Reds By-Pass Crimea; Nazis Demoralized

Russian Onslaught Seals Off Nazi Forces In Crimea

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 3 — Bounding across the steppes of southern Russia far beyond the by-pased Crimea at an unslackened pace, Gen. Feodor Tolbukhin's Cossacks were declared in Moscow dispatches today to be cleaning up swiftly the last 30 miles remaining before Kherson at the mouth of the Dnieper estuary on the Black sea.

The retreating Germans showed signs of demoralization as the Red Army swept west of the sealed off Crimea where the Germans say they still have strong forces. Forty miles were covered in a single day's sweep beyond captured Perekop, last entrance to the Black sea peninsula from the north.

No Moscow Confirmation

The German communique termed the reported Russian invasion of the eastern Crimea south of Kerch "an enemy landing head" and asserted that the Russian holding "was further compressed despite embittered resistance." Moscow has not confirmed the landing.

The communique, heard from radio Berlin by the Associated Press, spoke in vague terms of heavy fighting against strong Russian tank and infantry forces at the northern entrance of the Crimea, "in the area east of Kherson and in the big Dnieper bend."

The focus of battle in the Dnieper bend was at the great iron and rail center of Krivoi Rog, 120 miles north of the Crimea. There the Germans persisted in counterattacks in a desperate effort to prevent the northern arm of a vast Russian pincers from snapping shut a second death trap on scores of thousands of Nazis.

Attacking Around Kiev

By German account, the Russians also were attacking southeast and north of the partially surrounded Ukrainian capital of Kiev and in the Velikie Luki area in the north where the Russian winter already has laid a white blanket of snow on the battlefields.

The Germans said they sank three Soviet motor torpedo boats in the Gulf of Finland.

The heaviest fighting was in

Called Session Is In Prospect

Texas Solons May Act On Gas Tax

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 (AP)—A special session of the legislature, possibly within a year, to consider a severance tax on Texas natural gas intended for export became a fair prospect today.

At a press conference Governor Coke R. Stevenson said the severance tax matter would be included in his recommendations "when we have a session."

He added he had not discarded the idea of an extraordinary session in advance of the regular session slated for January, 1945, but neither had he decided definitely to order one.

The governor made the statement in connection with a discussion of a proposed pipeline to carry Texas natural gas to West Virginia, a proposal opposed by the governor on grounds that such carriers will deplete a natural resource that should remain in Texas to aid in industrial development of the state.

His idea is that a severance tax on such gas would tend to discourage its exportation.

The governor admitted there was no immediate need for a special session since the proposed pipeline probably would not be completed in less than a year.

Steel Alloted

He said he had established during his Washington visit last week that 215,000 tons of steel had been allocated by the War Productoin board for the pipeline but expressed the opinion that it might never be built.

Nevertheless, he declared, he would not alter his theory that a severance tax is probably the vehicle needed to conserve natural gas that otherwise might be exported.

One consideration for his advocacy of conserving Texas' gigantic reserves of gas, he said, was the possibility that a large corporation soon will announce plans for constructing a big plant in Texas for the purpose of making plastics from natural gas.

"I believe that others will come here if we can conserve natural gas for their use," he said.

The governor said he told

Albany Wins In WTCC Contest

ABILENE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Albany was awarded first prize in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce inter-commuity war and preservation contest which was devised in September 1941 and officially closed at the WTCC's referendum convention here today.

Second prize was awarded to Hereford. Vernon ranked third and Brownwood fourth. Honorable mention went to Sweetwater, Breckenridge, Lamesa, Kermit, Midland, Mineral Wells, Hamlin, Olney, Rotan and Snyder.

Prizes Are Presented

Results of the contest were announced and prizes presented by C. M. Caldwell, Abilene, chairman of the WTCC's national security and defense commission. Caldwell also reported the over-all accomplishment in contest activities for the West Texas chamber's entire territory and all affiliated towns.

Prizes were $400, $300 and $200, presented to the local chambers of commerce in the winning towns.

One hundred and two of the 142 affiliated towns competed in the contest, Caldwell reported. He described the prime object of the contest as mobilization of the combined efforts of business interests behind war efforts. Three major activities were included: War project activities, war production activities and territorial preservation activities.

In the 102 competing towns it

Decisive Fight For Rabaul Is Hinted By Japs

Allied Warships Turn Back Naval Force Of Japs

(By The Associated Press)

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AREA ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 3 —The Japanese, whose Bougainville air bases were paralyzed by naval guns and plane bombs as the Allies invaded that last big Solomons island of the enemy, already have hinted at naval and air battles to come in the showdown struggle before Rabaul.

ULTIMATE GOAL—TOKYO

SOUTH PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 3 (AP) — The Allies "greatest venture in the South Pacific" — the invasion of Bougainville island in the northern Solomons Monday morning by picked Marine assault troops — was a major step toward the heart of Japan, Admiral William F. Halsey, jr., commander of the South Pacific, asserted today.

"You cannot measure in mere miles the advance we thus made toward our ultimate objective — Tokyo," the admiral said.

General MacArthur's headquarters said today that, after the Marines stormed ashore on Bougainville's west coast Monday at dawn to capture Empress Augusta bay, a Japanese cruiser and destroyer force was intercepted Monday night, fought and turned back by Allied warships before they could reach the invasion scene.

Complete Reports Awaited

Headquarters added that complete reports were awaited on the battle which might go far toward determining the ability of the Allied landing force to control Bougainville's west coast.

It also was disclosed that, after the naval battle, Japanese planes caused minor damage before they were driven off. Thus the Japanese demonstrated ability to get air opposition into the sector despite the bombing out of its air bases on Bougainville.

Land Details Lacking

Headquarters today added no details on the ground operations attacked the Allied warships and on Bougainville but reported steady progress of forces which earlier invaded Treasury and Choiseul islands to the south and southeast. The Treasury Japs have been driven into the jungles. On Choiseul, American forces have advanced four miles from their beachhead on the southwest coast. Supported by bombers and fighter planes, they defeat-

Lady Oakes Testifies About Family Break

BY E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 3 — In the silence of a crowded courtroom gripped by the drama of the moment, the widow of Sir Harry Oakes told in tones sometimes halting, sometimes firm today of a family break which followed Alfred de Marigny's marriage to the daughter of the man he now is accused of killing.

Even the red-robed, white-wigged chief justice dropped his voice while Lady Eunice Oakes testified in the Bahamas supreme court against her dashing, twice-divorced son-in-law, who is charged with bludgeoning and burning the multi-millionaire Sir Harry to death last July.

"We tried to make the best of a bad bargain," the mourning-clad woman said, after the handsome defendant married red-haired Nancy Oakes, then 18 years old.

But Nancy became pregnant before she recovered from a near-fatal attack of typhoid fever, Lady Oakes related and Sir Harry's resentment caused ill feeling between the baronet and De Marigny.

She said that Nancy stuck with her husband and moved away from her family.

Texas Fathers Face Draft In December

(By The United Press)

Many Texas fathers will be included in December draft board quotas, a survey showed today.

Dallas selective service boards reported that they had nearly exhausted the available childless manpower supply and that in December from 70 to 90 per cent of their quotas would be filled with fathers.

Exact figures were not revealed.

Most board spokesmen seemed reluctant to draft fathers but indicated there was nothing else to do. One official said that he was aware that war industry plants were "full" of draft-eligible childless men.

Another commented that the number of 18-year-olds who become eligble each month for the draft is "only a drop in the bucket."

Essential Foods Needed In Japanese Internment Camps

BY RAYMOND P. CRONIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT ELIZABETH, Nov. 3 — The general health in the Santo Tomas internment camp in Manila where I was a prisoner for 21 months, the largest concentration of civilian prisoners in the Far East, is gradually deteriorating because of the lack of essential foods.

A heavy cargo of relief supplies —totaling some 30,000 cases of all kinds of food, medicines and clothing—is going to Manila aboard the Japanese repatriation ship Teia Maru. If it reaches the internees it will stave off the serious situation for at least a few months, but a long-range, sure-fire food and medical supply program is necessary unless speedy repatriation is planned.

Daily Diet Decreasing

At Santo Tomas camp, doctors —among them Dr. Earl R. Leach of the Rockefeller foundation, who organized and managed the camp hospital—say the general diet is now less than 1,800 calories daily as compared with a normal diet of 2,500.

Essential foods now are unavailable in the local markets, because the Japanese not only are

Republicans Sweep Eastern Elections

Demos Defeated In New York, New Jersey And Pennsylvania; Kentucky Race Close

(By The Associated Press)

Triumphant in key eastern seaboard contests, Republicans viewed the off-year election returns today as a signpost on the road which they hope will lead back to the White House in 1944.

Democrats, beaten in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, confined their initial comment to congratulations to the winners.

Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for president in 1940, said in New York:

"The returns from New York, New Jersey, Kentucky, Philadelphia and other places all point one way. The country is tired—very tired of the present national administration."

NEGRO IS ELECTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP) — Francis E. Rivers, negro graduate of Yale and the Columbia law school, was elected yesterday city court justice, defeating his Democratic opponent, Joseph T. Higgins, 166,631 to 143,856 votes.

Martin Cites Trend

In Washington, Rep. Martin (R-Mass), former Republican national chairman, said the election returns "clearly indicate the trend is still running against the New Deal."

"The results in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania," he added, "will greatly encourage Republicans all over the country. It is evident that when people get a chance they vote against the bungling, inefficiency and waste of the New Deal. This tide will continue its momentum and result in a Republican victory in the presidential campaign next year."

Voting heavier than expected in seven states in view of the absentees—in uniform and in war factories—yielded these results:

New York—Republican Joe R. Hanley was elected lieutenant governor over Democrat William N. Haskell, retired lieutenant general, by more than 300,000 majority. Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Wendell Willkie actively supported Hanley; President Roosevelt and James A. Farley backed

General Talks To LAAF Class

"Nations may be conquered though not one enemy soldier sets foot upon its sod," Brigadier General Isaiah Davies told the members of the graduating class at Lubbock Army Air field this morning.

"Aerial bombardment is being given its first full scale test—you men will have a part in that test and I know you will make good."

Gen. Davies, commanding officer of the 34th Flying Training Wing, with headquarters at San Angelo, was introduced by Colonel Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer of LAAF.

College Yell Is "Ouch!"

Gen. Davies told the graduates, "Today you are enrolling as freshmen in the college of practical knowledge; the colors of this college are black and blue and the college yell is ouch; but you'll be able to take it."

Gen. Davies paid tribute to the late Billy Mitchell, whose ideas of air power are now being accepted, and said, "he suffered from a condition described as having been born thirty years too soon."

Plan Aerial Dreadnaughts

"It is no secret that we have in the making aerial dreadnaughts," said the general, "whose crews might number twenty to thirty."

In closing his address he said,

Yanks Capture Anchor Of Nazi Line In Italy

Enemy Is Routed From Important Ridge Positions

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 3—The Allied Fifth army has seized the heights of Massico ridge, western anchor of the Germans' line in Italy, and nearby Mount San Croce to gain complete observation over the broad Garigliano river valley, headquarters announced today.

American units on the right flank routed the Nazis from the last heights before Venafro and won new high ground covering the extreme upper Volturno river valley, across which an assault against Venafro and other strongpoints in the mountain line would have to be launched.

A three-mile advance there swept up Pratella, nine miles southeast of Venafro, and Gallo, about the same distance below Isernia.

British and Canadian warriors of the Eighth army battered forward to establish a new bridgehead over the Trigno river on the Adriatic flank. This new crossing was an undisclosed distance inland from the original bridgehead near San Salvo close to the river's mouth.

British Seize Heights

Official reports from Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's headquarters said British forces of the Fifth army hammered their way onto commanding heights of both the 2,800-foot Massico ridge and San Croce mountain, some five miles northwest of Teano and four miles north of the point where the main coastal highway to Rome skirts the northern edge of Massico ridge.

The extent of this advance through a four-mile-wide gap in the mountain range toward the Garigliano river was not specified.

The land gains came as reinforced Allied air forces struck their greatest blow since Salerno. Heavy bombers of the new 15th U. S. air force blasted the Messershmitt airplane factory at Wiener Neustadt in Austria yesterday so heavily it may never make planes again, and downed at least 30 fighters out of 75 to 100 giving battle.

Medium bombers meanwhile smashed at ships, docks, and railroads at Civitavecchia 40 miles

Miners Ignore FDR's Order

Ickes And Lewis Hold Conference

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 — President Roosevelt's directive to the nation's coal miners to return today to their jobs in the struck workings, now under government-seizure, was generally ignored in the major producing states this morning.

The quiet suspension of activity begun two weeks ago in scattered wildcat walkouts stemming from continued absence of a working contract, spread to an estimated 460,000 hard and soft coal miners as conferences looking to some settlement went forward here between United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis and Interior Secretary Ickes, again designated as federal overseer of the pits.

Pennsylvania Mines Idle

An early morning survey in Pennsylvania, a top producer of both anthracite and bituminous coal, showed no signs of a back to work movement in response to the President's appeal.

In West Virginia, there were no early reports of any mine crews going back to the pits in 600 commercial operations, although a few non-union mines and some trip mines were turning out some small amounts of coal.

Similarly, a survey of mines employing three-fourths of Alabama's 22,000 miners showed no signs of resumption.

Demonstrations Lacking

The reports generally reflected a lack of any sort of demonstration in the fields, where the Stars and Stripes flew over deserted tipples.

Typical was the word from Maryland that "the miners just didn't show up."

Indiana still had 7,000 idle, with no evidence of any action pending word from UMW's policy committee.

Lewis and Ickes decided on their third meeting within 48 hours to discuss a possible basis for a contract.

Meeting Before Noon

The UMW policy committee arranged to hear the results of the parley this afternoon. This group has the power to call the men back to work.

Threat Of Houston Flood Diminishing

HOUSTON, Nov. 3 (U.P.) — Brimful bayous were falling today, evidently removing the threat of a major flood resulting from a record 24-hour rainfall of nearly 11 inches.

A mild norther, sweeping into Houston at mid-afternoon yesterday, quieted fears that this Gulf coast city might again experience the disastrous floods of 1929, 1930 and 1935.

Virtually all transportation and utility operations had returned to normal.

City schools, many of which closed their doors yesterday when the record rain cut attendance to almost nothing, were back on schedule.

Big Italian Liner Is Scuttled At Shanghai

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, Nov. 3 (AP)—Eyewitness confirmation that the 18,000-ton Italian passenger liner Conte Verde was scuttled by her crew at Shanghai after the Italian capitulation was brought here today by passengers on the exchange ship Gripsholm.

When the Japanese exchange ship Teia Maru left Shanghai Sept. 20 passengers could see the Conte Verde lying on her side. Shipping men said she was so cleverly scuttled she will be useless except for scrap.

German-Held Italian Cruiser Hit In Raid

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Nov. 3 (AP)—A German-held cruiser of the Regolo class—the Ottaviano Augusto—was put out of commission when American Mitchell bombers hit her in Ancona harbor Monday, it was announced officially today.

