Evidence in slayings to be on trial

By KERRY HAGLUND
Staff Writer

Examining trials are scheduled Dec. 8 and 11 to consider evidence against four persons arrested last month on capital murder charges.

Justice of the Peace William Shankles is scheduled to preside over the trials, which were requested by defense lawyers representing Jeannie Hernandez Fonseca, Frankie Salazar Hernandez, Joe Hernandez and Arthur Islas Jr.

The four were arrested on charges of capital murder in connection with the death of Noe Perez of Grand Prairie, whose body was exhumed from a shallow grave in Martin County Oct. 17.

Fonseca also has been charged in connection with the October deaths of two Mexican nationals whose bodies were found in the debris of a house fire near Luther.

The state must offer sufficient evidence at the trials for the defendants to be bound over to the grand jury, Assistant District Attorney William Dupree said.

"It's the first step to test the evidence," he said.

If a defense lawyer doesn't request an examining trial, the original complaint goes directly to the grand jury.

Dupree said he wasn't aware if four other individuals, also arrested on charges of capital murder, had secured lawyers or planned to request examination hearings.

Although evidence against Islas is scheduled to be considered Dec. 11, it could be changed to be included in the Dec. 8 hearing, Dupree said.

Luis Avila of Lubbock, Islas' attorney, said Friday he may include Islas in the Dec. 8 trial.

Avila said he will seek a lower bond for Islas, who has been in custody in the Howard County jail since Oct. 16 in lieu of $125,000 bond.

The Hernandez brothers also are in custody in lieu of $125,000 bond each. Fonseca, facing two capital murder offenses, is in custody in lieu of $250,000.

Javier Alvarez of Lubbock is representing the three, but couldn't be reached for comment.

Defendants are not under any obligation to present testimony in their behalf at the hearings, but will be asked if they wish to give statements, Dupree said. Avila, however, said Friday his client — Islas — won't testify.

The prosecution is expected to solicit testimony from one or two law enforcement officials and

Saragosa still living within tornado's wake

SARAGOSA (AP) — Six-year-old Samantha Natividad sometimes recalls the woman who was like a second mother to her and asks her parents why she had to die.

Whenever Samantha was punished for doing something wrong, the little girl used to seek out the comfort of Ninfa Ontiveros.

"That's where she'd be, sitting at the table, drinking milk and eating cookies," recalled Samantha's mother, Braulia Natividad.

But six months after a deadly tornado killed Ninfa Ontiveros and 29 others, Mrs. Natividad and her husband, Sammy, have no answers for Samantha or each other.

The May 22 storm that swept through this tiny unincorporated cotton-farming town also destroyed the Natividads' almost-completed new ranch house and the mobile home they were living in.

Four of the Natividads' neighbors, including Mrs. Ontiveros, were killed by the twister. The storm leveled the community center and church and destroyed 61 houses in the poor, mostly Hispanic West Texas town of about 250.

Saragosa held too many bad memories, so the Natividads moved 10 miles away to Balmorhea. Samantha has found no replacement for Mrs. Ontiveros.

"Every once in a while, she'll remember her and cry and ask us why it happened to (Mrs. Ontiveros). It was real hard for us to see her coming back there because she would have expected things to be the same. We just decided to relocate."

But the Natividads are the exception. Most homeless families decided to remain in the dusty pioneer railroad town 190 miles east of El Paso, despite the former parish priest's prediction the town would not be rebuilt because the farm laborers were too poor.

The town indeed was a scene of devastation following the disaster. Cars and farm machinery lay upside-down and crumpled along the tornado's path. What once had been houses were piles of sticks, adobe and twisted iron scattered near concrete foundations.

"It was just a bare piece of ground with a lot of debris lying around," said George Harrison, a relief worker who now is in charge of rebuilding the com-

Model men

Frat boys strut stylish stuff

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

Howard College members of Phi Theta Kappa, a national fraternity of honor students, modeled the latest styles in the world of fashion for women.

That doesn't seem so unusual — until you consider the models.

They were men.

Members, attempting to raise money for a trip to the national convention in Washington, D.C., thought the unusual would be better for their cause.

Sylvia Justice, vice president of the coeducational organization, said "We thought if men modeled women's clothing we would raise more money."

"They just loved the idea — they fought over bathing suits and lingerie," she added.

"It is with great pleasure I welcome you to the November 1987 preview of coming attractions in the world of fashion. Our models are making their debut in America after a wonderful tour abroad — now, direct to you from the mysterious Greek Island, I Felta Thi, we present to you fashions for spring from the exclusive shop Phi Theta Kappa located at number one, Iota Beta Place."

Rhonda, also known as Randy Hayworth, modeled a colorful two-piece outfit, complete with make-up, matching accessories and of course black pantyhose. He said he modeled to get the others to participate, and to help raise money.

Tammie, a/k/a Thomas Stevens, wore a bright floral print dress, with red panty hose and matching accessories. "I don't really know why I did it," he said with a laugh, adding that he really did it to raise money.

"I could have done without the lipstick — but the heels didn't bother me," he said.

Geraldine, a/k/a Gary Vaughn, modeled a black and white engineer stripe jumpsuit, with red accessories and red spiked heels. He said this was his first time to wear women's clothing — admitting that if he had worn before, he wouldn't tell anyway.

"The heels killed me, my toes were sticking out," he said. "I did it because Randy asked me to and I might get a break or get discovered," he said with a laugh.

Jamie, a/k/a Jimmy Hamilton, wore a red print sundress and matching accessories. When asked why he participated he said, "Why not? It's a crazy idea. I'd do it again for a good cause," he added.

Davina, a/k/a David Payne, modeled a full-gathered maroon skirt, black silk blouse and a wide-brimmed pink hat. "I modeled to help raise funds. It's a lot of good fun and entertainment for the college," he said.

The audience, mostly women, laughed and applauded when Rhonda and Jamie entered the room in bathing suits.

Tammie ended the show by modeling a black teddy, worn with a short red robe, trimmed in black lace.

Justice said this was the first fundraiser in two years for the club.

"We raised approximately $60. I think that's great for our first time," she said.

Area jobless rates decline from September

Herald staff report

Big Spring and Howard County October jobless rates declined from September levels, according to the Texas Employment Commission.

Four other area counties also showed a drop in the unemployment rate.

Big Spring unemployment declined from September's 9.9 percent to 8.2 percent in October, but the labor force also declined by 559 people. The city had a 12.4 jobless rate a year ago, records state.

In Howard County, 7.1 percent of the population was unemployed in October, compared to 8.6 percent in September. The October figure is 3.6 percent lower than the 10.7 percent who were unemployed in October 1986.

Glasscock County — with 2 percent of its labor force unemployed — had the lowest jobless rate of the five counties listed in the report. The county's rate is the same as October a year ago, but down 1.1 from September's 3.1 percent.

In Borden County the labor force declined from 519 to 480 and the jobless rate was 10.8 percent, compared to 11.8 percent in September.

Dawson County unemployment declined from 10.5 percent in September to 8.4 percent in October, but the labor force also declined by 428.

Gaines County recorded a 6.6 percent jobless rate, down from 8.4 percent in September.

Con artists rampant before Christmas

By BILL FOSTER
Staff Writer

'Tis the season to be wary of con artists, according the Big Spring Police Department.

"It's the time of year con artist's usually start working their scams to swindle money from people," said Police Lt. Troy Hogue.

In fact, two con artists who tried bink a Stanton man recently may be in the Big Spring area, Hogue said.

"The Martin County Sheriff's Office advised us that the suspects in this case were black males. The suspects were last seen driving a white Toyota," he said.

The unsuccessful Stanton scam attempt was a confidence game commonly referred to as a "pigeon drop." Con artists pretend to find a large amount of money and convince their victim that the money was probably obtained from illegal drug sales or some other illicit activity, according to Hogue.

The "found" cash is usually a bundle of paper wrapped on the outside with real bills, Hogue said.

The con artists then tell their victim that they should divide the money equally. However, the victim is persuaded to go to the bank and withdraw a large amount of cash to show that they can be trusted.

The victim's cash is then traded for the fake bundle of money, Hogue said. The victim is left holding worthless paper, while the swindlers leave with the victim's cash.

The suspects and the victim in the recent Stanton scam attempt apparently met in Big Spring, Hogue said. However, the crime was foiled when officials at the victim's bank became suspicious when the man attempted to withdraw a large amount of cash and called law enforcement authorities, according to Hogue.

"Sometimes a con artist gets a person's whole life savings," Hogue said. "Many times these scams go unreported because the victim is embarrassed." "The scams are based on greed ... both on the part of the victim and the con artist. The confidence game usually appears to be a way for a person to make fast, easy money," Hogue said.

"If a suspect approachs you with a deal that seems to be too good to be true, notify the police department and we'll be happy to check it out and see if it's legitimate or not," Hogue said.

Two plead guilty to charge

Herald staff report

No sentencing date has been set for two Big Spring residents who pleaded guilty Oct. 2 to a federal charge of misapplication of funds and aiding and abetting, according to the U.S. Attorney General's office in Lubbock.

Angela Annece Kohl and Timothy Paul Decker pleaded guilty to count 30 of a 32-count federal indictment charging them with misapplication and abetting misapplication of more than $60,000 in funds from First Federal Savings and Loan, 500 Main St.

The two were indicted in September in the Abilene Division of the Northern District of Texas federal court.

All counts alleged fraudulent transactions during 1985 and 1986 when Kohl was an installment loan clerk at First Federal Savings.

The two pleaded guilty as part of a plea bargain agreement in which the government would drop all other charges in return for a guilty plea, a spokeswoman in the Lubbock office said.

The crime carries a $250,000 fine, five years in prison or both, she said.

1987 parade deadline set Friday

Deadline for entrants in the Community Christmas Parade has been extended to Friday, Nov. 27, according to the Lea Whitehead, parade committee chairman.

The extension has been made to accomodate organizations which haven't completed their plans. Anyone planning to enter a float must submit a reservation form in order to be assigned a spot in the parade, Whitehead said.

There is no entry fee, she added.

Winners of any official area pageant should contact Whitehead or Debbie Salazar at 263-7331 in order to ride in the parade.

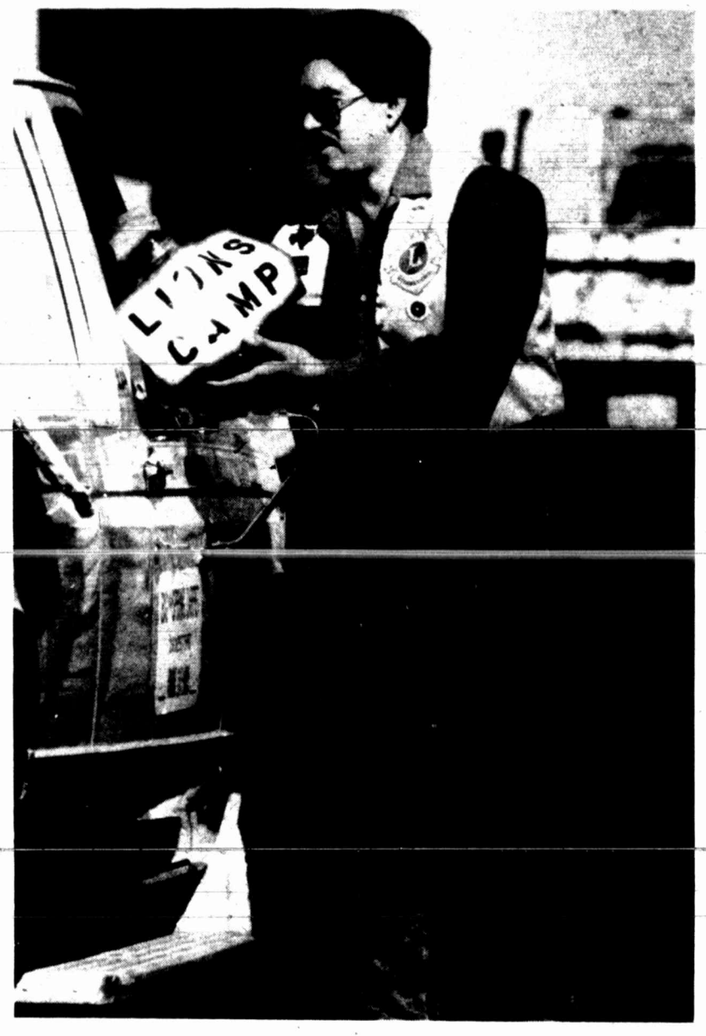

Location assignments will be mailed to entrants prior to the parade. Entrants will meet at 8 a.m., Dec. 5, along the FM 700 North Service Road, with the parade beginning at 9 a.m., Whitehead said.

After moving north on Gregg Street to Fourth Street, it then will turn east on Fourth Street to Main, then north on Main to First Street, where the parade will end..

The parade is being sponsored by the Herald in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce Business Committee.

First, second, a . third place prizes will be awa .ed to the best floats in three categories: civic/church, business/commercial, and school/college, Whitehead noted.

Judges will be the Midland/Odessa weathermen Fred Barnhill, Rick Wells and J. Gordon Lunn. They will present the awards at the tree lighting ceremony later that day at the courthouse.

C-City agrees to fund grant

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Council Tuesday night, during a special meeting, agreed to fund an application for a Texas Community Development grant.

Following the second public hearing on the grant appliction, the council voted unanimously to pledge about $31,000 in matching funds and authorized administrator Gary Smith to proceed with the application, which is due by Dec. 3.

The proposed project to be funded by the grant, if approved, is a main water line servicing the southeast portion of the city and connecting with the old standpipe tower.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $227,849, of which $178,175 is for the construction and materials, $24,674 for engineering and $25,000 for administration and audit.

The council agreed to 15.1 percent in matching funds.

At Tuesday night's meeting council member Dee Hearn reported that the committee recommended that David Hoover, manager of a lumber yard, be nominated for the position vacated by the recent resignation of Robert Hoback. However, Johns submitted the name of Carroll Gray, retired oil company employee, in nominations from the floor.

No other nominations were submitted. When Mayor Jim Baum called for a vote, he, Don Webb and Hearn voted for Hoover with Tom Carlock, Rex Thackerson, and Johns voting for Gray. Locked in a 3-3 tie, Baum asked that the nominations committee continue seeking prospective candidates that might be acceptable to a majority of the council.

Police beat

Two thefts were reported to police officials during the weekend.

- AAA Rental, 2415 Scurry St., reported the theft of a $750 flatbed trailer. The theft reportedly occurred between 5:30 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. Friday.
- Victor Wrye, 632 Caylor St., reported a theft that occurred between 7:30 and 11 p.m. Friday. A $40 battery charger, a $15 chrome air breather and a toolbox and tools worth $310 were reported stolen.
- Juan Martinez Herrera, 33, 704 W. Sixth St., was arrested Friday on a warrant for reckless conduct. He was transferred to the sheriff's office and released on a $1,000 bond.
- A forged check was reported at Furr's Supermarket in the College Park Shopping Center. Patsy Shirley, store supervisor, said the incident occurred Oct. 5 and the store was notified Friday that a $125 check had been returned.
- Police arrested two Big Spring residents Friday on charges of disorderly conduct and fighting after responding to a call about a loud party/disturbance at 2617 Albrook Drive.

Richard Sean Baker, 19, Seabrook, and Calvin Lance Garvin, 20, 3304 W. Highway 80 Apt. 49, were both arrested at 11:36 p.m. and released early Saturday morning.

- Michael Ray Hernandez, 20, 508 N.W. Fifth St., was arrested Saturday on charges of driving while intoxicated, and failure to drive in a single lane. He was transferred to the sheriff's office and released on a $1,000 bond.
- Boyce Lee Horton, 29, 1600 Settles St., was arrested Saturday on charges of DWI and failure to signal intent within 100 feet of an intersection. He was transferred to the sheriff's office and released on a $1,000 bond.
- Christoval Moreno, 27, 1105 Nolan St., was arrested at 2:13 a.m. Saturday at the scene of a minor accident in the Highland Mall parking lot. Moreno was driving a 1977 Chrysler Cordoba and collided with a parked 1981 jeep owned by Daniel R. Gomez, HC 61 FM 14-A. Police arrested Moreno on charges of DWI and transferred him to the sheriff's office where he was released on a $1,000 bond.
- Aurora Dominguez, 1502 Wood St., reported she was assaulted by someone she knows. Dominguez refused treatment for a swollen right eyelid, according to police reports. The assault occurred Saturday morning.

VA meets campaign goal

Employees of the VA Medical Center in Big Spring have surpassed last year's contributions to the Combined Federal Campaign by more than 30 percent, according to Conrad Alexander, Director.

The campaign, which ran from Sept. 15 to Oct. 31, is part of a United Way effort to raise money from local federal agencies. The donations are used to support various United Way organizations throughout Howard County. The CFC committee at the medical center raised over $7,000 in cash and pledges.

The various services that achieved the 100 percent participation rate included Social Work, Learning Resources, Chaplain, Volunteer Dental, Radiology, Rehabilitation Medicine, Fiscal, Personnel, Security, and the Office of the Director.

pathologist Dr. Robert Rember. And at least one written statement from one of the defendants is expected to be presented, Dupree said.

A 12-member Howard County grand jury is tentatively scheduled to convene Jan. 5 to consider evidence in the slaying cases.

"It's later than I'd like it," District Attorney Rick Hamby said. Because of the case load, the jury will convene after the Christmas holidays, he said.

About 60 cases will be screened in addition to the capital murder cases for possible grand jury presentation, Dupree said.

Of those, at least 50 are expected to be considered by the jury, he said, adding that evidence in the capital cases will probably be the first to be considered.

Dupree said he expected the session to last several days.

Notices have been sent to prospective jurors, and witnesses have been subpoenaed to testify.

Eight arrests resulted from an investigation into the deaths of two Mexican nationals whose burned bodies were discovered in the debris of an Oct. 10 house fire near Luther.

The men reportedly died of gun shot wounds, according to autopsy reports. They were identified as Miguel Villarreal Calixto and Norberto Gurrola Hernandez.

Fonseca, along with Antonio (Tony) Aguilar, Enrique (Ricky) Sabedra and Orlando Aguirre were arrested on capital murder charges in connection with the deaths.

An emergency parole violation warrant was issued Oct. 23 from the Board of Pardons and Paroles on Aguilar, paroled in September 1986 after serving time for burglary of a habitation.

The Board of Pardons and Paroles Friday revoked Aguilar's parole, District Parole Officer David Harman said.

Sheriff's authorities and the district attorney's office will be notified of the revocation and Aguilar could be sent to the Texas Department of Corrections to await trial for the capital murder charges. However, he could remain in the Howard County jail upon a district attorney request, Harman said.

Frankie and Joe Hernandez, Fonseca, Islas and Pete Salazar Jr. face charges in connection with Noe Perez' death.

Law enforcement officials were led to his body by a suspect in the two Luther fire deaths.

Police believe Perez was slain in a Big Spring motel room in April and transported to Martin County where his body was burned and buried.

The case is believed to be drug-related.

Saragosa

Six months after the killer storm, 23 new houses are staggered along the two main dirt roads. Workers have almost finished the tornado shelter in the basement of the community center. Government-provided mobile homes near the abandoned cotton gin north of town house displaced families.

"Saragosa is coming alive," said Manuel Galindo, rebuilding coordinator for the state Department of Community Affairs. "People are anxious to get back in their homes."

Meanwhile, victims' friends and families are slowly recovering from the loss of loved ones.

Jacob Sanchez, 14, was attending his 6-year-old sister Debra's preschool graduation at Saragosa Hall when the tornado hit the community center full-force. He was with his parents, Omero and Sylvestra Sanchez, and his 12-year-old sister, Alexa.

After the twister hit, Jacob dragged himself out from under some rubble and quickly found his sisters. But they couldn't find their parents until rescuers lifted up a limestone wall that had crushed them to death.

"I found my dad and dragged him out and he was already dead. My mom was right beside him." Jacob said. "I got my sisters because I didn't want them to see. I just left. I just started running out of there. I just couldn't take it. It was terrible."

He said he is slowly getting over the tragedy, but talks about it only when someone else brings it up.

"I was sad," he said. "My sisters and I, we we've been real down. It happened all of a sudden. I started to forget about it, not think about it so much. At least I got my sisters."

Jacob and his sisters are living with relatives in Balmorhea, where they lived before the twister struck. But many Saragosa families must wait patiently for their homes to be rebuilt.

Four families have moved into replacement homes built by the Red Cross. Nineteen other houses are unoccupied and are in various stages of construction. The new houses are staggered irregularly up the two main streets. At 18-by-24 feet, most of the new Red Cross structures are smaller than the modest ranch houses they replace.

