Big Spring, George Isbell of Plainview and Michael Isbell of Beasley.

Oil Rig Worker Says...

Misunderstanding Led To Detainment Report

LA PORTE, Texas (AP) — An oil rig worker from this Houston suburb says his family misinterpreted his two phone calls from Argentina last week and contacted a congressman and the State Department, believing he had been placed under arrest by Argentine authorities.

Michael Martinez Jr., who worked on a British oil rig near the Falkland Islands, said that Argentine authorities cut off communications and shipments to the rig for three days after Argentina invaded the islands April 2.

"We had plenty of food and went about our jobs," said Martinez, who returned home Sunday.

Martinez called his wife Friday and Saturday. He said his wife, Marion, contacted the State Department after the first call, believing he was under arrest in Argentina.

Martinez' mother, Mary Martinez of Amarillo, also contacted Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Texas, whose office got involved.

Mrs. Martinez told The Associated Press she understood her husband to say the military was monitoring the conversation and that "the company did not know where he was for two days."

Martinez said the company always knew where he was and that he believed a telephone operator listened in on the phone call.

Martinez, 31, was working for Sonat Exploration Co. on the British drilling rig InterOcean 2 about 500 miles west of the Falkland Islands.

"That was the extent of it," Sonat official Aubrey Cornelius said when he heard what Martinez said Sunday., "There are no problems down there now."

Martinez said that when flights from the land base resumed April 5, each helicopter carried an armed Argentinan soldier.

"But we were never threatened," he said.

Martinez said the crew members were "about 80 percent British" but declined to specify how many workers operated the rig. He said he was not the only American aboard but also refused to give an exact number.

Martinez arrived in the coastal town of Rio Gallegos on April 9, four days after he was scheduled to leave for the United States, and was questioned by soldiers each time he stepped ouside.

"It wasn't like a gestapo thing," he said. "They asked me where I was going and what I was doing there. I assumed it was for security reasons."

Absentee Voting Period Begins

Absentee voting began this morning for the May 1 primary elections.

Voters who will be out of the county on election day may cast absentee ballots at the county clerk's office in the county courthouse. The absentee voting period will end at 5 p. m. Tuesday, April 27.

Those eligible to vote in the primary elections are voters who were registered as of April 1, 30 days prior to the election.

Contributions To Tornado Victims Made

Response has been good to appeals here for assistance to victims of a tornado in Paris, it was reported this morning.

A considerable amount of clothing and other items were contributed over the weekend and they were forwarded to Paris on a truck from Odessa which had some extra space, said Dee Wenetschlaeger, Board of County Development secretary. She said spokesmen at the Paris Chamber of Commerce advised this morning that they now have enough clothing and food items, but still needed are items such as pots and pans, toasters, coffee makers and other small appliances that will enable families to set up housekeeping after losing all of their possessions in the storm.

Those who wish to contribute cash may make checks payable to "Paris Disaster Fund" and mail them to P. O. Box 489, Paris, Tex. 75460.

Snyder Jaycees have volunteered to provide transportation this coming weekend for items collected here this week.

No Confrontation Yet As War Zone Enforced

LONDON (AP) — Britain's war zone around the Falkland Islands was in force today but there were no reports of confrontation. The British Defense Ministry and a Buenos Aires newspaper reported Argentina's ships had left the area, patrolled by Royal Navy submarines.

U.S. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher extended their talks on the South Atlantic crisis into lunch. Their talks, joined by British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym and U.S. Assistant Secretary of State of Inter-American Affairs Thomas Enders, are the second round in the American efforts to head off a war over the islands, inhabited by 1,800 English-descended sheepherders and seized by Argentine marines April 2.

Argentina's ambassador to the United States, Estaban Takacs, said on the NBC-TV "Today" show that Argentina might observe a temporary truce and keep its warships in port while talks are on. "We have troops, anyhow, on the island," he noted.

He said Argentina still considers the blockade and Britain's dispatch of a 40-ship armada to the Falklands an "act of aggression" but added: "I am still very hopeful, because the trip of Secretary of State Haig himself means that there are very active talks going on." Haig first met with Mrs. Thatcher on Thursday, then flew to Buenos Aires where he held 12 hours of talks before returning here with a proposal.

Britain's ambassador to the United States, Sir Nicholas Henderson, said on the "Today" show that Britain's blockade remains in force and that the Royal Navy fleet will not turn back while Argentina maintains its troops on the Falklands.

The Buenos Aires newspaper La Nacion reported that Argentine warships were patrolling the coasts of the mainland, which is 250 miles from the nearest Falkland island — and that the rest of the navy's ships were docked in their home ports "until they are needed to face the adversary."

Confirmation of the report was not immediately available in Argentina. British Defense Ministry spokesman David Bland said all but an Argentine destroyer and a frigate had returned to their home ports by the time the war zone went into effect at 11 p.m. EST Sunday.

La Nacion said officials it did not identify told it Argentine naval aircraft were "in action" monitoring ship traffic and making preparations for attack missions.

Haig arrived shortly after Britain's 200-mile "maritime exclusion zone" around the South Atlantic islands went into effect. Britain had said any Argentine vessel found in the zone would be sunk.

"I am bringing here to the British government, to Mrs. Thatcher and her ministers, some ideas which have been developed on the basis of United Nations Security Council Resolution 502, and look forward to these discussions," Haig said on his arrival at London's Heathrow airport.

The U.N. resolution calls for Argentina to pull its forces out of the Falklands and resolve the crisis with Britain, which has ruled the islands for 149 years, through diplomacy.

Informed sources said Argentina insists on keeping its flag flying over the islands. But the sources said Haig was told Argentina would consider withdrawing its troops if Britain halted its 40-ship fleet sailing for the Falklands and lifted the blockade.

The sources ruled out control of the islands by the United Nations or a third power. But they said Argentina is willing to offer the Falklanders some self-government and will let Britain share in development of the archipelago's natural resources, including offshore oil and gas.

Peruvian Foreign Ministry sources in Lima said Argentina proposed a peacekeeping force of troops from the United Nations and the Organization of American States.

The British naval task force sailing south is still more than a week away from the islands, but at least four of Britain's nuclear-powered hunter-killer submarines are reportedly prowling the war zone.

Contracts On College Agenda

Scurry County Junior College District Trustees are scheduled to canvass returns from the April 3 election and reorganize for the coming year at their regular meeting this evening.

The meeting is set for 5:45 p. m. in the conference room of the Western Texas College administration building.

Board members Edwin Parks, R. C. Patton and Bill Jones were re-elected to six-year terms on the board.

The board also is scheduled to go into executive session at the outset of the meeting to discuss personnel matters, and among new business items on the regular agenda is consideration of personnel contracts.

Contracts for the 1982-83 school year will be considered. All personnel con- contracts at WTC are for one year.