Reconnaissance photographs today showed the cruiser had suffered direct hits, and now lies on her starboard side in the harbor with a large patch of oil covering the water nearby.

Mitchell crewmen at first had believed the 444-foot warship was a merchant vessel. They attacked in daylight.

The Ottaviano Augusto, the last Italian cruiser remaining in German hands, carried eight 5.3 inch guns as well as many anti-aircraft guns and eight 21-inch torpedo tubes. It's displacement was 3,362 tons.

Papers Quote Hutson To Effect Murder Solution May Be Near

Featured news this morning in papers from Fort Worth to Galveston quoted Sheriff Sam Hutson of Litflefield, who was in Waco checking evidence in the Hunt double-slaying, as intimating clues were mounting with such force that the mystery soon may be cleared.

One of those papers headlined a story written by one of its staff writers, 'End of Hunt Slayer Trail Near, Officer Predicts."

Out here in West Texas, however, officers did not attempt to conceal their worry. Flat-footedly, they said they had "checked and checked, talked and talked, driven and driven—and we still feel like we've got almost nowhere."

Thomas Thought Guilty

They had made no attempt from the moment Jim Thomas, 49-year-old convict with a long record since the 20's, was arrested in Galveston to hide their belief that "very day makes it look more like Jim Thomas fits into this picture," but they continually had cautioned:

"This mystery doesn't begin—or end—with Jim Thomas. We don't even know where it begins—and it

American Long Range Fighters Escort Bombers

At Least 500 Bombers Believed In Foray Over Northwestern Germany; Plane Plant Hammered Severely By Other Raiders

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The largest force of American bombers ever to operate out of British bases raided northwestern Germany today escorted by long-range Thunderbolt and Lightning fighters.

On the basis of record forces of 400 heavy bombers on two successive raids last month, today's attackers might have numbered 500 bombers or more—a force comparable to that in some of the RAF's heavy night attacks.

The raid by heavy bombers followed an attack by American medium bombers on German airfields in northern France and a severe hammering by Mediterranean-based bombers on the Messerschmitt plane factory at Wiener Neustadt.

Clearing weather after two weeks of heavy fog and rain in England made possible the latest thrust in the new all-out Allied air offensive against Germany. The Marauders, escorted by Spitfires, attacked enemy airfields at St. Andre de Leure.

Heavy Allied Blow

Wiener Neustadt, near Vienna, received the heaviest Allied aerial blow from a Mediterranean base since the Salerno landing operations.

Allied headquarters at Algiers declared yesterday's assault on the principal factory manufacturing Messerschmitt airplanes has caused such havoc that it was doubtful the plant ever would produce planes again.

One of the greatest aerial battles of the war took place in the Wiener Neustadt area in southeastern Germnay as Nazi fighters in great force rose to intercept the American Fortresses and Liberators.

Allied headquarters said at least 30 of the 75 to 100 enemy fighters were shot down and that six American bombers were lost.

Allied Invasion Command Seen

LONDON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Formal establishment of an Allied high command for the assault on Europe from the west is expected here to be an early sequel to the Moscow conference.

The appointment of a high Russian officer to serve as adviser and liaison officer on the invasion chief's staff is regarded as logical.

The assumption that Gen. George C. Marshall, United States Army chief of staff, will become commander-in-chief of U. S.-British invasion forces never has been abandoned in London and no rival to him for this appointment so far has appeared in military speculation.

"Generalissimo Marshall takes command of Anglo-American invasion forces in Britain in a very short time," said correspondent Don Iddon in a cable from New York to The Daily Mail today.

Framework Established

Censorship further permitted Iddon to say something which correspondents in London have been able only to hint—that the framework of the second front staff "already has been established in London."

One thing the Moscow conference projected was a new fighting partnership which the Moscow Associated Press correspondent, Henry C. Cassidy, called "acceptance of Allied plans for operations in the west" and abandonment by the Soviet press of "the question of the second front in the previous pressing terms."

The implication of this to London was that Russia, having become a partner in the plans, could no longer criticize them.

Spaatz Heads Air Command

Whipsaw Bombing Of Nazis Foreseen

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 — Formation of a new all-American Mediterranean air command under Lt. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz was interpreted here today as heralding the imminent whipsaw bombing of Germany on what may prove to be an unendurable scale.

Significantly, the announcement was made at Algiers a few hours after a part of Spaatz's command —the new 15th U. S. Air force— had battered the Messerschmitt assembly plant at Wiener Neustadt with heavy bombers.

Comment Is Lacking

Official comment was lacking on yesterday's Algiers announcement, but one of the principal objectives of the campaign in Italy has been to acquire air bases within easy striking distance of central Europe and Germany's Balkan satellites.

Creation of the new 15th Air force, to be teamed with the veteran 12th of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle and to concentrate "on long range, strategic bombing," can only mean that the number of bombers at Spaatz's disposal has been greatly increased and that he is now ready to match the aerial blows from Britain with comparable assaults from the south.

In the view of officials here, this not only will multiply the destruction of German war industries but also will reduce the cost in American heavy bombers by forcing the Germans to divide their fighter strength, now concentrated in the west, to meet the new threat from the south.

The Nazis have been building airfields in northern Italy, presumably as fighter bases to intercept the expected daylight assaults by Mediterranean bombers.

A number of factors were left unexplained by the Algiers an-

House Group Against Withholding Change

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — The House ways and means committee decided today against making any change at this time in the 20 per cent withholding rate against the taxable portions of wages and salaries.

It decided also:

1. To require the internal revenue bureau to publish in the federal register the names of corporations gaining refunds under relief provisions of the excess profits tax, and the amounts.

2. Remove toilet soap from the new list of excises. This reduced the new tax bill by $6,000,000, leaving a total of $2,029,000,000 against an administration request for $10,500,000,000 in additional revenue. Excises on other toilet preparations such as mouth washes and dentrifices, were not disturbed.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau had proposed to the committee that the withholding levy be put on a graduated basis, "to keep millions more of our taxpayers on a strictly current, paid-up basis, by covering the full liability in all brackets instead of just the first bracket, as at present."

The committee instructed the congressional tax staff to prepare a new set of withholding exemptions "to more nearly approximate the correct withholding levy" under the present 20 per cent rate.

Christmas Parties Planned For Town And Army Groups

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

We hear all the time how wonderfully American women are responding to the demands of war, about their courage, their sacrifices, their willingness to tackle any kind of job.

There are the Army and Navy nurses, the women in the armed services, the nurses' aides, the timid typists turned welders, the 5-star mothers, and the young wives who are having their babies with their husbands thousands of miles away.

But, on the other hand, there is the recent United Press dispatch which says that American women "are on a record-breaking shopping tour for furs, jewels and the finest clothes." It reports that women's clothing sales have jumped 60 per cent over last year, the sale of fur coats has doubled and tripled over last year, and jewelry purchases are up 35 per cent.

It isn't a pretty picture—this one of women in a country at war running around buying diamond rings and fur coats, when every day they are told how badly Uncle Sam needs a loan from them.

ALL HAVE "EXCUSES"

Sure, they can argue with themselves that a diamond is always a good investment, or that since they are working hard in a shipyard, or their husband is foreman in a war plant, they have a right to buy some of the finery they always longed for.

They can tell themselves that. But they are only rationalizing, trying to cover up their selfishness, greed and lack of gratitude to the men who are fighting, suffering and dying while they shop.

Uncle Sam has told his womenfolk that they can help him in one important way. That they can economize and lend him—at a nice rate of interest—the money they are able to save.

No, the picture of Amreican women rushing out to grab every luxury their money will buy is not a pretty one.

With dates for Christmas buying and mailing set earlier than in history, organizations are already planning Yule entertainments for town, school and Army groups.

Service Aires, secretarial bloc of the Hubettes, planned entertainments when they met Monday night at the LSO, 1211 Thirteenth street, with Miss Avey Leeth Smith presiding.

When the recreation center is opened there, the Aires is to act as hostess each Wednesday night for dances. Plans were also discussed to sponsor a Christmas dance for soldiers at South Plains Army Air field. The date has not been set.

Here's A Gal Who Has Spurs That Jingle

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press Features

RENO, Nev. Nov. 3.—You can blame it on the war, Dore Wood says. When you can't find men for a job, you have to find women.

That's how he hired Florence Herrmann, attractive 26-year-old Hempstead, N. Y., girl, as the first dude ranch wrangler in this section.

Wood, owner of the swanky Tumbling D-W dude ranch in historic Franktown, 25 miles south of Reno, said he simply ran out cowhands for his ranch, so he hired the first competent girl that came along.

And it's a man's job Florence walked into. Her work day begins at dawn when she brings in the saddle horses from the Washoe [illegible] helps feed them.

Then she grooms the horses and if none of the ranch dudes want to ride during the morning, she takes each of the horses out for a brief exercise ride.

After lunch, when most of the dudes are up and around, Florences goes riding with them, keeping the inexeperienced riders up with the others, guarding against unnecessary risks and generally shepherding the dudes through the scenic high Sierras.

When the rides are over, she grooms the horses, feeds them and turns them out to pasture, then plays bridge with the guests until bedtime.

HOOFER, RANCH STYLE: Florence Herrmann, dude ranch wrangler, knows her stuff.

SHE ROLLS HER OWN: Florence lives up to the best cowboy traditions.

Few Tickets Left For "This Is The Army"

About 400 tickets remained at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the premiere of the smash film, "This is the Army," in the Lindsey theater tonight, according to Clark Abbott, Lindsey manager. He expected, but would not guarantee, that a few may remain for box office sale tonight.

Only 25 tickets remained for $1.65 reserved seats. Others were $1.10. Abbott emphasized that the sale is limited to the theater seating capacity. Seating will be on the basis of "first come, first served," he added.

An LAAF broadcast over KFYO from the stage of the Lindsey at 7:30 will start the program. The post orchestra will play, Lts. Charles Prescott and Richard H. Chamberlain will sing, and Col. Ralph E. Holmes, LAAF commanding officer, and Mrs. William Dingus, Texas Tech faculty member, will talk. The picture program will begin at 8:15. All proceeds go to the Army relief fund.

Mrs. H. D. Woods, chairman of sales, is asking auxiliary members who are to assist with the project, to meet at the side entrance to the Citizens National bank Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock.

Balance Of Lubbock County Farm Sold

County commissioners court Tuesday afternoon sold the remaining 160 acres of the county farm south of Lubbock on the Tahoka highway, for $63 an acre.

L. H. Redwine, who owns a drugstore here, bought the tract, about seven miles south of Lubbock.

Originally there were 320 acres in the farm, which reputedly was bought by the county at $35 an acre. Approximately 13 years ago the 160 acres then sold brought $55 an acre.

The tract had been bought for an old-folks farm, but there later was a decision to use another piece of property inside Lubbock's city limits for that purpose.

Barrett Penney, who with Ben Mansker had been appointed by the commissioner's court of which they are members to handle terms of sale, was "auctioneer." Bidding commenced at $50 an acre.

County Judge G. V. Pardue said he presumed the money for the sale would be "returned to the fund where it came from, in terms of law," and that later it possibly be invested in government bonds.

Air-WACS At LAAF Are Busy Doing Interesting Jobs

A WAC at the Lubbock Army Air field is now instructing aviation cadets in some of their flight training, another is taking and developing pictures while others are "aerial traffic cops" in the control tower. These are but three of the interesting and important jobs open to women as "Air-WACs."

WAC Pfc. Bessie R. Harris is teaching the cadets the art of "flying under the hood" in the Link Trainer department and says "it is a very fascinating job." Her husband, Pfc. Daniel W. Harris, jr., is serving in an airborne division while a brother, Sgt. Fred Hodsman, is in a signal training regiment. All are from Erie, Pa., and Pfc. Harris entered the WACs "to release men for combat duty and to speed the day of victory." Pfc. Harris thinks that the WACs offer women the opportunity of a lifetime in serving their country.

Will Know Trade After War

A "lens-laborer" is Pfc. Dothea Mealey, who is a shuttering in the photo section. In addition to releasing a man for more active duty Pfc. Mealey is learning a trade that will be of value after the war is won. She was very outspoken in urging other women to enter the WACs and said, "I certainly would recommend the WACs to any woman who wants to help win the war."

Other WACs are "aerial traffic cops" in the control tower at LAAF, Pvt. Elizabeth English is a flight dispatcher in post operations, Pvt. Dorothy Murowska keeps track of flying time for Air Forces officers. Keeping tab on military records in the cadet detachment is Pfc. Elizabeth Waddacar, Cpl. Joanna Laverty does her part as company headquarters clerk while Pvt. Ilene Ruby Sharpan is an acetylene welder on the flight line.

These are but a few of the 150 specific jobs that women can fill as Air-WACs. Men in the air forces are leaving every day for overseas duty and WACs are urgently needed to fill the jobs left vacant by the men—jobs that are interesting and educational.

Women between the ages of 20 through 49 are urged to join the WACs now and after a short period of basic training they may be assigned to the Air Forces if desired, where living conditions are ideal, the starting salary is good and there is an opportunity for advancement—as well as the opportunity to learn an interesting trade.

Additional information can be obtained at the Air-WAC recruiting booth in the Hilton hotel or at the West Texas Recruiting offices.

Crack In Morale Of Japs Said Unlikely

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Russell Brines, veteran Associated Press foreign correspondent returning aboard the exchange ship Gripsholm after more than two years in Japanese internment camps, throws new light on conditions in Japan in the following dispatch from Port Elizabeth — one of the first accounts to come out of Japanese-held territory in over a year. Brines was captured by the Japanese in Manila, and after a period in internment there was transferred to Shanghai in September, 1942. He served in the Associated Press bureau in Tokyo for two years before going to the Philippines in 1941. A graduate of Pomona college, he joined the Associated Press in Honolulu in 1938).

BY RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT ELIZABETH UNION of South Africa Nov. 3—Swept by a wave of wartime fanaticism and tightening controls, the people of Japanese people show no indication of any crack in morale despite mounting shortages of commodities travelers returning from Japan say.

Residence in Japan during two years of the empire's greatest struggle has convinced them the Japanese people will support the war effort under the present circumstance for at least five years more.

The common man's living costs in Japan have at least doubled, despite government-pegged prices, they say, and his menu is scanty even by comparison with his common frugality, yet the people patiently await further hardships which they accept as a wartime necessity.

The army is continuing to keep a tight check-rein on both the government and the country. It apparently has silenced all opposition —even the big industrialists who were the last opponents to submit.

Black Market Rampant

Nevertheless the black market is ampant and wartime profiteering is extensive.

The commoner faces the winter with reduced supplies of coal, rice, fish, meat, clothing and other necessities. All the essentials are rationed. but often the supply is insufficient to meet the number of legitimate ration cards.