After the Red Cross houses are finished, the Roman Catholic diocese will begin rebuilding rental houses, said Daniel Rojas, the parish priest. Rojas' predecessor Ralph Barranger, predicted after the disaster that many would move away.

Rojas said he has lined up contractors who have promised to work fast.

"I feel by Christmas, everybody should be home," he said, adding that the diocese already has started rebuilding the church and plans to help Jose Candelas rebuild his grocery store.

Child who passed up bike for food reaps donations

ODESSA (AP) — Mike Robles passed up a prize bicycle for a $50 check to buy food for his family, but now the 5-year-old is getting wheels and meals.

Earlier this week, the Ector County Independent School District Executive Council bought Mike a new bike similar to the one offered as a prize in an attendance contest.

But that was only the beginning.

By Friday, offers had come in from all across Texas from people who wanted to make sure the child had wheels.

"I was so surprised. It looks like our family will have the happiest Thanksgiving we have ever had," Mike's 29-year-old mother, Lupe Robles said, speaking through an interpreter.

Mike won a monthlong attendance contest at Fannin Early Education Center earlier this month. He could have chosen a bicycle or radio, but went right for a $50 check to buy "comida" — the Spanish word for food — for his family.

At the time, Mike's father, Rafael was laid off.

But publicity about the family's need also brought job offers for Mike's father, who now has a construction job.

"For days the phone has been just ringing off the wall," said Fannin Early Education Center Principal Janet Baker. The calls came from individuals and businessmen in Odessa and also from students in a second-grade class at Austin Elementary.

Calls and letters also have come in from Cleburne, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Grand Prairie, Plainview and Corpus Christi.

Medical board says doctors can keep AIDS secret

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas physicians who test positive for AIDS are not bound to tell their patients because the chances of passing on the disease are remote, the Texas Medical Association determined.

The TMA Board of Counselors approved the non-disclosure policy during a closed door meeting Friday night, said board member Marshall Dougherty.

The policy, which is the similar to the American Medical Association's policy, was to be formally presented Saturday to TMA delegates attending a two-day convention in Austin.

Adoption of the policy follows a controversy surounding Mesquite pediatrician Dr. Robert Huse who revealed in a lawsuit he filed that he tested positive for the AIDS virus. Huse subsequently lost almost all his patients and was forced to sell his practice.

"A doctor does have the responsibility to inform us if he carries the AIDS virus," said Debbie McWhorter, whose son was one of Huse's patients.

"I cannot share with you how agonizing this was," Ms. McWhorter said. "I feel like he betrayed us. I feel cheated. I don't know if I will ever trust another doctor."

Ms. McWhorter presented a petition signed by nearly 400 Mesquite residents who favored requiring physicians with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome to tell their patients.

"I feel for you. I understand your concern. But, the question is, 'Can you catch AIDS through casual contact?' We've learned a lot about AIDS, and you can't," TMA convention delegate Dr. Fred Buckwold told Mrs. McWhorter.

"There is a lot of hysteria about AIDS, but it is not based in reality," Buckwold said.

The Texas policy differs from the AMA policy in that it allows physicians qualified to treat AIDS to refuse to administer treatment if they can find another qualified physician to provide care, Dougherty said.

Under AMA policy, physicians qualified to treat AIDS patients "may not ethically refuse" to treat a person with AIDS or the AIDS virus.

School board — coaching change

It may be well to advise the next Big Spring football coach that there is more to keeping his job than simply winning football games.

West Texans are a breed apart in their love and loyalty to high school football — and that mentality is no different in Big Spring.

Everybody loves a winner. Right?

Perhaps not.

Full understanding of recent actions by the Big Spring school administrators and board members in dealing with the head football coaching position likely will remain difficult — masked as they were in closed session. Admittedly, the law provides for such a session when personnel matters are concerned.

The facts that are known concerning the change of leadership at the helm of local high school football are disquieting, however.

Quinn Eudy has agreed to relinquish his 1988-89 contract, in exchange for acceptance of his resignation effective at the end of August.

The matter is not that simple, however, and the business of changing head coaches is not cheap. The arrangement agreed to by the board stands to be costly.

The remainder of Eudy's 1987-88 contract — about $34,150 — will be paid to him for doing nothing more for the district.

If that seems like a sweet deal to you, you're not alone.

In addition, a replacement to teach his two academic classes will draw between $800 and $920 a month, school officials reported.

It is also likely the board will employ a football coach prior to Aug. 31, 1988 when Eudy's resignation becomes effective. The possibility that he will accept a job elsewhere and make the financial arrangement moot is too flimsy a presumption when such an amount of money is under consideration.

The primary focus of the school district is not to produce a winning football team, or even a profitable football team. Rather, it is to prepare our children to responsibly act and react in a changing society.

We fail to see how the actions agreed to by our school board fall within that realm.

Whether it was the team's won-loss record or personality clashes that precipitated the Eudy departure is irrelevant to what we know for sure: Our school district appears to have placed itself in a situation that should not occur. Responsible, judicious use of tax money is a requisite of each board member.

A frank discussion of the reasons behind the decision will best serve the interests of the taxpayers of this district.

Just my type

The issue: Product or use liable?

By ROBERT WERNSMAN

A lawsuit in El Paso state district court has my interest.

Families of six of the 18 men who perished in a railroad boxcar this past summer are seeking damages.

A boxcar manufacturer — the lawsuit contends — is responsible for the deaths of those who perished in the airtight railroad car.

The civil suit filed in El Paso state district court, the Associated Press reported, contends that Bellevue, Wash.-based Pacific Car & Foundry Co. is responsible because the car was "defective and unsafe" when it was built in 1969. The suit also named New York-based Missouri-Pacific Railroad as a defendant because it owned and helped design the car.

Nineteen men — one survived — had been locked into the car at a switching yard in El Paso the day before in an attempt to gain illegal entry into this country. However, the reason for their journey does not bear on my thinking in this matter. Rather, it's the basis of the lawsuit that triggers my interest.

I fully realize that it does not take a good case to qualify for a lawsuit to be filed. Anyone can file a case — it's one of the joys of democracy. And our crowded courtrooms are one of the results.

However, an acquaintance and second generation railroader tells me that those rail cars were built with serious business in mind.

They were designed to carry appliances, carpet and any number of fragile, hard goods. They did just that, and did it well, apparently.

I'm told that the particular model in question was "one of their better grade." That means better insulation, tighter construction, and a grooved, one-and-a-half to two-inch solid floor.

It is, without a doubt, designed to carry freight and not humans.

Says the railroader: "Anyone who is trapped in one of those cars in West Texas is going to suffocate, for sure." He suggests that if the heat doesn't get you, lack of oxygen certainly will.

I enter here dangerous territory, where detractors can argue that an unfeeling, heartless individual misses the point that 18 men died. I do not lose sight of that fact — and I can understand the grief of the families who suffered the loss.

Speaking in practical terms, however, I'm unsure that the company who made the boxcar should be made to pay for the loss.

There is more information to be filed on this matter, I'm sure. From what I've seen and heard though, the boxcar was far from defective and unsafe — when used in the manner for which it was constructed.

And if the manufacturing firm can be held responsible for its creation being used wrongly, you have only begun to hear about crowded courtrooms:

- Someone attacked by a hunting knife-wielding madman could have his day by suing the knife manufacturer.
- Knock some guy in the head with a video cassette recorder and his widow can claim damages against Sony.
- Does the auto manufacturer become liable when I unwisely use my vehicle and cause a death?

While not specifying dollar damages, the suit claims damage against each defendant "far exceeds $10,000."

One guy whose weekend wasn't lifted by this news, I presume, is Ken Brownstein, Pacific Car's attorney. He said Thursday that he knew nothing of the suit.

In fact, he said "We ... weren't even aware they were our cars." The company no longer makes rail cars, but was making them when the Sierra Blanca boxcar was built.

It is possible — probable, even — that the 28 plaintiffs who are relatives of the six victims from a farm town in the state of Aguascalientes, Mexico, will successfully obtain damages from someone in this matter.

From what I have read so far, however, my sense of justice will be insulted if the manufacturer ends up signing the check.

Development of Hispanic women's forum is natural

By JESSE TREVINO

Jesse Trevino

The changing face of Texas politics added another wrinkle Saturday in Dallas as 200 Hispanic women from across the state met to form the first statewide Hispanic women's organization.

The eventual beneficiary will be Texas' future because the organization hopes to advance the cause of Hispanic women in the state.

But the primary recipient of the new organization may be State Treasurer Ann Richards, an almost sure candidate for governor in 1990.

The organization is not, planners emphasize, a part of Richards' early moves to capture the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

But the meeting, which is being conducted to draft a blueprint for a statewide conference of Hispanic women next year, is heavily flavored with natural admirers of Richards, a woman long active in feminist causes.

Among top organizers are five Hispanic women who graduated from Leadership Texas, an organization dedicated to the training and development of women for future leadership roles in Texas and on whose board of directors Richards sits.

However coincidental this convergence of personalities and careers, the stated aim of the organization is worthwhile and much-needed.

The group is likely to hear complaints that it is forming yet another special interest group when such organizations are not in vogue.

But whatever form the new organization takes, it is certain to have a dynamic impact in the ever-growing world of Hispanic politics.

The organizers hope, naturally, to bring more Hispanic women into the world of state politics — an arena in which they have met with limited success.

Currently, only two Hispanic women serve in the 150-member Texas House of Representatives and another sits in the 31-member State Senate.

Heretofore, say the organization's creators, Hispanic women have been restricted — much like their Anglo counterparts had been prior to the women's movement — to service in auxiliary components of men's organizations or as smaller segments of organizations such as the National Organization of Women.

But with a total of $7,500 of public service grants from Southwestern Bell and Anheuser-Busch, the women meeting in Dallas from 10 cities throughout Texas plan to begin to make changes.

And, despite their obvious tilt to political participation, they are by definition activists or else they would not be meeting.

They say their main goal is to tackle and help solve some of the problems which stymie the development of Hispanics in Texas.

In this regard, they are not without challenges. Almost every problem the Hispanic population in Texas faces touches Hispanic women — many as single heads of households.

If one were to chronicle the life of Hispanic women in general, one would record a life-long battle for survival and recognition in a Latino culture in which women's natural talents and abilities are snuffed out too often by a male-dominated macho world or by a life of struggle.

The average Mexican-American woman, for example, earned less than $5,000 annually in 1980, or less than the minimum wage of $3.35 per hour.

From those kinds of economic resources flow a litany of problems. However the lot of Hispanic women changes, or doesn't change, will affect to a large degree what happens to Texas.

Tracking presidential candidates frequently a timely responsibility

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

Capitol Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Imagine juggling 500 RSVPs. Or being stuck at Chicago's O'Hare airport while the clock ticks on toward an important speech your boss is going to give.

They're people who keep track of where presidential candidates are supposed to be at any given time — with an emphasis on the word "supposed."

On a moment's notice — which is what they generally get — these campaign schedulers can yank open their anxiety closet, rummage around a bit and come up with memories that give them clammy palms.

"He was stuck on the ground for hours in a plane at O'Hare," says Sullivan, who helps put together times and places for Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo. "And once we forgot about the time difference between El Paso and the rest of Texas."

"You realize people want him in two places at the same time," says Hasper, an assistant scheduler for Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y. "Or more than two."

"I wake up in the middle of the night and wonder if he got there all right," says Diemunsch, who works for former Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona, a Democrat. "And on time."

Theoretically, the candidate's schedule is mapped out weeks or even months in advance. But changes have a way of happening at the last moment. And when they do, they can set off the dreaded domino effect — late for one event, late for a dozen events.

"We had to charter a private jet to get him back in time for a vote," says Dick Deerin, chief scheduler for Sen. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn.

"There was a fire on board his plane, and it had to turn back," says Diemunsch.

The schedulers say they grow accustomed to seeing a carefully-crafted plan fall to pieces.

"It's a juggling act, and it never stops," says Teresa McManimon, who works for Republican Alexander M. Haig Jr.

"It's never like clockwork, but you cope," says Deerin of the Gore campaign.

Even without last-minute glitches, long-term scheduling is difficult. The schedulers are confronted daily with conflicting demands. At any time, says Hasper of the Kemp campaign, there are 500 or 600 pending invitations. And they all need answering.

There are tricks of the trade, and schedulers learn them fast. Diemunsch says she knows the backroad routes to tiny towns in New Hampshire she hadn't heard of a few months ago.

But none of the schedulers expects things will get easier as they go along — on the contrary. The entourages will get bigger. The weather will get worse. The states on the schedule will multiply.

"It's kind of thankless, because when things go right, no one thinks about the schedule," says Sullivan. "Then something goes wrong, and the sharks start circling."

"Once we gave him a 23-hour day by mistake," Sullivan noted. "He said he was a little tired."

Nobody likes to break the bad news when the candidate is running late for a steak fry or isn't going to make it to a county fair.

"I just try to be as honest as I can, and let people know we're trying our best to get him there," says Elizabeth White of Pete du Pont's campaign. "Ninety-nine percent of the time, they're really understanding."

When they talk about their work, the schedulers use words like frenzied — chaotic — crazed — nerve-racking.

But they also say they wouldn't have missed it for anything. There is a certain satisfaction, they say, in creating order out of chaos, in turning scrawled notations on the calendar into real events.

"It's really rewarding," Sullivan says.

"It's invigorating," says Hasper.

Mailbag

Questioning behavior

To the editor:

I am writing this letter in hopes that it will be published so when my son asks, "Why can't we do something about what happened at the game? It wasn't fair," I can at least tell him we had the opportunity to let people know how we feel about it.

The Crossroads football league had its super bowl game Saturday in Coahoma. Before the game ever got underway cheerleaders from Coahoma attempted to take down the Packers signs and banners. Cheerleaders representing the Packers were spit on by players from Coahoma.

Players from the Packers were called racial and profane names on the field during the game. There were people in trucks riding through the streets and the parking lot of the stadium shouting profanities at those there from Big Spring.

Not a very warm welcome, espcially in view of the fact that they fought tooth and nail to assure the game was played in Coahoma. Residents of Coahoma, be assured — we found out what Coahoma hospitality is all about. It made me proud to be able to say I live in Big Spring.

During the last quarter of the game the Packers called a time out. For some reason that we can't understand the clock continued to run. A player from Coahoma was injured on the field. Again, the clock continued to run. Why? The score was 20 to 14. Due to the clock not being stopped when it should have been we will never know who really should have won this game.

We teach our children good sportsmanship; to accept a loss as gracefully as they do a win. It's not the Packers losing this game that bothers me; it's the means by which it was lost.

I would like to say to the coaches and players of the Packers, "You may have placed second in the super bowl but in ways that are more important than the game you proved to everyone which team is really number one."

No vote, no complaint

To the editor:

Let's look at it like it is.

What has happened to all the men like Vhine Phillips, P.D. O'Brien, Mayor Dabney, Charlie Creighton and Cecil Rhoades who stood for the city's best interest?

The days of a promise of a chicken on every table is over.

We have many qualified people in Big Spring to lead our city "if" the citizens register. Get to know the person running for office — what do they plan to do, their experience, etc ...

If you don't vote, don't complain.

Doctors' income rises

CHICAGO — The mean income of physicians rose 6.5 percent last year to almost $120,000 annually, far outstripping inflation, according the American Medical Association.

The increase greatly surpassed the 1986 advance in the Consumer Price Index, which rose just 1.1 percent, said an article in Friday's edition of American Medical News, the AMA's weekly newspaper.

Longer work hours caused more of the rise than fee increases, the article said, with more surgical procedures also contributing.

Soviets see U.S. plant

TOOLE ARMY DEPOT, Utah — A Soviet ambassador said Friday his tour of the Army's chemical weapons disposal plant here created greater confidence between the superpowers and improved prospects for an international treaty eliminating chemical arsenals.

But Yuri Nazarkin, the chief Soviet negotiator for chemical weapons at the Geneva arms talks, and U.S. Ambassador Max Friedersdorf sharply disagreed over the prospects for a treaty and clashed over U.S. plans to begin production of a new chemical weapon next month.

Iraq fall said unlikely

WASHINGTON — A top Reagan administration official on Saturday disputed a congressional report that said Iraq is increasingly likely to lose its 7-year-old war with Iran and claimed the report had "many glaring errors."

Iraq is in little danger of collapse, said Richard Armitage, assistant defense secretary for international security. He added that U.S. officials expect a major Iranian assault, perhaps as early as January, "but I see very little chance of an actual breakthrough occurring" for Iran.

Reagan urges budget OK

WASHINGTON — President Reagan and the Democratic chairman of the Senate Budget Committee joined Saturday in urging congressional approval of a two-year $76-billion deficit reduction package, saying it is a flawed but important step forward.

Reagan, delivering his weekly radio address from the Oval Office, said, "As with all agreements that result from long and difficult negotiations, this agreement is probably not the very best deal that could have been struck, but we have to begin somewhere."

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., the Senate Budget Committee chairman, called the two-year package "good news for the nation," saying, "We should have done better."

Driver visits comatose victim

FOND DU LAC, Wis. (AP) — Once every month, Matthew Zacherl gets a ride from the Fond du Lac jail to a nursing home where he visits the 23-year-old man he put into a coma in a drunken auto accident.

The visits are part of the sentence a judge gave the former University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point student after he pleaded guilty in April.

Witnesses said he took another student's car and that the owner, hanging onto the outside of the car, was injured when Zacherl drove into a building.

Gregory TerHorst of Neenah suffered severe brain damage and there has been no change in his condition since the accident in May 1986, said his father, Courtney TerHorst.

"It's something to deal with. I'll live with that for the rest of my life," Zacherl, 21, said in a brief telephone interview last week from the jail where he is serving a six-month sentence.

The visits are sometimes difficult, but he is getting use to them, Zacherl said. His last visit was Oct. 24.

He usually visits the comatose man on the last Sunday of the month and has a good attitude about making the visits and fulfilling other parts of his sentence, said Stanley Ries, his probation officer.

"This is not a criminal," Ries said. "This is (the result of) a tragic drunken college party. ... It shows you the tragedy that can happen."

Judge Robert C. Jenkins ordered Zacherl to make the monthly visits for six months, then once every three months for the rest of the year following sentencing, then every six months during the rest of his six-year probation.

He also ordered him to do 200 hours of community service work, abstain from alcoholic beverages and pay at least $50 monthly to the TerHorst family.

Zacherl was not charged with drunken driving but the judge noted police reports said he had a blood alcohol content of 0.226 percent.

Greek ship attacked

MANAMA, Bahrain — U.S. mine sweepers found three more mines Saturday in the northern Persian Gulf near Iranian-held Farsi Island, not far from where a freighter reported being attacked an Iranian gunboat, officials said.

There was no immediate indication of whether the Navy mine sweepers were close enough to have seen or heard the attack. The Greek-flag ship, the 29,018-ton Jimilta, reported no damage or casualties in Saturday's encounter.

A spokesman for the U.S. Central Command in Tampa, Fla., said the mine sweepers destroyed three mines Saturday — bringing to five their haul in two days of operations in the area, which U.S. officers have described as a major Iranian minefield.

Subway warning ignored

LONDON — Evidence mounted Saturday that staff at King's Cross subway station ignored commuters' warnings about a smoldering fire that flared into an inferno and killed 30 people.

Both the London Times and the Daily Mail said investigators were working on the theory that Wednesday's fire was caused by a mechanical problem in a 48-year-old escalator.

Smoking ban proposed

BEIJING — Vice Premier Wan Li wants to ban smoking in China, the world's largest producer and consumer of tobacco, a government-run newspaper reported Saturday.

At a cancer research conference Friday, Wan dwelt on the harmful effects of smoking and said it should be prohibited in public places, the English-language China Daily said Saturday.

Beijing started a no-smoking campaign this year and forbade smoking in 100 specific public locations, but enforcement is lax.

Saboteurs cut cables

SYDNEY, Australia — Saboteurs disrupted telephone service, automatic bank tellers and computer services in Australia's largest city Saturday by cutting two dozen underground cables, Australian Telecom said.

Twenty-four cables carrying up to 35,000 circuits were cut at 10 different locations beneath Sydney's business district overnight by someone with a detailed knowledge of the system, said Telecom spokesman Barrie Smart said.

Police said no arrests were made.

First children's bank isn't childish

MIAMI (AP) — The Twiglet Bank, so named because it's "smaller than a branch," opened Friday with a ginger-ale christening as its grade-school founders celebrated the culmination of months of work.

"This is great ... great. We have camera people, TV people. ... But I'm still nervous," said sixth-grader Nikki Russell, chairman of Twiglet's board, as she surveyed her schoolmates dressed in blue suits and their best dresses.

