

Schools In Confusion Over Desegregation Program

AUSTIN (AP) — Uncertainty and confusion remained as federal desegregation negotiators packed up and returned to Washington from Texas.

Thirty-eight school districts conferred with the government officials in one-hour meetings last Tuesday and Wednesday, and 36 were left facing possible federal court suits which probably will be filed in the next few days.

Busing was the big fear, and many districts were left with the impression that only plans that would involve at least limited busing would satisfy the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Hardly had the federal officials reached home before representatives of 22 school districts met hurriedly Friday afternoon in Houston but came up with no solutions to their problems.

Dr. Stanley McCaleb of Richardson said at Houston that busing would be required under the federal plans and added, "If we are forced to busing it will be the courts that do it."

Another school official said at Houston that the federal bureau officials might not call it busing "but would order a desegregation plan that would not work without cross-town busing."

"You can tear a town completely apart without solving the problem," that official said bitterly.

Another said, "I call this whole thing socialistic with the federal government telling us when we go to the bathroom and what kind of breakfast food to buy."

Most of the districts who sent negotiators to Austin felt they had done all they could to integrate. They said remaining all-black or all-white schools are due to neighborhood patterns.

HEW injected a new problem for many districts. They insisted that Mexican-Americans be integrated with Anglos. In most statistical breakdowns on desegregation, Chicanos are considered as "whites," not a distinct ethnic group.

"There was really no purpose to this meeting. There is no way we could have satisfied these people," said Austin School Board President Roy Butler after meeting with the HEW team.

Several Austin school trustees indicated busing might be the only solution. In some other districts, pairing of schools was suggested by HEW, and local officials said this probably would require some busing.

But J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the HEW Civil Rights Division, called newsmen later to say, "We did not ask any busing in Austin and other cities. We are not requiring busing to cover racial imbalance—that is the way President Nixon phrased it and that is our policy all along."

To schoolmen who left Austin grudgingly awaiting federal desegregation suits, Nixon's remarks

Thursday night in his televised press conference must have clouded the issue even further.

"We are not going to have a forced policy in this area. Our policy is one of cooperation rather than coercion, and I believe that is the best way to handle this very difficult problem in the Southern states," Nixon said.

School boards had the opportunity after the meetings to go back to work in search of desegregation plans that would satisfy HEW and avoid a lawsuit.

But many said they were fresh out of ideas and would await a suit. Since school boards are elected, many clearly would prefer to let a federal judge take the blame for an unpopular mixing plan.

One school board attorney said he felt he had a legal hole card if HEW sues the Marshall school district.

Sam Hall Jr., attorney for the district, said he disagreed with the Justice Department's contention that a suit would overshadow any administrative proceedings between a district and HEW.

He said Marshall still was involved in negotiations with HEW, and "since HEW chose an administrative proceeding, that proceeding should be exhausted before they take us to the courts," Hall said.

This argument would be used as a response to any federal integration suit, Hall said.

When asked for possible ways of getting a more representative racial mix, HEW negotiators suggested "pairing" as one alternative, several local school officials reported.

Pairing involves taking two or more schools and dividing various grades among them. One school now predominantly or all-white, and the other school, mainly black, might be used. All children, white and black, in grades 1-3 might attend one of the schools, while fourth-through sixth-graders would go to the other one.

Launch Sinks, 75 Drowned

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — An inter-island motor launch carrying an estimated 250 persons sank Saturday in the narrows between St. Kitts and Nevis islands and unofficial sources said 75 persons drowned.

They said there were 50 known survivors and a search was being mounted for others.

The U.S. Coast Guard station at San Juan confirmed the sinking and said the St. Kitts harbor master reported 25 bodies had been recovered and 16 persons had been hospitalized on Nevis, some 200 miles east of San Juan.

A spokesman said one Coast Guard amphibious plane was dropping flares in the area and two helicopters were dispatched to assist in rescue operations.

The survivors and bodies found so far were picked up by police launches and small boats from both islands, the spokesman said. He added that two U.S. Air Force planes left San Juan for Nevis with medical supplies.

Authorities on Nevis appealed to residents to illuminate the airfield with their car headlights so the planes could land.

The craft was identified as the Christena, a vessel that daily makes the five-mile trip between British-owned St. Kitts and Nevis islands. Sources said it carried a full complement of weekend vacationers.

The Coast Guard spokesman said the Christena went down off Naggs Head at the Southeastern tip of St. Kitts about 5:30 p.m., while the cutter Point Whitehorn left St. Thomas Island immediately for the scene.

Reviewing the . . . Big Spring Week . . . with Joe Pickle

For a time of the year that is traditionally quiet, the past week erupted with considerable violence. Perry McKnight, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit McKnight, drowned while swimming at Moss Creek Lake. Terri Lynn Washburn, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Washburn, was killed in a car mishap south of Abilene. A week ago this morning, John W. Lobstein, 69, Dawson County farmer, was killed in a gas explosion at his home in the Five Mile community southeast of Lamesa. Word also came of the death July 24, in Vietnam of Lt. James M. (Jim) Butler, a pilot with the USAF. The son of Col. and Mrs. Butler, he had graduated from high school here in 1964, went on to A&M and then into the Air Force.

An item of considerable import to citizens of Big Spring was word that the legal aspects of turning the Cosden County Club over to the City of Big Spring Jan. 1, 1971 have been cleared. Earlier the Dora Roberts Foundation had indicated it would purchase the properties for $250,000 from the Cosden employee pension trust fund and give it to the city. The property includes the site of the historic Big Spring.

While it represents a promotion and well-deserved recognition, Big Spring received with mixed emotion the word that Elbert H. Boullion Jr., assistant chief engineer, has been named manager of the new Cosden polystyrene plant at Calumet City, Ill. He and his wife, the former

Celia In Gulf

MIAMI (AP) — Celia churned up to hurricane strength Saturday and whipped the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico with 75 miles per hour winds about 400 miles southeast of New Orleans.

"Celia is a very small hurricane with highest winds near the center and gales extending out 100 miles to the north and east of the center," the weather bureau said.

Celia was expected to continue to build in size and intensity as it plowed toward the Gulf Coast.

Arab-Israel War Thrusts Continue

By The Associated Press

Israeli planes attacked Egyptian targets in the Suez Canal zone and Arab guerrillas struck new blows Saturday as diplomats sought means of achieving the cease-fire phase of the U.S. peace initiative approved by Israel, Egypt and Jordan.

Amid expressions of hope and pessimism, the continuing pattern of war underscored the obstacles facing diplomats seeking a 90-day breathing space that would facilitate peace negotiations.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said Israeli planes hammered intermittently at fortifications and mortar positions on the Egyptian side of the canal in the central and northern sectors.

IN CANAL ZONE

In Cairo an Egyptian military spokesman said ground and air forces were involved in an attack midway in the canal zone, but were driven back by anti-aircraft batteries before they could inflict any casualties.

The Israeli command denied any ground activity, and said all planes returned safely.

The Israelis said also that Arab saboteurs blew up a rail line near Khan Yunis at the southern end of the Gaza Strip. At the Shatti refugee camp in Israeli-occupied Gaza an Arab guerrilla tossed a hand grenade at an Israeli motorized patrol, wounding two Arab children, the Israelis added.

PLAN DENOUNCED

Acceptance of the U.S. plan has been denounced by most guerrilla groups. How to implement a cease-fire not recognized by the guerrillas presents a major problem.

The Israelis said that on the borders with Leganon and Jordan the guerrillas limited themselves to isolated mortar, bazooka and light-arms fire.

A nine-member ministerial committee with Prime Minister Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan assembled for a Saturday night meeting to draft a full reply to the U.S. Middle East initiative put forward by Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Upon receipt of the reply the United States will press through diplomatic channels for agreement on a time and conditions for a cease-fire.

The Israeli Cabinet braced for a split because of its decision Friday to approve the plan.

Pot Haul In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH (AP) — Vice squad officers seized about 700 pounds of marijuana in what they described today as the biggest haul of illegal narcotics in Fort Worth history.

Two men and a woman, 18 to 21 years old, were held without immediate charge.

Led by Capt. C. E. Hogue, 10 policemen surrounded and searched a house on the city's east side, where they made the arrests and hauled away 25 bags of refined marijuana weighing an estimated 60 pounds.

After questioning the trio, officers said they went to a rental trailer in Northeast Fort Worth and found it loaded with approximately 700 pounds of marijuana, still on stalks and stacked like shocks of wheat.

Police said they were told the marijuana was grown somewhere in Kansas. There was no immediate estimate of its worth in the underworld market.

'Stop Shooting' Efforts Pushed For Mideast

WOMAN DIES Subway Mishap Chases Crowds

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman died and 53 persons required medical attention Saturday after escaping a choking hot, smoke-filled subway tunnel under the East River where a broken third-rail cable had started a fire.

It was the third major subway accident since May 20 and second involving loss of life.

Choking clouds of smoke stopped a 10-car train carrying fewer than 100 passengers after it left the Bowling Green station on the lower tip of Manhattan at 6:45 a.m.

As the lights went out and smoke filled the cars, the passengers fled out the rear of the train, some of them crawling to stay under the smoke. They stumbled over each other as they made their way on the track back to the station, 200 feet away.

It took 70 minutes to evacuate all the passengers from the express train, which was heading into a tunnel under the East River bound for Brooklyn.

Police and firemen didn't arrive for a half hour because the motorman, lacking a two-way radio, had to walk to a telephone in the tunnel to notify them. Until police arrived the trainmen's flashlights provided the only illumination.

Mayor John V. Lindsay demanded a "complete explanation" from the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, the state agency which took over transit operations in the city two years ago.

William J. Roan, chairman of the MTA, said at a news conference that he was "shocked and infuriated" to learn that the train involved in Saturday's accident had no radio. He said the radios were supposed to have been installed by July 1 and that he had been told it had been done.

Guerrillas Hold On To Kidnap Victims

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaro urban guerrillas struck again Saturday, attempting to grab a beer factory's payroll. They seemed in no hurry to negotiate the release of two foreign diplomats they kidnaped Friday.

Five men and a woman, well-armed, broke into the home of the manager of the National Beer Factory. Their aim was to get him to open the safe at the factory, where a big payroll was kept. But the manager was out and while the Tupamaros waited the police arrived. After a gunfight, the terrorists escaped, police said.

Gen. Antonio Francesc, the interior minister, made the government's first public pronouncement since the kidnaping of Dan A. Mitrione, 50, a U.S. security official, and Aloysio Mares Diaz Gomide, 41, the Brazilian consul in Montevideo.

"The government has nothing to say about exchanging the kidnaped diplomats for political prisoners so long as the Foreign Ministry has not received an official communique from the kidnapers," Francesc said in a radio interview.

The government thus snubbed a letter sent Friday afternoon to the newspaper El Diario. The letter demanded the release of an unspecified number of political prisoners for the freedom of Mitrione and Diaz Gomide. It also said Mitrione underwent

Israel Reply To Set Stage For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic efforts go into high gear this week to put into effect the U.S. "stop shooting and start talking" Mideast peace plan.

U.S. officials expect to receive perhaps Monday an official Israeli reply accepting the U.S. initiative for a cease-fire of at least 90 days while the Mideast antagonists enter into talks about a long-term settlement.

The formal Israeli response will set the stage for final behind-the-scenes discussions on details of putting the plan into effect. Egypt and Jordan earlier announced acceptance of the U.S. proposal, made June 19, and the Israeli cabinet voted Friday to accept it also.

The U.N. mediator slated to supervise the political settlement talks, Gunnar Jarring, is due in New York Sunday night from his home in Sweden. Around midweek the Big Four powers which have been considering the Mideast question—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—expect to hold an ambassadorial meeting at U.N. headquarters.

U.S. officials hope to get the cease-fire under way soon, but decline to predict just what day it might take effect pending the ironing out of details.

However, in Washington's view it is highly desirable to keep the momentum going on all sides in a permanent resolution of the long-standing and highly dangerous Middle East conflict.

President Takes It Easy At Western White House

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon got in a little business and a little loafing around the Western White House Saturday, with more of both on tap Sunday before flying to Washington Monday with a stop at Denver.

The President tapered off at the end of a busy work week at the west coast presidential office. There was some of the usual paper work, a meeting with national security adviser Henry A. Kissinger, and telephone conferences with other staff assistants, deputy press secretary Gerald Warren reported.

Two of his closest friends were around for companionship and such activities as dipping in the surf—C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, of Key Biscayne, Fla., and Robert B. Abplanalp, Bronxville, N.Y., industrialist, who often entertains the President at his villa in the Bahamas.

President and Mrs. Nixon take off Monday morning for a noon MDT arrival in Denver, where the First Lady will look in on an antipoverty project center, visit a home for juvenile delinquents and attend a reception at the governor's mansion.

The President will put in two hours at the federal building with about 200 state officials of planning agencies that receive funds from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to apply to crime control and prevention. All 50 states will be represented, along with the District of Columbia and the territories.

Big Hassle Over Change At U. Of T.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The composition of the University of Texas in Austin is changed this weekend, a course of action taken by regents in the face of charges they were turning the vast system into "an educational wasteland."

But the prime force behind the changes—which call for dividing the College of Arts and Sciences into three units—is acting President Bryce Jordan who called the controversial plan "better education."

The crucial regents' vote to create three colleges of the one—humanities, social behavior sciences and natural sciences—came Friday over the emotionally-charged objections of deposed Dean J. R. Silber. It prompted Sen. Chet Brooks of Houston to call on Gov. Preston Smith to investigate the high level maneuvering by the UT administration.

'EMPIRE'

Silber was fired as dean of the college of arts and sciences last week. Though the administration made no public explanation of Silber's ouster, there are indications it came about because of his opposition to the new reorganization plan.

Some sources said Chancellor-elect Charles LeMaistre dismissed Silber because regents chairman Frank Erwin was afraid Silber was "building an empire" within the college.

Brooks said: "Any continuation of the kind of political pressure and hatchet work that has occurred in recent days obviously could result in serious sanctions against the university."

The plan is "a college destruction edict," said Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi. "This is like trying to save a baby's life by butchering it into three or four bleeding fragments," said English professor Dr. David DeLaura.

'ABOLISH IT'

"What purports to be an order to divide the college is in fact an order to abolish it," Silber said Friday at the regents' meeting in Corpus Christi. "Irreparable harm will be done if this hastily contrived program is put into effect without time for refinement and elaboration."

But, on the other hand, regents voted a "full confidence" resolution in the plan.

"Getting closer to smaller groups results in better education and that is our aim," argued Jordan.

Jordan said the college of arts and sciences expects some 15-500 students this fall with several more thousands of part time students.

"This is too large to accomplish the task that modern education requires," he said.

SOME FAVOR IT

Dr. William Shive, chemistry professor, said representatives of the chemistry, economics, botany, physical education, zoology, microbiology, astronomy and the graduate school favor the Jordan plan for reorganization.

Silber said the University of Pittsburgh tried a similar plan three years ago but is now returning to a single college concept for arts and sciences.

"The University of Pittsburgh, now engaged in putting Humpty Dumpty back together, is experiencing all of the difficulties related to that song of childhood," Silber said.

"The University of Texas at Austin is now on the wall. Why push it?" he asked.

THE WEEK

Anna Claire Waters, grew up here and have been active workers for their city.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District has had little time for relaxation. In addition to keeping busy to get all cities the water they need in this unusually dry summer, the district has taken on development of an alternate and supplemental supply for the SACROC unit in southwestern Scurry County. Directors voted last week to issue $500,000 in revenue bonds to finance drilling salt water wells, pumps and pipelines. Bids on the pipe and laying the line will be opened Tuesday.

What probably rates as one of the heaviest hauls here in a long time was the cracking of the Hemphill-Wells safe, probably early last Sunday morning. One estimate put the loss around $3,000, but there were no firm figures.

The Howard-Glasscock Old Settlers annual reunion Friday was another successful event, thanks to the tireless work of Jess Slaughter and his faithful helpers. The highlight was, as usual, the barbecue, just as it has almost since inception of the event. Mrs. J. M. Morgan, a remarkable woman at 98, was the eldest of those attending, while Mr. Bass Lofton, 86, was the oldest man.

This must be open season for postmaster retirement. Smith Cochran retired Friday after 41 years as postmaster at Coahoma, explaining he had worn out three offices but the new one had worn him out. Edward L. Engle is acting postmaster. At Lamesa, Owen C. Taylor, almost as much a

Local People In Spanish Course

Several individuals from Big Spring are participating in a conversational Spanish "live in" being conducted this summer at Sul Ross State University in Alpine.

Conversational Spanish, supplemented by textbooks, is being interwoven into a cultural awareness of the world of the Mexican-American living in West Texas. The course is cosponsored by the university and the West Texas Education Center in Midland.

Several field trips are taken, including one to Ojinaga, Mexico, and nothing but Spanish is spoken. Class members are taught to become proficient enough to "think in Spanish." Among those from Big Spring taking part are Herbert Johnson Jr., Sister Catherine Morissette, Marty Lou Scott and A. D. Scott.

fixture there as Cochran was at Coahoma, stepped down after 35 years as postmaster. Only one other postmaster in the state in the same class office outranked him in tenure.

The week wrought a heavy toll among old timers. — L. W. Croft 50 years, Albert Shortes 61 years, Wiley B. Henry 42 years, to mention a few. Also departing was J. C. Ebersole, one of those quiet individuals who will be among the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

It hardly seems possible that our Sam Blackburn has been gone a year. He would consider it flattery, but his warm personality and his incomparable feature stores are still sorely missed.

A confident Congressman George Bush, Republican nominee, brought his campaign for U. S. Senator to Big Spring last week, stating his positions at a press conference and mixing and mingling with the populace at a Texas hamburger party at the amphitheatre.

The annual Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo was unraveled at the end of the week and drew reasonably good crowds and unraveled a lot of excitement. Youth may not have the polish of the pros, but it more than makes up for it in daring and enthusiasm.

No one gained consolation from the 30-day weather forecast, except that all summer it has seemed to lag behind. The outlook is for below-normal rainfall, and that's mighty dry. Sort of like taking nothing from nothing.

Indications are that city tax valuations may be up by $2,881,026, which would indicate a $24,000 additional tax yield. But it will take some trimming as well as more revenue to bring the budget into balance.

Army General Running PX Is Demoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has demoted Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole, a decorated officer who was in charge of the post exchange — PX — system in Europe.

The Army announced Friday that Cole, 50, of Alexandria, Va., was reduced to the rank of colonel and stripped of the Distinguished Service Medal awarded to him in 1968 for his service in Vietnam.

He retired Friday. An Army spokesman said Cole's application for retirement had been pending for some time before it was approved.

The Pentagon said: "The reduction action was taken because he failed to maintain the high degree of personal and professional integrity demanded of general officers while assigned as commanding general, European Exchange System, and as assistant deputy chief of staff for logistics, headquarters U. S. Army, Europe."

The Army declined to elaborate. But it was acknowledged that Cole was called to testify in private before a Senate subcommittee which last fall investigated alleged irregularities in NCO mess operations. The Army has said no responsibility over NCO clubs.

No charges ever have been filed against Cole, the Army said.

Cole's lawyers said any action necessary to reverse the decision of Secretary of the Army Stanley Resor will be taken.

Cole, a Madison County, Neb., native who served more than 20 years in the Army, was decorated for his 2½ years' service as deputy chief of staff for personnel and administration in Vietnam. Since returning from Europe last fall, Cole has been serving as special assistant to the Army adjutant general here.

Graduating Pilots Receive Silver Wings, Trophies

Student pilots of undergraduate pilot training class 71-01, first to graduate in fiscal year 1971, culminated 53 weeks of pilot training when class members received their silver Air Force wings and certificates of aeronautical rating Saturday in ceremonies on the flight line at Webb AFB.

Included among the class, which numbers 50 members are 45 Air Force officers, 3 Marines and 2 Air National Guardsmen.

At the Friday night graduation ball, the first of its kind at Webb, 2nd Lt. Keith R. Talladay received the Flying Training Award; 2nd Lt. Elton

R. Humphreys the Academic Award; and 1st Lt. Stanford L. Hackleman, United States Marine Corps, the Leadership Award.

The following were also presented awards for being the outstanding graduates: 2nd Lt. James R. Simons, Edwin C. Heinrich Jr., Keith R. Talladay, Elton R. Humphreys and Robert R. Jones.

The most coveted award, the Air Training Command Commander's Trophy, was presented to Lt. Simons.

According to Maj. Edwin Newcomer, the Northrop T-38 Talon commander for the class, the class "was excellent in learning to fly." The class was Maj. Newcomer's last class for a while. He will soon be leaving for Mountain Home AFB, Idaho, for further aircraft training. Guiding the class through the Cessna T-37 stage was Capt. Neil Schultz.

Condition Of Migrants Puts Employer In Jail

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A 70-year-old orchard owner is in jail today in this northern Michigan city for allowing unsanitary housing conditions for migrant workers.

It was "the first such case in Michigan, and perhaps in the country," said Michigan's attorney general, Frank Kelley. Kelley said O. M. Tompkins was jailed Friday on the order of Traverse County Circuit Court Judge Charles Brown.

The attorney general said representatives of his office and Grand Traverse County Prosecutor John Blakeslee pressed the case against Tompkins on behalf of the Michigan Health Department. Tompkins was jailed for contempt of an order to evacuate the camp. The elderly orchard owner refused to apply for a state license to house the workers, Kelley said.

There were about 20 migrant workers living on the Tompkins property, most of them Mexican-Americans from Texas, said Kelley.

Outhouses at the camp were filthy, Kelley said. Garbage disposal facilities were inadequate and children were sleeping within a few feet of a manure-littered cow barn, he added.

CARNIVAL PRIZES — George Robertson, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Robertson, 1315 Princeton, shows off some of the prizes donated for his neighborhood carnival against Muscular Dystrophy. The carnival will be at 9 a.m. Saturday in Highland Park Shopping Center.

Neighborhood Carnival Won't Stop Growing

By GORDON ZEIGLER
Watch a dedicated youth at work, and he will amaze you. That pretty well describes George Robertson, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Robertson.

Three weeks ago he decided he wanted to hold a neighborhood carnival against Muscular Dystrophy. Other kids were doing it, why couldn't he? He set next Saturday for the event then went to work.

Today, just days away from carnival time, his list of prizes that Big Springers have donated is amazing. He has visited stores of Big Spring merchants telling his story and asking for a donation. Almost without exception merchants responded generously.

Everything has been donated, from prizes which carnival goers will try for at the booths to a big concession trailer courtesy of a bottling company to food for the refreshment stand — no carnival can do without refreshments.

SATURDAY MORNING
The carnival gets under way at 9 a.m. Saturday in College Park Shopping Center and continues until prizes and concessions run out, George said. It's being put on exclusively by George and about a dozen friends. His parents will be on hand to supervise along with his grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Myrick. George estimates he has about $175 worth of prizes.

Toy stores and department stores came through with a beach bag, autograph dogs, girl's desk set, models, walkie talkie set, games, peg chest, a doll, a toy truck, a youngster's filling station set.

For the teenage set he has sun shades, stereo records, bracelets, and gift certificates for a pizza, notebooks, party items, and a free barbecue dinner.

For the women the list is even larger and includes a free haircut and manicure, free service call for washing machine repair, gift certificates for a blouse, shoes, slippers, furniture polish, napkin holder, oil and vinegar set, four yards of material, wrapping paper and napkins, flower vase, a milk glass wedding bowl, throw pillow, and fabric cleaner.

