Council Discusses Mosquito Control

The city councilmen appointed a board of equalization okayed the tax rate, discussed mosquito control and mowing of vacant lots among other problems which they tried to solve when they met for a regularly scheduled meeting Monday night.

Appointed chairman of the tax board of equalization was Vernon Jefferies. Garland Ruthhart and Ira Foster were named as members of the board with W. E. Thomas and Russell Strain being named alternates.

The tax rate was approved as a mere formality, being the same $1.50, with 50 per cent being deposited into the general fund, 40 per cent in interest and sinking and 10 per cent into street inprovement fund. This was in keeping with the practice for the past five years.

Mosquito control by air was discussed by the council and they agreed that if an airplane could be secured to apply the malathon (which the city purchased last year for that purpose) this would be the preferred method of control. They decided to wait until contact could be made with the sprayers who will be spraying Plainview before taking any action.

Mayor Parley Myers pointed out to the council that larvacide was being kept in the lakes near the city and that the county was treating other lakes.

The cost of mowing of vacant lots was set by the council at $2.50 per 25 foot lot and $5 per 50 foot lot per season. This was the same rate as last year.

In other action, the council voted unanimously to approve a request by the Baptist Church members for angle parking on Sixth Street between Main and Avenue G, becoming effective May 31.

A spokesman for the church said that he had been asked to seek the council's approval of angle parking, requesting that the street be striped for this purpose.

Also included in the action of the council was a clause for no double parking on any city street. Councilmen remind residents that it is illegal to park in the alleys at any time.

Forrest Cole petitioned the council to lease the grass on the land which the Cole Estate had recently sold to the city for the purpose of a dump ground in the future.

Cole was granted permission to lease the land for grazing purposes with the understanding that he assume all liability.

Bids were recently requested by the city for a new police car and since only one bid was submitted, the council tables it, asking that more bids be received before taking action.

In final action, Joe Hall, council's representative on the board of directors for the Olton Recreation Center, said the directors were seeking financial aid from the city. This was tabled until the next regularly scheduled meeting, awaiting further study.

Mayor Myers reminded citizens that this is Clean-Up Month for the city of Olton this month and that the trash haulers will pick up rubbish and other debris this month only while there are extra men on the job.

CLEAN UP MONTH has been designated by the city council for the month of May. This bulletin board, which was the work of the art teacher, Mrs. Laura Bryan and Mrs. Criswell encourages residents to take time to clean up during the month of May.

New Teachers Hired, Board Hears Complaints

Two new teachers were hired, bus drivers given a raise in salary, resignations of two teachers were accepted, kindergarten guidelines were discussed and numerous other items on the agenda were taken care of in the regular session of the board of trustees Monday night.

Teachers offering their resignations because of "personal commitments" were Mrs. Jane Smith, first grade teacher and Mrs. Jacquelyn Armstrong, high school librarian.

New teachers employed were Janice Farris and Cynthia Withrow.

A contract with Regional Media Services, the firm which furnishes film for the school, was renewed. Cost of the service is $1 per student average daily attendance.

Kindergarten was the next topic up for discussion. Supt. Ray Schultz told the board that the local board was required by the state to set up its own guidelines for eligibility for attending kindergarten.

Students who are eligible -- those who cannot comprehend English or those who are from families with less than $3000 income --- must meet the requirements as stated by the school board before they may enroll.

Guidelines adopted by the board include a personal interview with the principal of H. P. Webb Elementary school, Fred Gordon. At this time Mr. Gordon will ask the children to perform certain minor tasks such as drawing a man, putting a puzzle together and answering a few questions.

Bus drivers were given a raise by the board, in conjunction with the fact that the state is providing more money for bus drivers. Present salary is $80 per month and a raise of $20 per month was granted. Those receiving the raise will be only those persons who are hired to drive buses. The bus mechanic, Loyd Blackwell, was excluded from the motion because his duties as bus driver are included in his contract.

A routine duty of making application for U. S. commodities for the school year 1970-71 was then performed by the board.

Discussion of the work-study program brought out the fact that the school would be employing boys for work this summer on the school grounds.

Schultz said that the school would be required to pay the minimum hourly wage of $1.45 but that the state would reimburse the school 80 percent of this. A boy must be enrolled in vocational-agriculture the next school year in order to be eligible for the program. He must also be a member of the low-income family.

