VILLA'S SOUTHWARD MARCH MEETS LITTLE RESISTANCE

Carranza Garrisons Surrender Without Bloodshed—Will Probably Have Only One Battle

By Associated Press.
Washington, Nov. 19.—Two thousand Carranza troops voluntarily surrendered to General Villa when he took Leon, and other garrisons along the line are changing allegiance to the northern chief as he marches toward Mexico City. American Consul Carothers, with Villa, reported there had been no fighting since the southward movement began and ventured his opinion that there would be no hostilities, as the constitutional army seemed to favor Villa.

Leon was taken yesterday without the firing of a shot and other reports tell of the occupation of Iruato and Guanajuato, also without resistance. No report was received here of the alleged interruption by Villa of the telegraphic conference between General Gutierrez and General Gonzales, but it was thought in official quarters that Villa had ordered all telegraph communication with the troops south of him to cease.

The expectation in official circles today was that General Villa would reach Mexico City, fighting perhaps one battle as his troops clash with those of General Obregon or Gonzales near the capital.

COTTON PRICES LOWER AND LITTLE IS OFFERED

Buyers were offering 6 1/2-8 and 8 1/4-4 cents for cotton on the streets here today but so far as could be learned only a few bales were sold and this was at a higher price than the market. "Let them want it a little stronger" appears to be the attitude of the farmers and in this they are receiving the support of the cotton trade. Buyers even are advising a better price, predicting that if prices hold steady in the cotton exchange this week they will advance next week.

The governor said he would classify the letters and in a few days announce his decision.

MANUSCRIPTS OF TOLSTOI AWARDED TO HIS WIDOW

Dispute As To Their Ownership Has Finally Been Settled in Russian Courts

By Associated Press.
Petrograd, Nov. 19.—The dispute respecting the disposition of the most important manuscripts of Count Tolstoi, the novelist, has at length been decided by the Court of Final Instance in favor of the widowed countess. The manuscripts of these earlier works, upon which the writer's true fame is based, were given in Tolstoi's lifetime to his wife, who deposited them, with other relics, in the Moscow Historical Museum.

The unfortunate wording of Tolstoi's will led the daughter to attempt to secure these gifts to Countess Tolstoi as a part of the novelist's estate, while the countess, also fearing to lose them, endeavored to recover them from the Historical Museum which, pending a settlement of the dispute, refused to hand them over to either party. It now has been decided that they may be returned to the widowed countess as her property.

Weinert, present secretary of state to the position of general manager. He is an agriculturalist of some note and is well qualified for the position, it is stated. E. A. Calvin of Houston, member of the legislature from Harris county, is to be assistant general manager of the warehouse system, in charge of marketing and J. T. Bowman, at present private secretary to Gov. O. B. Colquitt, will be secretary to the permanent board.

By Associated Press.

Guthrie, one of the best known men in West Texas, whose body was found in the South Concho river with both feet and the left hand bound. Houston, Texas, Nov. 19.—The following message has been sent to Secretary McAdoo by the Timpson Commercial Club:

"The opening of cotton exchanges, allowing unrestricted gambling in futures has demoralized spot market for cotton. We protest against the continuance of any gambling game which causes our money crop to have to be sacrificed. We hope you will do what you can to stop this outright slaughter of the South. (Signed) R. G. Blair, President."

MANY MINES WASHED UP ALONG COAST OF HOLLAND

One Explodes With Fatal Results—Bodies of British Sailors Also Cast Up

By Associated Press.
The Hague, Nov. 19.—Holland's position as a result of the war was shown by one week's report from the coast and frontier. Along the coast eighty mines of English, French and German makes have come up on the shore. One, on exploding caused the death of nine persons and the wounding of five. Over 100 bodies, presumably of British sailors from British ships, have been washed ashore and buried with military honors.

On November 17 an apparently damaged war balloon passed over the southern province and disappeared in a westerly direction. On November 16 a German border patrol near Nieuwechans opened fire on Dutch frontier guards, mistaking them for smugglers.