Some men might be interested in five free gallons of gasoline.

CONCESSION STAND
The concession stand will be manned by Mr. and Mrs. Robertson where hot dogs, popcorn and Cokes will be served. The chili, the cooker, and cups have all been donated.

George's father, who is a metal tradesman at Webb AFB is constructing the small booths for nine games.

Games at the carnival include grab bag, football throw, ring a duck, baseball throw, dart throw, bottle toss and pie toss.

The Robertsons are trying to add a special water tank "dunking" booth so spectators can throw baseballs at a target and dunk a person into the water.

MERCHANTS IMPRESSED
Reaction of merchants to George's presentation seem to indicate how dedication to his task and a real businesslike approach made possible his success.

"He seemed real sincere and if a child cares that much I think grown ups should help out," said one woman. "He seemed like he believed in what he was doing and I was glad to help out," said Danny Reagan.

"The manager and I talked about how nice his approach was after he left," said one fabric store attendant. "He even called me ma'am," the young woman added.

"A real pleasant kid," said a meat market operator. "Answered all the questions I had, and since he knew what he was talking about, I decided to give him something," said Alton Fields. "Seemed sincere, that's the main thing. That makes you feel you are accomplishing more," said another.

"Was polite, respectful, and very business like, and quite adult in his approach, you could tell he was sold on the project," said Mrs. Aurora Etheridge. "He was more like an adult than a boy his age."

"He has the making of a real businessman," she added.

TICKET SALES
Tickets sell for 20 cents each at the booths and all will have a chance at the prizes.

Tickets will be given for success at the booths. As persons amass enough tickets they may redeem them on first-come-first-served basis for prizes, which will be marked according to ticket value.

If all goes well Saturday, George may be able to send Icky Twerp on Slam Bang Theatre a check for more than if he had done it completely alone, thinks to help from Big Springers, he will have not just a backyard carnival, but as near to the real thing as an 11 year old can come.

The Muscular Dystrophy foundation may not know it, but one of its most ardent supporters may be an 11-year-old Big Spring youth.

Legion Post Wins Awards At Convention

Seven local residents attended the American Legion state convention July 24-26 in Fort Worth to see Howard County Post 355 win three awards and hear a resolution commending the Howard County post for the "I Am An American Coloring Book and Record," a patriotic project.

Glenn Pless, historian, accepted the first place award and $40.00 prize for the Howard County scrapbook, and Mrs. Zeldia Rea, American Legion Auxiliary hospital representative received a citation and $5 for recruiting the most hospital volunteers during the past year. The post was also presented with the membership award as the first group to achieve its membership quota (83) before the first of the year.

The credentials committee approved Big Springer Larry N. Phillips as an alternate delegate to the national convention in late August in Portland, Ore.

At the national convention the Texas delegation will present a resolution commending the Howard County post on the coloring book project.

Murphy Martin, president of the United We Stand Organization started by Ross Perot, Dallas computer magnate, substituted for Perot as a keynote speaker, telling about the work of the organization toward obtaining news from and information about prisoners of war in Vietnam.

Other guests included Sen. Ralph Yarborough and senatorial candidates Lloyd Bentsen and George Bush. National American Legion Cdr. Milton Patrick also spoke to the delegates.

While at the convention, Howard County delegates extended invitations to Waggoner Carr, former state attorney general and newly elected Judge Advocate for the Texas American Legion, and to W. E. Brady Jr., department vice commander.

Carr will be guest speaker at the Big Spring Memorial Day Service in May, 1971, and Brady will be installing officer Aug. 8 for the Howard County post installation ceremonies.

Delegates to the state meeting were Mrs. Rea, Mrs. Annie Branson, Mrs. Marie Kirkpatrick, Phillips, Ollie Branson, George Zachariah and Jack Powell.

BELLY LANDING—Pilot John C. Dalton Jr., Greenville, lands this Aerostar 601 "wheels up" Friday afternoon in an emergency landing at Webb AFB. The plane lost a wheel at takeoff in Greenville, flew to Midland and was diverted to Webb AFB where facilities were available to foam the runway. No one was injured.

Crippled Plane Lands Safely

Webb AFB emergency crews got a chance to try out a new foam truck Friday afternoon when a new Aerostar 601 civilian plane made a "wheels up" emergency landing.

The plane piloted by John C. Dalton Jr. and owned by Aviation Holding Corp., Greenville, lost a wing on takeoff Friday in Greenville. Dalton flew the plane to Midland, where he was diverted to Webb AFB for the emergency landing.

A new foam truck was used for the first time to cover the entire runway with a non-combustible chemical foam cushion. The truck recently replaced the old foam equipment and made its debut under actual emergency conditions. Friday.

The landing at about 2:30 p.m. was without mishap, and Dalton was uninjured.

A Week Of Smog In Major Cities

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer
It is said that there are two things everybody has in common: death and taxes. Citizens of some of the world's major cities have added smog to that list.

The complaint was shared last week in Tokyo—the hardest hit—New York, Atlanta and Washington, among other cities.

Coughing New Yorkers lived under a dome of hot, moist air filled with trapped pollutants like sulphur dioxide and smoke shad.

'INVERSION'
The meteorologists said the heavy pollution, which caused Mayor John V. Lindsay to call the first state of a pollution alert, resulted from a temperature inversion. That means, they said, that the air just above the tops of Manhattan's skyscrapers was just as hot as the air near the ground. The hot air above trapped the hot air below, permitting little air circulation to cleanse away the pollution.

To New Yorkers, it was like living in a grimy steam bath. But New York was not alone. The same air conditions were in effect along much of the east coast of America. Baltimore went into what officials describe as the "second phase of a four-phase" process leading up to an air pollution emergency.

Atlanta and north Georgia went under an air pollution warning Tuesday. The State Health Department, which issued the warning, asked industries not to overload or burn dirty fuel. It asked the general public not to use their car and not to burn trash, particularly in downtown areas.

HAZARD
Things weren't much better in the nation's capital. Tuesday authorities issued a smog advisory warning people with respiratory ailments to curtail their activities. But things improved enough by Thursday, for the advisory to be canceled.

ways has smog. And last week was no exception. A health hazard alert lasting nearly four hours Wednesday was called in part of Riverside County.

Of all of last week's smog-cities, Tokyo was hardest hit. The government issued its first official smog warning Monday.

A total of 391 persons in 18 of the 23 Tokyo wards reported to hospitals for treatment of sore eyes and throats. Some people wore surgical masks on the street.

Not even Imperial palace has been able to avoid the heavy pollution which has been on a rapid rise in Japan because of the growth of industry.

Trees around the palace have died. Thousands of birds have sought refuge in the palace grounds to escape the heavier pollution of Tokyo proper. The emperor has spent much of his time in his country house and managed to avoid last week's choking smog.

Though other overseas points did not experience critical pollution situations last week, smog is a problem in many major cities of the world.

Pines along the Apian Way near Rome are dying from chemical fumes. Auto exhausts plague citizens of Rome, Naples and Milan.

Smog is a growing problem in the Soviet Union but because Russia doesn't have nearly the number of private cars as New York or Tokyo, Moscow's problems are less severe. Nevertheless, the Soviet Union is not building any more factories near urban areas and has plans to move some old ones farther from the cities.

London used to have severe smogs but doesn't have them any more since smokeless fuel was made compulsory years back. That doesn't mean that pollution isn't a problem. Pea soup fogs are still common. The government is considering air pollution taxes on industry as well as an over-all pollution program.

SMOLDERING RUINS — Fire at the Humble Oil tank farm in Irving Saturday destroyed six tractor trucks after a leaking valve ruptured engulfing the area in flames. Starlight Specials Will Offer Varied Programs

By HOWARD SIMMS
A week of entertainment under the stars is set to begin next Sunday, as the Cultural Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce holds the 1970 Starlight Specials.

Mrs. Roy Cederberg, chairman of the organization, is directing the plans with the help of Joe Dunn and Bill Bradley, the co-chairmen in charge of the event. They have music, dancing, and dramatics organized into seven specialty nights.

Each performance begins at 8:30 p.m., and a nominal 25-cent admission fee will be charged except for pre-school children, and except on Sunday Gospel nights when contributions will be optional. The money raised by the event will be used for the Howard County Library Fund.

GOSPEL SINGS
The two Sunday night Gospel Singings will bracket the events of the week, with the Aug. 9 show featuring youth choirs, and the Aug. 16 show centered around adult groups.

The tentative listing for the first night includes the Baptist Temple choir, the College Baptist Collegians, the Trinity Baptist youth choir, the First Baptist youth choir, ensembles from Carl Street Church of Christ, the Church of the Nazarene choir, and a choir from the Evangel Temple Assembly of God.

A week later the program will be shared by groups from East Fourth Baptist Church, Mt. Bethel Baptist Church, Hillcrest Baptist Church, Coahoma Baptist Church, Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, Westside Baptist Church, and the First Assembly of God Church. A special finale to the evening will be added by the Trinity Baptist choir, as it presents a patriotic theme.

COSMOPOLITAN NIGHT
Monday night, Aug. 10, will be Cosmopolitan Night, under the organization of Mrs. Lydia Molina, with singing, dancing, and comedy of an international flavor. Wylie Mendoza and his jazz band; Joe Sotello and Chago on accordion and guitar; Chico Rubio with his impression of Cantinflas; Janie Rubio and Patsy Galan doing a hat dance; and eight-year-old Johnny Garcia singing and dancing will be among the performers.

Tuesday evening will be Black and White Night, with a soul, jazz, and blues theme. Featured performers will be James Person on sax; Michelle Ivory with an organ solo; and Bonnie Anderson on clarinet. Ruby Sims will do a monologue; Essie Person a dramatic reading; and Mary Ivory a dramatic presentation from Genesis of "The Creation". A trio of Ethel Green Wakefield and James and Claudette Green; a soul-group under Robert Byrd; and the Big Spring High School stage band will provide group efforts.

WESTERN BANDS
Wednesday will be off night and Thursday will be Western Band Night. Johnny Shortes and his two small sons, along with Don Tolle, Howard Dodd, Tom Castle, Joe Dunn and Vandoyl Murphree will be among the entertainers. There will be about four fiddlers, two lead guitars, a mandolin, and four rhythm guitars on stage, and they will break up into various ensembles in a well polished, fast moving show of Western talent.

Friday night will be Teen Night, and dancing will be permitted as The Exit (from Odessa), The Bicycle, The Elastic Foxx and Robert Byrd's soul group provide the sounds.

GREAT TRUTHS
Saturday night will be Little Theatre Night. The Little Theatre group has put together a show of dramatic readings "in concert" entitled "We Hold These Truths." Great words of great Americans will be blended to give a sense of history to the evening.

The Big Spring chapter of the American Business Women's Association, the Republican Women's Club, the PBX Club, and the Band Boosters will help set up and manage the cold drink concession stands.

Girls Scouts, Explorer Scouts, Rainbow Girls, the DeMolays, and the Civitans will serve as ushers for the nights other than Sundays, when church youth groups will take over the job.

Petition Pushers Can't Be Ousted
WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — The regents of Central Missouri State College said Friday they will appeal a U. S. District Court decision preventing the school from enforcing a year's probation against three students.

Judge William Collinson ruled Thursday the three could not be put on probation for circulating a petition which sought the resignation of the college president, Dr. Warren C. Lovinger.

The students — Kenton Askren of Liberty, president of the student body; Steve Smith of Leeton; and Craig Cashing of Sedalia — brought the court suit.

In April, Askren and the other students were found guilty by a college discipline committee of furnishing false information regarding the petition.

Tank Farm Damaged By Blast, Fire

IRVING, Tex. (AP) — A portion of the Humble Oil tank farm, seen by thousands as they speed along heavily traveled US 183, erupted in a surprise intense fire today.

It was controlled quickly but not before one man suffered critical burns and a second was taken to a hospital with undetermined burns. One fireman was overcome by smoke.

The fire cast a black pall over Irving, a city of nearly 100,000 persons, and the smoke could be seen for miles.

Witnesses said a valve ruptured at the tank farm, which services a large area of North Texas. The petroleum ran under parked trucks.

Speculation arose that some one started one of the trucks and in seconds the immediate area was burning furiously.

One witness declared, "I heard two loud explosions and ran out. This fire and smoke was rolling right at me. I ran for the gate. There was fire all over the place. When I was able to get back in, my building was so hot you could fry an egg on the side of it."

This man's building was about 30 yards from the main blaze and was not damaged.

About 30 persons were at the plant, which consists of a number of large above-ground storage tanks and equipment for their use.

About half a dozen trucks were destroyed and the interior of a mechanics' building was gutted, although the blackened hulk of the building itself remained standing.

Big fear was that the major storage tanks of the installation between Fort Worth and Dallas would catch fire, but they did not ignite.

Residents in nearby apartment complexes were evacuated briefly.

The busy highway, usually jammed bumper to bumper with cars, was blocked off by police for a time but had been opened by mid-morning.

Help was called from the Dallas Fire Department west sent a crash truck with foam, used to smother oil fires.

A dispatcher at the Fire Department here said 40 Irving firemen and four fire units fought the blaze.

Band Program Starts Monday

Start of school is three weeks away, but the Big Spring band program cranks up Monday for what Bill Bradley, band director, predicts will be "one of the most eventful years."

Both the Goliad and Runnels Junior High bands will begin a schedule of practice sessions as will the high school band.

The high school stage band also will begin practice Monday.

Plans for the first half-time show of the football season are in the making, and this will take a patriotic theme. Subsequent programs may be built around musicals such as "Paint Your Wagon." Arrangements will be done by John Hollefeld, Berger, Dr. M. L. Daniels, ACC, Charlie Treylor, ACC, and James Suddeth, Northwestern University.

For the past three weeks, student and parent committees have been working with directors in preparation for one of the most eventful years in the history of the Steer band," said Bradley. Enthusiasm is running high, said Kyle Ellison, assistant director.

Saturday afternoon, band officers were honored at a party in the Ellison's apartment, where plans were talked for the year.

The high school schedule calls for the full band to rehearse from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. each evening except Wednesday, when it will rehearse from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.

R. W. McKiski is back as director of the Goliad band, which begins on Monday-Friday schedule of Brass 9 a.m. to 10:45 a.m.; woodwind 9:45 a.m. — 11:30 a.m.; percussion 9:45 a.m.-10:45 a.m. Beginners are asked to call McKiski at 263-3135.

The Runnels band will have Dwight Hardin as its new director. Its schedule of rehearsal Monday through Friday is brass 1 p.m.-1:45 p.m., full band 1:45 p.m.-2:45 p.m.; woodwind 2:45 p.m.-3:30 p.m.

Hardin is a graduate from Ropes High School and from West Texas State University, majoring in music, specializing in percussion. He has played in numerous dance bands, was a member of the Amarillo Symphony, Kappa Kappa Psi national honorary Band Fraternity and Phi Mu Alpha Symphonian National Honorary Music fraternity. His wife's name is Synelle.

House Votes For Wage-Price Fix

WASHINGTON (AP) — Climaxing a partisan debate, the House has sent to the Senate a provision giving President Nixon authority to limit wages, prices and interest rates for the next nine months.

The gesture may be an empty one, since Nixon has said repeatedly he does not need and will not use such powers to fight inflation.

Democrats argued Friday the standby authority would be a good weapon for the President to use in negotiating with labor and business leaders. But Republicans claimed the whole affair was keyed to the November congressional elections.

The nonrecord vote, against eliminating the provision from the Defense Production Act was 78-41. The House showed it did not want to take responsibility for a wage-price freeze by defeating 270-11 a move that would have made the limits mandatory.

The Defense Production Act, under which the government controls strategic materials and facilities, passed by a 257-19 record vote which gave no indication of the sentiment about the freeze. The Senate has passed the act without the rider.

The provision gives the President authority to order prices, rents, wages and interest rates at level not less than those prevailing May 25, 1970 — the day the bill was made public.

The authority would expire next Feb. 28, and Republicans charged that cutoff date tipped off Democratic strategy to criticize Nixon through the November elections for not using the authority.

The Defense Production Act creates a five-member cost-accounting board to develop standards for defense contractors with an eye toward tighter controlling of costs.

The students — Kenton Askren of Liberty, president of the student body; Steve Smith of Leeton; and Craig Cashing of Sedalia — brought the court suit.

HEY, WAIT FOR ME — This junior-sized cowboy prepared to slip the lasso around the neck of a not-so-understanding calf during the Friday night calf-roping contest in the Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo. The three-day event closed Saturday.

Big Crowd For Final Show Of County Junior Rodeo

Another crowd of more than 2,000 was on hand for the final performance Saturday night of the Silver Anniversary of Howard County 4-H Junior Rodeo. The rodeo was one of the biggest ever with 250 contestants for the 20 events. Most of the youngsters entered at least two events to be eligible for all-around high-point honors. The youngsters had their share of spills and disappointments, but most gained experience in the three-day show.

It was not until the Saturday night performance that first and second place winners in the bronc riding event were named. Sammy Swaim, Midlothian, scored 51 to win first place and Bobby Nixon, Ranger, captured second place with a score of 50.

Mother, Son Hospitalized For Burns

A 5-year-old boy and his mother were hospitalized Friday afternoon with first and second degree burns following the explosion of a butane gas tank which demolished their mobile home in Garden City.

Mrs. Tiburcio Griego reportedly was trying to light a butane stove at the time of the explosion. She and her son Juan received burns over 50 per cent of their bodies. Three other children were not harmed.

Mrs. Griego is listed in serious condition at Cowper Clinic and Hospital, and Juan was flown Saturday afternoon to the Shriners Burn Institute in Galveston. Local Shriners Ted Groehl, George Bair and Tom Stewart were notified of the seriousness of the child's burns and made local arrangements for the admission of the child to the institute. Shriners chartered an airplane to convey the boy to Galveston.

PATROL CARS COLLIDE Cops, Robbers In Merry Chase

A suspect in the theft of an auto stereo early Saturday morning led police on a brisk chase which resulted in a minor collision of two patrol cars. Around 2:30 a.m. Saturday Delano Goodman reported to police that he had seen two Negroes take the stereo from his car parked outside the Pancake Patio, 1608 E. 4th. He said he tried to give chase, but could not catch them as they drove away. At 2:35 patrolman Ken Blackington reported sighting at Northwest Fourth and Lancaster a vehicle matching Goodman's description and pursued the car when it failed to stop. The suspect's car was heading west on Northwest Fourth when it ran into a curb, spun around, and stopped near Channing. Officer Blackington said he stepped out of his car to investigate and the suspect started the car and tried to run him down. Blackington sidestepped and fired four shots as the auto sped east on Northwest Fourth and turned out of sight. Officers Sam Cooley and Richard Cantwell were also in the area, and Cooley reported sighting the suspect's car on Northwest Seventh. He was following it when the driver

Can't Meet Nurse Rule, So Loraine Hospital Closed

By TOM JAY GOSS II COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Johnson Hospital, an updated 22 bed hospital at Loraine sent its last six patients Monday to the Colorado City Hospital and shut down as a hospital.

The hospital, operated by Dr. Bruce Johnson and Dr. Joe Terry, both of Loraine, had run afoul of a medicare regulation which required the hospital, to have five registered nurses on the payroll in order to continue to receive payment for medicare patients.

"The nurses are simply not available," said Dr. Johnson, who built the hospital in 1938. "We can meet every specification that medicare requires but we can't get that many nurses."

Dr. Johnson said that he has one registered nurse at Loraine. He had 29 employees, and will keep seven to handle the medical practice, which he and Dr. Terry will continue to serve.

The doctor's offices in the front part of the hospital will continue to be kept open. Dr. Johnson said that he did not know what he would do with his building and equipment.

Dr. Terry and I haven't had time to decide," he said that area hospitals had already been contacting him in regard to his equipment. "We've got as good equipment as anybody in this country," he said.

Dr. Johnson is not bitter, although he agrees that it will be a tragedy for the small town of Loraine and for his hundreds of patients in surrounding counties.

More than 1,400 signed a petition, seeking help from congressmen and other officials in unravelling the red tape which shut down the little hospital.

"We didn't have a thing in the world to do with the petition," Dr. Johnson said, "but we appreciated it. I don't think anyone paid any attention

Key Contests In Michigan, Tennessee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore's fight for political survival in Tennessee and LeRoy Romney's race for the Republican senatorial nomination in Michigan are key primary contests in five states this week.

Voters pick gubernatorial candidates in those two states too and also in Kansas and Idaho — with Tennessee providing the featured contests. Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington faces weak opposition for renomination in Missouri, as do most of the congressional incumbents in the five states.

Voters in Michigan, Missouri, Kansas and Idaho go to the polls on Tuesday; Tennessee's election is Thursday.

GOP TARGET
Gore, who has been busily campaigning against three challengers, is expected to defeat his main opponent, Hudley Crockett, former television newscaster who resigned as Gov. Buford Ellington's news secretary to make the race.

But the Republicans have picked Gore's seat as one of their main targets in the GOP effort to wrest control of the Senate from the Democrats in November. The odds-on favorite to get the GOP assignment is U.S. Rep. William Brock, a House member for eight years, who is opposed by Tex Ritter, noted country singer, and J.D. Boles of Grimsley, Tenn., a former used car dealer.

In Michigan, Mrs. Romney has shied away from using her famous last name, putting only "Lenore" on her campaign buttons and omitting her husband's picture from her campaign leaflets. However, George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, flew from Washington to be with his wife for the weekend wedding.

TOSSUP
Mrs. Romney, a 61-year-old grandmother of 15 with bustling energy, faces conservative state Sen. Robert Huber, 47, for the chance to unseat Democratic Sen. Philip A. Hart. Their race is rated a tossup.

In Tennessee, the Republicans have livened the gubernatorial scramble by making a serious effort to field a candidate for the first time in years, with four vying for the nomination.

In Missouri, Symington, 69, seeking his fourth term, is regarded as a shoo-in against four unknowns. His November opponent is expected to be Republican Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, who will be 34 on Sept. 5. The House delegation of nine Democrats and one Republican are regarded as relatively safe.

Voting is expected to be light in Idaho where attention is focused on Republican Gov. Don W. Samuelson's re-election bid, with both Republican and Democratic candidates, centering their fire on Samuelson. They contend his four-year administration has been wasteful and inefficient and that he has not given enough attention to education and environment preservation.

Drilling Activity Holds Steady
Drilling activity continued on an even keel in this area during the past week, and Matagorda County continued to be the most active even though its total of rigs in operation dropped to seven.

The rotary rig count by Reed Drilling Tools showed these results as compared to a week ago (in parenthesis): Borden 2 (2), Dawson 1 (1), Howard 1 (2), Martin 7 (10), Mitchell 1 (0), Scurry 3 (4), Sterling 1 (1).

Charges Pending In Tubing Theft
Sheriff's officers expect to file charges soon in the theft of non-upset tubing and drill casing reported stolen from the G. M. Dodge lease of Standard Oil of Texas.

The lease is about four miles east of Coahoma. The lease operator reported 2,400 feet of tubing missing Saturday.

RR Retirement
A representative from the Rail Retirement Board will be at the post office building Thursday, Postmaster Frank Hardesty has announced. He will be in Room 242 to interview anyone having questions about the program.

