

Rocks become new Snyder industry

By DONNY L. BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

Mention the word "mineral rights" in Scurry County and most people think of oil wells.

But Stanley Noah, a Snyder businessman for more than 30 years, has seen the retained mineral rights on his property turn into something other than gushing oil wells.

In the process, he has introduced a new industry to Scurry County — a rock and gravel supply source.

Noah planned initially to "cattle ranch" on the 254 acres he purchased four years ago just below the Lake Thomas dam.

He changed his business plans, however, after having tests run on small surface areas of natural gravel-size rock.

The tests indicated more than 1 million cubic yards of diggable gravel at the site, a find that Noah projects will benefit both he as the landowner and local public entities as a group.

The proximity of the site will provide a more economical source of rock and gravel for seal coating operations undertaken by both the City of Snyder and Scurry County.

Noah said the find is timely also since gravel pits near both Colorado City and Hobbs have been essentially depleted.

He said the only active gravel source in this area is at Slaton in Lubbock County, and it involves crushing the larger rock into the smaller sizes needed for other types of construction.

He said he now has the equipment installed to both wash and "grade out" the natural rocks without the use of rock crushing equipment.

This grading process divides the natural rock into a range of sizes from common masonry sand, to pebble-sized rock used in street seal coating, to larger rocks mixed with concrete.

Noah has affiliated his gravel source with Blue Sky Premix here, which will serve as a distributor for the product. He has named his new business Scurry County Aggregate.

A longtime Snyder businessman, he initially established Central Tire here in 1950. He sold it in 1980 to current owner Tommy Lay.

Noah said he "retired" briefly before becoming involved in his new enterprise.

Q. — What can be done when a local business advertises they will be open until 9 p.m. and you get there at 8:25 p.m. to find out they have already closed?

A. — Any private business holds the right to close and open when they choose. However, an individual also has the right to register any complaint about a business with the local Better Business Bureau. The Snyder area is served through the Abilene BBB office. The address is Bank of Commerce, Suite 320; P.O. Box 3275; Abilene, Tx. 79604. The telephone number is (915) 691-1533.

More to pay SS taxes now

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, members of Congress, judges and other top federal officials will start paying Social Security taxes Sunday as part of the plan enacted last year to shore up the system's sagging finances.

Vice President George Bush and all top political appointees will also be required to pay the payroll tax, along with all new federal workers hired starting Sunday. Coverage also becomes mandatory for all non-profit organizations and their employees, including hospital and school workers.

The tax rate an employee pays is 6.7 percent on the first $37,800 of income.

Also taking effect Sunday is the last chunk of the Reagan administration's four-step cut in federal income taxes. The final 5 percent cut leaves the typical American with a 23 percent lower tax bite than when the program began on Oct. 1, 1981.

Assad had heart trouble

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Syria's defense minister says the group that bombed U.S. and French military headquarters in Beirut, killing almost 300 men, has refused assistance from Syria, Libya and other Arab sources.

Mustafa Tlass, in an interview Thursday with The Associated Press, also said heart trouble forced President Hafez Assad to drop out of public sight for several weeks, but that he has recovered completely. Syria previously claimed Assad suffered from appendicitis.

Tlass, speaking through an interpreter, said Assad fell ill Nov. 13 with a "problem at the end of the arteries leading into the heart as a result of exhaustion."

A group called Islamic Holy War has claimed responsibility for the Oct. 23 bomb attacks on the multinational force posts in Beirut, as well as those at the U.S. Embassy in Beirut and at the U.S. and French embassies in Kuwait.

Dock is destroyed by fire

BROWNWOOD, Texas — A fire, which have been ignited by an exploding truck battery, devastated a Lake Brownwood boat dock, destroying at least 70 boats, the dock's owner says.

Damage to the boats and dock was estimated at $1 million.

Tommy Davis, an employee who lived in an apartment above the boat house, suffered minor injuries in the fire.

The fire at the Rose Boat Dock on the southeast shore of the lake destroyed the dock's main house, a storage building, 70 to 75 boats, a pickup truck and a jeep, said Tom Buford, who had owned the dock since 1975.

Jackson is off to Syria

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Democratic presidential contender Jesse Jackson set out today on the final leg of his journey to Syria, saying he was hopeful of arranging the release of captured U.S. Navy airman Robert O. Goodman Jr.

"We certainly are hopeful," Jackson said when asked during his six-hour stopover at Frankfurt airport whether he expected to bring Goodman back to the United States.

"The point is, if we do nothing, nothing will happen," he told The Associated Press. Jackson spent the stopover resting in a VIP lounge from his overnight flight from New York.

Jackson, accompanied by a delegation of U.S. clergymen, left at 2 p.m. for Damascus, the Syrian capital, aboard a commercial flight.

The black civil rights leader told reporters that neither race nor politics played a role in his decision to fly to Damascus. Goodman is also black.

"This is a truly American matter. I have been involved in humanitarian missions in the past," he said.

During an ABC television network interview at the airport, Jackson said it was "really unfair to inject race into this dimension. If Lt. Goodman were white, or Hispanic or Indian or Asian, it would have the same moral imperative ... his presence there is a grim reminder of the low level of relations between Syria and the U.S."

President Reagan has given a cold shoulder to Jackson's initiative, and Syria's defense minister said no release was possible while a "state of war" exists.

Goodman's mother has given her blessing to the trip, but his father said Jackson "should be held responsible" if the effort prolonged the detention.

Goodman, a bombardier navigator, was wounded and captured Dec. 4 when his attack jet was downed during a raid on Syrian gun positions in Lebanon's central mountains. The pilot of his plane was killed.

See no change in U. S. stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior Reagan administration officials say UNESCO is so "fatally flawed," so politicized and anti-Western, that they see virtually no chance it can make the changes essential to persuade the United States to reverse its decision to withdraw.

Delegates to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in Paris said the expected loss of the large annual U.S. contribution, now about $10 million, would be a "blow" to the agency's budget, will force the agency to trim its staff, and to cut back and re-examine programs.

Some key Reagan administration officials, explaining of allegedly away UNESCO budgets, say such steps could provide at least one use of the strong medicine they say is essential if UNESCO is to be rescued from its own "mismanagement" and domination by radical elements led by the Soviet Union.

Jean-Pierre Cot, French delegate to the UNESCO Executive Council, said some of the U.S. complaints were "well founded," and "some of the criticisms are shared by France." However, the French government had asked the United States not to withdraw, officials in Paris said.

"If the Americans leave, UNESCO will only be able to function poorly," said Cot.

UNESCO Secretary-General Amadou Mahtar M'Bow of Senegal said last November that UNESCO would apply for an international loan if the United States pulled out. He did not give details of how such a loan would be solicited or who the lenders might be.

The Soviet Union reacted sharply to the U.S. announcement, saying through the official news agency Tass that the U.S. withdrawal displayed "imperial haughtiness."

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If marriages are ever outlawed, only outlaws will have in-laws."

