TREATS FOR ALL THE KIDDIES OLD KRIS KRINGLE AT THE TREE

W. L. McDIVITT HEADS COMMUNITY XMAS. TREE COMMITTEE; OLD SANTA WILL HAVE SOMETHING FOR EVERY CHILD AT CHRISTMAS

Christmas Eve is going to be a big evening in Perryton, for all are going to join in welcoming good old Santa Claus to the big Community Christmas tree which will be located on Main Street, out in the open space. Arrangements have been made by the joint committee from the Lions and the Chamber of Commerce for one big jolly good time. Old Kris Kringle will have a treat for every child at the tree.

The Community tree program will be held late in the afternoon, about 5 o'clock, so that all will be over in time for the church programs and social affairs. Santa Claus has asked that the Boy Scouts and Legionaires help him in handling the gifts at the tree.

This will be Perryton's first outdoors community tree and every possible thought is being made to put it over in a big way. It is made possible through the generosity of Perryton business men who realize the need. Watch this paper for further announcements which Santa Claus will make.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Work, Carmen, Okla. visited from Tuesday until Friday in the home of their neice, Mrs. George Pletcher. On Thanksgiving Day, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hurt-Buntoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Lyola Carter were additional dinner guests.

Mrs. Jas. F. Bray was able to be removed from the Plaza hospital to her home Tuesday. She is convalescing following an operation.

ELEVATOR ACCIDENT FATAL

THREE YEAR OLD PERRYTON GIRL CRUSHED IN LIBERAL HOTEL ACCIDENT

Little Nellie Joe Reading, age 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Reading, was fatally injured Thanksgiving day when she was caught and crushed in the open elevator cage in the Hotel Warren in Liberal, at 3 o'clock. She died in Epworth hospital, two hours later.

Nellie Joe was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reading, who have been making their home in Perryton for several months, Mr. Reading accepting the posisition of assistant resident engineer for the Texas State Highway department. The Readings had motored to Liberal to take Thanksgiving dinner at the hotel, and after dinner returned to the hotel lobby. Nellie Joe was playing with little Milton Sills, son of the hotel manager, and the children were going up to Milton's room after some toys.

They stepped in the elevator and after it started to move the little girl apparently became frightened and started for the door. In some manner she was caught between the metal guard over a door and the side of the open cage, crushing her head.

The young lady operating the car stopped it as she fainted, leaving the car between floors. The car was released as rapidly as possible and the baby girl rushed to the Epworth hospital where she passed away at 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, Mr. E. E. Shupe and Lee Keith motored to Liberal as soon as word was received in Perryton concerning the accident.

The little girl was taken to Childress for burial, services being held at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dyatt and Mrs. T. D. Moss accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Reading to Childress.

Mr. and Mrs. Reading will spend several days in the home of friends and relatives at Childress and Shamrock.

DID THE "NO PEDDLER" CARD KEEP THEM AWAY?

That's the question that we have been wondering about ourselves after the Herald distributed over five hundred "NO PEDDLERS ALLOWED" signs last Spring. We have had a number of people come into our office and state that many would start in and see the sign and then back off and ring some other doorbell. If it did any good, we are willing to go to the expense again this year of providing free signs for all who will come and get them, but first we would like to have an expression from more people as to what they think about them. Write us a public letter, if you wish, expressing your own views, either way, on the subject. During the last few weeks, a number of bell ringers have been making the rounds in Perryton selling Christmas Cards, seals, etc.; all merchandise carried by legitimate business men of Perryton, who pay taxes, make liberal donations to all worthy causes, etc.; and they have been doing business, too, and at the same time taking the business from the business house. Before you buy anything from a peddler, just stop and ask yourself the question, "Who is it that supports the Chamber of Commerce, and bears the brunt of every donation in Perryton, is it the peddler or is it the business houses up and down Main Street?"

C. OF C. BANQUET AT LATER DATE

NOMINATING COMMITTEE FOR DIRECTORS STATE RECOMMENDS FOURTEEN FOR THE BOARD

At the meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce today, it was decided to hold the annual banquet and election of officers of the Chamber of Commerce, early in January instead of this month as is the usual custom. This postponement was made on account of the fact that the principal speaker, Judge Ely of Abilene, chairman of the State Highway Commission, could not be here until the later date.

The nominating committee chosen by President B. B. Kent, met Wednesday and selected fourteen men to be submitted to the membership at the banquet as possible members of the 1931 board of directors. Out of these fourteen or any others upon which the members may choose to vote, seven men will be elected, they in turn to elect their own officers from their own body. The slate as prepared is as follows: Geo. M. Perry, W. B. LaMaster, C. E. Woods, R. T. Shindler, Jack Allen, H. C. Sanford, Sam Hergert, Virgil Castle, C. B. Rogers, Ocie Fair, C. E. Whippo, Fred Battle, J. H. Scott, and Dr. G. J. Budd.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Froese had as their house guests over the week-end her parents from Hooker, Okla.

These very worthwhile gift items are all handmade articles. The proceeds from the sale will be applied on the expense of baskets which will be distributed to the poor and needy at Christmas time.

RANGERS START CAGE WORKOUT

FIFTY MEN REPORTING FOR PRACTICE; SCHEDULE THREE PRE-SEASON GAMES

Fifty men turned out for basket ball practice at the first regular workout of the Ranger squad Tuesday evening, according to Coach E. E. Shupe and while the material is practically all new, it is already giving promise of an outstanding team this season.

Several games have already been scheduled and three pre-season games have been arranged before the regular series starts in January. The first game will be with Booker, played on the local court on December 12, both girls and boys. Farnsworth girls and boys teams will meet the Rangers and Rangerettes here on December 16 while on December 19, the first and second strings will play the Liberal Redskins on the Liberal court. The Rangerettes will meet the Higgins girls here on the same evening.

The following games have been arranged in addition to the ones mentioned above:

Jan. 2—Spearman there (boys and girls)

Jan. 30—Follett here (boys and girls)

Feb. 6—Liberal here (1st and 2nd boys)

Feb. 13—Spearman here (boys and girls)

Negotiations are being made for games with Canadian, Shattuck, Dalhart, Borger and other teams of this section. A full schedule is expected by the time the season opens.

J. A. Willis and L. S. Hobbs, Amarillo, were attending to business in our city Tuesday and Wednesday.

WINNERS FROM SIX SHOWS TO MAKE ENTRIES

Vocational Agriculture Students To Help With Arrangements At Exhibition

Much Interest Is Shown

Many Schools And Clubs Will Enter Poultry Judging Contest At Show

Final plans are being made for the big regional poultry show which will be held in Perryton, December 15-18 by the North Plains Poultry association. Supt. W. B. Lilly and his corps of workers will have the show room all arranged by Saturday evening, December 13 to take care of early entries. E. E. Marshall and his "aggie" students have volunteered to help arrange the exhibition coops and help with the entries.

Indications are that this will be one of the big shows of this section, with quality supreme. Winners from six shows are expected to be entered here, and Supt. Lilly expects to take care of a full house.

Breeders from Stephenville, Desdemona, Hereford, Amarillo, Canyon, Leedy, Gage, Supply, Beaver, Goodwell, Guymon, Booker, Follett, Darrouzett, and Spearman have already signified their intention of entering the show. All of these breeders have blue ribbon birds, and those that carry away the "purple" ribbons here can easily be advertised as "aristocrats."

A number of schools are expected to send vocational agriculture teams for the poultry judging contest, and several county agents will have trained teams to vie for honors in this same event. Booker, Perryton, and Guymon have already announced teams for the contest, and many others will be added before show date.

The first North Plains show was held here last December and 325 birds were entered. An association was formed and plans laid for the show to be made an annual event. Larger cash prizes are being offered this year; the 4-H club show was extended to take in all counties of this section and vocational agriculture students are to be admitted into this department. This show should be a big feature of the regional show. Then the poultry judging contest was planned to test the skill of the youngsters. A handsome cup is being offered the winning team in addition to cash prizes for highest scoring individuals.

Here is a list of the officials who will be in charge of the show: W. B. Lilly, superintendent; W. L. McDivitt, assistant superintendent; E. W. Rogers, president; Mrs. R. D. Hall, vice-president; and T. D. Moss, secretary; Directors in addition to the above are R. P. Garrison and W. G. Yeary of Perryton; N. G. Nelson of Balko; and Mrs. Frank Hamilton of Notla.

REQUEST FEDERAL HIGHWAY

SEEK CONNECTION ON NO. 117 WITH FEDERAL 366 AMARILLO-EL PASO

W. B. LaMaster, H. C. Sanford and T. D. Moss represented Perryton at a meeting of highway boosters in Amarillo last Wednesday, the meeting being called to discuss plans of obtaining the Federalization of State Highway 117.

Representatives from Follett, Darrouzett, Booker, Perryton and Spearman met with the Amarillo delegation, the body deciding to present a request to connect No. 117 with Federal Highway 366, the Amarillo to El Paso line.

A committee was appointed to prepare data and present a formal request for this connection and designation at the next annual meeting of the Federal Highway commission, composed of members of the highway departments of the various states.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Long and Mrs. James Greer, Blue Mound, were Perryton traders Monday.

LIONS CLUB AND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SPONSORING EVENT

PRIZES FOR BEST DECORATED SHOW WINDOWS; BAND MUSIC, COMMUNITY AND GLEE CLUB SINGING AND SANTA CLAUS WILL BE FEATURES

The Yuletide season will be officially opened in Perryton on Monday evening, December 15, when a program sponsored by the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce will be given. Santa Claus has passed the word out that he will be here on that evening, so a word to the wise is sufficient, all good little children must be still "gooder" on that evening.

President Callaway of the Lions Club appointed a committee consisting of Virgil Castle, Jas. E. Barbour, and R. R. Willmann, as an entertainment committee; and President Kent of the Chamber of Commerce named W. L. McDivitt, G. R. Wilson and Walter Allen. The two committees have merged with McDivitt as chairman.

The program on Monday evening will consist of band music, group singing by choruses from the high school glee clubs, novelty numbers by the band members, male quartet, and other features. On that evening windows in the business houses will be judged and prizes of $10.00, $7.50 and $5.00 will be given for the best display carrying the Christmas appeal.

This program, which will usher in the holiday season, will be on the first night of the North Plains Poultry Show, and hundreds of people should be on the streets. Arrangements have been made for Christmas lights, big trees at every street intersection and small trees in front of each business house.