Sees Slowing Of N. Viet Activity

SAIGON (AP) — Lt. Gen. Michael S. Davison, commander of U.S. forces which pulled out of Cambodia a month ago, said Saturday he sees "a diminishing level of enemy activity" in South Vietnam's 3rd military region embracing Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces.

Despite a new Communist command offensive aimed at toppling major Cambodian strongpoints north and northwest of Phnom Penh, Davison said in an interview: "As it stands right now, none of the three North Vietnamese army divisions (the 5th, 7th and 9th) that are in a position to influence affairs in the 3rd military region seem to be capable of doing anything about it."

Davison, commander of American forces in the 3rd military region that shares 231 miles of border with Cambodia, said that, if the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong "have any idea of resuming the (Cambodian) level of activity (in his zone), they've got to restore their logistics posture."

"And I reckon it will take them from four to six months," he added. "It's hard to see how they are in a position to do anything much before the advent of the dry season (November) and it could possibly be as late as February."

"There is a logistics lead time. They have to get the stuff together. They have to run the gantlet down the Ho Chi Minh trail (in eastern Laos) and into Cambodia."

"If they came after a U.S. outfit, it would take a greater amount of strength to conduct an offensive. So it's a relative term. My judgment would be they're running the thing in Cambodia pretty much on a shoestring."

broader and most powerful of the war. Cambodian military spokesmen said a maximum of about 5,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were operating in the Kompong Thom area and around Skoun and Kompong Cham on the western side of the Mekong River 40 to 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Davison was asked if there had been any significant developments since June 30 when thousands of American troops under his command pulled out of Cambodia. The Americans had spent two months of sweeping through North Vietnamese base camps and supply depots used for staging attacks into South Vietnam's 3rd military region.

"There's been no significant development just across the border," he said, "other than an apparent effort by small parties coming in to check out the areas that we were in."

"Within the 3rd military region we've seen a diminishing of the level of enemy activity in terms of their overt military activity and we've seen a slight diminishing of their terrorist activities."

He said enemy activity in his region had dropped to its lowest level since May 1969.

Emergency Landing, Cross Countries Keep Pilots Busy

Webb AFB mobilized Friday for the emergency landing of a commercial plane. Pilot John C. Dalton Jr. belled in safely on a foamed runway having lost a wheel on takeoff hours before in Greenville.

Activity at Howard County Airport centered on cross country flights by Big Spring and area fliers.

Cross countries were logged by Butch Caldwell, Bill Alexander for Missouri and Pacific, Fred Kasch, Paul Kessler for Cabot and Jack Lewis.

Craig Shaw soloed Tuesday. Instructor was brother Lewis Shaw. Then on Wednesday Don Kasch, son of Fred Kasch, circled the field minus his instructor, James Fryar. Both their shirt tails now appear on the bulletin board in the terminal.

Inbound traffic at Howard County aerodrome included a Hudson Engineering Corp. Beech Baron, Cong. George Bush in a Jet Star, and John Martindale from Tacoma, Wash., in a Mooney, and Arkansas Valley Feed Yard personnel in a Cessna Centurion.

Returning from Trinidad, Colo., where they did some fishing were Dr. P. W. Malone in a Twin Comanche and Clyde McMahon in a Comanche 250.

Big Spring Aviation charter service was flown by James Fryar this week who took a Cherokee 6 to Abilene Tuesday then went to Van Horn on an ambulance run.

Thursday Craig Shaw got in some dual cross country time with his brother, Lewis, and Butch Caldwell logged some solo cross country time Friday.

Transit traffic fueling up at Big Spring Aircraft this week totaled 37, according to Fryar.

Airport manager Rex Goff will be back on the job Monday after returning today from two weeks active duty with the Texas National Guard at Fort Hood.

The new aircraft appeared at the airport this week. Lt. Lewis Shaw purchased another Globe Swift with a full IFR panel and reportedly is in good condition.

Capt. A. Gregg, recently assigned to Webb AFB hospital, has a Cessna 182.

BARBECUER DELUXE — P. Y. King poses beside his barbecue masterpiece, a trailer that he fired up Friday to cook 1,200 pounds of beef for the Howard-Glasscock Counties Old Settler's Reunion. The Lamesa farmer and his wife built the giant beef oven in a month and broke it in at the recent Golden Tornado Jubilee in Lamesa, feeding 1,500 hungry Lamesa exes.

Hungry Old Settlers Fed From King-Sized Oven

By GORDON ZEIGLER
P. Y. King, Lamesa, knows how to fix big dinners. Learning how to cook big helpings for big gatherings is a hobby dating back several years. King annually cooks for old settler get-togethers in Lamesa and for the Future Farmers of America at the high school.

Jess Slaughter, president of the Reunion Association, to help fix part of the grub for almost 1,500 at the annual Howard-Glasscock counties Old Settler's Reunion. As the band struck up "Okie from Muskogee" King hitched from Muskogee. King hitched up the trailer to his pickup and prepared to cool down the oven and head back home.

Frequently he and his wife fire up the ovens to feed a group of FFA boys, the Lamesa Golden Jubilee celebrants, or a group of barbecue-goers like at the Old Settler's reunion. To make the trailer, King started out with a flat bed from a stock trailer. On it he sits the tall, square oven which with 300 square feet of grill will cook just about anything from beef to potatoes to biscuits. Gas jets point upward to sheet metal baffles which transfer the heat upward to the grill and at the same time catch grease dripping down from the meat.

Date For Frederic Taubes Art School Is Announced

LAMESA (SC) — A dream of artists in the West Texas area will come true Oct. 5-10 when the world-famed American art instructor, Frederic Taubes, presents the Taubes Art Course here.

Walls of the oven are two layers of sheet metal with asbestos between "to keep in the heat." "Cooking sausage, eggs and biscuits for FFA functions in Lamesa has been a regular project for us," said Mrs. King. King has a smaller cooking unit he can put on the trailer which turns out 220 patties of sausage in 12 minutes.

Preparations for the art course and associated events have been more than a year in the planning. Taubes is one of the world's leading authorities on painting techniques and has an outstanding record as an artist-education-writer. The week-long course is scheduled for morning classes 9 o'clock until 12 noon featuring oil painting, portrait, still life, landscape, and composition. Evening classes will be from 7 to 9 with demonstrations on various techniques and methods of painting. The number of students in the classes will be limited, and early registration is urged.

One of the associated events will be a lecture demonstration on Sunday, Oct. 4, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets for the public lecture demonstration, and information on registration for the course, can be obtained by writing to the Fine Arts Division, Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, Box 580, Lamesa, Texas 79331.

Taubes' paintings are in 27 museums and public collections in the United States including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, William Rockhill Nelson Art Gallery, San Francisco Museum of Art, etc. He has had more than 100 one-man exhibitions in museums and galleries, 27 of which were held in New York City. He is the author of 30 books on painting techniques and esthetics. Mr. Taubes is the American Editor of The Artist magazine where he conducts the famous Taubes Page. He was formerly contributing editor to American Artist, the Encyclopedia Britannica Yearbooks, also has contributed articles to other publications. Mr. Taubes has served as visiting professor of Art at Cornell University of Illinois; University of Wisconsin; University of Hawaii; University of Alberta, Canada, Colorado State College, College of the City of New York, Cooper Union, the Art Students' League and many other institutions. In 1948 Frederic Taubes was elected fellow of the Royal Society of Art, London, England, and later he was elected a fellow of the International Society of Arts and Letters. He lectured at the Royal College

'THEY'VE EVEN GOT SHAKERS ON CHERRY TREES' Summer Nomads In Trouble

Editor's Note: The day of the migrant worker may be ending for several reasons, and officials who aid them say they should have jobs before they take off because they might not find them.

By RICHARD BEENE
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Texas migrant farm workers, the summer nomads who set out each year to toil in fields far from home, will find fewer jobs this season, employment officials report.

One agency estimates as many as 17,000 Texans will drop from the "migrant stream" this year. The Texas Employment Commission is warning all migrants to make certain they have firm job commitments before leaving home.

DEMAND DOWN
"We're trying to keep them from just jumping in their cars and taking off," a spokesman for the local commission office said.

He said the demand for workers in other states undoubtedly will be down this year, as it was in 1969.

Last year, he said, many migrants "went up there like they had for years and suddenly the demand was down. The states that used to use a lot of migrant labor are saying they don't need so many."

Texas is one of the nation's largest suppliers of migrant farm workers. Most come from deep South Texas and most are Mexican-American.

They pack up their families and head for states as far north as Michigan and Minnesota as soon as school is out—sometimes even earlier.

'A SELECT SEW'
An official of the Texas Good Neighbor Commission in Austin says the total number of Texas migrants working both in Texas and other states may drop to as low as 130,000 this year.

A year ago, he said, an estimated total of 147,000 Texans made the journey.

Pre-harvest work in the sugar beet fields is a major source of jobs for Texas migrants. But a sugar company official here predicts that within the next five years, only "a select few" will be going north for this kind of work.

The Texas Employment Commission cites mechanization among major reasons for the drop in available work for migrants.

'FREE WHEELERS'
"They've even got shakers on the cherry trees now," an Austin official said.

Rigid federal housing regulations, improved farming methods and unemployment in some northern states were among other reasons listed for the expected work shortage.

C.C. Kemper, coordinator of migrant labor for the Texas Good Neighbor Commission, said the increase in so-called "free wheelers" is another complicating factor. They hit the migrant trail, he said, "and maybe they'll find a job and maybe they won't."

Also complicating the picture, he said, are the stricter federal housing regulations.

A farmer who can't meet the regulations is not allowed to hire through state agencies and must, instead, contact the workers or private recruiters himself, Kemper said. This encourages "free wheeler" activity, he said, which in turn leads to a glut of workers in one area.

UNSKILLED
"We're dealing with an entity that's been neglected for many, many years," Kemper said of migrant workers.

"The biggest problem is that the labor pool consists of unskilled, semi-literate and educationally starved people," he said.

"Although there are still lots of jobs around, the people we're dealing with right now are unskilled."

To meet these problems, he said, manpower training programs have been established through a variety of agencies, including the departments of labor, agriculture, and health, education and welfare.

He said adult migrant education programs also are underway, but the emphasis is on preparing the young with skill before they are saddled with families and obligations. "We still have a chance with the younger people," he said.

Texans Build Up Stock Interests

NEW YORK (AP) — Better than one Texan in 10 owns stocks, the New York Stock Exchange reports, and the state steadily has increased its rank among others in recent years.

Texas had an estimated 1,383,000 shareowners in early 1970, a gain of 639,000, or 85.9 per cent, from the 744,000 investors reported in the previous exchange census of shareholders in 1965.

Compared with the total reported eight years ago the increase is 167.5 per cent.

The state ranked sixth in total share ownership, compared with ninth in 1965 and 10th in 1962.

It is one of only 10 states with more than a million shareowners and its percentage gain since 1965 was greater than any of the other top 10.

The 1,383,000 stock owners represent 4.5 per cent of the nation's owners, compared with 3.7 per cent in 1965 and 3.0 per cent in 1962.

The New York Stock Exchange report on some of the major Texas metropolitan areas:

Amarillo 24,000 shareowners, up from 16,000 in 1965, a gain of 50 per cent.

Abilene 19,000 owners, with no comparable figures available.

Austin 38,000 owners, a gain of 123.5 per cent over the 17,000 in 1965.

Beaumont - Port Arthur - Orange had 43,000 shareholders, compared with 30,000 in 1965, a gain of 43.3 per cent.

Corpus Christi 25,000 owners, a 65.3 per cent gain from 16,000 in 1965, a figure that did not contain San Patricio County which was added for 1970.

Dallas 282,000 holders, compared with 137,000 in 1965, a gain of 105.8 per cent. Added to the 1970 figure were Kaufman and Rockwall counties, not in the 1965 total.

Brownsville - Harlingen - San Benito had 8,000 owners. Comparable 1965 figure unavailable.

El Paso 20,000 shareowners, a gain of 3,000 or 17.6 per cent over 1965.

Fort Worth 83,000 shareowners, a gain of 84.4 per cent.

Galveston-Texas City 16,000 owners, compared with 13,000 in 1965, a 23.1 per cent upturn.

Houston gained 175.6 per cent in five years to 372,000 owners, with the addition in that period of Brazoria, Fort Bend, Liberty and Montgomery counties.

Laredo has less than 500 shareowners, no 1965 figure available.

Lubbock 21,000 owners, no 1965 figure.

Midland 12,000 owners, a gain of 20 per cent.

McAllen - Pharr - Edinburg 9,000 shareholders, no 1965 figure at hand.

Odessa 10,000 owners, no 1965 figure.

San Angelo 13,000 stock owners, no 1965 figure.

San Antonio 88,000 shareowners, a gain of 83.3 per cent.

Denison-Sherman 5,000 owners, no comparable figure.

Texarkana, including the Arkansas side, 7,000 with no 1965 figure. Six thousand of the owners live in Arkansas and 1,000 in Texas.

Tyler 14,000 owners, no comparisons for 1965.

Waco 500 owners, no comparable totals.

SWEETS ON THE LAST DAY — Newscaster Chet Huntley and Barbara Walters, a member of the Today show, eat a piece of cake presented to him as he visited production office for the last time. Huntley made his last NBC newscast Friday.

It's 'Goodnight Chet' For Last Time At NBC

NEW YORK (AP) — Chet Huntley ended his career as a television newscaster Friday night, with a gift horse from co-workers at NBC, a message of hope to his viewers and, for the last time, his familiar sign-off "Good night, David."

Huntley will return to his native Montana to develop a resort. The Huntley-Brinkley Report, the weeknight newscast he ran for 14 years with David Brinkley, will be replaced by a seven-night-a-week program anchored by Brinkley, Frank McGee and John Chancellor.

At the end of the final newscast, Huntley turned to his viewers and, thanking them, said:

"You have bolstered my conviction that this land contains an incredible quantity of good, reliable common sense and it is in no danger of being led down the primrose path by any journalists."

County Has Only One Entry

Jeff Mitchell will be the lone Howard County competitor in the 1970 version of the State 4-H Horse Show when it is held at Amarillo's Bill Cody Arena, Aug. 6-8.

Jeff will be entered in reining and Western pleasure riding and the at-halter show events, for which he qualified at the District 2 show at Post, July 15.

Jeff's parents will be there, as will Assistant County Agent Jim Allison.

B. F. Yeates, Texas Agricultural Extension Service animal husbandman, expects some 400 other 4-H boys and girls from throughout the state to participate.

Competition will begin at 7 a.m. Thursday with the cutting horse eliminations, to be followed by the English pleasure and jumping events Thursday afternoon. Drill team competition will wind up activities Thursday.

The state show continues Saturday with Western pleasure eliminations beginning at 8 a.m. Finals in the statewide competition begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Cotton Crop May Show Increase

LUBBOCK — Assuming reasonably favorable weather the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. have current prospects for harvesting 1,840,000 bales of cotton this year, about 450,000 more than were produced in 1969. Including price support payments, lint and seed, such a crop would be worth in the neighborhood of $338 million to area farmers.

Potential production was estimated in a joint effort by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and PCG.

PCG's breakdown of figures on the crop's value show that the lint from a 1.94 million bale crop, at about $90 per bale average, would come to $165,600,000. A total of 759,000 tons of seed, at a "guessed" minimum $50 per ton price to the farmer, would net another $37,950,000. Price support payments, most of which have already been made, are based on projected yields and this year add up to about $34 million.

The LCE-PCG estimate sets planted acreage for the 25 counties at 2,218,000, of which it is calculated that 2,104,500 were "standing acres" on Aug. 1. This means about 113,500 acres, a little over 5 per cent, that have been abandoned because of hail, drought, windstorms or other weather phenomena. Acreage planted but never harvested in 1969 figured about 28 per cent.

Counties in this vicinity included in the report are: Borden 18,000 acres planted, 17,000 standing, estimated production 14,000 bales, compared with 10,800 last year.

Dawson with 218,000 acres planted, 217,000 standing, 162,500 bales estimated production compared with 133,527; Howard 69,000 acres planted, 68,000 standing, estimated yield 50,000 bales, compared with 27,674 harvested last year; Martin County 95,000 acres planted, 90,000 standing, estimated production 47,000 bales compared with 50,338 harvested last year; Midland County 18,000 acres planted, 13,500 standing, estimated production 10,000 bales, compared with 9,050 harvested last year.

Pearce Sets Date For His Recital

BOULDER, Colo. — Baritone James Pearce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde R. Campbell of (406 Westover Road) Big Spring, will present a public song recital Wednesday, Aug. 12, on the University of Colorado campus.

The program will include works by Bach, Brahms, Poulenc and Gerald Finzi.

A 1964 graduate of Mineral Wells High School, Pearce received a bachelor of music degree from Oklahoma Baptist University. He is working toward a master of music degree here. He sang the role of Falke in the university production of "Die Fledermaus" last spring. He was a finalist in the regional Metropolitan Opera auditions last winter.

PRINCIPALS IN CUP MATCHES - The two captains in the First National Bank Cup matches played at the Big Spring Country Club Friday are shown with two of their players. Sunny Edwards (inside right) of Ruidoso, N.M., captained the visiting delegation, which beat a contingent led by Don Reynolds (far right). Others, from the left, are Roy Peden (far left) of Kermit, and Novis Womack, Big Spring. The Edwards' team won, 9 1/2-5 1/2.

Houston Is Host City

HOUSTON (AP) - In this era of mod hair styles for men, Houston has suddenly been flooded with hundreds of crewcuts as members of the Texas High School Coaches Association started piling into town.

Registration gets under way Sunday, but the Rice Hotel headquarters was filling rapidly Saturday with the predicted 5,400 coaches expected by the association for the 38th annual school.

Saturday was also the day that players for the annual high school all-star football and basketball games came here.

For some of them, it was quite a trip. Take Ocle Fraley. He's 18-years-old, stands six feet and weighs 193 pounds. He's never lived any place but Borger, a Panhandle city of 14,000.

Saturday he saw Houston for the first time and took in the Astrodome, where the North and South football teams will play their game Thursday night to climax the coaching school.

In all, 64 members of the football all-star squad checked into the University of Houston Saturday. The first official practice comes Sunday afternoon.

Two-a-day drills are scheduled Monday and Tuesday and possibly Wednesday.

Fraley, a running back, is expected to play a key role in the running attack of the North. He has 9.7 speed in the 100-yard dash, picked up 2,350 ground yards in three seasons, 1,400 of that last year, and scored 150 points.

He's on his way to the University of Texas at Austin next fall.

Also arriving were the basketball all-stars. They will play Wednesday at the new Hofheinz Pavilion on the UH campus.

Poke Rookies Defeat Rams

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Dallas Cowboy rookies, paced by Joe Williams' 92 yards in 22 carries and a rugged defense, defeated the Los Angeles Ram rookies, 24-3, Saturday in a 1 1/2-hour scrimmage.

The Cowboy defense stopped the Rams three times inside the Dallas 20-yard line, limiting Los Angeles to a 45-yard field goal by Ron Svarc, a free agent from University of California at Riverside.

Howard Mwikuta of Morris Brown kicked a 45-yard field goal for the Cowboys who got touchdowns through the air, on the ground and from the defense.

Linebacker Steve Kiner from Tennessee ran 38 yards with a Ram fumble for a touchdown, quarterback Dick Saucette from Dayton threw a nine-yard scoring pass to wide receiver Bill Cornman of University of Pacific and running back Howard Williams of Stanford tallied on a three-yard run.

Joe Williams of Wyoming was Dallas' workhorse in the backfield but he got help from Howard Williams, who gained 49 yards in 15 carries.

The Rams' leading rusher was Jim Thomas, former Canadian leaguer, who ran 91 yards in 13 tries. He also caught three passes for 21 yards but the team's leading receiver was Jeff Jordan, a rookie for the fourth year due to injuries. He caught five passes for 79 yards.

Ram quarterback John Walton from Elizabeth City State in North Carolina impressed Coach George Allen by completing 13 of 23 passes for 179 yards.

Cards Shade Astros, 14-7

HOUSTON - Although out-hit, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Houston for the second straight time before the season's largest crowd here Saturday night, 14-7.

At one time in the game, St. Louis led by a score of 14-0. Houston scored three runs in the final innings before Sal Campisi came into put out the fire.

Nelson Briles got credit for the win, his third of the year against three defeats. Don Wilson, now 4-5, was charged with the loss.

St. Louis collected 14 hits, compared to 16 for the Astros. Richie Allen hit a bases loaded home run for the Cardinals while Jimmy Wynn drove one out for Houston.

The paid turnout was 29,923 and sent Houston's attendance over the 900,000 mark.

Tom Seaver Wins 16th Decision

NEW YORK (AP) - Tom Seaver fired a three-hitter and became the National League's first 16-game winner Saturday, beating San Diego 4-2 as Cleon Jones' three-run homer offset solo blasts by the Padres' Dave Campbell and Ollie Brown.

Seaver, who has lost five, walked two and struck out 13 as the Mets stayed one-half game ahead of second-place Pittsburgh in the Eastern Division. Jones' sixth homer of the season wiped out a Padres 1-0

Angelo Club Ousts Tiger Nine, 5-3

ODESSA - San Angelo rallied for four runs in the fifth inning to charge from behind and topple Big Spring Hardware, 5-3, in the losers' bracket of the hi-junior district baseball tournament here Saturday.

The defeat brought the Tigers' season to a close. Overall, they were 17-3 and in tournament action they finish at 2-2. Gary Park, the winning hurler, fanned 12, walked only one and yielded seven hits.

The San Angelo team collected only four hits off three Big Spring pitchers.

Big Spring shot ahead in the third when Gatlin Jones doubled. David Newman singled and Pete Shaffer followed with a one-baser, plating Jones. Newman made it home on a bobble and Shaffer came home on Willie Williams' fielder's choice.

In San Angelo's fifth, Gary Jones doubled and Gaylon Weierhausen and Johnny Paul Lee became runners on misplays. Jones scored when Lee reached first. Steve Wilson followed with a double that counted two runs. Sandy Lawrence followed by squeezing in Wilson.

Big Spring got Alan Davis and David Carter aboard in the sixth but couldn't bring them around. Gatlin Jones was the only player on either team to get as many as two hits.

Big Spring Cardinals will host the Pecos Wildcats in a 2:30 p.m. baseball game today at Steer Park.

Two weeks ago, the Red Birds humbled Pecos in the Wildcats' own park, 8-5.

Either Junior Mendoza, Leon Hobbs or Tony Fierro will be on the mound for the Cards. Coach Raul Rubio will keep his hurlers heated up in the bullpen, since Pecos is the type of team that can break a game wide open in a hurry.

One of the most improved hitters on the local club is Jesse Zapa, a former all-district outfielder for the Big Spring Steers. Much of the improvement in his batting form can be credited to the veteran Pat Martinez Sr., who has been working with Jesse.

Zapa will be in left field for the locals today. Other starters for Big Spring likely will be Al Mendoza in right, Felix Martinez at short, Pat Martinez Jr., at first, Billy Pineda at second, Tony Martinez at third, Andy Gamboa in center and Joe Martinez behind the plate. Abel Ramirez, Pano Rodriguez, Benny Marquez Jr., Jesse Olague and Jody Flores are others who will be in uniform for the locals and likely will be inserted into the lineup from time to time.

Next Sunday, the Cardinals will meet the San Angelo Lions at Steer Park.