In reporting on attendance and the lunch room. Supt. Schultz said that attendance was down only three this month, all fifth grade students. Attendance for the entire school year has dropped 70.

The cafeteria for the month showed a decline, Schultz said. This was partly due to the fact that Margie Slatten, lunch room supervisor was replacing such articles as silverware, trays and other minor items.

A report on the CVAE program for which the school has made application showed that an official notice had not been received as to whether the school was going to be accepted, but Schultz said that he felt it would be. The program will be offered to junior high students. Boys will be instructed in woodwork and girls in cooking and sewing.

Mrs. Robert Meinecke then asked the board for the floor and voiced a complaint on behalf of several interested citizens of the method used for selecting members to the National Honor Society.

Students must be approved by all teachers in order to become members. One teacher may mark a student's name from the list and thereby make the student ineligible. This is done secretly and no reason is given for the rejection.

Mrs. Meinecke stated that she had been asked to appear before the board on behalf of the parents and ask what, if anything, could be done about changing this procedure. She said she felt that if a student is "blackballed" then a reason should be given. And she also said that most secret organizations which voted on members gave the "blackballed" person a second vote.

The board said that since it was a national organization, that they would have to look into the charter and rules of the organization to see if this method was determined by them.

Mrs. A. C. Light Jr. then asked for a few minutes of the board members' time. She said that she was concerned to find that her son was allowed to drop a class and begin sitting in a study hall without her being notified of such change.

Her son had missed several days of school in the past because of being confined to a hospital and she said she felt that he needed this class to help make up for his lost time.

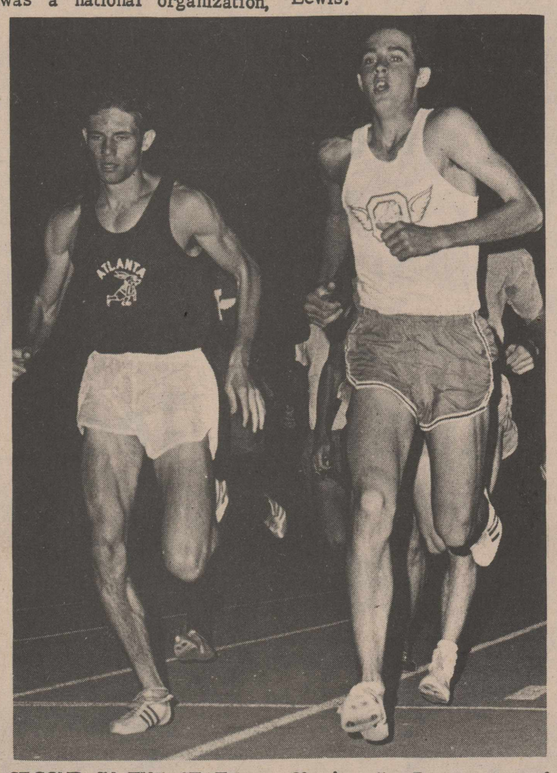
She also complained of the practice of "socially promoting" a student. The board explained that at times, it was better for teachers and students for a student to be moved on up to a higher class level even though he hasn't achieved the standards set by the school.

She then asked the board if a boy who was "kicked off" the football team for smoking during one season, should be penalized for the rest of his high school career.

Supt. Schultz told her that this would be the decision of the coaches. The board would not be in a position to tell the coaches who to accept for the team.

Mrs. Basil Johns criticized the practice of taking points from students on a disciplinary measure. She said she felt like the taking-off of points had been misused or "abused, if you please." An unexcused absence by any student is subject to a two to five point reduction of his report card grade, in accordance with the school policy as stated in the handbook.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. Ray Culwell, Mrs. Earl Spruiell, Mrs. Charles Sullivan and Mrs. Charles Lewis.



SECOND IN THE STATE --- Olton's Mike Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Parsons, comes across the finish line in second place only six-tenths of a second behind the first place winner Martin Miller of Atlanta. Mike, a junior at Olton High, represented Olton at the State Track Meet in Austin, Friday, May 8. His time was 4.19.8, his best performance of this year.

CDU Seeking Storm Cellars

The civil defense unit is still seeking to learn of the location and capacity of storm cellars in town. A request a few weeks ago for this information met with little response.

Persons with a storm shelter are asked to call City Hall or Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture office.

Civil defense members ask, too, for a listing of station wagons which might be pressed into emergency ambulance use in the event of a disaster.

