The SDN Column

If you happened to see a visitor from another state traveling in Texas earlier this year, chances were good that it was in the summer time, that he was on vacation, that he was between the ages of 35 and 64, that his family's income was over $15,000 per year, that he was headed for either Dallas, Houston or San Antonio, in that order, he probably spent something over $17 per day and he probably spent his nights in a motel.

This information was gleaned from data compiled by the Texas Highway Department which got it from questionnaires filled out by out-of-state visitors.

In the summer of 1974, however, each visitor traveled only 979 miles in the state, compared to 1,294 in 1973. At first glance you might assume that the energy shortage was a factor in reducing the mileage but the average mileage in the spring quarter was 1,387.

Traveling via highway is a far cry from the pre-World War II era when many of the state's major roads still were unpaved and to a great extent untravelled. Incidentally, Snyder was one of the fortunate towns that had a paved highway even back in the twenties. U. S. 84 was one of the first thoroughfares to be paved in this region, being developed well ahead of U.S. 180 which originally was State Highway 15. In fact, we very well recall our first view of Snyder, which came at a time when there was no paved road to Roby.

A lot of factors undoubtedly figured in the general election results Tuesday and the economy must rank near the top. And economy itself embraces a rather wide spectrum, including inflation, employment, production, etc.

Scurry County generally is regarded as one of the bright spots on the economic scene. So, it was a surprise when we learned that the two Snyder banks handled $57,000 in food stamp business during the month of October.

"You wouldn't think our county would have that many in a month," said Roger B. Mize, president of Snyder National Bank, who noted that the banks handle the food stamps with their own personnel. It now takes one employe almost full-time to take care of the food stamp business, he said.—WACIL McNAIR

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday. Nov. 7, the 311th day of 1974. There are 54 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1917, the Bolsheviks overthrew the shortlived Kerensky government in Russia and Nikolai Lenin became the new head of government.

On this date—

In 1659, the Pyrenees were fixed as the boundary between France and Spain, ending a 24-year war.

In 1811, the Shawnee Indians were defeated in the battle of Tippecanoe in Indiana.

In 1885, the Canadian Pacific railroad was completed.

In 1918, a false report that Germany had accepted World War I peace terms set off great excitement.

In 1942, the Allied invasion of North Africa began in World War II.

In 1944, Franklin Roosevelt was elected to a fourth term as president.

Ten years ago: A nearly-completed building collapsed in Rio de Janeiro, killing 41 persons.

Five years ago: Sixty-five miners were killed in an explosion in a gold mine in South Africa.

One year ago: In an address to the nation, President Nixon said he had no intention of resigning.

Turkey Shuts Door In Face Of Kissinger

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's visit to Turkey has been canceled, caretaker Premier Bulent Ecevit announced today. Kissinger was expected Friday.

Kissinger was to come to Turkey at the end of his current Middle East peacekeeping swing for discussions with Turkish leaders on the Cyprus question and the cutoff of U.S. military aid to Turkey.

The announcement came as 2,000 students from Ankara's Middle East Technical University boycotted classes to protest the Kissinger visit and staged a campus demonstration with signs reading, "Kissinger murderer."

Bulent earlier abandoned attempts to form a government for the second time since the beginning of a political crisis seven weeks ago.

Meanwhile Secretary of State Kissinger has received a Saudi Arabian pledge to try to keep the price of crude oil from rising or to get a nominal reduction at the meeting of oil-exporting nations in Vienna next month.

Saudi Foreign Minister Omar Sakkaf gave Kissinger that promise after the American secretary of state met for 90 minutes Wednesday with King Faisal in Riyadh. He made clear, however, that Saudi Arabia would not break ranks and cut its prices unilaterally.

"The policy of my kingdom and my government is that we keep the prices as they are (and) at the same time work for the lowering of the prices to bring them down, albeit symbolically," Sakkaf said.

"And if we could bring them down more than symbolically we would."

It was the second oil-price promise Kissinger has received on his current tour. The Shah of Iran said last weekend he would propose that the posted price of crude oil — the artificial price on which part of the oil countries' take is calculated — be cut from $11.65 to $10 a barrel. But he indicated that he would do this only if the profits of foreign oil companies were drastically reduced and if the posted price was tied to the price of major industrial goods.

Kissinger was meeting today in Amman with King Hussein of Jordan. After a stop in Damascus, the Syrian capital, he was to spend the night in Israel.

Kissinger on his arrival in Amman said once more that the purpose of his whirlwind tour was "to get the judgment of various leaders about prospects for peace.

"I want to reiterate that we attach greatest important to Jordan," he added.

Nixon Testimony May Be Taped

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said today that former President Richard M. Nixon's testimony in the Watergate cover-up trial may have to be taken on videotape in California.

Sirica made the comment after Nixon's attorney, Herbert J. Miller, reported to Sirica that it will be at least two or three months before Nixon can exert any substantial mental or physical effort.

Reporting on Nixon's health as required by Sirica, Miller said it will be an indeterminant time before Nixon can travel any significant distance.

Nixon, hospitalized in Long Beach, Calif., was reported Wednesday to have contracted a slight case of pneumonia, further complicating his condition. He underwent surgery last week for a blood clotting condition.

Miller said he spoke with Nixon's personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, who gave him a detailed description of Nixon's condition.

Miller said Nixon is likely to remain hospitalized for another 10 days or two weeks.

"Because of the patient's weakened condition," Miller said, "it is expected that the earliest time he could participate, without a serious danger to his health, in any activity requiring substantial mental or physical effort would be two to three months."

The report also noted that only members of Nixon's family are allowed to visit for only five minutes of each hour.

"The patient is very weak and easily fatigued," Miller said.

Based on Miller's report, Sirica said, "it may be that someone will have to go to San Clemente and take his deposition on videotape."

Rites Pend For Victim Of Mishap

Funeral arrangements are pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home here for Ronnie Joe Anderson, of Abilene, who was killed either late Tuesday or early Wednesday in traffic on a freeway at San Antonio.

He was reared in Snyder and was a 1964 graduate of Snyder High School. He is believed to have been struck by a car as he tried to walk across an expressway after his car had stalled.

He was employed as a printer at the Abilene Reporter-News and had been vacationing in the San Antonio area.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Kristie Anderson of Rockport; a son, Jimmy Anderson of Rockport; his father, Jim Anderson of Snyder; two sisters, Carla Anderson and Jamie Anderson, both of Snyder; a brother, Jerry Anderson of Austin; two stepdaughters, Rebekah Tampleton and Crystal Tampleton, both of Abilene; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Anderson of Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Stephens of Tishomingo, Okla.

Revolt Breaks Out In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Soldiers and civilians revolted today against the three-year-old dictatorial regime of President Hugo Banzer and were reported to have taken over the City Hall and police station in Santa Cruz, 330 miles east of La Paz.

Banzer's government claimed, however, that only part of a ranger regiment in Santa Cruz had rebelled. There were unconfirmed reports that the government dispatched air force planes to Santa Cruz.

It was not known if there was any shooting.

The joint military command in La Paz announced that the revolt was being led by Gens. Julio Prado Montano and Orlando Alvarez and former Minister of Public Health Carlos Valverde Barberi.

First word of the revolt came from a clandestine radio station, Voice of Liberty. A short while later, broadcasts indicated the rebels had taken control of Radio Montero 35 miles north of Santa Cruz.

Radio Panamericana, which also spread the word of the uprising, said it was staged by elements of the leftist Nationalist Revolutionary Movement and the Socialist Falange, a rightist group.

Radio Panamericana had joined other Bolivian radio stations in a "National Liberation Network" that accused Banzer of "maladministration" and said his followers were "lackeys."

The network said the rebels would revive nationalism in Bolivia, and that Barberi was their "undisputed leader."

The reported uprising was the latest in more than a dozen plots against Banzer's harshly anti-Communist regime.

Last January the country was plunged into economic turmoil and vioence when workers struck to protest inflation that has doubled basic commodity prices.

Banzer, a former army general, proclaimed himself president three years ago after the bloody overthrow of a leftist regime headed by President Juan Jose Torres, another general.

SHS Band Gets 22nd I Rating

Snyder High School's Black and Gold Band received a superior rating in marching for the 22nd year Wednesday at the Region II University Interscholastic League contests in Abilene.

Music Region II of UIL covers an area from San Angelo to Wichita Falls, and the "Pride of the West" band was the only Class AAA band to receive a Division I rating.

The UIL twirling contest also was held in Abilene. The Snyder High twirlers were rated as follows: Lesa Ball, twirling solo, Division I; Jane Salmon, twirling solo, Division II; Clinta McCowan, twirling solo, Division II; Janie Prince, twirling solo, Division II; Lesa Ball, Jane Salmon and Clinta McCowan, twirling trio, Division III.

The bands from Lamar and Travis Junior High School were rated Division II and Division III, respectively, in the marching contests for junior high bands.

Major Slain In Argentine Siege

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentine terrorists today shot to death an army major and burned military vehicles in the first reaction to the government's declaration of a state of siege.

Police said Maj. Hector Lopez was slain as he left his home this morning in Santa Fe, 300 miles north of here. The shots came from a house across from Lopez' residence, killing the major instantly.

Terrorist groups set fire to about 20 military buses at a factory north of Buenos Aires, police sources said.

Other guerrillas briefly seized the railroad station at Avellaneda, south of Buenos Aires, painted revolutionary slogans and distributed literature of the outlawed People's Revolutionary Army — ERP — police said.

With political assassinations occurring at the rate of more than one a day, President Isabel Peron returned Argentina to a state of siege on Wednesday. Her decree enabled the government to hold anyone indefinitely without trial.

Anyone can be banished to remote corners of the country, and public meetings are prohibited.

The proclamation came as a surprise but caused little excitement. A state of siege has been in effect in Argentina for most of the past 40 years. Chile, Brazil, Paraguay, and Uruguay also are in a state of siege.

But there was widespread concern that the state of siege would not end the terrorism.

In the 130 days since President Juan D. Peron became president and his widow succeeded him, at least 136 persons have been murdered by left-wing or right-wing terrorists.

Car Caravan To Grid Game

A car caravan for Snyder football fans will form on the Scurry County Coliseum grounds and proceed to Sweetwater for the Snyder-Sweetwater game Friday, the SHS Cheerleaders have announced.

The caravan is to form at 5:45 p.m. and it will depart at 6 p.m. It will be escorted by a car from the Scurry County Sheriff's Department.

Snyder fans are being urged to decorate their cars, if possible, but all are encouraged to join the caravan regardless.

Chief Coal Negotiator Optimistic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief coal industry negotiator in contract talks with the United Mine Workers says an agreement could be reached by this weekend to keep short an expected nationwide miners strike.

Guy Farmer, chief negotiator for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, said Wednesday he thought the two sides should be able to reach an accord "in two or three days," provided no new snags develop.

