Tear Bombs Disperse Hungry Rioters' Raid On Oklahoma City Grocery Store

POLICE GUARD JAIL HOLDING FOOD SEEKERS

Agitators Incite Violent Demonstration After Pleas Denied

MURRAY TAKES STEPS

State Officials Conduct Inquiry Into Riot Of 300 Men

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 20. (UP)—A crowd of 300 unemployed men, led by labor agitators, stormed a grocery store here today and seized food. They were dispersed by a hundred policemen using sticks and tear gas bombs.

Twenty-nine of the 60 arrested were booked at the city jail for rioting. They were questioned tonight by County Attorney Louis Morris, who indicated he might file rioting charges against them.

Patrolman Lee Mullinex was injured slightly when one of the rioters struck him over the head with a catsup bottle.

Extra guards were placed at the city jail when Police Chief Charles Becker was warned a mob would attempt a jail delivery. Firemen manned attachments to spray invaders with water.

Food Funds Demanded

The riot flared suddenly.

Francis Owen, chairman of the "council of unemployed," led a delegation of a hundred men to the city hall where he demanded that City Manager E. M. Fry give them funds to buy food.

"We represent the floaters, the drifting populations of the oil fields and modern industry. We're desperate. We have the right to expect relief you furnish your regular unemployed citizens," Owen said.

Wren Fry refused to give them money unless Owen furnished a list of needy families, the crowd marched to Reno and Robinson streets, two blocks south of the city hall. The crowd grew in size.

March on Store

Led by a "spokesman," at least 300 men rushed a grocery store managed by H. A. Shaw.

"We're hungry. We're going to take this food," the spokesman said as the mob pinned Shaw and his clerks to a counter.

While the crowd inside the store was smashing display windows, taking food from the shelves, another crowd of at least 700 men gathered outside, cheering the demonstration.

A riot call sent to police headquarters was answered by 100 officers. Armed with riot guns and tear gas bombs, the officers rushed the mob. Confusion existed in four city blocks and police chased small groups of rioters about.

Four patrol wagons were loaded with demonstrators and rioters.

Warnings Posted

State, county and city officials posted warnings tonight against riotous assemblies.

Major Abe Herskowitz of the national guard, interviewed some of the rioters. He said he was acting under orders.

Sheriff Stanley Rogers said he was ordering more tear gas bombs and riot guns.

"If these fellows think they can get by with molesting peaceful citizens like this groceryman, they are badly mistaken," Rogers said.

"No one can blame the poor for desiring work and food," Gov. W. H. Murray said. "But persons who take advantage of present conditions and attempt to overthrow the government and duplicate Russia cannot be tolerated."

Agitators Blamed

Officials believed that while the food situation was serious the riot was prompted by agitation. J. L. Whitten, admitted Communistic leader, known here and at Denver, told an assembly at Duncan, Okla., Saturday to "watch Oklahoma City Tuesday."

Governor Murray called a conference tonight of city and state authorities to consider "this serious situation arising from a food riot."

Farmers Told How to Secure Drouth Relief Loans at Meeting at Crowell

Banks, Farm Agents and Court Officials to Supply Blanks; 400 Attend Conference

By W. L. UNDERWOOD
The Record News Staff

CROWELL, Texas, Jan. 20.—Approximately 400 farmers, bankers, agricultural leaders and business men of 18 Northwest Texas counties spent five hours at the courthouse here Tuesday in familiarizing themselves with the machinery of drouth relief now being set up by the federal government.

In the 26 counties already certified in Texas for relief, and in six more in which relief is expected to be provided, a central committee consisting of a key banker, a representative business man, and a farmer not eligible for the relief loan will be set up at once. Members of this committee will be officially confirmed as appointees by the federal seed loan office at St. Louis. The central committees are being empowered to appoint subcommittees, preferably one in each town in the county. Approval of applications for loan by the central committee will be required to obtain provision of the stipulated sum from the St. Louis office.

Government Loans

Application blanks, and accompanying forms, which distressed farmers must fill out are to be supplied to banks, farm agents, and county court officials in every county. It was emphasized repeatedly that every government form must be filled out completely and carefully to obtain prompt and favorable action for a qualified applicant.

Funds loaned by the government for drouth relief will draw 5 per cent interest from date of approval at St. Louis to date of payment. They may be used only for purchase of seed, feed, fertilizer, gas and oil for purposes of 1931 crop production. In order to become eligible for such a loan, the farmer must show that he can obtain the needed funds no where else, and

CRIME REPORT TOSSES BOMB

Hoover Frowns on Dry Law Revision

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—The long-debated report of the Wickersham commission, broadly upholding constitutional prohibition but leaving the door ajar for basic revision, was put on the crowded calendar of a divided congress today by President Hoover.

The president agreed with the commission that the dry amendment should not be repealed. He disagreed with a suggestion that revision might be the better part of wisdom. He pointed out to the lawmakers that all the commissioners favored large expansion of enforcement facilities, and said he hoped congress would consider that at some appropriate time.

The arrival of the report on Capitol hill set off explosions there that promised to be heard in the next election.

Senator Borah of Idaho, an advocate of prohibition, said repeal or no repeal of the 18th amendment was the issue and demanded that it be taken to the people.

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, an opponent of the dry law, introduced a resolution for a substitute prohibition amendment similar to that the commission outlined. His proposal would give congress the power to regulate liquor traffic, but not to prohibit.

After the first storm of words subsided, congress turned back to its burdensome legislative task. The report was sent to the judiciary committees of the house and senate with indications that it would remain there until next session at least.

Mr. Hoover made no direct reference to the fact that six of the 11 commissioners asked for repeal or modification. Nor did he mention the statement by the whole commission that a revision to give concurrent power to the state and nation would be wise.

Unable to agree unanimously on a specific remedy, the Wickersham commission and its 11 members embodied their views in an even dozen

TRUCKS CRUSH DUNDEE MAN

Frank Genn, Veteran Cowman, Is Victim

Frank Genn, 57, old-time cowman of this section and for 12 years foreman of the Herbert Griffin ranch, near Dundee, died at the Wichita General hospital shortly before 8 o'clock Tuesday night from injuries sustained when he fell beneath the roller trucks being used to move a house near the Diversion lake Tuesday afternoon. He was assisting with moving of the house from one part of the ranch to another when the accident occurred.

Injuries consisted of 10 fractured ribs, a badly fractured shoulder blade and internal wounds.

The accident occurred, it was said, as the house was being moved down a hill near the lake. The roadway was slippery with mud and Mr. Genn lost his footing and fell into the path of the rollers which passed over his body.

Mr. Genn was reared in this section and was known to practically all old-time cowmen. For 12 years he had been foreman of the Griffin ranch and prior to that time had been a cowboy with a number of ranches in the Dundee section, including the Waggoner ranch, and the Stafford Helm and Jack Parkey outfits. He also at one time was a deputy sheriff of Baylor county.

The body was taken in charge by the Merkle Undertaking company who will forward it to Seymour for funeral services Thursday. The Masonic lodge of Seymour, of which the cowman was a member, is to be in charge of services.

Surviving are a son, Fred Genn, and a daughter, Mrs. Jack Holmes, both of Dundee; three brothers, Charley Genn of Waxahachie, Texas, and George and Will Genn of Springer, Okla., and one sister, Mrs. Maggie Williams of Azusa, Calif.

10,000 See New Governor Take Over Texas Reins

DEVELOPMENT URGED

State-Building Outlined As Chief Aim Of Administration

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (AP)—Ross S. Sterling of Houston, wealthy newspaper publisher, builder and former oil man, today became Governor Sterling, chief executive of Texas.

As if the fates which had aided him rise from a barefoot farmer boy to his present position of wealth and power were still with him, the weather was ideal for the inauguration ceremony. The exercises were held on an improvised platform in front of the capitol, before and around which 10,000 or more of Mr. Sterling's admirers crowded.

Governor Sterling was introduced by Dan Moody, the retiring governor, who was inaugurated on the same spot four years ago. The oath was administered at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon by C. M. Cureton, chief justice of the supreme court. A few minutes earlier Judge Cureton had administered the oath to Edgar E. Witt of Waco, new lieutenant governor.