Nobody KNOWS WHERE TO SECURE REVENUE STAMPS

Postoffice Has Received No Instructions As To Handling Them—Information Wanted

Where are the people who have to use them going to buy the special internal revenue stamps which must be attached to bills of lading, deeds, etc., beginning December 1? It had been the impression that these stamps would be sold at the postoffice but up to this time, the local postoffice has received no instructions about the sale of revenue stamps. The City National Bank has ordered an assorted supply of the stamps and if any other concern is going to handle them in Wichita Falls they have not made the fact public. Just how stamps can be secured for bills of lading and other documents to which they must be attached before and after banking hours is a matter that is giving some concern.

RUSSIAN CENTER FORCED BACK BY GERMAN ATTACK

Wings Unimpaired, Petrograd Claims And Cracow Is Threatened—Battle Today Nearer Paris

By Associated Press.
London, Nov. 19.—Violent fighting has been resumed within a two hour motor ride of the gates of Paris. At Tracy-le-Val where the battle line from the north swings to the eastward at the point nearest Paris a German advance led to a violent encounter. The Germans attempted to recapture the town but according to the French war office statement today they were repulsed with heavy losses.

An unexpected blow delivered on the Russian center by General Von Hindenburg with the German army which had retreated from before Warsaw was the predominant feature of the news reaching London from the eastern arena of war today. There is much criticism in Berlin of the German retreat from Warsaw but if the apparent marked reversal of form proves permanent the German center doubtless will retrieve its reputation just as the allies retrieved themselves almost at the gates of Paris.

The German wedge from Posen which appears to have driven the Russian center more than fifty miles from the frontier shows that the line is about midway between the German frontier and Warsaw. Meanwhile Russia is closing up with other two adventures in her three-fold campaign. Her troops to the north, Petrograd announces, are penetrating steadily into east Prussia while to the south they are closing in on Cracow, Galicia, in an attempt to crush the Austrians.

Refugees from Belgium says that West Flanders which is virtually cut off from the rest of the world continues to be the scene of incessant military activity. They speak of an inferno of shot and shell and continuous cannonading and endless processions of the wounded.

Paris reports that the hopes of the allies are rising, that they believe the Germans are weakening fast but there was no tangible evidence to indicate that the grip of the Germans in Belgium and France was being shaken loose or that any decisive change in the immediate future could be safely predicted.

The sound of cannonading was heard off the coast of Sweden in the Baltic Sea today. It was thought possible that the main Russian fleet which recently set out from Helsingfors, Finland, might have engaged the Germans.

RUSSIANS AND TURKISH WARSHIPS ENGAGE IN BLACK SEA BATTLE TODAY

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Nov. 19.—The Turkish fleet has engaged a Russian squadron composed of two battleships and five cruisers off Sebastopol, according to an official report reaching Berlin today from Constantinople. One of the Russian battleships was seriously damaged and the other vessel with the Turkish ships in pursuit fled to Sebastopol.

By Associated Press.
Petrograd, Nov. 19.—There has been a naval encounter in the Black Sea between Russian and Turkish warships. No definite news of the outcome has been received here yet beyond the fact that the Turkish cruiser Goeben suffered serious injury.

EFFECT OF WINTER ON WAR OPERATIONS

GERMANY EXPECTS WEATHER TO AID HER MOVEMENTS IN RUSSIA

EXPERIENCES IN OTHER WARS

Difficulty of Digging Trenches, It Has Been Found, Works to Russia's Disadvantage

By Associated Press. Berlin, Nov. 18.—The prospect of a winter campaign in Russia presents no terrors to the German military writers, now dealing with the problem of a long continuance of the war. Far from anticipating a repetition of Napoleon's disastrous experience in the Moscow campaign, they look up on the great Corsican's conquerors, General Desobry and General Janu, as allies who will remove for them two of the greatest obstacles to operations against the Russians, namely the transportation problem and that of overcoming the natural defenses of the country, its swamps and rivers.

