Headlines From Around The World

Arlington, Virginia

President Clinton and Congressional leaders headed the list of dignitaries participating in Memorial Day services at Arlington National Cemetery Monday, May 30, 1994. The annual ceremony was held to honor the men and women who gave their lives in service of their nation.

Washington, D.C.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman, Dan Rostenkowski (D) of Illinois was indicted by a federal grand jury on 17 felony counts Tuesday, May 31, 1994. Among the charges listed in the 49 page indictment were mail fraud, wire fraud, misuse of campaign funds, payment of non-existent employees and theft of public property.

Under House rules, Rostenkowski will automatically be removed from the chairmanship of his committee. Capitol Hill insiders speculate that the loss of Rostenkowski will severely hamper efforts to push through President Clinton's Health Care initiative.

New York, New York

The United Nations Security Council voted this week to impose trade sanctions against North Korea. The action was prompted by recent reports from within North Korea that fuel rods inside nuclear reactors were being replaced without UN inspectors being allowed to witness the process. North Korea has long been suspected or attempting to obtain nuclear weapons. Recently, US intelligence agencies reported that the asian country was already in possession of at least three nuclear devices.

Washington, D.C.

The Congressional Black Caucus met this week and urged President Clinton to consider using military force in Haiti. The aim of such action would be the return of Jean Bertran Aristide to power as President of Haiti. Aristide, ousted by a military coup last year has been living in exile in the United States.

Senator Sam Nunn (D) of Georgia, Chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee urged caution, however. Nunn pointed out that an easy invasion of Haiti would be followed by a long-term commitment of American forces. "Let's not rush in to a situation where we have no compelling national interest," Nunn said.

Voters Approve Bond Issue

Schleicher County voters approved a $1.2 million bond issue by a vote of 233 to 185, Thursday, May 26, 1994. The board of Trustees of SCISD received authority to issue the bonds and spend the proceeds to construct a new gymnasium and other classroom space.

Asked for his reaction after the vote, Superintendent of Schools, Scott Barton said, "We are pleased. Of course, no one wants to pay a bunch of new taxes, but once again the people of Schleicher County have turned out to support the students." Barton went on to say that an architect would probably be hired in June or July and that bids for construction might be let as soon as September or October.

School Board President Phil McCormick stated that the election results coupled with the fact that it was a large turn-out indicated that the people supported the school's building program.

Responding to a question about voter turn-out, Election Judge, Bessie Jones said, "We had people waiting to vote when the polls opened and a steady stream of voters all day long. Considering the type of election this was and that it was held on a Thursday, I think we had a good turn-out."

Schleicher County citizens should see no increase in taxes due to the bond issue as the indebtedness on the middle school will be retired next year. However, school officials have indicated that other factors such as teacher pay increases and higher maintenance and operation costs might result in a small tax increase.

The Schleicher County Medical Center celebrated its 25th anniversary on Thursday, May 26, 1994. Members of the Hospital staff and auxiliary held a reception in the main lobby with many local citizens and patrons stopping by to visit and offer congratulations.

Hospital Administrator Jim Blum, Medical Center Board Members past and present, hospital personnel and numerous other interested people crowded the lobby to see some of the memorabilia that was on display.

One such display was a table covered with medical equipment that has been used at the center through the years. At another table, hospital boosters were selling T-shirts decorated by the Holley House. Proceeds from the sale of the T-shirts will be used to purchase a big-screen TV for the residents of the Nursing Home.

Jim Blum told of some new things that are coming to SCMC. A physical therapy department is slated to open soon and many other exciting changes are in the works.

"Providing quality health care in this day and time is a challenge in any environment," said Jim Blum, "but rural health care is particularly challenging. We here at SCMC are committed to providing the people of Schleicher County with the highest quality health care. We do this by running a tight ship, controlling costs and recruiting top-notch personnel."

