CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN---And all but the babies line up for fingernail inspection for Father. The "line up" occurs each time there is a family discussion, which is often during the play which will be presented Saturday night at 8:30 p. m. The time was changed from 8 to 8:30 in order not to conflict with the Olton Co-Op Gin stockholders meeting. Pictured left to right are Bobby Strait, Sunya Sorley, Glenda Holladay, Dale Parsons, Allan Allford, Susan Cannon, Mark Hodges, Chris McClure, Jenny Lynn Gunter and Lynn Campbell.

Three-Act Comedy To Be Presented

"Perfume! You've been wearing perfume!" "Silk stockings!" "Boys!" "Painting yourself now! I'll have no painted women in this house." "By Jingo!"

Mr. Gilbreth, portrayed by Lynn Campbell is having a hard time convincing his teenage daughters that there are certain ways young ladies should dress and conduct themselves.

So goes the theme of "Cheaper By The Dozen" which will be staged Saturday night June 28 at 8:30 p. m., a change from the originally announced 8 p. m. The play is sponsored by the Olton Baseball Association and will be presented in the high school auditorium.

The story evolves around father who knows his days are numbered and is trying to get his 12 children to be self reliable. He is pushing them ahead in school as fast as he possibly can, while the teenagers are simply wanting to be allowed to enjoy life like a normal family.

Sunya Sorley plays the oldest girl, who is brazen enough to buy "teddies" and silk stockings in spite of what her dad says. Her two sisters, portrayed by Glenda Holladay and Susan Cannon, back her up on all her ventures, knowing that if Dad okays it for her, they will also be allowed to do the same things.

The oldest boy is played by Bobby Strait.

Younger children, portrayed by Dale Parsons, Mark Hodges, Chris McClure, Allan Allford, and Jenny Lynn Gunter, are good insurance of "never a dull moment" in the Gilbreth household.

Mrs. Larry Witten is cast as the overbearing school teacher who is forced to give Sunya scholastic tests which will be the deciding factor in the question of graduating one year ahead of schedule.

Boyfriends of Sunya are portrayed by Joe Dale Chitwood and Steve Andrew. Steve is cast as a cheerleader who upsets father by leading his children in cheers in the living room.

The role of mother is played by Carol Strait. Mother is able to handle the children even when father's strict discipline fails to impress the children.

The housekeeper is played by Sue Cannon. She feels that a family of 14 should be able to help in the housework and insists that the children have different household duties.

Basil Sherman plays the doctor, who has to tell father not to "take any long term magazine subscriptions."

An evening of delightful comedy is in store for all those who attend the production and proceeds will go to the baseball association.

General Excellence Awarded To Enterprise In State Contest

The top award in Div. VI of the Texas Newspaper Contest went to The Olton Enterprise at the annual Texas Press Association convention which was held at the Inn of Six Flags in Arlington June 19,20 and 21.

Division VI is comprised of newspapers which are published in towns of under 2,000 population. There were a total of 21 newspapers entered in the contest which was made up of six categories, appearance, column writing, editorials, news features, news pictures and news writing.

The Enterprise placed second in appearance, column writing, news pictures and placed third in editorials. The general excellence award was given to the newspaper with the highest number of points. First place was 100 points, second place was 75 points and third place was 40 points. The Enterprise had a total of 265 points.

A large copper plaque with a replica of the front page of one of the prize winning entries was presented to the staff of the Enterprise which consists of Juanita Thomas, operator; Margaret Burrus and Maenette Houston, compositors; Mozelle Trotter, news editor; Lily May Silcott, society editor and Sue Cannon, managing editor. Bill Turner of Littlefield is owner of the newspaper.

"This is just another honor to our town," Mrs. Cannon said when she learned of the award. A representative of the paper accepted the awards as Mrs. Cannon was unable to attend the awards breakfast.

"I think the newspaper is simply a mirror which reflects the town in which it is published. And with such a great community as we have, the newspaper just has to be a winner."

Talented Twirler Coaching Olton Mustang Majorettes

A Texas Western University drum major who led the bands for the 1957 Sun Bowl game is lending a helping hand to the 1969-70 Mustang twirlers.

Mrs. Jerry Blakely, wife of the Mustang's new head coach, is working with the pretty young majorettes of the Mustang band.

Tiddly Blakely, a graduate of Seagraves High School, was majorette for three years and led the Seagraves band as drum major her senior year.