Sherrie Avery, marketing director of First National Bank of South Miami, introduced the Twiglet staff of 23 fifth- and sixth-grade students at David Fairchild Elementary School.

"They began at the very beginning, and they've gone through the entire process of organizing a national bank," she said. "One hundred and one million pieces of paperwork. And it's done!"

At a meeting Thursday night of nine students who put the finishing touches on the bank, the fifth-grade vice president solemnly signed a stack of Twiglet stock certificates.

Faces fell when the board saw 16 pages of Twiglet's code of ethics, bylaws and other documents to be read before the opening of what is believed to be the first bank run by and for children, with a "pseudo-charter" from the Comptroller of Currency.

The 23 fifth- and sixth- graders who make up the Twiglet staff of officers, tellers, clerks and security guards have spent months training at First National Bank of South Miami, which helped form Twiglet as a community-involvement project with David Fairchild Elementary School.

"At first, the project seemed that it would be a baby-sitting-type project," said First National Branch Manager Barbara Betolatti, who trained Twiglet president Richard Bell and others on banking procedures. "But it didn't work that way at all."

Twiglet set out to raise $2,500 in operating capital by selling $50 shares in the bank. Each "stockholder" gives a donation to the school and receives no dividends or voting powers, although shareholders will be invited to an annual stockholders' meeting.

A byproduct of the novel bank is media attention, from radio and television stations and newspapers as far away as Australia.

"I like it. I'm famous all over the world now," said Twiglet spokesperson Lindsey Bell, a sixth-grader. "Today I called Washington, D.C. Tuesday I called Chicago. Last Friday I called New York. I'm pretty good with the press."

Twiglet will do business twice a week, offer savings accounts initially and then checking accounts and loans as its officers gain experience.

Customers need $10 to open an account, and subsequent deposits must be at least a dollar. First National will be Twiglet's depository.

The board unanimously agreed that Twiglet was teaching them about being adults.

Jessica

Walks out of hospital with cast, but smiling

By WENDY E. LANE
Associated Press Writer

MIDLAND (AP) — A smiling Jessica McClure hobbled with a leg cast out of a hospital Friday and headed for a quiet reunion with her family, 35 days after she was pulled from an abandoned well with a badly hurt foot.

Bystanders and hospital employees applauded as the 19-month-old girl rode a green toy wagon down the ramp of the hospital and clutched a Winnie-the-Pooh stuffed animal.

Her mother, Cissy McClure, then lifted her out so she could walk on her cast toward a horde of television cameras in front of the hospital.

Jessica's father, Chip McClure, wished onlookers a happy Thanksgiving and added, "We know we'll have one. Thanks to the grace of God and some heroic men we've got our baby back."

Wearing a black satin jacket bearing the name and seal of the Midland Police Department, Jessica waved from her car seat as the family drove away.

"Isn't that cute," said Winnie Whitmire of Odessa, who was among about 30 bystanders to watch the toddler's release. "She really means a lot to us here."

The McClures could not be located after leaving the hospital, and McClure had said they planned to spend some quiet time together.

"They're with friends now and they'll be spending the holidays out of town" with family members, said Reba Wilborn, Jessica's grandmother. She said she was looking forward to having the family together.

The child spent 58½ hours trapped inside the well before her rescue last month. Volunteers dug through solid rock to reach her after she fell 22 feet through an 8-inch opening.

She had been in Midland Memorial Hospital since then, undergoing treatments for various injuries she suffered during her ordeal.

Nineteen-month-old Jessica McClure is led away from Midland Memorial Hospital by her mother, Cissy, in Midland Friday. Jessica spent more than a month in the hospital after being trapped in an abandoned water well for 58 hours.

Doctors feared for a time they would have to amputate her right foot, which was jammed at an awkward angle when she was trapped in the well. But only the little toe of her foot was removed, and doctors say she will be able to walk normally.

Physicians cited Jessica's personality as a key to her successful recovery.

"The little girl has a fairly active, aggressive personality," said Dr. Shelton Viney, one of Jessica's surgeons.

Her bill was an estimated $50,000, said hospital spokeswoman Laurie Johnson. It was paid by contributions that go beyond a special trust fund set up for her education and involving an amount that bank officials will not disclose.

Jessica "means an awful lot to us, not just in terms of the fact that she came in here looking like the dickens and is leaving looking awfully good," said Branson. "We take an awful lot of pride (in the care) that she's been given here."

Viney, who last week performed a skin graft on Jessica's right foot, said her long-term prognosis is excellent.

"She's a young child and she ought to be able to walk without any kind of noticeable limp," he said.

Viney said Jessica will have scars on her thigh, where skin for the graft was taken, as well as on the foot. A scar from the pressure wound on her forehead may require plastic surgery in 10 years or so, he said.

She will wear the walking cast, put on Thursday, for two or three weeks, which will be replaced by a walking splint after her skin grafts are evaluated, doctors said.

"She's walking a lot more now than what we really anticipated," said Viney. "In fact, we'd like her to stay off her foot a little more than what she wants, because we don't want it to get too swollen."

Pentagon's arms control adviser ousted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Incoming Pentagon chief Frank Carlucci has ousted Frank Gaffney, a hardliner distrustful of the Soviet Union, as the Defense Department's top adviser on arms-control policy, administration officials said Friday.

Gaffney will be replaced by Ronald Lehman, the top U.S. negotiator in Geneva for strategic arms reduction talks, sources said. An administration official called Lehman a "good solid conservative" whose appointment would help take some of the sting out of Gaffney's departure.

"Gaffney was cross-wise with Carlucci and the administration on arms control," said one official, insisting on anonymity. "He is a real hard-liner and his views are not popular."

Another official, who also declined to be named, said, "That's the kind of job where the incumbent has got to have the complete confidence of the secretary. Carlucci would prefer to have someone else in the job."

Gaffney said Friday that he had written President Reagan a resignation letter Thursday night in which he said the United States is "in a very dangerous situation" in its drive to finish negotiating an arms pact with the Soviet Union in time for the Dec. 8-10 summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

The agreement is expected to eliminate shorter- and intermediate-range nuclear weapons.

In another change, the nomination of Fred S. Hoffman to become the Pentagon's chief spokesman also has been scratched at Carlucci's request, a Pentagon source said.

He will be replaced by Dan Howard, a White House deputy press secretary who has worked as Carlucci's spokesman for the National Security Council, the source added.

Hoffman, the principal deputy spokesman for the past three years, was nominated to be assistant defense secretary for public affairs following the resignation of Robert Sims. It was unclear whether Hoffman would continue to serve as the principal deputy.

"I rather doubt it, because Howard will probably want to bring in his own people, but that hasn't been decided," the source said. "Carlucci is giving Hoffman a little time to look around."

The changes became known within hours of Carlucci winning Senate approval, 91-1, to be the nation's 16th secretary of defense. Since January, Carlucci had been President Reagan's national security adviser. Carlucci is expected to be sworn in Monday as the Pentagon's new chief, succeeding Caspar Weinberger.

Gaffney had been nominated in April by Weinberger to be assistant secretary of defense for international security policy to succeed another hardliner, Richard Perle, who had resigned and now is a resident fellow at the American Enterprise Institute.

"With Weinberger gone, Frank lost his protector," one of the officials said. "His nomination was going nowhere, and Frank is a realist. So he stepped down."

Gaffney had been a disciple of Perle and shared his reluctance to enter into agreements with the Soviet Union to sharply curb U.S. nuclear missiles. They both believed the Kremlin could not be trusted and that the United States must have a strong nuclear defense.

Coahoma student receives FFA's top national degree

KANSAS CITY — Brandon Luce of Coahoma joined an elite group of FFA achievers when he recently received the highest FFA degree of membership — that of American Farmer.

Along with 728 other outstanding FFA'ers, the Coahoma Chapter member was honored at the 60th National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Always a highlight of the convention, the American Farmer degree ceremony included the presentation of a certificate and gold key to Brandon as he walked across the convention stage as thousands of FFA members watched.

Mexican marijuana harvest keeps Border Patrol busy

EL PASO (AP) — The Mexican marijuana harvest is in full swing, according to Border Patrol agents who seized 518 pounds of marijuana in three days in the El Paso sector.

The harvest in Mexico starts in early September and continues into late November, said Doug Mosier, spokesman for the Border Patrol's El Paso sector.

"Every year, around this time, we see an increase in activity by marijuana smugglers," he said Thursday. "That means it's harvest time, and that means a busy time for us."

On Monday, agents spotted a 1970 Oldsmobile, lights out, driving along the Rio Grande levee near Fort Hancock, Texas.

"Agents suspected the car was carrying contraband because it was riding very low," Mosier said.

The car became snagged in heavy brush when agents chased it. The driver tried to escape across the river but was caught. Agents discovered 320 pounds of marijuana in the car with an estimated street value of $241,000, Mosier said.

The driver was charged with marijuana possession with intent to distribute, he said.

Tuesday, a man and woman from Los Angeles were arrested when Border Patrol agents found 175 pounds of marijuana in the trunk of their car. The marijuana had an estimated street value of $143,000. The agents stopped the car as it crossed at the Columbus, N.M., port of entry, Mosier said.

Group helps adoptees search for beginnings

By PATTY REINERT
The Brownsville Herald

McALLEN (AP) — As a child, Marcia Morehead's one wish was to find her natural parents.

"If you are an adoptee there is a void. There's something missing. You want to know who you are and where you came from, what your roots are, who you look like," Ms. Morehead said.

"There's always been a part of me that didn't feel complete," she said. "I wanted to know who I am."

Ms. Morehead, 32, was put up for adoption at birth and was placed with a family in San Juan a month later. The only information she had about her birth was the date and place.

She first began her search 12 years ago, then dropped it for several years when she wasn't successful.

Then last February, a woman she met at church confided that she'd given up a baby for adoption.

"It was the first time I'd ever known a birth mother and I was just flooded with questions," Ms. Morehead said. "I really felt compelled to start searching again."

During a trip to Fort Worth, her birthplace, Ms. Morehead saw a newspaper article about the Adoptees Liberty Movement Association, an international search assistance and support group for adult adoptees and birth parents. Ms. Morehead got in touch with the Austin chapter and asked for its help.

Although ALMA doesn't search for anyone, the group provides support and advice on search techniques. After several months of phone calls, research and trips between her home in McAllen and Fort Worth, Ms. Morehead obtained a court order in June that allowed access to her sealed adoption records.

"It wasn't easy, but everything was done legally and above the table," she said. "My adoption wasn't my decision, but it's a decision that has affected my whole life. I feel that as an adult, I have the right to see those records.

"I found my birth mother's name on a Wednesday, and on Monday I got on the phone," Ms. Morehead said. "By Monday night I had found her."

A friend Ms. Morehead met through ALMA agreed to act as an intermediary and called the woman.

"She was very afraid. Evidently she had never told anyone, so at this point in time she doesn't want contact," Ms. Morehead said. "And that's OK with me. For now, I'm satisfied just to know her name."

Her birth mother cooperated in providing information about her family's medical history and a few details about Ms. Morehead's birth.

"I've always wondered if my birth mother had ever seen me or touched me before she gave me away — and she said she did," Ms. Morehead said. "She held me before they took me away.

"Through my search, I've found out bits and pieces about what kind of person my birth mother is," Ms. Morehead said. "But more than that, I've learned a lot about myself — about who I am and what I'm capable of doing."

Since June, Ms. Morehead has continued to search for information on her birth mother's family. A museum in Wisconsin has provided genealogical information to help her trace her ancestry.

"I got to see her for the first time," Ms. Morehead said. "Now I know who I look like."

Although she hasn't been able to arrange a reunion, Ms. Morehead considers her search complete — at least for now.

"It would be nice to have more, and I look forward to the day when I can meet her," Ms. Morehead said. "But right now I can accept her feelings and I respect how she feels.

"I can understand how it would be real hard," she said. "They hear you've had a good life, and they feel bad because they didn't provide that good life. They hear you've had a bad life and they feel bad because they relinquished you to that bad life. There's a lot of negative they have to sort through."

In the meantime, Ms. Morehead will devote her time to helping other adoptees in the search process through an ALMA chapter she has started in McAllen.

"I was so grateful to ALMA that I wanted to pay back the world for what they'd done for me," Ms. Morehead said. "And I realized there was a real need for a chapter down here."

ALMA members include adoptees 18 years old or older, natural parents whose children have reached the age of 18, foster children of 18 or older, unwed mothers and adoptive parents.

A $50 fee entitles members to be registered in a computerized international reunion databank containing the vital statistics of adoptees and birth parents for possible matching. They also receive ALMA's search guide to assist them in the process.

Ms. Morehead stresses that monthly meetings of the group are open to anyone.

"We encourage anyone who's part of the adoption triangle to come to our meetings and share their stories," she said. "There's no charge if they decide not to use ALMA's search services.

"Some people will decide a search isn't for them," Ms. Morehead said. "And that's fine. Searching is a very emotional issue. You never know if you're really doing the right thing, and you don't know what to expect.

"Adoptees sometimes have fantasies that their birth parents were these great wonderful people, and that't not always true," she said. "The meetings help you get in touch with your own feelings and get down to reality before you make a decision about whether a search is right for you."

In addition to monthly support meetings, ALMA also conducts workshops in which members bring their own documents and receive one-on-one assistance.

If an adoptee lives far from his place of birth, ALMA will provide a "search buddy," someone who has completed a search and volunteers to help other adoptees. Those requesting a buddy in turn volunteer to help someone else.

OU husks Nebraska's corn

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — It was supposed to be Game of the Century II. It turned out to be just another routine Game of the Decade — a decade in which Oklahoma has dumped one frustration after another on Nebraska.

It also turned out to be another case of deja vu — but not the replay of Nebraska's memorable 35-31 victory in 1971 that everyone hoped for.

Instead, it was a rerun of Oklahoma's 17-7 upset of a No. 1-ranked Nebraska team in 1984.

The Sooners combined the nation's best defense with third-quarter touchdowns runs of 11 yards by Anthony Stafford and 65 by Patrick Collins to defeat Nebraska 17-7 Saturday and renew their claim to the No. 1 ranking they surrendered to the Cornhuskers last week.

"This is the same defense that played in 1984 and beat them," Coach Barry Switzer said after Oklahoma concluded an 11-0 regular season, earned a fourth consecutive trip to the Orange Bowl and stretched the nation's longest winning streak to 20 games. The Sooners won all seven Big Eight games in capturing their 24th outright conference title in 45 years, in addition to sharing seven others.

"This is the same defense, the same 8-9 kids. We didn't even miss Boz today (former linebacker Brian Bosworth).

"Talk about Sooner magic — we didn't need it today. We dominated from start to finish. This was a dominating win."

Still, Oklahoma trailed 7-0 at halftime. The Sooners didn't wait until the fourth quarter — they had outscored Nebraska 116-41 in the final period of the last 16 meetings — but took the lead in the third quarter and wrapped it up on R.D. Lashar's 27-yard field goal midway through the final quarter.

The 22nd meeting of the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the 52-year history of the Associated Press college football poll failed to live up to all the pregame hype, but hardly anything short of an atomic explosion could have.

Nebraska came in leading the nation in total offense with an average of 524.6 yards a game. The Cornhuskers finished with only 235 yards, 59 of them in the final two minutes against Oklahoma's prevent defense.

"Of all the losses I've been associated with, this may be the most disappointing," Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said after losing to Switzer for the 12th time in 16 confrontations. "I'm even a little embarrassed. It was a case of Oklahoma having too much for us. From where I stood, we just got whipped.

"I don't know what to apologize for, but I almost feel apologetic."

If anything, the Cornhuskers should have apologized for their week-long comments in which they gave a crippled Oklahoma team virtually no chance to win.

The Cornhuskers were right on one count — there was no question who had the better team.

"Anybody who was here or saw the game on TV knows Oklahoma is a better football team," Switzer said. "When they were talking about beating us 35 to something — it's crazy to me. They haven't scored but four touchdowns on us in three years.

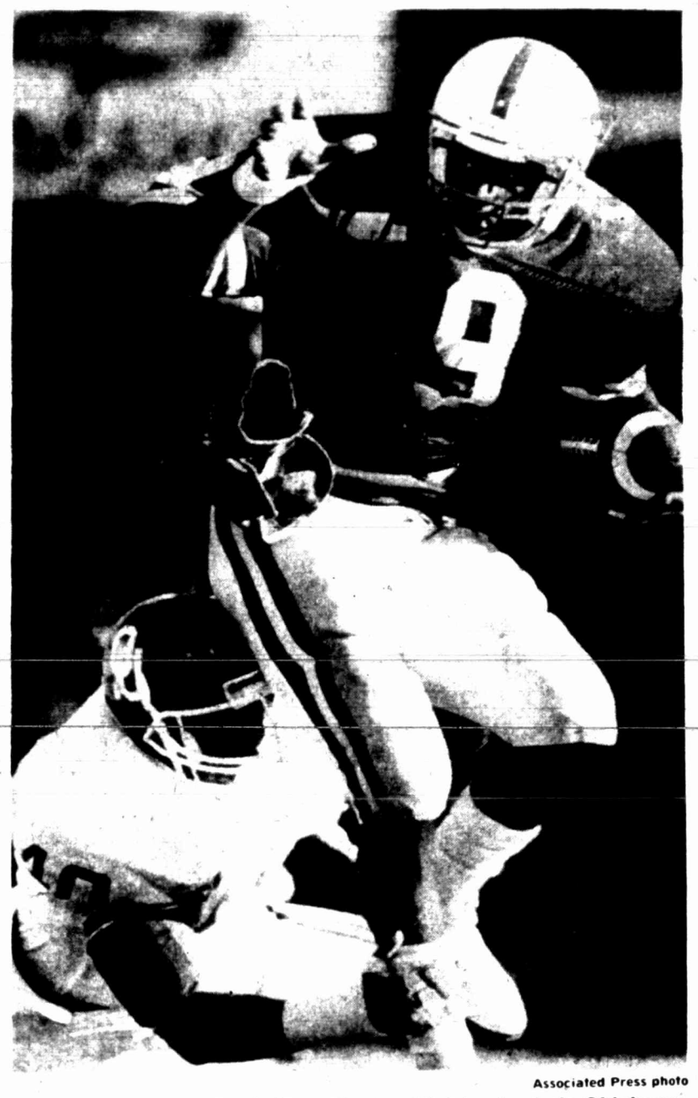

"There's no secret. It's just good players that play hard. It's speed and strength. A good pass defense is how you frustrate a quarterback."

The Sooners held Taylor to six completions in 18 passes and intercepted him three times.

Oklahoma's triumph set up a possible national championship game with third-ranked Miami, which accepted an Orange Bowl bid Saturday. Miami, coached by former Oklahoma assistant Jimmy Johnson, handed the Sooners their only two setbacks in their last 35 games.

Nebraska, 9-1, winds up its regular season next Saturday at Colorado. The Cornhuskers, who have dropped four in a row and 35 of their last 46 meetings with Oklahoma, will play fourth-ranked Florida State in the Nebraska's quarterback Steve Taylor (9) tries to elude Oklahoma linebacker Darrell Reed (40) as he goes for yardage in the first quarter. Nebraska led at the half, 7-0, only to be beaten by the Sooners 17-7.

Houston delays Tech's bowl bid

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Cougars, going nowhere in post-season play, at least delayed Texas Tech's bowl plans Saturday, rallying in the final 6:21 for a 10-10 tie.

Independence Bowl Chairman Smokey Hyde said prior to the game Tech would receive the invitiation if the Red Raiders defeated the Cougars. But after the game, Hyde said the bowl now was considering other options.

Hyde said Wake Forest, West Virginia and Tech still were in the running.

"I don't know where we stand, but I didn't see anybody from Shreveport down here — I imagine that's down the drain," Tech Coach Spike Dykes said.

After being harassed with nine quarterback sacks, Houston's David Dacus finally engineered a Cougar scoring drive that ended with Kimble Anders' 23-yard run with 6:21 to go.

Tech defensive end James Mosley had 3½ sacks and tackle Desmond Royal added another to the total.

"We had a lot of sacks," Royal said. "Our three- and four-man rush was going good and they weren't too good at keeping us out.

"In the type of offense they run, they don't care if they give sacks, they know they're going to because

Steers win pair

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

Following an opening night narrow victory in Frenship, the Big Spring Steers played the same team at home Saturday night and posted a convincing win over the Tigers. Friday, Big Spring won by 78-72; Saturday they made the margin 93-58.

Coach Boyce Paxton compared the two games. "We had a good solid effort, a good game from everybody (Saturday). Last night just wasn't as good a game.

"It was really tightly officiated. The refereeing was good, but it was a different pace in the game, and we weren't used to it.

"They (Frenship) stayed even with us because they were able to shoot so many free throws," he said.