Several bids will be up for consideration at the meeting. These include bids for the sale of some obsolete equipment, bids for framing material for a duplex apartment under construction on the campus, and bids for paper supplies.

Possible repairs to the floor in the WTC gymnasium will be discussed, along with a proposed program for faculty development.

On A Computer...

Cataloging The Wisdom Of Moses

paul harvey

CHICAGO (AP) — The divine wisdom that Moses brought down from Mount Sinai on stone tablets is now encoded on the silicon chips of a computer — along with 3,000 years of sacred words on subjects ranging from adultery and abortion to uses of garlic and the right-to-strike.

They are the teachings of Jewish law, recorded hundreds of years ago by rabbis who pondered legal and moral dilemmas and penned their responses on scrolls everywhere from the sands of the Sahara to synagogues in Spain.

Now, this tapestry of ancient Jewish rules has been woven into the memory of a modern computer. It is a religious repository of some 40 million words, including almost 40,000 formal rabbinic "responsa," or authoritative replies on questions of Jewish tradition.

"The great authorities on Jewish laws wrote these decisions," said Rabbi Irving J. Rosenbaum, a coordinator of the computer system, the Responsa project. "It's like the Supreme Court decisions."

And like a set of legal decisions, the 1,500 rabbinic authors have written about topics ranging from the mundane — insurance policies — to the mystic — the use of garlic as a medicinal aid.

Thesssues, too, such as abortion, homosexuality, the right-to-strike and life-support systems.

Within a matter of minutes, the computer can deliver a list explaining how a rabbi in Algiers in the 15th century and another in Poland 400 years later responded to whether a man can be kicked out of his home for beating his wife.

These decisions may not seem contemporary, Rosenbaum said, but "There are no new questions. There are only new people asking them."

The Responsa project, recently completed after 15 years of research, was compiled by Chicago's Institute For Computers In Jewish Life in conjunction with Bar-Ilan University, in Israel, which has its own computer.

The Chicago computer houses 200 volumes of work — most of them in Hebrew — which represent the ultimate source of social codes and values practiced by Jews since Moses walked down the windswept mountain with the Ten Commandments.

"Jews have lived in all parts of the world since their exile in 70 A.D.," said Rosenbaum. Often, he said, they have lived in autonomous communities, where they dressed, ate and married in accordance with Jewish laws.

"When questions came up, they were directed to local rabbinical authorities," Rosenbaum said. "The rabbi was the religious, ethical and legal authority."

As Jews migrated through Europe and the Mideast, this tradition followed.

"In the course of centuries, certain responsa became the authority," Rosenbaum said. "Even today, a rabbi or judge determining a question will still consult the responsa."

Though replies date back 1200 years, Rosenbaum said, "Everything in the responsa is traced back to the Bible or an interpretation of the Bible."

For example, Rosenbaum said, one commandment, 'Honor thy father and thy mother' could be applied to decide whether Jewish law says it is proper to send an aged parent to a nursing home.

On many issues, the responsa give divergent opinions, but in same issues there's unanimity, particularly in inter-faith marriages and adultery — both of which are generally considered taboo. Even there, exceptions are made.

A rabbi in the 18th century in Germany wrote of a dim-witted woman who bedded down with a male lodger while her husband was away because he convinced her they could become the parents of the Messiah.

The woman, Rosenbaum said, told her husband the news: She was given a reprieve — because the adultery was committed unwittingly.

Though the responsa can be used by religious scholars, the millions of words provide thousands of details for historians, too, Rosenbaum said.

Interest rates charged by European bankers in the 14th century, manufacturing methods of glass in ancient times and the concept of insurance are detailed in the responsa.

The system works so that it can retrieve parts of the responsa with a search of key words. For example, if a scholar wants to find the words 'beautiful woman,' the computer reads every book and finds all the places where those two words occur.

Printouts and translations are available for a nominal fee.

The computer, Rosenbaum said, can be used by teachers and students doing research and doctors and health professionals, who may have questions about euthanasia or medicine.

"A scholar in almost any field of history or sociology or religion will find new source material here," Rosenbaum said. "There is no subject that has no reference here. The responsa covers all of life."

Book Club Is 56 Years Old

MECHANICSBURG, Pa. (AP) — With books piled from floor to 27-foot ceiling, it looks like a library for Paul Bunyans. But there's no hush here, in the warehouse of the nation's oldest and largest general-interest book club.

The din of cranes, conveyor belts and packing machines echoes through the cavernous room as workers dart from stack to stack, gathering books for 1.3 million Book-of-the-Month Club members.

This is the nerve center of the 56-year-old club and its seven affiliates; a literary outpost with a 775-member staff, its own zip code and an output of 30,000 packages a day.

"We have accounts scattered across the world," says Vice President Len Kessler.

Nine million copies of 4,000 different books spill from tiers of steel shelves in neighboring warehouses covering 240,000 square feet — cookbooks and exercise manuals side by side with memoirs, murder mysteries and political tracts.

"We try to aim just above the middle of the brow," says Al Silverman, president of the club. "There's good trash and bad trash. We try to avoid bad trash."

The Book-of-the-Month Club was founded in 1926 with 4,750 members. "You can now subscribe to the best new books — just as you do to a magazine," read the early ads.

First year members received nine books. Among them were Edna Ferber's "Show Boat" and John Galsworthy's "The Silver Spoon."

The club has since survived wars, social change, rival book clubs, the spread of discount bookstores and the rise of television. Combined with affiliate clubs offering paperbacks, records, art prints and specialized titles, nearly 2 million members are served.

But the centerpiece of the entire operation, and the largest of the clubs, is still the book of the month.

At the sprawling warehouse, set in a farm field overlooking the Pennsylvania Turnpike, there's a special machine exclusively for the book of the month. It wraps the selection tightly in cellophane, drops it into a box and glues an address card to the front.

Meanwhile, at editorial headquarters in Manhattan, a fivemember board ruminates every three-and-a-half weeks over the monthly selection. Literary experts all, they come from as far as Los Angeles and Montreal to sit around a directors' table and argue politely over lunch.

The club also offers 10 to 12 alternates each month for members who don't want to buy the main selection. Top editorial staffers choose the alternates, using reports from more than 100 in-house and free-lance readers.

"You have to make a decision on books way before publication date, way before you know what's going to happen," Silverman says. "It's a real crap game.

