Ranger Checks On Suicide's Phantom Killer Confession

DALLAS —(AP)— Ranger Captain M. T. Gonzaullas said here Saturday night a Texas Ranger is at Fayetteville, Ark., investigating a suicide note left by a University of Arkansas freshman who claimed to be the "phantom killer" of Texarkana, Texas.

In 1946, five murders were ascribed to a "phantom."

Gonzaullas said he had sent Ranger Stewart Stanley from Clarksville, Texas, to Fayetteville.

Stanley, he said, had been assigned continuously to the phantom killings since they occurred two years ago.

For months, Gonzaullas personally investigated the Texarkana slayings in the Texarkana region.

The college freshman, H. B. (Doodie) Tennison, 18, of Texarkana, was found dead of poison in his Fayetteville room Friday night and a note found in his effects claimed he committeed the murders in Texarkana in 1946.

Want To Be Sure

The first victims attributed to the phantom were Richard Griffin 29, and Polly Ann Moore, 17, found shot to death on the outskirts of Texarkana March 24, 1946. On April 14, two high school students, Paul Martin, 17 and Betty Jo Booker, were found shot fatally near the same spot. On May 3, Virgil Starks, 36, was shot to death at his home near Texarkana and his wife was wounded seriously.

Gonzaullas declined to give his views on the authenticity of the claims in the suicide note, but said:

"We want to be really sure on these Texarkana murders. We have had other confessions—all turned out to be worthless. I wouldn't give a red cent for the wrong man."

Midland Is Host To Fall Legion Meet

Legionnaires and their Women's Auxiliary members from a wide West Texas area are in Midland attending the annual Fall convention of the 16th District, American Legion and Auxiliary, Department of Texas. The Woods W. Lynch Post No. 19 of Midland and its Auxiliary are hosts.

The meeting is being held in the legion hall here. It opened Saturday. Events scheduled Sunday include: a memorial service at 11 a. m. The service is to be conducted by Dr. Glen H. Walker of Midland, with a piano solo by Wallace Wimberly and a song by Duke Jimerson. Both are of Midland.

Opened Saturday

Registration at the legion hall Saturday morning opened the convention. It lasted from 8 to 12 a. m. An Elmer and Lizzie's Room stunt was afternoon entertainment. Conducting this event were Midlanders Bebe McAnally, Pat Reed, Ike Fitzgerald and S. W. Lawson. At 5 to 6 p. m. Saturday a Dutch lunch with free drinks was held. Convention attendants danced Saturday night at the legion hall to the music of E. D. Fitzgerald and his Lone Star Ramblers.

Delegates are registered at the convention from the following cities: Midland, San Angelo, McCamey, Crane, Alpine, Lubbock, Pyote, Odessa, Winters, Stanton, Pecos, and Cisco. Two attendants are from New Mexico and Okla-

Lower Budgets For 16 Agencies Given Presidential Okay

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman Saturday approved generally lower budgets for 16 departments and agencies and his budget director announced:

"We have adopted a hard boiled budget policy."

Budget Director James E. Webb did not name the 16 departments and agencies whose estimates for expenditures in the coming fiscal year were approved.

He told reporters after a conference with the President, however, that they did not include the military services, and constituted only about one-tenth of the entire contemplated budget outlay.

He said the figures approved Saturday, for the fiscal year which starts next July 1, are "somewhat lower" than the current year's budgets.

Morning After

As gloom thickened over Republican National Committee headquarters in Washington the night of Election Day, members leaving in the early morning hours found pranksters had tacked this black mourning wreath outside the door.

Arkansas Officials Withhold Comment

Arkansas and Texas officers were to check the fingerprints of the student, H. B. (Doodie) Tennison, 18, Texarkana, Ark., with prints they had that might have been left by the mysterious slayer.

In addition, they faced the task of trying to trace Tennison's movements since early in 1946, when the "phantom" shot and killed five persons and wounded another within a six-week period.

Police here took fingerprints of Tennison before Coroner Edmond Watson released the body to the family. It was sent to Texarkana and private funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the home of his mother, Mrs. Jimmie Tennison.

Too Many Comic Books

In Texarkana, the brothers of Tennison, J. B. Tennison, Jr., and Craig Tennison, both of Memphis, Tenn., described their brother's "confession" as "fantastic." They expressed belief it all developed from "reading too many comic magazines," but added they were ready to cooperate fully with authorities in getting the matter solved.

J. B. Tennison, Jr., told newsmen his brother was unfamiliar with firearms and Craig Tennison said his dead brother couldn't drive a car until he taught him in Parsons, Kas., last year.

Mrs. Tennison was visiting in Parsons when notified of her son's death. She hurried here, where she was joined by Craig, and then returned to Texarkana, after conferring briefly with Sheriff Bruce Crider of Washington County.

Waco Woman Killed In Hunting Mishap

VAN HORN —(AP)— Mrs. Dorothy Spicer, 34, of Waco was wounded fatally Saturday when a rifle fired accidentally while she was on a deer hunt near Van Horn.

Sheriff Orvel Capehart said he was told the rifle discharged as Mrs. Spicer picked it up to carry it to an automobile.

Mrs. Spicer and her husband, Harry L. Spicer, Waco architectural engineer, had been staying on the J. H. Blair Ranch, 10 miles northwest of Van Horn.

The sheriff said the hunting party had shot a deer and had sacked it, preparing to leave the spot. Mrs. Spicer died in a doctor's office in Van Horn shortly after she was brought here.

The bullet struck Mrs. Spicer in the left side. Justice of the Peace Jim Fleming returned an inquest verdict of accidental death.

Mrs. Spicer's body was taken by ambulance Saturday night to El Paso to be prepared for interment, then sent to Waco.

GOAL IS $33,923—

Community Chest Opens Big Gifts Drive Monday

The annual finance campaign of the Midland County Community Chest will open Monday when members of the Big Gifts Division, headed by Stanley M. Erskine, start their solicitations in an all-out effort to reach the $33,923 goal within three weeks time.

Reese Cleveland is general chairman of the campaign, and Dr. Henry Schlichting, Jr., is chairman of the Executive Committee. Robert I. Dickey is president of the Community Chest.

Other members of the Big Gifts group are D. C. Sivalls, H. E. Ohiles, George Abell, Tom Sealy, John W. House, T. Paul Barron, George Glass, John P. Butler, Hal C. Peck, R. B. Cowden, Lynn Durham and and Holt Jowell.

The Special Gifts drive is scheduled to get underway Tuesday, and general solicitation work will start November 16. Every citizen of the county will have the opportunity of contributing to the Chest, through which the operations of six youth and welfare organizations are financed.

Participating Groups

Plans for the fund-raising effort were mapped at a meeting of representatives of civic and service groups early last week. Announcements concerning the drive will be made before service clubs this week, R. J. (Doc) Graham, chairman of the Speakers Committee, said.

Organizations sharing in Community Chest funds, and the amounts of their individual budgets, are as follows: Boy Scouts, $12,000; Girl Scouts, $9,435; Youth Center, $8,930; Goodfellows, $600; Salvation Army, $1,500, and U. S. O., $785. A $673 item is listed for campaign expenses.

Truman Vote Totals More Than All Three Major Foes Combined

WASHINGTON—(AP) — Late returns showed President Truman with more votes than his other three major opponents combined in Tuesday's presidential election.

Saturday night, on the basis of returns from 130,774 voting places out of a total of 135,855, this was the standing:

Truman	23,867,727
Dewey	21,542,581
Thurmond	1,005,945
Wallace	1,116,379

The Dewey - Thurmond - Wallace vote adds up to 23,664,905, which is 2,822 less than Truman's alone.

The mounting returns pointed to the second largest total vote in history. With 5,081 precincts still missing, the total was 47,332,632. The record turnout was 49,815,312 in the Roosevelt-Wilkie race of 1940.

Big Spring Youth Stabbed To Death

BIG SPRING—(AP)—Juan Olague, 14, was stabbed to death in a bedroom at his parents' home here about 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

Police were holding a 23-year-old negro as a suspect. Chief of Police Pete Green said the boy was stabbed in the back 11 times. He said Juan was lying in bed reading comic magazines when he was attacked.

Rioting Reported In Panama Capital

PANAMA, PANAMA—(AP)—Panamanian police used tear gas bombs Saturday night to break up a mass demonstration of welcome for Dr. Arnulfo Arias Madrid, a former president of Panama, as he returned from self-imposed political exile.

Forrestal Indicates He May Leave Post

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Defense Secretary James Forrestal's own words Saturday indicated he may leave the Cabinet.

Forrestal, who has been in government service eight years and who has headed the defense establishment since September, 1947, was asked by photographers at the White House to pose with Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan. A photographer, referring to the new term for the Truman Administration, said "We are starting another four years."

"But not for me," Forrestal interjected, laughing.

★ LATE NEWS FLASHES ★

WALLA WALLA, WASH.—(AP)—Approximately 2,500 panicky elk hunters were reported fleeing from heavy snow in the Blue Mountains Saturday, some leaving automobiles and tents behind them.

BERLIN —(AP)— Gen. Lucius D. Clay said Saturday night that the economy of the Soviet occupation zone is "virtually at a standstill" because of the Western counter blockade and the general food shortage in the Soviet sector.

NANKING—(AP)—The government claimed a modest victory in Central China Saturday night but rumors spread through Nanking that an effort to negotiate a peace with the Communists was in the wind.

PARIS —(AP)— A United Nations source said Saturday night four Arab governments have been advised their military position in Palestine is "hopeless" and that they had better make peace.

Abolition Of Poll Tax As Requirement For Voting Proposed

AUSTIN—(AP)—A special election would give Texas voters power to keep or abolish the poll tax voting requirement if legislation planned by Sen. Rogers Kelley of Edinburg gets the next Legislature's approval.

Senator Kelley said Saturday he has sent copies of the resolution he proposes to introduce on the first day of the next session to all members of the Legislature and the State Democratic Executive Committee.

"It does not call for the abolition of the poll tax and the revenues which are now derived from it, a major portion of which goes to the State School Fund," the Senator said in a prepared statement.

Would Let Voters Decide

"There are four provisions in the State Constitution relating to poll tax payments. The only change proposed is to give the voters of Texas the privilege of deciding whether they want to retain or abolish the poll tax prerequisite for voting.

Kelley said 34 states still have a poll tax but in only seven is the poll tax a requisite for voting.

"If my resolution is adopted and the subsequent proposed constitutional amendment is adopted, Texas still will retain the poll tax and the revenues derived therefrom," he said.

"It also will mean citizens of Texas, otherwise qualified, can vote at all elections without the necessity of paying a poll tax."

Midland Nimrods Go Out For Blacktails

If a marked drop in the sale of beef is noticed in Midland meat markets during the next few days it probably will be because residents are eating deer meat.

Scores of deer hunters departed during the last three days for the blacktail deer country "West of the Pecos." The season on blacktail open Saturday and will run through Thursday.

Reports reaching here from the Davis Mountain area are that deer are plentiful but those in the foothills probably will be pretty lean due to lack of rain this year. Higher up in the mountains, better conditions for feeding have prevailed and the deer are expected to be fatter.

One blacktail and one white tail or two white tail may be killed. It is illegal to kill two blacktail, however.

Hunters Listed

A party headed by Ralph Lowe and including Henry Black, Ted Lowe, A. N. Griffith, Louis Griffith, R. T. German and John House left Friday for the Eppenauer Ranch near Fort Stockton.

Sheriff Ed Darnell is in Sierra Blanca, where he will join a party for hunting in that area.

BUTCHERS TO PICKET DALLAS CHAIN GROCERIES

DALLAS—(AP)—Pickets will start marching Monday at 75 Dallas chain groceries where AFL butchers are on strike, Sam Twedell, union international vice president said Saturday.

The strike began at 8 a. m. Saturday at stores of the Safeway, A&P and Wyatt chains after a vote of union members at a meeting Friday night.

Standby Power On Prices, Rationing Is Sole Exception

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Strong backing for the Marshall Plan, high support prices for farm products, and repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law are indicated in an Associated Press survey of members of the new Congress.

But sentiment runs against giving the President standby price control and rationing powers.

Almost half the men and women who will make up the 81st Congress expressed their views on major questions.

Answers to all or some of the questions were given by 27 senators and 235 representatives who will serve in the new Congress. Not all of them would allow their names to be used, and many were undecided on some of the questions. Others qualified their answers.

Many said they reserve the right to change their opinions if developments between now and the time for actual voting indicate the need for a change.

Congressional Cross-Section

The answers came from all over the country and reflected a cross-section of congressional thinking as of now on all four questions.

Boiled down, here are the results:

1. Do you favor farm support at present levels? 135 Democrats and 53 Republicans said they do, several of them advocating even higher supports than the present 90 per cent of parity. Six Democrats and 10 Republicans said they are opposed to price supports on basic farm commodities. 17 Democrats and 27 Republicans were undecided, although some of them said they favor letting support prices drop to 60 per cent of parity after 1949, as provided in an act passed by the 80th Congress.

2. Do you favor giving the President power to fix price controls and allocations? 93 Democrats and four Republicans said they do; 37 Democrats and 76 Republicans said they do not. 37 Democrats and 14 Republicans weren't willing to comment.

Taft-Hartley Repeal

3. Do you favor repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law? 94 Democrats and eight Republicans said they do. 22 Democrats and 53 Republicans do not. 37 Democrats and 33 Republicans advocated revision of the law but not outright repeal.

4. Do you favor continued foreign aid through ECA and direct aid to Greece and Turkey? 150 Democrats and 69 Republicans said they do. Two Democrats, eight Republicans and one American-Laborite said they do not. 18 Democrats and 14 Republicans gave no opinion.

Sentiment for the foreign aid program was couched with reservations that Congress must study the program to cut down on unnecessary spending. But general support for the plan came from all sections of the nation.

Backing for continuance of the present farm price support program came principally from Midwest and Southern members representing farm districts.

On the other hand, members from urban areas were in the majority of those advocating repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and standby price control and rationing authority for the President.

But one urban representative, William Lemke (R-ND) came out for Taft-Hartley Law repeal with this comment:

"If that sucker hadn't been passed, Dewey would have been elected. I voted against it to begin with."

Texans Dodge Labor Item

Combs: Yes on 1, 2 and 4; no answer on 3.

Regan: For "reasonable" farm support; no on 2; no answer on 3; for foreign aid "where justified in diminishing amounts."

Thompson: Yes on 1; for price control "only as last resort"; no answer on 3; yes on 4.

Mahon: Yes on 1; "doubtful" on 2; no answer on 3; yes on 4.

Burleson: Yes on 1; "limited" on 2; no answer on 3; yes on 4.

Patman: Favors higher farm support prices; undecided on 2; no answer on 3; yes on 4.

Wilson: Yes on 1, with reservations; no on 2; no on 3; yes on 4, with reservations on Greece and Turkey.

Reds Charge Greeks Plan Gas Warfare

PARIS — (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky charged Saturday that Greece, with the knowledge of the United States and Britain, is preparing to hurl poison gas at Greek Guerrillas.

This was part of a general blast at the United States in which the Soviet deputy foreign minister charged the Truman Administration is building a network of military bases directed against the Soviet Union and other countries. He did not amplify or support with evidence his charge concerning poison gas.

Vishinsky and another Slav delegate, Dr. Juliusz Katz-Suchy, also delivered bitter personal attacks against John Foster Dulles, foreign affairs advisor to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, and dragged in the U. S. presidential election.

The speeches were made before the 58-member Political Committee of the General Assembly in debate on the Balkan problem.

With U. S. Knowledge

Vishinsky said Greece was out to destroy the Greek partisans "by any means, including toxic gases." He added that the Greek delegate, Panayotis Pipinellis, has shown "he was well acquainted with toxic gases."

"This is no accident," Vishinsky

Quiet And Peaceful Armistice Day Is Likely In Midland

Thursday likely will be quiet and peaceful in Midland with most retail stores, business establishments, offices, and service firms closed in observance of the Armistice Day Holiday. Public schools also will observe the holiday.

No special ceremony is planned during the day, but the American Legion will stage a dance Thursday night in the Legion Hall.

The Reporter - Telegram will publish early Thursday.

Delbert Downing, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said Armistice Day is one of five holidays agreed upon by retailers for observance during the year. The merchants, he said, are of the opinion Armistice Day should be observed until a Peace Day commemorating the ending of both World Wars I and II is designated as an official holiday.

Heads Seal Sale

Jack Wicker, banker and civic leader, Saturday was named chairman of the 1948 Christmas Seal Sale in Midland County by John J. Redfern, Jr., president of the Midland County Tuberculosis Association. Proceeds from the sale are used to finance the association's tuberculosis control program. The campaign is a part of the nation-wide 42nd annual Christmas Seal Sale which opens November 22 and continues through Christmas.

Teen-Age Youth Admits Strangling Playmate To Death

CHICAGO—(AP)—A juvenile court judge said Saturday night a 15-year-old boy admitted strangling William Gervais, 13.

Judge Robert Dunne said a playmate of the dead boy made an oral statement that he choked William to death with a belt.

The Gervais boy's body was found Friday in a manhole near Fuller Park on the South Side.

Police said they had learned during their investigations that several of William's playmates were members of a mixed white and negro teen-age group that indulged in drinking and sex parties.

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—

Oilmen Wonder What Will Happen When 81st Congress Goes To Work

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON — (AP) — Oilmen, like most other people, are wondering just what the 81st Congress has in store for them.

The new session had been expected to take up where the 80th Congress left off in June but Tuesday's sweep by the Democrats gives the situation a new look.

New figures will head committees, new congressmen will have their say, and many veterans of former sessions will be missing.

There was a minimum of petroleum legislation enacted by the 80th session but the oil industry received constant attention from congressmen.

At no time in past history, including war years, was the industry subject to so much inquiry by congressional committees as in 1947 and 1948.

Problems still pending when Congress adjourned in June included a national petroleum policy, state of federal ownership of the tidelands and amendment to the natural gas act.

The National Petroleum Council is drafting a national policy and is to make its report in January.

The council's chairman, Walter S. Hallanan, is a Republican national committeeman.

Supply And Demand Problems

Tied with the over-all national policy are the problems of supply and demand, steel requirements, and exports and imports of crude oil and refined products.

President Truman once vetoed a bill calling for state ownership of the tidelands and has given no indication he will do otherwise in the future.

The Democratic National Convention turned down a motion that state ownership be included in its platform. The Republicans campaigned for state ownership.

But a fight can be expected. Many Democrats were active in the prolonged state ownership hearings this year and most of them return to Washington in January.

Practically every petroleum association in the nation has endorsed the controversial Rizley-Moore bill which would amend the natural gas act by exempting from Federal Power Commission control the activities of producing and gathering natural gas.

The bill passed the House this year but received an adverse vote from a Senate committee.

Authors Missing

When Congress resumes work the authors of the bill will be missing. Senator Moore did not seek reelection, and Rep. Rizley was defeated for the Senate. Both are Oklahoma Republicans.

Other problems include possible changes in the European Recovery Program, proposals for aid to the Mexican government in producing oil, federal aid to synthetic motor fuel projects, and the reciprocal trade act.

After last week's election developments, it would not be surprising to find changes being made in two speeches to be made in Chicago Wednesday before the 28th annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute.

IMPORTS-EXPORTS

Bureau of Mines figures show imports of crude oil and refined products increasing 11.1 per cent during the first eight months of 1948. Exports decreased 22.4 per cent.

Imports totaled 117,956,000 barrels, an increase of 11,696,000.

STOCKS

American Petroleum Institute places gas oil and distillate fuel oil stocks for the week ended October 30 at 81,593,000 barrels, as compared with 62,749,000 a year earlier. Residual fuel oil stood at 81,299,000 barrels, as compared with 57,259,000.

Sinclair Holds Open House In New Office

Executives and employes in Sinclair Prairie Oil Company's Permian Basin district office held open house in their new quarters on the second floor of the McClintic Building Friday.

The new location provides the Sinclairs with sufficient space for their work and also for an expansion of the Midland organization—if and when such is needed.

The production, land, scouting, geological and crude marketing departments of the concern have their headquarters for West Texas and Southeast New Mexico, in the new building.

Approximately 500 persons attended the affair.

Barnes Will Explore Lower Permian In C-W Andrews

J. C. Barnes, of Midland, is to start operations at once on a lower Permian prospector in Central-West Andrews County, about three miles south of the Fullerton field, and 13 miles west of the town of Andrews.

It will be Barnes No. 1 Munger-Nix. The drillsite is 660 feet from east and south lines of the northwest quarter of section 21, block A-47, psl survey. Rotary tools will be used.

The project is near a small pumping producer developed several months ago from the lower Permian by Placid Oil Company. That well makes considerable water along with its oil.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No 1-A Nix, also in the region adjacent to the Barnes exploration, had some good shows of oil from the lower Permian, but those indications were drowned by water, and that venture was plugged and abandoned.

No. 1 Neal Testing Upton Ellenburger

A drillstem test in the top of the Ellenburger was in progress at Richardson & Bass No. 1 Neal, Northeast Upton County wildcat, Bottomed at 12,481 feet, the venture was taking the examination at the time this report was prepared, and no data on the results of the test were available.

Circulation was lost at 12,470 feet, shortly after entering the deep strata, indicating a soft formation around that depth. Top of the Ellenburger was picked on 12,461 feet.

Location is about seven miles northwest of the Benedum field, and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 9, block Y, GC&SF survey.

Moss Locates Deep Wildcat In Stonewall

Paul Moss, of Odessa, is to drill a 6,300-foot wildcat in Central Stonewall County, to explore into the Ellenburger.

The venture will be his No. 1 Lee and Waymon Smith. It is located 2,310 feet from south and west lines of section 127, block D, H&TC survey, and three and one-half miles south of Aspermont.

The project is on acreage secured by Moss in a deal with Pan American Production Corporation. That concern held a large block of leases in that region and turned a checkerboarded spread out of it to Moss for drilling the wildcat.

Contract to drill the exploration with rotary tools has been let to S. B. Roberts, of Abilene. The equipment is now being rigged up.

Possible Discovery In North Upton Deepens

After developing signs of oil and gas on a drillstem test, revealing the possiblity of a new discovery from the Devonian in North Upton County, Magnolia Petroleum Company was making more hole at its No 1-A TXL, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 39, block Y, TCRR survey.

The test, open four hours at 11,744-765 feet, recovered free gas and some distillate and gas cut mud. The wildcat is now drilling ahead below 11,798 feet in Devonian lime and chert.

The drillsite is approximately 30 miles south of the city of Midland.

Stanotex Is On DST At Scurry Pay Opener

Standard Oil Company of Texas No 1 Jessie Brown, Northwest Scurry County discovery for flowing production from the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian, was bottomed at 6,287 feet, in lime, and was taking a drillstem test.

This development, located nine miles northwest of Snyder, and 1,880 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 440, block 97, H&TC survey, had flowed oil from the section at 6,261-72 feet, for an estimated 60 barrels per hour on a recent drillstem test.

The current investigation is to check the zone from 6,272 feet to 6,287 feet. That zone yielded a 12 foot core with some porosity and some oil signs.

Howard Prospector Hunting Ellenburger

Venturing below the proven pay in the Vealmoor field of North-Central Howard County, Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware was continuing toward the Ellenburger with its No. 2 Tora Campbell, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 29, block 32, T-3-S, TP survey.

It was past 9,734 feet, drilling lime and chert. The Ellenburger is expected slightly below 10,000 feet.

Some shows of oil and gas were encountered when the Pennsylvanian, regular pay for the field, was penetrated.

Project In Vealmoor Field Is Making Hole

Seaboard No. 2 W. C. Campbell, scheduled 8,000-foot Pennsylvanian test in the Vealmoor field, was making hole under 3,550 feet in lime.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 29, block 32, T-3-N, TP survey.

Tide Water 1 Turner Gets Sulphur Water

Tide Water Associated Oil Company No. 1 Turner, Northwest Dawson County wildcat, took a three hour and 35 minute drillstem test in the San Andres-Permian at 4,871-4,949 feet.

Recovery was 135 feet of slightly oil and gas cut drilling mud, and 120 feet of sulphur water.

The project is to drill ahead. It may come back a little later and try to develop commercial production from the section above the water.

It is one and one-half miles northwest of the Welch field, and 660 feet from north and east lines of the south half of section 2, block C-39, psl survey.

Humble Makes DST At Ward Wildcat

Following three failing attempts to drillstem test the lower Simpson in Northeast Ward County, Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 7 Yarbrough & Allen managed to get a satisfactory examination.

The first try was at 10,000-10,145 feet. As the packer slipped, there was no test. The packer failed again on the second attempt at 9,982-10,157 feet.

The next test, between 9,982 feet and 10,161 feet, had the tool open 30 minutes before it failed. A very slight blow of air held at the surface for most of that period.

The venture drilled on down to 10,174 feet, set the packer again at 9,982 feet, and made the successful drillstem test. A 1,000-foot water blanket was used. The tool was open 48 minutes.

During the first 25 minutes, a light blow reached the top. It died, and the tool was closed, re-opened, and air came back to the surface for four minutes.

Recovery was the 1,000-foot water blanket, with the bottom 200 feet slightly muddy, plus 25 feet of drilling mud. There was no shows of oil, gas or water.

Last report had the wildcat boring ahead from 10,200 feet in lime and shale. It contracted for a test into the Ellenburger.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 17, block B-13, psl survey, about five miles northeast of the town of Monahans.

Gulf Has No Shows At Crockett Test

Gulf Oil Corporation ran a one-hour drillstem test on its No. 1-E-CCO University, North Crockett County wildcat, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 5, block 51, University.

The test was on the section at 9,665-9,710 feet, thought by some observers to be Simpson. A blow of air held at the surface for eight minutes. Recovery was 60 feet of mud, with no shows.

More hole was being made. Operator representatives reveal that another test should be taken shortly.

The venture, located 15 miles south of Big Lake, is projected to 10,000 feet for a test into the Ellenburger.

Murphy Drills Ahead At Venture In Ward

C. H. Murphy & Company, et al, No. 1 Cooper, Southwest Ward County prospector to the Delaware, and located 330 feet from north and east lines of section 139, block 34, H&TC survey, had reached 4,413 feet in anhydrite and lime, and was drilling ahead.

Gulf Continues In Midland Ellenburger

In Central Midland County, 14 miles south of the city of Midland, Gulf No. 1-E Bryant, 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 36, block 39, T-3-S, TP survey, was deepening through the Ellenburger beyond 13,810 feet in lime.

Operator may continue making hole until solid granite is reached.

Scurry Deep Wildcat Drilling Pennsylvanian

Sun Oil Company and The Ohio Oil Company No. 1 Sallie Helms, 20 miles northeast of Snyder, in Northeast Scurry County, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 636, block 97, H&TC survey, had penetrated under 5,339 feet in shale and lime, possibly in the Pennsylvanian, and was boring ahead.

It is scheduled to dig to around 8,000 feet to try to find and test the Ellenburger.

Midland Prospector Expects Ellenburger

The Texas Company No. 1 Scharbauer, West Midland County venture, one mile south of Midland Air Terminal, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 20, block 40, TP survey, T-2-S, was coring from 12,960 feet, in lime and chert.

Shell Is Mixing Mud At Gaines Discovery

Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Hawkins, South - Central Gaines County discovery for a heavy natural production from the Devonian lime and chert, to assure the opening of a new field for that formation, was bottomed at 10,531 feet in an unidentified dolomite and at last report was mixing mud to try to regain lost circulation.

The development is 15 miles south and slightly west of Seminole, two and one-half miles southwest of the Robertson field where the production is from the lower Permian above 7,500 feet, and 1,983 feet from north and 665 feet from east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey.

It had pay in the Devonian from 10,272 feet to 10,428 feet, and showed for a possible production of 417 barrels per hour in drillstem tests covering that interval.

The section at 10,426-508 feet developed only 950 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water, during a 60-minute drillstem test.

The project was originally started to go to 12,500 feet to test the Ellenburger. So far as has been reported that destination is still the objective of the exploration.

Johnn Abandons Holt Failure In Andrews

Johnn Drilling Company of Fort Worth, No. 1 University, wildcat to test the Holt, middle Permian, in the Emma area of South-Central Andrews County, and 660 feet from southwest lines of the northeast quarter of section 42, block 9, University survey, drilled to total depth of 5,415 feet in lime, and had no shows of oil or gas. It has been plugged and abandoned. Top of the Holt was picked by some geologists to be at 5,328 feet. Elevation was 3,155 feet.

Seaboard 2 Lee In Dawson Drills Ahead

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware No. 2 Lee, Southeast Dawson County deep wildcat, 15 miles southeast of Lamesa, and 440 feet from north and east lines of section 47, block 34, TP survey, T-6-N, had reached 10,605 feet in dry lime and chert, and was making more hole.

It has not reported having logged any signs of possible production in any section it has penetrated up to now.

What is the AUDOGRAPH?

Have you seen it? Heard it? Tried it?
Do you know what it can do for you?

AT HOME OR ON TRIPS — Easy to carry — lightest made, only 16 lbs. Works perfectly on trains, planes, or at home.

Here is an entirely new kind of electronic Business Recorder especially created to help you get things done more easily, quickly, conveniently. Here is an instrument that records dictation, telephone conversations, meetings and conferences on paper-thin, virtually indestructible plastic discs you can slip in an envelope and mail — discs that cost but a few pennies yet record for over 60 minutes.

Moreover, the AUDOGRAPH is incredibly light — the smallest and lighest of all dictating instruments, lighter than most portable typewriters, taking far less space than a letter tray. No turntable. No recording or playing arms to manipulate. Just simplicity itself — a masterpiece of American manufacturing resourcefulness, star-studded with revolutionary new features never before available in any instrument. And rugged? — why you can bounce it, jar it, operate it anywhere — at home or on trains, planes, and in your car, in any position, at any angle — even upside down — without affecting its superb performance in any way!

Before you decide on any dictation instrument be sure you see the AUDOGRAPH in action! Phone or write for FREE demonstration and FREE TRIAL in your office on your desk — no obligation, of course.

Flood Starts Two Concerns To Serve Small Operators

Formation of two companion companies, created primarily to serve the needs of the smaller producers of oil and gas in the Permian Basin, has just been announced by Lee

Lee Flood

One of the concerns, Production Management Company called PROMCO, is designed to provide a complete, confidential managerial service to the smaller producer. Its objectives are summed up in a statement by Flood.

"The object of PROMCO is to provide," he said, "a means whereby owners of small, isolated producing properties may avail themselves of a greater degree of efficiency and economy in the operation of their properties than can be attained otherwise. This will be achieved by establishing operating agreements with several operators in a given area, thus attaining a higher load factor on the personnel and equipment and thereby assuring the lowest cost per unit of production.

To Improve Methods

"As a part of this work," Flood continued, "PROMCO will introduce advanced methods of improving primary production, whenever possible and, in all instances, will be prepared to inaugurate secondary recovery methods if study indicates such methods may be employed profitably."

The other company, Production Specialties Company or PROSCO, will be a medium through which badly needed specialized production equipment and services may be obtained.

Its aim will be, Flood stated, "to provide new techniques and devices that will contribute to more efficient production of oil and gas."

Specialized Services

Some of the specialized equipment and services to be offered by PROSCO, are desulphurization units designed to sweeten small amounts of sour gas to be used as fuel; and electronic instruments whereby the amount of water in oil may be measured continuously and automatically; portable well-testing units; complete analyses of oil and gas; a line of specialized oilfield chemicals; oilfield construction; industrial and domestic water softeners; and other highly specialized and unique equipment and services that may be developed from time to time.

With these two companies, Flood said, he hopes to be able to provide the "little fellow" with equipment and know-how that has been denied him up to now because of prohibitive cost, and thereby enable him to increase his production.

These companion companies, he continued, will lower the unit lifting cost by serving many small operators and will provide the many advantages of cooperative endeavor without the attendant legal difficulties and other objections often involved. In each instance, the operating agreements will be solely between the management company and each of the operators and not with the operators as a group.

Small Operators Important

"It has long been recognized," Flood stated, "that the small oil operators, owning predominantly what are classed as 'stripper' wells represent an important part of the domestic petroleum supply.

"Furthermore, it has become increasingly apparent that there is an inconsistency in the number of these operators and the amounts of petroleum produced by their wells when compared to the production and number of the larger operators."

Flood explained that this inconsistency is shown very pointedly by statistics which he had developed recently on districts 7-C and 8 of the Texas Railroad Commission. These districts cover the West Texas section of the Permian Basin oil producing area.

He said that his analysis of oil production data for the month of July, 1948 for the two districts revealed that 23,133,281 barrels of oil were produced during the month (a daily average of 746,235 barrels) from 22,247 wells owned by 600 operators.

Small Average Production

"When these figures were broken down," he pointed out, "it was shown that there were 434 operators having an average per well production of 25 barrels of oil per day or less. That represents 72.3 per cent of the total number of operators in the area. Yet only 9.06 per cent of the total oil, or 67,694 barrels a day, was produced by this large number of operators from the 5,455 wells they own. That was an average of 12.4 barrels of oil from each well each day.

"There is clearly something wrong when 72.3 per cent of the operators produce only 9.06 per cent of the oil." Flood continued, "just where a part of the blame for this condition lies can be determined by resorting again to the use of statistics.

"One group of independent operators, owning 3,449 wells with an average production of 15 barrels per day or less, must depend upon obtaining most of their oil from only 459 flowing wells. The remaining 2,290 wells require some artificial means of lifting the oil from the reservoir. This involves the installation of pumps, gas lift equipment and other oil well apparatus."