Turmoil Could Hurt Football

NEW YORK (AP) - The date is Oct. 31, 1970. Two Ivy League football teams are preparing to renew a rivalry that is almost 100 years old. Comes game time. No players. The athletes have decided to take a recess and hit the political streets.

Mid-November. A huge stadium is filled for a game involving the No. 1 ranking. Tension is high. Suddenly hundreds pour out of the stands onto the field, chanting slogans, waving signs and forming a human carpet over the playing area.

What happens now? These are specters that haunt coaches and college athletic officials as they gear for a new college football season in an atmosphere of growing campus unrest and revolt.

Nicklaus Eagles 18 To Tie For Lead

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) - Streaking Jack Nicklaus calmly rolled in a 15-foot eagle putt on the final hole Saturday and surged into a share of the lead in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

Nicklaus, who said he was "very fortunate because I really did not play well at all," had a five-under-par 67 for a 54-hole total of 206.

He was tied at that figure—10-under-par on the 6,700-year Westchester Country Club course—with Australian Bruce Crampton and Georgian Larry Hinson. Crampton had a 68 and Hinson, the only one of the five young second-round leaders able to handle the pressure, finished with a 69.

The leaders held a one-stroke margin over brash Dave Hill and veteran Howie Johnson, who made up the most ground in the steaming heat and dense smog. They were tied at 207.

The outspoken Hill flashed in with a nine-under par 63, including nine birdies without a bogey—while Johnson had a 65.

A big bunch followed at 208, including veterans Billy Casper, Gene Littler, Tommy Aaron and Homero Blancas. Blancas had a 67 and the other three took 68s.

Arnold Palmer also had a 69 for 210, four strokes back going into the final round. Defending champ Frank Beard was in a large group at 209, taking a third-round 70.

Nicklaus has won the last two tournaments he had finished, the British Open and last week's National four-ball with Arnold Palmer as a partner. He had his difficulties Saturday in the heavy humidity and eye stinging smog that shrouded the course in a dirty blanket. He finished, held a brief news conference, then went immediately to the practice tee.

"If I don't hit some balls, I'm going to be no good tomorrow, that's for sure," Jack said.

Orioles Win Over Royals

BALTIMORE (AP) - The Baltimore Orioles established a major league record Saturday night by beating the Kansas City Royals for the 22nd straight time as Jim Palmer hurled a 9-1 six-hitter.

Kansas City's expansion team won the first meeting between the teams last year, but the Orioles won the last 11 in 1969 and 11 more this season with the 1970 finale scheduled Sunday.

The American League record of 21 consecutive victories over the same foe had stood since the 1927 New York Yankees mopped up the St. Louis Browns, and the National League mark by Boston over Philadelphia was set in 1883-84. The modern record in the National is 20.

Nerv Rettenmund had four of Baltimore's base hits. Elli Hendricks had three hits, including his ninth homer, and three RBI. Dave Johnson also collected three hits.

Coach Master, Says Ex-Steer

CHICAGO (AP) - Fred Steinmark, University of Texas star whose football career was ended by a leg amputation, told the nation's football writers Friday that a head coach should rule with "an iron hand" and that a football field is not a place "to model clothes or hair styles."

Steinmark, who lost his leg because of a malignancy just before the Longhorn-Notre Dame Cotton Bowl Game, received a standing ovation at the annual meeting of the Football Writers Association of America.

Four Persons Die In Racing Crash

WILLIAMSON, N.Y. (AP) — A stock car sped out of control at Spencer Speedway late Friday night, hurtled into the top row of a crowded grandstand and killed four persons and injured 18, several seriously. Three persons lost their lives at the track near this community, about 30 miles east of Rochester. The fourth died early today in a hospital at nearby Sodus.

Track officials and witnesses said the car, driven by Gary Cornelius of Sodus, hurtled more than 20 feet through the air after it bumped the rear of another vehicle on a curve of the half-mile circuit. Cornelius was pulled from the car unconscious. But hospital sources said he was not seriously injured. James Reitano, 56, and Timothy Trumble, 15, both of Rochester, and Thomas Hitchcock, 27, of Walworth, were killed outright. Robert Petrocci, 38, Elbridge, winner of the Rolling Wheels Speedway in that community near Syracuse, died in the Sodus hospital. Bill McNabb, 29, Auburn, said he was sitting with Petrocci in the 10th row. "The car reached the top of its pitch and for a second it looked like it might go over us," McNabb said. "Then it dropped on the bleachers about five rows below me. Everything just collapsed and I fell about 15 feet straight down. Broken boards were falling on top of me. I could hear people screaming—not saying any words—just screaming and groaning in pain." McNabb suffered a broken finger.

Daniel Coffey, Rochester, son-in-law of Reitano, said he and Reitano were in the bleachers in the pit "when the next thing I knew there was a car in front of us flying in the air." "When it hit," he said, "people were flying all over. I started scrambling looking around for Dad. When I found him he was dead." Coffey escaped injury. Witnesses estimated that the car was traveling at more than 100 miles an hour when it skid-

Visiting Team Wins Bank Cup Matches

Sunny Edwards' visiting delegation won the First National Bank Cup matches at the Big Spring Country Club Friday. In that one, Edwards defeated a local contingent captained by Edwards' son-in-law, Lefty Don Reynolds. Margin of victory was 9 1/2-5 1/2.

The outcome was in doubt until the final foursome came in and actually went to the final hole. In that one, Edwards edged Reynolds, 1 up. Edwards is a former Big Spring resident who now makes his home in Ruidoso, N. M.

Easy Jet Set For Handicap

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. M. — Today brings about the fourth renewal of the "Three Bars Handicap", a race which honors, posthumously, one of the greatest sires in the quarter racing industry.

Three Bars story is one of "Cinderella" proportions, starting with his purchase at a price of $300, and ending as one of the stallions with the highest stud fees in the entire nation. His offspring have accumulated earnings in excess of $3,000,000. Highweighted at 131 pounds for this prestige-laden renewal of the "Three Bars" is Cinder Leo, a leased product, from the barns of J. B. Montgomery. Cinder Leo, is undefeated over the local course this season, winning three out of three. His first out proved the most testing performance for the five-year-old gelding, while deadheading for the first position with Le Etta Chicks, another entrant in Sunday's race.

Odessa Pro-Am May Be Held Again Next Year

ODESSA — Directors of the $35,000 Odessa Pro-Am voted earlier this week to cancel scheduled play for 1970 only. It also was agreed to withhold public notice until participants and sponsors could be notified by mail.

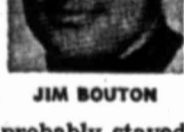

According to spokesmen, the cancellation stemmed from an inability to secure clearance from the Professional Golfers' Association (PGA) for a number of the touring pros who normally would be expected to compete.

The August 20-23 play dates would have marked the 22nd consecutive year for the event, which has come to be ranked among the better regional tournaments. With a current top prize of $8,000, the Odessa tourney consistently draws some of the better-known and more colorful pros from the touring circuit. "We have no criticism of the PGA," stated Dr. Jack McMahon, tournament chairman. "But with the pro-am date so near, our directors felt it impossible to delay a decision further, pending work on clearances. At the time of our decision, only the North Texas Section had been cleared. No word had been received regarding other members of the Approved Touring Professionals (ATP) division of PGA."

"We simply felt we had an obligation," McMahon continued, "to keep the Odessa standards as high as ever. That's something we owe to local fans and sponsors, as well as to the contestants. Our contestant roster this year included many of the finest club pros from around the Southwest; and competing with the touring pros." Dates for the Odessa tournament were announced in the early spring. As of last week, only the North Texas Section of PGA members had been released to compete.

WROTE TOME Bouton Sent To Minors

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher Jim Bouton, who raised baseball hackles with his controversial book "Ball Four", is being shipped to the minors.

JIM BOUTON

He doesn't think it has anything to do with his writing, however. "If anything," Bouton said, "I probably stayed up here longer because of the book. The Houston executives wanted to bend over backward to show people they weren't going to worry about what I had written. If my earned run average was under three, I'd be doing some kicking and screaming. But it's over five."

Bouton, 4-6 with a 5.42 ERA for 73 innings, is being optioned to Oklahoma City of the American Association. Replacing him on the Houston roster is Wade Blasingame. Blasingame rolled up a 6-2 record at Oklahoma City with a 3.03 ERA for 101 innings.

"You never expect to go to the minors," Bouton said, "but I'm not surprised by it. I honestly believe that if I do well, they'll bring me back up. That's how much I am convinced they are not trying to bury me."

Bouton said they could have released him outright, "but they didn't — they optioned me. That's a good sign of what they feel about me."

"I'm certainly a marginal player but if Houston doesn't want me any longer, I'll probably be through. I think they know me better than other organizations. The others know of me, but the Houston organization knows me. Houston knows what kind of guy I am and that I'm a hard worker."

Benefit Race Set At Odessa Track

ODESSA — The West Texas Racing association has announced plans for the biggest event of the racing year, its annual benefit race to be held Friday, August 7th, 8:30 in the Odessa Speedbowl.

This year's proceeds will go to the Tall City Chapter, American Businesswomen's Association scholarship fund — established to help a deserving young lady further her education.

This year's benefit will feature West Texas' fastest sportsmen stock cars, plus a thrilling motorcycle race, which has proved to be a popular feature at Odessa Speedbowl, since they have renovated the track to accommodate cycle racing.

The West Texas Racing Association has extended special invitations to drivers from all over West Texas to participate in this competition. The association has posted a substantial increase in prize money, which is sure to attract racing's top names. Contestants will be trying to add to their season points.

Easy Jet Set For Handicap

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N. M. — Today brings about the fourth renewal of the "Three Bars Handicap", a race which honors, posthumously, one of the greatest sires in the quarter racing industry. Three Bars story is one of "Cinderella" proportions, starting with his purchase at a price of $300, and ending as one of the stallions with the highest stud fees in the entire nation. His offspring have accumulated earnings in excess of $3,000,000. Highweighted at 131 pounds for this prestige-laden renewal of the "Three Bars" is Cinder Leo, a leased product, from the barns of J. B. Montgomery. Cinder Leo, is undefeated over the local course this season, winning three out of three. His first out proved the most testing performance for the five-year-old gelding, while deadheading for the first position with Le Etta Chicks, another entrant in Sunday's race.

Cinder Leo came right back to easily outrun his field in his next two outs, by one and one-half lengths and one and one-quarter lengths respectively. Cinder Leo's stoutest competition is expected to come in the form of Go Together, from the stables of Harriett Peckham, Richmond, Tex. Go Together has proven unbeatable in the three-year-old bracket at the Ruidoso Downs meet this year, while suffering her only loss to the older Cinder Leo.

Third on the list of weights will be Walter Merrick's 1969 champion, Easy Jet, carrying 123 pounds. Easy Jet was last year's "All-American Futurity" winner, but has failed to duplicate his winning performances of last year.

Aniz In Action

MIDLAND — Ervin Aniz, a four-goal star, will appear in a match today at the Midland Polo Club. The native of Mexico will play for the Wilson Ranch team. The match starts at 6 p.m.

IN SECTIONAL PLAY Locals Oppose Ozona Champs

The Big Spring American Legion Ail-Stars, champions of District 3, are all set for the first round of the sectional Little League tournament in Lubbock Monday.

Jack Barber, district commissioner, said Big Spring will be pitted in the third game against Ozona, District 4, winner. Game time is 5:30 p.m., and the site is Buster Long Field at 70th and Slide Road, previously, another location had been announced.

If Big Spring wins, it will take on the winner of the El Paso-Borger game in a tilt scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Big Spring came on strong to overpower one of the Midland teams, then turned back the Big Spring Nationals and finally the favored Andrews Mustangs to win the District 3 crown in convincing style.

Other teams in the tournament, in the bottom bracket, are winners of the Abilene District, which faces the Iowa Park district, Breckenridge and Plainview district winners, who face the Lubbock winner.

Winner of the single-elimination sectional tournament will go to the state meet in Austin Aug. 12-15, and that winner goes to St. Petersburg, Fla. Aug. 19-22. The Little League World Series is set for Williamsport, Pa. Aug. 24-29.

Midland Man Twice Winner

George Johnson of Midland won two of three racing events staged by Big Spring Raceway Inc., Friday night at the newly-lighted track west of town.

Johnson prevailed in both the 125 cc division and in the Open class, beating Bobby Percy in the 125 cc event and Jimmy Johnson of Big Spring in the Open division.

Big Spring entries dominated the Mini-bike division, finishing 1-2-3. Roger Paige proved to be the best in that particular competition while Wesley Thixton was second.

Raceway officials reported an increase attendance. Results: Mini-bike — 1. Roger Paige, Big Spring; 2. Wesley Thixton, Big Spring; 3. Paul Cotton, Big Spring. 125 cc. — 1. George Johnson, Midland; 2. Bobby Percy, Big Spring; 3. Larry Stover, Odessa. Open — 1. George Johnson, Midland; 2. Jimmy Johnson, Big Spring; 3. Gary Burk, Midland.

Warning: Golf Balls Dangerous

Don't let children play or experiment with golf balls. The result could be a severe eye injury.

That's the word from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, which has received a number of reports of eye injuries caused by golf balls exploding when children cut them open to "see what's inside."

The danger lies in the ball's liquid core, which is under pressure of up to 2,500 pounds per square inch and can easily explode if pierced or cut into. An additional hazard exists from the chemicals which are used to make up the cores of several brands of golf balls.

Midland Defeats Big Springers

SAN ANGELO — Midland Rotary eliminated Big Spring Bell Mayflower, 10-3, in the District Sophomore Teen - Age Baseball tournament here Friday night.

Earlier, the Big Spring team had yielded to Midland, 8-3. In the second game against Midland, Big Spring led, 2-0, going into the fourth but Midland went ahead to stay with a two-run sixth and padded its lead with six in the seventh.

Larry Tidwell pitched the win for Midland. Wayne Dickens, who yielded seven hits, was the loser. Midland had lost its first game Friday morning to San Angelo Wendland, 5-3.

HERE YOU GO, WARREN — Kansas City Chiefs' quarterback Len Dawson flicks a short pass to running back Warren McVea in the third quarter of the College All-Star Game in Chicago's Soldier Field Friday night. The Chiefs won, 24-3. The play was stopped by the All-Stars' for only a three-yard gain.

Kansas City Chiefs Topple All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — In keeping with the fuzzy current picture of pro football and its labor strife, it took an unheralded walk-on to give the All-Star collegians their only points in a 24-3 pasting by the world champion Kansas City Chiefs Friday night.

While such arms as Mike Phipps of Purdue and Dennis Shaw of San Diego State were fluttering for seven completions in 29 throws for 46 yards, husky Mike Delaney of American International, Springfield, Mass., booted a 29-yard field goal late in the last quarter to avert a shutout.

It brought a murmur from the throng of 69,940, dripping in the humid 80-degree heat and light rain at Soldier Field.

IN THE PINK
Most of their cheers had to go to the Chiefs. With only one week of organized practices — a special dispensation while other veterans remained out of training camps in the contract dispute with owners — the Chiefs looked in the pink.

Maybe, they looked good because the All-Stars looked so bad in losing their seventh straight of the series with the pros.

The Super Bowl champions, who now will blow their camp until some settlement is reached in negotiations, piled up all their points in the first half.

In the first 7½ minutes of the game, 35-year-old Len Dawson hurled a 36-yard scoring pass to Frank Pitts to end a 76-yard frolic in six plays.

Later in the same quarter, Jan Stenerud booted a 43-yard field goal.

The second period was less than three minutes old when Willie Lanier stole a Shaw pass and returned it 14 yards to the All-Star 20 to set up a touchdown. Warren McVea on the fourth play slanted across end and went into the corner from the three.

Then, seven seconds before halftime, Jim Kearney, picked off a Phipps' pitch and streaked unmoled 65 yards down the sideline to score.

Phipps, chattel of the Cleveland Browns, received a minor bruised shoulder midway in the third and Shaw of the Buffalo Bills return to finish the game.

Dawson, hitting on 17 of 21 passes for 153 yards, finally called it quits in the middle of the fourth quarter and Mike Livingston mopped up.

Delaney, who doesn't belong to anybody but his mother, got his heroic field goal chance at the nine-minute mark of the third quarter. Randy Montgomery of Weber State and the Denver Broncos, ran back to punt 20 yards which was followed by a personal foul infraction against the Chiefs. It put the Stars on the Kansas City 18 and after Shaw's aerial probes failed, the left-footed soccer-style Delaney hit his three-pointer.

STARS FIZZLE
Aside from this, and the combined 164 yards in punt and kickoff runbacks by Montgomery and Bruce Taylor of Boston U. and the San Francisco 49ers the All-Stars were a fizzle.

Their closest approach to a touchdown came in the third when Willie Mitchell fumbled a punt and Ted Koy of Texas (Oakland Raiders) plopped on it on the Chiefs' nine.

The Stars got to the two-yard line on last down and then Shaw shoved off to John Isenbarger of Indiana (49ers) who passed incomplete into the end zone trying to spear Ken Burroughs of Texas Southern (New Orleans) Saints.

Delaney tried his field goal prowess with the Pittsburgh Steelers this spring. "But it wasn't a very good tryout and I decided to go to the Coast Guard Academy to see if Otto Graham thought I had a chance with the pros."

Graham, is head All-Star coach as well as director of athletics at the academy where he returned after a spin as Washington Redskin skipper.

"I had never seen him until he walked in," said Graham.

"He showed me he could kick. That happened just a week before the start of All-Star camp. I invited him to join us."

Delaney is about the only bright thing Graham can remember from this game.

ERROR-PRONE
"We played a lousy game" Graham said. "Kansas City didn't force us into mistakes. We made them. We didn't get into our scrimmage against the pros that we usually do while in camp because of the player strike. A scrimmage with the pros is worth two or three touchdowns."

Karate Tournery Is Slated Here

A karate tournament, the first ever planned for this area, will be staged Saturday, Aug. 8, in the local YMCA.

Competition will get under way at 2 p.m. and will be continuous until the meet is completed. Entries are expected from such distant cities as Killeen, Temple, Odessa and Midland.

Admission prices for the matches will be $1 for adults and 75 cents for children under 16 years of age.

Entry fee for karate enthusiasts is $5. Divisions of competition include White and Blue, Junior, Women's and Kata. The latter level of competition was created to show classical form rather than for actual physical competition.

Upwards to 50 persons could take part in the tournament, several of them local residents.

Tickets can be obtained from any karate student here.

Demonstrations will also be offered in kick boxing and in such karate specialties as the breakage of boards and bricks.

Local Team Records Two Wins In Teen Tournery

ODESSA — Big Spring Hardware came bounding back to post two wins in the Hi-Junior district baseball tournament here Friday, beating Lighthouse Electric of Floydada, 10-0, and the Midland Shamrocks, 6-3, in that order.

Troy Kerby pitched the win over Floydada, surrendering only three hits to the losers.

Kerby himself had a triple in the Tigers' eight-hit offensive while Pete Shaffer and Tommy Brewer cracked doubles.

Kerby fanned ten, hit a batter and issued no walks. Mike Vinson and Mike Muniz divided time on the hill for the losers.

The Big Spring team scored four times in the sixth, after which the tournament's ten-run run was invoked.

The Hardware team's game with Midland was much closer. It was Tommy Brewer's three-run homer in the fifth that swung the issue and insured Orlando Olague's pitching victory.

Brewer's blast sailed an

Sam McDowell Gains 16th Tex Schramm: Pact Not Yet In Sight

CHICAGO (AP) — Sam McDowell tossed a six-hitter for his 16th victory of the season as the Cleveland Indians edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2 Saturday.

McDowell, who has lost five, struck out eight and blanked the White Sox until the eighth inning, then worked out of a bases-loaded bind in the ninth after Bobby Knoop's single cut the deficit to one run.

The Indians scored all their runs in the first inning against Jerry Janeski, who suffered his seventh consecutive loss.

Vada Pinson opened the game with a double, Graig Nettles walked and Roy Foster lashed a run-scoring double. Ray Fosse delivered another run with a single and the third scored on Ted Uhlender's sacrifice fly.

NEW YORK (AP) — The pro football strike moved into its third day Saturday with the owners using a terse, three-sentence statement to quash published reports that a settlement was imminent in their contract dispute with the players.

The statement issued here by Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys, head of the owners' negotiating committee, said: "Reports that we are on the verge of reaching an agreement with the Players Association are totally untrue. The situation remains unchanged with no immediate prospect for change under present circumstances."

"We are, however, continuing to make every effort to reach a settlement."

Schramm's concise statement was issued by an aide here, despite reports that the owners' committee has been in Chicago. The committee has been in New York since leaving meetings with a federal mediator in Philadelphia.

While Schramm was commenting on the reports, the players did likewise through Tom Keating of the Oakland Raiders, who said in Chicago "there has been no contact or communication, by phone or in person, by the owners since the strike began."

"Of course we want to get back to the negotiating tables and are hopeful of doing so."

Speculation about an imminent agreement seemed to hinge on the theory that, with the scheduled start of the exhibition season less than a week away, the association would be increasingly hard-pressed to keep more veteran players from reporting to camp.

However, not one additional player was reported entering camp Saturday, leaving 17 veterans as the lone members of the association to cross the theoretical picket line.

Only three were "name" players — Baltimore linebacker Mike Curtis, defensive back Jim Hudson of the New York Jets and Buffalo quarterback Dan Dargath.

At last report, the owners and players still were far apart on the amount of money to be put into the players' pension program. The owners had offered $18 million over four years while the players had demanded $26 million.

Cancellation of the first week-end of 10 exhibition games, which begins Friday night with Cleveland at Los Angeles, would cost NFL clubs approximately $100,000-each or a total of $1 million.

Ex-Terrier Is MVP Choice

CHICAGO (AP)—Fleet Bruce Taylor of Boston University, who gave the world pro champion Kansas City Chiefs a hard time on offense and defense, was named the Most Valuable Player for the College All-Stars in their 24-3 loss Friday night.

In a rare honor for a defensive back in the Chicago Tribune's long charity series, the 6-foot, 188 pound Taylor, first-round draft choice of the San Francisco 49ers, was a big winner in a post-game poll of press box experts.

Taylor was well ahead of runner-up Randy Montgomery of Weber State, who joined the Boston University star in scaring the Chief defense most with a total of 154 yards on runbacks of kickoffs and punts.

The Most Valuable poll count was not disclosed, but punter Spike Jones of Georgia ran third. Votes also were received by linebacker John Small of The Citadel; placekicker Mike Delaney of American International College, whose 29-yard boot produced the only All-Star points; quarterback Mike Phipps of Purdue and Dennis Shaw of San Diego State; defensive linemen Mike McCoy of Notre Dame, Al Cowlings of Southern California and Cedric Hardman of North Texas State; running backs John Isebnberger of Indiana and Bob Anderson of Colorado; and defensive back Ted Provost of Ohio State.

Taylor not only teamed with Denver Bronco-bound Montgomery to produce the few All-Star thrills afforded the crowd of 69,940 and a national TV audience, but the Boston U speedster also was an impressive cornerback on defense.

Taylor returned two kickoffs for 42 yards and one punt for 28, and each time stutter-stepped past several Chief defenders before he was downed. Montgomery hauled back one kickoff for 33 yards and three punts for 51.