The Japanese stand in line for hours to obtain a few vegetables. Most items are obtainable on the omnipresent black market—at ten times the official price—except rice, which is rigidly controlled, and coal, which virtually is unobtainable.

The decreased supplies of fish are probably due to the shortage of oil for seagoing fishing craft.

Food Items Scarce

Meat is available three times a month, rice, sugar and bread are insufficient and butter, canned goods, jam, and smoking tobacco are unobtainable.

The paper money boom continues among war factory workers, who are required to make large war bond purchases.

Patriots, under government leadership, are intensifying efforts to minimize amusements, but theaters, beer halls, restaurants and geisha houses are jammed.

All Japan is geared to the war effort and the commoners' lives are dedicated to it. Nearly every man, woman and child is enrolled in patriotic organizations and secret jingoistic societies.

Commoners Intimidated

Gendarmes and "tough police" have so intimidated the commoner and most of the leaders that a Japanese quakes at the sight of an approaching policeman.

Some individual Japanese, however, have continued their oldtime friendship for many Americans, particularly missionaries, even sending packages of rare foodstuffs after their internment until officials prohibited the practice.

Army-dominated propaganda is consistently maintaining a dual campaign obviously designed to strengthen willingness to fight America, which now is pictured as the major enemy, while bearing domestic hardships.

The press never carries stories of American chivalry and bravery on the battlefield, but emphasizes the asserted weakness of the "luxury loving" troops and ungallant bombings of hospital ships and the like.

Funeral Set Thursday For Meadow Resident

Funeral services for Benjamin F. Donowho, 63, of Meadow, who died in West Texas hospital Tuesday, will be conducted at 3 p. m. Thursday at the Methodist church in Meadow with Rev. Bryant, pastor, officiating. The body will lie at Plains Funeral home until Thursday.

Donowho, a resident of Meadow 18 years, had been in the hospital only a few days.

Survivors include his wife and four daughters, Mrs. Cliff Widener, Lubbock; Mrs. Paul Castleberry Plainview; Mrs. Samuel E. Counts, Del Rio; and Billie Jean Donowho of Meadow; two sons, R. T. Donowho, Meadow; and Sgt. Benjamin F. Donowho, jr., who is stationed somewhere in North Africa.

THEY TELL OF TRAGEDY—The little people, the innocent bystanders whom war has hit, tell a tale of Nazi terror that struck a tiny Italian village. Their grief seen plainly in their faces, these women of Rionero, Italy, sob out the story of how 16 of their menfolk were executed by retreating Nazis after a local farmer had shot a German chicken thief.

Milo Grazing Test Is Started At Tech

Start of a year's milo grazing test with 40 Hereford yearlings purchased recently was announced Tuesday by W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry at Texas Technological college.

The 40 steers will graze on 20 acres of milo, standard variety, which stands at an estimated yield of two tons of heads per acre. The field milo will be supplemented with two pounds of cake per steer per day.

Similar Test Last Year

A similar test in 1942 included 20 grade Hereford feeder calves on 20 acres of milo. At that time the estimated yield of milo was one ton per acre. It required 90 days for the calves to consume the 20 acres of milo.

During the experiment the calves were fed one pound of cotton seed cake and one pound of alfalfa per calf per day. Average daily gains for the 90-day period was 1.78 pounds per calf per day, and the cost based on the prevailing 1942 prices was calculated to be $7.57 per calf for the period.

Ragusa Ibla, historic portion of the town of Ragusa, was reportedly founded by the Greeks as Hybla Herea.

The Army Service Forces (formerly Services of Supply) is the organization charged with supplying the Army with all services and materiel including transportation, keeping personnel records and supply mail service.

Tulsa Man Has Plenty Of Patriotism Left

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 3. (AP)—Robert Yoder, 39-year-old Tulsa oil man, is short on arms but long on patriotism.

After Pearl Harbor, he tried to enlist but was turned down by all branches of the service because he has no left arm.

"Now, if you were a meteorologist, we could use you," an Army Air corps officer told him one day.

So Yoder took a nine-month course in meteorology at the Spartan school of aeronautics and obtained a government license. Then the air corps rejected him because he didn't have a college degree.

He need only one semester of college work so Yoder enrolled at the University of Oklahoma and earned the degree.

The Navy accepted him and sent him to the University of New Mexico for special training. In three months he will be commissioned.

Yoder has a wife and two children. He is the son of Edward Yoder, pioneer Tulsan and one-time police chief.

Kidney Trouble

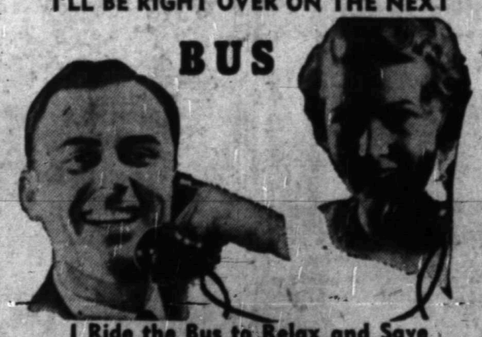

The function of the kidneys is to filter uric acids, urates, and poisons from the blood stream. Many times this filtering process does not work to the extent of clearing the blood of poisons and a toxic blood stream follows with rheumatism, neuritis and other aches and pains. On the other hand if this process is to lax red blood cells find their way out through the kidneys which we term hemiturla. When a kidney fails to function it is called a dead kidney. All functions and actions are controlled by the nerves. A chiropractor recognizes this fact and kidney trouble is easily handled when the cause is adjusted.

Fiber Tokens For Rationing Will Be Counterfeit-Proofed

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 — The new ration tokens aren't going to jingle, jangle, in your pocketbook, after all. But they'll glow, if you look at them in the right light.

They won't jingle because they'll be made of vulcanized fiber.

You won't be able to see them in the dark, but as a matter of counterfeit-proofing, they'll be treated chemically so they'll glow when exposed to fluorescent light.

They'll be colorful. Both the red ones (for meat and fats) and the blue ones (for processed foods) will have a thin band of yellow visible along the side. That's just another part of the counterfeit-proofing.

Very Lightweight

They're very lightweight, somewhat the size of a nickel, only thinner.

Theoretically you won't have to tote around more than nine of them at one time. When they go into circulation, each remaining red and blue ration stamp will automatically be worth 10 points, regardless of what number is printed on it, and the red and blue tokens (each worth one point) will be primarily for "change."

While it's definitely decided that the tokens won't have any expiration dates, and will be valid any time you have any, there's still some discussion around the Office of Price administration about fixing expiration dates for the stamps.

Control Is Issue

One of the fundamental issues at stake in shifting to tokens was the amount of control OPA would still have over the supply situation.

Practically speaking, an expiration date on a stamp wouldn't mean much so long as tokens always were good. The consumer simply could cash his stamp and gather in tokens in change. Therefore, putting expiration dates on stamps might lead to hoarding of tokens, OPA acknowledges.

Still, there remains the worry in the rationers' minds that some day there might be too many stamps and tokens outstanding for the amount of goods available.

Britons Seek South American Air Lines

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Great Britain's heightened interest in Latin-American trade was emphasized today by the report that two major British airline groups were seeking routes to South America.

Five British shipping lines announced in London they were organizing a single company to run air services between the United Kingdom, European continent and South America, while representatives of British Overseas airways were reported to be negotiating for a trans-Atlantic airline to Brazil.

In the consolidated airline deal are the Royal Mail lines, Blue Star line, Pacific Steam Navigation Co., Booth Steamship Co. and the Lamport and Holt line.

The announcement that these five surface carriers would pool their interests in a single air project [illegible] fight might be waged to prevent England from channeling all its international air transportation through the British Overseas airways, and thus create a subsidized monopoly.

Negro Maid Is Willed $5000 By Simmons

TULSA, Okla. Nov. 3 (U.P.) — County court probate records showed today that once oil wealthy T. K. Simmons, husband of a Tulsa social leader slain last March in a sensational triangle case, had bequeathed $5,000 to a negro maid while leaving only $1 to an adopted daughter.

The bequests in the will of Simmons, who died in Fort Worth, Oct. 20, left $5,000 to Irene Walker, the servant, and $1 to Mrs. Katherine Lackey, Fort Worth.

"Mrs. Lackey," the will stated, "has received all the money and property she might reasonably expect through previous negotiations."

The Simmons estate was reported worth less than $50,000.

He's Due For Shock! Sailor's Order For Loud Shorts Filled

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 3 (AP) —Naval personnel at Pearl Harbor —and specifically Printer Third Class Robert W. McNeilly—had better get set for a shock of a peculiar and intimate nature.

The center of the disturbance, which hardly could be other than immediate and vigorous, will be a pair of silk rayon panties, beriboned and sachet-bagged by McNeilly's mother in answer to his plea for underwear of the flashy type he wore in college.

"Mamma," Mrs. Anna McNeilly said her son wrote, "if you ever want to send me anything, how about some bright shorts? You knew the kind I used to wear. The GI brand is hopeless."

Mrs. McNeilly, unable to find in stores the flaming patterns favored by the sailor, bought the silk rayon and made the shorts. She trimmed them with lace and pink ribbon inserts, completing the job by attaching a dainty sachet bag to the waist.

"CITY" WILDERNESS

WALDOBORO, Me., Nov. 3 (U.P.)—Germany apparently had a Goebbels as far back as 1748. This town was settled in that year by Germans, who immigrated to this place with the promise and expectation of finding a prosperous city. Instead, they found nothing but wilderness.

Aluminum Plan Is Over Top

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — It cost a billion dollars plus, but the aluminum-for-war program is over the top, producing 100,000,000 pounds in excess of requirements every three months.

Arthur H. Bunker, director of the aluminum and magnesium division of the War Production board today unfolded the hitherto secret story of prodigious growth from a pre-war midget to an industrial giant.

Highlight of his report:

When the rearmament program began in mid-1940, the U. S. produced a limited amount of aluminum unsuited to war needs, and almost no magnesium.

Fabricating System Built

Fabricating equipment could not be converted to military production and a billion-dollar fabricating plant system was built from the ground up.

Plane production was measured in dozens per month; in October, 8,300 units were produced, each utilizing light metals.

Bunker estimated the following production increases for 1943, as compared with 1939: domestic bauxite, 1200 per cent; aluminum tubing 1500; aluminum sheets, 700 per cent; aluminum rod and wire 1200 per cent; extruded shapes, 1000 per cent; aluminum forgings 4500 per cent.

Aluminum supplies for the fourth quarter of 1943 were at 871,200,000 pounds, almost 700,000,000 pounds in excess of the 774,000,000 pounds required.

Readers Here Favor Books On War For Non-Fiction Reading

That Lubbock people are vitally interested in reading books dealing with war and its various phases, is evident in a recent check on books read at the county library. Out of the eleven current popular non-fiction works, it was found that seven of these dealt with world conflict. The current non-fiction books are: "One World" by Wendell Willkie, "Between the Thunder and the Sun" by Vincent Sheean, "Guadalcanal Diary" by Richard Tregaskis, "United States Foreign Policy" by Walter Lippmann, "Under Cover" by John Roy Carlson, "Burma Surgeon" by Lt. Colonel Gordon Seagrave, "Paris Underground" by Etta Shiber, "Journey Among Warriors" by Eve Curie, "On Being a Real Person" by Harry Emerson Fosdick, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough, and "Chicken Every Sunday" by Rosemary Taylor.

In an analysis of the current fiction books, it would seem that in this field readers are seeking "escape" reading. Out of the thirteen most popular fiction books only two were found dealing exclusively with war. The fiction books which are most in demand at the county library are: "The Human Comedy" by William Saroyan, "The Apostle" by Sholem Asch, "The Robe" by Lloyd Douglas, "Valley of Decision" by Marcia Davenport, "Hungry Hill" by Daphne Du Maurier, "Gideon Planish" by Sinclair Lewis, "My Friend Flicka" by Mary O'Hara, "Mrs. Parkington" by Louis Bromfield, "Capricornia" by Xavier Herbert, "The Song of Bernadette" by Franz Werfel, "So Little Time" by John P. Marquand, "A Tree Grows In Brooklyn" by Betty Smith, and "None But The Lonely Heart" by Richard Llewellyn.

Soldiers Too Busy

"Soldiers don't have time to use the library much, but their wives check books often," said Mrs. J. A. Humphries, county librarian. "The library is being used to great extent. School students use it for making book reports for credits in English courses — particularly biography, non-fiction, fiction, Chaucer and Shakespeare. Many of the latest books are checked out by women's club members for use in making reviews," Mrs. Humphries stated.

The Lubbock County library, situated on the second floor of the courthouse, has branches in Slaton, Shallowater, Idalou, Monroe and Wolfforth. The total books in the six libraries is 15,026. Of this number 10,581 are adult books, 4,445 juveniles, and 65 periodicals. The library was organized in 1926.

Support for the library is received by a tax allotment of 2½ cents per $100 evaluation from the county's general fund. County tax evaluation for 1943 is $32,492,225, which allows the library $8,123.06 to meet expenses.

Dr. Gerald Wendt Predicts A Better Way Of Life Following War Due To Scientific Gains

A better way of life after the war, due to scientific advancements, was predicted by Dr. Gerald Wendt, science editor of Time magazine, in addressing the regular banquet of Lubbock Knife and Fork club in Lubbock hotel Tuesday night.

Development of the soft plastics, 100-octane motor fuel, aviation, electronics, flexibility in housing and revolutionary foods and other new "miracles" evolved by scientists for large-scale production at the close of the war will bring about anticipated changes in home and community life, business and industry with their widespread use by the public, Dr. Wendt described in his verbal peepshow of the future.

Many Things To Change

"All these things are a result of our destructive methods," Dr. Wendt declared. "In the post-war world, they'll change many, many things, but most of all they will change our habits, our way of living . . . They may mean great prosperity for you . . . They may mean disaster . . . You can't afford to close your eyes to these developments just because you have invested in their predecessors."

Regarding synthetic rubber, Dr. Wendt declared that by February or March the nation will be producing it at the rate of a million tons a year "so that tires will be available to you within a matter of months."

Nylon, now being used entirely in the war effort, will be a wonderful substitute for leather and in time a serious competitor to leather, he said.

Gasoline Big Factor

Regarding 100-octane gasoline, Dr. Wendt said it would be the greatest single factor in the manufacture and design of the post-war automobile as it makes possible a smaller engine capable of making 40 to 50 miles on a gallon. The post-war car will be a "usable annex to the house, a sort of a room, you'll decorate to suit yourself." It will have a smaller horsepower motor and will not be used much for speed, will be roomier and one that you can walk into as into a room."

As for speed, that field will be for the airplane, he predicted, as long trips by plane will be much quicker and cheaper than traveling by automobile. One thing is sure, he predicted, the big cargo and transport planes will replace and augment the transcontinental and inter-city bus and truck transportation sytem. There'll be many planes for family use and in five years, there'll be approximately 500,000 helicopters in the skies. Their use will call for neighborhood airports . . . They'll do to a town what the railroad and automobile did to towns of the past . . . They'll change the whole community life and our city fathers should be planning now for those neighborhood airports . . . We're still trying to catch up with the development of the automobile."