"I don't think we're that far apart. That's not to say we don't have some real knotty issues which need to be resolved," Farmer said.

UMW President Arnold Miller said there could be a tentative agreement before the current contract runs out at midnight Monday, but not in time to prevent at least a brief work stoppage. Miller would not comment when asked about the possibility of a breakthrough this weekend.

"What we do every day (at the bargaining table) will affect the duration of a stoppage," Miller said. Under the union's ratification procedures, it will take about 10 days for the membership to approve a tentative settlement.

Farmer said the negotiators were in the process of taking each other's proposals, starting at the beginning and comparing positions and "discussing how we might settle it."

GOP Senators Urge Party To Broaden Its Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three moderate Republican senators say the GOP must broaden its base and offer specific economic programs if it hopes to rebound from off-year election defeats that left its national strength at a 10-year low.

The statements from Sens. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut, Charles H. Percy of Illinois and Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland came as President Ford and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield pledged cooperation Wednesday despite a general expectation of conflict over economic programs.

Democratic leaders, meanwhile, gave every indication they will set their own agenda, headed by national health insurance, tax reform and an expanded public service jobs program, when the 94th Congress meets in January.

"There is an inherent weakness in the entire structure of the Republican party," Weicker declared. "They are not going to win any election until they broaden the base of their party.

Percy, sounding a bit like the presidential contender he hoped to be before Ford succeeded Richard M. Nixon, said, "The Republican party can rebound, but only by developing a distinct set of programs that realistically attack the problems, especially the crunching economic problems, that confront us all."

Mathias, saying that he had received support from blacks, labor and ethnic groups in his re-election, said he intends to see that the national GOP "does reach out" to such groups.

Turnout for this election was the lightest for any year since at least 1946, with an unofficial count showing 38 per cent of the voting age population cast ballots.

Nearly complete election returns showed Democrats fell short of their predicted pre-election gains by the narrowest of margins, especially in the Senate, where Republicans led three Senate races by a total of less than 1,300 votes.

GOP victories in all three — North Dakota, New Hampshire and Nevada — would keep the net Democratic Senate gain to three, from 58 to 61. Democratic victories could swell the gains as high as six, to 64.

In two other Senate races, one led by each party, the margin was less than 5,000 votes. And in five governorship contests, too, the unofficial margin was less than 5,000.

This was the standing:

—Senate: Democrats captured four Republican seats, in Florida, Colorado, Kentucky and Vermont, but trailed for one in Nevada they now hold. That left them with an assured 61 seats in the new Senate, the 11th straight under Democratic control.

—House: The net Democratic gains, exceeding pre-election forecasts, stood at 43, meaning the new House will have at least 291 Democrats. Three races remained undecided. The Democratic total barely missed matching the 295 in Lyndon B. Johnson's 1964 landslide, the largest total won by either party since 1936.

—Governors: Democrats captured nine, while losing three to the Republicans and a fourth to an independent, in Maine. Another Democrat trailed, indicating the new standing would be 36 Democrats, 13 Republicans and one independent, surpassing the 35 Democrats elected in 1958.

BUILDING STARTS HIT BRICK WALL—Worker walks atop vast stockpile containing 12 million bricks in the yard of a brick factory in Stewartby, Bedfordshire, England. It is estimated that the pile contains enough bricks to build about one thousand private average-size houses. A faltering British economy with a 50 per cent cut in private building caused the brick surplus. (AP Wirephoto via cable from London)

Arab Delegate Is Disappointed

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer

ROME, Italy (AP) — "It looks like we might go home disappointed," an Arab delegate to the World Food Conference said. "The trouble is there are too many politicians in this conference whose concern should be food."

Other diplomats said that it would be overly optimistic and unfair to expect spectacular results from the 11-day conference, now in its third day. About 1,200 persons from more than 100 nations are trying to find ways to feed 500 million hungry people around the globe now and end the threat of famine in the future.

"This time there is more awareness of the problem," said Sayed Ahmed el Tayeb Harhoof of Sudan. "I feel there will be concrete resolutions, but follow-up action is necesssary if we are to turn those resolutions into action."

Rene Dumont, the 70-year-old University of Paris economist who ran for the French presidency last year on an ecology ticket, proposed that the delegates fast on Nov. 13 and send the money they save to feed some of the hungry in Asia or Africa.

"A symbolic day of fasting is the least conference participants can do, especially as it seems unlikely that they will achieve anything concrete," said Dumont as he circulated among the delegates, urging his proposal.

"My saving won't be much," said the frail old man. "I don't eat much — a roll, a bit of cheese and a few apples."

"It sounds nice," said one African. "I'm ready to do it, but it won't solve the problem."

Canada pledged to supply an average of a million tons of grain annually for the next three years, or a tenth of the proposed minimum target of 10 million tons for food aid.

Foreign Minister Allan J. MacEachen told the conference his government, in pledging this "more than proportional target," hopes that other traditional and new donors would increase their contributions so that the minimum could be exceeded.

Sweden told the conference that it would make 75,000 tons of wheat available annually for international food relief.

Case To Grand Jury Monday

PASADENA, Tex. (AP) — A Harris County grand jury is expected to receive next Monday the case of a father accused of the Halloween trick-or-treat poison murder of his young son.

Ronald Clark O'Bryan, 30, was charged with murder after his son, Timothy, 8, died Halloween night from eating powdered candy from a Pixy Stix which medical examiners said also contained cyanide.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Mike Hinton said Wednesday he will present the case to one of two grand juries at Houston beginning terms Monday.

Richard Harrison of Dallas, an attorney representing O'Bryan, also filed two motions Wednesday in State District Judge Miron Love's court at Houston.

One of the motions asked that O'Bryan's $100,000 bond be reduced to a "reasonable amount". He also asked that all grand jury actions be recorded when the grand jury considers the case.

Authorities declined to discuss the case with newsmen but said they believe they have sufficient evidence to back the charge filed against O'Bryan after his arrest late Monday night.

Sources close to the investigation, however, said the charge was filed after O'Bryan took a polygraph test and after the discovery that he had recently taken out one or more life insurance policies on the boy.

Jimmy Bates, a Pasadena friend who was with O'Bryan and three youngsters while trick-or-treating, said he was surprised at the arrest of the man he has known for four years.

"Words cannot express our shock and our surprise," Bates said.

Holland Renamed Representative

Charles Holland, assistant professor of speech and drama at Western Texas College, was re-elected representative for two-year colleges in Texas at the Southwest Theatre Conference in Albuquerque, N.M.

Julie Jones of Abilene, a freshman at WTC, was among the students selected to serve as representatives.

Holland said he feels that WTC is finally in the spotlight over the Southwest largely as a result of exposure at the Southwest Theatre Conference and its recent entry in the American College Theatre Festival.

Next year at the Conference and also at the Texas Education Theatre Association Conference to be held in January in San Antonio WTC will be featured in a lobby display in the convention site hotel.

Mike McBride was introduced as a new member, and Ron Lambright was introduced as a visitor.

There will be a round table meeting next week.

Fourteen years later, and he's still paying

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: My husband has to much pride to ask his former wife to relinquish her alimony payments. We've discussed it and he is also opposed to taking the matter to court.

Based on the following facts, do you think my husband should continue paying alimony?

1. She received all the equity in a home, paid-up car, and all the furnishings as part of the original settlement.
2. Their children are now married, and financially independent.
3. His ex-wife is now in her forties, is employed full time, and earns a better than average income.
4. He has paid her alimony promptly for 14 years. I would appreciate your thinking.

SECOND WIFE

DEAR SEC: You've stated that you have discussed the matter with your husband, and he's content to keep the status quo, so my thinking is not likely to influence him. Alimony has been appropriately called, "the high cost of leaving." Perhaps unconsciously your husband feels that it's not too high a price to pay for what he bought.

DEAR ABBY: For the last eight years I have been engaged" to a married man. I know you've heard this story a thousand times, but he says we will be married as soon as he can get a divorce. Lately I am beginning to wonder.

He is 42 and I am 29. When I met him he said he was separated from his wife. Later on he said he was trying for a divorce but she was contesting it.

He claims he lives like a gypsy, staying with one relative after another, and sometimes with friends. I have never had a phone number where he can be reached in case of emergency. And no address either.

He owns his own business and has given me some expensive gifts, but I want to get married and live a normal life. I used to tell my family and friends that I was too young to get married, but at 29, that's a ridiculous excuse.

How do you figure this, Abby? Am I just a slow learner? I promise to take any advice you give me. Please, help me.

TIRED OF WAITING

DEAR TIRED: I think you've been used. Don't waste any more of your valuable time on him, dear. Quietly relocate, and make sure he doesn't have your phone number or address.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is a lovely, 24 year-old, college-educated woman who is in love with a man who absolutely does not believe in marriage.

They have been living together for three years, and now they want to start a family. We are heartsick and don't know what to do.

He has no family, but we have. My parents would suffer even more than we if they knew that their beloved grandchild (my daughter) had a child out of wedlock. Should we say they were secretly married, and try to carry it off, or forget it?

We have no one to ask advice from as we are too ashamed to have anyone know.

HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: You are not responsible for the decisions of your 24-year-old daughter, so hold up your heads and get over the idea that you have something about which to be ashamed. Do not lie to your parents or anyone else. It may ease your burden to know that you have plenty of company.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN DEEP IN HIGHLAND PARK, ILL": There are exceptions, but a good rule to follow is: Don't lend money to a person who owes you money unless he has made an honest effort to pay at least part of what he owes you.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Lawmakers May Only Mark Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sweeping gains Democrats scored in Congress, especially in the House, could mean that the lawmakers will do little more than mark time in the lame-duck session that opens Nov. 18.

Major decisions on economic and social programs, most of which had little chance of enactment this year in any case, are more likely than ever to be left to the more Democratic, more liberal and younger Congress that will convene in January.

There will be a strong effort in the Senate to conclude action this year on the foreign trade bill, which the House has passed and which was brought to the verge of Senate approval by a compromise on Soviet emigration policies.

Some senators also have promised to try to attach to any available House bill some version of the tax on oil company windfall profits, which has been stymied in the House.

But wide-ranging tax revision, a national health plan, strengthening of the unemployment compensation system and a big public service job program are issues likely to be left to a Congress where more sweeping solutions could have more support.

It was increasingly doubtful that Congress would conclude action this year on the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

The Senate may finish its part, even though additional hearings have been scheduled. In the House, where the Judiciary Committee has not begun hearings, it seemed likely that the final vote would come in 1975.

In the Congress that convenes in January, Democrats are assured at least 291 House seats, more than two-thirds, with three races still unsettled. In the Senate, they will have at least 61 out of 100.

President Ford and Democratic congressional leaders exchanged post-election statements pledging cooperation in solving the nation's problems, but the record gave no assurance they will see eye to eye on the methods.

Senate Leader Mike Mansfield told Ford, "I would hope ... now that the election is over we will be able to get together and work cooperatively. I know you want to, I know the Senate wants to and I feel sure the House wants to."