Bands Mass

Two former governors, W. P. Hobby, who is associated with Governor Sterling on the Houston Post-Dispatch and Pat M. Neff, at present chairman of the railroad commission, were on the platform. The republic of Germany was represented by Capt. Gard von Massow.

Three uniformed bands were massed in front of the platform. They represented the Arabia temple Shrine of Houston, of which Governor Sterling has been a member for many years, the University of Texas and Texas A. & M. Seats were reserved for members of the legislature, their wives and guests, state officials with their wives and guests, and the guests of Governor Sterling and former Governor Moody.

The band struck up appropriate music from time to time. After Sterling had delivered his inaugural address the musical organizations

Wichita Boy, 13, Missing for Week

Search for Henry Lollis, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lollis, who disappeared from the family home at 304½ Austin street last Tuesday, was widened Tuesday when Juvenile Officer J. A. McDonald was informed that no trace had been found of the missing boy.

The parents, who have broadcast the child's description over the radio and wired friends and relatives all over the section, said the youth started to school as usual last Tuesday morning. The parents have not heard from him since. So far as they knew he had no money and had never cherished any boyish plans of wandering. Fear for his safety increased as the week failed to bring any word from him.

Exhaustion And Exposure Claim Herbert Quinn

LUBBOCK, Texas, Jan. 20. (AP)—The body of L. Herbert Quinn, 32, publisher of the Avalanche-Journal publications, was found by two cowboys on the Tom Ivey ranch, 75 miles southwest of Lubbock late this afternoon.

He had been dead several hours, presumably from exposure and exhaustion.

The Lubbock man, missing with Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Guy since Sunday afternoon, was found face downward and it is thought that he did not move after falling in the Barren D sand hill country of northern Yoakum county.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy were found about 11 o'clock this morning by Mrs. John Robertson, a ranch woman, about six and one-half miles from Mr. Guy's car in which the three had left Sunday afternoon on a short tour of the antelope territory. The car became stalled in the sand.

Mr. Quinn left the car at 6:40 o'clock Sunday afternoon in an effort to obtain aid. That was the last time he was seen alive.

The body was found by Hurley Sampson and Aaron Morris, cowboys on the Tom Ivey place.

It was located about a half mile from the Ivey headquarters and 10 miles north of Plains.

About 10 minutes after the body was discovered a searching party of six cars and about 25 persons from Lubbock arrived at the scene

DAVIS BOYS FOUND GUILTY

Two and Three Year Terms Assessed by Jury

Freddie Lee and Robert Davis, numbered among the five Davis brothers whose exploits against the law are written into the criminal records of three southwestern states, were convicted of receiving and concealing stolen property by a jury in the 30th district court here Tuesday afternoon. A sentence of three years was returned against Freddie Lee. Robert, who is 18 years old, was sentenced to two years. The jury deliberated only about 30 minutes before reaching its verdict.

The two prisoners conducted their own defense. After entering a formal plea of not guilty, they offered no testimony, limiting the defense to cross-examination of the state's witnesses.

They were charged in the indictment with the theft and concealment of an automobile stolen from Merrill Blair here late in November. State's witnesses testified to seeing D. I. and Colquitt Davis, the most notorious of the five brothers, in possession of the machine before its recovery and the arrest of the youths charged here. Since that time D. I. has been slain in an Oklahoma gun battle after the fatal shooting of Con Keirsey, noted peace officer. Colquitt is under a death sentence in connection with the slaying of Keirsey.

The pair held here and Mrs. Freddie Lee Davis are also charged with the burglary of the Parker store.

The case for the state Tuesday was handled by George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistants district attorney.

When the robbery was reported, last November, Rothchild told Amarillo postoffice authorities that two armed men came to his home and that one of them took him to the postoffice to open the safe, while the other remained at his home to guard Mrs. Rothchild and a nephew.

MAJORITY OF 140 POLLED IN ELECTION

Voters Approve Program For Improvements In Water System

3,057 VOTES CAST

City Manager Promises To Speed Plans For Construction

A bond issue of $1,000,000 for improvements in the Wichita Falls water system was approved by the city Tuesday by a majority of 140 votes.

Heavy Vote

The election brought out a total of 3,057 ballots, one of the largest bond votes in the city's history, and the result was in doubt until the final figures were announced by the judges. According to the unofficial count compiled by The Record News and Daily Times the vote was:

For the issuance of bonds, 1,592.
Against the issuance of bonds, 1,452.

Strongest support for the bond issue came from the Alamo school box and the Buchanan street fire station. Proponents of the issue also won a victory in the South Side Baptist church box with a majority of 34 votes. The city hall box returned a small majority against the bonds, while the courthouse box which earlier in the day had showed a sharp trend in opposition, ended the day with a majority of only 123 against the project. Bond supporters in the courthouse area rushed to the polls late in the day in time to check the trend against the issue.

Blow at Depression

The success of the election Tuesday marked the first time in the city's recent history that a bond issue has been approved except in times of prosperity. Supporters of the issue, happy over the result, declared that the voting of the issue was a direct blow at the depression which has prevailed here for the last few months. With the water improvement program under way, the new postoffice under construction and the program of the First Methodist church started within the next few months, they predicted that Wichita Falls will be one of the first cities in the state to regain its normal business stride.

City Manager George D. Fairtrace declared that the preliminary work of issuing the bonds will be handled as quickly as possible, and said every effort would be made to get the construction program under way within the next 30 days. Lester Jones, vice-chairman of the Better Business committee, declared the approval of the bonds "means much to the future growth and prosperity of Wichita Falls."

Walter S. Curlee, general manager of the unemployment bureau, viewed the election results as "a splendid indication that all classes of people are united in one common cause to help Wichita Falls go forward."

Vote by Boxes

"This is one time the laboring class of people called upon the citizenship to do something for them as well as for the city as a whole. I think it is a turning point for better times in Wichita Falls."

D. Bratton, the rector, and Dr. Stephen S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, in charge. Burial is to be in Rosemont under the direction of the Merkle Undertaking company.

Although she had been in prolonged ill health at a previous time, she had been apparently in excellent health for the past several months, friends said. She had been subject to heart attacks, however, which were said to have caused her death.

She and Mr. Pogenpohl were married 20 years ago, moving here from Dallas in 1913. She was before her marriage Miss Elizabeth Blakey of Fayette, Mo.

Surviving are the husband; two sisters, Mrs. Emmett D. Moss of Chickasha, Okla., and Mrs. C. W. Morehead of Fayette, Mo., and two brothers, Russell Blakey of Glendale, Calif., and Watson Blakey of Edgerton, Wis.

Eleven counties in Texas, including Childress, Clay, Montague, Archer, Young, Baylor, Knox, Jack, Foard, Wilbarger and Hardeman have been invited to participate with Wichita in the benefit. A sales office will be opened on the ground floor in the Kemp hotel building in the near future, it was said. The office space is to be donated to the cause as will a suite in the hotel for Mr. Rogers while he is in the city.

A meeting of the sales force has been called for Thursday at 2:30 o'clock at the Wichita club at which time definite plans for the selling of tickets will be made.

BISHOP CANNON TRIAL NEAR

First Hearing to Come In Three Weeks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., will face charges before a board of elders of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, within the next three weeks.

It was learned here tonight a committee of 12 elders to act as a preliminary trial board had been arranged and that the bishop would be brought before it at the Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal church, South, here within three weeks, but on a date not yet available for an announcement.

The elders will decide whether or not the charges warrant submitting the case to the next general conference of the church. The case would go to the conference only in the event two-thirds of the board of elders voted for it.

No information was available as to the make up of the board of elders who would preside or the exact nature of the charges which were preferred by a committee of clergymen several months ago.

The bishop is at Marlin, Texas, recuperating from a serious illness.

The charges were filed by Dr. Forest J. Pettyman of Baltimore; Dr. J. T. Masten and Dr. Costen J. Harrell of Richmond, Va., and Dr. I. P. Martin of Abingdon, Va.

The exact nature of the accusations never were made public. It was understood at the time, however, they related to his activities in the stock market and in the last presidential campaign.

