Stalin's Body Is Lying In State; Funeral Is Planned

FIRST UNDAMAGED JET

The first Soviet jet fighter plane to come into Western hands undamaged rests on an airport on the Danish Baltic Island of Bonholm after being landed by a young Polish refugee. The jet — believed to be a MIG 15 — carried Polish Air Force markings. Police would not disclose the name of the pilot, marked by arrow in the group at right, a curly-haired blond youth of 23. He asked for asylum in Denmark.

Fear And Uncertainty Marks Reaction On Stalin In Europe

LONDON (AP) — Western Europe reacted with fear and uncertainty to the news today that Stalin is dead.

Except for loyal Communists, there was no shedding of tears. But neither was there jubilation.

Most Europeans took the news grimly, with only a few expressions of hope for a letup in the cold war.

The biggest worry expressed everywhere was that the new ruler —or rulers—of Russia might scrap Stalin's wary cold war policies and possibly plunge the world into a shooting conflict.

The announcement, signed by the Central Committee of the Communist Party, the USSR Council of Ministers and the Presidium of Supreme Soviet — Russia's three most powerful bodies — made it clear there is no new bid for friendship with the West.

CALLS FOR BUILDUP

The announcement promised a continued buildup of the Soviet Army, Navy and intelligence services to deal "a decisive rebuff to any aggressor." It added pledges of friendship with China and other Communist satellites and with workers of capitalist and colonial countries.

Some of the reaction to the death:

A report from Bonn said West Germany received the news of Stalin's death with new fear. Millions of Germans hated him, but they counted on his shrewdness and patience to avoid a hot war in Europe.

Italy's anti - Communist Premier Alcide de Gasperi said, "the unknown for tomorrow remains grave."

Government leaders in Scandinavia, mindful perhaps of the nearness of the Russian Bear, delivered public statements politely praising Stalin.

BRITISH COMMENT

French politicians wondered and worried aloud if a new Soviet leader might bring war nearer.

Comment by British newspapers ranged from fears of greater tension to hopes for agreement between Russia and the West with Yugoslavia President Tito sitting in, perhaps, as a mediator.

The privately - operated radio Free Europe warned anti-Communists inside the Iron Curtain to keep cool and avoid drastic action despite Stalin's death.

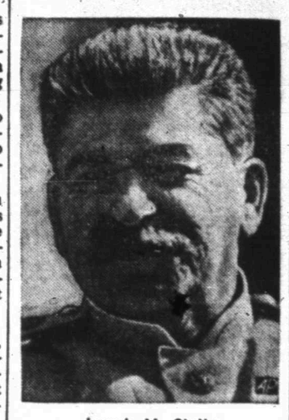

India's Prime Minister Nehru messaged Moscow that Stalin's "services to his people in peace and war brought him unique renown and his death removed from the contemporary world a personality of exceptional gifts and great achievement."

ISRAEL SILENT

But in Tel Aviv, capital of Israel, official sources said no condolences would go from their government to Moscow. The Soviet Union severed relations with Israel last month.

In Geneva, the U. N. Economic Commission for Europe stood for one minute's silence, adjourned briefly, then resumed a plenary session at the request of Soviet Delegate Amasasp Arutiunian, who said "it would do the greatest honor to have the work go on."

Endless Line Of Mourners By Bier

Joseph V. Stalin

MOSCOW (AP)—The body of Prime Minister Joseph V. Stalin, felled by a stroke and heart failure at 73, was removed to Moscow's beautiful Hall of Columns today to lie in state. A funeral service befitting one of the most powerful men in history is in preparation.

The Soviet "Man of Steel," who ruled over a sixth of the earth's surface and dominated a third of its peoples, died last night in the Kremlin four days after being stricken. Death came at 9:50 p.m. (12:50 p.m. CST) and was announced to the Russian people eight hours later. Stalin lay paralyzed and in deep coma at the end.

There was no hint as to who would succeed this man, who led the Soviet Union's 200 million people for 29 years and called the plays for Communists the world over. But a joint statement from the Communist Party and the government called for continuation of such policies as strengthening the nation's armed forces, increased vigilance at home and tighter bonds with Communists abroad.

NO CHANGE SEEN

At this stage, there is no prospect of any change in the policies Stalin pursued.

This afternoon a motor hearse left the St. Spassky gate in the Kremlin. While thousands assembled on Red Square to see it, the hearse moved slowly from the Kremlin to the Hall of Columns, bearing Stalin's coffin.

Immense heaps of flowers and wreaths surrounded it. Russians began filing past to gaze for the last time at the man who led them to victory over Nazi Germany. Thousands were in line when the doors opened.

The processions for those wishing to say "Svidaniya" (goodbye) will continue day and night until the funeral. A commission headed by Nikita S. Khruschev now is working on funeral plans. No date has been announced for the final services nor has there been any word where Stalin is to be buried.

DAY UNPLEASANT

The Hall of Columns is only a few hundred yards from the great mausoleum in Red Square where V. I. Lenin, Stalin's predecessor and the father of Russian communism, lies embalmed in a glass coffin.

Moscow was cold, windy and unpleasant today but life went on about as usual. Hundreds still were filing into churches to place candles before ikons. There were tears in the eyes of some, some had grim, set faces, many crossed themselves repeatedly.

There were small crowds in Red Square, walking about it slowly, gazing sadly at the buildings of the Kremlin compound, from which for so many years Stalin wielded his vast power. It was in Red Square that Stalin had been seen so many times, reviewing parades on May Day and on Nov. 7, anniversary of the Revolution in 1917, and on other state occasions.

CROWDS PASS BIER

In front of the House of Unions there is a picture of Stalin in his generalissimo's uniform, decorated with evergreens, a symbol that his memory will live. Moscow's embassies and legations, including the American, lowered their flags to half staff.

As the doors of the hall opened, the waiting thousands began moving two abreast through a corridor and up a wide stairway toward the center of the great room where Stalin's body lies, surrounded by flowers. His head rested upon a pillow in the coffin.

Soberly, men, women and children filed past, hesitating ever so slightly as they looked at the dead leader's face — a face known around the world. Then they moved down another stairway and into the street. The entering line appears to be endless, more people join it all the time, as it moves.

The death of the man who sparked the development of Russia from a near-feudal farmland to a great industrial power exceeded only by the United States was first announced by Moscow radio at 4:07 a.m. today local time (8:07 p.m., EST Thursday), in a broadcast beamed to Soviet provincial newspapers.

Two hours later, Moscow radio's star announcer, Yuri Levitan, told the saddened nation that its chief had succumbed. Levitan twice read both the official announcement and the final bulletin from the 10 Kremlin doctors who had been in constant attendance on Stalin since his stroke Sunday. The radio then played the solemn last movement of Tschaikowsky's "Pathetique" symphony.

The official announcement said: "There has ceased to beat the heart of comrade-in-arms and genius-continuer of the cause of Lenin, the wise leader and teacher of the Communist party and the Soviet people—Joseph Vissarionovich Stalin. The death of Stalin, who gave all his life to dedicated service to the great cause of communism, is the heaviest loss for the party and workers of the Soviet nation and for all humanity."

It was issued in the name of the Communist party's Central Committee, the Council of Ministers (government cabinet) and the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

The Russian people appeared stunned and grief-stricken by the news. To many, Stalin had seemed like a father. "Excuse me," said one Muscovite chauffeur of his own tears, "he was a real person."

All over Moscow, black-bordered red flags snapped in the cold wind that whipped the snow-blanketed city. Thousands of yards of black crepe were being hung on buildings and homes.

The House of Unions—where the bier of virtually every dead Soviet leader has been placed to be viewed by the people—was made ready to receive Stalin's body. A huge portrait of the dead leader hung above the main doors.

Stalin's fatal brain hemorrhage struck him Sunday night in his Kremlin apartment, leaving him unconscious and with his right side paralyzed. Despite the efforts of the 10 doctors, his condition steadily worsened. Yesterday, his physicians announced his heart was faltering. "At 2150 (9:50 p.m.) hours, with cardiac (heart) failure growing, J. V. Stalin died," the final medical bulletin said. He had never regained consciousness.