Flood continued by saying that this requires increased investment and operating cost, and when it is considered that the average production of each of the wells in this group is only 7.5 barrels per day, it is understandable why the operators cannot afford to avail themselves of more efficient methods and high-priced engineering skill.

Represents Much Oil

The plight of the oil industry's little men is important to all for two reasons, Flood explained. The first being that a large amount of our petroleum resources are being wasted because of inefficient operation. The second reason is that the small operator is an inherent part of the industry and must be given means by which to survive.

Recent increases in the price paid for crude petroleum has merely enabled small operators to hold on and to postpone for awhile the abandonment of his "stripper" well.

"Considering the outcome of the recent national election," Flood continued, "and the already announced plans of the incoming administration to curb rising prices, it should be obvious to the independent producer that further price increases for crude oil are extremely unlikely.

Produce More Crude

"The basic answer to this dilemma seems to lie not in getting more money for the oil, but in producing more oil. With the newly formed management company, we believe that we can assure the little man of the oil industry that the profits to be gleaned will far outweigh the expense incurred."

Since January 1, 1945, Flood has served as chief engineer of the Goldsmith-Pool Engineering Committee in Midland, and he will continue in that position until December 31. He may continue to serve the committee in an advisory capacity after that time.

Main headquarters of the new companies will be in Midland. The concerns will serve West Texas, New Mexico, and the Panhandle areas initially with a branch office to be established in Amarillo later.

A field office and warehouse will be opened in Odessa, and additional territory will be served as rapidly as the organizations may be expanded to handle increased work in accordance with the high standards to be maintained.

PLANNING COMMISSION SETS MONDAY MEETING

onian with its No. 1 Floyd, East Midland County wildcat slated to test into the Ellenburger.

Last report had it below 11,360 feet, penetrating chert and streaks of lime. Operator representatives say a little more hole was to be made, then a drillstem test would be taken.

It is 2,000 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 15, block 37, T-3-S, TP survey, 13 miles southeast of Midland.

West Parker Flanker Continues Flowing Oil

An extension to the West Parker field of Central Andrews County seems apparent by Humble Oil & Refining Company as it attempts to develop a commercial oil well from its No. 22 Parker.

After a 3,000-gallon acid treatment at 8,245-8,330 feet, the project was swabbed three hours. It then kicked off and flowed to pits for an hour.

The flow was turned to tanks and was gauged for 163 barrels of fluid, cut 30 per cent basic sediment and water, in 15 hours. Extended testing produced 205.92 barrels of fluid—eight per cent basic sediment and water—in 23½ hours of flowing. The last output has a breakdown average of around 190 barrels of oil per day.

The flow was reaching the surface by heads. Testing was continuing.

This development, bottomed on 8,357 feet in Devonian lime and chert, is located 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 2, block A-54, psl survey.

Humble Makes New Hole In E-C Upton

Upon completing an extended reaming job, Humble began making new hole with its No. 1-B Barnett, scheduled Pennsylvanian wildcat in East-Central Upton County, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 39, block Y, TCRR survey.

It was going ahead from 9,785 feet in lime and shale.

This wildcat was originally plugged and abandoned as a dry hole on 9,592 feet, but after the Turner-Hewgley discovery from the Pennsylvanian three-quarters of a mile northeast, Humble re-opened this venture in an effort to complete from the same horizon.

Plymouth Prospector To Test Reagan Lime

Plymouth Oil Company No. 1-2 Dixon, deep wildcat in West-Central Reagan County, had reached a total depth of 10,545 feet and was preparing to take a drillstem test in an unidentified lime and shale formation.

White Eagle Venture Deepening In Reagan

In Northwest Reagan County, White Eagle Oil Company No. 1 R. E. Ringo estate, projected Ellenburger wildcat, was drilling past 10,856 feet in lime and shale.

Location is 60 feet from north and east lines of section 8, block H, L&SV survey, eight miles northeast of the Benedum field in East-Central Upton County.

Wildcats In Reagan Making More Hole

Two wildcats in Reagan County were making more hole toward their projected depth.

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1-E Sawyer, in Central-Southeast Reagan County, seven miles north of the Barnhart field, was beyond 8,690 feet and progressing through shale and sand. It is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 142, block 1, T&P survey.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company's No. 1 E. P. Miller, in the southeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 226, block 1, T&P survey, was drilling ahead past 7,450 feet in shale.

Upton Explorations Continue Deepening

Adjacent to the flowing production of the Benedum field in East-Central Upton County, four projects are boring deeper toward an Ellenburger test

Plymouth Oil Company No. 1-47 Gordon, located 660 feet from south and east lines of section 47, block Y, TCRR survey, was below 10,242 feet in lime and chert.

Slick-Urschel Oil Company's south flanker to the pool, No. 1 Dixon, was drilling through lime and shale under 9,667 feet.

Location of this project is 660 feet out of the northwest corner of the west half of section 3, block 4½, C. Bendle survey.

Slick-Urschel was also deepening its No. 1-B Gordon from 9,464 feet in lime and shale. It lies northwest of the new field and 660 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 47, block Y, TCRR survey.

The No. 1 Elliott, also by Slick-Urschel, had reached 7,434 feet and was boring on through lime. It is 660 feet from south and east lines of the west half of section 10, C. D. Mosely survey.

Another semi-wildcat in this area, Plymouth's No. 1-48 Elliott, was deepening in lime and chert below 10,031 feet. Its location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 48, block Y, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Proctor Wildcat In Arizona To Deepen

A wildcat oil exploration being drilled on the ranch of Foy Proctor, of Midland, in Cochise County, Arizona, has reached 2,850 feet in a hard formation, and a cable tool rig is to be moved in to drill ahead to around 3,000 feet, and possibly deeper.

The venture is being drilled by Francis Brothers Oil Company. Owners of that concern formerly loved in Odessa, and the company has properties in the Permian Basin.

The Francis No. 1 Foy Proctor had some interesting shows of oil above 2,055 feet and also above 2,400 feet. No tests were made on those sections.

The exploration is seven miles southwest of Willcox, in North-Central Conchise County, which is the southeast county of Arizona. The location is at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 30-14s-24e.

The project was drilled to its present bottom with rotary tools. The formations have gotten extra hard and it was decided to change to cable tools before attempting to dig further.

Four New Wildcats Are Staked In Lea

HOBBS, N. M. — Locations for four new wildcats were reported in Lea County Saturday. Each of them is slated to start making hole at once.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Betenaugh will be in extreme Northeast Lea County, and northwest of the discovery well, and up to now the lone producer from the Devonian, in the Crossroads field. It is slated to dig to around 12,000 feet, to explore into the Devonian, using rotary tools.

To Dig To 12,000 Feet

In the southeast corner of Lea County, Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1 South Maddox unit is scheduled to be a 10,000-foot prospector to test into the Ellenburger.

It is adjacent to shallow production in the Langlie-Mattix field, and 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 15-24s-37e.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 6-D State, inside the shallow Monument field of East-Central Lea County is contracted to dig to 7,800 feet to explore into the lower Permian.

The location is 1,800 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 1-20s-36e.

North Of Maljamar

In West-Central Lea County, several miles north of the nearest oil wells in the Maljamar field, Amerada is to drill its No. 1-CNA State to 5,000 feet to test into the San Andres section of the middle Permian.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 33-15s-32e.

Two stepouts have been staked to the Caprock field, which is in Northwest Lea County and in Southeast Chaves County.

The Vickers Petroleum Company, Inc., No. 1-B State, is one half mile north of the closest production in the Lea County side of the Caprock field.

It is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 29-12s-32e, and is slated to go to about 3,000 feet to test the Caprock sand.

At last report it had spudded to 301 feet in redbeds, and had set a string of 8 5/8-inch surface casing on bottom with 150 sacks of cement. Operator is due to drill the plug and start making new hole early in the week.

Outposts To Caprock

Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1 Yates, is one mile south of production in the Chaves County segment of the Caprock field. It is 1,979 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 24-13s-31e, and is contracted to dig to 3,100 feet, using rotary tools.

National Cooperative Refinery Association of McPherson, Kans., No. 1 State, Southwest Curry County wildcat, near Melrose, and 495 feet from south and east lines of section 3-2n-32e, has been plugged and abandoned as a failure, on a total depth of 3,800 feet in Glorieta-Permian lime.

Curry Wildcat Dry

The development had some slight shows of oil in streaks at 3,100-3,300 feet and at 3,500-3,800 feet. All those zones were tested after treating with a total of 14,000 gallons of acid. They swabbed dry, and oberator abandoned the effort.

Top of the San Andres was at 2,500 feet and the top of the Glorieta was at 3,500 feet. Elevation is 4,426 feet.

Barnsdall Oil Company No. 1-A State, East-Central Chaves County prospector which is scheduled to dig to around 13,000 feet, if necessary to go that deep, to explore the Devonian, was bottomed at 11,113 feet in lime and shale, and was fishing for tools.

Roosevelt Projects Continue

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Smith, in Southwest Roosevelt County, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 11-7s-33e, had progressed under 8,766 feet in dry lime, and was making more hole.

Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Saunders, in Southeast Roosevelt County, and 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 5-8s-37e, had penetrated past 7,100 feet in shale, and was continuing.

Magnolia No. 1 Cox-Federal, slated 12,000-foot venture in Northeast Lea County, about five miles

Pictures From Tibet To Be Shown At MGS On Tuesday

William Gruenerwald, of the geological department of The Texas Company's West Texas district office in Midland, will provide the program for the Midland Geological Society, Tuesday at noon in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer.

He will show motion pictures — both black and white, and in color of scenes in Tibet. Gruenerwald made the pictures while in that Asiatic country on a recent assignment.

Jesse A. Rogers, president of the society will preside at the meeting. F. H. McGuigan, is program chairman of the MGS.

Goldsmith Pool Committee Sets Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the operators comprising the membership of the Goldsmith Pool Engineering Committee, will be held at 10 a. m., December 17, at the Blackstone Hotel in Fort Worth, according to announcement by Lee Flood, of Midland, chief engineer of the committee.

The regular December monthly meeting of the exeqptive committee of the organization will be at 2 p. m., December 16, also at the Blackstone Hotel.

A meeting of the field committee of the body is scheduled for 2 p. m., November 18, in the conference room of the Shell Oil Company, Inc., division office in Odessa.

University To Offer West Texas Leases

Leases requiring that wildcat oil wells must be drilled will be among those in eight West Texas counties to be offered for sale at auction by the University of Texas Lands at Austin on December 10.

Tracts in Andrews and Pecos Counties are the ones which carry the wildcat stipulations.

Other tracts which will be offered for lease at the public aution are in Crane, Crockett, Upton, Reagan, Ward and Hudspeth Counties.

Baker Is New Member Of 'Paleo Lab' Staff

Maylon S. Baker, Jr., is a new member of the staff at R. V. Hollingsworth's Paleontological Laboratory in Midland.

Baker is a graduate in geology from the University of North Carolina. He took his degree from that institution, after returning to collegiate activities following three years of military service in the Pacific during the war.

Prior to coming to Midland he was employed by the Ohio State Geological Survey.

More Oil Companies Moving Offices To McClintic Building

The new McClintic Building is due to have all of its office space filled around December 1.

Tide Water Associated Oil Com will move in the first of the current floor of the structure. Standard Oil Company of Texas moved into the building at the end of last week. That concern is occupying all of the fourth floor and a part of the third floor.

The Atlantic Refining Company will move in the first of the current week. It will take the entire fifth floor.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation, and Stubbeman, McRae & Sealy will get the sixth floor. Both those concerns are slated to be in their new quarters shortly after December 1.

The first floor and the basement will also be used for offices for oil concerns and connection operations. Those spaces are scheduled to be ready for use early in December.

Drilling Reports Of Slick-Urschel Take New Twist

By TOM CARTER

Drilling reports, as a rule, don't vary much in the way of excitement — routine depths, occasional drillstem tests, etc. However, a report from Slick-Urschel Oil Company to The Reporter-Telegram veered out of the ordinary.

"Slick-Urschel No. 1 Elliott," said the calm voice on the Slick-Urschel end of the line, "was at 7,127 drilling lime."

That was well enough — just making hole. But then the voice came again, "and in case you're interested, Tompson No. 1 just came in."

"Tompson No. 1? Never heard of it."

"It's a new one," said the Slick-Urschel end. "Came in at 10:45 Thursday morning."

"My gosh! What's it doing now?"

"Probably howling."

"Howling!"

"Yeah, it's a baby girl."

And so congratulations to G. C. (Gil) Tompson, engineer with Slick-Urschel Oil Company, and Mrs. Tompson on the birth of a 7.2-pound "wildcat" named Patricia Clare.

Geological Party Of U. Of Kansas Visits In Midland

Dr. H. A. Ireland, former Midlander, and now a member of the faculty of the department of geology at the University of Kansas, at Lawrence, was a visitor here recently.

He was accompanied by six senior or graduate students of the university. The group had visited the Big Bend region of West Texas and several other places of geological interest in other sectors of Texas and New Mexico.

The students are Jeff Greer, Don Owen, Ellis Yocheslon, Dave Gogliardo, Robert Flynn, and Charles Petrat.

Ireland lived in Midland for about three years prior to September 1. He was connected with the geological research department of the West Texas division of Standard Oil Company of Texas.

Edmond Borys Is Now With Hunt Oil

Edmond Borys, former Midland resident, is now with Hunt Oil Company, and is stationed at that concern's headquarters in Dallas.

He will be assigned to Louisiana for the present.

Borys was formerly superintendent of exploration in the Permian Basin for Standard Oil Company of Texas. For the last nine months he has been on special assignments for Stantotex and for its parent company, Standard Oil Company of California. He resigned that connection on November 1.

Paul Ricker Joins Midland Independents

Paul Ricker is a new independent oil operator in Midland. He is living at 1101 West Wall Street. He came from Big Spring, where he resided the past two years.

New Fullerton Field Program Will Stop Waste Of Flare Gas

When a program which is now underway is completed all flare gas in the Fullerton field of Northwest Andrews County will be eliminated.

Phillips Petroleum Company and Fullerton Oil Company, operators of a natural gasoline plant in that pool, have arranged to connect with all wells in that area, and take all the gas now being "popped" into the air.

Work of connecting all the wells to the plant will be completed in about 90 days.

Current gas production in the Fullerton field is reported to be around 60,000,000 cubic feet per day.

Approximately 40,000,000 cubic feet per day of that gas is now being taken by the El Paso Natural Gas Company for its big pipe line. That concern plans to increase its gas taking from that area to 95,000,000 cubic feet per day, by the start of 1950.

Rube Mills Returns To Job In Midland

Rube Mills of Standard Oil Company of Texas, has returned to Midland after an absence of more than four years. He is now district geologist for the concern for the Midland Basin, and is working in Stanolex's West Texas exploration department, which is headed by Gail Stoddard.

Mills came back to Midland from Corpus Christi. When he left here he went to the company's general office at Houston and put in two years there before being transferred to Corpus Christi to open a district office in that city.

All Is Not Gold

If the unexpected in natural events or human behavior is a prime ingredient of news, then a story out of Helena, Mont., a few days ago certainly deserved a bigger play than most newspapers gave it.

To get right down to cases, they hit pay dirt again in Last Chance Gulch, which yielded up some $16,000,000 worth of gold in the middle of the last century. The gulch, to be sure, is now Helena's main street. And the "prospectors" were workmen digging a hole for a new elevator shaft under the Placer Hotel. Nevertheless, they did hit pay dirt.

Somebody must have shouted "Gold!", or excited words to that effect. But the excitement didn't generate any such fever as once made Montana a perilous frontier place.

The hotel management did call in some mining experts. They estimated that the strike was worth about $1.75 a cubic yard, which would be rich enough to work. But the management told the workmen to go ahead and pour in the concrete. One of the officials explained the decision with these heretical words: "We don't have time to mess with gold."

Such a statement, uttered in the Montana of frontier days, would have branded the speaker as crazy. Today it probably reflects a soundness of judgment. For gold is no longer a symbol of the ultimate in earthly desire. It is just another one of those things that modern man can take or let alone.

We don't think that this is a sign that human cupidity has vanished during the last century or that American enterprise has lost its zing. It is simply that the management of the Placer Hotel has adapted itself to a world in which a lot of old values have new price tags.

Those hotel men in Helena live in a country whose government has most of the world's gold. This gold was dug out of the earth, just as the gold would have been dug out of the hotel men's elevator shaft if they had said the word. The United States government bought all its gold with dollars. But having bought it, what did it do with it? It put it right back in the ground.

The government didn't buy things with the gold, or sell it to its citizens. It posted a guard over the buried treasure and called it a gold reserve. That is a fund which assures holders of United States government notes that the notes can be redeemed in gold. Of course, if they really tried to exchange them for gold they might run into trouble. But as long as the holders know the gold is there, nobody tries.

So perhaps the Placer Hotel people weren't so foolish to pour concrete on their new gold strike. The metal just stays in the ground, where it would have wound up anyway. Above it a new elevator will soon be running. And at present hotel rates, the management will gross considerably more than $1.75 a cubic yard for the guests that ride in it.

Some song hits have been written in 15 minutes, says a composer. And some should last just about that long.

Just wishing things would change is about like holding a match to the thermometer to make the room warmer.

Very Red Faces Of Political Prophets Rival Gaudy Sunset

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—If all the red faces of all the political prophets could be brought together in one place today, it would rival the gaudiest sunset ever seen, and burn up the landscape. There is no use trying to decide whose face is the reddest, but the political poll takers easily could be picked out of the mob scene.

All the prophets—including this one—based their predictions on the results of the polls. And the polls were wrong. Well, there's another good racket ruined.

Apparently the only three people in the country who believed that the Democrats had any chance to do what they did were President Truman, his vice presidential candidate, Senator Alben W. Barkley, and their campaign manager, Senator J. Howard McGrath. Never were so many people so wrong. As for whether Truman won or Dewey lost, it's a little of both. Truman and Barkley produced the upset by courage, tireless campaigning, speaking frankly and clearly on every issue. When President Truman boldly faced up to his civil rights program in his speech in New York at the close of the campaign, his batting average went to 1,000. Dewey apparently lost his "sure thing" victory by pussy-footing, procrastinating and never letting the voters know precisely where he stood on any issue.

Lesson For Politicians

Here should be a lesson for politicians of all time. The American people don't like and won't stand for that kind of talk. In other words, the American people are more intelligent than the Republican politicians. You can't hand the public hooey and vague generalities and expect it to like it or take it.

The Democratic Party comes out of the election in an amazing position. It won a victory over itself. It defeated the Dixiecrats and it defeated the Wallaceites. In other words, the Democratic Party is purged of its two extremist factions—the States' Righters and the extreme left wingers. And it doesn't have to take either of them back.

Dewey had pictured the poor Democratic Party as a crippled thing whose left wing didn't know what its right wing was doing. But the Wallace and Thurmond movements are now dead, having been beaten by the Democrats.

Under a sweeping GOP victory, the third and fourth parties might have claimed a share of the corpse of the Democratic donkey. They can't do that now. And if the Democratic Party leadership wants to finish the job, it can liquidate completely these minority groups.

Many Claims Are Expected

If the Dixiecrats and the Wallaceites had not broken away from the Democratic Party, Truman's victory would have been overwhelming. In the rash of political post-mortems that will now break out, there probably will be many far-fetched claims and appraisals. There probably will be many reactionary charges that it was "the New Deal radicals and Communists" which put the Democrats in power again. That's one the average citizen will want to eye rather carefully.

There is no question but that the labor organizations with their political action committees and their drives to get out the vote helped the Democratic totals. But it must be remembered that the leadership of the AFL and CIO and the Railway Brotherhoods all repudiated their Communist elements, and the Commies themselves supported Wallace.

There are a couple of states where this pattern does not fit perfectly. In Illinois the Wallaceites had no chance to vote for their candidates because they couldn't get the Progressive Party on the ballot. It must be assumed that they voted Democratic and were responsible for the Republican upset in that state. But in Michigan, where there is a well organized labor movement, it was politically impotent, and Dewey carried the state as a native son.

What gave Truman his strength apparently was his effective chastisement of the 80th Congress. That was something the voters could understand.

As for the Democrats having a "mandate" to carry out any extreme program, that is pure poppycock, as such talk always is. The result of the race was too close for that. The majority and minority parties are too near the same size, as shown by the popular vote totals, for any sweeping reforms.

•So they say

It will be a bad day for the colleges and worse for the future of our democracy if college graduates turn the blunt edge of their disdain upon the kind of activity which led to the founding of our country and which has made it great.
—Dr. Alan W. Brown, new president, Hobart College.

It's the fact that Harry (Truman) is still "just one of the boys" that makes it hard for us to get excited about the presidential race.
—Mayor Roger T. Sermon of Independence, Mo.

If Soviet Russia persists in her deliberately hostile course, we are sooner or later going to have a fight on our hands—perhaps the toughest fight we have ever faced. We cannot afford to lose it.
—AFL President William Green.

We are a republic trying to do the job of an empire. Many other republics have tried to do that—but those that succeeded ceased to be republics.
—Dr. Felix Morley, former president, Haverford College, warning against too many foreign financial commitments for the United States.

No more sweet weeks, pickle weeks, or any other weeks. I will proclaim important weeks, and only 15 of those a year.
—Mayor William Huck, Jr., of Bloomfield, N. J.

Mexico Rejoices At Truman Victory'

MEXICO CITY—(AP) — Mexico continued to rejoice Saturday over the election of President Truman as observers predicted the United States stock market slump would not harm this country.

Some believe the skidding of U. S. stocks may result in lower prices for machinery, wheat, eggs and lard which Mexico must import in large quantities.

With the Democratic Administration even stronger now, Mexico also will press efforts to get needed loans for internal improvements from such semi-official organizations as the Export-Import Bank.

Baygent Seeks To Abandon Bus Line

Application of the Baygent Coaches to abandon operation of its bus line between Iraan and Midland was heard at a session of the Motor Transportation Division of the State Railroad Commission at San Angelo Thursday, according to reports received here.

Crossroads Flankers Digging

Magnolia No. 1-C Santa Fe-Pacific, outpost to the Devonian producer in the Crossroads field, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 26-9s-36e, had reached 11,060 feet in lime, and was drilling ahead.

Skelly Oil Company No. 1 Sawyer, 660 feet from north and east lines of section 33-9s-36e, was boring ahead below 11,218 feet in lime, shale and chert.

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation No. 1-B U. D. Sawyer, a one-location south offset to the Crossroads discovery, and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 34-9s-36e, had reached 11,355 feet in lime, and was continuing.

Mid-Continent No. 1 Dessie Sawyer, a west flanker to the Crossroads opener, and 1,980 feet from west and south lines of section 27-9s-36e, was drilling ahead past 11,021 feet in dry lime.

Other Ventures Drilling

The Texas Company No. 1 McMillan, about midway between the Hobbs and Monument fields in Central-East Lea County, and 1,982 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 3-19s-37e, had progressed past 4,155 feet and was continuing in lime, and sand.

Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1 Shipp, slated deep prospector in East-Central Lea, three miles west of the Hobbs field, and 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 20-18s-37e, was making hole under 7,280 feet in lime.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company and C. L. Norsworthy, Jr., No. 1-U State, scheduled 12,000-foot venture in East-Central Lea County, six and one-half miles south of Hobbs, and 660 feet from south and east lines of section 2-20s-38e, had drilled past 8,775 feet in hard, dry hard chert, and was boring ahead slowly.

Continental Oil Company No. 1-29 Warren unit, six miles north of Eunice, and 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 29-20s-38e, was continuing to dig below 7,292 feet in dry lower Permian lime.

No Oil Developed

It had run two drillstem tests in the Drinkard section of the Permian and developed only slight shows of oil and gas. There has been no free oil in that formation up to now.

Amerada No. 1 Hamilton, slated 12,000-foot wildcat, in East Lea County, 10 miles east of the Lovington field, and 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 35-16s-38e, had reached 6,185 feet in lime and shale and was boring ahead.

Amerada No. 1 Jordan, also in East Lea County, and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 11-20s-35e, had drilled to 4,360 feet in lime, and has been plugged and abandoned.

In a four-hour drillstem test at 4,132-78 feet, it had a recovery of 155 feet of gas cut mud, and no signs of oil.

Bond Campaign Will Begin Armistice Day

DALLAS—A special campaign for the sale of U. S. Savings Bonds will begin Armistice Day, Nathan Adams of Dallas, chairman for Texas, announced. There will be no dollar quotas, he said, but by the end of the year Texas is expected to add 50,000 to the number of men and women who are buying Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan and 8,500 new participants in the Bond-a-Month Plan.

A third phase of the campaign seeks to get more Texas farmers and ranchers to build up their financial reserves by investing a part of their crop money in Savings Bonds.

MIDLAND MAN FINED ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON — Only a few White House insiders knew it at the time, but President Truman could have avoided the split with the South on the civil-rights issue. However, he decided that the question was too important for any compromise.

In a White House conversation, Morris Ernst, a member of the Civil Rights Committee, urged Truman not to send the committee's report to Congress, but rather to the governors and mayors of the different states. Ernst pointed out that Southern leaders had always contended that this was a state, not a federal problem; therefore a bitter fight could be avoided by handling the report that way.

Truman's reply was brief and to the point.

"I would not be doing my duty as President," he said.

Ernst, who had been a close friend and adviser of Franklin Roosevelt, then asked Truman why he had such a passion for civil rights—even more so than Roosevelt.

"When I was young, replied the President, "I saw fiery crosses burned on the hills above Independence and 3,000 hooded men parading. I get worried about a return of that sort of thing. We cannot let it happen again."

Dewey-Go-Round

Dewey was so certain of victory he had set up secret offices in Washington and recruited a staff to study Truman's budget and prepare his own budget to be submitted in January . . . Certain White House speech-writers were so sure of Truman's defeat they were ashamed to let anybody know they had a hand in his speeches. Of Truman's last speech-tour they said: "We are just rehashing old stuff and dishing it out to keep poor old Truman slap-happy."

Note: Most of the whistle-stop speech-writers were youngsters who had tried to ditch Truman at the Philadelphia Convention . . . Remarked a lonely, crestfallen receptionist at Republican National Headquarters the day after elections: "Everyone's gone. What happened? . . . . Maybe it should have been Stassen."

Watch Earl Warren

Stunned by defeat for the second time, Governor Dewey will not get another chance to run for president. G. O. P. leaders are categoric about this. Already their eyes are roving for a new white hope to run against the Democrats in 1952.

Two certain contenders are California's Governor Earl Warren and Pennsylvania University's new president, Harold Stassen, both with liberal backgrounds. The starch-collared crowd, which has held such a grip on the Republican party, is almost certain to be swept out like old cobwebs.

Modest, friendly Earl Warren, who reflects the California sunshine, is the real man to watch. Like Franklin D. Roosevelt before him, who was beaten for the vice presidency but came back to be president, Warren has not lost his place in the national picture. Instead, he will move up as Dewey slides down. Unlike Thomas "elusive" Dewey, Warren came out openly on the issues—high prices, housing, veterans benefits. He even criticized the 80th Congress, though it hurt his own party.

Stassen also is still a power to be reckoned with. He got most of the cheers, though not the votes, at the Republican National Convention. In recent weeks, however, he has behaved more like a party hack than the independent liberal he pretends to be. After bitterly denouncing Dewey in Philadelphia, Stassen miraculously showed up in presidential campaign—in fact, was the kickoff speaker for Dewey in Detroit, September 7.

The inside story of Stassen's conversion has never been told. It is the story of moneyed Republicans who paid off with a university presidency and a partnership in a Philadelphia law firm.

The University of Pennsylvania was searching for a new president to move into the chair of retiring George W. McClelland. Foremost contender was Law School Dean Earl Harrison, once a commissioner of immigration and naturalization, who also made a survey of European displaced-persons camps for President Truman.

However, Harrison had been a Roosevelt man, also had not taken politics into account. For years a powerful Republican clique on the university board of trustees had tried to operate it as a subsidiary of Drexel & Company, the Philadelphia branch of J. P. Morgan. The leader of the clique, Robert T. McCracken, saw a chance to heal the Dewey-Stassen breach. Together with Edward Hopkins, Jr., a partner in Drexel & Company, McCracken offered the university presidency to Stassen.

McCracken himself is a member of the prosperous Philadelphia law firm to which former Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts once belonged. To tone down the protest of disappointed Dean Harrison, who promptly resigned from the law school, McCracken hastily found him a partnership in another top Philadelphia law firm. Then master-mind McCracken brought the retired Justice Roberts back to fill Harrison's vacant chair as dean of the law school. To show his appreciation, Harrison publicly announced his support for Dewey.

And that was the price of "unity" in the Dewey-Stassen feud.

New Senator From Tennessee

Estes Kefauver, the new senator-elect from Tennessee, is one of the few men who ever bucked the Crump machine and lived politically to tell the story.

Kefauver is a tall, handsome, younger edition of Cordell Hull, who was behind him eight years in the House of Representatives, quietly, consistenly crusading for the little fellow. He guided the House Small Business Committee in its fight against the big monopolies, and still is trying to plug the loopholes in the anti-trust laws. Kefauver hasn't hesitated to take on such friends of the Truman administration as Charles Luckman and the Lever Bros. Soap Company.

But in the middle of the fighting he also managed to write a book, urging that outmoded Congressional tactics be streamlined. He especially blasted headline-hunting hearings by which Congressmen chiefly try to get their names in the papers, and also the habit of expensive junketing to Alaska, Hawaii, and other spots of tourist interest.

On the surface, Kefauver is as calm as a Sunday afternoon, but this covers up a stormy spirit inside. Yale-trained, the young Tennessean is a liberal lawyer-economist, but moves like a tornado in slow motion. A strong family man, he keeps his office cluttered with scribbled drawings of his 7-year-old daughter. His ambition is to get on the Foreign Relations Committee.

Note: one of the things that hurt Crump most in his campaign against Kefauver was the charge that Kefauver was foreign-born. The voters quickly found out that he was born in Tennessee.

MacArthur's Jap Labor

Army brass hats have won out in a backstage slugfest recently raging among the State, Labor and Army Departments over General MacArthur's efforts to ban collective-bargaining rights to Jap workers in government-owned industries.

Ever since James Killen of the American Federation of Labor (he's a vice president of the pulp and sulphite workers union) resigned as MacArthur's top labor adviser, some of President Truman's cabinet advisers have been debating whether to put the hobbles on MacArthur. Killen has protested Mac's tough labor policies.

However, the State Department decided to throw its weight behind Army demands that MacArthur be given a free hand to invoke whatever Jap labor curbs he considers necessary.

This means that the general will be given the go-ahead signal to sign a bill his aides have engineered through the Japanese Diet, which would deny Japanese employees of government-owned industries not only the right to strike, but also collective bargaining.

The Diplomatic Pouch

The Russians have informed several of the smaller nations that under no circumstances will they pull out of the United Nations—even if they are rebuffed on Berlin . . . Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin has informed Secretary Marshall that any further moves in the direction of a western power, deal with Franco would mean harakiri for the British Labor Government. . . The Air Force already has notified its public-relations men to expect increased losses on the Berlin airlift after the snow starts flying . . . Gen. Lucius Clay confided to friends that he is taking the rap on the Lisa Koch case for the incompetence of certain brass hats who formerly served in Germany. Clay also fears the mild sentences approved by the military government for the Malmedy murders of American G. I's in Germany will backfire.

He will direct publicity activities in Ector, Crane and Upton counties. The $25,000 funds effort to establish a home for parentless, dependent or neglected boys will be conducted over a 32-county area following a general kickoff after the first of the year.

More Meat, Milk And Eggs Forecast

WASHINGTON—(AP)—More meat, milk and eggs are on the way to your table, the Agriculture Department said Saturday.

Because or this year's bountiful crops of feed grain, farmers are giving their livestock and poultry heavier rations. The result is greater volume of milk per cow, more eggs per hen and heavier meat animals.

The Department said Dairymen are feeding their cattle 13 per cent more grain and other feed than last year and in return are getting record milk-per-cow production.

Likewise, hens are putting out about eight per cent more per bird than a year ago.

The Department said field reports indicate that at least as many beef cattle will be grain-fed this Fall and Winter as last, and that the number of hogs and chickens are expected to increase in 1949.

THE STORY

Time, 1880 Place, New Orleans

Louis Durand, 37, a well-to-do bachelor, has been corresponding with Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. He has proposed marriage and she has accepted. According to her picture, Miss Russell is dark-haired, strong-featured and no longer young. Durand goes down to the dock to meet the boat that is to bring her from St. Louis. He is dumfounded when an exquisite young blond creature introduces herself as Julia. She explains her little deceit by saying she didn't want him to fall for just a pretty face. Durand is enchanted with her and they are married. Certain things puzzle him, however, during their first days together. Julia drinks coffee, although her letters had said she despised coffee. And her complexion alternates mysteriously between flush and pallor. Also, she shows no interest in the canary bird she troubled to bring with her.

VIII

HER trunk was recalled to his mind one day by the very act of his own sitting on it. It was no longer recognizable at sight for a trunk, it had a gaily printed slip cover over it to disguise it, and stood there over against the wall.

It was Sunday, and though they did not go to church, they never failed, in common with all other good citizens, to dress up in their Sunday finest and take their Sunday morning promenade.

He was waiting for her to be ready, and had sat down upon this nondescript surface without looking to see what it was.

She was slowed, at the last moment, by difficulties.

"I wore this last week, remember? They'll see it again."

She discarded it.

"And this—I don't know about this" She curled her lip slightly. "I'm not very taken with it."

She discarded it as well.

"That looks attractive," he offered cheerfully, pointing at random.

He wondered privately, and with a soundless little chuckle, how one told the first from the second, but refrained from asking her.

