Jack Aims At New States; Nixon-Rocky Hopes Grow

Jury Wheel Ready For Service

Puga Turns Over Finished Jury Wheel To The County

Howard County's new jury wheel was turned over to the county this morning. Manuel Puga, tinsmith, delivered the wheel to Wade Choate, district court clerk.

The wheel will be temporarily stored in the clerk's office. Effective Aug. 1, the wheel will be loaded with the names of all qualified jurors in the county and will serve to supply jury panels effective Aug. 15.

Judge Ralph Caton, County Auditor Lee Porter and Choate complimented Puga on his work and said the wheel was the most attractive and serviceable of any these officials had seen in any of the counties in this area where the wheel is already in service.

Boy For Steven And Norse Wife

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a boy for Steven Rockefeller and his pretty, blonde Norwegian wife.

The former Anne Marie Rasmussen, once a maid in the Rockefeller family's residence, gave birth to her first child early today at Harkness Pavilion, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center.

The father, whose story book romance with Anne Marie attracted world attention, said the child weighed 8 pounds 4 ounces.

No name for the new Rockefeller heir was announced.

Lightning Hits Andrews Alleys

By The Associated Press

Lightning struck Harvey's Bowling lanes in Andrews during a 4.50 inch rain Wednesday night and collapsed the roof. Between 40 and 50 persons inside the tile structure escaped without injury. High winds accompanying the storm blew over a trailer house.

Runoff from the 2-hour rain flowed a foot deep over highways east of the West Texas town leading to Lamesa and Big Spring.

Missile Sites

OMAHA (AP)— The Air Material Command will take over possible establishment of a missile base from research groups at Dyess AFB, Abilene, Tex., Dudley C. Sharp, Air Force secretary, said Wednesday.

Six-Year-Old Struck, Injured In Bike Crash

A six-year-old boy, struck by a car as he rode his bicycle near his home Wednesday evening, was reported in satisfactory condition following surgery this morning at Howard County Hospital Foundation.

Tommy Tune, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tune, 202 Circle Dr., suffered a broken left leg in a collision with Lee Denton Harrison, 609 Gregg, in the 200 block of Circle Dr. shortly after 5 p.m. He was taken to the hospital in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance.

The accident was the first of the year involving a bicycle and a car, according to police traffic division records. Twp motor scooter accidents have occurred this year however, one Wednesday afternoon. The other was in June.

Walker Gene Kinal, 16, 105 E. 23rd, driving a motor scooter was in a collision with Irene Louise Sofferis, Sheppard AFB, at 4th and Benton. Kinal was bruised but was not hospitalized.

Three other mishaps were investigated by police during the past 24 hours.

Robert William Sanderson, 2401 Morrison Dr., was in collision with Margie Simon Caswell, 408 McEwen, at 2nd and Benton.

Frank Howard Farar Jr., Gail Rt., Big Spring, and Irene Fields Merrick, 600 E. 15th, collided at 3rd and Goliad.

Iva Delouis Barlow, Midland, and Sterling G. Williams, Overton, were in collision at 3rd and Benton.

Pact Reached

ST. LOUIS (AP)— The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and a union representing some 47,000 of its employes reached agreement today on a three-year contract.

GOP Platform Pact Is Sought

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller are being consulted in efforts to draft a Republican platform acceptable to both.

Announcing this today, Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the GOP national chairman, told a news conference he doesn't know yet what will be the outcome of attempts to iron out differences of opinion between Nixon and the New York governor.

If a mutually acceptable platform is adopted, Morton said this possibly could serve as the catalytic agent to bring together a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket. He said this would make "a very strong ticket."

VERY ADAMANT

But the national chairman listed this only as a possibility, since he said Rockefeller had been "very adamant" in saying that he wouldn't take second place on the ticket.

As for himself, Morton said he doesn't want the vice presidential nomination and is not seeking it. Nevertheless he is regarded as a leading possibility for the place, which Nixon will fill with the man he wants if he becomes the presidential nominee as expected.

Morton said he thinks three might be placed before the convention for the presidential nomination, but there might be only one. He said Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona might oppose Nixon but added he doesn't believe any final decisions have been made.

The chairman said he has heard reports that Rockefeller has from 150 to 400 delegate votes. Nixon is credited with more than 1,000 against the necessary 666.

PLANK WORK

Nixon, meanwhile, was reported taking a direct hand in shaping the convention's farm plank.

One of Nixon's toughest campaign tasks, if he gets the top nomination next Wednesday as expected, will be to try to win the Midwestern farm belt states back to the GOP fold.

With this in mind, Nixon passed along to Platform Committee members the ideas he has been gathering for nearly six months to incorporate into a plank designed to convince the farmers better days are ahead if they vote Republican.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, vice chairman of the Platform Committee, indicated the Nixon-endorsed plank is likely to pledge a continuation of federal farm price supports without setting any specific level.

DIFFERENT VIEWS

Laird predicted the plank will express different views from those of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Benson wants the government to get out of pricing matters and control of production.

In their farm plank, the Democrats promised 90 per cent of parity price supports for major crops. They pledged a food stamp program and expansion of foreign distribution of agricultural products.

Democrats have made Benson something of a political whipping boy, and Nixon has taken some steps to disassociate himself from the secretary's policies.

Nixon's interest in the platform extended also to efforts to draft a civil rights plank satisfactory to Negroes.

Charles H. Percy, platform chairman, suggested in a visit to the civil rights subcommittee's session Wednesday that if Negroes were guaranteed voting rights and employes were encouraged to end job discrimination, this might be the answer to the rights problem.

U.S. Ready To Keep Reds Out Of Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States said today it will do whatever it must to keep Soviet troops out of the Congo.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge gave the pledge to the U.N. Security Council after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov had said "peace-loving states" would have to act if Belgian troops do not leave the chaotic New African republic immediately.

At a council meeting lasting until 1 a.m. Kuznetsov introduced a resolution demanding the withdrawal of Belgian forces within three days.

The Soviet resolution was not expected to win council approval. Instead the 11-nation group probably will approve a milder resolution being drafted by Ceylon and Tunisia that will call on Belgium to "proceed as speedily as possible" with the withdrawal.

DEBATE RESUMES

The Ceylonese-Tunisian resolution was to be introduced when the council resumes debate this afternoon.

Lodge welcomed a report from Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold that the new U.N. military force is moving into the Congo fast to restore order and protect the population. He expressed the hope that in a few days it will be close to 10,000 strong.

The U.S. delegate noted "reports that the Soviet Union might intervene in the Congo directly with troops."

"With other United Nations members, we will do whatever may be necessary to prevent the intrusion of any military forces not requested by the United Nations," Lodge declared.

Premier Patrice Lumumba of the Congo has been saying he will ask for Soviet soldiers if the Belgian troops do not withdraw quickly. In a message to him Friday, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev promised "the necessary help which may be required" to end what the Russians and Lumumba call Belgian aggression.

MAY GET MORE RAIN

Cloudy skies, summer resort temperature and a few extremely light and highly scattered showers marked the weather pattern for Wednesday and Wednesday night.

The same gray skies and cool weather were on hand as Thursday moved in.

No measureable rain was reported officially, but in various places there were reports of brief light showers which quickly passed.

Campaign To Open In Alaska, Hawaii

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy announced today he will open his "New Frontiers" campaign in the nation's newest states, Hawaii and Alaska.

Kennedy said Alaska represents "the great opportunity of America—our vast and untapped natural resources, our opportunity for growth, our chance to dam our rivers and irrigate our lands."

He said Hawaii, the 50th and newest state, is "an outstanding example of people of many races and national origins living and working together in peace and harmony."

Hawaii "also represents as well a bridge to Asia," he said.

Kennedy plans to fly by jet to Hawaii Sept. 1. Then he will go to Alaska and from there to Detroit for a Labor Day speech.

Kennedy's statement on Hawaii and Alaska was announced at a news conference by Pierre Salinger, the Democratic nominee's press aide.

Kennedy said he and his running mate, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, will wage a vigorous campaign starting around Sept. 1.

Earlier Kennedy was reported planning some old-fashioned whistle stop techniques in his campaigning.

Former President Harry S. Truman, the whistle-stop champion of them all, announced Wednesday his willingness to campaign for Kennedy. He had sought to block Kennedy's drive to the Democratic presidential nomination.

This opened an interesting field for speculation.

Although Kennedy released no public comment about Truman's offer, aides said privately the senator wants the former president's help. Kennedy refrained from any counterattack when Truman boycotted the Democratic National Convention, charging it had been rigged or, as he now phrases it, "fixed up in advance."

Kennedy may disclose more of his go-go-go campaign plans during the day.

He met for hours Wednesday with a high-level group of his campaign strategists. They announced they had discussed plans to use the old system of campaigning from the rear platform of a special train at whistle-stop spots difficult to reach by the high-speed planes Kennedy plans to use extensively.

Kennedy has mentioned plans to speak in all the 50 states.

The senator planned to get back on something of a vacation schedule today. He managed to get in a little boating Wednesday with his brother Teddy while rounds of political talk continued.

$1,150,000 Webb Fund Is Released

The Air Force announced the release of $1,150,000 under the military construction bill for use at Webb AFB.

Rep. George Mahon, who advised the Herald of the announcement, said that the funds were for the construction of an airfield runway and road at Webb AFB.

There was no immediate information on the project at Webb.

For some time an appropriation has been in the mill for Webb AFB in the amount of $713,000, which was in the final bill signed by the president early this month.

Since the new amount is substantially larger than the recent figure, there was speculation that the work could be under a previous authorization.

A major extension of the main runway at Webb had been under consideration to better accommodate the F-102s used by the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron in its constant alert under the Air Defense Command.

Etna Eruption Causes Worry

CATANIA, Sicily (AP) — Worried villagers on the slopes of Mt. Etna fear the volcano may be bursting into its most dangerous eruption of this century.

Etna erupted last Sunday with its most violent explosion in modern memory.

For two days nothing more happened. Then Wednesday night violent explosions resumed at sundown and continued at a rate of six or seven an hour until after midnight.

Great masses of molten rock were belched up 1,500 feet into the air. Clouds of smoke and ash billowed high above the volcano. A black rain of ash fell along the whole northeast Sicilian coast.

The explosions gradually diminished. This morning a tall column of white smoke rising from the volcano could be seen for miles.

Both the eruptions of Sunday and Wednesday night came from the great central crater, as well as from a new crater lower on the northeast slope. It was the first time since 1928 that the 10,705-foot-high central crater had burst into activity. That meant that molten lava had piled up two miles inside the volcano.

Villagers feared the violence of the new explosions might blast open a new crater far down the mountainside and start lava gushing.

Wife Seeks Seat At Powers Trial

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The wife of an American U2 plane pilot has asked Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for permission to attend the trial of her husband next month.

Barbara Gay Powers, after being ignored by the Soviet Embassy, has appealed directly to the Soviet chief to attend the trial of her husband, Francis Gary Powers, charged by the Soviet Union with committing acts of espionage.

Platform Plea

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Assn. of Manufacturers today urged the Republican National Convention to reject proposals for new government spending programs when the services involved can be provided by local governments or by private initiative.

Texas Cities Out In CAB Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board rejected Wednesday proposals to consider Amarillo and Lubbock, Tex., in a hearing on local air service in the southern Rocky Mountain area.

The CAB said the area to be considered now will be bound on the north by Denver, Salt Lake City and Reno; on the west by Reno, Los Angeles and San Diego; and on the south by the U.S.-Mexican border, and on the east by El Paso, Tex., Albuquerque, N.M., and Denver.

Amarillo and Lubbock, Tex., and Boise and Twin Falls, Idaho, proposals would unduly expand the scope of the proceeding, the CAB said.

Well? Don't Shoot!

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Frank C. Caramazza, 19, was leaning against an armored truck and told by guard Sebastian Schiek, 37, to move. An argument and fight ensued.

Two cruising FBI agents, spotting the fight, thought it was a holdup. They charged with guns drawn.

"Don't shoot!" yelled Schiek and Caramazza, ending their argument.

A Newark policeman, Fred Parillo, seeing the guns, also thought a robbery was in progress. He drew his service revolver.

"Don't shoot!" yelled the FBI men.

The truck was empty.

Leave For National Jamboree

Big Spring Boy Scouts and Explorers assembled at the Howard County Court House Wednesday afternoon before leaving for Midland where they boarded a plane to fly to the National Boy Scout Jamboree at Colorado Springs. Several thousand scouts from throughout the United States and other countries will be on hand for the week's encampment in Colorado which opens officialy Friday. The Big Spring group includes, left to right, front row, Garrett Patton, assistant Scoutmaster, and Harvey Hooser, Scoutmaster; second row, Gary Turner, Elbert Turner, Michael Steinheimer, Jimmy Burleson, James Johnston and Mark Alexander; third row, Robert Goodlett, Joe Hollinshead, Deats Beaird, Charles Sweeney and Charles Turney; top row, Douglas Earnest, Weldon Self, Freddie Coleman, Don Alexander, Turner Ferguson and Ray Alexander. Hooser and Patton will be assisted by Robert Croft, assistant Scoutmaster from Monahans. The group will return July 29.

AT WEBB

First AF Academy Cadets Graduate

An Air Force milestone will be marked at Webb Friday evening when the first graduates of the Air Force Academy to complete pilot training will receive wings and diplomas. Many Annapolis and West Point exes have begun Air Force flying careers here in the past, but these members of Class 61-A are the first group of "the Air Force's own."

Col. Burton C. Andrus, commander of the 96th Bomb Wing, Dyess AFB, Abilene, will speak at commencement services which begin at 7:30 p.m., in the Base Chapel.

The 22 graduates of the new Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., represent a large part of the 59 students of Class 61-A. All of the "Falcons" who began the rugged local flying training course are graduating. They are Second Lieutenants:

James E. West, Daniel W. Hardage, Floyd R. Hester, David N. Goodrich, James T. Carpenter, Robert J. Chepolis, Jay N. Mitchell Melvin E. Pollard, Walter K. Schmit, Robert H. Siteman, Roger L. Counts, John W. Dolan.

And John F. Gulledges, Conrad M. Kay, Lorin B. Krueger, II, James K. Fletcher, Jack B. Bryan, Robert C. Buckles, John E. Lee, John E. Mantei, Richard L. Penn, Jr., and Philip R. Smotherman.

Others in the class are First Lieutenants Linwood L. Arthur, Dennis H. Goehring, Frederick R. Birch, Lutz G. Mundhenk, and Oscar D. Graham.

And second lieutenants Thomas A. Farlow, Jerry D. McDonald, Robert D. Reneau, Taylor G. Scott, Donald H. Allen, Prescott N. Shinn, Glen E. Belew, George A. Ballantine, George L. Tuzo, David T. Clark, Robert Copeland, Peter F. Cunningham, Robert G. Lowe, III, Philip J. Brignall, Charles W. Walker.

Rites Set Friday For L. D. Mitchell

L. Dalton Mitchell, 60, died suddenly of a heart attack Wednesday afternoon while he was being taken to a hospital.

An organizer of the Big Spring Life Underwriters Association, Mr. Mitchell had been the representative of the Great Southern Life Insurance Company for the past 24 years.

The funeral is set for 4 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in which he was a leading layman and an elder. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, his pastor, will officiate, and bural will be in the City Cemetery under the direction of River Funeral Home.

Mr. Mitchell had gone to the post office after lunch Wednesday and while downtown he felt ill and returned home. The doctor was called, and after an examination it was thought he might have suffered a mild heart attack. An ambulance was summoned to remove him to a hospital for a thorough check. He had scarcely got through telling attendants how well he felt than he was stricken fatally, and was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Born Oct. 3, 1899, at Mt. Pleasant, Mr. Mitchell came to Howard County from McCauley in 1923. He farmed for three years from 1927-30, and then was a barber until 1936 when he bacame associated with Great Southern.

His performance was such that he was given an extraordinarily wide territory that reached into eastern New Mexico. His record of production made him a member of the Leaders Roundtable of Texas for many years, and he also won numerous awards and trips from his company.

He was one of the founders of the local life underwriters organization and served as its president. For many years he was in the Kiwanis Club where he served as a director and as a past vice president. As an elder, he had represented his church on numerous occasions as a delegate to the presbytery, synod and other gatherings.

Mr. Mitchell was married on April 5, 1925, to Nettie Carpenter, member of a pioneer Howard County family.

She survives him as do a sister, Mrs. Virgie Knight, Snyder; a half-sister, Mrs. Ada Flemings, Stanton; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ada Mitchell, Roby; and 11 nephews and nieces.

DEAR ABBY

FOOLISH SOLUTION

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 20, married and 5 months' pregnant with my second child. My husband left me three weeks ago and is paying me $25 a week support. This covers my rent, food, clothes and TV payments.

This pregnancy was an accident. I had no intention of having another child because my husband and I were not getting along.

I can't possibly support another child on $100 a month. I plan to work after the baby comes, but I can't support two children on what I would earn. I want to put the new baby up for adoption and give my first child a decent home. I'd like your opinion.

NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: $100 a month plus what you could earn is enough for any mother who really wants to support herself and two children. (I notice you are able to support a TV set.) By all means give both your babies a decent home—your home. I've heard from hundreds of mothers who gave their babies away and never stopped regretting it.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: What advice would you give a 58-year-old widow who has been invited to live with her married daughter? I have always made it a point never to interfere with my married children because I've seen so much trouble as a result of it, but my daughter and her husband seem to be so sincere in their invitation and I am lonely.

All my friends (especially the widows) tell me they would rather starve to death than live with their married children. I have enough income from my husband's insurance to live alone, but I am lonely. I would appreciate your point of view.

WIDOWED MOTHER

DEAR WIDOWED MOTHER: Don't let the sour grapes from someone else's vine embitter you. Many widows have lived happily with their married children. Give it a try.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: We live in a trailer court and have a four-year-old son. There are many children in the court and they run like a herd of wild animals.

My son wants to play with the other kids in the court, so either I have 10 or 12 kids on my 10-foot lawn or he wants to run wild with them on somebody else's lawn.

I wasn't raised like that and I don't want my son to be wild, either. If I confine him to our yard, he is hurt. What can I do to remedy the situation, besides moving?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: This problem rests with all the parents in your trailer court. Why not take turns hauling the whole "herd" to a playground, park or picnic grounds? Children need to run and play.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TEMPTED": The best reason for doing the right thing today is tomorrow.

• • •

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of the Big Spring Herald. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

• • •

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want To Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Fund For Dyess

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said Tuesday it has appropriated $195,000 for airfield lighting installations at Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene.

Soviet Airplanes Join Congo Airlift

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Two Soviet Ilyushin transports arrived at Accra Wednesday night to join in an airlift of Ghanian troops and police to the Congo.

The Soviet aircraft flew foodstuffs from the Soviet Union to the Congo and then came on to Ghana. British and American planes since Saturday have been flying Ghanian troops to the Congo for service with ONUC, the U.N. military force trying to restore order in the Congo.

Advice From Joan

Joan Crawford helps a woman reader beat the heat in today's special question and answer column.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Readers' Problems Are Given Solution

By LYDIA LANE

(Editor's Note: Lydia Lane receives many letters from her readers, requesting help on various beauty problems. Some of these problems are solved in her column today with the help of top Hollywood stars. Miss Lane invites your letter but regrets that a personal answer cannot be given. From time to time in the future additional question and answer columns will cover subjects suggested by readers' letters.)

Dear Lydia Lane:

I heard myself being described as the secretary with the slouch. What do the stars do to stand and sit so straight? I am willing to work hard. Please help me.

R. W. Y.

Dear R. W. Y.,

Stage actress Nancy Kelly once told me: "Good posture begins with the mind. I improved my stance by thinking and feeling elongation. I tried to feel my head being pulled from my neck, my neck from my shoulders and my waist from my hips. Keep working until this gets into your subconscious and you will win the war against slumping. Correct posture," she added, "brings not only more beauty but more energy because you are not crowding your lungs and can breathe more fully."

• • •

Dear Lydia Lane,

My hair is very fine, and spray keeps it in place. But even though I feel my hair needs extra conditioning, I cannot afford to spend very much on myself.

Marie, mother of four

Dear Marie,

Kathleen Hughes has beautiful hair, and she gives herself a scalp treatment before every shampoo. "I use table salt because it has a stimulating effect on the scalp and helps to remove any accumulation of lacquer. I dampen my hair, then part it and massage the salt in with my fingers until my scalp tingles. Then I use a hand spray, or hold my head under the kitchen faucet, to rinse out all the salt before I begin a shampoo. The salt interferes with getting a rich lather. This is especially recommended in the hot months when one perspires freely."

• • •

Dear Lydia Lane,

I am 40 and my only figure problem is my tummy. I am not overweight, but what can I do to reduce it? How do the stars keep their figures year after year?

Mrs. S. B. L. of Seattle

Dear Mrs. L.,

Exercise is the answer to a firm, trim body. Though Audrey Dalton is a mother, she has a youthful figure. "I don't allow myself a cup of coffee until I've done my sit-ups," she confessed.

Her favorite exercise for keeping firm abdominal muscles is this: Lie flat on the floor and tuck your toes under the edge of a couch or chair. Place your hands behind your head and come up, touching your right knee with your left elbow and lie down again. Do this to a rhythmic count of up, touch, down and breathe. Then reverse and touch the left knee with the right elbow.

Begin slowly if you are not in good condition, or you will get sore and not be able to work the next day. Keep at this until you can touch each knee 10 times without straining. For best results, work every day. The continuity of effort builds muscle tone.

• • •

Dear Lydia Lane,

What is the secret of looking cool on a hot day? I admire these glamour girls who aren't beaten by the heat and would appreciate knowing their secret.

Dora Lee

Dear Dora Lee,

Joan Crawford, who has made personal appearances in the tropics and still managed to look glamorous, suggests choosing a fabric that will allow ventilation. This is an important point in beating the heat. Keep your neck open, avoiding collars or ruffles that will surround your throat. Eat lightly and avoid drinking many iced drinks. Select a make-up that will stand up in the heat and assure your daintiness with non-perspirants and deodorant powders.

Dear Lydia Lane,

I want to lose 10 pounds, but I find most diets frustrating. I love sweets and really don't feel happy without them. Is there any way one can reduce and still have dessert?

Mrs. J. C. Barnett

Deac Mrs. Barnett,

Virginia Mayo has a favorite diet that allows you to eat lemon sherbet. You are wise to search for a diet that appeals to you, because a frustrated eater finds it difficult to reduce.

LEMON SHERBET DIET

Here is your chance to share Virginia Mayo's "Lemon Sherbet Diet" and lose up to five pounds a week for five weeks as she did. A wide variety of menus is given—and whenever you feel really hungry, you may have a dish of the special, tasty lemon sherbet. The recipe is contained in Leaflet M-84. For your copy of this unusual diet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—New York designers are becoming resigned to the feminine figure. Instead of trying to rise above it, they now are working to cover it with glory.

Herbert Sondheim, for example, in his fall collection shown Wednesday to fashion editors here for press week, contrived costumes to flatter and refine but still to look remarkably like the woman underneath. He used long-drawn bodices, animated skirts, and adroitly fashioned necklines to achieve his purpose.

Sondheim was most preoccupied with the skirt. With the swingaway which flared from the hipline, and the fan flair, which flounced from below the hips, he launched a major offensive against the kind of adhesive, immobile, straight skirt that looks best on undernourished and smallboned adolescents.

In his dress and jacket costumes and separate dresses he attempted the slightly relaxed look—not, as he explained, "to be confused with that ugly word 'chemise,' but definitely in the fashion picture."

Sondheim went all out on fabrics and colors but omitted the beading used so extravagantly by most other designers.

"Sewing on beads gives me palpitations," he admitted.

He used lightweight wools—in dark-toned plaids and checks—silks, satins and rich tapestry brocades. His favorite fur was leopard, and prominent colors included browns, reds and shades thereof.

Ben Gershel's collection by Robert-Knox featured some truly posh creations, especially in the complete costume range. Jersey or cashmere overblouses were matched to skirts and ensembled to coats.

Many of the most outstanding have a riding motif, befitting garb for women who could afford to be in the horsy set if they wanted. A partially fitted topper was called the riding habit coat, and there are many cutaway jackets, chesterfield collars, ascots among the collection.

Karen Stark, who designed Harvey Berin's fall collection, is another designer who obviously believes in doing the most for, not against, women.

She stressed the dropped waistline in the styles displayed for fashion editors but never ignored the fact there was a figure underneath. She used sashes or a shaping in of the fabric above the hip seam to indicate the figure line. Skirts, even though slim, were made for walking. Any fullness came below the smoothness at the hip.

Bill Jays Will Make Home Here

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jay will make a home in Big Spring following their marriage July 9 in Rocky Mount, N.C.

The bride is the former Mrs. Lucille House McLemore of Rocky Mount. For the wedding she chose a sheath of white Alencon lace over blue taffeta and used white accessories. Her corsage was an orchid, and she wore a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Vows were read in the First Methodist Church by the pastor, the Rev. Leon Russell. The couple stood at the altar unattended.

Mrs. Jay has been employed by an advertising company. Jay, a graduate of North Texas State College, is engaged in the carpet business.

Coahoma Girls Attend Church Meet In Alpine This Week

COAHOMA — Judy Echols and Bessie West left Friday for Alpine where they will spend this week attending the senior high Presbyterian conference of the Presbytery of the Southwest. Mr. and Mrs. Luke West, who made the trip with the girls, returned to their home here on Sunday.

Mrs. Donald Lay has been a patient in a Big Spring hospital this week, also Mrs. Bill Hunter is in a Big Spring hospital recovering from major surgery performed several days ago.

Mrs. Mary Adams spent the weekend visiting her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hale of Midland.

Mrs. Rachel Morgan is vacationing in Ruidoso, N. M., this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morrison, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Kelly Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. Connie Morrison, made a trip to Chattanooga, Okla., Friday where they attended the funeral of Mrs. C. R. Washburn; she was the only daughter of Mrs. Morrison and a sister of Raymond Morrison.

Rosalie DeVaney spent the weekend visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Willis of Odessa.

J. D. Knouse left Sunday for Corpus Christi where he will spend the next two months as an employe of a gin.

Moody Home Scene Of Tea

LAMESA—Leta Cope, bride-elect of Tommy Shearer, was in the honor spotlight when a gift tea was staged in the Ernest Moody home Tuesday afternoon.

In the receiving line with Miss Cope were her mother, Mrs. Elmer Cope; her future mother-in-law, Mrs. M. M. Shearer; the sister of the bridegroom-elect, Mrs. Babe Cox, Amarillo; Mrs. Nolan Cope, sister-in-law of the honoree; and Mrs. P. W. Nolan, her grandmother.

Organ music for the tea was furnished by Mrs. Dick Edwards and Melody Edwards.

Other members of the house party were Mrs. Bill Ellyson, Mrs. Jimmy Robinson, Linda McPhaul and Beth Ann DuBose, who alternated at the serving table and Mrs. Sammy Moore, who registered guests.

The tea table, laid with white net over satin, featured a large ivory fan and yellow gladioli and baby breath banked in yellow roses and ribbons.

Hostesses were Mrs. Dick Edwards, Mrs. Hugh Gaines, Mrs. Glen Jones, Mrs. Buster Reed, Mrs. Dick Stephens, Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Bill Britt, Mrs. Ross McDonald, Mrs. Carson Echols, Mrs. Dick Tune, Mrs. Buddy Barron, Mrs. J. E. Dubose, Mrs. Jeff Shipp and Mrs. Moody.

Greggs Have Trip To Oklahoma City

ACKERLY—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gregg have returned home from Oklahoma City where they visited their daughter and her family, the Mike Williamsons, Thomas Gregg was in El Paso for the weekend; later he and Glenn Parrott of Sudan went to Amarillo; they are guests of Gary Watts, a college friend.

Mrs. Edith Winn, a former Ackerly resident who now lives in Sayre, Okla., was a guest of friends here recently.

The W. M. Doziers have been entertaining their granddaughter, Suzanne Meeler of Sweetwater. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Meeler, came for her Sunday; another guest in the Dozier home was their daughter Mrs. Ernest Rodgers of Lamesa.

Convention Highlights Reported For Auxiliary

Highlights of the Lions International Convention held recently in Chicago were reported for members and guests of the Downtown Lions Auxiliary Wednesday by Mrs. Louis Carothers and Mrs. Fred Stitzell. The morning affair was given at the Cosden Country Club with Mrs. J. H. Greene and Mrs. Joe Pond as hostesses.

Mrs. Carothers gave interesting views from the standpoint of the working end of the convention as a member of the Texas group seeking the election of a Texas man to office. Mrs. Stitzell told of the social aspects of the affair.

Refreshments were served from a table laid with a cutwork cloth of pastel green linen. It was centered with an arrangement of pink cannas bedded in canna leaves. Hostesses were assisted by Cynthia Pond and Merry Lee Dibrell.

Twenty members and two guests, Mrs. W. J. Boudreaux and Mrs. A. D. Keaton, were present.

Mrs. Stitzell will serve as chairman of the telephone committee to replace Mrs. Bill Sneed who has resigned.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

With the sudden cool breeze Wednesday we can't help feeling some where hail fell....and I hope it was in the middle of a pasture with nothing in it. The patter of big feet is now heard on our roof where the neighborhood crew is now replacing the roof we had before the last hail storm. The house to the south of us has already had its top covered....after ours, there will be one to go. Needless to say we are wary of a cloud that might have rocks in it....the neighbors are getting a bit of visiting in as they go about the venture but the evening meals are being served at odd hours.

Miss Tillman is a student at Goliad Junior High, and Mike is a senior at Big Spring High School.

Residents Told Of Unethical Salesmen

By KAY LOVELAND

At this time of year many communities are flooded with offers to buy merchandise of admitted value for practically nothing. This is especially true when it comes to upkeep of the home, and Big Spring is no exception.

In a recent talk, Roy F. Cooke, assistant commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration, stated that according to the U. S. Department of Commerce estimates, there are about 500,000 contractors, builders and suppliers of FHA property improvement products.

There are approximately 200,000 now using the FHA property improvement program. Most of these are reliable, Cooke stated, but there are some "fly-by-night" operators who are not honest.

FEW UNETHICAL

These relatively few unethical operators offer the opportunity to have out of town firms build fences, put on siding, treat for termites and repair roofs. And each year there are sufficient numbers of individuals who take advantage of these "opportunities," and the companies can afford to keep coming back.

In many instances, the individuals who utilize these bargain opportunities find out they paid more, and received less, than it would have cost to have local companies do the same job.

In addition, if the job is not properly completed, there is no chance of getting it done right. The bargain man leaves town. He cannot be located, but he, or someone like him, will probably be back next year.

"Such bargain offers are a big problem in Big Spring," says Ruth Apple, manager of the Retail Credit Bureau.

Mrs. Apple comes in contact with these "improvement companies" through their clever, and legal, plans for getting and keeping customers.

SALESMEN

"The companies hire salesmen to work in a town and line up as many customers as possible," she explains. "The salesman is likely to tell a customer anything in order to get a sale, because he knows that by the time the work is done, he will be gone."

After a sale is made, and the customer signs a contract, the company requests a "credit abstract" or credit report from the credit bureau.

"Although we don't like to give them the reports, there is nothing we can do about it since they are within their legal rights," Mrs. Apple said.

Once the company receives a favorable credit report, it turns the matter over to a local bank or finance company. And after the report is released to the bank, the company will send out a unit to do the work of painting the house, putting on siding, building a fence, planting shrubs, taking photographs or any one of a number of other services. Often the unit is hired locally, and company officials never see the employes.

With this system, there is no supervision and no inspection by the company. The job is completed and may look good for a while. But often, the customer doesn't get what the salesman promised —which is usually top quality service or products, at seemingly far below local prices.

NOT REALLY LOW

The customer also finds out that the prices are not so low either. "Hidden prices" are included in the total cost of the "bargain."

Cooke included in his talk a few suggestions to protect the home owner against these operators. Among the major rules to follow, he said, were "to check carefully the contractor's reputation; avoid all gimmicks; buy standard merchandise and avoid brands unknown to you; compare the price given; read your written contract and be sure that you understand it before you sign; never sign blank papers or notes and get a copy of all papers you sign; sign your completion certificate only after you are thoroughly satisfied with the completed job; report any complaints of poor workmanship to your leading institution immediately."

To these suggestions Mrs. Apple adds, "The best advice I can give anyone confronted by such a situation is, investigate before you invest. Most of the time you will be much better off by trading with a local firm."

Truman Style? Check With GOP

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said he would campaign for the Democratic candidates this year in his usual style.

You mean the "Give 'Em Hell" style? He was asked by newsmen.

"I never had any such style," the ex-President said with a chuckle, "I just told the truth, and the Republicans thought it was hell."

Truman spoke to Democrats here Wednesday and at Utah State University in Logan Wednesday night. He planned to fly to Washington, D.C. today.

Eleanor Spiked Convention Riot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police chief William H. Parker says Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt prevented a possible riot during the Democratic convention.

Parker said it happened when demonstrators agitated for the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson for President. He said some were real Stevenson backers; others he called professional agitators.

"I recognized the professional agitators and saw their mood," the chief told the Los Angeles City Council Wednesday. "I knew police intervention might cause real trouble."

At police suggestion, Parker said, Mrs. Roosevelt started her seconding speech and asked that the aisles be cleared.

"The sincere demonstrators took this to mean the demonstration was over and they retired," Parker said. "This left the professional troublemakers to beat a hasty retreat."

5 In California Family Killed

PLACERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Lewis Caffo was driving down U.S. 50, his wife and four children in the car with him-returning to Livermore from a Lake Tahoe vacation.

Then Caffo turned out to pass a truck in front of him. But the truck turned out too.

A few moments later, four members of the Caffo family were dead, and a fifth—Caffo himself—was dying.

Cafo, 34, had been thrown from the car as it hurtled down an embankment after being forced off the road, highway patrol officers said.