"With the support of the citizens of the County and by working in conjunction with all groups and agencies in the area," Blum continued, "we seek to ensure that SCMC will be meeting the same high standards in 2019 when the Medical Center celebrates its 50th anniversary."

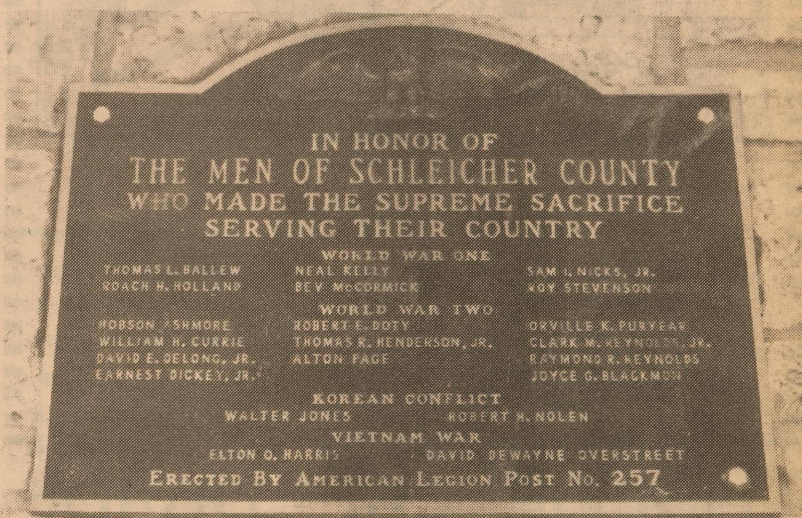

CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE MEETS

Representatives of several local organizations met Tuesday evening, May 24th in the Memorial Building. The meeting was held to establish a Centennial Committee which will begin planning for the 100th anniversary of Eldorado in 1995.

Twenty-four local citizens discussed several plans including the New Centennial Park, the Pioneer Families Memorials on Main Street and acquiring a historical marker for the Eldorado Woolen Mill. Other possible projects discussed were a Pioneer Homes tour, a street banner, radio and television publicity and advertising in the I-10 magazine.

As this is to be a community wide celebration, the committee asks that all interested parties attend the next meeting scheduled for 7:00 PM June 20th in the Memorial Building.

Shown above is the bronze plaque which is displayed near the main entrance of the Schleicher County Memorial Building. The building and the marker are dedicated in honor of the brave men of our county who lost their lives in the line of duty.

Lions Install Officers

The Eldorado Lions Club installed new officers this week. Outgoing President Randy Mankin handed the gavel over to Incoming President Hawley Wolfe at the Wednesday, May 25th meeting.

New officers are: Hawley Wolfe, President; Lee Brewer, 1st Vice President; Vickie Jones Williams, 2nd Vice President and Program Chairperson; Rick Sterling, Secretary; Jan Wanoreck, Treasurer; Bob Lauffer, Lion Tamer; and Randy Mankin, Tail Twister.

Hawley Wolfe presented his goals for the club, "Since 1928 Eldorado Lions Club has been serving the community by providing eyeglasses, operating a camp for diabetics and visually impaired at Kerrville, sponsoring the annual Academic Awards Banquet for outstanding high schoolers and contributing financially to many worthy local causes such as the scouts, library and 4-H."

"We intend to 'keep on doing what we do' to serve others," Wolfe continued. "In 1994-95

we will also be supporting the Centennial Committee as they lead us in celebrating the 100th anniversary of Eldorado. There are lots of exciting projects coming up in town like the Lone Star Theater restoration, Main Street tree-planting and the new Centennial Park -- things that we will look into to see if we can help. We have a wonderful group of officers this year, and great members and it is a privilege for me to be associated with them. Best of all we have a lot of fun!"