Texas Is In A Recession, Early Recovery 'Unlikely'

AUSTIN (AP)—A researcher at the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said Saturday that Texas is in a recession and probably will not recover economically this year. Joe Jones said about the only "encouraging upward turn" was the increase last month in urban residential building.

State personal income increased by only about 1 per cent in the second quarter of the year and by 1.3 per cent in the first quarter, Jones said, and it would need to go up by 1.5 per cent just to maintain the same purchasing power for urban wage and salary workers.

"Texas' unemployment," Jones said, "increased significantly to 4.5 per cent of the labor force in June."

Jones said, and industrial production declined 1 per cent from May to June.

"Of the principal labor-market areas of the state Austin, Dallas, Houston, the Longview, Kilgore, Gladewater area and Tyler are the only market areas reporting unemployment rates lower than 4 per cent," he said.

Austin had a statewide low of 3.1 per cent, and unemployment ranged up to over 8 per cent for Texarkana and the Brownsville, Harlingen, San Benito area to 11.2 per cent for Laredo.

Texasans are putting more money into savings as the small-fund investors withdraw from the stock market because of "economic uncertainties," Jones said.

"Given the economic stimuli which could foster consumer confidence in the economic future, spending from these savings coupled with consumption expenditures of third-and-fourth-quarter surtax cuts could provide a significant start on recovery in the second half of 1970," Jones said.

The prospects for an early recovery, however, "appear unlikely," and are "problematical," he said, "as the declines of key indicators continued to cast shadows on prospects for economic recovery in late 1970."

Business activity indexes for Texas cities, showing the percentage change from May to June 1970 and from the first six months of 1969 to the first six months of 1970:

Ablene 12 and no change. Amarillo 9 and 7. Austin 10 and minus 4. Beaumont 7 and minus 7. Corpus Christi 4 and 2. Corsicana 2 and 1. Dallas 16 and 6. El Paso 19 and 4. Fort Worth minus 5 and 5. Houston 8 and 7. Lubbock 16 and minus 5. Port Arthur 14 and 4. San Angelo 8 and 4. San Antonio 14 and 6. Texarkana 16 and minus 13. Tyler 15 and no change. Waco 7 and 9. Wichita Falls 12 and minus 7.

Temporary Dean Named At UT

AUSTIN (AP)—A geology professor and former Geology Department chairman was appointed Friday as acting dean of the University of Texas College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Samuel Ellison Jr., 56, fills temporarily the vacancy created by the surprise firing a week ago of Dean John Silber.

The university news and information service quoted Ellison as saying he is "entirely neutral" in the controversy over Silber's removal.

Ellison teaches petroleum geology and the introductory geology course. He was department chairman from 1952 to 1962.

State Reports Advance In Residential Building

AUSTIN (AP)—In June, for the first time in 1970, Texas' residential building rose enough "to suggest clearly some recovery in the depressed housing industry," a University of Texas business researcher said Saturday.

The May to June increase was 11 per cent.

Nonresidential building, however, "plunged from a near record high in May to a mediocre or worse performance in June," said Robert Ryan of the Bureau of Business Research, commenting on the 9 per cent decline.

At the end of June, Ryan said, the six-month totals for this year still lagged behind the 1969 pace in residential building. Family homes had dropped off by 2 per cent, duplexes by 41 per cent and apartment units by 29 per cent.

Single-family dwelling have risen during the first six months in San Antonio by 23 per cent, El Paso by 17 and Dallas by 9. "Apartment construction in the major central cities showed deep cutbacks after an unusually strong year in 1969," Ryan said.

"Overall, there is reason to believe that commercial and industrial building needs are being met by new construction but that a heavy backlog of residential demand remains unsatisfied," he said.

Ryan said figures from the Department of Housing and Urban Development indicate Texas will need at least 1.5 million new housing units in the 1970s, but at the current rate "Texans will hardly more than match the 734,000-unit record of the 1960s."

Austin had the highest rate of building dollars per capita among Texas' six major cities in June with $297.38, followed by Dallas $262.06, Houston $242.63, El Paso $188.51, Fort Worth $133.07 and San Antonio $87.59.

—CARROLL RICHTER

SUNDAY

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You are desirous of enjoying yourself, sometimes at the expense of others, although unintentional. Show others consideration and prove your worth. Be wise.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Try not to be fearful with anyone of home or a big argument could develop. Be sure to make your home more ideal and inviting. Be artistic.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Attend to the services you enjoy and which can be most inspiring and rewarding. Be most careful in motion, especially in travel. Be clever in travel.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Financial affairs could be a worry but try to handle them objectively. Don't overcommit yourself. Plan how to balance your budget. Have fun with friends tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Those fine ideas you have are best not aired right now, but study them further. Wait for a better day to put them in motion. Do something thoughtful for kin. Be generous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't give in to unwary temptation. Be sure you refrain from taking chances where your reputation is concerned. Get those problems handled tomorrow. You are not sure of yourself today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to look into new activities but fine for studying whatever is of a spiritual nature. Keep promises you have made. Don't get overfriendly with new-found friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) That hunch you have is not accurate, so make no changes that could prove disastrous. Be conscientious in carrying through your promises to others. Avoid gossip.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show interest in what an associate does or you could be the loser. Listen to what is being said, although you may not entirely agree. Forget small folk.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Take care of those chores ahead of you instead of going out to some amusements with others. Know what it is that fellow workers expect and try to please them. Have fun with family tonight.

MONDAY
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until mid-afternoon you need to be careful of confusing conditions then in effect. It seems impossible now to get at the truth of the situation. However, later in the day, with the aid of a brilliant official, the problem unfolds and is crystal clear again. But it is up to you and a word of cheer and encouragement can replace a cloud for much gloom and woe to be present.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Be particularly careful where payments are concerned during the morning, but latter part of the day you can relax and be less conservative. Loved ones make a little trouble, but forgive them. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't rely on the cooperation of co-workers in the morning. Later they are more than willing to work along with you. Go over any written work for possible mistakes. Be careful in travel.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure to spend wisely, especially where recreation is concerned. Do not be extravagant nor stingy with others. Plan finances better. Make the future more ideal. Keep your feet on the ground.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you do not lose your temper, you can avoid arguments of home. Take time to make yourself more attractive. A new hairstyle might be just the thing. Meditate tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do these confidential things that are necessary about doing it any longer. Turn over conditions to your benefit by being objectively acting positively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be understanding with a higher-up when a mistake is made and you can obtain the information you want. Show that you handle your duties with utmost care. Make this a profitable day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Anything you want to do that needs a different approach is wise now. Change that dull routine and get right results. Listen to what a new contact has to say. This can lead to more lofty thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) It may take half a day to do work that has to be done, although you are not in the mood, so get it done and then you can be with good friends. Be sure to please loved one first. Be very sociable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you force an issue in the morning, you are apt to find difficulties. Evening is a better time to start new activity. Save time for person who wants to discuss a problem with you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You want to get surroundings improved but you have to wait. Don't be so impulsive. Show that you understand a partner's point of view before you act upon it or discuss your own.

THE WORLD, with all its beauty, is waiting to be discovered by three-year-old Rustine Marie Lendermon, a model in the pre-school age group at Tuesday's style show to herald the start of school in Coahoma. Rustine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lendermon.

A SENIOR at Coahoma High School, Brenda Petty, 17, will show what the well-dressed winners will wear on campus this year. Her breezy dress is of leaf green linen, brightly tied and buttoned in brass.

THE MANY MODES in fashion for the 11 to 14-year-old student will be modeled by these young ladies whose school supplies include a varied and wearable wardrobe. At this age, school and extra-curricular activities demand suitable attire for an active schedule. From left, they are Carla Bates, Valrae Best, Karyn Archer, Susie Smolko, Dietra Fowler, Donna James, Debbie Fryrear and Janet Smolko.

So Soon?

"Back To School"

BY JO BRIGHT

School bells will be ringing early in Coahoma this year, with classes scheduled to begin August 17. To dispel the lethargy of a lazy summer — and set the mood for the more serious business of getting an education — the TOPS' Slender Benders Club is sponsoring a "Back to School" style show and salad luncheon Tuesday.

The event will begin at 11 a.m. in the Presbyterian Church with the public invited to attend. Tickets, which may be purchased from club members or at the door, are $1 for adults and 25 cents for children under 12 years of age.

Club officers are Mrs. Estil Petty, leader; Mrs. Tommy McFarland, coleader; Mrs. Carl Bates, secretary; Mrs. Dennis Greenfield, treasurer; and Mrs. Charles Lendermon, weight recorder.

Cochairmen for the show are Mrs. Val Best, Mrs. Joe H. Roberts and Mrs. A. C. Hale. Mrs. Bill Fryrear will be narrator, with script prepared by Mrs. Ovis James. Phyllis Wynn, a senior 4-H club member, will direct the young people in modeling. In addition to the presentation by students, many of the club's 38 members will show fall fashions for women.

Included in the event will be a display of fashions for dolls, with the tiny garments being sold in conjunction with a fund-raising program to send delegates to a national convention.

A FELLOW NEEDS a friend when he's asked to model in a fashion show. Young Jackie Charles Lendermon finds it isn't so bad, after all, when he is in such pretty company. Temporarily fenced in are, from left, Cathy Roberts, Jeana King, Brenda Ann Darden, Delinda Spears and Karen Lynn Spears.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

The time is nearing for our annual vacation, and if that doesn't bring rain we're in for a long drouth . . . or longer drouth, if you just will get technical. Our having our time off doesn't necessarily mean that it will rain here but I will just about wager that wherever we decide to go, the rain will fall on us en route or fall most of the time we are there. From what we read in the papers and hear on the TV and radio, we'll be welcome this summer.

It's really that dry all over.

MR. and MRS. RAYMOND MOORE and their children, Gall and Gary, are spending the weekend at Lake Nasworthy with MRS. WAYLAND YATES and her family.

MR. and MRS. FRANK RICE, vacationing in Louisiana during the past week, visited the fabulous "Garden in the Forest," Hodges Gardens in Western Louisiana midway between Shreveport and Lake Charles. The gardens feature a year around uninterrupted succession of bloom and is a collection of formal gardens, natural scenic areas, and other things of interest to tourists and best of all it surrounds a 225-acre lake.

DR. and MRS. DICK LANE returned last week from a three-week vacation in California and other western states. Dr. Lane entered into some research with Dr. W. D. May on pivot work.

KEVIN WOLFE, eight-year-old grandson of DR. and MRS. OTTO WOLFE, is here from Houston to visit his grandparents. He accompanied his other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Floth of Fort Collins, Colo., here as they were on their way back home after visiting in Houston with Kevin's parents, MR. and MRS. SPENCER WOLFE.

Wednesday the Wolfes and Kevin plan to leave for Morganspoint where they will be met by the Spencer Wolfes for a few days on the lake. They plan to see former Big Springs, MR. and MRS. OMER WILLIAMS, before returning here Monday.

The bride was attired in a white peau de soie gown overlaid with sheer dotted Swiss and trimmed with Dentelles de Calais lace at the neckline and edging the wide cuffs of the long puff sleeves. Matching lace and seed pearls accented the softly fitted bodice and extended to the hem of the gown. A flat bow of dotted Swiss held a matching chapel-length veil bordered in lace and sprinkled with seed pearls. She carried a Dutch colonial bouquet of daisies centered with French carnations.

MRS. JOSEPH B. WEAKLAND

Couple United In Marriage

Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday afternoon by Miss Rebecca Lynn Roger and Sgt. Joseph B. Weakland in the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Roger, 1300 Blackmon, and the late Mr. Roger. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Weakland of Cresson, Pa. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Meagher before an altar enhanced with pedestal arrangements of white gladioli and carnations flanked with candelabra entwined with greenery.

Mrs. Leslie Green, organist, accompanied Mrs. Billy Scott Sr., sister of the bride, who sang "The Twelfth of Never" and "The Wedding Prayer".

SATIN GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Donald L. Brashears, was attired in a Princess-style gown of white bridal satin overlaid with Chantilly lace on back and center panels of the skirt. The back panels extended to form a chapel-length train. Lace covered the wedding ring collar and accented the bodice. The short sleeves were met at the elbow with lace mitts. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was held by a satin bow and bordered in Alencon lace. She carried a cluster of pompon chrysanthemums centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Wayne Joanke was the matron of honor and Miss Mary L. Bradshaw of Stanton was the bridesmaid. Mrs. Joanke wore a yellow sleeveless A-line gown embossed with white daisies. Miss Bradshaw wore a gown of the same material designed with Empire bodice and high neckline encircled with satin ribbons. Their headpieces were short yellow tulle veils encircling a crown, and each carried a long-stemmed yellow rose. Jacqueline Ruth Roger, Sterling City, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a gown similar to the bridesmaids. Her headpiece was a crown of daisies.

Geometrics Are Newest In Prints

NEW YORK — Euclid never had it so good. Fashion's latest craze is geometrics, and the firm handling of a clear design. Designers particularly like the look of squares and rectangles blocked out on a heavy cotton jacquard. In navy and white, with either red or taupe, the look is clearly right for summer.

Luncheon Held In Blue Room

Miss Merry Lee Dibrell, her wedding attendants and out-of-town guests were honored Saturday morning with a bridesmaids' luncheon in the Blue Room at Cosden Country Club.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jack Alexander, Mrs. John Thomas and Miss Sherri Alexander who presented the honoree with a pink glamelia corsage and an electrical appliance. Miss Dibrell was attired in a turquoise full-skirted dress with batteau neckline. Her mother, Mrs. John L. Dibrell, received a lime green glamelia corsage.

Guests at the brunch were seated at a table featuring yellow place mats, and the centerpiece was an arrangement of multi-colored gladioli.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Kenneth Baxter, Waco; Miss Anne Stewart, Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Sheryl Taylor and Miss Ann Garner, both of Dallas; Mrs. R. V. Lewis, Rocksprings; Mrs. David B. Dibrell, Miss Jo Dibrell and Miss Jill Dibrell, all of Richardson; Mrs. William R. Ballard and Miss Sharon Ballard, both of Coker, Ala.; Mrs. Richard Brooks, Jackson, Miss.; Mrs. T. R. Sweeten, Houston; Mrs. William Davis, Arlington; Miss Annette Fitzhugh, Lamesa; and Mrs. C. Allison Salley, Fort Worth.

Gauche Look Is Big This Fall

NEW YORK — The gauche is shown in two lengths — the midskirt and bolero in wool crepe with soutache and velvet trim and a white crepe shirt. More fun is the jumpsuit in violet chiffon with a wild matching feather boa or the brown crepe topped by a sleeveless cardigan in an Aztec print on topaz brocade.

Crafted for more fashion news: tinsel wools in small or large plaids, covered cocktail looks, bias cut skirts with black velvet piping, sport plaid jumper — glitter with gold threads over a satin blouse, low pleated skirts under sleeveless vests in sparkle plaid.

Nuptial Ceremony Is Performed In Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Hill, 904 Aylford, was the setting for the marriage Friday evening of Miss Cynthia Dea Reagan and Pfc. Donnie Richard Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hill. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. (Bob) Reagan, 2907 West Street.

The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Walter Grice. Vows were exchanged before an improvised altar marked with a wrought iron candelabrum flanked by baskets of white Shasta daisies and greenery. Recorded music featured "The Twelfth of Never," "Just As Much As Ever" and "A Summer Place."

The bride was attired in a princess-style white pique dress with short sleeves and Peter Pan collar. Her short veil was held by a band of organza, lace and velvet ribbons. She carried a bouquet of white Shasta daisies.

Miss Debra King, of El Paso was the maid of honor, attired in a pastel yellow dress accented with a corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Hill, step-father of the bridegroom, was the best man, standing in for the bride's brother, Spec. 4 Robert D. Reagan, who is serving in Vietnam.

The ceremony was followed by a reception in the home. The bridal cake was ornamented with pastel yellow and white hearts and daisies and served from a table covered with ecru lace over a white cloth. The bride's bouquet formed the table centerpiece, and silver and crystal appointments completed the setting. Miss King presided at the refreshment table.

The bride's traveling costume was a yellow and pink plaid sheath with pink coat.

The bride and bridegroom attended Big Spring High School and the bride will continue studies there in the fall. The bridegroom is enroute to Vietnam with the US Army, and until his return the bride will live with her parents.

Miss Campbell Weds Charles R. Hosmer

MRS. CHARLES RICHARD HOSMER

Miss Barbara Ann Campbell and Charles Richard Hosmer were married Saturday evening in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Campbell, 2609 Clanton. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Redford Jr., Lubbock.

The nuptial ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lee Butler, interim pastor at First Baptist Church. The altar was marked by two baskets of pink carnations and white gladioli upon brass pedestals. Piano music was played by Mrs. Ken Blackington.

The bride wore a street-length dress with Venice lace Empire bodice and crepe A-line skirt; the bodice featuring a scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The waist was sashed with a delustered satin band forming a Ming bow at the back with streamers. A cluster of organza flowers held her brief veil, and she carried a semi-cascade of white carnations and pink roses.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Ronda Matney, Paducah, was the maid of honor and Renaee Matney, also of Paducah, was the flower girl. They wore pink embossed Empire dresses with back bow and streamers. Their headpieces were matching short veils, and the maid of honor carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The flower girl carried a white woven basket trimmed with pink ribbon and a pink nosegay.

Charles Campbell, brother of the bride, was best man, and Scott Campbell, another brother, was ring bearer.

The reception followed the ceremony. Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white floor-length cloth overlaid with white netting trimmed with pink ribbon. Crystal appointments completed the setting. The colonnaded wedding cake was highlighted with pastel pink roses and topped with pink bells edged with seed pearls.

Miss Karla Redford, sister of the bridegroom, registered the guests. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James R. Redford and Miss Floye McDonald, all of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Campbell, the bride's grandparents, Mrs. W. A. McDonald, the bride's grandmother, and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Matney, all of Lubbock.

Paint Rollers Are Reusable If Clean

Paint rollers, like brushes, can be used again and again if you are careful to clean them properly. The customer services division of a paint manufacturer, advises the following:

Four thinner into paint tray or pan.
Roll the roller back and forth in and out of thinner, putting enough pressure on the roller to squeeze out the paint. Repeat until roller is clean, adding fresh thinner if necessary.
Since latex paint is water-soluble, rollers can be cleaned with soap and water.

Hairy Excuses

Psychologists attribute the long hair trend to "narcissism" and "auto-eroticism."
"Note," he observes, "how men with beards and sideburns play with them just as a girl will constantly run her hand through her hair. It's an excuse for self-care that we normally do not have."

Slinky Crepes Featured In Fall

NEW YORK — Fall's crepe cocktail dress has a special kind of nostalgia. Pretty, sexy, it slinks in black crepe or crepe de chine with jewel accents. There's a place for real diamonds or clips on beautiful necklines.

Evening looks come in jersey, chiffon, tapestry brocades — all in very subtle colors. The drape makes the shape on a jersey of sapphire and violet. Brocade takes its shaping with softness and movement in olive and mauve tones. Rich embroideries are also highlighted.

After cleaning window shades, let the shade dry thoroughly, then roll it up to the top of the window and leave it rolled up for 10-to-12 hours. This simple "roll up" trick leaves the shade pristine fresh and as perfectly flat and ironed looking as a brand new one.

Ranges Very Dry In West Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Scattered showers during the past week failed, in most instances, to relieve the growing need for soil moisture over much of Texas, said Director John E. Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Locally heavy showers, he noted, have helped but all dryland crops, pastures and ranges, some critically, need rain. Stock water supplies in some areas are low and grass fires continue to be a hazard to cured range forage, he said. Livestock generally, are holding up well; however, some districts are reporting an increase in marketing, he said.

Cotton continues to hold up fairly well but some reports of shedding are being noted. Irrigated cotton continues to make good progress, he noted. Insect infestations are generally on the light side.