She sat down now, still further delaying their start. "I don't know what I'll do. I haven't a thing fit to be seen in." This, taken in conjunction with the fact that the room was already littered with dresses, struck him as so funny that he could no longer control himself, but burst out laughing, and as he did so, swung his arm down against the surface he was sitting on, in a clap of emphasis.

HE felt, through the covering, the unmistakable shape of a pear-shaped trunk lock. And at that moment, he first realized that it was her trunk he was sitting upon. The one she had brought from St. Louis. She had never, it suddenly struck him as well, opened it since her arrival.

"What about this?" he asked. And then stood up and stripped the cover off. The initialed "J. R." just below the lock in blood-red paint, stood out conspicuously. "Haven't you anything in here? I should think you would, a trunk this size."

"Oh, no," she said. "Nothing. Only rags."

"How is it I've never seen you open it? You never have, have you?"

She continued to peer at this thing in her hands. "No," she said. "I never have."

"Why not?" he persisted. "Why haven't you?" But with no intent whatever, simply to have an answer.

This time she took note of the question. "I—I can't," she said, somewhat unsurely.

She seemed to intend no further explanation, at least unsolicited, so he asked her: "Why?"

She waited a moment: "It's the—key. Its—ah, missing. I haven't got it. I lost it on the boat."

SHE had come over to the trunk while she was speaking, and was rather hastily trying to rearrange the slip cover over it.

"Why didn't you tell me?" he protested heartily, thinking merely he was doing her a service. "I'll have a locksmith come in and make you a new one. It won't take any time at all. Wait a minute, let me look at it—"

He drew the slip cover partly back again, while she almost seemed to be trying to hold it in place in opposition. Again the vivid "J. R." peered forth, but only momentarily.

He thumbed the pear-shaped brass plaque. "That should be easy enough. It's a fairly simple type of lock."

The slip cover, in her own hands, swept across it like a curtain a moment later, blotting out lock and initials alike.

"I'll go out and fetch one in right now," he offered, and started forthwith for the door. "He can take the impression, and have the job done by the time we return from our—"

"You can't," she called after him with unexpected harshness of voice, that might simply have been due to the fact of her having to raise it slightly to reach him.

"Why not?" he asked.

She let her breath out audibly. "It's Sunday."

He turned in the doorway and came slowly back again, frustrated. "That's true," he admitted. "I forgot."

"I did too, for a moment," she said. And again exhaled deeply. In a way that, though it was probably no more than an expression of annoyance at the delay, might almost have been mistaken for unutterable relief, so misleadingly like it did it sound.

Rice Owls Upset Arkansas 25-6

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—A Rice Institute football team, which had been disappointing, played its best game of the season to upset the favored Arkansas Razorbacks 25-6 here Saturday.

The Owls loosed a bevy of hard-running backs and a well-balanced T-offensive to turn an early deficit into a rout in the Southwest Conference clash before 34,700.

John Kelly, Sonny Wyatt, Bobby Lantrip and Huey Keeney ploughed through gaping holes opened by Rice's terrific front line from the second period on. Kelly and Wyatt turned on their speed to slip through the Arkansas secondary without help for extra yards, time after time.

Arkansas scored first, early in the second quarter, when Clyde Scott circled end from his two. In that drive, the Razorback dandy unraveled runs of 28, 18 and 10 yards. Jim Reichert's try from placement failed. The Porkers muffed two other opportunities.

From their own 30, after the kickoff, the Owls went all the way to tie the score. Three passes from Vernon Glass—for 34 yards—were a big factor. Lantrip drove over from the two. Froggie Williams missed the try for point.

Razorbacks Fumble

Minutes later, Rice broke the tie after center Joe Watson recovered an Arkansas fumble on the Razorback 15. Lantrip shot through from eight yards out. Again, the try for point failed.

Rice stormed 60 yards for its third touchdown, starting the march in the third period and completing it in the fourth. The chunky Wyatt tallied from the five. Williams booted the extra point.

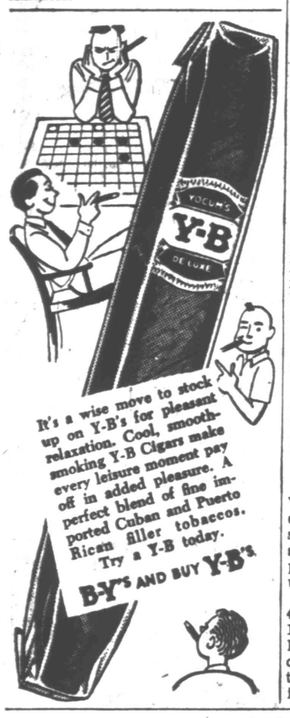

Arkansas unleased one more offensive that was broken up when Scott fumbled on Rice's 16. From that point, the Owls paraded to another score, with Kelly counting on a ten-yard smash. Keeney's drop kick was wide.

Kelly led the ground-gainers with 95 yards net on 12 carries. Scott netted 92 on 16 tries for Arkansas.

Sul Ross Plasters Adams State To Win Conference Crown

ALAMOSA, COLO. —(AP)— The unbeaten, untied Sul Ross Lobos won the New Mexico College Conference championship Saturday by handing the Adams State Indians their first loss 34-24.

The Indians scored first and held a half-time lead of 12-7. Then Quarterback Mike Stimack was taken out with broken ribs. The Indians faltered briefly and recovered only to find the Lobos from Alpine, Texas, had run the score to 34-12. Adams State rallied but couldn't overcome the lead in the closing minutes.

Steve O'Neill Fired As Detroit Manager

DETROIT —(AP)— Steve O'Neill, who gave Detroit one world championship and three American League runnerup clubs in his six-year stay here, was fired Saturday as manager of the Tigers.

He was the seventh major league pilot to lose his job this year.

One of the other six, Stanley (Bucky) Harris, deposed New York Yankee manager, has been rumored as a likely successor to O'Neill. Other possibilities include Paul Richards, former Tiger catcher who now manages Buffalo in the International League and Roger (Doc) Cramer, Detroit coach.

An announcement from Detroit General Manager Billy Evans said no successor has been chosen. It said O'Neill's contract is not being renewed for 1949 because of a belief "that a change in field management would be desirable."

O'Neill, reached at his home in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, said he had no plans for the future. He said he hadn't "given it a thought" before receiving a telegram from Evans. Shortly before that he had received the news of his dismissal from newsmen.

William And Mary Smears Tarheels' Record With Tie

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — (AP) — William and Mary's one team played mighty North Carolina's offensive and defensive combinations to a standstill to spoil the Tarheel's perfect record with a 7-7 tie Saturday.

While a near-capacity crowd of 43,000 sat silent in amazement, the Indians from Virginia grabbed the lead with a second-quarter touchdown, then fought grimly on defense to hold off North Carolina's superior strength and gain a tie.

Fans may suspect this picture was dug out of the files, but actually it was just taken, as Hosei shut out Waseda, 4-0, for the autumn championship of the Tokyo University Baseball League. SMU Edges A&M In 20-14 Thriller

DALLAS —(AP)— Southern Methodist edged downtrodden Texas A&M 20-14 by the grace of the football gods and Doak Walker.

The fighting Aggies, playing their best game of the season and outpassing the celebrated Methodist aerial circus, had a crowd of 53,000 roaring as they held SMU on the defensive most of the final period and knocked continually at touchdown door.

It was All-America Walker who saved the day for a Methodist team favored by four touchdowns over an Aggie outfit that had lost ten straight games.

With the score tied in the third period, Walker personally conducted the Mustangs 95 flashing yards to the score that won the game. First he ran the kick-off back 58 yards to the Aggie 37. He then passed to Zohn Milam for eight and when nobody else could move through the line, banged guard for a first down. He pitched to Dick McKissack for six and to Raleigh Blakely for a first down on the Aggie 12. Then he used the same tactics he's employed to win other games for SMU—he faked a pass as he ran to the right, then sped around the left end to a touchdown.

Doak Does It All

The victory kept Southern Methodist unbeaten in the Southwest Conference championship race in which the winner will become host team in the Cotton Bowl, where Saturday's game was played.

Walker accounted for all the Southern Methodist points. He passed to McKissack for the first touchdown, set up when SMU recovered an Aggie fumble on the A&M 27; he scored the second on a 40-yard burst through the line, and he not only got the final counter but saved an Aggie touchdown in the last minutes with a great piece of pass defense behind the Methodist goal line. Walker also kicked two points after touchdown.

The Aggies rolled up 16 first downs to 11 for Southern Methodist but the Mustangs made more yardage on the ground—148 to 89. The Aggies bested SMU in the air by a wide margin—238 yards to 130.

Southern Methodist got 14 points before the Aggies began to move. Buryl Baty, a bullet-armed quarterback, started clicking with his passes, most of them being gathered in by End Charley Wright, who during the game caught throws for a total of 100 yards.

The first Aggie counter came after Baty intercepted a Gil Johnson pass and ran the ball back to the Southern Methodist 45. Baty passed to Bob Goode on the SMU seven and then over the goal line to Andy Hillhouse for the score. Herb Turley converted.

The count was 14-7 then and the Aggies, scenting their first victory since early November of 1947, scored again the second time they got the ball. First they drove to the Methodist 30 before losing the pigskin and the next time went 65 yards for the tying touchdown. A 51-yard pass from Baty to Wright ate up most of the distance. On the SMU four, Goff rammed right guard for the score. Turley again converted.

Aggie Pilot Takes To Air

DALLAS —(AP)— Buryl Baty, the Texas Aggies' quarterback, was up in the air Saturday—up so high he almost passed Southern Methodist into defeat.

Baty threw 33 of A&M's 35 passes—a season mark for one team in a Southwest Conference game—and completed 15 for 224 yards.

Southern Methodist won 20-14 but Baty had Methodist followers in a state of nervous prostration until the final gun.

Nittany Lions Boot Punchless Quakers Off Undefeated List

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Two perfect plays from which fullback Francis Rogel spun touchdowns from 44 and 13 yards out enabled the rugged Nittany Lions of Penn State to subdue Penn's punchless Quakers, 13 to 0, before an overflow throng of 80,000 Saturday.

The defeat knocked the Quakers from the ranks of the nation's undefeated teams and boosted State's bowl stock out of sight. It was the sixteenth straight game over the past two seasons in which the Lions have escaped defeat.

Penn, which meets Army in the East's big game next week, gained only 28 yards by rushing through State's great defense, led by Paul Kelly and Wally Triplett, and threatened only once to score on its passing attack in the third period.

Red Raiders Pour It On Mines 46-6

LUBBOCK —(AP)— Texas Tech's Red Raiders overwhelmed Texas Mines 46-6 here Saturday in what was supposed to have been a crucial Border Conference game. It removed Mines from the unbeaten ranks.

A crowd of 15,000 saw Tech punch over three touchdowns in the first period without the benefit of a first down, and another tally in the second and then clean the bench in scoring three touchdowns in the last half.

Charlie Reynolds, fleet Red Raider back, scored on runs of 17 and 16 yards, while other touchdowns were made by Calvin Stevenson, Glenn Lewis, Bud Conley, Ike Stuver and J. W. Thompson. Lewis' counter came on an 88-yard dash.

Mines got its only touchdown in the first quarter after Pug Gabrel had sped 86 yards to the Tech three. It took two plunges by Fred Wendt to get the score.

Tech's light line gave yardage grudgingly and checked the Miners consistently, although giving up 18 first downs to Tech's 13, but the Raiders amassed 339 yards rushing to 241 and 116 yards passing to 32.

The battle between the two undefeated Border Conference teams had been expected to decide the title and by their showing Saturday Tech made a strong claim to repeating its 1947 championship.

Texas Aggie End Suffers Broken Jaw

DALLAS —(AP)— Wray Whittaker, starting end for the Texas A&M football team, suffered a broken jaw in Saturday's game with Southern Methodist.

Coach Harry Stiteler said the break was clean. The Houston player will be out for the season, the coach reported after the game.

Mustangs Now Sole Conference Leaders

By The Associated Press

Baylor fell before Texas 13-10 to hand the undisputed first spot to SMU, which edged fighting Texas A&M 20-14.

Defeat of Baylor also removed the last unbeaten team in the conference over the season route.

Team	W	L	PTS	OP	PCT
SMU	3	0	74	27	1.000
Baylor	3	1	59	37	.750
Texas	3	1	53	44	.750
Arkansas	2	3	74	82	.400
TCU	1	2	44	47	.333
Rice	1	2	39	59	.333
Texas A&M	0	4	48	95	.000

H-SU Cowboys Down Oklahoma City 34-21

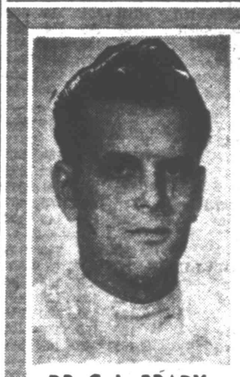

ABILENE — (AP) — Hardin-Simmons University staved off a second-half rally by the Oklahoma City University Chiefs to take a 34-21 victory here Saturday.

Dazzling runs of 63 and 88 yards by George Raines in the third quarter brought the Chiefs almost within distance of an early Cowboy lead.

Raines 63-yard romp accounted for one touchdown and his 88-yard jaunt set up another. Frank Bruno tallied from the six-yard line after this long run.

John Ford completed 18 of 25 attempted passes for Hardin-Simmons, accounting for 272 yards and two touchdowns. J. W. Steadman and Bob McChesney were on the receiving end of scoring tosses.

Stanton Buffaloes Nip Hobbs In 25-0 Aerial Bombardment

By CLEDDIE SHELBURNE

STANTON—Stanton High School's Buffaloes turned loose an aerial attack of a quality seldom seen in Class B football and rolled to an easy 25 to 0 victory over the Hobbs (Texas) High School Panthers in a non-conference tilt here Friday night.

The pikskin couldn't have been fired more effectively to the receivers if a million dollars worth of Army fire control equipment had been used to set up a solution. Fullback Gene Douglas and quarterback "Whistle' Lindsay shared the passing honors for the Buffs and connected 10 times in 13 tosses.

Although the passing attack was near sensational for Stanton, its ground game was not to be forgotten. The Buffs rolled up 189 yards rushing and scored three of their four touchdowns on ground plays.

First Quarter

The opening kickoff from the toe of Hobbs' Curley Neves rolled into the end zone and Stanton took over on its own 20. From that point the Buffaloes marched 80 yards in 16 plays for their first score with fullback Douglas driving over from the two. The try for point was blocked.

The Panthers were never able to move the ball for distance after receiving the Stanton kickoff following the touchdown. A fourth down punt rolled into the end zone and Stanton again took over on its own 20 as the quarter ended.

Second Quarter

Buffalo Quarterback Lindsay filled the air with passes during the early part of the second quarter, connecting with five in a row to move the ball into scoring position on the Hobbs nine-yard line, first and goal to go. Two running plays picked up four yards to the five and from there Lindsay heaved one to Higgins in the end zone. Lindsay tossed to Halfback Gregg for the extra point to make it Stanton 13, Hobbs 0.

Hobbs Fullback Neves received the kickoff on his own five, fumbled it momentarily, and was nailed on the seven. Hobbs picked up a first down on their own 19, but fumbled on the next play and Stanton recovered on the 20.

Third Quarter

Stanton kicked to Hobbs to open the third quarter and the ball again was fumbled by Hobbs on its own 25 but a Panther fell on it to retain possession. Power plays over the center of the Stanton line, with Hobbs Fullback Neves and Halfback Bruce Lay carrying, moved the ball to midfield and three first downs for the Panthers. But a fumble in the Hobbs backfield, recovered by Stanton, stopped the drive.

Stanton tried two passes but both failed. On third down, halfback Billy Hamm broke into the clear and outran the Hobbs secondary in a 50 yard jaunt for the final score of the game.

In a last period effort to score, Hobbs Quarterback Tutt tried his passing game, but interceptions by Stanton's Earl Koonce and Lindsay ruined the attack.

Odessa Spanks Sweetwater For 3-AA Leadership

ODESSA — The Odessa Bronchos fought back in the last half to whip the Sweetwater Mustangs 28-12 here Friday night in Odessa's classy stadium. The victory proved the Red Ponies, Bronchos that is, are the class of District 3-AA.

The win virtually cinched the crown for the Bronchos although they must hurdle Midland and Lamesa within the district family.

A crowd estimated at 18,000 saw the contest. Many persons wore overcoats in the chilly night.

Sweetwater led 12 to 7 at the half and indications were that the Mustangs had a very good chance of gaining the verdict. But, the Bronchos played in an invincible manner after the intermission.

James (Sonny) Mobley, 142-pound halfback, was the hero of the fracas. He tallied two of the Bronchos touchdowns on run of 66 and 69 yards. He set up another after catching a pass from quarterback Charles Clover. He made 195 yards on 13 carries. It was his sensational running which broke the Mustang's back.

McMillan passed to End Riley Cross for the first Sweetwater TD in the first quarter. The toss was good for seven yards over the double stripe. In the second quarter, Odessa tied it up and went ahead. Patterson bumped over from the two-yard line and then booted the point.

Sweetwater swept end for its second TD in the second quarter.

Then came the half and then came Mobley. He scored one TD in the third quarter and one in the fourth quarter.

Odessa's other-than-Mobley score in the last quarter was by Patterson on a two-yard plunge.

Bullpups Dropped By San Angelo

Midland's eighth grade Bullpups were unable to match weight with a heavy San Angelo eighth grade Wavelet eleven Friday and dropped a 25 to 0 decision to the visitors in a grid tilt played at Memorial Stadium. The San Angelo weight advantage in virtually every position was the thing that pinned the defeat on the Bullpups.

A strong south wind hindered a sparkling Pup passing attack at points during the game and was another reason why the home town lads were unable to score.

Angie Scores In First

Larry Friday and Jimmy Dorman teamed up to lead the Bullpup ground attack through the hefty Wavelet line.

San Angelo scored once in the first period, twice in the third, and again in the final quarter.

Leondus Fry, speedy San Angelo halfback, ripped off touchdown runs of 46 and 55 yards in leading his team to victory.

San Angelo led in first downs 6 to 5.

Stan Heath

Completing 13 of 18 passes for a better than a point-a-minute clip against Oklahoma City University, Nevada quarterback Stan Heath broke the 10-year-old national collegiate passing mark by pushing his aerial offensive total to a phenomal 1,645 yards. The old mark, 1,457, was set in an entire season of play in 1938 by Texas Christian's Davey O'Brien and tied in '42 by Bud Schwenk of Washington University of St. Louis.

Mighty Michigan Thumps Navy 35-0

ANN ARBOR, MICH. — (AP) — Michigan's prize sophomore, tall Chuck Ortmann, passed and ran the Wolverines to their 21st straight football triumph Saturday, an easy 35-0 win over undermanned Navy, which now has lost 12 games in a row.

Ortmann, all-around Milwaukee product who stepped into the shoes of the graduated All-America Bob Chappuis, staged one of his finest performances before the third straight sellout throng of 85,938 fans in Michigan Stadium. He connected on one 48-yard touchdown pass to Michigan's brilliant end Dick Rifenburg, plunged across for another Wolverine score and stood out as the best running back on the field.

Monahans Landslides Seminole Tribe 49-13

Waldo Young, Lobo left halfback, scored six Monahans touchdowns to lead his team to a stunning victory, which undoubtedly sacked up the District 5-A championship for Monahans.

Young, who was virtually unstoppable all evening, scored two touchdowns in the first quarter, one in the second, one in the third, and two in the final period.

He carried 15 times and gained a total of 254 yards.

His teammate, Quarterback Ray Cathey, scored once in the third quarter and once in the fourth.

Seminole scored its two touchdowns in the second and third quarters. Gilmer, Seminole end, tallied the first counter on a pass play. The final Indian touchdown came on a quarterback sneak from the one-yard line.

Monahans gained 444 net yards rushing, none passing. Seminole rushed for 114 yards and passed for 98 yards for a total net yardage gain of 213 yards.

Kermit's 'Jackets Sting Badgers 20-7

McCAMEY—The Kermit Yellowjackets trimmed the McCamey Badgers in a District 5-A football clash here Friday night to the tune of 20-7.

McCamey drew "first blood" when Billy Stokes cracked the center of the line for the touchdown, and Williamson kicked for the extra point.

Coming back immediately, Rick Spinks, Kermit halfback, ran 68 yards for the counter on the first play after McCamey's kick. Quarterback Almond passed to Spinks for the extra point.

Almond also passed to Spinks for the second Kermit tally, netting 43 yards on the touchdown toss. The Yellowjackets scored in the last period after a sustained upfield drive of 79 yards when Madison carried over from the McCamey 9.

Schools Complete Sports Program Fall Activities

The curtain rings down on another elementary sports program phase and the West takes the boys football title. The Westerners are undefeated in three years of play but have been tied twice. In last week's finale, West defeated South 12-6.

With the title already sewed up, the South Elementary girls kickball team was tied by West 20-20 last week.

All hands are turning to the second quarter events of basketball for boys and volleyball for girls.

FOOTBALL (boys)

Team	W.	L.	T.
West	2	0	1
North	1	2	1
South	1	2	1

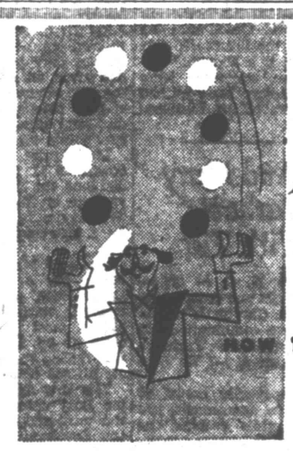

KICKBALL (girls)

Team	W.	L.	T.
South	2	0	1
West	0	2	2

Sparking the West win were Bob Turpin, Red Hudson, H. C. Feamster, Gary Howard, Stu Chancellor and Bill Harris.

Down SPORTSLANE
—With TANNER LAINE

Baseball's annual Winter housecleaning is in full swing. It's always interesting to see changes made in major league player personnel but when some of the game's outstanding stars pass over the hill it's a bit hard to take.

Since the season closed a number of former standouts have been given their release as players. Among those who have passed from the scene one player stands out. He is Terry Moore, one of the greatest center fielders in National League history. Moore will be a coach with the St. Louis Cardinals next season.

It seems like only yesterday he was making glittering catches in a World Series against the Yankees. In the 1942 Series he made 15 putouts, many of them sensational grabs. In the 1946 classic with the Red Sox he had 17 putouts.

But the last two years Terry's 36-year-old legs lost their spryness. He hit only .227 this year against a lifetime average of .283. Moore realized he was at the end of the trail when he misjudged a fly ball in Brooklyn. It was his second such offense in 1,300 League games. The game loses a great competitor in Moore.

Among other veterans who have been released as players are George McQuinn by the Yankees, Rudy York by the Athletics, Manager Bucky Walters by the Reds, Babe Young by the Cards and Arky Vaughan by Brooklyn.

McQuinn, an 11-year veteran in the American League, hit only .248 this year. He batted .304 in 1947 but when he reached his 37th year he just didn't have it. In the 1946 all-St. Louis World Series he hit .438 for the Browns.

York, who was sent from Detroit to the Bosox, to White Sox to Athletics within the last three years, is another former World Series star. The big Indian slugger from Alabama hit 280 homers. As a first baseman in the '46 Series against the Cards York accounted for two of the three Red Sox victories in a losing cause. He won the opening game with a 10th inning home run to beat Howie Pollet, 3-2. He also won the third game when he homered with two on in the first inning to beat Murry Dickson, 4-0.

In York's greatest year—1940—he hit 33 homers, batted .316 and drove in 134 runs for the Tigers. Some team may yet use his big bat even though Rudy is past his peak at 35.

Walters, one of the most popular players to ever wear a Cincinnati uniform, has called it quits as a pitcher, Bucky, of course, may change his mind. He needed only two wins at the start of the season to crash the elite 200 circle. He failed in his few starts this year.

The former third baseman, a three-time 20-game winner with the Reds, reached his peak with a pair of victories over the Tigers in the 1940 Series. After a great season in 1944 when he won 23 and lost only 8 he hurt his pitching arm in a 2-0 shutout against the Cardinals and his service was limited.

Another grand competitor who has called finis to his pitching career is Fritz Ostermueller. At 41 he won eight games for the Pirates to run his lifetime total to 114 against 115 setbacks. However, Manager Bill Meyer of the Pirates thinks Fritz will be back. "He loves the game too much to retire," says Meyer.

Other stars who passed out of the picture before the season ended were Joe Medwick, Bobo Newsom and Bill Lee. For some of these fellows there may be a place in baseball but as far as playing the game goes their hitting or pitching will long be remembered.

Early in the season we wrote a piece about Odessa's unquenchable will to win. It flared again Friday night. It beat a good Sweetwater eleven into the ground. We never have been a rabid backer of the Odessa High Bronchos but we will give credit where it is due. You have got to hand it to them.

We analyze Odessa's amazing football record this way: Every doggone time Odessa takes the field, Odessa believes it can win. Has no doubt. Never gives up. Is never beaten.

Midland employed some of this when it took San Angelo. Midland will need a whole lot of it when the Bulldogs meet Odessa.

The team which beats Odessa must be fired to the gills and never stop a minute. For if there be any breaks in a game, Odessa will get them. Now, whether the Bronchos make them or not is another story.

You may re-play and analyze Odessa's win over Sweetwater as long as you please and from here to heck and gone. But there is one thing always constant — Odessa won. And there is not a citizen over there or a member of the team who didn't believe they could do it all the time.

The unquenchable will to win, brother, they've got it West of us.

—SL—

ROUNDIN' UP THE STRAYS . . San Angelo had two touchdowns called back in the game in which they beat Big Spring 13-0 Friday night . . . You can bet on Big Spring being "up" for the game here this Friday night against Midland . . . Always is . . . We don't wish Midland to be caught napping . . . So here's warning, Bulldogs . . . They are saying George Petrovich is the best tackle at Texas since the late Stan Mauldin . . . Texas and TCU have played 33 games in history, with Texas winning 21 times and the Frogs 11; there was one tie . . . Dear Santa, please bring the Sweetwater Mustangs some glue, they can't seem to catch Sonny Mobley of Odessa . . . Doc Johnson says he could pick a backfield from the Abilene colleges which could go with the best in the nation . . . He would include Brad Rowland of McMurry, V. T. Smith of ACC and Hook Davis of Hardin - Simmons . . . The other back would be just anybody to hand those three the ball . . . The Reporter-Telegram bowling team has snazzy new team shirts . . .The Friday night football attendance at Odessa was more than can be seated in the Sun Bowl . . . A new nickname of Doak Walker, SMU, is "Shmoo" . . . If you look at him to run for a touchdown, he will run for a touchdown . . . If you look at him to get off a nice long punt, he will get off a nice long punt . . . And so on down the line of everything in football . . . Put down little Bill Harris in your futures book as a Midland football prospect . . . He now is in elementary school but has a lot of go . . . The Physical Education Department of the University of Nebraska has a special class in bowling . . . The fabulous runners of football are Grange, Harmon and Davis . . . The electrifying passers are Baugh and Luckman . . . The high caliber kickers are Thorpe, Strong, Tipton and Waterfield . . . The most famous plungers would be Nagurski and Kimbrough . . . Southern Cal has a tackle—Bob Hendren, who is six feet, eight inches tall . . . A fugitive from the cage squad, no doubt . . . Last baseball season the Brooklyn Dodgers stole home 13 times, which goes to prove—a club can't steal a flag . . . Teams which have one platoon for offense, another for defense, should have one for taking time out for delaying the game . . . Football is noted for its jaw-breaking names but College of Emporia offers a change this year with such monickers as Don Elk, and George Ke . . . They ought to please the sportswriters . . . 30 for strays, when a cowboy "carries the mail" he goes fast and in many cases so does a football player.

Texas Fights Back To Tumble Baylor

WACO —(AP)— The Texas Longhorns hit the comeback trail Saturday, coming from behind to nudge Baylor 13 to 10 in a wild, hard-fought football game before 20,000 at Municipal Stadium.

In the final analysis, it was Texas Quarterback Paul Campbell's improved passing arm that turned the trick for the Longhorns after it looked as if the Bears had the game in the bag.

Both teams, jittery in the first half, muffed several scoring opportunities and Texas fumbles and penalties almost cost the Longhorns the ball game.

Baylor drew blood first in the second period with a touchdown and point after touchdown. Then the Bruins added three more points with a field goal in the third quarter.

Shortly thereafter, Texas came back with a 70-yard pay-off drive for a touchdown, and Campbell's pass to end George McCall in the fourth nailed it down for Texas. The Bears, who have staved off last-minute defeat in several hair-raising games this season, just couldn't do it again Saturday. McCall's touchdown came with a little more than three minutes left in the ball game.

Steer Fumble Costly

A fumble by Texas' Ray Borneman set up Baylor's first touchdown. He dropped the ball on a pitch-out behind the line from Campbell, and Don Mouser pounced on the ball on the Texas five. Several Baylor defenders had hit Borneman hard. Jerry Mangum found a big hole and ran over for the score. Henry Dickerson's placekick for the extra point was good. Another Texas fumble put Baylor in scoring shot in the third. Billy Pyle lost Adrian Burk's punt after running it from the goal line and End J. R. Closs recovered on the Texas 15.

A Baylor fumble and two line plays left the ball on the 17 and Dickerson came in to boot the field goal.

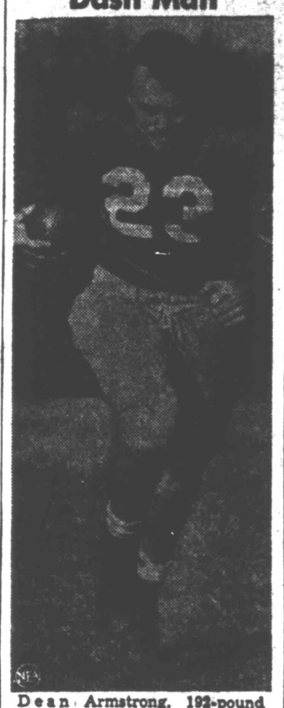

Texas Touchdown Bound

Texas stormed back in eight plays, driving 70 yards with Borneman, Pyle and Randall Clay slashing through the Baylor defense. It was Clay's eight-yard cut through the left side of the Baylor line that brought the score. Chuck Stone bruised through and blocked Clay's try for the point.

A beautiful kick by Frank Guess pushed Baylor back to their seven. Then Burk kicked out to the Texas 43, but Texas was touchdown-bound. Tom Landry raced to the Baylor 37, Campbell passed to Clay on the Baylor 23, Landry drove for six yards and then came Campbell's payoff pass to McCall.

Baylor's Burk, with time running out, made good on two passes that put the ball in midfield, but Pyle's interception of another try on the 49 in effect ended the ball game.

Dash Man

Dean Armstrong, 192-pound fullback of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., ran 100 yards for a touchdown after intercepting a Worcester Poly pass. Armstrong scored six touchdowns in the Fighting Engineers' four games with a so-so team that won only one—from Worcester Poly, 28-6. He gained 402 yards, averaging seven a try.

Area Road Projects Listed In Call For Bids November 30

AUSTIN—(AP)—The State Highway Department Saturday called for bids November 1 on highway maintenance and construction projects estimated to total $6,726,000.

The Department estimated engineering and contingency items would add another $672,000 to the cost of actual construction of the projects.

Included in the listing are 241.5 miles of farm-to-market roads on which bids are estimated at $2,585,000. Sixty-eight miles of primary and state highway projects are expected to total $4,141,000.

Among bids to be received November 30 are the following projects, by counties:

Andrews — Farm Highway 781, 13.81 miles, grading, drainage structures, base and surfacing; from New Mexico line east to Farm Highway 703.

Bids to be received December 1 include:

Scurry—State Highway 101, 0.52 miles, Scott and Hell Roaring Creek bridges and approaches, 7.5 miles southeast of Snyder.

Correspondent In Hospital; Friends Gather News Items

STANTON—Due to the kindness and thoughtfulness of her friends, Mrs. R. A. Bennett, Stanton correspondent for The Midland Reporter-Telegram, was able to report the goings and comings of Martin County residents even while she was seriously ill in a hospital here recently.

Persons visiting Mrs. Bennett in the hospital wrote news happenings on a scratch pad on the table beside her bed. Some of her friends even made special trips to get news items for the reporter.

Mrs. Bennett's daughter then took the notes home at night for typing before sending the copy to the Midland newspaper.

Oklahoma Sooners Blast 41-7 Victory Over Missouri U

Showing their sharpest attack of the season before the largest gathering ever assembled for a football game in Oklahoma, the Sooners turned the game into a rout by scoring four touchdowns in eleven minutes and ten seconds of the third quarter.

The victory was Oklahoma's third in the Big Seven Conference against no defeats and their sixth successive triumph of the campaign. It made the Oklahomans a prized pick for a bowl engagement.

Great Battle To Half

It was a great battle for two full quarters as Missouri opened the scoring with Dick Brasnell smacking over from the one-foot line midway of the opening period. Bob Dawson kicked the point.

Oklahoma evened the game in the first four minutes of the second quarter on George (Junior) Thomas' four-yard slice through tackle and a perfect placement by Les Ming.

Then came the third quarter and the touchdown parade.

Completely outclassed in the line, Missouri was through for the day, but Oklahoma had one more touchdown coming. Heath, playing with the third and fourth stringers, got it on a 26-yard dash early in the fourth quarter.

Winter Pruning Best For Most Trees

A release from the Texas A&M Extension Service received in the office of Mrs. Nettie B. Messick, Midland County home demonstration agent, recommends Winter pruning of most trees. This encourages limb and leaf growth, the release states.