Field of Electronics

In the field of electronics, the challenge of the future is great, Dr. Wendt declared. "You'll probably see a radio-telephone light enough carry in your pocket . . . You can dial and b-z-z-z-z, wherever she is . . . You're sure to have one in your new car . . . They'll be in all trains and planes . . . You'll dial a central station and pick up the conversation by wire the remainder of the way just as they did by phoning from ships at sea before the war. . . "

Mentioning Radar briefly, Dr. Wendt said its full story could not be told until after the close of the war but he predicted it will be a great factor in the development of television and it will be quite easy to convert to television after the war's close . . . "You'll have network television programs with relay stations every 250 miles or so and in every color of the rainbow, natural size and in three dimensions even . . .

Not For The Masses

"Television won't be an instrument for the masses, however," he said . . . "It will tend toward club life, toward community life . . . They'll be in every place . . . in the hotels, taverns and I hope in the schools, churches and the town halls . . . We didn't do that with the motion pictures, if we had, I believe they would have been used to a greater advantage . . . Television is a social force that is terribly powerful."

Standardized pre - fabricated parts of houses will be built in the future that will provide for more flexibility in housing, Dr. Wendt predicted, pointing out that "90 per cent of the people live in houses that don't fit and were built for someone else."

Luncheon and dinner foods will take their place alongside the breakfast foods of today in the development of dehydrated foods, the scientist-author prophesied . . . Dehydrated meats processed by freezing instead of heating will be a miracle of the future along with the present dehydration of vegetables and other foods.

Better Protein Foods

Use of yeast-growths to give us better protein foods is in its infancy but is certain to be one of the new miracles of foods of the future, Dr. Wendt declared, relating how he recently ate an entire luncheon at a brewry in St. Louis of foods made almost entirely from yeast which was 50 per cent protein and had all of the meat vitamins. They may, in time, present a threat to the meat industry, but at the present are an enormous blessing—being sent overseas to the starving peoples who are in need of proteins.

Dr. Wendt was introduced by Dr. R. C. Goodwin, head of the department of chemistry at Texas Technological college.

Prior to Dr. Wendt's talk, members voted on three new directors for the coming year. Elected were: Durwood Bradley, Rayford Hills and O. W. Ribble. At the close of the dinner-meeting, the following new officers were elected: Jack Randal, president; H. L. Allen, first vice president (re-elected); Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, second vice president; and W. W. Rix, secretary (re-elected).

Directors announced that Miss Bertita Harding would be the speaker at the December meeting of the club, date to be announced later.

In 1940, the assessed valuation of the 48 states and the District of Columbia was $144,631,000.

Yanks Home From Nazi Prison Camps

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Fourteen wounded American soldiers who have been prisoners of Germany arrived here last night by plane from England, the War department announced.

They are the first American war prisoners to be repatriated under an agreement between the United States and Germany for the exchange of sick and wounded. The men were transferred from German prison camps to Goteborg, Sweden, and taken from there to England by ship under safe conduct. On their arrival here they were taken to Walter Reed hospital.

The men included:

Tech. Sgt. John H. Gardner; Fraley Y. Gardner, father, Yoakum, Texas.

Corp. Rodney M. Graham; Mrs. Arline R. Graham, wife, Atoka, Okla.

Lifting Of Federal Margarine Tax Asked

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—Representatives of many of the nation's laborers, retail grocers and hospitals asked Congress today to lift federal taxes and restrictions on margarine.

Lewis G. Hines, legislative representative of the American Federation of Labor, told the House agriculture committee the AFL for several years had opposed the margarine tax. It imposes a hardship on lower income groups, collects from them a tax on food and deprives many of a healthful table spread, he declared.

Tyre Taylor, general counsel of the national association of retail grocers, criticized the $6 license fee assessed on retailers selling uncolored margarine and the $48 fee for colored margarine.

James Russell Clark, spokesman for the American Hospital association, declared payment of the taxes on the product is "a serious handicap in the conduct of the dietary departments of hospitals," all of which he said are facing a butter shortage.

DRIVERS' PAY INCREASED

DALLAS, Nov. 3. (AP)—The regional War Labor board has directed that southwestern Greyhound bus drivers be given additional compensation of 14 per cent of their mileage-rate pay for the extra hours worked due to the slow-down of bus schedules under the wartime 35-mile-per-hour regulations.

Shun Overweight Motor Oil

Hazards of heavier oil than you really need are ended by changing to Winter OIL-PLATING

This Winter your mileage and speed—slashed by rationing—will have a tough time even keeping your battery charged. Why invite excessive discharge at every start by using overweight oil?

This Winter you'll want every last tenth-of-a-mile from your gasoline ration. Overweight oil wastes gasoline, and that's a pity when so many other things too, are all wrong with overweight oil.

This Winter you can't be sure of enough sustained speed and mileage to get overweight oil warmed up for half-way decent circulation—even if that could begin to be proper treatment for the engine you cannot replace.

The lightest Winter oils designated for motor cars are Grade 10-W and Grade 20-W. These are the lightest. And records show that these Winter grades are overwhelming favorites with the users of Conoco Nth motor oil—because this is oil that OIL-PLATES.

Promptly after changing to Conoco Nth it improves your engine by adding internal OIL-PLATING. Conoco Nth oil's "magnet-like" action—of synthetic origin—forms and maintains OIL-PLATING. In addition, this oil's liquid film of normal type and extreme strength is sandwiched between the OIL-PLATED surfaces... Oil film slides on Oil-Plating!—for super-abundant protection. Find out how light a grade of economical Conoco Nth is right for you. Go to Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station—today. Continental Oil Co.

Dread Engine Acid is Fought by OIL-PLATING

Normal combustion always leaves acids inside of your engine when it stops.

Formerly it seldom stood idle long. Soon mileage and speed heated your engine enough to oust acids.

But nowadays rationing may force long rests, while corrosive acids gnaw. To combat corrosion, metals are plated. You combat acid corrosion with your engine OIL-PLATED.

THIRTY-SEVEN COUNTIES ARE "OVER THE TOP"

HOUSTON, Nov. 3 (U.P.)—Thirty-seven of Texas' 254 counties were reported today to have "gone over the top" in their drives for the United War chest of Texas and the national war fund.

Announcement of the counties' action came from George A. Butler, president and campaign chairman of the state organization.

Butler reported that out of a total of $4,641,492 to be raised, $1,829,074.21 has been subscribed. This represents, Butler said, 39.41 per cent of the total to be raised for the USO and the 16 other agencies of the national fund.

Butler said the best report had been received from region 9-S, centering about Corpus Christi, where 93.1 per cent of the goal had been raised. He said that all campaigns in that area were over the top except in the city of Corpus Christi, where he said the community chest campaign was lagging.

Texas Commission To Seek Oil Price Hike

AUSTIN, Nov. 3. (U.P.) — The Texas Railroad commission will continue efforts to get the price ceiling on crude oil raised at least 35 cents a barrel, Commission Chairman Beauford Jester said today.

Jester criticized recent action of Stabilization Director Fred Vinson in rejecting an increase by quoting Abraham Lincoln's phrase; "no issue is settled until it is settled right."

State's Claim To Padre Island To Be Reviewed By High Court

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 (AP) — The Supreme court today agreed to review the state's claim to possession of Padre island, the narrow strip of sandy land lying offshore in the Gulf of Mexico from Corpus Christi to Brownsville.

It granted the state's application for a writ of error against lower court holdings adverse to the state, because of the importance of the case. The suit is styled State of Texas versus Alberto Balli.

Court Decision Upheld

The original suit was brought in Nueces county district court, which ruled against the state. The court of civil appeals at San Antonio agreed with the district court.

The chief point at issue is the validity of a grant made by the Mexican government more than a century ago to ancestors of Balli and other relatives.

In addition to Balli, there are 245 descendants, including the Sun Oil company, Sinclair-Prairie Oil company and the King ranch. The island includes parts of Cameron, Kleberg, Willacy, Kennedy and Nueces counties. It has principally been a cattle-ranching area, and its beaches are famous for fine fishing.

Allred Vetoed Bill

Six years ago the legislature authorized the state parks board to acquire the island and develop it as a public resort. The bill was vetoed by Gov. James V. Allred, who declared that the dune-dotted island rightfully belonged to the state.

The suit incorporating this contention was filed by Attorney General Gerald C. Mann in February, 1940. It not only sought title and possession of the land, but also $150,000 in damages.

Today's supreme court action not only re-opened the entire original matter, but included the state's supplemental claim for recovery of 80,000 acres in an alleged vacancy on the island.

Cop's Thirty Years On Force Unexciting

CHICAGO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Not all of Chicago's policemen slug hoodlums and engage in gunfights with gangsters.

Timothy O'Connell, who retired from the department today after more than 30 years of service, spent the last 15 years on traffic duty and says he has seen little excitement.

He never has fired a shot in his life and the only time he ever used his police club was years ago when he clubbed a runaway horse.

Occupation Of Reich Is Seen

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — Complete long-term military occupation of Germany and destruction of all major German armaments industries after the war were among the possibilities mentioned in speculation here today on what was decided at the Moscow conference.

It is known that the United States delegation favored a plan to occupy all the larger cities in Germany and to paralyze the German war potential.

How far the foreign ministers reached definite agreement on those points has not been disclosed, but the communique issued at the conclusion of their meeting said the question of Germany's future had been taken up.

Main Problems Listed

Main problems facing the Allies on how to deal with Germany after the surrender are:

1. When to deal with and whether to allow the continuance of any German government.

2. How to divide up the responsibility of occupation.

Partitioning Germany into zones of Russian, British, American and other Allied occupation spheres has been suggested, but the United States view, it was learned, is that the matter should be handled by an Allied commander-in-chief, perhaps under a joint commission.

The banking institutions have been known as government banks, although both have engaged in commercial business.

A financial source said no specific reason for the action was given. In the past, however, the U. S. Treasury has taken similar measures against banks known to be doing business with black-listed firms and enemy nations.

Ham Found As Source In Food Poison Cases

DALLAS, Nov. 3. (AP)—A group of medical authorities today blamed staphylococcus toxin, originating in ham, for 150 food poisoning cases at the North American aviation plant here last Friday night.

The announcement was made jointly by Dr. J. M. Pickard, Dallas county health officer; E. W. Sudderth, county sanitation engineer; Dr. G. V. Launey, medical director for North American, and R. M. Plunkett, food poisoning investigator for the city of Los Angeles, Calif.

The cafeteria at North American is privately owned.

New Campaign Opens With Pro-De Gaullists

ALGIERS, Nov. 3. (AP)—Five pro-De Gaullists opened a new campaign today to reduce Gen. Henri Giraud's position and influence in French ranks by demanding that the commander in chief publicly renounce all ties with Vichy.

(The demand implies that Gen. Giraud has had such ties, but no specific charge was presented.)

The five persons came here recently from Nazi-held France to serve as delegates to the inaugural session today of the consultative assembly, which will be addressed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, co-leader with Gen. Giraud of the French committee of national liberation. All except Andre Mercier, a Communist from Paris, must remain anonymous for security reasons.

The delegates, speaking at a press conference, said people inside France recognized De Gaulle as chief of the movement and looked upon Giraud as head of the military forces, but believed he should remain as such only if he publicly declared he had completely cut all ties with Vichy.

Philippines Ruled By Puppet Regime

(EDITOR'S NOTE: In the following dispatch Raymond P. Cronin, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Manila when the Japanese invaded the Philippines, gives the initial firsthand account of conditions inside Japan's "greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere" since the first American repatriates returned from Japan in July, 1942. Cronin, returning home aboard the exchange ship Gripsholm, went to the Philippines in 1935 after serving in Associated Press bureaus in Pittsburgh and Columbus, Ohio. He covered the growth of the Philippine independence movement, the rise of the Japanese menace, Gen. MacArthur's defense preparations and finally the invasion of the islands).

BY RAYMOND P. CRONIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PORT ELIZABETH, Union Of South Africa, Nov. 3 (AP) — A Japanese puppet government, headed by a Filipino attorney-politican who advocated the Nippon way of life many years ago, rules the Philippines today, but critical observers of the situation feel the regime lacks the support of the masses of the people, who remain loyal to the United States.

As I left Manila on Sept. 26 after 21 months internment in the Santo Tomas camp, the Philippines were on the eve of receiving their "independence" from Japan with Jose P. Laurel installed as president of what the Japancse described as a "republic" operating within their sphere of influence.

To Serve War Purposes

It is quite evident to all that Japan created the so-called republic to serve her war purposes and aid her in making East Asia safe and self-sufficient for the Japanese.

The puppet government undoubtedly is functioning today, because the final step leading to the announcement of independence by Tokyo was taken as the repatriation ship Teia Maru reached Singapore.

This final step, according to Singapore newspapers, was a visit to Tokyo by Laurel, Benigno Aquino, speaker of the puppet national assembly, and Jorge B. Vargas.

Vargas, who had served as chairman of the Philippine executive commission under the Japanese military administration, was slated for the ambassadorship to Tokyo in the new setup. He formerly was a secretary to President Manuel Quezon, now in the United States.

Military In Control

Just what this independence will mean is, in fact, impossible to say, but I am convinced that it leaves the Japanese military authorities in complete control of the country politically and economically and that Laurel and his few followers will dance to music written in Tokyo.

Some observers express the belief that the provisional constitution adopted by Laurel's machine last month contains sufficient loopholes to permit the Japanese to force the puppet regime to draft Filipinos for war services in the interest of Japan.

The "government" in the form of an executive commission which the Japanese placed in power in the Philippines after the occupation of Manila looked like the Quezon cabinet of old-time politicos minus the fiery little president.

Vargas "Little Napoleon"

Vargas, who is known to his followers as "the little Napoleon," was made chairman of the commission by the Japanese military administration, with Laurel as his chief aide in the role of secretary of the interior. Laurel also was chief of the pacification and order drive by which the Japanese hoped to rid the islands of widespread guerrilla activities.

Filipinos were generally surprised when the Japanese named Vargas head of the commission. He had been looked upon in former years as highly pro-American.

Materials Are Allotted For Civilian Goods

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — Thousands of small manufacturers who were squeezed out in the war production scramble are descending like a swarm of bees on a "secret" list of 700 civilian commodities for which the government now is allocating materials.

The list was prepared by the Office of Civilian requirements (OCR) and submitted to the Smaller War Plants corporation (SWPC) with the stipulation that it be kept confidential.

SWPC notified 125,000 manufacturers by mail that the list was on file and invited them to inspect it at the nearest SWPC field office if they believed it included any articles which they formerly produced.

Along with scarce items like lunch boxes vacuum bottles, alarm clocks, carpet sweepers, garbage cans, washtubs and repair parts for household appliances, the list mentions toys, games, playing cards and similar items whose production has never been forbidden but was limited by restrictions on materials.