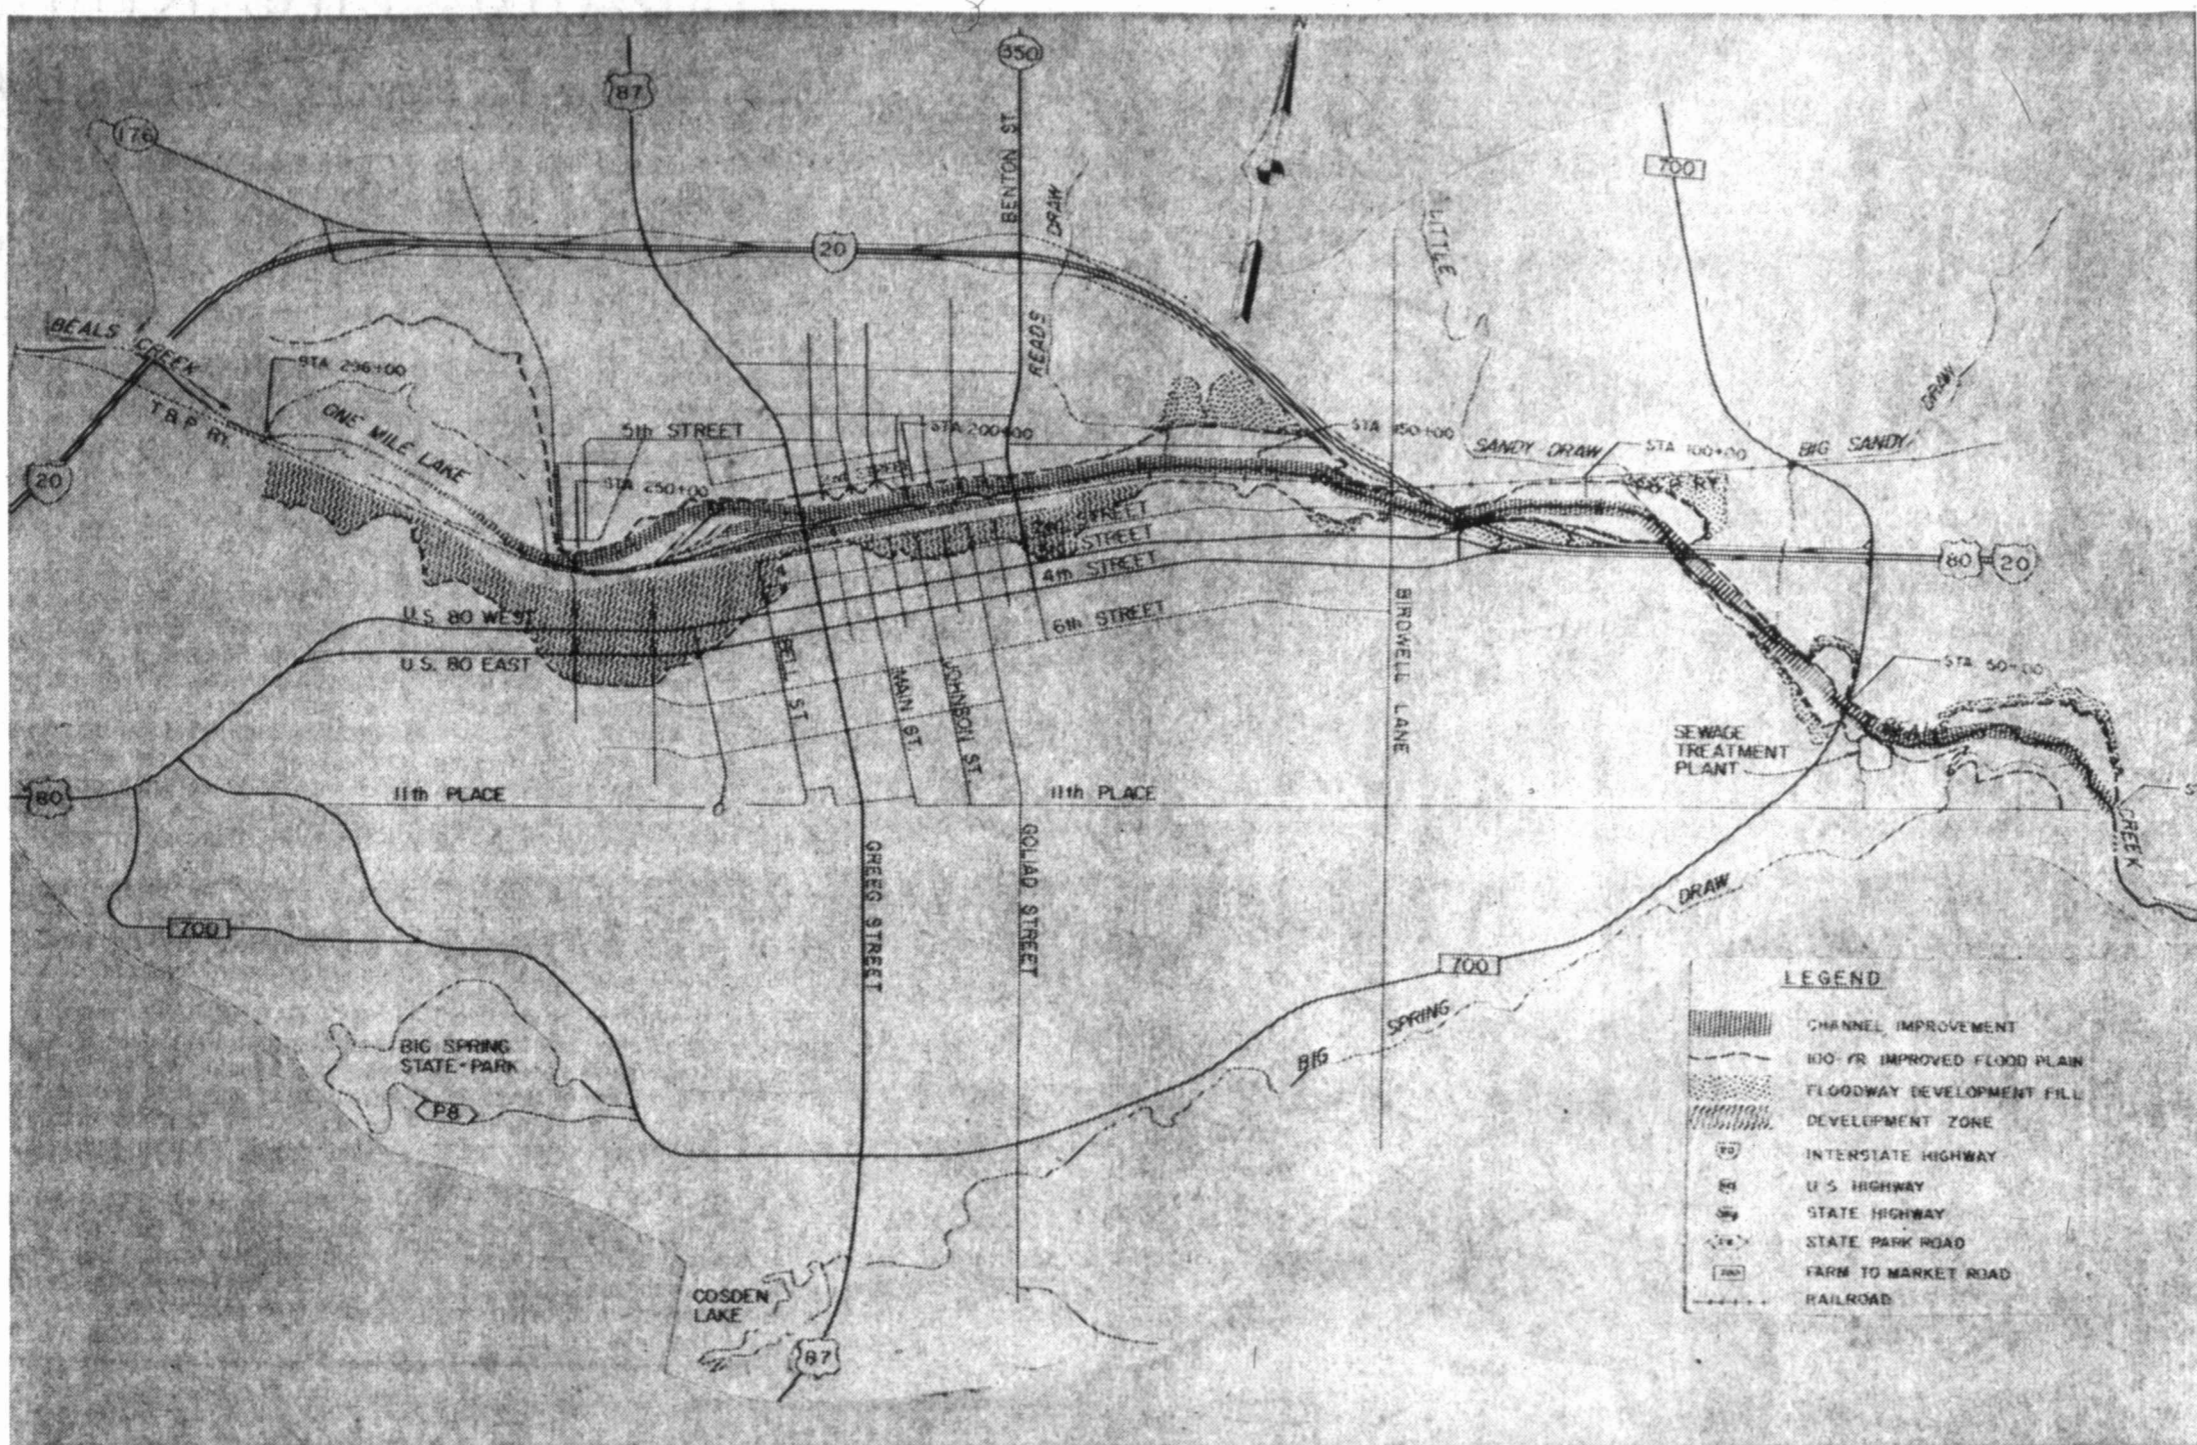

Grain sorghum continues to mature at a rapid rate and harvesting on a limited basis has moved as far north as the Rolling Plains, Hutchison said. Rice harvesting, he noted, is becoming general in the rice area.

South Plains cotton continues to fruit heavily and irrigation is becoming general, reported Billy Gunter from Lubbock. Dryland cotton is still maintaining growth in most counties but needs moisture to continue, he said. The need for moisture on grain sorghum was listed as critical.

Moisture is needed throughout the Rolling Plains for all crops, ranges and for stock water, advised James Simmons from Vernon. Irrigated cotton is making good growth and fruiting well, he said, but that on dryland is in only fair to poor condition. Some boll weevil and bollworm damage is being reported.

Ranges are very dry and grass is getting short in far West Texas where Ray Siegmund at Ft. Stockton said general rain is badly needed. Dryland crops are barely holding their own but irrigated crops are making good growth, he said. The condition of livestock is declining due to the weather. Calf shipments were listed as increasing. Cotton insects are on the increase, Siegmund said.

Scattered showers mostly in the southern counties of West Central Texas failed to relieve the need for moisture, reported Allen Turner at San Angelo.

CORPS OF ENGINEERS PROPOSED FLOOD CONTROL WORK FOR BIG SPRING
Various channel improvements sketched for Beals Creek, with related floodway fill and development zone

NO APPROPRIATIONS FOR $2.5 MILLION LOCAL PROJECT Flood Control Program 'Authorized'

Another step has been taken in the long and involved program looking toward a joint federal-city project for flood control in Big Spring. It has been announced through Congressman Omar Burleson's office that the Corps of Engineers has given authorization of the project involving Beals Creek (whose course is largely followed by the Texas & Pacific rail lines through the city). This would involve, according to studies completed by the Engineers, enlargement and re-alignment of 5.6 miles of creek channel through the city.

The Corps of Engineers authorization means that the project has been accepted by that agency for pursuit; there has been no appropriation made. While federal funds will be lacking, the City of Big Spring also is short on its share of financing. Some $400,000 is available for flood control work, as approved in bond issues voted in the city's master plan program of some 10 years ago. There has been no inclination on the part of city officials at this time to seek another half million dollars or so needed.

LETTER OF INTENT
The City Commission did authorize a letter of intent to the Corps of Engineers this Spring, which gave the federal agency a green light to continue with its processing. Actual status of the work remains a question mark.

The Corps of Engineers has been engaged in a study for several years of the entire upper Colorado River Basin, which includes Beals Creek and other streams in the immediate city area. A detailed plan has been evolved for the local work. The Engineers noted the recurrence — however irregular — of an urban flood problem in the city, occasioned by heavy rains in the drainage area of Beals Creek and flash floods caused by local downpours.

FOR BIG FLOODS
The Engineers say their plan for re-channeling the creek is the most practical and economically feasible solution; that it would provide protection from a flood of the "magnitude expected to occur on the average of once every 50 years, and minimize damages from floods of the magnitude expected to occur on the average of once in 100 years."

The improvement of the channel would begin just downstream from the confluence of Big Spring Draw (with Beals Creek) and extend upstream 29,600 feet to One-Mile lake. The enlarged channel would have both vertical and horizontal side slopes and bottom widths from 100 to 40 feet with a 20-foot pilot channel in One-Mile Lake. The proposal calls for the city to provide all lands, easements, rights-of-way and spoil dispersal areas required; Accomplish all relocations and alterations to existing improvements, other than rail-road bridges; Maintain and operate the works after completion; Provide fill areas for the disposal of excess material from the channel excavation work; Prevent encroachment which would interfere with the flood-carrying capacity of the improved channel; Adopt and enforce appropriate flood plain regulations (non-structural measures) to insure an unobstructed floodway and prevent damage to future development within the flood plain.

Applications To Military Schools Now Available

Congressman Omar Burleson has announced that applications for appointment as cadet, United States Coast Guard, (Class of 1975) are now being accepted. Rep. Burleson emphasized this opportunity offers qualified young men a four-year academic program which leads to a bachelor of science degree and a commission as an officer in America's oldest continuing seagoing service.

"Appointments are made solely on a nationwide competitive basis, which is open to all young men who fulfill the basic eligibility requirements," he said. "I urge all qualified young men who are interested in this worthwhile profession to write for details and application forms as soon as possible to Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut 06320."

Gun Clicked, Texan Slain

HOUSTON (AP) — Robert G. Soliz, 33, was shot to death early Friday at a lounge in northeast Houston near the business section. Police officer Gilbert Gonzales said he and his partner went into the lounge to check a narcotics tip. He said he noticed Soliz arguing with another man and that Soliz had a gun. Gonzales said he intervened and that Soliz aimed his gun at Gonzales and pulled the trigger. The gun only clicked. Gonzales at about the same time fired, he said, and Soliz fell dead.

WHAT A PHARMACIST MUST KNOW

You have often heard people say that all a pharmacist has to know when dispensing a prescription is how to count out the already prepared capsules or tablets. This is not true. Pharmacists are taught much more, while attending a college of pharmacy.

A pharmacist must know the art of compounding and how to store medicines to preserve potency. He must know the safe dosage of thousands of drugs. He must know their actions, uses, and precautions while taking them, and how to combine them safely with other drugs. And, he must use this knowledge to check the safety of every prescription he dispenses.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound and dispense yours?

A Devotion For Today . . .

"His heart was filled with pity and he ran, threw his arms around his son, and kissed him." (Luke 15:20, TEV)

PRAYER: Our Father, we are always amazed at Thy love that embraces us in spite of our sins. Forgive us for the evil that has made life hard for us and dampened Thy joy. In the name of Christ. Amen.

The War Memorial

A request has been made by the Veterans Recognition Committee that the present war memorial on the courthouse lawn be enlarged and updated so that it will bear the inscriptions of names of Howard County citizens who have lost their lives in recent Southeast Asia action.

This is an appropriate gesture. The memorial area, one of the more attractive places in the downtown area, actually would have a void if those people who made the supreme sacrifice in latter-day conflicts are not included in the public tribute which now bears the names of victims of World Wars I and II and Korea. Considerable cost is involved, of course, and it is only proper that the county consider the budgeting issue, and weigh the proposition against other needed county expenditures.

It might not be amiss if certain organizations joined in financing the memorial additions, to join the county in bearing the expense. There is a tribute here in which service groups and organizations of similar interests might want to join.

The project ought to be given study before too much time passes by. As years move on, the problem of getting complete lists of war casualties becomes more difficult, and omissions are highly unfortunate. The memorial should be all inclusive, and the Veterans Recognition Committee is to be commended.

Matter Of Convention Facilities

The closing of the Cosden Country Club, as it now exists, at the end of the year will cause a change of considerable impact on the matter of public gatherings in the city, and there will have to evolve some attention to how facilities can be provided for large meetings — those in connection with conventions in particular.

The Cosden organization was initiated as a recreational facility for employees of the company. But, through the generosity of the board of directors, the Cosden management and all others in charge, it became in actuality a public service utility. Countless are the private receptions, luncheons, dinners and conferences that have been held in the club's "Blue Room," because it was made available to virtually all groups, clubs or individuals who requested its use.

The club's ballroom, as the largest public gathering place in town (the High School cafeteria space excepted), has been the scene of many a banquet, many a sales meeting, and many a convention gathering. Such facilities will be missed.

While the club will become the property of the city, and the ground and lake area can be adapted to public park purposes, there arises a major question as to the use of the building. The city should no more enter into the public catering business than should an oil and refining company. Opening the club house at irregular intervals would not be a practical thing.

Big Spring makes an effort all the time to attract conventions; and if it expects to have much success in the future, public meeting and eating areas will have to be arranged.

The Country Club, as a membership institution, will take care of many of the social events. The hotels and motels can handle public meetings in keeping with their own facilities. But there will remain a void, since there will be nothing quite like the accommodations which have been available at the Cosden Club.

David Lawrence Selecting Supreme Court Justices

WASHINGTON — There was a time not so long ago when it would have been very helpful to have a committee of the American Bar Association assist an administration in selecting Supreme Court justices. But the announcement now that the attorney general is planning to ask the nation's "most broadly based organization" of lawyers for an assessment of any future nominee raises more questions than it answers.

The administration could, of course, request a special committee of the American Bar Association to provide a report on the legal accomplishments in various fields of litigation by certain jurists and lawyers without mentioning specifically which one was being considered for appointment to the Supreme Court. It is not in accord with American custom or tradition to delegate to any private organization, in effect, the right to select justices of the Supreme Court.

MUCH OF the difficulty grows out of the controversy over what is the "law of the land." The Constitution has been construed differently by various members of the high court over the years. But there has been a tendency during the last three decades for the court to assume a legislative power — to write laws that have never been passed by Congress and to set forth principles that are not established in the Constitution itself. The sole object claimed in every case, to be sure, has been "to promote the general welfare."

PRESIDENT NIXON has said he wants "strict constructionists" on the Supreme Court, and when he named Judge Warren E. Burger to be chief justice, he made it known that he was choosing such an appointee. But two other nominations which Mr. Nixon submitted and which were rejected — namely, Judges Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., and G. Harrold Carswell — were opposed primarily by civil rights and labor groups. Political opposition really caused their defeat in the Senate. It did not help that they had the approval of the American Bar Association.

THERE IS NO objection to furnishing the American Bar Association committee with the names of persons "under serious consideration" for the Supreme Court, as Attorney General Mitchell has said, with the understanding that this information would remain confidential. But the question is how much impact an endorsement by the American Bar Association can have when a political lobby decides to fight a nomination to the high court.

THERE ARE at present no vacancies on the Supreme Court. Instead of waiting for one to occur, it might be appropriate for the American Bar Association to make its own suggestions and send a list of at least 10 or 15 judges or lawyers who might be considered "sensible constructionists" of the Constitution. Then if a nomination suddenly had to be made, the President would not have to wait very long to pick someone who had the support of the American Bar Association. Meanwhile, too, he could find out whether any of his prospective nominees were vulnerable on the political side.

BUT WHAT standards, for instance, could the American Bar Association committee today apply in trying to determine whether a person is qualified to serve on the Supreme Court? What interpretations of the constitution classify a judge as a "strict constructionist," and what puts him among the so-called "modern" justices?

Never before has "constitutional law" been as ambiguous a phrase as it is at present. To define "constitutional law" is something which frustrates the judges themselves nowadays. They seem to accept the notion that the Constitution is what the justices choose at any time to say it is.

'Hey - Yer S'posed To Knock B'fore Ya Come In'

Business Mirror Corporate Earnings Show Decline

By DAVID BURKE

NEW YORK (AP) — News of lower corporate earnings and signs of renewed inflationary pressure spotlighted this past week in business.

A preliminary survey by the First National City Bank of New York of 677 major companies showed that second quarter profits dropped 54 per cent from the comparable period in 1969.

The survey did not include reports this past week from the major steel companies, which suffered whopping declines. Second quarter profits for U. S. Steel fell 26 per cent to $39.4 million as compared with last year. The company's half-year earnings of $74.9 million marked an 18-year low. An even more severe loss was announced by Bethlehem Steel with its second quarter earnings plunging 52.6 per cent to $19.7 million. Republic Steel reported a 53.8 per cent decline from last year to $10.5 million.

All three companies attributed lower earnings to the nationwide truckers' strike and sharply higher costs.

The news on the corporate front was not all bad, however. General Motors reported a 5.6 per cent profit increase this quarter to $473 million, and International Telephone posted record second quarter earnings of $89.8 million up 28 per cent from 1969.

Despite the generally lower trend in corporate earnings, the inflationary spiral did not appear to be abating. A preliminary report from the Labor Department showed that wholesale prices in July rose at their fastest pace in six months. The department estimated that the wholesale price index gained 0.5 per cent last month, lifting the index 3.8 per cent above the year-earlier level.

Also, the government announced a $2.91 billion budget deficit for the fiscal year ended

Unused House

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — If it takes a heap of living to make a house a home, a 20-year-old structure in the nearby Stehekin Valley has a long way to go. No one has ever lived in it.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart O. Brownfield of Gearhart, Ore., built the house for a summer place, but before they ever used it a business opportunity on the Oregon coast lured them away. Now the house has been signed over to the National Park Service for purchase when funds are available.

But the Brownfields have retained the right to live in the house anytime during their lives, should they wish. They say they are considering doing so sometime this year, just temporarily.

June 30. This was $1.1 billion higher than the deficit predicted two months ago. Officials attributed the larger than expected deficit to small revenues resulting from the sluggish economy.

The only good news this past week came in the area of foreign trade. The Commerce Department reported that the U. S. trade surplus in June rose to a 4-year high. The seasonally adjusted surplus amounted to $466.4 million, up from the $334.4 million reported in May.

This surplus — the difference between merchandise exports and imports — is an important component in the balance of payments total.

In a related development, a surge of machine tool orders from overseas boosted machine tool orders in this country during the month of June from the depressed levels of May.

However, U. S. ordering remained at its lowest level in eight years with no sign of an upturn. Automotive suppliers are delaying orders until after labor talks this fall, and the aerospace industry has reduced bookings.

To Your Good Health You Can't Rub Off Excess Fat

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am on a diet and have a lot of weight to lose. I hate to exercise but I do have a vibrator. It has a strong vibration. Will this do as much good in reducing various parts of the body as exercise would? —Mrs. S.H.

You can answer your own question, and others can answer similar questions for themselves, if you remember that body fat has to be burned up. It can't be rubbed off.

A person requires a calorie deficit of about 3,500 calories to lose a pound of fat, and losing that much per week, with appropriate diet, is reasonable.

That means getting your food intake down to the amount you actually need (you've been eating more than you need, which accounts for the fat) and then reducing your food by an additional 500 calories a day. It can be done. That's how members of these Weight Watchers or Tops groups shed 50 pounds in a year.

Alternatively, if you lowered your food intake to the amount you actually need, then to burn up a pound of body fat in a week by exercise would require an hour of really vigorous exercise per day — an hour, say, of brisk tennis, or the equivalent. (Just batting a tennis ball back and forth, without doing a lot of running, wouldn't do the job.)

In short, diet restriction is the important element in losing weight. Exercise will help, but when you admit that you "hate to exercise," the outlook that way isn't very bright. To burn up an appreciable amount of body fat, you have to exercise strenuously enough to work up a sweat. Letting a vibrator do the work may feel good but it doesn't require any physical effort on your part, and that's the important thing.

When you talk about reducing "in various parts of the body," that's one of the grand delusions — that you can choose a certain part of you to reduce.

As you lose some pounds, you will lose body fat in reverse order. The last places you added weight will be the first places you'll lose it.

People are not totally alike in this. Breast, hips, abdomen, arms, etc., all are accumulating places for fat, but the distribution varies somewhat from person to person. You'll take it off about the same way you put it on.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, now 21, was born with a defective heart (supposedly a hole in the wall of the heart).

Several persons have told me that giving an electrocardiogram to such a person could be very dangerous. Is this true? —H.S.

Definitely not. An electrocardiogram records the electrical activity in the heart, but has no effect on the heart itself.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been drinking a cup of tea with breakfast and another cup or two during the day, but have been told tea is harmful to the kidneys. My husband feels I should stop altogether, or limit myself to one cup. I would appreciate your view. —Mrs. D.L.

Tea isn't harmful to the kidneys, and in some countries, where tea is more popular than coffee, people drink more than you do all their lives without harm. Tea, like coffee, has a diuretic or stimulating effect on the kidneys which is not harmful.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim When Talking To Flowers, Don't Be Ugly

Now comes a chemist who says he has studied such things to proclaim that plants respond to the emotions of humans. "We train dogs, horses and other animals," the man said, "has anyone ever thought of training plants?"

Good grief, I have been talking to the trees, the shrubs, the flowers and the grass around our plot for a long time. It is pleasing to know that a scientist gives support to the possibility that I have not been as crazy as some people would think.

THE CHEMIST says he scored a breakthrough in "contacting" plants through bioelectricity. Man, he continues, emits a minute electrical field, as do plants because of their moving protoplasm. When man's electrical field cuts that of the plant, a measurable response can result.

So much for the scientific jargon. I have not delved into a plant's protoplasm, and I am not sure about the conjunction of electrical fields. All I do know that each year, from early spring into the stages of hot summer, I plead in person with the little seedlings to get with it, be go-getters, and produce, produce, produce.

IF THERE IS a process, electrical or otherwise, that can get through, then my processes have been short-circuited. If it's a matter of language, then we have not established a common tongue. Plants may speak in Swahili.

At any rate, this corner has reviewed many times the futile efforts of an incompetent gardener. One of the personal troubles is that not enough seeds sprout to provide any kind of plant that can be talked to.

I have tried shouting at the soil in which the seed has been planted, but it apparently does not have any moving protoplasm. At least it never talked back.

THERE WAS a time I talked to my peach trees, beseeching them to stay alive. If they cried back that they were starving for food, water or wanted the bugs off their limbs, the message never got through.

There was a season I spoke to cantaloupes, lovingly planted. If they answered me, it was with a Bronx cheer.

