Ask Us

Q. — Does the post office have recommended dates for mailing Christmas cards and packages to insure delivery before Christmas?

A. — For mail inside the U.S., Snyder postal officials estimate approximately two weeks delivery for packages and one week for cards and letters during the Christmas season. To arrive Dec. 24, this means packages should be mailed no later than Dec. 10 and cards no later than Dec. 17. They note, however, "the earlier the better."

In Brief

Free hostages

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Five Somali dissidents armed with pistols and explosives today freed 103 hostages held since Saturday on a hijacked jetliner, surrendered and were granted asylum by Somalia's bitter foe Ethiopia.

The hijackers had several times set deadlines for blowing up the Somali Airlines plane and passengers if their demands were not met.

Local

SHS vandalism

Police are currently investigating an apparent holiday vandalism incident at Snyder High School reported Monday morning.

School officials reported around 8:03 a.m. that three large double pane windows in the SHS student center had apparently been broken out with rocks as school was out for the Thanksgiving break.

Value of the broken windows was estimated at $600.

DWI to trial

Jury selection began shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday for a felony DWI trial in 132nd Distict Court involving 28-year-old Joel Wayne Griffin of Rt. 3, Snyder.

Griffin — who has pleaded not guilty to the offense — is represented in the case by Snyder attorney Mike Line. Assistant District Attorney Ernie Armstrong is prosecuting for the state.

The suspect was indicted by the Scurry County Grand Jury at its regular August meeting following his arrest here in July.

Final show

The final local performance of "Tintypes" — the Western Texas College musical review — begins at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Fine Arts Theatre on campus.

Tuesday's appearance is a holdover performance after sellout crowds for the play's first three runs. The show will be the WTC entry at the American College Theatre Festival appearance in El Paso Thursday.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students.

New tax program unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department's dramatic overhaul of the American tax system would slice federal income tax rates, do away with a variety of deductions and double the personal exemption to $2,000, administration officials said.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan was unveiling the plan, which needs the approval of President Reagan and the Congress, later today.

It would retain the deduction for mortgage interest on taxpayers' principal residences but limit to $5,000 the deduction for all other interest, including that for mortgages on second or vacation homes, said the officials, who spoke only on the condition they not be identified.

Moreover, they said, the plan would scrap the special adjustment enacted in 1981 to largely compensate for the so-called "marriage penalty." That change lets two-earner couples exclude a maximum of $3,000 from their taxable income.

In all, the officials said 78 percent of individual taxpayers would see their income tax payments fall or hold steady under Regan's nearly year-long effort to come up with a better way to tax the nation. On average, American taxpayers would find their federal tax bills fall 8.5 percent, the officials said.

Twenty-two percent of taxpayers, mostly those in high tax brackets, would turn over more to the government by being stripped of ways to shelter their income from the tax collector, they said.

President Reagan ordered the Treasury Department in January to undertake the study in an effort to make fairer and simpler the complicated tax code. Adoption of wide-ranging changes would mark the biggest

Gifts, proclamations to Mrs. Whitson

A cross section of the community turned out Monday night to honor Virginia Whitson, who recently announced her intent to leave Snyder after service as both a Senior Citizen Center volunteer worker and as a loyal fan of WTC basketball teams.

Both Mayor Rod Waller and County Judge Preston Wilson presented proclamations in her name.

Emcee Mort Ewing, chamber of commerce manager, opened the program remarking he was "shocked to find out he wasn't the only man in town enjoying Virginia Whitson hugs."

Two large gift items were presented to the former school teacher.

WTC Booster Club President Waller presented her a small refrigerator from the club. She will use it at her new retirement address, formerly the Crazy Water Hotel in Mineral Wells.

The gift was to recognize in part Mrs. Whitson's support of the club, to include some $1,400 donated from her retirement income in recent years to establish a scholarship.

At evening's end, she was given also a recliner-rocker, a gift from her fellow members of the center. The presentation was made by John Gayle, city manager and outgoing president of the Senior Center Advisory Council.

During the evening's presentations, WTC Student Activities

Stenholm address tomorrow at noon

Wednesday at noon, U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford will speak to a combined gathering of Snyder civic clubs and other interested individuals at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Stenholm, about to begin his fourth two-year term, has been much in the news lately after announcing his intent to run against Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill for the Speaker of the House position.

Stenholm was unopposed this past November in his re-election bid. He publicly announced his intent last week to run for speaker of the Democratic-controlled U.S. House of Representatives.

At Wednesday's luncheon, a meal catered by Gann's Barbecue will precede the address by the 46-year-old Stenholm.

Clubs whose members will attend include the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, Golden K and Jaycees.

Stenholm represents the 34-county 17th District which includes Borden and Scurry Counties.

Five days after he will appear here — on Dec. 3 — House Democrats will make their choice for the speaker position. This challenge will come as the 252 Democrats who comprise the majority of the U.S. House of Representatives meet in a party caucus to elect their leaders.

First freeze now official

The first official freeze of the year was recorded in Snyder Monday night as temperatures dropped to 31 degrees.

Winds which accompanied a cold front here created a wind chill in the lower 20s, however.

Several morning frosts were noted prior to the official freeze, attributed to temperatures in the lower 30s and the wind chill factor.

The average first freeze date for Scurry County is Nov. 4, making Monday's temperature some three weeks late.

Pair of vehicle thefts yield police suspects

Two recent auto thefts from Snyder car lots have prompted the arrests of two juveniles in one case and the identification of one adult suspect in a second Tuesday evening.

