Spirit Seance Aids Death Probe

Evidence Tested In Scopes Case

EXCLUDE JURY AS THEORY OF EVOLUTION IS TOLD AT TRIAL

State Rests Case After Calling Witnesses to Prove Its Charge

JURORS INDIGNANT

Foreman Resents Implication They Listen to The Loud Speakers

DAYTON, Tenn., July 15. (AP)—Argument as to the competency of scientific testimony in the Scopes case will be made in the court room here tomorrow. The state had rested its case and one scientific witness, Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf, former professor of zoology at Ohio, was on the witness stand for the defense when court adjourned late today.

His testimony, however, has not yet been made a part of the records of the case because prosecution attorneys voiced objection when questions concerning evolution were asked him and the jury was retired from the room. With the jury out of the courtroom, defense attorneys were permitted to ask Dr. Metcalf a number of questions concerning the subject which he has made his life study.

To Argue Testimony.

When his examination has been completed the attorneys will argue the competency of such testimony. This was expected tomorrow. Whether the court would give his decision at once or defer it a later court day was not known. Judge John T. Raulston, presiding, said tonight that he has abandoned his practice of answering questions.

Dr. Metcalf's testimony will be heard in the absence of the jury as a test to show the line along which the defense hopes to proceed, and to which emphatic objection is made by the state. Every indication pointed to a hard fight on the question.

The defense hopes to prove, by Dr. Metcalf and other scientific scholars, that there is no conflict between evolution theories and Christianity. One of the questions asked the witness this evening concerned his church affiliations. He testified that he is a member of the Congregational church and formerly was a member of the Presbyterian church. He has taught two Bible classes, he said.

Case Moves Rapidly.

The case moved rapidly after reaching the stage of actual testimony. The first witness took his place on the stand at the second session of the fourth court day. The more or less neglected jury was brought into the court room after an extended period of exclusion. A plea of "not guilty" was enteren for John T. Scopes by one of his attorneys. The jury was swor in and at last was actually a part of the case.

The jurymen heard Walter White, superintendent of schools, two boy students of Scopes, and F. E. Robinson, chairman of the board of education, testify for the state. They saw a "civic biology" by George W. Hunter, and a Bible introduced.

The state rested and the defense called Dr. Metcalf as its first witness. No objections came from Attorney General A. T. Stewart as the witness was led through a detailed account of his scientific activities since he was ten years old.

Objections Raised

At the first mention of "evolution," objection came from the state as to the admissibility of such testimony. It was finally agreed to exclude the jury, permit the witness to answer a number of questions and then argue the competency of his testimony.

The jury retired but not until Captain J. R. Thompson, one of the most striking figures on the jury and a former U. S. marshal had taken occasion to defend his fellow jurors against the suspicion that they might lyoiter about the grounds and hear the argument from amplifiers scattered about the lawn. The court issued a gentle warning to the jurymen to leave the grounds. Captain Thompson, in emphatic language, declared that a suggestion that any juryman at any time had been a long distance listener to argument in the courtroom was without foundation in fact. The court took occasion to express its full confidence in the integrity of the jury.

When the Bible, King James version, was offered in evidence by the state, Arthur G. Hays, for the defense, objected to its admission in the ground that the Tennessee statute does not sufficiently identify the Bible in that portion of the act prohibiting the teaching "of any theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible." The defense counsel insisted that there are Hebrew and Roman Catholic Bibles and many versions of protestant Bibles. The objection was overruled by the court.

Life Is 600 Million Years Old, Says Scientist Testifying In Dayton Ape Case

DAYTON, Tenn., July 15.—(AP)—Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf, former professor of zoology at Ohio university, became the first scientific witness for the defense in the prosecution of John T. Scopes on an anti-evolution charge today. His testimony, however, was given with the jury excluded and only as a basis for argument by attorneys as to whether scientific evidence is to be allowed introduction at the trial.

ANSWERS "SURELY" TO EVOLUTION QUERY.

Dr. Metcalf told of his years of study and work as a teacher of zoology. He recounted his degrees and connections in scientific research. After this detail Clarence Darrow asked:

"Are you an evolutionist?"

"Surely," replied the witness as the attorney general seemed about to interpose an objection.

"Do you know any scientific men who are not evolutionists?" was Mr. Darrow's next question and Mr. Stewart's objection was injected this time before an answer could be made.

The court instructed the witness to whisper his answer to the court stenographer and admonished court attaches not to permit the press to get it. The answer was whispered and entered in the record.

ASKED TO DEFINE WORD EVOLUTION.

Then Dr. Metcalf was asked to give his definition of evolution. The witness said he was opposed to definition, but was willing to give a description. The definition was lost in the schuffle, but after the jury had walked away, Mr. Darrow was ready with another.

"Will you state what evolution is in regard to the origin of man?"

Finally it was agreed that certain questions on evolution might be answered to furnish the basis for the discussion to follow before the court.

"Evolution," said Dr. Metcalf "and the theories of evolution are fundamentally different things. The facts of evolution are all theory. There are dozens of theories of evolution, some of which are largely mistaken and some almost wholly true.

EVOLUTION MEANS A CHARGE OF ORGANISM.

"We are in possession of scientific knowledge to answer flatly that evolution has occurred. Evolution, in its final analysis means change of an organism from one character to a different character. The change of an organism from one set of characters to a form having a different set of characteristics may be found in general to be evolution.

"Starting with the inorganic world, there has been a tremendous series of changes. The sun is comparatively young. The earth has gone through long courses of changes. But in organic evolution we have to conceive earliest forms of life subsisting solely on inorganic food. Only plants can do that. No animal has been able to live solely on inorganic food.

LIVING THINGS CAME FROM PLANT GROUPS.

"From the first, living things developed wholly from a series of forms in plant groups, gradually becoming more complex. These form a beautiful series as we study their bodies in the rocks.

"I'm inclined to believe there may have been whole series of animals and plants in the earth completely wiped out. They were succeded by other series of plants and animals on the earth. The evidence is insufficient to determine when the first life appeared. Geologists measure ages not in years and I am not an expert in that line. I would say 600,000,000 years is a modest guess.

"Alongside of plants whole series of animals were developing. Animals have hustled to get their food and therefore have developed locomotive organs. Plants have not. It is not so easy to tell the order in which plants evolved as to tell about this change in the higher animals. In plants there is a series of increasing perplexities.

BEGAN AT BORDER OF WATER AND LAND.

"Animal life and plant life probably began at the border line between the water and the land. For a long period in early life all living things were marine. When terrestrial life began, conditions were more difficult and needs to meet these difficulties of existence have been the occasion of devloping means to supply these needs. Considrable portions of life on the land have gone back to the sea."

Dr. Metcalf in describing a mammal, said that hair developed or rudimentary, is a feature and that mammals also suckle their young. They have a vertebral column and two pairs of limbs which always have a shoulder hip girdle.

Man, said the witness, is classed among the primates. He is not so highly developed in his body as some other animals. His hand is not so skillful as the claw of a bird. Primates include monkeys, tailed and tailless man and others of which fossil forms have been found.

EVOLUTION PROOFS IN LOWER ANIMALS.

Fundamental proofs of evolution, Dr. Metcalf declared, are found not in man so much as in lower animals. Various proofs found throughout the universe make a tremendous probability in favor of evolution of man.

"The series of proofs are so convincing that any informed man cannot doubt the probabilit yof man's evolution," Dr. Metcalf concluded for the day.

SHOWERS HAVE AIDED CROPS IN PANHANDLE IN LAST 15 DAYS

Better Conditions in Many Sections Than as of July 1 Now Apparent

NO DEEP SEASON

Complete Change-ups May Easily Occur Throughout Entire Section

Since the table in the accompanying column was compiled there has been a decided change in condition of the cotton crop of Northwest Texas and the Panhandle-Plains sections.

Since July 3 showers have prevailed over a large area of the Panhandle-Plains section but none of material value to the crop as a whole. Rain has been deficient in counteis eastward from the western half of Hardeman county.

Floyd, Lubbock, Hale, Hall, Donley Childress, Armstrong, Randall, Collingsworth and Briscoe counties have received a number of local showers and rains since July 3, but in no county has sufficient moisture fallen to create a deep season.

Deep Season Lacking

The northwestern area is lacking a deep season. Last year there was lots of moisture in the soil and the crop weathered well the dry months of July and August. This year the outcome of the cotton crop, as well as maize and kafir, depends upon a general rain which must fall within the next 10 days. However, if general rains do not come until August the territory bids fair to make a good yield of cotton.

West of Hardeman county the plant has not the growth as in the counties of Wilbarger, Wichita, Clay and other counties of this section. The night are cooler along the caprock country and up the Plains. This is of material value to the crop.

In the report made to the state department of agriculture Wilbarger county is credited with a condition of 97%. No part of that county has received rain during July except the Harrold and Oklaunion communities.

Peculiar Condition Seen

Most of the cotton farms in these communities are known as "tight land" farms, which require more moisture than deep sand. A peculiar thing this season is that heavy land and deep sand have a better cotton crop than the sandy loam.

Due to dry weather and lack of a deep season, cotton has rooted deeply and will stand considerable dry weather. Most farmers, those actually at work in the fields, realize the need of a general rain, which must come soon if a good yield is made. There is not much likelihood that the northwestern area will produce as high a yield or as much cotton as was raised last year.

Irrigated cotton in the Wichita valley continues to show improvement. The crop is as promising as could be desired. The crop, irrigated and unirrigated, is being damaged very little by insects.

The present condition of the crop is not alarming but a general rain now would be worth many millions of dollars to the farmers of Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma.

Wichita Cotton Condition 81 Pct As of July 1st

AUSTIN, July 15.—The following Panhandle and West Texas compilation of crop conditions as of July 1, particularly the condition of cotton, was today furnished exclusively to The Record News correspondent. MEDIUM HAS SESSION WITH WHITFIELD AS FINAL RESORT

Little Progress Made, However, in Solving Death Mystery

WIFE'S SISTER HERE

Confronting Husband of Dead Woman She Creates Dramatic Scene

Steadfastly professing his innocence; constantly proclaiming faith in a divinity that in the end would absolve him; and accepting unflinchingly a grilling stern and severe, Bob Whitfield, under surveillance in connection with the death of his wife last Sunday, failed Wednesday to give officers the slightest opening in which t omake any headway.

He was locked up last night after having answered questions propounded by the hour; after having submitted to a seance with a spiritualistic medium; after having been confronted by a tearful and dramatically incensed sister of the dead woman; after having admitted that his wife, whom he married 15 years ago at Tecumseh, Okla., was his first cousin; and after having signed a three-page typewritten statement giving a mass of data concerning his early life and events just prior to the disappearance and subsequent death of his wife, Bess. None of this, however, revealed anything of material importance that he had not revealed before.

Continue to Hold Him.

He was a quiet, methodical, undemonstrative man against whom skilled questioners unleashed oral barrages by the hour without effect; yet District Attorney Ben Allred and others engaged in investigating the case are still determined to hold him. Circumstantial evidence brought to light yesterday warrant them in this, they say.

The inquiry yesterday into the death of Mrs. Bess Whitfield whose bullet-riddled head and lifeless body were found Sunday in a ravine, carefully laid out under a tree just back of the baseball grounds, did not really get under way until the afternoon. From 3 o'clock until nearly midnight, though, Whitfield was the subject of a never-ending stream of questions.

LATE

DAYTON—The dispute over the practice of opening the Rhea county court each morning with prayer which repeatedly has agitated the proceedings in the trial of John T. Scopes, appeared tonight to have been settled without the necessity of further daily objections and arguments.

NEW YORK—Mrs. Virginia G. Canaday, who had her husband indicted in Texas for kidnaping their five-year-old son Roscoe, Jr., was indicted with two men on a similar charge by the Queens grand jury today. A detective will be sent to Texas for her.

SAN MACOS—W. W. Hammond, Max Schleder, G. C. Caldwell and Clarence Bell were each fined $500 for driving a car while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, in district court, here today.

NEW YORK—Receivers for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad today announced that they had retained former Secretary of State Chas. E. Hughes to represent them at the inquiry at the interstate commerce commission.

CHICAGO—Veterans of the Rainbow division, in the closing business session of the three-day reunion here expressed "profound contintion in favor of such expenditure as will guarantee adequate military and naval preparedness for war."

CHICAGO — Pancho Villa, the late world's flyweight champion, amassed a fortune more than $115,000 in the six years of his colorful ring career, but died leaving an estate of considerably less than $10,000.

DEFENSE GIVES NO TESTIMONY FOR ELLIOTT

Surprise Comes in Waurika Trial; Case to the Jury Late

WAURIKA, Okla., July 15.—The case of Ted Elliott, being tried here on a charge of criminally assaulting Ethel Sreywaus here last April, went to the jury tonight at 8:30. The jury retired at 10 o'clock without having reached a verdict. The surprise of the trial came when the defense brought forward no witnesses, not even a character witness being introduced.

The defense presented a demurrer to state's evidence, but this was overruled by Judge Pugh, who gave his instructions to the jury at 3:30 this afternoon. This was followed by arguments.

Lily Sreywaus, sister of the prosecutress, was the first witness to take the stand this morning. Then Ethel Sreywaus and Billy Morrison, the girl who was with Ethel the night of the alleged assault, were called to the stand. There was no variation in testimony as given in the Harry Sledge and Bill Brown cases. These boys have been tried and convicted on the same charge.

Doctors McGregor and Bartley, state's witnesses, were dismissed from the stand without cross examination by the defense.

Basham Kills Mad Dog At Grant-9th

A dog believed to be mad and which is known to have bitten four other dogs in the vicinity was killed Wednesday evening at Ninth and Grant streets by C. E. Basham, vice president of the City National bank. Its head will be sent to Austin for examination for rabies.

HARD FOR BOOZE VIOLATORS

FORT WORTH, July 15.—Uncle Sam has dealt hashly with violators of the prohibition amendment in the northern district of Texas during the last year.

The annual report of S. Henry Zweifel, United States district attorney, which was forwarded today to the attorney general at Washington, shows that of 389 liquor cases coming before the federal courts in this district, only 26 acquittals were forthcoming.

LIVE FISH IN THE TRINITY

FORT WORTH, July 15.—The Trinity river between Fort Worth and Dallas is clear of pollution and live fish have been found in its waters as far as the Dallas viaduct. This condition has been disclosed by a recent survey of the Trinity conducted by W. S. Mahlie, city chemist, S. E. D. Hopkins of Dallas, and Edgar Wedlee of Bonham, district engineers of the state health department.

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.
They're Well.

I tip-toed to her room just now:
Her hands were folded on her breast.
The peace of sleep lay on her brow.
And her lovely limbs possessed.
And when, I thought, how greatly blessed
We are, who have no grief to tell,
When, looking on our loved at rest,
Our hearts may say, "Thank God, they're well."

For I like you, have sighed for fame,
Have wished a little verse or two
Might win a little more acclaim.
That I a better verse might do.
And I have sighed for wealth, like you,
Have sighed for wealth who had my wealth
Who had my wealth and never knew,
For God my loved had given health.

I might have gold and fame and lands,
And yet how lonely I might be,
But looking on their folded hands,
I know how good God is to me.
Perhaps a path of poverty
You need to walk, I cannot tell,
But tip-toe, to the doorway, see,
They're all asleep. Thank God, they're well.

Mrs. S. E. Cockrell Dies Thursday a. m

Mrs. S. E. Cockrell, for many years a resident of this city, died at 1:15 Thursday morning at her home, 2315 Ninth street. Death came after a long period of ill heath.

She leaves as survivors her husband and one son, Aubrey Cockrell, both of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Lilly McCarty, residing in Colorado.

No funeral arrangements have been made.

BARNETT GOES TO NEW JOB IN WATER OFFICE

Report Says no Other Changes Expected in Curd's Department

Paul Barnett, auditor in the city clerk's office, left that position Wednesday to become chief clerk of the city water department, succeeding R. O. Grant, resigned. His appointment was recommended last Monday by Utilities Commissioner P. B. Curd and ratified by the city council after a hectic period in which Mr. Grant made charges of political favoritism against Mr. Curd. The council, however, after hearing both sides, unanimously endorsed Mr. Curd's recommendations.

No further changes have come in the water department personnel and officials of the department asserted yesterday that none were expected.

At the city clerk's office, Mrs. Ora Turner, for the last five years stenographer, has been advanced to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Barnett. Miss M. Williams has taken the stenographic position in the office.

Lee Warns Against Extensive Planting

SLATON, July 15.—South Plains audiences were warned against too extensive planting, especially in the irrigated sections by R. Q. Lee, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce. He spoke today and addressed a large gathering at Lubbock last night. He urged against overplanting of cotton, declaring that farmers would be bankrupt in five years if they continued to depend too much onthe success of cotton crops.

He suggested greater production of feed crops and livestock.

Mr. Lee declared he had visited irrigated farms where owners were sustaining losses because they were attempting to cultivate too much land individually.

King Shoots Perfect Score in Colorado

DENVER, Colo., July 15.—R. A. King, of Wichita Falls, Texas, John Nicolai, of Denver and B. L. Townsend of Denver, made perfect scores of 100 in the preliminary tests at registered targets on the first day of the Rocky Mountain region championships trapshooting tournament here today.

TILLMAN COTTON IS BLOOMING

FREDERICK, Okla., July 15.—Several fields of cotton in Tillman county are beginning to bloom, according to observation made this week by a reporter. It is predicted that within ten days the fields will be in half bloom unless a heavy rainfall comes to make the plants shed.

Loveland Slayer of Two Buried Monday

FREDERICK, Okla., July 15.—Funeral services for M. L. Graham, who died at the Frederick hospital from self-inflicted wounds received when he fired shots into his own body in his yard in Loveland, after he had shot and killed Laura Menchens and fatally wounded Mrs. Mel Menchens and shot a second daughter, were held from the first Baptist church Monday afternoon.

