All 'A' Gasoline Books Expire On Wednesday, July 21

Motorists are reminded that all Gasoline "A" books expire on Wednesday, July 21, and up to Monday one-half of Dawson County car owners had made application for new coupons.

According to the Dawson County War Price and Rationing Board many of the renewal applications are coming in not correctly filled in, therefore these have to be returned to the applicant and time is lost. All applications must be signed, and all blanks must be filled in, before starting to fill in the blanks car owners are urged to read all instructions carefully.

All old "A" coupons expire July 21, and the new coupons will be good on July 22. Unless large numbers of car owners make applications for new coupons at once, chances are many Dawson County Motorists will be without gasoline for several days.

It takes considerable time to complete the applications for new coupons and it will be impossible to handle several hundred applications during the final days therefore many car owners, making late application will not receive their new books on time, the ration board reports.

War Production Postwar Problems Talked at Meet

War production and postwar problems of farmers and ranchmen were discussed at the annual conference of production credit association directors from 4 North and West Texas associations in Abilene on July 8 and 9, according to Roscoe Holton of Lamesa, director of the Sweetwater Production Credit Ass'n.

The group recommended "maximum and efficient production for the war, making use of today's markets to get debts in better shape and building up War Bond reserves to help tide over the strain of readjustment after the war," Mr. Holton said.

Problems discussed included shortages of labor, feed, supplies, machinery and replacements. He said that it was felt by the farmer-stockmen leaders from over these 31 North and West Texas counties that "although credit today for responsible and capable producers is as abundant as water after a rain, the fundamental need of agriculture is a source that will not dry up. The thing that breaks a lot of good farmers is having good, sound, but 'slow' loans called at the bottom of hard times."

"Our conference urged that we assist farmers in getting the most out of their operations, study to eliminate lost motion, and produce the most possible for war needs. All believed that after debts are cut to a safe level, saving out of earnings should go into War Bonds to help finance the war and to be used after the war to buy replacements and improvements that cannot be purchased today."

Mr. Holton said that the PCAs are making "good progress toward full ownership of the cooperatives by the members. These four associations have a combined member stock investment of $396,230 and an earned surplus of $223,859 already. We must build now, both strong associations for the future and strong individual operations to

Ackerly Airman Decorated For Downing Japs

ACKERLY, July 15. — Staff Sgt. Horace C. Goodman Sr., formerly of Monahans, has won the Air Medal and Oak Leaf Cluster to the Air Medal as the ball turret gunner of a Flying Fortress in the Southwest Pacific.

He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Horace C. Goodman Sr., his father is pastor of the Ackerly Baptist Church. The family lived at Monahans, when he enlisted in June, 1941. He has been on combat duty since April of last year.

His Fortress destroyed two enemy fighter planes in a battle after raiding Rabaul, New Britain, April 12 of this year, and he is personally credited with at least two Japanese planes.

Announcement of the award of the Oak Leaf Cluster to his Air Medal was made July 5. Meanwhile, Mrs. Goodman had received a letter from a former member of her son's Fortress crew.

"I last saw Horace at Port Moresby a little over a month ago," the letter said. "He was our ball turret gunner for over a year, and a good one. He has two or three Zeros to his credit and will come home with a few good medals."

The friend, George Boardingham of New Rochelle, N. Y., wrote after he returned home on furlough.

Ration of Coffee Soon To Be Lifted

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Office of Price administration officials predicted today that coffee rationing will end on or before August 11, and supplies of coffee will be ample to provide all the aromatic brew that Americans can drink.

Coffee supplies appear to justify cancellation of all restrictions, they said, and only some totally unpredictable event — such as a new outbreak of submarine warfare in the Caribbean—could block dropping of rationing.

The verdict it was understood, was reached at a special meeting between representatives of the OPA and the agriculture department.

President Roosevelt said recently that improvements in the battle against U-boats gave promise of removing consumer restrictions on coffee and sugar.