According to police, two 13-year-old male juveniles were arrested at 9:57 p.m. Tuesday and charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

They are accused in connection with the theft of a car taken from T.C. Goss's Southside Motor Co. on College Ave. Nov. 18.

It is now thought the youth took the car "joyriding" before returning it to the dealer's lot.

Both suspects were released to the custody of their parents Tuesday evening pending action in juvenile court.

Detectives said Tuesday morning they also believe a man recently arrested in Lubbock is

16-year-old shot trying to escape

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — Howard County authorities and the Texas Rangers are investigating the death of a San Angelo teen-ager who was fatally shot while trying to run a roadblock in a stolen car, authorities said.

Joe Guadalupe Garza, 16, was shot in the head at 2:45 a.m. Monday about 8 miles south of Big Spring on U.S. 87, said Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard.

Garza, a student at San Angelo Lake View High School, died about four hours later at an Odessa hospital.

Standard said the youth was struck by at least one pellet from a pair of shotgun blasts fired by Sheriff's Deputy A.D. Majors, a former chief of police at Coahoma.

A 17-year-old passenger in the car, Richard E. Flores, also of San Angelo, was not injured but was being held in Howard County Jail in connection with the theft of the car. He is jailed in lieu of $15,000 bond on an unauthorized use of a motor vehicle charge and $10,000 on the burglary of a motor vehicle charge.

Authorities say the car and other items were reported stolen over the weekend.

We now know why they invented large family gatherings. It helps you appreciate the work day. One Snyder woman who says she loves all those aunts, uncles, cousins and in-laws in spite of them remarked to her husband following the Thanksgiving holiday:

"Thank you for marrying me and rescuing me from all of that."

Mothers have a way of overlooking any flaws in their offsprings. When mothers become grandmothers, the ability to see the world through rose-colored glasses gets even better.

At a recent family gathering we know one grandmother who swelled with pride to learn that her newly-married granddaughter had gained a responsible position with the Kelly Girl Service.

The grandmother heard that her granddaughter was very talented and very much in demand as a temporary secretary in the large city.

Like most family gatherings, the story was repeated for the benefit of late arrivals. Each time, grandma burst to the seams with pride.

Finally, she could contain herself no longer and when the opportunity presented itself to repeat the success story, grandmother's version brought down the house.

"We're so proud of her. She's a call girl in Austin."

Hispanic leader says investigation needed

DALLAS (AP) — The leader of a Dallas hispanic coalition says she will ask House Majority Leader Jim Wright to introduce legislation to re-implement a law, abolished in 1977, that allowed illegal immigrants to remain in the United States if they have U.S.-born children attending school here.

Adelfa B. Callejo said Monday that such a law would have saved the life of Fermina Vasquez, 30, who was deported last month and died last week in Mexico City after failing to receive promised kidney dialysis treatments.

Her comments came in a speech after a memorial mass for Ms. Vasquez at St. James Catholic Church in Oak Cliff.

Under new legislation that went into effect on Jan. 1, 1977, the son of Ms. Vasquez had to be at least 21 to petition immigration officials to allow his mother to remain in the United States.

Her son, Antonio, is 7 and is living with Ms. Vasquez's 27-year-old sister in Dallas.

"Fermino's illness could not wait 14 years for Antonio to be 21. He was separated from his mother when this government deported her without any regard for this child's rights. There is something with the laws of a country which separates a child from its parents," Ms. Callejo said, reading from a prepared statement.

Ms. Callejo, chairwoman of the Coalition of Hispanic Organizations, said she will request a congressional investigation into Ms. Vasquez's death last Wednesday.

Last May, after Ms. Vasquez was accused of using another person's Social Security card to receive dialysis treatments in Dallas, she was ordered to appear at a deportation hearing.

She said she would die if she were deported, since she couldn't afford dialysis treatments in Mexico. But the judge ordered her deported by Sept. 23 after U.S. and Mexican officials made arrangements for her to receive free dialysis treatments at a Mexico City hospital.

Officials bought a plane ticket for her to return to Mexico on Oct. 3, but she left 10 days earlier to transport and bury her husband, who had been shot and killed in Dallas.

Mexican officials said that when the woman didn't use the plane ticket they thought she had fled elsewhere in the United States. Instead, she reported to the hospital but never got the needed treatments, relatives and Catholic church officials said.

She apparently died from lack of medical attention, the Rev. Justin Lucio, pastor of St. James Church, said.

"Officials say they thought she was still here (in the U.S.)," Lucio said.

Enrique Maldonado, the Mexican general consul in Dallas, has pledged to investigate the circumstances of Ms. Vasquez's death.

Maldonado, who made the arrangements for her treatment in Mexico City, said he is awaiting more information from Hospital General in Mexico City, where she died.

"We are waiting for the hospital's version and the authorities' version to see what is the truth," Maldonado said.

Dr. Lamb

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 25 and try to watch what I eat and drink since I have an ulcer. About a year ago, after I had been drinking, I became very sick and had to be hospitalized for a week. I couldn't keep food down and needed IVs. I had another attack two months ago and had to go to the hospital again.

What are Librax capsules? I have been taking Tagamet and Librax four times a day for two months. I told the doctor that the pills really helped. He said I could continue the Librax, but not the Tagamet. He lets me take one Tagamet at bedtime. If I feel good, I'm to cut back on the Librax, too. However, I can feel the difference already. I feel better when I take both. I don't drink and stay away from sodas pretty much.