SADLY AWARE that my words of encouragement have not gotten through to flowers, I have concentrated this season on communing with the grass. There is evidence that the Bermuda kids tried to talk back for awhile, and they kept a green face. If I seemed to detect a cry for food, a trimming, if the grass asked for it, I seemed to hear of late, was the grass crying to please keep that nasty, stinking water off its back. "Who can live in this stuff?" was a question heard loud and clear.

MY GARDENING approach has been like that of the late W. C. Fields who, one evening set out some small rose plants, and then the next morning opened his bedroom window and yelled down, "Bloom you blankety-blanks!"

If the chemist is right, the roses understood Fields, but were insulted by his naughty words. But if man can't cuss his lawn once in awhile, what can he cuss? —BOB WHIPKEY

Art Buchwald All It Takes Is Money

WASHINGTON — One of the major goals of our American foreign policy is to have countries all over the world hold free elections. As part of this policy, the State Department has been urging politicians to come to the United States and study our political system.

A recent visitor was Ramat Gow of the tiny republic of Nonomura. Ramat Gow met with officials of both parties and received a marvelous insight into how American politics works.

HE WAS ALSO briefed by Stankley Merriweather, of Starkey, Ramsden and Phipps, a public-relations company specializing in electing public officials.

"How does one get elected?" Ramat Gow asked.

"Well, first you need money. You have to have campaign funds to spend on billboards, flyers, radio and television."

"I see. And how does one get this money?"

"THE BEST and easiest way," said Merriweather, "is to approach lobbyists representing vested interests in your country who are willing to contribute large sums of money to political candidates."

"Ah, but if we accepted money from people who have vested interests would we not be obligated to protect these people after we were elected?"

"Exactly. That's the whole idea. They're not financing you because they like the cut of your job."

"IS THERE no other way of holding elections without asking for money from the vested people?"

"We haven't come up with any," Merriweather said. "The American political system is open to anyone in this country, providing he or she can afford it. You see, Mr. Ramat Gow, the most important thing in a political campaign is to get through to your people that your candidate is the best man for the job. This is done through advertising."

"THAT'S VERY interesting," Ramat Gow said. "So the man with the most money is the one who is likely to win in United States?"

"I wouldn't go that far. You have to give the candidate charisma."

"How do you do that?"

"By spending money. The old days of a candidate going out and pressing the flesh are just about over. It's the candidate who comes on for a minute during a football game on TV that's going to take all the marbles."

"This is most constructive. I wish to run for the senate of my parliament. What do you suggest I do?"

"WELL, THE FIRST thing you do is hold a big dinner. Invite the heads of the oil companies, the labor unions and the trucking people and make them each cough up $100 a plate. After you get the money, you can make Ramat Gow a household word."

"Thank you very much, Mr. Merriweather. I have learned more from you in half an hour about the democratic process than I have learned from all the other government officials combined. One more thing. How do you make a TV commercial?"

Marquis Childs The Arts Get Major Backing

WASHINGTON — Score a small triumph for the Nixon Administration and it is a triumph that could have a long reach. Congress has appropriated for the National Endowment for the Arts $40 million which is twice the amount for the previous year.

The triumph owes a lot to a personable persuader who has made a strong impression since she arrived on the Washington scene last October. Nancy Hanks, chairman of the endowment, talked to more than 200 members of Senate and House in making the case for the appropriation.

LOBBYISTS FOR more materialistic goals have reason to envy that record. Miss Hanks brings very special qualities to her task. She is an attractive woman with intelligence and perception that are evident without being in the least assertive.

The President took six months to come up with a replacement for Roger L. Stevens, the first chairman, who resigned after five years of guiding the Federal government's grant program in the arts. Suspicion grew that he meant to leave the post vacant. Then the choice fell on Miss Hanks to almost unanimous approval.

SHORTLY AFTER her appointment the question arose as to how much to request from Congress in the coming fiscal year. There was a long flap over whether it should be $8 million or $10 million. After all, help for the arts — theater, ballet, music, painting — from Uncle Sam is something pretty radical. An old story in Western Europe where the arts have long been endowed, it is a new venture with us where political suspicion of anything as fancy as ballet and long-haired music run deep.

THE DECISION was finally reached to go for double. Miss Hanks and Presidential Assistant Leonard Garment played a leading part in that decision. And Miss Hanks promptly went to work on a list of Senate and House members who might be subject to persuasion.

She made the case again and again that the arts are not something remote and esoteric to be cherished by a special few with rarefied tastes. They are directly related to the quality of life. One of the chief aims of the endowment is to encourage this relationship in every way possible — to get the arts out of the stuffy environment of concert halls and into the parks and streets. Relieve the tedium, the boredom, the emptiness of much of existence in a mechanized society — that is a principal objective of the endowment today.

IT IS NOT that the problems of the concert hall, and they are serious problems, are ignored. The nation's 88 symphony orchestras — 28 major orchestras with budgets over $500,000 and 60 metropolitan orchestras with budgets under $500,000 — have been going steadily in the red. While the endowment obviously cannot underwrite all the deficits, grants of $50,000 each were made to five orchestras for projects considered of outstanding national significance.

THE CONTRAST with practices abroad is startling. Austria with a population of 7,500,000 subsidizes music and the theater to the tune of about $35,000,000 a year, and as a consequence the performing arts are a foremost tourist attraction. But Miss Hanks believes we're on the way, with broad Congressional acceptance of the role of the Federal government in sustaining the arts as an enrichment of life.

Voted Raise

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The 1970 state legislature here authorized a $3,000 annual raise for 600 local officials, but only about 100 will gain by it. That's because the extra money must come from excess fees collected by various offices and many counties are not that prosperous.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband is occasionally sent out of town overnight on business. Usually a man from the company is sent with him, but recently his boss has been assigning a lady to go along. John does not care for this arrangement, and needs less to say, I am not jazzed about it either.

On John's last out-of-town trip he was having dinner with the woman who was assigned to him, which was perfectly innocent, and not unnatural, since they were working together. Well, John said he saw a neighbor of ours, and this neighbor pretended not to see John — as if to avoid an "embarrassing" encounter. This made John very uncomfortable.

Abby, we have three children and have been happily married for 20 years, and I'd like to keep it that way, so will you please say a few words to employers who put employees in an unfair position? Not to mention-upsetting their spouses.

DEAR SPOUSE: You have said it very well. A smart employer makes a conscious effort to keep the "spouse" happy, because an unhappy spouse makes her spouse miserable and a miserable employee isn't apt to be very productive.

DEAR ABBY: I was widowed two years ago and have been a "good boy" all this time. A friend of mine wanted me to meet a woman for some pleasure so he told me about a doll he knew and arranged for her to visit me at a local hotel.

At the appointed time, there was a knock on the door, and when I opened it, there stood a young woman who was the daughter of a friend of mine. I've known this girl since she was 5 years old. She was surprised as I, I merely told her a mistake had been made, and sent her on her way. I've always thought this girl to be a lovely young lady. She holds a good secretarial job. I will not, of course mention this to her parents, but I wonder how she can face me when I visit her house to see her parents?

DEAR BEWILDERED: That will be her problem. And in the future, either arrange your own dates or ask in advance with whom you will be having the pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: As a former mental patient, may I ask a favor of you? Please tell your

Little Yolanda Back Home

Little Yolanda Martinez, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Martinez is back home with the worst of her burn ordeal apparently behind her.

Doctors at the Shrine burns center in Galveston have released her with just about a blank check to "do anything she feels like doing." They just want her to keep exercising, and there is every hope that she will have a complete recovery.

It didn't look that way back on May 29 when Yolanda tossed some gasoline on a trash fire and had about 65 per cent of her body burned in the ensuing flash.

The Big Spring Shrine Club immediately made arrangements for Yolanda to be entered in the Shrine's burn center, and Charles Wash and Keith Swim flew her to Galveston immediately aboard a Forsan Oil Well Servicing Company plane.

During the long stay in Galveston to be with Yolanda, Mr. and Mrs. Martinez were helped by the GI Forum and others, both materially and with prayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Martinez and family said they were deeply grateful to the Shriners of Big Spring, to doctors, school officials, for the airplane and to many, many others who helped out.

"We are happy to announce that Yolanda has responded to treatment in Galveston, thanks to God," they said. "Other than periodical check-ups, we do not have to return to Galveston."

Play Stars 'Brer Rabbit'

Tickets are still on sale for "Livin' De Life!" Aug. 6, 7, 8, and 10 at 2:30 p.m. daily in the Midland Theatre, produced by the Midland Community Theatre's Pickwick Players.

The original children's play was written by Pickwick director Ed Graczyk and concerns Brer Rabbit, ailing with the "Mopes," a terrible disease which has given him the "downcast dips" and the "gloopy gloomies."

Mammy-Bammy, the wonder-lady of the cure-alls, sends Brer Rabbit out to find the ingredients for the magic potion which can cure him, and that search is the plot of the play.

All seats are reserved and can be obtained by writing Pickwick Players, Box 4847, Midland, or calling the box office at 682-7976 in Midland. Tickets are 75 cents for children and $1 for adults.

The July figure, described by the Texas Contractor as "fantastic," brought the seven-month total to $894,202,700—another new Texas record.

The biggest contract went to Brown & Root Inc.—$50 million for the Mobay chemical plant on Cedar Bayou below Houston.

Eight other contracts were worth more than $2 million each. Among them: Alodex Construction Corp. of Memphis, Tenn. ($12,595,000 for Richland College, Dallas); Farrell Construction Co. of Memphis, Tenn. ($11,156,705 for Wallisville Reservoir); Manhattan Construction Co. of Houston ($7,197,000 for a Texas A&M dormitory complex); Gen Construction Co. of Fargo, N. D. ($6,988,923 for Port Arthur levee and flood wall); Manhattan Construction Co. of Houston ($6,733,000 for the Honston City Hall annex); Lawless & Alford Inc. of Austin ($4,976,668 for modernization of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Waco); Telepen Construction Co. of Houston ($3,604,898 for pump stations in hurricane flood project at Port Arthur and vicinity); Arlin Associates of Dallas ($3,174,000 for a 357-unit apartment building in Dallas).

The July figure, described by the Texas Contractor as "fantastic," brought the seven-month total to $894,202,700—another new Texas record.

'Airport' Stars Plane Mock-Up

The awesome mock-up of a complete Boeing 707 interior, stretching 145 feet from its authentic flight deck along 110 seats to the tail section, became the five-week "office" of actors and actresses on a weird flight to nowhere.

They were portraying passengers enroute to Rome for some climactic scenes in the production of the best-seller, "Airport," now showing at the R-70 Theatre.

At the controls were Dean Martin and Barry Nelson. Attending the passengers as stewardesses were Jacqueline Bisset, Ena Hartman, Malilla Saint Duval, Sharon Harvey and a real-life stewardess turned actress, Patty Poulsen. Among the passengers were such notables as Helen Hayes and Van Heflin.

"We tried to create an atmosphere of a jetliner in flight as much as was possible within the confines of a film studio sound stage," producer Ross Hunter said. "Everyone of our passengers was given an individual biographical sketch so they knew why they were on this jet flight."

The Boeing used to block the runway in the exciting story, and the one in flight, is a star equally as important as the human thespians. The $7 1/2-million, 300,000-pound actor was rented from Flying Tigers Lines, along with a crew. It cost only $3,000 on make-up to change it into a Trans-Global airliner for its film chores.

Horror Star Says 'Villainy Is Fun'

Striding his sinister and sadistic way through the real-life role of Matthews Hopkins horror-thriller "The Conqueror Worm" filmed on location in Hollywood, Vincent Price, confessed that he was "having fun." The suspenseful film opens on Saturday at the Jet Theatre.

"All screen villainy is fun," he said, during a break in filming. "That is why I enjoy doing it so much. It gives me as big a kick as comedy, which I also love doing, besides being so much easier." Describing his role as Hopkins, self-appointed "Witchfinder General" of Cromwellian days, who spread terror throughout eastern England during the two years he spent in sending over two hundred people to some of the most horrible of deaths by torture hanging, drowning and burning at the stake, Vincent Price went on:

"Despite his macabre and revolting occupation, this man Hopkins was not just a sadist. Else, I wouldn't have been interested in playing him. He was a human being — not a humane one, perhaps — but he had all the usual weaknesses, including a fondness for young women.

"I saw him as a man who, at first, really believed in the Christian justness of his cause but who, when he found he could turn it to profit through the credulity of local magistrates in those lawless times, degenerated into an ogre whose

'Woodstock' Producer, Director Get It All Together In Movie

To bring that fantastic three-day celebration of peace, love and music known as the Woodstock Festival to the motion picture screen required an enormous communal effort by cameramen, soundmen and editors among others. But in getting it all together, the category of "first among equals" is filled by director Michael Wadleigh, 28, and producer Bob Maurice, 32.

Together, Wadleigh and Maurice bore the responsibility for "Woodstock," the musical documentary now at the Cinema Theatre.

Appearing are Joan Baez, Arlo Guthrie, Crosby, Stills and Nash, Joe Cocker, Ten Years After, Sly and the Family Stone, John Sebastian, Country Joe and the Fish, Jimi Hendrix, Santana, Richie Havens and half-a-million young people doing their own thing. Officially, "Woodstock" is "a film by Michael Wadleigh." As such, it represents the high point of this three-year career as a filmmaker.

The native of Akron, Ohio, received both a BA in English and a BS in physics and chemistry from Ohio State University. He attended medical school at Columbia University for two years, followed by a year of studying and teaching cinematography at New York University. He never returned to medical school.

Michael has 12 N.E.T.-TV documentaries to his credit. In Afghanistan he scaled mountain peaks to put together a 60-minute special called "Once Before I Die." In 1968 he made short films on the careers and work of Robert Kennedy, Eugene McCarthy, Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon. History, psychoanalysis, linguistics and comparative religion were roads Bob Maurice investigated in search of a calling before he turned to motion picture production.

Mutual friends introduced Maurice to Mike. The two formed a partnership whose first effort was to build "a cinema of the future" in Los Angeles. They abandoned that notion when a freeway was built over their chosen site, and turned, instead, to filmmaking and producing.

Vampire Lures Pretty Reader

Read enough about vampires, and, possibly, you might become one.

It happened to pretty Barbara Ewing, a talented actress who recently became involved with the legendary vampire king, Count Dracula, in "Dracula Has Risen From the Grave" which opens Saturday at the Jet Theatre. The thriller stars Christopher Lee in the title role. Miss Ewing, who was born and raised in New Zealand, earned her Bachelor of Arts degree at Wellington University. "It's funny," she notes, "I got my BA in literature, so I studied tales of vampirism throughout the world. And now I've become one."

Actually, the 24-year-old Barbara has a classical theatrical background. Having studied her craft at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art in London, she won the gold medal as the best student in her class. After graduating, she toured Britain in various repertory companies.

Nautical Comedy In 'The Boatniks'

Walt Disney Productions' riotous new comedy, "The Boatniks," starring Robert Morse, Stefanie Powers, Phil Silvers and Don Ameche, is the story of the Sunday sailor.

On any given weekend, amateur armadas weigh anchor on bays, lakes and rivers from Maine to California, and take to the waves. One may see sloops and outboards, yachts and yawls, cruisers and rowboats, ploughing the briny maine.

Although the boats come in all sizes and descriptions, the yachtsman is much the same. He sees himself as the proud and gallant captain determined to win his constant battle with the elements. He is familiar with nautical terms and spouts them authoritatively. Unfortunately, he is NOT familiar with nautical law and is, in fact, that most dreaded menace of the high seas, the weekend yachtsman.

Take an accident prone young Coast Guard Ensign, a beautiful young girl, a trio of amateur thieves with a million dollars worth of stolen jewels and a mysterious Japanese pearl diver on their hands, mix well with the hysterical antics of our sailor, stir gently against the background of Newport Harbor, the busiest small boat harbor in the world, add the wackiest chase sequence in movie history, bake slowly in the California sun and serve up the most hilarious comedy of the year, "The Boatniks."

The film also stars Norman Fell, Mickey Shaughnessy and Wally Cox.

Hunting An Unusual Job? Try Being An Egg-Checker

By GORDON ZEIGLER
From the time a hen lays it until it reaches the kitchen table, many things can happen to an egg.

Most egg producers and grocery men naturally take pride in selling eggs of the highest quality. Consumers like good eggs.

The state law requires egg producers to grade eggs by lawful standards, properly package and label them, and eliminate sub-standard eggs before they leave the plant. Grocery men receive the eggs on faith that they meet these standards.

A vital link in the chain between producers and the consumer is a team of 16 men across the state who are full time egg law specialists for the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"We primarily are involved in consumer protection," said Maurice Jones, Big Spring, who covers a wide territory and makes inspections at packing houses as well as grocery stores.

When violations do occur a "stop order" is written and the case in question cannot be sold. "The inspector has two factors to consider," explained Wayne Cure, supervisor for the TDA, Odessa.

"Sometimes it is the store's fault, due to aging of eggs and lack of rotation. Mishandling will cause too many checks or leakers. If so the grocer bears the responsibility.

Warning notices are issued if a violation is marginal or if package markings alone would disqualify the eggs.

Jones works a 35-county territory between El Paso and Abilene and from Big Spring south to Mexico. His territory encompasses 60 packing houses.

"Through examination of eggs in the stores we can keep a pretty close watch on producers," Cure said. "When we find things not going right, we try to go to packers and help them with any problems they may be having."

Demonstration Agent Attends State Meet

Mrs. Catherine Crawford, Howard County home demonstration agent, will be in Lubbock Aug. 5-6 for the annual meeting of home demonstration agents in the Ko Ko Inn there.

Registration will begin Tuesday afternoon, and a breakfast Wednesday morning will start the official meeting. Kenneth Hobbs, Lubbock attorney, will be breakfast speaker.

Other speakers will be Mrs. Florence Low, assistant director for home economics, Texas Agricultural Extension Service; Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Dr. Willa Vaughn Tinsley, dean of the home economics school at Texas Tech.

A tour of the home economics departments at Tech and Lubbock Christian College are planned for Wednesday morning. The members will attend a Hayloft Theater production in the evening.

Mrs. Crawford is one of the home demonstration agents in the 20-county District II serving as hostesses for the meeting.

Waco College Will Re-Open

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Paul Quinn College will re-open Aug. 25 for the fall semester, trustees of the Negro school said Friday after a special meeting.

The school was closed earlier this week after students staged a rowdy demonstration protesting reduction of the faculty. The college cafeteria was burned and two other buildings damaged by fire.

School officials said they would not press charges against any of the students. Seniors who graduated at the end of the interrupted summer school will get their diplomas by mail.

Sky Divers Jump At Drag Races

EL PASO — Drag racing at El Paso International Dragway will feature a three place purse for showroom stock eliminator along with a special program by the Sky Diving Club of El Paso.

First place winner in the showroom bracket will receive $50 followed by a $25 purse for runner-up and $15 for third place. Along with the showroom purses, there will be a $75 purse for winners in competition, top stock and street eliminator. Runner-ups in top stock and street will receive $25 for their efforts.

E.P.I.D. is a sanctioned American Hot Rod Association drag strip.

The track is located approximately 15 miles past the city limits on the Carlsbad Highway. Gates open at 10 a.m. with eliminations scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m.

Trophies are awarded all class winners, eliminator winners and track record setters.

Battery C In Summer Camp

Members of Battery C, 3rd Bn, 133rd Artillery of Big Spring commanded by 1st Lt. Cecil C. Bartlett ended the second week of annual training today at North Ft. Hood. The units completed tactical field training and Army Training Tests to determine extent of training, areas of proficiency and areas where additional training emphasis must be placed. Guardsmen will return to home stations today.

In the stock room of an area store, Jones deftly held a fistful of eggs, stopping briefly to view each, in front of a special candling light — a square box with high intensity beam of light focused out the front.

"Here is one we call a checked egg," said Jones pointing out small cracks in the egg shell. Only a bright light reveals this. Inspectors see foreign matter through the translucent shell if it is present.

Jones routinely checks the first 100 eggs in each case, called a lot. He looks to see if eggs match up with grades stamped outside the cartons and that proper information appears — packer's license number, address and stamp denoting whether eggs are Texas grown.

Only 20 per cent of the 100 eggs may be below the grade indicated, in the case of Grade A eggs.

Only five per cent may be "checks" or eggs with cracks. "Leakers" are eggs with contents running out of broken shells. No leakers are permissible.

If foreign matter — blood spots or bacteria growth — is found inside even one egg, the entire case is stopped from sale. "These are classed as inedible eggs," Jones said. Violations of this type are few since it is a grader's duty at the plant to eliminate them on packing lines.

"Or the violation may be due to faulty inspection or improper shipping by a packer, then the stop order goes straight to him along with the eggs."

In either case this means eggs go back to a packer where licensed graders must re-check eggs and bring them within tolerances before they can be re-offered to consumers.

TDA records indicated less than eight per cent of cases checked in June had to given stop orders. Jones visited 44 firms within his territory, examined 141 lots, and issued 11 stop orders and three warning tickets.

The fact that eggs are examined seems to be a little known fact among grocery shoppers, Jones believes.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS

Dear Friends:

Our first interest is for the people of the Big Spring area who have made this Association the great institution that it has become in 35 years. We feel that the Association has an obligation to help make this community better and better.

One of our ambitions is that we will be able to help our people in such a way that every family will have an opportunity to own a home. People who put down their roots in a town generally own homes, and homeowners are people with pride and ambition for their town.

It is our hope, too, that we can promise the most excellent incentive for our people to invest their money where it is safe and will yield them a good reward for their thrift. We take satisfaction in having a part in helping people save for homes, education for their children, for retirement, or a nest egg, or whatever is cherished.

We are grateful to have grown with Big Spring since 1935 — and for the opportunity to continue to help Big Spring and this great area to grow and prosper.

Cordially,

Elmo Wasson, President

Elmo Wasson

Business Leader Is President

President of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association is a man who has spent almost all his life here. His parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Ira Wasson, came here in 1905. Wasson is owner of Elmo Wasson's Men's Store, the oldest such business in the city, and has other varied business interests.

Following his graduation from high school, he went to work for the old Albert M. Fisher Company (now Hemphill-Wells Co.), leaving this in 1926 to take a position as advertising manager for Meehans & Edison department store in Corpus Christi for a year and a half. Big Spring, however, had a red hot boom going and Wasson returned to establish his men's store in the new Petroleum Building, continuing in active management of it until 1960-61 before taking over the operation again.

He served several terms as a Chamber of Commerce director, was a past president of the organization and as such created the commission responsible for the historic Centennial Celebration in 1949. He is a past president of the Rotary Club and also served as district governor.

Wasson became a member of the board of First Federal July 1, 1950, upon the death of William B. Currie, one of the founding directors. With elevation of R. L. Cook to the presidency, Wasson became vice president and was elevated to the top post Oct. 14, 1963, with the death of Mr. Cook.

He was married to the former Sue King of Corpus Christi in 1929, and they have one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy (James) Duncan. They make their home at 508 Edwards. He is a leader in the Christian Science Society.

MALCOLM PATTERSON

Another of the officers of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association who gave it a hometown flavor is Malcolm L. Patterson, secretary-treasurer. He is a native of Big Spring and gave up a good career with a major oil company to return home.