HOME PEOPLE SHOULD GET BEHIND BIRD SHOW

We do not believe the importance and size of the North Plains Poultry Show, which will open in Perryton at Donley Hall, December 15-18 is realized by many Perryton people. We will wager that there are people in Perryton and many of them business men at that, who are not enough interested to know that there is going to be a poultry show in Perryton in about ten days. This exhibition of high bred poultry is really something big and is the outstanding event of its kind in this whole scope of the country, but people connected with the managing of the show state that much more interest is being shown by people living at a considerable distance from Perryton than by people right here at home and nearby. What's the matter? Are your affairs so all important that they completely overshadow, an event that means so much to the community as a whole? Get out today and talk and think poultry show. It's going to be a whale of a success again this year, and after it is over, you can have the satisfaction of knowing that you contributed your part toward making it a success.

OUTLAWS UPSET DUMAS DADDIES

WIN FROM PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATION BY 20 TO 0 IN THANKSGIVING TILT

The Perryton Outlaws smothered the Dumas Ding Dong Daddies in the Thanksgiving Day tilt between the two teams on the local field last Thursday afternoon by a count of 20 to 0.

The Dumas professionals confined their offensive to an ineffective aerial attack when numerous attempts at the Otulaw line and around end resulted in consistent losses instead of gains. The Outlaw backfield on the other hand followed the plunging line that repeatedly tore great gapping holes in the Dumas line, the advances being stopped only by the secondary defense.

Carl Ellis crossed the Dumas line for the first touchdown after a Dumas punt had been blocked and recovered by the Outlaws on the 7 yard stripe. Paul Packard added point from placement.

The Outlaws gaining the pigskin in the second period when they downed the Dumas punter before he could boot the ball, carried it from the 30 yard tape across the line for the second touchdown, making the distance entirely on line bucks, Lefty Franklin lugging the ball over for the counter, the Outlaws kick failing.

Again in the third period, the Outlaws marched down the field on a series of line-bucks, Franklin again going over for the third Outlaw counter, Packard adding the point from placement.

It was a hard, fighting game from start to finish. Numerous substitutions were made in the Outlaw line-up, thirty men seeing service in the game, and every one of them playing an outstanding game. Two Dumas players were carried from the field with injuries, but they were not considered serious.

Mrs. T. D. Moss and Mrs. A. E. Dyatt accompanied Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Reading to Childress Friday, returning Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Reading remained over until Tuesday staying in the home of her sister, Mrs. Tom Preston.

"PROSPERITY VS. DEPRESSION"

PROSPERITY is up for election, running to overthrow DEPRESSION.

It's for the people to decide which will be chosen. Every man and every woman is privileged to ballot—every day.

DEPRESSION has no rightful place with a hundred and twenty million people, exchanging goods and services—capable—accustomed and willing to work—more highly skilled than other peoples—leaders in efficiency and progressiveness—backed by the vast natural resources of the United States. When we make it possible for the man who works to have a job we make it possible for him to buy food for his family and so help all business, including that of the farmer.

The rest of the world is of small importance compared with that free market of 120,000,000 people—homogeneous—of like tastes, habits and aspirations—living under the same laws—free of trade barriers. Foreign trade may be troubled by tarrifs and revolutions, but at their peak our exports represented only five and a half billions of dollars of gross business in a year out of a total American income of ninety billions.

Stagnation of circulation is what's the matter with agriculture and with Business. Everyone can help to get that circulation moving again.

Government can't make Prosperity—alone. Bankers and other business leaders can't make Prosperity—alone. It's the people, united in opinion and purpose and courage who determine Prosperity. They can elect it—none other.

Ballots that will be validly counted for PROSPERITY are of many kinds. Some one of them every man and woman can cast. For example:

Help a deserving man or a woman to get a little paying work—or, better, a regular job.

Spend wisely and not too timidly, and anticipate scheduled expenditures so far as is practicable.

Turn the deaf ear to false, mischievous rumors; and don't repeat them, if you do hear them.

Be willing to pay a fair price. Don't take advantage of the other man's necessity. Recognize that he has as good claim to a fair profit as you.

When a vampire that fattens on the miseries of others shows up, help to make him unpopular.

Discourage calamity howlers.

Keep business moving evenly, and remember that, to the average man, his job is his particular business. When possible, reassure him against his fear of losing it.

Save, but save wisely, not in fright. Invest for the profit that sound enterprise pays and for the added profit that will come after the hysteria of pessimism has passed.

HARDBOILED TEXAS PRINTER WANTS BIDS FOR OPERATION

"It seems that a printer somewhere down in Texas got slightly peeved at a letter from a doctor who wanted bids on several thousand letterheads and statements, different sizes, different grades of paper and printed in various colors, with the request that the forms be kept standing for possible reprint orders," ran a story in Forbes Magazine.

"So Mr. Printer diagnosed the case carefully and answered something in this manner: "I am in the market for an operation for appendicitis—one, two and five stitch incision, with and without a nurse. If appendix is found to be sound want quotations to include putting same back and cancelling order. If removed successful bidder is expected to hold incision open for about sixty days, as I expect to be in the market for an operation for gallstones at that time and want to save the cost of cutting."

The Way of Life by BRUCE BARTON

Wives

One could draw many interesting lessons from the recent biography of the great English barrister, Sir Edward Marshall Hall.

For instance, it furnishes a striking commentary on the difference between our method and the English method of administering justice. Sir Euward appeared in most of the celebrated trials of his time. Any one of them would have dragged on for weeks over here. The longest of them lasted only eleven days in England. A majority were wound up in less than a week.

We are ahead of the English in most departments of modern business. We are even with them in medicine, in science, and, perhaps, in literature. In the law we are woefully, shamefully and inexcusably behind.

But at the moment I am more interested in one very human little incident in Sir Edward's life which occupies only a paragraph, and was perhaps overlooked by most readers.

He had just been elected to Parliament and had prepared a speech with which he hoped to dazzle the House and make his reputation. Again and again during the long night session he tried to catch the Speaker's eye, but each time he was overlooked in favor of some older member. So he went home with the speech still undelivered, its ringing sentences still ringing in his head.

There in bed lay his little wife, who had been asleep for hours. But Sir Edward, so much disappoined and so on fire with his own oratory, could not let her sleep. Forthwith he woke her up and insisted that she listen to the whole long speech.

Is there any wife in the world to whom something of same sort has not happened?

I knew personally one of the leading men of the last generation. For years he had gone home every evening and—detail by detail—told his wife the whole story of the day's proceedings: what he did, what he said, and what other men had done and said to him. When she died at a ripe old age, the husband seemed organically sound and good for another ten years at least. Yet he followed her to the grave within a few months. Life had no more zest for him. He had lost his audience.

Go into a restaurant and watch the couples at their meal. See the man expanding under the encouraging smile of a girl, talking along, showing what a great fellow he is. And she, asking questions which are much dumber than they need to be, deliberately concealing her own wisdom in order to make him appear the wiser.

They are a great invention, these women, and particularly those of them who do us the honor to become our wives. Whenever any one tells me that, with the increasing wealth of the country, the wives are growing more idle, I contend that they still earn their living handsomely.

And would continue to earn it even if they had to do nothing but listen to us talk.

Miss Alice and Frank Roberts and Miss Viola Francis were in Canyon Thursday and witnessed the game between the McMurray and Canyon colleges. After which they motored to Lubbock and visited the remainder of the holidays with Robert Roberts, a student at Lubbock Tech.

Carter Pens at The Herald Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh B. Lackey had as their dinner guests Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lackey, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Lackey and Valda Lackey.

Elmer Bales visited Thanksgiving with friends in Hutchinson, Kans.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Middleton, teachers in the Amarillo school, spent the week-end visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Caradine. Thanksgiving Day, Miss Dorothy McLarty was also a dinner guest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cooper were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McDonald, Thanksgiving Day.

STERLING ROAD PLAN UP AGAIN

LEGISLATURE WILL BE OFFERED HIGHWAY PLAN BY SENATOR WOODUL OF HOUSTON, TEXAS

Austin, Nov. 30.—The Sterling highway plan will be reoffered in the legislature in January.

It will be sponsored by Sen. Walter F. Woodul of Houston, one of the supporters of Gov.-Elect Ross S. Sterling's successful campaign.

It will include separate proposed amendments to issue state bonds for highway construction, to repay counties for money they have paid into state highways, and to relieve the counties of future payments. It will include financing the highway bonds from highway revenues.

Sen. Woodul announced in a statement issued at the capitol that he will propose the submission of the statewide highway plan. He charged the legislature's failure to submit it two years ago was on political grounds of opposing Mr. Sterling as a candidate for governor. He asserted opponents of the plan were afraid to let the people vote on it, and said 34 or 35 other states have adopted the financing plan.

Candidates Agreed

He declared the recent political campaign had made highway financing one of its chief issues, and that practically all candidates had agreed to the wisdom of the first two elements of the plan—repaying counties about $6,000,000 a year to absorb their bond issues for state work, and stopping the future levy on counties. Only on the third element, the issuance of bonds, did they disagree, he said.

Sen. Woodul said he will attempt to submit all three issues; with assurance that the first two will be adopted, and that if the bond issue should fail, it would be only a temporary set-back in highway development.

Without the bond plan, if the state deals fair with the counties and stops its levy for the state system that repays what they have put into state roads already, the state can build only 350 miles of highway a year, Sen. Woodul declared.

Chance for Legislature.

"I am going," the Houston senator said, "to give the legislature a chance to pass up to the people all three elements of the Sterling plan.

"I shall vote for each and all of them, and hope all the members do likewise. We will assuredly carry elements one and two—reimbursing counties and stopping levy on counties—unless a lot of politicians get rid of their horses. Even if we do not pass element three—the bond issue—the people will let highway progress stagnate for only about two years, and then you will see Texas step up with 34 or 35 other progressive, forward-looking states and adopt the plan."

Sen. Woodul pointed out that from a dead issue, the amendment two years ago received the necessary two-thirds vote in the senate to submit it, and only failed of submission by the house because two members unthoughtedly paired with two absentees."

On two points out of the three essentials of the Sterling plan all the campaign came into agreement. From this I gather that the people are practically unanimous for two things:

Two Points

1. That the levying of taxes on farms, ranches and homes to build state highways is unduly burdensome, inadequatable and unjust, and that these state highways should be paid for by those who use and who profit from them directly—that is, in the form of road rent, a tax on gasoline.

2. If adopted, this will mean the state will have about $10,515,575 less each year to use in constructing highways. But since the system is unjust let stop it.

3. Since the present system is unfair, it is unfair for the state to require counties in the past to burden themselves for the benefit of state highways.

Amendment Cited

"It is my intention to present a constitutional amendment, which, if submitted and receives a majority vote of our citizens, will require the legislature to pledge to such counties as are entitled to reimbursement sufficient of our gasoline tax revenues as will within a 30-year period reimburse the counties equitably for their expenditures. This will require approximately $6,000,000 a year out of gasoline funds.