The last months had been a period of intense activity for the Soviet chief. He wrote his latest work, "Economic Problems of Socialism in the USSR," a 25,000-word partial blueprint for Russia's economic future, and took a leading role in last fall's big Soviet Communist party Congress.

Last Nov. 7 he spent long hours reviewing the huge parade marking the anniversary of the 1917 revolution that brought the Communists to power in Russia. He made several public appearances at the Bolshoi Theater and recently received the Argentine and Indian ambassadors to Moscow.

Despite widespread foreign speculation in recent years about his health, Stalin in his recent appearances had impressed all who saw him as being hale and vigorous for a man of his years.

A resume of the Russian leader's fatal illness, broadcast by Moscow radio, said the brain hemorrhage was caused by high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. Paralysis of the right side, loss of consciousness and breathing difficulties appeared the first day.

These difficulties "assumed a grave nature" at times during the night of March 3, the resume continued. From the start of the illness, the Russian leader also suffered disturbances in the blood circulation system, including high blood pressure, flickering pulse and dialation of the heart.

From the first day of the illness, it declared, Stalin's temperature rose and a high white blood "may have pointed to the development of inflamed lesions in the lungs."

The account said that his condition deteriorated generally yesterday with constant attacks of severe heart and circulation difficulties.

"On the afternoon of March 5 . . . respiration became shallow, the pulse rate reached 140-150 beats per minute (normal is about 72) and the pulse pressure dropped."

The resume was signed by the 10 doctors who had tried to save the life of the Russian chief.

The doctors had used a variety of treatments—including oxygen, camphor compounds, caffeine, glucose, penicillin and even the age-old employment of blood-sucking leeches, still used frequently by Russian doctors to reduce blood pressure.

Van Fleet Tells Of Shortages On Front

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet has booted the Army's lid of secrecy off the hush-hush talk of ammunition shortages in Korea—and the alarm reverberated in Congress today.

The Senate's armed services committee wants to know if military planners are responsible for shortages which, according to Van Fleet, have included even hand-grenades needed for close-in mountain fighting.

However, the Army's chief of information, Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, told newsmen later Pentagon records showed no hand grenade shortages in Far East depots. Parks did not discount possible local shortages "due to distribution difficulties," but said there were enough grenades stocked to last 90 days under normal conditions.

At the peak of fighting last fall, Parks said, Allied artillery outfired the Reds five to one.

One Senator, who asked that his name not be used, quoted Van Fleet as saying shortages have been felt for the past 22 months and will not be entirely wiped out until sometime this summer.

Van Fleet's testimony yesterday —called "shocking" by two lawmakers—captured so much interest that he was asked to appear again today before the Senate's armed services and appropriations committees.

There have been rumors and reports for some time of ammunition shortages in Korea but the military has soft-pedaled comment on security grounds. And the general impression had grown that the situation had been corrected.

But Van Fleet in his public and closed-door testimony said it has not been corrected entirely even though he reported shortages to the Pentagon over a period of 22 months—all the time he was commanding the Eighth Army.

2 Completions In 2 Fields Of Kent County

Chapman & McFarlin has made two completions in two fields in Kent County.

Their No. 3 D. M. Cogdell, Jr., in the Cogdell East Sand field was completed for a daily pumping potential of 127.35 barrels of 40.2-gravity oil with no water.

Seven inch casing was cemented at 4,584 feet, and perforations at 4,551-563 feet were treated with 1,000 gallons of acid. Total depth was not reported. Gas - oil ratio was 310-1.

It is 660 feet from north and 1,880 feet from west lines of section 775-97-H&TC.

The No. 16-B-A Cogdell in the Cogdell San Andres field pumped 24 hours and made 47.8 barrels of 39-gravity oil and no water.

Gas - oil ratio was 318-1. Top of pay was found at 1,518 feet, where four and one-half inch casing was cemented. Total depth was 1,541 feet. The open hole was treated with 6,000 gallons of acid.

It is 1,400 feet from north and 3,266 feet from east lines of section 772-97-H&TC.

FULLER TEST

Texaco No. 3 Fuller in the Fullerville Strawn field of North Scurry County drillstem tested the Strawn at 7,541,581 feet with tool open four hours.

Gas surfaced in six minutes, and it recovered 4,390 feet oil and 2,610 feet salt water. Gravity of the oil was 34 degrees.

It is preparing to set and cement five and one-half inch casing at 7,576 feet and perforate and test at 7,541-575 feet to try to complete a producer from the Strawn.

DRILLING REPORT

Humble No. 1 Nachlinger in the Buffalo Creek Ellenburger field near Hermleigh had plugged back to 7,700 feet in Ellenburger and was preparing to run casing to make a production test in the top of that formation.

Pacific Western No. 1 Smith, wildcat discovery in Southeast Dickens County pumped six hours and made 36.02 barrels of fluid, which was 30.64 barrels of oil and 5.38 barrels of salt water. It is continuing to test.

Stanolind No. 1 Anderson in Howard County drilled to total depth of 2,910 feet in anhydrite. It set and cemented eight and five-eighths inch intermediate casing at 2,908 and will drill the plug and drill deeper.

Sun No. 1 Dean, Northeast Dawson County wildcat, drillstem tested at 7,996-9,022 feet. Tool was open one hour, and recovery was 15 feet drilling mud with no shows. It is now drilling at 8,120 feet in Permian shale.

Sun No. 1 McCabe, Southeast Mitchell wildcat, has now perforated casing at 5,890-916 feet and 5,928-946 feet, and it has cleaned out and released the rig. It is preparing to complete.

In Scurry, Texaco No. 2 Fuller is at a plugback total depth of 2,381 feet in San Andres changing pumps, Blount No. 1 Cary is at 4,575 feet in lime, Louisiana Land No. 1 Howell is at 6,642 feet in lime and shale, and Southern Minerals No. 1 Huddleston is drilling at 4,299 feet in dolomite.

In Borden, Green No. 1 Wolf is preparing to drillstem test at 6,500-567 feet in lime, and Superior No. 9-580 Jones is at 4,500 feet in lime.

Tough Note To Danes About Downed MIG

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—In a tough note to Denmark, Poland today demanded the return of a Russian-built MIG15 jet fighter plane in which a Polish pilot fled his Communist - ruled homeland. Warsaw asked for the pilot back, too, but said he was not so important.

The daring Air Force lieutenant landed his plane—the first MIG15 ever to fall undamaged into Western hands—yesterday on a hazardously short runway on the Danish island of Bornholm.

As he climbed shakily out to ask for political asylum, the blond, 23-year-old Pole—whose name was not disclosed—kept repeating three German words: "Kommunismus Kaputt— asyl. (communism is finished—asylum.)"

Danish and British air experts from Copenhagen were giving the plane a through inspection.

31-Degree Low Mark

The thermometer showed 39 degrees at 7:30 o'clock this morning after a low of 31 degrees last night, according to Mrs. D. P. Strayhorn, official weather observer. The maximum yesterday was 67 degrees, she said.

Unsympathic Condolence Is Sent Soviets By Government

(By The Associated Press)

Condolences on the death of Premier Stalin of Russia, terse and plainly designated "official," were transmitted to Moscow on President Eisenhower's orders last night.

Other comment on the death of the man who led the Soviet Union and world communism ranged over a wide field of speculation about what will happen now and included some personal tribute.

The official U. S. message was sent at the President's direction by Secretary of State Dulles to Jacob D. Beam, U. S. charge d'affaires in Moscow, for delivery to the Kremlin. It said:

"The government of the United States tenders its official condolences to the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on the death of Generalissimo Joseph Stalin, prime minister of the Soviet Union."

Observers noted that the message complied with requirements of international courtesy without including a word of sympathetic tribute.

In a different vein were messages sent by two officials of the United Nations, of which the USSR is a founding member.

The comment of several U. S. showed concern over the possibility of further war.

Immediate Change In Car Prices Not Seen

DETROIT (AP)—New car prices probably will show no great change in the weeks immediately ahead as the result of the government's action in lifting price controls on the auto industry.

This was the general reaction in industry circles following the decontrol announcement in Washington yesterday.