Tuition fee of $12.50 will be charged for three weeks of instruction. Further information may be had by contacting band director, Fred Stockdale.

Third Grade Teacher Retires After 21 Years In System

"Housework, washing, ironing and cooking makes for quite a career, I've found".

Thus Mrs. Raiford Daniel describes her day to day routine since "retiring" as a teacher in the Olton school system.

Mrs. Daniel, known as Bettie B. by many friends, has taught "off and on" in the Olton system for 21 years.

Bettie, a graduate of Plainview High School with two years work at Wayland Baptist College, began her teaching at a little Hale county school called: Stoneback.

In 1928, after a year of teaching, Bettie and Raiford were married. Raiford worked with Fulton Lumber Company in Plainview and Bettie taught at another small country school, Happy Union and in Plainview.

When Raiford Junior joined the family, Bettie took a leave of absence. Then two little daughters, Javern and Bettie Lois, were added to the family tree and for about 10 years, Bettie was busy being wife and mother.

Today, Raiford Junior lives with his family at Earth where he manages a grocery store. Javern, Mrs. Richard Snell, lives in Clovis, N. M. and Bettie Lois, Mrs. Ronald Curtis, makes her home in Tucson, Ariz.

Thirteen grandchildren help gladded the hearts of Bettie and Raiford.

In 1942 the family moved to Olton and for a number of years operated Daniel Food Store. Bettie resumed her teaching, teaching in both the fourth and fifth grades.

After another brief "time out", she began the 15 years consecutive service, teaching for seven years in the seventh grade before being "demoted" to the third grade.

During the years, Bettie completed work for her degree and received it from Wayland in 1961. She completed several other summer courses since that time, both at West Texas State and Tech.

One of her latest courses was one in applied art from the Educational Center in Lubbock. "It was delightful - I thoroughly enjoyed it" she explained.

A lot of changes have been made since Bettie began her teaching career, including the much discussed "new math".

"I'm so glad they started teaching phonics" she exclaims. "It helps so much with spelling. I didn't have phonics and I'm a poor speller" and then adding with a chuckle, "one of the poorest in the third grade".

"I'm amazed at how much more first graders know than when my own children were in the first grade."

As with most people who work with children, Bettie has a store house of memories.

She recalls one particular time when she read aloud to her third graders, James Whitcomb Riley's "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin".

Reading dramatically she began, "When the forst is on the pumpkin and the fodders in the shock - -" After completing it with feeling, she thought, one young lad inquired, "Mrs. Daniel, what was the father doing in the pumpkin field?"

"You remember the good things; the bad things fade" Bettie said. She remembers, however, one particular bad time.

When the banks closed during the depression, she remembers, there were some who were intensely bitter toward bankers. Their antagonism, in some instances, influenced the children's actions.

"The tension (at school in Plainview) was terrible!" It was so serious, she recalls, that the school administrators sought release of some of the tension by declaring one day a workday.

Cloths and pails of water were secured and everyone was put to work. As fixtures were scrubbed clean, tensions faded too.

"I hope, never again, to see such antagonism and hatred as there was with those students," she said. "I saw how easily mob violence could have happened."

"I surely do like Olton, it's a nice place to live," Bettie says, sincerely. "I've enjoyed being a part of the Olton school system and it's a pleasure to see the children I've taught grow up - - and to teach some of those students' children!"

MRS. RAIFORD DANIEL

Fred Gordon, elementary principal, has been her principal for most of the years she's taught in Olton.

Expressing her admiration for him, she said "He couldn't have been more considerate - the children came first."

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

This Is Peace ?

Reports on planning for the United Nations World Youth Assembly, scheduled to open July 9, indicate that it will be a forum for anti-American revolutionaries and a scene of turbulent dissent.

The Youth Assembly is supposed to be part of the celebration of the 25th anniversary year of the U. N. It is likely, however, that the proceedings will only deepen U. S. public disgust with a body which promotes strife, not peace, and which is profoundly antagonistic to the interests of the American people.

Ironically, the Youth Assembly is being planned by Francois L. Pouliot, a 29-year-old "youth". This fits in with the global pattern of "youth" organizations in which "students" may be in their late twenties and even their thirties.

While Uncle Sam picks up the biggest share of the U. N. tab, the arrangements for the meeting are clearly rigged against the United States and other free world countries. In mid-April, it was disclosed that U. N. officials, charged with making arrangements for the Assembly, had agreed to issue 126 invitations to go to such non-member states as Communist China, North Vietnam and East Germany.