The expert of the Deutsche Tageszeitung points out, too, that the Russians, in order to stem the German advance, have relied largely on entrenchments laid out on a tremendous scale. Once the ground is solidly frozen the construction of such works for defense will be greatly hampered.

"Every battle has demonstrated the value to the Russians of the trenches and other military field works," says the writer. "It has been difficult in all cases to take positions so protected, and the Russian successes have been mostly due to the laying out of fortified positions in the open field."

With the ground frozen and no longer easily worked with pick and shovel, the laying out of earth works will be made extremely difficult, and the Russians, whose fort from the times of Napoleon to Mukden, have lain in the defense of field fortifications, will thus lose the most important factor in defensive tactics.

"Troops operating on the offensive must deal with the fifth element as Napoleon called the Russian mud. In the winter the bad roads are covered with snow and may then be used by sleighs, and the great rivers and swamps which form the principal factors in the Russian defense lines will then be covered with ice, permitting easy crossings everywhere."

"The idea that winter was the best season in which an attack on Russia might be made is that of a general of history, Charles XII of Sweden, who afterwards demonstrated the correctness of his conclusion. He waited with his advance into Russia in 1707 until cold weather had set in, and after the rivers and swamps of Poland had been frozen over, he crossed the Vistula on December 29, and advanced rapidly as far as Wilna, where he intended to overtake the retreating Russians. The enemy, however, retreated again and this winter campaign brought no result, because King Charles could not get the Russians to stand."

"Napoleon counted on the aid of winter in his campaign in 1806. But the weather was against him. December of that year left the roads as soft as they had been in the autumn and the French were obliged to quarter themselves upon the Poles and wait for cold weather. Frost finally came on February 1 and six days later the battle at Prussian Eylau was fought. Napoleon, as well as King Charles, availed themselves of the opportunity offered by harden roads and frozen rivers."

Why Napoleon Failed. As Carl Bleibtreu in his work on the campaign of Napoleon in Russia in 1812 has shown, it was not the cold that demanded the greatest sacrifices in human lives. Napoleon lost 200,000 men on his advance into Russia and only 100,000 men on his retreat. It was also shown then that the Russians suffered as much from the cold as did the French and that both armies were hampered by the ice. Napoleon's retreat was due to a shortage of powder, only one-half of the quantity thought available being on hand. The supply service had failed altogether."

FRENCH OFFICERS EXPOSE THEMSELVES TO GUNFIRE

As a Result Proportion of Mortality Among Them Has Been Very High

By Associated Press. Paris, Nov. 18.—The official order against exposure to the enemy's fire, resulting from the alarming proportion of neutrality among the officers, has caused a great deal of discussion and some resistance.

"Is it you who bring reinforcements?" asked the colonel of a regiment.

"Yes," replied the officer.

"Very good, but you are an officer."

"Yes, Colonel."

"But where are your stripes?"

"They are turned under, Colonel, conformably to the minister's instructions."

"You are afraid, then?"

"Not that I know of."

"Then you accept the circular?"

No stripes, in this colonel's estimation, was equivalent to immunity from danger or showing the "white feather."

To please him, or perhaps, as the result of his infectious bravery, the officers about him kept their stripes. This regiment has lost two-thirds of its officers.

LETTERS TELL OF BLOODY FIGHTING

BUTCHERY OF PRESENT WAR SAID TO BE WORST IN HISTORY

GERMAN BAYONET CHARGES FAIL

Allies Withstand Such Attacks—Zouaves and Turcos Described as Infernal Fighters

By Associated Press. Paris, Nov. 18.—The Afterblat of Stockholm publishes a letter from a German officer to a friend in Sweden giving the following impressions of an engagement near Chalons during the battle of the Marne.

