Hospital Consultant And Architect In Meeting With Board

In a called meeting Monday night the Hospital Board of Directors met and agreed to employ the services of a hospital consultant and an architect. Formal contracts with the two men will be signed at the next regular meeting.

Tol Terrell, administrator of San Angelo's Shannon hospital agreed to serve as consultant in the planning and equipping of the Schleicher county hospital and to cooperate with Don Goss—who will be the architect.

Mr. Goss made preliminary plans for the plant here early this year and came up with a set of plans and estimates on which was based the amount of the bond issue which was approved by voters on May 20th.

Most of the plans he drew up at that time reflected the ideas of a pair of Pasadena doctors, who have since withdrawn from the project. Going over the plans Monday night a number of questions were brought up and changes were suggested by Mr. Terrell. The number of beds in the hospital wing will probably be reduced and added to the nursing wing. He questioned the wisdom of having doctors' offices in the hospital and believed the space could be used for other purposes to better advantage.

At the next regular meeting on Monday, Aug. 7th, it is expected the full board will agree on revisions and the architect will be given orders to draw up final plans and specifications.

As soon as that stage is reached Mr. Terrell explained he would be free to start placing orders for equipment—beds for example—— and that the sooner ordered the better. Prices, due to inflation, are steadily rising, he said. He asked the board to find warehouse space in town where equipment could be stored as it arrived.

Chairman Ratliff had information from the bond buyers that the money from the sale of our bonds would arrive here early in August. It will be placed in various banks where it will draw interest until needed.

Mr. Janes did not announce his future plans.

Rains Last Week

"He got more'n I got," was probably the envious reaction of some unfortunate farmers and ranchers last week when they checked their rain gauges and compared with their neighbors, following the crazy rains which drenched some parts of the county and sprinkled others.

Reports ran all the way from three-quarters of an inch on the west side of Eldorado to a generous inch on the east side and on up to a deluge of 7 inches reported on the Bill Watson ranch in the north part of the county.

Here are a few reports gathered at random:

Eldorado	.50 to 1.00
Mike Moore	2.50
Circle T Ranch	2.20 to 3.20
Jim O'Harrow	5.50
George Humphrey	3.50
L. E. McCalla	2.40
Bill Watson	7.00
Edgar Sauer	Sprinkle

Salt Pits Banned In Schleicher County

Austin, Texas.——The Railroad Commission last week ordered all oil and gas operators in Schleicher county to quit using unlined surface pits for the disposal of oil field salt water by Jan. 1.

The action followed a public hearing July 7, as a result of which the commission concluded there is a threat to widespread pollution of fresh water supplies if the use of pits is not banned.

Pipeline connections will be cut off Jan. 1 for leases on which pits have not been drained and filled with earth. The Commission also warned if trucks are used to move salt water for disposal, it must be in a disposal system approved by the commission.

The Commission has issued a statewide "no pit" order, but it is not effective until Jan. 1, 1969. The Schleicher County order moved up the deadline on operators by an entire year.

Shirley Hubble Continues To Make Gradual Improvement

The coming '67 football season will be the first one for the Eagles to use the new Eagle Field which is nearing completion beside the high school gymnasium.

Earl Dean Clark was working on the 6th and final steel lighting tower this week and all other facilities are expected to be ready by September. The Eagles will open their season Sept. 8th when they go to Eden, and will meet the Golden Cranes here for the first home game the night of September 15th.

Post Script

A postcard mailed July 17th from Rosebud, Oregon, reveals another Eldorado couple is responding this summer to the lure of the open road.

"We are up in the big timber country of Oregon and will go on up to British Columbia. Many mountains and very beautiful valleys thru here. Be home before long. Good luck. —C. R. Keeney."

According to a card received Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. George Long are vacationing at Cloudcroft, New Mexico, and enjoying the cool mountain weather there at an altitude of 9,000 feet. They must be enjoying it. They didn't say anything about coming home.

Choose Carpet Carefully

College Station, Tex.—Rugs and carpets are usually long-term investments, so proper selection can save money and disappointment, says Bonny Lay, housing and home furnishings specialist with Texas A&M University. The following points outlined by Miss Lay may guide you in comparing qualities of carpeting.