However, in the case of sugar, OPA feels the President was a little premature.

Get your tin cans and waste fats ready for the special salvage drive which will be held here Thursday, July 22. The drive, which takes place between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock, will be made in trucks.

Collections will be made at each house in Lamesa by the local Boy and Girl Scout Troops. It is hoped that each housewife will have her cans and fats ready when the Scouts call. Any amount, either large or small, will be appreciated.

It is urged that citizens will place more cans in the pen that has been constructed on the south side of the courthouse square for this purpose. The members of the Salvage Group asked that people refrain from putting any kind of scrap in the pen but tin cans. Scrap metal and rubber should be held until a later date. The Coe's Cola Bottling Company will provide transportation to haul the cans to shipping points when the pen has been filled.

Markets will pay 4 cents per pound for waste fats, but you are asked to donate it to the Girl Scouts during this special drive. Tin cans must also be donated.

Waste fat should be strained and placed in a jar or can with a lid. Strong odored fats will be accepted.

All tin cans up to the one gallon size are wanted. Wash the cans, remove the ends, and label, and press together. Slightly rusty or burned cans can be used if they do not flake off when pressed.

Housewives are urged to cooperate with the Scouts in staging this drive next Thursday.

Naples Bombed, Left In Chared and Blazing Ruins

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 16. (AP) — Adopting the RAF's tactics of crushing and burning one Axis industrial city at a time, the great Allied North African bomber force yesterday turned its fury against Naples, Italy's chief seaport, and transformed it into a blazing inferno—possibly knocked it out as a factor in the waning Italian war effort.

Four huge waves of American Flying Fortresses deluged the stricken port with thousands of explosives and incendiary bombs, shattering the royal armory, demolishing acres of harbor and industrial installations and wreathing the city, famed for its one-time beauty, in smoke that billowed 20,000 feet into the air.

Equal To Messina

Allied headquarters estimated the damage done by the staggering blow to be as great as that inflicted upon the Sicilian port of Messina during the previous day and night, when an area two miles long and one mile wide was gouged from the heart of its harbor section.

It is through Naples, port for the capital of Rome, that the bulk of reinforcements and supplies for the hard-pressed Axis defenders of Sicily must be moved now that for more convenient route across from the toe of the Italian boot apparently has been knocked out by the devastating attack on Messina.

The enemy's aerial defense of Sicily itself rapidly was approaching complete collapse as clouds of Allied bombers and fighters swept the island, demoralizing Axis communications and shooting up everything in sight.

"Very few enemy aircraft were seen during the day and few attempted to fight, although our fighters and bombers flew back and forth at will, said an Allied announcement.

USDA WAR BOARD DEALS WITH FARM IMPLEMENT SHORTAGE

Farm Machinery Dealers, County Agents, County USDA War Board Members, representatives of County Farm Machinery Rationing Committees attended a special meeting on Farm Machinery held at the Crawford Hotel, Big Spring, on Tuesday night, July 13, 1943. From this city Olin Nis, Olin Earnest, L. P. Jones, A. W. Williams, representatives of Earnest and Nix Implement Co., and Joe M. Peterson, representative of Farm Machinery Rationing Committee attended.

Ben Roberts, Mgr., of International Harvester Company, presided over the meeting and introduced Mr. Henry Reithman, Assistant Mgr., who was the principle speaker of the evening. Mr. Reithman explained the Farm Machinery Program not as to how it affects his company in particular, but how the program affects the Farm Machinery Industry. He stated that there has been considerable discussion as to who is responsible for the shortage of farm machinery. Some people have blamed the War Production Board, others the manufacturers, distributors and dealers, and others the Department of Agriculture and County and State War Boards. We all like to appear sympathetic and it is altogether too easy for both the manufacturer and the Rationing Committee to follow the lines of least resistance and not set the farmer right on his complaint, but rather just listen and if not actually express accord, to at least infer accord with these complaints when a few words of explanation would point out how unjustified they are.