Your Birthday

April 13, 1982

This coming year you are likely to tighten-up your intimate circle of friends a bit. The quality of the relationships will become more important than the quantity.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have the ability today to arouse enthusiastic support for ideas in which you truly believe. Make your presentation with a dramatic flair. Predictions of what's in store for you in each of the quarters following your birthday are in your Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to include birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You should be able to do yourself some good today as well as help another regarding a situation he or she does not know how to make the most of. You will.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) When making decisions today involving others bend over backwards to be fair and equitable. Your thoughtfulness will reap dividends both now and later.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you feel your work warrants it, this is a good day to call your boss's attention to your performance. He or she may feel you're in line for special benefits.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your organizational and management skills will be finely tuned today. Your techniques to direct others will inspire them to better efforts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Material benefits today could come from more than one direction. You should be able to handle them skillfully, without getting any wires crossed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a possibility you may find yourself in a situation today where you'll gain from helping two parties merge a collective interest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be hesitant about calling in markers today from persons who are indebted to you. Your chances for getting what's due you are better than usual.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Normally it's best to steer clear of situations where your friends play politics. However, today you could do yourself some good at the ballot box.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your possibilities for fulfilling a secret ambition look extremely encouraging today. Do what needs doing without calling too much attention to yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Continue to focus your efforts on your newest, most promising project. Lady Luck will help you make fresh things prosper.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You should do well today in career, status or financial matters. Vigorously pursue any developments which can enhance the aforementioned.

Rod Building Course Slated

Custom rod building will be the subject of a continuing education course scheduled to meet for nine hours at Western Texas College in evening classes beginning April 26.

Rick Howard will teach the course. Classes are scheduled from 6:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. on April 26-27-29. Tuition will be $21 per person and students will need to purchase supplies costing about $54 . Because the supplies must be purchased in advance of the class, students must pre-register and pay fees by April 22.

Students will make one graphite and one fiber glass rod and materials left from these two will be the property of the student.

Howard is an experienced rod builder and is active in bass fishing.

To pre-register or to obtain further information, students are to call the continuing education ofice at 573-8511, extension 240.

Hospital Has Routine Meet

Bills for the month of March were approved for payment by the board of managers of Cogdell Memorial Hospital in a special meeting Friday.

No other business was conducted at the meeting, but board members agreed to hold another special session Tuesday at 7 p. m. to study health insurance proposals for hospital personnel.

Colleges Face Economic Woes

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been a traumatic year for the nation's 3,000 colleges and universities — and for those whose job it is to lead them.

College presidents, suddenly thrust by economic and political circumstance into the unaccustomed role of lobbyists, have lately hit the hustings by the score.

Higher education, they argue, is no longer a "fat cat," but a pauper. And if President Reagan gets his way and sharply cuts student aid and other higher education funds, there will be, or so Northeastern University president Kenneth Ryder warns, "a catastrophe" next September and beyond.

Lobbying efforts by educators may have staved off some of the proposed cuts. In March, Congress approved emergency funding of $1.3 billion for the federal guaranteed student loan program, more than $300 million more than Reagan had asked for. But other student aid programs have been cut deeply, and the issue of Washington's involvement in college tuition aid still promises to be a year-to-year battle.

Four presidents representing a diverse assortment of colleges were recently interviewed jointly by The Associated Press:

— John Brademas, former 11-term Democratic congressman from Indiana who has been president since September of New York University, a private, 42,000-student university in the heart of New York City;

— Sister Brigid Driscoll, president since 1979 of Marymount College, a small, suburban liberal arts college in Tarrytown, N.Y.;

— Bill L. Atchley, president since 1979 of Clemson University, an 11,000-student, statefunded land-grant university in rural Clemson, South Carolina; and

— Kenneth Ryder, president since 1975 of Northeastern University, a 57,000-student private university in Boston where about half the students are lower-income and participate in a work-study program.

Following are excerpts from the interview:

Q: Because of federal student aid cuts, Wesleyan University and a number of other colleges recently made an end to so called "need-blind" admissions: accepting students regardless of financial need. Are your school admissions policies undergoing similar review? And what are the implications?

Brademas: At NYU, I think we do our best to provide sufficient assistance to students who need help to assure that it's possible for them to come. And we're not proposing to change that policy.

In my judgment, it is arithmetically impossible for this university or any other university in the United States to provide sufficient funds to make up so enormous a gap as would be caused by the implementation of the Reagan student aid proposals.

Atchley: If you're asking whether we will take a look at the enrollment and say those who can pay will get in, and those who can't pay will not, no, we won't be looking at it that way.

I don't think any of us feels that there isn't a necessity to cut back spending in government. My concern at both the state and federal level is that we haven't established priorities. Education has dropped tremendously. If you want to talk about turning the economy around, about defense, that all begins in the classroom. And I think history will tell you that.

Sister Driscoll: We are still need-blind in our admissions policies at Marymount College. But let me give you an example of what happens to a college our size this year.

Our institutional aid budget last year was roughly $450,000. That was to provide for those students to fill up the gap that was not provided by basic grants. Just from the impact of this year's federal aid cutbacks — and I'm not talking about the dramatic cutbacks projected for next year — we are forced to increase that budget by 50 percent, to $670,000, in one year.

The impact next year will be so dramatic that we couldn't possibly fill the needs of our students. We would not be able to admit students with the same levels of need.

One thing that affects our admissions, too, is the sense of uncertainty that that's created. Last August, for the first time in our history, we had large numbers of students who had paid their $250 deposit withdraw within the last week before school. And their reason was: 'I've really gotten scared. I know I could make the sacrifices this year, but I really don't think that I could keep that up if this kind of cutback is going to go on...'"

Ryder: We envision a catastrophe. As best we can judge, if the (federal) guaranteed student loan program is cut as projected, we will sustain a decline in support of about $20 million by 1983. It will certainly affect some 4,000 to 5,000 students at Northeastern.

This past year we had some 500 upperclass students in good standing who did not return. When we polled them, we found that the overwhelming number were departing for financial reasons.

Sister Driscoll: We are finding that close to 100 percent of our students who are leaving are going into the tax-supported university system. We estimate that this costs the taxpayer close to six times what it costs to educate students on taxpayer dollars in the independent sector.

It is so short-sighted to me to capture savings in student aid today, and watch the costs rise by a factor of six tomorrow.

Detroit car makers are about to be fast-shuffled again.

Detroit carmakers, borderline bankrupt, scrambled from behind to catch up with the Germans and the Japanese — finally to build smaller cars.

Now guess what; the Japanese are again adding inches and pounds to their new cars.

As the fuel famine moderates and the traditional American appetite for bigness manifests itself again, will Detroit be snookered again?

Detroit carmakers are still floundering.

General Motors' X-car "for tomorrow" is as streamlined as a skinny raindrop but —

Streamlining at 55 miles an hour is useless and comfortless. Americans, by tomorrow, are going to want to be "comfortable" again.

Earle Maloney of suburban Chicago is our nation's largest coachbuilder of limousines. He takes Lincolns and Cadillacs and cuts them in half and adds inches in the middle for the comfort and security of the occupants.

Every year he has to add more inches as Detroit subtracts them.