Iron, nickel and copper are believed to be present in a gaseous state in the sun's atmosphere.

Validity Dates For Ration Stamps Given

Validity dates of a number of brown meat stamps in ration book 3 were reported Tuesday by J. Doyle Settle, rationing officer for Lubbock OPA district.

Brown stamps and their validiy dates are: L, November 21; M, November 28; N, December 5; and P. December 12, all expiring January 1, 1944.

Brown stamps, G, H, J and K, the first two of which already have become valid and the latter pair which will become valid November 7 and 14, will expire December 4, Settle said.

Settle reminded housewives that green stamps, A, B and C in the new ration book 4 become good November 1 for the purchase of processed foods and will expire December 20. Stamp 29 in Book 4 also became valid November 1 for five pounds of sugar and will become void January 15.

Recruits Sought For Ship Repair Units

Skilled men for Navy ship repair units are being sought in a new recruiting campaign, recruiting officers in the federal building said Tuesday.

Qualifications for enlistment, or voluntary induction of draft age men, in these units were said to be, with few exception, akin to Seabee requirements. "The emphasis is on craftsmen," the announcement said, "such as carpenters, electricians, riggers, welders and mechanics of all kinds."

Navy physical requirements have been modified, it was stated.

Function of these units, it was explained, is to repair damaged fighting ships at advanced Naval bases, or repair all but major damage on the spot.

It was mentioned that most repair unit men qualify for petty officer ratings, with base pay ranging from $78 to $126 a month and 20 per cent extra when they serve overseas. They receive $133 worth of free uniforms, dependency allowances and are eligible for low-cost government insurance and other "extras."

Liferafts carried by Army aircraft are yellow, a color readily visible against the blue-green sea.

Detroit Woman Gets Tech Library Post

Appointment of Mrs. Ruth L. Jackson of Detroit as referee and documents librarian at Texas Technological college, effective Dec. 1, was reported Tuesday by President Clifford B. Jones. She will succeed Miss Hendrine Rosendal, who has accepted a position with the Oregon State Library, Salem, Ore.

Mrs. Jackson received her BS degree in library sciences and received her Masters degree from the University of Illinois. Theses for her masters degree was photostated by the Library of Congress.

Formerly an assistant at the Ricker Library of Architecture, Mrs. Jackson was later catologuer at Detroit public library. Her husband has been assigned to the Army Specialized Training program at Texas Tech for training in mechanical engineering.

Members of Lubbock post of Veterans of Foreign Wars will honor their state commander, Dr. D. S. Meyers of San Benito, at their semi-monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the basement of the Myrick building, according to J. R. Potts, post commander.

Accompanying the state commander will be chief of staff, Sam Metz, of McAllen. Dr. Meyers attended the national VFW encampment in New York City recently and is to report on his observations here.

A short musical program is planned and refreshments are to be served, Potts said. Routine business will be transacted.

Musial Is National Loop's Top Player

Walker Cooper Is Given No. 2 Place

BY TED MEIER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 — Stan Musial, the Donora, Pa., outfielder who batted .357 for the championship St. Louis Cardinals during the past season today was named the National league's most valuable player for 1943.

The selection was made by a committee of the baseball writers' association.

Out of a possible 336 points the National league batting champion received a total of 267, getting 13 of 24 first place votes.

Runnerup to Musial was his teammate, Catcher Walker Cooper, soon to be inducted into the Army, who received five first place votes and a point total of 192.

Nicholson Is Third

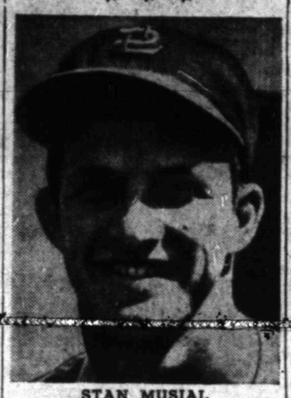

Big Bill Nicholson, of the Chicago Cubs, who socked the most homers, 29, and drove in the most runs, 128, was third. He also received five first place votes and a total of 181 points.

Rounding out the top six were Billy Herman, Brooklyn second baseman who was runnerup to Musial in the batting race and to Nicholson in the RBI column; Mort Cooper, Cardinal pitcher, who received the 1942 award; and Truett "Rip" Sewell, Pittsburgh righthander who gained fame with his tantalizing slow ball. Herman received 140 points, Cooper 130 and Sewell 127.

Clouting Sparked Cards

Musial's clouting sparked the Cards to their second straight pennant. He went to bat 617 times and socked out 220 hits for the highest average in the senior loop in six years. In addition he led in doubles with 47 and triples with 20 and was runnerup in runs scored with 108.

Altogether 34 players were mentioned in the balloting, with Clyde Shoun, veteran Cincinnati relief pitcher, the only other one to receive a first place vote.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 3—For some time boxing men have been arguing that their favorite sport will enjoy a post-war boom as a result of the fistic training service men have received . . . Now comes the first real evidence we've seen backing up their speculations . . . Tech Sgt. Jim G. Lucas, a Marine combat correspondent from Tulsa, Okla., sends back a story of how the Marines revived boxing interest in New Zealand during their stay there . . . They stirred up so much fan and participant interest that Capt. C. L. Mullany, chairman of the New Zealand amateur boxing association, presented a loving cup to the C. O. "In appreciation of the splendid spirit and outstanding sportsmanship" of the Leatherneck leather-flingers.

ANOTHER SHORTAGE

Because they couldn't get enough help in the Penn athletic office, Drum Beater Joe Labrum, Athletic Director H. Jamison Swarts and Dr. Leroy Mercer, dean of the department of physical education, have been working until 11 p. m. getting out the tickets for next Saturday's Penn-Navy game . . . Well, Bob Odell can't do everything.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

James E. Doyle, Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Battle song of a professional shinny swinger of these parlous times: 'I'm 4-F with my draft board, but I'm 1-A on the ice.'"

SERVICE DEPT.

The Norfolk Naval training station, which turned out one of the best service basketball teams last winter, is coming up with another star-studded combination but expects to find plenty of opposition in its own naval district . . . Staff Sgt. Tommy Gomez, the Tampa, Fla., heavyweight, has arrived at Keesler Field, Miss., to begin training as an aviation cadet, but the only boxing he will do there will be in exhibitions . . . Lt. James F. Vaughn, who went from Texas to Alaska to win the 1940 Alaskan singles tennis title, has traveled as far as the Kearns, Utah, Army Air base on the way home . . . Dr. Phil Edwards, former New York U. middle distance star, who is in hospital service in Trinidad, is seeking a release from the British government so he can enter the Canadian army's medical service . . . Cpl. Billy Conn has been temporarily detached from his post at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., to recruit air WACs . . . appropriate, eh?

Randolph Field Not To Play SLI Nov. 13

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 3 (AP) — Unbeaten Randolph Field has a game Nov. 13 with a Marine team but it isn't Southwestern Louisiana institute, says Lt. George A. Walker, athletic officer, regarding a proposal at Dallas for a contest on that date between the Ramblers and SLI.

Randolph is scheduled to play the Ward Island Marines at Corpus Christi and Lt. Walker said he knew nothing of a Rambler-SLI contest proposed by Captains Charles J. Maisel and Andrew R. Davis of the Marine Corps in Dallas last Saturday.

Randolph would be interested in a post-season game with SLI or any other team but prefers to play in San Antonio, Walker added.

Raiders Prep For TCU Tilt

Game In Ft. Worth Slated Saturday

Texas Tech's Red Raiders were busy Tuesday afternoon shaping plans for stopping the Texas Christian Horned Frogs Saturday afternoon at Fort Worth. The Red Raiders are by no means cocky, but they feel they have an even chance scoring their first win of the season over a college team Saturday.

A Dutch Meyer coached Frog team has never beaten a Texas Tech eleven, but T.C.U. has won five of the seven games played to date between the two schools. The Frogs won the first five games of the series, but the Red Raiders won 7 to 0 in 1936 and 13 to 6 last year.

The TCU club has lost a number of top performers, among them Billy Hale, captain elect of the 1943 Tech eleven, who missed by just one week playing against his Alma Mater. Hale, in the Navy V-12 unit at TCU, has been the regular center with the Frogs, but was transferred to Norfolk, Va., Sunday.

Coach Dell Morgan gave the Red Raiders plenty of rough work Tuesday as he started shaping an offensive that can be thrown against Frog offensive plays.

The only injury suffered by the Red Raiders in the game Saturday at Houston with Rice, was an ankle injury to guard Ed Watson, who will be out of the game for at least two weeks.

Otherwise, the Red Raiders were at full strength Tuesday afternoon and hope to be primed for the Frogs Saturday.

Westerners Getting Set For Brownfield Game Here Friday

The Lubbock Westerners and Brownfield Cubs settled down to business Tuesday afternoon in whipping into shape for Friday afternoon's conference battle at Texas Tech Stadium.

The Westerners staged a long scrimmage session with the Cowhands, and turned on the power for a test of the offensive machine that will be hurled at Brownfield Friday. It was the first test of some new plays, designed for this game, and they clicked well against the Cowhands.

R. W. Moyer was back again at the fullback slot throughout most of the practice session, but other backfield posts were being alternated with several of the boys showing up well.

After the first stringers had romped through the Cowhands for many nice gains, the younger boys were reinforced with a number of the Westerner reserves, but they were still unable to check the drive of Moyer, Davis, Elston and Lindsey who ripped off nice gains against both combinations.

Word from Brownfield indicated Tuesday that the Gubs were "pointing" to the game here Friday afternoon, and that the team was shaping up some bad moments for the Westerners.

The Cubs can be counted out of the conference race, having lost two conference games to date, but they are in a great position for kicking over the dope bucket, and the Lubbock Westerners are where they are aiming their first kick. They did it last year, and hope history will repeat. With this in view, their practice sessions have been hard ones to whip the team into peak shape.

The Army maintains photographic crews in all theaters of operations.

Things Are Returning To Normalcy---

Don Hutson Leading Grid Loop In Scoring, Pass Receiving

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP) — War or no war, things apparently are returning to normalcy in the National football league, Don Hutson of Green Bay again leads the loop in scoring and pass receiving.

The great Packer end, who holds 17 individual records — more than any other players in the league's history — had a slow start this fall. Beset with grief, first at the Pacific war theater and then with the death of his father, the 30-year-old veteran was not the Hutson of other years.

But against New York last Sunday he had one of his greatest days, breaking five of his own league records, snagging two touchdown passes and kicking five extra points. His 17 points gave him a season total of 54, ahead of Bill Paschal of New York who is second with 48 and Harry Hopp of Detroit, third with 42.

Overtakes Moore

In nabbing seven passes he boosted his season figure to 28, overtaking Wilbur Moore of Washington who dropped to second place with a total of 20.

Hutson's teammate, Tony Canadeo, has regained ground-gaining honors from Harry Clark of the Bears. He has 339 yards in 63 attempts while Clark shows 327 yards in 68 ball-carrying efforts.

Sid Luckman of the Bears continues to lead all passers in completions as well as yards gained—62 tosses good for 1,189 yards and 14 touchdowns. Also hurling 14 scores, Washington's Sammy Baugh is second with 52 completions for 811 yards.

Baugh tops the punters, having raised his average distance to 45.4 yards in 19 kicks, while Hopp rates second with a 38.1 average in 28 boots.

HARI-KARI GUN — Pistol-packing Japs in South Pacific are supplied with single-shot "suicide guns" to prevent capture alive. Pvt. R. W. Nyman displays one of the pistols and a Jap marine cap, taken from the enemy at Bairoko, north of Munda in the Solomons.

Psychology Is New Weapon For Savold

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP) — Lee Savold is using psychology in an effort to worry Tami Mauriello in their return 10-round bout at [illegible] night.

Mauriello is a 7 to 5 favorite to repeat the victory he scored over the Paterson, N. J. heavyweight in the garden a year ago, but it seems he has become annoyed at Savold's playing on his nerves.

Usually Mauriello moves from his home in the Bronx before a major fight and stays with his trainer at a downtown hotel. When he came to the hotel, however, he found Savold had already taken up quarters, so off went Tami to another hotel.

When Savold announced he would finish training at Stillman's gym on Eighth avenue, Mauriello, who was already working out there, protested: "I'm a steady customer and if Savold comes in I'm moving out."

"[illegible] worried," said Bill Daly, Savold's manager, in announcing Savold would wind up his practice chores at another gym.

Both were pronounced in good shape after an examination yesterday. Mauriello tipped the scales at 191 pounds, Savold at 192.

Transfers Play Just As Hard For Other Teams---

'Alma Mater' No. 1 Casualty Of Wartime Sports

BY JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK Nov. 3 — Alma Mater seems to be the No. 1 casualty of war-scrambled sports. The current grid season has given poor alma a terrific boot in the bustle—kicked her right off her hallowed pedestal.

Mater is the gal who since the inception of college sports has supposedly been the inspiration for athletes to give their all—to make the "old college try" — to fight to the limit.

Age-Old Battle Cry

Down through the years and throughout the land coaches have bellowed in dressing rooms: "Get out there now and fight for dear old Alma Mater." The rooting sections have roared: "Fight for Alma Mater!"

But during the current football campaign poor Alma seems to have been pushed further into the discard than Tommy Manville's first wife. The war shuffle yanked hundreds of service trainees away from their alma mammies and deposited them on other college campuses—sent them into athletic competition under adopted colors—pitted them sometimes against their own alma maters. And the tragedy for poor Alma was this: They seemed to fight just as hard against her as they ever did for her.

Daley Is Example

There was Bill Daley for example. Bouncing Bill played three years for Minnesota. But this season as a Navy V-12 man with Michigan he was the main spring in Michigan's 49-to-6 rout of Minnesota. And Tony Butkovich paced Purdue to its 40-21 victory over [illegible] last season. So it goes.

Half of the stars at trainee schools are transfers from other colleges. But they get out there every Saturday and play "inspired" football. Inspired by what? Certainly not by their ex-alma maters.

After all these years good old Alma seems to have been proved a false goddess at least as far as her responsibility is concerned for inspiring competitive spirit in athletics. And that's a mighty tough break for the coaches and cheering sections of the future. What can they send in as a sub for Alma?

SCHENECTADY, N. What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—

The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

REPORTS ACTION

Dear Plainsman: I was just sitting here thinking how enjoyable it would be to be reading the Lubbock Evening Journal, also, smacking my lips over a triple dip malted milk at Hop Halsey's. I would sit and listen to one of Hop's speeches right now for a good coke, or I might even go so far as to listen to one of his radio programs.

How are you and Joe Bryant getting along? In case you don't remember, I was Joe's assistant manager before I joined the Army. I used to read articles in your paper of how we would knock down 30, 40 and 50 enemy planes to our one. I just couldn't see how we could do that all the time. Well, there isn't a doubt in my mind now, because I saw it done, and very well done, with my own eyes just the other day.

