Problems of the Merchant . . .

A very human feeling to take it out on the merchant when you find what you want in his store. But Silvertown's retailers deserve a share of consumer compassion.

A typical Silvertown store today finds itself besieged by eager customers at a time when it has little to sell, because strikes and shortages are holding up production of all these marvelous postwar gadgets. The merchant is supposed to have coming. Experienced, courteous employees are hard to find, despite the all-time high in wages. The merchant is bed night after night with his head throbbing from the complex and endless reports he must make to the income tax officials and other agencies of government. He doesn't know from one day to the next the OPA policy will be—he's faced with a price problem over which he has no control.

Despite all this, local retailing has performed supremely well. It has managed to keep good standards of service going, and is gradually bettering them. It has done everything in its power to limit prices. It is providing you with what you want as fast as it can get goods.

Our merchants are striving toward the organization of a Chamber of Commerce in order to revive that which most people regard as impossible. Evidence of this is the fact that of the forty merchants who attended the meeting Monday night, about 34 voted to organize a Chamber of Commerce.

At Wednesday night at 8:00 o'clock, Silvertown's merchants will again in the District courtroom of the courthouse, at which Rex Baxter, manager of the Chamber of Commerce in Amarillo, will be of our associates will be on hand to help and offer suggestions for organizing of Silvertown's Chamber of Commerce.

Folks, our merchants are doing their best to make this town a place in which to live and do business, and we, as consumers, help a lot by trying our home town merchant first.

MOTHER WATSON DIES AT QUANAH TUESDAY

Silvertown friends received word Tuesday that Mother Watson had passed away in Quanah.

Mrs. Bob Turner of Kress, a former Silvertown resident, is a daughter of Mrs. Watson. Funeral services were held Wednesday in Quanah.

Mrs. H. P. Wilkerson of Tulia is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Herman Ely, this week.

Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Elrod and Mesdames Ray C. Bomar, Judd Donnell and Mike Mason visited with friends at the Plainview hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Billy Dickerson and Mrs. P. T. Allday were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Simpson.

Plainview junior chamber of commerce members pose proudly beside one of two iron lungs bought by that organization for free use of people of this territory, which arrived by railway express last week from North Carolina. Standing on the express truck with the aspirator is Miss Eleanor Lee Logsdon, who was "Miss Plainview" in the Littlefield Jaycee rodeo queen contest held Saturday in that city. Standing beside the truck, from left to right, are Ralph Krebs, president of the Jaycees; Bob Swain, publicity committee member; Max Peret, program chairman, and Chip Elliott, past president and committee member in the Jaycees iron lung project.

The group purchased an adult size and a child's size. The child's size is on display in the window of Southwestern Public Service company, and at the Herald, the large aspirator is on view with one owned by Floydada fire department. The public is invited to inspect the machines.

The machines, costing $1,880, are being paid for by the young businessmen through a variety of projects, some of which have already been staged. Some of the money was donated to the group by local and out of town residents who heard of the project and knew that the Jaycees were not soliciting donations to finance it.

Projects which have been sponsored by the Jaycees to raise money include two donkey softball games, a rodeo and a boxing tournament.

Recently, merchants and business men of Silvertown took it upon themselves to donate money for the maintenance of the above pictured iron lung. To date, $63.50 has been received. No solicitations are being made for donations, either by the Jaycees or others, but if you haven't contributed anything and you would like to do so—as others have done, you may do so by calling at the News Office.

Misses Lou Jeanne and Norma McClendon of Lubbock were weekend guests of Betty Ruth Arnold.

SWING OF THE SOUTHWEST FARM MARKETS

Southwest markets reported higher prices for cotton, grain, poultry and eggs last week, stronger trends for livestock, and a weak undertone for most vegetables, according to USDA's Production and marketing administration.

Southwest fruits and vegetables picked up strength near the close of last week at central markets because of the Jewish holiday. Louisiana and Texas sweet potatoes moved in light volume at steady prices. Kansas honeydew melons were slightly weaker but apples held steady. New Mexico moved apples and carrots at about steady prices but onions remained dull and weak. Oklahoma apples and turnip greens found

Moisture and Cold Weather Visits City During Week

Rain, which fell last Saturday morning, following two or three days of cloudiness measured .25 of an inch, it was reported by Ray C. Bomar, operator of the Federal Weather Bureau station here this week.

