FUNERAL SERVICES FOR J. W. BOONE HELD AT CHURCH OF CHRIST MONDAY AFTERNOON

J. E. McDonald Fatally Injured In Auto Mishap

J. E. McDonald, aged 65, was fatally injured Friday morning when he was struck by an automobile said to have been driven by Mr. Ben Hasse. The accident occurred about a mile west of Junction on the O. S. T. He was rushed to the Standifer hospital where he died about an hour later.

Details of the accident were hard to learn, but it is thought that he had stepped out of a truck, and the car going out of town could not stop before he was struck down.

The body was carried to Hunt, Texas, Saturday morning for burial. Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Interment was in the Hunt Cemetery.

Deceased was born in an Indian camp in Kansas when his other was being held as a captive there. They were turned loose by the Indians in 1867 and returned to Harper, the place they were when the Indians seized them.

McDonald married Miss Helen Taylor at Ingram on May 17, 1888. He was a member of the Baptist Church at the time of his death.

R. S. Price Dies Tuesday Night

Mr. R. S. Price, a citizen of Junction and Kimble County for many years, died in a San Antonio hospital last Tuesday evening at 9:50 o'clock. He had been in ill health for a long period, and while his death was a shock to friends, the end was not altogether unexpected.

Funeral services were held in a San Antonio funeral home, and interment was in the Del Rio Cemetery in Del Rio, Texas. The Rev. Fray, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church in San Antonio, conducted the funeral services.

Mr. Price was the owner of Price's Camp, a summer vacation resort on the South Llano River, and was interested in the development of Junction. He was a progressive man and stood behind local organizations and their work.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Delano and Mr. S. A. Stewart of Junction attended the funeral in San Antonio Wednesday.

Mr. Price was born in one of the New England States in 1861, and came to Texas when he was nine years old.

He is survived by two sisters, Miss Adreinne T. Price of San Antonio and Mrs. Lee Wood of San Antonio, and one brother, George Price of Colorado.

DISTRICT 12 OFFICIALS WILL MEET IN MASON

A meeting of representatives of District 12 of the Interscholastic foot ball league will be held in Mason Saturday for the purpose of organizing the district.

Since Kerrville has gone to Class A football, Mr. R. A. Rankin of Kerrville, who has been chairman, appointed M. O. Pitt of Sonora temporary airman of the meeting.

Local I. O. O. F. Lodge Takes Part in Ceremonies

Monday afternoon another one of Kimble County's pioneer citizens was laid to rest in the Junction Cemetery. Funeral services for Mr. J. W. Boone, who died Saturday, were held at the Church of Christ Monday afternoon at 3 p. m., with the Elder J. S. Newman officiating. The new Church of Christ building could not hold the throngs of friends who came to pay last tribute to the deceased.

Strains of "The Old Rugged Cross" sung by the congregation, were heard as the body was borne into the church. The Elder J. S. Newman delivered a short and impressive funeral sermon, and the congregation sang "Sweet By and By" and "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder." After the church services, the procession went to the cemetery for the interment.

Pall bearers were Messrs. Astor Wallace, Howard Blackburn, Dennis Wallace, Guy Munn, Carlos Taylor and Clarence Turner.

After Elder Newman completed the funeral sermon, the members of the I. O. O. F. Lodge took charge of the services. Members of the Junction Lodge attending were: W. H. Baker, A. G. Farmer, Joe Bissett, Joe Ramsey, Jim Carpenter, Ran Davis, Dee Gibbs, Nolan Gilliam, Pierce Hoggett, Frank Patterson, Bill Murrah, Marvin Skaggs, Alex Wahl, C. M. Wolf, B. L. Smith, S. O. Durst, K. G. Durst, J. S. Munn, J. L. Wright, W. S. Pearce, E. O. Newby, Roy Skaggs, Howard Ragsdill, Carl Felt, Mark Weiser, Hubert Furr, J. W. Coffey and J. H. Northcutt.

Mr. Boone was a member of the I. O. O. F. Lodge, having joined in 1867. He attributed much of his best actions to the association gained in the lodge. The I. O. O. F. has not been active for some time here, and it was the expressed desire of most of the members taking part in the funeral services to get together and renew their efforts to place the lodge in good condition. A banquet will be served April 24 at the Methodist Church for the lodge.