"For the year ending Sept. 1, 1930, total receipts of the highway department were $42,149,852. During the year, the department spent for maintenance and overhead, $14,031,148. That, deducted from the revenues leaves $28,118,704 for road construction. If we subtract the deduction from county contributions, and the reimbursement of counties, we would have had only $14,081,067 for permanent construction, or less than half of what was spent for the year."—Amarillo News.

AMARILLO PAGEANT AT XMAS.

STUPENDOUS ALL-PANHANDLE KRIS KRINGLE SPECTACULAR PARADE, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11

On Thursday, December 11, Amarillo will be the scene of the greatest Christmas pageant ever held in the Panhandle of Texas. The Chamber of Commerce, the Globe-News and the merchants of Amarillo are bearing all of the expense in connection with this program but wish it to be distinctly understood that it is a Panhandle affair to which all residents of the Panhandle are most cordially invited.

The outstanding feature of the day will be an all-Panhandle parade in which bands from all the surrounding territory will compete for prizes. This parade will be built around Thacher's Santa Claus spectacle. For some five years Mr. Thacher has made a business of staging such spectacles and is recognized as the best of his kind in America. He travels on a special train carrying with him at all times about forty-five trained people who take the part of the various characters in the spectacle. In addition to this personnel he also carries ten Alaskan reindeer in charge of Eskimoes dressed in clothing worn by the natives of Alaska. Of course these reindeer draw the sleigh in which Santa Claus is seated. In addition to Santa Claus there is "Merry Christmas," his wife, who appears in the parade in a fancy sedan-chair carried by costumed chairmen.

The parade includes representatives of Japan, Italy, Holland, Spain, "Miss America," "The Rainbow", and "The Peacock." In addition, there are many comedy features, freakish men on stilts ten feet high, others wear grotesque, heads, etc.

This professional troupe will be augmented by bands from all over the Panhandle along with floats supplied by Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and A. B. C. Clubs of our city. Floats will also be in the parade from the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, Boy and Girl Scouts, American Legion, Child's Welfare Association, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Parent-Teachers Associations, etc.

This parade will be some two and one-half miles in length and will incorporate the very spirit of Christmas.

The committee in charge wishes to impress upon the citizens of the Panhandle that this is a Panhandle affair and not a strictly Amarillo festival. All the cities in Amarillo's trade territory are extended a cordial invitation to come in and have a part with Amarillo in staging the greatest of all Christmas festivals.

Miss Vernon Roe, Hobert, Okla., spent the week-end in Perryton visiting with her brother, Roland Roe.

Miss Margaret Butler, a student at Canyon college, spent the holidays with home folks, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butler.

Mrs. J. C. Reagan and Mrs. C. W. Claybaugh drove to Canadian Wednesday and their neices, Billie Ann, Stella Beth, Nora Jeanne and Peggy Jane, accompanied them home to visit until Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs Oris Lindsay, Hollis, Okla., visited on Wednesday of last week in the home of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cofer.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Brillhart drove to Amarillo Friday to take Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carter Jr., who visited with relatives here since Wednesday.

A. A. Stone of the Notla community was a Perryton trader Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Prator Gilbert and daughter, Nancy Lou, of Beaver, Okla., Johhny Graham, Fort Worth, Mrs. Roderick, Dallas, and Matt Gouger were dinner guests in the J. Nathan Bryan home Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Shaw and Mrs. J. R. McMillen were among the dinner guests at the Jas. E. Barbour home Thursday.

THE PUNISHMENT

They Get in the First Few Minutes Decides How Long They Will Last

And so it is with your motor . . . 40% to 60% of all motor wear occurs in the first few minutes after starting, because ordinary oils drain away in idle periods. But CONOCO Germ-Processed oil is always on guard duty, never drains away, penetrates metal surfaces, reduces starting wear.

A step on the starter always takes ordinary oils unawares, and it is then that most damage occurs in your motor. By draining away during idle periods, ordinary oils "let down their guard" and let your motor in for severe punishment at a time when protection is vitally needed.

On the other hand, Germ-Processed oil always has its guard up. Its film penetrates and clings to every working part while the motor is idle.

The first motor revolution finds ready lubrication guarding every clearance. The 40% to 60% of wear which might have taken place before you ever shift a gear is substantially reduced.

Thousands of motorists have found that this improved motor oil prolongs motor life and gives better all-round performance. You can find CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

STRANGE CASE LUBBOCK MAN SPEAKS FOR CRAZY WATER

Thought To Be Hopeless Yet He Lived to Tell His Story

Three weeks ago today, I came to the Crazy Water Hotel on a stretcher from the city of Lubbock, Texas, with what the doctors called Tabetic Spine, and they told me that there was no medicine that could cure me. I started drinking Crazy Water and taking the baths, and on the 12th day after arriving, went to the wheel chair and on the 13th day I started walking on crutches and can now walk without them, so I feel if Crazy Water will do that for me I cannot say enough for it.

The new million dollar Crazy Water Hotel at Mineral Wells, Texas, covers an entire block of ground. It is modern, fire-proof and complete in every detail. It is natural to think it would be expensive to stop at this magnificent Hotel; yet, you can enjoy its genuine hospitality, pleasing service and receive the benefits of the Crazy Mineral Water Treatment at very reasonable rates. Write them for full and complete information.

BATTLING MARIE DRESSLER

Wallace Beery suffered for art's sake during a scene in "Min and Bill," in which Marie Dressler flies into a rage when she catches the redoubtable Wallace making love to Marjorie Rambeau. In an effort to make the scene as realistic as possible, Miss Dressler went into the business of throwing pots and dishes at Beery with unbridled zeal. When the scene was over she was dismayed to find that she had given her fellow player a black eye. Marie spent the rest of the afternoon trying to repair the damage with a huge beefsteak.

Hints for the Home

by Nancy Hart

Sandwiches

Everybody likes sandwiches. They are easy to eat. Easy to serve. And they may be made sufficiently long beforehand to be out of the way when the party begins.

One woman has achieved quite a reputation for originality by always serving hot bacon and cheese sandwiches to her evening guests. They taste good, these substantial and toothsome concoctions, and they just satisfy the midnight appetite whetted by several hours at Bridge.

All well and good for the well-servanted household. But for the most of us one of the sandwich's chief claims to favor is the practical one that it may be made ahead of time and put out of the way until wanted.

It is far, far easier to make presentable sandwiches if you have your implements in good condition. You must have a well-sharpened knife to cut the bread. You must have a good bread board to cut it on. You must have the fillings all made and each one must be provided with a separate butter spreader for spreading. You must have a silver knife for spreading the butter, which must be neither too soft nor too hard, but just right.

Flavored Butters

To begin with the butter, flavored butters are in addition to any sandwich-maker's stock in trade. Add finely minced parsley, for instance, to some of the butter. The juice will give the butter a light greenish tinge, and the parsley leaves will spot it with a darker tone, which in itself is attractive to look at. This butter is used in addition to some other filling. For instance, parsley butter might be used for sandwiches filled with thinly sliced chicken.

There are other ways of flavoring butter. Onion juice is sometimes used. It is delicious—onion-butter—with a sliced cucumber sandwich. Sardine butter is made by mixing pounded sardines with butter. But these oddly flavored butters must be carefully used, lest they seem to the sandwich eater like bad butter. The discriminating and sophisticated appetite is far more likely to find them interesting than is the more natural appetite which shies away from strange tastes.

Remember that you can gain interesting and easy variety if you make your sandwiches of several kinds of bread. Home-made white bread, nut bread and whole-wheat bread, for instance, all filled with the same filling, would seem to be three kinds of sandwich.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

I take this method of giving notice to the public that I am on January 5th, 1931, going to close the gate and entrance to my land Section Number Three Hundred and Eighteen in Block Forty-three in Ochiltree County, Texas, the gate being located on the south line of said section. Heretofore this gate has been erected by me and I have allowed access by the public to the road through the South part of said Section but am compelled to discontinue same. In this connection I am setting the South string of fence on this section back a distance of twenty-five feet so the public may have proper passage way.

SMASHING BEST-SELLER IS TALKIE SENSATION

In 1922, Alice Duer Miller wrote a smashing, best-seller novel, "Manslaughter." Cecil B. DeMille produced it as a silent moving picture with Thomas Meighan and Leatrice Joy in the leading roles. Both the book and the picture were sensations. Now Paramount has transferred the thrilling drama of "Manslaughter" to the talking screen.

Claudette Colbert and Fredric March play the leading roles in this audible moving picture which George Abbott adapted and directed. Brought up-to-date, inspired with Abbott's genius, "Manslaughter" is even more of a sensation on the talking screen than it was either as a novel or as a silent picture.

"Manslaughter," which opens a two day run at the Ellis Theatre, starting Monday next, is richly produced, filled with speed and the vivid verve of the new-day children of wealth. It opens among the playboys and gay girls who ride and swim and make merry in the society whirl. It turns to the serious side of life, as tragedy grips the most daring and carefree of these gorgeous people. It develops into a tremendous conflict of love and hate, with a handsome young attorney pitting his strength against the willfulness of a beautiful girl.

"Manslaughter" is thrilling, emotionally great, an entertainment based on a stupendous idea entertainingly produced.

"THE BIG TRAIL" IS GIGANTIC UNDERTAKING

Before Raoul Walsh started production on his master directorial effort, "The Big Trail," Fox drama of pioneer days playing at the Ellis Theatre on Friday and Saturday of next week, he assembled the entire cast at Movietone City and made the longest speech he has ever been known to make.

The gist of it was that they were going to reenact the march of the pioneers toward the unknown west, the promised land, and that it was going to take four months at the least and was to be no picnic nor vacation.

He told them they were going to be asked to endure even more hardships than the original pioneers and that if any one had any yellow in him that was the time to check out, not after the picture started.

Many times Walsh's words came home to them during the filming of the picture, especially when they were called upon to make the snow and blizzard scenes on and around Teton Pass, between Victor, Idaho, and Jackson, Wyoming.

Three days before the arrival of the company at Victor, Teton Pass was visited by a snow storm increasing the depth of snow over the pass to approximately 15 feet.

Ben Wurtzel, business manager of "The Big Trail," and his chief assistant, Tom Lavin, with 22 carpenters from the Fox Studio who were already on location there and with all the laborers they could commandeer in Jackson, set about making a tunnel through the pass, and completed it in time for the production to be filmed on schedule.