Caffo's wife Betty, 30, their sons John, 1, Ronald, 10, and Rickey, 8, and their daughter Debra, 7, were trapped in the car as it burst into flames.

Only Debra survived the accident Wednesday. She suffered a badly cut foot, but was pulled from the flaming car by a passerby.

Caffo had managed to pull his youngest son out of the wreckage. Caffo died two hours later in a hospital.

Lightning Kills Boy As High Winds Rake Texas

By The Associated Press

Lightning killed a boy near Port Arthur and winds of hurricane force struck a vicious blow at Houston Wednesday as portions of the state felt the force of violent mid-summer weather.

The violence took many forms: A tornado hit near San Antonio. 14-year-old Eddie Barker was hit by lightning while walking toward his friends, 10 planes at Houston's International Airport were damaged by winds, a Cleburne man suffered a fractured skull when thrown from a scaffold by a gust of wind.

Flashing bolts of lightning and wind gusts of 86 m.p.h. at Houston scattered small planes over the airport. Some commercial flights were delayed.

Lightning hit the Houston-Harris County chapter Red Cross building sending a brick chimney tumbling through the roof into a second floor office. No one was injured.

A large plate glass window at the airport shattered under the force of the wind.

W. D. Page of Crown Point, Ind., was one of five persons cut by the flying glass. None was seriously hurt.

Airport Director Paul Koonce said an empty airliner operated by Lone Star Airlines was knocked against a gasoline truck by the wind.

Edgar Maurice Renfro, 44, of Cleburne, suffered a fractured skull when a violent gust of wind pitched him head first off a 14-foot high scaffold in Fort Worth.

Young Barker, a resident of Groves, had just finished fishing near Port Arthur when he was struck and killed.

Special Program Slated For YMCA

Frank Hardesty, only delegate from this area to attend the Democratic National Convention last week, will "tell all" during a special meeting for interested persons Friday at the YMCA.

James M. Hardy, general secretary, said the meeting would start at 7:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room of the association. All interested residents are invited to attend. The coffee bar will be open.

Hardesty is to begin his discussion with how he came to be a delegate to the convention. This will include his election on the local level, through the meetings in Austin.

He was also a contact man from the Lyndon Johnson forces to other state delegations during the convention and will have considerable information to explain concerning "behind the scenes" developments which were not released through the regular news media.

Participants will also be encouraged to quiz Hardesty on various parts of the convention program.

Hardy said Bill Quimby, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, will act as emcee of the program. The program follows on the heels of special television programs held at the YMCA during the convention, when residents were invited to follow the proceedings on the YMCA TV set.

Hardy encouraged all interested persons to attend the meeting.

Police Chief Banks Talks To Downtown Lions Club

Problems facing law enforcement agencies were outlined by Jay Banks, police chief, in a talk to the Downtown Lions Club Wednesday.

The chief also touched on plans for in-service training for members of the police staff. A former Texas ranger captain, Banks said that being a police chief was a new experience and one upon which he entered with some trepedation. He need not have had qualms, he said, for he found Big Spring people to be among the friendliest he had ever met. Moreover, he found a competent staff eager to cooperate in building a still stronger department.

The objective of law enforcement is to maintain an orderaly society, and thus law enforcement officials are servants of the public whom they must contact and sometimes discipline, he said.

Crime is mounting in the United States with a major crime committed every three minutes. The most alarming part of it, said Banks, is that 50 per cent of the crimes are committed by those under 17 years of age—a group over which law enforcement officers normally have little control. New sources of civil unrest and crime are in racial friction, subversiye activity and in industrial strife, he said.

The chief discussed in detail a seven - point program for upgrading members of the department. These involve training courses, reports, evaluations, public relations and other items. Chief Banks was introduced to the club by George Zachariah, member of the city commission.

Y Organizes SCUBA Class

The first lesson in SCUBA diving will be held at 7 p.m. Friday at the YMCA.

Instructed by Bob Chambers, the course will run six weeks, meeting twice each week on Thursdays and Fridays, according to Joe Leach, physical education director.

Teh course will include safety techniques, the history of SCUBA diving, and all the aspects of the water sport, Leach added. Cost of the course is $10 for members of the YMCA and $15 for non-members.

Painting Hut

Members of Boy Scout Troop No. 7, sponsored by the Downtown Lions Club, are doing themselves a good turn starting today. They are painting their scout hut. Cactus Paint Manufacturing Company gave the paint for the job.

Lodge Meeting

Masonic Lodge No. 1121 will hold a breakfast Sunday from 6 to 10 a.m. at the Colored American Legion Hall, according to Leodis Dekle, worshipful master. Plates are 50 cents each and the proceeds will be used to bolster the lodge treasury, Dekle said.

Volunteers Meet At Chamber Today

Activities, as reflected by reports from various committees, will highlight the meeting of the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Council at 7:45 p.m. today in the Chamber of Commerce conference room.

Mrs. Ira Thurman, volunteer coordinator for the hospital, will discuss autumn and winter plans, and Dr. Paul C. Young, clinical psychologist, will discuss a ward adoption plan. Marvin Berkeland, chaplain, will also talk about the need for a chapel at the hospital.

Jack Y. Smith, chairman, is due to name a nominating committee. M. C. Grigsby will report on some of the plans for the Christmas party at the hospital.

Traffic Commission Discusses Driver School, Speed Zones

Re-establishment of the "driver improvement school" was favored by members of the Big Spring Traffic Commission, meeting in its initial session Wednesday. The school idea was turned over to a committee and a workable plan is to be outlined at the Aug. 2 meeting.

The commission decided to study changes in the the speed zones around the city's 11 schools and gave consideration to the future need of making Gregg and Scurry, one-way streets.

DISCONTINUED

The driver improvement school was a program initiated by the old Citizens Traffic Commission and was discontinued along with the CTC at the end of the 1959-60 budget year. Under the program, drivers guilty of traffic violations are given a choice of paying a fine or attending the school.

Police officers and other authorities, conduct the school, explaining traffic laws and why they are necessary. Films dealing with traffic safety are also shown, according to Police Lt. Stanley Bogard, who assisted with the the school under the CTC.

Two plans for re-zoning around the schools were presented to the commission by Bruce Dunn, director of public works and executive secretary of the group.

The commission is planning the use of "Safety Sally" caution signs on streets around the schools, and is eyeing the possibility of organizing school boy patrols here.

SAFETY COUNCIL

The commission discussed the city's participation in the National Safety Council program which costs the city about $60 a year, but ruled against voting to discontinue the program until a further study is made.

The police department traffic division each month sends a report on the number of accidents, etc., to the Council for its use in compiling national stastistics. At the end of the year, if the city maintains a low accident rate, the Council awards a plaque. The city is also entitled to safety material furnished throughout the year by the Council.

The matter of one-way traffic patterns for Gregg and Scurry was assigned to the streets and thoroughfares and the engineering design committees for consideration. Study for an explosive truck route around the city is to be made by the streets and thoroughfares committee.

COMMITTEES

Committees appointed Wednesday include streets and thoroughfares, Jack Y. Smith, chairman, Joe Leach and Glenn Cootes; engineering design, Louis J. Thompson, chairman, Coy Nalley and Jerry Worthy; downtown traffic and parking, Cootes, chairman, Worthy and R. R. McEwen; safety and enforcement, Emmett McKenzie, chairman, Nalley and Smith.

Beginner Band Program Slated

The clarion call is going out for beginning band students.

Tommy Fry and Jimmy Yancey, bandmasters for Goliad and Runnels Junior High Schools, are seeking to fill the ranks in their beginners' bands. They plan to include beginners with intermediates and advanced students in a summer program.

The two directors will be available next week to answer questions of parents, help select instruments, etc. They will be at Goliad Thursday and at Runnels Friday of next week, from 5 to 9 p.m.

Although the summer program is for all junior high students, the band directors will concentrate on the beginning classes.

As for the purchase of instruments, Fry pointed out that nearly all reputable dealers now offer trial purchase plans, to protect investments by parents whose children drop out of band work because of lack of talent or other reasons.

The schedule, to begin in August, will run everyday for three weeks. The beginners will work from 8:30 to 10 a.m. (no previous training needed, Yancey says); the intermediates (those who stared band work in June) from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon; and the advanced classes from 1 30 to 3 p.m.

Suit Filed In Auto Mishap

Frank Doe, filing in his own behalf and in the behalf of his wife, Gladys and his son, Jimmy, has sued Glenn Ed Rea, Denver, Colo., for $30,850. The suit was filed in 118th District Court on Wednesday afternoon.

The petition deals with a motor car accident which occurred on June 7, 1958, in Wichita Falls.

Doe alleges that on that date his son was driving a car with his mother as passenger and were enroute to Big Spring. They stopped at a traffic signal and allege their car was rammed from the rear by that of the defendant. The petition claims Mrs. Doe suffered painful injuries and that the car was seriously damaged.

Caldwell Files $22,393 Suit

A suit was filed in U. S. District Court in Abilene Wednesday by W. D. Caldwell, Inc. asking recovery of $22,393 from Pioneer Builders. Both are Big Spring firms.

Caldwell filed the suit specifically against B. T. Faulkner, doing business as Pioneer Builders, and against the Royal Indemnity Company, which held the performance bond for the defendants. The petition alleged that the amount of the suit was what was left owing from an original sub-contract of $24,395 under which Caldwell did excavation, fill, subgrade and bituminous paving for the readiness crew and flight simulator buildings on which Pioneer held the prime contract at Webb AFB.

The suit also asked interest on the amount from April 14, 1960 and attorney fees of $5,000. The The suit was filed by George T. Thomas, Big Spring attorney.

Earlier a suit had been filed by L. J. Jeter, doing business as Jeter Sheet Metal, in the amount of $1,158. He sought to recover from Faulkner that amount said owing from a sub-contractor, United Mechanical Construction Inc., of Midland.

Some of Pioneer's sub-contractors failed during progress of the work on the two buildings.

Hoeing Wage Set

Wages for cotton hoeing in Howard County, effective July 19, have been set at 50 cents an hour, Leon Kinney, manager of the Texas Employment Commission, has been notified. The wage schedule was set by Tracy C. Murrell, regional director. The wage rate applies to mixed crews, men, women and children.

Veteran Webb Pilot Gains 100 Per Cent School Rating

Webb AFB, thanks to the skill of a veteran combat pilot, has added another to its impressive list of "firsts."

Maj. Harris B. Wilhoite, who is squadron operations officer for the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron, has return from Basic Instructors School at Craig AFB, Ala. with outstanding honors.

Not only was he awarded the distinguished graduate's certificate for leading his class in the intensive 3-month course, but he made a perfect score.

So far as is known, Maj. Wilhoite is the first student-instructor to go through Craig with a 100 per cent rating.

Upon returning to Webb, he was assigned to a portion of the new class—61D—and the first man to solo in this new class was one of Maj. Wilhoite's students, 2nd Lt. Thomas A. Gilkeson. Lt. Gilkeson is a native of Newport News, Va. He attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute and graduated in 1958, with a degree in geology. He took his primary training at Malden, Mo. Lt. Gilkeson is married.

Lt. James W. Hurt III, also of Webb, was a classmate of Maj. Wilhoite at the recent BSI school in Craig. Lt. Hurt currently is on leave.

9 Girls In Farm Queen Contest

Nine girls are now entered in the Howard County Farm Bureau's annual queen contest.

Entries are still being taken at the bureau office at 117½ Runnels St. Any girl between ages 16 to 21 and member of a Farm Bureau family is eligible. Contest officials ask early entries, but the deadline falls Aug. 3.

The contest will be held the evening of Aug. 5 in HCJC Auditorium. Judging will be on appearance, poise and personality. An added feature this year will be a parade of "Future Queens," featuring girls from 3 through 15 years of age. There will be no winners in this junior contest.

Last year's Farm Bureau Queen was Penny Butchee, of Ackerly; her runner-up was Nancy Hodnett of Vincent. The 1960 queen will compete in the district Farm Bureau contest, and winners at the district level will participate in a state-wide pageant.

The local winner will receive a $15 cash prize, and her runner-up $10. Merchants also will contribute to a sizable pile of gifts.

Joe Dunn, insurance director for the bureau, and Mrs. Ruby Molpus, secretary, are masterminding the pageant. Jo Ann Forrest, local television personality, will emcee, and Virginia Cain will be at the organ.

The nine entrants include Sandra Baker, granddaughter of Charlie Robinson, Rt. 1 Big Spring; Neva Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jackson, Rt. 1 Knott; Cleta Newsom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Newsom, Rt. 2, Big Spring; Judy Brooks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brooks, Coahoma; Sandra Ruth Crow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Crow, of Luther; Nancy Hodnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Hodnett, of Vincent; Carla Sue Lockhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lockhart, of the Gail Rt.; Zena Kay Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warner Robinson, of Rt. 1; and Gwenn Proctor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Proctor, of Vealmoor.

Miss Baker was named Junior Miss Big Spring in the Jaycee-sponsored annual Miss Big Spring contest, an official preliminary of the Miss America pageant.

Officials Meet With Roberts

County Judge Ed Carpenter and Bill Quimby, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, are in Abilene today conferring with Jake Roberts, district state highway engineer.

They are going over plans for a proposed road connecting U.S. 80 east with the Snyder highway. The Howard County Commissioners Court has an appointment to meet with the Texas Highway Commission on Aug. 26 to ask that this connecting road be constructed.

A conference was held earlier this week and agreement reached by the county and city officials on the best route for the road.

Approval of this route by Roberts would be an important forward step in the matter when the commissioners meet with the highway board in Austin.

To Take Bids

Howard County Commissioners Court will receive bids at 10 a.m., Aug. 8, in Commissioners Courtroom for supplying gasoline, diesel fuel and oils for the county road department for the next 12 months. The contract will run Sept. 1, 1960 through Aug. 31, 1961. General provisions and specifications may be obtained from the county engineer at the courthouse.

About $28 in cash and 116 packs of cigarettes were taken from the cigarette machine at the Jet Drive-In Theater on U.S. 87.

VA Family Marks Date

Members of the Veterans Administration family were observing today the 30th anniversary of the creation of the VA as a cohesive unit to serve former servicemen and women.

During the day, a six-minute film was bringing greetings from Sumner G. Whittier, administrator of Veterans Affairs. In this picture, Whittier points out the events of 1930 which overshadowed the signing of a bill by President Hoover which combined the Veterans Bureau, the Pension Bureau and the National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers. Since then the central agency has handled all affairs pertaining to veterans and has seen its work expanded many fold by the advent of World War II, the Korean campaign and the cold War.

Besides the six showings of the films, scheduled so that all employes would have a chance to see it, other anniversary activities included a luncheon at 1 p.m. at the Veterans Administration Hospital V. J. Belda, manager, was to bring greetings, and Cliff Fisher, Chamber of Commerce president, was to respond for the community.

At 6 p.m. today the VA Hospital Employes Association will stage a picnic at the City Park for VA employes and their families, bringing to a close the anniversary activities which started with an open house marking the 10th anniversary of the activation of the VA Hospital here.

M. SGT. HARRIS N. CLEMOW

Long Time Vet Signs Up Again

M. Sgt. Harris N. Clemow Jr., a veteran of 19½ years' active service, re-enlisted at Webb recently for a four-year tour in the Air Force. He is currently assigned as administrative supervisor in the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron.

A native of Houston, Sgt. Clemow spent seven years in the Texas National Guard before going on active duty in November, 1940.

Arriving overseas in 1944, he served 21 months with the U. S. Ninth Air Force Service Command in England, France and Germany.

A former Air ROTC instructor at the University of Montana, the sergeant has seen service as an administrative specialist, first sergeant, and as group sergeant major.

Sgt. Clemow's wife, Willie Mae, is a registered nurse employed in the maternity ward at the base hospital. Residents of Big Spring for over 6½ years, the couple are active workers in the Wesley Methodist Church.

Their son, Nelson, 17, is an Eagle Scout and a student at Big Spring High School. Their daughter, Alice, 14, a Rainbow Girl, enters Runnels Junior High next semester.

Orientation Class Planned

A family services orientation course for Webb AFB dependents is slated for Aug. 16-18, according to Capt. Raymond Taverna, personal affairs officer.

Wing Commander, Col. Donald W. Eisenhart, is scheduled to give the welcome address at the start of the course, and to present certificates of completion, Aug. 18.

Themes such as "Know Your Air Force," and "Be an Informed Wife," are the stimuli which Capt. Taverna hopes will bring out 50 or more new registrants. The courses will be given at the family services center.

Scheduled speakers for this course include Capt. James H. Fry, who will speak on commissary facilities; Mrs. Gayle Johnson, transportation; Lt. Col. Robert A. Wiemer, medicare; Chaplain James E. Leath, religious and welfare program; 1st Lt. Bruce D. Trotman, housing; Capt. James E. Greene, legal affairs; and Capt. Taverna, personal affairs.

The personal affairs block, Capt. Taverna explained, will cover information on overseas assignments, passports and visas, naturalization and citizenship, casualty benefits.

Free baby sitting will be available at the base nursery for wives enrolled in the course.