When asked about his term as President, Randy Mankin stated, "I feel we had a good year during my term. The membership roster increased, we sponsored youngsters to Lions Camp at Kerrville, we helped several needy families obtain eye exams and eyeglasses and we collected a great deal of food for the Midwest flood victims. We participated in the Schleicher County Days celebration, we participated in the Adopt-a-highway program by

The Family and I went to Denver, Colorado, last weekend for the graduation of my sister Chetta's youngest, Alice. Chetta and I are three years apart in age. I am older than she. We went because Chetta has most often managed to attend events in my life and I figured I owed her one and also we had never been to the Rockies.

We went through Dalhart, Texas and picked up the interstate at Raton, New Mexico. The Mountains were still not too visible. From just south of the Colorado border all the way to Denver we could see the snow covered higher peaks. They looked so picture perfect from those distances. Colorado was quite a driving experience. I figured the interstate would be an easy drive and it was compared to a later trip up the side of a mountain but it was not at all like I-10 to San Antonio. Oh No! They had those signs that say "Sharp Curves and Steep Incline" scattered following the route to Denver. Besides that they must scrape the top off with those snow plows and have to start repaving immediately after the last snow to be ready to scrape the surface off next winter.

Even at that the road trip was relatively easy and except for a few brief heavy rains not much of a problem. I think the road sign people need a little help from civilians. Actually what they really needed was an explanation that the off ramp leads right onto an on ramp and not the access road. It appears Colorado does not know how to build Texas size access roads but hides them two block away from the freeway. We Finally got to the Hotel. (My sister loves me and I love her so I stayed in the Hotel and she got to have my kids; Fair right!) Since we had a whole day before the actual graduation my nephew, Alan, (My sister felt they could save on monograms; all of them "A's") took us up Mount Evans. We went to Echo Lake which is about two thirds of the way up and although the air was thin there were plenty of trees and pretty sparkling streams. There was not much of an echo. I asked if we couldn't go up to Summit Lake which is at about thirteen thousand feet. Alan tried to dissuade us but Maxine especially wanted to go. I felt the kids needed to be above the tree line at least once in their lives so we started up. Just as the Highway had needed work this road had considerable damage also. It also had no guard rails and nothing but giant ninety degree drops off the sides. On top of that there are people driving up and down as if it was some country lane oblivious to the fact that slipping off the side would pretty much end it for the car and any people in it. Big Horn sheep without the horns stood in the middle of the road eating the salt from last winter. I don't think I had ever been that concerned, no not concerned scared! Whew! who is the guy who built the road and why? Once above the trees the place looks like an ice covered moonscape. When we finally got to Summit Lake which is not really Summit Lake but Almost to the Summit Lake two adventuresome skiers had walked up the fact of a snow covered cliff and skied back down. I guess if you really love skiing and the only place there is snow is at fourteen thousand feet you'll do just about anything to ski even risk death. I must not be much of a sportsman, death just appears to me to be too much of a risk.

Over The Back Fence

by Randy Mankin

This past Monday morning, Memorial Day, I watched as Tom Enochs raised the flags over the Schleicher County Cemetery. It was a somber moment as he carried the colors to the top and slowly lowered them to half-mast. I witnessed a reverence for the flag that is seldom displayed in our nation anymore. I couldn't help but feel that I was intruding as I watched his private ceremony. I wish more could have seen it, especially our youngsters.

Tom and I had a talk afterward about the brave men he was honoring. Tom is of the same generation as most of those men. He knew them, he grew up with them and he feels compelled to honor them. I only wish they could know that someone still cares.

This year is a special year in that June 6th will be the 50th anniversary of the D-Day landings. Over 35,000 of the men our nation honored this past Memorial Day fell on the beaches of Normandy during those landings. I'm afraid that people of younger generations fail to comprehend, much less appreciate the contribution these men made to the nation and the world.

In 1944, the continent of Europe was dominated by Nazi Germany. Death camps in Auschwitz, Buchenwald, and Dachau were systematically going about the task of exterminating an entire race of people. Millions were enslaved in forced labor camps and perhaps the most maniacal ruler the world has ever known, Adolf Hitler, was at the height of his power. He had fortified the beaches of France with every expectation of hurling our invasion force, which he knew was coming, back into the English Channel.