"The Big Trail" features 93 players in the cast with more than 20,000 extra players used during its production. John Wayne, a youthful discovery of Walsh, plays the male lead, Marguerite Churchill, the feminine lead and character portrayals are contributed to El Brendel, Tully Marshall, Tyrone Power, David Rollins, Frederick Burton, Russ Powell and Louise Carver.

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery don't have to embarass any stars by "stealing the picture" when they appear in "Min and Bill" Friday and Saturday at the Ellis Theatre, for the scenario of the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talkie drama, although based on Lorna Moon's best-seller, "Dark Star," was expressly adapted to suit the respective talents of the two character actors and comedy stars. George Hill of "The Big House" fame directed.

STEPHEN

Acts 6:7-10; 7:54-60

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Will it work? is a question that many ask when the ideas of Christianity are presented. The best answer is to turn to the lives of multitudes who are expressing the teachings of Jesus in their daily experiences. Stephen is one of the first to do this very thing and has the distinction of being called the earliest Christian martyr. Leaders in Jerusalem followed closely the activities of all propagandists just as the authorities do today in any country with an orderly form of government. And yet the mind must always be open to a fuller understanding of truth since the realm of facts can never be regarded as a closed book.

Stephen comes into prominence when the necessity of church organization arose. A poor fund was started, for part of the teachings of Jesus called for distribution by those who had any excess to those who were in need of daily bread.

Soon this servant of God became a marked man and was regarded as dangerous by those who were determined to stop the progress of this radical teaching of brotherly love that had been announced by Jesus.

The case was tried before the Sanhedrin and Stephen had to make his defense before the Seventy. He showed them that Jesus was the long looked for Messiah and that He had been treated with base consideration, even as their forefathers had despised the instructions of the prophets. When the judges could not deny the fact they determined to kill the messenger. Sentence of death by stoning was pronounced and it was executed outside the city wall. In the midst of his death throes he prays as did Jesus, "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge."

PARENT-TEACHERS

The Parent-Teachers Association met in the high school auditorium Monday, December 1, at 3:30 o'clock.

The meeting was opened by singing "America The Beautiful." The play, "White Queen," presented by Miss Pauline Shifflet's third grade pupils, was very entertaining and well given. An address, "Law and Character Education," by Rev. O. W. Dean had many good thoughts.

He, rich in experience, said laws, whether good or not, should be respected until they could be amended. In some excellent illustrations he proved to us the effect our attitude on law breaking had on the youths of today. Using the training of Moses, Samuel, Elijah and his two sons and the sufferings of David at the hands of his children because of the lack of proper restraint around his household, as examples, early discipline was shown as a vital factor in character building.

Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, as delegate from our association, gave a report of the 22nd annual convention of the Parent-Teacher Association which convened at San Angelo recently. "Character Education" was the theme of the convention this year. From her reports of the different addresses, we were again greatly impressed by the need of training for the pre-school child, the necessity of responsibility to children and the way in which the association has been successful in uniting the home, the child and the community.

The third grade received the banner, by being represented by the most parents present.

The next meeting will be held December 15, at 8:30 in the evening with the fathers in charge. Make an effort to be out on that night. It will be a worthwhile program and you will enjoy the fellowship with us.

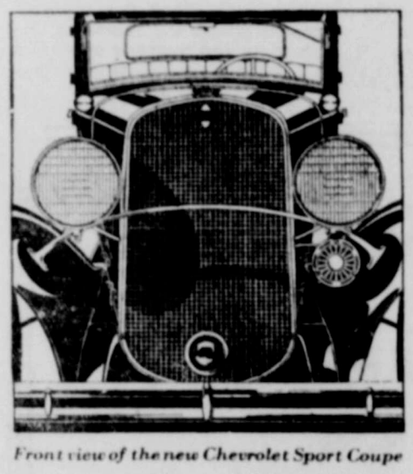
BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Strikingly beautiful, fleet and smart —a masterpiece of Fisher styling

CHEVROLET

In the entire field of modern coachcraft no symbol has come to mean more to the buyer of a motor car than Body by Fisher. And never has Fisher's superiority been more strikingly exemplified than in the beautiful new bodies of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six!



Front view of the new Chevrolet Sport Coupe

Working with the added advantage of a lengthened wheelbase, Fisher designers have been able to achieve in the new Chevrolet a degree of smartness, comfort and impressiveness hitherto considered exclusive to cars far higher in price.

Inside and out, you will discover scores of refinements that stamp this car as a masterpiece of modern coachwork. Radiator, headlamps and tie-bar have been artistically grouped to create an unusually attractive and distinctive ensemble. Mouldings sweep back from the graceful new radiator in an unbroken line to blend with the smart new body contours. And new colors, in carefully devised combinations, lend a new individuality.

Interiors, too, are exceptional in every way. The new mohair and broadcloth upholstery is tailored with exceptional smartness. Seats are wider and deeper and more luxuriously cushioned. A deeper windshield and wider windows give better vision for both driver and passengers. And beautiful new hardware, of modern design, lends a final note of charm.

The greater quality and beauty of the new Chevrolet-Fisher bodies have a counterpart in the many improvements which have been provided in the chassis of this Bigger and Better Six. Among these improvements are a longer, deeper, stronger frame; easier steering; a more durable clutch; a quieter, smoother-shifting transmission; and engine refinements which make the new Chevrolet a car you will be happy to drive—as well as proud to own.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six is now on display in our showrooms. See it today—drive it—and learn for yourself that it is the Great American Value!

The merchant who reasons that he is so well known that he does not need to advertise is courting a visit from the sheriff. Older readers will recall St. Jacob's Oil, a remedy that was in the medicine cabinet of nearly every home in America thirty years ago. It had been placed there by the excellence of the product, aided by a great and intelligent campaign of newspaper advertising that extended over a period of many years. We can visualize their ads even at this late day. Finally, the original owners sold out to some concern for a large sum of money. The new owners of St. Jacob's Oil reasoned that the product was so well known that further advertising was throwing money away, and by discontinuing the use of newspaper space they could effect a saving of something like two million dollars per year, the sum of the former owners had been spending to keep their product before the public. What happened? Sales immediately began to fall off and in a few years St. Jacob's Oil became but a memory with the old timers. The owners, of course, went to the wall. Countless others have met with the same experience, and yet others, who persist in following in those footsteps, will meet the same fate.

Newspaper advertising brings buyer and seller together at less expense and with much greater effect than any other medium. Why not use it?—Congressman Harold Knutson, Pioneer-Journal, Wadena, Minnesota.

The Way of Life
By BRUCE BARTON

When's The Time to Quit

I rode downtown in a taxicab, and looked at the picture of the driver on the license card which is issued by the police.

Where had I seen a face like that?

Suddenly I knew. An acquaintance of mine looks enough like that taxi driver to be his twin.

If the whole truth be blurted out, I doubt if there is a very wide difference in intelligence between that taxi driver and my acquaintance. Neither has much education. Neither is well read. Neither can be accused of profound thought.

How is it, then, that one is on the front seat of a cab and the other rides in the back seat of a limousine?

Luck? Undoubtedly there is a lot of luck in every successful career. But I think my acquaintance has at lest one quality which the taxi driver lacks. He stuck to his game through some mighty lean, tough years when there was every reason to be discouraged and quit.

The dividing line between success and failure is just a hair-line in thousands of cases. One single decision may make all the difference.

A young man has just been promoted into the vice-presidency of a corporation, and given a stock participation that will make him many times a millionaire.

He told me that he started in a branch office of the company as an accountant. Before long he had made himself master of one certain phase of the company's affairs.

He looked around him and above him and was discouraged. Everywhere his way seemed to be blocked by men who had been there longer, but were young enough so that they would be active for many years.

One night he definitely decided to look for something else. The next day an officer of the company visited his branch, and a violent discussion ensued. The officer upheld one side of the question, my young friend the other. And my young friend knew his facts; he was right.

The argument ended by the officer asking him to come down to New York "for a few weeks." He has been there ever since.

If he had resigned the preceding evening, my young friend would have missed his one great chance.

Hanging over the door of the laboratory of a great automobile company is this sentence: "No one ever would have crossed the ocean if he could have got off in the storm."

I am not writing this piece to try to make any man contented with a poor job. There are plenty of instances where men have made their everlasting fortunes by making a fresh start.

But more often, I think, the battle is won just by sitting tight.

Mrs. Fredia Straw of Trenton, N. J., has filed suit for divorce, charging her husband daubed her entire body and clothing with stove polish to keep her from leaving the house.

William Hardis of Chicago was fined $25 for having an inaccurate machine, though his scales favored his customers by giving them overweight.

Mrs. Mayme McKinney of St. Louis has sued for a divorce charging that her husband has only taken her out twice for amusement in the 20 years of their married life.

Mrs. Gertrude C. Mah, young Chinese wife of San Francisco, was granted a divorce when she charged that her mother had sold her into

The police of Birmingham, Eng., now test every man arrested for drunkenness by making him pick his hat off the floor and make three bows.

PAGEANT DEC. 11, AMARILLO

KRIS KRINGLE PAGEANT AND PARADE TO BE OVER TWO MILES LONG; BIG AFFAIR

AMARILLO, Dec. 3.—Thirteen bands from cities in the Panhandle of Texas and Eastern New Mexico already are assured for the giant Kris Kringle pageant to be staged here Thursday, December 11, it is announced by Mason King, manager of the trade extension department of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, in charge of that phase of the fete.

The spectacle, sponsored by the Amarillo Globe-News, the Chamber of Commerce and the Amarillo merchants, is the greatest Panhandle-wide celebration ever attempted.

Cities which already have given assurance of having their bands in the parade and to participate for the prizes offered are: Hereford, Clovis, Portales, Tucumcari, Spearman, Canadian, Shamrock, Clarendon, Wellington, Claude, Groom and Canyon.

Prizes are offered also for the best floats entered in the parade, which will be headed by Santa Claus himself, riding in a sleigh drawn by real live reindeer, and numerous civic and fraternal organizations already have signified their intentions of entering the competition.

Bringing with him a retinue of more than 50 persons, Santa Claus will arrive in Amarillo early on the morning of December 11 and begin making preparations for the colorful affair in the form of a two-mile parade.

In the parade will be real Alaska Eskimos, attired in fur clothing as worn by the natives of Alaska; a brass band of sixteen pieces which travels with Santa Claus wherever he goes; and a portrayal of "Mary" Christmas, the wife of Santa Claus, appearing in a fancy sedan-chair carried by costumed chairmen.

There will be representations of Japan, including a Japanese girl riding in a jinricksha drawn by men, appropriately attired in true Japanese style; of Italy, including man and woman in native Italian regalia, one propelling a street piano on wheels while the other operates the instrument; of Holland, including a woman attired in the gay, clean, blue and white costume of that country and riding in a two-wheel wooden cart drawn by two live oxen in charge of the Dutch; of Spain, in the form of an unusual characterization of Queen Isabella gorgeously draped in a dazzling creation of laces; and a colorful, spangled costumed characterization of "Miss America."