"Let me assure you that will be the case," Ford replied.

After a House leadership conference at which Speaker Carl Albert was reported to have urged that solving the economic problems be put ahead of partisan interests, an aide said, "The name of the game is going to be compromise.

"We may make suggestions, but if anything is to be done, Ford is going to have to agree."

TESCO Solid, But Has Job Ahead, Says Hulsey

COLORADO CITY—Burl B. Hulsey Jr., president of Texas Electric Service Co., told company employees at a meeting here last night honoring Quarter Century Club members that TESCO is in a strong position today and although it has solid, long-range plans for the future, carrying out those plans will be a big, tough job.

Hulsey said that TESCO is just beginning a major transition from using natural gas for virtually all its generating plants to using lignite coal and nuclear fuels.

"This transition is the most far-reaching and most expensive in the company's history," he stated. "To use these more abundant fuels, we must build new, more expensive power plants at a time when continued inflation increases their cost daily. This means hundreds of millions of dollars will have to be invested in new facilities. Our total investment is now approaching one billion dollars, and it will increase by more than $700 million dollars in just the next five years."

"We have to depend on investors to supply most of this money we will need for new facilities in a fiercely competitive money market at very high interest rates." Hulsey said, "and we have to have earnings that are adequate to attract and to pay the cost of this additional money."

TESCO sold $70 million in new securities at a rate of about 8-½ per cent in April, he said, and plans to sell $60 million of new bonds in December, expecting to pay about 10 per cent for this money.

Hulsey said that several major utilities recently had been unable to find buyers for their bonds and stocks which forced them to make major cutbacks in their construction plans.

"It won't take long for these cutbacks to result in poorer service to customers," he said. "There is one basic reason why these companies are faced with serious financial crises and a deterioration of their service. They have not been allowed sufficient earnings to stay financially strong and to keep a good credit rating."

TESCO has a strong financial position and an excellent credit rating at this time, he stated. "The only way we can keep this strong position, so that we can get the money we need, is through rate increases like the one approved earlier this year."

Hulsey said that directly related to the company's financial strength is the effect the proposed state utility commission would have.

"Many of the problems faced by electric utilities in other states have been caused by oppressive, over-regulation by state utility commissions. Utility analysts now recognize that most state utility regulatory laws and methods are out of date, archaic and simply not working.

"When you look at the problems of many electric utilities in other parts of the country – when you look at the record – it's obvious there's something wrong with their system of regulation and something right with ours.

"Our present system of local, close-to-home regulation of our rates and service is working and is working well for our customers. It has resulted in quality service at some of the lowest rates in the country.

"Local regulation is more responsive to local needs and problems because local people, who are themselves customers, can best judge the quality and value of our service.

"The proponents of a state utility commission suggest that a remote group in Austin could do a better job and could somehow reduce rates and reduce the need for rate increases. I can assure you that this defies the basic laws of economics.

"The increasing costs we face must be included in the price of electricity. A state utility commission cannot reduce these costs or solve any of the problems we face. It can't make new supplies of fuel available. It can't reduce construction costs. It can't make more capital available, and it can't reduce inflation."

Hulsey presented award watches to three employees who completed 25 years of service with the company during the year and became members of the Quarter Century Coub.

The three are J. W. Vincent of the Morgan Creek power plant in Colorado City and J. C. Long and B. G. Gainer of the distribution service center in Sweetwater.

Kreisky Is U.S. Bound

VIENNA (AP) — Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, who leaves Saturday for an official visit to the United States, says Austria is determined to continue acting as a transfer point for Jewish emigres from the Soviet Union.

The flow of immigrants has never halted despite the closing last year of the Schoenau transit camp, the 62-year-old Socialist leader said in an interview with The Associated Press. Instead, other camps were arranged for them.

Two Arab terrorists seized three Soviet Jews in September 1973, shortly after their train crossed the Austrian border. They held them until Kreisky agreed to close the Schoenau transit camp through which the immigrants funneled to Israel.

Kreisky, who is of Jewish ancestry, was criticized by a number of foreign leaders, including Israeli officials.

"This has been completely misunderstood in the world," he said. "Everybody has been able to see in the meantime that we are determined to continue to be a transfer country."

He said some in Israel considered him a traitor for not automatically siding with Israel on every issue.

"I cannot allow any people, living in Israel or anywhre else in the world, to tell me, 'You are not an Austrian, you are a Jew,'" he said.

The present transit camp in a Vienna suburb is the third such facility. Mayor Leopold Gratz wants it moved because it is close to a densely populated housing project. Kreisky refused to say whether a fourth transit camp would be set up or where it might be located.

"I do not plan to give any hints to these people," he said, referring to terrorists.

Kreisky warned that if the flow of Jews out of the Soviet Union increases to 60,000 a year as a result of the recent Soviet-American agreement, "other countries must take over a share of the burden.

"Nobody has talked to us so far about an increase. If it takes place, I am sure we will be contacted. In that event, we will state clearly that the problem has become too big for u to carry alone."

District Anxious To Move Ties

PORT HARDY, B.C. (AP) — Car: an isolated island community which has long complained of neglect from British Columbia and Canadian officials find happiness as part of Alaska and the United States?

Even the leader of the secessionist movement in the Mount Waddington Regional District admits he doesn't know, but he says he is anxious to try.

Last month the District Board voted to propose the move to the governor of Alaska, naming Port Hardy Mayor Brian Klaver as ambassador to the 49th state.

Klaver said Wednesday there had been no reply to the letter, mailed about two weeks ago. The letter asked if Alaska would be interested in acquiring 8,000 square miles of Canadian property with rich timber, fishing and mining resources and 12,000-15,000 inhabitants.

"We're the ones that are living out here, without the amenities, providing the raw materials for those people living elsewhere who do have the amenities," he said.

Road Project Discussion Set

There will be a meeting at 10 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 14, at the Texas Highway Department office on the Lubbock Highway for the purpose of discussing resurfacing of U.S. 84 from Basin Wax to the Fluvanna Road according to an announcement by N.A. Billingsley, resident engineer.

He said Highway Patrolmen, Sheriff's Authorities, and representatives of the contractor, J.H. Strain and Sons of Tye, will attend the meeting.

BOLOGNA AND BANANA BARBECUE—has a zingy molasses-mustard sauce that enhances both the bologna and the bananas baked with it. It satisfies hearty appetites, and doesn't make much work for the cook.

Family Favorite Recipes Made With Familiar Foods

Every family cook knows what makes a recipe qualify for frequent serving to the family. It should be made with familiar foods. Nothing strange or exotic. It should satisfy hearty appetites, and not make too much work for the cook.

That's a good description of a Bologna and Banana Barbecue, easy as anything to make yet with just a little touch of novelty in serving a familiar food, bananas, a little different way. The bologna is bought in one piece (solid, no-waste meat and a family favorite) and baked with a tangy, molasses-rich sauce. Then the bananas are added, basted with the same sauce, and the combination brought to the table, offering a very appetizing aroma, and a fine taste treat.

Have you noticed how attractively bananas are priced at market? Check for yourself what good value they offer as you compare them in actual cents per pound with other fruits in season. The banana, as the Banana Bunch, industry-sponsored center for consumer information, points out, knows no season and is always ready-at-hand in your market. That's because successive crops are planted to assure a steady supply of this much-liked fruit all the year around.

Another grand family dish featuring cooked bananas is Mustard Broiled Chicken and Bananas, a zippy way to serve two fine foods that are usually very good value for the money at market. Both the chicken and the bananas are brushed with a delicious mustard sauce softened with the herb called tarragon. The finished dish is just delicious. The mild mustard taste is a favorite with each member of the family and the bananas are fun to eat in this new way with the old familiar chicken. Here is a recipe family-designed for acceptance by young and old.

The banana has a different nuance of flavor when cooked that many people learn to appreciate as much as a banana eaten out of hand. For cooking, choose a firm banana. It may be still tinged with reen yet develop fine flavor as it cooks.

BOLOGNA AND BANANA BARBECUE

2 pounds whole bologna
Whole cloves
¼ cup molasses
¼ cup prepared mustard
3 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon ginger
4 firm bananas
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

Score bologna and stud with cloves. Place in roasting pan; bake in 425 degrees oven 20 minutes. In medium bowl, mix molasses, mustard, vinegar, lemon juice and ginger. Brush on bologna, bake 5 minutes longer. Peel bananas and cut in chunks. Add to roasting pan and brush with melted butter, then with sauce. Brush remaining sauce over bologna and bake 10 minutes longer.
YIELD: 8 servings.

MUSTARD BROILED CHICKEN AND BANANAS

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in quarters
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup prepared mustard
1 teaspoon grated onion
½ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons salad oil
4 firm bananas
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

Sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. Place on broiler pan skin side down. Place 6 inches from broiler. Broil 15 to 20 minutes, until lightly browned, turn, and broil 10 minutes longer. In small bowl mix mustard, onion, tarragon, lemon juice and oil. Brush on chicken, broil 5 minutes; turn and brush chicken with mustard sauce. Peel bananas, cut in half lengthwise and place on broiler pan with chicken; brush with melted butter, then with mustard sauce and broil 5 minutes.
YIELD: 4 servings.

American Gourmets Eat Billions Of Oranges

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When I was a boy, we used to munch oranges at the movies and toss the peels at the bad guys on the screen. Which is no more odd than the custom in some Caribbean countries where housewives split an orange and scrub the floor with a half in each hand.

Fresh oranges have become somewhat out of date in America where the enormous popularity of frozen juice has driven the per capita consumption of the fresh fruit down by 75 per cent in the past two decades. But, however they consume them, Americans grow about 25 billion oranges a year, much of which, of course, goes for export. This is a sizable sum, compared to the six billion oranges grown in Spain and four billion in Italy.

For years, an amiable feud has been going on between the growers of California oranges with their thick golden skins and rich meat and those of Florida which have a thin covering and are bursting with juice. In fact, the Florida variety has so much juice that a Californian will tell you acidly that to eat one you should wear a bathing suit. Maybe so, but Floridians retort that if a car runs over a California orange it won't even wet the pavement.

To confuse things still more, I'm told that most Florida oranges grow on lemon roots while most California lemons grow on orange roots.

I used to see Florida blood oranges on fruit stands in New York, but I guess the red juice turned housewives off, because I haven't spotted one in years.

The nearest thing to an all-purpose orange is the Valencia which can be grown in both Florida and California. For that matter, it abounds in Latin America, South Africa, Australia and virtually every other orange center except Valencia, Spain, where it makes up less than 2 per cent of the orange crop.