Graham died at 5:45 o'clock Monday morning. He passed into a state of coma at about 4:30 o'clock and the mystery of the shooting is locked in his heart as he gradually weakened and died without a struggle. He did not talk concerning the shooting but said that he did not care to live and face the courts.

He was 56 years old and is survived by a wife and five children, all of whom are married and have families.

E. Constantin Makes Bond for Appearance

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Eugene Constantin, wealthy oil man of Tulsa, Okla., today gave bond of $10,000 t oinsure his appearance in Tulsa on October 1, to answer charges of defrauding the government by failure to pay income taxes, totalling approximately $500,00.

Constantin had been ill since his arrest last week at the Hotel Biltmore. He plans to go abroad before returning to Oklahoma

SEYMOUR WILL BE HOST TO T. P. AND G. MEN

Railroad Celebration Is Planned in Baylor County July 17

FORT WORTH, July 15.—Directors of the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf Finance corporation were making preparations today to attend a T. P. & G. railroad celebration July 17, at Seymour from which point it is likely that building on the line will begin. Following the Seymour celebration at least three members of the party, S. C. L. Abbott, W. H. Bediker, and K. M. Van Zandt, Jr., will go on for an inspection tour of the survey from Seymour to Tucumcari, New Mexico, proposed terminus for the road.

Other members of the party who will go to Seymour are: LeRoy A. Smith, W. J. Bailey, Fred Martin and C. C. Johnson. They will be joined there by Ireland Hampton, field representative of the corporation and Hamilton Wright. Charles R. Young, attorney of the Texas Panhandle and Gulf also will go to Seymour for the meeting.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

J. T. Harrell, a banker and a chamber of commerce president of Wichita Falls, was caught in the jury wheel the other day and selected to serve.

"What's your excuse going to be," a friend asked the banker when he heard about it.

"There'll be no excuse," said Harrell. "I think it is an American's duty as a citizen to serve on a jury when he is so called upon."

And Harrell served. The jury is still engaged. The banker was locked up with eleven other "good citizens" at the court house last night.

Just a little story on good citizenship.

Davidson Bridge To Be Started at Once

FREDERICK, Okla., July 15.—Engineers for the Austin Bridge company of Dallas, who have charge of the construction of the Red river bridge near Davidson, have been busy for the past week taking the soundings in the river, preparatory to beginning construction on the span next week, County Engineer Willis Hughes says.

The new bridge is on the proposed Lee highway and will connect Wilbarger and Tillman counties. Considerable material has already arrived.

J. A. Staley and J. I. Staley, financers of Wichita Falls, who are building the bridge, to be operated as a toll proposition, have specified in their contract that the span will be finished by October 1.

WALTHALL OUT TO AXE CARRIE WEAVER SMITH

Control Board Member Says She Is Out of Harmony With Juvenile Officers

AUSTIN, July 15.—R. B. Walthall, member of the board of control, declared tonight that he will vote to elect someone else in the place of Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith, superintendent of the Girls' Training school at Gainesville, when the board takes up the election Thursday.

Her part in the controversy with the board this year over placing a $10,000 fence around the girls' school will have nothing to do with his vote, Walthall said.

"I simply think we ought to get someone who can bring the number of girls in the school up to 125 or 150," he said. "The per capita costs have been too high there. Dr. Smith has refused to take in that many girls.

"Furthermore, Dr. Smith has been out of harmony with the juvenile and prohibition enforcement officers throughout the state. At any time since I have been a member of the board, I would have joined any other member of the board in asking her to resign. So the fence episode this year have had nothing to do with it.

"Dr. Smith is an advanced thinker, and I credit her with being both honest and sincere, but her views and ours are so wide apart that it would seem best for the service that we secure someone else."

Mr. Walthall announced that Capt. E. Winfrey, superintendent of the confederate home here, had requested that he be not considered for reappointment. He wishes to retire September 1, Winfrey told the board.

TO IDENTIFICATION MEET

Texas Ranger Force, to Be Represented At Windsor

FORT WORTH, July 15.—Texas and Fort Worth both will be represented on the program of the eleventh annual convention of the International Association of Identification, when it meets at Windsor, Ontario, Aug. 26 to 29.

Barney Finn, superintendent of identification of the Fort Worth police department and Captain Tom Hickman of the Texas ranger forces, have been delivered to address the convention.

Murderer Of Wichita County Gets a Parole

Josh Battle, Sentenced From 5 to 99 Years, Given To Huntsville Man

SEVEN ARE LET OUT

Clay County Robber Free After 6 Weeks of 2 Year Sentence

AUSTIN, July 15.—Josh Battle, Wichita county, who served 12 years on a five to 99 year sentence for murder, was Wednesday paroled by Governor Ferguson to W. D. Adair of Huntsville, who agreed to pay him $12.50 per month for his services.

AUSTIN, July 15.—(AP)—One full and six conditional pardons, one parole and four restorations of citizenship were granted today by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, bringing the total number of pardons for July to 97.

Full pardon was granted R. M. (Bob) Sparks, Clay county, who served six weeks of a two-year sentence for robbery. Pardon was recommended by the injured party, Sheriff, county judge, eight of the ten jurors, trial judge, clerk in district court and many citizens.

Conditional pardons were granted to:

E. Silver, Harris county; attempted criminal assault, five years; credit of four years.

Dave Madsen, Wood county, liquor, one to three years, credit nearly two years.

Birdie Green, Cass county, murder, five to 25 years, served more than seven years.

T. L. Campbell, Brazoria county, murder, five to 10 years, credit of more than seven years.

H. R. Bloom, Terrell county, burglary and theft, two concurrent terms of two years each. Time served not shown.

Earl McKinney, Wood county; murder, five years, served "goodly portion of sentence."

Josh Battle, Wichita county, sentence five to 99 years, with credit of 12 years, was paroled to W. D. Adair of Huntsville, who agrees to pay the state $12.50 a month for his services.

Restorations of citizenship were granted the following names, who have served their sentences:

Melvin Owens, Navarro county, manslaughter, three years.

E. L. Lanham, Hardeman and Rockwall counties, two cases of burglary, four years.

Drew L. Wheeler, Burnett county, theft of more than $0 and burglary, five years.

James Skinner, Tyler county, liquor, one year.

Under-Privileged Boys to Be Aided

Asserting that time for action was at hand and that plans in process of formation for weeks had reached the point where they could soon be put into active operation, members of the Optimist club Wednesday noon pledged over $200 a month for the maintenance of a home for underprivileged boys here. That this sum will be more than doubled eventually seems assured since only 30 members out of a total membership of 80 were present at the meeting. A large number of the men are absent on vacations.

Bert King.

Bert King, president of the club, started things by explaining the aims of the club in its work for the homeless bay and said he favored an immediate start toward securing of a home and properly manning it. His sentiments were echoed by other members of the club and then pledge cards were circulated. Solon Featherstone, vice president of the organization, offered to furnish one room and give $20 a month toward the home. D. O. Johnson also made a $20 monthly pledge.

It is proposed to secure a house somewhere in the city, obtain the services of a competent man and his wife and place them in charge. Boys known to be without and advantageous home environment or who spend their hours in the streets and alleys will be housed there, given good food and comfortable beds and supervised in constructive work.

It was indicated that the plan would be pushed to an speedy conclusion.

A proposal for the financing of a municipal band for service in the city parks during the summer months was laid before the club by J. H. aPtton, park commissioner who said an organization was greatly needed here. Jim Hanks, Floyd Friberg and Estes Hall were named as a committee to investigate Mr. Patton's proposal.

Olney Defeats Alvord, 10 to 0

OLNEY, July 15—The Odney baseball team defeated Alvord here this afternoon, 10 to 0, in the first game of a scheduled three-game series.

Roy Coop, Olney southpaw hurler, held the visitors to a lone safety, and was never in danger of being scored on. But 29 men in all faced the Olney pitcher.

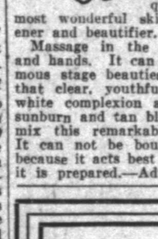

Anderson, left fielder, and Wese, third baseman, led the attack with three hits each.

NEW SERVICE TO GENOA FROM GALVESTIN, PLANNED

GALVESTON, July 15. — Announcement of a new service out of Galveston to Genoa and other Mediterranean ports beginning the last half of September was made today by F. A. Lallier of the Lallier Steamship company. The Societies Navionale di Nagazione operating all vessels under the Italian flag is the new service to be instituted.

Three Are Named to Go to Bridge Confab

A. H. Britain, H. J. Bruce and County Judge B. D. Sartin will leave Thursday for Austin to confer with attorney general's department regarding plans for rthe proposed free bridge across Red river at Burkburnett. They will go as a chamber of commerce committee with authority to act in the emergency now created through refusal of the highway department to continue its help on the bridge construction. A ruling from the attorney general that the state has no authority to expend its funds on a bridge lying wholly or in part outside the limits of the state actuated the withdrawal of aid.

B. D. SARTIN

The Wichita Falls men will confer with Attorney General Dan Moody and officials of the highway department.

Word of withdrawal of state aid for the bridge came Tuesday evening and was supplemented Wednesday morning by a letter to Judge Sartin from Fred Lanaham, chief of the department. It simply said that inasmuch as the attorney general had ruled adversly against expenditure of state funds on such a project as the free bridge would be, the department found it impossible to proceed with further plans. It also postponed the hearing set for July 27 when former Senator Joseph Bailey, representing operators of private bridges across the river, was to have presented protests against the project.

The Wichita Falls committee, however, will insist that this hearing be held as scheduled.

Lemon Juice Whitens Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage in the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion youself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

TEXAS LEADS IN REFINERIES.

Texas leads in the number of gasoline refineries. Texas has 113 in operation, Oklahoma has 93, California has 87, Pennsylvania has 59 and Kansas has 34. And the first refinery ever constructed was operated in the state of Pennsylvania.

A government report says the indicated capacity of American petroleum refining plants has reached 2,864,842 barrels daily. This is an increase of more than 141 per cent from 1918 to 1925. There were 267 refineries in 1918 and there are 550 in 1925.

California led all states in production with a daily refining capacity of 743,729 barrels. Texas was second with 566,580 barrels. Oklahoma was third with 348,950 barrels.

Incidentally there has been a tremedous slump in production in the Smackover field and unless all the signs are misleading the price of crude is going to climb again in the near future.

WHAT HAPENED TO THE COLONEL.

Colonel George Harvey has retired from the editorial directorship of the Washington Post. A year ago he resigned as American ambassador to the court of St. James and came home. Then it was announced that Edward B. McLean, the owner of the Post had engaged Colonel Harvey as director editor at a salary of $75,000 a year, with an unlimited expense account. Now the colonel is out and Publisher McLean is the managing editor, or director editor of his own paper. Now, what happened to the colonel? Why did he give up a salary of $75,000 a year and an unlimited expense account?

BUILDING ACTIVITIES FOR APRIL.

It is announced that 16 of the principal cities of Texas issued building permits for the month of April to the aggregate value of $11,079,597, with Dallas leading Houston, its nearest competitor in the state, by more than a million dollars for the month. This survey covers 16 southern states and shows Dallas in fifth position among all the 115 reporting cities, its building total being exceeded only by St. Louis, Baltimore, Washington and Louisville. Building activities were brisk in April in all the smaller towns of Texas.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

Who Is to Blame?

Hardly a day passes that we do not read of abuses and injustices.

Cases of undeserved hardship are as common.

Innocent women and children suffer because husbands and fathers go wrong.

Men obtain power, politically or through the accumulation of wealth, and use it corruptly.

Preventable accidents happen frequently, and there is no punishment for those who cause them.

Children are thrown into evil associations and become criminals when they might have led useful lives.

Men and women grow up in ignorance, and because of their ignorance are cheated out of their chance of success.

Who is to blame?

Educated and intelligent people are to blame.

Why?

Because they are indifferent to the welfare of others, indifferent to the power that is in their hands to use for the good of the community in which they live.

In all countries where the ballot is in the hands of the people power rests in them to right wrongs, not perhaps immediately, but gradually.

But so little interest do they take in the affairs of the state that they think about them only at election time.

Most people vote with only a confused idea of the issues involved, and with no knowledge at all of the character and ability of the people for whom they are voting.

We have become so accustomed to let others conduct our public affairs, and to give ourselves no more trouble about them than to criticise the way they are conducted, that we fall far short of our duty toward ourselves, our children and our fellow citizens.

When a factory building burns down we find that the fire was due to the greed or negligence of the factory proprietors, we become indignant and fill the air with our denunciations.

But do we go to the candidates who ask for our support at the next election and pledge them to work for better fire laws or the better enforcement of existing fire laws?

Very seldom.

When an epidemic which could have been checked by an efficient administration of the health laws breaks out, we become frightened, and get out of the city as speedily as possible.

But do we take heed and work for a more efficient order of things thereafter, so that no such epidemic shall be allowed to come again.

We do not.

Governments are getting better, and civilization is advancing.

But both are improving slowly. They would go forward by leaps and bounds if those who have won liberty and can exercise the franchise would think as much of their duty to their country as they do of their duty to themselves.

Self-seeking officials are partly to blame for wrongs in government. But the major share of the responsibility rests with the people who put them there, and who continue to re-elect them no matter how inefficient they prove to be.

Why the Coast Blacklanders are Happy—England Mills Will Continue the Season—Three Million Spindles Operating in the United States.

COAST BLACKLANDERS are happy. There is a vast territory in Nueces and adjoining counties which is held by the blacklanders. They believe it to be the best cotton producing country in the world. Robstown is the principal center of the industry.

Down in the Corpus Christi coast country they plant the cotton in March and pick and gin it in early August. This year they planted in March, but the drouth was on. And the drouth continued until early June. Then general rains fell over Nueces and adjoining counties. Before the rain came the people in the coast country and this includes three or four rich counties, returned a verdict that "they were all blowed up."

Now it is different. The rains averaged from two inches in some localities to five inches in others. In 1924 Nueces county picked a 100,000 bale cotton crop. Before the coming of the June rain, it was admitted that the county would not produce more than 10,000 bales of cotton this year. Now the cotton growers and experts are predicting that the rains of the last few days will gie Nueces county a crop of around 60,000 bales.

Taft and contiguous territory is a cotton producing section. Athree-inch downpour fell there in June and it fell where moisture was badly needed. Cotton was at a standstill and dying in many places. Now there is moisture in the ground and the growers are very hopeful that a fair crop will be produced. Rio Grande City experienced a heavy rainfall, and a second planting of cotton will follow.

Rain was general over that section of Texas. In Webb county two inches of rainfall was reported, and late cotton planting is in progress as a result, while cotton planted early in May is said to be doing nicely as a result of the precipitation. McAllen had a downpour which benefitted dry land cotton crops materially and good crops are assured, according to local correspondents from the entire McAllen territory.

Away out at Alpine in Brewster county heavy rains came early in June and grass, gardens and feed crops are growing fast. Newspaper correspondence says that the cattlemen have a very bright outlook at present, as the range is fine and not overstocked. Also that the Alpine section is facing the biggest fruit crop ever known.

Del Rio enjoyed a heavy percipitation, and the drouth in that section was broken to the great joy of farmers and stockmen. In Texas it "never rains but it pours." This is what happened in spots in Texas early in the month of June.

A NEW ORLEANS cotton economist writes that while supplies of cotton are becoming scarce at home, Europe holds a large supply that she will probably manufacture into cloth during the balance of the cotton season. He says the fact must not be forgotten in this connection that European spinners have for a long time been accustomed to carrying a considerable reserve supply.

His contention is correct. Before the coming of the World war the warehouses of European spinners were fat with American cotton, and at times the reserve amounted to as high as 10,000,000 bales. Speaking of the motive which actuated these foreign buyers, this expert says that owing to scarcity in the previous several seasons, they were compelled by hard necessity to go without their customary reserve, but they took advantage of the opportunity offering this season, because of the comparatively liberal stock, to re-establish their customary reserve.

Another correspondent says the amount of cotton remaining unmarketed in the south is rapidly dwindling and supplies of desirable cotton are becoming so scarce in the interior that buyers are bidding for the certificated stocks in New Orleans and New York and absorbing fair amounts of such stocks from day to day. He says port stocks are rapidly dwindling and stocks at the counted interior towns are now far below what they were a year ago.

He adds that if Houston be eliminated from the calculation such stocks are very much smaller than a year ago when it was claimed a veritable cotton famine existed. Regardless of the drouth in spots, all the surface gains indicated and all the guessers predict that the American crop will not fall below 12,000,000 bales this year, and may go a million bales beyond the estimate. Those who are familiar with the record of past years including the drouth year of 1894, say that cotton planted in June has been known to return a big yield before the coming of frost intheN ovembermontthat etao tao a ccm of frost in the November month that follows.

George H. Clifford is a native Texan. He was goes a long way in making a fair yield possible.

THREE million American swindlers are operating in the United States, getting half a billion dollars a year, and only one of every 44 is caught and convicted, according to Major Morgan K. Harris of New York, head of the legal department of the Bureau of Investigation for financial fraud.

Major Morgan says more worthless stocks than ever are being peddled, the percentage is all in favor of the crook, only one in ten persons has the courage to admit he has been defrauded and to demand restitution, and yet swindlers, such as fake stock brokers, put aside from one-tenth to one-third of the money they get to refund to persons who demand an adjustment.

And the legislators of the 48 states enacted ten thousand laws last year, and there are two hundred and fifty thousand laws on the federal and state statute books. If there are three million swindlers in America some of the 250,000 laws should be drastic enough to catch and to hold this vast army of crooks.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Cancer.