Farmers, who had been kept from their fields for a number of days due to the recent heavy rains, were hindered somewhat by Saturday's shower, but Monday morning most farmers were back in their fields at work.

Temperatures for the past two weeks have been rather low a few times and jackets and coats are seen quite frequently on the streets as a result. The lowest temperature during the past two weeks was 38 degrees and a high of 80 degrees, Mr. Bomar said.

At the meeting of the merchants and business men of Silvertown, which was held in the District courtroom of the courthouse Monday night at 8:00 p.m., it was voted almost unanimously by those present to organize a Chamber of Commerce for this city.

J. E. Minyard, mayor, presided at the meeting during which talks and a round-table discussion in regard to the kind of an organization this city should have, took place.

Following the vote for a Chamber of Commerce, a committee of three was appointed to contact the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Abilene, for the securing of information in regard to organization. The committee named was: John E. Simpson of the Silvertown Chevrolet Company, David A. Boyd and Joseph B. Powell of the Briscoe County News.

Newest Development in Farm Machinery Is Announced by Local John Deere Dealer

Farmers of this community will be interested to know that Coffee Hardware, local John Deere farm equipment dealer, is announcing one of the most important new farm equipment developments in recent years—the new John Deere Hydraulic Powr-Trol.

Engineered by John Deere, this time and labor-saving device is a radical departure from the conventional method of lifting, lowering, and regulating drawn implements by hand. Safe, smooth, positive, hydraulic power does the job—relieves the operator of reaching for hand-lift levers on drawn implements, lifting and lowering by hand, and drives the tractor and watches his work.

At a touch on a convenient control lever, Powr-Trol raises and lowers plow bottoms or disks... grain drill openers... mower cutter bars... combine platforms... corn picker gathers... potato digger shovels, etc.—angles and straightens disk harrow gangs—instantly changes working angle, depth, or height of drawn implements to meet varying field and crop conditions without stopping the tractor or even slowing down.

According to Mr. Coffee, Powr-Trol operates drawn implements by means of a single remote cylinder which attaches to the implement and is connected to the tractor by two hoses. The cylinder has a double action. Moving the control lever backward or forward exerts hydraulic pressure through the hoses in either direction to force a piston rod in or out of the cylinder, power lift, pioneered by John Deere, excepting for an important thereby actuating the equipment. This not only assures a positive lift but it also forces and holds the implement to its work in any position selected by the operator. Two speeds are provided so that the operator can raise or lower the implement in a jiffy, or slowly to secure any accurate in-between position.

Integral equipment is operated from the rock shaft by the same control lever in much the same manner as with the hydraulic new feature—accurate, variable depth control. The operator can quickly and easily secure any desired intermediate working position between maximum lift and maximum depth by touching the control lever and releasing it when the desired position has been reached. This can be done while the tractor is in motion or stationary.

Mr. Coffee claims that the new John Deere Hydraulic Powr-Trol means easier, faster, better work on every job. It's an exclusive John Deere feature. Designed for John Deere Models "A", "B", and "GM" Tractors and companion John Deere farm equipment. According to Coffee, Powr-Trols will be available in very limited quantities during the next few months. However, he adds, everything is being done at the factory to increase production and, in line with the John Deere policy of offering John Deere owners the advantages of modern improvements wherever possible, the new Powr-Trol has been designed to fit the above tractors now in the field which are equipped with a hydraulic power lift having a drop-regulating valve. Change-over assemblies will be available at a later date.

All John Deere integral equipment which works with the hydraulic power lift on the above tractors is adaptable to Powr-Trol operation without change. Change-over parts for converting certain older John Deere drawn implements to remote-cylinder operation are in the process of design or manufacture.

Public Health . . .

One basic trouble with such sweeping measures as the proposed Wagner-Murray-Dingell public health bill is that they attempt to do too much too fast. This bill for instance, would give the Federal government all-inclusive power over medical practice, including doctors, hospitals and clinics, at a huge and untold cost, on the theory that the public health would be greatly improved.

The truth is that public health is not a matter of medical care alone. For the most part, the doctor steps into the picture when the patient becomes ill. His job is to cure. The ideal of better public health requires that the conditions which create illness be prevented. And this involves such huge problems as diet, housing, recreation, working conditions and so on down a long list.

A study recently made by the Insurance Economics Society of America reveals the enormous fluctuations between the forty-eight states in population, medical facilities and other matters related to health. The health problems of one locality, or one age group, or one income group, differ greatly from those of another. As the survey observes, "No matter which . . . conditions we undertake to improve, we would waste part of our effort if we blanketed the country with a packaged program."