It was into this maelstrom that our men were ordered to go. And they went. Thousand upon thousand waded ashore at Omaha, Juneau, Gold, Sword and Utah beaches. Into the teeth of enemy artillery and machine gun fire, under concertina wire, around tank traps, through mine fields and over barriers they went. Inch by inch they took the beaches and paid for every inch with blood.

Atop the bluffs above, German Field Marshall Irwin Rommel had deployed some of his most seasoned troops. They were well armed and they greatly outnumbered the allied attackers, but one by one, the German positions were flanked and over run. By the end of "The Longest Day", a beach-head had been established and during the next month a million and a half allied troops poured into France over that hallowed sand.

Less than a year later, Hitler committed suicide in his Berlin bunker and with the formal surrender of the German Army on May 7, 1945 the European theater of the war ended. The war in the Pacific ended with the surrender ceremonies taking place aboard the U.S.S. Missouri in Tokyo bay, Sept. 2, 1945. The bloodiest war in the history of mankind was over.

Wars fade into memory as do warriors and perhaps that's for the best. But it was only five decades ago this week that one of the greatest battles of the modern era was fought and won. I find it odd that in the light of all of this, only one person, Tom Enochs, showed up to honor the fallen. I know people are busy, I've been busy myself lately. But let us all remember, these brave men gave all they had for us. A few minutes of our time, once a year, shouldn't be too much to ask. Lest We Forget.

Shown above Tom Enochs kneels by the VFW Memorial dedicated to the men of Schleicher County who gave their lives in the service of our nation. The VFW memorial is located at the main entrance to the Schleicher County Cemetery.

Cutting Spending: It's as Simple as A to Z

The liberal leadership of Congress has filled the airwaves in recent months with talk of plans to completely restructure our health care system, 'reform' welfare, and use public funds to pay for political campaigns.

What they haven't said much about are any plans, even small ones, to cut any kind of federal spending.

Of course they're only following the lead of President Clinton, who promised on the campaign trail to slash wasteful and outdated programs but instead passed the largest tax increase in history to pay for his new spending.

What has proven especially disheartening for those of us who had hoped for a change in the way Washington does business has been the ardent efforts of the liberal leadership to squash anybody else's efforts to cut spending as well.

The very notion of reducing federal spending is so threatening that they have gone into overdrive to defeat one of the most sensible and reasonable spending cut proposals that I've seen in Congress.

The "A to Z Spending Cut Plan" was conceived by Reps. Bob Andrews, a New Jersey Democrat, and Bill Zeliff, a New Hampshire Republican.

Their revolutionary and yet simple behind the chairs, claiming to support cuts in general but doing nothing to make them a reality.

In short, the A to Z plan would force members to cast regular recorded votes on real cuts in federal spending. And that's a prospect that the liberal leadership can't abide.

Speaker Tom Foley has called the plan "probably the most poorly thought-out proposal for the consideration of public policy that I've seen in many years—maybe the worst one ever."

Last week, House Democratic leaders met to plot a strategy to "convince" the 231 members who have co-sponsored A to Z to drop their support. Mr. Foley is reported to have told Democrats that they risk their ability to land choice committee assignments.

Thus the future of the plan remains in doubt. But even if it fails, those of us in Congress pushing hard for spending cuts will likely be back soon with a new plan.

This idea is too important to give up. My office in Washington is here to serve the needs of the 21st District. Please don't hesitate to call at 202-225-4236.

committees and propose specific spending reductions on their own.

Historically, committee chairs have maintained a chokehold on legislation they do not happen to like. This is particularly true of the House Rules Committee, which determines what legislation is allowed to be offered on the floor for a vote and is disproportionately stacked against Republicans.

The A to Z Spending Cut plan would allow any member of Congress to propose a spending cut in any one of the federal government's 1200 programs, and automatically send it to the floor for a recorded vote.