Lyndon Begins His Vacation

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson arrived Wednesday night for a brief vacation prior to the convening of Congress next month and the start of his campaign for vice president.

The Texan secluded himself in the resort home of former Mexican President Miguel Aleman. He flew here from his ranch home near Johnson City, Tex.

He told newsmen at the airport that he "came here to chat with my friends and have sun, lots of sun."

U.S. Ambassador Robert C. Hill arrived shortly after Sen. and Mrs. Johnson landed. The ambassador and Mrs. Hill had dinner at the vacation retreat with the Johnsons.

Johnson, Senate majority leader, was under pressure from both Mexican and foreign correspondents for a statement on his views about inter-American relations as well as those between Mexico and the United States.

One newspaper suggested that the Democratic senator would seek Mexico's support in the United States dispute with Cuba.

Into Bankruptcy

DALLAS (AP)—Insurance promoter W. L. Bridges Sr. joined his son in bankruptcy court Wednesday.

State authorities claimed the 68-year-old Bridges owes three of his own companies nearly $600,000.

W. L. Bridges Jr. entered voluntary bankruptcy last month. Both cases are before Federal bankruptcy Referee Elmore Whitehurst.

Bond Posted By Stevens

AMARILLO (AP)—Bond of $2,000 was posted Wednesday by former Randall County Judge Roy Joe Stevens, 38, indicted by the Potter County Grand Jury on charges of perjury.

The jury indicted Stevens Wednesday on the basis of testimony he and others gave last March at a legislative committee probe seeking links between public officials and crime in this Panhandle area.

Stevens resigned as county judge 24 hours after the hearing ended. He conducted a private law practice here while serving as Randall County judge.

Dist. Judge Gene Jordan said he fixed the amount of the bond at the request of Stevens' lawyer George McCarthy. Stevens has been living recently in Albuquerque, N.M. He appeared at the sheriff's office here about 2 a.m. He was booked into the county jail and released after posting bond.

Fire Break Cut In Coastal Blaze

KING CITY, Calif. (AP)—Fire fighters today desperately cut a fire break halfway down a ridge that overlooks the late William Randolph Hearst's castle at San Simeon.

The 26,000 acre brush fire burned to within two miles of the north end of the fabulous estate Wednesday night.

Ranger James Dulitz reported the castle still is not in danger. But the wind could easily change this situation, he said.

An on-the-scene reporter said "if the wind changes the fire will be at the back door of the castle." The multimillion dollar edifice is now the center of a 143-acre state park.

Powell To Retire

NEW YORK (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-NY) says he plans to give up his seat in Congress "not later than 1964" and retire as minister of the Abyssinian Baptist Church about the same time.

Powell, who made the announcement Wednesday night during the church's annual business meeting, declined to give a reason.

Powell, 51, has been in Congress for the past 16 years. He has been pastor of the 12,000-member Harlem church since 1937.

"BOOK WIDOW" EYES THE MONSTER WITH HER AUTHOR HUSBAND
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hurt Jr. visiting with their parents in Big Spring

Harry Hurt Writes Navy Flight Text

By JOE PICKLE

Harry Hurt Jr. feels like a man fresh out of prison.

If this seems like an odd reaction to the major accomplishment in authoring a technical book, Aerodynamics for Naval Aviators, then consider that this required him better than three years. In the last year, the book made such demands upon his time that the family came to call it "the Monster."

The book, which will become a required text for the naval flying training section, has all the appearance of being a monster when viewed as a printers copy. The manuscript form looks like a stack of mail order catalogues. The finished product, all slicked up by the government printing office, boils down to a 400-page plus document with legal size pages.

ALREADY IN USE

There are a lot more printers copies in existence than one might imagine, for several naval officers didn't want to wait until the book got off the press to make use of it. One naval commander heaped unreserved praise on it, declaring that it is the best book of its kind he had ever seen.

How the name plate, Hugh Harrison Hurt Jr., happened to be on such a complex work is the result of his duties at the University of Southern California in organizing and instructing a course for flying safety officers. The young aeronautical engineer perceived that there was a gap between aerodynamics as a science and its application by the men who were called upon to fly the planes. Moreover, he was impressed that practically all crashes are caused by pilot failure.

So he went to the Navy with an idea for a book—a chapter on the fundamentals of aerodynamics, maneuverability, stresses, etc. It would all be written with the idea of translating complicated engineering data into terms that would help the pilot comprehend why certain things happened, conditions under which they might happen and what to do about them.

The Navy contracted for the book, but as it began to take shape and new ideas presented themselves for inclusion, the contract had to be amended.

COMPLICATIONS

It turned out that amending a government contract is more complicated than writing a book jampacked with technical formulae, text and charts, (which he personally prepared).

All of this was done while he was carrying a full load on the faculty of the University of Southern California, serving periodically as a consultant on flying safety matters, and as a guest lecturer at bases and before flight safety groups. While here, he is to lecture at Webb AFB on some areas of flying safety.

The entire family became so enmeshed in the book that Harry III announced one day that he was writing a book also, "Aerodynamics for Children." When the finished copy of the book arrived here for Harry Hurt Sr., it came on his birthday, and he couldn't have had a present that pleased him half as much.

Interested in airplanes since he was a boy, Harry Hurt Jr. began his studies in aeronautical engineering at Texas A&M following his graduation from Big Spring High School in 1944. Then he joined the Navy and it wasn't until 1950 that he took his degree.

NIGHT COURSES

He went to work for North American Aviation Corp. at Los Angeles and began taking night courses at USC. He got an offer to join the faculty, and this enabled him to earn his M.A. degree from USC while teaching.

Then came the chance to set up the course for flying safety officers which has enrollment from all branches, but primarily from the Navy. He also has taught numerous officers from NATO and SEATO countries. Two of his South Korean students are now at Webb as observers. A pair from Pakistan is due here soon in a similar capacity.

He had the biggest time of all with Maj. Tom Alexander of the Air Force. Maj. Alexander happens to be his brother-in-law, and one of the reasons the Hurts timed their visit here in July is so that Mrs. Hurt could visit with her twin sister, Mrs. Alexander. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Beene.

Now and then Harry Hurt Jr. gets a chance to sneak in a course toward his doctorate, but he hopes to be able to take off a year or so and get that Ph.D. in hand.

CONSULTANT

He is in considerable demand as a consultant, particularly in trying to ferret out causes of crashes. From bits of twisted wreckage, the job is to try to fit together the sequence in which parts broke. Once that thread is uncovered, it is possible to establish whether the cause was explosion, internal fire, mental fatigue or other strain.

He was called in on the X-15 crash at Muroc AFB not long ago as part of an independent team. By pooling information and conclusions, the company and independent investigators were able to pin down the probable cause.

The austere cutback of aircraft production disturbs him on several scores, two in particular. First, there is a vital place for manned craft for the foreseeable future, and slashing of funds has produced a dangerous lag in production if not in research. For instance, the total production of the big supersonic B-70 intercontinental bomber with a Mach 3 plus speed is one solitary unit.

"What if one little thing happens to destroy that unit?" he asks. "Practically everything will be gone. Too many of the planes we hear about exist only as a few experimental units, not as planes rolling off production lines."

SECOND CONCERN

The second concern is that the huge aviation industry is lying almost prostrate from inactivity. To allow it to collapse would be to deal the nation a near-mortal wound.

Harry Hurt loves to talk about any phase of aviation, especially its potentials and the problems still facing man in his quest of air and space. Missiles will play an increasingly important role, but there are still a legion of bugs to be whipped before they become operational, he points out.

The Navy's Polaris holds out tremendous possibilities because of its success, and moreso because of its mobility. With anti-detection devices which send defensive units on frustrating wild-goose chases, catching a submarine is like trying to catch a particular fish in a big lake. Armed with the Polaris, the sub becomes a deadly menace.

"Everytime I get haughty about how engineering can solve all the problems, I get humble right quick when I consider sonic booms," he says.

SHOCK WAVES

For a long time after a supersonic wind tunnel was built some 25 years ago, engineers observed supersonic shock waves. The consuming problem became that of a design to get through the sound "barrier" without disintegrating the craft.

"Because the wind was moving past the plane in the tunnel, the shock waves were assumed to be hanging there," Hurt recalls. "But they turned out to be sonic booms when the plane moves them."

This is a real and critical problem for aviation, he thinks, for super-sonic transports (already practical and economical) cannot become a reality if the nation is shaken constantly by their schedules. Too, theoretically, the faster a craft goes, the greater will be its shock waves. There are examples of severe sonic boom being felt 100 miles or more from the plane.

Maybe flying saucers will be the answer, but Hurt believes he has an answer for some of the flying saucers reported by flyers. In supersonic flight, shock waves extend out and backwards as though the plane were pushing an ice cream cone made of polyethylene plastic.

LIKE A SAUCER

But when the plane drops to subsonic speed, the shock waves are pushed out ahead much like a saucer. By compaction, the varying densities of the air literally forms a parabolic mirror which effects all manner of reflections. These are so real that actual photographs can be made of images in the shock-wave mirror.

The Hurt family will be here visiting with their parents until next week. Meanwhile, aerodynamics take a back seat. The grandparents are more interested in the grandchildren, Harry III, John David and Joan.

Gideons Count Blessings As They Hold Annual Meet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A convict turns into a minister, a faltering marriage is saved, a wayward woman changes her ways.

Such things happen over and over when nonreligious people spot a Bible in their hotel room or prison library and curiously leaf through it, perhaps for the first time.

That's the word of a man who spends much of his time getting Bibles to places like that. He is P. J. Zondervan, past president and head of the international phase of the Gideons International.

A thousand Gideons are holding their 61st annual convention.

"My life is changed," wrote an inmate recently from a Greek prison where he had read a New Testament in his language. "I want to keep school children from getting into the fixes I did."

He enclosed money which he asked be used for Testaments to go to Greek children.

"It doesn't matter which language or country we're dealing with, the same things occur all the time," Zondervan says. "The Bible has the power to stir the hearts of men everywhere."

The Gideons is a nonprofit group of businessmen with one purpose: to make the Bible as widely read as possible.

It has placed more than 44 million Bibles and Testaments in hotels, motels, prisons, hospitals and other locations since two chance acquaintances — John H. Nicholson and Samuel Hill — got the original idea in a Boscobel, Wis., hotel room in 1898.

Two years ago a superdrive put a Bible into every hotel and motel room in the United States, Zondervan says. New hostelries have been built since, though, and thousands of Bibles are removed by guests.

Of 149,000 Bibles placed the past year, about 49,000 were to replace books that were taken or worn out.

"We can't condone stealing, but we're secretly rather pleased when someone takes one home because he's sincerely interested in reading more," says Howard S. Armerding, president.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

The prominent Texas woman who died on this day in 1925 took a most unusual necklace to her grave.

She was Dr. Sofie Herzog, probably the most famous of early Texas women physicians, who for many years was physician and surgeon for the Gulf Coast lines at Brazoria. Dr. Herzog claimed to have treated more cases of "lead poisoning" than any other doctor of her sex. In all she removed two dozen bullets from patients. These she wore strung into a necklace which was buried with her by terms of her will.

The first licensed woman physican in Texas was Dr. Margaret Ellen Holland, who opened her office in Houston in 1871. She was a graduate of the women's medical college in Chicago. In state medical circles she is revered for her pioneer work in blood tranfusions, a treatment accepted quite slowly by most doctors.

However, the first woman doctors of Texas must be considered the pioneer women who used willow bark, tansy roots, catnip, sassafras, sumac, sage, mint and other natural pharmacopia in early treatments of illnesses. Midwives, too, occupied respected positions in early Texas communities.

British, U.S. Heroes To Meet

BOSTON (AP)—Some 200 members of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor, elite of U. S. veterans organizations, meet in 70th annual national convention in Boston Aug. 30, then leave for a tour of European battle fields where many won their decorations.

The legion's 1,600 membership includes only recipients of the Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross or Navy Cross.

In London, legion members will banquet with their British opposite numbers—the British Legion and the Victoria Cross Society.

Goldwater Is Or Isn't Running Depending On Senator's Mood

CHICAGO (AP) —Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) is—or isn't—running for president. He also is—or isn't—running for vice president.

It depends on the time of day and the senator's prevailing mood whether he classes himself as a candidate for nomination to national office. Once in a while he seems to take the idea seriously. Then he laughs it off as an impossibility.

Whether Goldwater's name is offered in nomination for the presidency at next week's Republican National Convention appears to depend on just how determined his Arizona delegation is to give him this honor. Goldwater indicated it's up to them.

With 30 delegate votes from Arizona, South Carolina and other areas behind him, Goldwater has no expectation of overhauling Vice President Richard M. Nixon in the presidential nomination contest. He has predicted Nixon's nomination on the first ballot.

Nor does he believe that Nixon will want him on the ticket as a vice presidential running mate. The senator explains frankly that he is too conservative for Nixon. He thinks the vice president will want Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations; Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the GOP national chairman; or a third person Goldwater declined to name.

But that doesn't keep Goldwater from pounding away on his favorite theme that the Republicans ought to be the party of conservatives, that they can't win elections by competing with the Democrats for liberal votes.

When he won re-election to the Senate in 1958, Goldwater ran on a brief, conservative platform. He and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York were about the only Republicans who won in big-time races that year.

The two men have expounded diametrically opposing views on several issues in appearances before the convention Platform Committee this week.

Rockefeller plugged for a Fair Employment Practices Commission and endorsement of lunch counter sit-ins. Goldwater said the Constitution says nothing about education or employment.

"Unless the Constitution is changed," he said, "We can't enforce school integration in the South. It has to come under states' rights. And we can't tell a man whom he has to hire . . . I agree with the Supreme Court decision on school integration. But I disagree that it is the law of the land."

Rockefeller is for health insurance for the elderly and for federal aid to education. Goldwater finds "no universal demand for aid to education." He says the tax laws ought to be revised for persons investing for retirement instead of sending people to "a federal rest home."

Americans for Goldwater has opened offices here with the idea of booming the Arizona senator for a place on the ticket.

As chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, Goldwater is going to be active in the fall campaign whether or not he lands on any ticket.

No Cause Found In El Paso Blast

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Fragments of a butane storage tank found in Juarez, Mex., have failed to shed any light on the cause of a July 4th explosion in El Paso.

The tank exploded at the Schwartz Gas Co., Inc., sending the fragments flying across the Rio Grande into Juarez and killing two workers at the plant.

El Paso fire marshal H. L. O'Hara said officials have been unable to find any cause for the blast.

Toothless Tot

ROCKY FORD, Colo. (AP) — Little Roxanne Marie Potts may be singing "All I Want for Christmas Is My Two Front Teeth" any time now. On recommendation of a doctor, a dentist extracted two lonely teeth from the mouth of the 5-week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Potts.

By Bob Smith

All the way up the sidewalk to the Jack Hendrix home, it sounded like someone I'd never heard before. It wasn't until I popped through the front door — late, as usual — that I discovered who it was.

Hubert Murphy stood by the piano finishing up a vocal recital. Since I heard him last, his voice has improved to a large degree, and his control is becoming more mature. Jack says his former pupil is "a new man," and it's believeable.

Last on the program was Fred Birch, Webb cadet, who was presented in a classical clarinet recital. An Arizonan with only a bit more work needed for a music degree, Fred showed a laudable amount of artistry.

Hendrix had wanted to produce a summer recital in HCJC Auditorium, but with everybody out of pocket, he didn't have enough material. He ended up with a short, 40-minute program before an audience of nearly a dozen in his own living room.

* * *

And this brings us up to an idea which Jack and I bandied about after the recital was over.

The living room type of recital does have a certain intimacy and easy informality unobtainable in even a small auditorium. Why not try for something like that instead of attempting the now-impossible job of trying to fill an auditorium with half-interested people?

The informality and friendliness inherent in the living room atmosphere should help bind together the musicians and music lovers of Big Spring so that later auditorium - type programs can be promoted more effectively.

Hendrix agreed it might be a good idea to draw in people representing wide interests in music, and feature one or more people at each occasion, with a sampling of one of the various fields of music. This could include everything from Bach to Basie.

There would be no formal organization—the town is over-organized as it is — just a loosely knit group of people with a common interest who get together maybe every two weeks or once a month.

Those interested may call Jack Hendrix, after Aug. 15, He'll be on vacation until then.

* * *

And speaking of music:

"It was fastastic" said Dr. Malone, describing his trip to the Aspen (Colo.) Music Festival. "Always something doing. And music like you've never heard."

Concerts taking place under the festival tent, he reported, were especially good. You wouldn't think a tent could be made even passable, acoustically, but this tent was.

No tapes, this time, though.

Worker Impaled By Rod Survives

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—A construction worker escaped serious injury when a steel rod was driven through his chest in a freak accident at the Naval Underwater Ordinance Station Wednesday.

Henry V. Silvia, 50, of Jamestown, a Navy civilian worker, was impaled on the concrete-reinforcing rod when he slipped and fell into a ditch.

Fellow workmen cut off the extended portion of the rod. The remaining section which did not injure vital organs, was removed in emergency surgery at a naval hospital.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Democratic vice presidential nominee, watches cattle graze in the pasture on his ranch at Johnson City, just before he left for Acapulco on vacation. Three flags, the Stars and Stripes, the Lone Star of Texas and the "LBJ" pennant, fly from the pole at the ranch house.