Like the lives of other pioneers who braved the vastness of the southwestern expanse, J. W. Boone encountered many hardships and dangers during the early days of his struggles in

Work of Replanning Golf Course Finished

The replanning of the Junction Golf Links has been completed and the course is ready to play on, according to Mr. E. J. Hendricks, manager. With the exception of three greens, the course is entirely new.

There are six river crossings now instead of two, and the course has been made more difficult. Several bunkers have been put up near some of the greens.

Most of the golfers are pleased with the change. While the course has been made much harder, par remains the same—36.

With the coming of longer days and warm weather, the course is becoming more popular with both men and women golfers.

Judge Weaver H. Baker has returned from a trip over his district in the interest of his race for district attorney. He is meeting with encouragement everywhere he goes.

The Junction I. O. O. F. Lodge will have a banquet and get-together meeting on Thursday, April 24 at the Methodist Church and every Odd Fellow is urged to be present, according to Mr. A. G. Farmer.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Church will serve the banquet.

The local lodge has not been active for some time, according to Mr. Farmer, and every member is urged to attend this banquet and help get the lodge in a working condition again.

I. O. O. F. members had charge of the funeral of Mr. J. W. Boone which was held last Monday afternoon. Approximately 20 members of the Menard lodge of Odd Fellows were present for the funeral.

Mr. O. W. Cardwell of Georgetown was a business visitor in Junction last week.

New Gasoline Branding Iron is Invented by Local Ranchers

One day nearly two years ago, two young Kimble County ranchers were given the job of branding 1,500 goats. It was a slow job, and they tired of it.

While working at the slow and tedious job, they tried to think of some way in which this work could be made easier.

It was from this incident that the new Model A Gasoline Branding Iron was invented by Frank Hubbell and Tom A. Allsup. A patent was applied for on June 8, 1929, and the patent is pending now.

This novel device for use in branding livestock has for one of its primary objects to provide a self-contained branding iron, which can be heated without employing extraneous heat.

The new branding iron provides either a stamp or straight iron, and will brand sheep,

Firemen Win Game From London Team

After trying for six months to win an athletic contest the Junction Fire Department scored their first victory Sunday afternoon when they defeated the London town team by the score of 9 to 5. For the first time during the baseball season, the bats of the firemen cracked timely and brought in runs.

Coach Pete Blackburn used two entire teams during the game, with the exception of Royce Buxter and Perry Dechert, comprising the battery. Buxter hurled a good game, and Dechert received his offerings well, catching them anywhere they happened to come.

The firemen made fewer errors Sunday than they have been accustomed to making.

The Hill Country Firemen's League swings into action May 1, and the local firemen hope to be in shape when the first ball is tossed. Schedules have not been completed yet.

E. D. Porter is Host to Friends At Big Fish Fry

Contractor E. D. Porter entertained more than thirty of his friends with a fish fry on the beautiful river front of Judge J. B. Randolph's ranch on the South Llano Monday evening at seven o'clock. Mr. Porter, accompanied by the France brothers, Mr. Perell and Earl Bushy, had caught ten large cat fish weighing from ten to sixty pounds in the Rio Grande River a few days ago and placed them in cold storage at the Borden Ice Factory. They were in fine shape and Judge Randolph supervised the cooking. He had prepared the pit and other arrangements before the crowd appeared.

No special program had been arranged as it was the purpose of Mr. Porter to have an informal affair at which everyone could have a delightful time. Marie Tracy, the little granddaughter of Judge Randolph, by special request, gave a reading. At the close of the delightful evening, Judge Randolph made a brief talk expressing his pleasure in having Mr. Porter entertain his friends on his ranch and also made a few remarks about the beautiful court house that Mr. Porter is now constructing.

All the fish that everyone could eat, catsup, pickles, bread, coffee and ice water were served to the following:

J. N. Hodges, Lester Hodges, C. W. Atchison, Gus Niggley, A. B. Hodges, J. A. Heyman, Guy Moses, John Munn, Weaver H. Baker, Alex Wahl, Bill Hamner, Chris Schraub, Edgar McLendon, G. W. Hardesty, U. WHO MAKES JUNCTION?

Every city has its founder or founders, and every city has its builders. Who makes a city? Who is responsible for its progress and advancement? The people who live in the city make it. But not all of the people who live within its limits help.

The man, woman or child that talks of the goodness of a city and works for its advancement helps build it. The person that makes his living there and keeps it there is an asset to any community.