The Tigers had 36 in the season opener Friday night in Wolfforth. The Steers added 34 more tries from the charity stripe in their first game.

In the Saturday night contest, which followed the finals of the girls' basketball tournament hosted and won by the Lady Steers, Big Spring had a better game, the coach said.

"We nearly scored a hundred," he said. "We had four in double figures, Brian Mayfield with 22 points, Abner Shellman with 13, Doug Young with 11 and Shawn Shellman with 11 points.

"That's always one of our goals, to have four or five players in double figures," he said.

He said the team earned 17 assists in the game, with Mayfield leading scoring and rebounding with 12.

Paxton invited parents and fans out to the Steers' family night, set for 6:30 p.m. Monday. During that exhibition the entire boys' basketball program will be showcased, with every player from grades seven through 12 introduced, Paxton said.

The teams and coaches will be introduced to parents and a short demonstration by the varsity is scheduled, he said.

Lady Steers win tourney

By SARAH LUMAN
Staff Writer

The Big Spring High School Lady Steers basketball team showed themselves ready to play with anybody in the district during their games in the Lady Steers' tournament here Friday and Saturday. The girls took the tournament crown in the finals by defeating Snyder 61-36.

"We saved our best game for the finals," coach C.E. Carmichael said of his squad after the tournament. In that match, the Lady Steer defense held Snyder to only four points in the third quarter.

The Lady Steers won two previous matches to reach the finals, defeating Lubbock High School Friday night, 58-35, and Hereford Saturday morning, 47-36.

Two Big Spring girls, Tami Wise and Katrina Thompson, were named to the all-tournament team. Other members of the outstanding squad for the contest were Hereford's Patricia Kahlick, Lubbock Coronado's Carmen MacLean, and Snyder's Terry Sue Henry.

Katrina Thompson led the Lady Steers' last match of the contest with 19 points. Big Spring led throughout the second half.

The Lady Steers left the court after the first half with a slender 24-20 lead. Coming out into the third quarter, they kept Snyder scoreless most of the first five minutes. The Big Spring defenders stuck to Snyder's players like glue.

In front of a home crowd noisy enough to be twice its actual size, the Lady Steers showed more of the game-winning form they have had all season.

With 5:40 left, after two quick foul calls against his team, Carmichael called a time out. When the buzzer sent them back onto the court, Big Spring's players settled down to business.

Voices in the crowd began to murmur, as they had Friday, "Hey, he-ey, goodbye."

Once again, they were prophetic voices.

Snyder's frustrated coach added two technicals to his team's woes, bringing out six Big Spring free throws, four of which sank to raise the score to 58-25.

Big Spring gave away a couple of fouls in the last minute and a half, but by then the Tigers were too far gone for a comeback, although they had too much class to quit. The Tigers hustled hard all through the second half.

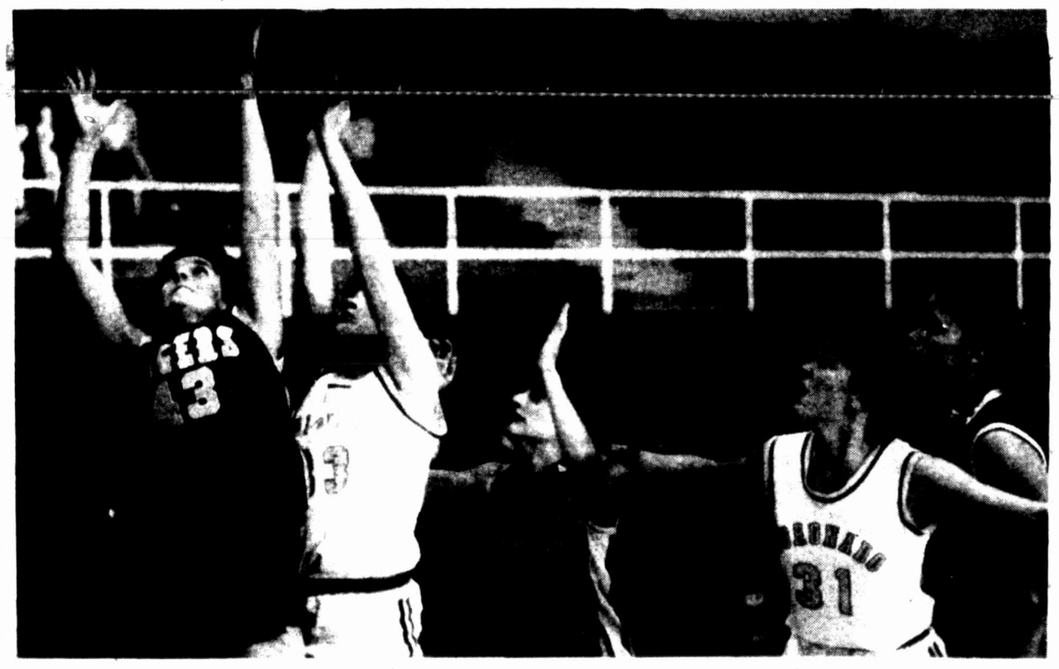

By the last two minutes, though, their position had put the Tigers in a corner, and some of their desperation began to show as they sent Lady Steers to the charity stripe time after time.

Five Big Spring points came from the free-throw line in the game's closing minutes.

In other tournament action, the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs' girls defeated the Hereford Lady Whitefaces for third place, 60-43.

Queens classic

McLellan, Panola wrest victories

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

The Howard College Hawk-Queen Classic basketball tournament ended Saturday night at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum with a game that pitted the Howard College Hawk-Queens against the McLennan High Lassies.

McLennan College won the game. Only a handful of spectators witnessed the one-point win, 73-72 win. A tremendous effort by sophomore Stefanie Massie broke another school record for most field goals in a game at 21. She added 13 rebounds and totaled 44 points in the loss.

Howard was smothered by Terri Porter's shooting. She sank two of four three-point efforts to start the High Lassies' streak that kept getting hotter as the night wore on.

The visitors was handling the Queens under the boards; the scoreboard toll kept rising for the Lassies. By the time the home team started its move, McLellan enjoyed a 43-25 lead.

Coach Don Stevens and the Queens seemed to be in trouble as the second half looked as if it would start like the first half ended. But Stevens changed the defense against the Lassies from a man to man to a box zone and one.

The move worked like a charm as they started to stop the outside shooting and the penetration was held off around the outer part of the paint.

"The key to our comeback was that we moved our defense to take away the outside shooting of Porter to keep her from shooting the three-pointers and keeping pressure inside," said Stevens.

With 8:04 to go in the game Howard started to cut away at the McLennan lead of 18 points that was begun early in the first-half to just eight points.

The Massie show was at its peak. Help came from Callie Cooley who had one of her better games. Cooley had eight assists and only two turnovers, helping break Massie open for a fine effort in the Classic's last game.

Cindy Johnson, the Queens point guard, used her ability to bring the ball downcourt to advantage, suffering a mere three turnovers along while earning eight assists. Johnson also sank two key pressure field throws with 22 seconds left.

The game's leading rebounder was Massie. The leading rebounder for the High Lassies was Renee Procter with nine, while Terri Porter was the leading scorer with 20 points.

Massie scored a total of 121 points in three games of the Hawk-Queen Classic Tournament.

Coach Stevens said he plans to nominate Stefanie Massie for All-American honors.

Coach Don Stevens had expressed concern going into the game without Karen Mitchell, who underwent arthoscopic surgery Friday morning.

"It's (her knee) a little sore but it's coming along just fine, I should be ready by the time conference gets here," Mitchell said. She plays an aggressive rebounding and inside physical scoring game, Stevens said, that is sorely missed.

Howard, with only a seven player squad suited out, managed to keep up with the Fillies. Stefanie Massie, Callie Cooley and Renee Crooks kept Panola from running away with the game, which was tied only once in the first half with 9:00 left.

Massie took a turn-around jumper to make the score 23-23. The Fillies started a rally of nine points to take charge of the opening half while the Queens managed only two points as the half ended with the tally 32-26.

Metcalf leads UT by Baylor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Tailback Eric Metcalf ran for two short-yardage touchdowns and returned a punt 59 yards for another score Saturday as Texas defeated Baylor 34-16 in Southwest Conference football.

Texas, 6-4, will play Texas A&M at College Station on Thanksgiving night for the SWC football title and host spot in the Cotton Bowl against Notre Dame.

The victory also gives Texas, under new Coach David McWilliams, an almost certain bowl bid regardless of the outcome of the A&M game.

Baylor has not won here against Texas since 1951, and the loss spoiled Baylor's hopes for a post-season bowl appearance.

Metcalf, son of former pro football star Terry Metcalf, ran 7 yards for Texas' first score in the first quarter, raced 59 yards with a Baylor punt early in the second period and ran 3 yards on fourth-and-3 in the fourth quarter for his third scoring run.

He also caught a pass for a two-point conversion and finished with 216 all-purpose yards. The 5-foot-9, 178-pound junior ranked No. 3 in that category prior to the game with an average of 180.3 yards.

Baylor, down 13-0 at halftime, scored 16 third-quarter points on a 44-yard field goal by Mark Mahler, a blocked punt by linebacker James Francis, who recovered in the end zone and a 3-yard run by Eric Gilstrap.

Aggies tramp Frogs, 42-24; Thanksgiving tussle set

FORT WORTH (AP) — Darren Lewis rushed for 196 yards and scored on touchdown runs of 35 and 80 yards Saturday to lift 16th-ranked Texas A&M to a 42-24 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Christian.

The victory set up an SWC championship showdown for the Aggies Thanksgiving night in College Station against the Texas Longhorns.

A&M increased its record to 8-2 and 5-1 in SWC play while the Frogs, who were playing without ace running back Tony Jeffery, finished the year 5-6 and 3-4.

Jeffery, the third leading rusher in the nation, was declared ineligible for his final college game by the NCAA for an "improper relationship" with a professional agent.

TCU led 24-23 with 7:54 to go on Lee Newman's field goal.

Lewis, who had a 70-yard scoring run called back by penalty in the fourth period, ran 80 yards for a score after his fumble bounced back into his arms.

Then Gary Jones returned an intercepted pass 54 yards for a touchdown to put TCU away.

Scott Slater kicked four field goals for the Aggies, who have defeated TCU 15 consecutive times. TCU's Tony Darthard scored on runs of 4 and 56 yards to give the underdog Horned Frogs a 14-10 halftime lead.

A 27-yard Craig Stump to Rod Harris scoring pass, and two Slater field goals put A&M ahead 23-14.

David Rascoe's 5-yard scoring run and Newman's field goal then gave the crowd of 40,164 fans hope of an upset before Lewis' spectacular run.

Fiesta Bowl.

Collins rushed 13 times for 131 yards while quarterback Charles Thompson and fullback Rotnei Anderson — the last two filling in for injured regulars Jamelle Holieway and Lydell Carr — added 126 and 119, respectively. Oklahoma finished with 419 rushing yards against a Nebraska defense which had allowed an average of only 67.9 in its first nine games.

Nebraska led 7-0 at halftime as tailback Keith Jones ran 25 yards for a first-period touchdown, the only time the Cornhuskers moved the ball in the first half.

Except for that 10-play, 84-yard scoring drive, the nation's best defense shut down the top-rated offense. Nebraska managed only 14 yards on its other five first-half possessions.

Despite trailing at halftime, Oklahoma dominated the first two periods. But Anderson, making his second start, fumbled at the Nebraska 8- and 25-yard lines. In addition, Lashar missed a 44-yard field goal and Thompson was intercepted at the Nebraska 7 late in the second period.

"When we were behind, we just kept pushing each other because we knew we were going to win," Anderson said. "But after we scored our first touchdown you could see the Nebraska sideline was down.

"I think we had the momentum at halftime because all they got out of our fumbles, interceptions and mistakes was seven points. They only had the ball on our side of the field once (in the first half), and that was on that one drive.

"We were whoopin' them off the line of scrimmage and the momentum was on our side."

With a record Memorial Stadium crowd of 76,663 — some 3,013 above the listed seating capacity and the Cornhuskers' 155th consecutive sellout — waiting for the annual rally it has come to expect from Oklahoma, the Sooners got the break they needed on the third play of the second half. A pass by Taylor was deflected by cornerback Derrick White and free safety Rickey Dixon made the first of his two interceptions, returning it from the Nebraska 37 to the 13.

Anderson gained two yards and the Sooners tied the score on the next play when Stafford took a pitchout around right end and tiptoed down the sideline. Lashar kicked the extra point.

Basketball coaches see promise in frosh

By The Associated Press

Some of the brightest faces in college basketball this season will be fresh ones and it looks like Kentucky is at the head of the incoming class.

Pittsburgh, Louisville and Ohio State also have highly regarded freshmen, and Maryland and Temple might have the rookies who'll make the biggest immediate splash. But from top to bottom, Kentucky is king.

Coach Eddie Sutton has a crop of newcomers that should help him forget the troubles of last season, when the Wildcats were down to seven healthy scholarship players at one point and finished 18-11.

LeRon Ellis, a 6-11 center from Santa Ana, Calif., and 6-6 guard Eric Manuel of Macon, Ga., head the Kentucky rookie corps that includes 6-7 John Pelphrey, who was "Mr. Basketball" in Kentucky; 6-7 Deron Feldhaus, whose father played for Kentucky in the 1960s; 6-8 Jonathon Davis of Florida and Sutton's son, Sean, a 5-11 guard.

It's such a promising group that even the loss of 6-11 Johnny Pittman, who transferred to Oklahoma State after failing to qualify academically, couldn't take the luster off Sutton's recruiting efforts.

"They had maybe one of the best groups of all time with John Pittman scheduled to come," said Bob Gibbons of All Star Sports Publications, who keeps close tabs on high school players. "Even without him, it's still a great group with Ellis and Manuel.

"Long-time observers who watch a lot of Kentucky practices tell me they've never seen two more impressive freshmen."

Ellis, the son of former NBA player LeRoy Ellis, averaged 23 points and 10 rebounds in leading Santa Ana's Mater Dei High School to a 31-1 record last season. He can move, shoot and dominate the middle.

Manuel averaged 24 points a game as a high school senior and was Georgia's player of the year.

"They are the most talented freshman group I've ever coached," said Sutton, who guided the Wildcats to a 32-4 record two years ago. "Their attitude and actions on and off the court I would rate A-plus.

"I think the freshmen will battle the veterans, but it will take time. You always give starting positions to upperclassmen and let the rookies beat them out. They will have an impact on the basketball team."

Gibbons thinks that impact will be significant.

"They're going to make the Wildcats the team to beat in the SEC and maybe in the national tournament as they mature," he said.

Maryland didn't win an Atlantic Coast Conference game during the first season of its post-Len Bias era, but 6-10 Brian Williams is expected to make the Terrapins a force in the league race this year. He was on par with Patrick Ewing as a shot blocker in high school and averaged 18 points a game.

Texas Tech

they can always come back with a big play. You hold them down, but sooner or later they're going to get loose."

The Raiders had anticipated a jubilant dressing room, with officials extending their second invitation to the Independence Bowl in as many years. The Raiders lost to Mississippi last season in Dykes' first game as head coach.

"We blew it," groused quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver. "We had everything to gain and everything to lose. The defense played its heart out. But we just didn't go out and execute."

Dacus was sacked seven times in the first half by the aggressive Tech defense that held the Cougars to 85 total yards.

The Raiders, 6-4-1 for the season and 3-3-1 in the SWC, continued the charge in the second half. Tech's scoring came on a 2-yard touchdown run by Isaac Garnett and Scott Segrist's 39-yard field goal.

The Cougars, 2-6-1 and 1-4-1, reached Tech's 14 late in the third quarter, but Dacus fumbled after being hit by Tony Durden and Brian Rollins recovered at the Raider 36.

Garnett scored on a 2-yard first-quarter run, and the Red Raiders held on to lead 7-0 at the half.

Tech quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver completed a 24-yard pass to James Gray and Gray ran another 10 yards in the third quarter to set up Segrist's field goal.

Lady Steers

High School lost to Andrews, 65-53.

Early games Saturday saw Snyder overcome Coronado to go to the finals by the slenderest of margins, 68-67, and the Lady Steers defeat Hereford 47-36.

"This was our best game this season," Carmichael said, after the finals. He walked off the court as the boys' squad trotted out to prepare for their game against the Frenship Tigers from Wolfforth.

Carmichael had expressed his concerns that the loss of three starters from last year's district-winning team would hamper the Lady Steers this year.

What he saw of his team's district foes in the tournament did not reassure him, he said. "This (loss) was not an indication of what Snyder will be like when we see them in district.

"They'll be very strong, and so will four or five other teams in our district," the coach said. "Andrews, definitely.

"We had a chance to look at other teams in our district early (by playing them) in the tournament, and we're pleased with the win.

"But Monday we have to go back to workouts, start working to be ready for the next game," he said.

The Big Spring team's performance in the finals was paced by Katrina Thompson, who joined Tami Wise on the all-tourney squad. Gisila Spears also played well for the Lady Steers both in Saturday's finals and in Big Spring's first game of the tournament Friday night.

The Lady Steers easily put away Lubbock High School in that contest, leading from the opening tip to the buzzer with grace and ease. The Lady Steers have started their season on a winning note.

Navy basketball

Will the Midshipmen recover from Robinson's graduation?

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The 1987-88 season shapes up as a $26 million question for the Midshipmen of Navy.

Is there life after David Robinson?

The answer has already taken shape at the Mids' preseason practices at Halsey Field House, as Coach Pete Herrmann tries to keep everybody focused on the upcoming season rather than who is missing from last year's squad.

"Dave Robinson had, of course, as great an effect on a basketball program as an athlete can have," Herrmann said. "But you can't look back on it because you've got a whole new team, a lot of young players. ... You've got to make them believe that they're the future and they're going to be solid players also."

Robinson's absence has been noticed from the start by Navy's two returning starters, junior forward Derric Turner and senior guard Cliff Rees.

"The people who were here and played with David last year can feel it already out on the court," Turner said. "When you had the nation's best college basketball player on your team, a seven-foot center, you want to get him the ball everytime you go down the court. We used Dave a lot.

"He was a big part of our offense. Now when we get out there ... we need scoring out of everybody now. We can feel it. The freshmen I'm sure can't feel it, but we know he's missing."

"It's definitely different," said Rees, "because with Dave you just knew if you could get it to him he'd score. ... If we needed points there was no doubt where we were going and everybody knew it. But there was nothing they could do to stop it."

Robinson, the only Division I player ever to amass more than 2,500 points and 1,300 rebounds while shooting better than 60 percent from the field, was the first player selected in the NBA college draft by the San Antonio Spurs.

Earlier this month, he signed a 8-year, $26-million contract with the Spurs and will join the team after completing the next two years of his Naval obligation.

With Robinson leading the way, Navy won the Colonial Athletic Association championship the last three years, winning 37 of their 42 CAA games. The Mids won 82 games over the last three years and advanced into the NCAA post-season tournament each season.

There are no illusions that the Mids will match their 26-6 record a year ago. But they don't think a fourth straight CAA title and another trip to the NCAAs is out of the question.

"Our goals are maybe a little bit more limited, but they're obtainable goals," said Turner. "We can't say, 'Hey, let's win the national championship.' No. No.

"Come tournament time, that's what you want to play well, that's when you've got to be at your best. That's what we're shooting for."

Purdue smacks Arkansas, advances in tourney

By The Associated Press

Second-ranked Purdue, behind Todd Mitchell's 22 points, crushed Arkansas-Little Rock 102-88 Friday night in an opening-round game in the NIT Big Apple college basketball tournament.

Also advancing with first-round victories were No. 18 Georgia Tech, Iowa State, Seton Hall, New Mexico and UCLA.

Georgia Tech had no problems with Alcorn State 114-71; Iowa State downed Texas 100-83; Seton Hall defeated George Mason 85-63; New Mexico stopped Weber St. 88-72, and UCLA routed Oral Roberts 119-79.

At West Lafayette, Ind., Mitchell scored seven straight points late in the first half as the Boilermakers used a 9-1 spurt to take a 51-37 lead over the Trojans with 43 seconds left before intermission. Purdue had four players in double figures, including senior guard Troy Lewis, who scored 18 points and pulled down a career-high 11 rebounds.

Forward James Dawn led the Arkansas-Little Rock Trojans with 27 points.

In Atlanta, Tom Hammonds and Brian Oliver each scored career-high 29 points as Georgia Tech crushed Alcorn State to move into the second round. The Yellow Jackets were never pressed by the Braves, a longtime Southwestern Athletic Conference power coming off one of its worst seasons ever, 5-23.

Tech never trailed in the game and held their biggest lead at 103-61 with just over five minutes remaining.