Oranges give a fillip to a lot of dishes, especially desserts. Here is one for Pennsylvania Dutch Orange Cake:

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
5 eggs
3 cups sifted cake flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup orange juice
Bourbon Glaze (see below)

Cream butter with sugar till fluffy. Add orange rind and mix. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add flour mix and orange juice alternately to butter mix, beating well after each addition. Turn into greased, floured 10-inch tube pan and bake in 350-degree oven one hour or till cake tests done. Pour Bourbon Glaze over cake and remove from pan when cake is well-cooled.

BOURBON GLAZE

¼ cup butter
Orange juice
2-3rds cup sugar
4 oz. Bourbon

Combine all ingredients and heat till sugar is melted.

Program On Marriage Presented

Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met Tuesday evening at the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

The program entitled "Love and Marriage" was presented by Laura Greene. Results of a survey of love and marriage were presented by Mrs. Greene.

Also several members of the sorority participated in a skit depicting ideas of young ladies about marriage before marriage and their views on marriage ten years later. Laura concluded the program with a poem from Lois Wyse' book "Lovetalk".

Barbara Bills, vice-president, conducted the business meeting.

Jean Clanton announced that a Thanksgiving Dinner will be held on November 23. Mona Bryan asked members to be thinking of items to make for the Christmas Bizarre to be held at the Martha Ann Woman's Club on December 6, in conjunction with the Christmas tour of homes. Refreshments were served by Lora Beasley and Sandra Campbell.

Following the meeting members of the sorority viewed the paintings of western and wildlife artist Bob Widmeier displayed at the Woman's Club.

Marriage, Second Time

COLLEGE STATION—People marrying for the second time face problems somewhat different from those of a first marriage, according to one authority.

"If people could recognize these possible problem areas, they could handle minor difficulties before they became major problems," Dorthy Taylor, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said this week.

She pointed out several areas that may cause hardships in second marriages.

"First marriages are usually optimistically accepted and enthusiastically celebrated. However, second marriages seem to be greeted with a 'wait and see' attitude," the specialist noted.

Families often express mixed feelings of hope and fear that must be considered. The divorced partner's family will naturally compare the new and former spouses. In-law relationships begin with more strain than in first marriages, she reflected.

Assuming emotional and financial care of stepchildren usually calls for adjustments by the second mate. Visitation rights, child support and competition for affection are factors which the person marrying a divorcee needs to consider, the specialist pointed out.

"Another factor that surfaces in remarriages is how much did the divorced partner learn from marriage failure," the specialist said.

"Marriage failure, like marriage success, is usually achieved by two working together. The partner who sees himself as blameless is usually a poor marital risk," Miss Taylor warned.

SUPPER FOR TWO

Sausage Tomatoes Rolls
Candied Yams GreenBeans
Fresh Pears Cheese

SAUSAGE TOMATOES

Attractive and easy to prepare.

2 large tomatoes, about 1 pound
Prepared mustard
½ pound pork sausage meat

Wash and dry tomatoes; cut out stem ends. Slice each tomato in half crosswise; lightly spread cut surfaces with mustard. Make 4 patties of the sausage so each is diameter of tomatoes; place a pattie on each tomato half and pat down, molding slightly over edges so they are completely covered — this is because sausage will shrink. Place on rack of broiler pan with pan in place below or on a ridged foil broiling pan — so sausage fat can run down — and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Remove with a wide spatula and serve at once. Makes 2 servings — 2 tomato halves per portion.

SAYS FEMALE RESEARCHER

Girls Can't Be Equal In Physical Strength

AUSTIN—No matter how hard Woman tries, she probably never will equal Man when it comes to reaching the finish line first or lifting the heaviest weights.

Heresy? Old wive's tale? Myth?

No, believes Dr. Waneen Wyrick Spirduso, chairman of the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at the University of Texas.

"We all are so concerned that women receive good athletic programs and equal treatment, that we would like to think women can compete equally with men," Dr. Spirduso said.

But "when you get into speed and power and strength types of activities, men on the average, are simply superior to women," the physical educator reported.

Hold everything and read on, person-persons. There's proof. For instance.

"Men, over all, are larger and taller and weigh more," Dr. Spirduso pointed out. "They have greater musculature and...it's stronger because of the male sex hormone, testosterone.

"Women can't develop muscular size and hypertrophy (strength) that is equivalent to that of men because they don't have comparable levels of the sex hormone that is responsible for that," she said.

Dr. Spirduso explained that testosterone allows men to retain nitrogen, which is a building block for amino acids, which in turn become building blocks for muscle fiber.

Men also have a greater oxygen content in their blood, since they have more hemoglobin, the oxygen-carrying molecule in the blood.

They have larger lungs, so they can take in more air and, therefore, take in more oxygen. Men also have greater maximum ventilation rate (breathing rate) and faster reaction times.

They have larger hearts, greater stroke volume (blood expelled per stroke), greater cardiac output (stroke volume times heart rate), faster return from exercise to resting level, greater potential for endurance—that's not just larger because of larger body size, but larger in proportion to body size.

And if that's not enough, at submaximal work levels, females have to work much harder to produce work capacities equal to males. Still another factor to be considered is the cumulative effect of all those differences.

Focusing on the theory that if our culture expected women to perform as well as men they could do so, some researchers have tried to prove that without her extra body fat a woman could be almost as strong as a man.

"But the point is that a woman can't take off her fat and put it on the bench and then run," Dr. Spirduso said. "She has to carry it around with her; it's part of her. And women do have a greater per cent body fat than men."

Dr. Spirduso concluded that although some women can train hard and surpass average men who don't train, "we won't ever see the time when women in large numbers will beat men in power sports that depend on strength and endurance."

But take heart, women. The war of the sexes might just move to a younger battlefield.

Before females attain body fat and before males' testosterone levels increase, both of which begin to happen at puberty, it's a different story.

A girl can compete equally with a boy, Dr. Spirduso noted.

"It's only at the time of puberty when we begin to see the drastic differences in size and development," she said.

Even then, Dr. Spirduso stresses, it is not necessary to prove that women and men are identical to prove that they are equal:

"I don't think equality needs to be linked with synonymousness in order for women to develop exciting athletic programs."

Something Different For Breakfast

COLLEGE STATION—Breakfast doesn't have to be the same boring meal every day, according to one foods and nutrition specialist.

"Breakfast is still important to restore energy for the day ahead, but a 'good' breakfast doesn't have to be the traditional bacon, eggs, biscuits, juice and milk," Sally Springer, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said this week.

"Breakfast should supply some protein food and a vitamin C-rich fruit.

"Sources of protein that are often overlooked for breakfast are peanut-butter toast, toasted cheese or some other favorite sandwich, or hard-cooked eggs," she said.

You can eat these "portable foods" at the bus stop or even while riding to school or work.

The specialist stressed the importance of protein at breakfast, because "without it energy sags around 10 a.m."

Turning to fruit, she suggested adding sliced peaches, oranges, pineapple chunks or melon balls to your favorite fruit juice.

"Surprise your family—serve something a little different for breakfast," she said.

Hawaiians Win, 29-8

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The Chicago Fire says it is through for the year, Portland Storm players are refusing to play another game until they're paid and the Charlotte Hornets have literally lost their shirts.

It was just another day in the life and times of the World Football League.

The show must go on, however, and the WFL continued to struggle gracelessly toward the conclusion of its first season Wednesday night with Birmingham beating Philadelphia 26-23, Shreveport topping Charlotte 19-14 and the Hawaiians whipping Southern California 29-8.

Tonight's schedule calls for Chicago at Memphis and Portland at Florida, but WFL schedules lately have been as dependable as subway gum machines.

Birmingham built up a 26-0 lead in the first half of its game with Philadelphia behind the running of Art Cantrelle and Paul Robinson, who scored one touchdown apiece, and then held off a Bell rally. The game ended in a brawl that took officials several minutes to break up.

The announced attendance was 22,963, about half of what the Americans have been averaging.

Jim Nance ran for 160 yards and Rocky Thompson added 105 to lead Shreveport past Charlotte. Nance scored the winning touchdown from two yards out with 5:11 left to play.

The game drew 10,697 fans in Shreveport.

Randy Johnson threw a pair of touchdown passes to John Isenbarger, and Al Davis and Vince Clements ran for two others in the Hawaiians' victory over Southern California before an announced crowd of 13,780 at Honolulu.

Kermit Johnson's touchdown in the fourth period averted a shutout for the Sun, now 13-6. The Hawaiians improved their record to 8-11.

Fire owner Tom Origer handed the stricken league another headache Wednesday when he announced that his club won't play its final game next week in Philadelphia and won't participate in the playoffs.

"We don't deserve to be in the playoffs and I'm against the eight-team thing, anyway," said Origer, whose team has lost nine straight games.

A league spokesman said WFL President Donald Regan will look into the Chicago matter Friday.

Origer, a condominum builder, says business is bad and he's tired of losing money.

"Right now I'm looking for investors," he said, "and if I don't find them I'll sell the club. I have lost about $800,000 thus far and I don't want to take losses by myself in the future.

An unidentified Storm player said Wednesday he and his teammates haven't been paid in several weeks and they won't play against Florida tonight unless they get paid before the game.

"We won't play without the money because we've been bled along for several weeks now, getting only partial pay for a couple of games and no pay at all for the last two games," the player said.

Portland has reportedly been guaranteed $50,000 by the Florida team but the money won't be paid until the day after the game when the Blazers are supposed to be purchased by a phantom group of investors whose identities have not been revealed.

Storm owner Bob Harris, meanwhile, has been talking about moving his team elsewhere, complaining that Portland's 33,000-seat stadium is too old and too small for his club.

The Charlotte Hornets, formerly the New York Stars, aren't having stadium problems but a Baton Rouge, La., man has taken the shirts off their backs.

J. Rodney Ryan filed a suit Wednesday claiming the club owes him $26,216 in cleaning bills and got a Caddo Parish, La., judge to issue a writ of attachment on all its uniforms and equipment to pay the tab. Ryan said the team never paid its bills when it moved from New York to Charlotte. Deputies seized the Hornets' uniforms and whatever equipment they could find immediately after Wednesday night's game in Shreveport.

Ryan is also after the gate receipts from the game but he'll have to wait in line. Shreveport players, who hadn't received their wages in two weeks, were reportedly paid off with the game profits.

7th Grade Tilts Held

Jerry Mankins' 7th grade football team blanked Boxie Weems' team, 16-0, and Wayne Preston's team defeated Geral Greene's team, 38-6, here Tuesday afternoon.

For Preston's team in the first quarter, Bobby DeGrate ran 14 yards for a touchdown, and collected the two extra points on another run.

Greene's team pulled within two points later in the period when Ricky Gambol passed to Corky Barrett 35 yards for a touchdown.

In the second quarter, Bobby DeGrate scored on a five yard run, and Rollen Nunley ran 16 yards for another touchdown. Zel Gaston added two extra points. The score at halftime was 22-6.

In the third quarter, Bobby DeGrate returned an intercepted pass 60 yards for a touchdown and added the two bonus points for a 30-6 lead.