With the new year approaching, many folks glance quickly at the past and long for better things in the future. Good health is a wish we all desire, and so the following is an appropriate thought for this time of year. It's not original and it's not new, but it is appropriate.

There is nothing the matter with me,
I'm as healthy as I can be.
I have arthritis in both my knees,
And when I talk, I talk with a wheeze.
My pulse is weak and my blood is thin,
But I'm actually well for the shape I'm in.

Arch supports I have for both my feet,
Or I wouldn't be able to be on the street.
Sleep is denied me night after night,
But every morning I find I'm alright.
My memory is failing, my head's in a spin,
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

How do I know that my youth is all spent?
Well my "Get up and Go" has got up and went,
But I really don't mind when I think with a grin,
Of all the grand places my "Get up" has been.

Old age is golden I've heard it said,
But sometimes I wonder as I get into bed,
With my ears in a drawer,
And my teeth in a cup,
My eyes on the table until I wake up.

I think my liver is out of whack,
And a terrible pain is in my back,
My hearing is poor, my sight is dim
Most everything seems to be out of trim,
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

I thank the Good Lord for all that's been,
If I could live it over, I'd do it again.
The moral is, and this tale we unfold,
That for you and me who are growing old,
It's better to say "I'm fine" with a grin,
Than to let them know the shape we're in.

CHRISTMAS SALES BRISK—Snyder area merchants reported strong holiday sales here, and the momentum was continuing at year-end with the start of semi-annual clearance sales. Adverse weather didn't keep

Christmas sales strong

A positive economic signal was received in Snyder during December as local merchants report substantial increases in holiday sales.

An informal survey of local businesses indicate an average increase of 18 percent in sales over the previous December. Most merchants are attempting to keep that sales momentum alive with a variety of year-end and January clearance sales.

Weather is a villain to many types of businesses and the oilfield is no exception. For retailers, however, inclement weather may have been a blessing, it was noted.

Snyder businesses had teamed up with the retail committee of the Snyder chamber to stage an intensive "Shop Snyder" campaign during the Christmas holiday shopping period. Advertisements were placed in several area newspapers promoting Snyder as a shopping center.

In addition, more Snyder residents did more of their shopping in local stores, it was noted. A harsh cold spell just before Christmas that caused hazardous driving conditions is believed to have also help influence shoppers to shop locally.

The weather also caused a rapid increase in "heavy goods" buying. Howard Limmer, manager of C. R. Anthony's, said there was a marked sales increase in such things as coveralls, thermal underwear, gloves, caps, blankets and electric blankets.

Anthony's was one such store to report a sales gain. "We ran about 15 percent ahead of last year, but we were going up against a good December," Brian Boswell, J. C. Penney manager, said his store's sales were up 17 percent over last year. "It came pretty much on schedule. Shoppers started early and we sold out of many winter goods."

David Polk, manager of TG&Y, described sales as "real good." He noted a 24 percent increase. "I'm

Snyder man is forgery suspect

Investigators with the Scurry County Sheriff's office reported clearing a series of forgeries and thefts in Sweetwater, Big Spring and Snyder with the arrest of a 22-year-old Snyder man Wednesday.

Steven Wayne Kelly of the Ponderosa Motel was arrested by local authorities after they received a warrant from Sweetwater charging him with one count of attempted forgery in Nolan County. According to information provided to local investigators by the Nolan County sheriff's office, Kelly had allegedly attempted to pass a $600 check at a Sweetwater store which had been stolen from Michael and Jan Mayfield of Snyder.

In addition to the Nolan County charges, Scurry County authorities have now filed felony charges against Kelly in connection with a series of forgeries in Snyder involving the passing of four other checks stolen from the Mayfields.

The local checks, with a total value of around $400, were passed at Safeway (2), Everybody's Thriftway, and Piggly Wiggly between Oct. 17 and Nov. 29. Investigators also report recovering a quantity of merchandise Kelly allegedly purchased with the forged checks.

According to investigators, the local case against Kelly will be presented to the Scurry County Grand Jury next Tuesday and local authorities report that additional felony charges have been filed against Kelly in Big Spring.

Kelly was released from the Scurry County Jail Wednesday afternoon after posting a $2,500 bond.

Ranchers facing 'double whammy'

FORT STOCKTON, Texas (AP) — West Texas ranchers, who suffered through a year of drought conditions and depressed energy prices, are being forced to think about creative economics as they tighten their belts and reduce the size of their herds.

"It was a double whammy," said Fort Stockton rancher Jerry Puckett, who depends on livestock and mineral rights to earn his living.

Puckett said profits this year are slim, but he's been luckier than most West Texas ranchers who don't enjoy the extra buffer of mineral income.

Because of a drought that lasted until October, Puckett has been feeding his livestock instead of depending on grazing. The added expense, he said, has forced him to sell more animals than usual.

He also has seen a drop in mineral royalties coincide with a drop in oil and natural gas production. Income from surface damages also has dried up as exploration came to a standstill, the rancher said.

Zan Matthies, Pecos County agriculture extension agent, told the Odessa American recently that despite problems in both industries, ranchers with mineral income still come out ahead.

"Anything you get out of the minerals is a gift, to some degree," Matthies said. "You don't have to go out and feed an oil well."

"The people that are in strictly ranching, they're hurting. They have no other source of income," Matthies said.

Ranchers across West Texas began selling sheep and cattle last summer after much of the grassland died in the wake of drought conditions. Without natural grazing little profit is left in ranching, they said.

Kent Powell, Upton County agriculture extension agent, said there is little grazing now — despite some autumn rains.

Powell noted that a landscape dotted with oil production equipment does not necessarily mean success.

"You see all the pumpjacks around, and you think that ranchers don't need to worry," he said.

Willie Stumberg, Crane County agriculture extension agent, said most ranchers either lease the land or have sold the mineral rights.

"Most of them that are ranching are leasing their land so they don't have to worry about oil," Stumberg said. "Most of the oil producers lease the land to ranchers so they don't have to deal with ranching."

Some ranchers who do worry about both businesses are from established families who have suffered hard times before and know how to cope, said Winkler County

Agriculture Extension Agent Alan Fires.

Even so, Fires said, decreased drilling activity in Winkler County is affecting the economy.

Winkler County rancher James Waddell said that although his mineral income is larger than that of his ranching business, "it doesn't make you rich."

"If you've got some other interests, it pays for the frills," he said.

Unlike Puckett from Pecos County, Waddell said he doesn't apply any of his mineral income to his ranching operation except for some money he has received for surface damages.

"I don't feel that's a regular thing anyway. We use that for luxuries," he said.

Waddell has sold all his livestock this year and said he doesn't plan to restock until 1984 or 1985.

Philip Robbins, who ranches near Fort Stockton about, says his mineral revenues are off by about 50 percent, adding to financial woes that forced him to cut his herd in half.

"We're just operating closer to the belt," Robbins said. "I think this is one of the hardest years we've seen."

The law is not enough. The law says "equal pay for equal work."

Yet, full-time salaried men are averaging $388 a week — women average $251.

For every dollar paid to men, women make 59 cents.