Kidnaping of Dog Brings Arkansas Theft Charge

TEXARKANA, Ark., Jan. 20. (AP)—Whether Raymond Orr of Ogden, Ark., enticed a dog away from home or whether the trusting animal followed him was the point in dispute in court here today when Orr was arraigned for theft. Judge Louis Joseph held to the theory that undue influence might have been used on the dog, and accordingly held Orr to the Miller county grand jury under $350 bond.

Three-Year Sentence In Forgery Trial

A jury in the 30th district court Tuesday morning sentenced Thomas Ribble to three years in the state penitentiary on a charge of passing a forged instrument.

Farmers Told How to Get Loans

that his distress is due to the drouth. Financial straits resulting from drop in prices, etc., will not constitute eligibility for a drouth relief loan. The loan must be covered by a first mortgage on the 1931 crop. All prior liens to banks, individuals, landlords, etc., must be waived by their holders in deference to the federal governments' mortgage. Individual farmers will be limited to a maximum of $600, and a landlord having several tenant farmers to $2,000.

Plan County Units

County farm agents will handle no seed nor any money whatever in the drouth relief program. False statements given in applications for loan, or perversion of obtained funds to other than the stipulated purposes, are made punishable by a fine of $1,000, or six months in prison, or both. Marked reduction of cotton acreage and an increase in cultivation of wheat and feed crops was repeatedly urged.

This state's request for a $5,000,000 appropriation for this relief was based upon declaration of need by approximately 14,000 farmers, and was based upon an estimated need for $3 per acre. Each applicant must file his application through the central committee of the county of his residence. A collector from the federal department of agriculture will be in each district during the fall to accept payments of such loans as are made. Unpaid balances in 1931 will represent a first lien on 1932 crops of the borrowers.

Those present here Tuesday included about 130 tentative committee men and farm agents. Plans were under way to organize county units at once, and all forms were expected to be on hand within two days.

O. B. Martin, director of the extension service of Texas A. & M. college, and federal drouth relief supervisor for the state, conducted Tuesday's study of its machinery. He was assisted by John R. Edmonds and S. C. Evans, district farm agents from College Station. Dr. R. L. Kincaid, county chairman for Foard county, presiding during the opening session. W. P. Jones of Childress also spoke, outlining the plan to be followed there in serving farmers hit by the drouth.

City Manager Fry and Sheriff Rogers were summoned to the meeting.

"The city is to blame for this riot because they wouldn't throw Fair park open to house the unemployed," the governor said.

Four Groups Named

"Four organizations are behind this movement and their membership represents 1,600 hungry men.

"They are the International Communists of the World, International Labor Defense, Trade Union Unity league and W. R. R.," Murray said. He did not know the meaning of the symbol W. R. R.

"I received this note scrawled in pencil warning of a hunger riot last midnight: 'Hunger march protest city council's refusing food. Don't starve. Fight.'"

COMMUNISTS IN NEW YORK BEATEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (US)—An army of some 2,500 Communists, at first peaceably marching and countermarching about New York's city hall, broke into violence and disorder today when informed by their leaders that the city had rejected their demands for unemployment relief.

Two men were arrested and perhaps 30 were beaten and bruised, some knocked down by police horses. The turbulent outbreak, in which the small Red force swirled about between packed lanes of 10,000 curious, was met with a new kind of police tactics.

POLICE HALT HUNGER MARCH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20. (UP)—An attempted "hunger march" to the city hall today by 1,000 men, women and children was broken up by police who were forced to use tear bombs and engage in free-for-all fights with the more violent of the paraders.

and identified the body. Chas. Guy was in the party.

According to statements made by members of the searching party who reached here tonight, Mr. Quinn had walked approximately 30 miles before he fell exhausted. His body was found within a half mile of warmth and safety but he apparently was unaware of the location of the ranch headquarters.

The body was about 10 miles from Mr. Guy's car. His trail during the night led in a circle and his tracks crossed many times.

He was said to have died early Monday morning.

Near the end of his journey, he climbed a fence and staggered on a few feet further never to rise again.

His death was believed to have been due mainly to exposure as he wore only light clothing, having a light leather jacket as his only protection against the bitter night wind.

Mr. Quinn was known to have a somewhat weak heart and this coupled with cold and exhaustion brought about his death.

Searchers declared tonight that at no time in the retracing of Mr. Quinn's steps did they find evidence of where he had stopped to rest or to falter in his path forward. Known as an aggressive character, his tracks indicated that he kept constantly walking in his endeavor to reach aid for Mr. and Mrs. Guy.

Funeral arrangements had not been made tonight but it is likely that he will be buried in this city. He is said to be survived by one brother and a sister but their addresses are not known here.

FARMERS VOTE WHEAT CURB

Panhandle Growers Hold Mass Meeting

AMARILLO, Texas, Jan. 20. (AP)—Wheat farmers of the Panhandle in a mass meeting here today agreed to the plan of cutting acreage 40 per cent this year, and pledged themselves to back a similar movement throughout the wheat producing states.

Going on record that the issue confronting the wheat producer is that of over-production and that prices will not be higher until the surplus is moved, the several hundred farmers voted unanimously to reduce their acreage.

Indorsement of the plan, as outlined by Lester Stone, Amarillo, also was given by bankers, county farm agents, grain dealers and others who attended the meeting.

Wheat farmers from all counties of the Panhandle were present, including some of the largest raisers of wheat in the Southwest. Without exception they voiced the belief that a radical reduction in acreage is the only salvation open to the farmer.

Interest in the campaign was spurred by the announcement from Stone that the Canadian Cooperative Wheat Producers, Ltd., had approved the plan. Stone read a telegram from John I. McFarland, of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian group, that they would reduce their acreage by at least 25 per cent.

Oklahoma wheat growers also voiced their approval of the plan through John Manley of Enid, president of the Oklahoma Wheat Growers association, who addressed the meeting. Manley said it was the only means open to the wheat producer to save himself. He announced a similar campaign would be undertaken in his state.

Printed pledges will be distributed through banks and county agents in all Panhandle counties, with the farmers signing the agreements in the presence of bankers, it was announced. Stone reported that Oldham county alone had signed up 71,000 acres in the reduction plan, and that this represented 99 per cent approval by the farmers of that county.

Ranching Lures Boys, Father Seeks Return

CORSICANA, Texas, Jan. 20. (UP)—Lured by the romance of New Mexico ranch country, two 13-year-old Emmett youths today were the object of a search after a note left by them informed their parents they had run away, presumably to Carlsbad caverns, New Mexico.

W. H. Moore, wealthy landowner, father of one of the youths, announced today he would pay a reward of $150 for information leading to the return of his son.

The boys, Albean Moore and William T. Lotley, both 13, took a small coupe and a camping outfit with them before disappearing from home.

Star Chicago Officer Victim of Fatal 'Ride'

CHICAGO, Jan. 20. (UP)—The body of one of Chicago's star athletic policemen was found today in Cicero, with all the indications the officer had been taken for "a ride."

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (UP)—When Frank Baldwin, Waco, editor, criticized the Texas legislature during its 41st session he laid the ground work for a kick-back that occurred today.

Dry Agents Hear New Enforcement Rules

DALLAS, Jan. 20. (AP)—E. Crippen, assistant United States district attorney, today instructed federal prohibition agents as to the manner in which they will be required to make cases against liquor law offenders under the terms of the amended Jones law. The amendment became effective Jan. 15. Crippen told the agents they would have to prove manufacture, transportation, or sale of more than one gallon of liquor in all future cases coming under the Jones law.

WINDY CITY GIVES O. Gs. BIG PLURALITY IN RIPLEY'S NEWEST CIGARETTE TASTE-TEST

It didn't take Chicago long to decide which cigarette it likes best. I got the answer in six hours.

I arrived at the Windy City at high noon . . . with a supply of the four leading brands of cigarettes . . . masked with black bands to conceal the names.

Before the close of the afternoon I had given the "taste-test" to every rank and file in the town . . . from the cattle herders at the stock-yards to movie fans in the loop.

And as usual, O. G. ran away with the vote.

But take it from me . . . or leave it . . . so far, I haven't been able to make OLD GOLD lose.