It is obvious what such representatives will do if they are permitted to enter the United States to attend the Youth Assembly. They will use the sessions at the U. N. to make propaganda war against the United States and its allies. Inasmuch as the United States has no diplomatic dealings wtih these nations, and as they are bitter enemies of free peoples, there is no reason why delegates from these nations should be admitted to the United States. Indeed, the Nixon administration should make it plain at the earliest possible date that these youthful propagandists will not be permitted to set foot on American soil to abuse this country in the halls of the U. N. building.

Other reports regarding Assembly planning reveal the character of the forthcoming meeting. For example, there will be no rules about voting, so communist elements are likely to rig the outcome of every resolution. Asked by the press whether there would be any rules against four-letter words during the proceedings, Mr. Pouliot said "None". That means the world is likely to be treated to another spectacle of obscene protest such as the infamous Chicago 7 put on at their trial in federal court in Chicago this past winter.

The very idea of celebrating the 25th anniversary of the United Nations, whether by youths or adults, is offensive to many citizens. This is especially true in view of the recent statements of United Nations Secretary General U Thant at a U. N. conference in Tampere, Finland. Speaking shortly before the commencement of the Lenin anniversary celebration, U Thant described the brutal author of the Soviet totalitarian system, V. I. Lenin, as an "outstanding scholar and prominent humanist," who helped advance "human rights and fundamental freedoms."

It is profoundly shocking that the operating head of the United Nations, which is supposed to be dedicated to peace and freedom, would use the occasion of a UNESCO conference to heap praise on a man responsible for untold misery among hundreds of millions of human beings. The man U Thant hailed as a "prominent humanist" butchered or starved his opposition in Russia, condemned and dismissed morality, and directed a terrorist and torture campaign against anti-communists. Lenin, with Adolph Hitler, was one of the principal authors of the misery, violence and horror in the 20th century. He cared nothing for "human rights" or any other type of rights. His career was one of trying to obliterate "fundamental freedoms."

In his speech at Tampere, U Thant showed his true colors and indicated where his sympathies lie. The speech explains why he has been so bitterly anti-American over the years, never missing a chance to use the U. N. as an instrument against the United States and other free world, capitalist nations. For Americans to join with U Thant in "celebration" of the U. N. would amount to hailing a man and an organization dedicated to downgrading the United States of America and the values on which it is built.

If the Youth Assembly does any good at all it may be in the way of causing U. S. taxpayers to take a new look at their funding of the organization. This year American taxpayers will contribute $110 million to the U. N. The U. S. is providing about 40 per cent of the U. N. budget and getting about 90 per cent of the U. N. critcism in return.

If the Youth Assembly turns out as expected, the public may demand that the U. S. stop paying altogether. There is no sense in Americans paying for an organization that abuses them and seeks the downfall of the republic.

A token payment of $1.50 is asked to pay for the cost of the film and developing. West Texas Tuberculosis Association bears the expense of reading and reporting to each individual, by mail, the result of his x-ray film.

The Christmas Seal Mobile Detection Unit is brought to Olton annually by the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

Children under 12 are too small to be x-rayed by this type unit. Every adult and youth is urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

Sue's Views

Happiness !!

BY SUE CANNON

Isn't this just a great time of year?

Lovely sunshine, high winds, blowing dust, tornado warnings....

Not to mention all the activities going on at school, what with graduation and all.

Graduates from eighth grade happy about being in high school next year, graduates from high school happy about being in college next year ... and then there are the mothers of these graduates.

That's a little different story.

They are happy in one sense of the word but a fact comes to mind that their little boy or girl is fixing to face this old world and all its problems. And that couldn't make anyone happy, I'm a-thinkin'.

We should be very proud of our young people at Olton High. Every where they go, they are complimented on how well behaved they are. And let's face it .... they are a reflection of our community and that's a nice reflection, I'd say.

There are four of us that work here at the newspaper that have graduates this year and next week is our big graduation issue so, if you see a mistake or so, kinda overlook it, if you will.

And if you notice a few this week you can blame it on the fact that my new little niece was visiting this week.

The newest member of our family, little JoLisa Hoover, was here the first part of the week. She's only two and a half months old and a living doll.

She and her mother, my sister Joyce, will be making their home here while my brother-in-law Joe is serving with the armed forces in Vietnam for the next year.