The law is not enough. Why?

A Salvation Army facility in Chicago which cares for unmarried mothers reports only 16 percent of its beds occupied this year.

This in a city where one in two babies is born out of wedlock is explained by the "new attitude," for better or worse.

Young unwed mothers don't run and hide any more; they are more likely to remain at home, even in school.

These are difficult times for women. Emancipation is a mixed bag.

The sitcom actresses on TV are uncertain whether they should open doors for themselves.

The frail young woman who lights my TV sound-stage dares not accept help moving heavy gear.

I watch my own wife, secure in her combined roles of marriage and business partner, until she is frustrated by some shop clerk, repair person or reservations agent who will respond only to a male presence or a male voice on the phone.

No societal change in the United States in the past half-century has had more far-reaching implications than the increased number of women in the work force.

In 1950 one-third of women worked outside the home; today one-half do.

Authorize new airplane for governor

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Aircraft Pooling Board has approved spending about $1.7 million for a new jet plane for the Texas governor.

The final decision will be up to the 1985 Legislature.

The three-member board voted unanimously to replace the 20-year-old twin-engine state aircraft now used by Gov. Mark White.

Ray Spies, executive director of the board, said Thursday that bids on the lease-purchase of a new, smaller jet plane for the Texas governor will be asked about the middle of January, minus the trade-in value on the old plane, a 16-seat Gulfstream G-1 turbo-prop craft.

"The one he has now costs about $1,750 per flying hour and that is just exorbitant," Spies said. "We estimated it would cost more than $800,000 just to operate it the next two years."

The board's order asks bids on purchase of a Mitsubishi Diamond 1-A jet plane "or the equivalent" on a lease-purchase agreement.

and 64, the percentage of women working increased from 34 percent to 52 percent — while the percentage of men working declined from 87 percent to 78 percent.

Yet several studies affirm that working married women are still expected to tend the housework, at the expense of leisure and sleep time.

Generally the unemployment rate for women is higher than for men.

Women have sought and won "equality" in college enrollment. They are winning equal consideration in politics, presently holding 16,552 elective offices.

Yet, they are still short-changed — despite laws to the contrary — earning only about two-thirds as much as men.

Evolution, at its most accelerated pace, is agonizingly gradual.

Reagans mourn drummer's death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Beach Boys drummer Dennis Wilson, mourned by the president and show business colleagues as a musician "everybody loved," drowned accidentally while diving, a coroner has ruled.

President Reagan was among those expressing sorrow Thursday over the death of Wilson, 39, who was pulled from 13 feet of water where he had been diving from a boat slip in suburban Marina del Rey.

During the autopsy Thursday, Deputy Medical Examiner J.L. Cogan found a "minor" abrasion on the Wilson's head, said Los Angeles County Coroner's spokesman Bill Gold. But he said that injury was "not in itself significant for a cause of death."

"The musician's death was listed as accidental," Gold said.

A sheriff's deputy said

Wilson had been drinking with friends Wednesday on the 52-foot yawl Emerald before he began diving into a vacant slip.

Routine tests to detect alcohol or drugs in Wilson's body will take days or possibly weeks, Gold said.

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, became defenders of the Beach Boys last summer when then-Secretary of the Interior James Watt banned them from a July 4 performance on the Washington Mall.

After the incident, Mrs. Reagan invited the band to perform at the White House.

The Reagans, vacationing in Southern California, were "shocked and deeply saddened to learn of Dennis Wilson's death," said Mark Weinberg, an assistant White House press secretary.

"He was so vibrant and gifted," lovable," said

Elliott Lott, the band's road manager. "He was a very sensitive man. Everybody loved him."

Sandy Friedman, the Beach Boys' publicist, said, "We are all saddened by the sudden death of Dennis Wilson. He was one of the most sensitive and gifted musicians in pop music."

The original Beach Boys — brothers Dennis, Carl and Brian Wilson, cousin Mike Love and friend Al Jardine — emerged in the early 1960s from Hawthorne, Calif., with songs about the surfing craze sweeping the California coast.

"Surfin' Safari" and the hits that followed — "Surfer Girl," "Little Deuce Coupe," "Be True to Your School," "Surfin' USA," "Help Me, Rhonda," "California Girls," "Fun, Fun, Fun" and "Good Vibrations" — forged a distinct musical style

Trip-wire vets are hiding out

FORKS, Wash. (AP) — Hiding out in Washington's wilderness, "trip-wire" veterans are almost never seen. But a few are there, shunning society and living by the skills they learned in the Vietnam jungle, the state veterans' affairs director says.

"Trip wire" was the phrase U.S. servicemen used for the unseen, deadly traps the Viet Cong laid along trails to snare and maim GIs on patrol. It also applied to certain soldiers who developed a knack for finding those traps and dismantling them.

Now state officials are using the phrase to describe a very small percentage of veterans who, unable to cope with the stress of their war memories and the disapproval they faced upon returning home, disappeared into the woods to live the only way they felt comfortable.

"Out there in the woods are wonderful, loving people who just want to be left alone, who are saying, 'I don't want a world where I am going to be spit on and have tomatoes thrown in my face,'" said Bruce Webster, a Port Angeles psychologist who works with veterans.

About 85 trip-wire vets have re-entered society since the state Veterans Affairs Department began an outreach program, said department director Randy Fisher. He said he did not know how many more there might be.

With a $100,000 grant from the state, Fisher and Mike McWatters, a private consultant and veteran who says he himself hid for two years in New York's Adirondacks, began the counseling service in August.

Last summer McWatters did a survey to determine how many of the state's 100,000 Vietnam-era veterans needed counseling but lacked programs. He found about 1,000, and a number of them were vets whose existence resembled that of 19th-century mountain men.

Marvin, a 33-year-old ex-Marine who did not want his last name published, says he lived as a woodland shadow off and on for 10 years, tracking and trapping animals, wearing buckskin clothes, living in caves and hollow tree stumps.

He was one of several trip-wire vets interviewed by the Tacoma News Tribune for a series of stories this week.

"There's a lot the public don't know — and probably will never know — about what happened in 'Nam,'" he said. "The only job skills I have are those that might be useful to a hit man for the Mafia."

Marvin said he spent four years in Vietnam as a Special Forces Scout before being wounded in 1971. When he returned to the United States he headed for the woods, holing up in Colorado, Wyoming and Montana and ending up in Washington. He avoided all human contact, he said, because "I couldn't stand to be touched."

He said he suffered from paranoia and nightmares. Since he sought counseling a year ago, Webster diagnosed him as a victim of post-traumatic stress disorder — a psychological illness in which symptoms show themselves years after the event that caused them.

Bill Maier, 35, says he was another trip-wire vet. An ex-Marine who saw heavy combat during his Vietnam stint, Maier said he sought refuge in the woods from his recurring nightmares.

But his sanctuary became his torment, for the isolation became too much. "I became afraid of everything," he said. "I had to get out. Everything was closing in on me."

Maier sought help from Webster, his former high school track coach, and now says, "I feel I'm getting well again." He spends much of his time going back to the woods to find other trip-wire vets and urge them to seek counseling.