The planetary aspects indicate that the same perplexing conditions that prevailed yesterday will continue in full force, until about noon today, and, during this period, little or anything involving constructive effort should be tackled. In the afternoon and evening, the aspects undergo a considerable change and become benign, and, with such elements, success in almost any line of worthy endeavor is assured. Very stimulating vibrations will be developed in the evening, presaging, not only happiness and contentment, but some tangible sign that your love is not altogether unrequieted.

A child born today will suffer more than usual from the ailments so often associated with infancy. Its future development to a healthy maturity will very much depend on the environment with which it is surrounded, and the methodical character of its nutrition. It's disposition will leave little to be desired, and, although at times, resentful, it will, on its own volition, quickly snap out of such a mood. It will be very industrious and apply itself with eagerness and zest to study and to work. Ambition, however, will not be one of its characteristics, and it will be satisfied to remain in a groove, rather than fight to assist its individuality.

If today is your birthday, it is difficult, at times, to decide whether stubbornness dominates you, or whether it is tenacity of purpose. Most of your friends and associates judge it to be the former, whereas you claim it to be the latter. You are, undoubtedly, intolerant, and, between what, in your opinion, is right and what is wrong, you can see no middle course. Such an attitude would be commendable were it not for the fact that others frequently do not subscribe to your depositions of right and wrong, and in your differences with them over these points you always maintain an unbinding and unyielding attitude. You strive to do everything very correctly, according to your lights, and always try to induce your companions to adopt the same rule. So much so, in fact, that you are frequently referred to as a "kill-joy."

Your home life could be made much brighter, if you could only become a more ardent disciple of the creed of "give and take."

HOW IT STARTED

"Jotting It Down."

This expressin is commonly used of something which is to be written, where the implication is that it will take no time nor effort, that the writing amounts to no more than a scratch on a "jot." We all know that there is a type of person who, not very fond of work himself, has the habit of minimizing anything that he asks other people to do. Accordingly he might request someone to "just jot down" perhaps a dozen pages or more. That, however, would not be in keeping with the meaning or the origin of the phrase.

For the origin of "jotting it down" we must turn simply to the word "jot" derived from the Greek "Iota" or "I." It means a title, the dot over the "i" or a mark over the letter to distinguish pronunciation, and its significance extends to anything of slight value or proportions.

Literally "jot down" would mean to make a mark. And it is in the sense of making just a few marks that we today refer to writing something down as "jotting it down."

Oyez! Oyez! Women Of Fashion, More Leg and Less Neck

NEW YORK, July 15.—More leg and less neck will be on view next fall if the conception of autumn modes for women prevails as revealed at the showing of the National Garment Retailers association.

Skirts 15 or 16 inches off the floor were not unusual at a showing last night at the Hotel Astor, while collars were invariably high. For tailored dresses there were vests that buttoned high at the neck.

Sleeves on dresses were either long and tight or long and flowing, but always long.

The waistline was suggested more definitely than in recent seasons.

Father and Son Are Found Dead in Cafe

MARIETTA, Okla., July 15.—J. M. Tuck, 80, pioneer southwestern Oklahoman, and his son, Hubert, were shot and killed in their restaurant here last night. Charles Scarriett, Vaughn Chochran and S. Hill are held in connection with the shooting. A niece of the elder Tuck, witness to the killing, has refused to make a statement.

STOCK MAN DIES IN CAR

Howe Resident Succumbs on Fishing Trip.

FORT WORTH, July 15.—Neal Bost, 74, stock man of Howe, dropped dead Tuesday afternoon at Lake Worth. Bost with his two sons had driven to Fort Worth for a fishing trip, leaving home Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock. When they pulled up near Sunset Park, one of the sons asked his father how the place suited him. He got no answer and turned to see that his father had slumped down into the car and died.

CHARITY WORKERS IDENTIFY WOMAN DEAD AT DENISON

DENISON, July 15. — Charity workers today continued efforts to locate relatives of Mrs. Agnes Helm, 65, who died at a local rooming house Monday night after being ill since her arrival here Friday. The body is being held at a local undertaking establishment. A nephew has been located at Erie, Oklahoma.

SAN ANGELO PASTOR TO HEAD WEST TEXAS BAPTISTS

SAN ANGELO, July 15.—West Texas Baptists, nearing the close Thursday of their fifteenth annual encampment at Christoval, late Tuesday re-elected Dr. George W. McCall, pastor of the First Baptist church, San Angelo, to the presidency by acclamation.

IRRIGATION

The Irrigation District has the Right Of Eminent Domain.

In our last article we told something of the conditions which existed at the time the contract was made between the irrigation district and W. T. Waggoner for the lands which were to be flooded by Lake Kemp and Diversion lake.

The contract for the building of the two dams had been let to the Callahan Construction company. A part of the bonds had been sold to the American Trust company, of St. Louis. But the board had not as yet secured rights-of-way so that the work could be started. In addition to this Mr. Kemp, president of the board and the man who had fathered the idea of irrigation, was seriously ill.

An irrigation district, or more properly speaking, a water improvement district in this state is vested with the power or right of eminent domain.

The right of eminent domain is defined as "the soverign power of the state of controlled proviate property for public use by making compensation."

In other words the irrigation district had the right, as a creature of the soverign state of Texas to take for its own use any private property it might see fit providing always that the owner was compensated.

The irrigation district could take for its use any part of the Waggoner lands it needed, so they were not especially worried over not securing the land prior to the time they let the contract. They knew they could get the land they required eventually at some price or other.

They could either settle with Mr. Waggoner out of court or they could go into court and settle with him there. They were bound to get the land anyhow. Mr. Waggoner knew this.

M'Clure Files Appeal On a 5-Year Penalty

AUSTIN, July 15.—(AP)—Two cases carrying the death penalty and one carrying life imprisonment were filed today in the court of criminal appeals. Carrento Silva and Gerardo Zamora, Hidalgo county, sentenced to death for robbery with deadly weapons, and Matthew Thomas, Lee county, sentenced to 99 years imprisonment for criminal attack, appealed.

Other cases appealed are: Emilio Castillo, Medina county, manslaughter, five years; E. B. McClure, Wichita county, murder, five years; J. P. Carpenter, Grayson county, manslaughter, five years; Leroy McCain, Kaufman county, assault to murder, two years; Albert Hanus, Lavaca county, arson, two years.

Grain Freight Rates Reduced in Okla.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—Railroads serving Oklahoma were ordered today by the interstate commerce commission to reduce rates on grain, grain products and hay moving out of that state to Kansas, Missouri and Texas. Adjustments also were found to be necessary in rates on similar products grown in the Texas Panhandle and eastern New Mexico and shipped to the Missouri-Kansas territory.

THE STORY SO FAR—

There was something strange about Enid Austin She had a mysterious air that at the age of 23 has attracted Ronald Corley. They had become engaged and two days before their marriage Ronald and Coralie Brainerd, Enid's friend, eloped. Enid is left to bear out her humiliation and makes a resolve that never again will she trust a man.

The Corleys return to town where they take up their home. Ronald loves his wife but still watches for Enid. At the age of 26 Enid meets Lucien Grant. After a headlong romance on Grant's part they are married, Grant for love and Enid because she wants a home of her own. She makes up her mind not to love Lucien but has little trouble deceiving him until on his honeymoon he asks her the point blank question, "Do you love me?" For the time being she evaded his question, but later after a heated conversation with him in their honeymoon rooms she declares she does not love him.

Now to go on with the story.

Instantly his arms fell away and he stood back from her. For a long moment they stared at each other, and it seemed to him that her violet eyes were no longer inscrutable, and it seemed full of hatred.

"Thank you for putting me in my place," he said at last. "I'll never force my attentions upon you again."

CHAPTER X.

The End of the Honeymoon.

After the stormy scene between them the honeymoon was cut short by mutual consent. Lucien spoke to Enid about it the next morning at breakfast.

"If it meets with your approval, I think it would be advisable to get back to the city as soon as possible."

Enid looked at him across the table. His manner toward her was baffling. She wondered what was going on in his mind and what he intended to do. She had wondered ever since the night before when all the barriers between them had been broken down and she had told him what was in her heart.

"By all means," she returned quickly, "that would certainly be best."

Her eyes returned to her plate, and it was then that he looked at her. In the clear morning sunlight she was lovely, like a piece of rare bric-a-brac, a Tanagra figurine. And yet for all her slenderness, there was a look of vibrant health about her.

She wore a white flannel dress with a collar and cuffs of violet organdie and a white felt hat with a violet band. As he looked at her he wondered bitterly how he could have been so deceived, so blinded by his love for her. He had spent a sleepless night in going over the situation between them, in trying to decide what to do. There had been times during his night vigil when he had felt that he hated her as much as she hated him. But this morning as he looked at her across the table, the knowledge dawned on him that he would never hate her. Scorn himself as he would, he would go on loving her always. She would always be the one woman in the world for him.

They finished breakfast and arose from the table. He followed her into the lobby and spoke to her in a low voice.

"Shall we plan to leave this afternoon? There's a good train about 4."

She nodded quickly. "I'll go upstairs and start packing. It won't take me long to get my things together."

Strangely enough, the quarrel between them had eased the tensity of Enid's nerves. She felt extraordinarily well this morning and rather hopeful for the outcome of things. In a way she was glad that the scene had occurred. It meant more freedom for her and less infringement on her privacy. Besides, Lucien loved her; he would not bear a grudge against her for long. She would show him that she wanted to be friends with him, that he would be foolish not to be sensible and take the companionship that she proffered him. She hadn't a doubt in the world that things would come out just as she had planned.

It did not occur to her that she was extraordinarily selfish. She had come to the conclusion that all men were selfish and took what they wanted from life, and that women should have the same privilege. It wasn't that she particularly wanted to hurt Lucien; it would have been the same with any man who had wanted to marry her. She saw no reason why Lucien should make such a fuss because she didn't love him. There were plenty of other things in marriage besides love.

Of course her reasoning was faulty, but for the time being it was impossible for her to see another person's point of view. She figured that Ronald had eloped with Coralie for no other reason save that he wanted her. He had considered no one else but himself. Men did those things, then why not women? If Ronald could hurt her because he wanted something she couldn't give him, then she could hurt Lucien because he could give her something she wanted.

But what Enid did not realize was the fact that Lucien's pride was equal to her own. He was not the type of man to sit back and accept a situation simply because it was thrust upon him.

Enid was confident that his love for her was great enough to make him do anything rather than lose her. She felt that the worst was over and that as soon as they returned to the city everything would be adjusted. She discovered later that Lucien had a few plans of his own, and that they didn't at all coincide with hers.

CHAPTER XI.

"I Want You to Stay."

That afternoon they journeyed back to the city.

Outwardly, Lucien's manner toward Enid was entirely adequate. He was courteous, considerate and kind. He responded to her mood of bright animation in a manner that entirely deceived her. She felt that the difference between them was adjusted and was happy in consequence.

Before his marriage Lucien had occupied an apartment in town and the rooms were spacious and airy. With some changes, the place could be made very attractive, and it was at Enid's direction that they drove there as soon as they arrived.

It struck Lucien as they entered the apartment that he had looked forward to this moment for weeks. He had even had a queer old-fashioned idea of lifting Enid in his arms to carry her across the threshold of her new home. Now everything was changed. He would doubtless never have a home. He was to be cheated of everything that made life worthwhile.

Enid flew around the place like a small, bright bird. She chattered incessantly of the changes she would make.

"A blue chair in this corner, and some gold draperies. New lamps, some pottery and a copper fire set. I can just see how it will look when I am finished with it," she said, excitedly, and it was then that Lucien interrupted her.

"I sent Norah a telegram this morning. She will be here the first thing in the morning.

"Oh, did you, Lucien? That was thoughtful. I think we're going to be very comfortable here. I'm so glad that we decided against one of those modern apartments. This is so much better, and different."

"Have you plenty of money?" he went on.

She laughed. "Of course."

"We haven't discussed the question of money, but I will see that you receive a check the first of each month. If it is not enough, you have only to say so, and, of course, the bills for the apartment will come to me."

A queer, blank expression stole across Enid's face.

"But, Lucien, you talk so strangely, as though you were going away on a trip and were settling up your affairs before leaving."

"I don't know what my plans will be," he said evenly, "but for the present I shall remain here in town. You can always reach me at the office if there is anything you want."

In a flash of revelation she understood. He did not intend to live here. He was handing over to her not only the apartment, but Norah, the servant who had been with his family for years, but he had no intention of remaining here himself.

"I see," she said after a moment. "I am to live here alone, and you will get a place somewhere else."

"Exactly."

"So that's what your love for me amounts to!" she said quickly. "You would leave me here to be gossipped about, to endure the ignominy of being pitied, to bear the brunt of everything alone."

He wheeled on her then.

"But what could you expect? Do you think I'm the kind of man to be satisfied with the crumbs of the table? Do you think I can live with you under the same roof, knowing how you feel toward me? I have some pride, Enid, enough, thank God, to keep me from doing a thing like that."

She was silent, and after a moment he went on speaking.

"What is it you want me to do?"

As the words left his lips he was aware of the fact that he was awaiting her reply with repressed eagerness. He had made up his mind to go, his pride had forced him to do that, but if she wanted him to stay, his love for her meant more than his pride. It would be something to be near her, even though it would mean torture for him. And perhaps—perhaps, later on, she might learn to care.

"I want you to stay," she said very deliberately.

CHAPTER XII.

Getting Settled.

In the days that followed Enid was busy getting her apartment in order. She was apparently just like every other young married woman, shopping eagerly, interested in life and what was going on about her and with a husband who adored her and gave her free rein in everything she wished to do.

In her own way she was contented enough. Lucien's side of the question did not bother her at all. In the evening when she met him for dinner, she was always ready to chat amiably, to go out with him to the theatre or do anything else he liked. She talked over the decorations with him, and so pre-occupied was she with her own viewpoint that she did not notice how non-committal he was. He never gave an opinion, he merely acquiesced with anything she said. It was enough that she wanted it so, and it made no difference to him.

Lucien had changed even in the short time he had been married to Enid. He was graver, the lines of his face had sharpened and he seemed older. It would have been easier for him if he had left her. A clean, sharp blow is better than a jagged wound. But to live under the same roof with her, to sit in the same room with her chatting amiably about generations when he wanted to take her in his arms, was nothing short of torture.

Sometimes he wondered if it wouldn't be better to assert himself as he had once before. Sometimes he lay awake far into the night wondering what would happen if he did.

Suppose he told her that things could not go on like this any longer, that she would have to make up her mind to be his wife, or he would leave her to herself. He wondered what would happen. But the fact of the matter was, Lucien was too proud to force his attentions upon any woman. He could not stoop to threaten Enid with an ultimatum. Besides, each day that he lived with her made it harder to think of leaving. He had reached a point where even the crumbs from the table were better than nothing. Even if he didn't have Enid, no other man had her. There was some comfort in that.

LEGGERS' AID SAY SHERIFFS OF SEARCH LAW

New Seizure Statute To Help Evidence Getting Is Urged State

BEAUMONT, July 15.—The new search and seizure law making evidence obtained without a search warrant inadmissible was condemned by almost unanimous vote of the Texas sheriff's convention in session here today, after the law had been vigorously attacked by the delegates. It was declared a "deliberate attempt on the part of the Thirty-ninth legislature to throw a mantle of protection around the bootleggers and endanger the lives of the law enforcement officers."

The Rev. Atticus Webb of Dallas, head of the Aanti-Saloon league in Texas, opened the discussion, declaring that the new law would aid liquor sellers.

Ex-Sheriff J. R. Currington of Corsicana defended the law.

BEREAN CLASS FAMILIES FETED.

FAMILIES of the Berean class were entertained by a picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Snider Tuesday evening. Besides interesting games an informal program was given by Mrs. L. D. Brasfield who gave two whistling solos, and Ruth Lucile Crouch who sang two church songs, playing her own accompaniment.

Those to enjoy the delicious spread were: Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley, Miss Harriet Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crouch, Mrs. Brasfield, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Holmes, Holmes Dollarhide, their nephew, Ed Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Harden, J. R. Williams, John Bradley, Miss Lucile Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Karrenbrock, and Mrs. R. E. Shepherd.

MISSES HYER AND MAULE GIVEN JOINT BIRTHDAY PARTY

LITTLE MISSES BILLIE HYER and Kathleen Maule celebrated their eighth birthday by a joint party at the home of Mrs. W. R. Hyer, 1715 Lucille. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out and ice cream and a birthday cake with candles were the refreshments after punch was served earlier in the afternoon Tuesday. Guests at the party were: Kathleen and Albert Bievenharn, Margaret Louise Boller, Gene Spencer, Eulene Lewis, Mary and Lois Earl Shaw, Lela Yeager, Noren Morell, Helen and Evelyn Gardner, Kathleen Chenault, Mary Frances Brightwell, Maxine and Billie Chantroe, Alice Marrs, Carrie Bachman, Bonnie Combs, Arthur Junior McElreath, Elbert Leggett, Mary Frances and Elizabeth McCarty, Juanita Wofford, Clark Leggett, Fisk and Alice Hanley, Marcella Dulaney, Elizabeth Hanks, Margaret Jane and Imagene Gyle, Evelett Holt, Sidney Dobbins, Elsine and Durwood McDonald, Euna Gose and Marie Maule.

Billie Ralph and Kathleen are neighbors on Lucille therefore their birthday was much more enjoyed than separate ones might have been.

Personals

Misses Mary Ashmore and Lucile Rountree left Wednesday for a three weeks' visit on the Joyce ranch near Clayton, N. M. From there they will go to Denver to visit friends for the rest of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hoffman and children spent the week end with relatives in Denton. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoffman, in their beautiful new country home four miles from the city.