Hammonds sat out the final nine minutes after giving Tech an 89-55 lead. Oliver left with 6:24 to play after giving Tech a 100-61 advantage.

Ferrell added 20 points for Tech, while Roosevelt Tate led the Braves with 25 points, 19 coming in the second half.

In Ames, Iowa, Jeff Grayer scored 36 points and center LaFester Rhodes, making his first star, added a career-high 27 to lead Iowa State over Texas.

The Cyclones rattled the youthful Texas team with a full-court press that led to numerous easy baskets. The Longhorns, who have 10 sophomores and freshmen on their 13-man roster, turned the ball over 18 times in the first half and 31 times in the game.

Travis Mays, Texas' lone returning starter, led the Longhorns with 27 points.

In Piscataway, N.J., forward Daryll Walker scored 20 points and Martin Salley added 18 as Seton Hall beat George Mason.

The Pirates went on a 12-2 run after George Mason had closed to 56-50 with 11:45 remaining. Nick Katsikis scored five points and Walker added four to give the Pirates a 68-52 advantage with 6:35 left in the game.

UTEP deal goes sour for NMMI

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP) — The University of Texas-El Paso's signing of a freshman center currently attending New Mexico Military Institute has angered officials at the junior college in Roswell.

UTEP said Francis Ezenwa, a 6-foot-9 Nigerian, had signed a letter of intent to play for the Miners next season. Ezenwa is averaging 11 points and almost eight rebounds a game this season for NMMI.

NMMI Coach Carlyle Dean and Athletic Director Richard "Lefty" Stecklin both are unhappy with UTEP.

"I've got no problem with him signing, but I just expected the courtesy of having somebody at UTEP contact us," said Stecklin.

"In 27 years of junior college ball, I've never seen a school go behind somebody's back the way UTEP did," said Dean.

UTEP assistant coach Rus Bradburd said he did not contact NMMI because he felt Dean and Stecklin might try to convince Ezenwa to say at the school for another year.

"We felt if we told them Francis was coming here, which we knew he wanted to anyway, then they'd try to talk him out of it," Bradburd said.

Lakers just beat Mavericks

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Michael Cooper made three free throws in the final seven seconds as the Los Angeles Lakers held off a rally by the Dallas Mavericks for a 119-116 NBA victory Friday night and remained unbeaten in eight games.

Trailing 114-102, the Mavericks outscored Los Angeles 12-2 to close within 116-114 on Mark Aguirre's two free throws with 18 seconds left.

Cooper hit one of two free throws with seven seconds left, but the Mavericks countered with Rolando Blackman's two free throws to close to 117-116 with four seconds remaining.

Cooper then sank two free throws with two seconds remaining for the final margin as Dallas was unable to get off a final shot before the buzzer.

The Lakers led 99-74 at the end of three quarters, but Dallas connected on 13 of their first 15 shots of the final period — a 26-8 run — to close to 107-100.

Aguirre, though saddled with foul trouble for much of the first half, led all scorers with 35 points.

Byron Scott, in foul trouble during the first half, led Los Angeles with 25 points, including four 3-point shots in four attempts.

Magic Johnson scored 20 points and added 15 assists for Los Angeles.

With their 8-0 record, the Lakers are off to the best start in franchise history and have the NBA's only unbeaten record.

The Pros

Different teams leading the NFL pack

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The Houston Oilers playing important games in late November? The San Diego Chargers with the best record in football through nine weeks? The New Orleans Saints a favorite for a playoff berth?

What's going on here?

The NFL season, already skewered by a players' strike that gave us three weeks of replacement games and further muddled the standings, has stopped making sense.

Oh, sure, the Bears, Browns, Redskins and 49ers are in first place, while Atlanta, Detroit and St. Louis have struggled. There is some normality.

But the Raiders have lost six straight games after a 3-0 start, their worst slide since 1962, when they were the AFL's weakest team. The Kansas City Chiefs, a playoff qualifier last season, are 1-8. The Rams, who have never failed to make the Super Bowl tournament since John Robinson became coach in 1983, are 2-7 and thinking about all those draft picks they acquired for Eric Dickerson.

Then there are the New York Giants, who ended 30 seasons between championships with a Super Bowl victory last January. The Giants looked like a solid bet to be the first repeat champion since Pittsburgh in 1979. Their offense had matured, their defense was awesome.

So the Giants lost their first two games before the walkout, had the league's worst replacement squad and dropped three more, and are 3-6. Even if they win the rest of their games, they might fall short of the playoffs.

Thirteen teams have winning records this season. Six of them were losers in 1986, including Indianapolis (3-13 then, 5-4 now), San Diego (4-12, 8-1) and Houston (5-11, 6-3). The first five teams scheduled to select at the beginning of last spring's draft were 17-63. This season, they are 24-20-1.

"It's been a strange season," New York Jets Coach Joe Walton said. "The strike has done a lot to the standings. Nothing is predictable."

The biggest turnaround has been made by the Chargers, who already are assured of their first winning record since 1982, the last strike-interrupted season. They were 1-8 at this time last year.

A coaching change that brought a new, defense-oriented philosophy, has been a major factor in San Diego.

"We've been building on defense for a while, and the players we've drafted have been producing," Coach Al Saunders said. The Chargers were one of the league's most entertaining teams with Air Coryell. But they couldn't stop anyone.

Now, they can — only Cleveland, Indianapolis and Washington have given up fewer points.

Saunders said the addition of linebacker Chip Banks — who had been asking out of Cleveland for several years and has provided the veteran leadership the Chargers sought — and the maturation of LB Billy Ray Smith, DE Joe Phillips and the entire secondary has given his team the well-rounded look it's lacked for years.

"We can beat you with our defense," Banks said. "The Chargers always had to beat you with Dan (Fouts) throwing the ball. Now, we have a lot of ways of beating you."

The improvements of Indianapolis, Houston and New Orleans also can be pinpointed by looking at the coaching staffs. Ron Meyer, who was sacked by a player mutiny in New England 1984, took over the winless Colts for the 14th game of the '86 season. They won. They also won the next two games, and they are 5-4 this year.

"Coach Meyer has been honest with everyone," linebacker Duane Bickett said. "He told us straight out that the only thing he would judge us on was what we did on the field for him. He said we had too much (talent) to be losing."

Apparently, he's right. With Dickerson in the backfield and Bickett leading a staunch defense, the Colts are no flukes.

In Houston, Jerry Glanville is in his second full season as coach. After surviving an eight-game losing streak last season that would have gotten most coaches fired there, Glanville is a frontrunner for coach of the year.

"We knew we were much improved last year but it was hard to sell that," Glanville said. "I think eveybody else believed it, but when you're not winning, the bottom line is nobody believes it."

Now, the Oilers are tied atop the AFC Central with Cleveland and have three of their six victories against division opponents on the road. They've won four road games this season, one more than the Oilers managed in the previous five years combined.

Oilers battle Browns for AFC Central lead

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

The Houston Oilers are so unaccustomed to the NFL spotlight that now that they have it, they're complaining about, of all things, the announcers NBC has assigned to do their game Sunday with the Cleveland Browns.

Just another development for upstart week in the NFL, the Sunday that the league's have-nots-turned-haves get to prove that they're more than strike-created mirages.

The Oilers, who are 6-3, host the 6-3 Cleveland Browns with the winner taking over first place in the AFC Central. The Browns were supposed to be there, the Oilers were not.

The 8-1 San Diego Chargers also have to prove themselves in the toughest surroundings — against the 6-3 Seahawks at the Kingdome in a game that could all but clinch they AFC West for Chargers.

The 6-3 New Orleans Saints, a game behind San Francisco in the NFC West, return from three straight wins on the road to play the scarred but highly dangerous Super Bowl champion Giants. That one has a television angle, too — it's the first time since 1984 the Superdome will be sold out in time for the game to be telecast locally.

And the Indianapolis Colts, 5-4, take on battered New England.

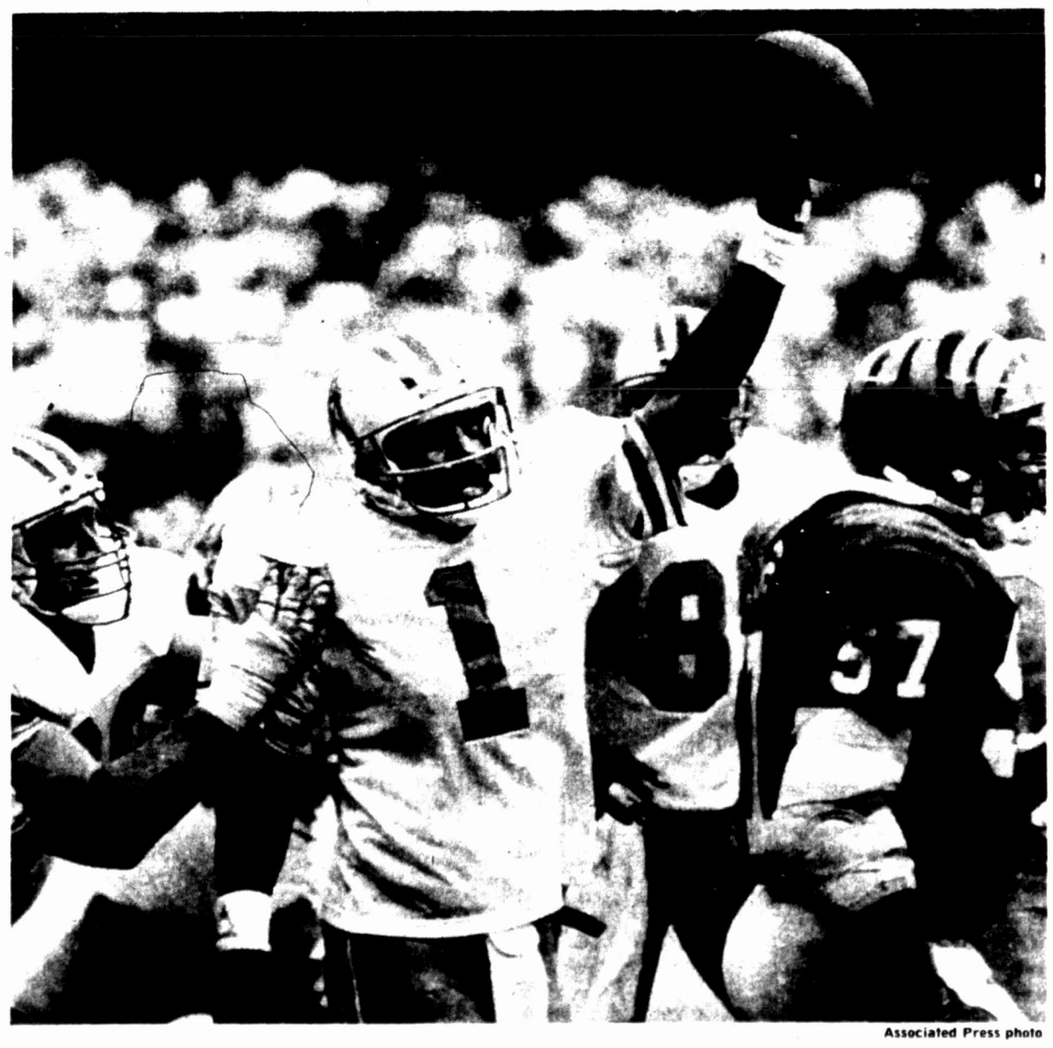

So with all this going on, the Oilers complained that the game will be broadcast by Jim Donovan, who works for a Cleveland station, and former Brown Reggie Rucker. While Coach Jerry Glanville was trying to get his team ready for the Browns, General Manager Ladd Herzeg was on the phone to NBC in New York, trying to get the announcers switched.

"I've never heard this one before. It's a first," said NBC spokesman Kevin Monaghan. "I think they would have bigger things to be worried about."

The Oilers created the television brouhaha last week in a kind of semi-final, crushing Pittsburgh 20-3 on the road to break a three-way tie at the top. But the Steelers weren't expected to be a challenger and both Bernie Kosar and the Cleveland defense present more difficult problems than Pittsburgh.

Cleveland is expected to put more pressure on Warren Moon, second in the AFC with 13 touchdown passes, with an eight-man front modeled after Chicago's "46" defense. The Browns turned to it after Chip Banks was traded to San Diego, hoping it could adjust for the absence of the man who had been one of their top pass rushers.

"The measures we had to take because of Chip's absence have led us to do things we probably wouldn't have done, and which have been very successful for us," says linebacker Clay Matthews. "I think we've become a better defense because of it."

NFL Capsules

Buffalo (4-5) at New York Jets (5-4)
Another key game in the .500 division, the AFC East.

The Jets have a knack for barely edging the Bills. They won by four and one points last year, then 31-28 in the season's opening game.

The longer the Bills go, the more they use Cornelius Bennett, their prime newcomer.

But the Jets are starting to benefit from oft-injured old-timers — Freeman McNeil rushed for 184 yards last week and Joe Klecko returned from his knee troubles to register five sacks against Kansas City. This week's returnee is linebacker Lance Mehl, who has been out since midway through last season.

Denver (5-3-1) at Los Angeles Raiders (3-6)
The Raiders have now lost six straight, starting with a 30-14 loss at Mile High Stadium in a strike game and things shouldn't get much better if John Elway approaches what he did to the Bears Monday night.

"We just seem to sputter," Coach Tom Flores says of his team, whose sputtering is due at least in part to sputtering quarterbacks, Marc Wilson again this week.

Still, Denver is no great road team — 1-2-1 this year — although it's beaten the Raiders two of the last three games in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles Rams (2-7) at Washington (7-2) (Monday Night)
Not quite the Monday night matchup ABC envisioned but it could get interesting.

The problem is that the Rams' strength (Charles White, who ran for 213 yards against St. Louis last week) runs into Washington's strength, stopping the run.

Meanwhile, Doug Williams starts for Jay Schroeder at quarterback for the Redskins. Williams replaced Schroeder in the second quarter of last week's 20-13 win over Detroit, a rare kind of switch for Joe Gibbs.

Detroit (2-7) at Chicago (7-2)
"We stink," Mike Ditka said after his real Bears lost for the first time in Denver Monday night.

Darryl Rogers would love to have the Lions stink the way the Bears do, although the 108 points Chicago has surrendered since the strike are the most in a four-game stretch in Ditka's six years as head coach.

One problem — injuries to Otis Wilson and Dan Hampton that have hurt the pass rush. Chicago had no sacks against Elway and the Broncos.

San Francisco (7-2) at Tampa Bay (4-5)
A dangerous game for the 49ers, who have to fly across the country into hot weather to meet a spunky team that's a lot spunkier at home.

Joe Montana should be in better fettle than last week, when he played the last three quarters with a bruised index finger on his throwing hand after he replaced his replacement — Steve Young, the former Buc who suffered a concussion in the first period.

In fact, there's an interesting mix — Steve DeBerg, the Bucs' quarterback, lost his job in San Francisco to Montana, lost it in Tampa to Young and is now waiting to lose it to Vinny Testaverde.

Atlanta (2-7) at Minnesota (5-4)
The Vikings may be the best 5-4 team in the league — they were 0-3 during the strike and the defense is maturing, particularly up front, where Chris Doleman is starting to augment Keith Millard and Doug Martin on one of the toughest fronts in the NFL.

Atlanta is a legitimate 2-7 — its offense is almost nonexistent. They almost beat Cincinnati last week at home, but almosts don't count.

Pittsburgh (5-4) at Cincinnati (3-6)
Cincinnati's Sam Wyche thinks the 16-10 win over the Falcons leaves his team with a shot at the playoffs. That wouldn't be unusual — the Bengals generally start slow and finish fast, but they may be a little too far out of it this time.

The Steelers and Mark Malone were dismal against the Oilers last week but Pittsburgh has been resilient and Chuck Noll needs this one to stay in the division race.

St. Louis (3-6) at Philadelphia (4-5)
The difference between these two is greater than the record — Philadelphia's regulars are 4-2 and they're a coming team.

St. Louis allowed Charles White 213 yards last week and allowed the Rams to control the ball for the last 11 minutes to set up the game-winning field goal.

Philadelphia might be able to do the same. Though the Eagles three-game winning streak ended against the Giants last week, they ran for 191 yards, about three times what New York usually allows on the ground.

Winning racer not like his father

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — "Ironhead" is his nickname. Scrap iron is what Dale Earnhardt seems made of.

He is built like a linebacker — slim of hip, wide of shoulder. His hard eyes, craggy face and bushy mustache combine to give Earnhardt the look of a man who would wade waist deep in wildcats to get what he wants.

Nobody questions his competitive spirit either.

He incites passionate feelings in race fans and many of the other drivers in NASCAR stock car racing.

The 35-year-old driver from Kannapolis, N.C., is his father's son. But where Ralph Earnhardt won the respect and admiration of many of his fellow drivers as a fierce competitor, his only son cannot seem to be anything but the bad guy.

Ralph Earnhardt, who never made it to stardom in the big leagues of auto racing, was "Ironheart." Dale is stuck with "Ironhead."

When he died of a heart attack in 1973, the elder Earnhardt was working on a carburetor in his makeshift race shop behind his North Carolina home.

The younger Earnhardt, unlike some other second generation drivers, had only second-hand tools and used equipment to start his racing career with.

The younger Earnhardt has earned millions of dollars in racing, but not the love that flows from the grandstands onto drivers like Richard Petty, Bobby Allison and Cale Yarborough, the stars of a past generation.

Earnhardt often is the object of boos in prerace introductions, and cries of "Look out for Ironhead" often echo through the stands when he is chasing someone down.

In 1986, in a spring race at Richmond, Va., Earnhardt and Darrell Waltrip, another three-time Winston Cup champion who never has professed any love for Earnhardt, were battling for the lead late in the race.

Earnhardt made a move to pass Waltrip, caught Waltrip's left-rear bumper and sent both cars spinning hard into the fence.

"That was one of the most stupid things he's ever done," Waltrip said at the time. "I can't figure out what he's thinking about. Maybe he doesn't think at all."

Earnhardt said, "That's racing. I tried to make a move and misjudged it. I just made a mistake, but it was a racing mistake."

Geoff Bodine, who doesn't even like to talk about Earnhardt, watched the end of a race earlier this season from the top of a transporter in the garage area.

After seeing Earnhardt literally push another car out of his way to take the lead on the way to one of his 11 victories this season, Bodine shook his head and said, "That man just doesn't care what he does or how he does it. He's like a bull watching a red flag."

"Part of the problem is that Dale has got the reputation now," Bonnett said. "When other guys rub fenders and bump somebody, everybody says, 'Hey, that's great racing.' When Dale does it, it's 'Boy, look at that dirty guy.'"

Earnhardt doesn't like to constantly defend his racing style. He insists it's just part of the game.

"I race every race with a positive attitude and flat out," he said. "It's hard as heck to run up front, and that's what we've been doing in about every race. That means everybody on the team is doing their jobs, including me. We're hitting on all of our cylinders."

Richard Childress, a journeyman NASCAR driver who has become a glowing success as a team-owner since hiring Earnhardt as his driver in 1984, has no doubts about his man.

"I think Dale will go down as one of the greats in the sport," Childress said. "That's one thing we never question. We may question the chassis or the tires or the engine, but never what the driver is gonna do. He's always aggressive and he always does a great job."

As for Earnhardt's black sheep reputation, Childress said, "We get along great. We listen to each other. He's a winner. A lot of people didn't like the Yankees when they were winning the American League every year."

Waltrip heard the analogy comparing Earnhardt to New York's great baseball teams of the past, snorted and said, "The Yankees never put nobody into a wall."

Top drivers see start in 1987 finale

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Dale Earnhardt and Bill Elliott, the two most successful NASCAR stock car drivers in 1987, both look at the Atlanta Journal 500 as a beginning rather than an ending.

Earnhardt already has won his second straight Winston Cup championship and the third of his career, but still beckoning to him in Sunday's season-finale is another goal — the $2 million mark.

Earnhardt, who has 11 victories and 20 top-five finishes in 28 starts this season, heads into the 500-mile race at Atlanta International Raceway with 1987 winnings of $1.98 million, including $614,000 in postseason awards.

He needs to win just $17,225 to join Elliott as the only auto racers ever to surpass $2 million in a single season.

Elliott set the all-time record of $2.3 million in 1985 when he won 11 races, 11 poles and the Winston Million bonus for winning three of the series' Big Four events.

"The money is just another part of the success we've had this season," Earnhardt said. "It comes with the kind of consistency we've had all year."

A sixth place or better on Sunday will put him over the $2 million mark.

But, more important than the money, Earnhardt says another victory would let everyone know the team is ready for 1988.

"All of our key people will continue with the Richard Childress team," he said, "... and the car has already been re-engineered.