Trip-wire vets are not "loonies," Fisher said. They are troubled and confused men who cannot come to terms with their post-traumatic stress disorder. In a demanding and complicated society they cannot control their feelings, but in the wilderness — where they know they can survive by their wits — they feel secure, he said.

"I know of one vet who went into the woods naked, came back out later with full leathers (animal hides for clothing), had gained 40 pounds and was armed" with weapons he made, McWatters said.

Star of soap aids drinkers

CHICAGO (AP) — Soap opera star Andrea Evans-Massey, who as Patty Williams Abbott has had more than her share of problems on "The Young and the Restless," will be trying to keep others out of trouble New Year's weekend.

The 22-year-old actress, whose parents live in the Chicago suburb of Lisle, is a spokeswoman for CareCab, a community service that will provide free rides home to holiday revelers who drink too much. The service is sponsored by area hospitals and available from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. through Jan. 2.

In the soap, Ms. Evans-Massey plays a young woman who married a rich, philandering older man and shot him when she became temporarily insane. The character then had a nervous breakdown, and is in the process of a divorce.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating the most wonderful man in this entire world for the last four months. (I'll call him Henry.)

His mother died, and Henry asked me if I would go to the wake with him. Of course I said I would, and I did.

Well, his ex-wife of 16 years showed up. (I would like to make it clear that they were divorced before I got involved with him.) His "ex" did in fact use this occasion to cry on the shoulders of Henry's brother and sisters—not about the death of their mother, but because she and Henry were divorced and he had another woman by his side.

As a result of this, Henry's family asked him not to bring me to the funeral, so he didn't. I can hardly control my rage over this. What should I do?

EXCLUDED

DEAR EXCLUDED: Rejoice. If this hadn't happened you might have gone on thinking Henry was the most wonderful man in the world—instead of a wimp who does what his family asks without thinking it through and with total disregard for your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: I enjoy getting mail. Is there some way I can get my name on a mailing list so I can get what is called "junk mail"? I was told that the post office makes money on every piece of mail it handles, so it encourages it.

I would like to get some junk mail. I am 74 years old. Thank you.

VACAVILLE, CALIF.

DEAR VACAVILLE: It's simple. Just order one item you see advertised in a magazine or catalog: personalized stick-on address labels, flea powder, greeting cards, vegetable seeds, bicycle horn—anything at all will do. I promise you, in no time at all you will need a bigger mailbox, which can also be ordered from one of the many catalogs you will receive after your initial purchase. Once your name goes into the computer, it will breed like a hutch full of rabbits.

DEAR ABBY: A week before Thanksgiving, I telephoned an elderly widowed friend of mine and said, "If you aren't spending Thanksgiving with your daughter, please spend it with us."

She thanked me nicely, then in a very cheery tone she said, "Of course my daughter is coming to get me."

I later learned that this lady did not spend Thanksgiving with her daughter. She stayed home alone and cried all day. Her daughter, I was told, had not invited her, but she was too ashamed to admit it.

I feel guilty because of the way I phrased my invitation. There is nothing I can do about it now, but please print this so others will not be as stupid and thoughtless as I was.

KICKING MYSELF IN BOSTON

DEAR KICKING: Please stop kicking yourself. You meant well. But I'm printing your letter so some other well-meaning person doesn't make the same mistake.

CONFIDENTIAL TO A.J.F. IN EL PASO, TEXAS: Go for it! "Fortune is a prize to be won. Adventure is the road to it. Chance is what may lurk in the shadows at the roadside." Those are the words of one William Sydney Porter, whose pen name was O. Henry. (Surprise!)

(Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Likes insulated faucet covers

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A record-breaking cold spell in Mississippi has given hope to a local inventor who until now wasn't sure of the future of his insulated faucet cover.

But Mike Carroll of Madison has found that his investment in manufacturing and marketing the plastic and foam device, the Thermo Faucet Cover, may be worth it after all.

He is seeking a patent for the cover which he says is "like antifreeze; people don't get interested until the weather is cold."

Illegal aliens....

Detained by weather

DEL RIO, Texas (AP) — Freezing temperatures have put a chill on illegal alien crossings from Mexico into the U.S., particularly in Texas where most Border Patrol checkpoints are reporting a sharp dropoff in activity.

Border Patrol officials in Del Rio, where the temperature dipped to a record-low 20 degrees Thursday, said their apprehensions for the past week were the lowest since the Rio Grande flooded in 1954.

"It's just too dadgum cold for 'em to hit that river," chief Border Patrol agent Jack L. Richardson said.

"This is the most dramatic slowdown we've seen, and I've been in the Border Patrol for 30 years."

Richardson told the Houston Chronicle that officials nabbed 175 aliens last Friday and 122 on Saturday. But he said the number dropped to 75 on Christmas Day, and to 33 on Monday.

In Laredo, the Border Patrol has been averaging 100 alien arrests a day in December. Officials say the number plunged to 17 on Monday before edging slowly back up to 77 by Wednesday.

"I assume it's a combination of the cold and the holidays," said William H. Selzer, chief agent in Laredo, where the temperature was 24 Thursday. "A guy crossing (the Rio Grande) and being soaked wet is very apt to be lying out there until spring, if a smuggler is not waiting for him."

In the West Texas mountain country, agents in Marfa reported apprehending only 32 or 33 aliens a day during the cold spell. The normal count is 70 per day in December.

The story was the same in the Rio Grande Valley, where agents in the McAllen sector reported a dropoff of apprehensions from 93 on Dec. 21, before the cold hit, to 18 three days later.

Border Patrol officials say the holiday season is the slowest month of the year in illegal alien activity. A reduced staff also contributes to a lesser number of apprehensions.

Still, officials in every Border Patrol checkpoint in Texas, except El Paso, attribute the cold to an unusually low number of apprehensions.

In El Paso, where the low was 10 degrees Thursday, chief agent Alan Eliason said the cold is not a key factor because the Rio Grande is so shallow there that aliens simply wade across.

But Rudy Garcia, an intelligence agent for Eliason, said subfreezing temperatures have altered certain modes of clandestine travel, especially on freight trains where aliens hop boxcars to reach a destination on warmer days.

Apprehensions in the El Paso Border Patrol sector — the nation's busiest behind Chula Vista in southern California — dropped from an average of 400 a day this month to 90 on Christmas Day, but immediately rebounded.

Selzer said today's crop of aliens, mostly from Mexico, grew up in cities and, consequently, are not as ready to battle the weather as were their country cousins who constituted the greatest number of illegal aliens 20 years ago.

"They are not outdoors people," he said. "I think they know that."

The drop in illegal alien activity closely follows another record year in apprehensions by the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Border Patrol. More than 1 million illegal aliens were apprehended nationwide during the federal fiscal year that ended Sept. 30. A continuing upswing over 1982 has been reported since then.

But officials say the illegal border crossings will probably return to normal following Three Kings Day on Jan. 6, a holiday celebrated in Mexico, Latin America and most of Europe.