Detroit, reducing weight, reducing strength, with less steel and thinner skin and more plastic, is "economizing."

Maloney has to add 10 inches to a 1982 car just to bring it back up to its 1976 length — and still the newer model lacks the "beef" of the older one.

Now, with General Motors thinking of shrinking another thousand pounds off next year's models — the Cadillac is going to become little more than a $30,000 Cutlass!

Meanwhile, the Japanese ...

...Are increasng size and weight again ... preparing to provide comfort again.

So 30.5 percent of American car buyers are now buying imported cars, up from 14.9 percent just 10 years ago.

Recently, in their own self-interest, auto workers have been agreeing to work for less. If the car companies neglect to reflect that saving (GM alone will save $3 billion a year under the new contract) in reduced car prices — then our stateside carmakers will continue to get what they deserve.

And if Detroit's myopic designers continue to turn out such overpriced, undersized white elephants as the Cimmaron, Americans will continue to "shop abroad" for what they want.

Understand, there is no truly "American made" car anymore. Components come from everywhere. Ford, Chrysler, GM and AMC are "assembly factories," little more.

Further, Honda is going to build Accords in Ohio. Datsun will build trucks in Tennessee. AMC is mostly owned by Renault of France and what's left of Chrysler is for sale.

So day after tomorrow, you'll be seeing more so-called American manufacturers go the way of Studebaker and Packard and Nash and scores of others which are no more.

As outsiders outsmart us and beat us at our own game.

Accused Of Firing On Cars

PEKING (AP) — China accused Vietnam Sunday of firing on Chinese vehicles near the Yunnan province border, killing a militia officer.

The official news agency Xinhua said Vietnamese troops opened fire last Friday on the Honghe highway near the border.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "Mike Lawrence's latest book is entitled 'Play a Swiss Team of Four.' It shows the 56 hands normally played in a Swiss team with Mike faced with a problem on each one."

Alan: "He makes himself the goat many times because no one is ever going to make correct decisions all the time. Here's his first hand."

Oswald: "Vulnerable against non-vulnerable, Mike holds the West hand. The bidding is shown in the box."

Alan: "Mike discusses his choices. They are: pass, three hearts or four clubs. He mentions that on a good day three no-trump might be the winner. Anyway, he elects to pass. He opens the queen of hearts and eventually picks up 100 points for down one."

Oswald: "Mike assumes that he has lost 10 IMPs here. It might be more. East can make six spades if he enters dummy with the king of clubs in order to take the spade finesse. A heart lead to dummy would be disastrous. He considers it most likely that his partners will play in five diamonds doubled down three for a net loss of 400 points or nine IMPs. This turns out to be their actual result."

Alan: "Had Mike bid three hearts, East would surely raise him to game and Mike would have to struggle against a 6-0 trump break. He might actually handle it, but it would be a real problem hand."

Vivace Junior Music Club Studies France

The Vivace Junior Music Club met April 4 in the home of Charlie McCormick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior McCormick, 3106 Ave. U. Greeting guests were Charlie McCormick and Alfred and Alex Brice. Punch was served to guests during the business meeting conducted by Tammy Farmer, president. Sam Raborn read the minutes from the March meeting and called the roll. The pledge and collect were read by members and the club hymn was sung.

Program leader for April was Tammy Farmer. She introduced Alfred Brice, dressed as an old French gentleman. Alfred told about the official names and gave an outline to each member, listing head of government, legislature, area, land boundaries, population, capital, language, religions, monetary unit, flag, and national anthem. Alfred played piano solos, "Pioneer Days" by Bastien.

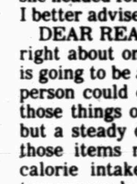

Ed McAnally, Snyder High School French teacher, showed slides of France and explained each picture to the club. Mr. McAnally gave many details of French travel, art, and the language. He taught the club conversational French phrases that delighted all present. Many French items he had purchased in France were on display, such as the French flag. Charlie McCormick played "Far from Home" by Lynn Olson.

Anne Osborn gave the history of the French anthem, "La Marseillaise" by Rouget de L'isle. She had prepared extra copies for members. Mrs. Lynn Bethel, club sponsor, played the anthem and members sang together.

Tammy Farmer played two French songs by Claude Debussy entitled "First Arabesque" and the "Engulfed Cathedral." Michele Anderson played a piano solo, "The Little Shepherd" by Gillock.

Immediately following the program, French pastries and cheeses were served by Mrs. Nelson Brice and Mrs. Junior McCormick. Members present were Michele Anderson, Lena Grimmitt, Brandon Neeley, Dayla Church, Alex and Alfred Brice, Tammy Farmer, George Fuentez, Lyle Hale, Michelle Holmes, Carrie Keith, Mysty Malone, Judson Morrison, Charlie McCormick, Anne, Don and Michelle Osborn, Sam Raborn, Lisa Robbins, Rebecca Vestal, and Linda Walker. Guests served were several friends of club members and Mrs. Michael Holmes, Mrs. Albert Malone, Ed McAnnally, Mrs. Mary Keith, Junior McCormick, and Dr. Nelson Brice.

Mrs. Bethel reminded members of the May 1 meeting at the home of Stephanie and Brandon Weaver. Officers will be elected at this meeting.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Problems lie ahead

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am worried about my 21-year-old daughter's future health. She is obese and seems to resist a proper diet. Instead she eats popcorn with butter and salt, Kool Aid with sugar, salted peanuts, pistachios, pretzels, ice cream with syrup on a regular basis. When she eats food it is starch — corn on the cob with lots of butter and salt, Kentucky Fried Chicken with more salt, pizza and macaroni and Velveeta cheese and salt and homemade chicken soup broth with homemade dumplings made with flour, eggs and milk. She drinks about a quart of milk a day and about six glasses of water.

You'll notice no fruits, vegetables or meat other than chicken. She takes vitamins daily and says she is in good health and is simply going to be a "big person." Is she headed for trouble or am I better advised to let it be?

DEAR READER — She is right about one thing — she is going to be a big person. A person could eat any one of those things once in a while but a steady diet of a lot of those items means a large calorie intake — which in turn means body fat storage.

She will get along all right in her younger years if she doesn't have to have surgery for some unexpected reason or develop high blood pressure. But as the years go by being overweight will contribute to arthritis; and as a group, obese people have high blood pressure and high cholesterol levels which lead to heart disease, strokes and the other complications of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries.

I am not sure what you can do that will help your daughter. A person does have to help herself and really want to do something about her or his lifestyle. If you could get her to study nutrition it might help her.

She might be able to switch to fortified skim milk and cut out the extra fat sources. She might even develop a taste for fruit and salads. Perhaps a desire to improve her physical appearance may motivate her.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, that you may be able to persuade her to read. Others who want this diet can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me if there has been research concerning people who had polio prior to vaccine days. There are many of us you know. I fear we are a forgotten group.