Lifting of price ceilings had been expected in most industry sources ever since the car makers began introducing their 1953 models late last year. At that time, several of the car makers disclosed they planned no price increases despite numerous engineering and styling changes. They explained they were counting upon increased production and a substantially higher demand for new cars throughout 1953.

Unit Manager To Be Picked At Meet Here

Members of the advisory committee of the Scurry Area Canyon Reef Operators Committee will hold a meeting in Snyder March 12-13, Leon Huff, Chamber of Commerce manager, announced today.

Huff said the meeting was originally scheduled to be held in Houston but was changed to Snyder. That was confirmed yesterday, Huff said, by John Conley of Magnolia Petroleum Corp. chairman of the segment operators committee.

At the meeting, the group will announce who will be manager here under the unitization plan. The prospective manager has been approved by the SACROC executive committee and must gain approval of the advisory committee before his appointment will be official.

About 30 representatives of oil firms, including the 11 members of the committee, will begin their meeting at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the Methodist Fellowship Hall and continue until noon Friday.

The Chamber will be in charge of all local arangements, Huff said.

Less Goods To Chinese Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A British move to tighten controls on strategic shipments to Communist China was reported shaping up today at the Anglo-American conference on cold war policy.

Diplomats said the British Cabinet delegation, headed by Foreign Minister Eden, has expressed readiness to block existing trade loopholes in a drive to harmonize Anglo-American strategy in the Far East.

As the talks entered their third day behind closed doors, it was understood the British had offered to:

1. Bring their list of strategic items barred from trade with Communist areas much closer in line with the far-reaching American list. This could mean adding hundreds of "fringe" items.

2. Crack down on shipping companies involved in illegal trade with the Reds. This was understood to involve some British vessels which have been leased by Communist nations.

Red Press Only Shows Sorrow At Death Of Soviet Dictator

(By The Associated Press)

Newspaper editorial comment on the death of Stalin included:

New York Times—"The being who claimed and secured homage as virtually a living God has proved to be as mortal as his lowliest subject. . . . It would be hypocritical to say that we regret his passing. If he had so willed, the world today could be going through an era of confidence, hope and prosperity such as has never been known . . . But he did not so will, and our children's children will still be paying the price for the evil which he brought into the world."

New York Herald Tribune — "With the withdrawal of such a figure as Stalin, a whole chapter of history closes. . . . In the hour of the Russian leader's passing, people all over the world can be reminded that even those who strive to be Gods remain men; and they can hope that in the midst of change and death there may be a fresh glimpse of peace."

New York Daily Mirror—"We have never found any admiration or sympathy in our heart for this murderer and persecutor of millions. We find none now."

New York Daily Worker—"Humanity has lost the greatest man of our time. . . . Stalin meant that a new era had dawned for mankind, an era of peace, democracy and socialism, an era when mankind was marching to a higher stage of human happiness and freedom."

Airman Kills Wife And Self

AMARILLO (AP) — A 22-year-old Air Force sergeant forced his 35-year-old estranged wife's car to the curb today, shot her to death and then killed himself.

Dead were Sgt. Thomas E. Boswell, East St. Louis, Ill., and Mrs. D. Boswell, Amarillo.

Detective Capt. R. H. Rhodes said Boswell pulled up beside his wife's car, edged her to the curb and then parked behind her.

Rhodes said the young sergeant got in beside his wife, shot her under the collar bone with a .22 caliber pistol and then fired one shot into his lower right temple.

A brother of Mrs. Boswell, Dean Caldwell, said the couple had been married about four months. He said they parted shortly after the wedding and divorce proceedings were in progress. Boswell was stationed at Amarillo AFB.

Some Chance Of Rain Indicated By Report

(By The Associated Press)

Skies over drought-ridden Texas turned partly cloudy Friday and suffering farmers and water-short cities thought it about time for showers.

So did the Weather Bureau. Forecasters predicted scattered showers over the state Saturday and rain or snow in the Panhandle late Friday or Friday night.

QUICK-THINKING BUS DRIVER

Bernard Jakubowski, 33, of Michigan City, Ind., examines damage to his school bus after it caught fire when a gasoline truck ignited after a collision with a cattle truck in Michigan City. Jakubowski was credited with saving the lives of his 60 small passengers when he put the bus in low gear, letting it roll away from the gas truck and then running alongside, helped the children jump out the door to safety.

Senate Fight May Be Avoided By Redrafting Hot Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-O) indicated today Republicans may redraft a resolution to condemn Russia for enslaving other peoples in an effort to avoid a fight over it in the Senate.

Taft, the majority leader, said several suggestions were made for changes at a closed meeting of all Republican senators today.

Among these, he said, was a proposal by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) for a resolution criticizing the Russians without referring in any way to World War II big power agreements.

Taft said this might eliminate Democratic opposition to a rider attached to a resolution sent Congress by Secretary of State Dulles. The Foreign Relations Committee amended the resolution to say its passage would neither validate nor invalidated Yalta and other agreements.

Democrats contend this emasculated the resolution, since it would have Congress condemn the Russians for violation of pacts the lawmakers were not willing to say were valid.

Taft said it might be possible for the Republicans eventually to agree on language the Democrats can support. He said, however, he does not expect any action next week and posibly for some time thereafter because of the uncertain situation caused by Stalin's death.

Smith said he had enlisted some support for a proposal to have Congress declare that the Russians had enslaved other peoples, without mentioning Yalta and other agreements at all.

Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) has had the same idea in mind.

Smith said the Dulles-sponsored resolution is "going in the cooler" with the approval of State Department aides, if not Dulles himself.

As matters stood, Dulles appeared to have lost his first self-started move for congressional backing in his war of nerves against the Russians. A previous Senate resolution condemning Russian persecution of Jewish and other minorities was initiated by the lawmakers themselves.

Figuring in the decision to delay action on the resolution condemning the Soviets was the illness and death of Premier Stalin. Some legislators argued that it would be foolish to take such action until there is some word on whether his successor will be chosen without a struggle.

However, the resolution apparently was being side tracked primarily because of Democratic opposition to a GOP amendment saying that Congress was not passing on the validity or invalidity of the secrety-made agreements.

Dulles testified he wanted the resolution passed by a near unanimous vote. He said no useful purpose would be served in changing the wording he submitted. When the Senate Foreign Relations Committee did change it, at the insistence of GOP Leader Taft of Ohio, Dulles apparently was not pleased.

Senate Democrats demanded that the original language be retained unchanged, asserting they were supporting the President's position.

New Figure Skating Queen Wants To Become Doctor

By The Associated Press

NEWTON, Mass. —Tenley Albright, the courageous 17-year-old girl who overcame polio and recently won the world's figure skating title, has a burning ambition. And it's not connected with skating.

The pretty blonde daughter of a surgeon wants to become a doctor like her daddy.

When Tenley was 10 years old she contracted polio but licked the dread disease. Her ambition to become a doctor is strengthened by her recovery.

Now a student in a private school in Cambridge, Tenley plans to enter Radcliffe College. "When I graduate, I hope to study medicine," she says.

Dr. Hollis Albright was sure Tenley would never skate again after her infantile paralysis attack in the fall of 1946. She was not paralyzed but she couldn't control her muscles.

However, she was back on skates within a month. She wobbled around the rink and often sat down hard. By Christmas she was skimming over the ice.

Her instructor, Willie Frick of the Boston Skating Club, said "It was like a miracle. She skated as well as she ever did."

In February, 1947, she captured the Eastern Girls figure-skating titale at Philadelphia. But she couldn't stay around to receive the prize. Awards were made after midnight, when the 11-year-old champ was on her way back to Boston with her school homework all done.

Tenley started skating at eight on a home-made rink in the back yard. Her father, mother and younger brother, Nile, all are ardent skaters.

Frick spotted Tenley's unusual talent when she first went to the Skating Club for lessons.

She won the National Junior title at 14. Last year she won the National Senior crown and placed second in the Olympics. Hard luck struck again just before the finals of the 1952 world championships.

Teneley suffered a serious virus infection just when she appeared to be a certain winner. Her father rushed her aboard a plane for home.