In the fourth frame, William Robinson passed 10 yards to Mark Preston for the final touchdown, and Zel Gaston collected the two bonus points.

Mankins' Bryan Vincent ran 45 yards for a touchdown, and he ran for the two extra points. Allen Pollard scored the other TD on a 3-yard run, and Morris Anderson collected the two extra points.

The season ended with Preston's team having a perfect 6-0 record. Mankins' team was runnerup with a 4-2 mark, and the other two teams finished with 1-5 records each.

New NBA Chief To Be Named

By RICHARD BILOTTI
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Simon P. Gourdine says reports that he will become the first black professional sports commissioner are premature, but he's anxiously awaiting the outcome of the National Basketball Association owners vote on the matter.

The 18 NBA owners were scheduled to meet here today for their annual fall board of governors meeting. The selection of a new commissioner may be on the agenda.

NBA owners are looking for someone to replace Walter Kennedy, who is set to retire June 1, 1975.

"I have heard the stories, and I am very conscious of it," said Gourdine. "My main concern at this point is that the story might be premature. You know the owners have to vote, which they presumably will do Thursday, and to that extent the story was a speculative piece.

"I hope that it's treated as such. I anxiously await the outcome of the meeting."

The 34-year-old lawyer said he had talked with some owners, "but I can't go into details."

Kennedy, who has been commissioner since 1963, announced his retirement two years ago. The owners met to chose a new commissioner in June, but no one reportedly received the required 14 votes for approval. The owners were believed to be considering two Los Angeles lawyers, Henry Steinman and Alan Rothenberg, in the June vote.

A spokesman for the league would neither confirm nor deny the report.

The post of deputy commissioner has been in the NBA bylaws for some time, but has never been filled.

It is believed that the person selected will be named to that post and then take over from Kennedy.

The NBA has been a pioneer in promoting blacks into coaching and administrative positions.

Gourdine, who at present is vice president in charge of administration for the NBA, is the highest ranking black administrator in the history of professional sports. He joined the NBA in 1970 and was promoted to the executive position in 1972.

Bill Russell became the first black coach of an NBA team when he took over the Boston Celtics in 1966-67. There are now five black head coaches and eight assistants in the league, as well as Milwaukee Bucks General Manager Wayne Embry.

Bowl Tilts Are Being Lined Up

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Ohio State, Oklahoma and Michigan are ranked first, second and fourth, respectively in The Associated Press college football poll this week. Only one will be going to a post-season bowl game this year.

Meanwhile, Maryland, Mississippi State, Houston and Oklahoma State have joined the rapidly-growing list of schools who have accepted bids to play in the year-end spectaculars while Pittsburgh is playing a wait-and-see game.

Maryland, 14th-ranked nationally, will play in the Liberty Bowl Dec. 16 at Memphis, Tenn.

Herbie Hunt, Liberty Bowl president, said Liberty Bowl representatives will be watching four games this weekend in an attempt to select an opponent for Maryland. The four games slated for scrutiny are Auburn at Mississippi State, Vanderbilt at Kentucky, Missouri at Oklahoma and Tennessee at Memphis State.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl officials said hometown Houston's opponent Dec. 23 will be either North Carolina State or North Carolina, with Pittsburgh an outside possibility.

However, North Carolina State reprtedly is headed for the Peach Bowl, which will be played Dec. 28 in Atlanta.

Oklahoma State, ranked 17th has accepted a bid to participate in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz.

The Western Athletic Conference champion will oppose Oklahoma State Dec. 28. Arizona State, which has won all three previous postseason contests, Arizona and Brigham Young are still in contention for the WAC title.

Sun Bowl officials say they want Pittsburgh if the Panthers beat Temple this Saturday. But Pitt also is reportedly being courted by the Liberty Bowl and the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Mississippi State said it has accepted an invitation to play in the Sun Bowl Dec. 28 in El Paso, Tex.

Although bowl officials declined to confirm it, it is believed the Gator Bowl Dec. 30 at Jacksonville, Fla., will match Auburn against the Southwest Conference runnerup.

The Southwest Conference champion — either Texas, Texas A&M or Baylor — is slated to play in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1 against Penn State.

The Sugar Bowl Dec. 31 will pit sixth-ranked Florida against ninth-ranked Nebraska, while third-ranked Alabama and eighth-ranked Notre Dame is expected to clash in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1 in a rematch of last year's national championship battle.

Miami of Ohio, ranked No. 13, is headed for the Tangerine Bowl Dec. 21 at Orlando, Fla.

Probation and conference rules have cut down two of the nation's best teams. Second-ranked Oklahoma is banned from appearing in a post-season game by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

And the granddaddy of all bowl games — the Rose Bowl — will feature the Big Ten champion versus the Pac-8 champion. Since top-ranked Ohio State and fourth-ranked Michigan are both in the Big Ten, one will be watching the postseason festivities with the nation's other football fans — on television.

Barr Joins Spirits

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The American Basketball Association's Spirits of St. Louis have announced the signing of guard Mike Barr to fill out the their 11-man roster.

A spokesman said the 6-foot-3 Barr is expected to add defense and speed to the Spirits' roster. Barr spent the past two seasons with the ABA Virginia Squires, averaging 7.4 points a game.

Tigers, Mustangs Renew Long Gridiron Rivalry

An old and colorful gridiron rivalry dating back to 1925 will be renewed Friday night in Sweetwater when the fighting Snyder Tigers invade Mustang Bowl to battle the Sweetwater varsity in another District 3-AAA contest.

The contest will be especially important for the Tigers since they can grab at least a share of the District 3-AAA crown and claim a playoff berth with a victory. An old nemesis, Sweetwater would like nothing better than to knock off the Tigers and keep them out of the playoffs, at least for another week.

Snyder has the best record at 7-1 for the season and 4-0 in district while the Mustangs are 2-5-1 for the campaign and 0-4 in district. Past records mean nothing, however, when these two teams collide. For instance, back in '64 when the Tigers were favored to win district, the Sweetwater team came over here and knocked off Snyder, 30-6. Sweetwater owns a 16-9-1 edge in the series, and the Tigers have only won once in the past eight games between these two teams.

"They have everything to win and nothing to lose," declared Tiger Coach Maurice (Mo) Hodges. He pointed out the pressure will be on the Tigers in this contest and not on the Mustangs.

Sweetwater uses a variety of offenses and defenses. They operate from the Winged-T, Houston Veer and pro set on offense. Defensively, their favorite alignment is the Split 6.

Three of the four starters in the Sweetwater backfield are seniors, including quarterback Jeff Teal (150), wingback Randy Bowen (160) and halfback Stanley Mulanax (155). The other starter is Armond Gomez, a 170-pound junior.

The Tigers can counter with one of the most explosive attacks in the league with Win Bunch, 160-pound senior, at quarterback; Rickey Howell, 160-pound junior, at fullback; David Mayes, 180-pound senior, at halfback; and, Tim Flynn, 160-pound junior, at wingback.

Flynn replaces Welton Cobb, who was injured three weeks ago and saw only limited action on offense last week after being out the previous game.

Cobb will devote his duties to the right linebacker slot. A 195-pound senior, he's considered one of the best in the area along with the left linebacker, 175-pound senior Roy Lee Carter. The Tigers probably have the best two linebackers in the district.

The Tiger backs all have impressive credentials. Cobb is the leading ground gainer with 669 yards. Howell has 505 yards, Bunch 366,, Flynn 273, and Mayes 175.

Snyder uses a Winged-T attack and an Oklahoma "5" defense.

Starting in the forward offensive wall for the Tigers will be Kenny Thompson, 140-pound junior, at swingman; Bobbie Wall, 170-pound senior, at quick tackle; Roger Williams, 165-pound senior, at quick guard; Felton Stephens, 190-pound senior, at center; Tim Sonnier, 210-pound senior, or David Marlar, 175-pound senior at strong guard; Charles Hammond, 190-pound senior, at strong tackle; and, Carter at strong end.

Also on defense, the Tigers will have Mike Freeman, 180-pound junior, at left end, Sonnier at left tackle; George Willis, 170-pound senior, at middle guard; Greg Gary, 215-pound senior, at right tackle; Jackie Simpson, 170-pound senior, at right end; Bernie Weems, 160-pound senior, at rover; Danny Brumley, 160-pound senior, at halfback; Mayes at cornerback; and, Dennis Young, 160-pound senior, at safety.

Coach Hodges reported that Simpson has recovered from an injury to his hand and will be ready at defensive right end. He saw a lot of action at the position last week, although Mayes started at the position.

Stephens, the center, was in the hospital Monday for treatment of a flu virus, but he was back with the team yesterday and will be ready for action. Howell, the fullback, and Coach Hodges himself also were ill with the flu this week, but both were back in school Wednesday.

Several other Tigers are eager for action, including quarterback Steve Green, tailback Robert Ramirez, fullback Larry Gee, center Froilan Reyes, guard Jerry Derrick, tackles Alfonso Rodriguez, Richard Huddleston and Scott Walton and ends Paul Solis, Kerry Fritz, Orlando Vargas and Dane Witherspoon.

There have been three common opponents and comparative scores seem to favor the Tigers. Lake View whipped the Mustangs 27-7 while Snyder beat Lake View 16-0. Dunbar bested Sweetwater 21-10, but the Tigers beat the Panthers, 30-7. Estacado flailed the Mustangs, 41-2, but the Tigers beat Estacado, 14-6.

Although Sweetwater will doubtless make an all-out effort, the Tigers are solid two touchdown favorites.

Horns, Bears Fight For Survival

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

While Texas and Baylor collide in Waco to cut the Southwest Conference football madness down to a two-horse race Saturday, the fifth-ranked Texas Aggies will try to rope Southern Methodist's Mustangs in the stadium where the Cadets hope to be singing their alma mater New Year's Day.

Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard admits Cotton Bowl fever is heavy on the minds of his team which is an light-point favorite over SMU.

"We've been thinking Cotton Bowl all along," says Bellard. "That's what it's all about. There's no reason for us to think beyond the next game, which is SMU, but we still have Cotton Bowl on our minds even though we're still a long way from being there."

A&M will be 7-1 and 4-0 in SWC play when the Aggies and some 30,000 followers invade Dallas Saturday.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected in the Cotton Bow. SMU has been barely drawing 15,000 or so of its own fans to the games so you can see how many Aggies will be coming.

"Texas A&M has the best defense we have faced and that includes Ohio State and Texas," says SMU Coach Dave Smith. "It will take a fanatical effort on our part to stay with them."

The Aggies, particular the defense, have just been this side of fanatical themselves this season. Perhaps, they've taken a theme from Bellard who says, "Losing just tears my insides to pieces. I couldn't stay in coaching if I were continously losing. I know it's no fun."

This is the first time since 1957 that A&M has won its first four league games and the 7-1 overall record also is the best since that year.

The Texas-Baylor collision in Waco is simply a matter of survival. Both teams own a conference loss and no team has ever won the SWC title with two defeats.