Widow Is Prime Minister Of Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — A widow whose first name means "Fortunate One" was called today to become the modern world's first woman prime minister.

Sirimavo Bandaranaike, 44, who made tears a formidable campaign weapon, was summoned by Gov. Gen. Sir Oliver Goonetilleke to form a new government after returns from the general election assured her leftist-backed Freedom party a majority in Parliament.

After receiving Goonetilleke's call, Mrs. Bandaranaike asked astrologers to advise her of an auspicious time to accept. Dates for marriages and other important events in Ceylon, as in several other Asian countries, are fixed after consulting horoscopes.

But she announced she would nationalize the island country's insurance companies, and tea and rubber plantations, most of which are Western-owned. She also said she would name a commission to investigate newspapers that were vigorously hostile to her campaign.

In foreign affairs, she is militantly neutralist.

On the major issues plaguing Ceylon she has had nothing to say so far. These include the stagnant economy, which should be expanding to keep up with the rapidly expanding population, and the explosive bitterness between the Sinhalese-speaking Buddhist majority and the Tamil-speaking Hindus which has caused much bloodshed in the past.

The election gave 75 of the 157 seats in the House of Representatives to Mrs. Bandaranaike's party. A grouping of small landowners, schoolteachers, traditionalist physicians, small-town lawyers and a few rich landowners which her late husband, Prime Minister Solomon Bandaranaike, headed until his assassination last year.

The party was assured a majority of five votes because the government names six representatives of business interests and minorities who traditionally vote with the government.

Although she didn't need them, the woman leader can count on the support of 12 Trotskyite members, 4 Communists and 3 other Socialist-minded members from other parties with whom she had a no-contest electoral pact. She said, however, she would confine her Cabinet to members of her own party.

Polaris Director Exults, Sees Best War Deterrent

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —"There was a hell of a lot of tension, a lot of hopes, ambitions and prayers rode with those missiles."

Speaking was Adm. William F. Raborn Jr., who for four years has directed the Polaris missile program from a paper plan to the first launchings from a submerged nuclear submarine. He spoke with confidence after two of the squat rockets had been fired successfully within three hours Wednesday.

"There is now no question that we will meet our operational date this fall," Raborn told newsmen on emerging from the submarine George Washington after the historic first firings. "The sooner we get an adequate number of missile submarines, the better."

The two Polarises scored spectacular successes after being launched from the George Washington as it cruised 90 feet beneath the waves about 30 miles off Cape Canaveral.

Compressed air ejected both from their vertical launching tubes, and their first stage engines ignited several feet above the surface. The second stages fired a minute later at an altitude of 15 miles and boosted dummy warheads 1,100 miles to the intended impact area in the ocean north of Puerto Rico.

Raborn reported the 28-foot missiles had hit "with adequate accuracy to have done the job if they had been fired at an enemy."

Asked to be more specific, the admiral smiled and said: "You are not much interested in which side of the squirrel's eye you hit."

Raborn emphasized the double triumph on the first attempts does not mean the Polaris is operational.

"We still have several more submarine launchings on the schedule before the missile will have tactical capability," he said. "The main thing we have to build up is reliability. When the Polaris is ready, we will have more assured power in our hands than any weapon system in the last 20 years."

Raborn has called the mating of the Polaris missile with the atomic submarine a "great deterrent to war."

"On land," he said, "our military installations are known, and an enemy surprise attack would certainly aim to knock them out with the first blow. But an enemy might be deterred from striking that blow if he knows he can't wipe out a Polaris fleet and that these submarines will send nuclear rockets in retaliation."

The Navy plans to have the missile operational by October. The George Washington and the Patrick Henry, first of a projected fleet of 45 Polaris subs, are expected to go on patrol, each with 16 nuclear armed missiles, by the end of the year.

The missile will have an initial operational range of 1,380 miles. Testing already has begun on advanced techniques designed to increase the range to 2,875 miles within four years.

Evidence Lacking In Sinatra Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The city attorney says there isn't enough enough evidence to warrant charging Frank Sinatra with battery for his part in the celebrated fisticuffs in the Moulin Rouge parking lot.

Edward E. Moran, 21, a car parker at the night club, said Sinatra pushed him around and that a friend of the singer's, John Hopkins, pummeled him with his fists.

Although charges against Sinatra were dropped, City Atty. Roger Arnebergh said there was "undisputed evidence" against Hopkins.

He said Hopkins, tour manager for entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., would be charged with both battery and disturbing the peace.

Missionary Sees Congo Blessings

AUSTIN (AP) — A Presbyterian missionary, who plans to adopt a Congolese baby, says the violent changes rocking the Congo may actually be a blessing.

"The missionary will now take a back seat," Donald Bobb, here with his family on a one-year furlough, said. "In the past he ran the show. Now he will only be an advisor."

The new republic's stormy birth should keep missionaries who lack "a spirit of cooperation" from going back, Bobb said.

Bobb, his wife, and five children were on the last commercial airliner out of Leopoldville the day the native army mutinied. One of the five children was a 19-month-old Congolese boy the Bobbs plan to adopt. They have three boys and a girl of their own.

When their furlough is over the Bobbs intend to go back to the Congo if they can. If the entire family cannot return, Bobb will go alone.

TOKYO (AP) — Moscow Radio charged today that American RB47 reconnaissance planes are stopping periodically at Yokota Air Base near Tokyo on spy flights to the Soviet Union and Red China.

Bracero Pact To Be Enforced

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Ministry of the Interior said Wednesday night that no more Mexican workers will enter South Texas cotton fields as long as farmers in the area refuse to pay them $2.50 per hundredweight for the cotton they pick.

The ministry said the wage rate was set in a United States-Mexico agreement.

The order was sent to the migratory workers office at Monterrey from where the braceros have been sent to Texas during the past few months.

Farmers in the Lower Rio Grande Valley area, the ministry said, set a wage of $2.30 per hundredweight for bracero workers and have asked Federal Judge Joe Ingraham in Houston for a suspension of the federal wage agreement.

Such an action violated the U.S.-Mexico migratory workers agreement and Mexico is in no condition to counteract the action, the ministry said.

U. S. Tells Latin Friends Cuba Still A Police State

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told Latin Americans that Cuba today under Prime Minister Fidel Castro is more of a police state than it was under ousted President Fulgencio Batista.

"One dictatorship has merely succeeded another in Cuba," Asst. Secretary of State Roy R. Rubottom Jr. said Wednesday night in a Voice of America radio broadcast beamed at Latin America.

"The Castro regime has increasingly driven Cuba away from her natural attachments . . . with the West and toward an unnatural and abnormal—and indeed, in the light of the possible consequences for mankind, an amoral — alignment in the Soviet orbit," he added.

The ideals of the Cuban revolution, he said, "have been shattered and discarded by the present government of Cuba.

"There is no election for governmental office," he said, "no voting for officials, no fixed terms, no separation of powers, no legislative assembly, no independent judiciary; and the system of land reform is a travesty on what was promised, a cruel blow to the hopes of the underprivileged and needy."

Landholders' property has been confiscated by the state without proper compensation, Rubottom said, and only 1 part in 40 of the land so taken has been turned over to the needy and underprivileged.

A Devotional For Today

Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. (Ephesians 6:11.) PRAYER: Heavenly Father, help us to fight the good fight. Guide us in our choices between good and evil. When our hearts are moved toward love and generosity, may we act speedily on such promptings. Help us to stand steadfastly for Thee at all times. In our Redeemer's name. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Help Fight Those Mosquitoes

The City of Big Spring has announced that it is renewing its attack on mosquitoes. Well, the department workers have an ample crop to work on, and the fogging machine will have to be worked overtime to cover the area adequately.

This will help combat the infestation, as will the oiling of known stagnant pools in the lowland areas.

But these steps won't do the entire job; it's too massive.

The recent rains have created tiny pools all over the area, and they also have encouraged rank growth of weeds and underbrush.

More than this, they have filled empty cans, jars, broken bottles, old battery cases, etc. which may be lying around on vacant lots. All of them make an excellent place for mosquitoes to propagate —and it doesn't take long.

If we want really effective control of mosquitoes (and flies, for that matter), we need citywide participation in eliminating potential breeding places at every home and establishment in the city, and in surveying vacant property nearby to make sure there are no breeding spots. If we placidly wait for a fogging machine or some other device to end the nuisance, we'll be scratching bites for a long time.

He Had The Courage To Speak Up

Months ago Thomas Lanphier did some vigorous talking about failure of the administration to pour more money and effort into getting enough Atlas missiles to turn out enough of these marvelous weapons to count in the scale against Russia.

He was accused of trying to sell more Atlases to the Defense Department because he was executive vice president of General Dynamics, which makes the ocean-spanning Atlas.

Okay, said Tom Lanphier, if that's the way you feel about it I'll resign my job at General Dynamics and carry on the campaign for better defenses on my own.

And he did. On his own, he made speeches all over the country, trying to arouse interest in better aerial defenses. He was "out" $10,000 in actual expenses, plus his salary of $4,000 a month which he drew from General Dynamics before he quit.

Now he is jobless, and perhaps feeling the pinch. His theme had been: The administration was gambling with America's survival by failing to approve larger numbers of missiles and planes.

He has received offers of jobs, but not as interesting as the one he gave up to fight for what he thought was right. So long as it isn't in defense.

"Yes," says Tom Lanphier, "I'd do it again. I don't think it was all a waste of time. I believe I made a lot of people think twice—and that was what I set out to do."

Perhaps he has made a lot of people think, twice. In any case he had the courage of his convictions, and that is not too common among the generations of mankind.

POLITICAL TESTIMONIAL—1960 STYLE

Around The Rim

They Want It Like They Write It

The daily newspaper, with a relatively large staff, has little problem filling space. Most often, it is a matter of selection, that is, selecting the news that will interest the most people. Almost every day, there is more news than space in the paper to put it.

But many weekly newspapers face the opposite side of the problem. There often just isn't enough news to fill the space, particularly since the number of pages in the paper is usually static, due to the limitation of press facilities.

This is one reason why so many odd stories and features appear in weekly papers, I suppose.

WITH DAILY NEWSPAPER training, I was accustomed to eliminating all superfluous language in stories and cutting them to a bare minimum. My first week on a weekly, I eliminated such items as:

Mr. and Mrs. Jones visited the county seat Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown visited the county seat Tuesday.

Obviously the families went together and so we reworded our correspondent's story. It was a mistake two ways. First, the Jones' and Browns' preferred the former way. Second, it took up more space to say it the way they wanted it.

Incidentally, these folks made the trip to the county seat every week for three years and we carried the identical sentence in the same story every week. And many others besides.

I don't think those stories were the greatest news items of the world, but those folks paid three bucks per year just to see their names in print every Thursday. They couldn't care less what other news happenings the paper may have included.

But most important, it filled space.

AND ONCE, I BECAME a farmer for a day. I was visiting a fellow publisher who was called on to take a picture of a new feed store opening. I tagged along to hold his film pack. Arriving at the new store, there were no customers and he needed someone to pretend to be buying the first bag of feed from the proud owner.

I was elected. That week, his front page carried a large picture of the owner handing me a sack of feed, identified as "an unidentified farmer." As he remarked to me later, "It filled space."

Actually, weekly newspaper people are closer to their readers than daily newspaper people.

The reader writes his story exactly the way he expects to see it in the paper. If it doesn't come out in the paper that way, complete with misspelled words and colorful adjectives, he is in the newspaper office Friday morning with fire in his eyes.

This makes for a close relationship between reader and newspaperman. Uncomfortably close.

A Shakeup For California Schools?

California, which has just survived the Democratic Donnybrook, is headed toward a second whose outcome may have as much significance for the nation as the Los Angeles contest.

California is examining its public schools and their curriculum through the medium of a Citizens Advisory Commission. One subdivision of that committee has just filed a powerful recommendation that both grade and high schools beef up the public school curriculum with far more concentration on the three R's, and such basic subject matter as geography and history.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS are already having a tremendous impact in California and are bound to receive careful consideration elsewhere because of the man who wrote them. He is Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president emeritus of the University of California and one of the nation's most widely respected and influential educators.

Dr. Sproul and his group believe that the business of primary education through the first six grades is to give school children a firm foundation in reading, writing, spelling, English and arithmetic, the basic ingredients for the American citizen no matter what his future role in life may be.

CONSEQUENTLY, he and his committe recommend that 66 per cent of the school week in the first six grades be devoted to these five fundamental subjects, instead of the 50 per cent now required in the California school system.

The educator, flying in the face of the modern educational fadists, recommends that kids in the seventh and eighth grades be required to spend 50 per cent of their time on the same basic tools of education, instead of the 10 hours now specified in the Golden State. Dr. Sproul has further stirred up a hornet's nest by recommending that reading—which Johnny can't, according to many critics — be taught in the old-fashioned way, with emphasis on phonetics. This is enough to madden the modern sandbox educator, who threw phonetics out the window —along with Johnny —years ago. But it will gladden the heart of many a parent who learned to read, quickly, easily and rapidly, via phonetics.

DR. SPROUL has further riled the John Dewey-ites by specifically recommending that the meaningless catch-all of "social studies" be scratched from the curriculum and kids, from the fourth grade on, be solidly grounded in geography and history as separate disciplines and not a mishmash of the two.

Although some Californians are fighting him, I believe he will be hailed across the nation not only for these recommendations but for another —that children at the fourth-grade level begin learning a foreign language. In view of the fact that we Americans are waking to the fact that in the second half of the 20th Century we are linguistic barbarians, many communities are already beginning foreign language instruction in the third and fourth grades.

I REJOICE that an American educator recommends four years of English and four years of history for all high school students. He also wants a year of world geography at the high school level, as well as American government.

The president emeritus of the University of California also believes that the high school students should be exposed to more of the world's fine literature.

In short, Dr. Sproul is recommending schooling that will turn out educated men and women. Like Dr. Arthur B. Conant, he is saying that public school education ought to educate rather than baby-sit.

A Questionable Acceptance Speech

LOS ANGELES—Time was when an acceptance speech by a presidential nominee was delivered a month or more after the national convention. With "the tumult and the shouting" over, there was an opportunity for serious reflection and for the writing of a thoughtful presentation of the main issues of the campaign ahead.

The circumstances surrounding Sen. Kennedy's speech gave the appearance of its having been prepared in a hurry—there were many changes made in it between the time the advance copy was given to the press and actual delivery.

The objective, of course, was to get votes from the mass audience assembled here as well as before television screens throughout the country. The assumption was that the voters would be concerned only with appearances—the "image" created by a good-looking young man with a forceful style of speaking.

But in that same acceptance speech, the Democratic nominee violated one of the basic rules of fair play in American campaigning: "Never impute a lack of honesty or integrity to your opponent."

THE ATTACK which the Democratic presidential nominee made against Vice President Nixon was a shock to all who had hoped that the nominee of the Democratic party would negate the widely held impression about his immaturity and that he would carry himself with the dignity befitting a man who might become President of the United States. Mr. Kennedy, however, impetuously clawed at his opponent when he said:

"His (Nixon's) political career has often seemed to show charity toward none and malice for all . . .

"But before he (Nixon) deals, someone is going to cut the cards."

The senator later defended his plunge into personalities when, in a news conference, he said he would be bound only "by the rules of facts."

There were other statements which caused dismay. Thus, for instance, there are many who wonder just what was meant by this paragraph in the acceptance speech:

"BUT THE NEW frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises—it is a set of challenges. It sums up not what I intend, to offer the American people, but what I intend to ask of them. It appeals to their pride, not their pocketbook—it holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

What does "more sacrifice instead of more security" really mean? How many of the listeners understood those phrases?

In another part of the same speech, the nominee extols the party platform which promises more and more money and favors for every group with enough numbers to bring in votes. Even the so-called "liberals," who are used to making extravagant promises, were taken aback by the unlimited scope of the platform pledges. Mr. Kennedy said:

"I am grateful, too, that you have provided us with such a strong platform to stand on and to run on. Pledges which are made so eloquently are made to be kept."

DOES MR. KENNEDY, however, really intend, for instance, to fulfill the platform pledge which promises the right to vote to any man or woman, whether or not he or she can read or write? The platform as adopted promises to do away somehow with the literacy tests for voting which are embodied in state laws.

There are many passages in the acceptance speech which will cause an arching of eyebrows, but none perhaps more than this one:

"All over the world, particularly in the newer nations, young men are coming to power—men who are not bound by the traditions of the past—men who are not blinded by the old fears and hates and rivalries—young men who can cast off the old slogans and the old delusions."

THE WORLD IS witnessing in the Congo including the words of the Greek philosophers and of the founders of the Amerwhat some of the "newer nations" are doing. It is witnessing also the rise of "youth" in Cuba, especially its bearded leader who now makes common cause with Moscow. Rashness is a characteristic of youth—nothing that is old appears to be any good. The wisdom of past generations, including the words of the Greek philosophers and of the founders of the American republic — Washington, Jefferson and Madison — these are frequently brushed aside as obsolete. For indeed the urge of youth often is to eschew "the traditions of the past."