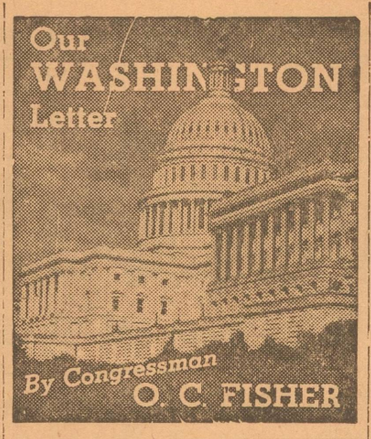

Density of pile: The closeness of the weave or the denseness of the tufts of yarn which make up the pile of the carpet is one factor in durability. Dense piles with tufts closely packed together wear longest because yarns support each other, resisting bending and abrasion. Roll back the corner to test the closeness of the pile. Gaps showing a large amount of backing and sparse pile indicate low quality.

Height of pile: The higher the pile, the longer it will take to wear down to the backing. Unless the long pile is closely woven, it will mat down and not recover from crushing as well as a short dense pile. Deep pile gives a luxurious appearance and adds durability.

Resilience: A top quality carpet has much resilience or resistance to crushing. The recovery depends on the fibers used, their grade, the height and twist of pile yarns and density of construction. To test for resilience, press your fingers firmly into the pile for a moment and observe how quickly the pile springs to its original position. Another test is to put the sample under a chair leg overnight and observe how deep an impression is made; check the time it takes to spring back when the chair is removed.

Quality of yarn: Yarns used, regardless of the fiber, should be strong, smooth and resilient. Two or more yarns are usually twisted together forming a yarn play. A higher pile does not always indicate a higher ruality, but it does affect resilience and the appearance of the rug or carpet. The loosely twisted ones may soon look fuzzy and matted. The highly twisted ones will be more resilient and will resist matting and shading.

Mr. and Mrs. Lum Burk returned Saturday from Houston where they visited relatives and where Mrs. Burk received medical treatment.

Rails, riots, and rats claimed the attention of the House last week. And each was disposed of in a definitive way.

A bill to stop the disastrous railroad strike, which in two days cost the nation's economy more than a hundred million dollairs, held up delivery of vital military equipment en route to Vietnam, and exposed more proof of the need for improved labor laws, sailed through the House by a vote of 244 to 148.

Two out of the 23 Texas members voted against stopping the strike.

The anti-riot measure, making it against federal law for Stokely Carmichael and other anarchists to cross state lines for the purpose of starting riots or engaging in other violence, won overwhelming approval by a vote of 347 to 70. Again, Texans were divided: 21 for and 2 against the measure. Incidentally, a recent bill to make it against federal law to desecrate the flag found Texans lined up the same way: 21 for and 2 against.

The third of the three bills acted upon was one to authorize $60 million to fight rats. The idea was to allow federal agencies to help finance an eradication program, but the House bucked the White House request in this instance. Faced with an estimated $20 billion deficit this year, a costly war, and a call for a tax increase, the House voted 207 to 176 against the measure. On this one, 9 Texans favored the expenditure, while 12 of us dissented. Two were absent.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wilson have moved to San Angelo.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Appraising the potentials for outdoor recreation is an essential step in planning to meet recreational needs. Opportunities for further development of resources for recreational uses in Schleicher county were recently examined with the goal of stimulating county wide growth. This appraisal involved a cosideration of more than natural resources since development potential also depends upon people and facilities necessary for development.

The potential for 12 kinds of recreational developments were examined separately. Each had different criteria for evaluation depending upon the requirements of the activities involved. The objective——to make these appraisals without long and costly surveys was achieved by personnel familiar with the County and with the requiremnts of the different recreational developments. Information was obtained from various public and private resources.

The end result of this appraisal process is a group of conclusions regarding the potentials for future development of the important kinds of recreation areas and enterprises. In addition to the general purpose of providing information needed for effective development of natural resources for outdoor recreation, these appraisals have other uses, including:

Improving the Long-range Program of the Eldorado-Divide Soil and Water Conservation District;

Information for publicizing and promoting outdoor recreation in the county;

Information useful for local planning by County and township governments, planning commissions, water boards, civic groups, and promotion agencies:

Information for developing regional and state outdoor recreation plans;

Identification of specific project proposals for public recreation areas;

Serve as guidelines to more efficient and profitable use of certain natural resources and thereby improve the economic status of individual landowners and the community;

Help meet the increasing demand of the American people for clean wholesome recreation.

Copies are available for all government civic groups, water boards and promotional groups or agencies.

Recent rains in Schleicher county have created favorable conditions for screwworm fly increases, and area livestock owners are alerted to watch their herds carefully.