That baby will probably be so rotten by the time he returns he may declare war on all of Joyce's family!

But I'll guarantee one thing --- She won't want for attention!

Good Deed Done By Local Firemen

Members of Olton's civil defense unit are to be commended for their quick response in helping Monday night when the devastating tornado struck Lubbock.

Lending help were Tom Smith, fire chief, Phil Hughes, Elton Avery, Harold Jordon, Clyde Vaughn, Elmer Houston, Raymond Powers and Charlie Giles.

Sherman Agency Beats Muleshoe

Sherman Agency's Senior Babe Ruth team racked up two runs per inning in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth innings Saturday night in a practice game with Muleshoe.

Three times the home team picked off a Muleshoe runner at the plate and held the team to two runs in the six inning game.

Olton's first runs came when Charles Pinkerton was safe on an error, Kent Parish walked and Terry Bridge singled both home.

In the fourth, Steve Stockdale drew a base on balls and Steve Sanderson singled. Sanderson was safe at home with the fourth run on a fielder's choice to Pinkerton.

Joe Dale Chitwood led off the fifth with a single, stole second and came in home on a throwing error by the catcher on a pick-off play at third. Bridge then blasted the ball over the right field fence for the sixth run.

Chitwood and Favian Minjarez each singled in the sixth. An error scored Carrol Blackwell, who had drawn a base on balls, and Chitwood.

Muleshoe collected four singles.

The two teams will meet again, in a second practice game, Friday night at Babe Ruth Park in Olton. Game time will be 8 p. m.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

What Is Answer To Drug Problem?

What is the answer to the problem of drugs? What advice should be given to young people wondering whether they should experiment with drugs to enlarge their understanding of themselves?

Conflicting advice comes from many sources.

Here is some advice from young people who have had experience with drugs.

A young university student — Andy Anderson — committed suicide by dousing himself and his car with gasoline, then starting a fire. He left a note, in which he said:

"Please forgive me, parents, for quitting after you have raised me, but I cannot live with myself any longer."

"Don't"

"This Christmas I had a very bad experience with a drug called mescaline. I have smoked a little pot before . . . but I tried mescaline only once. Since then I have not been in control of my mind. I have killed myself because I can no longer run my own affairs and I can only be trouble and worry to those who love and care for me. I have tried to straighten myself out, but things are only getting worse. . . .

"To those of my friends who might also think about learning about themselves with mind-expanding drugs — don't."

A tragic end to a life which had been full of promise.

Is there any hope for a young person who becomes addicted to drugs?

Yes, there is.

Catherine Marshall, in the May issue of "Guideposts," tells of meeting a young couple — Jeff and Carrie Buddington — who had tried marijuana, LSD, and speed (amphetamines).

Jeff told of enjoying the "highs" of drugs at first—then feeling "something evil reaching out to possess me. Crazy images appeared in my mind. . . . I could feel the control over myself slipping away."

His wife, he said, "felt something like this, too."

But they were fortunate. They met some Christians—real Christians — who were interested in them. They went to the community where these people lived.

"It was in this Christian community that we began at last to find answers," Jeff said.

"One You're Searching For"

"One day, all by ourselves, we had our own Pentecost and accepted Jesus. Later we were both baptized in the creek and also legally married. People came from everywhere for the wedding — hippies still on acid, and straight people. We spent the whole day telling them all, 'Jesus is the One you're searching for!' "

His young wife, Carrie, said, "The Holy Spirit has power . . . greater power than the unholy spirit. . . . He enabled us to kick drugs in a matter of days when we'd been on them for so many years — and that's a miracle."

It's tragic that the young man who killed himself did not know of the power that is able to set people free — even from drug addiction.

The Bible says, "Ye shall know the truth — and the truth shall make you free."

The best answer to the problem of drug abuse is for young people to take the advice of those who have learned the hard way — don't do it.

For those who are already hooked, there is a way out. It is the way that Jeff and Carrie Buddington found.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MOZELLE TROTTER

Boy, oh boy, is the sink ever clogged up this week! All sorts of things are flitting through this addlepated brain (?) of mine.

Aren't we just the most fortunate people in the Panhandle-South Plains? To be so near the terrible tornadoes of this spring and to be untouched by their fury?

Amid all the unbelieveable rubble, tho, there is much for which to be thankful. Twenty-one lives are such a small number considering the number left homeless.