Children receive first rabies shots

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A series of 10 painful rabies shots will be discontinued for 11 children only if laboratory results expected today conclude that none of the dead bats the children played with had the deadly disease.

The Corpus Christi-Nueces County Public Health Department on Thursday administered the first set of shots to the children, ages 4 to 14, who played with the bat bodies they found under a bridge.

Dr. Christopher Buttery said one child reportedly bit a bat and the others tossed the bats at each other, smearing bat blood on their hands and faces and in their hair.

Buttery said he expected lab results on the bats today.

If none of the bats have rabies, the series of shots will be discontinued, he said. If one of the bats test positively for rabies, or if the carcasses are too old to make a definite determination, all of the children will receive the entire series of shots.

Animal control officers collected about 20 bats from the children and immediately shipped them to the Texas Department of Health in Austin where they will be tested for rabies.

Buttery told parents the shots had to start immediately.

"If they (the bats) are rabid, you can't afford to wait," said Buttery.

Buttery said the state health department would fly in additional vaccine for the treatments, which consist of 10 shots per child.

Two of the children, ages 10 and 11, said three of their friends had been playing under the north end of the Harbor Bridge

Wednesday afternoon when bats began falling from the bridge to the ground.

The children said they gathered up the bats and carried them home in a red, knit cap.

"There's no way to know who was touched," Buttery said. "I got a number of different stories and I just have to assume the worst."

Animal control officers planned to make a sweep of the Harbor Bridge area to look for other bats or stray animals.

Hart issues challenge to his rivals

DENVER (AP) — Sen. Gary Hart, trying to build up his voter strength, has challenged his Democratic presidential rivals to a weightlifting contest — and he's invited President Reagan to compete, too.

It's all in fun, Hart's press secretary, Kathy Bushkin, said Thursday. "If you can't have fun in a campaign, there's something wrong."

Many American homes affected by computers

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Even those who do not own home computers may be benefiting from them. Computers are having an impact on the American home whether or not they are actually present in an individual home, speakers said at a recent symposium on home computers sponsored by the National Home Fashions League.

Interior designers and architects are already using them to design homes and commercial spaces; retailers in many parts of the country are also experimenting with shop-at-home services.

Jim Tompkins, an executive with Videodial Inc., predicted that by 1987 almost 5 million households (or about 5 percent of American homes) would be using videotex networks for both shopping at home and obtaining information.

In the meantime, the use of computers to set up in-store gift registries is already well developed, according to Joe Ricevuto of AT&T Information Systems.

Computer-based "Mandarin"...

Entertaining and informative novel

MANDARIN. by Robert S. Elegant. Simon & Schuster. 527 Pages. $17.95.

Robert Elegant successfully combines fictional and historical figures in his latest novel, "Mandarin," set in China during the mid-1800s.

Elegant, the author of the best-selling "Dynasty," writes of a tumultuous period in China's history when the country was torn by civil strife. He also tells the story of two women.

One is the Dowager Empress of the Manchu Dynasty, who rises to power from her position as Yehenala, the Virtuous Concubine of the Hsien Feng Emperor of the Ta Ching Chao, the Great Pure Dynasty, the seventh of his line to rule China.

The other is Fronah Haleevie, a young Jewish woman, the daughter of a foreign merchant living in Shanghai, who is determined to make her own mark on the world.

Those unfamiliar with Chinese history may find the early pages of the novel difficult. It takes careful reading to figure out the background and relationship of the major forces involved in the country's unrest. These forces include the emperor and the emperor's Imperial Soldiers; the "Small Swords," a secret society whose motto is, "Overthrow the Manchus and Restore Chinese Rule!"; registries offer improvements on older systems since they can be rapidly updated and can be programmed to make shopping easier, he said. For example, a customer might use the computer to enter the name of the bride or groom in a bridal registry, as well as the price range he was considering and get a listing of several appropriately priced gift selections.

Thomas Frank, marketing director for the American Society of Interior Designers' computer system, explained that the group has developed its own hardware and software specifically geared to designers' needs. ASID is marketing its equipment to designers who may save time and effort by using it to do architectural renderings and to experiment with the rearrangement of space and furnishings.

Unlike other consumer home electronics products which are generally chosen by the adults who pay for them, the choice of a home computer is often left to the children.

Jeanne Choffe, president of Electronics Marketing Service, said many parents were buying the computer for the children who were often the most knowledgeable about computers. She underscored her point by introducing a panel of computer experts between the ages of 9 and 15. Each of the youngsters had played an important role in the selection of the computer their family owned.

Ms. Choffe said that at present 5 million families had home computers, but that by 1990 it was expected 30 million families would be so equipped.

Judging from a recent report published by Consumers Union, the children in the family may be the computer's heaviest users.

In an extensive article on home computers (Consumer Reports, September, 1983) CU queried its readers for their experiences and discovered that among the 2,800 computer-owning families who responded, children between 5 and 17 were among the heaviest users of the machine.

The average family spent about 15 hours a week with the computer and about half the families who bought one found themselves using it more than they expected.

CU found the most popular uses for the home computer included game playing (69 percent), learning about computers (63 percent) and learning how to program (61 percent). On the other hand, only about a third of the families said they used the computer to learn something other than computer subjects.

One result of the interest in home computers has been an increase in the amount of information available to help people in the selection process.

Recently, the Electronics Industries Association published a 50-page booklet, "How to Buy a Home Computer," which points out that prices for home computers vary widely — from about $100 to several thousand dollars. Such a wide variation indicates there are many choices that have to be made in order to get what you want.

The booklet is a good first step in beginning to sort out the issues in computer ownership and suggests a number of additional steps that can be taken to become a wise computer consumer.

For a free copy of "How to Buy a Home Computer," enclose in an envelope a stamped 5-by-7-inch or larger self-addressed envelope with 54 cents postage attached and mail to Electronic Industries Association, Consumer Electronics Group, P.O. Box 19100, Washington DC 20036.

Croquettes may have a variety of ingredients

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine & Food Writer

Croquette derives from the French word croquer, which means to "crunch" or "crackle under the teeth," and it has been generally associated in this country with leftovers.

This is unfortunate, because these savory little morsels, so crisp on the outside and tender inside, can be delicious when made from fresh ingredients and frequently even fall into the gourmet category.

The deep-fried delicacies can be served in a number of forms, including cones, cylinders and squares, often concealed under a blanket of rich sauce.

True, the croquette filling can be simple, such as chicken or ham, often left over from the Sunday roast, giving them their catch-all reputation.

But there are also mixtures of minced sweetbreads and brains, if you lean toward the exotic. There are also tasty ones made from minced fish, chopped meats, vegetables and fruit, usually bound together by a thick sauce, and deep fried.

One way to shape croquettes is to spread the filling on a greased, flat pan. Then chill and cut into squares, oblongs or whatever shapes are desired. Or form them with your hands into cones, balls or whatever.

To achieve the crunchiness that the name croquette stands for, you must have a knowledge of deep-frying, so you can bring forth savory morsels, crisp without and tender within.