DEAR READER — Tagamet was first approved for use in the short-term treatment of ulcers. There was not enough information about its long-term effects and effectiveness to approve it for long-term use. It is now approved for use at bedtime, also, to help prevent recurrences of ulcers. Tagamet helps prevent the production of acid-digestive juices that cause ulcer pain.

Librax is a combination of an antispasmodic — which, like Tagamet, inhibits the formation of acid-digestive juice — and a tranquilizer. It is often very helpful in relieving digestive complaints.

However, there is much more to managing an ulcer than just taking these two medicines. You may get some help from taking antacids during the day. You shouldn't take them when you take Tagamet at bedtime, since that might interfere with its absorption.

I'm sending you The Health Letter 15-10, Understanding Ulcers and Acidity, to give you additional guidance about managing your ulcer. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Pay attention to your lifestyle. I'm glad you are watching your diet, but are you avoiding coffee, both regular and decaffeinated? You should not drink any tea or colas, either, and I hope you are not smoking. You also need to minimize stress. I firmly believe that stress is an important factor in causing ulcer and acidity problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — This past year I attended a college reunion. Some people seemed to have aged a lot more than others, notably a girl who used to be the best-looking individual in my class. Do people really age at different rates?

DEAR READER — They certainly do. The best way to have a long life — and that includes looking young — is to pick good parents who lived long, healthy lives, and then to take good care of yourself.

It seems as if we all inherit a program or script for life. That helps to determine when our teeth erupt, our hair falls out and our hearing fails. Along the way, we add to the script by drinking too much, smoking (which makes a person's face look 10 years older than that of a nonsmoker), eating too much, not staying in good physical condition, experience too much stress, and many other things. The end result is you. Of course accidents, illnesses that cannot be prevented and other events also occur.

Some women enter the menopause in their early 30s — or sooner, in rare cases — others in their early 50s. Again, much depends on the script you inherit, but everyone can look better and feel better longer by following a healthy lifestyle.

Artificial heart recipient wanted to go all the way

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William J. Schroeder didn't quite give the thumbs-up sign when he awoke after becoming the second recipient of a permanent artificial heart, but he "had that look in his eye" and a doctor said today he could be out of bed by the weekend.

Schroeder remained in critical condition today, his third day of life with the polyurethane and metal heart, but his vital signs were stable.

Meanwhile, doctors at Humana Heart Institute International, which has permission to perform five more implants, were already screening two other candidates for the operation.

Doctors inserted a second tube into the left side of Schroeder's chest Monday after X-rays revealed that fluid was continuing to accumulate following a massive loss of blood Sunday night, six hours after the implant.

Later X-rays were "infinitely clearer," suggesting that the decomposing blood and fluid leaking from surrounding tissues had been removed, said Dr. Allan M. Lansing, the chairman of the Heart Institute who assisted Dr. William C. DeVries during the heart implant.

Schroeder was awake and visiting with his family Monday night, and it was expected he would have a restful night, according to a 9 p.m. bulletin issued by the hospital.

He was described as "very alert" and was being kept under a mild sedative to prevent discomfort from the tube in his throat that was helping him breathe. "He does know, however, that he has survived and the family is with him," Lansing said. "He didn't quite give the thumbs-up sign but you could see that look in his eye."

In her first public remarks, Schroeder's wife, Margaret, said, "It was kind of left up to Bill to make up his own mind" about whether to undergo the implant.

"He said, 'I have no other thoughts but to go all the way,'" she told reporters from radio station WITZ and The Herald of Jasper, Ind., the family's hometown.

"Dad wanted to go through with this and we're all behind him 100 percent," said the Schroeders' oldest son, Melvin, 30. "We are extremely proud of Dad and we are cautiously optimistic on the progress."

Mrs. Schroeder said she had received a telegram with best wishes and prayers from Una Loy Clark, the widow of Barney Clark, who became the world's first recipient of a permanent artificial heart on Dec. 2, 1982. Clark lived 112 days after the operation.

Schroeder had less than a week to live when he received the Jarvik-7 artificial heart, Lansing said.

20 years later burial is planned

HOUSTON (AP) — A group of men brought together by a horribly dismembered body more than 20 years ago will act as pallbearers at a long-delayed funeral.

Harris County Medical Examiner Joseph Jachimczyk said the ceremony is scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday in Richmond, Texas, about 35 miles southwest of downtown Houston.

Jachimczyk said officials have given up on finding the man's killer. The body was found June 11, 1964, by a cotton farmer who lived about five miles north of Richmond. The head, hands and legs had been cut off. The severed parts were never found.

Jachimczyk said officials decided to bury the body because they feel they have run out of clues and because the Harris County morgue will move to a new building soon.

"We felt this would be an appropriate time," Jachimczyk said. "We felt we had exerted every effort humanly possible to try to get him identified. There comes a time you have to put him in the ground."

In death, the man will be honored by those who joined in the quest for his killer.

Jachimczyk, a Catholic deacon, will conduct the ceremony.

They had little to help them solve the crime: The man was Caucasian, about 50 and weighed about 160 pounds. One rib was broken, but the body had few other identifying marks.

Largest hashish seizure reported

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian authorities, working with U.S. narcotics agents, seized about 20 tons of hashish aboard a ship in what a U.S. official today described as "the largest single haul of hashish ever in Egypt and possibly in the world."

Thomas Dolan, a U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration official, estimated the street value of the hashish at about $50 million, based on the Egyptian street value of about $2,500 for 2.2 pounds of hashish.