The first American girl to capture the world figure skating title put in a strenuous training schedule.

She has been spending from three to four hours each morning practicing figures.

Then she would go back to the Boston Skating Club after school and "do 30, sometimes 40 fast runs around the rink to build up speed."

Friends and neighbors expect her back for the North American and National Championships. After that she plans an exhibition tour of Japan with Hayes Jenkins of Akron, O., who won the men's championship.

Dick Button, former world king and Harvard Law student, said "We're all proud of Tenley." But he wouldn't hazard a guess on whether she will follow his example and turn pro.

Most of her friends are convinced she will skate "for fun" for many more years.

I have some rubber floor mats which I want to clean and polish. I am wondering if regular floor wax would be suitable to use on them. M. S.

Yes, a self-polishing wax would be all right to use on the mats. Don't use a polishing wax because rubber softens when any solvent is applied to it and all waxes contain this ingredient.

I wrote asking you for a mocha frosting earlier this week. Now I would like to have a butterscotch frosting which doesn't call for white sugar to be caramelized.

In a saucepan mix well 2 cups light brown sugar, firmly packed, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, ¾ cup milk, ¼ cup shortening, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt. Bring slowly to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly, and boil briskly 2 minutes. Cool to lukewarm, add 1 teaspoon vanilla and beat until creamy and thick enough to spread. This makes enough for tops and sides of two 9-inch layers.

I was given a waffle iron for a wedding present. I am told it needs to be seasoned and I have no idea how to go about this. Mrs. F.L.A.

Thoroughly brush the grids, when cold, with an unsalted melted fat such as shortening or olive oil. Then connect the iron and heat to baking temperature. Disconnect the iron and allow it to cool. When you want to make waffles, reheat the grids to baking teamperature and pour in the batter and bake. Discard the first waffle, because it will be very greasy. From then on the waffles will not stick to the grids if you use a recipe that has some shortening in it. After the grids are seasoned, do not wash them. If waffles burn, or if the iron overheats, scour the grids with a stiff brush and re-oil them.

Movie Of Capital Is Shown At Cosmorama Club

Mrs. Richard Brice was hostess for Cosmorama Club Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ola B. Leath.

Continuing the club's study of the United States, a program on Washington, D. C., and New York was given.

"Invitation to the Nation," a colored movie about Washington was shown by Charles Wolfe. Following the movie, Mrs. Fred Bullard commented on the city. "You as an American may enter the portals of Washington today with a warmth of feeling that excites the hearts of those who are 'coming home', " she said.

Mrs. Holman Odom discussed New York and told that the 7,800,000 persons living in the city never determine the most conspicuous feature of New York life.

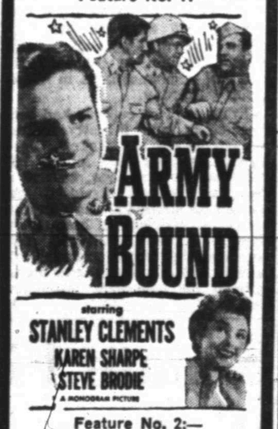

Nineteen members attended.

Stalin's Rise To Power Was On Trail Marked With Blood

By The Associated Press

For more than 20 years Joseph V. Stalin ruled Soviet Russia with an iron hand. He won power after a bitter struggle with Leon Trotzky, his arch enemy who fled into exile. Trotzky subsequently was killed by a pick-axe attacker in his Mexican refuge.

Many prominent Bolshevik figures were executed in the 1930s as the aftermath of bizzarre blood purge trials. Numerous others were imprisoned. Charges included conspiracy to overthrow the government, treason, murder and plots to kill Stalin and others high in the Soviet administration.

The relentless prosecutor was Andrei Y. Vishinsky, later to become foreign minister in Stalin's regime. Vishinsky demanded death for the "accursed vipers . . . foul dogs . . . disgusting villains."

By that time Stalin was firmly in the saddle.

Stalin led the 180 million Russians through a series of so-called five-year plans designed to aid the nation's agricultural and industrial development. He led them into a friendship compact with Nazi Germany that freed Adolf Hitler for his war of conquest. And he led them into a long, bloody — and valiant — struggle against Hitler after the latter had turned on him.

It was Soviet Russia's role as a war ally of the United States and Great Britain that lifted its prime minister to heigths of power. His armies exploded the myth of German invincibility. Allied leaders heaped praises on him. He was one of the world's "Big Three," holding conferences with President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

But soon after victory Russia entered into what was called a cold war with the countries that had fought on its side against Germany. This was a conflict of ideologies.

STALIN'S IRON RULE

There were many evidences of Stalin's iron rule.

Early in his regime the well-off peasants — the kulaks — who opposed his collectivization drive were eliminated as a class. It was estimated that more than one million kulaks died of hunger after their grain had been confiscated.

Gregory Zinoviev and Leon Kamenev, who had aided Stalin against Trotzky but had later gone over to Trotzky's side, were executed. Many others fell like wheat before the scythe during the purges of the 1930s or disappeared from sight.

Trotzky once used against Stalin a letter represented as having been written by Nikolai Lenin, revered by the Reds as a national hero, in which it was stated that Stalin was 'too rough."

Stalin's original name was Joseph Vissarionovich Djugashvili. He was born December 21, 1879, in the village of Gori, province of Tiflis, Georgia, the son of a shoemaker father and serf mother.

He was successively theological student, revolutionary agitator, journalist, military leader and political administrator. It was after he became a revolutionary that he took the name of Stalin, which means "man of steel." It was the custom of revolutionaries to take nom de plumes for their writing and other activites as a protection from the police.

Stalin's father apprenticed him in boyhood to another cobbler, but his mother succeeed in having the arrangement canceled so her son could be educated for the Russian Orthodox priesthood.

In due season he was enrolled in a theological seminary, but his student days were few. At 15 he had joined an underground political group and had imbibed its Marxian doctrines. He expounded these to fellow students, was betrayed to seminary authorities and expelled.

The czarist regime of the late 1890s had no haven for an ex-student of known radicalism. The secret police in Tiflis camped on his trail and he moved on to Baku and Batum.

Stalin organized strikes, wrote pamphlets for publication on illegal printing presses and in various other ways carried the Bolshevik ideas to the masses.

It was under his direction that the first issue of the newspaper Pravda was prepared in 1912. "The Pravda of 1912." Stalin wore on its tenth anniversary, "was the laying of the cornerstone of the victory of Bolshevism in 1917."

Stalin was jailed eight times and exiled to Siberia seven times between 1902 and 1913. He escaped from there six times. The last sentence was to the Arctic regions. There, in a closely guarded camp, he remained until the czar's overthrow emptied Siberia of its political exiles.

AS RUSSIA'S LEADER

While in Siberia in 1903, Stalin received a note from Lenin — his first contact with the man who was to become Russia's leader and whom he was to succeed.

One of Stalin's first moves when he assumed power after Lenin's death was to start rebuilding the economic structure of the country. The first of the five-year plans for industrialization was launched.

He built up a mighty military machine, too.

On Nov. 30, 1939, the Soviet Union brought war to tiny Finland, which in 1918 had waged a successful fight for independence against Bolshevik Russia by making a swift attack on the snow-covered frontier.

Finland had refused Russian territorial demands and Russia had rejected Finnish proposals for further discussions. Before the actual military attack, the Soviet press and radio loosened charges against the little republic, accusing its government of stubbornness and of fostering hatred of Russia.

Then there were accusations that Finnish artillery had fired across the border, killing Red soldiers. Finland denied border violations and offered to withdraw its border troops if Russia would do likewise.

Russia repudiated the Soviet-Finnish non-aggression pact which still had several years to run and began the invasion. In the beginning of the conflict the Finns scored a series of spectacular victories, but the Red Army's crushing weight soon overcame the resistance. On March 12, 1940, the Finns gave up to end the costly, hopeless conflict known as the "winter war."

Under the peace treaty, Russia all but regained the Baltic position she had held before World War I and made various other gains. Both strategically and territorially, she got more than she had asked originally.