IRRITATED THROAT

gargle with Listerine— reduces germs 98%

NEVER make the mistake of underestimating the menace of a cold or sore throat. Either may develop into serious or fatal complications. You can probably recall such a case among your friends. Statistics show that every year respiratory diseases cause more than a million deaths.

At the first sign of trouble, gargle every two hours with full strength Listerine, the safe, healing antiseptic, and call your physician. If the irritation is mild, Listerine will frequently check it. If it is not, the doctor will diagnose the real trouble and treat it properly.

Reduces mouth germs 98%

Against ordinary colds and sore throat, full strength Listerine is amazingly effective. That is because it is fatal to all germs which cause such infection. Kills them by millions in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Repeated tests show that full strength Listerine actually reduces the number of germs on mouth surfaces 98%. And at the same time it stimulates mouth tissue.

Gargle every 2 hours

In time of sickness the gargle every two hours is needed to keep dangerous and swiftly multiplying germs under control.

In time of normal health, however, the night and morning gargle will be sufficient to maintain a hygienic condition in the mouth.

Non-poisonous, Safe

The most convincing proof of Listerine's germicidal strength is its ability to kill Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds. Staphylococcus Aureus is highly resistant to germicidal action and is therefore specified as the germ by which all germicides are tested.

Keep Listerine handy in home and office and use it full strength for all infections. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Proper Preparation Of Soil First Step In Growing Fine Flowers, Mrs. Dobie Declares

Work on Gardens Should Start At Once, Says Expert

By BERTHA M'KEE DOBIE

While many fore-handed gardners prepared soil last fall for next summer's flowers, a great deal of ground will be spaded and conditioned during the next two months.

Scratching the surface of the soil with a hoe and scattering a few seed will no more suffice for raising flowers than punching holes in the ground with a stick and dropping in grains of corn will suffice for producing a crop. If the ground has been used before, turning up the soil to the depth of a spade, adding enough fertilizer to replace the elements that have leached out and gone to make last year's growths, and raking over the top to make the soil fine and to incorporate the fertilizer will be all the preparations needed.

How to Spade

But new soil requires a more arduous preparation. The roots of roses and many herbaceous perennials go deep enough that they should find usable soil to a depth of two feet. Even annuals, which have shallow roots, profit from the better drainage secured in deep turned soil. A convenient method of breaking ground to a sufficient depth for ordinary purposes is known as trenching. A trench is dug and the dirt thrown out to the depth of a spade. The dirt at the botton of the trench is then spaded but not thrown out. Another is dug contiguous to the first, and the top dirt is turned into the first trench, and the subsoil spaded as before. This process is repeated until the desired area has been loosened to twice the depth of a spading fork. The earth thrown out of the first trench is carried around to fill the last. If some soil is to be discarded, it should be that below the top soil, by reason of better aeration, the accumulation of organic matter, and the beneficial action of bacteria is the more fertile. In some instances it is necessary to build a soil from the ground down. Soil is disintegrated rock, to which has been added—in nature, by a process of slow accumulation—the remains of plants and animals. Sometimes a garden is desired in a place where the rock is still integrated; again it seems more satisfactory to make a new soil than to tinker with a stiff one. If flowers in gardens are at all to resemble the remarkable flora of old-time nursery catalogs—which, one suspects, represented, like Hudson's Rima, an ideal not to be attained—they must be grown in properly conditioned soil. Both the physical properties and the chemical composition must be right. The farmer calls soil of good texture mellow and that of good composition rich.

Soils are classified with respect to texture as sand, sandy loam, clay loam, and clay. In sand the rock particles are relatively large; in clay they are relatively fine. Loam is a mixture of clay and sand, with one or the other predominating. In garden usage the word "loam" also implies the presence of considerable plant or animal matter in an advanced stage of decay.

Texture Important

Texture is important because to a large degree it regulates the balance between air and water available to roots. When soil is water-soaked, air cannot enter and plants suffocate; when soil dries out too quickly, they die of thirst. A stiff clay has too little porosity; sand has too much. Once again the mean is golden.

Two conditions of tight soil that the gardener must avoid are gumming and packing. "Black dirt," though exceedingly rich, as the cotton crops grown on it attest, has an unfortunate tendency, if worked when it is wet—and it stays wet a long time—to gum into lumps and pellets, which when they have dried are as hard as sun-baked mud pies and impervious to water, air and roots. "River dirt," if very fine in texture, will pack. If these soils are in the garden, their adverse qualities must be modified. Modification results from frequent stirring of the soil and from incorporation of other materials.

The best material to add to a too heavy clay soil is also best to add to a too light sandy soil. It is a paradox comparable to the paradox that exercise is good to make a thin person fat and equally good to make a fat person thin. The substance good to loosen clay and to bind sand, is humus. Humus is a brown or black material formed from decomposing animal and vegetable matter. Crumbly manure with a smell of earth and leaf mold are humus. Recently a new source of humus has come to be widely used, and is said to be the best stimulant of root growth known. This is peat formed of decomposed sphagnum moss. Other sources are bone, cottonseed meal, and tankage. Sand added to a clay soil should be coarse, for fine sand packs.

Porosity of soil is the first requisite to good drainage. On ground having a gentle slope it is the only requisite. Low places must be drained except for marsh plants. Raising beds above the general level is sometimes sufficient. A filling about two feet below the surface of rocks or broken brick is useful. Tiles are good where the roots of trees will not penetrate and possess them. Open drainage is not attractive, but is sometimes the only feasible method.

Chemical Composition

Drainage may, on the other hand, be too rapid. If so, beds may be depressed, or a succession of terraces three or four inches high may govern drainage and prevent soil from washing.

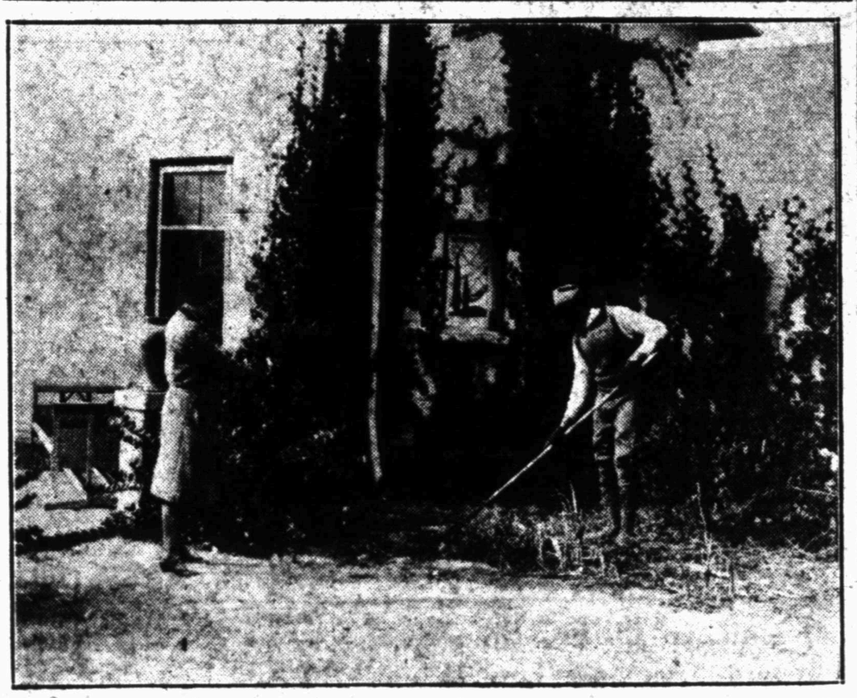

We come now to the chemical composition of soil. Plants are known to need seven elements besides those that they derive from air and water. These are potassium, nitrogen, phosphorus, sulphur, iron, calcium and magnesium. The first three are most essential and most frequently need renewal. Wood ashes—to be used with discretion—are a source of potash, or potassium, still conveniently obtained in many Texas homes. Nitrogen is released through bacterial action by all organic fertilizers, such as manure and leaf mold, and also by nitrates, of which nitrate of soda is in commonest use. The best source of phosphorus is bone meal, which also contains nitrogen. Bone meal is a safe fertilizer to use, as it gives up its elements so slowly that plants are in little danger of surfeit; and for bulbs it is best of all fertilizers.