Florida Jasmine, Pfitzer's Juniper, Nandina, Flowering Willow, Salt Cedar, Althea, Crepe Myrtle, Vitex, Elaeangnua, Ceniza Ligustrums, Pyracantha, shade trees and fruit trees.

Roses should not be pruned in the Fall, the release states, because Fall pruning would discourage blossoms in the Spring.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You join a group that is already settled down to conversation.

WRONG WAY: Come in with a flourish, a lot of chatter, and take over the spotlight.

RIGHT WAY: Come in quietly and join the group without disrupting what is already going on.

MOTORING TAXATION

Motorists of the United States paid $2,507,000,000 in taxes during 1946. Registrations constituted $551,000,000 of this total, gasoline and state taxes took $796,000,000, and other taxes $95,000,000.

AIR COVERING

All ground and water surfaces of the earth are covered by a layer of turbulent air varying in thickness from a few yards to a thousand miles or more.

Flavor a creamed sauce to be used for steamed green cabbage with a little Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice; garnish the creamed dish with finely chopped parsley.

Dear Santa—

Dear Santa Claus:

Please bring me a stove, an electric iron, dishes and a big doll.

I would also like a doll trunk for my dollie's clothes.

I have been a good girl most of the time.

Tennessee Tumbles Georgia Tech From Unbeaten Ranks

ATLANTA —(AP)— The Tennessee Vols tumbled Georgia Tech from the unbeaten ranks Saturday 13-6 as the Vols' big, fast skirmish line continually operated in the Tech backfield.

A sellout crowd of 38,000 fans at a muddy Grant Field saw Tennessee linemen outhit Tech's and destroy Yellowjacket passing aim. The light, high-speed Tech backs were forced to run instead of pass. Their fumbles set up one Tennessee score and ended several threats.

The loss was a major upset, Tech being a two-touchdown pick before the Southeastern Conference game.

Notre Dame Skips Over Indiana 42-6

BLOOMINGTON, IND. — (AP) — Notre Dame's football team skipped lightly over a muddy field in a 42-6 victory Saturday against Indiana's five-times-beaten Hoosiers.

The Irish failed to score only in the final quarter—thus ending a string of 33 periods in which they had tallied one or more touchdowns.

Halfback Emil (Six Yard) Sitko softened up the Hoosiers with a series of smashes early in the game. He ran 23 yards for the first Irish touchdown and it was just routine after that.

It was Notre Dame's 25th game without defeat and its 19th straight victory.

MIDLANDER REPORTS AUTOMOBILE STOLEN

Johnnie N. Brewer of 406 North Tennessee Street reported to police Saturday evening that his automobile had been stolen from its parking place near the telephone office.

Police had not been able to locate the car, a blue 1940 Ford, late Saturday night.

Democratic Sweep Puts Texans In Top Spots In Washington

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Democratic sweep in the November 2 election puts Texans in strong positions in the nation's capital.

Three in top spots are Attorney General Tom Clark, House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn and Senator Tom Connally. All stuck by President Truman during the campaign.

The tall and friendly Clark was the only one of the old timers in the President's Cabinet who got out and stumped actively, for his boss. Two newcomers, Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan and Labor Secretary Maurice Tobin, also made campaign speeches for Truman.

However, there has been some speculation that Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy might retire because of his health and Clark be appointed to fill the vacancy.

Rayburn For Speaker

Bonham's Congressman Rayburn is almost certain of reelection as speaker of the House when the 81st Congress convenes January 3.

It is recalled that only the persistent pleading of his Texas colleagues, led by Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana, caused Rayburn to take the minority leadership of the House two years ago when Republicans won control of Congress. Otherwise Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts would have been chosen and now would be the logical choice for the speakership.

Connally is due to resume chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He and the present chairman, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), have cooperated closely on the bi-partisan foreign policy and can be expected to continue working in harmony.

The shift in control of Congress will mean a lot of moving, even for the members who are staying on. For example:

Rayburn will pack up his files and move back to the ornate speaker's room just off the House Chamber. He also takes over the spacious and more elaborate rooms in another section of the Capitol which he surrendered two years ago to Speaker Joe Martin (R-Mass). It again will be simply a case of the two men swapping office suites.

Connally To Get Raise

And when Rayburn returns to the leadership his salary will go back to $20,000 a year and he'll get a government limousine with driver. The salary of ordinary members of Congress is $12,500 plus a non-taxable $2,500 expense account.

Silver-haired Tom Connally once more will occupy the ornate Senate Foreign Relations Committee Room in the Capitol. He also will have his present suite of offices in the Senate Office Building.

There will be many changes in office suites of members of the House. As they gain seniority they are entitled to the more desirable suites. Some of these will be vacated by departing members.

As majority members, Texans will regain prestige and power on their respective committees.

Patman will head the House Small - Business Committee, now that the Republicans are out of the driver's seat. Most of the Texans will rank high up on other committees.

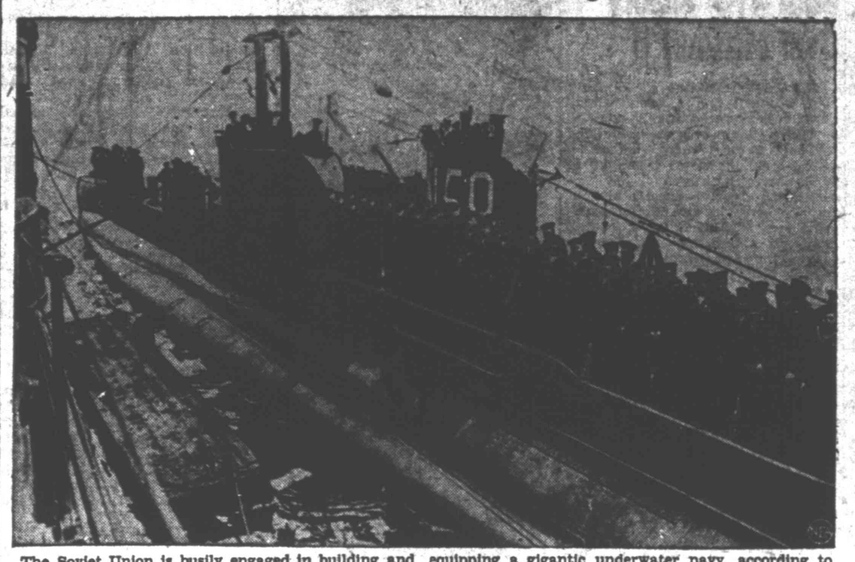

Dallas Officer Kills Self When Traffic Racket Is Exposed

DALLAS —(AP)— City Manager Roderic B. Thomas said Saturday the county grand jury would be asked Monday to investigate a traffic-ticket fixing scheme here.

Thomas announced Friday such a scheme—dating back 12 years—had been discovered.

Shortly after the announcement Jail Supervisor Clarence W. Barrett shot himself while in the office of Chief of Police Carl Hansson.

Russia Amasses Huge Fleet Of Schnorkel-Equipped Subs

The Soviet Union is busily engaged in building and equipping a gigantic underwater navy, according to Jane's "Fighting Ships," the authoritative volume on the world's navies, published in London. It said that latest information "indicates that Russia has 250 submarines in commission and 100 building." Some of these ships were turned over by the Allies, like the two British subs at left, which the Russian sailors took possession of late in World War II. Jane's pointed out that they also captured some from the Germans, and these and probably others are equipped with the Germans' "Schnorkel" device. The long pipelike affair, shown at right on a German sub captured by the U. S. Navy, is extended to the surface when the submarine is submerged. Air is pumped down through a long, collapsible tube, on the same principle through which a swimmer can remain underwater while breathing through a reed. Schnorkel-equipped U-boats can remain submerged almost indefinitely.

Search Plane Hears Radio Distress Call

SEATTLE—(AP)—A radio distress signal was reported heard Saturday by one of the search planes hunting for three planes missing on the North Pacific rim with 38 persons aboard.

The weak signal was heard coming from the northern part of Vancouver Island. It was in that general area that a long-range Navy Neptune bomber with nine aboard vanished Thursday. Weather conditions prevented an aerial search of the island.

Whidbey Island Naval Air Station, base of the plane, said the signal also was too weak to permit an accurate bearing for ground searchers. The same signal had been heard the previous day.

said. "Without any compunction, his government, with the knowledge of the United States and Britain, is preparing to take such action."

The Russian delegate said the newspaper of Constantine Tsaldaris, Greek foreign minister, advocated last August that the Greek government use gas against the guerrillas.

Referring to a statement made by Dulles that the U. S. had stopped disarming because of the world's fear of Russia, Vishinsky asked:

Speakers Chide Dulles

"Who is threatening you? How is the Soviet Union threatening you?"

He said the Soviet Union is threatening no one, but the United States is the one who is threatening. He said the U. S. has 228 bases in the Atlantic area alone.

"Where aren't there American bases?" he asked.

"If the U. S. doesn't dream of world domination," he asked, "why build all these bases all over the world? What is the use of all these bases? They are not just a Christmas tree."

Turning to Dulles, he said:

"To say that you do not want world mastery is a story for small children."

Both Vishinsky and Katz-Suchy chided Dulles on the Republican defeat in Tuesday's election, which dashed Dulles hopes of being Secretary of State.

Short Cut Pays Off For Odessa Visitor

When D. C. Bingham took a short cut while on the way to visit his brother-in-law in Midland Saturday evening . . . it payed off in more ways than one.

As Bingham passed the Elder Chevrolet Company on West Texas Street he spied his automobile, a 1942 Pontiac, which had been stolen in Odessa at noon Saturday.

Inspection of the car by its owner revealed no damage other than an empty gas tank.

Texas Flyers Plan Refueling In Air

LONGVIEW, TEXAS—(AP)—Endurance flyers Pred Vinmont and Bert Simons, midway through the third week of their attempt to crack the world non-stop flight record, will practice refueling from the air Sunday.

Heretofore, the flyers have done all their refueling by swooping low and snatching gas drums with ropes off the back of a speeding automobile.

Mary Ruth is kept in an incubator, and taken out for a few minutes every other day to be weighed. "My daughter has an awful lot of spunk," says mother Mrs. Walter F. DeVor.

Home Fire Is Fatal To Father And Son

CORPUS CHRISTI—(AP)—James Grady Morris, 48, and his son, Kenneth George, 14, suffered fatal burns in a fire which destroyed their home eight miles west of Beeville Saturday.

Morris was burned to death in the fire. The son died about 2 p. m. in the Beeville hospital. Morris' wife suffered bad burns on the upper part of her body. She is under treatment at the hospital.

Another son, Grady Maurice, about eight, was not injured.

organizations were approved several weeks ago by Chest directors, who said the groups have agreed to make no further drives for operating funds during the year.

Purpose Of Chest

The Community Chest was organized here last year under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce, and its first finance campaign was conducted last Fall. The purpose of the Chest is to group as many youth and welfare organizations as possible under one finance organization, thereby eliminating the necessity of individual fund drives.

Campaign leaders hope to complete the drive, exceeding the goal if possible, within three weeks.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(AP)— The political pollsters say they are going to try and check into what's wrong with their polls.

This is a fine idea. But Noah didn't wait until after the flood to buy a rain gauge. He started building his ark in dry weather.

The pollsters presented in their election forecasts what they termed a cross-section of America. But they must feel now it was a double-cross section.

Perhaps the most depressing aspect of the whole situation is the number of horrible puns that are springing up like dandelions. Such as:

"Now that the election is over we must all poll together."

"You can tell a politician's drowning if he grabs at any straw vote."

"It wasn't the donkey's back that was broken by the last straw vote."

"Barber poles are still red, white and blue—but the election polls were read, wrong and blue."

"The Republicans are still asking, 'Where's Elmo'?"

Reversed Procedure

"Harry is the first president to lose in a Gallup and win in a walk."

Looking back, it would seem the basic trouble with pollsters is that they reversed the radio programs by asking the $64 question first. The only industry in which a man can safely start at the top is flagpole sitting.

Perhaps the poobahs of the polls would do better next time by asking a few warmup questions before the real campaign program begins. That way they would loosen up the voters and win their confidence before springing the pay-off query.

Practice Questions

In the next four years, for example, they could practice up by tackling some old unanswered problems that never get settled in election years. A few samples:

"Why does it always rain after a man pays two-bits for a shoeshine?"

"What do people who live on a shoestring tie their future to?"

"How much does the average butcher's thumb weigh?"

"Why—even after 25 years of marriage—does a wife still close her eyes when her husband kisses her?"

"Why does the same husband keep his eyes open?"

Construction Hits $5,239,530; Week's Permits Are $26,150

Going into the eleventh month of a record year in construction, Midland counted $26,150 in building permits for the week ended Saturday to bring the years mark to $5,239,530.

Largest permit of the week went to Craver-Hicks Company for $8,000 to build an office and warehouse at 1009 West South Front Street. Materials include brick, tile and concrete. Size will be 50 by 120 feet.

Other permits of the week included: Mrs. I. C. Heald, $5,000, frame residence at 911 North Marienfield Street, 29 by 32 feet; Mrs. Eddie Trammell, $5,000, alter brick and tile business structure at 407 West Wall Street, 10 by 75 feet; Jack Boyce, $4,750, residence with attached garage at 909 North Fort Worth Street, 39 by 27 feet.

R. Z. Landrum, $1,500, frame residence at 3100 Franklin Boulevard, 16 by 28 feet; R. A. Estes, $800, frame servant quarters at 2100 West Brunson Street, 10 by 18 feet; A. R. Winter, $600, alter frame residence at 507 South Dallas Street, 10 by 24 feet; and Jesse Lopez, $500, alter frame residence at 412 North Mineola Street, 10 by 14 feet.

Movies' Economy Wave Puts 'Cheesecake' Out On A Limb

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Behind The Screen Memo to Erskine Johnson, Hollywood: "The Acme Newspicture boys tell me it is like pulling teeth to get cheesecake pictures out of Hollywood these days. Perhaps the Eric Johnston office has shut off some of the previously liberal supply. If there is any widespread censorship of cheesecake shots, perhaps it's an item for you."

MEMO to Acme Newspictures, N. Y. "It isn't censorship, boys. It's economy. The legs are still here but most of them are lined up collecting Social Security checks. They're still shooting pictures at the studios but legs, even shapely ones, have a low priority."

Stars returning from personal appearance tours are complaining about the bad conduct of audiences in theaters where stars appear. Members of the roughneck set are hurling insults and vulgar cracks at the Hollywood performers. It happened to Lucille Ball in Chicago for one. Part of Hollywood's bad public relations?

Life With Parents

Parents of kids who win fame and big bank accounts in Hollywood sometimes are confused by it all. The mother of Cy Howard, who lives in Milwaukee, is rather vague about her son's job in Hollywood (he's due to make a six-figure salary this year writing and producing two airshows, "My Friend Irma" and "The Life of Luigi"). Other day Mama Howard wrote Cy: "Glad to hear you are doing so well in Hollywood. Someday I hope you become a famous announcer."

When James Gleason was signed to do "The Life of Riley" at UI, studio praisers sent to another studio for his biography. When the biography was read it was noted in the last paragraph: "James Gleason is not at all afraid of talking pictures and will accept a role in one when it is offered." The UI praisers suggested to the other studio that the biography could stand a bit of revising and the answer came back: "Just change talking pictures to television and it's up to date."

Marie Windsor, who just played her first starring role opposite George Raft in "Outpost in Morocco," went home to Marysvale, Utah, to visit her family. She told her father that she dies in the picture.

Papa Windsor sighed dolefully and said: "Isn't that a shame. And just when you're getting such a good start."

Oh, Cooler!

Looking backward: When vaudeville entertainers filled in between reels at those early nickelodeons, Harry Green was one of them and he was puzzled one day when a theater manager referred to him as a "c'oler." "What does that mean?" asked Harry.

SHORT TAKES: Tim Holt will be billed as himself in his future western pictures at RKO. Tom Mix and W. S. Hart started the trend years ago .... Recession note: Walt Disney is dropping nonproduction personnel when not needed at the studio .... Dolores del Rio is in Paris on vacation before starting her next Mexican picture .... Andy Russell and his wife, Dela, will do a "Mr. and Mrs." series for television.

Keenan Wynn gets a juicy comedy role in "Neptune's Daughter." ... M-G-M has the life story of Jim Thorpe in the typewriters. The title will be "The Red Son of Carlisle." Thorpe will assist in the filming but an actor will play him.

Odessa Population Climbs To 47,338

Jack L. Lloyd of Oklahoma City, whose company recently compiled material for a new Odessa city directory, placed the metropolotan population at 47,338, a gain of 10,-637 during the last 12 months.

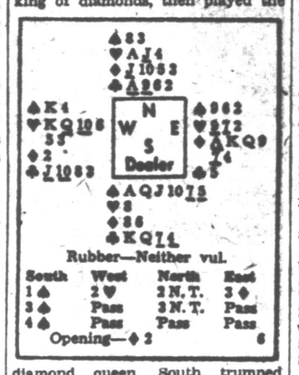

Preston V. Kors, manager of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, to whom Lloyd gave the result of his survey, said he felt sure Odessa would have 50,000 residents by the time the 1950 census is taken.

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

Dr. Leo F. Schiff, of Plattsburg, N. Y., sent me today's hand, which he kibitzed in a rubber bridge game.

In the actual play of the hand, East won the opening diamond lead with the nine-spot, cashed the king of diamonds, then played the diamond queen. South trumped with the ten of spades, West overtrumped with the king and led back the king of hearts. Declarer won this trick in dummy and took three rounds of trumps. Now he cashed the king of clubs and led a small club to the ace, only to find East out of clubs.

"South's opponents," wrote Dr. Schiff, "murmured something about bad distribution. Who would expect to find the clubs bunched against you that way? But North was not so consoling. He insisted that South had thrown the hand away by careless play. South objected, saying it was easy to see how it should have been played now that all the cards were out, but how was he to know the disposition of the club suit before any were played? So North explained."

At trick seven there was a partial count on the East hand, six diamonds, three spades and at least one heart. Probably East had three hearts because he had played the deuce to the first trick. If South had two or three hearts, he probably would have led a heart toward the jack to establish it.

So, North pointed out, if South, after cashing the king of clubs, had continued with the club queen, the situation would have been down to the cards underlined in the hand. Now he would lead the seven of trumps and West would have to let go the ten of hearts. When the five of trumps was played West would be helpless. He would have to throw away the queen of hearts or ten of clubs.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bilbrey on the birth Friday of a son, Micheal Lynn, weighing six pounds.

Wall Street's Hopes Of GOP Win Blamed For Market Debacle

NEW YORK—(AP) — The stock market Saturday finished its most disastrous week in more than eight years.

Not since the German Army overran the Lowlands have stock prices taken such a pounding.

A slight rally Saturday and another more substantial one on Thursday did little to wipe out the effects of the disappointment caused by the spectacular Democratic victory.

Wall Street had looked forward with confidence to seeing Governor Dewey installed in the White House, stock prices had advanced consistently most of October and financial observers termed the trend a pre-election market.

The impact of the shock was felt first on the day following the election. The general price level plunged for the sharpest break in two years.

Selling was so heavy trading in some key stocks had to be suspended temporarily by the exchange until enough buyers could be found at what was considered a fair price. Turnover that day crossed the 3,000,000-share mark. The market value of all stocks dropped by about $3,000,000,000.

Selling Pressure Resumes

On Thursday the market tried a comeback and turned in a fairly good score for the day, but at the closing bell prices were sinking.

Selling pressure was resumed Friday with savage intensity. Near midday investors and speculators unloaded their holdings with breath-taking speed.

On Saturday buying interest perked up a bit at the start and leading issues got ahead by as much as a point or more. Demand didn't amount to much, though, and the day's best gains were lowered by the close.

Prices, on the average, broke to the lowest level since April, as measured by The Associated Press composite of 60 stocks.

Individual issues were hammered down $1 to more than $10 a share.

The market value of all stocks on the exchange declined by about $4,500,000,000.

In four days of business more than 8,000,000 shares of stock changed hands.

Psychology of Fear

What was all the shooting about?

Selling was based largely on a psychology of fear—fear of what the incoming administration would do about taxes, labor, farm support prices, controls, housing, about dozens of situations which would directly or indirectly affect the profits of business.

Profits now are running at or near record levels. Everybody would like to see them kept that way. Labor is agreeable—provided labor gets its cut. The government is agreeable—provided enough taxes are collected to perform the functions of government. The farmer is agreeable—provided the high cost of living doesn't send him to the poorhouse.

These are some of the problems the Administration will try to resolve. Business is afraid they will be resolved at the expense of business.

Democratic Victory Tosses Old Political Maxims In Ash Can

WASHINGTON—(AP) — President Truman upset many old political maxims with his victory over Governor Dewey of New York.

He tossed into the ash can so many traditional factors that appeared to favor his opponent the "experts" still are looking for the whys and wherefores.

For example, he won a fifth straight time for the Democrats, the first time any party had achieved this since the Civil War.

And he won despite the following factors:

1. From the Civil War until now, the party winning an off-year congressional elections always went on to win the presidency two years later. The GOP captured control of Congress in 1946.

2. The Democratic Party was split, with Henry A. Wallace winning more than a million votes, most of them perhaps from the Democrats, and Gov. J. Strom Thurmond taking 38 electoral votes for the States' Righters.

Solid South Broken

3. The "Solid South" was broken for the first time since 1928, when Herbert Hoover captured five states for 62 electoral votes.

4. Many city and state party leaders, who had fought tooth and nail against Truman's nomination, did little if anything to further his campaign.

5. The vote was small. All previous signs indicated the Democrats needed a large turnout—55,000,000 or so—to beat Dewey. The vote probably will be less than 50,000,000.

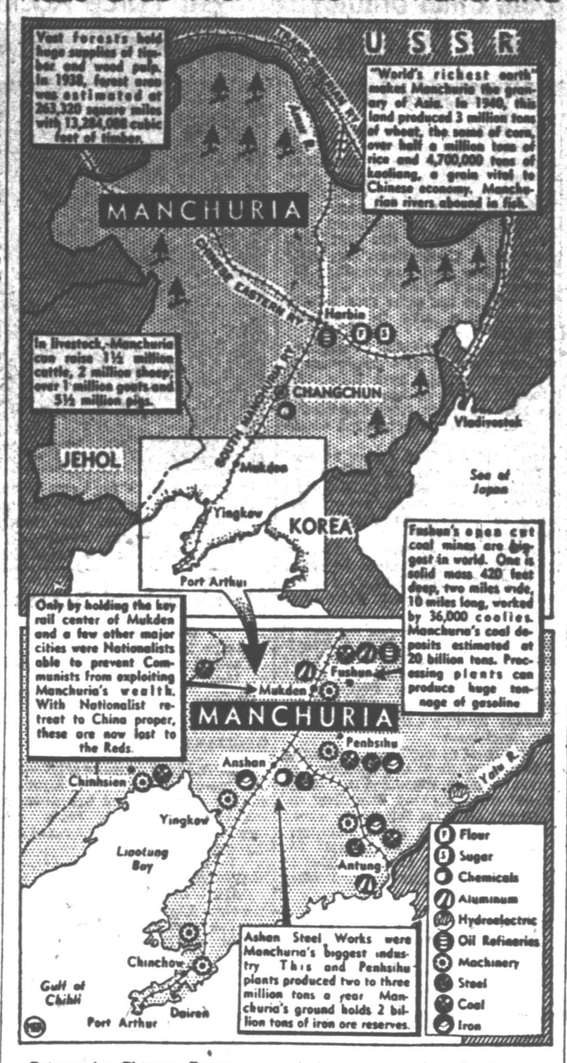

6. The Democratic war chest was small. None of the old regular contributors shelled out as before. Southern state organizations diverted their cash to the anti-Truman States' Rights candidates. The party usually gets more than $500,-000 from the South.

It received less than $50,000 for the 1948 campaign.

7. Truman triumphed without the electoral votes of New York and Pennsylvania, something no candidate of either party had done since Woodrow Wilson won over Charles E. Hughes in 1916.

Reds Grab Rich Prize in Manchuria

British-American Discord On Holy Land Issue Looms

WASHINGTON— (AP) — Administration officials Saturday forecast an end to White House-State Department rowing over Palestine policy—now that the election is over.

As a result they expect from here on a steadier course for American relations with the new Jewish State of Israel and with Arab lands—both in and out of the United Nations.

But even as the President put his own post-election house in order, evidence appears that there may be more trouble ahead with the British on Holy Land issues. Britain, with vital Near East interests and with little or no internal Jewish political force, has always pursued a more pro-Arab line than the United States, particularly the White House, has been willing to follow.

Lovett On Way Out

Also, it seems that the apparent return of White House-State Department cooperation in this field of foreign policy—the only one that was very much involved in the presidential campaign — has not come soon enough to forestall much hard feeling between White House officials and Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett.

Some of the President's advisers have indicated that when Lovett submits his resignation along with all other top Administration officials, Truman will make no effort to persuade him to remain in office.

A new angle of the Palestine problem which is expected to get more and more attention is the relationship between what is going on in Palestine and the interests of the Western nations in the cold war with Russia.

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —
By DON McGREGOR

Buck Jackson, Reeves County sheriff, won a roping in Fort Stockton last week with a time of 69 seconds on two calves. He bested another lawman, Sheriff Charles Baker of Pecos, by 34 seconds. The event was a special preview of Fort Stockton's first annual rodeo which runs Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Another star-studded event at the preview was a roping match between a six-man posse from Pecos and a like number of law and order exponents from Reeves County. The Pecos men took the match 297.2 seconds to 367.3.

Pecos ropers were Raymond Quieg, Minyard Smith, Damon McGilvray, Mark Talliaferro, Oscar Graham and Raymond Hale, while Jap McIlvain, Buck Miller, Bobby Sherill, M. Martinez, Cal Wilson and Mac Casselman threw for Pecos.

George Teague and his son, Bill, of Crane beat McIlvain and Sherill in a two-man match.

Evening shows are scheduled each day of the rodeo and a 2 p. m. matinee is slated for Saturday. The program names some of the country's finest riders and ropers, among whom is Toots Mansfield of Big Spring. The show is a VFW-sponsored event and Fort Stockton civic organizations are backing it to the hilt. The new stadium is built on the site of a former football field and is said to be one of the best lighted in America.

A recent Associated Press release has a report on a relatively new cattle disease:

"A puzzling disease is sweeping into the young beef cattle population of the country, and so far has been recognized in 26 states.

"Veterinarians don't quite know what to make of it. They're sure it has no connection with the dread foot-and-mouth disease south of the border, and they're fairly certain it can't be transmitted to man.

"But the stuff was so puzzling at first, it was designated only as "x" cattle disease. Since there are other "X" diseases in other kinds of livestock, this one finally was named hyperkeratosis.

"R. C. Klussendorf, of the American Veterinary Medical Association, says this means "thickening of the skin." Forty per cent of the infected cattle—particularly calves and yearlings—die. Half the remainder are in such bad shape they can only be sent to a rendering plant, Klussendorf added.

"He said the disease first was reported two years ago in New York and New England. Usually whole herds are not affected, but some beef herds reportedly have been so severely hit that owners were forced out of business.

"Illinois is one of the most recent states to have the disease crop up, with five infected herds reported.

"Neither the cause nor cure has been found. It affects beef cattle nine times more frequently than dairy types. Usually the malady starts with a watery discharge from the eyes and nose. Then comes loss of condition, loss of hair, thickening of the skin, sores around the mouth and esophagus, and general weakness, perhaps death."

In Thursday's Reporter-Telegram there appeared an article on eradication of peach tree borers. County Agent Hubert Martin says he frequently receives calls from poplar tree growers who are troubled with what looks to him to be the same borer and he believes the same treatment outlined in the article will serve for all trees affected.

Louis Bertha says he is using the method Martin prescribes and thinks it may work. The borers hit his willow, silver maple and poplar trees and skipped his Chinese elm and evergreen though they are all mixed together.

The paradichlorobenzene crystals are available in Midland drug stores.

NOW THE HARD OF HEARING CAN HELP THEMSELVES TO HEARING

The many hard-of-hearing in this city will have an exceptional opportunity to find out how they may once again experience relaxed noise-free hearing. A FREE HEARING CLINIC will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 8 and 9, Scharbauer Hotel, 1 to 5 p.m., by Mr. J. C. Hammer at which time he will test the hard-of-hearing for individual hearing deficiencies. This clinic will serve to introduce a new Acousticon development in hearing aids. This new hearing aid, by the world's first and oldest manufacturer of electrical hearing aids, offers clarity of tone without the harsh background noises usually encountered. This instrument, in spite of its power, is small, even with the batteries enclosed!

Letters have been coming in from those who have already tried this new Acousticon saying how thrilled they were with this hearing aid. Many of them say that they have never experienced such clarity of tone against such a velvet-quiet background. The manufacturers of this instrument say that no one can even imagine what it may do for them until they hear it with their own ears.

Those hard of hearing who have been searching for the answer to their personal hearing problems are urged to attend this FREE CLINIC. Phone Mr. Hammer at Scharbauer Hotel for evening appointments in your own home.—(adv.)

Dispute On Divorce Mars UN Labors On Bill Of Human Rights

PARIS—(AP)—The first bill of human rights is slowly taking shape amid a war of words.

Depending on moral force alone, it can become a boon or a bust.

The declaration may be "America's greatest weapon of psychological warfare—more important even than possession of the atomic bomb," says Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, ambassador to Washington and former Harvard professor.

Malik, one of the declaration's drafters, heads the General Assembly's 58-nation Social Committee. The Committee in more than a month has approved less than half the declaration's 28 articles. But it still wages a word-by-word battle to send the document to the assembly for final approval this year.

Russia Injects Issue

Earlier Saturday Russia demanded that the United Nations formally recognize divorce.

Black-bearded Alexei Pavlov, Soviet delegate to the assembly's Social Committee, attacked what he called "unequal and improper marriage and divorce laws in the United States. He sought to amend article 14 of a draft declaration of human rights to read:

"Men and women shall enjoy equal rights both during marriage and when divorced."

Latin American and other delegates of predominantly Catholic countries strongly opposed any mention of divorce in the 28-article declaration.

Dewey Blames GOP Overconfidence For His Stunning Defeat

The GOP candidate told a news conference:

"I was quite surprised by the very low vote.

"It looks as if two or three million Republicans stayed home (from the polls) out of overconfidence."

When a reporter asked Dewey whether, in his judgment, that was the main reason for his defeat, he replied:

"It's one factor that stands out in the returns so far."

"I am going to get a little holiday. I am going to Arizona to get some sunshine."

Flying To Tucson

He will fly to Tucson from LaGuardia Field in New York Sunday. He will be accompanied on the two-week trip by Mrs. Dewey; their sons, Thomas, 16, and John, 13; Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Hogan and their son, Jack, 12, and Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Straus. The Hogan and Straus families are friends of the Deweys.

Dewey reiterated that he has no intention of trying a third time for the presidency. But he made it clear he did not plan to withdraw entirely from the political scene.

He said his decision not to try again for the White House "doesn't mean that I do not intend to be useful to my country.

He shot back a brisk "No, sir" when a newsman asked whether he would give up his role as titular head of the Republican Party the next four years.

"As a matter of fact, I couldn't (renounce it) if I wanted to," he added.

Gen. Omar Bradley Attends Fort Bliss Anniversary Event

EL PASO — (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff, Saturday pointed to the U. S.-Mexico border, "with no pillboxes and no iron curtain," as an example of trust for the rest of the world.

Bradley made the comment at a luncheon given by the Fort Bliss Centennial Committee. The early day Cavalry post overlooking the border here is celebrating its 100th year and at the same time looking forward to a new troop-training program.

During a morning ceremony, Bradley drew up in a stagecoach to a replica of old Fort Bliss. He trooped a line of bearded soldiers in 1848 uniforms, then inspected a line of modern, mechanized cavalrymen.

He held a formal review at Noel Field during the afternoon and Saturday night addressed a formal dinner in their honor. He will return to Washington Sunday.

No Closer To War

At a press conference Bradley said the United States is no closer to war with Russia now than it was when he visited Fort Bliss last June.

However, he said, the country is not now so well off from a defense standpoint, in some ways, as it was at the time of Pearl Harbor. Mechanical preparations were better then, he said, because industry was already turning out military goods for lend-lease.

The chief of staff said no change has been made in the training program that is scheduled to bring 25,000 troops to Fort Bliss. The enlistment program is running ahead of schedule, with 25,000 volunteers in the last two months, and another 25,000 men to be inducted in November and December, Bradley said.

Mrs. S. T. Taylor has returned to her home in San Angelo after a visit in the home of her brother, R. O. Walker, here.

Air Force Rocketeers Practice

LOOK AT ME CAREFULLY

I MAKE YOUR JOB MORE SECURE

I am an "ad." You see hundreds of me every day.

You may think my only job is to sell you goods.

If you do think that, you are only seeing PART of me—like the top of an iceberg above the water.

Look more carefully. See the bigger part of me BELOW the water. For the biggest thing I do is make your job more secure. Yes, YOUR job.

What kind of job do you have? Farmer? Truck-driver? Office worker? Housewife? Almost every blessed penny that goes into your pocket depends on somebody selling something to somebody else.

In fact—all the jobs and all the paychecks in America depend ultimately on people buying and selling.

And "ads" just like me—in the papers and magazines, on posters and on the air—are the fastest, most powerful and the cheapest way yet devised of selling goods.

Suppose somebody should stop you from reading the ads. Should shut off radio advertising.

But far away, businesses would begin to fail. Pretty soon failures would start striking around you.

It isn't healthy for a nation to stop buying and selling.

Next time you see me, think of that. Think how I make your job more secure.