Fort Concho sets annual Christmas celebration

SAN ANGELO — Fort Concho National Historic Landmark will be transformed into a holiday wonderland during "Christmas at Old Fort Concho" celebrations Nov. 30-Dec. 2.

The annual festival, Fort Concho's largest public affair, attracted 30,000 visitors last year. Highlights include shopping, ethnic foods, special events, heritage chapel services and presentation of an historical pageant featuring more than 200 costumed actors, singers and dancers. Admission is $1 for adults with children under 12 years old free.

Visitors will find each of the 21 historic buildings decorated in a special motif — "A Victorian Christmas" or "An Early Texas Christmas," for example. Inside, more than 100 merchants and artisans from San Angelo and throughout the Southwest will sell selected items, some of which are offered only at this event.

Religious heritage services will be held in the fort chapel. Food and beverages will be served at several places, including the "Arc Light Saloon," which celebrates San Angelo's western beginnings.

BRIDGE

James Jacoby

That scientific bidding becomes impossible when the opponents have swallowed up all your bidding room is not a startling revelation to any of you readers. South was confronted with just such a situation after opening with a strong, artificial two-club bid. At his next turn to act, the bidding level was at five diamonds. He did bid five hearts, hoping to catch his partner with as much as a black king.

North not only had that black king but also felt his singleton diamond might have value. He carried on to six. Although a little rash, the contract was good enough. Declarer won the diamond ace, played A-K-Q of hearts and gave up a heart trick. Back came the nine of spades from East, who knew from declarer's failure to trump a diamond in dummy that he had no more diamonds. Since the spade finesse was only a 50-50 chance, and the probability was better than 65 percent that clubs would split 3-2 to provide enough tricks for the contract, South went right up with the spade ace. When clubs did not split, he was down one.

Exercise book written for those with back problems

GET YOUR BACK IN SHAPE. By Marjorie Jaffe. Simon & Schuster. 125 Pages. $8.95.

Lots of people know they don't get enough exercise. Some of those same people have "bad backs" of one kind or another. So they're often afraid to buy an exercise book and follow it, fearing they'll "throw the old back out" and be worse off than before they started.

Marjorie Jaffe has written an exercise book for exactly that crowd. It's also not bad for those who've never had a back pain but have just been too lazy to tone and strengthen their muscles. Or for those waiting for a sensible book by a person trained as a physical therapist, which Miss Jaffe was. She now has her own exercise studio in New York.

First, she wants you to exercise less than half an hour a day. Second, she stresses alignment more than she stresses exercises. Third, she stresses understanding what you're doing. Each exercise starts with a brief explanation of purpose and is accompanied by a picture of Miss Jaffe doing it correctly.

Miss Jaffe doesn't want anybody doing these exercises each day, then walking around in a slouch or sitting for hours with a telephone scrunched between shoulder and ear.

The exercise instructions are very clear. Leg lifts while lying on one's side, for instance, explain which way to turn the lifted knee, when to breathe in and when out and how to get the benefits of fastening a weight to the lifted leg without doing that. Hand and arm positions during this exercise aren't mentioned but are pictured.

Occasionally there are sentences in all capital letters, such as "DO ONLY IF THERE IS NO PAIN."

Exercises are in three chapters, for the flabby, the medium strong and the strong. You know which you are.

ROBOT WORKERS

SOLON, Ohio (AP) — Advanced farm technology will be needed to help feed the world's growing population, and the key to increased productivity will be "space age" workers according to a maker of electronic components.

Trevor O. Jones of TRW says, "Driverless tractors, harvesting by robots, computer feed of animals, and satellitefed weather information will be commonplace on America's farms in 1990."

Dear Abby

Second Wife Fears She's Married Half a Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for three years to a man who divorced his wife because she was having an affair with another man. I was already divorced when I met him. Now the problem. My husband feels guilty about his divorce. He talks to me about his concern for her mental health, and he worries about who is comforting her sexually. I've heard this for three years now, and it isn't doing much for my mental health.

His ex-wife has the house in her name and their two children live with her. She's currently seeing a very wealthy man who has remodeled her home and takes her out, and I presume he "comforts" her.

Meanwhile, I'm living in a modest apartment with a 6-year-old child from my previous marriage and a husband who is worrying about his ex-wife's mental health and sexual needs.

I feel like saying, "My first marriage failed, too, but I've picked up the pieces and gone on. I married you because I loved you. I still do, but I don't spend my time worrying about my ex-husband's mental state or sexual needs."

What is wrong, Abby? Why am I beginning to feel like I have half a husband?

SECOND THOUGHTS
IN LOUISVILLE

DEAR SECOND THOUGHTS: Your husband is too preoccupied with his ex-wife, and you are beginning to feel that you have half a husband because you have. He needs counseling in order to let go of what he no longer has: her. Tell him what you feel like telling him and insist that he get professional help.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for all the good things you had to say about Marriage Encounter. But Abby, we must ask for a correction immediately.

Marriage Encounter is all the things you said it was. It is for couples who have good marriages. And it is a crash course for couples who want to put the honeymoon sparkle back into their marriages and keep it there. But it is not a counseling session in any form whatsoever!

If a couple needs counseling, they should seek it first, and when they are back on the right track, they should treat themselves to a Marriage Encounter weekend to reaffirm their commitment of love and marriage.

Hoping to see this correction soon.

H. AND C. SPITZER
IN S.C., LUTHERAN
MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER

DEAR H. AND C.: I submit this correction with my apologies. The trouble with "corrections" is that those who have read the erroneous information rarely see the corrections.