"In the neighborhood of Chalons I took part in the most terrible battle that I have ever seen; I was, however, at Lige, at Namur and at Longwy. Since it was impossible for our artillery to silence the French batteries, we decided to charge, thinking the French and English would fly before the German bayonet. The experience proved that our ideas on that subject were entirely erroneous."

"Two of our regiments were ordered to take the allies' position by storm. The French, however, were ready to receive us and there ensued such a butchery as never was seen in this or any other war. A detachment of French concealed among the trees threw themselves on us. They were mostly turcos and zouaves, strong devils against whom it is impossible to fight. A zouave with a gun, bayonet fixed, is the most infernal thing that can be described."

"Savage cries of pain and of anger resounded through the wood. A great many men fell there and saturated the ground with blood. Soon the French artillery came into action and its projectiles completed the work of the bayonet. Our men beat a retreat at full speed across the wood and in flames. Those who had escaped the bayonet fell under the rain of bullets and lay burning in the thickets. Only 60 men of my regiment returned. Of the other only eleven came back and of the 71 survivors, 11 were more or less grievously wounded."

Worse Than Manchuria. "I followed the campaign in Manchuria, but I think in the course of the five first days of the battle of the Marne, more victims fell than were counted in the battles of Mukden and of Liao Yang."

Another evidence of the murderous character of the fighting in this battle is furnished by a French soldier's letter published by the Depeche de Toulouse. "We have been fighting for three weeks to the east of Verdun in the region of the Tournon, Gesicourt and Saint-Mediel forests," he wrote. "We advance, but very slowly because the boches (Germans) are strongly entrenched. For ten days we occupied trenches only 400 yards from theirs and they did all that was humanly possible to break through the trenches and when the enemy came back he was received by fire from his own weapons."

"To guard against surprise at night we took all the empty beef cans, tied them to a cord and piled them so that when the Germans came creeping toward our lines and the cord was touched, they made enough noise to give the alarm. One night when the cans rattled, we replied with immediate volleys and there was no more disturbance that night. In the morning we counted five hundred dead Germans lying on the ground within a hundred yards of the trenches."

IN THE SPHERE OF WOMANKIND

A November Night.
(To Mrs. H. H. D.)
I'm tired tonight—too tired to sleep.
The day has been so long;
And now in silence, vast and deep,
I'm listening for a song.
It never fails to come to me
When by my side a bowl
Is filled with roses fair to see,
For roses have a soul.

And when November draws a veil
Over the autumn flowers,
She always grants me song and tale
Of by-gone happy hours.
So when your roses come today
They thrill me with delight;
Full well I know they'll find some way
To speak to me tonight.

Their perfume always rights the strings
The day put out of tune,
While nearer, dearer, men's bring
A glimpse of far off June.
I hear again a long hushed voice
A long lost face I see,
Oh, roses sweet, awake, rejoice!
And weave thy spell 'round me.

Teach me the faith that breaks the bloom
In spite of chill and frost;
The faith that sings o'er autumn's touch,
And deems no beauty lost.

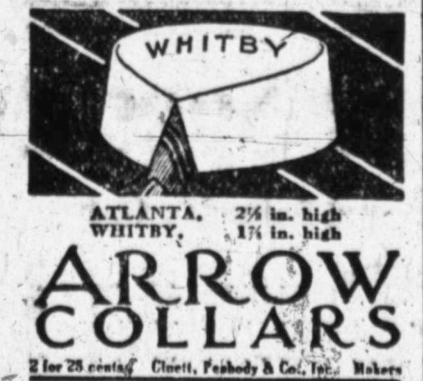

Help me to face the winter long
With face of hope and cheer,
Oh, blossoms rare, sing me your song
The night is cold and dear.

The petals parted to disclose
A forth most fair to see,
Which hovered o'er each separate rose
And showed their hearts to me.
It was their soul of beauty bright,
It sang a sweet refrain,
And gladdened my November night
Of darkness mixed with rain.