HERE'S HOW U. S. NATIONAL INCOME ROSE IN THE LAST 36 YEARS—THE GOLDEN AGE OF ADVERTISING

This rise in the standard of living for you and yours is unequalled in all history. Advertising helped raise this standard—is needed even more today to sell industry's new developments.

OTHER WAYS ADVERTISING HELPS YOU AND YOUR FAMILY

1 Brings you better goods for less money.

2 Makes shopping more pleasant and easier.

3 Gears consumer demand to production, to create prosperity.

Midlanders Will Attend WTCC Meet In Abilene Monday

M. C. Ulmer, Paul McHargue and James N. Allison, Midland directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Manager Delbert Downing of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, will leave Sunday for Abilene where they will attend the annual meeting of directors of the regional organization Monday.

Ulmer, a past president of the WTCC, will be the toastmaster at the Monday noon luncheon.

The meeting will be called to order by President C. P. Dodson, and invocation will be by the Rev. James Todd.

Discussion of the water rights of West Texas is on the agenda for C. E. Coombes of Stamford, a former WTCC president, who is legal counsel for the organization in its fight to perpetuate the prior rights of municipalities for water appropriations.

Other features of the program will include an address on the revision of the state constitution by Paul Carrington, Dallas attorney and banker and vice president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

During the day reports will be made by C. W. Meadows, Sr., of San Angelo, chairman of the Latin-American Relations Commission; an address by Dr. R. M. Hawkins, educational committee chairman, on the College Building Fund; a discussion of the WTCC industrial briefs by L. C. Porter, Vice President of the Texas & Pacific railway.

Sterling Williams, state representative from Snyder, will speak on the proposed Williams-Holt bill, an enabling act for HJR 24 (Amendment No. "7) which was passed in last Tuesday's election.

Music Accompanies 'Snow White' Story In Children's Hour

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was the featured story at the regular Children's Story Hour in the Midland County Library Saturday morning. The musical score from the Walt Disney film was played as accompaniment.

The story hour begins at 10:30 a. m. each Saturday in the Children's room of the library, with Mrs. K. C. Heald, Jr., as the story teller. Mrs. Heald has announced that the program closes by 11:15 a. m., and parents who call for their children are asked to come by that time.

Three Hostesses Give Pretty Autumn Tea

One of the prettiest parties of the Fall season was a tea given by Mrs. Barney Grafa, Mrs. W. I. Pratt and Mrs. J. C. Smith Friday afternoon in Mrs. Grafa's new home at 1610 West Tennessee Street.

Approximately 400 guests called between the hours of 3 and 6 p. m. The entire house was open, and members of the house party showed guests through the rooms. Arrangements of Autumn flowers in tones of purple and yellow added to the beauty of each room.

The three hostesses stood in a receiving line. Mrs. Grafa was wearing a gown of chartreuse crepe accented with a gold necklace, Mrs. Pratt was dressed in a deep purple formal frock, and Mrs. Smith in black crepe with a beaded aqua yoke. All wore shoulder bouquets of tiny white chrysanthemums. Members of the house party, all formally gowned, had bouquets of yellow mums.

Members of House Party

Mrs. William L. Kerr and Mrs. John Butler presided at the tea table the second hour, when Mrs. Susie Noble was at the door and Mrs. J. L. McGrew had charge of the registry. For the final tea hour, Mrs. Roy W. Johnson of McCamey and Mrs. Barney Grafa, Jr., of Eden poured, Mrs. James T. Smith greeted the arriving guests and Miss Eula Ann Tolbert was at the registry.

Others in the house party were Mrs. George T. Abell, Mrs. L. C. Link, Mrs. Percy Bridgewater, Mrs. Eugene Russell, Mrs. Paul McHargue, Mrs. Harry Adams, Mrs. J. C. Velvin, Mrs. John Perkins and Mrs. J. C. Ratliff, Jr.

Tea was served from the dining room table, which was covered with an embroidered linen cloth and centered with a low circular arrangement of white chrysanthemums.

League Games Slated For Lady Golfers

Announcement that the Five-City League of Women Golfers will meet Wednesday at the Winkler County Country Club was made to the Ladies Golf Association in the Midland Country Club at luncheon Friday.

Those who expect to play in the Five-City League games are asked to notify Mrs. Bob Franklin for reservations.

Mrs. A. C. Castle and Mrs. William L. Kerr were hostesses to the Ladies Golf Association luncheon, after morning golf games in which the winners were Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Wright Cowden and Mrs. Frank Flournoy. Twelve golfers played on the Country Club course.

The luncheon table was decorated with arrangements of gold and white mums. Special guests were Mrs. Charles Burton of Dallas, Mrs. Herman Clark of Fort Worth, Mrs. John Parker, Mrs. Carl Barnhart, Mrs. Karl Nichols and Mrs. Ray Young.

Members present were Mrs. Payton Anderson, Mrs. Robert Payne, Mrs. Tex Carleton, Mrs. L. M. Freels, Mrs. N. B. Garner, Mrs. P. F. Bridgewater, Mrs. Guy McMillian, Mrs. Nelson Puett, Mrs. Franklin, Mrs. V. M. Ligon, Mrs. D. R. Dickson, Mrs. C. C. Cool, Mrs. Frank Downey, Mrs. Mike Brumbelow and Mrs. Louis Ayres.

Girl Scout Camp In Davis Mountains To Hold Open House

Open house at Camp Mitre Peak, the area Girl Scout camp in the Davis Mountains near Alpine, is announced for Sunday, with the public invited. The Alpine Girl Scout Association will act as host for the day.

Parents of girls who expect to attend camp sessions there will be especially interested in this opportunity to visit the grounds and be shown through the buildings, Mrs. C. E. Bissell, president of the Midland Girl Scout Association, said in announcing the open house program.

Many Midland residents have contributed to the purchase of the camp site and may enjoy an opportunity to visit it, she continued. The camp is located at one of the most picturesque spots in the Davis Mountains and is easily accessible, just off the Alpine-Fort Davis highway, within easy driving distance of Midland.

This open house program is the first of a series planned in the camp, and various Girl Scout Associations in the area will take turns acting as hosts.

North Elementary P-TA Will Observe Education Week

Open house in observance of National Education Week will be held at the North Elementary School Tuesday from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

A brief meeting in the school auditorium, when Mrs. Stanley Erskine, P-TA president, will welcome the group, will be followed by visits to the classrooms. Parents will be invited to go to their children's rooms to meet the teachers and see displays of the students' work.

Room mothers will assist the teacher in each room in greeting parents and showing them the work on display.

State P-TA Congress Program Announced For November 17-19

A dozen members of Midland Parent-Teacher Associations are expected to make up the delegation to the fortieth annual convention of the Texas Parent-Teacher Congress in El Paso November 17-19, Mrs. O. L. Stalcup, city Parent-Teacher Council president, has announced.

Headquarters for the meeting will be the Hotel Paso Del Norte, and general sessions will be held in the high school auditorium. The convention theme will be "On the Highway to Tomorrow."

Mrs. J. H. Moore of Deport, state president, will preside. Program features will be a state board dinner, a parent-teacher clinic, life membership banquet, a tour of the city, a reception honoring local unit presidents and an audio-visual demonstration.

Dr. Henry H. Hill, president of the George Peabody College of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. C. C. Clark of Natchez, Miss., national vice president, will be the main speakers. Also on program are Dr. Robert E. B. Allen, head of the department of speech in the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, and Joseph G. Bennis, El Paso attorney.

Retta Hazlip Heads Girl Scout Troop

Girl Scouts of Troop 14 elected Retta Hazlip president when they chose new officers at a meeting Wednesday in the First Baptist Church. Nancy Guyton was named secretary, Janice Stalcup, treasurer, and Larry Ann Burnside, historian.

Fashion's Fancy

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The high-styled cloth coats shown will capture women's fancy for two good reasons. They can evade the fur tax. They can stand pat against fashion's changeable caprices.

The latter claim is backed up by Elizabeth Hawes whose design is based upon a philosophy of "timelessness."

The long fitted ruby red duveteen coat, left, is designed to serve as background for various scenic changes. It can switch its accessories from a tailored leather belt to a fancy waistliner of bejewelled suede. This coat can be dressed down with a plaid wool ascot, dressed up with a fur scarf or muff.

Black and white striped woolen is worked with geometric precision to make the dramatic coat above with a back that flares extravagantly, a front that swings open or closed, a collar that stands up to all of the fullness below it.

—By EPSIE KINARD, NEA Fashion Editor.

Mrs. Hughston Is Speaker To PEO Members

Advice on selecting antiques for home furnishing and decoration was given by Mrs. Richard L. Hughston, speaker to the BS Chapter of PEO Friday afternoon. She showed pieces from her own collection of antiques to illustrate her point that appropriate old pieces may be used as accents with any style of home furnishing.

The program was given in the home of Mrs. Elliott H. Powers, 1701 Michigan Street, after a business session with Mrs. Mittie Norman, vice president, in charge.

Mrs. Powers had been hostess for a luncheon in the Midland Country Club at noon. Unaffiliated PEO members who were guests were Mrs. K. C. Heald, Jr., Mrs. Ben Head, Mrs. George Turner, Mrs. Horace Skinner and Mrs. Vernon Yearby.

Lucky 13 Club Plans For Christmas Party

A Christmas party for the Lucky 13 Club was planned in a called business meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. S. P. Hall. The party will be on the night of December 16 in the H. S. Collings home.

The next regular meeting of the club, a group which meets twice monthly for games of forty-two, will be with Mrs. Ellis Conner as hostess.

A salad course was served after the business discussion to Mrs. C. H. Shepard, Mrs. W. N. Cole, Mrs. James L. Daugherty, Mrs. J. T. Walker, Mrs. B. M. Hayes, Mrs. J. C. Hudman, Mrs. Collings and Mrs. Conner.

VISIT FROM CARLSBAD

Mrs. Barney Hopkins and daughter, Frances Mozelle, are here from Carlsbad, N. M. for a few days' visit. Mrs. Hopkins, the former Eleanor Connell of Midland, came on business and is visiting with friends.

Western Steps Are Enjoyed By Costumed Dancers At Sashaway Club's Party

New steps were learned by members of the Sashaway Square Dance Club at its November party Friday night in the American Legion Hall, with Herb Gregerson of El Paso as the instructor. He taught the characteristically Western dances including the varsoviana, schottische, polka and Black Hawk waltz, and called fast square dances.

Starting with a grand march led by Mrs. E. W. Halfast, club president, and Mr. Halfast, the dance included old favorites as well as the newly-learned steps. Music was by Buddy Graham and his band from Odessa. The dancers were in colorful Western costumes, the women wearing cotton frocks with long, full skirts and the men dressed in levis and cowboy shirts.

Club guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Harold, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Z. German, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Estes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paup, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCormick and Allen Watts.

Members dancing were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Troseth, Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. John Sewell, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Straughan, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Shade, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Slough, Mr. and Mrs. John Ruwee, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reigle, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keehn, Mr. and Mrs. Halfast, Mr. and Mrs. James Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. Max David, Mr. and Mrs. Lance Crozier, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. R. Prizes Awarded For Posters On World Community Project

Posters made by pupils of the John M. Cowden Junior High School in a contest sponsored by the Midland Council of Church Women were judged by council board members in a meeting in the home of Mrs. L. G. Byerley, president, Friday morning.

Joan Roberts received first place, Nona Lynn second and Edward Black third among the 26 posters submitted. The subject of the posters was the "Pack-a-Towel" program being conducted by the council to collect kits of toilet articles and clothing for children among the displaced persons of Europe.

The posters will be displayed in store windows. Contributions in the campaign will be collected by November 29, which will be observed as World Community Day in a program by the council.

Out-Of-City Speaker

Mrs. Dean Chenoweth of San Angelo will be the guest speaker on that program, in the Trinity Episcopal Church.

Council board members present Friday were Mrs. Al Boring, Mrs. G. P. Bradbury, Mrs. J. L. Tidwell, Mrs. Paul McHargue, Mrs. Carl Westlund, Mrs. L. A. Roby and Mrs. Clifford Hall.

A housewarming gift was presented to Mrs. J. P. Carson, Jr., by members of the DYT Sewing Circle, to whom she was hostess Friday afternoon in her new home, 1106 North Big Spring Street.

The group inspected the house before starting the handwork which occupied the meeting hour. Mrs. Carson served refreshments.

Special guests were Mrs. Everett Klebold and Mrs. L. V. Bassham. Members present were Mrs. Tommy Henderson, Mrs. E. M. Watkins, Mrs. A. E. Houck, Mrs. Elmo Birkhead, Mrs. Joe Roberson and Mrs. John Sewell.

BAND-AIDES TO MEET

A meeting of the Band-Aides, organization of the parents and supporters of high school band members, is announced for 7 p. m. Thursday in the band hall.

DKG Has Regional Meeting

A regional meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary sorority for women in the teaching profession, was held Saturday in the Midland High School. More than 100 members participated.

Beta Kappa Chapter, which includes members from Midland, Big Spring, Odessa, Garden City and Stanton, with Lucy Moore of Midland as president, was hostess for the meeting. The region extends from El Paso to Big Spring and from Lamesa to Alpine.

Dr. Ola Johnston of the faculty of North Texas State College, Denton, state director, was here to have charge of the meeting. The program theme was "Opportunities Unlimited."

Reports from the recent national convention were made by Mrs. Lydia Stark of El Paso, who also was speaker at the luncheon in the North Elementary Cafeteria. Music on the luncheon program was by Oran Jo Pool of Odessa, pianist, and Mrs. Wilson Blurton of Midland, a guest, who played a violin solo accompanied by Mrs. Elise Ellington.

Speakers on the day's program included Ruth Livingston and Mrs. Beulah Bryant of the Alpine chapter, Kay Toliver of Monahans and Julia Tullis of McCamey.

Midland Women Will Attend TFWC Board

Mrs. Howard Hodge and Mrs. B. R. Schabarum of Midland will be in Austin Monday for the opening of the annual Fall meeting of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs Board of Directors.

Mrs. Hodge is an appointive member of the state board, and Mrs. Schabarum will go as a visitor. They will make the trip with Mrs. Louis Caddell of Plainview and Miss Ethel Foster of Sterling City.

Board meetings are scheduled for Monday and Tuesday in the federation headquarters building. Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren of Whiting, Ind., second vice president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will be the featured speaker, appearing on a Tuesday evening program.

Mrs. John J. Perry of Sweetwater, state president, will be in charge of business. She has recently returned from a General Federation Board of Directors meeting in Washington, D. C., and the New York Herald Tribune Forum in New York City. She is to report on those two meetings to the Texas board.

GUEST PREACHER AT CALVARY BAPTIST

Attractive Flower Show Entries

Tea Will Compliment Beta Delta Pledges

Fifteen pledges of the Beta Delta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be honorees at the annual preferential tea Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, in the home of Mrs. W. I. Pratt, chapter sponsor, at 911 West Kansas Street.

Sorority colors, gold and black, will appear in all the room decorations and on the tea table, where gold candles will light a centerpiece of flowers. Reta Beights is to pour tea the first hour and Mrs. Charles Reeder the second hour.

Mrs. J. S. Hullum and Mrs. Marion Taylor will take turns presiding at the sorority scrapbook where the guests will be asked to register. Mrs. Noel Cason, Mrs. Raymond Aytes, Mrs. Pratt, Ruth Simmons and Joyce Melancon will also be in the house party.

They will wear corsages of gold-toned flowers, and the pledges will have corsages of the sorority flower, yellow roses.

Pledges are Ann Baird, Barbara Brannen, Betty Cooke, Virginia Gurney, Joyce Hendrick, Mrs. Harold Hensley, Mrs. Bill Kotch, Jackie Pounds, Mrs. Randy Ruben, Mrs. W. O. Stallings, Mrs. Duffy Stanley, Mrs. Robert Vutech, Maxine Waddell, Billie Walker and Verda Bartlett.

TO BAPTIST MEET

The Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Teaff will leave Sunday for Houston to attend the annual meeting of the Texas Baptist Convention. Mr. Teaff is pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church.

County Home Demonstration Council Names Officers, Hears 1948 Reports

Mrs. B. L. Mason was elected chairman of the Midland County Home Demonstration Council for 1949, at the annual election conducted at a meeting in the courthouse assembly room Friday afternoon. She will take office in January succeeding Mrs. M. G. McConal.

Mrs. H. O. Allen is to be the new vice chairman and Mrs. Joe Chastain the secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Mason is serving this year as president of the Valley View Home Demonstration Club.

The annual review of home demonstration work in the county was made by the council Friday, as reports were heard from the presidents of all clubs, the council officers and committee chairmen.

Convention Report

Mrs. Woody Campbell also have a report of the recent Texas Home Demonstration Association meeting which she and three other Midland County women attended in Temple.

The council voted to entertain new members, those elected to the council for 1949 from the various clubs, with a Christmas party on the next regular meeting date, December 3. Mrs. Truman Harris, Mrs. Joe McQueen and Mrs. O. O. Reid were appointed as a committee to make party arrangements.

Others present Friday were Mrs. J. J. Howard, Mrs. Jim Baker, Mrs. W. S. Snead, Mrs. W. L. Savage, Mrs. O. J. Messersmith, Mrs. O. J. Kniffen, Mrs. L. O. Pugh, Mrs. O. R. Phillips, Mrs. J. C. Stevens, Jr., and Mrs. E. S. North.

Back-To-School For Parents Is Planned By High School P-TA

A back-to-school program for parents of Midland High School students is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Tuesday as a National Education Week feature of the High School Parent-Teacher Association.

The regular daily schedule of high school classes will be conducted in 10-minute sessions. Each parent will follow the schedule of his child, meeting the teacher and parents of the other students in each class. Parents are asked to bring their children's schedule to the meeting.

Charles F. Mathews, high school principal, will be in charge of the program, which will start with an assembly of parents and teachers in the auditorium. Room mothers will be in the various rooms to meet the parents and assist the teachers.

Twentieth Century Club Will Present Guest Day Program

A guest day program will be presented by members of the Twentieth Century Study Club in a meeting at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Carl Hyde, 1401 West College Street. The program will have a "Historical Day" theme.

Mrs. Robert Cox will discuss "Cities of Legend and Tradition in the South," and Mrs. W. H. Rhodes' topic will be "Historical Points in the North." Members will give holiday hints to answer roll call.

Team Hosiery With Correct Color Of Shoes

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Stockings and shoes should pull together for the good of the cause if the "cause" is a campaign to flatter your legs.

The shorter span of legs that shows beneath descending hemlines makes matches between shoes and stockings a matter of more ingenious plotting.

If, on the other hand, your shoes have ankle straps, settle for stockings with the least conspicuous heel reinforcements. Designed to avert any and all conflicts between shoes and hosiery are seamless and sandal-foot stockings with almost imperceptible reinforcements. Such stockings are particularly good choices for wear with evening shoes which are hardly more than soles strapped on with ribbons.

You'll save costly and too-frequent replacements of hosiery if you choose the proper weight of stocking for the occasion. Weight of nylons is determined by size of yarn and gauge. Denier number is your clue to size of yarn. The lighter or finer the yarn the lower the denier number. The higher the gauge, the closer and finer the knit. Reserve your sheer 15 denier, 51 gauge stockings for wear with evening shoes or with lightweight shoes for very dress-up occasions. Sturdier 20 or 30 denier stockings are better able to withstand the harder strain to which general outdoor wear subjects them.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED

Silver Supreme—

You'd never believe it possible to find such exquisite silver pieces at such reasonable prices as those at MIDLAND HARDWARE GIFT DEPARTMENT. There are silver trays, tree and well platters, coffee and tea services, gravy boats, casseroles, sugar and creamers, bread trays, bowls, water pitchers and salt and peppers. These pieces, with their clean cut classic lines will compliment any service. You'll love the simplicity of the silver sugar and creamer. Better snatch them now for wedding and Christmas gifts.

Nearest Her Heart—Security—

Will your widow have to go to work to make ends meet? Will she be able to support herself or the children—to hold a position or run a business of her own? The thing nearest her heart will be security. You can assure her that security by a policy with THE RESERVE LOAN LIFE INSURANCE OF TEXAS. Call C. E. (Bud) Bissell, 492-W, for details on this policy that provides financial independence for your family.

Three-In-One Lipstick Value—

My Lady Fair! The most sophisticated make-up trick around town comes in the handy 3-in-one lipstick kit at DUNLAP'S COSMETIC DEPARTMENT. You get three generous sized lipsticks in three different colors for $2. These Elizabethan colors are a complement to this season's intensified femininity in fashion. These three beguiling new shades were inspired by the utterly becoming and almost breath-takingly beautiful Elizabethan colors in Forstmann's woolens. All three shades are highly flattering—fashion right and intimately Dorothy Gray.

Looking For A Good Restaurant?—

Try the ultra fine steaks and fried chicken at RODEO-TEL. Luncheon and dinner menus are fit for a king. Drop in for a bite or a full course dinner. The restaurant, located on East Highway, is open from 6 a.m. to 12 midnight, so you see, whether you're an early bird or a night owl, you can always get a tasty snack. Bill Jones, new manager, invites all his old friends and new ones to eat at Rodeo-Tel.

Refreshingly Yours—

Here's a grand idea for a dessert-bridge party—or for brightening any meal! Stop at THE DAIRY QUEEN, on West Highway, and get a generous sized carton of that wholesome new taste treat—Dairy Queen. It's tops for a frozen dessert, so rich and satisfy smooth—the dessert that has "more" appeal. Your family will relish this exciting new easy-to-serve dessert. Serve it during the holidays.

Smokers Supplies—

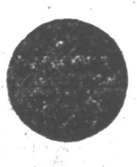

Don't forget to include smokers supplies on your Christmas gift list. A gift of this kind proves you've given considerable thought to its selection. THE HOTEL CIGAR STAND, in the lobby of the Scharbauer Hotel, carries a fine line of domestic and imported blends of tobacco in quality brands of cigars and cigarettes. Christmas can be so much more enjoyable with a "fresh" supply of your favorite brand of cigars or cigarettes.

Hardwick-Stewart

Good design is never a transient thing, but remains to grow and enhance in beauty with the years—so choose your dining room furniture from HARDWICK-STEWART. The different styles in modern or provincial are finished to blend with beauty and warmth in your home. You'll find superior quality in these famous suites. There are blond suites in modern and mahogany and maple in Early American. Picture your family gathered around one of these dining tables for Thanksgiving Dinner.

The Spot For Good Food—

Forgive me for harping—but if you haven't tried those homemade pies at THE SPOT, you've missed the treat of your life. Conveniently located in the Tower Building, The Spot offers a perfect retreat for tired business people to relax and enjoy a brief repast. Good coffee and tasty sandwiches are always available. The congenial atmosphere of The Spot makes it the popular eating place for busy people.

For The Family Car—

If the family car looks sad and shabby, you'll want a set of custom made seatcovers from MILLER BROTHERS, 114 East Wall (rear). Choose from a splendid array of color combinations in woven plastic. No Christmas gift will give more lasting pleasure to the whole family. You can order them now and they'll be ready for Christmas delivery. Suran is the new plastic fabric that is sun-proof, dust-proof and water-proof. Clean it with soap and water.

Imported Table Linens From Portugal—

The peasant girls in Portugal have bright eyes and nimble fingers. Yes, that's what it requires to do the intricate needle work on the exquisite hand made linen and organdy table cloths at MIDLAND HARDWARE LINEN DEPARTMENT. Picture your holiday table laid with this gorgeous table cloth with twelve large napkins all finished with beautiful inlaid cut work and the daintiest of hemstitching, done by peasant girls in Portugal, to complement your heirloom silver, china and crystal.

Flowers For Armistice Day—

Armistice Day is near at hand. THE CITY FLORAL COMPANY, 407 West Wall, has prepared wreaths for soldiers' graves. Call 2077 for immediate delivery. These wreaths are especially prepared for this purpose. No tribute expresses your sincere respect more. Let's honor those who gave their all that we might live and help make a better world. For you who will never forget, City Floral is ready to serve you.

Precision Wheel Balancing—

Make your car safer, more economical to drive—by letting HOOVER BODY SHOP, on West Highway, balance all four wheels. Hoover's has equipment, scientifically designed, to correct wheel wandering and uneven tire wear. If you're planning a trip during the holidays, you'll want to drive with ease and happy assurance. Hoover's does a professional paint job. A battered chassis will look like new when fenders are straightened and paint is applied expertly.

Ice Saves Foods—Saves Money—

Smart women know the contribution ice can make to everyday living—the luxury it can bring to the table at a trifling cost! Ice adds glamor and appetite-appeal to foods. An ice regrigerator keeps food full flavored and nutritious. With a few cents you can get plenty of taste-free ice from SOUTHERN ICE COMPANY. Keep plenty of ice in your refrigerator even through Winter as food loses its health-giving vitamins unless kept fresh.

Wash The Easy Way—

Don't let the family wash "put you through the wringer." A tip to the wise—take it to the MIDLAND WASHATERIA, 401 South Marienfield. You can do your entire laundry in a few minutes with plenty of soft, hot water. There is a new, modern dryer to dry your clothes. The Washateria opens at 7 a.m. Monday through Saturday and closes Saturday noon. You also can have your clothes wet-washed, says Mr. I. B. McCain, new manager.

Good Service—Better Food—

Spend a pleasant lunch hour at COLIN'S CAFE. You'll enjoy the elaborately prepared meal flavored with traditional American goodness. Special holiday meals are served with courtesy and smooth efficiency. You'll appreciate the hospitality and the reasonable prices. Located in downtown Midland, it's the place to dine on week days when you're rushed for time and a pleasant, congenial place to take the family on Sunday. They'll enjoy the expertly prepared food, so lavishly served.

A Dependable Service—

If moving annoys you, consult ROCKY FORD MOVING VANS. They offer the best possible local and long distance household moving. They are dependable, courteous, efficient and "careful." Their modern Berlou Moth Proof service protects your precious woolens, carpets, linens and clothing while in storage. Bonded and insured, Rocky Ford long has been a reliable service, assuming all responsibility in long distance hauling.

Progressive Tiny Tot Art School—

Boys and girls who become men and women who "count" get started in that direction during preschool years. Psychologists say kindergarten is the tap root of education, not a luxury—not a decorative frill. Your child will lose his timidity, learn to live happily with others and to judge values, while attending THE PROGRESSIVE TINY TOT ART SCHOOL, 1008½ West Indiana. The school, which opened September 7, is directed by Mrs. W. M. Thompson, BS degree.

For Your Shopping List—

Here are a few suggestions from CAMERON'S to include on your Christmas shopping list: Argus Cameras, Sheaffer Pens, Meeker Leather Goods, small electrical appliances, electric razors and smokers' supplies including pipes and lighters. Start shopping early while stocks are complete and avoid taut nerves due to last minute searching for the right gift. Any of these gifts under the tree on Christmas Morning would make it a memorable occasion.

Current Gifts For Christmas—

Be practical this Christmas and give electrical gifts from WESTERN APPLIANCE, 210 North Colorado. Nothing, but nothing, will please Mother more than finding under the tree one of those wonderful Everhot Electric Blankets that are 100% wool with satin binding. They come in gorgeous pastels and are washable. Also there are waffle bakers that fry, grill and toast. Equal to three 10-inch frying pans, the waffle baker converts to a grill for frying or toasting.

"I Was Treated Like A Queen"—

It is plain to see what Miss Del E Kate Eveningown of our city thinks of FASHION CLEANERS, 412 West Texas, where she spent anything but a lost weekend. She returned looking younger and prettier than ever and ready for all the festive occasions of the season. A visit to Fashion Cleaners is like a beauty treatment for fine fabrics—and a great morale booster. Older garments are quoted as saying it's worth the trip to look young and pretty again.

Easy Credit Terms At Kruger's—

Shop early for Christmas at KRUGER'S. They have a magnificent assortment of fine brand name watches in a wide variety of styles for men and women. Some are diamond studded to thrill the feminine heart. Any one of them is yours on easy credit terms. There's no interest nor carrying charge. You can choose from such nationally famous brand names as Bulova, Gruen, Waltham, Hamilton, Benrus, Omega, Longines, Wittnauer, Harvel, Elgin and Milos.

Thanksgiving Flowers—

Send your hostess beautiful flowers this Thanksgiving. Chrysanthemums — the traditional Thanksgiving flower—make the most exquisite center pieces. If your wife is the hostess, surprise her with one of those special arrangements from BUDDY'S FLOWERS. Buddy's specializes in unusual floral decor—they are known for the finest, heartiest and freshest flowers. They telegraph everywhere—deliver locally. If someone you love will be lonely on Thanksgiving, you can be there "in person" by wiring a beautiful pot plant or bouquet.

Christmas Gifts From Jeanette's—

GIFTS

Crocheted bedspreads add lasting beauty and charm to any bedroom. The woman who loves the traditional will want a crocheted spread from JEANETTE WHITMIRE'S GIFT SHOP. They are of the beauty and worth that is "for keeps." Other lovely household items include crocheted chair sets, pot holders, baby jackets, fancy pillows and hostess aprons. Visit Jeanette's shop at 200 South Terrell and view these hand-made treasures.

It's Out-Of-This-World !—

For a taste thrill that's gastronomically out-of-this-world, stop at KING'S DRIVE-INN and order a generous serving of that tantalizing, fragrant barbecue that's cooked outdoors over a wood fire. Home-made chili and tamales are other specialties. For a delicious between-meal-treat, try the jumbo banana splits. You simply can't resist them. King's Drive-Inn is doing a bit of remodeling, after which tables will be installed.

The Perfect "Dummy"—

As every woman knows, the hardest part of dressmaking is fitting a dress on yourself. For generations, women have longed for a sewing stand-in, so they could pin and fit without endless try-ons and contortions. At last, your exact "twin" has arrived! SINGER SEWING CENTER is taking appointments for molded dress forms. This is the only personal dress form made of plastic-like material molded to conform to your own body and constructed to give years of hard use.

Radically New 1949 "Airflyte" Car—

The new Nash "Airflyte" is displayed at ACE MOTORS. Coil springs contribute to smooth riding comfort. "Super-lounge" interior provides abundant room. Seats convert into full-length beds when car is not in motion. Extra-sized heater cores allow passengers to ride coatless in coldest weather. The "Ambassador" and the "600" series include the rear seating layout with two wide single seats, angled toward center, separated by a triangular "super-sized" arm rest.

Your Happiest Choice—

Party-ing is such sweet pleasure when you know you look your best and that your gown has received the best treatment scientific cleaning methods can give it, with special solvent for silks, special soaps for cottons. When you send your party frocks to HABIT CLEANERS, 107 North Pecos, they come home looking good as new with hemlines straight and colors fresh and bright. You make a happy choice when you choose a good dry cleaner.

To Add Glitter To Your Holidays—

Gold and silver lame, subtly glowing, rich to the touch—perfect for fashion in the grand manner—is translated into romantic blouses by Winston and featured at DUNLAP'S. These versatile blouses can be worn anywhere. They're perfect for the cocktail hour or after five occasions, evening or street wear. They are destined to bring glitter to a college girl's night life. You'll want one for the festive season ahead. They have rolled collars, side tie, and self material buttons down one side.

Devoe's Library Of Color—

A book of instructions and suggestions on how to mix paints is available at SIMMONS PAINT AND PAPER COMPANY. The book includes 255 modern tones and colors—all selected by eminent stylists and decorators. Sparkling tones may be obtained by mixing one or more of the ten carefully formulated Universal Toner Colors with a proper tinting base white. Formulas can be worked out to match your draperies, furniture and rugs. Toner colors may be added to any paint.

Expert Hairstyling—

For the gala Winter season, you'll want a faultlessly flattering hair-do. Let Vesta Little and Lois Kreiger, both expert operators at THE PETROLEUM BEAUTY SHOP, shape and curl your hair to fashion perfection. The shop is located in the rear of the Petroleum Barber Shop, in the Petroleum Building. If you have dry hair, a scalp treatment can be recommended by these skilled operators, to restore the sheen. Contour hair cutting accents the romantic short coiffure.

A Gift Of Lacy Beauty—

Every woman loves a gift that is truly elegant and equally as practical. The slips at FRANKLIN'S are fashion fancy with lace ruffles running provocatively around the bottom and dainty ribbon insertion. The fine lace yoke gives flattering fit. They are unexcelled for quality and beauty. There are adorable half slips in assorted dark colors. They are expensive looking but, indeed, modestly priced. Shop early while the stock is complete.

Especially Designed Desks—

A convenient desk designed to fit your individual needs is an asset to your home. Whether you're a career girl, housewife or both, you should have a desk of your own. This can be especially designed or built in to a nook somewhere in the house. Here you can work, keep your papers in order and know where everything is. GATES CABINET SHOP, 413 West Kentucky, designs desks for any purpose, according to your desires.

Fine Lamps And Lighting Fixtures—

Carefully chosen fixtures give a room warmth, graciousness and bring out the beauty of your furniture, draperies and rugs. Lightolier fixtures, featured at MIDWEST ELECTRIC COMPANY are decorations in themselves. Designed in every decorative motif, they are presented in a wide variety, that you may select the right fixture to blend with and beautify your home. Also, you can get your Christmas tree lights now. Midwest Electric Company has all kinds of illuminated Christmas decorations, including bubble lights and the lighted manger scene.

A Fashion Favorite Revived—

All around you—the versatile drama of a warm stole! EVERYBODY'S READY-TO-WEAR has just received these beautiful wool stoles in vibrant colors and plaids with contrasting fringe. These wool stoles replace a jacket, spotlight your dress and replace the classic campus scarf. Other complements to your college wardrobe are the smart plaid shirts, impeccably tailored of finest quality chambray. Soft angora sweaters in a bevy of gorgeous pastel shades are also available.