To prevent croquettes from breaking up in the hot oil, you should apply a triple coating. First dust with flour, then brush with beaten egg and finally roll well in fine, dry bread crumbs. To make sure the morsels are brown and crusty all over, avoid crowding too many in the cooking oil.

Croquettes were long known as a specialty of French cooking, but they have become popular in countries around the world. Here's a recipe for sweet potato croquettes.

4 medium sweet potatoes, cooked, peeled and mashed
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons brown

sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs, chopped fine
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
Fat for deep frying
Beat potatoes with butter, salt, pepper and brown sugar until smooth and well blended. Chill. Shape mixture into 8 croquettes; dust in flour, dip into beaten egg mixed with water, then roll in crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 375 degrees until golden in color. Drain. Makes four servings.

make this hand?" East takes the ace and king of clubs and leads a third club for South to ruff. Now South must attack the trump suit. He assumes that if anyone holds a singleton trump, it will be West. He needed that singleton to justify what must have been a tenuous raise at best. So South leads a trump to dummy's king with every intention of finessing on the way back, but West shows out. The trump finesse is proven, but South can't draw trumps until the ace of diamonds is knocked out.

He goes back to his Review of the bidding and decides that East must hold the diamond ace so he leads a diamond. East ducks; South wins and leads a second diamond to knock out the ace.

East leads a heart to dummy's king. South leads th spade 10 and draws the trumps. Then he cashes his last high diamond, enters dummy with the ace of hearts and discards his losing heart on the 10 of diamonds.

We haven't discussed the acronym ARCH for some time, but here is a hand where declarer should score his game if he uses it.

He analyzes the lead as fourth best. He reviews the bidding and notes that West has very little in high-card strength. He counts three sure losers, plus a possible trump and possible heart. He asks himself, "How can I

Court overturns Odessa's program

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A court-ordered school desegregation plan for Ector County and Odessa has been rejected by a federal appeals court, which sent the case back to a lower court for reconsideration.

Despite desegregation mandates for the Ector County Independent School District from other federal cases, south Odessa schools in 1967-68 had 87.4 percent minority enrollment. By 1980-81, the percentage increased to 96.4 percent.

In its ruling Thursday, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said, "We think it abundantly clear that the district court's action in adopting the stipulated plan constituted an abuse of discretion in light of its duty."

"As the court's finding of fact demonstrate, Ector ISD's violation of the constitution was not only clear but egregious," the court said.

"Its repeated failure to develop and institute an effective desegregation plan, which resulted not only in continued segregation but also increased segregation... mandated the immediate and careful consideration of the proposed remedies."

The 5th Circuit sent the case back to the lower court with instruction for a hearing and entry of findings by April 1, 1984, with the current plan in force until it may be amended or replaced.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals' opinion depicted Odessa as a city where predominantly black and Hispanic residents live south of the railroad tracks, and the mostly white neighborhoods are to the north.

The district court, reviewing the Ector County ISD's plan, also found evidence of segregation in bus transportation and the assignment of faculty and administrators.

The lower court's findings of fact and law were unchallenged on appeal.

It held that the district intentionally "not only continued to fail to meet its duty to dismantle its dual school system, but actually increased the segregation in its schools of both blacks and Mexican-Americans."

However, the court in 1982 imposed a desegregation plan accepted by the school district and the Justice Department — but forcefully objected to by CRUCIAL — the Committee for Redress, Unity, Concern and Integrity at All Levels.

CRUCIAL, which entered the case in 1981, had proposed its own plan and appealed to the 5th Circuit when it was not considered.

Alzheimer's disease

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a dreadful fear of Alzheimer's disease. Due to it, I watched my mother-in-law change from a delightful and humorous woman to a vegetable.

I am 62. About a year ago I had a checkup that included a three-sentence memory test and paragraph with a five-minute discussion. My memory and recall checked out fine.

Nevertheless, I find my memory failing me. If I'm working in two locations and leave my camera in the tote bag while I am working with the other camera, I totally forget it and frantically run from place to place to find it.

Or when I mentally compose a letter on my way to work, which is only 10 minutes away, by the time I get to the office the words and phrases have escaped me. Can a person have these symptoms and not have Alzheimer's disease? I think I've been aware of this problem for nearly three years. Although I find it difficult to concentrate when I am reading, I've never found myself physically confused.

Recently I heard about a medicine that is supposed to help one's memory. It's a choline supplement. Could you tell me more about it?

DEAR READER — If everyone with memory lapses had Alzheimer's disease, it would be the biggest worldwide epidemic in history.

Millions of people have trouble remembering things. Often it's because of too many things on a person's mind. I am sending you The Health Letter 14-2, The Aging Mind, so that you will understand what really happens. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio

City Station, New York, NY 10019.

What you tell us in your letter is that you have trouble concentrating, which is probably the main reason people have trouble with memory. What you need is training in concentration. You also might consider a memory-training program, as outlined in numerous books available in bookstores.

Choline is important because the brain has to form acetylcholine to help your memory. The problem with choline is that it's produced in the brain. Because of the blood-brain barrier, the choline you eat doesn't get to the brain where it affects your memory. Therefore, a choline supplement isn't likely to help your memory.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you please tell me why a woman can begin to lactate when she isn't pregnant?

DEAR READER — It's important to know you actually are lactating. Any woman with abnormal lactation should have a breast examination by her doctor.

If there are no local problems in the breast then your doctor may want to evaluate you for the possibility of excess production of prolactin. This is the hormone from the pituitary gland under the brain that normally stimulates a woman to lactate.

Prolactin can be produced in excess amounts because of various medical conditions. Sometimes it's related to a benign tumor of the pituitary gland. In that case, medicine can be given to control the lactation.

Stress, physical stimulation of the breast and various medicines also may cause lactation. So can very low thyroid states (myxedema) and chronic kidney disease.

Immigrant faces society for first time

CHICAGO (AP) — After living three decades in mental hospitals, apparently because of a language barrier, a Chinese immigrant is free but will never be "the person he could have been," his lawyer says.

In need of constant care, David Tom, 54, spent his first day of freedom Thursday in a community center he now calls home.

He was joined for lunch by his attorney, Pat Murphy, who successfully fought a four-year legal battle seeking financial compensation for the 31½ years Tom languished in institutions.

"He seemed to be as content... as someone in that situation can be," Murphy said. "I think he's going to make it."

But the task of regaining what Tom lost may not be as hopeful.

"David is irrevocably harmed," Murphy said.

Expect missiles to operate soon

LONDON (AP) — By New Year's Eve, and probably without any public announcement, the first group of 572 new U.S.-built nuclear missiles is expected to become operational in Western Europe.

Components of the Tomahawk cruise and Pershing 2 missiles arrived in Britain, West Germany and Italy last month, but there has been no announcement that any of them are operational — ready to be fired should such an order be given.

But official statements have made it clear the missiles, intended for the defense of the European NATO area, are to become operational by the end of the year.