Shifting to the less serious, you remember, don't you, that the baseball season really gets underway in Olton Saturday? Be sure and go see a game - and you have a choice, the little Pee Wee leaguers, Little League or Babe Ruth.

Rehearsals are underway, too, for the annual play presented by the Baseball Association. It's really a Little Theatre presentation - just sponsored by the Baseball Association.

A two-act comedy, the play promises to be a delightful night's entertainment. Be planning to see it.

There's another subject that I've been trying to avoid -you know, maybe it might go 'way.

Graduation!

I wouldn't have it any other way but I'm not ready for my Littlest to leave the nest!

'Nuf said for now.

The Charter Oak tree at Hartford, Conn., legendary hiding place of the Colonists' Charter, was blown down during a windstorm in 1856. A granite shaft marks the spot where it stood.

FOR LOVELY SKIN

To keep your skin looking the way you want it to, heat up some of your favorite cleansing cream each night and gently massage it on your face. Always use upward strokes. Leave all the cream on while you bathe and then tissue off the excess, leaving enough to protect your skin from further moisture loss from the surface while you sleep.

CASUAL WEAR

Clogs have taken to the streets in astounding numbers. Perhaps this is because women like to give their feet a rest with comfortable, backless shoes whenever possible. They're great for casual wear and, if you can, by all means wear them to work. They make walking and standing heaven.

CHANGING CLIMATE

At the present time, the earth's climate is far more rigorous and marked by greater extremes of heat and cold than it has been for the last 500 million years.

DID YOU KNOW?

Stone and bone carvings prove that horse racing is a sport at least 30 centuries old?

There still isn't any place like home.

MRS. W.T. HANKINS PICTURED WITH HER PAINTING

Cook Of The Week

Our Cook of the Week, Mrs. W. T. "Bill" Hankins, prefers to wield a paint brush rather than a mixing spoon or other kitchen gadget.

Although she had wanted to paint for years, Dot did not begin painting until about three years ago. Since that time it has become her favorite pastime.

Dot takes lessons from Ruth Barnett of Hale Center and Olton's Jean Green. She paints anytime the urge hits - "which is mostly all time".

Born at Murchison in woodsy East Texas, Dot moved as a girl to Eldorado, Okla. It was there she met and married Bill. They moved to Olton in 1943 after living at Plainview for three years.

Dot and Bill have two sons, one daughter and five grandsons.

Tom Billy, the eldest, moved a little more than a year ago from Olton to San Antonio. He and his wife, Pat, have three children, Tommy, Alex and Terry.

Joline is Mrs. Gradean Franklin, Joline, Gradean and Steve live in Irving.

Hayden, who also is a talented artist, lives in Azle with his wife Gayle and small son, Kelly.

Another member of the family is Susie, the Siamese. The Hankinses also have two dogs, Custard, a Pekenese with the coloring of a custard pie, and Jasper, a "sort of poodle".

Dot loves antiques and has numerous "treasures" - furniture, glassware and dolls. Although she still enjoys antiques, that hobby has taken a "back-seat" to her painting.

An avid bookworm, Dot prefers a book to the TV set. "I've nearly worn out this settee" she said, indicating the spot where she usually reads.

With a chuckle, she adds, "And I'll probably read in my coffin."

She loves to sew and is an ardent camera bug.

Dot is a member of the First Baptist Church.

Cards Of Thanks

Thanks for the prayers, flowers, cards, letters, visits and every kind deed rendered me since my accident. God bless each one.

Sincerely,
Mrs. G. T. Gallaway

A note of thanks to the most wonderful people! It seems I am debtor to everyone, for all the helpful courtesies shown me and my family in these trying experiences. First the loss of my "Mother's Day Baby" who would have been 50 years old this Mothers Day. Then my fall, I am still in a brace but thankful I am much improved. Then the response with flowers, food, visits, phone calls of the many friends of Walter and the family. Our hearts overflow with gratitude to the Giver of all good and perfect gifts. Your prayers have been a constant source of strength.

Sincerely,
Mrs. T. D. Lewis and family

We wish to express appreciation to many people for lovely letters, cards and flowers that added so much to our happiness on the occasion of our golden wedding anniversary.

We shall always treasure each thoughtful gesture and the friendship which prompted it.

Gratefully,

After three trips to the hospital and surgery three times in ten months, I want to say "thank you" to those who have remembered me with flowers, cards, letters, calls, visits, gifts, food and many other acts of kindness during my illness. All have been a blessing to me.