I had polio before school age and have since worn a long leg brace and now use one and sometimes two canes. Most mornings I can hardly get out of bed and by the time I've dressed I'm exhausted. I keep hoping something new has been discovered.

DEAR READER — Your letter should at least remind others about the complications of polio and why it is important to take the vaccine that is now available.

Once the damage has been done it has destroyed cells in the spinal cord. Those changes are permanent. There is research on ways to induce regeneration in the cord but nothing that would help at this point.

There have been lots of aids in terms of rehabilitation. That involves available devices to help locomotion and movement. And I'm sure you have already had physical therapy to strengthen the good muscles to give you as much movement as possible. If not, maybe you could have a consultation with a nearby rehabilitation center.

Male Stripper Unwraps All at Bridal Shower

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Recently my married daughter and several of her girlfriends gave a shower for a bride-to-be. As a surprise gift, one of the girls hired a male stripper to "crash" the party and put on a striptease dance.

None of the girls knew that a male stripper was going to barge in and go into his act. The bride's mother, a very dignified lady of 60, was terribly embarrassed, but she just sat there and made the best of it. (Afterward the girl who had hired the stripper apologized to the bride's mother.)

This is my problem: My youngest daughter just announced her engagement, and I know there will be showers given for her. My mother, who is 79, will surely be invited, and she wouldn't appreciate a male striptease act. How can I be sure that this doesn't happen?

I am not a prude, but I couldn't sit there in the presence of my elderly mother and just "make the best of it." If a male stripper were to show up at my daughter's shower, would it be all right to get up and leave the room? Or do you think I'd be making a fool of myself?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: First, the guests should be told in advance that the male stripper-type-surprise is inappropriate. And, if someone has the gall to send one anyway, leave the room. (And take Granny with you.)

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe your answer to the woman with arthritis in her hands. She asked how to get out of shaking hands with everyone in the receiving line at her daughter's wedding, and you told her to tell everyone as he or she approached, "Sorry, I can't shake your hand; I have arthritis."

So if it's a large wedding, can you imagine saying, "Sorry, I can't shake your hand; I have arthritis," 150 times or more? Or should she hang a sign around her neck, or have a public announcement made?

I have four daughters, and I also have painful arthritis in my hands. I, too, have wondered what I will do when they get married. I hope someone will write in with a better solution than the one you offered.

CHRIS IN FERGUS FALLS, MINN.

DEAR CHRIS: Several did. "Hold a small nosegay in both hands." (How's that for a bloomin' good solution?)

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Exhausted in Plattsmouth, Neb.," who thought she set a record in giving birth to three babies in 23 months and one week, that I did even better than that — twice!

My second, third and fourth babies were born in a period of 22 months and three weeks. But my first, second and third babies were born in exactly 20 months and one day! All four children made their appearances at St. Anthony's Hospital in Milwaukee, Wis.

None was a "preemie," and they were born in a period of 32 months and 20 days.

I'm Althea Phillips, formerly of Milwaukee, but believe me, Abby, I am now ...

Egg substitutes are very convenient for those on cholesterol-restricted diets, but some brands are not exactly calorie bargains. Some substitutes contain more fat and calories than an equivalent amount of eggs! So, be sure to read the calorie information on the label before you buy. Remember, one large fresh egg has about 80 calories, 6 grams of protein and 6 grams of fat.

Miss Couto Gives RTA Program

The Scurry County Retired Teachers met April 8 in the conference room of the Senior Center.

Speaker for the meeting was Monica Couto, foreign exchange student from Brazil who is staying with Mrs. Chuck Wolfe and Penny. She showed colorful slides of her native country and told about her county, her home, school, and family. She then answered questions for the group.

Jewel Summers, president, conducted the business meeting. She presented information about Senior Game Activities to be held in Arlington June 24-26.

Plans were made for seven members to attend the Drive-In Workshop in Abilene on April 20.

Refreshments were served by the community affairs committee to 24 members and one guest.

Romper Room Has Egg Hunt

An Easter egg hunt was held by the Romper Room in Hermleigh Wednesday afternoon.

Those attending were Janise Judah, Marshall Bridges, Kimber and Kelli Beck, Jessica and Jennifer Gray, Chris Jones, Randy Gray, Luke Kuss, Heather Atkins, Kerry Nachlinger, Jason and Nikki Claxton, Charlie Sweatt, Milissa, Amy and Lori Anderson, Misty and Aaron Watson, and Cyrus Morton.

Those helping with the hunt were Tibby Witt, Kim Fletcher, and Teri Henry.

Golden Age

BOSTON (AP) — The exhibition "Egypt's Golden Age: The Art of Living in the New Kingdom, 1558-1085 B.C." is on view at the Museum of Fine Arts through May 2.

The museum says the show consists of "more than 400 treasures representing everyday life in Egypt as it existed some 3,500 years ago and offers insight into an age when Egypt ruled much of Asia and Africa."

Among the objects are furniture, tableware, statuettes, and gold rings and jewelry.

Diet facts & fallacies

These nutritional tips brought to you by DIET CENTER

Few people realize how detrimental our hectic life styles can be to having a nutritious, well-balanced diet. A little planning and preparation, however, can eliminate a dependence on fast-food restaurants, TV dinners, and high-calorie snacking. Try these helpful hints: Create a menu plan for the whole week, including foods from all four food groups. Prepare foods ahead of time whenever possible, like hard-boiled eggs or steamed chicken breasts. Make a big salad with a wide variety of vegetables. Keep plenty of fresh fruits, such as oranges, apples (variety) and grapefruit, available for a quick pick-me-up. Concentrate on foods high in fiber and low in refined sugars, such as whole-grain crackers, fresh vegetables and fruits, and low-calorie, high-protein fish and poultry. These foods will provide you with the most "staying power" and prevent in-between-meal munchies. Diet Center can teach you how food preparation and planning results in better health.

At Levelland Saturday...

Tigers 5th In Relays

LEVELLAND — Snyder tracksters showed their depth in some areas - but also their lack of consistancy - as they came up with 46 points to finish fifth in the South Plains Relays here Saturday.

Andrews, showing strength in the distance races, took first with 118 points. Estacado managed second with 116 despite dropping a baton and failing to qualify in the sprint relay. Third was Monahans with 93, followed by Lubbock Dunbar with 69.

Snyder's performance left Coach Robert Crawford with mixed feelings as the Tigers prepare for the District 2-AAAA meet April 23-24 in San Angelo.

"Overall I was kind of disapointed," said the first-year coach. We didn't perform that well, but we had some hard luck, too."