We have taken long strides in bettering the public health. Great progress is now in the making, and the effects of such programs as the various Blue Cross plans, prepaid medical care and individual and group health insurance are entirely beneficial. Voluntary activities like these, instead of measures which would virtually socialize medicine, point to the proper road.

A quart of milk a day-- recipe for good health

During the past 25 years, our friends in the dairy business have told us that a "quart of milk each day for each child" is the best recipe for good health. May we offer a recipe for the sound development of their spiritual health? Here it is. Visit the Churches in this community that are convenient for you and your family. Then, enroll in Sunday School. Then, offer your services as an usher, Sunday School teacher, or for any other job that needs to be done. After that, contribute as much as you can to the support of the Church and Sunday School.

No longer can we sit by and let our neighbor do all of the work that must be done if this country is to assume its rightful place in the Congress of Nations. The spiritual growth of our country, the envy of all the world, is up to each of us, regardless of income, or education.

Why not join the Church of your choice this Sunday?

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
Released by Western Newspaper Union

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 6

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

PAUL'S BACKGROUND AND EARLY LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:39; 22:3, 27, 28; 26:4, 5; Philippians 3:5, 6.

MEMORY SELECTION—Remember now thy creator in the days of thy youth—Ecclesiastes 12:1.

God works through men. When we study his work we study the lives of men—all types of men—but all yielded to him and used by him.

Paul stands out as one of the most influential characters in all history. His life and letters, which we are to study the next three months, have had a tremendous effect on the human race. Especially is this true of his position and influence in the Christian church.

Under God he was the one who world, and then began the great missionary program of the church, which goes on this very day. His writings are the steady and extensive foundation of much of our study and teaching of Christian doctrine.

I. Birthplace (Acts 21:39).

The place of a man's birth has a definite influence on his personality and usefulness. Tarsus, where Paul was born, was one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world of that day. It was a Roman province, where men proudly held their citizenship in the great empire. Greek, the language of world culture, was spoken there.

Tarsus was a great educational and university center. It was in a rich and fertile area. It was at the head of navigation on the river Cydnus and on a great Roman highway. It was the capital of the province.

II. Education (Acts 22:3).

After his early training in the home and under rabbis in Tarsus, he went to Jerusalem to study in what was probably the best-equipped Hebrew college of that day, under one of the greatest teachers, Gamaliel.

Somewhere in his rearing he was taught a trade, for every Jewish boy learned to support himself with his own hands (see Acts 18:3).

He was instructed in the Word of God, and had a consuming zeal for religious things. Until he was converted, it counted against Christianity, but afterward it became a flaming fire to spread the truth in the world.

His combined zeal and knowledge made him a man of truly broad mind and tolerant spirit (Acts 5:33-39).

III. Citizenship (Acts 22:27, 28).

The mighty power and prestige of Rome stood behind every Roman citizen. Paul used his citizenship for protection. It helped him in his service for the Lord. Its prestige was used for God's glory.

It is a good sign when a man is proud of his national background, and it speaks well for the nation to which he belongs. But Paul came (as every Christian does) to know and appreciate a higher citizenship.

IV. Religion (Acts 26:4, 5).

Though a free-born Roman citizen, Paul was a Jew, and loyal to the religion of his people. He was a member of the strictest sect, the Pharisees, in which his family had held membership for generations.

He lived consistently in the observance of the laws and customs of his religious faith, and none could point to any flaw in his doctrine or failure in his life.

When he became a follower of Christ, there was no ground on which anyone could dismiss his conversion and his witness as the outbreak of a new viewpoint on the part of a renegade Jew.

It is to a man's credit that he faithfully lives up to the beliefs of the religion he professes. The result of such sincerity will be conversion, if he, like Paul, meets Christ and honestly faces the question of loyalty to him.

V. Race (Phil. 3:5, 6).

Paul counted it to be an honor to be known as a Hebrew and gloried in the fact that he was born, trained and lived within that racial as well as religious circle.

No one need ever be ashamed of his race, although he may be ashamed of things which members of his race have done. But there are even more things of which to be proud, and a man may add to the standing of his race by living his own life in cleanliness of character and nobility of purpose. It is never a commendable thing to be ashamed of the race of one's fathers.

We must remember, however, that all the things in which Paul gloried, he found to be but refuse when he compared them with Christ (see Phil. 3:7, 8).