Mrs. G. B. Smedley of the William-Mary has gone to Colorado to visit friends, after which she will go to their lodge in the mountains for a few weeks. Mr. Smedley expects to join her later.

Mrs. W. P. Skeen of Oklahoma is visiting at the home of Mrs. B. G. Skeen, 1200 Lamar.

Mrs. H. A. Tanner and her daughter Thelma D. with Mrs. J. W. Strother and her three sons have gone to Fort Wayne, Ind., to visit their sister and aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston Cowdin and Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Richardson have returned from a trip to Colorado and through Yellowstone Park.

Miss Ruby Johnson, a student at the State Teachers' college at Canyon, Texas, returned to her home in Canyon yesterday after her visit at the home of Miss Helen Van Deventer, 1819 Lucile.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Barnes of Vernon spent Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Anderson, 1812 Eleventh, en route to the Pacific coast for the summer. They will visit in Austin, Houston and San Antonio before going to California.

WOMAN NAMED A COLONEL.

141st Infantry Pays Honor to Colonel Jackson's Wife.

AUSTIN, July 15.—Members of the One-hundred Forty-first infantry stationed at Camp Mabry, honored Mrs. W. E. Jackson of Hillsboro, wife of Colonel Jackson, commanding officer of the One-hundred Forty-first infantry, by giving her the title of honorary colonel of the regiment. The regiment presented itself to Mrs. Jackson at 6:15 Wednesday evening after which they passed in review for their "new colonel." The action of the regiment came as a surprise to Colenel and Mrs. Jackson.

Here's Reconstruction of Crime Which Ended in Murder of Bess Whitfield; Did Husband Do It?

Report Has it That Wealthy Brother of Suspect Is In Wichita Falls Preparing Legal Battle In Behalf of Man Now Held in County Jail

How was Mrs. Whitfield killed?

After the shooting, the authorities' reconstructed story, goes that the murderer carried the body across the pasture and lifted or dragged it under a wire fence that borders the top of another ravine just behind the baseball grounds. A spot was found where the wires had been lifted and twisted together. From it a rough path led down to the tree under which the body lay. The trees are just on the edge of Lincoln park, the newly opened recreation spot for the negroes of the city and its top is plainly visible to spectators in the baseball grandstand. As a matter of fact, the whole field and probably the very spot where the woman was shot can be seen from the stands.

FAINT FOOT PRINTS SUBSTANTIATE THEORY

Evidence to substantiate these theories is not lacking. In their minute investigations, Detectives Bryan and Allen found faint foot prints to one side of the path the woman and her companion first took. They took the shoes removed from the feet of the body to the site, placed them in the tracks and found that they fitted exactly. Minute irregulrities found in the impressions corresponded identically with holes in the sole of the shoe itself.

It was impossible to follow the trail through the prairie, and around the tree many feet had obliterated any semblnce of a foot print.

ANOTHER TRAIL IS FITTED TO WHITEFIELD

However, a short distance north of the three and leading up the ravine in a direct line toward the Whitfield house, another trail was found. It was of large feet and this time the officers took Whitfield's own shoes from his feet and carried them to the scene. They fitted exactly in the tracks found in the dust.

Working with the Pine street home and the tree under which the remains were found as bases of operation they have constructed a hypothesis as follows:

Mrs. Whitfield left her home between 11 and 12 o'clock last Saturday night. She was accompanied by a man with whom she quarreled violently. They proceded almost straight south down Pine street for perhaps a block. Then the street swings sharply to the west, while a cowpath trails off across a wide expanse of prairie. It skirts the edge of a shallow ravine and eventually runs into the negro drug store which is a half-a-mile or more beyond.

Bryan, Allen, the district attorney and others agree that Mrs. Whitfield and her companion took this path to start with. After going perhaps 200 yards they turned to the east and headed across more prairie land, dotted with rank growths of grass, weeds, briar patches and scrubby clumps of mesquite.

DISCARD THEORY OF KILLING AT HOME

It is in here, someplace, that the woman was shot. The officers have discarded the theory that she was killed in her home. They point to the fact that a neighboring house is less than 10 yards from the Whitfield shack, and the persons living there heard no shots. On the other hand, the two detectives found a woman residing in a house not far from the ball grounds and some 200 yards west of the field where they think Mrs. Whitfield was killed, who will testify to having heard what she believss were pistol shots late Saturday night. She lives in the two-story brown house conspicuous from the baseball grandstand. She said that she was up just before midnight Saturday and has a vague impression of a disturbance in the field behind her home. She is not even positive they were gun shots, but is certain she heard something.

This trail traveled up the ravine about 50 feet, then climbed the bank and terminated at aonther wire fence. The grassy, shrubby land beyond the fence left no tracks and there the trail ended. It was pointing straight in the direction of the woman's home.

Coupled with this, the officers have the pistol with which they contend the woman was slain. It was found, wrapped in papers and placed in a tin bucket burnied under a pile of rubbish 50 yards behind the home. Whitfield has denied knowledge of how the two empty cartridges were placed in the left of the roof, and how a shell, undischarged came to be in the pockets of a pair of trousers found hanging on the wall of his home. This was found Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Ballard.

WOMAN KILLED AFTER A VIOLENT QUARREL

District Attorney Allred, Detectives Bryan and Allen, Special Investigator Sam Spence of the district attorney's office and Assistant County Attorley John Q. Humphrey almost unanimously agreed last nigth that Mrs. Whitfield was shot on vacant prairie; that she was killed after violent quarrel with a man; that she was beaten and mistreated before being killed; that her body was carried a considerable distance by the slayer and laid out under the tree; that the gun was carried back to the home, wrapped up and hidden in the yard behind the house after the three empty cartridges were removed; and that two of these cartridges were wrapped in paper and hidden in the loft.

In answer to this, Whitfield agrees. He makes no dispute over where the weapon and shells were found, but averrs they were placed there by the real slayer to direct suspicion toward himself. And through it all he refers constantly to the man he saw in his house Thursday night before his wife was killed; and again about 10 o'clock on Saturday night, just a short time before his wife left on her last trip. He is of the belief this man followed him and his wife here from Oklahoma.

DEAD WOMAN WAS HIS FIRST COUSIN

The only other revelation of importance coming during the day was Whitfield's statement that the woman he married was his first cousin—a daughter of his fathers' brother. Asked how he came to marry a cousin he replied, "Oh, it was just nature, I guess."

The statement he signed was taken by Spence and Humphrey who have done the bulk of the questioning. In it he gave a detailed account of his life from the time of his birth back in Alabama 42 years ago up until the present time. He, by his own admission, has been a "drifter" and has lived in many parts of Oklahoma and Texas. He has always worked, he declared, and in Durant, prior to coming to Wichita Falls in his covered wagon, he worked steadily at a cotton gin.

The investigation will continue Thursday. It was rumored last night that a brother of Whitfield's reputed to be well-to-do, was in the city preparing a legal fight in his behalf. This was only a report, however, and could not be verified. He said he had six brothers and sisters scattered through Texas and Oklahoma.

His three children, all boys ranging in age from 3 to 13, are being cared for by the Texas Childrens' Home and Aid Society here.

MEDIUM

And when he was led back to solitary confinement at the end he appeared as unruffled and fresh as when he started. He is a tall, gaunt, raw-boned man, tanned and well-muscled. In expression he has a crude fluency and ease of rejoinder that comes with change. All his answers have been out voice-inflection or dispositional liberally punctuated with courteous salutations of "yes sir, no sir, my good friend etc."

Sister of Dead Called.

Perhaps the most dramatic scene in yesterday's investigation came early in the evening when Mrs. Bernice Riley of Fort Worth, sister of Mrs. Whitfield, with tight-clenched fists, a tense frame and streaming eyes implored him to "my God, Bob, be a man and tell us the truth." For two full minutets while officers held restraining hands on her arm she berated the man before her and was then led sobbing from the office.

Whitfield, with but slight show of emotion, sat down after she left, shook his head and took up again his answers to the endless questions.

Mrs. Riley and a small daughter, was the second relative to visit him during the day. A brother, B. C. Whitfield of Durant, Okla., saw him a few minutes during the afternoon. He too, officials reported, asked his brother to "come clean." He got no more information than have the others.

Mrs. Riley has not yet seen the body of her sister but will be taken to Merkle's funeral parlor early this morning to view it. After this is done, Dr. J. H. Fletcher, county health officer, will perform an autopsy in an effort to remove the one bullet of three that did not pierce her skull on one side and come out on the other.

To Compare Bullets.

It is to be taken out for comparison as to calibre and make with the .32 caliber Harrington and Richardson revolver found under a pile of rubbish some 40 yards or more behind the humble Whitfield home on Pine street. Discovery of the revolver and two empty cartridges, wrapped in paper and hidden in a loft of the home, has constuted about the most important clue yet unearthed. An official order allowing the autopsy was obtained yesterday by the district attorney.

A unique departure in criminal investigation was made Wednesday night when a local woman, introduced to Whitfield only as "Mrs. Jones" and who is an admitted spiritualist, was brought before him.

Several times during the afternoon he had made vague allusions to intercourse with the spirits. At one time he startled officials by referring to a drug store, operated by a negro not far from where his wife's body was found. This has come to be an important mark in the theoretical murder-picture officials have constructed. The officers did not know Whitfield attached any significance to it nor had any inkling that they did. As a matter of fact, he claimed he did not, but "saw it in his sleep" Tuesday night.

Recounts His Story.

He said he saw his wife, in company with another man, going toward the store in the dead of night Saturday and in the general direction of the place the woman's body later was found. Officers have established pretty clearly that the woman and a man—who the latter may be they are not certain—did go toward the store late Saturday night.

Not because they gave any particular credence to his occult powers or because they thought such a seeres could affect him, but rather as an experimental move the investigators hunted up the medium and took her to the court house.

To the woman's credit it must be admitted she drew confessions from Whitfield he had not previously made. They were on matters unimportant to the murder case, however. She described to him a deformed child and asked if his wife had once not borne him a babe like it. He said she had. At another point, without coaching or information from the officers she asked if Whitfield had not gone from Durant to Ardmore, Okla., by himself just prior to coming to Wichita Falls and if his wife had not joined him with the children at Ardmore. He said that was right, too.

Traces Wife's Movements.

The medium also traced with considerable accuracy the movements of Mrs. Whitfield and a man the night she is presumed to have been killed. She pictured them just as officers, through prior investigations, had established them. Whitfield himself said that her descriptions tallied exactly with what he knew. He had previously told of seeing a large, tall man at his front door or in his house on two different occasions. He expressed belief that it was this man with whom his wife left late Saturday night—if she left her homeswith a man.

That nocturnal trip toward the negro drug store last Saturday was an object of considerable study yesterday. Detectives Jim Allen and Will Bryan, who have been working on the case night and day since the woman's body was found, have scoured acres of territory in an effort to find clues. They have been partly successful.

Mooers-Jackson Well May Extend Archer Pool

GOOD SHOWING MADE BY WELL AT 1,209 FEET

Wildcat May Mean Big Extension of The Mooers-Ickert

Effecting an extension of over half a mile to the Ichert pool in south Archer county, Cliff Mooers No. 1 Jackson, located in the northeast corner of the southwest 20 acres of the east half of section 18, Crawford Pasture, gives promise of making a nice producer. With several hundred feet of fluid in the hole from sand drilled eight feet and topped at 1,210, the well is being drilled a little deeper in the hopes of increasing production. The Ichert pool located to the south of the Harmel, has been to a greater or less extent been the property of its discoverer, Mr. Cliff Mooers. However yesterday's extension may change matters and transfer this area of small individual production to one of major importance.

S. A. L. Morgan Talks To Graduating Class

S. A. L. Morgan, attorney, delivered the commencement address to the graduating classes of the high school and the Junior college at the closing exercises held in the college auditorium Wednesday morning at nine o'clock. For the first time for the college, and the second time for the high school were diplomas awarded graduates of summer terms. There were three high school and two college graduates.

Morgan

Vaugn Hall Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Buchanan, holds the distinction of being the first summer school graduate of the Junior college. The other members of the class, Ebon Keith, received his diploma as a formal recognition of work earlier completed. Keith was a member of the first graduating class of the college but did not get his diploma with the class because a credit for a correspondence course had not been quite completed, all other requirements having been met before commencement. Both of the students were honor students throughout their college course.

Conference Held on Plainview Hearing

An additional discussion Wednesday by the members of Wichita Falls business men interested in the construction of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains railroad from Childress through the southern part of the Panhandle was held Wednesday afternoon at the chamber of commerce. Final plans for the visit of eight or ten Wichitans at the interstate commerce commission hearing in Plainview July 20 were laid.

It is regarded probable that the Wichita Falls party, which will in- Frank Kell, prominent railroad man and capitalist; T. P. Duncan, general manager of the Wichita Mill and Elevtor; J. H. Harrell, banker and president of the chamber of commerce, and others will leave here Sunday afternoon.

At the hearing before a representative of the I. C. C. will hear the Denver's petition for a certificate of convenience and necessity authorizing it to proceed with the building of the line. A petition as intervenors will be filed by the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf road, a line being promoted by Fort Worth men who seek to tap the rich southplains territory and thus have a direct rail connection between that section and Fort Worth. The T. P. and G. is opposing the move of the Denver, part of the great Burlington system, to gain entrance to the territory and is also in opposition to the Santa Fe and Rock Island lines who also seek entry into the south plains.

2 Million Airship Plant Completed

KANSAS CITY, July 15.—(AP)—A contract has been signed by a local underwriting syndicate and Anthony Fokker, manufacturer and inventor of the Fokker airplane, by which a $2,000,000 airplane manufacturing plant will be established in Kansas City.

The contract provides that the sydicate shall put $1,000,000 into the enterprise and Fokker a like amount. Several large subscriptions for the stock have already been made, it was announced today. Some of the stockholders will be in St. Louis and Chicago, but will subscribe to the Kansas City of the investment.

Theairplane invented by the Dutch manufacturer, Fokker was used by Germany in the World w ar. Since the war he has improved his planes, many of which are in passenger service in France and Belgium.

Standard Brings 18-Cent Gasoline To New Orleans While Across River Independent Prices Up to 23 Cents

Louisiana Company Takes Steps to End What They Term Discrimination Against Trust Company

NEW ORLEANS, July 15.—New Orleans motorists are being treated to 18-cent gasoline for the first time in several months while their less fortunate brothers just across the river and over state are being gouged for 22 and 22 1-2 cent prices.

Standard of Louisiana, claiming that independent rebating and other means used by the smaller companies to get business, was discriminating against their stations, went their competitors one better and cut the retail price of their gasoline in the city of New Orleans to 18 cents. The independents, finding themselves in a fair way to being forced to sell gasoline at a price something less than production cost, carried the quarrel to the New Orleans courts and at this writing have neither won nor lost their case. They as plaintiffs in the suit allege an attempt at an unfair monopoly on the part of the Standard company and beg that that organization be restrained from offering a valuable product at a price which they allege is far below cost of production.

STANDARD OIL STATIONS LOWER ALL LOUISIANA.

The Standard's stations cover Southern Louisiana pretty thoroughly. There is one at least in every hamlet and any number scattered on the roads betwixt the bayous and plantation houses that make the state one of the most picturesque in the union. In addition an extensive advertising campaign is being carried on continually through the signboard medium.

A large diamond shaped sign bearing the large black letters, "Stanocola," and some useful road information done up in an attractive manner, will be found every mile or so on every highway in southern Louisiana.

"Polarine" lubricating oil is broadcast from barnsides and housetops. "It is best to stick to the Sandard" the slogan reads.

STANDARD GAS RATE IN LOUISIANA STILL A PROSPECT.

Standard's new rebate system to its filling station owners is still a prospect rather than a actuality, various filling station operators in the southern part of the state report. They have heard the offer of from a half to a cent and a half rebate on their gasoline was coming but it hasn't materialized yet, most of them will tell you.

There is a universal dissatisfaction with the margin between the tankwagon cost and the retail figure, and rebates will be more than welcome they say. The gas they sell at 22 1-2 cents they buy at 20 1-2 cents—little room the filling station man complains, to make any real money from his pumps.

STNDARD EMPLYES SHOW LOYALTY TO THEIR COMPANY.

Standard employes are taught loyalty to their parent concern much as in other companies. A filling station employe worked himself into quite an argument with a passing motorist from Texas a day or so ago here as to just why the independents should go out of business.

STANDARD OIL CO. STATIONS SHOW MUCH EFFICIENCY.

Standard stations in New Orleans and southern Louisiana minimize delay in service and put forth a maximum effort to give satisfaction. The attendant carries his own change with him in one of the coin machines a street car conductor carries, and isn't forced to make the trip inside the station to get four cents change out of the dollar bill the car owner hands him.

In addition most of the New Orleans stations carry a greasing service to be had for a half dollar that has proven very attractive in that city.

TEXAS AND GULF BIGGEST OPPOSITION TO STANDARD.

The Texas company and the Gulf Refining company of Louisiana offer possibly the biggest opposition to the Standard sales in southern Louisiana, with the "Pan-Am." stuff sold nearly everywhere also.

GINNING MARK SET BY GINS AT FREDERICK

34,000 Bales of Cotton Is Ginned During The 1924 Season

FREDERICK, Okla., July 15.—With a record of 34,000 bales of cotton ginned here during the 1914 season, Frederick is believed to have the honors for the largest ginning record for any city within the United States. No record of any city eclipsing the record of 34,000 bales for one season has yet been discovered by statisticians.

Tillman county in 1924 was the fourth largest cotton producing county in the United States, and probably the world.

These and other records for the past cotton season are found in a report just issued by the Associated Ginners and which is considered one of the most authentic reports available.