Although the number of confirmed screwworm cases is under last year's count for this time of year, stockmen must continue the battle against this costly pest. Stockmen should watch their livestock throughout the summer and into the fall, to prevent the build-up which occurred last fall.

Livestock owners should inspect their animals carefully, check and treat all wounds, collect any larval samples and send them to the Mission lab for identification.

This year Mission lab officials say that there have been 61 screwworm cases reported throughout the nation, with Texas having 54 of these, Arizona 6 and California one. Last year at this time there had been 274 cases reported with Arizona leading with 125 cases and Texas following closely with 121.

Drought injury can occur naturally or it may be induced by man.

The most common symptom of drought injury is the leaf margins dying, with the dead area extending into the leaf and causing desiccation of leaf tissue between veins near the midrib.

Natural drought injury takes place if an inadequate supply of soil moisture is available to the plant. A deficiency of water affects the marginal leaf tissue, and prolongation of this state results in the death of feeder roots. Recovery to normal condition is slow.

Man-made drought injury occurs when roots have been damaged mechanically or salt is accumulated in the soil. These high salt concentrations in the soil solution reduces water absorption by the root hairs.

Root pruning will also account for drought symptoms. The construction of driveways, patios, and other masonry or asphalt structures near or around trees will interfere with gas exchange around the root and result in root pruning.

The silverfish or "slicker" is a small insect pest that lives on materials with a high starch or sugar content found in the home.

Silverfish will seriously damage wallpaper, book bindings, pastes, starched clothing and lace curtains unless it is controlled.

Silverfish are soft bodied insects about a half-inch in length with three long tail-like appendages at the apex of the abdomen and are covered with scales which give them a uniform silvery or gray color.

DDT or chlordane dusts or DDT, chlordane or dieldrin household sprays will give effective control. The dust or spray should be applied on baseboards, in closets, bookcases, and other places where the insects hide or will be forced to crawl over the insecticide deposit. A solution of DDT or chlordane in refined kerosene is recommended for use in the home.

Available at my office is a publication. L-311, "Texas Guide for Conthrolling Household Insects" which gives detailed information on silverfish control and other insects commonly found in the home.

On The Screen . . .

House Pet, Elsa, Becomes Lioness

Born Free, which comes in color to the Eagle Drive-In screen Friday and Saturday nights, proves, that despite Thomas Wolfe, you can go home again.

At least, Elsa, a young lion raised from kittenhood by Joy and George Adamson, does it, but not without many problems of adjustment.

Elsa, whose father (a maneater) and mother are killed by Adamson, a Kenya game warden, is raised along with two other cubs as house pets. They are treated as kittens and romp like them. In fact, the similarity between the jungle cat and the tabby is amazing—if you discount the disparity in size.

In time, Elsa's siblings are shipped off to a zoo, but because of the strong attachment Joy Adamson has for her she remains. Naturally, the furry, playful cub grows into a full-scale lioness. She is still playful but now she's several hundred pounds of muscle.

Her playfulness causes an elephant stampede which tears up a native village. Also, she is nearly killed by a hunter who assumes she is fair game.

Adamson's chief, the district commissioner, wants Elsa sent to a zoo, but the Adamsons persuade him to let them try to teach her to fend for herself in the jungle.

"She was born free; she should live free," is Mrs. Adamson's attitude.

After many trials and much time, Elsa readopts her natural instincts, reutrns to her own kind and mates. After a year in England on leave, the Adamsons find her, now a complete jungle creature and the proud mother of three cubs. Seemingly she has participated in the best of two world.

Based on a true story by Joy Adamson, Born Free is an excellent general audience film. It is also an educational film, showing as it does large areas of Kenya, and many African animals in their natural habitat. There are some remarkable pictures of the lions—at play, hunting, getting to know each other—and an amusing sequence in which a usually harmless wart hog chases Elsa, the reluctant lioness, right out of the picture with a series of butting charges, much to the disgust of Adamson who is trying to teach her to hunt.

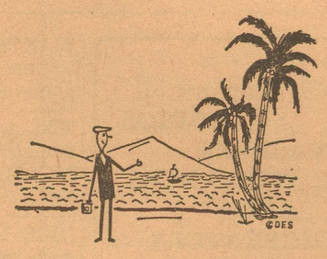

Aside from some strained attempts at suspense and humor, Born Free is a fascinating film and one the kids should love.

Granny Mund To Observe 91st Birthday Sunday At Rest Home In Christoval, Tex.