DEAR ABBY: To get right to the point, I'm a 26-year-old man with a serious problem. I have very bad acne scars on my face. They hinder my professional life as well as my social life. I've had them for years, and now I want to do something about them.

Can you recommend any medication, treatment or even plastic surgery? I would greatly appreciate it. Please help me. Thanks.

SCARFACE

DEAR SCARFACE: If you don't know a dermatologist or board-certified plastic surgeon who uses a technique called dermabrasion, call your county medical association and ask it to recommend a few. This procedure can be done with a local anesthetic in a doctor's office, or in a hospital if a general anesthetic is used.

Depending on how badly scarred your face is, this procedure will give you a practically "new" skin surface. It is not painless, but it's not nearly as painful as a condition that causes one to sign himself "Scarface." Go for it, and good luck.

Award $2 billion in contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has handed out almost $2 billion in shipbuilding contracts, while making clear it sees no reason to cancel contracts held by firms that allegedly gave gifts to retired Adm. Hyman G. Rickover.

Navy Secretary John Lehman, in a press conference Monday, said he had seen no evidence that would justify taking the extreme step of canceling contracts now held by four firms suspected of giving Rickover gifts worth "tens of thousands of dollars" in the 1970's.

In fact, Lehman said, two of the four — the General Dynamics Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. — are receiving new contracts to build nuclear attack submarines.

The other two contractors suspected of giving gifts to the man known as the father of the nuclear Navy are Westinghouse Electric and General Electric. With the exception of General Dynamics, which has acknowledged privately giving some jewelry to Rickover's wife, the other three firms have refused to comment on the matter.

Unnamed officials quoted in today's editions of The Washington Post said the Pentagon had documented Rickover received jewelry, tie-pins, ship models and other items worth between $50,000 and $60,000.

Other officials quoted by the newspaper said the total value of the unreported gifts may exceed $150,000 once investigations by the Navy, congressional committees and the Justice Department are completed.

Rickover has denied any wrongdoing. The Post quoted officials as saying that while Rickover allegedly kept many of the items, he also gave away many.

Lehman said Monday the Navy had no intention of sweeping the charges "under the rug."

But he added the Navy also had to apply some "common sense" because of the value of the alleged gifts and because the contractors are now performing well on projects worth billions of dollars.

"To cancel $5 billion or any part of that of currently underrunning contracts would be cutting off one's nose to spite one's face," he concluded.

The Navy secretary discussed the allegations of improper gift-giving Monday after announcing the Navy was awarding contracts for 10 new vessels worth $1.96 billion.

Bundling up baby might be factor in some crib deaths

LONDON (AP) — Parents who bundle up their babies with too many blankets or place them in overheated rooms raise the risk of crib death for their children, a study by a pediatrician indicates.

Crib death, or sudden infant death syndrome, is the name given to the unexplained death of an apparently healthy baby. About one to three deaths in every 1,000 babies is blamed on the crib death. A fault in the baby's breathing mechanism has been linked to the syndrome, but the actual cause in unknown.

The parents of most of the babies included in the study of crib deaths "seemed to have an unusual concept of what constituted normal warmth," wrote the author, Dr. Anthony Stanton.

"The babies had been clothed and wrapped as if they were sleeping outdoors and at risk of hypothermia," Stanton said.

The doctor said parents should be educated "away from the folklore that babies catch cold to the reality that many are at risk from overheating."

He said his study, published in the current issue of the British medical journal The Lancet, found that keeping a baby too warm was a possible cause of crib death.

The pediatrician said previous scientific studies have linked overheating to crib death, but that researchers assumed elevated body temperatures in the bodies of the dead infants were caused by undiagnosed infections.

"Nobody is saying it is the only cause," said Stanton, who has investigated crib death for seven years. "But the coincidence that they were very hot comes up again and again."

Stanton, a consultant at Scarborough Hospital in northern England, studied the deaths of 34 babies in Scarborough and Oxford between December 1981 and May 1984.

The ages of the babies — 12 girls and 22 boys — ranged from 27 days to 9 months. All died unexpectedly at home and were certified by coroners as victims of sudden infant death syndrome.

Of the 34 babies, all but two were found to have been at in danger of overheating, Stanton wrote, and those two babies had low birth weights.

Stanton said 24 babies were excessively clothed or bundled under layers of blankets; 19 were unusually hot or sweating when found dead; 17 had evidence of infection that would cause a fever; and 14 died in oppressively hot rooms.

Some of the babies fit into more than one category.

Excessive clothing or overwrapping, according to the study, was the equivalent of an undershirt, stretchsuit, cardigan, sheet and three blankets in a room at 64 degrees Fahrenheit. A room temperature above 64 degrees was not considered too hot if the baby was dressed appropriately.

From talking with doctors and parents, Stanton determined some of the babies had been heavily clothed, bundled under many blankets and placed next to a coal fire or radiator.

In one case, a 3-month-old baby who had a runny nose was swaddled in a large doubled blanket, wrapped twice around him and covered by two large woolen blankets each folded into four. His doctor said infant's parents kept their apartment "very warm."

Man arrested after tear gas goes off

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A 34-year-old Austin man hired to paint a bank vault was in jail today after a packet of cash stuffed with tear gas and red dye filled the lobby of a downtown building with noxious red smoke, police said.

According to police, a stack of $10 bills in the vault of Lamar Savings contained a tiny tear gas canister and red dye. Tellers are given the packets to hand over during robberies. The gas and dye are discharged by triggering mechanisms.