It was something I will never forget as long as I live. I'm telling you, the Jap planes were falling out of the air so fast you couldn't count them. The enemy planes started in at about tree top level. I say "started in" because that is as far as they got.

Well, our P-38's were sitting up in the clouds waiting for them. They intercepted them about a mile out, and what I mean, they really gave us a show. I only wish the whole city of Lubbock could have seen it. You would be cheering yet. It was more like a football game to us. Every time an enemy plane would burst into flames, our boys would start cheering as if some Texas Tech Red Raider had made an 80-yard touchdown. I think the final score was "the Yellow Nips" around 40 or 50 planes shot down, and the "Yanks" only one. Our pilot was saved. I'll take my hat off to our Air corps any day in the week. They surely have saved our lives more times than one.

Well, that's about all in the way of news over here. I surely do miss reading The Plainsman. I wish that I could get the paper over here.

Keep the home front going, and we will do our best over here.

Sincerely,
Sgt. R. C. Matheny.

Sometimes we find ourself longing for the good old days when a vice president was only rarely seen—and never heard!

If you haven't heard Lt. Richard H. Chamberlain, of LAAF, sing, you've missed a treat. The assistant personnel officer at what is loosely called "the West Base," has a fine baritone voice and plenty of training behind it.

Before donning a uniform, the Randolph, N. Y., resident was a professor of music for two years at North Texas State Teachers college, Denton, and head of the music department at Simpson college, Indianola, Ia., for one year. He has been at LAAF since April of this year.

Lt. Chamberlain is currently serving as captain of the LAAF WAC recruiting team and is spending a lot of time in the booth in the lobby of Hotel Hilton, surrounded by WAC assistants.

He can sing like nobody's never-you-mind!

The Germans are fast running out of Russian territory to run out of.

THERE'S a good deal of talk going around and about concerning whether or not to let soldiers and sailors vote in the 1944 general elections.

Everybody, it seems, agrees that the service men should be permitted to vote, no matter where they are stationed over the world.

But some people included in the group which will make the decision say the job of printing, circulating, collecting and counting the ballots is of such magnitude that it is best to forget the whole thing.

It is true that the task of holding elections among service men scattered around the globe would be a great one.

While it may be possible, it is not practical to get up ballots by states and counties, so each service man may vote just as his civilian counterpart does at home.

We doubt if any great number of soldiers and sailors care anything much about voting a whole ballot, from President to constable. But most of them, we feel, would like to vote for President and Vice President.

So why not make that sort of vote available for the service men?

CERTAINLY if any American has the right of ballot it is the American who today is in the uniform of his country.

And among the uniformed ranks, the man most entitled to vote is the man who is in the thick of things—from one end of the world to the other.

So why not start now, preparing ballots and getting them to the South Pacific, to the European theater—to wherever fighting men may be, inside and outside the continental borders of our land?

Half a loaf is better than no bread, and the service man would rather vote for President and Vice President than miss all opportunity, no matter how interested he might be in the races in his state, district and county.

Give the boys the vote! Aren't they doing all they can to give us the right to vote in the future, as we have voted in the past?

And before getting off the subject of soldier voting, let us ask this question:

Has there been any effort made to find out whether soldiers and sailors want to vote, or not?

We've seen and heard a lot on the subject, but not one word from Joe Gob and Johnny Doughboy. Thus far, the politicians—those most directly interested in vote totals—are the only ones who have sounded off.

It seems to us that it would be fairly easy to get cross-section opinions in Africa, the Pacific, Alaska, Italy and England—as well as of domestic camps—and to send results of the cross-section to Washington.

Let's hear from the boys, themselves. And if they want to vote next year, for Pete's sake let's make the opportunity for them!

SPEAKING of service men reminds The Plainsman that one of the prettiest young women in Lubbock is the wife of a service man, originally stationed here with the Tech pre-flighters and now in advanced training at Santa Ana, Cal.

She is lovely, blonde Mrs. Jack Clover, from Alabama, whose face mirrors not beauty, alone, but also good character. Mrs. Clover is a waitress at the Hungarian cafe and this certainly is going to surprise her, because she doesn't know The Plainsman from a load of hay; has no idea he knows her even by sight!

It isn't too early for a man to decide what he's going to give his wife for Christmas—so she can change his mind in plenty of time!

* * *

Every man has two ears and one mouth—which is Nature's tip to him to listen twice as much as he talks.

THE men who write the news and the editorials in these war days are, as is to be expected, turning out some fine prose. Quentin Reynolds, Dan DeLuce, Wes Gallagher, Ernie Pyle, John Steinbeck are the names of a few of them. A fellow named Russell Davenport, who does the weekly full page editorial in Life magazine, is another. And there are many more.

But the news men, and those who have graduated to the editorial ranks of the newspapers and magazines, had best look to their laurels, for advertising men these days are doing fine jobs, too. Much of their "institutional" copy has been so poignant, so packed with pathos, that it has far transcended its underlying commercialism.

"The Kid in Upper 4," which probably attracted more attention through its war message than any other advertisement ever written, seems now to have been equalled by another advertisement, of another railroad. This new one is labeled, simply, "Missing."

The illustration in the advertisement is starkly simple and true to life. It shows a little boy of about 7 climbing the stairs to his bed, head low, the seat of his striped pajamas drooping. And the copy, in part, reads:

"'Missing in Action.' You know what that can mean.

"Mom says you must be brave. 'It's what your father would expect of us,' she tells you when it's bedtime and your chin starts to feel shaky. Then she kisses you extra hard and turns her head away so you can't see her eyes.

"You've never let her see you cry. Not once, since that telegram came and she twisted it all up in a ball, then smoothed it out and put it in the desk.

"But lying in bed you play 'Pretend'—pretend you can hear his step as he comes up to your room—pretend you can feel a stubble brush your forehead. And sometimes in the dark you can almost smell a cigarette-y suit close to your face.

"Later you dream—dreams that you don't tell about. And in the morning you wake up with that funny, empty feeling in your stomach . . ."

YES, the advertisement "Missing," is a great piece of writing. It tells a pathetically true story of what is going on in many American homes today—of what will go on, and on, and on until the war is won.

By the way, have you bought an EXTRA War Bond lately?

That will help reduce these occurrences.

THE END OF THE ROAD

CHAPTER XXV.

"Your name?" demanded the dervish.

"Terek el-Medjahiri, of the Lodge of the Bi Hassanyieh."

"Salaam, salaam! We have been anxiously awaiting you. I am of the Sennussyieh."

Lincoln knew at once who the man was: one of the most notorious anti-European leaders among the Moslems, fully as dangerous to the cause of the United Nations in Africa as Mahatma Gandhi was in India.

By this time, some of the other dervishes had crowded about the American. One of them, a lean, dark-skinned Egyptian, laughed.

"You were—ah—a little previous, were you not, Terek?" he demanded.

"Oh . . . ?"

"Aren't you the one who killed sidi Elliot, the governor at Mounetville, before our master gave the order to strike?"

Others joined in the laughter. They shook Lincoln's hands; and he reflected, sardonically, that he seemed to be popular for having caused his own death.

After a while, trying to keep his voice steady, he said:

"I should pay my respects to the hykmoot ameez. Where can I find him?"

The Egyptian pointed to a tent a little larger than the rest.

"You'll find him in there. But it is almost time for evening devotion. Wait until afterwards. For our master is a most rigid Moslem, a descendant of the Prophet Mohammed the Adored."

* * *

Half an hour later, after a muezzin had chanted the sunset prayers, with day dying and the first ghostly moonrays fanning their way through the clouds, Lincoln went to the tent of the man whom he was going to kill.

He was not conscious of the slightest quiver of excitement.

On the threshold, he announced who he was:

"I am Terek el-Medjahiri of the Bi Hassanyieh."

"Come in, O pilgrim!"

He raised the tent-flap, entered, and was alone with the hykmoot ameez. Again, as when he had first seen the clearing, he felt disappointed. For, again, there was nothing startling or dramatic. There was merely, sitting cross-legged, dim in the half-light of a far corner, a slight, medium-sized man, dressed in a long, brown robe, his face blurred and indistinct by the trooping shadows; and a voice greeting him with a pleasant:

"Salaam aleykoom, yah sheikh!"

"So matter-of-fact!" thought the American. "So commonplace!"

But, a second later, he considered that it was the man's very prosiness which made him doubly dangerous. His simplicity, his refusal to stoop to theatrical, Mussolini-like flummery to impress his followers, proved that he was utterly sure of himself.

Lincoln shrugged his shoulders. He told himself once more:

"Let's get it over with."

His first shot would have to kill. Couldn't afford to miss, or people would hurry in. So, groping under his burnoose and sliding the revolver snug to the palm of his hand, he took a step forward. A moonray danced in and brought his face into sharp relief—and he heard a slow voice speaking in French:

"Why—if it isn't Lincoln! How are you, Lincoln."

The hykmoot ameez rose. His features, too, became clear; and Lincoln recognized Raoul.

Silence dropped like a pall. They stared at one another. But they could not stand there forever, silent and staring. Something had to be done—or said.

This something was said by Lincoln.

"You haven't changed a bit, Raoul." He spoke with that sudden excess of brutality which comes to New Englanders at moments of great emotional stress. "You're still the crook, the cheat, as when you stole regimental funds."

The other smiled mockingly.

"There's a difference," he replied.

"Oh . . .?"

"Two differences. I stole—well—thoughtlessly, to pay for my fun. But this I am doing with full knowledge of what I am doing, and for the sake of revenge against," harshly, "the society, the Europe, the Christianity, which condemns and never forgives, in its stinking self-righteousness." He paused. "And the other difference . . ."

"Yes . . . ?"

"This time I'm getting away with it. Nobody knows that I . . ."

"What about me?"

"You don't matter."

"Don't I?"

"You're helpless."

Lincoln's grip tightened about the revolver.

"Why," he inquired, "do you imagine I came here, as a dervish?"

"Ask me a harder question." Raoul's mocking smile widened. "To kill me. Right?"

"Right."

"You wouldn't do it, now that you know who I am."

"Yet you were ready enough to include me among those to be murdered."

"I didn't find out until just the other day that you had been appointed governor. I wondered and worried what to do. Then the news came that you had been killed . . ."

"And so, since it was not on your direct orders, you absolved your conscience. Well—I don't believe you."

"You must believe me. It's the truth."

This Curious World

Today's Journal Editorial

"OIL FOR THE PLANES OF AMERICA"

Rejection by Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson of a recommended increase of 35 cents per barrel in the price of crude oil, following similar rejections on two occasions by the Office of Price administration, probably is the final prelude to a showdown fight on this issue.

Certainly the independent producers will not accept his decision without a fight to a finish. Their existence as independents is threatened by a price which, they insist, is below the cost of production.

Whether this claim is true, we do not pretend to know. But there is no question, by administration officials nor anyone else, that the price of crude oil is the same today as four or five years ago. Nor can anyone pretend to deny that the cost of practically everything entering into the operating cost of the oil and all other industries has increased enormously during that time.

Thus, it is apparent either that the price paid for oil four or five years ago was enormously too high, or that the price is far too low today. If oil producers are receiving today the reasonable return claimed by Mr. Vinson, then their profits must have been huge a few years ago. Not even Mr. Vinson has asserted that to have been the case.

Obviously, something is wrong somewhere, and it is to be hoped that congressmen from the "oil states" will carry through with their declared determination to get to the bottom of the whole matter.

Ernie Explains Why He Hasn't Written A Book

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here, in another of the Ernie Pyle columns of past years that are being reprinted during his vacation, Ernie gets whimsical about the book publishers. This one was written in 1939. Incidentally, Henry Holt & Co. are publishing his North African dispatches on Oct. 28 in book form, under the title "Here Is Your War."

BY ERNIE PYLE

KEY WEST, Fla.—I. S. Brickel, of Cincinnati, writes as follows:

"I read your column. I love to travel but cannot do very much, so do the next best thing, read of other people's trips. May I ask if your columns have been put in book form?"

No, Mr. Brickel, they have not. And do you want to know why? I'll tell you why. It's because there is a conspiracy against me.

I am followed by dark men in derby hats with cold stubs of cigars in their mouths; at night I see shadows on the window curtains; I get strange indigestions after eating lobster salad. It is this conspiracy.

ERNIE PYLE

The thing was started by New York publishing houses. I realize it is a pretty serious thing for me to be accusing big New York publishing houses of a conspiracy to prevent my columns being put in book form. But I have proof. A man came and told me about it.

He was a little man, with red toes and ears of corn for eyebrows. He came in through a hole in the mosquito netting one night while I was asleep in a thatched hut on the banks of the Parana river. He told me the whole story, and when I woke up he was gone.

Nothing Personal In It

He said this conspiracy is not really anything against me as an individual. He said, as a matter of fact, that the New York publishing houses feel I am a fairly nice fellow. A little crude in table manners, perhaps, but taken all in all, personally passable.

The real reason, he said, is economic. It's a move of the publishers to protect their investments and 20-story buildings and million-dollar presses.

For the publishing houses know that if one of them should put out a collection of my columns in book form, every other publishing house in New York would go bankrupt.

The book would be a sensation, like miniature golf. Nobody would read anything else. Other writers might produce three "Gone With the Winds" a week, but nobody would buy them. All other book sales in America would cease. You can see the results of that.

SO the simplest thing to do is form a conspiracy. It's easy to do that. One publisher just invites another out to cocktails and whispers "Now look . . ."

The thing has been going on now for two years. You'd be amazed at the far-reaching tentacles of this movement. The publishers hire queer-looking people to peer around corners at me. I am always finding nails in my tires, water in my gasoline, and spiders in the toes of my socks. And it goes farther than that, too.

I understand that Simon & Schuster has one vice-president, drawing $200,000 a year, whose sole duty is to keep anybody in the organization from mentioning the name Pyle, or anything that rhymes with it.

MacMillans have removed the letter "O" from every typewriter in the building. They meant to eliminate the letter "P," but the typewriter man brought the wrong wrench.

Stackpole Brothers have a man named Soskin hired to lean out the window and hiss all day long, just on the chance that I might be walking along Park Avenue.

And I am informed that the firm of E. P. Dutton (my own initials are E. P., you know) has gone to court and had its name legally changed to "Jack Dutton, Gen. Mdse."

Anti-Pyle Clubs Formed

Wherever I go, a cordon of silent, ugly men surrounds me, to keep the public away and make it look as though crowds weren't trying to get my autograph. I tell you, the thing has gone to desperate limits.

There are Anti-Pyle-Book clubs all over America, secretly financed by these publishers. There are marching clubs, and fishing clubs, and bicycle clubs, all devoted to keeping my columns from being put into a book.

There is even insidious propaganda in the schools. Why, there are hundreds of millions of children in America today who firmly believe that a collection of these columns in book form would take us back to the black days of 1893.

And a rumor has even been started that I am not a columnist at all, but a subscription salesman for a farm magazine. These conspirators will stop at nothing.