Maybe this campaign will turn out differently than its start implies. Maybe youth in the end will respect experience. The recklessness of youth sometimes persists until it comes face to face with the hard facts of life. This is called "maturity." But it's an expensive adventure, and one wonders wistfully whether there was more truth than oratory in Sen. Kennedy's rhetorical question: "Can a nation organized and governed such as ours endure?"

Perhaps it ought to be paraphrased as follows: "Can a nation governed by political claptrap and campaign hypocrisy endure?"

Rocky, The Puzzling Republican

WASHINGTON (AP)—The most puzzling Republican of 1960 is still New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

He dropped his bid for the Republican presidential nomination last December because, he said, the party bosses didn't want him. Apparently they still don't, but a few weeks ago he edged back into the picture by saying he's available.

While he's willing to be drafted for the ticket's No. 1 spot, which he says he feels sure he won't get, he says positively and absolutely he will not accept the vice presidential nomination, which might be offered him.

WHEN HE EXRRESSED his liberal views before the party's Platform Committee in Chicago this week, he got mild applause. But there was an ovation for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, spokesman for the party's extreme right wing.

Rockefeller said he will campaign actively for the party and the ticket. But at the same time he said he may publicly disagree with official party doctrine during the campaign.

At a time when Republican bigwigs seem to yearn for unity, he has been a constant irritant by criticizing both the Eisenhower administration and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who seems a sure-shot for the presidential nomination.

YET IN CHICAGO this week some observers thought they detected some softening in his differences with the administration and Nixon which would seem to be necessary if he's going to campaign for the ticket at all.

Whether this is so—and, if it is, whether Rockefeller is seeking some kind of reconciliation with the more conservative elements of the party — still isn't clear. But one thing seems to be obvious:

In the November elections the difference between a national Republican victory or defeat may be the difference between carrying New York or losing it. The party will be in tough shape if Rockefeller should sit on his hands.

Nevertheless, the party bosses have shown few signs of enthusiasm for the governor, at least to the point of buying his ideas for the platform or giving him the presidential nomination.

He has been a goad to the party, perhaps an embarrassment, with his proposals and his criticisms. His only purpose may have been to try to have a liberalizing effect. Or perhaps he was thinking ahead.

If he's not on this year's ticket and it loses, Rockefeller has laid the groundwork for what might be his own selection as the Republican presidential nominee in 1964.

When Rockefeller said earlier this year he wouldn't consider being No. 2 man on the ticket headed by Nixon, the vice president seemed to be taking him at his word.

Then the Democrats came up with their North-South combination of Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, a formidable array of political talent, as Rockefeller acknowledged this week in saying the 1960 campaign would be a tough one.

It was after this that Nixon's unofficial campaign manager, Leonard W. Hall, said that if Rockefeller withdrew his firm stand against second place he would be open to consideration for the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

But after the cool reception he got in Chicago this week before the Platform Committee, Rockefeller may feel more determined than ever to stay out of the picture altogether since the presidential nomination for him seems out of the question.

Post-Vacation Blues

NEW YORK (AP) — Office remarks that make a returned vacationist wish he had stayed away longer:

"Where you been hiding yourself lately? I haven't seen you in a couple of weeks."

"Been away?"

"I'll bet you're glad to be back."

"Where'd you stay—under a rock? I can get a better tan than that just sitting on my front porch."

"Everybody kept asking about you. hey wanted to know when you'd get back and start paying what you owe them?"

"Is that the best you could do? I averaged 23 miles to the gallon on my vacation."

"Everybody got a good laugh from the post card you mailed from that night club—except nobody could figure out what you were trying to say. What happened to your handwriting?"

"Don't bother to take off your coat. The boss said he wanted to see you the minute you came in. Boy, is he mad about something!"

"I saved $350 on my vacation. I just stayed home and listened to my wife."

"Well, Smithers, I'll say one thing about you—you're consistent. Even on the first day back from a vacation you still show up half an hour late."

"You look tireder than when you left. Where did you get those circles under your eyes?"

"The guy who was supposed to fill in for you took sick. I'm afraid you'll find your desk pretty piled."

"One day while you were gone the boss came out and asked, 'Just what does Smithers do around here anyway?' We were kinda stuck. Nobody knew just what to tell him."

"Now that you've finally got your sleeves rolled up, what are you going to do next—go downstairs for a coffee break?"

"Cheer up, man. Don't look so blue. In just 49 weeks and six days you'll get another vacation —that is, if the firm is still in business."

Demos Lucky To Get Johnson

HOMEBOUND FROM CONVENTION—In baseball and politics you don't have to be very good—if you're very lucky. Major league pitchers remark upon this truism when they see their victories made or saved by the breaks of the game. The Democratic party started getting lucky when Senator Lyndon Johnson joined the Kennedy ticket, because:

JOHNSON'S NOMINATION for Vice President averted a Democratic civil war which would have rocked the citadel. When Kennedy landed at Los Angeles and heard some of the things Johnson was saying about him, the younger man remarked about the Majority Leader: "I expect to defeat him before the week is out—and I wonder what that will do to Johnson."

At a press conference soon afterwards, I asked Kennedy what he meant. Did he mean, I asked, that the fight for the Democratic presidential nomination was going to cost Johnson the post of Majority Leader? Kennedy denied meaning anything so vengeful, and we need not dispute this—Kennedy's a man of his word and is not vindictive. Nevertheless, the elements were gathering for an intraparty tempest.

WITH KENNEDY IN the White House and Johnson still floor leader of the Senate, a clash of personalities, ambitions, methods and ideas would have been unavoidable—if not between the principals, then among their followers. For Lyndon's buddies and Jack's backers are not necessarily either identical or congenial. The normal penalties and pay-offs of the political game would have been due. George Smathers of Florida, who was an usher at Kennedy's wedding, but who publicly preferred Johnson for President, typifies the division of loyalties. Henry Jackson of Washington, who backed Kennedy and thought he saw the glimmer of the green light for the Vice Presidential nomination, might ask things from Kennedy that he never got from Johnson. Stuart Symington of Missouri or Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota might like to replace Johnson as Majority Leader. One way or another, there would have been blood on the Senate floor if a Kennedy-Johnson ticket hadn't unexpectedly been joined.

JOHNSON'S NAME on the ticket moved the Democrats toward the middle-of-the-road where the going in 1960 is sure to be smoother. The record of the 86th Congress, which only twice overrode the President's budget-balancing vetoes, is as mild as the Democratic platform is radical. Jack Kennedy's legislative profile, even well defined. If he had been mated on the Democratic ticket with Symington, Humphrey, G. Mennen Williams or even Jackson, Kennedy would have taken their characteristics—and would have "looked like a liberal". Matched with Johnson, he looks moderate. This is still the mood of this country, despite the fuss kicked up by leftist pressure groups. Johnson's name on the ticket is worth many votes in the Southern States, and many conservative votes in the Western States which might have gone to Richard Nixon and the Republicans.

JOHNSON'S FATHERLY but not patronizing arm across the shoulder of the 43-year-old Kennedy makes the latter look more like a privileged young adventurer. The acceptance speeches showed each man in character. Johnson—savvy, generous, practical, sound. Kennedy—brilliant, ambitious, full of campus quotations and historical allusions, the starlight of the Space age dancing in his cold, keen eyes.

Those who think that Johnson will bring new ideas of aggrandizement to the Vice Presidency are mistaken. Johnson's views on this office, as given to me, are traditionalist. He is strongly against trying to make a pseudo-legislative post out of this office.

JOHNSON IS altogether unlike Vice Presidents Nixon and Wallace, both of whom tried to increase their powers of office. Instead of that, Johnson will return to the style set by another Texan Vice-President, John Garner, who was a personality and at times a Democratic fixer and Presidential counselor, but never a power-grabber.

To Your Good Health

Not Even Aspirin Is Good For Everything

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've read a lot about aspirin and how it helps nearly all ailments under the sun, even diabetes. I also have read that you have to be careful if you have stomach ulcers. Why? I have a gastric ulcer and take from 2 to 6 aspirins a day. —Mrs. R. L."

You didn't read the first part of that in this column. There is no drug that is "good for what ails you, regardless." When too, many extravagant claims are made for a treatment or medicine, watch out!

Still, aspirin, after all these years, is one of the truly remarkable discoveries. It is an anti-inflammatory drug, and as such it is one of the best we have ever found for arthritis. It eases the pain of a toothache, headache or badly stubbed toe. In inflammatory conditions, it has no equal, perhaps, in combined safety and effectiveness.

But for diabetes? It doesn't do any good as regards diabetes itself, although in the many variations or complications which can occur, there may be some in which aspirin is of use. There may be aspects of many diseases in which aspirin has a helpful role. As to gastic ulcers...—well, in some people aspirin can prove to be irritating to the stomach. For some patients, it may cause stomach upsets even though ulcers are not present.

Medical care is a complicated art. That is why society demands that a man (or women) who wants to be a doctor must spend many years learning how. A doctor-to-be must learn what things do —and then must learn a host of exceptions to all the rules. The human body is not a simple thing. It is extremely complicated. And no two people are exactly alike — even identical twins. Medical care requires watching every patient as an individual, to see whether, in some one respect, he is different from the average.

Thus even such a dependable drug as aspirin won't act with one person in the same way it acts with another. Or, for ordinary use, we virtually all can take aspirin for a headache. Yet when it comes to taking it continually, and in some quantity, we must watch but for the fact that some people will have stomach upsets. Some, not all.

If an ulcer is present in the stomach or duodenum, then there is that much more chance that the aspirin may irritate. And, of course, the big aim in treating ulcers is to prevent irritation.

There is no way to be sure in advance whether the aspirin is likely to irritate. The only thing we can do is proceed cautiously and watchfully.

All this a good example of what we mean when we say that medications should be taken under your doctor's supervision.

People often wonder about this —they wonder why, if a certain drug is "good" for whatever the condition may be, they can't simply take the drug without a doctor's help.

It is the exception that is important, the patient who runs into trouble with the drug, whatever it is. The person who reacts other than in average fashion is the one who needs our closest attention. That's why medical treatment is not as easy as it sometimes appears to be.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What would cause fingernails to curl down when they start to grow? Could this be caused by biting when a youngster? —Mrs. M. D."

Principal cause of such curling is a thickening of the nail and a disturbance in the nail bed. It usually happens in the toes. Local irritation from infection, or tight shoes or socks, or neglect of foot hygiene are among the likely causes.

It can occur in the fingernails, and biting the nails could be a factor, I dare say. Sometimes, however, the cause is hereditary.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Notwithstanding the time-honored cry of "Kill the umpire!" actuarial records on the arbiters of baseball probably are no more unfavorable than on most other occupations. An engineer for a New York State corporation, however, believes that some of the uncertainties which beset an umpire's career could be cleared up if the man in the blue suit were given the last word not only vocally but electronically.

The inventor proposes a battery of television cameras, one above the plate and one on either side (for right or left-handed batters) to determine whether the pitcher's throw passes through the strike zone on its way to the catcher's mitt. Another battery of cameras would focus on the various bases to help establish whether the ball arrived before or behind the runner, or whether a tab was made or missed.

Some such innovations have been debated ere now. Perhaps they are on the way. Some of the game's more colorful arguments may be missed if the umpire can merely invite an irate manager to look at a playback of the tape. But if baseball is to be, as the announcers say, "a game of inches," it may not unreasonably go on and be a game of mi[illegible] aves.

Dressen Makes Best Use Of Mound Aces

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Maybe Chuck Dressen had the right dope on Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette. Instead of wearing out his two Milwaukee aces in the spring, he has them ready for the second-half pennant drive.

Spahn, 39, ran his won-lost record to 10-6 Wednesday night by pitching his 49th shutout over the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0. The left-hander has pitched only 142 innings this year and made 17 starts as compared to 167 innings and 21 starts at this stage last season.

Burdette, boasting a 10-4 record, had worked only 137 innings and started 22 times.

Dressen's Braves clipped Pittsburgh's National League lead to a half game when Los Angeles knocked off the Pirates 7-5 in 11 innings. Rookie Tom Davis' two-run homer in the 11th did the trick for the Dodgers, despite two home runs by Pittsburgh's Hal Smith.

Glen Hobbie, of the Chicago Cubs pitched seven perfect innings against Cincinnati before Wally Post opened the eighth with a single. Hobbie finished up with a two-hitter for a 4-0 verdict in the second game behind Don Newcombe, who had lost five straight.

Errors by Dave Philley and Orlando Cepeda put Sam Jones in a hole in the ninth inning of San Francisco's game with the Phillies before Johnny Antonelli got the third man out to nail down Jones' 12th victory 3-1.

In the American League, Chicago reduced the New York Yankees' lead to one game by downing Boston 7-1, while the Cleveland Indians were salvaging the last of three from the Yanks 8-6. Kansas City shaded Baltimore 4-3, and Washington won its 11th in 14 games, defeating Detroit 8-6.

Spahn scattered seven hits and didn't allow a runner to advance past second base, while Joe Adcock and Hank Aaron did the slugging with a pair of tape-measure jobs against Ernie Broglio. Adcock hit a 450-foot drive into the bleachers for his 15th homer, and Aaron slammed No. 26 into the same sector, extending his batting streak to 15 straight games.

The Dodgers, who have won 18 of their last 23, made it two in a row over the Pirates when Wally Moon opened the 11th with a single off loser Elroy Face, 5-5, and moved to second on Gil Hodges' sacrifice before Davis put his second major league homer into the Coliseum seats.

Roger Craig, 3-1; was the winner in relief. Both clubs loaded the bases in the 10th but scored just once after Hal Smith's second home run of the game had tied it 4-all in the ninth for the Pirates. His first homer came with two on in the fourth inning. Duke Snider hit his 11th home run for the Dodgers.

IN CHILDRESS

Rugged Talent Set For Grid Classic

CHILDRESS (SC)—When the top football stars from 41 towns in Texas and Oklahoma meet in the 11th Annual East and West football game here the evening of Saturday, Aug. 13th, hell will be popping.

Vernon Eubank, chairman of the Selection Committee, states "My committee has screened 140 applications of top stars as recommended by coaches in this area, and we have selected what we felt to be the best teams that have ever been assembled. Last year's 14 to 14 tie will put the pressure on the same two coaches to come up with a victory.

Coach James Ryan of Gainesville, Texas, had this to say about Mike Rigler who plays guard for the East Team. "Mike is an impressive guard and pulls well on trap plays. I classify boys as no hitters, hitters, and head hunters. This young man is definitely a head hunter. He made all district first team."

Coach John Hawk of Memphis has this to say about his nominee, Jerry Burnett. "In one game this year Jerry completed 20 out of 27 passes attempted. Also in every game that we scored in Jerry would score one or more times from 30 to 60 yards out. He is an excellent open field runner."

With this type of talent it will be very interesting to watch the head hunters knocking off the fast runners and the passers.

Mrs. Virginia Van Bibber, in charge of ticket sales, reports that a number of orders are being received for tickets and those wanting good seats should order at once as they are being filled on a first come first served basis.

Mack Alexander, Big Spring center, will play in the classic.

Colonels Grab Sixth In Row

By The Associated Press

Louisville resumed its winning streak in the American Assn. Wednesday night, shading Charleston, 3-2, as all-teams resumed play after a two-day layoff for the league's all star game. It was the Colonels' sixth consecutive victory.

The second place Colonels' triumph, plus a 5-0 defeat slapped on league-leading Denver by Houston, narrowed the Bears' margin to 4½ games.

St. Paul nosed out Minneapolis, 5-4, in a 13-inning thriller to take an 8-4 edge in the unofficial season's series between the rivals.

Last place Indianapolis came to life and swept a doubleheader from Dallas-Fort Worth, 7-2 and 4-2.

Fireballer Al Schroll of Houston turned in a sparkling performance in setting down Denver with two hits.

Houston got only seven hits off Denver's Ed Donnelly but one of them was a double by Dick Bertell in the second which scored two runs and another was Bill Davidson's fourth homer of the year with two aboard in the seventh.

Just before the all star game, Indianapolis lost four straight to Dallas-Fort Worth, but it was different Wednesday night when then teams tangled at Dallas. The Indians scored in five of the seven innings of the opener, and counted in the first, sixth and ninth of the nightcap. The Rangers left a dozen men stranded in the second game.

Hopkins Winner By 3 And 2 Tally

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Three Texans, led by Abilene ace Ed Hopkins, registered first-round victories Wednesday in the Colorado Springs Invitation Golf Tournament.

Hopkins defeated Jack Sargent of Palm Springs, Calif., 3 and 2. W. W. Wigley of Dallas tripped fellow Texan Bill Thomas of Wichita Falls 2 and 1 and William Schaellkoph of Dallas downed H. McClintock of Englewood, Colo., 2 and 1.

Hopkins takes on Steve Creekmore of Fort Smith, Ark., today.

Herm Smith Gets Plainview Post

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Plainview High School Wednesday named Herman Smith of Quanah head footbal coach and elevated assistant coach John Blaine to athletic director.

