MISSING LAW HELD GOOD IN TEXAS COURT

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—District Judge W. S. Dean ruled today that 150 articles omitted when the penal code was bound in 1925 were valid despite a clerk's or printer's error in omitting them from the official copy.

Judge Dean said the error could not nullify statutes which have been the law of the land for years against a crime that has been denounced by the people for hundreds of years. ... the crime for which the penal code was bound in 1925 was sentenced to life in prison. ... the attorney had secured a writ of habeas corpus to free the prisoner on the grounds that the law for which he was convicted was not enacted.

The ruling on the "missing laws" in the hearing of Copeland's case. There are approximately 40 other inmates in the prison here serving sentences for crimes prescribed in the missing articles of the penal code.

At a meeting called by Clyde Garrett of Eastland, Tenn., he demanded that strict regulations be adopted and a direct appeal be made to President Roosevelt. Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, turns a deaf ear to the for a change in WPA procedure.

Business Jumps As Year Opens, Report

AUSTIN, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—If 1935 was still a depression year, it went out with a business bang in December and January starts 1936 off maintaining the December spurt, experts of the University of Texas bureau of business research said today.

"Recent trade news indicates that business thus far in 1936 has about held the levels established in December," Dr. F. A. Buechel, assistant director of the bureau said. He predicted that industrial volumes will continue in February to show gains over the corresponding period of 1935.

Favorable December records noted were:
Cement production was 65 per cent above that for Dec. 1934.
Building permits doubled over Dec. 1934. Increases were noted in Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Brownwood, Dallas, Fort Worth, Galveston, Houston, Marshall, Port Arthur, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Tyler, Waco and other places.
For the entire year, 1935 topped 1934 building permits with an increase of 84 per cent.

Canadian Rockies At 50 Below Zero In New Cold Wave

Far up in the Canadian northwest the temperature dropped to 50 below zero today, chilling huge masses of air which will follow the present sub-zero wave across the country.

Slight relief was expected in some parts of the midwest to day before the new blast sweeps toward the east. Abnormal temperatures continued in the vast area from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

More than 50 deaths were attributed to the latest cold wave in one of the coldest winters on record. Most of the midwest was digging out of deep drifts which paralyzed transportation and forced closing of many rural schools.

Requests for fuel swamped the state capital of Iowa and a special corps of telephone operators was installed.

Rural communities in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and Kentucky also reported acute coal shortages.

Sharp cold, which sent the temperatures as such lows in 8 above zero in the Texas panhandle, 15 in north Texas, and almost to freezing in the winter resort of the Rio Grande valley, had moderated Thursday. Clouds hovered over the state.

CONFESSES HE KILLED WRITER TO GET MONEY

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—Modesto Trujillo, 18-year-old house boy employed by Carl Taylor, national known magazine writer, today confessed, according to police, that he shot Taylor to death in his cabin 25 miles east of here yesterday.

Trujillo's confession, in which he was understood to have admitted he killed Taylor to rob him of $2,000 in cash and travelers check which the writer carried, cleared a crime in which officers had at first leaned to a theory that Taylor was murdered by the Penitentes. The Penitentes are a cult of self torturers who for centuries have celebrated their weird rites in the New Mexico mountains.

This theory had been supported by friends of Taylor who said that the slain man had violated the secrets of the Penitentes, even photographing their temple, to obtain material for a manuscript concerning them.

Hotel Ownership Decided by Court

FORT WORTH, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—The Stephen F. Austin Hotel company and the Resort Hotel company today owned the Stephen Austin hotel in Austin and the Baker hotel in Mineral Wells, following a federal court order yesterday, ending two year controversy.

OYSTERS PLANTED
KETCHIKAN, Alaska.—(U.P.)—Experiments have proved that oysters are adaptable to Alaskan waters, according to sponsors of the new Alaskan industry. Seeds have been planted at Valdez Bay and Ketchikan, and it is expected the oysters will grow prolifically if kept away from their natural enemies, the starfish.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—The interstate commerce commission today presented to the senate munitions committee a survey showing that at a cost of $17,167,296 the government could provide its own munitions now bought from private firms. The commerce commission inquiry was undertaken at the

REHEARING IN BEER CASE IS BEING SOUGHT

A motion for rehearing of the Mayhew beer suit was to be filed in the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals today, it was announced by F. D. Wright, attorney for the Mayhew brothers. The motion followed action of the court yesterday in sustaining a ruling denying a writ of mandamus directing the county judge to hear application of the Mayhews for a retail beer dealers license.