Russia was building up a protective barrier against Germany. A short time after Finland's defeat, the three Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were swallowed up by the Soviet Union, which already occupied one-sixth of the earth's surface.

A little more than a year after the "winter war" ended, Finland went to war with Russia as an ally of Nazi Germany. That was when Germany invaded Russia in 1941. Once again Finland lost. She was required to pay 300 million dollars in war reparations to Russia over a period of eight years.

PACK WITH NAZIS

While Britain and France were negotiating for an alliance with Russia in the uneasy summer of 1939, Russia astounded them and most of the rest of the world by signing a non-aggression pact with the Nazis.

That was the spark that touched off the powder keg. Germany's forces were released for waging the "lightning war" on Poland. Britain and France, disillusioned about appeasement, went to Poland's aid, World War II was on.

Documents captured by British and American troops during the war and released some time later disclosed that Russia had initiated the move for the friendship treaty with Germany.

Under their partnership agreement the two countries carved Poland and Northeastern Europe into spheres of influence or outright control.

Russia even offered in 1940 to join the German-Italian-Japanese Axis at a price, but Hitler apparently considered the price too steep. The Soviet Union had agreed with Hitler that the United States, as well as Britain, should be shut out of Europe, Asia and Africa.

TURNED ON PARTNER

In pursuance of the partnership agreement, the documents showed, Russia helped the Nazis defeat the British blockade for almost two years by furnishing large supplies. Up to the very last she wanted "friendship." Even after the invasion started, the Russian ambassador asked the Germans what had gone wrong and why war had arrived.

The agreement began to come apart when Russia started to take more than it provided, the documents showed. Then Russia made big new demands. In December of 1940 Hitler ordered his armies prepard for the invasion. That began in June of the next year.

Stalin called the invasion a "perfidious military attack on our fatherland." He accused Germany of "treacherously tearing up" the nonaggression agreement and called Hitler "an hysteric." British and American offers of aid brought from him an expression of "a feeling of gratitude."

The Russian leader decreed "death to the German invaders!" at the end of each Order of the Day, and as supreme commander in chief of the Red Army he made the slogan have literal meaning. Nazis fell by the hundreds of thousands on Russia's inhospitable soil.

From the beginning of Germany's invasion of Russia, the United States kept up a great outpouring of lend-lease arms and supplies to help the Reds to carry on. Stalin once said that "without American production, the United Nations could never have won the war."

NAZIS DECEIVED

Russia had kept its real military strength a complete mystery prior to the German invasion.

Reich Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering intimated in a speech in 1943 that Germany had been deceived as to Russia's real strength by the Red Army's poor showing in the first part of the Finnish war, which he said was "the cleverest camouflage known in the history of the world."

Although the Russian forces in Finland were few and had "obsolete arms," Goering declared Russia had spent 15 years "building up the most powerful armaments which ever had been made by any nation."

After the war the Soviet Union charged that Britain and France encouraged Hitler to make war on Russia and tried to isolate Russia from the rest of Europe. In a reply to the American publication of papers on Nazi-Soviet prewar relations, the Soviets also made public a number of documents which they said the Red Army captured from the Germans.

COLD WAR

They said Russia's captured documents showed, among other things, that Britain and France, to save their own skins, engineered the Munich Agreement (by which the democracies sought to appease Hitler) and other pacts to turn Hitler away from the west and toward Russia.

That charge was just one phase of the cold war.

The western world was blotted out from the Soviet people. They knew only the versions of western life Stalin's press gave them. These versions did not tell of American aid in World War II. Russia was pictured as the main force that brought victory. The United States and Britain were portrayed as being bent on a third war, while Moscow was "a mighty pillar of peace."

The United States sought to get the true facts to the Russian people by setting up the radio Voice of America to transmit information to the Russian people. These broadcasts were frequently "jammed" by Russia.

At the same time that the USSR sought to bar news from the West to the Soviet, it made every effort to keep the Western world ignorant of the Soviet Union and its satellites. That led Winston Churchill to coin the expression "iron curtain" to describe the barrier around the Soviet orbit.

EAST VS. WEST

The Soviet Union extended its influence over much of Europe and Asia — including China — while accusing the United States of "imperialism."

Russia sought in every way to wreck the United States European Recovery Program (the Marshall Plan) that was designed to help wartorn Europe back to its feet. The chief of the Communist Party's propaganda administration described the Marshall Plan as "a noose for the necks of the peoples of Europe."

Differences between the East and the West persisted in the United Nations Security Council, in the occupation areas of Germany, in Korea and elsewhere. Heavy American aid to the Chinese Nationalists failed to prevent China from being overrun by communism. In the U. N. Security Council there was a virtual deadlock in all major peacekeeping machinery. The atomic bomb was the major issue.

The United States' proposals for international control of the atomic weapon were not acceptable to Russia.

Churchill urged that the United States and Britain guard the bomb "as a sacred trust for the maintenance of peace" and not share the secret "until the proper safeguards have been taken to control the use of so dreadful a weapon."

BOMB SECRET BROKEN

If Soviet Russia alone had the atomic bomb secret, he said, he was sure that country would not share it. He mentioned the assistance given to the Russians during the war, including radar "and other matters," and said he was "not conscious of any considerable reciprocity."

Churchill accused the Soviet Union of seeking "indefinite expansion" of its "power and doctrines" and advocated an Anglo-American fraternal association to prevent another "catastrophe."

He said in 1948 that only the atom bomb prevented the "enslavement of Europe by Communist forces directed by the Kremlin."

Stalin termed Churchill a warmonger and accused him of telling lies. He called the former British prime minister "the main instigator of a new war."

Russia finally broke the atomic secret. On Sept. 23, 1949, President Harry S. Truman announced that an "atomic explosion" had occurred in Soviet Russia. While Mr. Truman did not use the word "bomb," top-level security officers emphasized that it was indeed a bomb.

United States policy makers were of the opinion that Russia would be wary of starting an atomic struggle in which retaliation could be very swift. For one thing, they pointed out that the United States had a four-year headstart in bomb manufacture.

New School To Be Dedicated In Gail Sunday

The population of Gail is expected to more than double for a while Sunday afternoon when the new Borden County Rural High School is dedicated there.

School officials expect many more than 200 persons, the population of Gail, in that city for the event which is a highlight of many years of planning and work by citizens of the sparcely settled county.

Dr. Bascom B. Hayes, of Austin, director of administrative services for the Texas Education Agency, will give the dedicatory address.

Representatives of many of the national education organizations as well as visiting dignataries from other school districts, Texas colleges, and most of the population of Borden County will be present for the dedication at 3 o'clock and open house at 4, S. P. Stewart, superintendent, said.

Dr. John S. Carroll, chairman of the Rural Education Services of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will also be on the program. He will also be representing as a past president the department of rural education of the National Education Association.

Borden county, which covers 91 square miles of land and has a population of 1,106 persons, and its rural school district are being used as a model rural school system both by the Texas Education Agency and by national education organizations.

Actually four new schools have been built in the past three years in the Borden system. Combined they have cost about $1,000,000. They are the high school at Gail, and rural elementary schools at Murphy, in Southeast Borden County, Glenn Creek school in Southwest Borden County, and the Plains school on the Caprock in Northwest Borden County between Gail and O'Donnell, Tex.

Sentell Gives Opinion Of One-Cent Tax On Gasoline For Highways

AUSTIN — Rep. C. F. Sentell of Snyder said he could vote for a one-cent gasoline tax as legislators began to think about sources of revenue for the state.

Sentell said it is better economy to pay the tax and keep up the highway system than to let it go to pieces while we're saving ourselves the penny tax.

Many opposed the gasoline tax, usually on the ground that it would work too much hardship on the people. Out of 15 interviewed in the House, five rejected the one-cent gasoline tax, but seven approved a tax on natural gas. Three said state expenses should be cut to fit the income.

War Games In Northern U.S.

CAMP DRUM, N. Y. (AP) — Defender troops have beaten off—for the second time—aggressor forces using make-believe atomic artillery in winter war games here.

The 82nd Airborne Division's 505th Regimental Combat Team was awarded the victory yesterday after completion of the second three-day tactical problem in Exercise Snow Storm.