Adding even more color to the affair are "The Rainbow," a burst of colors, hues and tinges commensurate with the subject, and "The Peacock," another original characterization in the form of a gorgeous costume of silks and splendid spangles and with a large tail of feathers opening and closing like a huge fan.

Comedy features, including an extraordinary clown appearing in a burlesque mode of transportation; a freakish man on stilts ten feet high, and four clowns with large grotesque heads, and many others, will appear in the pageant.

Fifteen costumed banner bearers will carry banners, one preceding each feature announcing the subject and others bearing such inscriptions as "Love Rules the World" and "Welcome to Our City" will help to explain the spectacle as it passes any given point.

The parade will be held on all of the principal business streets of the city, affording ample opportunity for all Panhandle and Amarillo people to view it.

Mayor Ernest O. Thompson has sent invitations to the mayors and other officials of Panhandle cities urging them and their citizens to attend the pageant, and the mayors will be guests of Mayor Thompson at a luncheon at the Amarillo Hotel following the parade.

"Kris Kringle Day" will be officially designated by proclamation by Mayor Thompson.

Dr. Powell, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, will be at Dr. Brewer's office, Tuesday, December 9. Glasses fitted, tonsils and adenoids removed. 45-1t-c.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Thompson had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Witt, Gertrude and Vernon Witt and Mrs. Cecil Witt and little daughter, Eleanor.

Miss Viola Francis and Miss Alice Roberts spent Sunday night visiting with their parents in the Lone Tree community.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Caldwell, Altus, Okla., were in Perryton Wednesday renewing acquaintances. They lived here several years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Haley entertained Thanksgiving Day with a delightful turkey dinner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hood, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin George and children, Mr. and Mrs. Pruner Apple and family, Loyd Campbell, W. J. Miller, J. H. Scott and Miss Elizabeth Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Sharpe had as their guests from Thursday until Sunday her mother, Mrs. M. B. Wilkerson, and sister, Mrs. J. W. Childress, and Wyatt Hart, all of Seminole. Besides these guests for the Thanksgiving dinner there was Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Hayden and children, Borger, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Jones and family.

LIONS TO DECORATE STREETS

POWER COMPANY TO FURNISH FREE CURRENT FOR DECORATIVE CHRISTMAS STREET LIGHTS

The Lions Club will again sponsor the lighting of the business streets with decorative colored lights during the Yuletide holiday season, President Callaway having appointed Lions Whippo, Yagey and Timmons, as a committee to look after installation of the lights. Manager Whippo of the Texas-Louisiana Power Co. announced at the Tuesday luncheon of the club that his company would provide current for the lights free of charge and that they would also furnish one man to help install same.

Arrangements have been made for the four large Christmas trees which will be placed at street interections on Main Street. These trees were donated by W. D. Christopher and will be cut down and brought in from the Christopher Canadian River ranch by a troop of Boy Scouts under the direction of R. R. Willmann. Most of the business houses have made arrangements for the placing of small trees in the flag pole sockets in front of their stores.

XMAS. BASKETS FOR THE NEEDY

SIBLEY JINES HEADS AMERICAN LEGION COMMITTEE FOR BASKETS FOR POOR AND NEEDY

Sibley Jines, local real estate man, has been named as the head of a committee which will have charge of the distribution of Christmas baskets filled with food, toys and clothing, which will be given out on Christmas Eve by the American Legion. This action was taken at the joint meeting of the Legion and Auxiliary at Legion Hall last Monday evening. Mrs. Jines was named to represent the Auxiliary on this committee. Mr. and Mrs. Jines will choose their own assistants. W. L. McDivitt and Horace Lackey have already been selected as co-workers on the Legion committee.

A part of the funds for the filling of these baskets will be raised from a rather unique advertising section of the Herald, which is being furnished free of charge by the Herald to the Legion and Auxiliary. Mrs. Jack Allen is the head of the committee which will have charge of the selling of this special section to the business and professional men of Perryton.

The Legion believes that no person, whether worthy or unworthy, should go hungry or cold on Christmas Day, so they are asking the cooperation of all persons and all churches, clubs and organizations in furnishing them with the names of people needing help. If you know of a family, just call Mr. Jines or Van W. Stewart at the Herald office or any member of the Legion or Auxiliary.

HENRY DUNLAVY HAS NARROW ESCAPE MONDAY NITE

W. H. Dunlavy of the Jones-Dunlavy Furniture Co. had a very narrow escape from serious injury last Friday evening when he was struck by a car driven by Miss Katherine Kelly, while crossing Main Street at the New Hotel Perryton. Miss Kelly had a little baby in the seat with her, the baby started to fall off the seat and when she grabbed it, the car swerved, striking Mr. Dunlavy, who was standing in the center of the street crossing. Fortunately no bones were broken, just a number of severe burises.

PLAINVIEW IN DEPARTMENTS

BIG FURNITURE AND HARDWARE CONCERN HAS SEPARATE DEPARTMENTS IN BUSINESS

Since the recent fine new building has been added to the Plainview Hardware & Furniture Co., a reorganization has been made, the business being divided into separate and complete departments. The owners of the business are J. L. Just, B. B. Kent, J. H. Neufeld, and Sam Hergert.

B. B. KENT

Next comes B. B. Kent, general manager, with Sam Hergert as assistant manager. Mr. Hergert is also in charge of the repair department. J. H. Neufeld is manager of the implement department. The Plainview handles the McCormick-Deering line of farm machinery and this year had the honor of selling more implements than any other firm served out of the Amarillo district warehouse. The repair department is located in the rear of the old building. The mezzanine floor in the old building is now used for second hand furniture only.

The furniture department now occupies the entire front part of the old store and C. F. Jones is in charge of this department with Harry Nickel as his assistant. The hardware is on the lower floor of the new building with Charley Kent as manager. In the offices, will be found Clarence Neufeld looking after the books, accounts, collections and credits.

Lake Patton, another veteran employee, has charge of the warehouse Jake Sodowsky, is shop mechanic and V. L. Nichols is field salesman.

DALHART TEXAN'S SECOND CUSS-THE-EDITOR WEEK

John L. McCarty, editor and general manager of the Dalhart Texan, announces that his second annual Cuss-The-Editor week is to be December 7-13. This is an original stunt with John and it went over big last year, but what we fail to understand is how in the world the people of Dalhart, can catch up with their Cussing-The-Editor in just one week, especially when their editor is of the aggressive, progressive type like John McCarty. Cussing-The-Editor in Perryton is not a one week a year event, in fact we get it regularly. The Herald is just a weekly, but the cussing part of it is daily.

Extend Mail Service

New Territory Include Main Street North of Santa Fe Tracks To End of Pavement

Another extension has been made in the territory served by the free city mail delivery, the new addition to include Main street north of the Santa Fe tracks and to the north end of the pavement. Service in this addition will probably be started Monday morning of next week.

Several other additions have been authorized and service will be started just as soon as requirements concerning side-walks, street lights, house and street numbering has been met.

LOCAL HUNTERS RETURN WITH THREE BIG BUCKS

H. C. Brillhart, O. T. Glasgow, M. M. Cudd, Calvin Flowers, Val McLanahan and J. J. Schwab returned Monday from a ten day hunting trip in Mason county, Texas. They brought back three buck deer and an armadillo as the spoils of the hunt. They state that there were lots of does but that the bucks were scarce with plenty of hunters in the hills. No casualities were reported with the exception of the exciting and thrilling experience of Obe Glasgow being treed by a wild hog. Ask Obe for the true particulars.

WILL HOLD FORMAL OPENING ON NEXT WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 10

HAS BEEN SERVING PEOPLE OF THIS SECTION FOR OVER TWENTY YEARS AND HONESTY AND QUALITY MERCHANDISE HAS PAID

On next Wednesday, December 10, the Plainview Hardware & Furniture Co. will celebrate over twenty years of successful merchandising in this section, over eleven of which time has been in Perryton, by holding open house and formal opening in their beautiful new $35,000 business home. The entire building will be thrown open to the public from early morning until late in the evening. Souvenirs will be given to all.

This wonderful new business home ranks with the finest structures that will be found in any city. It is the last word in modern construction and design. Berry & Hatch, Amarillo, were the architects and a word of praise is due them for the finished product. The building covers a ground space of twenty-five by one hundred and forty, is two stories with a full basement. It is strictly fire-proof construction, outside walls being of brick, all floors of reinforced concrete, with a structural steel trussed roof, covered with a twenty year guaranteed composition roof.

The basement is full depth and extends out under the sidewalk ten feet, sidewalk lights letting daylight into the front part of the understructure. The front of the building shows the handiwork and planning of the master designer. The lines are a gem of modern architecture. Display windows are recessed to a depth of sixteen, all glass being set in brass and the floors of the windows laid basket weave style out of contrasting colors of hard wood. The entrance door and side lights are of modernistic design with glass set in lead. The floor of the entrance lobby is of terrazzo with black marble insets.

The first floor, which has a sixteen foot ceiling is given over entirely to hardware, over $2,000.00 worth of specially designed hardwood fixtures having been installed. The fixtures are so arranged that the customer can get to all merchandise, following the modern idea of merchandising. In the rear is a mezzanine floor upon which is located two office rooms and a ladies reading and rest room. The floors on the mezzanine are covered with battleship linoleum.

At the present time the entire third floor is used for new furniture storage, but when the building program is complete and the old quarters are replaced with a brick building, this floor will be converted into office suites for rental purposes. An electrically operated elevator runs from the basement to the third floor. In the basement is the steam heating plant, which is of sufficient size to heat both the old and new buildings.

The heating plant and plumbing is of the very latest type and was installed by Howard Holt, local plumbing and heating contractor. All wiring and fixtures were installed by the Majestic Electric Co. of this city.

TO TEST MILK COWS FOR T. B.

OVER TWO HUNDRED HEAD OF MILK COWS SIGNED UP FOR TUBERCULAR TESTING

According to County Agent G. R. Sheets, 230 head of milk cows had been signed up to be tested for tuberculosis by noon Wednesday and an effort was being made to bring the total over the three hundred mark.

The testing will be done by a licensed veternary who has been approved and recommended by the Livestock Sanitary commission at Ft. Worth. It is hoped to have everything in readiness so that the tests can be made the latter part of this month.

According to Mr. Sheets, the charge for testing will not be over a dollar a head and if three hundred head could be signed up, the cost will be considerably less. Mr. Sheets encourages all dairymen to take advantage of this co-operative effort being made to rid this section of the country of infested animals.