WILDCAT GETS SALT WATER IN ARCHER COUNTY

Wright Well Puts Damper On Rush to New Area For Locations

Bailing salt water from a sand topped at 1,324 feet and drilled to 1,331 in their No. 1 Sanford Wilson, located approximately two miles to the east of Archer City, Dr. Wright and associates yesterday afternoon put the damper to a rush towards that metropolis as a next possible oil field. This, the second favorable show in this much talked of wildcat, gave every evidence of paying out right up to the running of the bailer. At a late hour last night the owners were undecided as to whether pipe should be pulled to drill deeper or driven to shut off water which was claimed to be coming from an upper horizon. In any event at the completion of this well the rig will be skidded a few feet and a twin well be put down to give the sand from 1,080-1-127 feet which they were unable t otest in this well, a fair trial.

FORT WORTH GOES BACK TO NORMAL AFTER SKIRMISH

FORT WORTH, July 15.—Gasoline prices in Fort Worth are back where they were before a skirmish among the independent dealers started Saturday and prices dropped to 18 cents a gallon at some stations. Wednesday morning most of the stations reported a 23 cent price prevailing while some who are always a bit lower are asking 21 cents.

TEXHOMA HAS MET BOOST BY MAJOR FIRMS

New Scale of Crude Prices Is Posted Wednesday Balancing Texas

Meeting the new advance in prices as posted by the major companies this past week, the Texhoma Oil & Refining company have announced as effective today, July 16 at 7 a. m. a new scale of crude prices. The new list, although a change, is more or less a balancing with that as posted b ythe Texas company. Where prices were higher than those as posted the scale has been left unchanged. Where lower, they have been boosted to meet the new level. Ther is also a slight differentiation in some gravities towards crediting grades singly as against a former policy of grouping same. In short, the new schedule a posted means that lease owners from which Texhoma is running oil will get a smuch as offered from any of the major companies for their oil and in some cases more. The new scale is as follows:

Gravity 28-29.9	$1.50
Gravity 30-32.9	1.72
Gravity 33-35.9	1.96
Gravity 36-37.9	2.15
Gravity 38-38.9	2.20
Gravity 39-40.9	2.40
Gravity 41-41.9	2.44
Gravity 42-42.9	2.52
Gravity 43-43.9	2.60
Gravity 44 and above	2.68

News of the Fields

Tidal-Kemp & Kempner

In the west half of section 52, Wichita Valley farm lands the Tidal Oil company is drilling below 1,700 feet and looking for sand.

Texhoma-Taylor

On their Taylor lease in lot 489, A. T. N. C. survey, central Archer county in the Gose district, Texhoma is setting casing on sand at 1,601 feet. Sand in this test (No. A-4) was drilled from 1,605-1606 1-2 feet.

Burns-Wilson

Three hundred feet to the west of No. 3 the best producer in the new Burns-Maxson pool, Bobby Burns is drilling at 1,100 feet. This test is located in section 75 A. T. N. C. survey, to the north of Archer City.

Humble-Kemp & Allen

The Humble Oil & Refining company are completing their No. 3 Kemp & Allen, located in lot 4, section 27, W. V. F. L. survey, Wichita county as a 200 barrel producer from sand topped at 1,645 feet.

Richardson-Campbell

Sid Richardson, after bailing dry on a favorable show topped at 1,005 feet is abandoning his No. 1 Campbell, located in section 1,388, T. E. & L. survey, south Archer county as dry at 1,156 feet.

Texhoma-J. Waggoner

Texhoma is setting casing on their C-1, J. & J. Waggoner lease, located in the H. George survey, block 15, Wichita county at 1,862 feet. Oil sand was topped at 1,864 feet and drilled one foot.

Consolidated-Tuberville

In block 1 of the Jefferson county school lands, south Archer county the Consolidated Oil Corporation are drilling at 1,575 feet on their No. 1 Turberville. This test which has had several shows, will be drilled on down to 1,600 feet and abandoned as dry.

Shaw-Rathke

On their Mills lease and located 300 feet to the east of their No. 1 producer in the northeast quarter of section 2,428 T. E. & L. survey, Baylor county, Shaw Rathke are drilling below 1,250 feet and will look for sand within the next 200 feet.

Prairie- Kovar

In the northeast corner of section 2,438, T. E. & L. survey south Archer county, the Prairie-Sun company on the Kovar land is drilling at 1,428 feet. This well which is located to the south of the new Norday pool is one of the most interesting at present drilling, and will effect a big extension if a producer.

Marland-Ickert

On the Ickert lease in Crawford pasture, sub-division and located about half a mile to the north of Mooer's production, the Marland Oil Corporation are coring at 1,075 feet. This, the second test with sciences latest perfection to oil field discovery and observation, is being watched with more or less interest by the drilling fraternity.

Kentucky-Wilson

Offsetting Bobby Burns producers in the new Burns-Maxson pool in section 75 ATNO, Archer county, the Kentucky Oil corporation, after bailing but a small show of oil from sand drilled into at 1,405 feet drilled deeper and through into salt water. Casing will in all probability be pulled and the test deepened.

Humble-Mercer

On their Mercer lease located about one mile due north of Olney in the Poitevant survey, abstract 226, the Humble Oil & Refining are drilling the plug in their No. 5, an offset to No. 2 to the east. Sand in this well was topped at 1,038 feet, high for the area, on which casing was set and cemented.

Humble in Crockett

Humble Oil & Refining company has made a location for a test on the Harris brothers ranch in northern Crockett county, six miles west and slightly south of the World pool discovery well, south of the Big Lake field. It is 330 feet from the northeast corner of section 12, Washington R. R. Co., block 3.

The No. 1 L. P. Powell, in section 2, block BB2, is still standing with the swab in the hole, and flowing 22 barrels at 2,647 feet. It is being prepared for the pump.

This first well by Humble is expected to be followed by numerous other Crockett county wildcats. The new location is classed as a wildcat, being far from the World discovery.

TO CONTEST GAS COLLECTIONS

Supreme Court Is to Hear Dispute Over Taxes.

SAN ANTONIO, July 15.—Collection of the state tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline sold to the United States government by the Grayburn Oil company will be contested through the supreme court, declared Dr. F. L. Thompson, president of the oil company.

The Travis country district court rendered a decision in favor of the state for $12,041 and upheld the validity of the tax Monday.

OIL ROYALTIES TO $556,831.13

Big Lake Company Boosts Total For Year.

AUSTIN, July 14.—(AP)—With receipt of $105,000 June oil royalty from the Texas university lands in Reagan county produced by the Big Lake Oil company, the oil royalty fund for the first six months of the year reached $556,831.13. George Hatcher, state treasurer, said today.

Gracios—Senor!

Thanks for Them Kind Words!

"You fellows sure told me the truth about that Emvee Separator. I am saving an inch a day of evaporation and getting twenty-five cents more for the oil."

It costs plenty of money to produce oil and too little attention is paid to conserving it, once produced.

M&V's deliver all the oil into the line at casing head gravity.

They save their cost in a surprisingly short time.

And they will improve the looks of the lease wonderfully.

New Crude Prices Posted In Shreveport Territory

ALL LOUISIANA GRADES UP 15C EXCEPT ONE, 5C

First Change Since June 13 Made by Atlantic Oil Producing Co.

SHREVEPORT, La., July 15.—Except for a ten-cent advance posted June 23 by Atlantic Oil Producing company and Shreveport Eldorado Pipe Line company on Smackover crudes, the first change in crude oil prices in the Shreveport territory since May 22 was posted Wednesday, Standard Oil company of Louisiana leading. It follows the general advances in Mid-Continent and other crudes posted last week, and raises all Louisiana grades, except Cotton Valley, 15 cents, Eldorado crudes the same amount and all Smackover grades five cents. Cotton Valley is raised 10 cents.

Five Above Postings.

The raise still leaves Shreveport, Eldorado and Atlantic Oil Producing company prices on Smackover 24 gravity and below five cents more than postings by other pipe lines; also, these two buyers and Louisiana Oil Refining company. They carry grade 20 and above at $1.40 and 23 to 23.9 at 95 cents and below 23 at 90 cents while top prices of the Standard, Gulf and Texas pipe line compipe line companies are $1.35 for Smackover 27 and above and the lowest grade, 24 and below, is 85 cents.

Practically All Met.

With the exception of Smackover grades, all postings by the Standard were met all down the line except by the Texas Pipe Line company, which had not heard from Houston headquarters late in the day; Atlantic Oil Producing company, which quotes only Haynesville and Homer in Louisiana, and did not raise Stephens during the day. Atlantic is the only pipe line company quoting Stephens and Nevada county, Ark., crude is not posted by any pipe line. The new prices range: Caddo light, $2.20 to $2. Caddo heavy $1.85, Homer 31 to 35 and above $1.75 to $1.95; below 31, $1.60; Haynesville and Eldorado 33 and above $1.85; below 33, $1.75; Bull Bayou 32 to 38 and above, $1.70 to $2; Smackover 27 and above, $1.35; 26 to 26.9, $1.30; 25 to 25.9, $1.25; 24 to 24.9, $1.15; below 24, 85 cents; De Soto, $2.05; Crichton, $1.85; Bellevue, $1.90; Cotton Valley, $1.10.

Bandits Raid Holland Bank in Daylight

HOLLAND, Texas, July 15.—An abandoned automobile of the same make used by five men at noon today in holding up the First National bank of Holland and escaping with $1,850, was found three hours afterwards in river bottoms near Vilas, 12 miles from here. The car contained three [illegible] of khaki overalls said to have been worn by the bandits. The automobile is believed to have been one stolen from a service car driver at Temple early this morning.

Two masked men held up Logan McWhinney, cashier, while a third man maneuvered an automobile containing two confederates who watched the streets just outside the bank. McWhinney was forced into the vault at the point of a pistol and after shutting the door, the two men looted the bank. They overlooked $4,000. The two masked men then left in another car.

A burglar device on the vault door prevented it from locking.

Scores of persons witnessed the robbery and several shots were fired at the bandits as they sped out of town in a northerly direction.

This is the second bank robbery here this year, the First State bank having been robbed several months ago of $40,. Burglars failed to open the safe of the First State bank.

Gas Tax Revenue To Go to Road—Burkett

AUSTIN, July 15.—(AP)—The third called session of the 38th legislature enacted a law providing three-fourth of the revenues derived from the one cent a gallon gasoline tax shall be deposited to the credit of the highway department and the highway department bill passed by the thirty-ninth legislature re-appropriates such revenues for the same purpose, in the opinion of Joe Burkett, member of the highway commission. Mr. Burkett today was asked by the commission to study the gasoline tax law.

May Organize Road Association in Fall

AUSTIN, July 15.—(AP)—Organization of a Texas highway maintenance association is expected to take place at Sweetwater August 6 and 7, when all state highway maintenance employes of West Txas will assmble, said Senator Joe Burkett, highway commissioner, who has direct supervision over West Texas highway matters.

TECH STUDENTS MARTICULATE

Pupils Taking Interest in Newest Texas School, Says Bledsoe

FORT WORTH, July 15.—Matriculations fo rthe fall term at Texas Technicogical college have already opened, according to Senator S. W. H. Bledsoe of Lubbock, who was in Fort Worth today on business.

The registrar has already opened his offic at Lubbock and indications are that the full quota of students will have matriculated prior t othe opening of the college i nthe early fall. The college buildings are going up rapidly and will be ready for occupancy some time in September.

Waurika

NEW TRAIN SCHEDULE.

A new train schedule went into effect Sunday on the Enid and Anadarko branch, which gives better mail service to the towns between Waurika and Lawton. The morning train leaves Waurika now at 8 a. m. instead of 2 p. m., giving the towns along the branch the benefit of an early morning paper.

TO CONTINUE POWER PLANT.

The report that the Southwestern Light and Power company which recently purchased the Consumers Light and Power company plant at this place, would discontinue the Waurika power plant is not true, according to Earl R. Ernsberger, president and general manager. The plant here will be used for a sub-station for the high line service which will be installed at once, work having already been begun on the line from here to Lawton. More employes will be required than under the management of the Consumers, with an appreciable decrease in rates.

DEMONSTRATION CLUBS MEET.

The four Home Demonstration clubs in Jefferson county held an all-day picnic Wednesday, July 15, at the Turner ranch, three miles south and four east of Claypool. Each of the 18 clubs were represented. From 10 a. m. until noon there were games, songs and yells. At noon a bountiful basket dinner was spread and the afternoon was given over to a business meeting of the county junior federation with the completion of plans for the trip to Stillwater. Mountain home is the official representative of Jefferson county, but there will be delegates from several clubs who will attend the state meeting held at that place August 1.

THIS WOMAN'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Entirely Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Forest City, Iowa.—"My first child lived only a short time and I was sick for a year after. When I bent over and raised myself up again I could almost scream with pain in my back. One day I was so bad that I had to leave my washing and get ready to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine but it did no more good than if I drank just water. Once when we had been in town a little book telling about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was left in our car. I have taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound now and I do all my housework and help with the milking and taking care of chickens and garden. Besides I have a fine baby girl eight months old, just the picture of health and I am feeling fine myself. You may use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. OSCAR F. BORGELIN, Route No. 5, Forest City, Iowa.

HEIGHTS AREA IN SAN ANTONIO WIND BLOWN

Considerable Property Damage and Heavy Rainfall Reported Wednesday

SAN ANTONIO, July 15. — Considerable property damage was wrought in Los Angeles Heights in the northwestern section of the city this afternoon, when wind, at time taking on cyclonic proportions, blew garages and barns from their foundations, uprooted trees and levelled telephone poles. At least 50 telephones were put out of commission, and telephone and electric light service was temporarily paralyzed in the vicinity of Blanco road and Beacon avenue, where the greatest damage occurred. The stricken area was four blocks long and about 500 yards wide. No one was injured.

The rain and windstorm broke suddenly at 2:30 o'clock with the thermometer standing at 102 degrees. The rain, measuring .72 of an inch, came in torrents while it lasted and for a time storm sewers were taxed to capacity. The San Antonio river rose slightly with the water covering the concrete channel sides. The mercury descended from the high point to 70 degrees, a drop of 32 points in fifteen minutes.

45 Cats Turned Out Of Home, Return In Spite of the Law

NEWPORT, Ky.—A cat, once it has found a loving mistress or master, presumably will not leave home for a long period of absence. At least it was so proven here when 45 cats, driven out of the home of Mrs. Maggie Zeidler by policemen and officers of the sanitary department, found their way back home again.

The officers shooed the cats out of Mrs. Zeidler's house upon complaints lodged by her neighbors, after Mrs. Zeidler had refused to destroy or otherwise dispose of the pets. She decided to move at the expiration of her lease rather than give up her cats. The new location will be large enough to accommodate them.

—to have a good APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells,—the spark that rejogs your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Boone are defendants, and said petition alleging that the Silver Roll Oil association is an unincorporated company and a joint stock association, with the above named parties as stockholders therein, organized on December 3, 1919, and carrying on business in Wichita county, Texas; that the said Silver Roll Oil association owns in fee a strip of land in Wichita county, Texas, consisting of 161.2 acres, being a part of a 483 1-2 acre tract, which tract is all of blocks 1, 2 and 3, Knott Bros. subdivision, as per plat in book Y, page 506, deed records of Wichita county, Texas, said tract of land being fully described in a deed from Daniel J. Erdman and wife to J. H. McLean, in book 72, pages 587-588 deed records of Wichita county, Texas, to which reference is here made; that no division of said assets of the partnership can be made without the sale of the 161.2 acres of land, which is all the assets of said company, and that said partnership is no longer active and that it never drilled a well for oil and gas on the land above described, for which purpose it was organized. Plaintiff prays for dissolution of said partnership and distribution of the assets pro rata to the stockholders, as above set out.

Herein fail not but have before said court, at its aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls on this the 14th day of July, 1925. A. F. KERR, Clerk
(Seal) Dist. Court Wichita Co., Tex.

BANKRUPTCY SALE.

LIONS PUT O; K. ON BUSINESS OF CHICK FARM

Not Until They Feed up On Dr. Graham's Poultry, However

Chicken predominated last night when the Wichita Falls Lions club was the guest of Dr. R. H. Graham on his chicken ranch near Call Field.

Dr. R. H. Graham.

Arriving on the farm shortly after 7 o'clock, Doctor Graham informed his guests that a round of inspection was in order. Hundreds of chickens going to roost greeted the members of the club.

Inside the ranch house a short time later, seemingly hundreds of other chickens greeted the guests. Stacked high on platters they presented an imposing sight to the tired business men who had waited long and patiently, and passed over two weekly luncheons for the sake of viewing.

Rev. J. J. Bell, official chaplain of the club first called down the blessings on the repast and the members were invited to go to it, by the club president, H. J. Bruce.

The dinner over, the platters only a distant memory of what they had been a few minutes before, the members settled back to enjoy a smoke and hear some music. They reckoned, however, without the mind of their host, whose love for chickens had led him in the past into many long orations at the club luncheons on the business of raising chickens.

H. J. Bruce.

The chickens then had their inning. Doctor Graham called upon several of the club members to air their views on the chicken industry, and as a prelude gave his own views.

That is the story in full. The club was kept in continuous laughter for the hour as each member was called upon to express himself. Known as an informal club the Lions, the tributes paid to their host by chicken fed guests added still more to this reputation.

In a serious moment the club unanimously voted to commend Doctor Graham for his invitation and banquet, and accepted on their own behalf a future invitation to dine at the ranch at some other day.

Announcement was made by President Bruce that the regular weekly luncheon of the club would be held in the Kemp hotel next Wednesday noon. At that time reports on all committees appointed will be called for and reports will be made by members who attended the international convention of Lions during the past week.