One piece of hard luck came in the 1600 meter relay when a runner from another team apparently moved in front of Snyder junior James Caldwell near the handoff zone. Caldwell was forced to alter his steps and in doing so stepped on the shoe of anchor man Glen Parham. The shoe popped off and Parham ran the lap with one shoe.

"We were running four or five seconds faster than we had been running all year," said Crawford of the event. "But there wasn't anything for Glen to do but slow it down. I told him later that if anything happens like that again to jog off the track. We don't want to take the risk of an injury."

Snyder was unable to place in the event, but did get sixth in the 400 meter relay, using a "new" group of David Miller, Tommy Holladay, Whit Parks and David Nicholson.

"Our time was slower (in the 400) but it was the first time we'd run it with this group. We just put them together on Thursday," said Crawford.

Snyder showed depth by taking 2-3-4 in the high jump and 2-3 in the long jump. For the most part, however, the distances were less than the team had performed the week before at Sweetwater. That too, left Crawford disappointed.

"James (Caldwell) jumped 20-6½ in the long jump which is his best of the year, so I'm glad to see that," said the coach. "But I was disappointed we didn't do better in the high jump. I thought we would win it."

Caldwell, who in addition to Parham may be Snyder's best all-around point gatherer, placed second in both events. His high-jump effort was 6-2, four inches less than he jumped the previous weekend.

"The wind was a factor against us, and I'm sure it made a difference," said the coach. "Basically, I was pleased with Glen's effort in the 110 meters (15.06 for fourth place). I felt like it was equal to his 14.8 the week before, considering the conditions. He ran a 40.02 (third) in the intermediates, and I know he's not happy with that."

Ross Bawcum took third in the shot with a throw of 48-0½, while Parham took third in the high jump (6-0) and fourth in the long jump (20-4). D.W. Lofton placed fourth in the high jump (5-10).

The Tigers failed to place in the 3200, 1600, 800 400, 200, 100, pole vault or discus.

Snyder will compete in the Andrews Relays this Saturday.

Braves Blank Astros; Indians Rout Texas

by The Associated Press

Rick Mahler's job with the Atlanta Braves is to deny, not deliver runs.

So it wasn't unusual when Mahler stranded four baserunners while striking out twice and tapping to the mound Sunday against the Houston Astros.

But the Braves' right-hander came through on the mound, stopping the Astros 5-0 on five hits while striking out five and walking one for his second shutout of the season.

"Nobody expects to throw two straight shutouts but that's what you intend to do when you go out there," said the bearded Mahler, who had never pitched a shutout until the past week.

"He was just great," said Atlanta Manager Joe Torre of the 29-year-old pitcher. "He never had a shutout in his career and now he has two in one week. He's mixing his pitches well, in command of the hitters and challenging them."

Atlanta's victory, its fifth without a loss, equaled a team record set by the 1957 Milwaukee Braves, a club that went on to capture the World Series.

Dale Murphy cracked a two-run homer in the fourth inning and Bob Horner a solo shot in the eighth to power the Braves. Nolan Ryan, 0-2, was tagged with the loss.

Indians 13, Rangers 1

Toby Harrah drove in four runs with three singles and Len Barker scattered eight hits as Cleveland routed Texas. The Indians went up 2-0 in the third inning against Rangers starter Doc Medich on Harrah's two-run single, then chased Medich with a four-run fourth that virtually locked up the game.

Barker said his fastball and curve were not at their best, but he managed to shackle the Rangers by keeping the ball in good locations.

Pep Talk Aids Spurs Around Kansas Kings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — It wasn't as dramatic as Knute Rockne's "win one for the Gipper" speech, but it was just as effective.

San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck announced at halftime, with his Spurs trailing the Kansas City Kings by four points, that Dallas had beaten Houston. A two-game lead in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division was theirs with a victory. The Spurs listened, then rallied to beat the Kings 126-121.

Guard Mike Bratz's three-point basket from the corner with 2:52 remaining put the Spurs ahead 119-117, and George Gervin's bucket moments later increased the lead to four points.

Kansas City missed two opportunities to score in the final minute and slipped to 27-51, just one loss away from a team record. Although the Kings won't make the post-season playoffs, they still must play Houston twice and Denver once before the season ends Sunday night.

Houston and Denver, both 44-34, trail San Antonio, 46-32, by two games.

"I'm going to buy Cotton (Kings Coach Fitzsimmons) the biggest New York steak dinner he's ever had if he can beat Houston and Denver," Albeck said. "He'll be on my Christmas list."

Gervin, the league's top scorer, led all scorers with 34 points. Dave Corzine and Mike Mitchell added 25 apiece and Ed Rains came off the bench to pour in 18 for the Spurs.

Eddie Johnson paced the Kings with 20 points, followed by Ernie Grunfeld with 18.

Kansas City led 70-66 at the half and increased the lead to 10 early in the third quarter, but San Antonio responded with a 10-0 spurt that included six points by Corzine.

San Antonio trailed 97-94 entering the fourth quarter, but stayed close and finally overtook the Kings on Bratz's three-pointer, which both coaches called the turning point of the game.

"It was one team trying to stay in first place and our performance was like that of a team just trying to finish out the schedule," Fitzsimmons said. ". . . I'm not saying the guys didn't hustle, but it was a lackluster performance."

At Conference Meet...

Westerners Place 4th

ROSWELL, N.M. -- Western Texas College finds itself hanging on to a two-point lead in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference standings today after finishing fourth in the latest conference tournament here.

The Westerners, who had celebrated a 5½-point lead going into the tournament, carded a 292 to tie with New Mexico Junior College - 11 shots off of the winning pace set by Odessa College.

The Wranglers shot a one-under-par 283, to edge out second place Midland College, 285, by a two strokes. South Plains College took third with a 288. New Mexico Military Institute carded a 298 for sixth place.

Odessa's win gives the Wranglers 18½ points for the season, with two tournaments left. Western Texas still leads the conference with 20½ points. Midland is currently in third with 16, while NMJC has 15. South Plains, and NMMI have 10 and four points respectively.

WTC Coach Dave Foster, whose team started off the season with three straight conference wins in the spring, said his team shot well, despite the fourth place finish.

"The weather was good and we shot a good score of 292. It just wasn't low enough to match Odessa and Midland," he said. "We have to have five people with good scores, not just one or two. We need a better team effort in Hobbs (April 16). The Hobbs Country Club course is in good shape and scores will be low if the weather is good."

Western could help solidify its lead by winning the tournament at Hobbs, but could also lose its advantage with a finish as low as third place.

Odessa's Ray Sanchez was medalist here. He turned in a 60 to bump out WTC sophomore Jeff Seger, Lynn Monzingo of SPC and Dave Wastake and Bobby Tuttle of Midland; who all turned in 70s.

Former Pro RB Shot In Robbery

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Jesse Phillips Jr., a former running back with four pro football teams, was shot as he tried to rob a jewelry store, police said.