Homemakers' Beatitudes

BLESSED is she whose daily tasks are a work of love for her willing hands and happy heart transform duty into joyous service to all her family and God.

BLESSED is she who opens the door to welcome both stranger and well loved friend; for gracious hospitality is a test of brotherly love.

BLESSED is she who mends stockings and toys and broken hearts; for her understanding is a balm to her husband and children.

BLESSED is she who scours and scrubs; for well she knows that cleanliness is one expression of godliness.

BLESSED is she who sings at her work; for music lightens the heaviest load and brightens the dullest chore.

BLESSED is she who dusts away doubt and fear and sweeps out the cobwebs of confusion; for her faith will triumph over all adversity.

BLESSED is she who serves laughter and smiles with every meal; for her cheerfulness is an aid to mental and physical digestion.

BLESSED is she who introduces Jesus Christ to her children; for godly sons and daughters shall be her reward.

'That Old Time Magic' Theme Of Pioneer Round-Up

The theme, "That Old Time Magic" has been chosen for the 42nd Pioneer Round-Up to be held Saturday, May 16. Mrs. Helen Pemberton, president of the sponsoring organization, the Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club, stated that all plans have been completed for this event.

The reception beginning at 10:00 a. m. at the Hale County Agriculture Center at the Y on Highway 87 in Plainview, is a big feature and is a time when the real "old timers" get together to reminiscence and exchange stories of the past. Mrs. Era Cox, chairman of this committee and her assistants are expecting many pioneers from near and far to arrive soon after 10:00.

One of the few remaining parades in Plainview will be staged at 3 p. m. originating near the Santa Fe Depot on north Broadway. Parade will move south on Broadway to 5th Street, east to Ash and north on Ash to point of origin where it will disband.

O. B. Jackson will be parade marshall. The color guard will also head the parade and the Plainview School bands will march. Some floats have already been entered and Miss Fay Newell, chairman of the parade committee, stated additional floats are welcome on that date. The antique car section promises to be one of the main attractions. Riding clubs and miscellaneous riders will give the western flavor to the event. Winners in the parade will be announced at the night program.

The evening activities will also be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center. From 6 to 8 p. m. the chuck wagon supper will be served. "Take-out" plates will also be available. The meal will consist of son-of-a-gun, brbecue, sour dough biscuits and all the trimmings. Mrs. Estha Zimmerman, chairman of the Foods Committee, gives assurance that plenty of food is being planned for and that this year the members of the B&PW Club will prepare the food and assist in the cooking. The club members will "Rock the Beans" on Friday afternoon with the cooking beginning early Saturday morning.

The program will be presented at 8 p. m. Mrs. Romi Li Patrick, chairman and her program committee, have announced that a magical program will be presented this year by Tom Rutledge of Plainview. Tom, a high school student, will carry out the theme of the Round-Up as he is a magician. He will perform his act with the help of his assistant, Debbie Phillips.

Mrs. Patrick states that prizes will be awarded to the couple who have been married the longest, to the oldest person present and to the pioneer traveling the fartherest distance to attend the Round-Up. Mrs. Lena Faye Alford will serve as Mistress of Ceremonies. An outstanding feature of the program will be honoring the "Pioneer Woman of the Plains".

The square dance will conclude the Pioneer Round-Up again this year. Miss Lou Ella Scarbrough, chairman of the committee, has announced that Cliff Smith of Littlefield will be the caller. She stated that all who like to square dance are invited to participate. The Agriculture Center is air conditioned and will be comfortable for dancing from 9 to 12.

Tickets, $1.50 (tax included) including the supper, program and square dance, may be purchased from any member of the Plainview B&PW Club or secured at the door. Mrs. Lillian Hollister is ticket chairman. People of all ages are most welcome and are cordially invited to attend and help make this 42nd Pioneer Round-Up on May 16th the best yet.

Origin Of Words

By Mrs. Blanton Martin

Early in the eighteenth century, someone noticed that bell ringers were very muscular in the chest and shoulders areas as a result of pulling the ropes necessary for the bells to ring. Whoever he was, this enterprizing individual made a device which simulated the bell-ringing equipment, but without the bells.