NO, Mr. Brickel. The sum and substance is that my columns have not been published in book form. You see why now, don't you?

I am giving the publishers just 48 hours longer to get out a book of my columns. If they don't I am going to get a covered wagon and go overland to New Mexico and become governor. And then where will the New York publishing houses be? You know where they'll be, Mr. Brickel. They'll be in New York.

The Army map service turns out between three and four million maps a month.

Fort Griffin, Former West Texas Frontier Hotspot, Is Dead Town

ALBANY, Nov. 3 (AP)—All the fight has gone out of Fort Griffin and nearly all the people have gone, too. The battle of death set in last September when citizens voted two liquor stores out of business and today this once rip-roaring West Texas frontier hotspot is as dormant as a gangster's conscience.

Art Newcomb, who has lived there 70 years, shook his head.

"I've never seen a place so dead," he murmured.

Newcomb's family is the only one remaining at the townsite.

In the late 60's and 70's Fort Griffin, 14 miles north of Albany, prospered as a big post between Fort Worth and Santa Fe, N. M. Horace Greeley surveyed the first telegraph line into its main street, a street lined with saloons and gambling halls.

Then the soldiers left and the Texas Central railroad came to Albany and Fort Griffin never regained its vigor.

During the last three years, the town was a hard-liquor oasis in a vast dry territory, but the local option election in September stopped all that.

The general store closed last week-end, and the postoffice is closing, too.

Cattle graze where gun-toting cowboys once downed their drinks straight and bet a month's earnings on a straight flush.

SKUNK STATUETTES

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 3 (U.P.)—Skunks have risen to the dignity of art. Mrs. Bertha Goodenberger told the police that burglars who robbed her home of a radio-phonograph, a geranium plant, and a globe of the world, took also two other objects that she prized more highly than all else. They were two small statuettes of skunks which she valued at $169.

Moscow Pact Urged For Post-War Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—A bloc of 14 senators proposed today to Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee that he substitute two paragraphs of the Moscow four-power statement for his peace resolution and seek its speedy approval as an expression of the Senate's views on foreign policy.

Although Connally declined immediate comment on the proposal, he indicated determination to go ahead with attempts to obtain passage of his resolution without change. His resolution would pledge the United States to join with free and sovereign nations in establishing international authority with power to prevent aggression.

Would Incorporate Pact

The proposed substitute of the 14 senators who have been seeking to "strengthen" the terms of the Connally resolution would incorporate in it, with slight changes, these declarations from the Moscow conference:

"That they (the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China) recognize the necessity of establishing at the earliest practicable date a general international organization, based on the principle of the sovereign equality of all peace-loving states, and open to membership by all states, large and small, for the maintenance of international peace and security.

"That for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security pending the reestablishment of law and order and the inauguration of a system of general security, they will consult with one another and as occasion requires with other members of the United Nations with the view to joint action on behalf of the community of nations."

Would Cite Authority

To this would be added a provision citing the Senate's constitutional authority to ratify treaties.

Brushing aside fresh demands for incorporation of the Moscow pact in the Senate post-war peace resolution, Foreign Relations Chairman Connally (D-Tex) today cited an historical precedent for the flexible use of international military power to settle a threatening situation.

The place, he said, was China; the time, 1900; the trouble, the Boxer rebellion, and the force which lifted the Boxers' siege of foreign refugees in Pekins was an international column of American, British, French, German, Russian and Japanese troops.

"If it ever becomes necessary to use joint military force to stop aggression," Connally said in an interview, "I would prefer the Boxer plan to an internationalized army."

Cooperation Cited

Connally said the six powers' cooperation was an example of how nations could join forces for a specific purpose without any standing, "de-rationalized" army of mercenaries. A true international army would have to be based somewhere. Would we want it here? he asked. To be effective, he added, such an army would have to be superior to any possible aggregation of military force that could be brought against it. That, he indicated, might lead to oppression and abuses.

As floor manager for the foreign relations committee's broadly worded resolution calling for United States participation in a world peace preserving agency, Connally continued to oppose suggestions that the organization be vested with power to use military force to put down aggression, and likewise proposals that the four-power Moscow declaration be substituted for the committee's draft.

Food Conditions

living off the country but are removing supplies—especially rice and sugar—to other areas, perhaps to Japan proper and to occupied regions further south.

The same conditions undoubtedly exist in other Philippine civilian internment camps at Baguio, Los Banos and Davao.

The food situation in Manila outside the camps, and supposedly throughout the Philippines, also is critical, as the Japanese failed to bring in major food supplies to feed their own army plus the populace. Former heavy food imports from the United States, in addition to rice from China, have been shut off for almost two years.

The Bank of England has its own water supply. One artesian well, 400 feet deep, produces 7000 gallons an hour.

Murder Mystery Clues

looks like a long hard job to find out where its ends."

News services and various newspapers alike have quoted Hutson the last two days from the Waco section, where Tuesday he held a lengthy conference with Waco's sheriff, Homer Casey and Detective Chief Hurton and others.

He was quoted as informing he had checked on information at Temple regarding an airplane reported to have been used in the slayings, and that he was checking on what he had learned.

Arrests Are Possible

He was reported to have said he planned no immediate arrests in Waco section; that he was there to look into evidence he had obtained, but that arrests could follow.

Newspapers of the section continued for the second straight day to inform their readers that another of the investigators in the case was checking at Temple and Cameron—even though Lubbock newspapermen had talked with that officer in his office here every day since and including Sunday.

One newspaper with wide circulation in this section had printed a story of what it termed a "heretofore unnoticed" statement in the transcript that went to the court of criminal appeals and was said to have said that Dr. Hunt testified in the trial of Dr. Newton of Cameron, who was convicted and given seven years in connection with the shooting May 21, 1942, of Dr. Roy Hunt of Littlefield, that Dr. Hunt had visited the Newtons in Galveston the month of his shooting on a lonely road near Littlefield.

Evidence Is Denied

District Attorney Harold M. LaFont of Plainview emphatically denied there had been any such evidence introduced into the trial record, and it later was learned here the story had been in error.

Stories in the Texas press continue to play the anaesthetic angle; to read into the Hunt slayings similarity of methods employed in the Lenroe Keeton case here several years ago and the robbery case not long afterward where several thousand dollars worth of gems were taken from the Tappan jewelry in Sherman, and to rank the case with other unsolved mysteries like the Frome and Blanton cases.

Actually, it was announced here: Some of the information in the case has seeped into public print; much of it hasn't, and officials out this way quite frankly have every desire to keep anything out of the papers except to report that they are working day and night all over the country trying to link with the investigation every person who had anything to do with conception or execution of the slayings, and every person who "knows something he hasn't told."

Keep "Gentlemen's Agreement"

Lubbock newspapermen have been permitted under the usual "gentlemen's agreement" to observe to quite an extent what goes on in the case—because now, as in other cases over the years, they have not broken faith with investigators.

They have been asked to assist investigators in photography and in other ways.

But, in order to aid the investigation, they have refrained from "breaking" news officials thought better to keep secret for the time.

They have been commended for their willingness to "play ball in the interests of justice."

nouncment, among them disposition or present makeup of the Northwest African Air force, and whether Spaatz's new command extends to the 9th U. S. Air force in the Middle East.

As to the latter, the heavy bombers of the 9th for some time have been attached to Doolittle's strategic air force for operational purposes, and presumably will continue to operate under Spaatz's command.

CLOSING PRICES OFF

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP) — After moving up a little at the start today the stock market abruptly reversed its trend with steels, rails and rubbers leading the downswing.

Near the close prices generally were off fractions to around 2 points, volume picked up on the decline reaching approximately a million shares for the five hours.

The first hour rise which lifted a number of industrial pivotals fractions to around a point mirrored optimism over the election results and better tax outlook, although hesitancy in the steels focused attention on the serious labor situation in the soft coal industry.

Stocks in the loss column near the end included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, Case, Western Union, International Nickel, Postal, Union Carbide, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Southern Railway, and Southern Pacific. A few of the so-called peace stocks held moderate gains, American Distilling rose several points at the best.

LAAF Graduation

"The kind of pilots we want may not be 'hot pilots' but they'll be the oldest pilots. When you are piloting a bomber your job is to get the plane to the target, so that the bombs may be placed where they will do the most good, and then to bring your plane and crew back safe."

Evan W. Scott, jr., of Philadelphia, was honor man of the class and was presented his wings by Major Gordon J. Mott, director of ground training. Wings and commissions to other members of the class were presented by Capt. Albert G. Arnold, commanding officer of the 3rd provisional training squadron and Capt. John L. Schroeder, jr., commanding officer of the 1st provisional training squadron.

A graduation dance for cadets and their guests was held in Hilton hotel last night from 9 to 12 o'clock, with S/Sgt. Bill Harrod's LAAF dance orchestra furnishing music.

Only graduate from the South Plains area is Walter H. London, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. London of Hereford, where he graduated from high school.

Other Texans in the class are: L. Z. Blancett, Wichita Falls; C. R. Gillespie, Ennis; Leonard E. Cherry, Muldoon; Charles R. Branson, Forney; Robert J. Phillips, Van Alstyne; Louis F. GOP Sweeps Voting

Haskell, although the President's support was confined to a vote cast at his Hyde Park home.

Edge Defeats Murphy

New Jersey—former Senator Walter Edge, Republican, defeated Vincent J. Murphy, Newark's Democratic mayor, for the governorship despite a better than 100,000 majority for Murphy piled up in the Hague-dominated Jersey City area.

Pennsylvania — acting Mayor Bernard Samuel of Philadelphia, Republican, was elected to a regular term in that office over the Democratic candidate, William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Russia and to France, for whom President Roosevelt had spoken a good word. The state continued Republican.

Kentucky, this normally Democratic state produced a real horse race for governor with Republican Simeon Willis trailing Democrat J. Lyter Donaldson by only a few thousand votes with hundreds of districts uncounted.

Fourth Term Death Blow?

Harrison Spangler, Republican national chairman, saw in these returns a death blow to any fourth term movement for Mr. Roosevelt. State after state, he declared, has "rebuffed the New Deal."

"Next November," he added, "these same voters will turn to a Republican president and a Republican Congress to get our country back on the American road."

Hanley's majority in the New York contest — far greater than Dewey himself was able to pile up last year against a split field —was considered a more than ordinary tribute to the governor. The Republicans fought the campaign on Dewey's record as executive.

Dewey's Stock To Rise

One immediate assumption was that Dewey's stock would rise considerably in the 1944 GOP presidential convention though he has insisted that he intends to serve out his full term in Albany, which has two years more to run. There has been some talk in the party of "drafting" him.

Dewey's organization got in some surprising licks in New York City where the governor first made his name as a racket-busting prosecutor. The Democrats carried the city as usual but only by a fraction of the majority they generally hurl against the upstate Republican vote.

Edge's election in New Jersey gives the GOP a majority of the governorships for the first time since 1928. With his inauguration in January, the party will have 25 of the 48 state executives. This would put the Republicans in control of every populous state outside the "Solid South" except Indiana.

Labor Set Back

While other factors also were involved, it appeared that organized labor was set back in two of the important contests. Murphy, defeated by Edge, had union backing dating from his tenure as an official of New Jersey's American Federation of Labor. In Detroit, labor's candidate for mayor, Frank Fitzgerald, rolled up an early lead, then slid to the trailing position behind Mayor Edward J. Jeffries who was on his way toward a third term. The election was non-partisan.

Detroit's recent race riots were an issue in the campaign and Fitzgerald, conceding his defeat touched on the subject by saying he would continue to strive to "serve the city in the interest of peace, safety and goodwill."

GOP Elects Solons

The GOP retained two congressional seats vacated by party members. In New York's 32nd district, Hadwen C. Fuller won over Democrat Norman F. Ward, as successor to the late Rep. Francis D. Culkin. With some returns yet to be counted, Republican D. Emmert Brumbaugh had an apparently safe lead over Democrat Edna Marden in the 23rd Pennsylvania district. This vacancy was created by the resignationn of Rep. James E. Van Zandt.

New England also yielded some interesting mayoral campaigns. For the first time since 1933, Hartford, Conn., elected a Republican mayor, William H. Mortensen. Bridgeport gave Socialist Jasper McLevy his sixth term.

Party leaders were confounded in the New York state Supreme court contest. Thomas A. Aurelio, attacked by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan as having been supported by a big time slot machine operator, appeared the winner even though both major parties had repudiated him.

The election was routine in Virginia and Mississippi, Democrats coasting in as expected in local contests.

Miners Ignore Order

Mr. Roosevelt ordered the mines seized Monday night. He gave Ickes authority to work out a contract with the union, provided the terms follow the War Labor board's rules. The UMW wage increases of at least $1.50 a day. Most of the operators consented to only 88 cents. The WLB suggested $1.12.

The fourth strike in the soft coal fields this year meanwhile crippled war industries and prompted Ickes to forbid dealers to deliver coal to any home which has more than a 10-days supply. Deliveries were limited to one ton.

Ickes also diverted 2,000,000 tons of soft coal on trains toward industrial plants. The secretary urged home owners to share their extra supply with neighbors who need help.

Union miners in the field were outspoken in continuing the strike until instructed by UMW headquarters to do otherwise. John J. Hanratty, union official at Birmingham, asserted that Ickes and Lewis "can reach an agreement" if the WLB "would quit playing politics." He said he hoped for a solution "within the next 48 hours."

Said Jim Eubank, president of the local in Fayette county, W. Va.: "I am not going back to work."

northwest of Rome, and pounded rail yards at Ancona on the Adriatic coast.

Behind his advance elements, Clark moved up artillery which, with benefit of the full observation of the Garigliano valley, could easily shell any enemy forces remaining on the west side of Massico ridge along the sea coast.

The valley between the north edge of Massico and San Croce mountains is only nine miles from the Gulf of Gaeta, and an Allied officer declared that the Nazis, who previously had concentrated many guns between the western slopes and the sea, "are obviously confronted with the necessity of withdrawing or facing annihilation."

Strong Line Cracked

Cracking of this strong mountain line was described as "the breaking of one more of Rome's outer defenses."

To reach favorable new mountain positions, the Germans would have to pull across the Garigliano to the high Aurunci mountains behind Minturno, 14 miles from the present battle area. There is every indication, however, that the Nazis will fight a slow, stubborn rear-guard action before relinquishing any part of the Garigliano valley.

Severe and bloody fighting marked the Fifth army gains. Nazi tanks went into action in the upper Volturno area, but failed to dent the salient the Americans thrust into the enemy lines there.

The Canadians and British crossing the Trigno also met heavy opposition, but this was countered by effective use of British artillery.

In this fresh stab capturing Pratella and Gallo, the Americans also chased the enemy from the important mountain town of Vairano and the little villages of Prata, Prata Sannita, Ciarpella, Corricella, Greci, Pozzo, and Marzanella. They also won a valuable crossing at Scafa di Vairano over the upper Volturno.