"Thy roses must all die, oh friend,
And empty stand the bowl,
But evermore—world without end,
Shall dwell with thee their soul;
Attune thine heart to feel its touch,
Thine eyes its form to see,
Thine ears to hear the songs like such As cheered Gethsemane."

Fisher. A paper was read by Mrs. E. E. Sanders on "Woman's Responsibility in the High Cost of Living" and the demonstration for the afternoon was conducted by Mrs. A. H. Carrigan. The recipe demonstrated was raisin pudding with sauce and Mrs. Carrigan exhibited unusual ability as a demonstrator, making every step clear and the pudding when done was passed around to be sampled and was found to be very delicious. A business session was held and Mrs. E. S. Morris unanimously elected a member of the club. A motion was passed, imposing a fine of twenty-five cents on all members who failed to bring up their part of the program or to secure a substitute. Club members present were: Mesdames C. S. Bean, Bert Bean, Carrigan, Fisher, Hodel, P. E. Kerr, Howard, Harp, F. F. Kerr, Lawler, Leitch, McKeehan, Stokes, Pressley, Sanders, Schuerer, Henry Wilson, H. S. Wilson, Misses Alder, Haynes, Brown. There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

home of Mrs. L. C. Robertson and there spent a very delightful afternoon, much credit being due to the hostess for her charming manner of entertainment. After roll call a short sketch of the eighth chapter of Ivanhoe was given by the hostess and discussed by the club members, the close attention paid being a manifestation of the deep interest taken in the beautiful works of Sir Walter Scott. The club was honored by the presence of six visitors, four of whom desired to enter their names on the roll of circle membership. Very gratifying indeed are such results proving to the circle that success comes after a time of endeavor. A business discussion was engaged in for a few minutes and a social hour was enjoyed, kodaking and conversation being features. The next day of meeting will mark the departure of one of the most valued members, Mrs. E. L. The American corn and wheat and oat crops of this year are worth $485,000,000 more than last year. That ought to make up fully for the difference in the price of cotton this year, as compared to last year.

Some Germans are making the boast that when this war ends, the face of Emperor William will be on all the coins of Europe. Our own idea of that war, after it ends, should be asked to make a guess or a prediction, is that there will be no winners at the end, and all will be losers, and the war debts that will have to be paid, even if it takes a hundred years in which to pay it, will fall on the shoulders and be a burden on those who had the least to do in bringing about the war and who are least able to bear such an unjust burden.

The English government has voted bonds to raise a war fund of $250,000,000. That doesn't sound like the English expected the war to end next week or the week after. It also means that a good part of that money will find its way to the United States for food supplies. Perhaps it is not just the right thing for us to anticipate the needs of Europe in the present crisis, but so long as that war was not brought about by any act of the United States, this country may just as well profit as any other. That great war debt will have to be paid, but it will not fall on our shoulders. Everything considered, things will soon be coming our way.

If Turkey does not make an apology or explanation of some sort to the United States for firing on the launch from the Cruiser Tennessee, this country will have fully as much provocation to declare war on Turkey as the European powers had to declare war on each other. But it is not believed at Washington that the government is going to allow itself to get mixed up in that scrap over such a trivial matter. If there are Americans over in Turkey claiming the protection of the American flag, they should lose no time in coming home. Europe started this war and it should end there.

Secretary McAdoo says that if the cotton farmer is to get the full benefit of the $125,000,000 cotton loan they must decide now to cut down their acreage next year and plant other crops. Perhaps this warning by the Secretary is really unnecessary. Cotton farmers should need no urging along that line. They can now see what over-production of cotton has cost the cotton farmers of the cotton growing states this year. About this time last year cotton was selling at 12 1/2 cents per pound. The principal cause for the low price is over-production.

Market Reports

Chicago Futures.