She attended Texas Western at El Paso in 1956-57, serving as twirler and drum major. After her father's death, she did not continue with her college work.

A qualified twirler judge, she has twice judged contests at the Sun Bowl and has judged numerous UIL contests.

Mrs. Blakely has taught twirling at Hardin-Simmons University, Texas Western, University of Texas at Austin, West Texas State University, and Wayland Baptist College.

"We feel very fortunate having Mrs. Blakely working with our twirlers. It is a great opportunity for them," says Fred Stockdale, band director.

Mrs. Blakely will teach private twirling lessons to young students and may be contacted for additional information.

MUSTANG MAJORETTES Susan Nicholas, Cindy Elkins and D'Lyle Wilks get tips from a "pro", Mrs. Jerry Blakely. A fourth twirler, Vicki Ray (inset), was snowbound at Lake City and unable to work with the group this week.

Orient Art Of Self Defense Becoming American Sport

Karate, the Orient originated act of self-defense, has become one of the most popular sports in the United States and several young men in Olton and Hart are learning the art from Raymond Powers, a member of the Southwest Black Belt Karate Association.

Powers has been in the association for the past three years and just recently received his brown belt during tests conducted at Dallas May 18.

There are six belts a person has to earn before receiving a black belt, which is the ultimate for karatemen. The belts include white, orange, green, blue, brown and black.

Those from Olton receiving instruction from Powers include Jerry Loveless, Terry Snider, Thomas Jenkins, Eddie Hooper, Charles A. McClain, Danny Dial and Rusty Powers.

Two Hart students, Jerry Smith and Rex Henderson commute for lessons each Tuesday and Thursday. Henderson has earned a green belt and Smith has earned a blue belt.

Smith assists Powers in the instruction of basis self-defense and free fighting. He and Powers also attend classes in Lubbock at the YMCA. to keep abreast with new techniques.

Students which now have their white belts will be ready for their orange belt examination which will be given next month in Lubbock. The test consists of basic blocks, kicks and punches.

They will also be required to perform a Korean form of Karate called Chon-Ji. This consists of a series of movements and manuevers which have been established so that the student can practice the various techniques of attack and defense without the aid of an opponent.

Taekwon-Do, a style of Karate, is a contemporary version of an ancient form of unarmed combat practiced for many centuries in the Orient. It employs the use of the hands and feet as a means of self defense and employs 17 parts of the body to attach 54 vulnerable and critical spots on the opponent and---should it be necessary, it can deprive the opponent of his life.

Girls who "take up" Karate usually do so for self-defense purposes, but Powers said there are other benefits. The exercises help in weight reducing as well. He said that girls should be able to protect themselves against single or multiple attacks with only her purse and bare hands.

"If applied correctly, the rat-tail comb is a deadly weapon," he commented.

Plans are now in progress for a junior class of boys, between ages six and fourteen. Powers said the young student is more agile, energetic and willing to learn.

All the classes teach self defense, tournament fighting and brick and board breaking.

Powers said, "Karate is not only for the strong, but any person wishing to master the art . . . young or old, male or female, large or small."

'Enterprise' To Be Closed

The Enterprise Studio and The Olton Enterprise offices will be closed all next week in order to give employees a week's vacation.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

What Does the Future Hold?

Speaking to the graduating class of the Eastern Arizona College, James E. Patrick, vice chairman of the board of the Valley National Bank of Arizona, said earlier this month:

"It is customary to tell graduating classes that the future belongs to them—that they can do with it what they wish . . . So I've said it. The future belongs to you—and you're welcome to it!"

Then he added, "First of all, you will be pleased to know you don't have to start a revolution. There is already one going on. What I propose is that you take part in this revolution."

He was referring to the revolution which has been under way for some time in this country—which has been described by some as "the second industrial revolution," the revolution in industry and commerce which is providing more good things for more people than ever before.

The Next Ten Years

Looking into the future, U.S. News and World Report tells us that the "spectacular 70's" will produce a still higher standard of living than that which we are now enjoying.

One of the predictions is that there will be a "tremendous expansion of American prosperity," to the extent that "many people will be realizing income half again as big as now, working fewer hours to attain it."

By the end of the decade, there are expected to be 26 million two-car households and 53 million homes with color television.

Whereas, 30 years ago, 12 percent of those who graduated from high school went to college, the prediction is that "by the middle of the next decade . . . it will be around 80 percent."