Everything worthwhile in a man's life God can glorify and use. But none of them, no matter how precious they may seem to be, compares with fellowship with and service for the Lord.

Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Garrison and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Garrison and children visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Don Garrison and family.

MARKETS—

fair demand at fair prices. Colorado outranked most states in heavy shipments of onions, potatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, tomatoes, peaches and pears. Shipping point prices ranged from steady on cabbage to dull and weak on onions.

Prices of most grain moved higher last week as supplies began to tighten. Wheat gained one to two cents a bushel, oats and corn three, and barley two cents. Sorghums lost gains made early in the week but closed higher. Feed was unsettled.

Spring lambs and aged sheep were generally up 25 to 50 cents per hundred last week over the previous week's close. Southwest markets reported active trading for light supplies. Good and choice springers realized $17.75 to $18.25, Wichita; $17.75 to $18, Denver; $17.50 to $18, Oklahoma City; and $17, Fort Worth. Mostly ewes showed up at San Antonio where common and medium kinds sold at $6.50 to $7.

Most southwest cattle markets reported light receipts last week with heavy runs of stockers. Active trading cleared most offerings at steady to stronger prices. Houston quoted stocker steers $13.50 and canner and cutter cows 50 cents higher at $6.50 to $8.50 per hundred. Medium and good cows brought $10.50 and stocker calves $14 to $15.65 at San Antonio. Medium and good realized $15 to $18, Fort Worth and $15.25 to $17.25, Oklahoma City. Denver sold common and good stocker and feeder steers at $10 to $16. Wichita moved medium and good light stocker steers and yearlings at $14 to $16.

Poultry and eggs found only fair demand last week despite meat shortage. Most dealers attributed this to rising prices. Current receipt eggs ranged from 40 to 45 cents depending on locality. Heavy hens brought 40 to 41 cents a pound, New Orleans; 28 to 30, Fort Worth; 26 to 30 Denver and 26 to 28, Dallas.

FARM BUREAU—

a.m., will be attended by Hammond and State organization director Marvin Carter.

"The chief job of organized agriculture is to maintain farm prices at a fair exchange level," Hammond said. This was not done following World War I and the result was depression. After the other war farm prices dropped 53 percent. By 1935 two million farmers were foreclosed. Industrial goods dropped only 14 percent, which brought about disparity between agriculture and other groups.

Principal topic for discussion at the forthcoming farm meeting, will be the proposals of officials of government and other groups with reference to the future of agriculture. "A careful study of agriculture's program as proposed by these people," Hammond said, "will reveal that they are the same plans offered and adopted following the first World War which led the nation into depression that not only wrecked agriculture but brought ruin to business, finance, and industry. The present-day trend is toward cheaper prices for farm products."

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

A meeting of farmers in the Gasoline Area was called by Pierce White, member of the Board of Supervisors of the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District, at the Community Building last Wednesday night, for the purpose of organizing a Conservation Group in that area. The Conservation Work Program of the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District, which the members of the Board of Supervisors of the District are trying to accomplish, was discussed by Mr. White and technicians of the Soil Conservation Service. W. E. Helms was elected Conservation Group Leader. It was decided to call this newly organized group the County Line Conservation Group. After an interesting discussion of Soil Conservation by Mr. Helms, applications for Soil Conservation work were made by all farmers present at this meeting. This Group promises to be one of the most outstanding Conservation Groups in the Cap Rock Soil Conservation District. Farmers attending the meeting were: W. E. Helms, John King, W. E. Morrison, H. B. Finney, S. H. Kimball, W. H. Williams, Boone McCracken, Noel Moore, Lawrence Bedwell, Hubert Selliff and Glenn Morrison. Other meetings will be held in the Quitaque area in the near future, according to Mr. White, to determine whether or not farmers in that area are interested in organizing Soil Conservation Groups.

Austrian Winter Peas, a hardy winter legume, are being planted on a large scale by Cooperators in the Quitaque area. Over 10,000 pounds of seed have been purchased to date. Chester Hawkins, who operates the Bert Hawkins land, is seeding 270 acres of these peas. The planting is being done on the odd rows of sorghum, planted two rows in and one row out, with a twenty-eight hole maize plate with the holes increased in diameter. According to Mr. Hawkins, seeding is being done on wheat land by row planter on twenty inch spacings or double rows. These seed are being inoculated by using one pound of nitrogen inoculate per one hundred pounds of peas.