Police Lt. Marv Pennington said Phillips, 35, was listed in fair but stable condition at St. Mary's Hospital, suffering from two shotgun pellet wounds in his right arm and one in one foot.

Phillips was arrested for investigation of armed robbery Saturday, but he had not been booked by Sunday because he was still hospitalized, Pennington said.

Stadler Outlasts Pohl For Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. -- Craig Stadler beat Dan Pohl on the first hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday at Augusta National Golf Club to win the 1982 Masters Tournament.

Stadler, 28, had to earn the title. He escaped disaster after blowing a six-stroke lead he had at the turn.

He started the day three strokes ahead of Jerry Pate, his playing partner, and Spain's Seve Ballesteros, the Masters champion in 1980.

With birdies at two, six and seven, however, he stretched the lead to six strokes over Ballesteros and Tom Weiskopf, who had gained one stroke. Pate, meanwhile, fell off the pace by eight strokes with bogeys at one and four.

His game started to stray on the par-3 12th hole, where he took a bogey after missing a seven-foot putt.

Meanwhile, Pohl, the longest driver on the tour, but a non-winner in more than four years, had birdied 12 with a 10-foot putt, and now the gap was suddenly four strokes.

Pohl also birdied the next hole, No. 13, a par 5.

He just missed an eagle on a 10-foot putt after hitting a four-iron - "my best iron shot in a long time."

Pohl then bogeyed the 14th and, with Stadler at the 11th, Pohl was still four strokes back.

But Pohl birdied the par-3 16th, and Stadler's fortunes went further awry.

He bogeyed 14 with three putts, then took a bogey at 16 when he hit his drive in a bunker.

His sand wedge shot went past the hole and slid down the other side of the glass-like green about 40 feet. He two putted coming back.

Pohl birdied 16 and now the margin was just one stroke, and what had been a stroll for Stadler became a struggle.

Stadler hit a drive and a five-iron to 20 feet of the hole on 18. It looked like a routine two-putt par.

But he hit his putt weakly and left a six-footer. Then he missed that, too.

Pate, who needed to make a 15-foot putt at 18 to tie for the lead, left it short and fell into a third-place tie with Ballesteros.

The playoff started and ended on the 10th with Stadler making a routine par, and Pohl hitting a poor second shot to the right of the green, then missing an eight-foot putt for a bogey.

Mavericks Stun Houston 109-97

Cooper was more modest.

"I was just trying to work hard today," he said Sunday, just after the Mavericks downed the Houston Rockets 109-97 in a National Basketball Association game.

Cooper's 20 points and 16 rebounds offset Malone's 26 points and 10 rebounds. Though Malone's points were game-high, the veteran center averages 31.4 points and 14.6 rebounds to rank second and first, respectively, in the NBA.

Cooper might have done more if he hadn't gotten into foul trouble after 38 minutes of play.

"I think this was the best game I've ever seen Cooper play," Motta said. "I don't know if he can play much better."

Cooper said he was "trying to front Moses down low and keep the ball away from him. I think Moses felt sorry for me today because this is my second wedding anniversary."

The Mavericks won another inside match-up as rookie forward Jay Vincent outscored veteran Elvin Hayes 24 points to 20.

Houston had won eight of its last 11 games to challenge San Antonio for first place in the Midwest Division, but the loss to Dallas allowed Denver to slide into a tie with the Rockets for second place.

San Antonio won at Kansas City Sunday to widen its lead to two games over Houston and Denver.

"Dallas played well," Houston Coach Del Harris said. "This is just a picture of things to come. They have a good team and they played with intelligence."

But Harris' mind was on the NBA playoffs.

"I don't know what motivates a player more - pride or a division title," he said. "It's hard to accept a loss at any part of a season, but when you only have four games left to go it makes it much harder."

Ector Tests League Leading Tigers Today

ODESSA -- Snyder's Tigers go after their fourth consecutive District 2-AAAA baseball victory here today as they take on the Ector Eagles at 4 o'clock.

Following today's game, the Tigers will challenge Brownfield in non-district action at Brownfield, 4 p.m. Tuesday. Snyder stays on the road for an April 20 date with Pecos before completing the first half of district play April 23 at home against Lamesa.

Snyder remains the only undefeated team in district play, boasting a 3-0 record. Lamesa is in second place with a 3-1 mark, a half-game in front of Ector, 2-1.

The Eagles are 8-9 on the season, which includes a loss to Snyder in the semi-finals of the Snyder Baseball Tournament. Ector's only district loss this year was to Lamesa on March 26. Since that time the squad has defeated Fort Stockton and Monahans.

Snyder also holds victories over Fort Stockton and Monahans, and over Andrews. Snyder is 14-5 for the season.

WTC Rides To 2nd Place In Howard County Rodeo

BIG SPRING -- Western Texas College fell 20 points short of winning its third consecutive rodeo this weekend here, despite outstanding efforts by Dave Appleton and James Garlick.

Sul Ross University captured the mens team title with 322.5 points, while Western Texas turned in 303. Tarleton State University was third with 279.

Western, under the direction of Coach Bob Doty, will host the WTC NIRA Rodeo in Snyder, April 15-18. Eighteen teams will join in the competition, which features 8 p.m. performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and 2 p.m. matinees Saturday and Sunday.

Appleton won both the bareback and saddle bronc riding to capture the all-around championship here. Garlick won third in bareback and second in bull riding.

In girls events, Gayla Newton placed second in barrel race and Deborah Lewis took fifth. Eastern New Mexico won the girl's championship.

Also placing for WTC was Gary Hickox, who teamed with Tommy Guin of Tarleton State to win third in the team roping.

For World Leaders...

Workers Get Versailles Ready

VERSAILLES, France (AP) — Hundreds of workers have invaded the sprawling wonderworld of gardens, chateaux and art-filled rooms of Versailles to prepare for the eighth annual summit of major industrialized democracies.

The workers are painting, hammering, sanding, moving earth and restoring while police with walkie-talkies and bomb detection equipment patrol the areas around the chateau and the nearby Grand Trianon Palace. It's there the heads of state and government will stay during their June 4-6 visit.

The host, President Francois Mitterrand, appears to be sparing no effort to impress fellow leaders and show a worldwide television audience part of France's national heritage.

When Mitterrand takes his guests from the closing dinner in the Hall of Mirrors to a ballet in the Royal Opera, a concert in the gilded chapel and a fireworks display in the gardens, viewers will get an idea of what life must have been like at the court of Louis XIV.

For President Reagan, the summit will mark his first visit to Europe since entering the White House. He will join Mitterrand and the leaders of Britain, West Germany, Italy, Canada, Japan and a representative of the European Economic Community to discuss economic differences.