Complete commercial fertilizers, containing not only the three most important elements but the other four as well, will prove more useful to the amateur than a little of this and a little of that. Many nurserymen mix their own fertilizer to meet local deficiencies, and will sell it to their customers. Directions for such a fertilizer must be followed exactly. The saying "If a little is good, more is better," when practiced in the application of fertilizers, causes much injury.

Commercial fertilizer does not take the place of humus. The United States department of agriculture advises that "the best results are obtained by the use of commercial fertilizers where there is plenty of organic matter in the soil." Northern writers stress their use because in large northern cities manure is

Colds and Coughs Yield to Calotabs

Medical writers agree that the important point in the treatment of a cold, or cough due to a cold, is to relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thereby preventing serious complications which may follow a neglected cold. To stop this congestion calomel was the accepted and standard remedy until Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablet was introduced.

Now that science has robbed calomel of its nausea and danger, making it pleasant to take and perfectly safe for general use, over forty million Calotabs are consumed in the U. S. yearly with only the most pleasant and satisfactory results.

In millions of homes Calotabs have proven their superiority in the prompt relief of colds and coughs due to colds.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a glass of sweet milk or water. No salts necessary. No nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning the congestion has subsided, your cold or cough is relieved, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish—no danger.

Get a family package of Calotabs, containing dull directions, only thirty-five cents. Trial size, ten cents. At any drug store.—Adv.

Beautiful Musical Program Given At Altrusa Luncheon

Music as clear and beautiful as a May morning featured the monthly luncheon program when members of the local Altrusa club met Tuesday in the library at the Wichita club. The president, Miss Eva M. Wallace, was in the chair, and after announcing that presidents of the service clubs of the city would be guests at the next luncheon, turned the meeting over to Miss Ruth Downing and Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes, members of the program committee for the day.

Two exquisite duets by Evans Rives and Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes, both KGKO artists, opened the program, the voices blending beautifully in "Coming Home" and "Song of Love," from "Blossom Time." Miss Lorene Tucker accompanied them. Mrs. J. E. Hall, accompanied by Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff, played "Romance" by Wienawski, interpreting the beautiful theme with as beautiful feeling. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, introduced as the couple who gave greatest service to the city and who were most loved by people of the city, closed the program with two beautiful numbers sung by Mr. Shepherd with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano, "Do You Know My Garden?" and "Roses Remind Me of You."

A delightful luncheon was served to the following members and guests: Mesdames H. F. Weldon, Harry R. Fuller, Leslie Huffhines, Fleta Woolsey Clark, Elwyn Lomax, J. E. Hall, Lucile Brooks Huff, Wayne J. Holmes, R. E. Shepherd and W. M. Cason and Misses Elizabeth Ann Harper, Mineola Harding, Eva M. Kotex is safe

That's why millions of women prefer this modern sanitary pad

BECAUSE Kotex absorbs by a scientific method, it is safer than ordinary sanitary protection. It is soft—not a deceptive softness that soon packs into chafing hardness, but a delicate, lasting softness. That's because it absorbs laterally, giving it a larger area of protection than ordinary pads.

Kotex may be worn on either side, with no possible danger of embarrassment. It is adjustable. You can remove layers of the filler as your needs change. It deodorizes, as you probably know. It gives safe, secure protection. And it is, of course, disposable.

Last year 85% of our great hospitals bought Kotex absorbent in great quantities. What a tribute to its hygienic superiority!

Can't PLAY
Can't REST
—child needs Castoria

WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep; it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

"Mr. Creighton will leave a vacancy in the organization and in the whole community that can never be filled and we will have to do our best to bridge the gap and carry on," Mr. Allison said.

"He has spent seven years in building the best Scout organization in the Southwest and we must take it upon ourselves as individuals to keep the high standards in Scouting that he has instilled into the boys and the community."

Life Insurance Underwriters Here Active in Promoting Thrift Work

BY FRED L. HASKETT

The Wichita Falls Association of Life Insurance Underwriters, affiliated with both the national and state associations, has been organized for several years, and in its work has done a splendid service to both the public and the members, state officials of the local organizations.

The members of the organization in Wichita Falls individually and as an association are always ready to assist in any civic improvement, entire membership has been squarely behind national thrift week, supplying material and securing speakers on thrift for the service clubs of the city, and assisting in numerous other thrift talks, sponsoring advertisements along the same lines, using principally the argument that thrift is not hoarding but spending wisely of funds. This is of course in line with the better business campaign.

Life insurance writers are daily preaching a doctrine of thrift through life insurance that is unexcelled as has been proven over and over again, both for the insured and the insured's dependents.

Officers of the local organization are Fred L. Story, president; R. L. Brumbalow, vice president; W. R. Irvin, secretary-treasurer.

KIRKLAND ROAD PACT REACHED

Agreement to Hasten Work On Highway 5

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Jan. 20.—The controversy between the citizens of Kirkland and the state highway commission as to the routing of highway five through that town was settled at Austin today, according to information received late this afternoon from Senator C. C. Small. According to the agreement the loop through Kirkland down Cleveland street will be of regulation grade covered with gravel and given a topping of asphalt. In addition to this the commission agrees to put down 5,000 yards of concrete paving on Main street. The main highway will be on the north side of the Fort Worth and Denver railway tracks from Childress to the east line of the county. The loop is one-half mile long. The paving on Main street will be about three blocks.

The people of Kirkland have been endeavoring to secure an injunction against placing the main highway north of the town which has held up the letting of the contract for a year or more. But with this agreement it is expected that actual construction will be under way by the middle of February.

The cost of grading will be about $150,000.

Boyd Bank Bandits Evade Police Posse

BOYD, Texas, Jan. 20. (AP)—Although trailed to a filling station four miles west of Springtown by a posse headed by Constable A. J. Scroggins of Boyd, two armed men who held up and robbed the Continental State bank here of $2,700 this morning were thought tonight to have made good their escape among the little used roads of this vicinity.

Men answering the descriptions of the robbers obtained gas at the filling station near Springtown, but no further tangible clues as to the route of the flight were found.

COURT FINES TWO LAWYERS

Boone and Napier Engage In Lively Fistic Bout

T. R. Boone and E. W. Napier, opposing attorneys in a compensation suit on trial before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Tuesday, were fined $25 for contempt of court after a brisk fistic battle in which several blows were exchanged in the very shadow of the bench.

A $50 penalty, first assessed against the two, was later cut in half. The battlers were forcibly separated by bailiffs and attendants and the trial proceeded during the afternoon.

Attendants were vague about the details that led up to the scrap, which happened with too much rapidity and enthusiasm to be accurately followed.

A verbal exchange arose over the cross-examination of a witness in connection with an alleged settlement of the suit out of court. It required the strenuous efforts of three men and the emphatic rapping of the court's gavel to subdue the opponents, witnesses said.

Electra Pianist Makes Debut Here in Musicians Club Concert

Gershwin's famed "Rhapsody In Blue" in a spirited and technically brilliant performance by Miss Helen Slaughter, pianist of Electra in her debut as a member of the Musicians club featured the musicals given by that organization at the Episcopal parish house before about 100 persons Tuesday night.

Assisted by Miss Annette Walsh at a second piano supplying the orchestral background, Miss Slaughter compassed the trying score of Gershwin's modernistic masterpiece with excellent feeling, easy grace, and highly effective mastery of its variegated tempos. She was recalled to the stage by insistent applause.

Contributing another outstanding number on a uniformly pleasing program was a group of three solos by M. A. Ellis, cellist, accompanied by Miss Walsh. Tone quality, technique and interpretation of his composer in varied feeling reflected in Mr. Ellis' playing progress from pleasing performance a few months ago to a truly delightful performance Tuesday night. The solo instrument and piano blended particularly on the Palmgren "Landscape" in a bewitching tone picture.

Other instrumental numbers included in the program were Mrs. J. E. Hall's playing of "Romance," by Wieniakski, and two piano numbers by Mrs. W. A. Baber, "May Night," by Palmgren and "Consolation in D flat Minor," by Liszt. Frequent presentation of the Wieniawski selection by the world's leading violinists imposes a serious assignment upon any artist who uses it. Mrs. Hall did justice to the popular "Romance."