Periodic predictions of this sort are made, of course, by analyzing trends and projecting them into the future.

Other Trends

A less alluring prophecy regarding the next decade might be seen if we were to project into the future some other trends in our society.

Is the increase in crime going to continue as it has in the recent past?

Will pornography continue to become more and more blatant, on through the 70's?

Can motion pictures descend to even viler depiction of perversion and unnatural obsession with illicit sex?

Have we, as a nation, become so wrapped up in our pursuit of material wealth and physical comfort and luxury that we are like the person to whom Christ referred when He told the story of the rich man?

This man, you remember, had become so wealthy that he had decided to relax and enjoy life. He was ready to take his ease, "eat, drink, and be merry," when God said to him, "Thou fool—this night thy soul shall be required of thee."

Have we put too much emphasis on the material and too little on the spiritual values of life?

FROM SOUTH AMERICA

Chris and Cathy Spain, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Spain of Cali, Columbia, South America are presently visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Spain, and their uncles and families, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Spain and children and Mr. and Mrs. Don Spain and children.

Grandfather Of Oltonite Is Buried In Amarillo

Funeral services were held Thursday in Blackburn Shaw Memorial Chapel in Amarillo for Richard Daniel Baker, grandfather of Mrs. W. C. Gunter Jr.

The Rev. Joe Sneed, Baptist minister, and Dr. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of San Jacinto Methodist Church, officiated. Masonic graveside rites were conducted at Memorial Park Cemetery.

Born June 18, 1870 in Tarrant County, the pioneer Panhandle farmer-rancher died June 17, four hours before he would have been 99.

Baker came to Carson County in 1896 where he homesteaded "on the trail going west" and lived more than 70 years in the home he had built.

He was married to the former Bessie Louise Thomas in 1898 in Collin County. She died in 1964 nearly one year after their sixty-fifth anniversary.

Baker's father fought in the Civil War and suffered poor health requiring his six year old son to help support the family by picking cotton.

Almost entirely self educated, Baker became a leader in the development of the Panhandle. With a team of mules in 1897, he took a job with the Santa Fe railroad which was building through Amarillo at that time. Later he purchased a sod steam engine and with a crew broke out an estimated 3000 acres of land in four years.

In 1916, he designed and built a flour mill and grain elevator, known as the Baker Milling Conpany, which he operated successfully for seven years.

Baker was a leader in the development of roads and telephone lines and in the establishment of community schools and churches.

Named the oldest Mason in Texas, Baker moved to Amarillo two years ago and made his home with a daughter, Mrs. Blanche Jenkins.

Other survivors include two other daughters; one son; one sister, 15 grandchildren, 27 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren. A son, Ross, preceeded him in death by 11 days. Another son, Asbury, died in 1947.

MRS. ROBERT STRUVE

Cook Of The Week

A young farmer's wife who grew up and attended Olton schools, Mrs. Robert Struve, shares some of her favorite recipes this week.

Tomie and Robert married while they were students at Texas Tech College. Robert received his degree in horticulture in January, 1968. Tomie whose major was secretarial administration, has visions of getting her degree "someday in the future." She's too busy, right now, being the mother of 17 month old Shelli Robin.

The busy life of a farmer and his wife limits the young Struves in participation of Tomi's favorite pastime - water skiing.

She also enjoys playing bridge and, with her husband, belongs to a young couple's bridge club.

Tomi has recently begun a hobby which seems to "run in the Struve family" - - painting. She is working on her first painting, a still life picturing a plate and fruit and, unintentionally, and small Shelli's "helping smear".

A painting of two dogs, so well done that one can almost see their tails wag, hangs on the dining room wall. The treasured painting was done by Robert's grandmother, the late Mrs. George Struve.

The young Struves attend Northside Church of Christ.

Accent on Health

Fear of snakes will keep many would-be campers at home this summer even though statistics show that in the United States more people are killed or seriously injured in their bathtubs than by snakebites, reports the Texas State Department of Health.

In the past 10 years in Texas, there have been just 31 deaths attributed to poisonous snakes. Snakebite deaths were most frequent among the young or old.

An unreasoning fear or ignorance may cause more harm than an actual snakebite. For example, a man who once trod on a rattler still wakes up screaming in the night. And a hunter, spiked by barbed wire, thought he had been bitten by a snake and very nearly died of shock.