Don't let your fellow townsman brand you as a parasite to your city. If you make your money there other places, you are getting your life blood out of and spend it with firms in your community and giving your material surplus which you owe your town, to someone else. Does Junction owe you or do you owe Junction. Size yourself up and decide if you are a maker.

ONE REASON IT'S SAFER TO BREATHE THROUGH YOUR NOSE IS THAT IT MAKES YOU KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT!

Gasoline for any sort of cleaning should never be kept in the house. It is inflammable and so explosive that the fire laws of many States prohibit storage in the house of any but the smallest quantities. Keep the bottle or container tightly corked at all times, and do not open or use it in a room where there is a fire, a gas, oil, or candle flame, or in bright sunshine. Only a little liquid should be poured out at one time.

Serve all lamb dishes piping hot on very hot plates. The texture of lamb fat is not always agreeable after the meat has cooled off somewhat.

GASOLINE TAX SWELLS

Gasoline taxation has come to the fore as one of the greatest of the problems affecting the American pocket-book. Last year the tax reached almost $450,000,000. This year an authoritative estimate forecasts a total of $550,000,000.

This estimate is based almost entirely on the expected gain in gasoline consumption. It does not include the recent tax increase of a cent a gallon in Idaho, or proposed higher rates in Mississippi, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, North Dakota, Kansas, Louisiana and other states. It is said that Missouri and California alone have displayed no tendency toward a higher tax rate.

NO CANDIDATE CARDS ALLOWED ON HIGHWAYS

All signs, including the placards of candidates for offices are barred from the public highways this year, according to an announcement issued by the State Highway Department.

LONDON LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Horn spent several days with relatives and friends at Fredonia last week. Howard and L. A. Ivy going on as far as Johnson City.

An error crept into our last week's local report, in which we stated Mrs. Ellis Brown was an applicant for a teachers' certificate before the County Board of examiners. This was not the case. Mrs. Ellis Brown did not take the examination for a teachers' certificate. We are sorry this happened and gladly make this correction. However, we reported our information just as we received it, but our informant was mistaken.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Amberson and boys and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Myers spent Saturday night on the river and were joined by the Rev. J. P. Rush and his chauffeur on Sunday. They spent the time fishing and were successful in dragging out a very attractive—naught. Rush spoiled the perfect success to a very minor extent by accidentally catching a 12-inch cat.

We are sorry indeed to note the illness of Mr. Raleigh Kothmann. He was brought home from his ranch near Mountain Home last week. We hope to report his improved condition soon.

London has a typical western citizenship, as fine as you will find anywhere, surrounded by a fertile farming soil, and is also adapted to livestock raising, such as cattle, sheep, goats, hogs and all kinds of poultry, with an inexhaustible supply of water at a depth of from 60 to 650 feet. This we have learned by throwing away, as some express it, several thousand dollars in oil prospects. We claim this money well spent if the knowledge gained is utilized by bringing the water to the surface and turning the country into one of the most beautiful to be found in any section, not only will the underground supply of water, if brought to the surface, make our country a place of beauty, but it will transform it into a land of plenty, because with a supply of water our soil will produce abundantly of all kinds of farm products, garden vegetables and fruits. So much for our surroundings. London as a town is composed of two well established churches, Baptist and Christian, a fine school and school building of concrete with eight class rooms, one U. S. Postoffice, five grocery stores, two dry goods stores two garages, three filling stations, two laundries, two barbershops, two meat markets, one cafe at present, one theater, one skating rink, two drug stores, two doctors, two rooming houses and other minor establishments. If you have a few hundred thousand dollars and want to use it in development, come to London. We have the undeveloped resources but we stand in need of a supply of money to finance, of knowledge to direct, of energy to perform.

Think of London twenty years ago, then observe it today and you will note a great change. In the next twenty years the development will be many times greater because others are going to take note of the natural advantages offered here through this health-giving climate, fertile soil and under-ground water supply, to say nothing of the gas, oil and other mineral the real developer will find beneath our surface.

Remember the place—London, Kimble County, Texas. We need rain badly; too much wind.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the good friends and neighbors who so kindly administered unto us last week when our husband and father met his untimely death by being accidentally killed by an automobile. The kind words of consolation and sympathy will always be remembered by us.

Mrs. J. E. McDonald and Family.

SCHOOL TEACHERS FALL FOR INSURANCE FAKER

A man going by the name of C. R. Williams has defrauded many school teachers over the state by representing various life insurance companies and taking application for insurance. As a rule he would collect such an amount of cash as he could; destroy the application and leave for another territory.