Mrs. J. E. Strattan, contralto; Mrs. C. N. Cameron, soprano, and William E. Young, baritone, provided the highly satisfying vocal numbers which alternated with instrumental performances. Mrs. Strattan was accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, Mrs. Cameron by Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff, and Mr. Young by Mrs. F. R. Collard. Mrs. W. C. Hamilton presided.

Andy Rush, though a consistent winner, has been released by Bridgeport in the Eastern league. The club has become a farm of the New York Giants, leaving no room for the 42-year-old right-handed pitcher.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. L. B. Simmons, of 1434½ Larimer St., Denver, Colo., says: "Tanlac made me relish and digest my food fine. It also cured me of gas, dizzy spells and nervousness. Now I sleep well and can put in as good a day's work as a youngster."

It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

SPINNING REPORT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (UP)—The United States census bureau reported today that a total of 33,567,102 cotton spinning spindles were in place in this country on Dec. 31, 1930, of which 25,518,820 were operated at some time during the month against 25,858,016 in November, 26,153,782 in October and 26,087,004 in September.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Assinine Censorship Is Crime Seasonal? To Him That Hath Millions in Bonuses

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Censorship is sure to make an ass of itself by banning the very books which people of intelligence and culture prize the most. Dublin has now put on its "index expurgatorius" five more books, two of which are well known to well read New Yorkers: Michael Gold's "Jews Without Money" and Vici Baum's "Grand Hotel." A book by Ann Knox, a book by William Faulkner and a book on birth control make up the other three.

In Ireland the minister of justice acts as censor. He admits that no individual has yet lodged a complaint against the books. They have been banned at the instigation of a religious society. The only hope for censorship in Ireland or any other country is for authors themselves to be judges and for censors to turn authors. Until that time comes, censorship will be as futile as it always has been.

In Buenos Aires, where they demonstrate that the earth rotates, they demonstrate also that excessive heat causes an increase of love suicides and romantic murders. Buenos Aires is suffering its third successive day of oppressive heat and there has been a stampede for jeweled knives and interesting poisons.

It should follow that in the North, at this time, when it is cold, women should not be slashing their wrists from jealousy and college students should not be entering suicide pacts, as they are doing. And the number of gentlemen who are being taken for a "ride" should be fewer. The fact is, love, like crime, knows no special season. The Eskimos, who are cold, and the Hottentots, who are always warm, have their convulsive passions.

Stockholders of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, who have watched the shares go down 90 points since the "readjustment" of the stock market, may receive some comfort from the fact that the officers of the company, at least, are not starving to death. A suit reveals that bonuses to the tune of $36,000,000 have been handed out as gifts to officials of the corporation.

Individual owners of property of a non-stock character have a right to give bonuses, because they are not infringing on the right of possession or interests of others. Such gifts would appear to be legitimate. But when millions of dollars are given away to officers of a stock corporation, shareholders have reason to yell, particularly when stocks are hitting bottom.

Mr. Elzey Roberts, St. Louis publisher and chairman of the radio committee of the American Newspaper Publishers association, sounds an alarm which will interest newspaper readers and radio listeners. He says the United States is the only country that permits radio to be used as the billboard of the air. He wants to know why press associations furnish to broadcasting stations, free of charge, news which newspapers pay them to collect and which is announced on the air before the newspapers can print it.

The radio business, making fortunes in advertising, would not get very far if their programs were not printed daily by the newspapers. That is a bit of good fellowship which may have to be readjusted some day unless newspapers are to become completely philanthropical and give their advertising space and their news away before they print it themselves.

Losses due to insects in the United States are estimated at $2,300,000,000 annually by Prof. W. A. Price, of the Kentucky college of agriculture.

A great change has come over women's voices in the past 20 years, says a scientist. Yes, they've become more authoritative.

The Letters He Wrote

AN OLD lady will be watching for the mailman on Jan. 31. In fact, it is a habit that she is going to have for the next 11 years. And she won't be disappointed, for once a month a letter will come, dated from the Colorado state prison at Canon City.

But the man who writes the letters will be gone. On the last day of January the hangman will knot a noose around his neck and let him swing on the gallows. And he doesn't want his mother to know about it. She is ill and there is danger that the shock would kill her.

Somehow, at the ending of the way, he has been looking backwards. He has been remembering how his mother watched for him so eagerly when he first started to the school house down the road; the cookies that she baked and sprinkled with sugar just because he liked them; stories she told in which the boys were always upright and honorable and never stole or killed.

Sitting on the edge of his bunk one day he made a decision. He would write 132 letters to his mother. That would mean one a month for the next 11 years. He knew that she had not heard of his death sentence but had been told he was to serve a 20-year prison sentence, one that can be completed in 11 years with good behavior.

So John Walker got busy. Day after day he sits now, writing letters to his mother, on a soap box that is balanced on his knees. He has to work fast, for the gallows is casting its shadow a little nearer every day. When he completes his task a friend will take the letters and see that they are posted monthly.

And the old lady who receives the missives will read them tenderly, fold them together, and put them away in a secret place for those lonely minutes when she is a little more homesick than usual for the prodigal son who was implicated in the killing of a deputy sheriff.

There is something strangely pitiful about the man who doesn't want his mother to know. He has broken her trust in him. But he doesn't want to break her heart.

But even more pitiful is the picture of the old lady who will receive the posthumous letters and check off the months on the calendar until her son comes home.

She will wonder, now and then, if she will live to welcome him. Meantime summer will throw an emerald rug across the convict's grave; autumn rains will fall softly; spring will come 11 times with wistful magic; and winds will chant their requiems at twilight.

And a little old lady will watch for letters which prove that her boy didn't die after all.

La Follette's Defense of the Senate

SENATOR ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE of Wisconsin is the brilliant son of a great father. He was called to New York to appear before the civic forum "in defense of the senate." He appeared and he defended. Pointing out that the senate had been severely criticized for interfering with the progress of legislation, Senator La Follette said the "freedom of debate and the freedom on inquiry were the two most important rights of a senator." When he said it he gave utterance to an immortal truth. He clinched it by saying "if it had not been for these two rights the naval oil scandal would never have been exposed." Continuing he said the railroad labor act, the eight-hour law for governmental employes, the parcel post system and woman suffrage should be credited to these two senate rights.

Upholding the attitude of the insurgent senators toward President Hoover, Senator La Follette said the house of representatives was under the domination of the executive branch of the government—meaning of course that President Hoover dominated the standpat Republican house. He paid a tribute to the courage and integrity and patriotism of many of his colleagues, saying the law passed in 1913 calling for election of senators by public vote did much to improve the character of the senate, adding that the present body more closely reflects public opinion than it did before enactment of this law. In conclusion he said, "Democracy is undergoing a great test and must solve the problem before it."

Democracy is undergoing a great test. There are many weighty problems, intricate in their nature, awaiting solution. There is a realignment of voters, in the last analysis, coming in the United States and then intelligent voters will find themselves and the statesmen of the period will address themselves to the task of the solution of problems that apparently have been sidetracked by the administration in power.

Pride of Free Clothing

HUMAN pride has queer forms, and sometimes manifests itself where you would hardly expect it.

The New York police commissioner reports that pride is actually a barrier to the administration of poor relief there. Relief depots have been established in police stations, and people in need can come there and get free clothing; but the commissioner says that the women usually "turn up their noses if the garments are not stylish," and even when in dire need examine clothing as critically as if they were buying it in a store.

This sounds odd, but is perfectly natural. To receive charity is one thing; to wear clothing which makes it perfectly evident that one has been receiving charity is different. The attitude may be deplorable, but it isn't hard to understand.

An Asylum for the Criminally Insane

THERE are insane criminals in Texas. Now the criminally insane should have an asylum of their own and they should be kept under surveillance behind the walls as desperate convicts are guarded by armed deputies. There is no place to confine them under the skies of Texas. Governor Moody recommended prompt action. He advised lawmakers of the necessity of making an appropriation to defray the cost of shelter and care of these wards of the state. If there are criminals, who are vicious as well as violent, they should not be permitted to run at large. They should be housed and fed and confined for the protection of society.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Remnant

What have you left that you can give to him—
Unless he be content with second best?
Are you so certain that the years will dim
The aching sweetness of my futile quest?