Coolidges Visit At Quincy Adams Home

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 15.—(AP)—In the roll of sightseers, President and Mrs. Coolidge today visited the 300-year-old city of Quincy, where John Adams and John Quincy Adams, the only two other residents of Massachusetts to become president, were born and buried.

Cruising down the coast from Marblehead on the Mayflower, the President and Mrs. Coolidge, with a small party of guests, debarked at the fore river yard of the Bethlehem shipbuilding corporation, a stone's throw from the airplane carrier Lexington, which is nearing completion.

Views the Lexington.

From the deck of his yacht the president viewed with interest the huge red hull of the Lexington, but did not go to inspect the craft.

Leaving the shipyards by motor, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge first went to a small frame house, the birthplace of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

Later the party crossed to an adjoining yard where stood the modest frame dwelling where John Adams was born.

Before going back to the yacht for the return cruise to Marblehead, the president and Mrs. Coolidge visited the first parish church, in the basement of which is the resting place of both John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

A. P. Man There.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were accompanied by Melville E. Stone, their house guests, Secretary Sanders and a dozen photographers who made the trip at the express invitation of the president.

Mr. Coolidge evinced great interest in the historical spots in Quincy which last month celebrated its 300th anniversary. In the John Quincy Adams birthplace, he studied numerous prints and old pictures which covered the walls, gazed at the planked ceiling with cross beams, and walked up a creaky flight of stairs to take a look at the four posted canopy bed, covered with patch quilts. Both houses have been restored as much as possible to their condition in the late 18th century.

ENGLISH ESCHEW DIAMONDS.

Jewelers On Island Don't Display Wares Except for Americans.

LONDON.—Diamonds as large as hazelnuts in settings for men have attracted much attention here lately where jewelry of this kind is sold chiefly to Americans. Englishmen, excepting in rare instances, never wear diamonds, especially as rings, and on this account they are never seen in the jewelry shops until spring when the tourist season opens.

Dealers here say the Americans are buying fewer diamonds than formerly. This is attributed to the fact that the stones are approximately as dear here as in the United States now that the pound sterling is virtually at par, and in addition purchasers are expected to pay the 60 per cent duty when arriving on the other side.

Two Scenes from Feature Pictures Showing At Theatres This Week

AT MISSION TODAY

DOG STAR AT OLYMPIC

Rin-Tin-Tin Showing In "Tracked In the Snow Country"

The Olympic theatre has for its current attraction another of those remarkable Warner Bros. photoplays starring Rin-Tin-Tin, the uncannily sagacious German shepherd dog. This time the story is called "Tracked in the Snow Country."

Rin-Tin-Tin has made a number of pictures, among them "Where the North Begins," "Find Your Man," and "The Lighthouse by the Sea," with the result that most people who are at all regular in their attendance at photoplay theatres have seen him at some time or other. Any picture in which he is starred is chiefly interesting for the particular new thrill which he gives it—since he can always be depended upon to do something which dogs are not in the habit of doing.

In "Ttracked in the Snow Country" Rin-Tin-Tin creates most excitement by his final thrilling fight with the villian, saving his master, the hero, the girl and the mine from his unscrupulous hands. This is only one of the incidents of the action which leads one to believe that here is a dog that really thinks.

Beautiful June Marlowe has the principal—and practically the only—feminine role in the photoplay. She is always mighty easy to look at and in this particular picture she proves conclusively that she has real ability as an actress and is likely to go far in the motion picture profession, to the ranks of which she is a comparatively new addition. David Butler plays opposite her, in the role of the young forest ranger who has been smitten by her charms. Mitchell Lewis, who has been the "bad man" in scores of pictures of this character, is the villian of the piece.

"Baree, Son of Kazan" Features Wolf, Famous Dog Star of Films

Wolf, who plays the title role in "Baree, Son of Karzan," the photoplay special opening at the Mission today, is probably the most remarkable dog alive. He is a World War hero and a wearer of the Croix de Guerre. This decoration was pinned to his collar by Marshal Foch himself, that occasion being the only one on which a dog was ever personally decorated by a French marshal.

Anita Stewart, the star in the picture, wishes she might have Baree always, so attached to him did she become when the filming of outdoor scenes for "Baree, Son of Karzan," was in progress near Donner Lake, Cal. Wolf took a deep liking to her also and to show his affection acted as her special escort and guardian when the company was trudging through deep snowdrifts in the California mountains. He was more at home in that severe climate than was the star.

When the end of the production work was approaching Miss Stewart toop steps which she hoped would make it possible for Wolf to remain with her for a long time to come. She tried to buy the dog actor. What her original offer was has not been made public, but Miss Stewart raised tse bids repeatedly until $5,000 was reached. The owner refused to be tempted even by this sum, however, much to the star's disappointment.

"What's It All About?" Offering At the Palace for Today Only

"What's It All About," is the three-act farce comedy being offered for the second time today at the Palace theatre by the Ches Davis Musical Revue. The play is a laughable story containing many humorous incidents.

Among the feature acts being offered by the company is that of Kenny Brenns, the "Mayor of Laughland," better known as the man who "Is funny before he speaks. Kenna is the originator of the humorous character "Smaltz."

Ches Davis will appear again in one of his incomparable black face roles. He is known for his ability to impersonate the negro of the south and plays his characters true to life.

The head liner of the specialty acts is that of "The Spanish Troubadours", a jazz band orchestra that plays music most popular to the audience at the time. Their Spanish pieces have gained quite a name for this popular orchestra.

There is the Mart-Jiggs-Moran act. These stellar actors were formerly with the Maggie and Jiggs company of New York, and bring with them many incidents gathered in the course of their travels with this company.

"The Imperial Four," a harmony quartet will also sing all the popular songs.

The Palace has been playing to record crowds for the past week, over 3,000 tickets being sold Monday evening.

JAPAN HAS RAIL TROUBLES

Dropping Off of Revenue Said To Have Hurt Lines.

TOKIO, July — Even Japan is having its railway troubles, a statement recently attributed to Vice-Minister of Railways Aoki shows. Mr. Aoki said that trade depression had caused a decided drop in the railway traffic revenue and that there were many freight cars lying idle. Unless there is a decided improvement in the near future it is feared the situation may seriously affect the budget for the current fiscal year.

During May there was a falling off of 3,259 tons from the normal freight handled. The average freight revenue was 518,180 yen, or 22,743 yen less than for the same period last year.

JAP EXTENDS TRAINING.

All Normal Schools of Country Take Up Military Work.

TOKYO.—The military training of all students in Japan, which is embodied in the proposed national military training system, was commenced recently in the normal schools of the empire. It is planned to extend the system to the students of the middle and other schools of the higher grade next year.

The estimated cost of inaugurating the program in the lower and higher grades has been estimated at 6,000,000 yen. It is hoped that the new system will be in operation by 1928. The military authorities will be asked to supply some 300,000 rifles to the different schools and young men's associations.

Gives advice to Expectant Mothers

"I HAD an awful time with my first baby," writes Mrs. Theo. Willey, 431 E. Ohio St., Indianapolis, Ind. "They had to give me chloroform and use instruments. They thought I would die. But before my second baby came I used 'Mother's Friend' and baby was born with only a few pains and before a doctor could arrive. I also used 'Mother's Friend' with my third baby. I was only sick a little while and she also was born before the doctor arrived. I cannot praise 'Mother's Friend' enough. I tell every one I see who is expecting to become a mother about 'Mother's Friend.'"

MUCH WORK IS BEING PLANNED BY CHRISTIANS

Plans About Complete For "Church School Of Missions"

The First Christian church of this city is laying plans for one of the most progressive and outstanding programs ever attempted by a local church, reported church officials. officials. Realizing that the church must do more today to train its leadership, its program is being built with this in mind and not constructed with the idea numbers, but with the standpoint of having the Christ life register in the lives of individuals.

ATKINSON

"We are not ready to make full announcements concerning all of the plans," stated W. J. Spreen, educational director of the church, Wednesday afternoon.

Church School.

Plans are about complete for the "church school of missions." "This church school of missions is not a theory," emphasized Mr. Spreen, "but a clearly conceived and successfully operated plan of missionary education which seeks to enilude the whole church in its classes." The plan is made to increase misionary vision and kindle missionary ardor in the church. It is a definite plan to help the church interpret the commission of Christ in terms of today.

The closing program will make the final study hour a life decision service for the young people.

A thirty-minute social and refreshments will precede the study which will be held Sunday evening before the preaching hour. The six groups to be organized are: Primary, study hour; Junior; Intermediate; Senior, young people, and Adult, men and women. Every quarter's work will be different, thus making it optional for those who enroll to take those courses which they feel they need. The church authorities reported themselves exceedingly fortunate in the material for the faculty. One o fthe worthy members will be John W. Bradley, in charge of the Bible study.

Last Six Weeks.

The courses will last for six weeks, the leadship training courses to begin about the middle of October. The new standard teacher training course will be used with an abundance of collateral reading and laboratory work. While the courses will be offered for the members o fthe First Christian church, a limited amount from other Christian churches will be admitted into the school. "Dared" to Attempt Assault On White Woman, Mexican Is Met By Bullet and a Motorcycle Officer

Paving Crew Worker Enters Home on Collins Street To Prove to Companions He Had Nerve, Is Report

TAUNTS from fellow-workers in a paving crew led Jesus Cruz, a Mexican laborer, on an invasion of a Collins street home Wednesday afternoon that later resulted in his capture and filing of criminal charges against him. He was in jail last night.

The Mexican, spurred on by the "dares" of his companions, entered the back door of the ome and was promptly chased out by the lady of the house who fired one shot at him from a .25 calibre automatic. The mechanism of the gun hung after one shot was fired and prevented further damage.

A call to the police station brought Motorcycle Officer Joe Persky to the scene and he arrested the Mexican who was returning to work. At the county attorney's office he gave through interpreters a statement that led to filing of the charges.

ENGLISH ARE ILL FED.

British People Are Said to Be Most Poorly Fed in World.

MANCHESTER, England.—The British nation is the worst fed nation in the world, and chemists have become the greatest slayers of mankind, Sir William Milligan, M. D., declared in opening a food exhibition here. The British diet, on the average, was insufficient, ill-balanced and monotonous, he said, cooking left much to be desired and the quality of food supplies was open to grave suspicion. He attributed much of the dyspepsia, gastro-intestinal disease and intestinal lethargy to the tendency of people to live on preserved foods.

"Our chemists," he added "have become, because of this tendency, in a sense almost the greatest slayers of mankind. Responding doubtless to a popular demand, they have worked at the discovery of food preservatives and these have been so largely used that, along with the results of cold storage, food became literally mumified."

HOKEY POKEY GIRLS NOW

English Firm Uses Girls Instead of Men to Peddle Ice Cream.

LONDON, July — The "hokey pokey" girl has appeared in London—hundreds of her. The hokey pokey ice cream man rriaved three or four years ago, by leaps and bounds, and is now a familiar sight in any part of London, every afternoon and evening during the war weather. One firm alone has 1,500 men, on three wheeled bicycles, who sell ice cream sandwiches for a penny, and recently another firm, with the same conveyance for carrying the ice cream packs, started with young women as dispensers.

The contention is made that girls naturally take more interest in their work, and are capable of making more sales because of their ability to make friends more quickly and to handle the hokey pokey more daintily than their men and boy competitors.

Danger Signals Of Indigestion

The Disease That Strikes Like Lightning

Beware of indigestion—the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning, by physicians, is particularly applicable this season of the year, when your system "let-down" in tone and vigor on account low warm weather.

What are the warnings that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical books fells us: 1. Gas, which means that your food is fermenting instead of digesting. 2. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up gainst your heart and lungs. 3. A dull lazy feeling., which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you are eating. 4. Restlessness, un-refreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 5. Sometimes, pain and fluttering around the heart, though this symptom may come later.

Don't take chances with indigestion—you are too apt to lose. If you have had any of the symptoms mentioned above, get your digestive organs to work at once with Ferraline, Nature's great stomach treatment that has given relief to thousands. Ferraline immediately aids and assists every one of your digestive organs, including your stomach, liver and bowels. Ferraline makes your digestion "perfect and complete." ONCE UPON A TIME — THE THREE LITTLE PIGS. IV

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

LIONS PUT O; K. ON BUSINESS OF CHICK FARM

Not Until They Feed up On Dr. Graham's Poultry, However

Chicken predominated last night when the Wichita Falls Lions club was the guest of Dr. R. H. Graham on his chicken ranch near Call Field.

Dr. R. H. Graham.

Arriving on the farm shortly after 7 o'clock, Doctor Graham informed his guests that a round of inspection was in order. Hundreds of chickens going to roost greeted the members of the club.

Inside the ranch house a short time later, seemingly hundreds of other chickens greeted the guests. Stacked high on platters they presented an imposing sight to the tired business men who had waited long and patiently, and passed over two weekly luncheons for the sake of viewing.

Rev. J. J. Bell, official chaplain of the club first called down the blessings on the repast and the members were invited to go to it, by the club president, H. J. Bruce.

The dinner over, the platters only a distant memory of what they had been a few minutes before, the members settled back to enjoy a smoke and hear some music. They reckoned, however, without the mind of their host, whose love for chickens had led him in the past into many long orations at the club luncheons on the business of raising chickens.

H. J. Bruce.

The chickens then had their inning. Doctor Graham called upon several of the club members to air their views on the chicken industry, and as a prelude gave his own views.

That is the story in full. The club was kept in continuous laughter for the hour as each member was called upon to express himself. Known as an informal club the Lions, the tributes paid to their host by chicken fed guests added still more to this reputation.

In a serious moment the club unanimously voted to commend Doctor Graham for his invitation and banquet, and accepted on their own behalf a future invitation to dine at the ranch at some other day.

Announcement was made by President Bruce that the regular weekly luncheon of the club would be held in the Kemp hotel next Wednesday noon. At that time reports on all committees appointed will be called for and reports will be made by members who attended the international convention of Lions during the past week.

Coolidges Visit At Quincy Adams Home

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 15.—(AP)—In the roll of sightseers, President and Mrs. Coolidge today visited the 300-year-old city of Quincy, where John Adams and John Quincy Adams, the only two other residents of Massachusetts to become president, were born and buried.

Cruising down the coast from Marblehead on the Mayflower, the President and Mrs. Coolidge, with a small party of guests, debarked at the fore river yard of the Bethlehem shipbuilding corporation, a stone's throw from the airplane carrier Lexington, which is nearing completion.

Views the Lexington.

From the deck of his yacht the president viewed with interest the huge red hull of the Lexington, but did not go to inspect the craft.

Leaving the shipyards by motor, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge first went to a small frame house, the birthplace of John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States.

Later the party crossed to an adjoining yard where stood the modest frame dwelling where John Adams was born.

Before going back to the yacht for the return cruise to Marblehead, the president and Mrs. Coolidge visited the first parish church, in the basement of which is the resting place of both John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

A. P. Man There.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were accompanied by Melville E. Stone, their house guests, Secretary Sanders and a dozen photographers who made the trip at the express invitation of the president.

Mr. Coolidge evinced great interest in the historical spots in Quincy which last month celebrated its 300th anniversary. In the John Quincy Adams birthplace, he studied numerous prints and old pictures which covered the walls, gazed at the planked ceiling with cross beams, and walked up a creaky flight of stairs to take a look at the four posted canopy bed, covered with patch quilts. Both houses have been restored as much as possible to their condition in the late 18th century.

ENGLISH ESCHEW DIAMONDS.

Jewelers On Island Don't Display Wares Except for Americans.

LONDON.—Diamonds as large as hazelnuts in settings for men have attracted much attention here lately where jewelry of this kind is sold chiefly to Americans. Englishmen, excepting in rare instances, never wear diamonds, especially as rings, and on this account they are never seen in the jewelry shops until spring when the tourist season opens.

Dealers here say the Americans are buying fewer diamonds than formerly. This is attributed to the fact that the stones are approximately as dear here as in the United States now that the pound sterling is virtually at par, and in addition purchasers are expected to pay the 60 per cent duty when arriving on the other side.

Two Scenes from Feature Pictures Showing At Theatres This Week

AT THE OLYMPIC

AT MISSION TODAY

DOG STAR AT OLYMPIC

Rin-Tin-Tin Showing In "Tracked In the Snow Country"

The Olympic theatre has for its current attraction another of those remarkable Warner Bros. photoplays starring Rin-Tin-Tin, the uncannily sagacious German shepherd dog. This time the story is called "Tracked in the Snow Country."

Rin-Tin-Tin has made a number of pictures, among them "Where the North Begins," "Find Your Man," and "The Lighthouse by the Sea," with the result that most people who are at all regular in their attendance at photoplay theatres have seen him at some time or other. Any picture in which he is starred is chiefly interesting for the particular new thrill which he gives it—since he can always be depended upon to do something which dogs are not in the habit of doing.

In "Ttracked in the Snow Country" Rin-Tin-Tin creates most excitement by his final thrilling fight with the villian, saving his master, the hero, the girl and the mine from his unscrupulous hands. This is only one of the incidents of the action which leads one to believe that here is a dog that really thinks.

Beautiful June Marlowe has the principal—and practically the only—feminine role in the photoplay. She is always mighty easy to look at and in this particular picture she proves conclusively that she has real ability as an actress and is likely to go far in the motion picture profession, to the ranks of which she is a comparatively new addition. David Butler plays opposite her, in the role of the young forest ranger who has been smitten by her charms. Mitchell Lewis, who has been the "bad man" in scores of pictures of this character, is the villian of the piece.