Both Smith and Blaine were previously at Sundown, Smith as coach and Blaine as athletic director.

Rookie Makes Good Promise

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Because Dodger rookie Tommy Davis kept a promise to his pitcher, the Pittsburgh Pirates are within one bad night of blowing that fat five-game lead they held only a week ago.

The score was tied 5-5 in the 11th inning Wednesday night and Wally Moon was on first base when Davis turned to pitcher Roger Craig and told him:

"Don't worry. I'm going to win it for you."

Then Davis stepped up and drove one of Elroy Face's pitches deep into the left-field seats and the Dodgers beat the league leaders for the second straight night, 7-5.

A crowd of 51,301 sat in on the 3-hour, 31-minute thriller, running attendance for the first two nights of the series to 102,739.

The Dodgers have won 10 of their last 12 games, 15 of their last 19, and 18 if their last 24. They have pulled to within five games of first-place Pittsburgh.

Manager Walt Alston won't predict the Dodgers will duplicate their dramatic finish of 1959, when they won the pennant in a playoff with Milwaukee. But he does say he looks for the same club—the Braves—to become the team to beat.

Three Texans Are Shaded In Meet

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A trio of Texans Wednesday fell by the wayside in the second round doubles of the U.S. Junior Tennis Tournament.

Tom Kamrath of Houston and Greg Dredge of Springfield, Ohio, were beaten 6-0, 6-0 by Don Lutz of Los Angeles and Zan Guerry of Chattanooga.

Marme Fry of Springfield and Paulette Verzin of Lamesa, Calif., tripped Bonnie Ellis of Wichita Falls and Helen Driver of El Paso 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

Earl Buchholz Upset Victim

CHICAGO (AP) — Chances of U. S. Davis Cup team members making up the semifinals of the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships were wrecked Wednesday when a diminutive South American upset Earl Buchholz Jr., of St. Louis.

Miguel Olvera, a 5-feet 5, 118-pound speedster from Ecuador, humbled the third - seeded Buchholz, 6-2, 6-4, in third round competition of the tournament at the River Forest Tennis Club.

Three other members of the U. S. Davis Cup team breezed into the quarter-finals.

Barry MacKay, No. 1 seed from Akron, Ohio, eliminated Edwardo Zuleta of Ecuador, 6-3, 6-4; second-seeded Bernard (Tut) Bartzen, the defending champion seeking his third straight Clay Courts title, lobbed his way past 20-year-old Rod Susman of St. Louis, 6-2, 6-4, and Charles McKinley also of St. Louis defeated Don Russell of Australia, 6-3, 6-2.

Also reaching the quarter-finals was Australia's Rod Laver, the Wimbledon finalist who is the No. 1 foreign seed. Laver dropped his first set to erratic Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., 4-6 but rallied from a 4-3 deficit to win the second set 7-5 and then powered his way to victory with a 6-0 decision in the final set.

Palmer Benefit To Begin Today

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — They're calling this 42nd PGA championship an Arnold Palmer benefit.

And the big belter from Ligonier, Pa., has all the weapons to make the forecast come true in the 72-hole medal play test launched today over Firestone Country Club's awesome acres.

But the year's big money winner, Masters and Open champion, faces a potent par and a fast field as he goes after his seventh tournament conquest of the year.

Old man par—he's 70—is not to be fooled with since architect Robert Trent Jones revamped the course for the benefit of the play-for-pay contingent. The best pretourney guess was that 284 or 285, against a par of 280, would grab the $9,000-plus top prize.

Siege gun hitters, firing with the precision of Sgt. Alvin York, were conceded the best chance. The fairways aren't narrow enough to force a single file procession, but they are unusually slim and are dotted with drive-snaring traps and bordered by heavy rough and dank woods.

The greens are big—some could require 100-foot putts—and they are guarded by ponds, streams, or yawning bunkers slightly smaller than the Sahara.

The dozen par-four holes average 431 yards, seven being 450 or longer. The four par threes average 216, and the two par fives 526 yards—one stretching a prodigious 625 with a beckoning pond stretched across the front of the green.

Generally the pros figure that "whoever is putting will win." But one long hitter said after Wednesday's practice round in a 20-mile wind, "the big question today was getting to the green so you could start putting.

Dow Finsterwald, the 1958 winner, fashioned a six-birdie practice round Wednesday. He was forced to use a wood for his second shot on 10 of the 18 holes due to the extreme length.

The odds-fellows are saying the top dozen, not necessarily in this order, at the finish will be Palmer, Finsterwald, Julius Boros, Mike Souchak, Tommy Bolt, Ben Hogan, Ken Venturi, Gene Littler, Jerry Barber, Sam Snead, Jack Fleck and Doug Ford.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Officially, Vernon Harton goes on the payroll as basketball coach at Jacksonville Baptist College Aug. 1 but the former Big Spring mentor is already at work.

Harton has four holdovers back from last season and they give the Baptists a good nucleus. In addition, Harton has signed Big Spring's Homer Mills, William Zgarba, a 6-feet-3 Danberry boy; and Gale Driver, an all-state player of Woden, to letters-of-intent. Driver stands 6-feet-2 and Harton saw him play against Big Spring in the Nacogdoches tournament last season.

Harton is holding two scholarships open, may not fill them until shortly before school starts.

He says he may bring his team out for the annual Howard College tournament Christmas week, if he gets an invitation.

Do you stay away from the water because you are prone to get "swimmer's ear?"

A medication has been developed which is effective against all organisms known to attack the outer ear canal, even those resistant to antibiotics or sulfa drugs.

Known medically as external otitis, swimmer's ear is essentially a skin infection. It is seldom caused by swimming, but water in the ears gives the bacteria and fungi that attack the ear canal the moist environment in which they can cause their greatest damage.

The medication is produced by combining acetic acid with a new agent called propanediol discetate. A non-evaporate liquid is used as a base for the medication. It is called Vosol Otic Solution and it is usually effective within a week.

No one ever worked harder or put in longer hours to get a college education than did Joe Sibley, a new line coach for Big Spring High School.

Joe came from a big family and knew he would have to roll up his sleeves and go to work if he wanted a college diploma, and he wanted one more than anything.

Sibley, who grew up in Nederland, went to Stephen F. Austin College on a part-scholarship offer. To supplement his income, he arose at 3 a.m. daily to deliver papers, then went from that job to another in a filling station.

He worked at the station until it was time for classes, then went directly to the practice field (during football season). After grid drills, Joe went back to the station and worked until late at night. It was a back-breaking routine but he thrived on it.

Joe once broke a leg during a football game but never bothered to have the doctor examine it until after the contest had ended. Those who know him say he will prove to be quite an asset to the local grid staff.

Rocket City Race Ruidoso Feature

RUIDOSO, N. M. (SC)—An allowance race at 5½ furlongs, a better than average 550 - yarder and a good 870 - yard race will combine with a fine supporting card to offer a wide variety of events on Friday's card at Ruidoso.

The featured race of the day, the Rocket City Allowance, will salute Alamogordo, N. M., home of the atom bomb—known the world over as "The Rocket City." An invitation will be extended to many of "The Rocket City" officials to be present for the running of the races.

The Rocket City Allowance has attracted a bevy of speedsters, topped by the hard hitting Tray Bar, often close but never close enough to break the winner's circle at the current meeting, other than in a claiming race. He may find the going easier here. This five-year-old gelded son of Three Bars—Czech Lass holds a world of early speed. Another sprinter looking for her first win will be the rapid Epyaxa, who has failed to be close in both outings here.

Saturday will mark the running of the Kansas Futurity Trials with the Kansas Futurity to be held the following weekend. Many of the top two-year-olds who competed in the Ruidoso Quarter Horse Futurity will be seeking a spot in the finals of the Kansas Futurity and may find the going here just as tough.

The Kansas Futurity will be run here for the first time this year and may become a part of the regular feature races carded for future years.

Sunday will see the running of The Bright Eyes Stakes with many of the top fillies and mares in the Quarter Horse world named to contest the 400 distance.

Nominations:

FIRST RACE (4 furl.)—Rambling Rythm Sibaba, Star Pleasure, Carca Lou, Rosa de Oro, Roguish Pere, Middle Lady, Trustworthy, Hot Saki, Billy Tickle.

SECOND RACE (7 furl.)—Paula's Pride, Cherry Bloom, Batuta, Ak-Man, Black Ladie, Stormy Day, Rano, Suntige, Windy Desert, Dice Be Nice.

THIRD RACE (350 yards)—Seven V Cheetah, Mae Miss, Baldy Whiz, Bob H. Bars, Marste, Bottom Bob, Abbie Lane, Rough Creek, Sister's Echo, Mr. Sure Nuff.

Rare Feat

When John Buzhardt (above) pitched and won a 12-inning game for the Philadelphia Phillies over the St. Louis Cardinals not long ago, he achieved a rare feat. The Phillies invariably lose extra inning games. The Phils acquired Buzhardt from the Chicago Cubs in a trade for Richie Ashburn last winter. John aids former Giant hurler Larry Jansen with giving him better control of his sinker and curve ball.

Torrid Odessans Decision Dukes

By The Associated Press

It appears as though Odessa has picked up where Alpine left off in the Sophomore League—that is out front with definite plans to remain there.

Wednesday night the Dodgers won their sixth game in seven starts during the second portion of the campaign. They pinned an 8-6 setback on Albuquerque to knock the Dukes from second to third place.

A two-run homer by Lovell Smith sparked the Dodgers.

The scheduled second game was rained out after one and a half innings of scoreless play.

Hobbs smashed Alpine 7-2 in their first game, and then made it through three innings of the second game before rain washed out play.

Rudy Welch cracked a grand slam home run for Hobbs and Joe Cammarata and Larry Vincent hit solo homers for Alpine. The loss was the sixth in eight games for Alpine, the first half champion.

Forsan Softball Finals Are Set

Semi-final and final games in the Forsan Invitational Softball tournament are scheduled for tonight.

No games were played last night, due to church activities within the Forsan community.

The Forsan All-Stars challenge Newsom's Foods in the first game this evening, scheduled to start at 6:45 p.m. The winner then meets undefeated Coca-Cola of Big Spring in the finals.

Bomar And Kelley Win Exhibition

Buddy Bomar, the nationally known bowler, teamed with Elton Kelley to defeat the combination of George Pike and Bill Littlejohn in a kegling exhibition at Bobby Layne's Bowl - A - Rama here Wednesday evening.

Bomar posted the top series of 597. Littlejohn came in for a game high of 225.

Bomar is here in connection with an instructors' school, which had 59 enrollees. The four-day clinic winds up today.

Hobbie Plagued With Late Inning Woes But He Wins

CINCINNATI (AP) —Glen Hobbie just can't seem to get past the eighth inning without trouble, but that doesn't keep him from being the winningest hurler for Chicago's lackluster Cubs.

He and the Cubs' new catcher, Elvin Tappe, cooked up a perfect game for seven innings Wednesday night — no hits, no walks.

But Hobbie couldn't get past that eighth inning jinx. Wally Post banged a leadoff single for Cincinnati's first hit.

Hobbie bore down and shut out the Reds 4-0 in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader. Cincinnati eked out a 4-3 nightcap victory.

"Post hit a fast ball for that first hit off me in the eighth," said Hobbie.

This is familiar stuff to Hobbie, now 9-11 for the season.

He worked up a no-hitter the same way June 14 against Milwaukee. But in the eighth inning on his first pitch, Del Crandall broke up the no-hitter with a homer.

Also, against St. Louis last year he held the Cards hitless for 8 1-3 innings, but then Stan Musial singled.

Yankee-White Sox Series Will Determine Leader

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox, written off for dead after losing four straight at home to the New York Yankees in mid-June, are very much alive today, breathing on the necks of those selfsame Yankees.

Al Lopez, the White Sox manager, had the foresight to clip some of the obituary notices typed by Yankee newsmen, quoting various members of the New York club on the demise of the 1959 league champs. Lopez pinned them to the bulletin board in the White Sox clubhouse. Apparently the Sox got the message.

It is Lopez' turn to smile now with his White Sox only one game behind the Yanks as they move into Yankee Stadium Friday to open a vital four-game series.

Chicago won its fifth straight and its 17th in the last 24 games Wednesday night with the aid of home runs by Roy Sievers and Al Smith. Although the combined pitching of Russ Kemmerer and Frank Baumann yielded 13 Boston hits, Chicago won 7-1.

At the same time, the Yanks were having pitching trouble in Cleveland, where the Indians salvaged the finale of their three-game series with an 8-6 decision despite Roger Maris' 31st home run and Mickey Mantle's 23rd. Jimmy Piersall hit a two-run homer for the Indians, and Harvey Kuenn homered and slammed a two-run double.

Another late Yankee threat died when, with two men on in the ninth, Johnny Temple made a leaping catch of Hector Lopez' line drive ending the game. It was Gary Bell's victory and a seventh defeat for Art Ditmar.

Washington moved into fifth place, all even at the .500 mark with a 41-41 record by thumping Detroit 8-6. Faye Throneberry, an occasional starter in the Washington lineup, drove in five runs with a double with the bases loaded and two singles.

Kansas City's Ray Herbert skirted disaster in the ninth inning while pitching the A's to a 4-3 victory over Baltimore. Marv Throneberry hit a towering 400-foot homer, and Andy Carey came through with a triple and a double in defeating Milt Pappas.

With only one day game on the Thursday schedule in the American — Washington at Detroit — attention turned to the big weekend series at the stadium between the Yanks and White Sox. They meet Friday night, Saturday afternoon, and play a double-header Sunday.

Lining up his pitching for the Yankee series, Lopez started Kemmerer against Boston, a club that Chicago has now beaten 11 times in 15 starts, including nine straight at Comiskey Park. Kemmerer didn't make it all the way, but Baumann finished up with five shutout innings although nicked for seven hits.

Police Department Indians Turn Back ABClub, 17 To 0

The Police Department Indians rolled to their ninth straight Teen-Age Baseball league victory here Wednesday night by slaughtering the ABClub, 17-0.

The game was called at the end of five innings due to the circuit's ten-run rule. The Indians now have a 10-4 overall record.

Randy Smith hurled a one-hitter for the winners. Ronnie Booth connected safely for the ABC in the second inning. Tommy Airhart was the losing flinger.

The Tribe made the most of eight hits, including a triple and two singles by Richard McCormick. The Indians scored in every inning.

Moore struck out nine batters and walked two in breezing to his victory.

The Police Department team wind up regular play Tuesday night, at which time it opposes the Kiwanians.

Swimmers Cautioned

As summer presses on and the heat continues, more and more people are journeying to swimming pools and lakes.

Moree Sawtelle, director of the local American Red Cross chapter, offers some advice that will insure your safety and your enjoyment in the swimming pool.

The Red Cross emphasizes these major do's and don'ts for swimmers:

Don't go in the water when fatigued, and come out at the first signs of fatigue.

Don't swim alone.

Come out if you reach the uncontrollable shivering stage.

Don't swim too far out.

Never swim in water you don't know something about, such as abandoned quarries, small rivers, etc.

Don't dive in shallow water.

Don't engage in "horseplay" in the water, such as ducking or pulling someone down from underneath, when you don't know the other person's condition.

"One of the major hazards of swimming are cramps of the abdomen," says Mrs. Sawtelle. "But, in reality, panic drowns more people than lack of ability and exhaustion combined."

BIG SPRING HERALD

Sec. C Big Spring, Texas, Thurs., July 21, 1960 Sec. C

An Appreciative Smile

Linda Lowe smiles in appreciation of the Strawberry Pie her aunt, Mrs. H. L. Bingham, is about to serve her. Linda, a resident of Abilene, is visiting in the Bingham home.

Minister's Wife Is Student, Cook

By SHERL WEBBER

One busy Big Spring housewife is Mrs. H. L. Bingham.

Mrs. Bingham is not only the typical housewife, but she is a preacher's wife. Her husband is the pastor of Hillcrest Baptist Church.

The parsonage, at 406 Westover Road, must be kept spotless for visitors who stop in at all times of the day, as well as the yard. But Claudia Bingham and her husband have made an agreement—he keeps the front yard while she takes care of the back.

"I think my part of the yard looks best," says Mrs. Bingham. "My husband says he doesn't have time to take care of his part properly, but when he does have time he has to play golf with the other preachers!" she laughs.

The Binghams have been in the ministry 17 years. They have two children, Olga, who is now Mrs. Wayne Holcombe, and Ronnie, a 19-year-old who plans to attend HCJC next year.

A year ago Mrs. Bingham decided to attend the junior college, and was a student during the spring semester. The busy mother, who was an A student, enjoyed it so much she is thinking about registering this fall.

Claudia Bingham is originally from Abilene. She has known her husband since school days, and first noticed him when he sat behind her in class and aggravated her.

Active in church work, Mrs. Bingham is the intermediate girls' Sunday school teacher. She has enjoyed the ministry "for you meet so many new and different people."

"People often think ministers come in contact with a lot of undesirable people," relates Mrs. Bingham, "but I've managed to find something in everyone that I like."