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Nov. 19.—Wheat today showed weakness, influenced by low spot quotations at Liverpool, but rallied on heavy buying. The opening was 3-8 to 1/2 off. Cold weather eased corn. Trade was small. New York, Nov. 19.—There appears to be little cotton offering for sale in the market here today. The opening was quiet to a decline of 1-4 on December but an advance of two or three points on May and July with the undertone steady. The absence of offerings was taken by local traders as indicating that scattering old style contracts had been pretty well liquidated. During the middling of the day the active months sold ten to fifteen points higher. Cotton futures closed quiet. December old 7.01; January old 7.13; January new 7.27; March old 7.15; March new 7.48; May old 7.32; May new 7.69; July new 7.90.

SIX GERMANS HOLD BRIDGE AGAINST FORCE OF FRENCH

Pretend To Be English Soldiers and Are Successful in Deceiving Enemy

By Associated Press.
Paris, Nov. 19.—In the recent operations of the Germans against the French on the left bank of the Rhine, a bridge over that river was held by a force of six hours by a bicycle squad of fifteen pioneers, with the German vanguard twenty kilometers away and with an English brigade in bivouac two kilometers west of the bridge and a French cavalry division a short distance east of it. The officer in charge of the pioneers, who had been instructed to ascertain whether the bridge was still intact. On his arrival, he found that such was the case and, pursuant to instructions, proceeded to fortify the little remnant of the bridge tender, by placing sand bags against its walls. In addition the telegraph and telephone wires running across the bridge were cut and the tracks of the railroad were torn up.

While the pioneers were busily engaged in this, about 100 French reservists put in appearance. The men had just been called in and had to cross the bridge to reach their destination. How to hold the bridge until the arrival of German troops was, in the face of these odds, a problem, which the officer solved by strategy. He explained that he and his men were an English bicycle patrol which had been detailed to prevent anybody crossing the bridge until 7 o'clock that night. The barricade which the men were building, added the officer, was intended to facilitate the defense of the bridge against the Germans. As the German officer stated in his letter which brought this news, the French reservists believed the story, found it difficult to understand why they should be barred from crossing the bridge. Finally this also was overcome by the plausibility of the story told by the officer, and later the Frenchmen went to a nearby village to secure meat and wine for the supposed English patrol. The German officer was urged by the French reservists to retreat when the Germans put in appearance after six hours of anxious waiting by the pioneer squad. This he refused to do with the remark that he did not fear the Germans. Later the French reservists had the doubtful pleasure of hearing the officer tell them: "We are Germans also." The officer has been given the Iron cross.

VERY LITTLE COTTON IS SOLD IN WICHITA COUNTY

Farmers Seem Generally Disposed to Hold For Higher Prices For Staple

Wichita county farmers are holding their cotton and there seems to be little disposition among them to sell until they can get a fair price. Little interest is taken in the New York Cotton Exchange quotations and no body appears to be rattled and advising the farmers to sell because the price might go lower.
"I believe most of the distressed cotton has already been marketed."

MASS MEETING ON STOVE PLANT HELD

COMMITTEE IS NAMED TO LOOK INTO ESTABLISHMENT OF FACTORY

$15,000 IN STOCK TO BE PLACED

Organization of $50,000 Stock Company To Erect Plant Here Is Planned By Citizens

At the mass meeting at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night a committee of five was appointed to meet with J. C. Ziegler, owner of the Ziegler stove, and the manufacturers committee of the Chamber of Commerce to see whether the manufacture of the stoves in Wichita Falls could be undertaken as a business proposition and whether a satisfactory agreement with Mr. Ziegler could be reached. This committee was named as follows: J. A. Kemp, M. A.
Drin, J. B. Marlow, P. H. Pennington
and T. B. Noble.

More definite action could not be taken because members of the manufacturers committee who had gone over the matter with Mr. Ziegler were not present, most of them being out of town and there was no one at the meeting authorized to make a statement. The motion creating the committee at the mass meeting last night declared it the sense of the meeting that if the endorsement of the manufacturers committee was given and a satisfactory agreement could be made with Mr.
Ziegler that the remaining $15,000 of the unsubscribed capital stock be subscribed by the citizens.