Terror campaign beginning

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A bombing outside the U.S. Embassy here appears to signal a new terror campaign by Colombian drug traffickers aimed at halting a crackdown on marijuana and cocaine smuggling to the United States, an embassy source said.

The 22-pound dynamite bomb killed one woman and injured six men, all Colombians, Monday afternoon. Twelve days earlier, Colombia's drug traffickers — who operate a multi-billion dollar business — threatened to kill five Americans for every Colombian extradited to the United States on drug charges, U.S. officials said.

As a result of that threat, the State Department evacuated the families of six embassy employees to the United States, the embassy source told the Associated Press on Monday. Families of other employees have been asked to return to the United States on a voluntary basis.

President Belisario Betancur and his justice minister, Enrique Parejo, both said recently that their lives have been threatened by drug traffickers.

Parejo's predecessor, Rodrigo Lara, an outspoken opponent of the drug traffickers, was assassinated April 30, and one of his killers said he had been paid $10,000 by drug dealers.

No one claimed responsibility for Monday's bombing, which created a thunderous blast on a street running alongside the embassy and a building housing the offices of Exxon.

But the U.S. Embassy source told the Associated Press that the embassy is assuming the bombing was the work of drug traffickers.

The source spoke on condition he not be identified, saying he feared that exposure may make him a target of the traffickers.

U.S. authorities say Colombia's major drug traffickers make billions of dollars a year by smuggling cocaine and marijuana into the United States.

The embassy source said the dealers are trying to force the Colombian and U.S. governments into halting a campaign to extradite about 70 suspected Colombian traffickers to the United States.

After Lara's assassination, Betancur personally approved the extradition of six Colombians to the United States, but so far none has been turned over to U.S. authorities. Betancur was the first Colombian president to take such action.

Late Monday, sources with Spain's embassy in Bogota told The Associated Press that the Spanish ambassador, Manuel Garcia-Miranda, has received telephoned threats against his life.

Police search for cop's wife's rapist

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Police are searching for a man who raped a police officer's wife and told her it was in retaliation for her husband sending him to prison.

The officer's 26-year-old wife was cut and bruised in the Sunday morning attack at her south central Arlington condominium, police said Monday. The rapist apparently pried open the front door and awakened his victim at about 2 a.m., according to police spokesman Jim Willett.

"He told her he waited until her husband left for work," Willett said.

On Monday, police combed through a list of about 300 ex-convicts whom the officer helped send to prison, Willett said.

Willett said the man threatened the woman with a shotgun that may have been taken from a closet in the residence.

The rapist said the attack "was in retaliation because the officer was one of the officers responsible for sending him to prison for one year," said Willett.

Police said the man was in the condominium about 30 minutes and left without waking the couple's two small children.

"Right now, detectives are looking at ex-convicts that he might have helped send to prison," Willett said. "Three hundred is not an unreasonable figure with this officer's background and experience."

Willett said officers were also looking at the possibility the man invented the story about seeking revenge.

"There's no way at this time to ascertain if there's any truth to that," Willett said. "It does show that he knew the victim's husband is a police officer."

Prisoner killed in emergency room melee in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — A constable saved his life during a wrestling match with a prisoner in a hospital emergency room by grabbing the cylinder of a revolver so that the prisoner couldn't fire it, authorities say.

Another officer then fired three shots and killed 34-year-old Milton Wayne Thomas Monday afternoon.

The struggle between Thomas and constable's Lt. Robert Russell began when Thomas snatched the officer's gun from its holster, Constable Raul Martinez said.

WHERE'S THE CALL – Western Texas Westerner Coach Phil Spradling throws his arms up in frustration when officials ignored what he felt was a blatant foul in recent junior college basketball action. # Western Texas battles SPC

LEVELLAND -- Western Texas College basketball teams open the Western Athletic Conference season here tonight, taking on South Plains at 6 and 8.

The WJCAC officially began play Monday with most of the conference taking part. Amarillo opened with a stunning 68-48 win over Howard College women while Odessa rolled 107-67 over New Mexico Junior College.

In men's games, Amarillo popped Howard 78-65, Midland ripped Clarendon 80-60, New Mexico Military Institute edged Frank Phillips 73-66 and Odessa defeated New Mexico Junior College 88-78.

Tonight's games begin another series of road trips for both the WTC Dusters and Westerners. The Dusters play their following three games out of the bus before the Christmas break. They play at Weatherford in a non-conference game on Nov. 29, at Howard on Dec. 3, and at Odessa on Dec. 6.

The men do return home to play New Mexico Military on Nov. 29 before joining the Dusters in the games with Howard and Odessa.

DUSTERS VS SOUTH PLAINS

Coach Joe Cushing's WTC Dusters take a 12-2 record into the 6 o'clock contest at the Texan Dome. South Plains is 9-4.

The Lady Texans are led by 5-10 freshman Sally Walling, who is averaging 22 points and 7 rebounds a game. Shari Schilling, a 5-9 freshman, is averaging 18 points and 7.2 rebounds. Other top players for the Texans are Vicky McKenzie, 9.5 points and 4.6 boards, and Karen Schonerstedt, 9.1 points.

SPC has been averaging 84.3 points and allowing 69.3. The Texans are shooting .716 from the line and .461 from the floor.

WTC is backed by a sophomore contingent which includes 6-2 post Clara Campbell, Patti Hayes, Lyndy French, Renvy Evans and Rhonda Hoelting. Campbell averages 16.3 points and 10.9 rebounds; Hayes 13.5 points and 6.5 rebouds; French 11.8 points and Evans, 10.3 points and 5.8 boards.