Wright said today that if the motion for rehearing is denied the case will be appealed to the state supreme court, where a writ of error will be sought.

The appeals court held that an election legalizing the sale of beer in precinct 6 in 1933 was invalid and that action of the legislature in 1933 legalizing the sale of beer after the repeal of prohibition was not retroactive in effect and did not validate the precinct election of 1933.

W. H. and C. E. Mayhew of Cisco had sought an application for a retail beer dealer's permit in Cisco, in precinct 6. Their suit had sought a writ of mandamus, to compel County Judge Clyde L. Garrett to hear their application for such a permit.

The opinion handed down by the appeals court yesterday was written by Associate Justice Clyde Grissom, with Associate Justice O. C. Fundenburk dissenting.

Reported Living 45 Days Without Drink

CALCUTTA, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—A remarkable instance of the practice of the Hindu philosophical doctrine of samachi (perfect absorption of thought into the object of meditation the Supreme Being) is reported from Rishi Kesh, a place of pilgrimage in the northwest of the United Provinces.

A yogi (ascetic) had himself immured in a stone structure 15 feet square and 4 feet high. The entrance was closed with a stone which had been cemented, and a guard was posted. Before he entered his tomb the ascetic had fasted for several days, and he left instructions with a priest that on the 45th day, between 7 a. m. and 10 a. m., when they should hear him say the sacred word "om," they were to take him out and give him fruit juice and massage his body with oil.

He was then walked up in his tomb and for 45 days crowds of Hindus reverently waited outside while he performed this, the highest form of penance.

He took neither food nor water all this time but on the forty-fifth day his disciples heard him say "om" in a low voice, and his pale thin body was taken out with life still in it, amid the prayers of thousands of worshippers. The last time the ascetic undertook this penance it was stated that one of his hands was partly eaten by white ants while he was in his trance.

CHURCH RITES OF RUSSIA TO BE PRESENTED

When the Latvian Singers present a program of Russian music at the Cisco high school auditorium Sunday afternoon, they will be presenting a picture of Russian church services in their completeness, including altar, robes, clergy, incense, and other accessories of the Russian church, it has been announced by Mrs. Lee Clark, head of the Randolph college fine arts department and president of the City Federation of Women's clubs.

Difficulty of presenting the religious services of the Russian church has made the Latvian chorus the only one in the United States to make such a presentation. The difficulty of the situation is caused by the resentment by the church of the revelation of its ritual to the western Christian and the immense task to acquire the innermost secrets of the Russian religious traditions.

One part of the program to be given Sunday evening will be "An Evening in the Ruins of a Monastery," which will be a tableau presenting brilliant scenes from the Russian church services.

The appearance of the chorus is sponsored by the City Federation with the aid of the high school, and Randolph college.

Hurt Matador Frets As an Entertainer

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—Time passes slowly away from the bullfighting arena. Matador Jose Munoz complains at the night club where he twangs away the hours on his guitar.

Munoz, friend of the American bullfighter, Sidney Franklin, was gored by a bull last summer in Mexico City. He was ordered by his physician to stay out of the ring for three years. Wearing his native costumes, he sings and plays his guitar in a Greenwich Village night club.

Scots to Vie With Bagpipes on Feb. 22

LONDON, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—The best bagpipe player of England and Scotland will be picked at an All-Britain competition here Feb. 22, when special trains will bring kiln pipers and dancers from Edinburgh, Glasgow, Perth and Aberdeen.

The contest, an annual affair, will be sponsored by the Scottish Piping Society of London.

The champion will be chosen for his expertise in playing "piobaireachd," the heavy classical music of the bagpipes, and including such familiar compositions as "McCrimmon's Lament." The piece, known throughout the Highlands, takes a half hour to play.

To the champion will go the William Gillies Memorial Challenge cup, a replica and $25.

Women will not be eligible for the piping contest, but may compete in the Highland Fling, or sword dance.

The lighter bagpipe music of the march, strathspey and the reel will feature a competition for both amateur and professional pipers. Another prize will be awarded to the piper who "best pleases his audience, regardless."

Hall of Religion Plans Announced

Details of a Hall of Religion to be constructed by the Lone Star Gas System at Dallas for the Centennial Exposition at a cost of $50,000 were revealed today by H. L. Dyer, district manager of the Community Natural Gas company, following receipt of information from his company.

Dyer pointed out that L. B. Denning, president of the Lone Star company, had announced that the stockholders of the company and not the consumers would bear the cost of the project. In the current issue of the company's "Blue Blaze News," Denning says:

"The building will be contributed by Lone Star stockholders. We have been requested to back such a project and we are happy to do so."