School teachers are warned to guard themselves against such swindling.

IVY ECHOES

In memory of little Eula Hight:
We miss her, oh, how we miss her.
At her little desk at school,
No one can quite fill the vacancy
Of that little desk at school.
Just as no one can fill the place
That her sweet life meant in our own,
And we realize more than ever
How we loved her.
Since the Master has seen best
To call her home,
Closed are the eyes in death's slumber,
Closed are her lips in silent repose;
But we know she'll be waiting
To welcome us as one of the number,
That she went to join at life's close.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL NEWS

The pupils, as well as the people of the community, were very proud of the shower of rain we received Tuesday night. We hope we get more soon. School is progressing nicely. The 4H club did not have their regular meeting last Wednesday as Mr. Homann had to be out of the county. Doran Camp was absent from school Tuesday. The literary society gave its regular program Friday afternoon. Mr. Ilee Simon was the only visitor present. The improvements club succeeded in getting enough money to buy the much needed Encyclopedia for the school. We sent the order off last Friday and are expecting them here in a few days. We are very proud of this club for it for it has only three members in school, but they are doing some wonderful work. Everything that you can do to help them add new books to the library will be very much appreciated because we realize more and more every day the need of an efficient library.

GUNMAN'S BLUFF

TWELFTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

Rex Lefore forges the name of Luke Maddison, wealthy banker and his sister Margaret's fiancé, to a large check. He is found dead with a note in his hand, writing accusing Maddison of having ruined him. Margaret marries Luke Lefore's son. She leaves him, telling him she has ruined him to revenge her brother. Luke, bewildered, wanders about London, is attacked by thugs who take him for a detective, renews in hospital to find he is known as "Smith." In this new character he becomes involved with the Joe Connor gang, who mistake him for an Australian crook named Smith. He made an unwitting accomplice in a jewel robbery. He does not know that the gang has released and has terrorized his bankers all the money he gave her, to the dismay of one Danton Morell, her dead brother's friend, concerning whom Gunner Haynes, had once befriended, has been making inquiries. Detective Bird of Scotland Yard, known also as the Sparrow, is likewise interested in Morell. Maddison goes to his own old haunts, where he is taken for a burglar, escapes from the police and tries to get in touch with Detective Bird. Connor gang fears of his sending and imprisoned him in an underground cell near the river, where he has certain to be drowned when the tide rises. Meantime Margaret, reuniting with her brother, writes a letter to his friend and lawyer, saying that he is in desperate trouble. She will give up the discovery that Luke is alive and in London if she can be assured of Detective Bird that the man concerned in the jewel robbery, whom she knows was Luke, had been gone ground for two years with the woman whose accomplice he was.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"But—" she began.

"I believe he's in Spain. If a man's in Spain he can't be in London, can he? And if a gentleman's at large in Spain, taking long hikes through the country, he can't be burgling Taffanay's or getting himself mixed up with Connor."

"Now, Mrs. Maddison, I'm going to ask you that pertinent question all over again: exactly why did your husband leave you? No, no, I don't mean that. I know why he left you. But why did you suddenly leave him flat? I don't know that; I'll bet your husband doesn't know that. Only you know—and Danty. I guess Danty knows."

She was silent; but she realized at that moment just why she had not destroyed Rex's last note. She had kept it to show Luke some day, and demand from him the explanation she should have asked for when it came to her. It was her justification—the only one she could have for her conduct.

"This is an extraordinary request for a stranger to make, Mr. Haynes, and I don't know whether to enlighten you or not."

She stood for a moment silent, then, turning abruptly, walked out of the room. Haynes picked up his hat from the floor and rose, thinking the interview was at an end. But in three minutes she was back again with a little envelope in her hand.

"I'm telling you something that nobody knows but me and Mr. Morell," she said. "When my poor brother shot himself, this note was found in his room."

She took from the envelope two telephone slips and passed them to him. Gunner Haynes read:

Margaret darling, I have lost. For months I have been gambling. Today I took a desperate step on the advice of Luke Maddison. He has led me to ruin—money is his god. I beg of you not to trust him. He has led me from one act of folly to another. God bless you. REX.

He read it twice and then looked up.

"Is this your brother's handwriting?"

She nodded.

"Could you swear to it?"

"Yes, I'm sure it's his. I've had hundreds of penciled notes from him, and I couldn't possibly be mistaken."

"Who found it?"