This conforms with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's 1979 decision to site the missiles by the end of 1983 unless an arms-reduction agreement had been negotiated between the United States and the Soviet Union.

NATO decided to deploy the missiles to counter a buildup of Soviet SS-20 rockets, which now total more than 350, according to Western intelligence.

Separate U.S.-Soviet arms control talks on long-range missiles and medium-range missiles have been discontinued, with no sign when they will beresumed. One of the latest statements on the missiles was made Dec. 20 by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain in the House of Commons.

Referring to the first of Britain's contingent of 160 cruise missiles, Mrs. Thatcher said "the cruise missiles are not yet fully operational and will not be fully operational until the end of December, because that is the time appointed by the agreement with NATO."

Despite the low profile given the missiles after their arrival, protests have continued by anti-missile groups in Britain, West Germany and Italy. Most have been minor compared to the huge demonstrations that spanned Western Europe last October, but the protesters vow to continue.

In Britain, where demonstrators have repeatedly knocked down fences around the Greenham Common missile base, three women were arrested Wednesday after breaking into the U.S. Air Force base and taking over a control tower where they daubed anti-cruise slogans.

The West German government announced Nov. 23 — a day after its Parliament endorsed deployment — that the first Pershing 2 components had arrived in the country.

New York stock-market prices were knocked down $5 billion in 1929 in a deluge of selling which tumbled one stock 96 points.

Baboons freeze to death

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The scientific director of the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education said his employees deserve medals for their Christmas Day efforts to save a group of dying baboons.

Fourteen of the animals froze to death in outdoor cages last weekend after an electrical heating system failed during the height of the ice storm.

It was the worst weather-related loss of baboons since the foundation began breeding primates in 1958.

"We feel bad, but it could have been a lot worse," said Dr. Henry C. McGill, Jr., scientific director of the foundation, which has the largest colony of baboons in the Western world.

The foundation has 2,500 baboons; about 400 of them were in a row of 24 cages in which the heating system failed.

The animals died of hypothermia, exposure to the cold, said McGill, wearing a hat, gloves and muffler in his office where the heat had also failed.

A 12-member team of animal handlers worked through Christmas Eve and Christmas Day to rescue the surviving animals, transferring them indoors.

Winter-weary Texans were in for another blast of stubborn arctic air today, but forecasters predicted the frigid weather would ease off as a warming trend loomed over the New Year.

The National Weather Service predicted temperatures early today would again drop to record lows in North and South Texas, warming to the 30s and possibly 40s later in the day.

"Actually, it looks like we're getting to a gradual warming trend ... up to where we'll have normal temperatures next week, and it should be dry period, with only chance of showers in East Texas on Monday," meteorologist Michael Mach said Thursday night.

But the warm news was of little comfort to citrus growers, who estimate the cold hand of winter took up to $100 million worth of crops last weekend.

Insurance officials say the cold spell has caused more than $50 million in damages to homes and businesses — mostly as a result of broken water pipes and mains.

"Most of the damage has been to homes and businesses, mostly due to busting water pipes," said Carl Lee, a representative of the Insurance Information Institute. "The breaking pipes have caused a lot of water damage, and it becomes quite expensive to replace them."

He estimated the $50 million figure would climb, as the above-freezing temperatures thawed out and unveiled more damages.

Authorities also said the big freeze put a chill on illegal alien crossing the border, particularly in Texas, where most Border Patrol checkpoints are reporting a sharp dropoff in activity.

Border Patrol officials in Del Rio, where the temperature plunged to a record 20 degrees Thursday, said their apprehensions for the past week were the lowest since the Rio Grande River flooded in 1954.

"It's just too dadgum cold for 'em to hit that river," chief agent Jack L. Richardson said. "This is the most dramatic slowdown we've seen, and I've been in the Border Patrol for 30 years."

Richardson said agents in the Del Rio area had nabbed 175 aliens Dec. 23 and 122 the following day. But he said the number dropped to 75 Christmas Day and to 33 on Monday.

"I assume it's a combination of the cold and the holidays," said William H. Selzer, chief agent in Laredo, where the temperature was 24 Thursday. A guy crossing (the Rio Grande) and being soaking wet is very apt to be lying out there until spring, if a smuggler is not waiting for him."

Weather-related deaths, meanwhile, continued to climb, bringing the number of people killed to at least 36 since the arctic front began plaguing the Lone Star state on Dec. 18.

The latest victim apparently died of asphyxiation. Authorities said Thursday Ardell Bunton, 59, was found by ambulance attendants in his east Austin home. A bucket of still-hot charcoal was found in his home.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said a 10-day embargo on all citrus being shipped out of South Texas was to take effect at midnight today and would end Jan. 9.

Most citrus producers endorsed the action, which exempts oranges and grapefruit picked before the freeze and that fruit bound for juice processing plants.

"Virtually all Texas producers had immediately halted shipment of fruit damaged by the freeze, but damage is not apparent for several days, I believe it is only prudent to officially suspend all fruit shipments," Hightower said when he issued the order.

The Texas Valley Citrus Committee recommended the embargo to Hightower on Wednesday, after growers estimated their loss was greater than anyone had anticipated.

Early this week, growers figured the freeze had cost them about $30 million dollars, but that number was increased to as much as $100 million by McAllen Mayor Othal Brand, who is a partner of the giant citrus packing firm Griffin & Brand.

Obituaries

Bell

RANKIN—Services for Roy Lee Bell, 83, of Rankin were held Friday at the First Baptist Church here. Burial was in Lawnhaven Memorial Park in San Angelo under direction of Richard W. Box Funeral Home of Crane.

He died Tuesday evening in Midland after a brief illness. He was the father of Bob Bell of Snyder.

Born in Sherman, he married Alice Larue Graham on Feb. 17, 1919 in Wichita Falls. She survives. He had been employed by Santa Fe Railroad for 47 years.

He is also survived by two daughters; two other sons; two sisters; 11 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren and 24 great-great-grandchildren.

Tigers slam Big Spring; ready for 2-4A opener

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Gee, what a difference five days rest can make. Snyder's Tigers came out of the holiday break with a strong showing here Thursday night, whipping Big Spring 74-54 in their final tuneup before District 2-4A play. The win gives the Tigers a 4-11 look going into Tuesday's 2-4A opener at Lamesa and Coach Larry Scott believes the team is ready.

"I think so. I hope so. We better be," he laughed. "I thought we played well. It was nice to be able to play everybody on the team. I had kind of planned that anyway because I thought we might be a little tired, but it worked out where we got to play everybody quite a bit," said the coach, who cleared the bench early in the second quarter.

Jimmy Brown helped the Steers to a quick 4-0 lead as Snyder opened this contest with another slow start. But John Murphy, who bagged 18 points for the night - 10 in the first quarter - got the Tigers on track. The 6-1 senior answered Brown's tally with a couple of buckets of his own, tying the game, then putting Snyder ahead 10-8 with 4:29 to go in the quarter. Paul Tate made it a four-point lead moments later and the Tigers carried it to a 21-14 advantage.