Should you desire to have your herd tested it is advisable to get in touch with Mr. Sheets at once.

Perryton will send a large delegation to this convention and an attempt will be made to land the spring convention for the district in Perryton.

Mrs. Lester Baumann has been quite ill but is much improved at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Nickel had as their dinner guests Thanksgiving day his brother and a friend from Kansas.

BASKET BALL GAMES ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Two very interesting basket ball games will be played on the Perryton courts Friday afternoon, the games starting at four o'clock. The first game is between the McMillen and the Waka boys. McMillen has played five games this season and to date are undefeated. The second game is between the Waka girls and the Booker girls.

A meeting has been called for Saturday, December 13, of all teachers of schools taking part in the county basket ball tournament, at which time the date of tournament will be decided upon as well as other interscholastic league problems discussed.

Recreation As A Vital Factor In Character Building

The following article was read at a recent meeting of the Parent-Teachers association by Miss Eugenia Mitchell.

Should I try to pose as an authority on the topic, Recreation as a Vital factor in character building, you would have as much respect for my intelligence as the small boy. When his mother learned that her little boy had been indulging in the outdoor sport called "shooting craps," she called him to task and said, "Don't you know those poor little things have just as much right to live as you and I have."

To show our changing needs, let me use this as an example: According to statisticians one hundred years ago the average person had about 72 wants, 16 of which were necessities; today the average person has 484 wants of which 92 are regarded as necessities. Furthermore, a hundred years ago not more than 300 articles were urged upon the average man by the seller, whereas today there are something like 32,000 and the total number of articles are 365,000. If merely things contributed to life's values, we should be by far the richest generation, but this mounting of numbers does not guarantee an increase of life's values.

The improvements of our machines of travel whereby we may see the things of the world that our forefathers never could, does not mean that we globe trotters get any more out of the world than our fathers did out of their travel by imagination. Just as the sailor-lad comes back from far countries with tatooes representing his trip, so some travelers come back with stickers on their luggage.

The improvements of machines does not mean that we have improved our five senses. For instance, during the National Conventions of 1928 one could sit in one's living-room and hear repeated roll-calls, demonstrations, speeches. In reflecting over what was heard, we have improved methods of broadcasting, but are the speeches any better than those delivered by average high school pupils? Has the fact that we can pick up sounds out of thousands of miles of air dulled and befuddled our senses?

Our printing presses today are putting out books in such a large volume that they are available for the rich and poor alike. But the very wealth of printer's ink has cheapened the public estimate of it. Result—the procession of books each month prevents one from reading the classics of the ages. Reading matter has become so cheap and so light that "he who runs may read" The majority of people you see on the trains and public conveyances have something in front of their faces, but there is no evidence that many of them have anything back of their faces.

Getting hold of things does not mean getting them into life. The old proverb, "The slothful man casteth not that which he took in the hunt, but the precious substance of man is to the diligent." There is a thrill in the chase. The presidents like to fish. There is a thrill in that but it is the paid guide who dresses the fish. The drugery comes in preparing things for use. There is a thrill in the chase for things. We are the prize collectors of the commercial trophies of the age. But we seem somehow incapable of changing these things into food for our minds and spirits. Momentary possession must be transferred into mental ownership. Accumulations of things must be developed into the appreciation of things before they can contribute anything of value to life.

Wealth oftentimes is a barrier to appreciion because of the multitude of things for evaluation. To illustrate, in a discussion of the farmers' condition recently a business man said, "If you were to think of this country organized on the basis of a factory, you would be impressed with how many there are in the overhead department and how few there are in the production end. Think of the musicians, artists, teachers, preachers, lawyers and he had named the people who had ideas. According to his idea the only person deserving consideration was the person who actually made something.

This wealth of things we have makes us dependent so that our ingenuity and inventive powers are dulled especially when it comes to recreation. Contrast the equipment of the average boy as he has it furnished in the normal home, his various sport clothes and paraphernalia with Whittier's "Barefoot Boy with turned up pantaloons and torn-brim hat." Is there any evidence that the whistling tunes of the boy of today are any merrier than those of the "Barefoot Boy"?

No. The very fact that all his playthings are anticipated and provided, keeps the modern youngster from devloping his own needs in the work-house or back-yard and it is one grand rush to find something new. Instead of enjoying one thing at a time, life becomes a supreme struggle to find something new as the small child who wants to hold everything in sight in his hands even though he then has more than he can play with. Our problem of today is not to check invention but to know how to utilize it to make it contribute to life's values, in other words it is a problem of how to make man-power control horse-power.

No individual and no society is safe unless the forces of control match the forces of drive. Let me illustrate. Suppose I had a Ford car. I should be efficient if not altogether respectable. If I had a Lincoln, I should be both efficient and respectable. But, if by chance Mr. Ford sold me a car that had a Lincoln engine and a Ford set of brakes, I shouldn't be either efficient or respectable, much less safe! for there the conveyance would have a driving force greater than the controlling force. No society is safe which perfects its driving power of industrial efficiency and mental skill beyond the point where it has character and power to control it, because we are in danger of running away with ourselves. Our task is to make man-power control horse-power. If our advocations are speeded up as our vocations, if our time off duty is at the same high tension as our time on duty, we shall soon fritter our energies away and fray our nerves. If we do not check ourselves, our vacation hours will become as hectic as our working hours. The quiet evening at home has disappeared just as certainly as the horse and buggy. If people have time for relaxation and conversation, the first suggestion is "Let's jump in the car." Even our conversation needs a motor accompaniment. The "autocrat of the breakfast table" is gone forever. Members of the family never eat breakfast together. When we do get together for dinner, it is dominated by the "autocrat of the dinner table," the jazz orchestra.

Our recreation is getting to be of the same feverish quality as our work and even our thought. Young people of today are expecting recreation and entertainment enjoyed by people in their twenties and thirties of a few years ago. Business men of 40 expect the same success and recognition as men of 60 used to achieve. As a result we are shortening our normal childhood and lengthening our silly second childhood. By 9 o'clock in the morning we have a lot of prematurely old young people; and by 5 o'clock in the afternoon we have a bunch of silly Ponce de Leons looking for a fountain of youth. You can't stop part of the speed being accumulated from the fact that part of our population is moving from the country to the city. True, speed is necessary. There is no fresh current in still water, mill-wheels are not turned by still water, but a quiet pool is necessary for viewing reflections.

So if we are to make things contribute to life values, we must learn to entertain ourselves with things rather than be entertained by things. We must discover how to use things as well as how to get things. But that isn't what we do in America is it? We work hard and during our leisure hours we expect someone to work equally hard to condense our entertainment for us. For example, take the work expended on the movies we see, the plays you hear, the operas and concerts you attend. It has recently been said that the average man of today in 24 hours gets more varieties of impressions and sensations than our grandfathers got in a normal lifetime. This is a slight exaggeration perhaps, and yet it serves to illustrate the point graphically.

Let us see some of the aspects of recreation which help to contribute to life values. Does it meet these social and moral requirements as a factor in character building? Does it lead to content, happiness, satisfaction and so eliminate juvenile delinquincy and adult anti-social conduct? These can partially be answered by saying that recreation in itself is neither moral or immoral but may become either depending upon leadership. Second, boys and girls can not be two places at once. Third, children can be taught social values spontaneously without the fear of punishment as a motive. A consideration of the first point discloses the fact that many parents feel their children safe if they are playing in what we know as "a healthy outdoor sport." This theory can be exploded by any one of you by experience. Take for instance, baseball or football. The game itself, aside from the fact that it is played outdoors, can not be said to be either character-building or character destroying. It is the spirit of each individual member and the team as they approach the contest that decedies whether it is to have a moral value or an immoral value. All of you know that without leadership a group can be in as bad company as if they had been to one of the much talked of saloon or house of vice. Sooner or later in an unsupervised group rough talk and fisticuffs will result.

So much for unsupervised play. The person who teaches his players that a game is never irretrevably lost but can be gained by trickery, deceit and even injury to an opposing team is worse than the thief who openly commits robbery because he is undermining the foundation of character. He robs the player unconsciously of his sense of honor, fairness, justice, courage and self-control. Recreation shouldn't have as its chief aim victory in spite of the rules and standards of true sportsmanship. You say there are not many supervisers of this sort. This is true, yet the few have the same effect on sportsmanship that a bad egg has on an omelet. In large communities hired leaders are paid to direct recreation. In smaller communities it is the privilege of every group to guide a small or a large group toward perseverance, courage, self-reliance, loyalty to an ideal, team-work and fair play. I'm here to tell you that they are going to absorb more by example than they're ever going to take from your spoken word. Anybody knows that a boy or girl had rather be out on the athletic field for the fun of the game or the glory of their school than out in the back alley shooting craps, stealing or gossiping. Children can't be two places at once, physically or mentally.

I'm glad to say that as far as I know there is no one who opposes recreation, but including myself in the accusation we do let opportunities for wholesome recreation pass by. There isn't a boy in town who would rather get drunk than engage in some sort of game or social activity. There aren't any girls who would rather congregate and tell questionable stories or go joy-riding to pass the time away than to take part in some social or athletic activity.

You say this is a beautiful Uptopia I have in mind. How do I think such a condition can be accomplished? Nobody likes to be told to play a game, it's good for you because t is not then. Nobody likes to be told that such and such a person is a good person and worthy of imitation. Sometimes you don't know what you are talking about. Finally no one likes to go places or do things which they feel are obligatory. There is no denying that we are a pleasure-loving, excitement-craving, entertainment going people, that a large part of our national and individual incomes are spent for recreation of one sort or another. Nerve specialists and medical doctors are suggesting in every daily paper, magazine and lecture that we need some release for our ambitions, desires, energies and emotions whether it be in the form of music, dramatics, reading or sports. Everyone is on the pursuit of happiness. It is the motivating force of life, always vanishing when pursued too closely. Let's play then, just for the fun of it.

Play, spontaneously of its own acord, is enough to put itself over. To illustrate, recently, a teacher in Indianapolis hoped to create an interest in P.-T. A. by the reading of some themes anonymously written on what each pupil thought of his father. It worked. Fathers from all walks and professions of life came. Fathers who walked, fathers who rode in $400 to $4,000 cars. They sat spellbound as the president read a tribute to a step-father, a tragic revelation of white mule liquor, the description of a dream father, a dozen vague allusions to strange fathers gone early and home late, and some timid pieces written in fear of a quick temper or a heavy hand. The president picked up other papers that read something like this, "I like my daddy" for reasons. "He built my doll house, he taught me how to shoot, he helps me with my school work, he gave me a pig to fatten and sell." Not one child mentioned his family house, car, neighborhood, food or clothing. The fathers went in to the meeting from many walks of life but they came out in two groups, playmates of their children or strangers to their children. Recreation is the o... for loyalty and understand...