"We knew coming into this season how tough it is to repeat as champions. But now we know how it can be done. With a lot of hard work and some good luck. We know the work will be done."

Elliott has had what would be a great season for most drivers, with five victories and eight pole positions, including Sunday's.

"Sure, we've had a real decent season and we've proved we've got a heckuva race team," Elliott said. "But Dale has had a great year. Our problem this year was that we just fell out of too many races and he (Earnhardt) didn't.

Elliott needs only to finish Sunday's 328-lap event to nail down second place in the season standings, but most of the top 10 positions, and the point fund money that goes with them, are up for grabs Sunday.

Other than Bonnett, who is recuperating from leg injuries suffered in a race crash last month, the rest will be out to solidify or improve their positions.

"It could get pretty wild out there on Sunday," said Waltrip. "It's the last chance this year to show people what you can do, it's a chance to get yourself some momentum going into 1988 and there's still a bunch of money to be made."

The rest of the drivers from the top 10 are scattered through the 42-car field.

The race will be televised live on ESPN starting at 1:30 p.m. CST.

Olympics

South Korean struggle spotlighted

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea is completing preparations for the 1988 Olympics amid growing hope that political turmoil and communist North Korea will not disrupt the Games.

Government and Olympic officials are increasingly confident the Seoul Games will be a major success and end the chain of boycotts and terrorism that plagued the last four Summer Games.

"We can begin the Games tomorrow," Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the International Olympic Committee said Nov. 19 at the end of a visit to Seoul to check on preparations.

But the country must overcome major political obstacles before the Games begin Sept. 17, including crucial presidential elections and the first peaceful transfer of power in its history. Archrival North Korea's demand to co-host the games has not been resolved.

South Korea's ability to stage the Olympics was questioned during the summer when hundreds of thousands of people swarmed into the streets to demand the fall of President Chun Doo-hwan.

The ability of South Korea to stage the Olympics was questioned during the summer when hundreds of thousands of people swarmed into the streets to demand the fall of President Chun Doo-hwan.

South Korean and Olympic officials now say Chun's agreement to direct presidential elections to be held Dec. 16 and his stepping down Feb. 25 will defuse the political situation.

Samaranch said he was confident all political leaders realize the Games are crucial to establishing South Korea as a growing power.

"The presidential candidates fully understand the Korean peoples' will for the success of the Games and strongly support the Games," he said.

The accord of the political parties on the importance of making the Games a success may not last if government candidate Roh Tae-woo wins the election.

The Games would automatically become an ideal target for anti-government demonstrations if the government wins.

North Korea remains the other shadow hanging over the Games with its demand to co-host the event.

The two Koreas are bitter enemies who technically remain at war following the end of the Korean War in 1953. North and South have huge armies poised on their border just 30 miles from Seoul, and the two sides exchanged gunfire as recently as Saturday.

South Korea, which has refused to share its host role, sees the Games as the ultimate political and diplomatic triumph over the North.

The United States, which is Seoul's chief ally and has some 40,000 troops in South Korea to help guard against the North, is becoming confident that Pyongyang will not disrupt the Games. U.S. forces will help provide security for the Olympics.

Edwin Derwinski, U.S. undersecretary of state for security assistance, said after talks in Seoul in November that North Korea would be internationally ostracized if it disrupted the games.

Derwinski said it appeared increasingly certain that communist nations would not honor North Korea's call for a boycott if its demand was not met. The North could do nothing that would risk harming athletes of its allies, he said.

The IOC has backed Seoul while conducting negotiations with both Koreas in Lausanne, Switzerland to persuade the North to participate in the Seoul Games.

North Korea has been offered five of the Game's 24 events if it drops the co-host demand. North Korea has said it will now wait for the outcome of the South Korean elections to see if its call for talks with Seoul on co-hosting would be accepted.

Samaranch said nothing more could be done. "The problem with North Korea is their problem. We made an offer. We are keeping the door open," he said.

It would be difficult to do anything further to accomodate North Korea after the Jan. 17 deadline to take part in the games, he said.

We knocked down the satellite

You listen to us because we listen to you. Just a little over a year ago KBYG began an experiment with automated satellite programming. they said we'd have only the top country hits. They promised us the highest quality announcers.

Problem was, sometimes what's the top country hit in Los Angeles isn't in Big Spring. And vice versa. And those high quality announcers in LA didn't know a thing about what's going on in Big Spring.

So we decided to ask you — the listeners. The "Question of the Day" on "Ask Your Neighbors" Friday, October 30 was "Do you prefer automated satellite programming or live local announcers? Live and local won by 37-1.

KBYG brought back Vance Kimble from 5-10 a.m. and Richard Paul Fleckenstein from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. We've introduced some bright new talent: Melinda Ellison from 4-6 p.m.; Betty Hankins from 6-7 p.m. and Steve Cook from 1-5 a.m.

Of course we'll continue our commitment to the news — with CBS on-the-hour and local news at a new time, half-past-the-hour. That's every hour, 24 hours a day. Now, KBYG is the ONLY radio station in Big Spring with a live, local personality 24 hours a day. That's REAL radio.

P.S. KBYG LISTENS TO YOU. Call us anytime at 263-0228. For requests, public service announcements, news tips. To buy, sell, trade. Or to express your opinion on "Ask Your Neighbor at 8:06 a.m. weekdays. To tell us what we're doing wrong. Or what we're doing right.

Looking forward to family life

Celebrating and honoring familes who have been formed through adoption is only one facet of National Adoption Week, which begins today.

The annual observation, sponsored by the North American Council on Adoptable Children, also represents a time to consider the children awaiting adoption homes.

Contrary to the stereotyped concept of adopting babies, state officials recommend consideration be given to available older children.

In recent years, fewer healthy infants are available and families more frequently consider adopting older children, according to information from the Texas Department of Human Services to the release.

In Texas most older children are placed by the state Department of Human Services, which does not charge an adoption fee, explained Jeannie Hunt, foster care recruiter, during a recent interview.

Caseworkers in Midland report they currently need families to adopt older children — 10 to 14 years of age.

Hunt said that children are only removed from their homes under life threatening situtations, such as physical or sexual abuse, neglect or abandonment, said Hunt.

Kelly, a quiet 13-year-old, and Stephanie, an expressive and outgoing 10-year-old, are sisters who would like to find a family in Big Spring.

Both girls have been in foster care for 1½ years. Legal ties with their biological parents have been terminated, said Hunt, and the girls are now ready to be united with a family.

"In general, we try to reunite children with their family. If that doesn't work, then we go through the courts to terminate parental rights," said Hunt.

Kelly and Stephanie know there is a possiblity they may not be placed together — but both girls agree if they can keep in touch with each other they don't mind being adopted separately.

"I want a new environment. I want it to work and I want to have sisters," said Kelly.

"I want a home I can call a home. I want a mamma and daddy that's nice," said Stephanie.

Stephanie wishes to be an only child or the oldest child in the family.

"It's better for me (the prospect of being adopted separately) — a lot better for her, because she makes me mad a lot," Kelly said with a laugh.

Prospective adoptive parents go through a two- to three-month educational process and home study, said Hunt.

The children make placement visits to the prospecitve adoptive parents' home, after which they are placed for six months, she added.

"If the child is negative about the adoptive parents, the adoption may not go through," said Hunt.

There is a six-month grace period, in which the adoptive parents [illegible] if everything [illegible] ever met a child that didn't still love their (natural) parents in some way — no matter what's happened," she said.

"We don't candy coat things with our kids. They get the cold, hard facts," said Hunt.

Stephanie is optimistic about her prospects for adoption — "I want a good home and to get all the problems out of the way. I want to live in a house with two bedrooms — if they can afford it," said Stephanie.

Although Stephanie wants to live in Big Spring, she said she hopes to visit Dallas.

Kelly, who feels adoption will be better for her, said if she had three wishes, she would wish for a horse. "And if they were still alive, I'd want a unicorn. And I want a family that I'm special to," she added.

Both girls said they have love, cooperation and help to offer a family.

"For fun I like to put on makeup, eat, sleep, skate, eat, go bowling and eat," said Stephanie.

Kelly enjoys skating, bowling and swimming.

Stephanie said she wants to be spoiled. "She already is," said Kelly.

For information on adopting these girls or other older children, Toni Rash, local representative of the Department of Human Services, can be reached at 263-7671.

Heart institute celebrates 25 years with kids it saved

HOUSTON (AP) — Susan Holt said she and her husband had no choice when they consented to a heart transplant for their daughter Kristin.

"Choices are vanilla or chocolate ice cream," Mrs. Holt said. "Transplant was not a choice. It was a necessity."

The parents of at least two other children who have undergone heart transplants at the Texas Heart Institute agreed. Their children are the youngest among the estimated 103 heart transplant recipients scheduled to attend the 25th anniversary celebration of the Texas Heart Institute Saturday night.

Children who undergo heart transplants are still the anomaly. But more than 1,300 heart transplants have been performed in adults and a few children nationwide.

"The alternative (to transplant) is that there is no alternative," said Jane Remington, whose daughter Sara was only 8 months old when she underwent the surgery Nov. 1, 1984.

"There is no choice," said Christopher Hilliard. "There is imminent death and a second life."

Hilliard's 10-year-old son Christopher received his new heart in May 1987.

All three children hovered on the edge of death before their new hearts became available. But they exhibited the resilience of childhood when they returned to normal activities — riding bicycles, playing tennis, attending school.

Jane Remington describes Sara's first year as rocky. "She was hospitalized for simple things like ear infections. They finally figured out that she was like any other kid and put her on an antibiotic and she got well."

Sara blazed the trail when she became the first child to receive a heart transplant at the Texas Heart Institute. The children who followed benefited by what doctors learned from Sara, her mother said.

Kristin Holt, left, Sara Remington and Christopher Hilliard were among the 103 heart transplant recipients attending the 25th anniversary celebration of the Texas Heart Institute. The parents of the children agree that the alternative to a transplant is that there is no alternative.

Today Sara is a normal 3-year-old who delights in the myriad of stuffed toys that decorate her room and fights with her brother for possession of a Christmas catalog.

Mrs. Remington said she would tell parents who are facing a transplant for their child that "There are peaks and valleys even after the surgery."

She must be careful with Sara's medication. There are constant check-ups.

Mrs. Holt said she would tell parents facing the same dilemma: "It does work; it works beautifully. I have no regrets whatsoever."

Hilliard agreed. "They've gotten it down to a real science," he said.

Now the parents who had barely accepted the fact that their children were critically ill must adjust to the normal demands of children who feel well once again.

Mrs. Holt said, "Kristin's back in school, in Girl Scouts, in Pioneers."

Last year, Kristin, now 10, had to be kept away from other children. Homebound teachers visited the home twice a week and left six to 15 hours of homework. Now she's making up for time away from activities she enjoys most.

The Holts had no time to adjust to Kristin's illness. Even though doctors think a virus attacked her heart before she was 2 years old, she was never ill until June 1986. "She just started coughing," said Mrs. Holt.

When the family sought care at Texas Children's July 7, they started hearing the word "transplant," Mrs. Holt said.

Kristin's name went on the donor list July 31 and she received her new heart 12 days later.

By that time, her heart was congested with blood clots and working at no more than 20 percent capacity.

The donated heart gave her a new chance at life. The best thing about this year, said Kristin, has been "getting back to school" where her fellow fifth graders welcomed her warmly.

Christopher's recovery also came fast, but not as fast as the disease that put him on the edge of death earlier this year.

Wedding

Flores-Ross

MRS. EDWARD ROSS
Formerly Velia Flores

Velia Flores, 1213 W. Sixth St., and Edward Scott Ross, 1710 Benton St., were united in marriage Nov. 21 at an 11 a.m. ceremony at Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, with Father White, pastor, officiating.

Parents of the bride are Luis and Erlinda Flores, 1213 W. Sixth St. Bridegroom's parents are Norman and Dorothy Youngski, Sterling Heights, Mich.

Vocalist was Cindy Chavez.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an Ilissa satin dusted full-lenghth gown, encrusted with hand- beaded pearls and crystal organza. Tapered sleeves and long lithe sparkling bodice, gave way to an extravagant swirling skirt, trailed by a hand-beaded semi-cathedral-length train. An oval open back was draped with strings of baby pearls, followed by tiny satin buttons and grandly bowed. This was topped by a full brimmed white country-decorated hat, with hand-beaded pearls and crystal with back satin bow falling into a shoulder-length veil.

Maid of honor was Lucy Flores, sister of the bride, Big Spring. Bridesmaids were Irma Cevallos, Big Spring; Elizabeth Flores, bride's sister-in-law, Big Spring; Lisa Yanez, niece of the bride, Big Spring; Terri Torres, Coahoma; Sandra Doporto, and Lori Doporto, both of Big Spring; Susan Padron, Coahoma; and Lily Klein, bridegroom's aunt, Big Spring.

Ringbearer was Christopher Flores, son of the bride.

Ushers were Michael Yanez, nephew of the bride, Big Spring; and Oscar Yanez, brother-in-law of the bride.

After the wedding, a reception was hosted at the church. The white four-layered cake, was accented with burgundy roses and anchored by a three-tiered crystal fountain. A lover's gazebo and smaller columns supported the cake and cake top. A laced gazebo bridge was on the right and left of the center cake and lowered to two side two-layered column cakes.

The bride attended Coahoma High School and is employed by Bealls.

A message from the President General was brought by Mrs. W.T. Barber.

The National Defense report concerned: present controversy of the Strategic Defense Initiative; approving adequate funding to deploy the S.D. System and that the issue be non-negotiable in any arms limitations talks.

The report of the Bicentennial of the Constitution of the USA concerned "The call for a constitutional convention," and measures set forth by the constitution for having a convention.

Mrs. John Key's program was a slide presentation of the "Texas Room" in the National Museum of the DAR, in Washington D.C. Furnishings of the original room were damaged by water in 1979, which was replaced by authentic replica of a room in a home in Columbia, Texas, which was built in the 1850's, even to the wall paper which was hand painted in the design of that period. The furniture was a collection of that period, the trundle bed, a wash stand with the wash bowl and pitcher and one of the first rockers; a slatted back chair on which rockers had been attached.

The next meeting will be at 5:30 p.m. on December 9, with Mrs. Curtis Driver as hostess.

Tidbits

By LEA WHITEHEAD
Staff writer

Megan Brenn Swinney's christening will certainly be a day to remember! When 5-week-old Brenn's parents, the Dean Swinneys, first began to plan her christening for Nov. 29 at First Methodist Church, it was going to be a small family affair with just the baby's grandparents, Jan and Jerry Forseyth, the Joe Swinney's of Coahoma, and great-grandmother, Lois Webb, in attendance.

Tidbits

Then a great-aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Davis of Stockton, Cal., said they'd like to come, too. So great-grandmother Lois thought: why not make it a big family celebration, beginning with Thanksgiving Day and ending with Brenn's christening?

Before Lois was through calling and writing, the guest list included Pauline Smith of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Alton Black of Lubbock, with Cristie and Carrie; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, with Mark and Dean, from Mineral Wells; Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Webb, with Amy, Rebecca and Hollis III of Lubbock.

Big Spring relatives of Baby Brenn who will be on hand include Mr. and Mr. Jimmy Forseyth, with David and Paul; and Mr. and Mr. R. W. Howie, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Phillips with Lacey.

Family members will begin arriving Wednesday. The Forseyth home will be the scene of the family gathering on Thanksgiving Day. The clan will stay over the weekend to witness Brenn's christening.

Paul and Gloria Pettersen will preside over a full table on Turkey Day. Expected are Shawna and Larry Ashlock of Plano, with Lauren and Aaron; Jack and Ruth Archer of Ackerly; Wayne and Gerry Smith of Lamesa; and Alice Howard of Lamesa. Local family members gathering at the table will be Wayne and Londa Henry; Greg and Kurt Henry; Evlyn and Lonnie Coker; and Dan, Cort and Bruin Pettersen.

Deloris Albert is showing off a 1988 Dodge Caravan, her reward for keeping up her personal and dealer Tupperware sales. "I just love the bucket seats," Deloris said. By the way, Deloris recently was dubbed a Super Star manager in Tupperware's West Texas division for her outstanding productivity.

Nancy Patrick has been showing the town to her 95-year-old father, Rolls H. Lemoins from St. John, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis. He also visited Russell Patrick and grandchildren, Rusty and Michelle. Nancy says her father was particularly pleased at being able to join the luncheon crowd one day at the Senior Citizens Center.

Actor Derek Horton, son of Patti and Joe Horton, is starring in a production of "The Diary of Anne Frank," at the Lowell, Mass., Merrimack Repertory Theatre through Nov. 30. Derek, a Big Spring native, first became interested in theatre — Shakespeare, in particular — when he was a student at Tech. He played Hamlet as his fourth acting experience, "a very difficult endeavor," he is quoted as saying in the Theatre programme. "I had to take a crash course in Shakespeare, voice and fencing — it was my big introduction to theatre." Derek, who lives in New York now, has a graduate degree in acting from Cornell. He has done commercials and will be seen in the PBS' production of "The Thin Blue Line."

Averil Quigley, who says she's "been almost everywhere," has now added New Zealand and Australia. Averill and her late husband John traveled widely, and she has been to Alaska, China, Ireland, England, many European countries, "everywhere except Russia and Africa." Averil and Bobbie Peters have just returned from a 3-week American Association of Retired Persons tour.

They stopped for two days in Honolulu where, Averil informs us, Hawaaiian-Irishman Al Harrington has now "replaced the legendary Don Ho as a tourist attraction." During the eight days in New Zealand and another eight days in Australia, they were hosted in private homes and visited a sheep ranch. Averil said "New Zealand is gorgeous — flowers everywhere. Shopping is very expensive. And the food everywhere was great. I never gain weight — but I put on two pounds!"

Club hosts Christmas party

The Big Spring Prospectors Club Board of Directors met at 1017 Ridgeroad at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12.

Plans for the annual Christmas party were approved. The event will be at a local restaurant at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 12, and will feature a Dutch treat buffet dinner, a speaker, musical entertainment and installation of 1988 club officers.

Mignon Wagner will be the featured speaker. She is secretary for the South Central Federation of Mineral Societies, which includes Texas, Louisana, and Arkansas. Those who have heard her always seem to be very enthusiastic about going to a repeat performance, according to a club report..

Rev. Dan Clark, club member and president of the Texas Faceters Guild, will officially install the club officers who were elected at the November meeting. They are as follows:

Members are urged to come and bring a guest or guests and enjoy the Christmas fun and fellowship. If there will be several in your group contact Vergil Perkins so that arrangements can be to accomodate the guests.

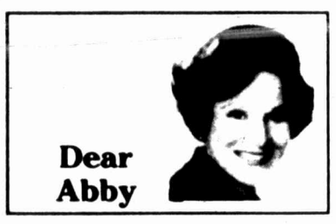

Sportscaster tells when 'Fat Lady' first sang

DEAR ABBY: Where did the line, "It's not over until the fat lady sings" originate? Who said it, and under what circumstances? And wasn't the fat lady referred to in the expression the late Kate Smith? Thanks for any help you can give me.

WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

DEAR WOULD LIKE: The quote was attributed to Dick Motta, who at the time was coaching the Washington Bullets basketball team, and now coaches the Dallas Mavericks. He was reported to have said it during the 1977-78 basketball playoffs, and he meant: "We may be behind, but we haven't lost the series until all the games have been played."

On further investigation, I learned that Mr. Motta did not originate the saying. Dan Cook, a San Antonio sportscaster, did. Cook said it goes this way: "The opera ain't over 'til the fat lady sings." And the "fat lady" was not Kate Smith. Cook said his line was a takeoff on Yogi Berra's line, "The game isn't over 'til it's over." Further, Mr. Cook said this story is recorded in the Library of Congress, and he (Cook) is bored to death with this topic already.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: "Inquisitive" asked: "Why do some people go to funerals of people they hardly know? I am referring to people they don't even have a speaking acquaintance with."

Your reply: "They could be lonely, hungry, nosy or curious. Or all of the above."

Come now, Abby, could it be that they go out of gratitude and respect to honor the bus driver for his courtesy, the woman whose cheerful smile made their days brighter, the person who accepted them as they were, regardless of their level of education, their clothing, looks, race, color or creed?

"Inquisitive" should inquire. She may be delighted with the answers she receives. At my mother's funeral, when I asked folks who appeared to the family to be strangers if they had known my mother, I heard some of the most surprising tales of her life. Of course, there are "Harold and Maude" behave-alikes who do attend funerals for the reasons you gave.

Or could it be a "mitzvah" to be present with those who mourn? Sometimes the only, and certainly our most precious, gift is our presence.

CATHERINE B.

DEAR CATHERINE: Thank you. Your answer was better — and far more compassionate — than mine.