And Claudia's husband and son always manage to like her cooking. A favorite during the summer is outdoor cooking — hamburgers and steaks broiled over charcoal.

To go with this Mrs. Bingham mixes garlic with softened butter and spreads it on thick slices of bread. These are toasted over the coals, too, and go hand in hand with the meat.

Ronnie's favorite is the quick and easy Mexican Dish, and the Strawberry Pie has a very unusual crust that reminds Mrs. Bingham of candy.

STRAWBERRY PIE

3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 cup sugar
½ tsp. baking powder
½ cup pecans
10 soda crackers, crushed

Add sugar and baking powder to stiffly beaten egg whites. Mix in crackers, and put mixture into a pie pan. This will be the crust for the pie. Bake for 30 minutes in a 350 degree oven. The mixture will puff up, but will settle as it cools.

Be sure crust is completely cool before adding one package of strawberries. Top with half a pint of whipped cream, to which just enough sugar has been added to make the cream sweet.

MEXICAN DISH

1 doz. tortillas
2 cups grated cheese
½ cup chopped onion
Large can of chili

Heat the tortillas individually in hot grease until they are soft and flexible. Place about two tablespoons of grated cheese with one spoon of onion in a tortilla, roll and pin with a toothpick.

Place tortillas in a baking dish side by side and pour heated chili over them. Place dish in oven and cook until cheese has melted (approximately 30 minutes at 350 degrees).

AVOCADO SALAD

1 ripe or soft avocado, peeled and mashed
1 cup of chopped lettuce
1 small onion, chopped
1 medium sour pickle, chopped
1 tsp. lemon juice

Mix all ingredients together. Serve with the Mexican Dish.

Rich Harvest Of Fruit Is Blessing To Home Canning

It's canning time!

All over the nation, as trees and bushes yield their rich harvest, homemakers are busy in the kitchens putting the luscious fruits into forms their families will enjoy during the winter months to come.

Here are some of the recipes that your family will fall in love with:

SPICED PLUMS

7 lbs. firm plums
5 lbs. sugar
1 pint vinegar
2 tbsps. cinnamon
2 tbsps. allspice
1 tbsp. ginger
1 tbsp. cloves

Mix spices and put in bag. Add vinegar and sugar and boil for 5 minutes. Add fruit and cook only until tender.

Allow fruit to cool in syrup. Drain, pack in sterilized jars and garnish with snips of stick cinnamon and whole cloves. Boil syrup for 15 minutes, pour over fruit and seal.

PEACH PICKLES

Peel firm peaches (freestone or cling). Stick each one with three or four whole cloves.

For 32 peaches make a syrup of:
6 cups sugar
3 cups vinegar

Bring syrup to boil. Drop in the fresh peaches, a few at a time, and cook until tender. Do not overcook. Pack in sterilized jars, cover to top with syrup and seal immediately.

Pear pickles may be made by the same method. Cut fruit in halves and core.

HONEYED FIGS

1 cup honey
5 tbsps. wine (Port for black figs, Angelica or Muscatel for white figs)
12 ripe figs, peeled
2 lemons, squeezed for juice
A few drops of vanilla, if desired

Gently boil honey and wine together to make a medium syrup. Add figs and cook gently to a very thick syrup, then add lemon juice and vanilla.

Cook for a few minutes longer or until the syrup is very thick. Pour while hot into sterilized jars and cover. It is not necessary to seal them tightly.

PLUM PRESERVES

6 firm plums (large Santa Rosa)
¼ cup water
1½ cups sugar

Wash fruit and take off stems. Slice plums in about three pieces each, leaving the seeds in one section.

Mix sugar and water and let mixture come to a boil. Drop in plums and cook slowly for about 15 minutes. Remove seeds. Pour in sterilized jars and seal at once.

The small amount of materials used at one cooking will keep the fruit firm and the preserves will not lose the original color.

PEACH PRESERVES

Peel fruit, cut from seeds and weigh. Cover with an equal amount of sugar and stir carefully. Do not add any water unless the fruit is very firm. The two ingredients usually make sufficient juice.

Cook slowly until juice begins to thicken and the fruit is tender. Fill sterilized jars and seal immediately.

PEAR OR FIG PRESERVES

Prepare fruit as for peach preserves and add equal amounts of sugar.

For figs add slices of lemon to taste before cooking.

For pears add slices of both lemon and oranges and a 3-lb. can of grated pineapple to 6 or 8 lbs. of fruit.

PLUM JELLY

Wash fruit and remove stems. Place in a cooking vessel and add water to cover. Bring mixture to boiling point, reduce heat and simmer until the liquid has a strong fruit flavor.

Remove from fire and strain off juice. Overripe fruit will not make firm jelly. Cooking a large quantity at once is not recommended. Mix together:
4 cups juice
3 cups sugar

Bring mixture to a boil and cook from 15 to 18 minutes, or until the juice jells as it drips from a spoon.

Pour at once into sterilized jars. When cool, top with a layer of paraffin before putting lids on containers.

DILLED OKRA OR CUCUMBERS

13 cups water
1 cup crystal salt

Let come to brisk boil and add:
1 cup vinegar

Let come to second boil.

Select small or medium cucumbers or okra. Brush thoroughly. Wash cucumbers and dry. Wash okra and let dry. Drain thoroughly.

Peel garlic pods, wash fresh dill and small red pepper pods. Let drain. Place a few pieces in bottom of sterilized jars, then pack jars tightly with cucumbers or okra and fill jars with salt and vinegar solution, either hot or cool. Seal at once.

After six weeks pickling time, chill and serve.

BREAD 'N BUTTER PICKLES

Slice:
12 cucumbers, unpeeled
6 small white onions

Let stand in salt water for one hour. Drain well. Boil together:
3 cups vinegar
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
1 tsp. celery seeds
1 tsp. white mustard
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. tumeric

Pour cucumbers and onions in boiling syrup and heat thoroughly. Fill sterilized jars and seal immediately.

PICKLED ONIONS

Scald and skin 12½ lbs. of small Silverskin onions.

Put onions into one gallon of boiling water to which one pint of salt has been added. Let stand on low heat for 5-10 minutes.

Remove from fire and let stand until next day. Then pour off the water and let it come to a boil and pour back over the onions and let stand another day.

Drain and wash onions in clear water.

Place in jars with two small hot peppers, one red and one green, and to each jar add:
½ tsp. celery seed
½ tsp. celery salt
1 tsp. mustard seed

Boil three pints of white vinegar with six cups of sugar, pour over onions and seal.

Let stand one week before opening and refrigerate before serving.

Omelet Features Zucchini, Cheese

Here's a handy and delicious main course that can be made for one or more.

ZUCCHINI OMELET

1 small zucchini (about 6 inches long
2 eggs
¼ tsp. (generous) salt
White pepper
2 tbsps dried grated Swiss cheese
1½ tbsps. olive oil.

Scrub zucchini with firm vegetable brush in cold water; slice very thin crosswise.

Beat eggs with salt and a dash of pepper just until foamy; mix in cheese so it is not lumpy.

Heat olive oil in 8½-inch omelet pan until very hot; add zucchini; cook over low heat for a few minutes; pour egg mixture over zucchini. Cover, adjusting heat so oil bubbles gently and bottom will be brown and top set in about five minutes.

If top is not set so firmly as you like, slip omelet onto plate brown side down and flip back into omelet pan brown side up to cook for a minute longer. Serve at once.

MAKE YOUR OWN

Perk Up Salad With A Special Dressing

Summer days are salad days and although a crisp, tossed salad is popular the year around, it really comes into its own when the weather gets warm.

Whether for out-door eating in the back yard or for formal dining inside, you can make your summer salads a real "special of the house" this year by preparing your own distinctive dressing.

Today's home mixers are equipped to make this job easy for you. Electric food preparers, for instance, use an oil dropper attachment for precise mixing of mayonnaise. From there, it's a cinch to make your own thousand island, French, cheese, or other favorite dressing.

This recipe is certain to pep up the salad appetites in your family:

MAYONNAISE

(Makes about 1¼ cups)

1 egg yolk
1 tsp. mustard
1 tbsp. sugar
¼ tsp. paprika
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. vinegar (about) or 3 tbsps. lemon juice
1 cup salad oil

Put egg yolk, mustard, sugar, paprika, salt, and half the vinegar or lemon juice in mixer bowl. Measure other ingredients.

Attach bowl, beater, and oil dropper to mixer, close dropper, and pour in oil. Turn mixer speed control gradually to No. 8 and whip yolk mixture until light colored and thick, ½ to 1 minute.

Turn speed control to No. 4 and turn on oil dropper. Permit all of the oil to run slowly into the bowl in a fine stream, about 2 to 3 minutes, whipping continuously. Stop; scrape bowl.

Add remainder of vinegar or lemon juice. Turn speed control to No. 4 and whip about 1 minute, or until thick, then stop the mixer. In total approximate mixing time of 5 minutes, you'll have home made mayonnaise that will bring calls for more!

If a thicker dressing is desired, ¼ cup more oil may be used.

Ham Glaze Has Color, Spiciness

This glaze gives ham an appetizing ruddy color.

EASY GLAZED HAM

½ (butt end) of a fully-cooked ham (about 6 lbs.)
Whole cloves
¾ cup firmly-packed light brown sugar
4 tsps. prepared yellow mustard
¼ cup medium sherry

Have ham at room temperature. Score ham fat with a sharp knife in about 1-inch diamond shapes; the cuts should be only about ⅛-inch deep. Insert a clove in each diamond.

Place ham on rack fat side up, in shallow roasting pan. Heat in a slow (325 degrees) oven, about 15 minutes per pound. Pour off fat.

Mix together the brown sugar, mustard and sherry; pour over ham 30 minutes before end of cooking period; raise oven heat to 450 degrees for last 10 minutes of cooking to brown glaze.

NOTE: The glaze will not scorch if, when it is applied, you place ham in a pan just large enough to fit ham; you can make such a pan out of heavy-weight foil, turning up edges.

Mint Sparks Garden Peas

Just the right garden seasoning for peas.

MINTED GREEN PEAS

1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen green peas
1 tbsp butter
¼ cup chopped fresh mint leaves.

Cook peas according to package directions using the amount of boiling water and salt called for; drain.

Stir in butter and mint over very low heat; mint will darken but flavor peas deliciously. Serve at once. Makes 3 servings; double recipe if desired.

Relish Tray

Ever notice how relish trays are welcomed when they are offered in restaurants? You can duplicate this pleasant practice at home. Fill the compartments of a lazy-susan with creamstyle cottage cheese, sweet gherkins, pickled beets, marinated onion rings.

Slaw Dressing

Old - fashioned dressing for slaw: cream seasoned with salt and cayenne and made sweet-sour with sugar and vinegar. Don't forget the final touch—add some celery seeds.

Keep It Cool

If you buy a package of stone-ground whole-wheat flour and do not use it all at once, turn it into a tightly-covered jar and refrigerate it.

Quick Malts Come From Concentrate

Splurge with soft drinks this summer!

Here is a recipe that every member of the family—both young and old—will fall in love with.

Malteds are a universal favorite, and they can be produced on demand with this simple recipe. Prepare this simple concentrate base; store it in a jar in the refrigerator—then just add well-chilled carbonated beverage.

MALTED CONCENTRATE

1 cup malted milk powder, plain or chocolate flavored
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup carbonated beverage (cream soda or ginger ale)

Put malted milk powder in a 2 qt. or larger saucepan. Slowly stir in the evaporated milk until blended. Blend in the carbonated beverage. Store in covered jar in refrigerator.

To serve, put about 1-3 cup of concentrate in bottom of tall glass; slowly stir in chilled carbonated beverage from a freshly opened bottle. Makes enough base for eight glassfuls.

Note: Delicious with cola, root beer, cherry, orange, strawberry or practically any flavor.

Unusual Salad Has Hit-Making Quality

Ever try this unusual salad?

FLEMINGTON SALAD

1 can (1 lb.) bean sprouts
2 tbsps. distilled white vinegar
¼ cup olive oil
1½ tsps. sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 medium sized, seeded, green pepper, sliced, paper-thin

Turn bean sprouts into a strainer to drain thoroughly. In a shallow bowl with a fork beat together the vinegar, oil, sugar and salt; add drained bean sprouts and green pepper; mix well and chill a few hours. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Add To Future Meals

Watermelon pickles made in summer will add spicy delight to winter meals. Use small heart, crescent and round-shaped cutters for attractive shapes.

Watermelon Pickle Is A Spicy Treat

By CEEILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A Victorian lady, after giving her recipe for preserved watermelon rind, added:

"A very handsome sweetmeat, although rather insipid in flavor. The reader can judge whether, as the charity boy said of the alphabet, it is worthwhile to go through so much and get so little."

When it came to pickled watermelon rind, our lady avowed hers "very handsome and delicious." We note that her rule calls for plenty of spice — ginger, mace, cloves, cinnamon and tumeric.

"Cut the rind into fanciful shapes," directs our outspoken Victorian. That's just what we suggest you do, using small cutters.

Our recipe calls for powdered alum; you can get this at a drug store, but make sure it is labeled potassium alum. This variety of alum is the one most commonly used in food—notably in baking powder. It is a hardening acid suitable for preserving and is undoubtedly the alum called for in old-time recipes for pickling that used to be known by druggists of yesteryear as "pickling alum" or "food alum."

We made a point of this because last summer when we were trying watermelon pickle recipes in anticipation of this year's column, a young druggist sold us powdered ammonium alum when we asked for "pickling alum." On checking up we found that ammonium alum is used for medicinal purposes; while it is safe to use in foods a chemist whom we consulted guessed that it would not produce so fine a pickle as potassium alum.

SPICY WATERMELON PICKLE

2½ lbs. pared firm watermelon rind (cut into 1-inch shapes)
2 tsps. powdered potassium alum
2 lbs. (4½ cups) sugar
2 cups cider vinegar
1 tsp. whole cloves
½ tsp. whole allspice
2 cinnamon sticks
Green food coloring

Make sure green outer covering and all pink is removed from rind before cutting into shapes; there should be two quarts. Cover rind shapes with cold water in a large kettle (porcelainized iron or enamelware); bring water to a boil and cook 10 to 20 minutes or until tender crisp and rind can be pierced with a fork. Stir in alum; remove from heat. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Next morning drain; add sugar and vinegar. Tie spices in cheesecloth and add. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves. Remove from heat; cool; cover and refrigerate again overnight. Next morning bring to a boil; remove spice bag; stir in food coloring to make syrup desired green shade. With slotted spoon pack rind tightly into 6 hot sterilized half-pint jars; fill jars with boiling syrup, making sure rind is covered. Seal jars. Store several weeks before using.

NOTE: This pickle keeps its firm transparent texture but it is not hard-crisp.

Nation's Shopping List Is Headed By Beef Buys

By The Associated Press

People who don't like it will have plenty to "beef" about this weekend.

For the nation's groceries are featuring rib roast, sirloin steak, hamburger and various other cuts of beef as their best buys.

The more expensive steaks and roasts are more frequently offered, reflecting predictions of greater marketing of corn-fed cattle during the last half of the year. These are the specially treated critters who yield the prime cuts.

Offerings this week include sirloin and porterhouse in the Middle West, T-bone steak in the Southeast, rib roast in the Far West, round roast in the East and the lowly hamburger, or ground beef, in New England and the Far West.

Frying chickens are pushed in a few places but specials on pork are widely scattered and fish items are confined to coastal areas.

Egg prices rose 2 to 4 cents a dozen over a wide area.

Strong summer supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables continue. Best buys among vegetables this week are snap beans, beets, cabbage, corn, cucumbers, endive, escarole, all varieties of lettuce peppers potatoes, radishes and squash.

Good buys can be had, too, from among broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, celery eggplant, okra, onions, spinach, tomatoes and watercress.

Outstanding buys among fruits include blueberries, limes, peaches, nectarines, plums and watermelons while good buys are avocados, apples, cantaloupes, honeydrew melons, mangoes, grapes, lemons and California oranges.

Vary Pastry

Ever make one of the basic sweet pastries for fruit pie? You can vary the flavor of the dough by using orange juice instead of water and adding a little grated orange rind.

Mint In Slaw

Mint growing in your garden? Try chopping some of the leaves and adding them to carrot slaw.

stay COOL... COOL... COOL... with TEA 'N TUNA

BROILED TUNA AND CHEESE SANDWICHES

1 7-oz. can Starkist tuna, drained, flaked
½ cup chopped celery
1 tbsp. chopped green pepper
1 tbsp. minced onion
2 tsp. lemon juice
Salt, pepper
1/3 cup Miracle Whip Salad Dressing
4 slices white bread, crusts trimmed
4 peeled tomato slices
4 Slices Old English Pasteurized Cheddar Cheese

Combine the tuna, celery, onion, green peppers, lemon juice, seasonings, and salad dressing. Toss lightly. For each sandwich, toast a slice of bread on one side. Spread the untoasted side with the tuna mixture; cover with a slice of tomato and top with a slice of cheese. Place the sandwiches under the broiler or in a moderate oven, 350°, until the cheese is melted. Serve with tall frosty glasses of iced tea.