"Baree, Son of Kazan" Features Wolf, Famous Dog Star of Films

Wolf, who plays the title role in "Baree, Son of Karzan," the photoplay special opening at the Mission today, is probably the most remarkable dog alive. He is a World War hero and a wearer of the Croix de Guerre. This decoration was pinned to his collar by Marshal Foch himself, that occasion being the only one on which a dog was ever personally decorated by a French marshal.

Anita Stewart, the star in the picture, wishes she might have Baree always, so attached to him did she become when the filming of outdoor scenes for "Baree, Son of Karzan," was in progress near Donner Lake, Cal. Wolf took a deep liking to her also and to show his affection acted as her special escort and guardian when the company was trudging through deep snowdrifts in the California mountains. He was more at home in that severe climate than was the star.

When the end of the production work was approaching Miss Stewart toop steps which she hoped would make it possible for Wolf to remain with her for a long time to come. She tried to buy the dog actor. What her original offer was has not been made public, but Miss Stewart raised tse bids repeatedly until $5,000 was reached. The owner refused to be tempted even by this sum, however, much to the star's disappointment.

"What's It All About?" Offering At the Palace for Today Only

"What's It All About," is the three-act farce comedy being offered for the second time today at the Palace theatre by the Ches Davis Musical Revue. The play is a laughable story containing many humorous incidents.

Among the feature acts being offered by the company is that of Kenny Brenna, the "Mayor of Laughland," better known as the man who "Is funny before he speaks. Kenna is the originator of the humorous character "Smaltz."

Ches Davis will appear again in one of his incomparable black face roles. He is known for his ability to impersonate the negro of the south and plays his characters true to life.

The head liner of the specialty acts is that of "The Spanish Troubadours", a jazz band orchestra that plays music most popular to the audience at the time. Their Spanish pieces have gained quite a name for this popular orchestra.

There is the Mart-Jiggs-Moran act. These stellar actors were formerly with the Maggie and Jiggs company of New York, and bring with them many incidents gathered in the course of their travels with this company.

"The Imperial Four," a harmony quartet will also sing all the popular songs.

The Palace has been playing to record crowds for the past week, over 3,000 tickets being sold Monday evening.

JAPAN HAS RAIL TROUBLES

Dropping Off of Revenue Said To Have Hurt Lines.

TOKIO, July — Even Japan is having its railway troubles, a statement recently attributed to Vice-Minister of Railways Aoki shows. Mr. Aoki said that trade depression had caused a decided drop in the railway traffic revenue and that there were many freight cars lying idle. Unless there is a decided improvement in the near future it is feared the situation may seriously affect the budget for the current fiscal year.

During May there was a falling off of 3,259 tons from the normal freight handled. The average freight revenue was 518,180 yen, or 22,743 yen less than for the same period last year.

JAP EXTENDS TRAINING.

All Normal Schools of Country Take Up Military Work.

TOKYO.—The military training of all students in Japan, which is embodied in the proposed national military training system, was commenced recently in the normal schools of the empire. It is planned to extend the system to the students of the middle and other schools of the higher grade next year.

The estimated cost of inaugurating the program in the lower and higher grades has been estimated at 6,000,000 yen. It is hoped that the new system will be in operation by 1928. The military authorities will be asked to supply some 300,000 rifles to the different schools and young men's associations.

MUCH WORK IS BEING PLANNED BY CHRISTIANS

Plans About Complete For "Church School Of Missions"

The First Christian church of this city is laying plans for one of the most progressive and outstanding programs ever attempted by a local church, reported church officials. officials. Realizing that the church must do more today to train its leadership, its program is being built with this in mind and not constructed with the idea numbers, but with the standpoint of having the Christ life register in the lives of individuals.

ATKINSON

"We are not ready to make full announcements concerning all of the plans," stated W. J. Spreen, educational director of the church, Wednesday afternoon.

Church School.

Plans are about complete for the "church school of missions." "This church school of missions is not a theory," emphasized Mr. Spreen, "but a clearly conceived and successfully operated plan of missionary education which seeks to enilude the whole church in its classes." The plan is made to increase misionary vision and kindle missionary ardor in the church. It is a definite plan to help the church interpret the commission of Christ in terms of today.

The closing program will make the final study hour a life decision service for the young people.

A thirty-minute social and refreshments will precede the study which will be held Sunday evening before the preaching hour. The six groups to be organized are: Primary, study hour; Junior; Intermediate; Senior, young people, and Adult, men and women. Every quarter's work will be different, thus making it optional for those who enroll to take those courses which they feel they need. The church authorities reported themselves exceedingly fortunate in the material for the faculty. One o fthe worthy members will be John W. Bradley, in charge of the Bible study.

Last Six Weeks.

The courses will last for six weeks, the leadship training courses to begin about the middle of October. The new standard teacher training course will be used with an abundance of collateral reading and laboratory work. While the courses will be offered for the members o fthe First Christian church, a limited amount from other Christian churches will be admitted into the school. One-Inning Outburst Stows Series Opener for Buffaloes

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By BLONDY CROSS.

WHEW! ISN'T IT HOT! HERD KIND OF GOT THE COWBOY DOWN.

* * *

MAYBE MORGAN.

Who will stop those Buffs?
If we knew the answer, bo,
We'd keep it all a secret
And make ourselves some dough.

* * *

We suggest Morgan and Littlejohn as the pitching selections for this afternoon.

* * *

Just No Good at All.

Now we know our Spudders just ain't no good. Waco golf expert sits himself down on a tee and picks an "all-star" nine from the Texas league (not counting Beaumont), and Bob Osborn's the only Spudder who gets a berth.

* * *

Dell Pratt would manage the "all-stars" and Jakie Aatz probably carry the water bucket, and half the team's made up of Waco players, almost. How unusual.

* * *

Now It's Our Time to Guess.

"Slowly but surely the Philadelphia Athletics are cracking under the strain," quoth Jinx Tucker, another expert, Wednesday morning, whereupon Connie Mack wins a double header Wednesday afternoon and regains leadership of the American league.

* * *

ABOUT WHITE.

Quite a number of Wichita Falls fistic fans have been trundling along under the impression that Tommy White, because he whipped everything in Mexico, is a Mexican.

* * *

Wrong again. White is an American of Scotch-Irish descent, and fought in the World war under Uncle Sam's colors, being wounded in action. White's forefathers fought against the Britishers in 1776 under the colonial flag, he declares, indicating somewhat mental anguish over the fact some of his countrymen have mistaken him for a foreigner.

* * *

CRUEL.

If the Fort Worth team should crack, the fans throughout the circuit would crack their sides laughing, muses one scribe. But think of all the lives that would be lost in Fort Worth. The strain after these five years of successful conquest would be too tough to bear.

* * *

Still Is.

Told Carl Williams, young Spudder center fielder during the absence of Fitzgerald, that he looked like Rogers Hornsby out there.

"Wha-a-at!" he exclaimed with simultaneous enlargement of the optics, and the air of not knowing whether to be insulted or complimented, "I thought he was an infielder."

* * *

"Promoters Work on Two Bouts for Dempsey."

This is a waste of effort. They should work on Dempsey.

* * *

UH-HUH.

Needles and pins,
Needles and pins,
Some days our club loses
But most days it wins.

* * *

As was suspected and predicted, a picture of Mr. Bryan has been printed in the daily papers.

* * *

In printing strip photos of the principals why not label them: "Who's zoo in the monkey suit?" asks Johnny the prima donna.

* * *

Baylor's Jakie Freeze has been sent to Little Rock. As a major leaguer Freeze was a frost.

* * *

The monkey suit has 100 reporters in attendance. Almost a world series, avers intelligent eastern sport writer (as if one could be intelligent and continue to write sports.)

CUBS TAKE OPENER

PHILADELPHIA, July 15. — (AP) — The Cubs opened a four game series here today with 8 to 3 victory. A heavy rain forced the calling of the game in the seventh inning just as the Cubs finished their turn at bat and the score reverting to the sixth inning robbed Griffith of a home run. Alexander helped win his own game by doubling in the second inning with the bases filled and driving in three runs.

DISCH SILENT OVER HIS CONTRACT WITH S. M. U.

AUSTIN, July 15.—(AP)—Just returned from Wisconsin, William Disch, veteran baseball coach of Texas university, refused to say today whether beginning next September he would continue at Texas university or go to Southern Methodist at Dallas. Disch has been seeking release from a S. M. U. contract signed last spring, but thus far has been unsuccessful.

HOUSTON SENDS SEVEN TALLIES ACROSS IN 4TH

Burns Allows Six Safeties, So Herd Lugs Off 7-1 Win

By BLONDY CROSS.

Robert Osborn although a bit under the weather essayed to take his regular turn on the hurling eminence against Houston's league-leading and suddenly hostile Buffaloes, but was swept down and out under a storm of base blows in the fourth stanza. The big right hander breezed through in great style over a span of three couplets, and then the Herd bore down with gusto, crammed the entire game into the one inning, so to speak, routed our Bob, and in batting around scored seven runs.

Bobby Burns, Buff right hander, gave up six hits and one tally, so the Bayou city entry lugged away the laurels in the series opener by a 7-1 margin.

Suds Airs 'Em.

Suds Sutherland went to Bob's rescue after the Herd had stampeded all over the lot, was bumped for a double and a single before the inning was over, and then held the platter inviolate the last five rounds.

The orphan Spudder score came in the sixth. Suds led away with a rippling two-cushion punch to left center, went to third on an infield out, and checked in on tempestuous swat to port by Distel. The Spudders menaced but twice other then in this chapter, and the Buff inner guard squelched both threats via the double play route.

The Game.

Gallagher opened the fourth round orgy with a line single to left. Powell poled a duplicate clout to starboard, and the stampede was on. Gainer laid a sacrifice bunt down first base way, and Dorman threw high to Turgeon covering first. Gallagher galloped to the plate, Powell to third, and Gainer made second. Compton drew a four-balls coupon, and with Peel at bat, Bob uncorked a jungle heave that hit the dirt and ricocheted off Query's shin protector. Powell tabulated, and the other pair on the runways advanced a notch. Peel aviated to Callahan in left with no score. McCurdy was purposely passed, and then Hollohan surprised the world by blasting a double to right center. Three more Buffs lumbered over the pan. Manager Bud gave Suds the high sign, and a change in pitching sceuery was enacted. Burns caught one on the seam for a two-bagger to left center, scoring Hollohan. Correct was that innocent bystander who in the long ago observed: "Miracles never cease." Kane grounded out to Dorman, sending Burns to third. Then Gallagher swished his second liner of the inning, this time to the mid-sector, scoring Burns. Powell forced Gallagher at second, and the game was over. Sure it was. Nobody else scored the rest of the way, and the Spudders only made one run.

Macks Regain First Place By Double Victory

White Sox go Down Under 9 to 7 And 11 to 5 Scores

CHICAGO, July 15—(AP)—Philadelphia regained first place today in the American league pennant race by winning a double header from Chicago by scores of 9 to 7 and 11 to 5, while Washington lost to Detroit. Both games were featured by extra base hitting, the Athletics having entirely the edge over the locals bagging home runs in their collection in addition to numerous triples.

SA NANTONIO 9; SHREVEPORT 3.

SHREVEPORT, July 15.—Playing like an aggregation of sandlotters the Shreveport Sports went down to defeat before the San Antonio Bears 9 to 3 today. Thompson who started the game was relieved by Malone in the third inning with four runs scored against him and not a tally was earned. The Sports were saved from a shoutout by a homer by Wisterzil followed by another circuit blow by Bonowitz with a man on base. All three runs were made in the seventh. The Bears did not need to hit to win behind Collard as the locals booted him into a lead.

Western League Club Sends Call for Frederick Athlete

FREDERICK, Okla., July 15.—Ireland Allbright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Allbright of Frederick, has been issued a call by Manager Gregory of the Wichita, Kans., Western league team, to report for a tryout by August 18.

Allbright is an infielder and played for two years as shortstop for the San Marcos academy team at San Marcos, Texas. It was in games of this team that Gregory scouted the lad last year and liked his style of play.

Young Allbright is now attending the cotton school in Stillwater at Oklahoma A. and M. college and will probably report at the close of the term.

Dempsey Returns Looking for Big Battle—Haw, Haw!

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion and his bride, the former Estelle Taylor, returned from Europe today on the liner Homeric which docked late this afternoon.

Dempsey said he was prepared to fight once this year, probably in September with Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, as his opponent.

Asked about a fight with Harry Wills, Dempsey said he would be ready for him next year.

Dempsey said he had an offer from Floyd Fitzsimmons for a fight at Michigan City, Indiana, on Labor Day with Bartley Madden as an opponent.

Magnolias Beat Lina Motor, 5-3

ELECTRA, July 15.—The Magnolias jumped on the Lina Motor crew Monday for a 5 to 3 win. The motormen bunched hits only in the fourth when three bingles and an error accounted for their three runs.

Tommy Courtney of the Mags, had a perfect day at the bat, getting a single and a pair of walks out of three trips to the plate. Troy Ray of the Mags got a brace of singles out of three trips with the willow. Herman Gibson, Lina Motor receiver, got a triple in the fourth at the expense of Sargent.

The Mags scored their first run in the initial inning on Courtney's pass and a double by Hipps. Three more came in the third on Ray's single, Courtney's walk, Sargent's double and Wilburn's sacrifice fly.

The motormen got their three counters in the fourth on singles by Warren and West, a three bagger by Gibson, and an error.

The Magmen got their final tally in the fourth on singles by Ray and Courtney and an error.

White Favorite Over Trammel In Legion Feature Tonight

Ed Hughes' Column

MANY STRANGE DIAMOND FEATS AND DEFEATS.

Baseball has produced its share of odd sport records. In fact more than any other sport the grand old so-called national pastime has been the means of trick feats and grotesque events taking their place in the records. Consider a few of these.

Way back in 1886 Matt Kilroy of Baltimore fanned 16 Philadelphia players and gave but 2 hits, yet had the colossal hard luck to lose three to nothing. Old Mrs. Jinx certainly picked Kilroy for her favorite son that day.

Cliff Markle, pitching for the Reds on May 12, 1922, relieved Couch, pitched one out and beat Brooklyn, as Cincinnati made two runs in their half—winning the game! A somewhat different performance from old Matt's, this.

Ken Williams right u pamong the home run leaders this year made home runs in five consecutive days in 1922—his streak extending from July 28 to August 1. This was some swatting—and broke all known records.

In 1911 the Giants didn't waste any time in putting a game with St. Louis on the ice. On May 13th the New York team succeeded in scoring the first nine men that faced a troup of weary hurlers, a feat that will stand for quite some time to come.

* * *

STYLISTS IN THE REALM OF SPORT.

Walter Hoover's sculling match with Jack Beresford the English champion last Monday recalls the sensation the American made a few years ago when the two first met and Hoover won. Hoover is astylist, and his methods of rowing at the time were a distinct shock to the British, who thought they knew what technique and tactics could and could not win a race. Although they admitted he was great, yet some bitter things were said of his "form" which the British connoisseurs of rowing said was awful. Hoover, they maintained, sat too low in his boat and there were other things about his style which did not appeal to them. Yet Hoover had just then won their celebrated Diamond Sculls, the first American to turn the trick since the days of Ten Eyck.

Speaking of natural styles must inevitably call up a picture of Harry Greb, who so thoroughly trounced Mickey Walker in New York recently. Greb is known as "the chap" who does everything wrong. Yet the "wind-mill" is the middleweight champion, once held the light heavy title, and only the other night thrashed welter weight champion, Walker. A "man who does everything wrong," and yet become a champion must be a natural stylist.

* * *

THEN TAKE BABE RUTH.

His style of swinging at the ball is as free of rules as the making of hash. In tennis you have had one of th egenuine wizards of the court as a natural stylist. According to the book he is dead wrong. The influence of his style on th eyoung idea is said to be a menace, by some, but not by his writer. We refer, of course, to Norman E. Brooks, the Australian marvel.

Then there is Wallace Johnson, the exasperating Philadelphian who plays a very "soft" game. Johnson "cuts," that is past a deadly spin on the ball. He looks easy to beat with his lady-like technique antagonists that any one can draw in a tourney.

Maurice McLoughlin, the once famed "Comet" of the courts was a natural stylist. No tennis instructor with common sense would ever have advocated playing the game at such a tremendous pace as McLoughlin employed. "Red Mac" smashed almost every ball with all his strength. He played with a picturesque fury—the Jack Dempsey of the courts, that's what he was!

* * *

PECULIAR STYLES OF FAMOUS RINGMEN.

The ring has boasted many natural stylists.

First of all the moderns is the king himself—Jack Dedpsey. Many of our great fighters of the past never received a lesson i ntheir lives. Dempsey himself is one of them. The time-honored means of defense and offense do not concern him. He is a natural stylist and does not need them. Dempsey's shifting, weaving, and bobbing of the head tactics constitute what means of defense he has. It is radically different from the regulation style of defense. Jack Johnson, for instance, was a good example of an excellent standard defense.

Jack stood flat on his feet, moving only his hands to block the other fellow's blows. Johnson picked his rival's thrusts out of the air, or else stopped them before they were well started, by catching his opponent's biceps. Spiking the guns, as it were.

Then there was the immortal Stanley Ketchel, another unforgetable natural stylist. Ketchel fought something on the order of Dempsey. He shifted about and sent in blows from every conceivable angle. Ketchel, like Dempsey wasn't much on blocking, and like Dempsey, the "Assassin" never had the benefit of a boxing system.

* * *

GRIFFO'S STYLE A NATURAL TALENT.

Battling Nelson, Terry McGovern, Young Griffo, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Corbett, Jim Jeffries—all these were natural stylists.

Nelson introduced an astonishingly new mode of fisticuffing. Bat's scheme was to sop up all the punishment the other fellow could deal. Having abnormal powers of endurance Nelson was able to sop up punishment which would have killed an ordinary lightweight. When the other fellow became arm-weary and heart sick, Nelson simply walked in and pushed him over.