Mr. Ziegler Explains.
Mr. Ziegler who was called upon to make a statement said that the plan which had been discussed with the manufacturers committee of the Chamber of Commerce was for the organization of a stock company with a capital of $50,000 of which $25,000 would be represented by the patent.
M. A. Drin had subscribed $7,500 of this stock. Mr. Kemp had pledged $2,500, leaving $15,000 yet to be raised.
He made it plain that he did not want the subscription of any man who did not believe the enterprise a good business proposition.

R. E. Huff presided at the meeting.
The attendance was not large but marked interest was shown in the proposition so far as it was discus-ed. One of the Ziegler stoves has been connected up at the Chamber of Commerce rooms where it may be seen in operation by any one desiring to see it.

said a buyer this morning. "Little cotton is being offered and I believe most of the farmers will hold until they get a fairer price and I believe they will get a fairer price when there is a realization in some quarters that the cotton has been sold and the acreage reduction movement is not a bluff."

At The Theaters

The Empress.
The European war pictures of the Mutual Weekly are always interesting.
Today's pictures are from England,
France, Japan, with a few pictures from U. S. "A Kinoni Tragedy" and American, and "The Wireless Voice," a two-part Reliance, featuring Irene Hunt, Frank Bennett and Vester Pegg are also on the program.

Hastings and his partner, Warren,
on the perfection of their wireless telephone, go to John Manners, father of Hastings' sweetheart, for funds to finance the invention. Manners refuses aid and sends Sykes to break the in-test station and make sketches of the machinery, meaning to steal the patent himself. Hastings, however, discovers Sykes at his work. After a fierce hand-to-hand combat, the latter escapes with Manners in an automobile. Hastings contrives to get in touch with his partner by means of the new invention. He is stranded several miles away with a wireless telephone apparatus on a road over which Manners, on his release, vows vengeance. He breaks into the test station and arranges a steel plate in such a way that whoever touches it will be electrocuted. Instead of Hastings, however, it is Mary, his daughter, who is first exposed to the danger.
In his effort to turn off the current before it is too late, Manners, not knowing the right switch, tries them all.
His own body defects the current,
bringing instant death.

The Majestic.
"Too Much Uncle," a Vitagraph comedy, featuring Anita Stewart, is showing today. If you are fond of fun you will enjoy "Too Much Uncle" at the Majestic Theatre. Henry's uncle insists that he must marry in accordance with his choice if he wishes to be his heir and enjoy his generosity.
Henry gets impatient, makes up his mind to marry his sweetheart and take chances with his uncle. He arranges the wedding and sends word to Uncle Joe that he is married. Before the message reaches Uncle Joe, the old gentleman decides he will call on Henry and give him a surprise. He gives it to him alright and Henry is obliged to get his friend, Billy, to induce his wife to pretend that she is his (Henry's) newly made better-half.
Right there the fun begins. Billy acts the part of Henry's butler and has to witness him kissing his wife. Then Henry's sweetheart comes in and has to witness her intended acting sweet to another woman. Things look puzzling and serious until Henry tells everything. Uncle Joe has to laugh and so do all the others. While there he gives his nephew his blessing and is quite pleased with his fiancée.
"You Never Can Tell" is a Selig farce comedy featuring Lillian Brown Leighton. Sid Smith, a grocer's clerk, wants to become a moving picture actor. His clumsiness makes everybody laugh except the boss, who fires him. He then breaks a lot of odd storage eggs. He applies for a job as a moving picture actor and is so clumsy that he makes a big hit and becomes a star comedian.

"The Mystery of the Grass Tubes," Edison drama, with Ben Wilson, completes today's program.