Have Your Christmas Portrait Made Now—

The gift that only you can give is a beautiful portrait of you. You'll get finer portraits taken now at THE FRANK MILLER STUDIO, 609 West Missouri—before the rush begins. If you have it made now they can give you the careful, personal attention you should have. Have your own portrait or your child's taken at the studio for Christmas giving and delight your family and friends. Call 627 for appointment.

Get Off The Side Line!—

We are becoming a nation of spectators—watching from the sideline while a few champions perform. Though shocked by the number of 4-F's in the last war, we quickly forgot that as a nation it's more important to play poorly than not at all. Bowling at PLAMOR PALACE provides a pleasant pastime and a healthful sport for all ages. Remember people don't stop playing because they grow old, they grow old because they stop playing.

Newlyweds Living In Midland

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hale are living in Midland after their marriage on October 29 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hyde. Mrs. Hale is the former Juanita Chick of Midland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chick of Rising Star. Hale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hale of Stanton.

Juanita Chick And Bill Hale Married In Evening Ceremony In Glen Hyde Home

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hale, married in an evening ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hyde, 907 North Whitaker, on October 29, are making their home in Midland. Mrs. Hale was Juanita Chick before her marriage.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chick of Rising Star and Hale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hale of Stanton. The ceremony was read by the Rev. A. L. Teaff, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church.

Georgia Wise was the maid of honor and George Glenn the best man. The wedding party stood before a large wall mirror which was framed with white asters and fern and flanked by floor baskets of white gladiolus.

Reception Held

The bride wore an amber dress with Winter white hat and other accessories of brown, and a corsage of yellow rosebuds. Miss Wise was dressed in a pink gabardine suit.

An informal reception followed the wedding. The table was centered with pink and white asters and the wedding cake, topped with figures of a bride and groom, was decorated in pastel pink and green. Bernice Hale and Mrs. Oma Lawson served the cake and punch.

Mrs. Hale, who attended school at Rising Star, has lived in Midland for two years and is an employe of the Shell Petroleum Company. Mr. Hale attended school in Courtney and is employed with a sheet metal company here.

Poetry Classic Is Among New Volumes Added To Library

A gift book added recently to the Midland County Library is a new translation of Dante's "The Divine Comedy," presented by Mrs. Charles D. Vertrees. This version of one of the world's greatest narrative poems is by Lawrence Grant White, who has translated it into English blank verse.

Mrs. Lucille Carroll, librarian, has listed also a number of books for both adults and children which are new on the library shelves.

Adult fiction includes The Moon Is Mine (Goertz), Ape and Essence (Huxley), Roanoke Hundred (Fletcher), The History of Nora Beckham (Pennell), The Beast in Me and Other Animals (Thurber), Murder Is Served (Lockridge), The D. A. Takes a Chance (Gardner), The Fourth Postman (Rice), Uncle Edgar and the Reluctant Saint (a Christmas story by Cousins), The Corner That Held Them (Warner), The Best of Don Marquis, High John the Conqueror (Wilson), Convoy Through a Dream (Williamson).

New books of non-fiction are Spin a Silver Dollar (Hannum), El Greco (Legendre), The Roosevelt Myth (Flynn), How to Live Within Your Income (Lasser), If Further Inflation Comes: What to Do About It (Babson), Best Plays of 1947-1948 (Mantle), How to Stop Worrying and Start Living (Carnegie), Federal World Government (Johnson), Dilemma of Postwar Germany (Johnson), Economic Aid to Europe: The Marshall Plan (Baird), Representative American Speeches for 1946-47, 1947-48 (Baird), The Trail Led North (McKeown), Little Annie Oakley and Other Rugged People (Holbrook).

Recent additions to the children's bookshelves are Tops and Whistles (Bailey), The Island Stallion (Farley), Betty Loring, Illustrator (Lyon), Aleko's Island (Fenton), Riding the Rails (Olds), Creeper's Jeep (Gramatky), The Crimson Anchor (Reisenberg), Story Teller Poems (Bennett), Mick and Mack and Mary Jane (Bennett), City Country ABC (Gipson), Trucks at Work (Elting), Snow White (McKnight), Hello Peter (Gipson), Famous Dog Stories (Cooper), Classic Myths (Judd), How to Make Dolls and Doll Houses (Lee), The Mystery of Lost Valley (Wellman), Wish on an Apple (Garst), The Invisible Island (Marshall), The Chesty Oak (Seredy), Gentlemen, Hush! (Wheelwright), Robbut (Lawson).

Newlyweds Living In Stanton Home

STANTON—After a week's wedding trip to Texas points, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Louder are making their home in Stanton. Before their marriage on October 30 Mrs. Louder was Mary Helen Pasey.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Pasey of Courtney and Louder is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Louder. The Rev. Mr. Rhoes, Methodist minister of Big Spring, read the ceremony in the Methodist parsonage. The bride wore navy, with a white carnation corsage.

Louder, a veteran of World War II, is employed with the Martin County Feed and Implement Company.

Employment Is At High Level Here

The demand for workers in practically every field of employment is on the increase and is threatening to exceed the supply in Midland, according to John Bechtol of the Texas Employment Service office here.

The need for cotton pullers is greater now than at any previous time with requests for more than 2,000 on hand.

Requests for sales help to handle the expected increase in business due to Christmas shopping are coming in from merchants daily.

A number of applications for professional and general office workers are on hand all the time.

Construction men, domestic help, and laborers are in demand at the Midland office, also.

The demand for workers is being met almost entirely with people moving here from other cities.

Military Manpower Committee Named For Midland Area

Completion of the organization of a Military Manpower Committee to further the recruiting of volunteers for the Army and Air Force in Midland and vicinity was announced Saturday by Sgt. Ted Dykes, non-commissioned officer in charge of the Midland Army Recruiting Sub-Station.

According to Sergeant Dykes, the committee was organized for the purpose of giving information and advice about the army to prospective volunteers.

Members of the committee were chosen from various civic organizations and professional fields.

Mrs. Patterson Is Honoree At Shower Given In Stanton

STANTON—Complimenting Mrs. William Patterson, who was Wanda Hopkins before her recent marriage, a shower in the home of Mrs. Lenard White was given Monday by Mrs. C. C. Kelly, Mrs. Wallace Kelly, Mrs. Eual Ferguson, Mrs. W. A. Thomason, Mrs. Leland Hedrick, Mrs. R. A. Bennett, Mrs. Sam Jones, Mrs. E. F. Polson, Mrs. Walter Henson and Mrs. H. S. Blocker.

Bobbie White was in charge of the bride's book where 35 guests registered. Also in the house party were Mary White, Mary Ivy Henson, Ida Mae Peters, Martha Puquay, Mary Grace Nance and Alta Mae Coggins.

They served hot chocolate and cake to the guests. Fall flowers decorated the rooms and the refreshment table. The bride was dressed in her wedding suit of light grey, with a corsage of red carnations.

'Fattening Cure' Is Aid To Thin Figure

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

There may be fewer overly-thin women of middle years than overly-plump ones, but the lady who is too angular has a more troublesome figure problem than her heftier sister. Adding weight is usually more of a problem than taking it off.

Yet the woman who really wants to pad too sharp curves by adding pounds can usually accomplish her aim by taking what amounts to a "fattening cure."

As your doctor will tell you, if gaining weight is your problem, a "fattening cure" calls for fattening food and plenty of rest.

A diet for gaining usually emphasizes an increased intake of cream, butter and oils. Your doctor is apt to recommend that these not only be included in greater quantities in your daily menu but that they be taken again at in-between-meal and pre-bedtime snacks.

As for the added rest that you need, that calls for more sleep. Try to add an hour or more of sleep to your present quota. Plan to go to bed earlier and to get up later. Also take time out for rest during the day, particularly after meals.

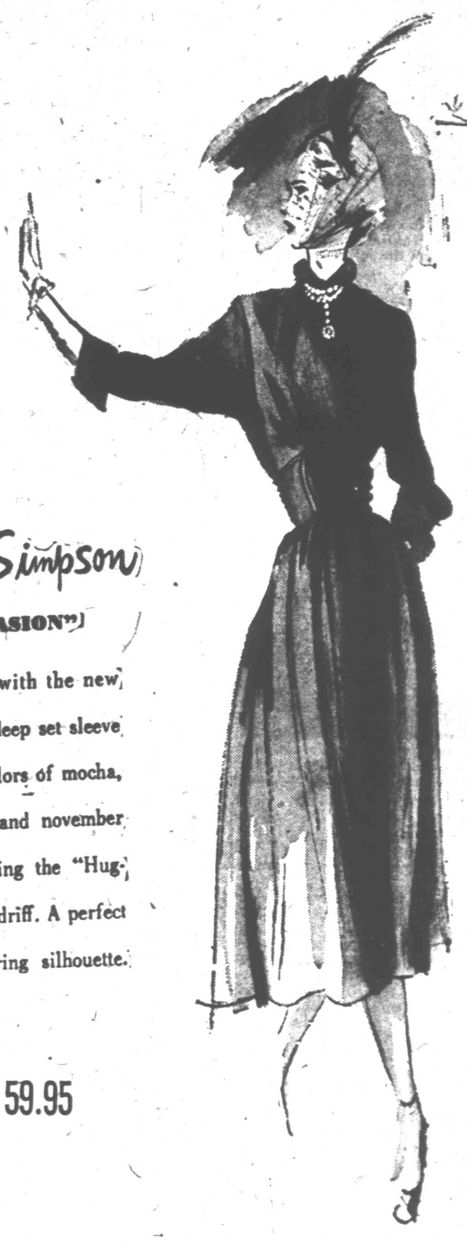

Because exercise tends to burn up the fat that you are trying to store up, see that your physical exertion is kept down to a minimum.

New Curtain Fabrics Forecast Brighter Home Window Outlook

These marquisette glass curtains which are actually woven of glass fibers drape softly and won't shrink or stretch.

NEA Staff Writer

A brighter outlook for windows this Winter is forecast by the development of new fabrics and techniques for curtaining glass.

Most sensational newcomers to windows are two sheer curtain fabrics which combine fragile and luxurious appearance with iron-like wearing qualities and easy upkeep.

One fabric is actually made of glass fibers which, thanks to a new coronizing process, are woven to look like cloud-like drifts of marquisette. The fabric drapes softly, takes ruffling or pleating and may be sewed on a sewing machine. Resistant to shrinking and stretching, the glass fabric curtains may also be washed and rehung without ironing.

Such sheers also boast a safety factor In the event of fire, the fabric may melt but it will not blaze or add fuel to a flame.

A newly perfected method of weaving nylons on lace looms forecasts a revival of the lace curtain vogue. Nylon's strength and sheerness make these lace curtain revivals filmier in texture, lighter in weight and much easier to maintain than their predecessors. All a woman needs to do in order to keep her curtains daisy-fresh is to dunk them in suds, rinse and return to their rods. A high resistance to tears and snags belies the delicate appearance of the lace which comes in small geometric patterns as well as large overall floral designs.

Ready to spruce up window decor is a new pre-shirred ruffling of glazed chintz. The ruffling is available in five or 10-inch widths in patterns that include florals, polka dots and solid colors. With this crisp material at hand, an amateur decorator can put it to use as window valances, bordering curtains, dressing-table swags or dust-ruffles for beds.

Suggested also as an answer to the draping problem posed by small-sized or narrow windows, the perky ruffling can be used as "frames" for such windows. The use of the ruffling eliminates the need for conventional curtains.

Curtains that will fall into deep, perfectly draped pleats at the flick of a finger is the boast made for other drapery materials. Secret of this performance is a sewn-in shirring tape which replaces tie-backs. By pulling up the tape, the curtain fabric is shirred into deep, even folds.

New criss-cross curtains which snap across one another simplify problems of hanging and laundering In these two-panel curtains, the straight-edged inner panel snaps across the back of the ruffled outer panel so that only one rod is needed for hanging. Curtains snap apart in the same manner for easier washing.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

by RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

One of the most amusing of feminine battles is the one that goes on between clerk and customer when the customer knows she is "just looking" at the clothes she can't afford and the clerk suspects it.

"Just what exactly did you have in mind?" the clerk asks in a voice that suggests she would like to add "if anything."

The customer goes vague, then, allowing herself enough leeway, so that she can edge out finally without buying anything.

Trois 'Em Out

So the clerk starts trotting out clothes. The customer, of course, has to find something wrong with everything.

The clerk has a set answer for each objection. The color "is very good this season." The material is "imported." "My dear, it's so-and-so," the clerk says, naming a designer's name reverently.

All the while, of course, the customer has been taking a furtive look at the price tags. And the clerk is satisfied that it's the price tags that are wrong and not the clothes.

So condescendingly she finally says: "Perhaps you'd like to try our budget shop. They have some very nice clothes."

That ends the battle. It's a draw actually. But both women feel they've won. The customer has gotten out of the place without buying anything, but having satisfied her feminine urge to "look." And the clerk has had the satisfaction of putting the customer in her place.

Take Inventory To Make Packing Easy

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Are you one of those lady travelers who is still looking for a better technique of packing a bag?

Expert tips come courtesy of Belita of Hollywood. This actress who recently entertained U. S. troops in Germany says that for such an extended tour with a small amount of luggage she had to perfect a technique for packing. Her clothes had to be as carefully picked and packed for a longer stay in Paris to work in the American-made film, "The Man on the Eiffel Tower."

Make a written inventory of what's needed for a trip, is Belita's advice. This procedure, she maintains, makes it easier for you to decide what is absolutely essential to carry and what is not.

Pack shoes first, Belita tells you. But she says to make shoes justify their excessive space-grabbing demands by filling their cavities with tightly-rolled hosiery, gloves, belts. She stows other small accessories inside of handbags.

You will have to dispense with the luxury of tissue wrappings for tighter packing, warns Belita. But she claims that you can keep unwrinkled the tops of blouses that show from suits by pinning collars tautly to narrow cardboard "planks." After a collar is pinned down, Belita wraps a blouse around the cardboard for flatter packing.

Best wardrobe travelers, according to this actress, are lingerie of nylon, evening gowns of lace, daytime dresses of wool jersey. Lace and jersey are more wrinkle-proof than other fabrics. Less lingerie is required if you take nylon, which launders easily, dries quickly and requires no pressing.

Nelda Lee Parks Weds Billy R. Neale Of McCamey In Impressive Denton Ceremony

McCAMEY — Nelda Lee Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parks of Houston, was married to Billy Richard Neale, son of Mrs. Ed Cletcher of McCamey, at 8 p. m. Friday in the Little Chapel-in-the-Woods at Texas State College for Women, Denton.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph J. Copeland, pastor of the Denton First Presbyterian Church, U. S. A.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ice blue satin gown with an heirloom lace yoke. Her train-length veil also was etched in heirloom lace. She carried a white satin prayer book and a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and feathered chrysanthemum centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. J. C. Walker of Alice, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and a classmate, Miss Ruth Tankersley of Terrell, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. T. M. Hughes of Celina and Miss Sherry Hilholland of Dallas.

Reception Held

Robert L. Stevenson of Fort Worth served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Roger Parks of Houston, Richard Scrivner of Bonham and Frank Jackson of Atlanta.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Pat Garrison of Dallas sang "At Dawning," and at the end of the service, "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Nell Davis of Big Spring played the traditional wedding marches at the organ.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the TSCW tea room with Mrs. Frank Jackson of Atlanta, Miss Joy Beene of Royce City and Miss Winona Ball of Graham making up the house party.

After a honeymoon in Galveston the couple will live at 306 Ponder, Denton. The bridegroom is completing work for his master's degree at North Texas State College and the bride will receive her bachelor's degree from the college in January. She is a member of Delta Chi Delta Sorority, and the bridegroom belongs to the Phi Phi Pi fraternity.

Mascara 'Antiques' Shiny Jewelry

This young girl "antiques" a shiny new medallion trinket by brushing a small amount of mascara over the surface. Her trick is designed to make the too-bright medallion look like a bona fide heirloom to match her genuine antique gold necklace

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

"Antique" your costume jewelry, if you want glittering new pieces to pass as handsome heirlooms.

The trick of bedimming too-shining metallic luster is one which any clever girl can put across with a brushful of mascara. To "antique" a new medallion trinket which is suspended from a genuine old necklace, brush mascara over the surface of the ornament and let it dry.

The same "antiquing" trick can be applied to glittering new chains used for suspending Granny's old Victorian pin, great Aunt Sophia's marcasite clip or any other precious piece which you happen to have. Make the new look worthier of the old by swabbing the chain lightly with mascara.

To keep an "antiqued" chain from soiling your neck or clothes, however, be careful how you apply the mascara. Try to keep it confined to the inner linkings of the chain. If mascara should spread to the inside surfaces of the chain, wipe outside surfaces of the chain, wipe surplus off with a dry cloth. Enough of the bedimming stuff will settle around the inner workings of the chain to make it look like a bona fide antique.

Pastels Flattering For A Photograph

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Give your daughter, who boasts to college pals that she has a pretty Mom, a photograph that proves it. But before having your picture taken, listen to the advice of an experienced photographer.

Don't make the mistake as most do, warns this expert, of wearing your best black dress when you have your picture made. Pastel colors—such as a pale satin blouse—photograph more softly and will make you look prettier and years younger.

If you customarily wear glasses, wear them for the picture. Eyes which are accustomed to the help of glasses if denied specs for posing may look strained. The camera will record this look of strain.

A simple casual hair-do is more photogenic, says our expert, than a formal or other types of stylized coiffures. You are particularly warned against wearing too many curls which may obscure the outline of the head and make a woman look frowsy instead of chic.

Be careful of that "great big smile" which too many women feel that they ought to turn on for the camera. Better than a big grin which can distort a face or cause eyes to squint is a pleasant natural expression or a "smile" from your eyes. Such an expression should not be smiley if it makes you feel self-conscious because your discomfiture will be faithfully recorded by camera.

Plans Completed For Armistice Day Event At McCamey

McCAMEY — Final plans have been completed for the Armistice Day program to be held at 10:40 a. m. Thursday in the McCamey High School Auditorium.

Commander Ray Coats of the Price Pool Post No. 421, American Legion, announced that Supt. L. L. Martin of the Crane public schools will be the principal speaker. Coats said the public is invited and urged to attend.

The program will be opened by advancing of the colors by American Legion color bearers. The Rev. C. J. Mann will give the invocation. Coats will give the preamble of the American Legion Constitution. A minute of silence in honor of those who lost their lives in World War I will follow the sounding of Taps.

The McCamey High School Band and Choir will have a part on the program.

The guest speaker will be introduced by Supt. Howard Stoker of the McCamey schools. Band music will follow the address, with the invocation to be by Mr. Mann.

The McCamey High School Badgers will meet Andrews in a football at 2:30 p. m. as a feature attraction of the day.

McCamey B&PW Has Regular Meet

McCAMEY—Reports on the recent District eight convention held at Midland were made by N. Ethie Eagleton, Ruby Nelle Braly and Mrs. Ruby Braly at a meeting of the McCamey Business and Professional Women's Club here Monday night.

Following adjournment of the meeting here, a group of McCamey members drove to Crane to attend a preliminary organization meeting of a Crane B&PW Club. Several members of the Midland club attended the Crane session.

Those going from here included Oquilla Holmes, Lattie Hanning, Ether Crighton, Eriene Thomas, Hattie Ramsey, Julia Tullis, Eleanor Voigt, Ivey Evans, Birdie Parks and Mrs. Braly.

The tour will be made by commercial airlines.

SCHOOL MEN BACK FROM TEACHER CONFERENCE

Charles F. Mathews, principal of Midland High School, and Charles McDonald of South Elementary School, have returned from Mineral Wells where they attended a work conference on teacher education.

Recruiting and selection of teachers, improved subject matter preparation for teachers, better preparation for secondary and elementary school teachers and other problems were among the subject discussions.

The conference recommended child study groups similar to those conducted in the Midland schools.

Education Group To Meet Wednesday

A meeting of the Midland subcommittee of the Gilmer-Aiken Committee on Education will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the superintendent's office at Midland High School, Chairman Frank Monroe said Saturday.

Raymond Lynch will review a report issued by the state-wide committee on proposals to improve public education in Texas.

AMAZED AT QUICK ACTION OF MERTOX

"For the past ten years I have been troubled with severe gas pains which seemed to press against my heart and made it difficult to breathe. I had a pain under my heart that was almost unbearable at times," writes Mrs. Alma Cummings of Waco.

"My food would not digest and soured on my stomach. I had bad dizzy spells and when these attacks occurred I felt all puffed up. My appetite has greatly improved and I can now eat lots of things that I couldn't eat before taking this wonderful medicine.

"Since taking Mertox I feel like a different person. It certainly is wonderful to get up in the morning and do a day's work, without that tired, worn-out feeling. I certainly was amazed at the quick action of this medicine."

You can get Mertox from any Texas druggist at the new REDUCED price.

Final Session Of Boy Scout Training Scheduled Monday

A "cap and gown" ceremony, with Frank Monroe awarding the certificates, will feature the final session of the training course for Boy Scout leaders of the Midland District at 5:30 p.m. Monday at the North Elementary School, Dr. H. Glen Walker announced Saturday.

The Baptist and Methodist patrols are in a neck and neck contest for first place honors, with the winner to be announced at the Monday night meet.

Doctor Walker said that each patrol calling the school principal for reservations will receive 200 points. New members count 250 points.

The training course has attracted large groups at each session, and leaders term it highly successful.

Convertible Maternity Fashions

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK—Maternity fashions with an unlimited style life ahead owe their longer tenure in a wardrobe to conversion tricks.

This idea of conversion, which every dollar-wise lady in waiting will welcome, is the newest brain wave of three Dallas, Texas, sisters. They are Elsie, Edna and Louise Frankfurt, who make high-styled maternity fashions their business.

To keep certain types of expandable fashions in service after baby arrives, these designers provide Mom with the wherewithal for conversion. In a cellophane package attached to a suit, for example, are easy-to-follow instructions for converting its cutout type of skirt. With a skirt of this type, a design which has a cut-out window for expansion, a fill-in yoke of matching fabric is supplied along with instructions fo converting. All Mom has to do when she is ready to convert is to read instructions and to fill in the opening with a hip-line fitting yoke.

The new yoke line of her skirt will then exactly conform to the yoke detail of her jumper-styled jacket, which a fashion-wise mother will cinch in with a belt, if she wants to add a conversion trick of her own.

League Postpones Date For Benefit

Postponement of a benefit bridge tournament which the Children's Service League had planned for November 20 was agreed upon at a business meeting Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Cooper Hyde, 314 South L Street.

The benefit party was postponed because the date conflicts with a meeting of the City-County Federation of Women's Clubs at which the Business and Professional Women's Club will present Judge Sarah T. Hughes of Dallas as a guest speaker.

Reports of several recent league projects were made at the meeting Friday. The league has arranged to send a Midland boy to Dallas for a delicate eye operation, and also to send a crippled girl to a Dallas hospital for treatment. It has purchased needed orthopedic shoes for another crippled child here.

The business session followed a meeting at the workroom, where time was spent sorting clothing.

Girl Scouts Share In Community Chest Funds

The Midland County Girl Scout Association will be among the organizations sharing in the budget of the Community Chest during the coming year, the Girl Scout asking representing $9,435 of the $33,923 Chest budget.

The annual Community Chest finance campaign opens this week, with officials hopeful of exceeding the goal within three weeks.

Other organizations participating in the Chest funds are Boy Scouts, $12,000; Youth Center, $8,930; Goodfellows, $600; Salvation Army, $1,500, and USO, $785. A $673 item is set up for campaign expenses.

The growth of Girl Scouting in Midland during the last several years has been most rapid, the city now having 37 Girl Scout and Brownie troops with a combined membership of 567 girls. Sixty-one troop leaders and 16 association members are engaged in Girl Scouting. Mrs. C .E. Bissell is president of the Midland association.

The funds to be raised through the Community Chest are used to finance the Girl Scout program in Midland County.

Area Council

The largest single item in the Girl Scout budget, approved recently by the Community Chest directors, is $2,200, which is the association's quota in the Permian Basin Area Council of Girl Scouts. The area council, with headquarter offices in Pecos, provides a clearing house for the exchange of ideas, and furnishes the services of professional workers who assist in the advancement of the Girl Scout program through special training, advice and consultation with members and leaders of the local association.

The national charter fee is $35.

The purchase of supplies and materials for use at the annual Day Camp at Cloverdale Park also is financed through the budget. A total of 155 girls attended the six days of camping last Summer. A trained director was in charge. Fifty negro Girl Scouts attended their own Day Camp. The local council furnished transportation and milk for the girls attending.

Other Expenses

Expenses of leaders at training schools also are paid for by the association with Chest funds.

Brownie and Girl Scout handbooks, arts and crafts books are furnished the leaders. Materials for leaders' training courses also are provided.

This year's budget provides funds to purchase books for the Girl Scout Shelf in the Midland County Library.

The budget includes funds for sending delegations of Senior Scouts to the Area Senior Scout conference; expense of Girl Scout float in Christmas parade; county fair booth; refreshments and prizes for annual father-daughter box suppers; round-up for Girl Scouts; coffee honoring leaders; court of awards for intermediate Scouts; and birthday tea program.

Trains girls to maintain peace, to know how to be loyal, honorable, trustworthy, courteous, cheerful and thrifty; to be tolerant, kind, unselfish, willing to help others, and to be useful citizens in their community, state and nation. The program also stresses a girl's duty to God.

The program offers various fields of work and fun, including agriculture, arts and crafts, homemaking, international friendship, literature and dramatics, music and dancing, nature, hiking, camping, mapping, cooking, fire-building, sports and games, health and safety, and community life studies.

Betty O'Neal, John Midkiff Recieve Gold Star Awards

By SHIRLEY BUNT

Betty Jean O'Neal and John Midkiff, students of Midland High School, were announced as the Midland County 4-H Gold Star girl and boy of 1948 at the annual 4-H Harvest Banquet held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Scharbauer Hotel Thursday night. These awards are presented each year to the boy and girl doing the most outstanding 4-H work during that year. They are chosen by the educational committee of the 4-H and the former Gold Star girls.

With the ballroom illuminated by candle light, Judge Keith pronounced the invocation. Following the invocation the dinner was served.

Mary Lynn Manning, Gold Star girl of 1947, and Norman Drake, Gold Star boy of 1946, presented the awards to Miss O'Neal and Midkiff. Miss O'Neal was presented a corsage in the form of a star, made of yellow chrysanthemums. Midkiff received a certificate. Both will receive pins later. Leland Howard, Gold Star boy of 1947, was unable to attend and was represented by Norman Drake.

Following the presentation of awards, the Rev. Dick O'Brien of Big Spring spoke to the group. He pointed out to the group that success was something which had to be earned, not accidentally found. He also entertained the group with a number of humorous stories.

Attending the banquet were 4-H boys and girls, the 4-H sponsors, parents and friends of the members of the 4-H and the honored guests.

The room was decorated with 4-H club colors, green and white. The tables were covered with white cloths decorated with green ribbons. Centerpieces for the tables were of green and white candles and the centerpiece for the table at which the honored guests were seated was a bouquet of red roses surrounded by two green candles and one white candle. Roses were also placed by each plate.

Betty O'Neal is a sophomore this year. She is 15 years old, has hazel eyes, dark hair and is five feet 7 1-4 inches tall. Her schedule is composed of algebra, English, speech, drill squad, biology, and Choral Club. Betty says that speech is her favorite subject and Coach Milam is her favorite teacher.

Betty might at any time be found eating coconut pie or heard saying "Oh, George." You may see her wearing light blue quite often as this is her favorite color.

Upon graduation from high school, Betty plans to enter Texas Tech with a home economics degree in mind.

John is also a sophomore this year. He is taking English, general science, vocational agriculture and PE. General science rates first with John on the list of his subjects. Mrs. Penn, Mrs. Parr and Coach Gill are among his favorite teachers.

John is planning to attend John Tarleton Agricultural College after graduation. His ambition is to be a rancher.

First-Nighters Hail Junior Class Play

By SARAH LEW LINK

A very receptive crowd greeted the opening performance Thursday night of the junior play, "Remember the Day," written by Philo Higley and Philip Dunning and directed by Miss Verna Harris.

The story of the play centers around Dewey Roberts, a schoolboy who is in love with his teacher, Nora Trinell. These parts were brilliantly portrayed by Dan Dickinson as Dewey and Norma Jean Krause as Miss Trinell. Because Miss Trinell is sympathetic to his love for the sea, Dewey falls in love with her. The climax of the play comes when he realizes that his teacher and the coach, well played by Jimmy Chauncey, are in love, and that schoolroom associations mean little to her. On discovering this, he decides to go to boarding school. The prologue and epilogue show Dewey as a very successful and important man and Nora, his beloved teacher, a plain middle-aged school teacher who must remind him she was once his teacher. When Dewey presents her with a bouquet of violets the finishing touch is added to the play.

Although the play is dramatic, it is spiced with comedy which makes it highly entertaining. Completing the well-polished cast are Maggie Lee Murphy as Kate Hill, the girl who likes Dewey; Vi Jean Fuglaar as Ellen Talbot, a very spoiled student; Louis Brooks as Steve Hill, Kate's brother; Louis Griffith as Tom Allen, a student; Bill Bryan, Tina Williams, Don Johnson, Jo Anne Boykin, La Wanda Huckaby as eighth grade students, and Margie Carter as Edith Phelps, a high school girl. The adults in the play are portrayed by Carol Glahn as Miss Price, principal's secretary; Dow Scott as Mr. Steele, the principal; Helen Cartwright as Mrs. Roberts, Dewey's mother; David Weaver as Mr. Roberts, Dewey's father; Howard Edwards as Mr. Phelps, Edith's father; Rita Dunlap as Miss Kline, a teacher; Denzil Kemp as Anna, the Roberts' housekeeper. The prologue and epilogue feature Joe Dorsey as the important Dewey Roberts. Bill, a bell boy, was played by Richard Patton; Bet Studdert was Sally, a flower girl; George Friday was Roy, a bell boy; and Nick Harrison was J. R. Mason, a reporter.

The program committee, made up of Peggy Lou Whitson, Carolyn Schaeffer, Nan Pendleton and Patsy Bray, put out an excellent program. The program will be entered in a contest sponsored by the National Thespian Society.

Incidents 'n' Accidents

Miss Verna Harris fell from a ladder last Friday afternoon while working on the Junior Play. We are happy that she is all right now.

Bill Little was hurt last Friday night in the last minutes of the football game with San Angelo. The injury was not serious.

Pauline Norwood was hurt Saturday night. Pauline received internal bruises when she fell from a wagon while on a hayride. She was out of school for three days but returned Thursday.

Mary Faye Ingham is suffering from an irritated throat due to the dust that has appeared in the air lately. Her voice has been reduced from a mighty roar to a loud holler.

The journalism class has been suffering from indigestion which occurred following refreshments served Thursday. They were good, though.

P-TA Open House To Be Tuesday

Tuesday in the high school auditorium the Parent-Teacher Association will have an open house in connection with National Education Week and a Back to School Program with Mrs. Charles Mathews as hostess.

The meeting will open with Miss Verna Harris' dramatics class presenting a 15-minute program on different types and fundamentals of acting. Following the program each parent will leave and go through a "changing of classes" just as their children do every day. They will go to one class and stay eight minutes and then a bell will ring and they will go to the next period class. After this procedure the home economics classes will serve refreshments to everyone.

Driving Students Have Skill Tested

By PATSY BRAY

A "Safety Laboratory on Wheels" arrived at MHS last Wednesday to measure the driving skill of the students of the driving class. The "Lab on Wheels" is a safety feature of the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company.

"The HOWCO safety trailer is completely equipped with testing devices developed by the American Automobile Association," I. B. Cate, safety director of HOWCO, said, and is making the rounds of all Halliburton districts in 26 states to test drivers of the company's 2,000 vehicles.

"This is one of the many features of an intensive accident prevention program being conducted by our company in the interest of public safety," Cate explained. "The purpose of the testing program is not to disqualify a driver, but to help him by revealing deficiencies which may be corrected or compensated for by more skillful driving."

Testing devices in the unique trailer coach measure visual acuity, field of vision, distance judgment, steadiness, glare acuity and eye dominance. Others include three different instruments to record individual reaction time, a tumbling cylinder decelerometer, jerk recorder and a Keystone eye-testing machine.

Developed By AAA

The tests employed have been developed by the American Automobile Association as a result of an intensive program of driver education and training carried on since 1936, and are administered by an instructor specially trained at a school conducted by the Institute of Public Safety.

The all aluminum trailer coach is also equipped with a display cabinet containing steel helmets, safety shoes, goggles and other protective gear which actually have spared Halliburton employes serious injury or possible death.

"It is hoped that the safety trailer will do the same thing," Cate declared. "That is, spare lives and prevent crippling injuries."

Two of the 12 driver testing devices installed in Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company's Driver Testing Unit are the field of vision recorder, which measures in degrees how far an individual can see to either side while looking straight ahead, and a unique instrument designed to score a driver's ability to judge distances.

MHS Songsters To Entertain Assembly

The A Capella Choir and Choral Club under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Cope will present the assembly program next Tuesday morning in the High School auditorium.

Some of the numbers planned for the A Capella are "Song of the Soul," "Rain in the River," "Climbin' Up the Mountain," "Goin' Home," and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You."

Choral Club will present three numbers: "Tiny Seed Become a Shrine," "Dreaming," "Woman in the Shoe."

This is A Capella's first performance this year. The Choral Club has presented one public performance for the Parent-Teachers Association.