Graduating from Big Spring High School, he took his degree from Texas Tech in 1933 and went to work with Phillips Petroleum Company, serving at Crane and Odessa and at Bartlesville, Okla. In 1951, he was serving as division gas engineer at Odessa when he decided to come back to Big Spring and go into farming and ranching with his brother, Morris Patterson. They expanded operations to include the Patterson Insurance Agency, which they bought from their father, the late L. S. Patterson, in 1953.

Patterson was made a member of the board of First Federal Sept. 23, 1963, following the death of R. L. Cook, and he was elected secretary-treasurer Sept. 14, 1965.

He is a member of the Big Spring Association of Insurance Agents, Texas Insurance Agents, the Rotary Club, and has been active in several civic undertakings such as the United Fund, Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts, etc.

Patterson is the president of the Howard County South Plains Hereford Breeders Association, is a director in the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo.

He was married in 1933 to Lila Hollon of Waco, his college sweetheart at Tech. They are members of the First Baptist Church and reside at the southwest edge of town.

K. H. McGIBBON

Almost from the time he arrived here from Perryton in 1940 to take over the Phillips Petroleum jobbership, K. H. (Chub) McGibbon has been an active figure in Big Spring business and civic life.

He heads McGibbon Oil Company and is interested in several businesses, including Keaton and McGibbon.

McGibbon is past president of the Downtown Lions Club, of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, the Big Spring YMCA (and was a member of the Southwest Area Council); past president and campaign chairman of the United Fund; past president of the official board of the First United Methodist Church; is president (and former secretary) of the board of trustees of Howard County Junior College; president of the Howard County Hospital Authority; and is a director in the First National Bank. McGibbon also is a member of the Masonic bodies, including membership in the Suez Shrine Temple and Big Spring Shrine Club. He has served on the Industrial Foundation and the boards of other corporations.

Mrs. McGibbon is the former Matilda Garlinghouse, and they make their home at 108 Cedar. They have three daughters, Mrs. Kenda (Dr. Charles) Webb, Bloomington, Ind.; Mrs. Kay (Ewing) Werlin, Houston; and Mrs. Karen (Dr. Earl C.) Smith, Dallas.

ROBERT STRIPLING

Robert Stripling, one of the directors of First Federal Savings & Loan Association, has had 27 years connection with the institution, 23 years of that time as the executive head. He retired as executive vice president in 1966 but remained on the board.

A native of Big Spring, he went to work with H. O. Wooten Wholesale Grocery upon graduation from Big Spring High School in 1925, leaving that post in 1931 to establish an insurance agency.

When Merle J. Stewart retired as secretary-treasurer of the association, Stripling took over these duties Aug. 1, 1943. Business of the association was conducted in his office in the Petroleum Building as they had been in the office of Stewart in the same location. In 1953, a new home for the association was raised at Fifth and Main, in 1957 he devoted all his time to First Federal as executive vice president.

While he began his duties, assets of the association amounted to $150,000; when he retired from his administrative post they had past the $18,000,000 mark.

He is a life-long member of the First United Methodist Church, past chairman of its board; past chairman and a life member of the Salvation Army Advisory board; past president of the Kiwanis Club; former member of the school board during the busy building years of 1953-58; (his mother for years had been on the board) member of the United Fund board; past director of the YMCA; and former member of the Methodist General Hospital board in Lubbock. He is founder of the Stripling - Mancill Insurance Agency. He and Mrs. Stripling, the former Jean Loughridge, reside at 903 Mountain Park. They have one son, Dr. Robert Stripling.

R. V. MIDDLETON

R. V. (Bob) Middleton, member of the board of directors of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, has been familiar with this country since he roamed over it as a cowboy when growing up.

R. V. MIDDLETON

For years he has been senior vice president of the First National Bank, and he has other farming, ranching and business interests.

He attended school here in 1914-15, then joined the old West Texas National Bank, and with the exception of a year and a half tour for service in World War I, he has been one of its key figures in it and its successor, the First National.

Middleton is one of the founders (in 1934) of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo and has served on its board since the beginning. For nearly a score of years he has been a member and director of the Farm Bureau chapter.

He is an elder in the First Presbyterian Church, and a member of all the Masonic bodies including Suez Temple and Big Spring Shrine Club. Several times he has served as a Chamber of Commerce director, and as an United Fund official.

He and Mrs. Middleton, the former Louise Wheelon, live at 1206 Runnels. They have two children, Harry Middleton, and Mrs. Charles Buckner.

Charles E. Beil

Assignment Led To Executive Post

Charles E. Beil was called on to do a job for First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Big Spring, and this became a contact by which he eventually took a place with the institution. Since August, 1966, he has been the executive vice president of the association.

It fit right into his training, for after he had completed high school at Seminole, Okla., where he was born, he took his BBA from the University of Oklahoma in 1957 with his major in marketing and finance. This event led immediately to two other experiences.

He was married to Joan Sawyer, who graduated from OU with a piano major in music at the same time, and, with a ROTC commission, he began a two-year tour of duty with the U. S. Army as a Nike missile officer in the Philadelphia sector of the Air Defense Command. It proved an enjoyable experience in the cradle of American history. Their first daughter was born while they were in Philadelphia.

In August, 1959, he took a place with the Burroughs Corp. in Oklahoma City, and the company asked him to become a salesman in the Big Spring area in January, 1962. His work earned him the Legion of Honor citation by his company, and it resulted in his designing the mechanical bookkeeping system for First Federal, he later was invited to join First Federal in February, 1966.

Beil is a Rotarian and member of its board; a past president of the Jaycees, a member of the Ambassadors Club (Red Coats) and the leading Chamber of Commerce membership producer in 1969. He has had a role in United Fund campaigns, is a director of the YMCA, and is a member of the Industrial Team with a specialty in labor.

Beil also has completed work in the Graduate School of Savings and Loans Institutions, which involved three summers of residence at the University of Indiana, whose graduate business school offers the course. He is a member of the West Texas chapter of the Society of Savings Institution Comptrollers.

At the First United Methodist, where he has been a member of the board, he teaches a youth Sunday School group. He and Mrs. Beil and their three daughters, Beverley, 11, Brenda, 9, Charlotte, 7, reside at 502 Highland.

LU NORRIS

Assistant Secretary

Wehn Lucille (Lu) Norris came to Big Spring and joined First Federal Savings and Loan Association, she was almost back home.

She was born in Santa Anna as Lucille Carter and her family moved to Dawson County where she grew up and completed her schooling at Union High School. She worked as a vocational nurse at the Lamesa General Hospital, subsequently did office work for it before she and Bill Norris were married in Lamesa.

They moved to Dallas, where she went to work the next five years with General Motors in a general office position. However, she did get training in electronic accounting when it was first beginning to enter the picture.

Norris, who had been working with Lone Star Gas in Dallas, took a post with Pioneer Gas Company in Big Spring in 1960, and shortly after the family arrived here, Mrs. Norris became a teller with First Federal. She served as bookkeeper and in other positions before being made assistant secretary. As such she closes loans, handles college and educational loans, and otherwise assists in operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Norris live at 1605 E. 6th and they have one daughter, Rhonda, who will enter Howard County Junior College in the autumn. The family is active in Crestview Baptist Church.

She has taken courses given by the American Savings and Loan Institute, and has on her own taken other training such as speed reading and the Dale Carnegie course. If she has a hobby, it is sewing.

Assistant Treasurer

Lorene Minnick, assistant treasurer of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, is at home with West Texans, for she is one of them. Born Lorene Thrash in Houston, she was reared in Snyder, where she graduated from high school.

LORENE MINNICK

For several years she was a secretary to John Sentell, an attorney and later state representative. In 1946 she was married to John E. Minnick, and they moved to Big Spring in 1948. For 10 years, she enjoyed being a housewife and mother, but in 1958 she decided to return to work and became part of First Federal, a relationship she has held continuously with the exception of 16 months.

Among her duties are serving as head of operations, making out the Federal Home Loan Bank regular reports, handling office accounting, assisting with loans, etc.

She, with others, is engaged in studies with the American Savings and Loan Institute, taking a course in advanced accounting. She also is a member of the West Texas chapter of Society of Savings Institution Comptrollers.

She and Mr. Minnick live at 1301 East 19th, and they are members of the West Side Baptist Church. Her husband is an avid horseman, and indirectly this probably qualifies as her hobby.

The Minnicks have two children, a recently married daughter, Mrs. Don Simpson, Midland, and a son, John E. Minnick Jr., a senior in Angelo State University.

Assistant Secretary

Helen Mahoney ranks right up with the senior employes in tenure with the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. Now serving as assistant secretary, she has been a part of the First Federal family since 1954.

Her duties primarily are in handling loans, specializing in FHA type, plus savings and investment accounts, bills payable, etc.

She was born Helen Hamer in Wapanucka, Okla., and came to Texas as a young girl. The family lived in Fort Stockton and then Colorado City, where she completed school. In 1937 she and Curtis W. Mahoney were married in Howard County, but it was five years later that they moved to Big Spring. She had been working in Colorado City, and later helped her husband in businesses in El Paso and Houston before coming here when he became associated with the T&P.

Mrs. Mahoney worked for retail businesses here, and in 1954 got a chance to put her school training in bookkeeping to work as an employe of First Federal. For many years she was head bookkeeper for the institution.

She and Mr. Mahoney have two sons, Ralph Mahoney, who is associated with his father in a cotton buying business, and Robert Mahoney, vice president of First National Bank in Arlington. Ralph and his wife, Naomi, have no children, but Robert and his wife, Glenda, have a son and daughter, Scott, and Holly. The family home is at No. 4 Highland Heather.

Mrs. Mahoney is a member of the First Baptist Church and its Questers Class. She is a past member of American Business Women's Association, is vice president of Big Spring Credit Women's (international). As a hobby, she is fond of dabbling in dramatics, and writing sketches.

While First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Big Spring always has been operated with security of the saver and borrower in mind, it has taken an extra step to strengthen this element of safety.

One of the first steps it took when organized in 1935 was to become a member of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, which had been created the year before to guarantee savings up to $5,000. In 1950, FSLIC boosted the amount to $10,000; in 1966 this was made $15,000; and now

FSLIC

Badge of Protection

all deposits are guaranteed up to $20,000 per account. FSLIC has $2.5 billion in assets. In addition it has the right to call upon members for deposits equal to one per cent of total savings, so that it could have a ready amount of $4.5 billion to use for making up any losses should they occur.

The deposit insurance agency also may make special premium assessments, and since 1962 it has had a second reserve created by pre-payment of the deposit insurance.

There are 4,470 associations with some 43,600,000 savers who are thus protected in the $147 billion assets held by the association.

At 35, First Federal Is Vigorous

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Big Spring comes to its 35th birthday in robust health.

A far cry from its beginning when the great Depression still had its clutches on much of the nation's economy, First Federal today is an institution with nearly $19,000,000 assets.

Having demonstrated a capacity for remarkable growth, it has, even in the recent era of tight money, proven its staying power. Although other institutions have been given more latitude and government rates have rocketed, the association last year still managed to end up with more savings than ever before.

From a humble beginning of some $27,900 in assets, and only $18,800 loans on the book, the association has loaned millions of dollars in the intervening years in more than 4,500 first mortgage and countless other loans, and now has over $15½ million in first mortgage accounts.

It has paid out over $7 million in dividends — more than half of that within the past five years. Small wonder that Elmo Wasson, president, pointed to pride with the record of the association as a community builder.

Big Spring was beginning to shake off the crushing effects of the Depression when the association dated its charter June 25, 1935. It was presented and the accounts in the association were insured up to $10,000 (now $20,000) in August, which is regarded as the anniversary date. The first meeting drew 36 members, attesting to the interest in establishing an institution which could help with improvement and construction.

Dr. M. H. Bennett was named president; W. W. Inkman, vice president; J. B. Collins, secretary-treasurer; Tom J. Coffee and William B. Currie, the other directors. Merle J. Stewart soon succeeded Collins as secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Inkman was succeeded by Obie Bristow in 1950, and five years later he left the board, being succeeded by K. H. McGibbon. R. V. Middleton became a director in 1952 when Mr. Collins moved, and R. L. Cook succeeded Mr. Coffee in 1948, who also had moved. Elmo Wasson took the place of Mr. Currie in 1950.

W. W. Inkman became president July 20, 1949, and at that time R. L. Cook became vice president, then succeeded to the presidency Sept. 4, 1950. When Mr. Cook died in 1963, Elmo Wasson was named president, a post he still holds. Robert Stripling, who had been secretary since 1943, was made executive vice president, but when he retired in 1966, Charles Beil became the chief executive officer.

Among the names of the original stockholders who are still living are G. H. Hayward, Wenelle Woodall Vines, Janet Robb O'Brien, J. Y. Robb Jr., Dr. E. O. Ellington, Nell Hatch, A. R. Collins, M. J. Stewart and Mrs. Lee Rogers.

The first loan made by the association was one to G. J. (Bill) Early for improvements to his home at 1702 State.

But in those early days, caution was still the watchword, and records reflect rejection of as many loans as were approved. Just about the time the association was getting traction, World War II came along and virtually froze construction and the necessity for loans, and the emphasis on U.S. Savings Bonds took precedence over new savings accounts.

After the war, the picture changed. Savings began increasing on the order of 25 to 30 per cent a year, and new loan applications jumped. In its 15th year, the association crossed the million dollar mark in savings and the following year this same plateau in loans. By 1956 the dividend payments were exceeding $100,000 a year. In 1954, both savings and loans crossed the $2 million mark, two years later the $3 million level, and thereafter, until the recent tight-money squeeze, rose at about a million a year, sometimes two or three times that rate.

For many years, business of the association was carried on in the offices of the secretaries, who had their own private businesses in the Petroleum Building, but in 1952, the association acquired property at Fifth and Main and built what appeared to be an adequate plant. Growth, however, was so rapid that when adjoining land became available, the association built its handsome present home, acknowledged to be one of the most beautiful structures in West Texas, in 1963, demolishing the previous building.

Today savings accounts in the association approach the $17 million mark, and assets are above the $18½ million level. This is a long, long way from the first days when the association leaned heavily on the Home Loan Bank for funds to make its loans.

With the most modern of facilities, a seasoned and continually well-trained staff, First Federal Savings and Loan Association is poised for another surge when the current economic log jam begins to break up. Whatever the future holds for this area, First Federal will be right in the middle of it doing more than its part.

From Mutual To Everybody

Savings and loan associations in the United States can trace their ancestry back to England. Their direct lineage in this country goes back more than 140 years and in Texas for little over a century.

From a mutual arrangement in 1831, the savings and loan industry has grown upward of $200 billion in assets. In Texas, the growth has been such that Dr. Jack W. Cashion, who has written a detailed history of the activity in the state, concluded that the associations "have reached such a stature they are inexorably tied to the public welfare."

At one point in their development, associations were so popular they led to razzle dazzle national promotions that met stubborn resistance from the local level. It was inevitable that all should come under careful regulation to protect investors. Today, no institution plays a role in housing comparable to savings and loan associations.

TWO CENTURIES AGO

Building societies which flourished in England in the late 17th and early 18th centuries (Birmingham had one in 1781) were the progenitors of today's associations. The first in the United States was the Oxford Provident Association in Frankford, Pa. (now part of Philadelphia), organized Jan. 3, 1831, to help "subscribers . . . to build or purchase dwelling houses." Shares were $500 payable at $5 down and $3 a month. The 13 trustees served without compensation.

Growth was rapid in the 1840's (501 were organized) and the movement spread to South Carolina, Maryland, New Jersey and Connecticut. The Brooklyn (N.Y.) Building and Mutual Fund Association had been organized in 1836 (and existed for a hundred years):

NATIONALS AND LOCALS

Commenting on the phenomenal growth after the Civil War, a Prof. Sanborn noted that "at the rate of building associations are now gaining, the time may come when their accumulated savings may exceed those of our savings bank." The great popularity of these local associations led to the "nationals," the first of which may have been the National Building, Loan and Protective Union chartered in 1887 in Minnesota. Using high-pressure methods as refined as today's magazine subscription crews, some of the national groups combed the country to raise funds. Many of them went sour, but even before this the local groups organized the U.S. League of Building and Loan Associations to combat them. This essentially is the umbrella today for the nation's vast saving and loan structure.

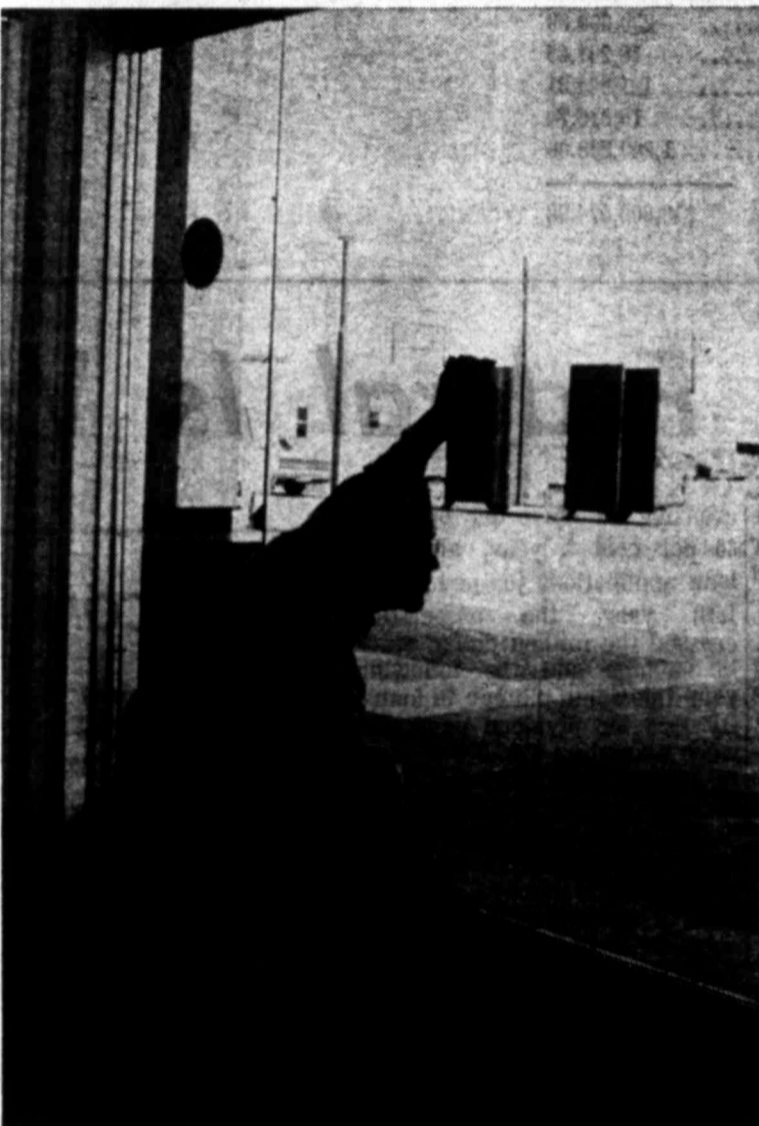

Over the years, the trend was away from the strictly mutual or co-operative approach toward the corporate philosophy. The advent of pass book savings with at-will withdrawal made the associations a prime and handy savings agency within reach of all.

THE TEXAS STORY

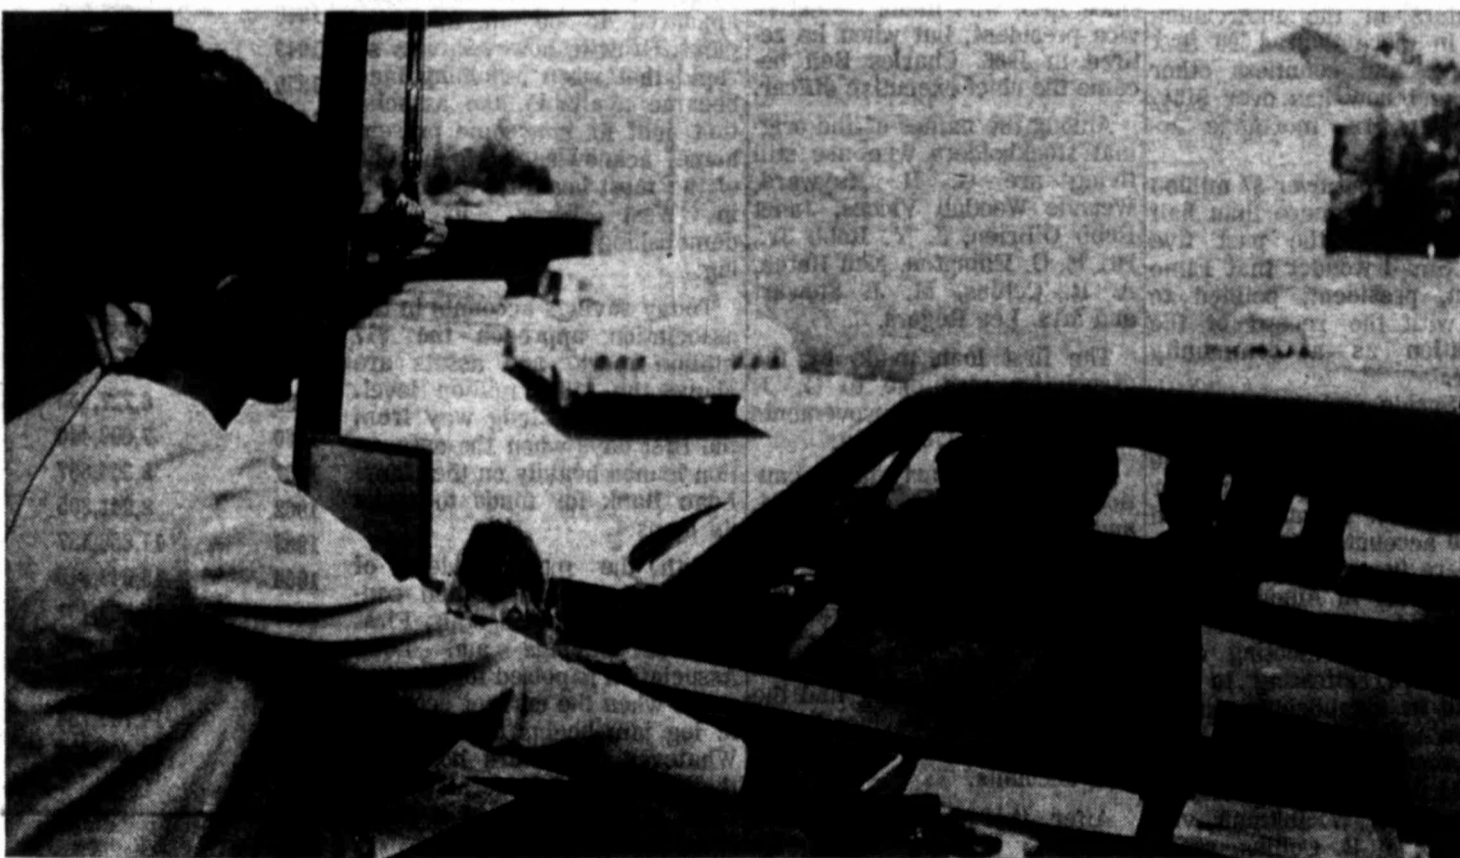

Apparently the first association in Texas was the Young Men's Mutual Real Estate and Building Association (chartered by special legislative act Nov. 6, 1866. It had a $600 share value (payable at $10 a month).