The losers—the 278th Regimental Combat Team from Ft. Devens, Mass.—were routed last week by the 82nd Division's 325th Combat Team in the opening problem.

The 278th, pressing an "invasion" from Canada, exploded a simulated atomic shell that inflicted uncounted "casualties" on counter - attacking defended troops.

Despite the explosion, the defenders captured high ground and sealed off the aggressor troops' escape route.

Some 82nd troops who have completed winter training headed yesterday for their base at Ft. Bragg, N. C. A convoy of 2,889 men of the 325th Combat Team left in 502 vehicles.

Stalin Has Been Killed In Newspapers Many Times Since 1926

LONDON (AP) — Some European newspapers have unofficially killed off Joseph Stalin five times since 1926.

Press reports also had him deposed in 1930, suffering from a stroke in 1929 and on the brink of retiring because of ill health in 1945.

Stalin's first "death" was by assassination, according to British newspapers of 1926. Four years later, Latvian newspapers had him murdered in Moscow.

In October, 1945, the Russian Embassy in Paris had to issue emphatic denials of reports he was dead. Three years later, embassy officials in London retorted a "nonsense" to similar reports in Berne, Switzerland, papers.

The last report was in 1949, when the Red chief was supposed to have died of a heart attack.

Soldier Held In Murder Escapes From Hospital, But Recaptured Quickly

FT. DIX, N. J. (AP)—Pvt. Edgar Owens, charged with murdering his lieutenant while on maneuvers, was recaptured early today, two hours after he escaped from a "secured ward" at the post hospital here.

Owens, 21, of Brooklyn, N. Y., a mental patient before entering the Army, was picked up by two guards just a few hundred feet from the hospital. He surrendered meekly.

The soldier is charged with murder in the shooting of 2nd Lt. Richard M. Davenport, 22, of a New London, Conn., during a practice maneuver on Feb. 11 in which live ammunition was used.

Eisenhower Asks For Something For The Kids

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says he would like American merchants to offer some of their customers an old-fashioned line—memories.

It would be good for the children, he said, and listed some he had acquired in the neighborhood stores of his own childhood—"the open cracker barrel, the prune barrel, the pickle jug or keg," as well as the homely remarks, proverbs and aphorisms that shopkeepers and customers swapped.

The President went to a luncheon of the American Retail Federation yesterday and, he said, "just got to talking." The result was his plea for something for the children, which he said they couldn't get from Christmas Santa Clauses or television sets

Man Arrested Near Here On DWI Count

A. W. Carey, 41-year-old Snyder man, was released on $500 bond from the county jail this morning after being arrested last night on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Carey entered a plea of not guilty in county court this morning. Wayland Holt, county attorney, told Carey his case would probably be set in court for next Tuesday.

Bill Love and Howard Gibbons, sheriff's deputies, arrested Carey late last night seven miles east of Snyder on the Roby Highway.

Sureties on Carey's bond were Ned C. Butler and Grover V. Scott.

Worthless Check Case

W. L. May of Odessa pleaded guilty in county court Wednesday to a charge of swindling by worthless check and paid a fine of $50.30, including court costs.

The check was written Jan. 12, 1952, to Scott's Texaco Service Station in the amount of $7.50, Wayland Holt, county attorney, said. Holt said May redeemed the check.

One Of Most Wanted Found

BOSTON (AP)—Perlie Miller, 31 one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was arraigned before a U. S. commissioner today following his capture last night in Somersworth, N. H.

Miller had been sought since 1948, when, the FBI said, he bashed in a guard's head and led a band of six other convicts in a flight from a Yancey County, N. C., prison camp.

Four carloads of FBI agents, accompanied by local policemen, took Miller into custody after they surrounded a Somersworth, N. H., address where Miller was living with an unidentified girl friend.

Miller offered no resistance when FBI agents broke into the house. The girl was not held.

The FBI put Miller on its list of 10 most wanted men only Wednesday and hundreds of posters were distributed asking for information about his whereabouts.

Local police said Miller had changed his appearance so much by having his hair dyed that "it would have been hard to recognize him from the FBI posters."

In the heavyweight barrows, Tommy Pate took sixth and Douglas Ayers took fifteenth.

Russian Liberation Is Note In Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—A resolution expressing hope for the early liberation of the Russian and other Iron Curtain peoples was introduced yesterday by Rep. Kersten (R-Wis).

"After Stalin's death we should use this interval of internal conflict at the very core and center of the world-wide Communist operation to win the cold war" by aiding in liberation of those under the control of the Kremlin.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

Miss Catherine Williamson, secretary at the First Baptist Church, adds four more Bibles to the stack of about 50 that have been left at the church. Although announcements are made regularly the books still remain. The most expensive in the lot, valued at about $20, has a name in it.

Unclaimed Bibles Pile Up In Some Of Snyder's Churches

Not all family Bibles are gathering dust on living room tables; a number have gathered cobwebs on local church shelves.

Woodrow W. Adcock, First Methodist Church pastor, estimated 20 to 25 Bibles have been left at the church, none of which have names in them or are very costly. "I think people hold on to the expensive ones," he said.

The Rev. Edward Chrisman, pastor of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church said probably only one Bible is left every six months. "Of course, that is partially due to a small congregation," he said, adding that most of the members come every Sunday and pick up any books they may have left previously.

The Rev. R. L. Dillard of the Church of the Nazarene said he couldn't recall an instance where the members didn't eventually come back for the lost book. "They usually call before the week is over, and especially the old people," Dillard said He accounted the watchfullness to the fact that "They create such a habit of bringing and holding on to them."

Mrs. Floyd Strickland, pastor's wife of the Avenue D. Baptist Church, also said Bibles left in the building were always claimed by the next Sunday. The Rev. Rex Newkirk, Evangelical Methodist Church pastor, said none had been left there, either.

The Rev. Clifford Taylor of the First Christian Church said only one or two Bibles have collected there. "We try to determine whose they are and get them back to them," he explained. One unidentified Bible was left that he doesn't intend to give to anyone since the print is so small he doubts if it would ever be used.

Some of the ministers thought present church-goers don't value the Bible as their predecessors did. "They had more time to think, read and meditate in days before," stated the Rev. T. Gerald Cates of the Calvary Baptist Church. He added that about six inexpensive Bibles, some with names, have gone unclaimed for over a year.

Adcock said in past decades there was only a small amount of reading matter besides the Bible. He also believed the preceeding generations had more respect for the book.

The Rev. Ronald Hubbard of the First Presbyterian Church said there are about six unidentified Bibles there. In the last few years there has been a resurgence toward Bible reading, "but nothing to compare to the amount of attention given to God's work 100 years ago," Hubbard stated. He explained that the Bible was about the only book available to earlier generations.

Dedication Planned By Methodist In 3 Weeks

The Bishop W. C. Martin of Dallas will dedicate the new education building of the First Methodist Church in a Sunday afternoon service March 29 at 3 o'clock.

Final payment on the building was made by the church last month. Ground breaking ceremonies for the building were held March 30, 1950. It has been used by church, civic and community clubs since January of 1951.

Service Topics For Methodists Selected

"Overcoming Trouble" will be the topic discussed by the Rev. Woodrow W. Adcock, First Methodist Church pastor, at Sunday morning services at 9 and 10:55 o'clock.

He will speak on 'Joy: A Necessity in Religion" at the evening service at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Carol Sanders will sing at the early morning service, and the adult choir will sing for the 10:55 o'clock service.

Lord's Supper Sunday

The quarterly observance of the Lord's supper will be held at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning, and the Annie Armstrong home missions offering will also be taken.

The Rev. E. K. Shepherd, pastor, will speak on "Old Paths" at the Sunday evening service.

Mrs. H. H. Reed and sons, Peach Street, have returned from Dallas where they visited her mother and sister, Mrs. Evelyn Pritchett and Mrs. Mary Lawson.

The Rev. Melvin Ratheal

Revival At Baptist Church In Union Set Through March 15

Revival services will begin tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Union Baptist Church to continue through March 15 with the Rev. Melvin Ratheal, Eastland First Baptist Church pastor, speaking.