Members of the A Capella are Duane Abell, Gloria Anguish, Wayne Bailey, Ralph Baker, James Barber, Adele Blackman, Frank Blackwell, Nada Bramlett, Dick Bruce, Eddie Jo Bryan, Helen Cartwright, Peggy Charlton, Melba Clarke, Sue Corser, Eddie Darnell, Arnold Drake, Don Downing, La Verne Estes, Dolores Forman, Joanne Glass, June Hazlip, Mary Faye Ingham, Ann Klebold, Chick Krause, Joe Mabee, Faye Manfield, Joy Mashburn, Kay Matthews, Dick Monroe, Jo Ann Montgomery, Lynna Dell Moore, Clint Morgan, John Murray, Jo Ann Nelson, Barbara Nichols, Alex Oates, Billie Prothro, Mildred Rasco, Pauline Rasco, Glenda Shoemaker, Bob Short, Joel Sims, Ann Stephens, Dale Stice, Freddie Stultz, Jerry Webb, Betty Wilson, Dorothy Wolfe, Jo Ann Wyche, Suzanne Young.

FFA Boys Become Chapter Farmers

Twelve Midland High School boys were promoted from Greenhands to Chapter Farmers in the Midland FFA Chapter at a meeting of the Midland and Odessa chapters in Odessa Tuesday night. Twelve Odessa boys also became Chapter Farmers of their chapter at this meeting.

To become a Chapter Farmer a boy must have been in the FFA one year. During the first year he is known as a Greenhand.

After the ceremonies were over a few of the Midland and Odessa boys were questioned as to the benefit of the FFA to them.

Music during the meeting was provided by the Midland band consisting of Billy Evans, violinist, and Bobby Evans, R. D. Jones, Bill Newsome and Marion Tredaway who play guitars.

November's Children Celebrate Birthdays

Faint echoes of "Happy Birthday to You" were heard around the campus of dear old MHS last week. The reason was that many birthdays were being celebrated. November 4 seemed to be the most popular day because four people celebrated their birthdays then!

On Nov. 1, 1933, Nina Brown was born in Texon, Texas. Nina is a freshman this year and is taking general math, world history, English, homemaking and drill squad.

Denzil Anne Kemp was 15 years old on November 2. She was born in Denver, Colo., in 1933. Denzil is a mighty junior this year.

One of the four to celebrate a birthday on November 4 was Lynn Griffith. Lynn is 14 and was born in Roswell, N. M., in 1934. Her freshman subjects include world history, Spanish, English and general math.

Almost Twins

Mary Ann Searles was practically a twin to Lynn as far as age and birthdays are concerned. She was born Nov. 4, 1934, and is also 14 years old. Mary Ann is a member of the Science and Geology Club. Some day she is planning to major in science.

On Nov. 4, 1934, Nancy Roberts was one year old. She was born in Midland, Texas, on Nov. 4, 1933, just about 15 years ago. Nancy is classified as a freshman this year and was nominated for Catoico queen of 1949.

Dephane Tabor, better known to some as "Daffy" was born Nov. 4, 1932. She is a sophomore this year and claims her favorite pastime is eating. Dephane's favorite subject is study hall.

The vice president of the Student Council also had a birthday this week. Royce Raye McKee was born on Nov. 7, 1931, right here in Midland. She is classified as a senior and was recently elected the most popular girl of Midland High School.

Editor's Notes

"Piggy" Short, better known as Bob Short seems to have quite a big appetite lately and can't wait until after school to eat. Last Friday afternoon he strolled into the journalism class with a pie and a quart of milk. That was bad enough, but worse, he ate it all himself.

The Drill Squad has started using the point system this year. In the point system a student makes his own grade by participation, conduct, etc. The Drill Squad has also been discussing the changing their constitution.

Play Cast Presents Skits In Assembly

The assembly Tuesday morning was presented by the cast of the Junior play. The characters introduced themselves and gave lines from the play. They then gave two short skits from the play.

Jimmy Chauncey and Don Downing presented the colors and the pledge to the flag was led by Tina Williams. Miss Elizabeth Cope led the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Homemaking News

A group of Midland Future Homemakers attended a District Meeting at Odessa Senior High School Saturday. The girls presented a skit on the program of which the theme was "Better Group Living."

Several girls are participating in the tryouts for a song leader for the future Homemakers. The girls going out for this office are Nada Bramlet, Annie Lee Brooks, La-Wanda Huckaby, Rosemary Schott and Nancy Trauber.

Jack Mashburn Is Friend In Deed

By NEAL ADAMS AND NAN PENDLETON

Webster says that a friend is "one attached to another by esteem, respect and affection."

Coach Jack Mashburn, friend and counselor of the boys of MHS and a very well-liked member of our faculty, has been with our school for seven years.

During those seven years he has dispatched the various duties assigned to him capably and cheerfully.

Among these different duties have been included end coach for the A squad, head basketball coach, head track coach and shop teacher. This year he has taken on the additional duties of dean of boys and co-sponsor of the Student Council.

As dean of boys, Coach Mashburn supervises the attendance and is counselor for all of them.

Mr. Mashburn is a native of Colorado. His hometown is Greeley and he attended Colorado State University. He majored in industrial arts, and holds a bachelor of arts degree in that subject. He minored in physical education.

While attending Colorado State, Coach Mashburn compiled an enviable athletic record. In various backfield positions he played four years of varsity football. He repeated this feat in the field of basketball. Along with football and basketball he managed to squeeze in three years of baseball and one of track.

After graduating with the class of 1929 he coached at Craig, Colorado, and then served as an educational director of the Civilian Conservation Corps for several years.

With these experiences Mr. Mashburn became a member of the faculty of Midland High School.

Mr. Mashburn is married and has one son, Jimmy. Yes, Jimmy plays football. He is gaining his gridiorn experience as right end of the seventh grade Bullpups of Junior High.

This brief factual history of MHS' own respected and highly esteemed Coach Mashburn should serve to show that he is an unusual personality. While "laying down the law" to his charges, he simultaneously makes friends of them. A salute to Friend Coach Mashburn!

Happiness Keynote Of Dean's Message

By MARY FAYE INGHAM

Since the year 1930, Mrs. Mary B. Phillipus has been an outstanding personality in Midland schools. We're sure you all know and love her, but are you really as familiar with her and the many duties she performs as you would like to be? First, let's take her duties as dean of girls. This includes being the counselor of all girls, assisting with the discipline of all the girls and supervising the attendance of the girls. Her other activities include teaching general mathematics and second year algebra.

Let's preview some of her many activities since her graduation from the senior high school of Austin, Texas. She attended Sul Ross College, Southwest Texas State Teachers College and Texas University. She now holds a bachelor of science degree with a major in mathematics and an airman's rating as a ground instructor in meteorology. She taught preflight aeronautics two years in Midland High School. Previously she had taught in Roswell, N. M., and the junior and senior high schools of Austin. At various times Mrs. Phillipus had served actively in the American Legion Auxiliary and the Business and Professional Women's Club. She has also served as a guardian of the Campfire Girls.

"I am most interested now in the girls and boys of Midland. I want them to grow to be the very best and happiest citizens possible" says Mrs. Phillipus. "I am ably assisted and encouraged by my husband, George. Mr. Phillipus is a constant and faithful supporter of Midland High—in all fields—athletics, etc. "Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you," best expresses my philosophy."

We all admire Mrs. Phillipus for her sincerity, honesty and true interest in the welfare of all the students of Midland High.

Rita Joy Horne Joins Senior Class

Last week MHS gained another new pupil and the seniors began to catch up with the freshmen and sophomores whose new class members were introduced in the previous issue of the Bulldog.

The welcome addition is Rita Horne who has just moved from Abilene. She belongs to Miss McGee's homeroom and she's taking English 42, shorthand, algebra, American history and physical education. Her favorite subject is English grammar.

Rita has been here only a short time, so she doesn't belong to any club as yet. She lives at 617 West Indiana.

He Will Not Tell You This

(An Editorial)

Armistice Day is Thursday. The local patriots will hold services in graveyards. They will fire guns over graves and when "the capitains and the kings depart," there will be a lot of waste paper and trash to clean up. A thousand blurry-eyed people will say, "The only way for peace to come is the youth . . ."

So what? Even if everyone has a conviction that war isn't as much fun as other things, such as playing tennis on a nice Spring day, what good is it? If you will ask the man on the street he will be glad to tell you everything about Basil Zaharoff, the munitions magnate. Or else he will tell you about when the bands begin to play and the flags to fly.

But he will not tell you this.

You are the war-makers. You, at the ringside, watching bullmen batter each other. You who say "if these dirty aliens don't like it why don't they go back where they came from." You drugstore prophets with the "Buddy poppy." You men sitting around watching a cockfight. You little boys reading "With Rob Ready Fighting in France."

Peace is an individual effort. Peace is you saying, "I will not fight." People laugh at you when you talk about turning the other cheek. Try it. It is the ultimate test of self-control.

Sport Spoutings

By NEAL ADAMS

Midland is still tingling over that "last minute" touchdown of the San Angelo game. Last down, six yards to go and Moe Price was caught behind the line on an end sweep—we thought. And then Moe tossed that pass over the goal line to Eugene Hejl. For several days we were among those muttering, "that play wasn't called, it just happened." Well, we found out that it didn't. That was the way it was meant to be.

It seems that there is more to this story yet. We were told that the play originated at the training camp in Alpine. Buster Buckingham was caught behind the line in just such a way during a scrimmage session. Acting on impulse, he lofted the ball over to Hejl. The coach was quick to realize the merit of such a play. Thus—the play that thrilled the crowd on Dedication Night was born.

The girls PE department is setting up a ladder system tournament in tennis. The tournament will extend throughout the remainder of this six weeks. Any player may challenge any other player rated within so many notches above her.

That handsome John "Greer" on the football program looks just like Jughead in Archie comics. Incidentally, the correct monicker is Greene.

Taking a glance at a sport soon to be in evidence, we find that workouts for basketball are due to start. Midland has but one returning letterman in this field. Larry Messersmith is the star. The first conference contest will be against Lamesa December 14.

The "B" Bulldogs are to close the season against San Angelo November 20.

Election Outcome Causes Disputes At Midland High

There was a great deal of controversy in Midland High this week concerning the outcome of the recent presidential election. Most of the students, like everyone else, were surprised over the upset. There were many bets and a few brawls as a result. There were students representing every political party in the book and then some, and each vigorously supported his own.

Bill Emmons—"I'm happy!"

Joel Sims—"I demand a recount!"

James Barber—"I'm very unsatisfied."

Tina Williams—"I was very pleased, but I lost a lot of money."

Nan Pendleton—"Now that it's all over, I hope we can all settle down, and prices, too."

Jo Anne Boykin—"I'm glad Truman won."

Pat Pryor—"What election?"

Harry Harrison—"I'm glad the Democrats won."

Maggie Murphey — "No Comment!"

Ramond Leggett—"Now we can get some work done."

Peggy Whitson—"Suits me."

Neal Adams—"The upset amazed me."

Sarah Lew Link—"I think it's wonderful."

Howard Ischer—"It's O. K. with me."

Shirley Bunt—"I was very thrilled, but surprised."

Who's Who

In case you happen to start reading this article, it was written for the purpose of giving you some information on two boys who play end positions on our Bulldog team, namely, Lloyd Henderson and Eugene Hejl.

If you see a boy who weighs 190 pounds, and is six feet, one inch tall with brown hair and brown eyes running around old MHS halls, most likely it will be Lloyd Hendrson. Lloyd is a senior this year and is taking English 41, second year algebra, chemistry and mechanical drawing. Ice cream and the color green rate first place as his favorite food and color. Lloyd claims that his favorite pastime is football, but we wonder, for his next statement was that his ideal girl is five feet, two inches tall, with brown hair and brown eyes. Although he has not decided where he will attend college next year, he would like to be a geologist.

Henderson

So the next time you watch the Midland Bulldogs play, look for number 86 and that will be Lloyd.

Now Eugene Hejl is a native Midlander and has been for going on 18 years. Eugene may be recognized by this description. He is five feet nine inches tall, weighs 145 pounds and has green eyes and brown hair. Eugene is also a member of this year's senior class, and has typing, second year algebra, chemistry and English listed as his courses. Chocolate cake, classical music, football and anything that has the color blue on it are some of the things he likes. Just a little bit uncertain, but he plans to go to ACC in Abilene next year, and would like to study something connected with aeronautics.

Hejl

So this week when you're watching the game, look for No. 88 and who knows, maybe he'll make another touchdown like in the San Angelo game, while you're watching.

Honor Society Gains Eight New Members

Eight seniors have been added to the roll of the National Honor Society. Those people who have earned membership are Neal Adams, Jim McGraw, Patsy Bray, Alice Marie Dorman, Billie Prothro, Carolyn Schaeffer, Ken Nichols and Sammie Swails. Initiation ceremonies for these new members will be held at a luncheon November 17, in the homemaking room.

With these additional members the number of seniors in the society is sixteen making 10 per cent of the senior class members. At the end of the year 5 per cent of the junior class and 5 per cent of the senior class will be initiated making a total of 15 per cent of the senior class members.

Membership in the society is based on scholarship, leadership, service and character. Students eligible for membership must have a 2.5 scholastic average and be graded on leadership, service and character by the faculty.

The National Honor Society is a national organization for honor students. The Midland chapter is sponsored by Miss Theresa Klapproth. The present members are Peggy Lou Whitson, Shirley Bunt, Velda Dee Pigg, Nan Pendleton, Lois Black, Sarah Lew Link, W. L. Thompson and Max Allen.

The Staff's Thanks

The staff of the Bulldog wishes to thank O. B. Williams for his recent letter to us. Mr. Williams called our attention to the fact that, technically speaking, Bill Little is captain of the Bulldogs, and Larry Messersmith is co-captain.

We are most gratified to know that patrons of Midland High read the Bulldog, and we want to express again our thanks to Mr. Williams for his interest and his wish for the good luck of the staff.

FAN FIGURES

Basketball in the United States draws about 75,000,000 spectators a year: baseball 65,000,000; football: 60,000,000 and softball, 30,000,000.

Midland Firms Aid Senior Scouts In Vocational Program

Senior Girl Scouts of Midland are taking part in a vocational exploration program this year, under plans outlined by a Senior Planning Board organized last Spring with a representative and a mother from each troop.

About 20 girls already have completed a training course given by the F. W. Woolworth store under the direction of Mrs. B. L. Beaty, personnel manager. Several of these girls will work during the holidays.

Miss Pauline Crow, manager of Everybody's store, has been training 12 girls for four weeks. Other Senior Scouts who wish to take this training course may enroll at 6 p. m. Thursday. The sessions are half an hour long, once a week.

Certificates will be issued by the University of Texas to the girls who qualify and take 10 hours of training. The course offers merchandising, interior decoration, window display and gift wrapping.

Florists of Midland are cooperating with the Scout program and are giving 48 hours of training to five girls. City Floral, Midland Floral and Buddy's are working with the vocational program and other girls may have this training before the year closes.

There are four Senior Scout Troops in high school. Troops 1 and 12 have freshmen girls as members, Troop 8 sophomores, and Troop 5 seniors.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests, chronic stomachs, have by positive proof, what SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Demure And Daring Togs Shape Up For 1949

Previews of resort showings forecast demure dresses and daring swim suits for next summer. Intricate cut-out devices are used to make the one-piece dark green pique suit (center) look like shorts and bra. Fichu type shawl veils the shoulders of the blue and brown print dress (left). Full skirt has a scalloped hemline. Pink and white striped voile evening dress (right) swings a full skirt thanks to two white organdy petticoats and cording at the hipline. A matching stole covers the shoulders.

NEW YORK—The two fashion extremes which are shaping up for next Spring and Summer are demure dresses and daring swim suits.

Previews of the scanty swim suits which are heading for the beaches next Spring were seen in the "Fashions of the Times" showings of resort styles.

Brief shorts which pull up at the sides with drawstrings, like Venetian blinds, were shown with briefer bras. Shown also were one-piece suits which are designed to look like scanty two pieces by the use of intricate cut-out devices. Designer Joset Walker showed one of these swim suits in dark green pique, which is high on the list of popular dark-dye cottons that are coming up.

Organdy petticoats showing beneath skirts put an unmistakable Victorian stamp on next Summer's evening gowns. One shown of pink and white-striped voile—a fabric as old-fashioned as calico—bounced out with two white organdy petticoats to make a skirt corded full at the hips look fuller and the snug bodice above look more wasp-waisted. This dress was shown with a long matching stole, designed to make the gown it covers look more demure.

Brownie Troop 37 Has Program With Games And Songs

Games and songs entertained girls of Brownie Troop 37 after a business meeting in the South Elementary School Friday.

Sanitarian Joins Midland Health Unit

Dr. F. E. Sadler, director of the Midland-Ector-Howard County Health Unit, Saturday announced the addition of L. T. Barnard to the staff as senior sanitarian.

Barnard has been at Odessa for three or four months before coming to Midland.

Barnard was senior sanitarian for the Texarkana-Bowie County Health Unit for more than six years and was connected with the City of Clarksville for 11 years as general sanitarian.

Name Is Chosen For New Warfield Club

The name, Warfield Home Demonstration Club, was chosen Thursday for a club recently formed in the Warfield community. Members met in the home of Mrs. J. R. Irvin.

Mrs. Nettie B. Messick, home demonstration agent, directed the members in making an uncooked fruit cake, one of the holiday desserts for which she gave the recipes. She also showed a cookie Christmas tree for table decoration.

Plans were made for a Thanksgiving party at which club members will entertain their families on November 18. Mrs. L. O. Pugh and Mrs. Irvin were appointed to select the place and invite members who were not at the meeting.

Girl Scouts Work Toward Goal Of Own House For Meetings

A building fund which is growing toward the goal of a "Little House," a central meeting place for Girl Scouts of Midland, was started about six years ago and now has reached a total of $1,243.

Several hundred dollars of this was derived from auction of boxes at the annual father-daughter box suppers of Girl Scout and Brownie troops and a considerable sum has come from gifts.

Three women's clubs of the city have offered contributions to the fund this year, and Sheriff Ed Darnell donates the proceeds of the cold-drink box in the courthouse to the Girl Scouts.

"We hope to have enough soon to obtain the property and then begin to plan for a building," Mrs. C. E. Bissell, president of the Midland Girl Scout Association, says in answering the queries of persons who come to Midland from communities which have Girl Scout houses, and who notice the lack here.

Landscaping Topic Scheduled For Club

Information which she received in a training school recently from Miss Sadie Hatfield, State Extension Service specialist in landscaping, will be passed on to members of the Garden Addition Home Demonstration Club Wednesday by Mrs. D .G. Dawkins.

The club will meet at 2 p. m. with Mrs. H. F. Cardwell, on the Rankin Highway. Mrs. Dawkins attended a training session held at Stanton for home demonstration club members of this district. She will discuss landscaping of private and public grounds, use of native plants and screen planting for home grounds.

EISENHOWER was my boss

by Kay Summersby

Captain, WAC, Army Of The U. S.

Copyright, 1948, by Kay Summersby

Instalment 7

With the 1942 calendar growing thinner, General Eisenhower found no peace even in his hotel suite. The parlor and even the bedroom became mere annexes of his Grosvenor Square office. His appointment pad might start at 8:30 a. m. and continue through till after 6 in the evening, with candy or peanuts for lunch; going "home" to the flat meant only that he moved over there for additional and often more important meetings. The wrinkles deepened in his face; he showed increasing signs of impatience and nervousness. He probably had less sleep than any non-playboy member of his growing Theater of Operations. Beetle, Butch, Tex, Mickey, and I all began to worry about him.

Finally, he gave in and asked that someone try to find a little retreat on London's outskirts. After much thrashing about the suburbs by staff personnel as well as British and American billeting officers, Butch found just the place late that August.

Telegraph Cottage had been appropriately but mysteriously named decades ago by its elderly lady owner. It was as picturesque as an English Christmas card—so tiny and quaint that visiting Brass, accustomed to huge houses and giant estates as prerogatives of their wartime nobility, were appalled at the ridiculously small hideout their theater commander had chosen.

The house offered everything General Eisenhower needed.

Happily, the grounds fringed a golf course. The general had no time for a complete round but he was to spend many easeful hours playing the several holes nearby. He became expert on the thirteenth in particular. The diversion marked the only occasion when he would discard his necktie as a symbol of complete relaxation. I occasionally joined him in puttering attempts at one-hole golf, but was a more frequent companion. Sometimes they engaged in .22 pistol practice near the cottage.

Only 25 minutes from London, Telegraph Cottage was a literal but sympathetic retreat for our tired general.

He went there on every possible occasion to spend the night and, when not summoned to Chequers, the week ends. If anything saved him from a mental crack-up in those tense days its was Telegraph Cottage and the new life it provided.

One of the first evenings, when I drove him out then waited to see if there were any night trips, he sank into a chair and grumbled. "Kay, I never seem to have any fun and I get so bored. Must be boring for you people around me, too. What can we do? What do you like?"

"Well" I said, "bridge is fun. It'll take you far away from the war." Then I remembered past experience. Post-mortems. They're deadly. I used to love bridge but had to give it up, what with all the rows and post-mortems. One time my husband and I didn't speak for three days, all because of a post-mortem!"

"Okay, that's it. A good idea, bridge." He grinned. "And no post-mortems."

That began a heavy round of bridge. I often played partners with the general: our accounts—at three-pence per 100 points—eventually turned into an accountant's nightmare, a financial hodgepodge of dollars, pounds, francs, and marks. The general was as expert at cards as at military strategy and, as at the office, barely hid his impatience with incompetents. General Clark, a close friend for more than two decades and now the deputy chief planner, was a constant companion. So were Butch and Beetle. Another was T. J. Davis, the general's best good-time friend, a jovial and genial Falstaff from South Carolina and yet the extremely competent adjutant general of theater headquarters; he had known his present commander intimately since old days in the Philippines. Still another bridge shark was the good-looking, dark-eyed dispensary nurse, Ethel Westermann, who had come to England early as a civilian nurse.

General Ike, as all us began to call him in the sanctuary of Telegraph Cottage (unless outside guests were present), had really found a sort of home.

He lounged around the living room in GI slacks, old shirt, a half-suede, half-leather jacket, and a shabby pair of straw slippers which dated back to duty in Manila. Determined to shun official worries momentarily, he snubbed newspapers, books, and general magazines. His only reading fare—indulged to excess—consisted of the inevitable paper-backed cowboy magazines. Mickey managed to scrounge up a seemingly limitless supply of the Westerns.

"I think they're frightful," I told General Ike. His answer was a stopper: "After these long days at the office, worrying about operations which will involve the lives of hundreds of thousands, I don't want to worry when I get here. That's the idea of this place. And that's the idea of my Westerns—when I read them I don't have to think." No one complained about his one vice after that; in fact, there was an attempt to show Wild West movies in the living room, but it proved impractical.

When I pulled up at the cottage about 7:30 in the morning, the general usually was well into his second or third cup of boiling-hot coffee. I sometimes joined him and any guests for a brief A. M. meal, especially grateful for the occasional egg sent over by some self-sacrificing British admiren.

No one could call Dwight Eisenhower a big eater. He ate whatever was put before him, with relish but never with wild pleasure. His rare temper flared only when the coffee was cold (usually through his own fault.) He did, however, maintain a continual campaign for the one dish he really loved—baked beans. No one was quite able to cook it just right.

Evenings at Telegraph Cottage always started with that "sundown high-ball" served by Mickey to the tune of tinkling ice and gigantic let-down sighs by all present. With General Ike, liquor was only a social custom, necessary but pleasantly enjoyable after one becomes hardened to it; he treated it lightly but with respect. There's no likelihood that anyone will ever see General Eisenhower drunk, or even tight. He handles liquor as respectfully and carefully as an old soldier handles a gun, a loaded gun.

Except for those Westerns, his only vice was cigarettes; he had the habit, to an intensity which approached the chain-fashion stage. Two packs a day were quite normal. In the office I often got away with handing him a few with the warning. "This is your ration for the afternoon." He was surprisingly good-tempered about it. But he blew up one day when I mentioned to a press correspondent that the general smoked a certain brand of cigarette. He was deathly afraid some such chance remark might result in an unintended endorsement.

League Of Nations Museum Has Ghost

GENEVA —(AP)— One end of the United Nations European headquarters building here is haunted. In a small room with heavy carpets just off the library is the League of Nations Museum. There are no cobwebs, no rustling curtains, no long shadows. But here, in the beribboned documents, the fading photographs, in the once bold, now meaningless autographs, lie buried the high hopes of another generation.

A modest, almost meager, display of busts, paintings, photographs and papers portrays the birth, slow strangulation and death of the League of Nations. Woodrow Wilson and Paul Boncour look down from their frames on the wall. There is Leon Blum, looking young and active and Paul-Henri Spaak looking still younger. Maxim Litvinoff, once the Soviet Union's foreign commissar, now retired, shares a spot with frowning Gustav Stresseman, Lord Halifax and Dino Grandi.

One photograph shows Litvinoff talking over a table with the late Pierre Laval of France. Hailie Sassie, looking frail and flustered, is shown during one of his visits to the league to plead for sanctions against Italy There is a picture of Benito Mussolini receiving the league's economic committee in 1927. One could not picture this man with the jutting chin, the stern eyes and folded arms hanging by his heels in front of an Italian gasoline station.

In one glass case is the yellowed telegram protesting about troubles on the Greek-Bulgarian frontier in 1925. There are still troubles there.

Polish Peasants Get Free Land

WARSAW, POLAND —(AP)— Poland's ministry of agriculture and land reform is taking a leaf from Horace Greeley's book. It's telling Poles: "Go west, young man." To spur a westward exodus into lands which once were part of Eastern Germany, the ministry is offering farmsteads of 50 acres free for the next three years.

That's the idea worked out by Jan Dab-Kociol, minister of agriculture, to liquidate 1,732,500 acres of idle farm land in the western territories. Dab-Kociol wants to see all of the available farm land in cultivation by the Spring of 1949.

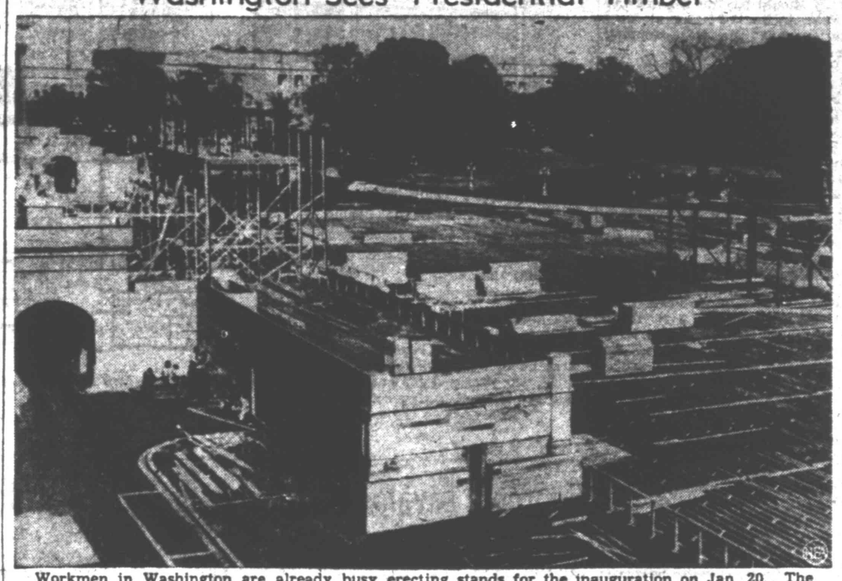

In making the farmstead offer, Dab-Kociol is carrying out directives of the Communist Workers party for socialization of peasants' farm production and for sharpening "bitter class warfare" against the so-called "rich peasants." These are the peasants who already own 50 or more acres of land, possibly a tractor, and employ hired labor. Dab-Kociol said in a press interview that the small and medium farmers would have first crack at the free land offer, but to prevent any of them from becoming "rich peasants," the stake given them is not to exceed 50 acres.

$1,000,000 AID FOR FINLAND'S CHILDREN

HELSINKI—(AP)—The United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) plans to spend more than $1,000,000 in Finland before July 1, 1949.

The chief of the UNICEF European Committee, Alfred E. Davidson, announced that the organization will provide all Finnish school children with supplementary food such as dehydrated milk, lard and canned meat. The money will also be used to fight tuberculosis among Finnish children.

Washington Sees 'Presidential Timber'

Midlander Was 'Man Of Hour' For Moment

L. G. Byerley has returned to his home here from a trip on which he discovered how it feels to be a hero—for a few minutes.

On his way to Blytheville, Ark., Byerley flew to Memphis, Tenn. He knew that Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright was on the plane, bound for Memphis to make an address, but he did not know when he stepped off the plane, his hearing still dulled by the roar of the engines, that the enthusastic crowd which surrounded him believed that he was the general.

Byerley was just beginning to explain that he was no general when Wainwright, uniformed and bemedaled, made his appearance in the plane doorway and the Midlander was abruptly deserted. The Memphis Commercial-Appeal reporting the incident, added that Byerley "thought it was a good joke."

Films Bid For Swedish Princess

The princess, who is the daughter of Sweden's widowed Princess Sibylla and Prince Gustaf Adolf, killed in a plane accident last year, has been considered for the lead in a motion picture for Vnsk Filmindustri, the Swedish artist Einar Nerman said. So far, Princess Sibylla has not decided whether to accept the offer, he added.

Nerman will be co-director of the picture, which will be filmed in color and probably based on a fairy-tale by the Danish Hans Christian Andersen. Princess Christina would play the title role "Liza Thumb," a female equivalent to "Tom Thumb."

Nerman sailed for the United States aboard the Swedish American liner "Stockholm." He is going to New York to work as a cartoonist.

MACON COUNTY A LINCOLN STRONGHOLD

DECATUR, Ill. —(AP)— A broad belt in Central Illinois is known as the "Lincoln Country," because Abraham Lincoln lived there. But the title is supported by current as well as historic facts. A survey shows that eight relatives of the Civil War President still make their homes in Macon County. They are fourth, fifth and sixth cousins.

Tips On Ranching Given By Trio Of Old-Timers

By The Associated Press

Want to be a successful rancher? Here are tips from three old-timers at the game—a Texan, a New Mexican and a Scotchman who insists there "is precious little difference between a Texan and Scotchman."

His four pointers are:

1. Have a large ranch of about 50 sections, so that some portions will receive rainfall even during dry years.

2. Keep the herd "liquid" so that livestock may be sold at any time.

3. Operate the ranch economically. When prices are high pay debts, make improvements, build up the calf crop, replace heifers and don't overstock.

4. Keep breeding herds intact.

Good Business

"The good years will take care of themselves," he said. "It's the bad years we must guard against."

John P. Lee, 73-year-old rancher from Tankersly in Tom Green County, thinks ranching is a good business for Texas youths.

"The livestock industry offers a wonderful opportunity for the boys of Texas," Lee said. "It looks like Texas must feed not only a lot of our own people, but also help feed the whole world."

Lee, who recalls shipping steers to Chicago in 1889 for $8.26 a head, said it is comparatively easy to stay in the livestock business under present record high prices.

But he doesn't think this will last.

"Things have got to level off," he said. "Everything has been too high."

The advice from Scotland comes from James Wright, director of the Matador Land & Cattle Company, Ltd., a Scottish corporation that owns almost a million acres of ranchlands in eight West Texas counties.

Conservative Texans

The 65-year-old Scotchman spends three months out of every year in Texas, he feels right at home as indicated by this observation:

"Texans are just as close with their money, despite all those vaudeville jokes. Both Scotchman and Texans are fast thinkers and slow talkers."

"Our policy on meat production is to sell as many cattle as we can when the price is too high," Wright said in explaining his company's policy. "When the wholesale market is too weak, we hold back all the cattle we can so as to help the small rancher."

He mentioned that Matador now has its V-shaped brand on 50,000 head of cattle, grazing on about 1,800,000 acres of owned and leased land. The calf crops run to about 16,000 annually. About this number is sold each year.

"We've sent more than a million cattle to market since a bunch of Dundee merchants bought the Texas land in 1887," Wright said.

Television Spreads In British Isles

LONDON—(AP)—The British television audience is growing steadily. The General Post Office reports 3,450 persons took out television receiving licenses in August to run the total up to 61,700 in Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Radio receiving license including television numbered 11,324,400. There were 509 prosecutions during August for listening in without them.

SOME TEACHERS NEVER GET TOO OLD TO LEARN

RECIFE, PERNAMBUCO—(AP)—A 60-year-old teacher at a public school in Recife submitted a request to the government asking for a three-month leave.

Gov. Barbosa Lima, after reading the request wrote: "Taking into account the age of the professor, I grant the request, accompanied with my best wishes that the vacation may be useful to her for acquiring some elementary notions of Portugues spelling and grammar."

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON—Here is a bird's-eye view of some of the new men chosen for the Senate in one of the most historic elections in recent years.

Kerr of Oklahoma—The voters have swapped one oil man for another with ex-Governor Bob Kerr, Democrat, a wealthy oil man, succeeding multimillionaire Republican Ed Moore in the Senate.

However, except for the fact that they are both oil men, the two are miles apart. Scrooge-like 77-year-old Moore was a senate spokesman for the big corporations, and made no secret of it. If a liberal idea ever entered his head it died from solitary confinement.

But Kerr was born in a log cabin near Ada, Oklahoma, and has never lost the common touch, despite his considerable wealth. And he has an infallible method of keeping his down-to-earth bearings.

"Whenever I am tempted to think like a rich man," says Kerr, "I remember the time I worked in a cement mill for 15 cents an hour."

When F. D. R. was asked who should keynote the 1944 Democratic Convention, when he was nominated for a fourth term, he replied, "I don't care, as long as it's Bob Kerr."