DEAR ABBY: I am a grandmother who has just read your booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know." I think it's wonderful, and I want all my grandchildren to have a copy. However, one glaring omission disturbs me. You make no mention of AIDS. I realize that our knowledge of this terrible disease is changing every day, but surely something should be done to inform and warn our young people.

While innocent people can and will be exposed to AIDS without regard to age or sex, it seems to me that teen-agers are particularly vulnerable. Irresponsible sex today can be a death sentence.

I hope you revise your teen booklet soon to include what they should know about AIDS.

CLAUDIA K. CARSWELL, THOMASON, GA.

DEAR CLAUDIA: I have already revised my teen booklet to include the most current information on sexually transmitted diseases, plus a section about AIDS. The portion on drugs has also been updated and expanded.

To obtain the new "What Every Teen Should Know," send your name and address, clearly printed, plus a check or money order for $3.50 ($4 in Canada) to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Garlic could be medicine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The more scientists study the chemicals in garlic, the more a clove resembles a pungent morsel of multiple medicines, garlic researchers point out. One garlic chemical could be just right for preventing blood clots and others just discovered might help keep the body clear of some cancer-causing compounds, they say.

Dr. Eric Block, a chemistry professor at the State University of New York at Albany, has spent more time with garlic than many full-time chefs. He and a cadre of garlic researchers have been telling a scientific garlic story that parallels the garlic folklore.

"For 20 years I have squeezed garlic for all it's worth, and it continues to be amazingly productive in terms of new discoveries and new chemicals," Block said in an interview.

Recently, the American Chemical Society, with headquarters in Washington, honored him for his contributions to the field of agricultural and food chemistry — and these could turn into medical contributions as well.

That garlic can cure what ails you is no secret, notes Block, who has studied the history of garlic use. As long as 4,000 years ago, the Egyptians used it for treating heart problems, headaches, bites, worms and tumors.

It is said to have been used as a stimulant by athletes competing in the first Olympic Games in Greece. Since then, doctors have used garlic for preventing gangrene during the world wars and against meningitis in China. It has been used for treating dysentery, cholera, typhus and high blood pressure. Myth has it that garlic also keeps vampires away.

"Garlic has been tested in humans for thousands of years," Block said. "It's well proven to be safe and with all of the interesting things that we are finding in it, I suspect it should be an important part of one's diet."

What's in garlic that makes it so healthful? Louis Pasteur noted in 1858 that garlic is antibacterial. Yet, it wasn't until 1944 that a chemist extracted the germ-killing chemical from garlic and called it allicin.

CALL 263-HAIR FOR HAIR DESIGNS By Aubrey Men & Women

Family's pet fondly remembered

By TUMBLEWEED SMITH

I was doing some interviews in Shelby County at the time and someone told me Sam Mason could imitate the sound of a raccoon exactly, so I went to visit him on his farm near Center.

Tumbleweed Smith

After recording some sounds and stories, we were drinking coffee when his wife came around with a new puppy. It was white with a big black spot on its side. "This is a cross between a border collie and something else," she said. "We're not sure just what. It was born Nov. 2." I had to hold the little rascal.

It was just about the cutest puppy I had ever seen. I said, "We've been thinking about getting a border collie." We didn't have a pet at the time, which was mid-November 1976. Mrs. Mason said, "If you had this one, what would you call it?" I replied without hestitation, "We'd call it Shelby." She smiled and said, "Why don't you just take that one home with you?"

So I did.

I arrived at the house at about 2 a.m. Susan was awake when I got home. "And who is this?" she sked when she saw the puppy. "This is Shelby," I replied. "Her full name is Shelby County, Texas."

Shelby quickly became a part of our family. Both our boys adored her immediately. When we would go outside to play Frisbee, Shelby came with us and yapped constantly while we were playing.

Border collies like to herd things. She wanted us all to stay together in a straight line. She couldn't understand why we wanted to be so far apart while the plastic disc was flying between us. When we would go to the mountains, Shelby would keep us in order, playfully nudging anyone who even looked like they were lagging behind.

Shelby made every day a special event. She quickly became a character. She established herself as queen of the neighborhood. Pearl, Girl, Ruff, Shay and other neighbors' dogs let her have her way. Sometimes they would bow down in front of her and give her the regal status she sought.

One year we had a Christmas picture made of our family. When the photographer came over, he placed us on the couch and started to take pictures with a flash. Shelby started whining. She pranced back and forth outside and let us know she expected to be part of the family photo. She got her way.

Shelby had a way of wanting to be outside when she was inside — and inside when she was outside. In spring and fall we open our doors and windows to enjoy the breezes. Shelby tore up several screen doors coming in and out of the house.

She once got into some trash and ate a three-pound can of grease — her coat was shiny for a month. Shelby knew when she had done something wrong. She looked guiltier than if she had committed the worst crime imaginable.

Shelby did not like fireworks or explosions of any kind. When she heard them she would disappear for awhile.

Her hair was long and flowing. It was a beautiful sight to watch her run. She loved to play. She wanted to be in on everything that was going on — with us all the time. We felt the same way about her.

Shelby always wanted to catch something — anything: snake, bird, rabbit, frog, whatever.

She caught a frog once and thought she was the smartest animal on earth. She kept that frog around for about a week, dragging it around so she could show everybody what a great hunter she was.

Shelby was fascinated by the night. She could sit for hours just looking and listening. And she was the greatest greeter ever born. Her greetings to the family were legendary. When one of us would get back from a trip or school, Shelby would do a little dance and give a hug to the person who had gone. When she got real excited, she could wag her tail in a circle.

Shelby was kind and gentle, loyal and loving. She died this week. We miss her.

Annual Pecan Show slated for Dec. 3

By DON RICHARDSON
County Extension Agent

The annual Howard County Pecan Show will be Dec. 3 at 10:00 a.m. in the Highland South Shopping Mall. All entries are due in the Howard County Extension Office in the County Courthouse by Monday at 5:00 p.m.

Ask the Agent

This year will feature new and distinctive awards, ated by local mer- the first time, over-all Grand Champion and Reserve Champion awards will be given.

These awards are being given this year and in future years in memory of Dr. Austin Stockton, extension horticulturist who helped organize our first county pecan show eight years ago, and Mr. Sherman Smith, a local grower who never missed assisting with every show conducted.

Both men recently died and their contributions were very appreciated by county pecan growers.

Participants are limited to one entry of each named variety they grow. All entries must be grown in Howard County. The growers may enter as many seedlings, known hybrids, or natives as he wishes. Sample entries from one orchard can not be entered in two county shows. Pecans may be entered from an adjoining county which does not have a show. The exhibitor must be the grower.

A minimum of 40 pecans are necessary for each entry. This minimum sample must represent the variety and be uniform in size and shell color. Mixed samples (more than one variety in an entry) are disqualified. The growers may wish to select the heaviest pecans by weighing individual nuts.

A varietal entry may be composed of nuts from more than one tree. For example, if the grower has 10 Choctaw trees, each tree could contribute nuts to the grower's one Choctaw entry.

Nuts should be without insect and disease damage. The pecans should be free of dust, dirt and shuck remnants. They should not be rubbed to the extent that shape or color is altered. Avoid discolored shells and kernels. This problem may result from peeling pecans from the shucks too early.

Pecans exhibited must be from the 1987 crop.

Pecans are judged on the basis of size (number per pound), appearance and shell color. Kernel quality is equally important and is based on the percent kernal, color, general appearance, texture, hollowness, taste, fuzz and spots.

Three divisions will be awarded championships. In-Shell, Shelling and Natives will be these three categories. Varieties are those trees that have been named and are commercially propagated. In-Shell varieties are those that have less than 50 nuts per pound. Shelling varieties are those that require more than 50 nuts per pound. Known Hybrids and Variety seedlings are not eligible for Champion or Reserve Champion awards. A pecan variety must be named and released before it can compete for Champion or Reserve Champion honors. All award winning pecans will be forwarded on to the Western Regional Pecan Show to be judged by the same process all over again. Regional winners then go on to the State Pecan Show.

Hosiery a fashion investment

From Ladies' Home Journal
A Meredith Magazine

With minis the fashion to focus on this season, hosiery is the best fashion investment.

Since extra-high hemlines teamed with longer jackets call attention to legs, hose are clearly playing an all-important supporting role. The hot look to go for is the ultrasophisticated style of monochromatic dressing from head to toe. Now is the time to rejuvenate a wardrobe and stock up on hose that are color-coded to every outfit.

Color is the news in hose, in shades from fiery red to teal. There are more shades than ever to choose from. If legs are on the heavy side, go for darker hues. But don't reach immediately for black. Navy is newsy, as are chestnut, acorn, tobacco, coffee. Slim legs should go very bright or very light. Almond, alabaster, taupe and buff are good choices for classic outfits.

The new look in classic hose is tailored, minimally detailed, according to Ladies' Home Journal. Choose sheers with subtle accents such as diamonds, houndstooth, checks, petite dots, to pair with sculpted suits and shapely dresses. Herringbone, ribs and pinstripes look terrific with minis and soft cashmere. Also popular are sheers with back seams.

Club to meet

After a business meeting declines refreshments were served to the members and guests present.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Joseph Bader, with Mrs. Sonny Shroyer as co-hostess.

New developments in detergents

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent

Who's doing the laundry? It isn't always "Mom." With the rise of two income families, more spouses and older children are sharing the laundry chores. Increasing numbers of single person households means people of all ages are doing their own laundry. As a result, the detergent industry is introducing new products to make the task faster and easier.

Focus on the family

According to the Soap and Detergent Association, two new laundry products are currently in test markets. One new form is the unit dose product. A detergent gel or paste is in a dissolving pouch.

The pouch is dropped in the washer, the film dissolves and the contents do the works. There is also a double pouch configuration for normal loads. The pouches can be separated to adjust for heavily soiled or extra large loads with three pouches, or a single pouch for a small or light load.

Another product takes the form of a sheet that starts in the wash cycle, goes through the rinse and is transferred to the dryer with the laundry load. The sheet has six compartments. The four middle sections contain detergent and the two end compartments contain peroxygen whitener.

On the opposite side of the sheet, little dots of fabric softener are printed. These melt and disperse in the dryer for softening and static control. Like the dissolving pouches, the sheet is perforated to accommodate extra heavy or large loads with a sheet and a half, and a half a sheet for small or light loads.

CAUSES OF, AND SOLUTIONS TO FABRIC SOFTENER STAINS

Fabric softeners have great benefits when properly used. They give fabrics a smoother, softer, fluffier feeling, and a pleasant smell. They decrease static cling, wrinkling, drying time, and make ironing easier. When used improperly however, fabric softeners can leave stains.

Stains can occur in the washer or dryer. Washer added softeners may leave greasy looking blue or gray stains. Dryer added softeners may leave colorless oily spots.

Fortunately, both types of stains can be removed by wetting the stained area and rubbing it with a bar of soap. After that, rinse the fabric and wash it. Before putting it in the dryer, make sure the stain is gone. The dryer's heat may set the stain.

To avoid problems with fabric softeners, use them as directed. Never add a rinse softener to the wash cycle with any other laundry additive. The products react together and cause stains. Rinse softeners are onlly to be added during the rinse cycle.

Stains can also be caused by pouring undiluted softener on to fabric. It's best to dilute it with a cup of water, and still not pour it directly on a fabric. If the washer has an automatic fabric softener dispenser, do not lift the lid after the wash cycle. If the washer stops after the first spin, staining could occur from improper dispensing of the softener.

Stains can be caused in the dryer if it is overloaded and the softener isn't allowed to tumble freely. Stains can also occur if the dryer is underloaded, but that can be easily solved by adding a few towels to the load. It's also important to remember that too high a heat setting for synthetic or permanent press fabric, and adding softener after the dryer has already started can cause stains.

NARVE to host party Dec.17

The business meeting was conducted by W.W. Marlin, president.

Mrs. C.C. Nichols and Mrs. Mattie Glenn were reported ill. Mrs. Vivian Harvey was welcomed as a new member.

The group agreed to have a party of Christmas goodies at 6:30 p.m. after the business meeting Dec. 17.

The next meeting will be December 17, at the Kentwood Older Adult Center.

Cholesterol and women

WEST POINT, Pa. (AP) — While heart disease is more common among men in the U.S., women about 50 and older should also minimize their risk factors for the disease.

Before menopause, the female hormone estrogen apparently provides some protection against heart disease in women. But between about the ages of 50 and 60, rates of heart disease in women begin to parallel those in men, according to Merck Sharp & Dohme, maker of a new drug for certain patients with high cholesterol.

It says such women are now often being advised by their doctors to include a test for cholesterol in their routine physical exams. When there is a high serum cholesterol finding, doctors will have the patient attempt to bring it down through diet and exercise, before prescribing any drug therapy.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat Magnet' Diet Pill Guarantees Fast Weight Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

No Dieting—Eat Normally

Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You will start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

There has never been anything like it before. It is a totally new major medical breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patent pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in fat particles. Then, all that trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body because it cannot be digested.

Within 2 days you will notice a change in the color of your stool as the fat particles are being eliminated.

"Pills Do All the Work"

According to the doctors, the fat-magnet pills do all the work while you quickly lose fat with no starvation diet menus to follow, no calorie counting, no exercising, and no hunger pangs. It is 100% safe. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals.

The fat-magnet pills have just been offered to the American public and are already sweeping the country with record sales and reports of dramatic weight loss. It's the "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public

If you need to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W842, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800)527-9700, ext. W842.

By SARAH LUMAN
Business Writer

"We have a little bit of everything," Joe Romine said of his A to Z Bargain Center, open at 907 East 4th St. The 3,600-square-foot store houses a variety of items, from English antique furniture to a silken stuffed parrot on a swing.

Romine and his wife Joyce opened the establishment about two months ago, he said. Joyce Romine manages a 7-Eleven store on Fourth St., and Joe runs the Bargain Center.

"I had a truck accident three years ago, and I can't drive for a living anymore," Romine said.

Packed glasss display cases are filled with bric-a-brac, antique lamps and modern knicknacks. Toys — ranging from fluffy stuffed animals to Cabbage-Patch-style dolls — range along still more display shelves.

The store deals in both new and used merchandise, Romine said, because its aim is to provide bargain prices on useable items.

"With the economy the way it is now, I'm afraid it's going to be a lean Christmas for a lot of folks," Joyce Romine said. "So we want them to know that they can come here and we have some of the toys at lower prices, and things like that."

The store also offers a 30-day layaway plan, modified, Joyce said, for the Christmas season.

"If they want to put something on layaway now and come in and pick it up right before Christmas, that's what we'll do," she said.

The store normally does business from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. From now until Christmas, Joe Romine said, he plans to remain open from noon until 5:30 on Sundays.

Appliances are available, and carry a 30-day warranty, Romine said.

Looking through his collection of clowns, some made from ceramic, some from wood and some soft sculpture, Romine said he believes the store offered Big Spring shoppers wide variety.

"We have got some things here that nobody else has," he said.

Ceramic sets of pitcher and basin in hand-finished pottery are available, as well as wooden washstands upon which to rest them; baby furniture and beds in every size are also among the Romines' merchandise.

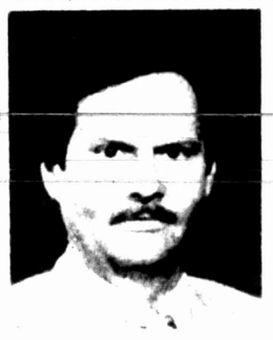

"All our mattresses are new," Romine emphasized.

Simplicity: secret key to success

By TOM PETERS

Critics regularly accuse me of oversimplifying my prescriptions, which they say are too imappropriate for our messy world.

My rejoinder is a counter-accusation: The critics, I argue, are not happy unless solutions are so complex that the average businessperson finds them incomprehensible.

In fact, one hard-to-translate academic once said to me, "I'm suspicious of anything I can understand."

Recently, in Atlanta's airport, I crossed paths with a fellow simplifier, Stew Leonard Jr. He is the 33-year-old president of the fabulous Stew Leonard's Dairy, the $100-million, family-run grocery store in Norwalk, Conn. Our conversation belied both his UCLA MBA and my Stanford Ph.D.

I asked Stew what he'd been up to of late. He said that he'd recently returned from taking a course (that he could have been teaching, though he's too humble to admit it): a multi-day seminar offered by Disney World, on how that company trains its workers.

Disney gives away all of its real secrets at the course — but the secrets turn out to be much too simple to be copied by their sophisticated students, except for the Stew Leonards of the world.

What "secrets" did Stew Jr. swipe from the Disney all-pros? "You've really got to care about people. They stress that over and over and over again."

Sure Stew, I said, underwhelmed. And what else?

"Well, teach people what's important." This was starting to get laughable, even by my standards as a lifelong simplifier.

And what precisely does Disney teach its employees? A thousand practical and to-the-point "tricks" that add up to legendary customer service.

For example, if a worker observes a Guest (Disney's word for customer — and don't forget to capitalize the "G") taking a picture of his friends in Tomorrow Land, what should the worker do?

Answer: Walk over on the double, and say, "That picture would sure be a lot nicer with you in it. Can I take it of all of you?"

I must confess that I'm mightily impressed by that sort of teaching — in spite of my Ph.D. I admire Disney for specifically devoting much of its training to such gestures.

You may recall that in a recent column, I observed that the paltry training that service firms provide is perversely wrong-headed. For instance, over 90 percent of the content deals with policies and procedures, and selling, ser-

Seafood

Mel's makes variety affordable

By SARAH LUMAN
Business Writer

Mel's Fish and Seafood Restaurant opened Thursday, Nov. 5, in an effort to fill a need owner Mel Dickerson saw in Big Spring.

"We wanted to bring in a place where you can feed your family with good food and affordable prices and have fish or seafood," Dickerson said. "It's something Big Spring needed."

The restaurant, at 405 Gregg St., directly adjoins the Dickerson family's other enterprise, a fish market offering fresh fish and seafood in its eighth month of operation.

"All the fish I fry here comes right out of that case," Dickerson said, gesturing toward the waist-high partition between the restaurant and the fish market. "If you want, you can come in and pick out your fish and we'll fix it for you to eat in or to carry out."

The restaurant's western wall sports a black-on-red menu. Everything is prepared fresh, he said, from the fried catfish to the homemade potato salad and homemade pie. Coleslaw, french fries and hushpuppies round out the dinners' menu for the restaurant.

"If it's in water, we can get it," Dickerson said. "That's our slogan here." As proof, the fresh fish in the case range from buffalo, a huge freshwater relative of the carp, to orange roughy, a saltwater fish from South America.

Dickerson says orange roughy and "any kind of shrimp" are local favorites in the saltwater/seafood line. Octopus, oysters, crawfish and Cajun specialties like frog legs are also available — either fresh in the market or prepared in the restaurant.

Far and away favored among freshwater offerings is catfish, Dickerson says. The farm-fed catfish in which he specializes comes from the nation's largest supplier. "It's their top of the line," he says, "and they're the best you can get.

"It doesn't get any better," he said. "The fish has a mild flavor and if you buy it to take home you can cook it and it won't stink up the house."

The flavor of the catfish Dickerson fries at the restaurant is absolutely mouth-watering. It tastes superb when fresh and hot; this fish even tastes good cold.

Dickerson attributes the flavor to the fish's leanness. "There's not the amount of fat or grease in this that you get in lake-caught catfish," he says. "It just tastes better."

Dickerson's restaurant is a family business in which his wife Denise and mother Joyce are co-owners.

He said the operation does not prepare baked fish, but offers blackened or Cajun-style catfish and similar items.

"We keep everything you need for shrimp boils or gumbo and Cajun cooking for seafood, too, from the seafood through the cornmeal, ketchup and oil," he said. "We try to keep the Louisiana batters and spices in stock and that's what we use in our restaurant."

The catfish dinners range in size from a three-piece catfish plate with choice of coleslaw or potato salad, fries and hushpuppies to a two-fish whole catfish plate with trimmings.

Catfish plates start at $3.75.

Oysters, shrimp, frog legs and other exotica such as octopus are available at various prices.

"We have everything from a single plate dinner to the bucket-size carry-outs," Dickerson said.

Bullock adds tax checks to cities' coffers

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock on Friday sent checks totaling $105.9 million in local sales tax to 1,039 cities that levy the one-percent city tax. According to Bullock, this year payments are down by nearly five percent overall compared to payments made by November of last year.

Mitchell County's check for $31,094.18, brings 1987's total payments to $241,355.23, a 5.71 percent decrease from last year.

The city of Houston received the largest payment — $16.8 million — bringing total payments in 1987 to $125.5 million, down 5.5 percent from last year's totals to date.