In order to fully appreciate the problems of everyone concerned with the production and distribution of farm machinery, we must place ourselves in the other fellow's shoes. This meeting is an effort to clear up some of the misunderstandings concerning the whole farm machinery problem and to assist us in appreciating the other fellow's problems.

WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

It is the responsibility of the War Production Board to place materials where they will make the greatest contribution to the war effort. Even though the amount of steel has been carefully allocated, the orders of vital war industries including agriculture are now over 1,000,000 tons of steel per month in excess of maximum production. There is not a day passes but what some plant that is producing tanks, guns, battle ships, etc., is required to stop production because of a shortage of some item of steel.

The farm machinery and equipment branch of WPB and also the Department of Agriculture is recommended that 38 per cent of the 1940 production of farm machinery be permitted. The War Production Board, however, acting upon the recommendation of the Office of Civilian Supply allowed only 23 per cent of the 1940 production in the original order governing the manufacture of farm machinery. This low figure of 23 per cent was later recognized as inadequate and WPB took steps to correct the error insofar as possible by granting increased tonnage for repairs, better priority ratings and by increased production of many items of farm machinery.

THE FARM IMPLEMENT MANUFACTURERS

There have been stories that the manufacturerers preferred to make implements of war rather than farm machinery. Such stories are not true. Manufacturers have a great investment in all factories, distribution branch houses, dealers' organization and the good will of farmers. In many cases their farm implement production facilities could not be converted to the production of war material. They took the job of producing war materials because it was a patriotic necessity, not because it was more profitable. Manufacturers would prefer to make farm implements in order to continue the business that has taken generations to build.

“I’d like to tell you what the Japs did to some friends of mine”

“Those American boys — who fought for you with their back to the wall, waiting for help that never reached them — came from the land of plenty. But when their lives were at stake, all they had was . . . plenty of nothing!”

“They were outnumbered, outgunned, and outsupplied. They were so short of ammunition that antiaircraft gunners often had to hold their fire until the enemy planes were on top of them. They were so short of bandages and gauze that we nurses had to wash out the old ones and use them again.

“But they were never short of courage. They never spoke of surrender. They just went on fighting, and hoping, and dying. And no sacrifice was ever too great.

patients on our operating tables in 8 hours — a new patient every two minutes of the day.

“A sailor was brought in with his abdomen blown to bits. He was a goner and I think he knew it. ‘Doctor,’ he asked, ‘is there any hope at all?’

“The doctor wished to reassure him and replied, ‘We’ll do everything we can!’ The sailor tried to roll over. ‘Doc,’ he begged, ‘get me off this table and save one of those other fellows who still has a fighting chance.’

That was the kind of men we had at Bataan. And they would want you to remember not only what they did, but what they did without.

“Remember them now — this month and every month — by buying War Bonds!”

“Buy guns and planes and shells and ships and tanks — for those other countrymen of yours who are fighting so far from home. See to it that never again, any place in the world, will American fighting men be caught short as they were on Bataan! That never again will American wounded perish for the help your dollars might have sent!”

“Certainly taxes are higher! Certainly the cost of living has gone up. But the men on Bataan were never ten-percenters!”

“They gave everything they had. And now it’s up to you to buy War Bonds not only if you can, but all you can! Please believe me folks — that’s the way the boys on Bataan would like to be remembered!”

The WPB order on farm machinery (L-170) being releases months later than the average manufacturers would place his order for materials was naturally the first cause of the delay in fabricating machinery. The next greatest cause of the delay has been inability to get critical materials to complete machines since it takes 100 per cent of every item before a machine can be completed and manufactured.

While the priority now granted the farm machinery manufacturers is comparable to war industries, the critical materials are still hard to get because of directives issued by the War Departments for critical materials needed by them.