"Mr. Morell found it in Rex's room. Poor, dear Rex had a servant, a very trustworthy man, and he saw the note before Mr. Morell put it in his pocket."

"He didn't read it, of course?"

suggested the Gunner. "The servant, I mean?"

"I don't think so. He only saw the note, and Mr. Morell hide it." The Gunner had an amazing memory. He could from that moment have repeated every word in the letter—there was no need for him to take a copy, and he handed it back to the girl.

No man wasted less time or effort than Gunner Haynes. His method represented the very economy of labor. He was satisfied that Connor had carried away his victim, but was wrong when he associated Danty Morell with the abduction.

He called upon Connor but was told vaguely that the man had gone into the country. He did not attempt to seek an interview with Danty Morell, but after a day spent in a vain search of Connor's wharf, made his way to Half Moon Street, watched the house until he saw first Danty and then Pi Coles leave. To get into Danty's flat was a very simple matter—a key blank, a piece of lamplack, a quarter of an hour spent in Green Park filing the soft metal, produced him an entrance.

Once inside the flat he proceeded at his leisure. He was not at all anxious at the thought of Danty's return. His hatred of Morell was in one sense illogical. They had been friends and partners, though he had lost sight of the man and the partnership had broken off. He had no direct proof of the duplicity he suspected. Gunner Haynes had loved that feather-headed little wife of his, and when she had disappeared, never to become more to him than a record in a workhouse register, a tremendous part of his life had been cut away from him. He might suspect Danty as the cause of his agony; he had no clear evidence that the story the man had told was untrue.

Danty had said the girl had disappeared, and that he was as ignorant of her whereabouts as her husband. Yet, for all this, the suspicion in Gunner Haynes' mind amounted to a certainty. He was a just man, and so long as that proof was missing, Danty Morell would come to no harm.

He made a quick but thorough examination of the two rooms. There were letters which had to be scanned, pocketbooks to investigate, drawers to be opened and searched, but in none of these did Haynes find the slightest clue to Maddison's present place of imprisonment. He did find the note which Connor had scribbled, giving the address where Luke was staying, but no more. There remained only the safe, which was not so much of a safe as a steel cupboard fastened with a spring lock—the type that is found in most business offices. To open this was a matter of five minutes' patient work.

There were four shelves and each was crowded with letters, bills, and curious souvenirs which Danty had collected—the cupboard was in such disorder as only a man without method could create. On the third shelf he found a wooden box, the lock of which he forced. There were papers here—bundles of letters tied up with shoelaces, bits of old string—there was nothing romantic in Danty's disposition.

The first bundle did not interest him. At the sight of the writing on the second his face went gray. He brought the box into the diningroom and sat down, read three of the letters, glanced at the others, and very slowly and deliberately tied them up again and put them back in the box. As he did so he caught sight of a scrap of paper exactly the size of that on which Rex had written his last message. He took it out—yes, it was scrawled in the same handwriting. But the message was unintelligible. It ran:

Danty Morell. The man is a common swindler. I was warned against him by— And then in a flash he realized. He had an extraordinary memory, and could repeat almost word for word the supposedly complete message Rex had left. With these words added it would have read:

Margaret darling, I have lost. For months I have been gambling. Today I took a desperate step on the advice of Danty Morell. The man is a common swindler. I was warned against him by Luke Maddison. He has led me to ruin—money is his god. I beg of you not to trust him. He has led me from one act of folly to another.

That was it! Danty had found that the first and last of those scraps made a complete message; he had put the second in his pocket (it still bore marks of being screwed up).

It came as something in the nature of a shock to Margaret Maddison to discover how completely changed were her feelings toward the man with whom she had passed through stages of toleration to liking, and from liking to a sort of passive affection, and from that again, in the cataclysmic revolution of feeling that her brother's death had brought about, to the bitterest loathing.

For the first time in her life Margaret was in love, and in love with something which was neither a memory nor an idea, but something which was to her as real as her own hand. She had gained the sense of possession which is the wife's own sense—an understanding of her obligations. She could not afford to waste time in regrets at the amazing follies and wicked errors of the past; in the days that followed her mind was occupied with schemes for helping him out of the morass in which he struggled.

She did not hear from Gunner Haynes, although she stayed up until nearly two o'clock the next morning, having the telephone switched through to her bedside. Nor did the next day bring news. She was out when Danty called, and having no occasion to go to her check book, she did not discover his theft.