Texas Coach Darrell Royal puts the matter simply enough: "I think it is our biggest (SWC) challenge since we lost our opening game to Texas Tech. They do best what we have the more trouble with, and that's pass. Defensively, they line up like most everybody, but they are playing with a lot of enthusiasm and determination."

Texas is a 14-point pick over the Bears.

In other SWC games, Arkansas is a nine-point favorite over scrappy Rice and Texas Tech is a 20-point nod over Texas Christian in a game at Lubbock.

Houston, the SWC member-elect, is idle.

Michigan State's football team has three sets of brothers. They are Dave and Mike Duda, Terry and Pat McClowry and Ken and Mike Jones.

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, you want action? No delays, just business. So, how about Atlanta over Los Angeles? And Houston over Buffalo!

Far fetched? Maybe — but over the years, a change of coaches in midseason often sets the stage for an upset. This could mean an Atlanta victory. But what about one for Houston?

While you mull over this for a moment, let's report that last week's effort by the Pro Pigskin Picker was 13-0, a perfect slate. It lifted the season's showing to 74-29-1 for .718.

Now back to Atlanta and Houston:

ATLANTA (2-6) at LOS ANGELES (6-2): The Falcons have never won in Los Angeles, but they have a chance to redeem themselves and provide Marion Campbell, Norm Van Brocklin's successor, with his first victory. So, in the Upset Special ... Falcons 21, Rams 20.

HOUSTON (3-5) at BUFFALO (7-1): There's no reason to expect that the Oilers, on their first two-game victory streak since 1971, will make it three. So let's not have an upset here and say ... Bills 31, Oilers 17.

PITTSBURGH (6-1-1) at CINCINNATI (5-3): The injury to Cincinnati running back Boobie Clark tilts the scale to ... Steelers 20, Bengals 16.

WASHINGTON (5-3) at PHILADELPHIA (4-4): The going is too sticky in the NFC East for the Eagles to catch Washington looking ahead to Dallas. So ... Redskins 19, Eagles 17.

SAN FRANCISCO (2-6) at DALLAS (4-4): And the Cowboys won't start thinking about Washington until Sunday night ... Cowboys 24, 49ers 15.

DETROIT (4-4) at OAKLAND (7-1): Guess who has the longest victory streak current in the NFC? Guess who still will have the longest victory streak in the AFC ... Raiders 30, Lions 19.

MIAMI (6-2) at NEW ORLEANS (3-5): New Orleans will still be no worse off than a second-place tie in the NFC West after the scoreboard says ... Dolphins 26, Saints 14.

CLEVELAND (2-6) at NEW ENGLAND (6-2): The Patriots have scored more points than any other NFL team so far. Cleveland has yielded more points than any other club. How about ... Patriots 30, Browns 13.

CHICAGO (3-5) vs. GREEN BAY (3-5) at Milwaukee: Chester Marcol's field goal kicking should help John Hadl register his first victory for Green Bay ... Packers 17, Bears 14.

DENVER (3-4-1) at BALTIMORE (1-7): It's simply a case of the Broncos having more horsepower ... Broncos 35, Colts 10.

SAN DIEGO (2-6) at KANSAS CITY (3-5): With the help of rookie running back Don Woods, San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts should lead his team to its second straight upset ... Chargers 30, Chiefs 27.

Many Not Prepared In Money Management

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK AP—As viewed by business and financial authorities, one of the biggest deficiencies in the American educational system is its failure to adequately prepare individuals in money management.

Only two states make consumer education mendatory. In many cities and cities and states the courses are superficial. Millions of Americans, as a result, can't even maintain a checkbook properly.

Banks, savings institutions, finance companies and others have long sought to correct the situation with do-it-yourself educational materials. More recently the effort is aimed at providing materials for classroom use.

Continental Illinois National Bank offers a detailed, six-unit course, complete with texts, teacher's guides and student problem books. Now the New York Stock Exchange has sent its "Personal Money Management" guide to almost every high school in the country.

James Needham, exchange chairman, hopes to convince federal authorities to make such instruction mandatory for those school districts receiving government funds. Profesionally, he feels it might help to keep individual investors interested in stocks. The personal story is longer.

"I was the oldest of three kids, age 5, when my father died. We had no life insurance and we ended up on welfare for a couple of years. It left its mark."

As an accountant, Needham saw otherwise intelligent people who either neglected or were incapable of handling their personal money affairs. One client was a national authority on money management, including wills. "He died intestate."

"I taught Accounting 1 and 2. I was dealing with accounting majors and they didn't even understand bank statements or how to write checks. It had a unique impression on me.

"As a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission I was horrified by what I saw — very sophisticated people incapable of handling their own affairs."

Perhaps, who knows, with stock customers in mind, Needham continued: "So many people get into serious difficulty because they can't handle money. We've got to prepare them to take care of themselves, and then they won't be looking for help from the government."

Junior Editors' Quiz on LARCHES

QUESTION: What is a larch?

* * *

ANSWER: Larch is the common name for larix, a genus of trees which belong to the pine family. They bear cones and shed their needles in the fall. They are deciduous trees, while most of the other members of the pine family are evergreens. They are found in North Temperate regions and thrive in the far north Arctic area.

Larches are grown as ornamentals and for timber and are stately trees with a pyramidal, Christmas-tree shape. The branches are long and straight and the needles are short and tufted like a pine. The cones are oblong in shape and remain on the tree after the needles have fallen. The hard wood of the larch is used for telegraph poles, railroad ties, fence posts and fire wood. Larch timber in old French castles remained intact after the stone had crumbled.

Chester's Fame Has Spread

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — In her love letter to Chester, a young lady asked a question that's been on all our minds: "Can a 12-year-old girl and a three-year-old machine make it in today's world?"

Chester gets his share of love letters and fan letters, but so far it doesn't seem to have given him any egotistical delusions. He's still pretty much the same unassuming 6-foot-tall, 20-foot-long hunk of green metal with red and yellow glowing dials, meters and blinking lights he's always been.

And he still answers all the letters he can. Like that of the 12-year-old paramour with the burning question. She also had asked Chester what his hobbies are and whether he has any brothers or sisters.

Chester replied that his hobbies are old radio shows, comedy, music, lectures, and all sorts of diverse things. "I don't have any brothers or sisters," he said. "However, I have 24 tape decks and two video-tape decks."

He was just being modest. Actually, Chester has about 50 to 60 brothers and sisters around the country. They just aren't quite like him.

And he has a father: Dr. Boyd M. Bolvin, head of the Bellevue Community College Library, or the Library Media Center, as the college calls it.

Chester can do things like tell you corny jokes, scare you with old radio mysteries, teach you German, or shorthand, recite the latest speeches of local political candidates, blast you with vintage rock 'n' roll, or sing old Nixon campaign songs, complete with orchestra and chorus.

Bolvin said he became interested in lessons-by-telephone while doing graduate work at the University of Southern California. The $80,000 machine was installed at the college about five years ago, shortly after Bolvin arrived.

Chester was named after his installer, Chester Electronics of Chester, Conn. Somebody decided that Ubiquitous Dial Access Information Retrieval System didn't have the right ring to it.

Chester originally was meant for the college's students. They could simply call him by phone and pick their lesson. In the school library, the lectures are linked to small television screens where they can see what Chester is talking about. The tapes are made by teachers, or Chester's voice, Mark Balsam, 27, who is in charge of programming.

But Chester's fame spread by word of mouth and his unlisted telephone number was passed on to others outside the campus. That's fine with Bolvin. He hopes listeners will come up with more program ideas.

Chester does have one quirk. To reach him in his air conditioned vault, a caller must use a touch-tone telephone. Dial phones don't have the necessary asterisk key.

And his phone bill is outrageous: $200 a month. But what can you expect from a machine that gets 30,000 calls a month on 10 telephone lines?

Dita Beard Is Hospitalized

DENVER (AP) — Dita Beard, the lobbyist whose memo allegedly linked International Telephone & Telegraph's antitrust settlement to a Republican party donation, has been back in the hospital.

She was hospitalized here in 1972, when news reports said she was visited by Watergate burglar and White House plumber E. Howard Hunt disguised in a red wig.

Foreman Is Honored Guest

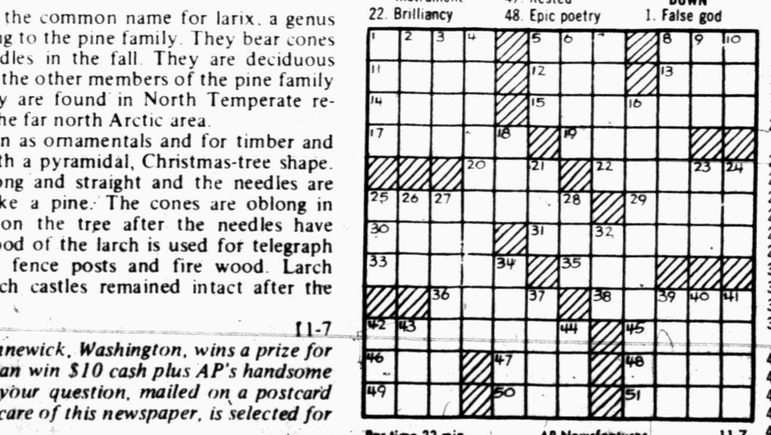

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller and his brothers gave $11.7 million to charity and pledged millions more in 1973.

The money actually dispensed was made known Wednesday in a report by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

Monoxide Poisoning Is Ruled In Van Deaths

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Fumes of an unvented charcoal cooker in a closed van apparently claimed the lives of an unemployed psychology professor and his teen-age daughter, medical investigators said.

A rancher spotted the van, containing both bodies and four other members of the same family, parked Wednesday along U.S. 82 near Mayhill in southern New Mexico.

A deputy medical investigator, Dr. William A. Boehm, said preliminary reports on the bodies of William Thomas Orr, 48, of Pittston, Pa., and his daughter Annette, 13, indicated carbon monoxide poisoning.

Orr's wife Lillian, 44, and sons William, 12, Joseph, 11, and Gregory, 7, were taken to an Alamogordo hospital.

The van apparently had run out of gas. Officials said there was a charcoal cooker in the back along with an empty charcoal bag.

"Charcoal definitely puts out enough carbon monoxide in a small closed area like that to kill several people," Boehm said.

He couldn't tell whether the cooker had been fired to heat the van or for use in preparing food, he said.

"I have no doubt but that if they hadn't run out of charcoal, they'd all be dead," Boehm said.

Doctors said they apparently hadn't eaten in several days and were suffering from exposure.

Deputies said Mrs. Orr told them her husband and daughter had been dead three days.

The doctor said carbon monoxide poisoning may have prevented members of the family from leaving the van to seek help.

"The kids were weak and confused. Those things are compatible with carbon monoxide poisoning," Boehm said.