Landing Personnel Revealed

It was disclosed officially that the Canadian Three Rivers tank regiment and Irish guards brigade carried out the amphibious landing at Termoli early in October on the Adriatic coast that caught the Germans by surprise and sent them reeling back toward their present Trigno river line.

Allied bombers returned to Ancona on the Adriatic coast yesterday, bombing rail yards there and at Aquila, while other bombers blasted the harbor at Civitavecchia, north of Rome on the west coast.

(The Swiss telegraphic agency quoted the Rome radio as saying that Ancona was attacked by 40 American bombers yesterday morning, that the city virtually "no longer exists" and that the victims numbered "many thousands."

"Severe Damage" Shown

The air communique said preliminary photos showed "severe damage" was done yesterday to the Messerschmitt assembly plant at Wiener Neustadt, 27 miles south of Vienna, in the first officially announced raid by heavy bombers of the newly-created 15th U. S Army air force.

Thirty enemy planes were knocked down during the raid.

"Heavy flak and strong forces of enemy aircraft were encountered over the target," the communique said.

Light bombers and fighter bombers continued to blast enemy bridges, gun positions and motor transport in the battle area and night bombers pounded airfields.

Supply Road In Burma Is Hit

NEW DELHI, Nov 3. (AP)—Japanese attempts to break up construction of a supply road from Assam in India to the Burma road were indicated today in an Allied communique announcing that Chinese forces had clashed with 50 Japanese near the route.

The road is intended as a new supply line to China, and the Japanese apparently are seeking to pinch it off.

Chinese American-Trained

American-trained and equipped Chinese troops guarding the road "have moved forward a few miles to protect the route," the communique said, and clashed with the Japanese Oct. 30 and 31. One Japanese officer was killed and 10 enemy soldiers wounded, while four Chinese suffered wounds.

A heavy air offensive by American and British planes slashed at Japanese-held towns, railroads, and troop positions over wide areas of Burma yesterday, with all aircraft returning safely from the punishing attacks, two Allied communiques disclosed today.

Send Reinforcements

(An Berlin broadcast quoting Tokyo dispatches declared the Allies were "making further preparations for landings on the Burmese coast as well as on the Andaman and Nicobar islands and perhaps on Sumatra," and that fleet reinforcements had been sent to the Indian ocean.

("Four of five Anglo-American battleships, three or four aircraft carriers, seven or eight heavy cruisers and more than 10 destroyers have been transferred from the Mediterranean to the Indian ocean during the last few weeks," the broadcast added.)

U. S. 10th Air Force Liberators struck heavily at Kalewa, Yeu and Monywa, pounding buildings and railway targets, and fighter-bombers ranged wide over northern Burma spreading damage and knocked out the Loilaw railroad bridge between Manywet and Mogaung. This followed raids on the Sagaing railway yards and other targets by Mitchell bombers Monday.

Reds Rout Nazis

the Ukraine and there the charging Russians were within 104 airline miles of Odessa and 120 airline miles of Rumania.

Nikolaev Is Objective

Nikolaev, at the mouth of the Bug river 35 miles west of Kherson, and the southern anchor of the Bug river defense system toward which the Germans are fleeing, seemingly was the next major objective of the fighting Soviet army in its great drive to collapse the entire Nazi southern flank. With a peacetime population of 170,000, Nikolaev recently was reported headquarters for the German southern front.

The Russians stormed more than 40 miles across the Ukraine steppes yesterday from captured Perekop, northwestern gate to the Crimea, a Moscow communique disclosed. At the same time the bulletin said, other Soviet forces fanning out to the north stormed the strategic Dnieper river bridgehead of Kakhovka and seized Gornostiayevka, 15 miles to the northeast, where thousands of Nazis were reported killed or drowned in futile attempts to halt the Soviet onslaught.

Sea Port Captured

Capture of the Black sea port of Skadovsk, 40 miles southeast of Khxcson, further narrowed German aisles of escape from the Crimea by giving the Russians control of a large part of the north coast of Karkinit bay opposite the northwestern Crimean coast. It also posed a direct flanking threat to Kherson and Nikalaev, as well as rendering the position of any German troops south of Kakhovka untenable.

Other spearheads of Gen. Fedor Tolbukhin's fourth Ukraine army captured Kalanchak, 20 miles northwest of Perekop and Bolshayan Mayachki, 30 miles east of Kherson, Moscow announced.

The Russian communique termed the German defeat in this sector a rout.

Southwest of Dnepropetrovsk, bitter fighting in the Dnieper bend salient cost the Germans approximately 1,900 killed, Moscow said. Another 300 were reported slain in action around the iron city of Krivoi Rog, where the reinforced German garrison is still holding open an escape path for Germans inside the river loop.

News Briefs

Chief of Police Don Reeder at 2 o'clock had gone to confer with officials to determine what jurisdiction should file a charge against 21-year-old Morgan Hooks, a negro who allegedly shot Henry Williams, 30, a negro soldier Monday night. Reeder said Hooks pulled a gun in an argument with another negro over a "liquor debt," that a third negro caught Hooks' arm and that Williams, "an innocent passerby," suffered a slight wound of the left leg. The shooting was in the Flats.

Called Session

Washington officials he believed 95 per cent of the people of Texas opposed exporting more gas from Texas.

He has made a continuing study of the legal aspects of taxing gas used for export since the constitution bars arbitrary classifications for taxing purposes.

One possibility of overcoming the inhibition, he thought, was to tax gas on a graduated scale in direct ratio to the distance it was transported, beginning the first bracket at a radius of 100 miles from production. This would increase the tax on some gas consumed in Texas, he observed, but would not necessarily burden the consumer.

School Financing Is Factor

That the governor has not discarded plans for a special session was indicated further in a statement that he still believes there is a possibility the legislature will rearrange school financing in a way that would relieve the state general fund of some pressure and place all state financial aid to public schools in a category of a special fund. He abandoned plans for a special session to consider this subject last summer when he was convinced there was not then sufficient support in sight.

He has continued to discuss it and recently State Senator A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris, a key senator in school financial legislation, renewed his advocacy of the governor's proposal.

Inflation Could Cause An American Fascism

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 3 (AP)—Warning that a breakdown of the administration's anti-inflation program would produce an American fascism, Vice President Henry A. Wallace told the Congress of Industrial Orgonizations today that "labor and agriculture must not enter into an unholy alliances to loot the consumer's pocket."

"Any limiting of production and hiking of prices by special agreements between capital bosses and labor bosses," Wallace told the CIO's sixth annual convention, "is plain high-jacking."

"If such practices spread, they will impoverish the country," Wallace said.

Power Of FCC Over Radio To Be Defined

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — The Senate commerce committee today took up legislation which would define the power of the Federal Communications commission (FCC) to regulate the radio industry. FCC Chairman James L. Fly has been called as the first witness.

Tight Controls Put On Austria

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 3 (AP)—Caught "flatfooted" by the Moscow conference's promise to restore Austria's independence, the Nazis have clamped rigorous police control over the country to prevent disturbances and uprising, dispatches to the Swedish press said today.

(Spokesmen for the free Austria movement said in London yesterday that hundreds of Austrian soldiers were reported to be deserting and a "gigantic" uprising was predicted when the Allied armies near the country's border.)

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler called a special meeting yesterday [illegible] of the Moscow declaration spread rapidly through the country by the underground grapevine, the Swedish newspaper social Demokrat said it had learned.

AUSTRIA MAY BE ON VERGE OF REBELLION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — A hint that Austria may be nearing the stage of open rebellion against the Germans who have ruled her for over five years is seen in the Moscow declaration.

The United States, Britain and Russia told the first nation occupied by Hitler that they consider her anschluss with Germany null and void.

While there is no Austrian government, either on the continent or in exile, it is believed that the foreign ministers in Moscow may have had some information leading them to think the Austrian people are about to consolidate their opposition to the Nazis.

The Moscow declaration contained a reminder that the three powers are watching closely the steps Austria takes to speed her liberation—and this reminder is believed to apply also to Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania. Frequent reports of growing dissatisfaction have come from these satellites, particularly Bulgaria, which is not at war with Russia.

was found, said Caldwell, that no chamber of commerce was spending less than 50 per cent of its time on war projects.

The major results of West Texas' war effort cooperation were summarized as follows:

In pre-drive bond sales $8.20 per month per capita as against national quota of $7.60.

Second War loan territorial quota $5,373,000; purchases $67,500,000 or 129 per cent.

Large Loan Purchasing

Third War loan drive territorial quota $122,234,000; purchases officially reported through Oct. 9, $137,009,489 or 112 per cent.

Waste paper drive, 12¼ pounds per capita with no quota set.

Scrap rubber drive 39 pounds per capita against a national collection of 7 pounds.

Scrap metal drive, 464 pounds per capita against national quota of 86 pounds.

Aluminum drive, per capita shipments 13 times greater than for state as a whole.

Exceeded Food Production

Every competing county met or exceeded its food production goal, it was reported.

Forty towns supported WTCC campaigns before the Commodity Credit corporation which resulted in diversion of 70,000 tons of midwest soybeans to West Texas crushing mills and promised that 500,000 tons will be diverted to Texas this fall and winter.

Forty-nine towns supported by communications with senators and congressmen the WTCC campaign for the Connally anti-strike bill.

Tax Rates Reduced

As to reduction of local public expenditures it was found that in spite of increased labor and material costs more than half of the political subdivisions of the territory reduced their tax rates or assessed valuations or both.

Response by affiliated towns to the freight rate equality campaign was unanimous and most towns supported efforts to obtain higher prices for crude petroleum, use of West Texas sorghums for making grain alcohol and state fiscal control.

Today's communique reported that an 8,000-ton enemy freighter-transport, apparently carrying troops, was sunk Monday by a Liberator off Kavieng, New Ireland.

Headquarters also reported the sinking of a three-decker transport off Buka on Bougainville's northern tip during air attacks which smashed enemy air bases there.

Cooperation Main Result Of Parley

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The world's most important gain from the tripartite conference in Moscow, as I see it, is contained in Secretary of State Hull's unemotional statement that the meeting has created better understanding, mutual trust and a spirit of cooperation.

There lies the keystone of victory and peace afterward. Upon it must be built the detailed structure or a new world.

As this column pointed out before the conference met, the greatest thing it could achieve would be to remove the cloud of distrust [illegible] the Anglo-American Allies on the one hand and Russia on the other. This suspicion even threatened to produce another world war on top of the present one.

If we now have achieved a spirit of mutual trust, we've broken the back of our problem.

Cordell Hull was restrained in his language, explaining that the Soviet leaders in turning away from isolationism have accepted a policy of moderate international cooperation. In short he didn't encourage us to indulge in wild dreams.

Agreement that there ought to be a post-war international organization to maintain peace gives hope that at long last we shall have some sort of workable peace-machine, presumably based on [illegible] America, Britain and China, with other nations joining as they wish.

China In Peace Agreement

It's good to see China thus early brought into the peace agreement. China, India and other Oriental countries have been suffering their own suspicions of the western world. They have doubted whether their Four Freedoms and the Atlantic charter were meant for them as well as for the Occident.

This move by the Moscow conference seems calculated to remove these suspicions, and dissipate the danger that the Orient might form a bloc of its own and so emphasize the tradition that East and West must remain apart. That danger has been very real, and has been strengthened by the British-Indian political crisis which has created much bitterness in India. China's sympathies have been decidedly with the Indians in this matter.

Nazis To Be Punished

There's blood on the moon for Nazidom in the pledge that Germans guilty of war atrocities in occupied lands shall be sent back to the scenes of their crimes for punishment by the people of the countries concerned. That sounds like a Russian proposal, for the Muscovites have methodically compiled a huge blacklist of Germans guilty of war crimes — and punishments won't be light.

The tripartite conference has left us in the dark as to the future of the Baltic states and other territories in Russia's hands when Hitler attacked the Soviet. Prior to the conference Moscow said that Russia's borders were outside the limits of discussion. There is no indication that the Muscovites have changed their view in this matter.

ENGLISH LESSON

KANSAS CITY—A TWA plane heard a strange radio call one day in mid-atlantic, relates Otis Frank Bryan, vice-president of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc.

"A clear voice in English advised our radio operator he was using the wrong code of the day," Bryan said—

"And we were using the wrong code."

The voice was that of a German submarine commander, he added.

IGNORED

KANSAS CITY—A Federal Reserve bank building guard stumbled into the elevator, panting with fatigue.

"What's happened?" asked Vice President D. W. Wooly.

"Fellow wouldn't pay any attention when I asked him what he wanted," said the guard. He shouted after the man, he explained, and finally chased him up seven flights of stairs.

He was a deaf mute, seeking an office that proved to be in another building.

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have headaches?	☐	☐
Do you lack pep or vim?	☐	☐
Do you get irritable easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel depressed—nervous?	☐	☐

Everybody knows that poorly digested food often causes a headachy, sluggish condition.

But you may not know that Nature must produce each day about two pints of the vital digestive juice—liver bile—to help digest your food.

If Nature fails—food doesn't digest properly—you may get irregular. And the amount of this vital digestive juice may be still further reduced. Thus, digestive upset and sluggishness can follow each other in a vicious circle that keeps you feeling rotten. Therefore, take Carter's Little Liver Pills because they start bile flowing quickly—often within thirty minutes. When bile flow increases—you may help your digestion. Yes, go on your way to feeling grand all over again. Remember—you can't get these same results from laxatives that fail to stimulate the flow of bile.

If you feel headachy, listless, irritable or depressed, get a 25¢ package of Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drugstore today. Take as directed. Tomorrow see how fit and alive you'll feel!

Result Of Boy Scout Survey Is Announced

A recent survey has shown that at least 352 eligible boys in Lubbock would like to become Boy Scouts, according to a report by R. B. Luker, who conducted it, to a district scout committee meeting in Seaman hall Tuesday afternoon.

John Winslow, camping and activities chairman, reported on a "Scoutorama" which would include various scouting contests to be held at Tech gymnasium on Nov. 19.

Plans for a scoutmaster's training school to be held at the American Legion hall and beginning Nov. 23, were discussed. Sam Leifeste, leadership training chairman, led the discussion. Other reports were made by C. C. Schmidt, cub commissioner; Forrest Rankin, scout commissioner and H. D. Woods, advancement chairman.

Additional members present were J. D. Strickland, F. Rector, Merle Edwards and G. M. Unger.

Mexican Oranges Are Shipped To Canada

LAREDO, Nov. 3. (AP)—Lucious Mexican oranges, for years barred by the U. S. Bureau of entomology and plant quarantine from entry for consumption in this country, are passing through Laredo by the carload enroute to Canada.

The shipments are in bond, not to be used in the United States, which bars the fruit as a measure to prevent possible spread of the Mexican fruit fly.

The "in bond" shipments were permitted when Canada's needs apparently could not be supplied by the American crop, for which there is a heavy war-time demand.