True, these are extremes. But if you do regard the snake as a vicious and cunning creature with a deep-seated hatred of man, you are mistaken. Instead, it is timid and retiring. The earth-bound reptile will react to man as it would to any big and threatening creature, but it much prefers to slide unobtrusively away.

Poisonous snakes of the U. S. include the rattlesnake, copperhead, cottonmouth moccasin and coral snake. One of the most prevalent in Texas is the rattlesnake.

Should you encounter a rattler, the safest thing to do, usually, is to remain perfectly still or edge gingerly away. Don't run. You only excite the snake, making it more apt to strike in self-defense. On the other hand. Don't assume that it will shake its rattles as a signal of attack or that it only strikes when coiled. A rattling tail indicates nervousness rather than a sign of aggression. And, a rattler may strike in any direction from any position.

In applying first aid for snakebite, make the victim lie down as soon as possible and apply a constricting bandage above the bite. The pulse in blood vessels below the bandage should not disappear, nor should the bandage produce a throbbing sensation. Loosen the bandage for a few seconds every 15 minutes. If possible, apply ice packs to the bite and get the victim to a physician or hospital.

If a lengthy interval seems likely until antivenin can be given, make cuts cautiously through the skin into and just above the presumed venom deposit site, avoiding tendons, and apply suction.

Olton Youth Speak Out

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Buddy Brock, History teacher at Olton High School, recently asked his students to write two paragraphs - one beginning with the words "I support" and one beginning "I protest".

The following is the fourth in a series of comments written by the students.)

I protest the protestors. The group of black militants and rioting whites on our college campuses make me mad. If they for some reason want something changed then they should go peacefully and tell their reasons. I think kids who protest the war should be sent to Vietnam in place of our guys who are over there now of their own free will. I think Congress should make a ruling on rioters and punish them. These people are making life hard for the people who are true Americans.

I support the ruling about Commander Bucher. I think he and all his crew have suffered enough and that there will probably suffer more in coming years. I am just sorry that it ever happened and that he and his men had to go through all they had to. It seems to me Bucher was just doing his job as a Ship Commander and part of his job was to protect his men. If his ship had been adequately equipped he might could have held them off till help arrived. But it didn't.

* * * * * *

I protest about college riots. Students who carry out violent riots, usually for greater student freedom, interfere with the non-violent student, who wants to complete college and not riot. Many times colleges are closed down because of riots. And many students have to work to pay their enrollment fee and then can't attend because of a minority's actions.

I support those who wish to lower the voting age to 18. By now everyone has heard "If you're old enough to fight for your country then you're old enough to vote". When you're 18 you feel like really trying to make changes and help the world. If this law was changed maybe some peaceful changes could take place.

* * * * *

I protest against college rioters who are disrupting education. The rioters should be kicked off the campuses like the peaceful rioters at A&M. I protest the college officials who cecede to their demands and allow them to cause so much trouble.

I support the men who are dying for freedom and democracy. I support the brave men who want to fight for their country and their right to be a citizen in this great land of opportunity. I support the college students who will NOT back up the rioters in the campuses. I support the college president of Purdue who did not back down to the students demand to release the students already arrested.

* * * * *

I protest that all rules should be dropped. And that girls should be able to dress as they like, including wearing short dresses.

I support the law that is against rioting. And bring peace among everyone. I support the law who is against killing and fighting.

I support the law for PEACE!

I protest the way the U. S. is fighting in Vietnam. I think the U. S. should go in full strength, defeat the North Vietnamese and get out. It would save U. S. lives and the war would be over.

I support the local park. People can go out and enjoy themselves with friends. And it is a nice place to pass the time.

* * * * *

I protest the riots and demonstrations that occur in this country. They don't help get anything done usually and they cause trouble for many people. The riots on colleges are brought about for no reason unless by controling communist forces who are trying to bring the destruction of the United States by an armed revolt. Each of the riots on colleges are becoming worse and worse with some students were ammunition belts and carrying fire arms and clubs.

I support giving the police more authority in controlling the riots and in questioning criminals, but not to the extent to where they use undue means. If the police had more authority there would be less crime and civil disturbances. The people involved in crime and riots are breaking the law and desire to be punished, but the government should have some type of check system to prevent the police force becoming like the secret police of Russia and other countries.