MRS. MARINDA MUND

She was a Schleicher county resident since 1904, she helped Dr. Patton, Dr. Newsom and Dr. Lewis deliver babies, and is now in a nursing home in Christoval where she is confined with the infirmities of age, but her grandchildren and their families plan to have their traditional gettogether with her Sunday for her 91st birthday. That is Marinda "Granny" Mund, widow of the late Henry Mund.

The local Mund relatives plan tentatively to honor Mrs. Mund with a picnic sometime Sunday in the Christoval Park.

Mrs. Mund was born Marinda Lucretia McDonald, on July 30, 1876, the eldest of 10 children of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Jefferson McDonald of Gillespie county. Her father was a Texas Ranger.

She has just two sisters still living, Mrs. Claude Galbreath and Mrs. Roy Andrews, both of Eldorado.

Her early years were spent in Gillespie county on farms, and in and near the towns of Fredericksburg, Harper, and Doss. She remembers when many people were still being killed in the Indian raids and often families would group together, in twos and threes when isolated, for their mutual protection. Her family lived for a time in a log cabin and she was once chased by a panther.

A few months after her 16th birthday, Marinda was married to Henry Mund, who was 12 years older than she. They farmed for several years in Gillespie county and it was there that their three sons, Charles, Bill and Ervin, were born. All three are now deceased.

In 1904 the family moved from Fredericksburg to Schleicher county, making the trip here in several days with their belongings in a covered wagon.

They settled in this county in Bailey Ranch, where her husband ranched for many years until his death. The Mund children and grandchildren attended the Bailey Ranch and Eldorado schools, which were just being developed, along with the town, in the early days.

Following Mr. Mund's death, Mrs Mund moved into Eldorado and made her home here for about 30 years before moving to the rest home several months ago.

Three of her grandchildren live here: Charlene, Mrs. Orval Edmiston; L. D. "Jelly" Mund; and Becky, Mrs. Mike Moore.

Mrs. Mund's other four grandchildren are Mrs. Wyndal Yates and Mrs. Jack Broning of San Angelo, Jack Mund of Llano, and Charles "Tart" Mund of New Braunfels.

The Mund family were long-time members of the Bailey Ranch Baptist church until that congregation merged some years ago with First Baptist church here in Eldorado. Mrs. Mund is now the oldest member of the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Mund will have the best wishes and congratulations of all her many friends, far and near, as she reaches her 91st birthday. A number will no doubt call on her at the rest home. For benefit of friends who would like to send her a birthday card or note, here is her mailing address:

Jackson Addresses Historical Meet

Ren Jackson, who with his brother Pat laid claim to Schleicher county land in the Toenail area in the land rush of 1901, and has kept title to it in all the decades since, was the speaker at the meeting last Friday night of the County Historical Committee at the Koy ranch east of town. Mr. Jackson, who is now 87, lives west of Big Lake in Reagan county.

Mr. Jackson described a number of his experiences in the early days when he helped with the cattle and sheep drives over the Southwest Texas area, helped to doctor the herds, cooked for groups of 40 or more ranch workers, and made it into "town" about once every three months.

Mr. Jackson knew and worked with a number of the early-day settlers here.

He recalled that he wanted to build a house on his place, so he went to B. B. Hail who had a lumber yard in San Angelo where the Cactus hotel was subsequently built. He told Mr. Hail that he wished to erect a dwelling 14 feet square. Mr. Hail gave him a price of $47.50 for building it, and Mr. Jackson paid $10 down on the deal.

The historical committee had a box supper prior to the program, with the Koys serving iced tea and lemonade to the 35 or 40 guests present.

A current project of the committee is placing of a marker in the courthouse square in the near future honoring the memory of C. C. Doty, who was one of the first county settlers.

Range Not Necessary For Good Meals

College Station, Tex.—If a bride has her heart set on a kitchen range that breaks the budget, should she settle for a lower priced model?

Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist with Texas A&M University, suggests that there may be enough portable electric cooking appliances in her wedding gifts for her to get along until she can afford her heart's desire.

With an automatic electric frypan, 3-quart saucepan, a 5-quart automatic buffet cooker and a portable oven, a homemaker can cook and serve good meals every day and be a good hostess when she entertains.

There's the bonus benefit of the stayhot features of plug-in electric cook-and-serve appliances. The built in heating unit holds food at good serving temperature for 30 minutes or more after the cord is removed. If convenient, leave these appliances plugged in at a low setting.

Of course, the number of dishes and the amount of food that can be prepared for one meal with these appliances calls for careful planning. U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists have found in kitchen tests that these small appliances can be used satisfactorily to cook all types of food. A talent for simplifying meals can result in good food with a minimum of dishwashing.