No longer would committee chairs have the power to quietly kill a spending cut by refusing to bring it up in committee. No longer could Members hide

Dorothy's Movie Time

by Dorothy Dacy

Hello again movie fans! I'm back this week with two movies and my thoughts about them. The first is Addams Family Values. It is rated PG-13 due to adult situations. This is a rare surprise: a sequel that is better than the original. This one is better written, has a better plot and is actually funny.

The same unusual family characters are all back with the addition of Joan Cusack a voluptuous black-widow nanny. "Debbie" is out to snare Uncle Fester, marry him then dispose of him for the inheritance. The best lines still go to the Addams' daughter, Wednesday, who along with her brother are jealous of the new baby. Talk about sibling rivalry! They try everything to get rid of the new arrival and as a result, are sent away to summer camp until they can adjust.

Fans of the old television show and the original Addams Family movie will simply love this film. It's good morbid fun for everyone. Addams Family Values is available at Shot's.

The next movie is The Age of Innocence starring Daniel Day Lewis, Michelle Pfeiffer and Winona Ryder. It is rated PG. This is definitely an adult film but not because of language, nudity or violence, but because the kids would be bored to tears and wouldn't appreciate the beauty and elegance of the story.

This is a brilliant adaptation of Edith Wharton's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, and directed by Martin Scorsese who, in my opinion, is one of the great directors of our time. It is a tragic tale of love and romance among three wealthy New Yorkers caught up in the grandeur and hypocrisy of high society in the 1870's. The scenes, costumes and photography are simply breath-taking. From the ballroom dancing, to the opera, to the elaborate sit-down dinners, this film is a feast to the eye. The picture it paints of hidden romance will break your heart and touch your soul.

The Age of Innocence is currently available at Meyer's Grocery.

Until next week, remember: Being a Grandparent is God's compensation for getting older!

"I am especially pleased," Mankin continued, "that this year, for the first time in a long time, the Eldorado Lions Club chose to honor two of it's own by awarding plaques to Elton McGinnes for Distinguished Service to the club over his many years of membership and to Vickie Jones Williams as Lion Of The Year. I want to thank all the members of the Lions Club for their contributions during the past year, but special thanks is due to Vickie Jones Williams for the masterful job she has done in arranging our programs and to Lynn Meador for the outstanding job he did as Chairman of the highway clean-up project."

The Eldorado Lions Club meets each Wednesday for lunch at 12:05 pm in the Schleicher County Memorial Building.

Teens Advised To Get Social Security Card

School is over and students across the nation are getting ready to start hunting for summer jobs -- some for the first time. One thing to remember is that job applicants will need to show an employer-to-be their Social Security card.

"Most young people whose parents claim them as dependents for income tax purposes already have a Social Security number, as the law requires," said Franklin H. Upp, manager of the San Angelo Social Security office.

"But, if you have never had a Social Security number, you'll need to apply for one. If you are 18 or over, you'll need to apply in person at your local Social Security office."

If your card has been lost or stolen, you can get an application for a free replacement card by calling the toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, any time of the day.

"Providing the correct name and Social Security number to your employer ensures that you will get credit for your earnings and that your Social Security earnings record will be correct," said Upp. "Your future benefits will be based on this record, so it's important that it accurately reflects all of your earnings."

Upp noted that workers can check their earnings by completing a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate request form available from Social Security. Just call the toll-free telephone number and ask for this form.

"For you are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ. There is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus (Galatians 3:26-27)."

Each day was met by Jewish males praying, "Lord, I thank you that I am not a gentile, a woman or a slave." The gospel of Christ and faith in Christ transcend these differences and make all believers one in Christ.