Why should our nights all pale to nothingness?
Why should our vows be trampled
in the dust?
Will you find solace in a new caress—
Will you be gay again and quick to trust?

No, you are firmly bound with silver chains,
Chains that are forged with raptures of the past,
Fight as you will, but memory remains,
And I will haunt your dreams until the last.

Take him and toss your head triumphantly—
Let him be fooled—you are not fooling me!

—Don Wahn.

Now There!

Far be it from us to belittle our stage partner, Harry Richman, but a column must have paragraphs.

During our vaudeville show this week, in which most of the blackout sketches end with pistol shots, Mr. Richman (Reichman to you) was singing "Puttin' on the Ritz." As he hit the final high note, an entertainer three dressing room flights upstairs shrieked.

"Oh, I've missed my cue!"

How Embarrassing!

Hope Hampton's favorite fable concerns the touring stock troupe's misleading man who was giving one of the many plays in his repertwar.

During one performance he forgot his lines and edged over to the wings and whispered to the prompter: "What's the line?"

"What the play?" was the devastating reply.

And They Are

A group of Broadway lads were discussing Earl Carroll, who, when he needed his influential friends a year ago, found out that they suddenly went deaf.

"Carroll," observed one local philosopher, "is the sort of fellow who believes that his friends were as white as the Broadway lights—which happen to be yellow."

Miami Beach, Fla.

A pale blue sky, a deep blue sea,
A strip of cool, white beach.
All glamoured o'er with flecks of gold
As far as the eye can reach.

You, slim limbed, vivid, lying here
Beside me on the sand—
Even without the bread and jug.
I think it's simply grand.

—Tom Weatherly.

The New York dailies have been cheering and comforting the musical comedy "Ballyhoo," which Arthur Hammerstein turned over to the cast because of insufficient public response. Prominent newspaper men learning that the troupe had consented to keep the show alive on the "commonwealth plan" contributed graceful comments about the production. Stage hands and musicians and others gave assistance to all concerned so that the unemployment sitch-ee-ay-shun would not get worse in New York.

What thrilled this department was knowing that the popular Gus Van (Van and Schenck) is now appearing in "Ballyhoo," and his specialties along with W. C. Fields and the others are responsible for the grand business at the Hammerstein playhouse.

The thrill being that Mr. Van is appearing in "Ballyhoo" and refuses to take any wages.

Tact

A soft answer turneth away wrath, as the wise crack goes, and the other day that proverb was exemplified in a Park Row newspaper office. An actress known for her spotless reputation on and off the stage was the victim of a columnist who didn't mention her name, but you would have never known that he meant her unless you read it.

She went right to the editor about it. "I should like to teach him a lesson and sue him!" she almost wept.

"Madam," diplomatically replied the editor, "don't waste your valable time. You cannot sue a man for having bad taste!"

Nifty

To hear Sid Silverman argue it, the only thing that travels faster than light on Broadway—is a sour notice.

Observation

You might have observed a story in the newspapers recently that the news services featured from England, which concerned a man who had posed for a talking movie in which he read his will. After his demise, the cable dispatches stated, his kin gathered in a movie studio and witnessed the flicker. It appears that the man bequeathed this and that to those he liked and to those relatives he had cut off with nothing he gave them a piece of his mind. This was considered unusual news.

As a matter of fact the same theme revue sketches New York ever enjoyed in Earl Carroll's "Vanities." And long before that an identical flicker was shown at the Embassy in New York featuring Judge Ben Lindsay.

Sotto Voce

To Maurice Chevalier, Bert Wheeler, Ruth Etting, Rudy Vallee, Peggy Joyce, Jack Pearl, Bugs Baer, Irving Berlin, Texas Guinan, Pearl Osgood, Louise Groody, Pat Rooney, Bill Robinson, Mark Hellinger, Maxie Rosenbloom, Primo Carnera, Marion Bent, Gladys Glad, Bert Lahr, Jimmy Durante, Paul Ash—Thanx!

Overheard

They would have you believe that a stranger to Broadway halted a traffic cop at Fiftieth street, and asked the direction to the Palace theater.

"Walk three blocks south," replied the cop (who apparently had seen the show), "until you smell ham, and then turn to your left."

A Form of Criticism

In the old days in New York when they wanted to trim a sucker they sold him the Brooklyn bridge. Nowadays they sell him a ticket at Broadway's leading vaudeville house—to see a columnist.

THE LOVELY LIAR: BY ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When plans fall through for an elopement with Ted Allison, whom she had known for a week, 18-year-old Poppy Prior flees to New York, afraid to face her mother. In need of money, Poppy pawns her watch and ring. To her surprise the pawnbroker seems interested in the bracelet she found on the train and which she recognized only as similar to the paste jewelry common in Ashland. Arrested for the theft of jewels belonging to Celia Nixon, Poppy lies to conceal her true story.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER VII

The grilling was getting worse and worse, and Poppy was floundering badly. She couldn't tell why she was coming from California. Rogers' questions came too quickly. Then she was stuck for a street number in San Francisco. Rogers wanted to know her home address. She gave some fictitious number. She saw Rogers smile after she had given it, heard his sarcastic answer.

"I know San Francisco pretty well, Miss Prior, and I can remember no street in the city of that name."

That was the trouble with lying. You got yourself in a tangle. Poppy couldn't lie well anyway. She hated lies.

Rogers quizzed her some more on San Francisco, much to her dismay.

"Why don't you ask her Rogers," Kelvin Wallace suggested, "where she was the night of June 28? She may have a perfectly good alibi."

Rogers nodded, and Poppy's heart pounded. She did have a good alibi for the evening of June 28. Hadn't she been graduated from high school that night? But if she told that—if she said that she was one of the 1930 June graduating class, wouldn't they find out before they really believed her? Wire to Ashland? Call her mother?

"Where were you that night, Miss Prior? About 10 o'clock, Miss Nixson missed her jewels at that time, when she was dressing to go out. They were in her jewel box at 9:30. She saw them, then." Rogers' smooth voice asking this.

"I—I don't remember." Poppy felt she'd rather do anything, suffer anything than have her mother know the truth. Have Ashland know the truth, after her wedding announcement . . . She'd made a bad mistake, and she'd have to take the consequences. Biting her lips, she leaned back in her chair, and looked squarely at Mr. Rogers.

"You see, Mr. Wallace?" He turned to the younger man. "She doesn't remember. Doesn't want to remember, that's evident. I'm convinced she either stole Miss Nixson's jewels herself, or was in with the gang that took them.

"Otherwise," he went on, "she'd tell the truth. Very apparently she's never lived in San Francisco. Very apparently she never was on a train from California recently. The clerk at The Brand hotel says that she wouldn't write down the city where she came from when she registered."

That was a lie, Poppy thought. The clerk hadn't asked her to, and she hadn't known she should. She had written only Poppy Prior.

A Friend

"Then, in searching her clothes, Riley and Maitland didn't find one that was marked. Looks pretty bad doesn't it?"

Poppy didn't think so. Her clothes didn't have store marks for the simple reason that they were made by a dressmaker. Every spring and every fall Miss Lynn came to the Prior house and sewed for two weeks. Dressmakers in Ashland didn't put labels on their clothes.

"I'm sure she stole my things, Rogers. Sure of it." Celia said firmly, stamping out her cigaret in an already overloaded ash tray.

"I'm not so sure, Celia—" Wallace frowned. Poppy smiled for the first time. He was kind. She had one ally anyway. For she was worried, more worried than she let herself admit. At first when she had come into this room and Rogers had started to question her, she had been confident nothing would happen to her. How could anything happen, when she had done nothing? She was perfectly innocent. She hadn't stolen the bracelet, nor

"Here's my card, if you ever want any help." He scribbled an address on his card and handed it to Poppy.

the two rings they were talking about. Rogers couldn't put her in jail when she was innocent.