When Europe was clamoring for aid in the Fall of 1947, Kerr didn't wait for Washington to act, but helped organize his own wheat relief committee. Kerr has broad-gauged views on protecting the future economy of the United States, and once warned President Truman that America may not be able to feed itself, much less others, 20 years from now unless we embark on a more extensive flood-control program to stop the costly erosion.

Kerr fought in World War I as an artillery lieutenant, is a church-going family man, the father of four children. He doesn't drink, smoke, or chew, and his one chief vice is eating pears, which he consumes by the peck.

Gillette of Iowa—White haired, never-say-die Guy Gillette is remembered for his battle to expedite the synthetic rubber program which Jesse Jones let lag so disastrously during the war and for the Roosevelt purge.

Now 69 years old, Gillette was a buck sergeant in the Spanish-American War and an infantry captain in World War I. He has been a battler from the time he first set foot in Washington in 1932 as a rookie congressman. He battled against food profiteers, for soil conservation, for reclamation, and for rural electrification. His most publicized battle was the 1938 primary contest with Otha Wearin, selected by the White House in the unsuccessful purge attempt.

In Washington, Gillette also is remembered for having taken over the newspaper route of his young son who was ill; and for the Sunday nights during the war when the senator and Mrs. Gillette washed dishes at the stage door canteen.

However, the news story that caused the greatest confusion in the Gillette family was the time Guy was chosen by a magazine as the Senate's best-dressed man a few hours after his charming wife Rose had lectured him at breakfast about his shabby attire and demanded that he buy a new suit.

Less than four years ago, Humphrey literally wore his voice out at the 1944 Democratic Convention in Chicago screaming for Henry Wallace. In fact, Humphrey was such a rabid Wallace man that he refused to vote for Truman after Truman won and the convention chairman moved to make the nomination unanimous.

Few who watched the Democratic Convention closely will ever forget the sight of Humphrey and Barney Allen, a Red River Valley farmer, their clothes half torn off their backs and their voices gone, pacing through the Chicago Stadium carrying an American flag and a Wallace banner, begging and pleading with the delegates to support their man.

But that was four years ago. A year later, Humphrey, by wrapping up practical politics with a clever doorbell-ringing campaign managed to become mayor of Minneapolis.

The trigger-tongued Humphrey will bring to the Senate a clamorous voice for civil rights and social reforms. As mayor of Minneapolis, one of his first acts was to set up a council on human relations. He founded it on dreams, but made it work. Again at the Philadelphia Convention, it was Humphrey who split the Democratic Party wide open by demanding a strong civil

Coyotes Abuse Park Sanctuary

DENVER —(AP)— Western cattlemen and sheepmen, who have reason to hate him, will admit ol' Br'er Coyote is plenty smart.

As any visitor to Yellowstone National Park in northwestern Wyoming knows, no wild animal may be shot once it's inside the park boundaries. The coyote, say the stockmen, is hep to this. They contend that hundreds of them stay in the park while eating is good, then, come Winter, move out to prey upon the stock grower's lambs and calves.

The federal fish and wildlife service listened to the ranchmen's complaints and decided to see how right they were. Since then, says Weldon B. Robinson, biologist in the Denver office of the service, 319 coyotes in and near Yellowstone park have been trapped, ear-tagged and released. So far, 65 of these tags have been turned in by hunters killing the coyotes outside the park. One of them was shot 115 miles airline distant from the reservation, others have wandered as far as 50 miles before catching a bullet.

Robinson insists the coyote, while cunning and furtive, is no coward. Cornered, he'll put up a terrific fight. Hungry coyotes, Robinson said, often go far out of their weight class to tackle an antlered deer or elk, only to be slashed or trampled to death.

FHA Makes First Commitment Under New Housing Act

WASHINGTON — Commissioner Franklin D. Richards of the Federal Housing Administration, has announced issuance of the first commitment to insure a loan under Section 609 of the Housing Act of 1948. Under this section the FHA is authorized to insure short-term loans to manufacturers to finance the production of prefabricated houses. The borrower is Reliance Homes, Inc. at Philadelphia, manufacturers of prefabricated houses, and the lender is the County Trust Company, Tarrytown, N. Y.

The loan to be insured covers approximately 90 per cent of the manufactuer's cost, less profit, for the production of 230 houses.

It is estimated that the 230 houses can be produced in the factory in approximately three months. The houses will be one-story, of light gage steel, and each house will have five rooms, consisting of three bedrooms, a bath, kitchen, and dinette and living-room combined. Each will have a utility storage room and will be heated with a gas, forced air system.

Ten Questions For Homeowners

1. How much heat is lost from bare boilers and heat pipes?
2. What is the name given the concrete slabs on which a house foundation rests?
3. What part of an average home's cost goes into basement construction?
4. What is the maximum amount a family should pay for a home?
5. Four inches of mineral wool insulation has the heat-stopping value of how much brick?
6. How big an opening in the foundation is needed for ventilating beneath the floor?
7. How much heat is lost through uninsulated roof and walls?
8. How high should a chimney extend above the roof's highest point?
9. How can water be prevented from condensing on pipes?
10. How large should the hot water tank be for a 3-bedroom house?

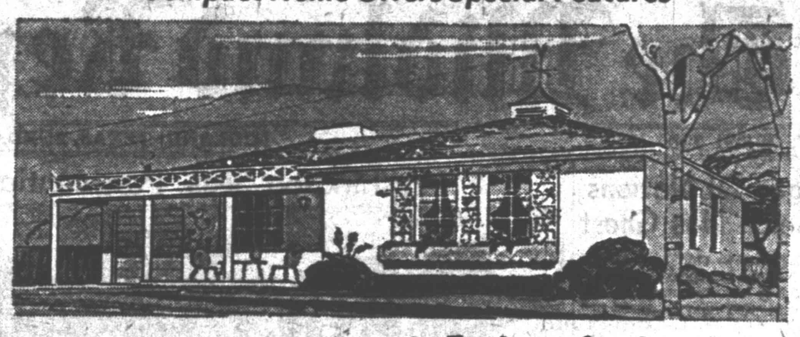

Answers

1—25 per cent of boiler capacity. 2—Footings. 3—6 per cent to 9 per cent. 4—21/2 times annual income. 5—A brick wall 6 ft. thick. 6—2 sq. ft. for each 100 lineal ft. of foundation. 7—44.4 per cent. 8—'t least 2 ft. 9—Wrap with insulation. 10—40 gallons.

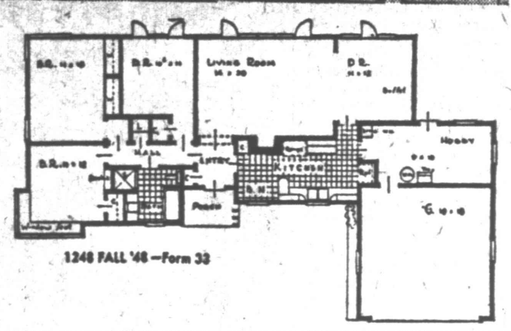

AUSTRALIA HUNTS ESCAPED PWs

Bedroom Lavatory May Solve Problem Of Extra Bathroom

NEW YORK—Home owners who have discovered that putting an extra bathroom in a small home is nearly as difficult as getting both feet into one shoe may find that the bedroom lavatory is the answer.

Installed without the tearing down and reconstructing required when a complete new bathroom is added, the bedroom lavatory can effect a welcome revolution in home life. It helps relieve early morning bathroom traffic, adds the privacy of a suite to the bedroom, and provides the running water that can transform the dressing table into a complete make-up table.

The bedroom lavatory can be set in a recess or a corner. The best location in a bedroom adjoining a bathroom or kitchen is, of course, the wall closest to the kitchen or bathroom plumbing. This cuts plumbing installation costs. Floor and wall surfacing of clay tile in colors to match or compliment the bedroom decor will insure sanitation and protect areas around the lavatory from water splashing.

The floor of the bedroom lavatory should be moisture-proof, easy-to-clean, and decorative. With clay floor tiles now available in nearly 100 colors, all these requirements can be easily met.

A tile-topped shelf beside the basin provides a serviceable boudoir make-up table. Other shelves under the basin-level top shelf make ideal storage spaces for towels, linen, brushes and cosmetics.

PRAGUE BOASTS CLEAN CITY

PRAGUE—(AP)—Prague has 2,000 street cleaners and it costs the city $3,000,000 to keep the capital clean each year, it was disclosed when the city celebrated a special "week of cleanliness." Prague calls itself "the Golden City" but it has adopted a new slogan: "The most beautiful and cleanest city."

Fire Fighters Will Fight Fires In Jap Cities

TOKYO —(AP)— Japan's big city firemen, long renowned for their acrobatics and elegant tattoos, are going to learn to fight fires.

This may seem revolutionary, but these are changing times in Japan —even for firemen.

In the good old days, the fireman was noted for the agility with which he performed stunts atop his bamboo ladder at holiday celebrations. This also gave him a chance to bare his breast and the tattoos which adorned it. These were something to make a Japanese wonder, even in a land where tattoos are as common as suntan in Florida.

When the time came for him to go to work, however, the Japanese fireman often gave a much less satisfactory performance—at least from the standpoint of a Japanese whose house was on fire.

The accepted technique was to play water on all the surrounding houses and let the place burn down. It probably was pretty far gone by the time the fire department showed up anyway.

Slight Variation

There was a slight variation of this technique which, while more satisfactory to the spectators, was even less appreciated by the victim of the fire and his neighbors.

This was to dynamite the buildings at the corner of a block and let everything in between go ahead and burn. This was used when the fire department was later than usual and the flames had spread.

Each ward had its own fire department. A fire wagon would gallop up to a ward line but refuse to cross it, even if the blaze was a few feet away. There was a lot of rivalry among the companies in those days.

George W. Angell, who is chief safety division at General MacArthur's headquarters, drew up a system putting all big city fire-fighting on the American plan.

Now they are overhauling the fire departments of Tokyo, Osaka, Kobe, Kyoto, Nagoya and Yokohama; shaking 'em all up, even down to locating fire alarm boxes so someone can find them.

Fire stations are being moved out of blind alleys. They are seting up a system and district and battalion chiefs who can co-ordinate the job of fighting big fires.

Soon the old glamor will be gone. And all that Japanese fire-fighters will do is fight fires.

Helping Build West Texas . . .

WEST TEXAS GAS COMPANY is constantly enlarging its facilities to take care of the increasing demand for natural gas.

In addition to our old customers, we will probably extend gas service to about 5,000 new homes and businesses this year.

West Texas Gas Company has been and still is busy building. New and larger pipe lines have been laid, city distributing plant extensions and improvements have been installed and several compressor stations enlarged. The above action photo is typical of work being done daily throughout the company's system.

Questions and Answers

Q—What is the design of the flag of the president of the United States?

A—The president's flag consists of the president's seal in bronze, upon a blue background, with a large white star in each corner. The design of this seal may be seen in the floor of the entrance corridor of the White House.

Q—How does frost kill a plant?

A—Water in the cells freezes and bursts them.

Q—Why are certain paintings called miniatures?

A—Portraits on ivory, metal or vellum were originally called miniatures not because of their small size, but because they were painted with minimum, which is native cinnabar or red lead. Miniare in Latin means to paint wkh red lead or vermilion.

Odessa Civil Air Patrol Slates Air Show Sunday

ODESSA—The most thrilling air show ever presented in West Texas is scheduled at the West Odessa Airport Sunday afternoon when Captain Dick Dewees, commander of the Odessa Squadron of the CAP, will fly his AT-6 through a wall of flame. The plane will be only about 10 feet off the ground.

The show is sponsored by the Odessa Civil Air Patrol, with proceeds going to a fund to finance the moving of a barracks to the field to be used as CAP headquarters.

Sharing honors with Captain Dewees in the show will be "Madman" Page, who will land a plane on a platform attached to moving automobile that will speed down the runway.

Low-level stunt flying also will be a part of the thrilling performance.

Army planes from Pyote Air Force Base will participate in the show. Many private flyers from over Texas and New Mexico are expected to fly here for the attraction.

rights platform. In retaliation, the Dixiecrats poured money into the Republican campaign in Minnesota and even sent Ex-Governor Sam Jones of Louisiana up to help re-elect Senator Joe Ball.

Built on springs, Humphrey won't hold still long in the Senate. He has the breathless personality of a youth on a roller-coaster. Jet-propelled ideas shoot through his head and take off on the busiest tongue in politics. He has the vocal endurance of a phonograph, can blow up an oratorical windstorm at the drop of a gavel. But he is a man of action as well as words.

A professor-politician, Humphrey taught his classes at McAlester College to take an active part in politics; then he, himself, went out to practice what he preached. He brought a truce between labor and management, brought quarreling Sister Kenny and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis together to fight the crippling polio epidemic which struck Minneapolis.

His ambition in the Senate will be a position on the education and labor committee.

Neely of West Virginia—Friends of Matt Neely boast that he has run for more offices and been elected more times than any man in West Virginia politics. He began as a $45-a-month school teacher, resigned to try his luck at politics, served five terms in the House of Representatives, three times as U. S. senator, once as governor of West Virginia, and once as mayor of his home town Fairmont. This marks the fourth time West Virginia voters have chosen him for the Senate.

Matthew Mansfield Neely is best known as a crusader for an air-tight federal mine inspection law to prevent slipshod and frequently graft-ridden state mine inspection. Neely grew up in a mining community and accompanied his father, a country doctor, on many emergency calls to mine pits where death had struck.

Always a colorful figure, Neely is addicted to snappy suits of pistachio green, is noted for his frankness, but is secretive about one thing—his age. There's been a lot of guessing about this, and Matt refuses to tell even his close friends exactly how old he is. However, on November 9, the senator-elect will be 74 years old. But many men 20 years younger would like to have Neely's health and stamina.

EARLY TAXATION

As far back as 3800 B. C., there were, in Babylonia, maps which were based on land surveys and and which were used for taxation purposes.

Net Monthly Cost Of Home Ownership Is Less Expensive Than Paying Rent

Because of income tax savings, longer term mortgages and lower interest rates, the monthly cost of home ownership today is far less expensive than paying rent and is proportionately less than before the war, inspite of the fact that today's home sells for twice as much.

Analyzing the economics of owning a $9,500 house today, the Construction Research Bureau of New York finds that the net average monthly cost is only $31.65.

Before the war, a house of this size selling for $5,000, represented a net monthly cost of $25.45.

Figures are arrived at thus:

PREWAR—Down payment of 10 per cent on a $5,000 house left a $4,500 mortgage. Financed for 20 years at 5 per cent interest, monthly payments on interest and principal were $29.70. To this was added $9 per month for real estate taxes, $1 for insurance, and $4.50 for repair, the monthly outlay totaling $44.20. From this was subtracted $18.75, the average monthly accumulation resulting from payments on mortgage principal.

The net monthly cost of home ownership thus was $25.45.

Present Plan

TODAY—Down payment of $1,800 on a $9,500 house leaves a $7,700 mortgage. Financed for 25 years at 4½ per cent, monthly payments on interest and principal are $42.81. Adding $14 for taxes and water, $1.50 for insurance and $7 for repair (because of higher valuation and higher repair costs) the total monthly outlay is $65.31.

From this can be deducted an estimated $8 per month for federal income taxes allowable for interest and local taxes paid each year. The average buyer of the $5,000 prewar home rarely had this deduction because he was not subject to income tax.

From the total monthly outlay also should be deducted $25.66, which is the average monthly accumulation of equity resulting from payments on mortgage principal during the 300 months the mortgage runs. Deducting the $33.66, which is the sum of income tax saving and accumulation of equity, from the $65.31 monthly outlay leaves an actual net monthly home ownership cost of $31.65 for the $9,500. home.

CZECHS USE POLISH LABOR

PRAGUE—(AP)—Poland is helping her sister "people's democracy" bolster her agriculture with peasant workers. The first group of a number intended to total 10,000 has moved in Czechoslovakia. This agreement, approved recently by the Polish government, calls for sending farm hands between the ages of 16 and 50 to this country for six months. Outside their working time, they are to get special schooling. Wages and other working conditions will be the same as for Czechoslovak workers. Labor offices will distribute the workers according to requests.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And The Elephant Path

By WESLEY DAVIS

It seemed to Daddy Ringtail, our monkey friend, that every elephant in the Great Forest was thirsty that day. There were big elephants and little elephants, all of them hurrying down the Elephant Path and on to the Whispering River to get their drink of water. They were holding tails the way that elephants do in the circus.

Daddy Ringtail sat down to watch them, when suddenly a voice said: "Oh me, and oh my my!" It was a little voice, and it came from the other side of the Elephant Path from where Daddy Ringtail was sitting. It was a bug, a very little bug who wouldn't hurt anyone.

"Happy day, little bug!" Daddy Ringtail called.

"Oh, it isn't a happy day at all," the little bug said, "because I want on the other side of the Elephant Path." And Daddy Ringtail understood that the bug was wanting to cross the Elephant Path, and that the bug was afraid to crawl out for fear that an elephant would step on him. The elephants were in much too big a hurry to stop for anyone to cross their Elephant Path.

Daddy Ringtail smiled. He knew what to do for the bug to have what he wanted. And there wouldn't be any danger at all of a great big elephant stepping on anyone. Daddy Ringtail said, "I can help you, I can, I can, and you won't be mashed by any elephant."

But the little bug didn't see how anyone could help him. "The elephants will step on me," he said. "They will if I try to crawl across the Elephant Path, and I want to be on the other side."

Daddy Ringtail laughed to hear it, and this is what he said: "You are already on the other side of the Elephant Path. This where I'm standing is one of the sides, and the other side is where you are!" And the bug was happy to hear that he was on the other side, because the other side is where he had wanted to be all along.

And if you are sitting on the side of a street, and if you want to be on the other side without ever moving at all, you can do what the bug did. You can look across the street and say: "There's one of the sides over there, and I'm on the other side right now." Happy day, and Monday I'll tell you about Daddy Ringtail and Wily Fox.

A GALLANT PIGGY-BACK GOVERNOR

CHEYENNE, WYO. —(AP)— Gov. Lester C. Hunt, attending a rodeo, noticed a pretty girl ruefully eyeing a stretch of muddy track she had to cross. He approached her and said a few words, to which the girl, Marjane Albright, nodded eagerly. So the governor carried her piggy-back across the mud.

CANES FOR EMBRYO SOLDIERS

LONDON—(AP)—"Spare the rod, spoil the soldier," the British Army believes—and parents of cadets agree. The war office says that it asks permission of parents of all boys in military schools to cane their children "if the occasion should arise." Seventy-five per cent of the parents approve of the canings.

"The old fashioned punishment of caning is better than such punishments as keeping the boys in to do extra work," a war office spokesman explained.

'Saint Eom' Has Own Rare Ideas

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK—(AP)—Telling a story like this you have to start at the beginning, very slowly, very deliberately, to avoid confusion. So:

Several times from our offices in Rockfeller Center, we noticed a big man with a heavy beard and few clothes doing graceful oriental-like dances on the roof of a rooming house shaded by skyscrapers. A reporter investigated, and the dancer identified himself as 'Saint Eom."

"How do I address you?" the reporter asked. "Saint? Mr. Eom?"

'Aw, just call me Eddie."

Turns out that Saint Eom used to be Eddie Martin, a merchant seaman, and before that a Georgia farm boy. Now Eddie paints pictures and makes sandals of python snake skins from India. He tells fortunes by reading cards in a restaurant. This he doesn't like but it's living.

Braided, Knotted Hair

Eddie is 40, six feet tall, 190 pounds. He is strong looking, except his face is kind of gentle. His chest and arms are covered with tattoos acquired during his seagoing days.

Eddie's brown hair is thinning on top, but there is enough to make a little knot. He makes a little knot. His beard is heavy and between the beard and the hair there is a definite connection. On each side of his face, a finely woven braid about half-inch around extends down to the beard.

"It's a serious ritual with me," Eddie explains. "Every morning I braid it and brush it and swirl the hair around, and I don't care what people say. I've had a vision of making my hair and beard into a compact design. Then, I think, I will have a religion.

"A kind of a jargon religion that anybody can adopt. A great spiritual force which comes from a universal source. Why, yes, man, the hair is the living force—a source of strength connecting the hair and beard."

All this Eddie explains in his Georgia drawl, which is incongruous under the circumstances. He made up his name, he says, and to him it means "home in the sky."

The reporter looked at Eddie's paintings and found them full of bright color, especially red, and lots of movement. Most of the paintings were of dancing girls who looked kind of Balinese.

Eddie says, however, it's Aztec and Mayan dancing that he's interested in, but whatever it is, it stands out on a place like Fifty-second Street, which anybody who ever blew a horn knows is "swing street" in New York.

The Methodist Church is erecting a 25x60 foot addition to the North side of the present church building for educational purposes. Work started on the improvement Wednesday.

Dr. J. C. Bredehoft, W. E. (Billy) Stephenson, A. O. Ward and a Mr. Chadwick, all of Rankin, were injured in a two-car headon collision about one mile East of Texon on Highway 67 Thursday morning. Both cars were badly damaged. The accident victims were taken to a Texon hospital, and Doctor Bredehoft was released after treatment of a lacerated knee. Stephenson and Ward, who suffered severe head injuries, were reported in a "fair" condition by the hospital Thursday afternoon, while Chadwick suffered cuts and bruises. Full details of the accident were not available Thursday, but Doctor Bredehoft was alone in his car at the time of the crash and the other three men were in a pickup belonging to the Sonora Drilling Company, by whom all three are employed.

Sara Lee Stephenson went to Texon Thursday to be with her brother, Billy, in the hospital there. The parents are in Abilene, where Billy's father has been ill some time.

Marijuana Habit Jumps; Amount Of Confiscated Reefers Up 64 Per Cent

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The arrest of Actor Robert Mitchum in Hollywood on a marijuana drug charge brings to light an indication that "reefer smoking" is increasing rapidly in the U. S.

Latest figures from the U. S. Treasury Department show that amount of marijuana confiscated by Federal agents jumped 64 per cent last year over the previous year, from 23,588 ounces to 39,894 ounces. The number of peddlers of the drug arrested by Treasury men also increased from 892 to 987. And that doesn't include thousands of arrests by local and state narcotics men.

Mexico is one of the big sources. The illegal traffic is straining the resources of the U. S. to stop it.

Well-organized gangs and bold lone-wolf operators are bringing most of it in. One of the biggest recent cases involved an American mining engineer, Victor C. Sanders. He was caught peddling "reefers" in Los Angeles. Later a huge supply which belonged to him was found hidden in a chicken coop in Compton, Cal. Three big trunks held 210 carefully sealed cans, each containing four ounces of the drug. He said he bought the stuff from a man named "Joe" in Juarez, Mexico. Sanders is in prison.

A large part of the supply is grown right in the U. S., in back yards, on empty lots. It is easy to raise. And it is a very simple process to dry the leaves and roll them into cigarets.

The plant looks like an ordinary garden weed, grows one to three feet high and has a seven-bladed jagged-edged leaf. Small buds or pods on the plant contain the highest concentration of the drug. It is of the hempt family, scientifically labeled "cannabis sativa."

Those engaged in its illicit traffic call the drug "Mary Warner," "Mary," "reefers," "muggles," "hay" or "stuff."

Continued use doesn't create helpless addiction, like opium. Addicts need psychological help rather than medicine.

Most reefer smokers are found among musicians and other artists. The drug has its greatest appeal to persons of unstable personality.

It gives the user a false sense of well-being and makes him acutely sensitive to different sounds and pitches. The U. S. Public Health Service has proved by its tests that it does not improve a musician's ability.

While under the influence of a reefer the smoker believes that there is nothing he isn't capable of doing or saying. In some instances it makes the user run amok.

Generally it renders a person incapable of intelligent action, as does alcohal. It wears off in from two to four hours leaving a slight hangover and feeling of depression.

Mild use doesn't appear to affect physical health but in India and Egypt where there is widespread use of stronger doses it makes users feeble-minded or insane.

It is believed a traveler brought seeds for the plant to Mexico and it came up from there about 25 years ago. The traffic reached its peak in 1937, when a Federal law was passed, banning its sale, use, or possession. All 48 states have laws against it. The Federal penalty for a marijuana violation is not more than a $2,000 fine, five years in jail or both.

Crane News

CRANE—Several Methodist WSCS women attended the subdistrict meeting held Thursday in Monahans. They were Mrs. J. N. Whetstone, Mrs. Cecil Sneed, Mrs. Maude Hendricks, Mrs. John E. Clark, Mrs. Burt Barnett and Mrs. L. S. Adcock.

James Robert, son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Whetstone, was reported ill this week.

Another first for the Crane County Memorial Hospital were twins born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald J. Ochsner. The tiny girl, weighing three pounds, 12 ounces, arrived at 6 a. m. and the boy, a four pounder, was delivered at 1:15 p. m.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Gunn, Humble Camp, were Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Wells of Dallas, accompanied by Dr. Harold Mimms of Augusta, Ga., who is interning in Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. Gunn and son, Harry, and the visitors made a trip through the Carlsbad Caverns.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Regen returned home Monday night from a vacation trip that included a visit in Borger, where her mother was ill.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Byrd of Electra, who have been visiting in the W. R. Crownover and C. L. Byrd homes, returned to Electra Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stokes and children have returned from a two-week vacation trip to Fort Worth, Floydada and Ranger.

New records every month!

1. Close control of every process has enabled Baytown refinery to make its substantial contribution to your need for petroleum products. This is the control panel in one of Baytown's two catalytic cracking units, called "cat crackers." They enable Baytown to get more finished petroleum products from crude oil processed at the refinery.

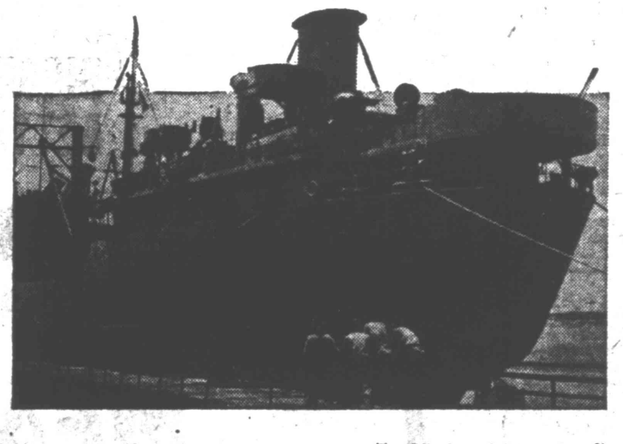

Month after month since 1941, Humble's Baytown refinery has established new records for the volume of crude oil it has processed. Now, to cap the record, the refinery is processing an average of about 250,000 barrels of oil a day.

It's Baytown's answer to your increasing demand for oil; to your increasing need for oil.

Looking backward, Baytown was a rice field in 1920. Five years later, the refinery handled 42,000 barrels of crude oil daily; in 1935, 101,000 barrels; as late as 1945, crude runs were 185,000 barrels daily.

Baytown's record-breaking story is the story of your increasing need for oil, your increasing need for petroleum products of greater variety and higher quality. It is also the story of an earnest effort to supply your need, a story of the scientific development of new methods, the building of new equipment, the training of a small army of workmen in the complex duties of refinery operation. And it is a tribute to the men and women of the refinery who work in shifts around the clock to put every possible barrel of oil through each unit.

But the climax to the story hasn't yet been reached. Your growing need for petroleum products is urging Baytown's scientists to devise new methods to get more of the products you use from every barrel of crude oil; to extend present facilities and to develop new ones; to supply you with finished products of higher quality and greater efficiency.

2. Oils from Baytown reach northern furnaces by tanker. During the cold winter of 1947-48, Baytown shifted its production schedule to supply more heating oils than gasoline.

3. The laboratories are the brain of Baytown refinery. In the research laboratory experiments are conducted which may result in new and more efficient refinery equipment, or a petroleum product of higher quality for your use. A new and even more complete research laboratory is now under construction. Other laboratories check and control every step of the refining process.

Winter Tourists To Valley Will Sport Truman Beanies

Garcia merged his promotorial and statistical talents and came up with this composite picture of the winter visiting couple this semi-tropical city expects in the next three months:

They will be a conservatively dressed man and wife from 45 to 60 with two children, thoughtfully left at home. They will be driving a new, or late model sedan in good condition except that the motor will be over heating because of the thermostat, and the hot water heater will have to be disconnected.

They will be worth from $10,000 to $50,000 and have a going business farm or profesional practice back in Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas or Minnesota, left in the hands of a relative or junior partner. The husband will worry about this.

Sweet Tempered

They will be the opposite of the popular idea of the American tourist, being sweet-tempered, reasonable and easy to please, and will reflect their own security.

They will have been to both California and Florida and will not have liked either place.

They will be fairly religious, but appreciative of the gay night-life of the cantinas in nearby Matamoros, Mexico.

The husband will be a good sport and a poor sportsman, but will have a burning desire to shoot things and catch fish. The wife will think this is silly and say so.

Almost without exception, the husband will affect the long-billed beanie like that worn lately by President Truman.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins — Lt.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer — Lt.-Gen. Wade H. Haislip

Effective November 15, the Army will go on a "peace or war" footing with a top-level reorganization designed to bring the Army to a state of "full preparedness" for either eventuality. Under the new set-up, General Collins, one of the D-Day leaders in Normandy, becomes vice chief of staff. Two new posts were created: deputy chief of staff for plans and operations, which General Wedemeyer will fill, and deputy chief of staff for administration, a job given to General Haislip.

Soil Erosion Group Meets At Brownwood

BROWNWOOD—(AP)—Soil erosion problems will be discussed at the annual meeting here November 9-10 of supervisors of Texas' 150 conservation districts.

The supervisors are farmers who serve without pay on the governing boards of the soil conservation districts which embrace 80 per cent of the state's land area.

One of the speakers will be E. J. Kyle, former A. & M. dean and ambassador to Guatemala, who will discuss some of the agricultural problems of Central America.

Also on the program will be J. C. Dykes of Washington, assistant chief of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Dykes, a native of Dallas, was stationed in Fort Worth and other Texas cities before going to Washington.

Kent Leavitt of Millbrook, N. Y., national president of the supervisors' association, also will be present.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—This is the time of the year when congressional secretaries swap government publications for army-navy football tickets—and Lacey Sharp of Rep. Bob Poage's office is the champion swapper on Capitol Hill.

Each congressman, as an ex-officio member of the Army-Navy Athletic Association, is given an option on eight tickets for every game played by the service academies.

Every congressman is entitled to 400 of these books free. Poage's central Texas district is predominantly rural, so his allotment is exhausted early each year. So Sharp starts horse trading, telephoning secretaries of congressmen from eastern cities who have little or no demand for the year books. These lawmakers have plenty of constituents who want to see the football games of the West Point and Anapolis teams, particularly when they play each other. It's not primarily a question of expense—it's a matter of getting the opportunity to buy the tickets. In some of the trades Sharp has to buy his tickets to make a trade, in others he simply barters off the privilege of buying them.

Two years ago when the demand was so great that every congressman was allowed only four tickets to the Army-Notre Dame game, Sharp got 100 year books and 50,000 farm bulletins in trades.

Postal authorities here do not have any table of mileages between postoffices, but from a study of a large map of rural and star routes, the most isolated postoffice in Texas appears to be Carta Valley, in Edward's County.

The nearest postoffice to Carta Valley is Del Rio, 37 1/2 miles away. Travelling the opposite direction, one has to go 73 miles to Sonora, the nearest postoffice to the north.

Every other postoffice in Texas appears to have a neighboring postoffice nearer to it than does Carta Valley. For instance, from Del Rio to QueMado is but 36 miles.

Beer In Berlin? Nein, Not Now

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

BERLIN — (AP) — Anyone who comes to Berlin expecting a cool mug of old-fashioned German beer is out of luck.

It just ain't here any more.

Cabbage? There are heads and heads of it poking out of the fields.

Cucumbers? Yah, also; many of them. Apfelkuchen? It can be had.

But beer and the gentlemen with bay windows who made it seem to have parted company. It may have been the war, but old beer experts point out that some enthusiasm for the brew waned when Hitler scorned it. They say the fuehrer drank a sort of weak imitation stuff.

The people who helped teach the world the art of whiffing off a head of foam aren't doing well at it these days.

A man wise in the ways of Berlin said he knew where a heady draft of real old German brew could be had. The place was small, poorly lighted and a woman was behind the bar.

Beer? Yah!

Watered Machine Oil

She put a tall glass under a spigot and a fugitive stream of something almost amber trickled into it. She let it fill halfway, then waited five minutes for an evil foam to subside. Presently she set out the glass. It tasted life watered machine oil.

"Maybe it was a bad barrel," said the guide. "I know another place."

A young man with waxed ends to his mustache stood importantly behind a bar.

Beer? Jawohl.

This time the beer flowed quicker but looked worse. The cloudy stuff would have given an old German brewer a fit of the vapors. The glass was tall, the collar a tattletale gray. It tasted like unwatered machine oil.

"There's one more place near here . . ." the guide began hopefully. He had been downing the experiments with relish.

The beer was set out in small opaque mugs. The beer couldn't be seen unless the drinker leaned over his glass like a man looking down a well. A beer fancier does not eye his beer like a biologist.

This last draft was something no brewer could have identified.

"I guess that's about all the places that have good beer," said the guide wistfully, "but it's not like it used to be."

CALLS REDS TOO SMART TO FIGHT

BERLIN—(AP)—The Germans are being told that the Russians are smarter than Hitler—too smart to start a war with the West.

This is the theme pamphlet put out by American Military Government. It is one of a series distributed in Germany and described as "reliable interpretation" of the world situation. The pamphlet is called "Russia—The Story of a Great Bluff." It was writtenby Franz Borkenau, former professor of modern history at the University of Marburg in the U. S. zone of Germany.