The company was praised by newspapers and religious leaders for its action in constructing the Hall of Religion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(U.P.)—Congress cleared away the wreckage of AAA today and plunged into a roaring battle on a substitute farm program in which republican backers of the "Kansas plan" took a leading role.

Immediately after both houses had sent to the white house the repeal of the cotton, tobacco, and potato control acts, the controversy broke in the house where Representative Clifford Hope, r. Kan., demanded immediate action to attack the farm program problem on a three-cornered front.

Hope, who has a farm plan backed by many republicans and sometimes linked to Governor Alf Landon, potential presidential nominee, spoke as the senate opened a hot debate on the new farm bill to replace the AAA.

Hope's Plan
Hope suggested the problem be solved by:

- 1—Developing and maintaining the home market for domestic farmers.
- 2—A domestic allotment plan to give producers of surplus crops an equivalent for the tariff.
- 3—The development of foreign markets for American agricultural surpluses.

These tariff equalization feature was considered the most important one.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

The Radio Club, which is the first of its kind in Comanche Trail Council, has just completed a public address system which works fine. The system was demonstrated recently in a high school program and it could have accommodated a much larger auditorium. An attempt will be made to rent the system to the candidates for offices in the coming election. The club hopes to make enough to pay for the parts used in building it.

New Work Shop
The troop has built a work shop in one of the rooms of the high school, and when the West Ward pupils, which are occupying the room while West Ward is being repaired, leave the boys will begin building various articles.

It is hoped that the troop will make enough to buy new uniforms for the entire troop by selling the articles made at the workshop.

Ralph Barton, who is now scoutmaster of the troop, is the second diversified occupations teacher in the past two years to become scoutmaster of Troop 4. James R. D. Eddy, the other teacher took over the duties of the troop in the latter part of 1934, and he did much to revive scouting in the troop. It was largely through him that the Radio Club was founded.

Ready For Rally
But Mr. Eddy had to leave to accept a position as state supervisor for the diversified occupations course. Mr. Barton has also done a great deal to put new life into the troop. Troop 4 was lucky to get another as good as the one it lost. Troop 4 plans to be well prepared to leave at the end of the semester. Troop 4 plans to be well prepared at the next scout rally which is to be held at Eastland the second Saturday night in April. The troop will begin practicing early for the events to be held and to secure more uniforms for the members. There will be no doubt be more registration cards at the next rally than there were at the last one. The troop should win this rally.

Sunday, February 9th, is designated as Boy Scout Sunday and should be observed by all Troops. All scouts are requested by scout officials to wear their scout uniforms during scout week. Some towns are planning courts of honor to be held during the week; others will have birthday parties etc. Each troop should assemble in a body for the radio program Saturday evening to renew their scout oath and law, which will be led over the radio by Chief James E. West from the national office in New York City. We are unable at this time to give the exact time but watch your newspaper for announcements. We will send the information to the Scoutmaster if at all possible.

SUITOR SUES IN VAIN
ELYRIA, O. (U.P.)—A jilted suitor was informed by a Lorain county jury that "those who gamble at love and lose" are not entitled to damages. The jury decided against Ernest Erb in his suit to recover $326.50 from the parents of his former girl, Annie Martin, 16. Erb said he spent that amount in courting Annie.

There's a month of steady cold plus a Blizzard on your present Gas Bill!

Gas service statements being received now include the season's worst blizzard. In addition to this period of unusually severe weather there was not a single day from the middle of December to the middle of January when heat was not required. This is one reason statements covering this period are higher.

Another reason is the Christmas Holiday season. During this season extra gas was required for entertaining, extra cooking and for the comfort of house guests.

During this continued spell of steady cold weather your gas company has been alert to its responsibility of having sufficient gas at all times for every need. From the many hundreds of wells in the many fields where the supply originates, on along thousands of miles of pipe-line system are employees with years of experience in giving service and seeing that the gas supply to every home is adequate at all times.

So when you receive your statement this month, consider and receive for the amount you pay for househeating, cooking and water service. Compare the healthful comfort, convenience, service and leisure hours you have bought with the price of anything else you purchase. You'll find that your gas service is the least expensive of anything you buy—and the greatest value.

Down where the "Heating" Begins

When the temperature drops to 65 degrees or lower, heat is needed for comfort. During the past 30-day period, each day's mean temperature was well below 65 degrees, with some days far below freezing temperature. Please consider this when comparing your present gas bill with previous ones.