McGovern was the nearest thing to a human tornado the ring has ever produced. Young Griffo was probably the greatest natural born boxer that ever drew on a mit. His timing, his judgment of distance was nothing short of wizardous. No text book could have taught it, and if it could have, Griffo would surely have been too dull, mentally, to understand.

Fitzsimmons had a natural style, for he was a naturally tricky fellow. He liked to "decoy" an opponent, feigning grogginess when he was full strong and merely waiting fo rthe opportunity to deliver a "crusher."

Jim Corbett introduced a new style of boxing when he whipped John L. His rapid, hitting, feinting, and footwork were natural qualities—an expression of his personality which was keen, colorful, and lively.

Jeffries had a style manufactured for him by Tommy Ryan, who taught him to fight from a crouch. However, Jeff mastered the proposition so thoroughly in the fight with Fitzsimmons (for which it was invented) that he stuck to it thereafter. It became most natural for him to scrap in the bent over position.

Paavo Nurmi's running style was the most natural one ever exhibited in this country. He carried his body as erect as a poplar which gave his lungs full play. His methods have generally been adopted throughout this country, although many may be able to run better following their own inclinations.

TOM CAN'T HIT AS HARD, BUT FAR CLEVERER

Bernard Expects to Slap It on Wildcat In Semi-Final

THE CARD

Tommy White, Texas City, versus Duke Trammel, Fort Worth, welterweights, 10 rounds.

Joe Bernard, Seattle, versus Wildcat Monte, Wichita Falls, junior lightweights, eight rounds.

Jack Denton, Tahoka, versus George Storey, Oklahoma City, lightweights, six rounds.

Young Rich, Vernon, versus Battling Lindsey, Scotland, lightweights, four rounds.

There is to be another four-round preliminary.

By BLONDY CROSS

Trammel stopped Cowboy Padgett when 99 out of 100 didn't believe the young Fort Worth mauler could do it. Now Duke's stock is soaring on high, and you can't find one out of 100 Wichita Falls fans who do note believe he will tag it on White tonight in the feature bout of the Legion fistic program at the Eleventh and Ohio arena. And there's where the dope is liable to be given another stiff tumble, for white (there is little doubt about it) is a better boxer than Trammel, better at long range, and far cleverer at infighting.

Duke the Wallop

The difference between the two is Duke probably packs twice as hefty a punch as his Texas City opponent, but there have been several ring generals who have proved themselves wise enough and clever enough to evade that terrific sock and outpoint the Duke in bouts staged here before. White stands just as much chance as the others, possibly more. Thammel couldn't stop Kid Rich although he came near to doing so in one fight, and this pair have mixed it several times. Duke couldn't get away with Clyde Hull in two bouts, nor did he best out. Sid Young in the next to the last appearance of the Oklahoma miller here.

White, in the writer's opinion, is better than any of these boys mentioned. We may be mistaken. But if he is, Tommy stacks up as the favorite in tonight's encounter.

White By Point Victory

We believe White will garner a point victory, a hazardous venture, at that, for if Trammel ever connects solidly the chances are great that he will slow White up sufficiently to bore in and put him away.

There is speculation as to what Bernard will do to Monte. The outcome depends a grea deal on Monte's present physical condition. Bernard, outraged, so he avers, by a recent decision awarded Monte over him, declares that he will not only beat Monte tonight, but stop him, run him out of the ring, or words to that effect. The engagement should prove highly entertaining.

LUCK IN GOLF

By WALTER HAGEN.

"There is more actual luck in golf than in any game that is played," said a friend of mine the other day who was preparing an alibi for me on account of my failure to come through at Worcester. "With an even break in the luck you might have won easily this year," he continued.

Of course I realized that he was in earnest and that his remarks were intended to let me down easy. As it so happens I am not looking for "a way out" in this particular championship. I had my chance to win more than once and missed them so what is the use of crying over spilled milk. There was an even dozen of us who might have carried away the championship had it not been for this or that.

The stroke that put me out of the running was a stroke that was never played at all. It was one that I brought upon myself by inadvertantly picking up a twig which caused the ball to move slightly. This penalty was hard to take of course, but it is part of the game. No luck was attended my reaching down and picking up that twig when it was not really in the way. I had plenty of room for the club head. One never knows why he does these things, but the fact that he does do them goes to prove that we are more or less governed by a subconsicous self especially in a case of this kind.

Peculiar Incident of Hagen and Brady.

I remember a similar case at Boston in the championship that was being played on the Brae Burn links in 1919. I was playing against Mike Brady in the play off. I lead Mike by about four shots at the twelfth hole and was feeling more or less secure, but still realized that a golf match is not over until it is finished. As I was all set to approach the green I happened to spy a little match holder about ten feet in front of the ball. The rule states that any object moved in the fairway will cost the player two strokes. The paper match holder was not in my way and in no way interefered with my shot, as I had no other intention than to pitch the ball to the green. However, I picked up the holder and when my attention was called to the fact it looked as if I were due to lose two strokes, but the strange part of the incident was that Mike also left himself libel to the same penalty as he had picked up a little stone in the fairway, before playing his shot on the previous hole.

The stone was not in Mike's way either. It was so tiny that he scarcely saw it. When he picked it up he never knew and prol-ably nothing would have been said about the matter and it would have gone unnoticed had it not been for my mistake in doing the same thing with the match box. Mike didn't want to claim any two strokes penalty on me and I surely did not want to increase my lead on his on such a small infraction of the rule, that was really never intended to cover a case of this kind.

It was fifty-fifty so the committee decided to let the matter drop. Both of us were satisfied with the way the matter was handled. At the seventeenth hole in this same round one of the gallery accidentally stepped on my ball and forced it into the ground. I had a hard time finding it, but once I located it I managed to get it out although I lost a stroke in the operation as I overplayed the green.

This was a break against me but as I managed to hold my lead on Mike, I have scarcely thought of the incident since then. Earlier in the tournament Mike lost a stroke on account of a butterfly alighting on his ball just as he was in the act of making a shot.

Other Instances of Golfer's Luck.

In the Worcester championship an unfortunate thing happened to Bobby Jones on the very same hole that cost me a penalty stroke. Bobby was all set to hit the ball when it accidentally moved. He immediately called the stroke on himself although there was a doubt as to whether it was really a penalty. I did not think that it was and told him so. The rule insisted that the player must take his stance and ground his club in the act of addressing the ball before a penalty is incurred. The strange thing about it was that Bobby thought he had touched his club but no one remembered seeing him do it. He insisted that t penalty be called and that is the way the matter rested. This was surely a bit of hard luck.

In Scotland the year Jock Hutchison won the open, Roger Wethered stepped on his ball in moving back after looking over the line of play and it cost him a stroke. As it turned out this stroke cost him the title. It appeared as if it were hard luck, but as a matter of fact there was no luck attached to it at all, as he had brought this upon himself by not being more careful. His case was the same as mine at Worcester. We had both invited disaster by an act that we had committed ourselves.

Luck plays an important part in all games. I believe that we find more in baseball than any other. A ball strikes near the foul line and the umpire calls it fair or foul just as he fancies he sees it. There is a close play at first and it might be that the runner is out or he might as well be called safe. It all has a bearing on the game and the batter must take the consequences, but luck, hard as it is to swallow at times averages up pretty well in the course of a week or a season's play.

Braves Humble Buccaneers For 4 to 3 Victory

Bancroft Fields Brilliantly And Triples for Two Counters

BOSTON, July 15.—(AP)—The tail-end Braves humbled the league leading Pirates today, 4 to 3, in the first game of the series, despite the terrific hitting of Traynor. Bancroft's triple in the third inning scored two runs, while at field his work was sensational. Score:

The Passing Hour

By William B. Ruggles

IN THE WAKE OF HOUSMAN
(Horse Lovers Losing Faith in New York Racing—Headline.)

When I was young and twenty,
A wise guy said to me—
"Don't bet upon the ponies
That run upon the lea;
Don't look upon the odds men quote
Nor heed the bookie's plea!"
But I was young and twenty—
No use to talk to me!

When I was young and twenty,
On form I used to lay.
But mostly ponies picked by me
All ran the other way;
I think upon that wise guy's tip
I did not keep in view
When I was young and twenty,
And oh, 'tis true—'tis true!

Since I was young and twenty,
The years have rolled away—
But still the ponies lose their form
And doubtless wise guys still the same
With moral truths are free,
But I'm past young and twenty—
No use to talk to me!

THE POST-SEASON PROSPECT.

READING between the lines of Arthur Stowe's story in the Fort Worth Record of the negotiations between a Southwestern Conference college and athletic officials on the coast for an invitation to the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena on January 1, it may be safely assumed that he refers to SMU.

In spite of the loss of the bulk of the letter men who went through the Conference season undefeated last fall, the Mustang squad is frankly optimistic as to the coming year and with the bolstering of the line by Vaughn of Austin college, is of the opinion the team will be in the running next fall.

Whether a post-season trip to the coast will be permitted is another matter. The Conference granted permission to SMU to play a post-season game last New Year's and from time to time in the past has lightened its grip to allow this sort of competition. But there is a growing feeling in the organization that the post-season game is a decided evil.

The Conference, a quasi-public service institution by reason of its control over athletic exhibitions which are financed by the paying patrons finds its chief difficulty centered upon aligning the feeling of the non-collegiate supporter of athletics and the ethical ideals of the college administration viewpoint.

OPPOSING VIEWPOINTS.

THE public can see no harm in post-season games. Indeed where such a case exists as that of 1923 when the Texas and SMU football teams were undefeated, it believes a post-season clash is foreordained by Providence and should be policed to the arena by the Conference. The public, educated to the professional phases of baseball and golf and kindred sports staged for private profit, can see no difference where is involved a form of competition to be held which it at least is asked to part with a large number of dollars.

So of eligibility rules and scholastic requirements that hedge in the college star. The public can find no just cause for any of them, completely overlooking the fact that an earnest young man in pursuit of a varsity letter is not a Jack Dempsey nor a Babe Ruth who will reap a large individual rewards from the gate receipts.

But if the man in the stands is blind to these facts, the Conference representatives are not. There is no more conscientious set of thinking men than those faculty delegates who for over a decade have given their time and thought to the problems of intercollegiate competition, and who must be appalled at times by the wall of unreasoning hostile criticism raised up before their best efforts.

The biggest problem of the college is to maintain its ethical viewpoint untarnished in view of the immense advertising value of the successful intercollegiate team. That, fortunately, the Conference as an association of colleges encounters only in the disciplinary field. But it is a point that in this regard is constantly forced upon it.

Three championships were up for contest in the week starting Monday in the ring—American light heavy, light, and bantam.

Once upon a time, you knew who fistiana's kings were. All you had to remember were the heavyweight, middleweight, lightweight, and bantam. But that was once upon a time.

Along came the lad who invented the feather class. The welter came next, then the feather, then, the flyweight, paperweight, and then the light heavy. The last started a new idea and since then there have been junior welters, juniors lights, and junior feathers.

There are no junior bantams because a junior bantam would be a flyweight and a junior flyweight would be in the cradle.

There are few legitimate flyweights, perhaps five good ones in the ring today. They have to go up into the 118-pound class to get their real opposition. They can find plenty of boys who weigh 110 pounds—but they aren't fighters—they are school-kids and not so overgrown at that. One of the best of the real flyweights is the likable Mexican newsboy from San Antonio—Kid Pancho. He would have a future in his division—if there were anything there to have a future against.

Bill Holloway the Plumber has reached the conclusion that the Harvard-Yale track team took to importing Oxford and Cambridge for annual lickings about the time Penn, Cornell and California began to get unbeatable on the conder path.

THEY ALCO SERVE.

THERE may be no immediate connection between leadership in bases on balls and the leadership of the loop, but a glance at statistics show that for most of their five-year tenure of the top of the Texas league heap, the Fort Worth Panthers have numbered in their midst the gentleman who got most of the passes. Likewise, year in and year out, the champions, usually outbatted by several other teams, have topped in passes.

For the first half of the Texas league campaign, Fort Worth drew 22 more bases on balls than any other team. They had 169 more than Shreveport.

The individual leader for the period was Stump Edington, batting only .260.28 points under his team's average, but working his opposition for 74 passes. Danny Clark of San Antonio who his closest rival with 57.

Edington on only 70 hits had driven in 64 runs, a remarkable figure but partially accounted for by the fact that this year's Texas league averages count as a run batted in one forced across the plate by a walk with bases full.

They also serve who only stand and wait!

AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

How much golf should the average man play to keep himself in perfect physical trim, provided he takes no other exercise?

By BILL STRACHAN
Country Club Golf Professional

The average man to keep himself in perfect physical trim, providing he takes no other exercise, should play at least one round four days a week—say Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. This will give him a mental rest from his business and keep him in good physical shape. Eighteen holes a day is enough for the average man. Thirty-six holes produces fatigue and does more harm than good in most cases. When I prescribe four rounds per week, I don't mean 36 holes on Saturday and 36 on Sunday. I mean 18 holes on each day of four days. Twenty-seven holes a day, if played leisurely, may not be excessive. But 36 is too much for the average business man, especially the one who plays only on Sunday and tries to crowd a week of golf into one day.

Favorites Win Out In Clay Court Meet

ST. LOUIS, July 15.—(AP)—With one exception all of the favorites came through their matches in the singles event o fthe 15th day court tennis tournament here today. Eight players remain in the singles contests. There were two outstanding features of the fifth day, one o fthe first upsets of the tournament was when Ray Brown St. Louis defeated Alfred Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass. In the other, Briand I. C. Norton, St. Louis, eliminated Horace Oser, New York.

ALL MAJOR TITLE-HOLDERS LOSE OUT IN WEST AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF TOURNEY

DETROIT, July 15.—(AP)—The course of 18-hole match play descended like a blight today on the first two rounds of the western amateur golf championship at Lockmoor club and garnered the most astounding casualty list probably ever known at a tournament, leaving the last three rounds at 36 holes to eight golfers who have never yet won a major title.

The first to fall was no less a person than Jimmy Johnston of St. Paul, winner of the event in 1924, who yielded on the nineteenth hole to Rial Rolfe, of Chicago, formerly captain of the University of Illinois golf team. No sooner had the gallery quit gasping over this upset than they got news that Chick Evans, national amateur champion, once national open title holder and winner of the western crown eight different times, had been eliminated, 4 and 2, by L. E. Bunning of Chicago.

Cummings Out.

The horrors of warfare in 18-hole matches, which have always been the bane of star golfers, next numbered among the lost, Dexter Cummings of Chicago, who yesterday set a world's record for qualifying scores with 138, and had been intercollegiate champion twice while at Yale. He yielded to Russell Martin of Chicago, one down.

To add to the surprise, Jimmy Manion, trans-Mississippi champion, lost to Keefe Carter, Oklahoma title holder, and in the second round, Eddie Held, the last f voairt,wesa rdie Held, the last favorite, was defeated by the same youngster, making the second trans-Mississippi title holder to bow before the Oklahoman in one day.

Two other famous players went down in the first round, both in extra hole matches. Ruddy Kneeper of Chicago, several time Iowa champion, and once intercollegiate champion from Princeton, lost to L. L. Bredin of Detroit. Bredin won the last two holes and then took the nineteenth with a birdie three. Another starter to fall was Ned Sawyer, who won the title in 1906. He was put out at the twentieth hole by F. E. Wattles of Buffalo, who scored birdies on the last three holes played.

Lamprecht Makes It.

The best semblance of an original favorite to get through the day was Fred Lamprecht of Cleveland, intercollegiate title holder, and he had a narrow escape in both rounds. He was one down to Billy Sixty of Milwaukee, at the ninth in the first round, and won only by getting down in one putt on the last three greens played after hooking and slicing all over the field. He barely managed to keep even with R. H. Stranahan of Toledo, on the out nine in the afternoon, but eventually won, 2 to 1.

Rolfe, after his victory over Johnston, won with a par score even better in the afternoon in downing Henry Comstock of Buffalo, 4 and 3. His triumph brough him face to face with Keefe Carter for tomorrow's 36-hole struggle and as the Oklahoma champion shot close to par all day, their contest promises to be a close match.

After his victory over Evans, Bunning had a more difficult trick in defeating Alfred Holm of Rockford, largely because Bunning was not going so fast. He had Chick one down at the turn, but the best he could do with Holm was even, but finished 3 and 2, with spurt of fine iron play, for which he is famous. His success matches him against Lamprecht in tomorrow's play in the upper half with Rolfe and Carter.

Art Sweet of Chicago after eliminating the Canadian champion, Don Carrick by the narrow margin of 1 up in the morning round, had an easy time in the afternoon in trimming Joe Schlappasse of Detroit, 5 and 4. This entitled him to meet Clarence Hubby of Temple, Texas, who had about the easiest time of any survivor today. Hubby this morning defeated S. C. Snow of Detroit, 4 and 3, by shooting par golf and he overwhelmed L. L. Bredin, another player in the second round 6 and 4.

The survivors tonight included four Chicagoans and one man each from Buffalo, Oklahoma, Cleveland and Texas. None of the Chicagoans are pitted against another townsman, giving the city a good chance to gain the title.

AFTER PLAINS BALL TITLE

MIDLAND, July 15.—The race for the championship ball team of the South Plains has narrowed down to three teams, Midland, Lamesa and Abilene. All other contestants have been badly trounced by one or more of these three teams.

As the race now stands, Lamesa has won a majority of games from Midland, but Midland has defeated Abilene in a series of contests and Abilene has won from Lamesa consistently. Games between Lamesa and Midland and Midland and Abilene within the next two weeks will give one of the three a clear lead in the race for the title.