Morning services will be at 10 o'clock and a nursery will be provided for all services. Roland Gregory, educational director of the First Baptist Church in Colorado City will direct the music. The church is located five miles west on the Lamesa highway.

The Rev. L. V. Ratliff, Jr., is pastor of the Union church.

Baptist Youth To Meet

Young people of the First Baptist Church will make plans for Easter activities at a dinner Thursday night at 7 o'clock at Mrs. G. C. Coleman's home, 2500 Thirty-second Street.

Plans for the coming month and details for an Easter morning sunrise breakfast will be made.

Altar Society Meets

The Altar Society of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church met last night at the church to make plans for constructing Easter baskets to sell.

Money from the project will go into the church's building fund.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Everett, Jr., 610 Twenty - fourth Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Everett, west of town, have returned from El Paso where they visited the Dewey Everetts' son-in-law and daughter, Pfc. and Mrs. Ralph Miller. They also attended bull fights in Juarez.

Shivers' Plan Said Hard On Local Schools

AUSTIN — Rep. C. F. Sentell of Snyder is among the majority of legislators in the House who opposes the Kilgore Bill which embodies Gov. Allan Shivers' ideas on a salary increase for teachers and how it should be financed.

Of 16 West Texans interviewed, 10 were opposed to the measure as it now reads, three liked it in part, and three would make no comment.

The Kilgore Bill would allow all teachers a 10 per cent "cost of living" increase, about $40 per teacher, while its rival bill in the Senate, the Aikin Bill, would grant a $600 across-the-board increase.

Speaking of the Kilgore Bill, Sentell said "I'm studying the measure closely, and I haven't finished yet. But as far as I have gone I'd say I'll have to oppose it. It puts way too much load on local school districts."

Most West Texas legislators have indicated they are in favor of some kind of raise for teachers, $600 if the state could afford it, less if it could not.

Series On Africa Is Being Held At Church Here During March

A study series of Africa to be held each Wednesday evening this month at the First Presbyterian Church was introduced by a sound movie, "The Challenge of Africa," Sunday evening.

Church laymen will have full charge of the programs with each class grouped according to age. Adult and youth leaders are Ned C. Butler, James L. Kincaid, R. T. Roberts, James Rosser, Armor McFarland, William A. Smallwood, Mrs. Butler and Mrs. James A. Walker. M. R. Estes will lead the worship and is general chairman for the series.

Mrs. Armor McFarland was in charge of the covered dish supper for the Wednesday night meeting, and Mrs. Kincaid and Mrs. M. M. Martin will be hostesses next week. The topic for study will be schools and hospitals for Africa.

Church Of Christ Topics

"Do You Worship?" will be the theme of sermons delivered by Ted Norton to members of the Church of Christ at services at 8:45 and 10:50 o'clock Sunday morning.

The sermon topic for the 7 o'clock service that night is "Who are Sons of God?" Bible classes will convene at 10 o'clock that morning.

Douglas Brown To Hold Revival Here Next Week

Douglas Brown of California Baptist Theological Seminary will hold a youth revival at the Calvary Baptist Church Sunday through Friday at 7:30 o'clock.

Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Brown of 315 Thirty-fourth Street. Special music each evening will be provided by young people of the church directed by Mrs. T. Gerald Cates.

Brown will also speak on the radio browdcast at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Presbyterian Youth At Albany Meeting

Members of the youth department of the Presbyterian Church attended a Westminister Fellowship meeting in Albany Friday and Saturday.

The Snyder group presented a skit depicting activities and projects of the past year. Miss Elizabeth Dabbs led the devotional at the Friday evening services. They were accompanied by the Rev. Ronald Hubbard, pastor, and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Walker, advisors.

Vistation Week At First Christian Church

The Rev. Otto Marshall of the First Christian Church in Eastland will be guest leader for a week of visitation.

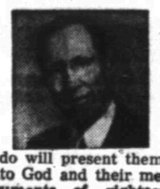

Marshall will speak at Sunday morning and evening church services to be held at the West Elementary School. At 6:30 o'clock each evening next week members will meet at the home of Mrs. Hugh Taylor at 2300 Avenue M to make plans.

Native Of India Speaks At Church Of Christ

Preshon Khariukhi from Shillong, India, spoke to members of the Church of Christ Wednesday night about religion in his country.

Khariukhi came to America to attend recent lectures at Abilene Christian College and at present is touring the states. He talked to members of the ladies Bible class Wednesday morning on customs and languages of India.

REMEMBER . . . DEATH

Man brought death upon himself by sinning against God (Gen. 2:17). Sin is both the cause of death and the sting of death (1Cor. 15:56). We are familiar with death but we are awed in its presence. Death has a message for us.

Life is brief. This is the first message death brings to us. This is good for man. However, the Christian lives with two attitudes: (a) as though he would die today; and (b) as though he would live a thousand years! Job said, (16:22), "When a few years are come, I shall go the way whence I shall not return."

Life is uncertain—a second message for us from death. The wise man said, "Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." (Prov. 27:1). James tells us that our life is as a vapor (fog) which soon vanishes away (James 4:13-16). Therefore, man should take God into his plans! Christians dare not do otherwise!

Why should we remember death? There are more pleasant subjects on which to think. But there is no experience which is more certain than that of death. Then, let us be admonished by death.

Let us trust in God—not in man! One is exceedingly unwise who places his trust in man. Jesus said, "But in vain do they worship me, teaching as their doctrines, the precepts of men." (Matt 15:8,9).

Let us do right according to God's standard (Rom. 10:1-3). All who so do will present themselves alive unto God and their members as instruments of righteousness (Rom. 6:12-14).

Christians do not faint at the fact of death. They know they have "not here an abiding city," but they seek one to come (Heb. 13:14).

They urge sinners to obey Christ—both in becoming a Christian as well as in living as a Christian ought. When a person obeys Christ, he is prepared to live.

One is not prepared to die unless he is prepared to live! Let the reader turn to the book of Acts and see the examples of conversion to Christ. He will observe that men believed in Jesus Christ, they repented, they confessed before men that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, they were baptized into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit "for the remission of sins." Let the reader read the Epistles and see how Christians are urged to live godly lives—faithful even unto death!

All who obey the word of God revealed in the New Testament, "Remember ....Death!"

DISCUSSING THE HIGH POINTS

We never learn all we are taught!

In religious education, as in secular, certain truths are grasped immediately; others are stored away in the mind to be understood later; and some are promptly forgotten.

When your child comes home from Church School each Sunday he has grasped a few "high points" of the lesson. You can encourage him by talking them over.

He also brings home each Sunday certain impressions. He cannot express or understand them. But they are seeds which, if nourished in a Christian home, will blossom into moral and spiritual character.

But your child leaves behind him many truths which are essential to a mature soul. These "lost" ideas will be re-learned in future experiences at Church. That's why religious training must be continuous.

Wise parents study their faith with their children. In our local churches there are classes for young and old.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Billy Graham Fight Favorite

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight Contender Billy Graham is a 2-to-1 favorite to beat Middleweight Joey Giardello at Madison Square Garden tonight and the veteran New Yorker vows 'there will be no doubt about it."

"This time I'll be so far in front there won't be any room for argument," said Graham, loser of two split decisions to the 22-year-old Philadelphian.

"I'll win it big," said Giardello. "He'll have nothing to cry about this time."

Because of the closeness of their last two contests and the rhubarb over the December fight, enough interest has been cooked up to guarantee a successful financial evening for both fighters and the International Boxing Club.

Although the 12-rounder will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) starting at 9 p.m., (CST), the IBC expects the biggest crowd (about 9,000) and gross gate (about $28,000) of the Garden winter season. With radio-TV money thrown in, each fighter will collect around $9,000.

Purchase Of 49ers Has Fallen Through

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Co-Owner Tony Morabito said a deal to sell his San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League to Texas bidders is "definitely off."

Morabito previously said Clinton W. Murchison Jr. of Dallas and his brother John had made an acceptable bid.

Morabito did not disclose why negotiations fell through, but said the team was still for sale.