A set of potrable electric appliances such as those listed above can run from $60 to $135. A deluxe two-oven range can run anywhere from $170 to $350. Prices vary with quality, features and product brand.

The bride who is considering "making do" with her portable appliances may also remember that, even after she has her range, the small appliances are great for play-room entertaining, vacation cottages, or in an emergency situation,

Home Demonstration Agent's Column

By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

A very new and very little 4-H Club girl accepted my invitation to let me drive her home the other afternoon, after a meeting. As we drove she said, "Now—how many sons do you have?" I answered that regretfully, I had none. Neither did I have any daughters.

"But," I added, "I have many nieces and nephews and lots of young frienls and they make everything nice."

"Well," she said in a tone planned to make me feel good, "I think that's better than having all those children."

Some people are just born saying the right thing. I will always wonder, "Did she mean it?"

If you don't have time to cook potatoes, cool and peel them for salad, use cooked macaroni instead. I've tried it and macaroni makes a very good salad. Use your own potato salad recipe, or if you choose, try this:

Macaroni Petal Salad

one 7-oz. package shell or elbow macaroni
3/4 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons onion soup mix
one small can English peas, drained
1 cup cubed cheddar cheese
½ cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
5 or 6 bologna slices, halved, or chopped as you wish.

Cook macaroni according to directions on package. Combine with mayonnaise blended with onion soup mix and salt to taste. Lightly mix peas, cheese, celery and pimiento. Spoon into serving dish. Garnish with bologna wedges. Six servings.

It has been a good summer. I wish it could last longer because that is when we get the 4-H Club work done. Many counties carry a vigorous 4-H club program the year around but it's right next to impossible to find time in a full schedule of school activities to have many 4-H girls' meetings.

So—we try to make up for lost time in the summer. In June and July we do clothing work and in August we do the foods work. The Corral is our meeting place and I hate to think what we do without it.

We even have an old sewing machine down there; a bit antiquated I will admit and to get it to run you have to pedal furiously but it makes beautiful stitches. Some of the girls and I have cleaned and oiled it and it runs like a top.

Of course the old machine has imposed an unfair burden on some of the little ones; they have had to learn to make a straight seam and keep the machine going as well. Sometimes nearly all afternoon is spent in re-threading the machine needle—it's awfully easy to go backwards on a treadle machine.

But it's all ours and it's always there and that is indeed pretty nice.

Do hope you come to our dress revue being held this afternoon at 4:00 in the Memorial Building auditorium. Everybody is welcome.

What are you going to do about your refrigerator while you are away on vacation? If you will be gone only a week or two you have nothing to worry about but any longer period of time could create problems.

Do this for a long trip——

The refrigerator should be emptied of all food, defrosted completely, cleaned thoroughly, and disconnected. Baking soda on a damp sponge or cloth is an excellent refrigerator cleaner.

The door should be left open for 24 hours or longer because the hidden insulation holds moisture even after the inside appears completely dry. This thorough cleansing and drying prevents the development of an odor, mildew and mold.

Be sure to put a wedge or a prop in such a place to prevent the refrigerator door from being accidentally closed while it is disconnected. This will be sure to cause all the trouble you are trying to prevent: odor, mildew, and mold. Sometimes the only way a malodor can be removed is by having new insulation put in the box and that is something else again.

Play it safe, don't let it happen in the first place. When the refrigerator is connected again it should be thoroughly cooled before placing food in it.

Choices, choices and more choices. Even in food stores. The average market has more than 5,000 items on its shelves today and more coming in all the time.

Five years ago the average super market stocked only 6 soft drink flavors; today the number is 20.

The average housewife washes 340 tons, (2000 pounds to a ton) of dishes in a life time. It's time those cheap, disposable dishes we were promised several years ago begin to show up. And soon.

The club will join others over the district in sending letters of appreciation to Harvey Palmer who recently retired as district governor. A dinner will honor him in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Baker left this week to visit their son, Buddy, and family at Silsbee, and planned to go on to New Orleans.

Six Amendment Notices To Be Run In August

Austin, Tex.—Newspaper readers throughout Texas soon will be seeing long columns of type about important issues as Secretary of State John Hill begins to advertise the six proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on November 11.

Fourteen additional amendments will be on the 1968 ballot.

Eight of the 20 amendments are of interest mainly to special groups (eg: legislators or state employees). Eight others would provide local governments with new powers or duties. Only four of the directly affect most Texans.