After she discovered it, she called on him.

Danton heard her voice and was coming across the hall to meet her before the door was closed.

"This is an unexpected pleasure, Margaret," he said. "Is anything wrong?"

She did not answer until she was in his room.

"Before I tell you why I've come," she said, "I think it is only fair that you should know I have left instructions that unless I am back in my house in three-quarters of an hour my butler will ring up Mr. Bird and tell him where I have gone."

"What's the idea?" he asked harshly. "That's an extraordinary way to behave—why the dickens shouldn't you be back in three-quarters of an hour?"

"Where are the remainder of those checks that you stole from my check book when you called the other day?" she asked.

She saw his face go red. "I don't know what you mean," he said loudly. "I steal checks? What nonsense you're talking—"

"You came into my house and you were in my sitting room long enough to extract ten checks. One of them was brought to the bank today, made out in Luke's name and signed by him. On my instructions the check was not honored."

The color left his face.

"Not honored?" he stammered, and in his embarrassment he betrayed his share of the guilt.

"I'm less interested in the check than in my husband," she said quietly. "Where is he?"

He strove vainly to recover his self-possession and forced a smile.

"Really, my dear girl—" he began.

"You'll address me as Mrs. Maddison if you have to address me as anything," she said. "I want you to return those checks; I want you also to tell me exactly where Luke is."

"As far as I know, he's staying with a convicted thief named Haynes," the man answered roughly, and to his surprise she nodded.

"I thought so, too. I went down to see him—but he had gone. I think Mr. Haynes was surprised to find that he had gone, and I'm only now understanding that Luke did not go of his own free will. Then I thought he may have wandered out by himself in order to escape association with Mr. Haynes. But the check explains a great deal. Where is Luke?"

He shook his head.

"I don't know."

"In that case I am going to do what I was trying to avoid," she said. "I am going to the police, and I shall charge you with stealing the blank checks, and leave it to Mr. Bird to connect you with Luke's disappearance."

She half turned to the door, but he caught her by the arm.

for Economical Transportation

it's wise to choose a SIX!

There is one sure way to get greater value in a low-priced car today—choose a Six!

This greater value is instantly obvious when you drive a Chevrolet Six. You notice first of all its greater smoothness. There is no tremor in the steering wheel—no rattle in the floor boards—no rumble or drumming in the body.

In addition to the finer performance of its six-cylinder motor, the new Chevrolet gives you truly remarkable economy.

Its six-cylinder smoothness saves the entire car from the strain and wear of vibration. This, of course, lowers the cost of maintenance and assures a longer-lasting, longer-satisfying automobile.

From the standpoint of operating expense, Chevrolet is equally economical. No other automobile consumes less gasoline and oil. No other shows a lower expense for tires. And no other car costs less for service. Because of its modern engineering, Chevrolet also assures a high resale value.

Chevrolet gives you fully-enclosed, weather-proof, 4-wheel brakes; a modern fuel system—with the gasoline tank mounted in the rear; four long semi-elliptic springs, mounted lengthwise in the direction of car travel. It gives you beautiful Fisher bodies built of combination hardwood-and-steel. It gives you a heavy, rigidly-braced channel-steel frame. And it gives you a full ball bearing steering mechanism.

Before you decide on any car in the low-price field, see and drive the Chevrolet Six. The more thoroughly you investigate, the more certain you are to conclude that it's wise to choose a Six—for value, for performance . . . and for economical transportation!

slow, but at last
The death of our poetry trod slow as it passed;
The eyes of poetry waxed deadly and chill.
And the heart of poetry forever grew still.

SENNACHERIB

(by Ruby Davis)
Chaucer came down like a wolf
on the fold,
His works have been making us
wrinkled and old;
And the harvest of their quotations was like stars on the sea
When the blue night we spent in deep agony.

For the teacher of English sent her wrath on the class, And gave us a selection as the foe we passed.
And the eyes of the pupils with anger were filled,
And their heads were once wagged and then forever were stilled.

And the Seniors of Schreiner are loud in their wails,
And their hearts have been broken over "Canterbury tales"
And the might of their anger
unsmote by the rod,
Has melted like snow amongst the whale "got."

THE RESTORATION OF GOOD ENGLISH

(by Vivian James)
Good English came up like a day that is light,
And her letters were gleaming
in black and white;
And the parts of speech lay like stars on the sea,
And each line was placed so it could not flee.