The Dusters are averaging 77 points and giving up 62.8 while shooting .624 from the line and .458 from the field.

WESTERNERS VS SOUTH PLAINS

Coach Phil Spradling's WTC Westerners boast a 10-1 record while the South Plains Texans are 9-4.

South Plains has the conference's top scorer in Steve Liford. He averages 25 points and 6.7 rebounds. Tim McHugh and Tony Burt average 10.1 and 9.8 points respectively while Henry Jones and Titus Dock hit the boards for 6.3 and 5 rebounds respectively.

The Texans have been averaging 78.6 points and allowing 74.2, shooting .535 from the field and .616 from the line.

Others are Floyd Singleton, 16.1; Alvin Hicks, 11.1 and Victor Spencer, 10. The Westerners will again be minus Lorand White (12.2 points) due to injury.

Pressure on Cougs says Rice's Brown

HOUSTON (AP) - At last, the Rice Owls, with 24 consecutive Southwest Conference losses to their credit and a 1-10 record this season, have the Cotton Bowl hopeful Houston Cougars right where they want them.

Don't laugh, it's true according to Rice Coach Watson Brown.

Houston, which started last week with dim hopes for any kind of post-season play, suddenly is the favorite to advance to the Cotton Bowl as the SWC co-champion. They've got their destinies in their own hands.

And, Brown says, they've got all the pressure.

"We are supposed to get beat three or four touchdowns anyway so what the heck, that makes for a good atomsphere," Brown said Monday. "The other team has all the pressure on them. They HAVE to win. If they lose to us that's going to be tough."

Brown knows about that kind of pressure first-hand from his tenure as an assistant coach at Vanderbilt.

"I've been on that side at Vanderbilt (in 1982) in a game of this magnitude where we HAD to win this game to go to the Hall of Fame Bowl and it was one of our poorest games of the year," Brown said. "It's hard to play with that kind of pressure."

Brown hopes to use the projected hoplessness of the Owls plight to his advantage during the week of preparation.

"It kind of gets your blood to flowing to read everybody saying you don't have a chance," Brown said. "Maybe we don't. I know physically, that's probably true but I don't see how anybody can just write that you don't have a chance especially nowadays.

"I know we are heavy underdogs but when you let your hair down and go play and don't worry about anything and we don't..."

The Cougars started last week with bleak hopes of playing in any kind of post-season game but a startling turn of events last weekend have made UH the favorite to tie for the SWC title and represent the conference in the Jan. 1 Cotton Bowl.

A victory over the 1-10 Owls would give the Cougars the berth opposite Boston College in the Cotton Bowl with a 6-2 record.

The conference titlist will have two league losses for the first time in SWC history.

Brown's pass-oriented "controlled-chaos" offense has shown signs of improvement in recent weeks, including a 46-40 loss to Baylor two weeks ago.

"I think we've been competitive in our last three games and I think we will be Saturday," Brown said. "I think our last three opponents at least know they've been in a ball game."

The Owls were leading Baylor until the final six minutes of the game when the Bears rallied for the victory.

Sophomore Kerry Overton will start at quarterback for the Owls but freshman Mark Comalander, who has been sidelined by injury, will also be available for duty.

Tiger teams play Abilene here and on road tonight

Snyder High School basketball teams are in action tonight with the boys playing the host role and Coach Ken Housden's girls on the road.

Snyder's varsity boys, still looking for their first victory of the young season, will entertain Abilene at 8 this evening in Scurry County Coliseum. A sophomore game is scheduled for 4:30, followed by a junior varsity tilt at 6:15.

Abilene's Eagles are also looking for a victory. The Eagles, 0-1, lost to Weatherford, 82-80, in overtime last week.

Housden's girls, 2-0, trek to Abilene to face Abilene High at 7:30. A junior varsity game is set for 6.

Abilene girls are 1-1.

Weekend action has the Snyder girls in the Crane Tournament (Nov. 29-Dec. 1) while the boys entertain San Angelo Central on Friday.

Snyder junior varsity boys will host the Snyder JV Tournament here Friday and Saturday.

Sports in summary

WACO, Texas (AP) - Rumors that he is stepping down as Baylor's head football coach are premature, an amused Grant Teaff says.

Teaff's phone began ringing after Houston head coach Bill Yeoman said on his Sunday TV program that he was surprised to hear that Teaff was retiring after 13 seasons at the Baylor healm.

Teaff was surprised to hear it, too. He said Monday that there was nothing to the report.

After hearing that, an embarrassed Yeoman called Teaff to apologize, saying he had been given the information by an assistant coach at Texas Tech, which Houston beat on Saturday, and assumed it was true.

Teaff took the occasion to have a little fun at Yeoman's expense.

"I guess there must be some kid out there Bill is trying to recruit real bad," Teaff joked.

Internships available in Stenholm's office

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm has announced that applications for summer internships in his office next June and July are now available from his Abilene district office.

Four interns will be chosen in March 1985 and will have the opportunity to participate in the workings of the congressman's Washington office. Interns are exposed to legislative activities such as committee hearings and floor debates, help with constituent inquiries, and assist in the day-to-day operations of the office.

College students in or from the 17th Congressional District, teachers at any level, or residents of the district with a demonstrated interest in government are eligible for the program. Selection is made by a district-wide committee headed by Stenholm's predecessor, former U. S. Representative Omar Burleson of Abilene.