In Philadelphia, League Commissioner Bert Bell said he was delighted that Morabito and his brother Victor are not selling, since he does not favor absentee club ownership.

Area's Biggest Track Meet Is Started In Fort Worth Today

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet, one of the biggest and gaudiest cinder path carnivals in the country, opens today with 1,000 schoolboys fighting through preliminaries that will require five hours.

The collegians—and there will be athletes from seven universities, nine colleges, eleven junior colleges and eight college freshman teams in the field—move into action tomorrow morning.

Record-breaking is due to start this afternoon among the 77 high school teams with all eyes on a young man named Eddie Roberts of Stillwater, Okla., who hung up marks in both hurdles last year and should shave his own records today.

Oklahoma A&M, favored to win the university class title, will furnish probably the only record smashers in that division. The top possibility is Fredrick Eckhoff, a 4:14 miler who will be lashing at the record of 4:20.3.

An Oklahoma Aggie freshman appears due to do even better, however. He is Sture Langquist, who has romped the mile in 4:08. The record in the freshman class is 4:28.4. The meet record is 4:14.2, set by Blaine Rideout of North Texas State in the college class in 1939. Langquist could hang up an overall mark.

North Texas State's 440-yard relay team and Abilene Christian College's mile relay team are likely to set records in the college class.

Some glittering sprint duels are anticipated in the university division although no record is likely. Buddy Goode of Southern Methodist is a crack 100-yard and 220-yard dash man. Opposing him will be Ronald Clinkscale, Texas Christian football player who might give Goode a tough afternoon if he wasn't still favoring a pulled muscle suffered in spring training. And Paul Wells of Oklahoma A&M does the 100 in 9.7.

A golf meet also starts today with 65 high school teams competing. The collegians play tomorrow. North Texas State is defending its championship and has entered three teams to do it. There are 287 high school, college freshman and college golfers in the three-division links tournament.

In addition to Roberts, Stillwater also will have another potential record-breaker in the high school division. He is Bob Buchanan, who ran a record 4:34.4 mile last year.

Holdout Ranks Cut

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Boston Braves' holdout ranks were thinned to three today after Pitcher Don Liddle—an American Association star with Milwaukee last season—agreed to terms.

The holdout list includes Vern Bickford, Outfielder Luis Marquez, and Infielder Sibi Sisti.

No Back Talk In Baseball Is Latest Rule

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Jimmy Dykes is burning about the new American League ruling that says an umpire's judgment must not be questioned by a player, manager or coach.

The manager of the Philadelphia A's ended his brief armistice with the umps after reading the new rule from the office of Will Harridge, American League president.

"We're going to have to educate the public to pay more attention," said Dykes with a straight face. "Mickey Mantle and those other boys don't mean a thing anymore. It's only the umpires the people pay to see. Now they're putting the four umpires on a pedestal.

"If they want colorless games, it's okay with me. I'm warning my players the first to get tossed out of a game for questioning an umpire's judgment will get a fine from me. If that's the way they want it, they can have it."

Dykes loosened this blast as he re-read the rules in the A's club house.

The rule on umps read like this:

"Effective with the opening of the American League season, any decision involving the accuracy of an umpire's judgment may not be questioned by a manager, player or coach.

"No manager, player or coach shall be permitted to leave the bench or his position on the field to question an umpire's decision on calling of balls and strikes or the so-called 'half strike.'

"For violation of this rule, a manager, player or coach will be removed from the game."

City League In Games Tonight

National Guard will be defending its lead in the city cage league at 8:30 o'clock tonight as it begins second round play against C & S Sporting Goods.

Starting off tonight's play will be Chuck Wagon and Wade Pipkin Motors. Game time is 7 o'clock.

In the first round of the league, National Guard downed C & S 66-47, then beat Chuck Wagon 59-54 and Pipkin 56-49. Charlie White, Robert Minton, and Bill Houston led in the victories.

C & S, after losing to National Guard, fired back to down Wade Pipkin and Chuck Wagon. Bobby Shipley, Bill Boyd, and Jimmy Williams were the leaders of that team.

Wade Pipkin Motors remains winless. Leaders of that team are Bill Zimmerman, Norman Carter, and Douglas Ayers. Chuck Wagon has one win, a 66-46 victory over Pipkin in the first round, with Ned Underwood, Joe Burney, and Shorty Burney as scoring leaders.

The four league teams will complete league preliminaries next week, then go into a double-elimination tourney for the championship.

LEAGUE STANDINGS

National Guard	3-0
C & S Sporting Goods	2-1
Chuck Wagon	1-2
Wade Pipkin Motors	0-3

Three-Inning Tryout For Rookie Pitcher

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Veston "Bunky" Stewart will get a three-inning tryout in the Nats' exhibition game against the Athletics tomorrow at West Palm Beach, inaugurating a standard routine for rookie Washington pitchers.

Manager Bucky Harris said Stewart would be sandwiched for his stint between Frank Shea and Walter Masterson.

Low Classes Setting High Cage Records

AUSTIN (AP)—The "big boys" will find a rapid pace already set in the state high school basketball tournament as Classes AAA and AAAA open their bids here tomorrow.

Conferences B, A, and AA provided opening-day thrills and three new records as finalists were determined in the latter two classes and semi-finalists from the eight-team field in Class B.

The three records fell in Hutto's 69-58 victory over Stinnet. Kermit Decker dropped in 12 of 14 free throws for a new Conference B performance for one game. The old record was 9 by Ken Hinson of Stanton in 1951. It also tied the tournament record for all conferences set by Harold Phelan of Levelland last year.

NEW SCORING MARK

Hutto's 69-point total set a new conference scoring record, beating Cayuga's total of 68 set in 1950. And the game aggregate of 127 topped the old mark of 105 set by Moulton and Blum in 1952.

Class AAA teams open competition in the afternoon when South Park of Beaumont meets Paris followed by the Edison (San Antonio) battle with Vernon.

Class AAAA play starts with Pampa meeting Stephen F. Austin of Houston at 7:30 followed by Polytechnic of Fort Worth and Austin at 8:15 p.m.

Bowie and Dumas won their way to Class AA finals but will not play until Saturday.

'A' FINALS ALL SET

Denver City and White Oak will clash in the Conference A finals Saturday also.

Blum and Cayuga open Friday's schedule as they battle for a finals spot in Conference B. Hutto and defending champion Big Sandy clash for the other spot.

Bowie had a comparatively easy time defeating Alvin, 52-34, while Dumas had considerably more trouble easing past San Marcos, 49-45.

P. D. Fletcher dropped in 23 points in Dumas' defeat of San Marcos and was the outstanding floorman. Temple Tucker was the big man for Bowie in both scoring and rebound work while Granville Hambright and Clinton Taylor scored 13 and 12 points respectively for the losing Alvin five.

BLUM-PETUS CLOSEST

Other Thursday scores in Conference B first-round games were White Oak 43, Deer Park 34; Denver City 55, Troup 49; Cayuga 67, Rankin 37.

Closest game of the day was Blum's 48-47 decision over Pettus.

It took four free throws in the final minute of play for Denver City to ice away its game over Troup.

All-Conference Team Selected

By The Associated Press

Lewis Gilcrease of Southwest Texas State, who set a new scoring record, and Jim Miller, big East Texas State center, were the only unanimous choices for the All-Lone Star Conference basketball team.

East Texas State, which won the championship, placed two men on the team—Miller and Clarence Lynch, guard. The other three on the all-star selection were Gilcrease, whose 592 points hung up a new league record; Tom Sewell of Sam Houston State, and Ray Walton of Lamar Tech.

Making the second team were Gerald Cecil, Lloyd Giles and Paul Alford of Stephen F. Austin; Jimmy O'Banion of Southwest Texas and Shelby Metcalf of East Texas State.

The teams were picked by the five conference coaches. They submitted names of their players which they considered worthy of all-conference recognition. Balloting was conducted by David Bost, conference secretary, with no coach voting for his own players.

Receiving honorable mention were Bill Collier of Sam Houston, Weldon Bond of Lamar Tech, Raymond Hall of East Texas State, and Bobby Flanagan and Jackie Bond of Stephen F. Austin.