Temperatures in the area had dipped well below freezing.

The Otero County sheriff's office said earlier that Orr and the daughter had died or starvation.

District Atty. Norman Bloom and Sheriff Felix Work said an investigation will continue.

Work said Orr, who apparently held a doctorate in psychology, had applied for a job at the University of Texas at Austin.

The family, he said, "was just traveling through the country—they had been up in Utah, California, Arizona and Texas."

The van, found near an apple orchard, bore various inscriptions. On the left side were the words "Kichanou Nich-Ia-Wana-Pea-O." Below that were the words "Servants of the Holy Family" and "Neuro Kinesis the Miracle Cure."

The back of the van bore the inscription: "We travel to aid the sick by charity. Will you help!"

And in the back window was a handwritten sign, "We have no money or means. We serve God and men in a vow of charity. We need—gas—food—money."

The man's body was sitting in the driver's seat. The girl was wrapped in a blanket in the back. Boehm said Orr had been closest to the charcoal cooker.

The woman and children were described by deputies as "so weak they had to help them out of the van to an ambulance."

HORSEPOWER VS. MULEPOWER—Large dump trucks pass a lone rider and his mule on a road leading to the immense Toktogulskaya dam and hydropower station on the Soviet Union's Naryn River. The dam, upon completion, will provide a vast area with electricity and irrigation waters. Although the trucks pretty much fill the road, they keep a sharp eye out for their counterpart in horsepower. (AP Wirephoto)

Balanced Budget .. Hopes Are Fading

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration hopes that President Ford can balance the federal budget for the first time in seven years are fading fast, Treasury Department officials believe.

They chiefly blame the sagging economy, which they feel will reduce the revenues the government would obtain in corporate and individual income taxes. In addition, they expect new spending pressures from Congress to ease recession and unemployment.

"My guess at the moment is that the revenue prospect for fiscal 1976 makes it difficult to assure a balanced budget for that year," said Sidney Jones, counselor to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

"The challenge for 1976 is to keep the spending side of the budget under control," said Jones in an interview. "There is a great risk of it getting out of hand."

Another key Treasury official, who did not want to be quoted by name, agreed with Jones' assessment that a balanced budget would be difficult to achieve, especially because of the sagging economy.

In addition, this official said Tuesday's election results, which gave substantial gains to the Democrats, means "we will end up with an extremely liberal 94th Congress.

"Congress will find it extremely difficult to resist big spending."

The Ford administration strategy will be to get as much of its economic program through the final weeks of the lame-duck 93rd Congress, including the 5 per cent income surtax, which already has met with considerable opposition.

Jones said the administration feels the Ford tax program — which also includes an increase in the investment tax credit and tax exemptions for dividends on preferred stock — will stand a better chance of passage in the existing Congress.

In a speech in Chicago Wednesday night, Simon said, in effect, that the existing Congress will be irresponsible if it fails to enact the Ford program promptly.

"If the Congress refuses to act in the next few weeks, we should recognize that position for what it is — a conscious, deliberate decision to let inflation rage on," Simon said.

He added that inflation has helped place the American free enterprise system "in grave danger today."

Simon said the administration will not retreat from its program, despite the election results, although it will be willing to compromise on some points, "especially on details."

But Simon, Jones and other officials made clear the administration will fight any move in the next Congress to reimpose wage and price controls, although they acknowledged there might be increased pressure for such controls.

Joan Is Fined, Loses License

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Joan Kennedy, wife of Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, has been fined $200 and lost her Virginia driver's permit for six months after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

The fine and suspension were imposed Wednesday by Judge Lewis Hall Griffith of Fairfax General District Court. Mrs. Kennedy did not appear in court. Her plea was entered by her lawyer.

The charge stemmed from an Oct. 9 accident at a traffic signal near the Kennedy estate in McLean, Va. Police said Mrs. Kennedy ran into the rear of a car stopped at the signal and that car, in turn, struck another. No one was injured.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

★★★

Q. I have applied for a new job with a company in Hawaii. Since I live in Vermont, the company will pay my travel expenses to fly to Honolulu for the interview. Do I have to pay tax on this payment?

A. If a prospective employer asks you to appear for an interview and agrees to pay you an allowance, or to reimburse you for your transportation and other expenses, the amount you receive is income only to the extent that it exceeds your actual expenses. However, if the employer pays the expenses as an inducement to you to accept the employment, the entire amount must be included in your income.

Q. I have bought a second house with the intention of renting it out. When my new tenants move in, they'll pay me a security deposit. Is this deposit considered rental income?

A. Security deposits received for the renter's performance under the lease are not usually included in rental income. If you appropriate the deposit because your tenent has defaulted on the lease, then the deposit becomes income to you. Furthermore, if you decide the deposit will be applied as a rent payment for the last period of the lease, then it is advance rent and you must report it when you receive it.

Q. Where do I report the royalty income I receive from the sale of my book?

A. You should generally report your royalty income on Part II of Schedule E (Form 1040), Supplemental Income Schedule. However, if you are a self-employed writer, you should report your gross income and expenses on Schedule C (Form 1040).

Q. After my last physical examination, my doctor told me to get more exercise and lose some weight. Can I deduct the amount of my dues for membership in a health club as a medical expense?

A. Generally, no. If your doctor did not tell you to lose weight because of a particular disease or defect but rather for the preservation of general health, your health club dues are not deductible as a medical expense.

Satellite To Watch Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat fields in a huge area of North America will be watched by a new U.S. satellite next year as part of a project aimed at keeping closer tabs on the world's food supply.

The project will involve the government's second Earth Resources Satellite, ERTS-B, to be launched in January, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday. The crop watching portion is called the Large Area Crop Inventory Experiment or LACIE.

"Wheat will be the test crop for this experiment," the department said. "At the outset, LACIE, which will continue over several growing seasons, will concentrate on a major wheat-producing region such as the Great Plains."

The satellite survey was announced earlier this week by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger who told the World Food Conference in Rome that it would be part of a new scientific endeavor to help determine global food situations.

Department officials said if the experiment is successful its techniques will be expanded to other areas of the world and be included in making routine forecasts of U.S. crop production.

Rhoda's Wedding Rings Bells

NEW YORK (AP) — The wedding of Rhoda Morgenstern in a special one-hour version of CBS' "Rhoda" series rang ratings bells last week. The show was the nation's most-watched program then, A. C. Nielsen statistics say.

The ratings, for the week of Oct. 28-Nov. 3, showed that the "Rhoda" nuptials were seen in an estimated 24 million American homes. The ratings were made public Wednesday.

Repeats of three other CBS programs, all of them specials, also did extremely well in last week's ratings. They were "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown," "Dr. Seuss: On the Loose," and "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman."

The Nielsen ratings showed them ranked third, fourth and 15th, respectively, of all evening entertainment rated that week.

The 20 most-watched programs on network TV last week, according to the ratings, were: "Rhoda" (CBS); "Sanford and Son" (NBC); "Charlie Brown," "Dr. Seuss" and "M-A-S-H" (all CBS); "Chico and the Man" (NBC); "The Waltons" and "Good Times" (CBS); "Little House on the Prairie" and "Walt Disney" (both NBC); "Hawaii Five-O" and "Mary Tyler Moore" (both CBS); ABC Wednesday Movie ("Death Cruise"); "Miss Jane Pittman" and "Bob Newhart" (both CBS); "The Rockford Files" (NBC); NBC Saturday Movies ("The New Centurions"); "Medical Center" (CBS), and NBC Sunday Mystery ("McCloud").

The least-watched program of the week, according to the Nielsen findings, was ABC's "Nakia."

Canned Beef Plan Pushed By IBPA

CLARKSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Independent Beef Producers of America has asked Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's support for a plan to use canned beef to feed the world's starving people, particularly in Bangladesh.

A vice president of the group, Lee Perkins of Clarksville, asked Kissinger, whom he called "the world's most renowned salesman" to help sell the government on the idea.

"We ask this program be instituted immediately to save the starving of Bangladesh," Perkins said in a wire to the secretary of state Tuesday.

R.L. Moore, president of the group, said in an interview Wednesday that the beef producers have tried for about six weeks to get the government to start the canning program.

He said there is an overabundance of grass-fed steers and young cows that cannot be accommodated in the domestic market. He said the canned beef could be used in foreign aid, in international trade, and in disaster relief.

"We feel that if we're going to give food away to these starving nations, we should give them something we have plenty of," Moore said. "This program would help the grass roots farmer and rancher."

Moore said that in his travels through a five-state area he found that many beef producers are facing bankruptcy because of low demand for beef. He said some of the loss of demand results from increased beef imports.

Moore said the cattlemen are not seeking a subsidy, but only a "realistic, reasonable market for our product."

Moore said the cattlemen's group represents about 25,000 ranchers nationwide.

Turnout Lowest Since 1946

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voter turnout for Tuesday's elections fell to the lowest level of any year since 1946, with an unofficial count showing that 38 per cent of the voting age population cast ballots.

"It's disheartening that voters personally affected both by Watergate and our economic crisis did not turn out in higher numbers," Ruth Clusen, president of the League of Women Voters, said Wednesday.

The turnout Tuesday, tabulated in an Associated Press survey, was the lowest since 1946 when 37.1 per cent of the voting age population exercised the right to vote, according to U.S. Census Bureau figures. The lowest figure on record is 32.5 per cent for 1942, when millions of men were away from home because of mobilization for World War II.

The official figure for Tuesday may turn out to be less than 38 per cent. The Census Bureau bases its figures on the vote cast for all House races, which usually is less than the vote in statewide races which was used for the AP calculation.

Madam Questions Vote Count

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Brothel madam Beverly Harrell is "madder than a wet hen" over alleged irregularities in vote counting that showed her losing in a state Assembly contest, officials say.

"She's screaming foul," Secretary of State William Swackhamer said Wednesday after final returns showed Mrs. Harrell lost to Hawthorne garage owner Don Moody, a 44-year-old grandfather, by 123 votes. Both are Democrats

Swackhamer said Mrs. Harrell questioned the vote count because "she felt a group of citizens was bitterly opposed to her possibly winning the election."

Mrs. Harrell, 45, operates the Cottontail Ranch, a legal establishment north of Las Vegas. Part of her complaint centered on apparent failure by officials in one county to turn up final results until Wednesday morning, hours after the polls closed.

Man To Be Quizzed On Missing Missionaires

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Police say they will question a man arrested on firearms regulation about the disappearance of two Mormon missionaries.

Beyond that, homicide Lt. Colon Jordan said he would have "nothing else to say."

Robert Kleasen, 42, was arrested at 2:10 p.m. Tuesday on a charge he falsely claimed when he bought a shotgun that he was not under indictment for a crime punishable by more than one year imprisonment.

U.S. Commissioner Pahl Sanders said agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco Tax and Firearms alleged that Kleasen is under indictment in New York on a charge of felonious assault.