All applications must be postmarked by midnight, Jan. 15, 1985. Forms and additional details may be obtained from Congressman Stenholm's Abilene office: P. O. Box 1101, Abilene, 79604. The phone number is (915) 673-7221.

Event honors Virginia Whitson

Director Mickey Baird and the cheerleaders presented her with a "letter blanket" and reflected on her trip to the National Junior College Basketball Championship in Hutchinson, Kansas in 1980.

On the return trip, Baird, Whitson and the cheerleaders were snowbound in Mineloa, Kansas. They spent the night in a small church, where Virginia "livened up the place at the piano," leading the group in songs.

"Then we slept on the pews," Baird said.

Pete Glass presented her with a gift certificate from the Golden K Kiwanis Club, lamenting he didn't know what the club would do without Virginia as piano player.

Audience member Charlie Yoast commented, "Let them do without like we've had to do at the noon Kiwanis since they stole her from us."

WTC Coaches Dave Foster, Phil Spradlin and Kent Williams presented here a bouquet of flowers, and WTC basketball players rose to their feet to honor their "Number 1 fan."

Gloria Shaw, senior center director, and Jean Smith, associate director, presented gifts from the Sunshine Choir and Kitchen Band.

Smith noted they'll have to "dust off the dictionary instead of yelling 'Virginia, how do you spell...'"

WTC President Dr. Don Newbury presented her a cowbell memento — a replica of the one she has used at countless WTC basketball games.

Newbury reminded her "the road from Mineral Wells back to Snyder runs downhill."

Use special device

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Three surviving quintuplets would not have lived through the weekend if it hadn't been for special breathing machines installed in the neonatal intensive care unit at Wilford Hall Medical Center, doctors say.

The infants, born Friday at the Lackland Air Force Base hospital, have been placed on high-frequency ventilators that breathe 1200 times a minute for the babies, Dr. Donald Null said.

"The hope is the babies will suffer less lung injury than they would have on a standard ventilator" that would have induced fewer breaths per minute, Null said during a Monday news conference.

Plan unveiled to overhaul American tax system

overhaul of the system since the income tax came into being 71 years ago.

The president got his first look at the plan on Monday. His spokesman, Larry Speakes, said today Reagan has yet to approve the plan.

"His view is that he is listening and wants to hear more" before deciding on a final proposal, he said. 5"It will take time to build a consensus," he said. The tax changes would have to be accepted by Congress.

But the likelihood Congress will go along with any wholesale revamping is questionable. Some influential members have vowed that steps to reduce the budget deficit, projected to run in excess of $200 billion this year, will take priority over tax simplification.

The Regan plan, according to the officials, centers on a "modified flat" tax proposal for individuals that slashes the number of tax rates and ends many deductions, exclusions and credits. A pure flat-tax plan would tax everyone at the same rate, regardless of income, and wipe out nearly all deductions.

The Treasury's modified plan clips the current 16 tax rates to three, with the top bracket sliced from 50 percent to 35 percent for the wealthiest taxpayers. The two other rates are set at 25 percent and 15 percent, according to these sources.

The lowest rate currently is 11 percent. But the officials said taxes for those in lower brackets wouldn't climb because higher personal exemptions would be put in place to protect them.

"Taxes would be virtually eliminated for anyone at the poverty level or below," one official said. He added that some low-income taxpayers would find their tax bills tumbling by 30 percent.

The plan calls for raising the personal exemption for taxpayers, spouses and their dependents from the current $1,000 to $2,000, officials said.

The amount for the standard deduction would rise from $2,510 for single taxpayers to $2,800; from $3,710 for joint returns to $3,800; and from $2,510 for heads of households to $3,800, the officials said.

DA to present different picture

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors say a man convicted for his part in the pickax slayings of two people is not the "kind, compassionate" person portrayed by friends, relatives and a police officer involved in the case.

Assistant District Attorney Rusty Hardin said he will call Karla Faye Tucker, a 24-year-old woman sentenced to death in the slayings, back to the witness stand today to "give jurors a different impression" of Daniel R. Garrett.

Jury selection begins for Erwin

DALLAS (AP) — Jury selection began in the drug racketeering trial of Bonnie Burnette Erwin, the alleged kingpin of a drug-selling gang who may have participated in murder, torture and kidnapping in several states.

As potential jurors were being questioned Monday, police arrested a woman trying to enter the courtroom with a loaded pistol in her purse.

Two accidents at college lots

Two minor traffic mishaps — both on the parking lot of the student apartments at Western Texas College — were reported Monday afternoon.

Involved in the first at 2:10 p.m. was a 1977 Mercury driven by John Glen Hulsey of Graham, which struck a parked 1972 Ford owned by Mark Daniel Silva of Ely, Nevada.

The second mishap was logged at 6:43 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1979 Ford driven by David Bradford Fluitt of Sweetwater, who struck a parked 1980 Chevrolet owned by Tony Darren Jones of Dimmitt.

the suspect they have been seeking in connection with the theft of a 1982 Chevrolet pickup taken from Wilson Motors sometime between November 7-13.

Although no formal charges have been filed against the suspect here, investigators reported Tuesday a suspect had been identified and arrested in Lubbock over the weekend.

Area law enforcement officials believe he is connected with a series of six or more vehicle thefts in West Texas.

The truck taken from the local dealership is still missing. Police reported they have not yet questioned the suspect, who was released from Lubbock County Jail on a $2,000 bond after the initial arrest.