Each noun, each adjective and each verb in its place, Will make simple meaning with a different race;
Like stairs of tomorrow, we will be glad To these lovely sketches many others add.

As the goodness of Nature
spans on in the future,
Our English will be like a beautiful picture;
And our speech we will store,
so if we need
We may to Good English hurriedly speed.

JOURNALISM CLUB HAS REGULAR MEET

The Journalism Club met in room 14 last Tuesday to discuss business. The house was called to order by the vice president, Carleton Wright.

Miss Ella Simon impersonated a reporter investigating a murder case. She illustrated the value of staying with a case.
Mr. E. M. McLendon gave us a brief history of Journalism.
Carleton Wright gave a reading, and later told of an imaginary interview with a League baseball coach.
The meeting adjourned at 4:45.

MAY FETE

On May 2, a May Fete and carnival will be given at the school house. A girl of the Schreiner High School will be selected as May Queen. Each high school class will appoint a candidate for this position.
Votes will be sold at a cent a vote. The girl who gets the most votes will be given the privilege of choosing her escort.
She will be crowned May Queen on the afternoon of the second.
The money taken in from the votes will be turned over to the school for 30% of the profit.
The P. T. A. of Junction will furnish and decorate booths for any organization which chooses to take care of one.
See that your school is represented.

WE WONDER

Where Vernelle got her talent for making pie crust?
Why John Lewis looks so sad?
Where Ruth got those men's gloves she was wearing while tearing down the fence around the school building?
Why Eunice likes to catch frogs?

Why Rufus is so blue?
Why Oscar doesn't stay upstairs at noon?
If Oliver Lynn goes to Sunday School?
Why Norma likes to stay in?
Why Bonita doesn't wear lip stick?
Who Wilbur goes riding with?
Why Ella is so happy?
Why the Marys of the ninth and tenth grade have so many secrets?
If the sixth and seventh grades really know how to keep quiet?
Who Aubrey's honey is now?

JUNIOR CLASS MEETS

The members of the Junior class held a class meeting Monday morning in room 6. The chairman of the location committee, Lucille Motley, gave a report for the committee. Without any discussion whatever a blind vote was taken to select a place at which the Junior-Senior banquet is to be held.
At ten forty-five o'clock the chairman of the committees,
Lucille Motley, Hazel Lister,
Lois Goodwin, Ella Simon, Lorena Couey, Blake Chenault and the Junior sponsor, Miss Nellie Bennett, met to decide what kind of a banquet will be given.
The plans decided upon will not be disclosed until later.

The Juniors gave a sigh of relief last Friday due to the completion of their six weeks examinations. Some of the students are living in suspense, awaiting the return of their papers. Especially is this true of Plane Geometry papers. They have taken their examinations over the first three books, and are rejoicing accordingly.
As a whole, the six weeks averages this term seem to be better than usual.

His simile's were gleaming in

And the fear of his deepness,

Also that color the Seniors did seem;
Like the leaves of that forest
when winter has blown,
The tears of our sorrow our lessons did bemoan.

And there lay the book with its pages open wide,
But through it rolled not a breath of our pride;
And the wrath of study lay on every page,
The fear of his odes still deeper was made.

Our Poetry comes down like a

With its rhyme scene gleaming

April showers made their appearance in Kimble County this week much to the delight of everyone. One-tenth of an inch fell Tuesday night and 55 of an inch Wednesday. Some parts of the county had more and some less. While it is not as much as is needed it will help the ranges and put enough moisture in the ground to plant crops.

Along with economy you can get any and every thing desired in motor transportation except a useless and unnecessary lot of cylinders with their increased mechanism, complications, cost of parts and labor for repairs, gas and consumption.

There is no substitute for experience. It develops difficult situations and death hard knocks that require ingenuity and stamina to overcome.

PROSPERITY!

Prosperity comes to those who work diligently and faithfully for it. It is conceded that a business depression is abroad in the land but it should spur us on to greater activities. While the live stock industry is not so promising a diversified program should be adopted by our ranchmen and farmers. A few dairy cows, a few hogs and a hundred or more hens with the proper attention given to fruit and vegetables will help everybody tide over. Our pecan industry should be given more serious consideration. Our County Agent is able to give good advice about a diversified program.

The light rainfall thus far should not induce our farmers and ranchmen to lessen the acreage in food and feed. Feed can be grown as late as cotton and since there is an overproduction of cotton no one should make the mistake of planting too little feed.