Sanders set $10,000 bond for Kleasen and said he would appoint an attorney for him.

Gary Darley, 20, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Mark Fisher, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis., were last seen Oct. 28 a few hours before they were scheduled to meet with Kleasen. They reportedly had eaten dinner with him each Monday night for several weeks.

Austin police have quoted Kleasen as saying the two missionaries failed to keep the Oct. 28 dinner date.

Officers reportedly found a convention-style name tag belonging to one of the missionaries when they searched Kleasen's mobile home. The tag had a bullethole in it.

Also reportedly found in the home were a watch with blood on it and a religious text used by Mormons.

Kleasen's home is behind a taxidermist's studio in the rugged hill country west of Austin. Police searched a creek below the mobile home Tuesday.

Kleasen was arrested two miles south of Burnet—50 miles west of Austin—where he reportedly had attended religious services in the Burnet Pentacostal Church. He was armed, officers said, with a rifle, a pistol and a knife.

The missionaries' car was discovered stripped of its wheels and license plates in an apartment complex parking lot in Austin Nov. 4. Officers said the person that stripped the car had the keys because the spare tire and jack were missing from the trunk, which had not been forced open.

Kleasen has 10 days in which to request a preliminary hearing before Sanders on the firearms charge. The government would be required to establish its allegation about the New York indictment before Sanders could bind Kleasen over to the federal grand jury.

Texas Secretary of State Mark White refused extradition of Kleasen to New York last June.

Sailor Finds America Unlike Soviets Pictured

LOCUST, N.J. (AP) — Simas Kudirka came to the United States expecting to find his new country wracked by starvation.

That was what propaganda in the Soviet Union told him to expect, the 44-year-old Lithuanian seaman who was freed from a treason sentence said Wednesday, his first full day in the United States.

He said he wanted some first-hand information, so he went shopping to see if there was a shortage of food and to find out whether the quality of food in this country was poor.

"That certainly is not the case," said Kudirka, whose Soviet prison diet was such that his teeth began to rot.

Soviet propaganda depicts the United States as gripped by massive unemployment and starvation and its workers as under the thumb of factory supervisors "who want to squeeze out the last bit of blood from workers for their personal gains and who, with automation ... want to get rid of workers," Kudirka said.

He attempted to escape to the United States four years ago only to be returned to the Soviets by the Coast Guard. He was declared a U.S. citizen while in a Soviet prison.

He is temporarily staying with one of the families who worked for his release to the United States. Kudirka, his wife, two children and mother arrived Tuesday from Moscow.

Still groping with adjustment, he said he has to "find out what I'm going to do for a job, what my wife is going to do for a job, about school for my children and where we are going to live."

Kudirka said in an interview conducted through an interpreter that the Russians were stopped twice from killing him when he attempted to escape to the United States by boarding a U.S. Coast Guard cutter from his Soviet fishing trawler anchored off the Massachusetts coast and asking for asylum.

When the Russians were permitted by the cutter's captain to come aboard and arrest him, they tried "to hang me with a telephone wire (electric cable) and a Coast Guardsman stopped them by separating them and trying to get them to stop it.

"After I was back on the Russian ship, they tried to kill me until someone screamed that they had to stop because I had to be brought back," Kudirka said.

He said he was shipped back to his port in Lithuania on another boat in a room used for sailors who go insane at sea.

Kudirka said he was convicted for treason and sent to prison for a 10-year term.

He was declared a U.S. citizen two months after the State Department gave the same status to his Brooklyn-born mother, who was taken to Lithuania by her parents before World War II.

Mexico Unveils Plans To Stave Off Famine

By ALFONSO CHARDY
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico unveiled plans to "stave off the ghost of famine" in the future with food stockpiles as Congress began work on a tax reform bill designed to provide funds for increased food production.

Congress also authorized President Luis Echeverria, author of the tax bill, to fly to Rome this weekend to address the World Food Conference on Monday.

Echeverria is expected to reiterate his proposal for a world food reserve bank at the conference, sponsored by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

Echeverria first disclosed his proposal last Feb. 9 in an FAO appearance during a European trip.

Speaking Tuesday, U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger proposed world food reserves to the conference. He said distribution of the stockpiled food should be coordinated by an international agency.

Kissinger called on oil producing nations to help foot the food bill for the world's hungry millions and for the stockpiles.

Mexican Health Minister Jorge Jimenez Cantu told newsmen Wednesday that the Echeverria administration has drafted plans for what he called a national food bank for "an orderly distribution of food and to stave off the ghost of famine in our country."

Although Jimenez Cantu did not provide details of the plan, his announcement was seen as Mexico's first concrete step to prepare for growing world hunger.

The government sent Congress a sweeping tax reform package two weeks ago. Finance Minister Jose Lopez Portillo described it as necessary to provide money to accelerate food production and finance oil exploitation programs.

He said the government expected to obtain about $3.2 billion in tax revenue next year if the bill is approved, double the income from taxes since 1970 when Echeverria took office.

A congressional committee agreed to a bill providing for a 15 per cent tax on restaurant and bar bills but reduced a controversial gasoline tax for regular gas during work on the bill Wednesday.

The original tax bill clause on gasoline called for a 32-cent (U.S.) tax per gallon on both regular and ethyl gasoline. But the committee cut the tax down for regular to 26 cents a gallon, and left the 32-cent levy intact for ethyl.

Thus regular gasoline would rise from its current 43 cents a gallon to 69 cents a gallon and ethyl would go up from 64 to 96 cents a gallon.

The bill is expected to be approved before the end of the month.

Congress is controlled by deputies of the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party (PRI), of which Echeverria is a member.

The government says it needs the money also to develop Mexico's new oil finds in the southeastern states of Tabasco and Chiapas, where unproved reserves could exceed 20 billion barrels.

School Suit Filed

HOUSTON (AP) — A state district court suit brought for three minor children, all Mexican nationals, asks for a court order to force the Houston School District to re-enroll them without tuition fees.

Jose Luis Ledezma, 9, and his brother and siter Magali, 7, and Alicia, 10, claimed in the suit filed Wednesday that all children between the ages of 6 and 18 are entitled to attend schools within the district where they reside.

The petition states they were enrolled last September by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Ledezma, and officials said the children must either pay tuition or drop out of school because they were in the United States illegally.

The suit was filed through Jesus Sifuentes of the Houston Legal Foundation. The children claim they are taking the necessary steps to become permanent resident aliens.

The father, a laborer, is a permanent resident alien and the mother is a recently naturalized citizen.

Lawyer Peter Williamson said the suit was a class action on behalf of all school age children with the same problem.

Disturbance Shuts Schools

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Schools in this Hudson River city were closed today because of a rock-throwing disturbances Wednesday.

Police said the disturbances began at the Newburgh Free Academy, where a fight broke out and spread over the city's northeast side.

Officers in surrounding communities were summoned late in the day and riot garbed police patrolled the city's major streets.

The situation was reported quiet early today.

Seventeen persons were reported injured in rock throwing incidents. Some arrests were made, but police would no give details.

The cause of the disturbances was not known, police said.

Breast Cancer Rare In Males

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — About 32,750 women will die from breast cancer in 1974 but few people know the disease will also kill about 250 men, a Philadelphia physician says.

And because breast cancer is so rare in men, they may not recognize it or become concerned when they notice lumps on their chest, says Dr. Paul A. DeMare, associate professor of radiation therapy at Philadelphoia's Thomas Jefferson University Hospital.

DeMare estimates there are about 700 new cases of male breast cancer every year in the United States.

"It never crosses the mind of a man who finds a lump in his chest," he told the American Society of Therapeutic Radiologists' convention Sunday. "In fact, he may not even know there is such a thing."

DeMare said doctors often overlook the possibility of male breast cancer though tumors are the main cause of lumps in the male breast.

Diagnosis is often delayed for months or even years and may be one reason men have only a 50-50 chance of living five years after breast cancer surgery, he said.

DeMare said that two-thirds of the men treated for breast cancer are more than 65 years old.

DeMare said the surgery is the about the same in both sexes — removal of the breast tissue, underlying muscle and nearby lymph nodes.

The symptoms are a lump or open sore near the nipple, a retracted or inverted nipple, and in some cases a discharge, he said.

Nine World War I Vets Meet In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — They lived in a time when Johnny came marching home—when Doughboys returned from France to a hero's welcome.

"But Oklahoma beat them all in hospitality. 'Twas plain to see American was their nationality," goes a verse in their history book, "How It Happened."

"If we'd accepted all requests that were received to stay, no doubt the Ammunition Train would be there to this day," goes the verse in the book Charles Rice, 78, brought to the reunion of "what is left of Co. F, 111th Ammunition Train, 36th Division."

That's the way W. Clay Tichenor, 80, of Santa Maria, Calif., described the nine World War I veterans who assembled in an Oklahoma City hotel bar Wednesday night.

"These men are all volunteers of the First World War. When we went to France in late 1917 there were 186 men and 212 horses. Today there are 12 men alive so far as we know, and there are nine of us present," said Tichenor, once a newspaperman for the Oklahoman & Times here and the Los Angeles Times.

For an hour, the gentlemen sat over beer and bourbon drinks in the bar, swapping again the familiar stories of packing the ammo from the railhead to the front lines against the Germans.

Then they moved to a dining room and Jack Roberts, 76, got a telephone call through to St. Petersburg, Fla., to the widow of Col. Donald R. Bonfoey, who as a major had commanded Company F.

When Roberts handed the telephone to Tichenor, who had been captain of Co. A., Tichenor's voice broke, and he admitted he was crying. The telephone was passed along the table, but some of the men couldn't hear well enough to converse with Mrs. Bonfoey. Rice can hear well enough, but has a speech problem so couldn't make himself understood on the telephone.

Finally the conversation ended with Frank McGuigan, 79, saying "Thank you, sweetheart."

It was McGuigan who engineered the first of the annual reunions last year. Oklahoma City was chosen as the site because most of the Co. F men live here—Rice, McGuigan, Roberts, Byron Cook, 81, and Mack Landrum, 77.

John Bradley, 81, of Tulsa, was at the table as was Clay's brother, McHenry Tichenor, youngest of the group at 75. McHenry Tichenor, Clay's brother of Harlingen, Tex., is one of the few Co. F vets still active, and runs a group of broadcast stations in Texas, Florida and Arizona.

The only men missing from the gathering Wednesday night were F.M. Young of Windsor, Mo., Sam Campbell of Kansas City, Mo., and G.C. Wimbish of Oklahoma City.

Before it became Co. F., the group was Troop B, First Oklahoma Cavalry in the National Guard. It was mobilized for the war at Camp Bowie at Fort Worth, Tex.

The company historian, author of "How It Happened And Other Poems," is or was Pvt. Edwin Underhill, a Texan whose further identification is unknown to the Co. F veterans beyond the title page of the worn, brown leather bound book Charles Rice brings to the reunion every year.