He Understood the New Teacher

By NORA TAYLOR

"NEXT station's Pennelton, ma'am."

Marion Caruthers looked up nodded to the porter, quickly stuffed the magazine she was reading into her grip and put on her coat and hat. A moment later she was standing on the platform watching the train pull out.

"Miss Caruthers?" said a pleasant voice, and Marion saw before her a middle-aged man with bared head.

"I'm Thompson, the principal of the school where you're going to teach."

"How nice of you to meet me," she said. "I'm awfully glad you're the principal, because I know I'll like you."

"You're very young, Miss Caruthers," he mused, glancing up and down her trim little figure.

"Yes, this is my first school," she admitted.

"I hope you'll like it; we do. We'll just get home in time for dinner," he continued.

"Dinner!" she gasped. "Why, up home we always have dinner at six o'clock."

"We're just ordinary folks down here. Guess you'll have to make allowances."

Mrs. Thompson met Marion at the door and gave her a warm welcome.

"So glad to see you, dear. Are you very tired? How do you like our country? Dinner's just ready. I'll show you your room so you can take off your things."

When Mrs. Thompson came back down stairs she and her husband had a hurried word in the hall.

"Isn't she attractive!" said Mrs. Thompson. "What lovely eyes and such a quick infectious smile."

"Yes, but I'm afraid she's too young to manage children in a country high school. Had absolutely no experience."

Their comments were cut short by the entrance of Marion and they all hurried into the dining room.

"Biscuits?" said Marion quizzically at the dinner table. "Up North we have bread—bake Wednesdays and Saturdays."

"I'm sorry we have none," said the professor quietly.

"And you serve string beans with pork," Marion went on in amazement. "I never saw that before."

By the time the meal was over Mrs. Thompson felt that her well-cooked dinner had fallen short of the mark.

The following day school began and Marion was busy all the rest of the week getting things organized in her classroom.

At the first parent-teachers' meeting she nearly had an open tilt with one or two of the mothers. She just could not make them see. And, worst of all, she had a feeling that they did not understand her. There was only one person in Pennelton who did and he was John Hamilton, the Latin professor.

Fall slipped into winter and the students of Pennelton county high pegged away. Marion had enjoyed the holidays immensely. Professor Hamilton's mother had invited her over for dinner, after which they had gone on a straw ride and had supper at a distant inn. It was a jolly crowd. Then there were two dances and Marion had made a decided hit each night. Still she did not feel that she was one of them. There was always a slight coolness about these people that was apt to freeze suddenly right in the middle of a conversation, and without a moment's notice, Southern people were nice, but queer—so queer. No doubt about that.

And now spring had come again and soon Marion would be going back home, and for some peculiar reason she was not sure that she was glad. She had made a success of her teaching and Professor Thompson had been unstinted in his praise of her work.

The parent-teachers decided to give a parting banquet in honor of themselves and to commemorate a most successful year's work. Marion put on her best evening dress and looked her stunningest as she sat beside Professor Thompson at the long table.

Mrs. Burton rose and began to make a speech.

"This banquet," she said, "is in honor of Miss Caruthers. Everything on the table has been prepared by a northern woman we coaxed over from Delton, and the recipes all came out of a northern cook book. We wanted just once to do something down South as they do it up North, and—"

"Oh, forgive me," interrupted Marion, jumping up. "I see it all now, but I never realized how tactless it was. That's what's been the matter. What a little beast I've been! Would it help to make amends now if I tell you I love the South and the people and the cooking and everything, and I did so want them to love me. If you ever hear me say up North again I hope you'll run me out of the county. That's what I deserve, anyway."

Flushed and breathless, she dropped into her chair again.

"Yes, I'm certain Miss Caruthers feels every word she's said about liking the South and all that," said Profesor Hamilton, rising, "because she—she's going to marry me!"

"Jack, you—I never—"

But the rest was lost in a round of applause and the banquet table was almost upset as the crowd rushed forward to congratulate the happy couple, while Professor Hamilton congratulated himself on his brilliant coup d'etat.

Barbara at the Cat Banquet

By LEETE STONE

FOR a stranger some places are more lonesome than others; more lengthily removed from the snugness of home. Barbara Joyce thought Greenwich Village the loneliest place in the world. Cloistered, as she was, in a cheap little room over an Italian oasis of gayety, she wondered between times of getting home from work and going to bed, how one could be within sound of so many merrymakers and still be left in such utter solitude.

Barbara Joyce was a small town girl. She had hopefuly sought independence and a rainbow future in the gilt-edged city where millions are ever seeking the same combination.

One eventful night, with all the myriad village cowpaths to choose from she selected a new trail to her friendless room from the Bleecker street "L" station. She threaded a wary way through the mass of flotsam and jetsam that flock from the four corners of the world—that Mecca of all nations, where it does not seem possible that so many grimy, pathetic children could exist; so many raucously conflicting noises be heard; so many noisome smells be smelled, and so many weirdly flaring gutter fires be lit from barrel hoops and dirty staves.

Near the end of a narrow street that led into her own she approached a neatly caparisoned gasoline station. There was a cleanly swept cement platform near the door to the office. Reposing on this platform, all in a seemly row, paws and tails correctly placed and neatly curled, were nineteen cats, all in one perfect attitude of resigned and wistful waiting.

Anything in the world may be seen in Greenwich Village that is undesirable; but here was a sight quainter than quaint even for America's rendezvous of arts. Barbara chose a shadowed spot near an iron railing—and watched. Almost at once she noticed two taxis swerve slowly to the curb opposite the waiting cats. Two taxi drivers, husky, hard-boiled eggs with unflinching eyes, got out, each with a newspaper under his arm.

They waved their newspapers gently as they stepped over to the platform. From the cats came a faint tremor of recognition, as the newspapers were spread out with a deal of care and a faint rustling in front of the entire nineteen.

The two, newspapers spread, passed right by her without a glance, and disappeared into a dark doorway. They emerged almost at once, one carrying a ten-quart pail. Starting at one end of the anxious, waiting row of cats of all colors, the two taxi drivers dished out of the pail in double handfuls, by the jowls of each expectant feline, nineteen luscious little piles of chicken and chop bones topped with a generous sprinkling of spaghetti. What a purring and chewing and skillful use of delicate, soft-clad paws ensued.

A miracle, indeed, to Barbara watching in the shadow. Here was the city where nobody cared. As she revelled in the warm sensation around her heart, and started for the bare little room for the usual chop and small can of peas, there took place the tail end of the miracle. Barbara was at once less lonely.

A lean, long-nosed black kitten skirted the curb with waif-born vigilance and came to hesitant stance before the dinner table of nineteen. At once from the favored assemblage rose curved backs, soft menacing minor growls and tails gently agitant from the nineteen satisfied diners.

The little black stranger faltered, gave way, and started a regretful retreat in the direction of Barbara's shadowy railing. Swift inspiration moved the lonely girl. Stooping impetuously, she swept the black blotch of fur into her arms, and started with a tiny warm companion for what for the first time seemed like home.

Walking, she bore with her an impression of a figure of a young man who had likewise watched the cat banquet from the edge of the curb across the street. She felt that he moved when she stooped to salvage the black kitten, and as she hurried down her particular alley there remained the impression that that man's footsteps kept pace with her own.

"Oh, I say," frank, friendly tones in which nothing evil lurked, "stop a second, won't you an' tell me why you took that cat?" The girl turned rightabout and directly faced the dark figure and light voice—

"Excuse me, please! I was tipped off to that bunch of cats by a friend last night. I'm a new Express reporter, just in from Indiana an' tryin' to please. They eat up human stuff, you know. Knew you liked cats the way you gathered in that one. I do, too. Maybe you'd help me dress up my yarn."

Barbara, also from Indiana, possessed the well-known feminine intuition.

"I'll do more than that, Indiana man—I'll invite you in and cook a chop for you if you'll promise to leave enough on the bone for the twentieth cat."

Thought He Had Made a Big Haul

By ELIZABETH J. HARING

THE door was locked but this was to be expected. A few scientific twists of his lock tweezers overcame this difficulty and "Curly" Gaines stepped into the living room. It was dimly lighted by a rose shaded reading lamp, and the radio was going. Mrs. Crumley, the old woman whom "Curly" planned to rob, had confided just that after noon that she always left the radio on when she went out in the eve ning, as it seemed more cheerful when she returned later.

As a self-styled radio expert, "Curly" had familiarized himself with the premises on previous calls. Mrs. Crumley had become friendly and confidential, which was quite according to his intention. Old la dies were his specialty. Anyhow he reflected, as he regarded her wall safe with a speculative eye, the necklace would not be a haul that required violence. And this small strong box was a joke! Radio accompaniment, however, was some thing new in his line and rather di verting. So he seated himself in a huge overstuffed chair before the radio.

There was a rustle of movement behind him and two cold, skinny hands were suddenly clasped over his eyes in "guess-who" fashion! A gun in the ribs had never in pre vious experiences produced the chill which now froze his spine.

"Did I startle you?" Mrs. Crum ley, diminutive and smiling, with the artlessness of a child stepping from behind his chair. She shook a reproving finger at the gaping young man. "I hope I did—because you certainly frightened me until I realized who it was! I was sure I had the night latch on—and it was lucky that it was only you. I appreciate your coming back—be cause I know what a busy man you are."

It required all the ingenuity "Curly" possessed to adjust himself to the bewildering situation.

"I found I had some spare time," he found himself saying, "and I thought I'd run up and test out the new tube. The door wasn't locked —and I'd have had the radio all fixed."

Imperfect as he knew this expla nation to be, "Curly" felt that Mrs. Crumley accepted it and was really pleased at his thoughtfulness.

"I wonder if you would like a piece of fresh cake?" she coaxed, bustling about, switching on lights and rearranging soft cushions. "I baked it myself and I know men folks like cake. You're not hungry? Oh, I know! I promised to show you my old-fashioned jewelry some time. It's really very interesting— especially the necklace."

"Curly" permitted Mrs. Crumley's fluttering hands to push him back into the deep chair from which he watched in hypnotized silence as she brought a large box from the wall safe. She seated herself be side him and emptied its contents into her lap. There were more than a dozen cotton flannel sacks of the same size and color.

"I keep the things in these bags so's they won't scratch each other. I can tell by the initials I embroid ered what's in each, then I don't have to open them all when I want a certain thing. It isn't that any of it is so valuable—it's because it's grown old along with me.