The rope was probably attached to weights suspended over a pulley from the ceiling. At the other end of the rope, and just within reach of the exerciser, was a wooden bar complete with knobs to keep the hands from slipping. The user could, by regulating the weight, control the amount of exercise. Because it had no bell, as the device which it simulated had, it became known as a "dumb bell".

Later it was discovered that the same exercise could be obtained by eliminating most of the unsightly apparatus and using only the wooden bar or a heavier metal bar. Though no longer associated with the art of bell ringing, this simple device for muscular development is still referred to as a "dumb bell".

The new region, first of 10 planned by the State Health Department, served 36 counties stretching from the Red River to the lower Louisiana border above Orange. It includes the Governor's Planning Regions of Northeast Texas, East Texas and Deep East Texas.

Region 7 medical director is Dr. J. R. Bailes, who moved to his post after serving as director of the Texarkana-Bowie County Health Department since 1962. Deputy regional medical director is Dr. John P. Jones, who also supervises the Tuberculosis Control Program in the Tyler area.

Texas has 68 organized city and county health departments providing direct public health services to eight million residents in 76 counties which contain about 76 per cent of the state's 10.6 million population. The state's remaining 178 counties, with about 24 per cent of the state's population (or 2.6 million people), are left without local health units. The new region is setting about to alter this situation.

According to Dr. Hampton C. Robinson, chairman of the State Board of Health, a more highly coordinated, economical method of providing public health services to all people is vital. The regional system has been designed specifically to meet the demands of the growing state which by 1980 is expected to have a population of 14.9 million.

While maintaining the health units already organized, the regional offices will be staffed by well-trained personnel representing all the professional and technical disciplines required for complete health services.

Health personnel will be concentrated into the regional office and made available throughout each region.

Each region will have a regional engineer to supervise the environmental health program, a public health dentist, a veterinarian, a chief nurse and a chief sanitarian.

"Primary mission will be to provide assistance to those counties that do not have health departments," said Dr. James E. Peavy, State Health Commissioner.

Safety, Everyone's Business

Safety is everybody's business, and if you are an employer or employee in Texas industry you probably will fall under one or more of the Occupational Safety Standards being drawn up by the Occupational Safety Division of the Texas State Department of Health.

"Safety" is more than just a word. It could be the difference between life and death, a crippling injury or a costly insurance claim. Safety is preparedness--the prevention of accidents. Industrial accidents last year in Texas showed losses of $360 million.

Authority to set up safety standards for regulating industry was contained in the Texas Occupational Safety Act of 1967. The law provides that occupational safety standards shall be established for all places of employment in the state with the exception of private residences where domestic servants are employed and carriers regulated by the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The law created a Texas Occupational Safety Board composed of the Commissioner of Health, Commissioner of Labor Statistics and a private citizen. E. C. McFadden heads up the board and is joined on it by Health Commissioner Dr. James E. Peavy and Labor Statistics Commissioner Tommy V. Smith. The law also provided for a General Advisory Committee composed of 10 employer and employee representatives.

Director of the Division of Occupational Safety and State Safety Engineer is Walter G. Martin, whose office works under Deputy Commissioner for Environmental Health G. R. Herzik Jr. Both employer and employee needs must be met in writing the standards--five of which already are in effect. Eleven will be in effect by the end of the fiscal year on Aug. 31, and 26 other safety standards are in the development process. In effect are Woodworking Machinery, Abrasive Wheels, Power Presses, Floor and Wall Openings, Railings and Toe Boards, and Fixed Ladders.

Used as the basis for Texas standards was the American National Standards Institute Codes-- consensus codes recognized by authorities nationally and internationally. Martin says there are in excess of 200 standards in the field of industrial or occupational safety and it will be a process of writing and revising them for Texas.

Purposes of the standards are: 1. To reduce the number of disabling injuries in Texas places of employment; 2. To decrease the rising insurance costs; and 3. To provide safe and healthful places for employees to work. Martin said the Texas Legislature has backed the State Health Department in developing the standards and setting penalties for violations.

Martin said industries have an incentive to have good safety records since they can save on workman's compensation insurance premiums and exempt themselves from normal inspections by his division. The division has 14 field engineers and regional offices in Dallas, Houston, Midland and San Antonio. Further expansion is scheduled in September.

DIVERTED ACREAGE:

This must be land that could be expected to produce as much as your 1970 projected yield.

Turnrows, drainage ditches, wet low-lying areas, droughty knobs and other areas which normally would not produce a crop is ineligible land for diverted acreage.