Amendments to be voted on this year will appear on the ballot in this order:

—No. 1, House Joint Resolution 3, to permit counties to put all tax money in a single general fund rather than dividing income in specified amounts among separate funds for earmarked purposes as is now required.

—No. 2, HJR 37, allowing cities and other governmental units within hospital districts to levy taxes for participation in mental health and mental retardation community centers.

—No. 3, HJR 17, reviving the veterans land program and authorizing a total of $400 million in bonds to finance continued purchase of farm and ranch land by veterans, including those who have served in Southeast Asia during present hostilities.

—No. 4, HJR 6, authorizing counties to pay medical, doctor and hospital bills of county law enforcement officers injured in line of duty.

—No. 5, HJR 12, authorizing a $75 million state revenue bond issue for the development of state parks and recreational areas, the bonds expected to be financed by a small admission fee.

—No. 6, HJR 27, permitting state officers and employees to hold non-elective positions under the state or US governments where there is no conflict of interest and where the state might benefit.

That's all for '67.

Top interest in these amendments doubtless will center on the park bond proposal and the veterans land amendment.

Hospital mental health and mental retardation groups will emphasize the importance of Amendment no. 2 to the new community center approach of treating mental patients close to home.

Calling the 1967 election for Veterans Day and a Saturday, undoubtedly, was to assure a large voter turn-out for the land fund amendment. A substantial campaign to urge its passage already is taking form.

Gov. John Connally is the principal backer of the parks bond issue. Last December he unveiled a 10year plan for acquiring and developing 150,960 acres of recreational lands and historical sites. This would more than triple present state park acreage and open a variety of new facilities for outdoor recreation.

Only opposition to the amendment to date has been based on the $1 a car park-entry fee, initially proposed by Connally to finance the vast program; and scattered complaints that facilities included in the governor's master plan do not adequately serve some areas of the state.

He is expected to spearhead an intensive fall campaign—supported by parks, recreational and outdoor groups—to put over the bond issue.

The veterans land amendment would add another $200 million to state bonds previously authorized and through which 35,300 veterans have purchased farm and ranch properties at low interest rates spread over a 40year pay period.

This amendment would raise the amount which could be borrowed under the program from $7,500 to $10,000. The program was initiated in 1949. Additional bonds were approved by voters in 1951 and 1956. Amendments to enlarge the bond authorization were rejected at elections in 1963 and 1965. Opposition came mainly from Dallas and Houston.

Proponents emphasize that, while thousands of veterans have benefitted from the program, it has cost the state no money and actually has turned a profit of $2.5 million a year while providing an expanded land market.

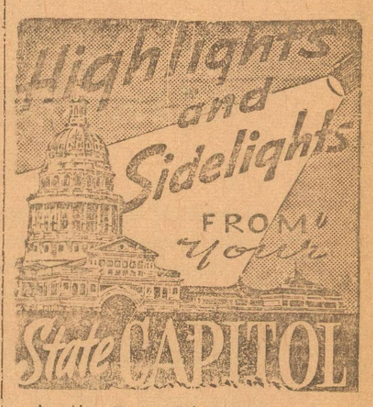

Opposition has adopted the argument that it is not the function of the state government to engage in the loan business and that veterans have had plenty of time to participate. Some also contend that "cheap money" invites purchases of land not needed and which will not be put to productive use.

Amendment no. 2 specifies that the legislature, in providing for creation of hospital districts, does not have to require that the districts assume full responsibility for community mental health and retardation centers and services. It would permit cities and counties to levy taxes and issue bonds for such services. Subdivisions within existing districts would be authorized to do so unless statutes creating the districts expressly prohibit.

An attorney general's opinion held that the constitution does not allow political subdivisions within the boundary of a hospital district to levy taxes for medical and hospital service. Under that ruling, cities and counties located in such districts were restricted from participating in establishment of community health centers. Therefore, only hospital districts could establish such centers, a key part of the mental health program.

Amendments 3, 4, and 5 are self explanatory and apparently non-controversial.

Amendment no. 6 is aimed primarily at permitting educators, who are paid from state funds, to serve on federal advisory boards.

Austin, Tex.—Right up until his departure for Africa, Gov. John Connally was appointing or reappointing Texans to state boards. Selected were:

UT Board of Regents—Joe M. Kilgore, Austin; John Peace, San Antonio; Dr. Edward Ximenes, San Antonio; and Frank N. Ikard, Wichita Falls.