During a recent tour of Versailles, Henri Vignal of the French Ministry of External Relations, refused to disclose how much the French were spending to get it ready. He did say the summit would cost less than the $7 million the Canadians said they spent on the summit in Ottawa in July 1981.

The major expense, he said, is transforming the Orangerie, a gigantic greenhouse, into a press center for the more than 1,000 reporters expected.

Yvon David, assistant curator of the chateau, said much of the restoration work in the buildings and gardens had been planned and was speeded up because of the summit.

Mitterrand, who faces a $15 billion budget deficit this year and has made austerity the order of the day, has been criticized by an opposition newspaper for extravagant preparations.

Some cafe and restaurant owners say they are unhappy at the prospect of lost revenue from May 24 to June 8 when the chateau will be closed. Normally, there would be more than 200,000 visitors then.

Government officials said worldwide publicity about the summit will, in future years, more than make up for financial losses now.

Originally a small hunting lodge, Versailles under the Sun King Louis XIV became a palace of splendor and the capital of France for more than a hundred years until the Revolution of 1789 drove the royal family back to Paris.

Just 11 miles southwest of Paris, the chateau is visited by 2.7 million visitors a year and is the place where some major treaties of modern history were signed.

They include the 1783 treaty ending the American war of independence; the 1871 treaty that ceded Alsace and Lorraine to Germany after the Franco-Prussian War; and the 1919 treaty making Germany's defeat official in World War I.

The Grand Trianon, once home to Napoleon, was modernized by Charles de Gaulle for visiting heads of state, and has 32 rooms for visitors. Six bathrooms will have to be added for the summit. Each leader will have a suite of four rooms.

The conference will take place in the Coronation Room of the main chateau, which takes its name from a huge painting depicting the coronation of Napoleon I as emperor.

Reagan Meeting With Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Reagan, this is a week of keeping track of U.S. peacekeeping missions beyond the nation's borders while his aides hold budget talks with members of Congress.

Reagan, who returned to the White House Sunday evening after a working holiday" in Jamaica and Barbados, will be on the road again Thursday when he visits Chicago to address Roman Catholic educators and, most likely, unveil support for some form of tax credit based on tuition payments to private schools, a step he advocated long before taking office.

Today, he invited a delegation of Jewish leaders to meet with him at the White House.

Reagan had been expected to meet early in the week with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., who was to have returned from his mission to London and Buenos Aires in an effort to settle the Falklands Island crisis.

But deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the president and Haig decided Saturday evening to have the secretary return to London. Thus, it could be several days before Reagan receives a face-to-face report on Haig's efforts.

Reagan, who said Sunday he had spoken twice with Haig since the secretary of state left Washington early Thursday morning, communicated with Haig through tables, Speakes said.

"Very detailed cabled instructions and reporting have gone on between the president and secretary of state," the White House spokesman said aboard Air Force One as the president flew home from his seaside holiday.

U.S. officials who declined to have their names used expressed skepticism about the accuracy of a broadcast report that Haig was carrying to London a four-point plan proposing immediate Argentine withdrawal from the Falkland Islands, which Argentina seized from the British.

Obituaries

Weldon Bills

Funeral service was set for 4:30 p. m. today in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for James Weldon Bills, 72, who lived on Rt. 2, Snyder. Mr. Bills, a Scurry County resident for 59 years, died at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City. He was a retired carpenter and farmer.

The Rev. Charles Bridges, pastor of First Baptist Church at Booker, and the Rev. D. D. Smith, pastor of Central Baptist Church in Hermleigh, were to officiate. Burial was to be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

He was married on Nov. 14, 1931, in Snyder to Willie Earlene Woolever. She survives.

Also surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Glenda Bane of Snyder, Mrs. Jayme Roemisch and Mrs. Welda Kay McHaney, both of Hermleigh; a son, Darrel Bills of Snyder; a sister, Mrs. Lela Ganette of Plainview; a brother, Dixon Bills of Rockport; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Stoessel To Go To Mid East

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will send Undersecretary of State Walter Stoessel to the Middle East this week in an effort to head off fighting between Israel and Palestinians in southern Lebanon, the White House said today.

"The situation still remains tense in the Middle East," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said. "Once again, we are in relatively continuous contact with governments in the area to urge them to use maximum restraint."

Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said early last week that his nation might strike at "terrorist organizations" in retaliation for the murder of an Israeli diplomat in Paris.

On Saturday, Lebanese President Elias Sarkis said Israel had massed two armored divisions and 40,000 troops along their common border. Sarkis maintained that the Israelis were posed for an immediate attack and asked U.S. officials to persuade Israel to call off any planned invasion.

Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman Yassar Arafat had said Saturday he expected Israel to strike at Palestinian guerrillla positions in southern Lebanon within 48 hours.

The United States on Saturday appealed for all sides in the Middle East to "show the utmost restraint" and asked for "an end to all actions that contribute to tension and violence."

Brown Bag Luncheon Set

Jan Parker, associate director of the Diamond M Museum of Fine Art, will be the speaker at a "brown bag" luncheon Tuesday at thr Scurry County Museum. Her topic will be "Art Appreciation."

The luncheon will begin at 12:10 p. m., and no reservations are required.

Victim Is Returned By Kidnappers

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — The kidnap victim has been returned with only a few feathers ruffled and the ransom collected, but police say they have no clues as to who abducted their mascot, Tom the cockateel, three weeks ago.

Tom, who belongs to the police narcotics division in this Los Angeles suburb, was returned Saturday night after a harrowing ordeal during which police initially refused to pay the ransom despite being sent a photograph of the hostage with a gun held to its head.

Agent Mark Leonard said Sunday he couldn't comment on reports police suspect narcotics officers from another police department.

Leonard read a statement that said, "On 4-10-82 at about 2120 hours an unidentified person placed Tom in the lobby of the El Monte police department, then fled the scene. The unidentified person was not seen in the immediate area. A search did not turn up any clues."

The ransom of seven bottles of expensive liquor had vanished from the station between 7:15 p.m. and 9:20 p.m.

Burglary Is Investigated

Snyder police are investigating one auto burglary reported over a quiet weekend.

Melissa Herrley called police around 10:45 Saturday morning and reported the theft of several 8-track tapes from her car. The theft is thought to have occurred while the Herrley vehicle was parked at the Snyder Oaks Nursing Home Friday night.

Local officers also arrested two men on charges of possession of marijuana, Saturday night.

BIRTHS

Carol and Greg Graves, 2442 Sunset, are parents of a son, Clay Wes, born at 5:01 p. m. April 8 in Malone-Hogan Hospital in Big spring. He weighed 6 lbs., 2½ oz. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graves and Neilda Word, all of Snyder.

Tom and Jerry, a singing duo of the late 1950s, went on to greater fame under their real names — Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel.