Dallas' check for $12.2 million brought the total for this year to $92.7 million, a decrease of 6.5 percent from last year.

Payment to San Antonio was $6.9 million, increasing this year's allotment to $50.2 million, 5.2 percent less than 1986. Austin received $4.5 million to bring the 1987 total to $35.5 million, a 9.2 percent decrease from last year.

Forth Worth received $3.9 million for a 1987 total of $30.1 million, down 7.4 percent. El Paso's payment of $2.4 million brought its 1987 total to $20.9 million for a decrease of only .36 percent.

Bullock also sent checks totalling $48.5 million to the state's six metropolitan transit authorities. Houston's MTA check for $19.5 million raised 1987 payments to $147 million, while Dallas' DART payment of $18.5 million brought its total to $138.9 million this year.

Austin's Capitol Metro received $4.6 million for a yearly total of $36.1 million. VIA in San Antonio received $3.7 million for a total of $27.4 million this year. Fort Worth's MTA payment was $1 million, increasing this year's payment to $7.3 million. Corpus Christi's check was for $1 million, bring the MTA's yearly total to $6.9 million.

Disney's training also unequivocally focuses — via time and attention — on the firm's overpowering commitment to spotlessness.

When Stew Jr. asked his Disney instructor the theory behind repeatedly underscoring cleanliness in a training program, the fellow nonchalantly replied: "You want cleanliness, you train cleanliness."

My brief exchange with Stew about his Disney experience went on for another few questions like this, until I gave up in frustration.

It was clear that we weren't going to move beyond the obvious — our business degrees were looking shakier by the minute. In fact, Stew concluded by insisting that what he gained from the seminar was a vivid reminder of the importance of the basics — this coming from a person whose firm lives the basics already, with unparalleled intensity.

Furthermore, it was well worth several days of class, he asserted.

Then I asked Stew Jr. what he was up to at the store. I shouldn't have.

He had some kind comments about material I'd recently sent him, but then obliquely pointed out that much of it had been too complicated to be of help.

Nonetheless, combing his recent Disney experience and a couple of my ideas, he had developed a major new program. It centers around a series of staff meetings, intended to go forward in perpetuity, for the whole store team (600 people).

These sessions — ah, sweet simplication — will "emphasize what's important," said Stew.

So you must be choking on all of this sickening simplicity by now. But bear with me for one more final tale.

At the time of my airport chat with Stew Jr., he was wearing a cast on his left hand. Naturally, I inquired about it, expecting a recanting of an athletic event or a home repair effort gone amiss.

I should have known better. He sliced his tendon with a butcher knife. How? Well, the store's bakery team had come in about 5:30 one recent morning to do a special task.

Stew Jr., of course, had shown up, too. He sliced his hand in the store's kitchen, as he was making breakfast for the team. And with that story, I rest my case — for now.

Texas crops reflect storms

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — A blustery cold front frosted North and Northwest Texas this past week and brought scattered rains that gave at least some relief in a dry fall season, particularly helping winter pastures, said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

SOUTH PLAINS: The recent freeze should peak the cotton harvest in another week. Good yields are reported. About 65 percent of the sorghum crop is out of the fields but only a small percentage of pecans has been harvested. Wheat fields need rain and cattle are in good shape.

ROLLING PLAINS: The freeze killed cotton stalks and full scale harvesting should start next week. Dryland cotton is yielding a half to three-quarters of a bale to the acre. A general rain is needed on pastures and wheat. Shortage of winter grazing has put some stocker cattle into feedlots and supplementary feeding is under way on ranges. A completed sorghum crop has produced good yields in Fisher County.

WEST CENTRAL: A few rains fell here but the area is still mostly dry. San Angelo recorded a record-low 17 degrees. Cotton harvesting is at full tilt and getting 1 to 1½ bales per acre. Wheat fields and pastures need rain badly and feeding is underway.

Furniture Doctor prescribes TLC

Take a good look at the furnishings in your home or office. Chances are you'll find a few pieces that are "ailing" — scratches, loose dowels, faded or out-of-date finish. these are jobs for The Furniture Doctor.

The Furniture Doctor has hard-to-find specialty hardware for trunks and cedar chests, desk locks, brass hardware, screws and other antique accessories.

A visit to The Furniture Doctor's office may find the staff working on such diverse jobs as restoring an upright piano, stripping an ornate door, refinishing a chest or desk, stripping an antique child's rocker, and refinishing a fire-damaged buffet.

In the carpenter shop, The Furniture Doctor's staff performs repairs as small as gluing a chair to manufacturing replacement parts. They repair veneers, replace sheet cane, weave rush chair seats and repair minor vinyl damage from burns and tears. They turn table and chair legs, stretchers, rungs and chair backs.

In the finish shop, the crew sands, stains, finishes or paints newly stripped furniture, or new furniture and cabinetry.

The Furniture Doctor does make house calls. He will come to your home or office to give estimates, or make minor repairs on the spot. In most cases it is advisable to send the ailing furniture to the Doctor's office where adequate tools are available.

For your furniture repair needs — great or small — call the Furniture Doctor at 267-5811. The firm is affiliated with Bob's Custom Woodwork and is located at 613 Warehouse Road in the Industrial Park. The shop is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. or by appointment.

OPEN HOUSE — Country Flowers, Jane's Flowers and Green Acres join as neighbors to hold simulataneous Christmas Open Houses from 1 to 4 p.m. today. Visitors can leisurely view each shop's selection of gifts and one-of-a-kind original Christmas decorations while enjoying refreshments. Pictured is Lea Lewis at Country Flowers displaying the original wreath which will be given in a drawing from among those who visit their shop today.

Economist sees cotton supply rise

COLLEGE STATION — With a much smaller acreage reduction in store for 1988 cotton, the supply likely will increase, according to an extension cotton marketing economist at Texas A&M University.

The 1988 upland cotton program will include a 12.5 percent acreage reduction, a target price of 77 cents per pound, and a loan level of 51.8 cents per pound for base quality, average location, says Dr. Carl G. Anderson, economist-cotton marketing for the Texas Agricultural Extention Service of the Texas A&M University System.

"While the target price and loan rates are slightly lower, the acreage reduction program (ARP) is half the 25 percent for the 1987 crop," Anderson says.

If the adjusted world price drops below the loan level, the Plan B marketing loan program will be used.

"Should the world price plunge below the loan rate, loan deficiency payments will be made to eligible producers who agree to forego loan eligibility," Anderson says.

Up to 50 percent of any loan deficiency payment may be made in generic commodity certificates on a bale-by-bale basis. There will be no paid land diversion program nor inventory reduction program.

"The lower acreage reduction program suggests more acreage and more cotton in 1988, provided yields are average or above. Strong consumption for the 1988 crop is becoming more questionable. A potential economic recession in the second half of 1988 may curtail demand," Anderson says.

Key factors in 1988 price movement are possible changes in estimated ending stocks. A clear signal in the first half of 1988 that U.S. cotton growers are likely to produce enough cotton to exceed market needs may be bearish, Anderson says.

A 1988 crop larger than usage would increase stocks by the end of that season, Anderson says.

Christmas

Artifacts converts to South Pole

By SARAH LUMAN
Business Writer

Santa Claus has set up a temporary headquarters in Big Spring, according to Barbara Hall, owner of Artifacts at 1903-1/2 Gregg St.

Called Santa's South Pole, the Christmas specialty store will kick off the holiday season with an open house today beginning at 2 p.m. and closing at 6 p.m.

Hall stocked the Christmas store with gift items, many for under $5, and decorative touches for the holiday season. In addition, she says, custom gift baskets, wreaths and decor accents are available.

"We can make a custom wreath or a Christmas gift basket," she said. "Or we can renew or renovate a wreath or centerpiece for you."

Upon walking into the store, the first thing you notice is the delicious aroma of potpourri. Hall says several scents are available, including the traditional red-and-green Christmas scent and the new White Christmas fragrance, which she described as amaretto.

In addition, gourmet dressings, mustards and hot fudges, popular ingredients in gift baskets, are available. Ceramic works and seasonal candles are also plentiful.

The store houses a variety of holiday items ranging from wooden puzzles to a complete line of appliqued hostess aprons and Christmas-tree skirts, Hall said.

In addition, she said, the store offers Big Spring's most extensive variety of Santa Clauses.

"I have them in every variety from handpainted wood to handmade ceramic," she explained.

"I will have gift items that are seasonal in nature, but I'm also keeping some things such as pictures and frames, lamps and crystal for gift items available," she said.

Gift items in all price ranges are a specialty in the store, along with seasonal decorations, and custom decorating for the season, Hall said.

Artifacts owner Barbara Hall poses recently with new merchandise she claims is straight from the Santa's storerooms. Gift items, Christmas decorations, and other holiday paraphernalia abound in the transformed shop on Gregg Street, which will host an open house today 2 to 6 p.m.

Health club provides relaxing atmosphere

By SARAH LUMAN
Business Writer

Appearances can be deceiving. For example, there's a very serious health club in Big Spring — but, tucked away behind a modest window sign in a College Park Shopping Center corner, it could be taken for a confectionary, rather than a spa.

Inside New Horizons Health Club, Inc., the deceptive appearances continue. The walls and carpet are a soft shade of pink; trimmings are a dark teal; the sound of laughter comes from behind the dusty-rose curtains.

Owners Mattie Norwood, Mary Palmer, Nell Thames and Lonnie Thames, who describe themselves as "three sisters and a niece," provide the laughter. They chose the decor with care and an eye to soothing the soul, lifting the spirits — and boosting the customer's energy.

The heart of the business is its workout center, which features BodyShaper exercise tables. These are a series of seven electronically-driven exercise machines which, combined with isometric principles, offer the benefits of working out in conventional fashion without the drawbacks.

New to Big Spring, the BodyShaper tables are also a recent innovation in exercise technology. Lonnie Thames said, "The company that makes these tables just started in February a year ago."

Customers come from as far away as Midland, Mary Palmer said. Only two hard-and-fast exclusions restrict the club: No men are allowed, and there is no facility for children.

"We have every age from 17 to 75," Nell Thames said. "We have big ladies and tiny ladies, and they come in for every reason."

Among their clients are several nurses, some doctor's wives and a number of schoolteachers, the owners said. They explained that they established the facility with an eye to offering fitness and relaxation — and they have been successful in both areas, as a populous weight-loss winners' board attests.

"We offer video aerobics, and they're low-impact," Norwood said. "We also have the active exercise area, with every kind of regular exercise equipment."

In addition, Palmer said, the club offers a lounge for members and two tanning beds.

A holiday special is in effect until Jan. 15, 1988, in which 25 percent discounts on all sessions are offered. In addition, for persons 60 years old or more, an additional 10 percent discount applies, regardless of whether a service is already on sale.

The BodyShaper tables provide muscle motion and increase mobility and fitness without straining or stressing the body, she said. Clients who have paid for BodyShaper table use are also entitled to free use of the active exercise equipment and aerobics area, Norwood said.

An introductory session is free and gives the customer a chance to experience the workout on the tables. A 15-minute tan is included in the offer, Palmer said.

The club offers exercise programs tailored to individual needs. Separate from the six exercise tables in one room is the vibration table, which also has an oscillating effect. Norwood said it is especially popular with patrons interested in relieving stress and tension.

"We have several ladies who never are weighed or measured," she explained, "because that's not the point (of their membership). They come in to relax, to release stress and they use this vibrating table for that.

"If you spend a full seven minutes on it, you'll go to sleep," she said.

Hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday. All members are required to furnish a signed release and those with injury or illness are asked to provide clearance releases from their physicians before undertaking a program.

Aerobics and active exercises are conducted in accordance with the target heart rates and guidelines of the American Heart Association.

Cotton crop forecast shows 64 percent increase over '86

AUSTIN — Texas cotton prospects continue to improve, based on a Nov. 1 survey conducted by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service. Production is forecast at 4.15 million bales, up 6 percent from October and 64 percent from last year. According to the current estimate, this is the largest crop since 1981.

Statewide yield is estimated at a record high 469 pounds per acre, up 29 pounds from a year ago.

Corn production is forecast at 136.25 million bushels, unchanged from October but down nine percent from a year ago. Yield is expected to average 109 bushels per acre, three bushels below last year.

Corn harvest was virtually complete by the end of October. Sorghum harvest was active during the month, but high moisture grain continued to be a problem in some Plains and Cross Timbers fields.

Peanut production is estimated at 423.00 million pounds, unchanged from last month but up 10 percent from a year ago. Yield is expected to reach a record high 1,800 pounds per acre.

U.S. Upland cotton production is expected to increase 44 percent from last year to 13.7 million bales. Sorghum production, at 414.74 million cwt., is 21 percent below a year ago, while corn is 13 percent below last year at 7.17 million bushels.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1987

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a good time to clear up any loose ends which may be left from past projects. You will have plenty of spare time today, so use it wisely and constructively. Don't abuse any power which is given to you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Carefully consider your credit and career situations this morning. This is not a good day to ask favors of friends or important people.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consider the possibility of getting into a new and potentially lucrative business venture. Be wary of a new acquaintance you encounter.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Relent your usual stubbornness and do what your mate wants today, even though you may not especially enjoy the activity.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) A public matter is not working out as you'd like, but take this situation in stride and everything will work out fine eventually.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) Set up a better budget to follow at home. Discuss how you can make a product move faster with a clever business associate tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Cut conversations with co-workers down to a minimum. If your mate seems upset this evening, be kind and supportive. Drive carefully.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be sure your home is in good condition, then enjoy an inexpensive entertainment with friends. Be tactful with friends and family.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Postpone a little trip you've been planning, and work on some necessary home repairs instead. Avoid any arguments tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Safeguard your property and possessions during the day. Set up a more realistic budget, but make allowances for entertainment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may feel irritable and stifled because things are not working as rapidly as you would like. Keep a measured pace, and you'll be fine.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You must use more tact and wisdom when planning your day, because you're worried about something. Be kind to friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Attempt to remove obstacles from your path rather than trying to hurdle them. A nosy friend could cause you much trouble this evening.

If Your Child Is Born Today

He or she will have no trouble at all in choosing a good philosophy by which to live, and will have a tendency to say whatever is on his or her mind. Your progeny should be taught to think before speaking and thereby avoid trouble. Active sports are a must.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1987

YOUR DAILY HOROSCOPE

From the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You will have a considerable amount of energy today, and will have no trouble turning seemingly bothersome situations to your advantage. Be cooperative with others, and you'll receive much gratitiude.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you display your talents to those who are in power, you'll get the recognition you deserve. Approach difficulties from a new angle.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get in touch with successful persons, and follow the advice they give you. Plan a short trip which can bring you many benefits.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study up on new business methods which can yield better profits. Try to find a way to help your mate out of the doldrums tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Try to be around prominent people you know. They can be of great help now and in the future to your business prospects.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) If you assume an enthusiastic approach to your work, you'll get the approval you need. This can also bring you quick advancement.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go out for some amusements with your mate this evening, but handle a new project which seems very promising early in the morning.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It's a good day to make those improvements at home which will bring more harmony there. Have friends in for dinner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study your daily responsibilities and see how they can become more pleasant and profitable to you. Finish up errands you've put off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't be so conventional in handling practical affairs that you'll lose out monetarily. Get advice from a financial expert.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Achieving your personal goals should be uppermost in your mind, so decide on how you can best pursue them. Drive carefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you inform superiors of your ambitions, they can help you attain them. Handle civic and credit matters wisely and without delay.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You're in a mood for making changes, and this is a good day to do so at home or at work. New contacts will be of help to you.

If Your Child Is Born Today

He or she will be very practical, but will have a tendency to daydream about ideas rather than putting them in action. Be sure your progeny receives a good education, with a focus on business and finances. Your child should be taught to cooperate with others.

Chamber weekly report

By the BIG SPRING AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The holiday season is fast approaching. Christmas decorations are beginning to appear around town. The decorations belong to the Chamber; they have been restored with help from the high school. The City street crews are installing the decorations on the streets.

The Chamber's next quarterly community luncheon will be Wednesday, Dec. 2 at the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum at Howard College. The luncheon begins at 11:45 a.m. Cost is $5 with reservations and $7 at the door. Reservations are being taken through Nov. 30, at the Chamber office. It is sponsored by NTS Communications and Bailey Electric. Host civic club for the luncheon will be the Big Spring Lions Club.

* * *

The Chamber's athletic committee is still busy hosting playoff games. It hosted Hamlin and McCamey in a 2-4A area playoff last Friday. The committee anticipates having other playoff games, possibly on Nov. 27. Anyone interested in helping should contact the Chamber office.

* * *

Time is nearing for people to prepare for their Christmas decorations for their homes and businesses. The beautification committee is sponsoring a decorating contest; entry deadline is Dec. 15 and the judging will be Dec. 22. Entry forms may be picked up at the Chamber office.

Accounting firm gives bleak forecast for U.S. oil industry

HOUSTON (AP) — Oil prices, which plummeted to $10 per barrel last year and t the growing dependence on foreign oil, a major accounting firm says

In a bleak eighth annual oil and gas reserve disclosures survey, Arthur Andersen & Co. also said Monday that U.S. oil producers are trimming spending because of lower crude prices and cannot keep pace with domestic demand, meaning the nation will grow even more dependent on imported oil

"Few expect near-term market and political forces to drive oil prices up to those levels," Richard C Adkerson, managing director of the firm, said

"Absent price increases, or government actions about which there is great controversy — to compensate for lower prices, continuation of present conditions will result in a severe and inevitable increase in our nation's dependence on foreign oil producers "

"The plain fact is that current exploration and development spending is far too low to prevent a further and significant slide in domestic production of oil," added David Moore, director of the Arthur Anderson survey of 270 energy companies

In addition, the survey concluded that the cost of finding oil is too high to ensure a fair profit, that a recent rebound in drilling activity is not likely to result in higher discoveries and that drilling costs are likely to rise now that equipment surpluses left over from the early 1980s boom finally have been depleted

The firm also forecasts that to keep imports at the present levels, spending by domestic companies will have to double by 1995

"1986 clearly is a new world," Adkerson said "To put it in perspective, in 1985 we saw a good deal of optimism But much of the optimism began to fade "

Reserve replacements are down 30 percent, production is flat and spending is off by $17 billion, down 47 percent from the previous year, Moore said

If demand increases by just 1 percent, the 6 million barrels of oil now imported daily will grow to 10 million by 1995, comprising 55 percent of all oil and natural gas liquids, according to Arthur Andersen

Moore and Adkerson said that the need for further domestic exploration also comes at a time when banks are more reluctant to make energy loans

"The memory of that $10 oil is going to plague bank lending for some time to come," Adkerson said "Financing is available but limited Until (oil prices) get higher, there will be problems with financing "

On the positive side, Adkerson said some companies have been making money and oil prices — even at $20 — have been much higher than some analysts had predicted

"Prices held stronger than we would have thought, but that support is under a lot of pressure," he said

He said the stock market tumble, while having the potential to drive oil prices down, also could attract more investment into oil, as a volatile energy market looks more attractive than an even more volatile stock market

Drilling report

Flowing 484 barrels of oil per day, plus 700,000 CF casinghead gas, the No 1 Newton was completed in Howard County's B C Field by Union Oil of Cahfornia, based in Midland The well is located five miles north of Big Spring

The operation was drilled to 9,190-ft total depth and will produce from perforations in the Canyon Formation at 8,998 to 9,010 feet into the wellbore Production tests were run on a 16/64-in choke, and flowing tubing pressure registered 1,700 PSI

Howard County's Howard-Glasscock Field gained a new producer when Bob Calley of Forsan completed the No 10 Chalk "A" ten miles east of Forsan

The well indicated ability to pump 40 barrels of oil per day, plus 100 barrels of water It was taken to a 2,600-ft bottom, and production will be from perforations in the San Andres Formation, 2,178 to 2,396 feet into the wellbore

The operation is in a 65-acre lease in the W&NW Survey, Sec 95, Blk 29

Through October, the Colorado River Municipal Water District continued its pattern of less than one percent under income projections and nearly 22 percent under expense estimates, according to CRMWD figures

Revenues for the 10-month period amounted to $10,746,613 or .89 of one percent under budget estimates for the period Operating expenses of $4,635,807 were 21.85 percent under projections, mostly due to 30 percent less for electric energy Pumping required 2,624,770 for the 10 months, or $1,127,496 less than estimated Part of this was due to pumping some two billion gallons less water, but also from being able to utilize most proximate sources of supply Through October, net income amounted to $5,998,497, which goes mostly for debt service and indentured funds

Income was based largely on sale of 13,468,820,100 gallons of water Of this 12 3 billion gallons were in potable well and lake water, and 1 12 billion gallons of non-potable water diverted from river low flow and sold to oil companies for secondary recovery