The Gem.
Ned Finley and Edith Storey are featured in a two-part Vitagraph drama, "Steve O'Grady's Chance." Discharged from the staff of a city paper, Steve O'Grady, a reporter, goes south in discouragement at finding no work in New York. Alighting at a small town he discovers that a large reward is offered for the capture of robbers who looted the bank the night before.
He joins in the hunt for the bandits, who are hiding in the mountains. Their retreat discovered, the desperados escape to another place, leaving the money in the care of Bess, a beautiful mountain girl. O'Grady meets with an accident and is found unconscious by Bess, who takes him to her cabin. O'Grady's heart is touched by the friendly position of the girl, who has fallen in love with him, and he offers to take her away from the place.
She then tells him of the money. They are about to depart when the leader of the bandits returns. O'Grady hides in a closet and the girl's quick wit enables her to capture the leader. The rest of the gang return and there is a spirited fight between O'Grady, Bess and the robbers. The bandits are defeated, Steve and Bess turn over the money to the authorities, with the stolen money, and receive the reward.
He sends the scoop to his home paper and is offered reinstatement upon the editor's staff by return wire. With a delightful whoop, he clasps Bess in his arms, tells her of his love, and asks her to be his wife, while the telegraph operator discreetly turns his back.

How To Succeed
During the last few years, conditions in all lines of business, even professional life, have changed so completely that every man is waking up to the fact that in order to win success he must specialize and learn to do some one thing and do it well.
So it is with any article that is sold to the people. It must have genuine merit or no amount of advertising will maintain the demand for the article.

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr.
Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. From the very beginning the proprietors had so much confidence in it that they invited every one to test it.
It is a physician's prescription.
They have on file the hands of unsolicited letters received from former sufferers who claim they are now enjoying good health as a result of its use.

a sample bottle, address Dr. Kilmer

EUROPE'S WINE PRODUCTION GREATLY REDUCED BY WAR

Conditions Already Unfavorable When Strife Began and Output Will Be Limited

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Nov. 19.—Germany's best wine producing district, Alsace-Lorraine, has suffered heavily by the war, and it is claimed that the output this year will be far below normal.

Alsace, especially, has a poor crop, according to reports. Not alone had the bad seasons of the last ten years caused a reduction of the area of vineyards to 108,840 hectares, a decrease of 108 hectares (or about 300 acres) since 1903, but the earlier months of the year were very unfavorable for the development of the plant. The vines were affected by phylloxera which increased cold rains made worse, and then, when hot weather finally came, the war broke out. In southern Alsace, where the valleys and hillsides of the Vosges are almost entirely given to vine growing, many vineyards were cut down in order to facilitate military operations, while others were trampled down during battles.

The result of this has been that the wine crop of Alsace will be approximately one-third normal. Conditions in Lorraine are better. Though some of the vineyards around Metz were cut down when the war began, the crop generally is plentiful enough to discount this. The quality, moreover, is said to be equal that of 1904.
Good weather early in the season favored a good average crop, and, unlike those of Alsace and eastern France, the wine growers of Lorraine were able to give their vineyards all needed care.

We clean and press your suit for one American dollar. When you pay us the dollar you get a dollar's worth. When you pay more you are buying inexperience. When you pay less you are kidding yourself. The saving is in your mind and not your pocket book. "THE DOLLAR IS RIGHT" more is too much; less is not enough. We clean your suits right. We make them stay clean until you soil them again. Phone us one time and tell us where and when; then forget it—the trouble is ours, and the suit will be there when you want it.

The Sentiment

That prompts us to mark the last resting place of our departed friends and loved ones, is that spiritual better self. Pride alone would not fill our cemeteries with simple tributes of love and respect. A memorial speaks alike to the learned and the unlearned, to great and small setting forth the virtues and commending the good deeds of our loved ones to us from day to day.

WHAT KIND OF A PLACE WOULD OUR CEMETERIES BE WITHOUT SOME TOKEN OF REMEMBRANCE TO POINT THE WAY TO THAT LIFE BEYOND THIS VALE OF TEARS?

Our success proves our worthy efficiency. Come to see us.