* * * * *

I protest the fact that we are still fighting Vietnam. I think it is silly to lose so many men and then get on top of the war and have some kind of holiday break. I think most of the soldiers in Vietnam would like to get the war over with and quit stopping every time we get a small edge.

I support the idea of treating the Negroes equally but I don't think they need riots to get this. I believe we should treat them like any other person but they can work to get this too. I think the majority of the Negroes are good people and only a small minority is stirring up the trouble.

* * * * *

I protest the United States not letting the 18 year olds vote. Right now 18 year olds are studying politics and they probably are more up on things than they ever will be again.

I support - I really don't support anything to a very great extent.

(Editor's Note: A letter was received in our office this week ---unsigned-- which was in answer to some of the view points expressed here by the youth. The letter was not published this week, because, in keeping with our policy, we cannot publish unsigned letters. If this "Olton Youth" will come into our office and sign the letter and request that it be withheld from publication, then we will be glad to publish the letter in its entirety.)

GIRL SCOUT DAY CAMPERS----These girls are enjoying the activities of day camp which is being held in the tree strip on the E. R. Spain farm, west of town. The girls will wind up all activities Friday afternoon.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Some of the ugliness and moral cowardice on the national scene these days is almost beyond belief. Certainly, it is hard to believe what happened at the recent National Conference of Social Welfare in Washington. Yet it did happen.

The Washington Post was handicapped in its reporting of the shocking events at the conference, for much of what was said could not be printed in a family newspaper.

The 5,000 social workers who gathered in the capital for their annual meeting were subjected to a stream of four-letter obscenities. Members of welfare "rights" organizations jumped on the stage and took over the microphones. They shouted vile words at the audience of social workers. These workers were called "racist pigs" and members of the "white imperialistic oppressive society." Such terms were mild compared to other words and phrases employed. The Washington Post referred to "obscene" demands made by the welfare mothers.

But that wasn't all. When one of the captive audience attempted to lead a mass walkout from the conference room, a human chain of welfare mothers blocked the exits. Dr. George A. Wiley, head of the welfare protesters, declared nobody was going to leave until thousands of dollars were anted up for more of the poor to attend conference meetings. With that, plastic ice buckets were passed around for financial contributions.

The Post reported that it was necessary for the temporary ballroom dividing wall to be removed in order for the delegates to the conference to escape.

This unspeakably crude and insulting session was not the last, however. Wiley and his welfare mothers carried out other interruptions of the proceedings during the remaining days of the conference. Unscheduled speakers, who broke into the meeting, included black social workers, Puerto Ricans, an Indian and a young woman who shrilled that she was a former mental patient and an ex-drug addict.

The social workers apparently were stunned by the experience. One of them told a reporter : "I said to myself this couldn't be happening to US."

As shocking as the behavior of the welfare mothers, was the craven attitude of the outgoing president, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, who also is president of the National Council of Churches. He didn't order the silencing or removal of the welfare mothers who shouted obscenities at the delegates. On the contrary, against the advice of some of his board members, he refused to stop anyone from speaking. When the time came to turn over the presidential gavel to the incoming president, Dr. Flemming bragged "I did not use this gavel once this week -- I didn't think it was appropriate."

The public has no idea what the delegates thought of Dr. Flemming's toleration of obscenity-shouting disruptionists. But many Americans familiar with the story of these shocking events in Washington must be sickened by Dr. Flemming's attitude. The country simply cannot afford mental confusion or moral leniency in confrontations with barbarians. This is what America really faces today, and which was manifested at the social workers conference in Washington --barbarism.

Education men and women who refuse to apply the remedies of law and order when confronted by savage behavior, as in the case of the welfare mothers at Washington, are exposing the nation to rule by barbarians.

It is a mistake to think of barbarism and savagery as features of the ancient past or remote jungle areas. Even the most advanced societies can be exposed to primitivism within. The methods used by the welfare "rights" organizations are manifestations of this primitivism.

In New York City, members of welfare "rights" have attacked city welfare officers, broken furniture and upset files -- all because they weren't getting the size relief payments they demanded. Toleration of this kind of violent behavior is impossible if America is to remain a civilized country. Some people, like Dr. Flemming, apparently regard toleration as the ultimate virtue, but it is obvious from the ugly events of our time that excessive toleration is a major evil. It opens the door to the worst excesses in human behavior.

It is time for all Americans to view toleration in perspective and to insist that the organizations to which they belong adopt a get-tough policy with respect to disruptionists.