Although an increase from 130 per cent to 160 per cent was granted in material for repairs. This has proved to be entirely insufficient since the repair sales reflect a much greater increase than 160 per cent over the average of 1940 and 41. Many of the manufacturers have filed appeals for increased tonnage for repairs. Until these appeals are granted there will continue to be difficulty in getting adequate repairs on time.

Rationing above the retail level has another big factor in the delay in getting deliveries of machines in proper places and with proper equipment for the territory involved promptly.

THE FARM IMPLEMENT DEALER

The farm implement dealer has the same stake in this war as everyone else. He wants it finished as soon as possible. His part in the war effort is to provide service to the farmers in their food production battle. You may be sure he is making every effort to secure as many repairs and new implements as possible not only because he knows his farmer customers need them, but also because it is his business and his means of livelihood. The implement dealer is handicapped by loss of his men, by a small volume of merchandise to sell and by difficulty in many instances in obtaining wares.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE STATE AND COUNTY WAR BOARDS

Because of concentration of manufacture making it necessary for the small class B and C manufacturers to distribute in territories where they have had no representation, the Department of Agriculture felt it would be necessary to ration what equipment was permitted under that order.

Rationing of farm machinery is a thankless job. We are sure that although many mistakes have been made that all concerned have done the best they know how. All had the same problems, the Washington office did not have enough machinery to meet state needs. State War Boards did not have enough machinery to meet individual farmers' needs. Tags and quotas were difficult to establish although believed necessary to insure a fair distribution of machinery.

GENERAL

If everyone will place himself in the "other fellow's shoes" for a minute, we are sure that they will realize no one group can be blamed for the current farm machinery problem. Everyone has done the best they could with what they had to work with. It is up to us to continue to do our best and it is up to the farmers to get the job done by sharing and repairing their present machinery. We are sure the perseverance and ingenuity of all concerned will solve our farm machinery problems.

OUTLOOK FOR 1944 FARM MACHINERY

From all indications it appears that a greater supply of farm machinery will be available for 1944. Construction of war plants and tools for making war materials has reached the point where their steel requirements will be much less. One thing we can do at this present time to help secure additional farm machinery for 1944 is to again emphasize the need for getting all scrap metal off the farms and out of the junk yards into the steel mills. It takes scrap iron to make steel for farm machinery. Food is needed now. We will all do our best this year and hope our machinery problems will be less difficult in 1944.

That was the kind of men we had at Bataan. And they would want you to remember not only what they did, but what they did without.

Ellis McCarty Writes From England

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter was received by Tamzy McCarty from her brother Ellis, who is a former business man of Lamesa. He has recently arrived in England and is a member of the Medical Corps.

July 1, 1943

Dear Sister:

Here it is I have changed addresses again and I am now in dear old England. We had a real nice trip across and all of us really enjoyed it.

We are stationed here in a beautiful place and I am sure that I am going to like it fine. We are a long ways from any action and I do not want you to worry about me one bit. We are also getting plenty to eat, in fact better than we had in the states.

England is really a beautiful country this time of the year. It is much different than the states, for everything is much smaller, and each plot of land is separated by a rock fence which gives it a map like effect from a distance.

I have not had time to visit any of the towns as yet so can't tell you about them, but I have not learned to understand this English so it would not help me much. Answer by V-Mail so I will get it quicker.

Love,

ELLIS.

IT'S doubly important to keep yourself on the job these days because Uncle Sam needs all the production he can get. That makes it all the more advisable to wear a thoroughly dependable Safety Shoe. It not only helps keep up production but it also saves you from needless suffering and loss of pay.

That's why more workers every day are adopting Wolverine Shell Horsehide SAFETY Shoes. Their concealed toe armor will take a great crushing force. But, every bit as important, these SAFETY Shoes are soft as buckskin and pliable as bamboo—even dry that way after soaking. That means far greater protection against fatigue which is perhaps the most common cause of serious accidents.

But, remember, $1,000 a pair won't buy you this double protection in any other work shoe.

So, make your next pair Wolverines... stop in and try on a pair.