"This was Joseph's watch—my husband's. This was Ellen's—my daughter who died. And will you look at the chains Joseph wore with his watch—aren't they heavy? This is the necklace."

There was nearly a yard of it, "Curly" estimated.

"Joseph gave it to me when Ellen was born," droned Mrs. Crumley, fingering it lovingly in her palm. "There are seventy-five diamonds in it—even if they are not very large. My son-in-law says I'll be knocked over the head some night and he laughs at my little safe. I believe you're laughing, too?"

"No, Mrs. Crumley, I'd say you were safe from sluggers, at least! But, really, I must be going."

"You've been very considerate of an old woman," she declared, "and I'm thankful it happened to be you who walked in on me this evening and not a real burglar!"

"Curly's" face still wore a grin when he reached his room and pulled a cotton flannel sack marked with an "N" from his pocket.

"It was almost too good to be true!" he laughed to himself as he dumped the loot from the bag. But his smile vanished immediately. The glittering heap before him was not the necklace, but "Joseph's" ponderous watch chains! And his professional pride would have suf fered even a greater jolt could he have heard Mrs. Crumley's tele phone conversation at this moment with her son-in-law.

"Yes, I'll be ready as soon as you get here. No, indeed, I won't stay alone in this house another night. Imagine what I've been through— and switching those bags almost under his very nose!"

He Was Wound Up

Wilkin's daughter had a sweet heart who came to call every eve ning and took to staying later and later every visit. There seemed to be no limit to the time of his de parture. At last Wilkin decided that a stop must be put to it. As one o'clock struck on an evening he walked out of his bedroom and leaned over the banisters.

"Claudia," he called, "I think you'd better get that young man his coat."

For a moment there was silence below. Then the ardent lover spoke.

"Darling," he said coldly, "your father is a crank."

There came a snort from the top of the stairs.

"Yes," growled Wilkin, "perhaps I am. But a crank is necessary when there is no self-starter."

POLITICS

Both major parties are tightening their lines for the Presidential campaign of 1932. The Republicans know they have a fight on their hands to retain control of the Presidency; the Democrats believe that if they can agree upon a candidate acceptable to all sections of the country they can win easily.

That is frequently the situation two years before a Presidential election. It does not always follow that the "out" party wins over the "ins". Having possession of the machinery of government is a great advantage.

At the moment it looks as if it will be more difficult for the Democrats to agree upon a candidate who can rally all Democrats to his support than for the Republicans to mend their political fences.

JONES

"Bobby" Jones has at last answered the question: How can a man play golf all the time and still keep his law practice going? The answer is that he can't. Bobby is giving up golf, except as a means of recreation.

It remains to be seen whether Mr. Jones will do as well in law as he has done in golf. He has proved that he has the important quality of thoroughness. Those who know him say he has a natural taste for law, and high intelligence. He will not have the struggle for existence which so many young lawyers face, for while his amateur standing has kept him from making money out of his game, he is to get a sum, reputed to be a quarter of a million dollars, for making a series of educational films on "How I Play Golf". That ought to keep him going until he has established himself in law.

Probably Mr. Jones is doing only what his class and caste instincts and environment urge upon him. There are still too many people who think that being a lawyer is a more respectable way of making a living than being a golf professional. But it seems to me that we have too many lawyers now and not enough good sportsmen.

BELASCO

David Belasco, a San Francisco Jew who dressed like a Roman Catholic priest, was the father of the modern realistic drama. He thought that people on the stage ought to act and talk the way people do in real life, and that the settings and furniture of the stage ought to make the scenes look like the sort of places they were supposed to represent.

Belasco's work in drama began about the time Mr. Edison invented the incandescent electric light. The electric light probably did as much as any other influence to change the drama from the old ranting pantomime into what it is today. It enabled the audience to see the actors clearly, and made facial expressions and careful make-up more important than they had been.

Belasco was the first theatrical producer to realize the possibilities of electric lighting on the stage and to shape his productions with the new lighting in mind. Today everyone in the theatre business, including the movie producers, follow the principles which Belsaco developed.

PROHIBITION

All the reports from those who profess to know indicate that the President's Commission on Law Enforcement, better known as the Wickersham Commission, will report that the present Prohibition law cannot be enforced, and will recommend some changes.

There will be more serious attempts made at the coming session of Congress to break down the "dry" law than at any time since it was enacted. There is little likelihood of anything being accomplished by the "wets" at this last session of the 71st Congress, but the Wickersham report proves to be friendly to the modification of the present law, watch for fireworks when the Congress just elected begins its sessions.

FOOTBALL

It took the appeal of charity to bring the Army and Navy football teams together. For several years the annual Army-Navy game has been omitted, because of a quarrel over points of sportsmanship.

When the two teams meet in New York on December 13, it will be frankly for the purpose of helping to raise money for the relief of unemployment. Early estimates of the receipts indicate that they may run to a million dollars, or almost as much as the "gate" at the last Tunney-Dempsey fight.

It is a strange but interesting kink of human nature that people will pay fancy prices to see a football game for charity, who would never think of giving the same amount of money outright. As high as $5,000 was offered for a box at the Yankee Stadium as soon as the Army-Navy engagement was announced.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

Slogan: "A Changeless Christ for a Changing World."

Eternity! Where will it find you?

The Advent season forcibly reminds us of the Second Advent or coming of the Lord. We shall speak of that next Sunday morning at 10:30. The subject will be, "The Lord's Description of the Last times." Below we are passing along a short poem which contains much food for thought.

Eternity, where?
Oh, eternity, where?
With the loved ones in glory
Or the fiends in despair,
With one or the other—
Oh, eternity, where?

Eternity, where?
Oh, eternity, where?
Friend, rest not nor take
In the world any share,
Till you've answered this question:
Eternity, where?

—H. W. Hartenberger, pastor.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

J. M. Sibley, Pastor

Sunday Services:

10:00 a. m.—Sunday School—G. I. Horne, Supt.

11:00 a. m.—Sermon by pastor.

6:30 p. m.—B. Y. P. U. meeting in general assembly.

7:30 p. m.—Sermon by pastor.

Weekday Activities:

7:30 Wednesday evening prayer service and business meeting.

2:30 p. m. Wednesday the W. M. S. will meet at the home of Mrs. Brewer.

2:30 p. m. Thursday the W. M. S. will meet at the church. Every lady of the church should have a part in this week of prayer.

Our church is offering many special features in our teaching, training and worship program. This week is "invitation week." Every member of the church, Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. is asked to invite one of Baptist faith or preference or someone who has no church preference or who have no church home in the city. The pastor will find out next Sunday who has been at work and the results obtained.

Did you know that there was a religous sect in the U. S. of Christian America that crucified one of its members every year? Hear about it in the B. Y. P. U. service December 7.

Did you know that the pastor is preaching a series of sermons on the general subject "The Man of Galille"? Have you heard of the one on "His Death," "This Unique Person" and "His Temptations?" The subject for next Sunday evening will be "His Habits."

"Thomas was not there." What a tragedy! The disciples were gathered together on the Lord's day, Jesus appeared to them after his resurrection but Thomas was not there. The result was he missed the fellowship with his fellow Christions and with Jesus. He doubted the testimony of the ten about the appearance of Jesus and that Jesus had truly arisen. Are you the Thomas of your church? Do your fellow Christians meet for worship, for instruction, for training and in fellowship and find you absent? You need the fellowship, the worship, the Sunday School, the B. Y. P. U. and the sermon. They are yours for the taking.

The Monthly Worker's conference of our association meets December 9. There should be twenty-five people go from our church. Four people have already stated that they were going in their cars and others likely will make their plans to go. Notice the program in this paper and make your plans to go.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Moss and daughter, Mary Ellen, were in Amarillo Thursday and Friday visiting with Mrs. Moss' mother.

FREE RADIO AND TELEVISION COURSE OFFERED

A complete course in radio and elevision, free to all who will study, is the unusual offer of Organized Labor's only broadcast station, WCFL, Chicago. This unique goodwill project, launched in a small way last fall, has attained widespread popularity. Nearly 100,000 applications for the course have been received, and arrangements are being made to care for a quarter of a million applications during the present radio season.

High schools were quick to appreciate Labor's free radio and television course as splendid supplementary text for physics classes and, in response to numerous requests, the course was made available to the schools. More than 400 used it last year. The offer is being repeated this year, much to the delight of the high schools.

Labor's free course in radio and television is equally attractive to older students, the enrollment of men and women over 35 years old being specially heavy. Many of these are professional people who evidently appreciate the course as a quick and reliable means of gaining an understanding of the theory of radio and television.

The course opens with an interesting explanation of how programs and pictures are transmitted through the ether, and quickly launches into the construction of a modern radio receiver. One lesson explains in detail how to locate and remedy radio troubles. Television and short wave radio are treated in the latter part of the course. Written reports are required on all the lessons.

A card addressed to Labor's only radio station, WCFL, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., (Dept. RT), will bring the first lesson. The entire course is furnished free: it is Organized Labor's Good Will Project.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown and daughters, Misses Marion, Elsie and Dorothy, Amarillo, visited Thursday in the J. W. Timmons home. Dorothy remained until Sunday and Mr. and Mrs. Timmons took her home.

It was reported that a check for $6.50, which is our assessment on the Special Rehabilitation work, had been mailed to the Department Secretary. Each year the Units are asked to remit 10 cents per member to be used in helping ex-service men obtain compensation which they are entitled to.

Announcement was made that the community charity organization was under way.

The president appointed the additional committee chairman: National Defense—Mrs. Jack Lusher; Program—Mrs. Dewey Allen; Fidac—Mrs. Paul Bowen; Unit Activities and Community Service—Mrs. Sibley Jines. Other chairmen will be appointed within a short time.

Our district chairman reported on plans of the convention of the Legion and Auxiliary to be held at Wellington on December 13 and 14. All members were urged to attend this meeting.

Having no word from our adopted man for some time, the secretary reported that she had written the Auxiliary welfare worker at the hospital to investigate, and write us.

We will be given our assignment on Christmas boxes for ex-service men in the hospitals within the next few days.

In the membership contest, in which Mrs. Herbert Shindler and Mrs. J. R. Thomas are captains, it was reported that Mrs. Thomas' side was in the lead. This contest will continue until about Christmas, so get busy and help your side win.

Mrs. Jack Allen was appointed chairman of the advertising program to raise funds for the Christmas baskets.

Mrs. Sibley Jines was appointed chairman of the Christmas basket work, to assist the Legion with their Christmas program.

Next meeting will be Monday evening, 7:30, December 15. This will be immediately after the District convention. Come out and hear the reports of members who attend this meeting.