We are naturally inclined to feel uneasy around those who are different from us and to join ourselves to those who resemble us. We have all heard the old cliché "birds of a feather flock together." However, when we allow our differences to divide or sever us from our fellow believers, we are disregarding clear biblical teaching. "Race prejudice is as thorough a denial of the christian God as atheism, and a far more common form of apostasy (Harry Emerson Fordich)." My friends, as believers in our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, you must never treat people in different ways according to their outward appearances. As the book of James, verse 2:9 says, "if you treat people according to their outward appearances, you are guilty of sin."

If you have disregarded this dear biblical teaching by being prejudiced toward others just because they are different - tall, short, fat, skinny or of a different race - I beg you to repent. Start today by making a point of seeking out and appreciating people who are not just like you and your friends.

a new off camp experience for older Scouts.

This off camp experience is intended to give the more experienced Scout new challenges at Summer Camp. These Scouts will backpack out of the camp, canoe on the San Saba or Nueces river, then participate in a Trail-ride by horseback on an historic trail.

These camps are staffed by Scouts who are trained in their leadership positions by directors certified in a National Camp School. Most of these directors and staff members are Eagle Scouts and in the Order of the Arrow. Even these positions are designed to develop the leadership skills of the Scout.

All registered Scouts who were in the fifth grade or higher in the 93-94 school year are eligible and encouraged by their leaders to attend any or all of these camps. Scouts who attend these camps normally advance at least one rank and earn four merit badges from a list that includes: Canoeing, Rowing, Motor Boating, Rifle, Shotgun, Archery, First Aid, Swimming, Lifesaving, Horsemanship, Animal Science, Nature, Environmental Science, Fishing, Insect Study, Leather Working, and Indian Lore. Specialty classes are also presented in Rappelling from a 60' Tower, Snorkeling, Mile Swim, BSA Lifeguard, and Golf.

Scouts from the Concho Valley attend camp with their troops and patrols. However, for the Scout who wants to attend more than one week may register to attend the Maverick Camp in any week. Additionally, Troops from other Councils will be attending Camp Fawcett and Sol Mayer. These troops come from Austin, San Antonio, New Braunfels, Spring, Houston, Odessa, and Midland.

Two camps will be held for Boy Scouts. At Camp Fawcett the dates are June 12-18, June 19-25, and June 26 - July 2. It is located at Barksdale south of Sonora between Rock Springs and Uvalde. It is a beautiful camp located in the Edwards Plateau with a lot of native pecan shade trees on the crystal clear Nueces River. The main activities there are on the river with white water kayaking, canoeing, and snorkeling. Off camp excursions are planned to tour exotic animal farms in the area. A new horse program has been added to the one held at Camp Sol Mayer last year.

Camp Sol Mayer will be open July 10-16 with an optional week that may open following this date. It is on Hwy 190 17 miles west of Menard, 2 miles from historic Ft McKavett. It is a more traditional camp with swimming pool in addition to the San Saba River activity area. A sixty foot rappelling tower continues to challenge the older Scout and three holes have been added to the golf range. Both camps have rifle, shotgun, and archery ranges as well as the Scout advancement areas well known by Scouts.

The third camp is for Cub Scouts and is called Cub Scout Residence Camp. It will be conducted at Camp Sol Mayer on July 6-9. It is Cub Scouting in an outdoor setting. Cubs who are eligible to attend were in the first through fourth grade during 93-94 school year. It is not a miniature Boy Scout Camp but designed for the Cub to gain rank advancement in a very fun atmosphere.

The Cubs participate in a lot of games and sports activities in addition to the traditional Air Guns where they will earn a new belt loop award. There will be handicrafts, water sports, and rank advancement, for Wolf, Bear, and Webelos Scouts. The Webelos Scouts will have the opportunity for an off camp experience by visiting the historic Ft McKavett and the Sol Mayer ranch where they will camp under the stars after cooking their own meal.

There are always lots of water activities at camps for Scouts. The Cubs for Residence Camp will have at least four adults for each Scout to serve as Camp Leaders as well as the Camp Staff to serve as role models.

For more information on any of these camps please contact the Scout Service Center at 655-7107 or your Scout leader.