Scott pulled his starters, with the exception of Tate, and the bench kicked the lead up to 10 points. The starting crew returned for the final few minutes of the half to carry a 45-30 lead into the dressing room.

Much of the first half lead could be attributed to an all-around hustle by the team, but there was no denying Murphy's impact.

"John was rebounding a lot better tonight and we were able to get the ball in to him better, too. I think most of his shots probably came off of rebounds though," said Scott.

Snyder went on to out-point the visitors 13-10 in the third quarter and 16-14 in the fourth. Although Scott could have let his starters run away with this one, the lead didn't reach the 20-point mark until Willie Greathouse hit a jumper from 2:07 left, 71-50.

Murphy's 18 led all scorers. Tate added 12 while Greathouse had 11 and Chad Peterson and Sunny Cobb put up 9 apiece. The rest didn't help Snyder's freethrow game as the Tigers were only 14 of 31 from the line.

It didn't do the Steers, now 2-13, any good. They were 12 of 28 from the line, led by George Roman's 12 points. Mike Leuschner, 6-3, added 10 points while Fred Cole had 9.

Snyder's district debut with Lamesa is set for 8 p.m. in the Middle School Gym in Lamesa.

UP FOR TWO -- Snyder's John Murphy puts up two points during non-district play with the Big Spring Steers here Thursday. Murphy bagged 18 points as Snyder won 74-54. The Tigers, 4-11, open District 2-4A play next Tuesday in Lamesa. (SDN Staff Photo)

Junior varsity whips Crosbyton in tourney

JAYTON -- Snyder junior varsity boys defeated Crosbyton varsity 54-42 in first-round action of the Jayton Tournament here Thursday.

The Cats, 7-5, will take on Jayton, a 71-47 winner over Ralls, at 8:30 tonight in the semifinals.

Snyder led by only a point, 14-13, after the first quarter but outscored the opponent 18-10 in the second and 11-6 in the third.

Despite the victory, Coach Bud Birks said the team suffered from a holiday lag.

"I thought we were a little rusty coming off the playoffs," he said. "I think we can play better tonight. We didn't get in a good workout for five or six days and it showed. Our effort was good, that's about all you can say."

Snyder got 16 points from Chris Garrett and 14 from Jackie Anderson to pull down the victory. Bobby Scott contributed 9 and Wade Forga had 8.

Seahawks shrug off 'underdog' nametag

by The Associated Press

Steve Largent has a simple answer for those who say the Seattle Seahawks should be glad just to be in their first National Football League playoff.

"Baloney," says Largent, who has been a Seahawk since the club was enfranchised eight years ago.

Seattle, coming off a 31-7 victory over Denver last weekend in the American Conference wild-card playoff, faces the Miami Dolphins Saturday in one of two conference semifinals. The NFC counterpart sends Detroit against San Francisco.

On Sunday, the Los Angeles Rams travel to Washington, and Pittsburgh meets the Raiders at Los Angeles.

"This is just as important a game for us as it is for them," Largent says of the Dolphins. "If we lose, we get knocked out of the playoffs. We're going into the game with one idea - to win. Don't let anyone tell you differently."

Until this season, Largent, a three-time Pro Bowl selection, was the favorite receiver of quarterback Jim Zorn. But Zorn was benched this season in favor of four-year veteran Dave Krieg, who completed 12 of 13 passes for 200 yards and three touchdowns against Denver.

"Everybody expects them to win and everybody expects us to lose," Krieg said. "Well, we'll see."

Miami, AFC East champions with a 12-4 record and losers to Washington in last year's Super Bowl, were 7½ points favorites over the Seahawks, who finished the season 9-7.

The 49ers, winners of the NFC West with a 10-6 record, were 7-point favorites over the Lions, whose 9-7 record was best in the NFC Central. But Detroit running back Billy Sims says his club has something it never had before.

"Before this year, we didn't have the killer instinct," says Sims, who rushed for 1,040 yards this season despite missing four games with a broken hand.

Sims rushed for a career-high 189 yards in Detroit's 23-20 victory over Green Bay this season, marking what Coach Monte Clark feels was "our turnaround." At that point, the club was 5-6 coming off a loss to Houston.

Quarterback Joe Montana leads the San Francisco attack. He passed for 3,910 yards and 26 touchdowns this season while rushing for 284 yards.

Defending Super Bowl champion Washington had the best record in the NFL this year, 14-2, and won the NFC East. The Redskins are 9½-point favorites to beat the wild-card Rams, 9-7, who advanced to the conference semis by beating Dallas 24-17 last Monday.

The Raiders, 12-4 and winners of the AFC West, were favored by 7 points over Pittsburgh, champions of the AFC Central with a 10-6 record.

Hegman to sign with NJ Generals?

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys linebacker Mike Hegman says he expects to sign a contract next week with the New Jersey Generals of the United States Football League.

But the Memphis Showboats, who hold Hegman's USFL territorial rights, have not traded those rights to the Generals, the Dallas Times Herald reported Thursday.

Pepper Rodgers, head coach and general manager of the Showboats, said he had been contacted by New Jersey officials about trading Hegman's rights. But he said Wednesday that a deal had not been finalized.

"The Generals called and we tried to work out a deal," Rodgers said. "But they said, 'Thanks, but no thanks.'"

Hegman said he planned to leave the Cowboys, regardless of who holds his rights.

Irish edge BC in Liberty Bowl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - The new year is still two days away, but Notre Dame coach Gerry Faust figures he already has a good start on 1984 after watching his Fighting Irish upend 13th-ranked Boston College 19-18 in the Liberty Bowl.

"This is a great start for 1984," beamed Faust, minutes after Thursday night's 19-18 victory in the 25th annual game. "We played a great football team tonight and I'm very proud we could come away with a victory. It was a team effort. This is the beginning of something great."

The Irish utilized the talents of sophomore All-American Allen Pinkett, who rushed for 111 yards and two touchdowns, and junior Chris Smith, who added 104 rushing yards, to serve notice that 1984 could be their year.

"I feel really great with this victory," said Irish senior quarterback Blair Kiel, who hit on 11 of 19 passes for 151 yards, including a 14-yard scoring toss to flanker Alvin Miller.

With Pinkett and Miller featured in slashing runs, Notre Dame controlled the ball throughout the contest but still had to survive a late fourth-quarter threat before finishing its season with a 7-5 record.

Boston College quarterback Doug Flutie completed 16 of 37 passes for 287 yards and three touchdowns despite temperatures hovering around 10 degrees and a wind chill factor of zero to capture the game's MVP award and almost lead the 9-3 Eagles to victory.

Boston College cut the Notre Dame lead to one point, 19-18, midway through the third quarter with a 3-yard scoring pass from Flutie to tight end Scott Gieselman and Eagles' coach Jack Bicknell opted to go for the 2-point conversion after seeing placekicker Brian Waldron slip on the frozen turf on his only extra point attempt.

But Flutie's PAT pass intended for Gieselman was broken up by Notre Dame linebacker Tony Furrjanic and the Irish kept the Eagles out of scoring position the remainder of the game.