Then later, she had begun to get frightened. She had had to tell so many lies to shield herself, shield her identity in Ashland. Lies she knew weren't successful. Even she, herself, if she had heard someone else tell them, wouldn't have believed them.

"Ask her if she knows anyone in New York, Rogers," Wallace suggested again. "There must be some reason she's lied."

Then he knew she had lied, too. She hadn't fooled him.

Rogers put the question to Poppy immediately. The Girl hesitated. Should she tell them she only knew one person? Ted Allison? Only one man in this big city?

"I don't know—anyone here. Not a soul." There, she had said it. What she intended to say. If she were dying, she wouldn't call on Ted for anything. Besides if she did, and they called Ted in, which they would, Ted would tell them about Ashland. And he'd find out everything she didn't want him to know. That in Ashland, folks thought he was her husband. That announcement. He must never know about that . . .

"You see, Mr. Wallace," Rogers turned to Kevin. "I'll have to turn her over to the police. All I can do. I'm convinced, as Miss Nixson is, that she didn't steal the jewels herself, she knows who did it."

The Clipping

Police! Then she was to be sent to—jail! Poppy toyed with the idea for one short moment of telling everything. Her lips were open, the words almost there, when she checked them. No, no mater what happened, she'd keep quiet. She had to—for Mother and Grace. The wedding announcement was in her purse, her wedding announcement. If Rogers asked for her purse, he'd find it. He'd know, then, and wire Ashland.

She must get it out, destroy it right away. Opening the purse, she pretended to search for her handkerchief, and drew out the newspaper clipping at the same time. In a second it was tucked in her glove, and she felt safer. As soon as she got by herself, she'd tear it into bits. . . .

"She's only a child, Rogers," Wallace was saying. "You can't send her up for grand larceny."

"How old are you, Poppy?" Rogers asked curtly.

Someone behind the girl nudged her. Riley, she thought, although she couldn't be sure. What had he said about her age? Oh, yes, he said to tell Rogers she was only 16. She'd get off easier, then.

"Sixteen," she said quietly.

Rogers grunted. For a few moments there wasn't a word spoken in the room.

Poppy heard the clock tocking loudly, Maitland's labored breathing near by, the tap of Roger's pencil on the desk. Her own pulse was racing. Se could feel it beating at her temples, pumping, beating.

Wallace was the first to break the silence. "Let me talk to her for a few minutes alone, Rogers. There's a chance she'll tell me something."

Without a word Rogers rose and opened a door at the side of the room. Poppy saw from where she sat that it was empty. Obediently at a glance from Wallace she rose and followed him there. Closing the door carefully he [illegible]

Kevin was good looking without being handsome. One of those well-built men, with clean, open faces. Brown eyes that were narrowed now, firm, straight lips that seemed a little stern to the girl who stood waiting for him to speak.

"You haven't told me the truth, Miss Prior," he chided in a low voice. "Why didn't you?"

"I couldn't," his eyes were accusing her, so she turned her eyes quickly away to the window.

"Won't you tell me now? Here?"

"I can't."

"Why?"

"You wouldnt understand."

"How do you know I wouldn't?"

Are You Guilty?

Poppy didn't answer that. She

Memphis Names Director to Aid Charity Work

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 20.—The board of the united charities of Memphis, unable to cope, as individuals, with the charity situation in this city at the present time, has appointed H. B. Bennett to handle the affairs of the organization, make investigations, and in general, to have supervision over charity affairs under the direction of the board. Mr. Bennett started his new duties Saturday and will continue for the period of about two months. He will maintain headquarters in Bill Huddleston's office in the city hall. Office hours will be from 8 to 10 a. m., and 1 to 3 p. m.

The pressure being brought to bear on the board members did not allow them adequate time to care for their own several businesses and at the same time attend to charity affairs. The appointment of Mr. Bennett was the only solution to the problem. He will work hand in hand with members of the board and city officials in extending relief when needed.

QUICK COMFORT FOR STOMACH ILLS IN DIAPEPSIN!

"I am eager to tell others about my experience with Pape's Diapepsin," says Mrs. E. L. Lowry, 3253 Nathan Ave., Memphis, Tenn. "I tried a lot of things for indigestion, but nothing really helped until a friend persuaded me to take a few tablets of this wonderful preparation.

"Now I even eat onions without any distress afterwards. They used to cause real suffering. I do not suffer from heartburn or headaches, now; I feel much stronger and better."

A medicine must have real merit to bring forth enthusiastic statements like this. And when not one, but hundreds, even thousands, are telling the same story of success, there seems no reason to doubt the day-in and day-out reliability of Pape's Diapepsin to help stomach sufferers.

These harmless, candy-like tablets, which relieve the heartburn, gas, belching, headaches, nausea, dizziness, and other symptoms of indigestion or "acid-dyspepsia" so pleasantly and quickly, are swiftly becoming the world's most popular remedy for digestive ills. Millions of boxes are used yearly! All druggists sell them or, if you prefer to try them before buying, write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., and you will receive a sample box, FREE.

Prepare Soils Now For Spring Blooms

difficult to obtain in quantity. Here in Texas where the ranch and the dairy farm are facts of the present, both cow and sheep manure can readily be obtained; and since it improves the physical condition of the soil, affords a medium for those bacteria that are the gardener's first assistants, and fertilizes as well, is highly desirable. The statement, often repeated, that there is very little left in the manure we get nowadays except humus, does not apply to Texas.

Only these cautions are necessary: fresh manure should never be allowed to touch the roots and stems of plants and should never be applied during summer. The gardener soon learns that all plants have not the same food requirements. Some are hearty eaters, and some thrive best on a spare diet.

With respect to their chemical reactions, soils are classified as acid, alkaline and neutral. The relation of soil acidity to plant life is strikingly illustrated by the difference in native flora around Austin and Bastrop, only about 30 miles apart. In the limestone soil about Austin mountain laurel, agarita, and brush collectively known as chaparral flourish; in the slightly acid soil about Bastrop grow pine and huckleberries. Of some plants different species grow in the two localities—of the bluebonnet, the Indian paint brush, and phlox, for instance.

Most garden flowers, though not all, prefer a slightly acid, or at least a neutral, soil. A few shrubs require a highly acid soil, among them azaleas and cape jasmine.

The presence of too much lime in the soil results in chlorosis, or loss of green color. Lime chlorosis of shrubs may be corrected by applications of sulphate of iron, or copperas. For annuals and perennials that do not like lime, it is best to remake the soil by adding leaves—oak leaves are especially recommended—or peat moss. A wild-flower grower in North Texas writes: "I am growing a great many natives from other parts of the country, and have established . . . an almost endless list of things from the North and East, but not until I remade our lime-impregnated soil over by digging in a back-breaking tonnage of dead leaves."

The inexperienced gardener would like a simple soil formula that he can follow. A sandy loam, containing a good deal of humus and sparingly enriched with some complete fertilizer is perhaps best of all. One amateur who has marked success with flowers tries to keep the soil proportioned a third black dirt, a third sand, and a third well-rotted manure. A soil composed half of sand, not too fine, with the other half divided between black dirt, leaf mold, and manure, is satisfactory for most plants.

Florida's income from poultry last year was $14,000,000.

Memphis Maintains Low Fire Rating

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 20.—According to M. G. Ray, local fire chief, Memphis has not lost its good fire rating, despite the fact that the fire loss was considerably more in 1930 than in 1929. The net fire loss during 1930 amounted to $26,605.97. The net fire loss for 1929 was not available, but the gross loss for that year amounted to $14,400. During 1929, twenty-eight fire alarms were answered as compared with 40 alarms during 1930.

Health and Diet Advice

Many attempts have been made to define perfect health. Today I will endeavor to describe those normal conditions which should be present with one who claims to be in perfect health.

Starting with the head, there should be a full head of lustrous, strong hair. The hearing and eyesight should be perfect. Because of faulty development of the eyeball it may be necessary to wear glasses, but the eyes should be clear and sparkling. There should be enough perfect teeth for purposes of thorough mastication.

One should be able to breathe freely through the nose both while awake and asleep. The respiration and breathing rate for adults should be 18 per minute, with a steady pulse of 72 per minute. Respiration in a young child should be 30 with a pulse of 120, gradually changing until the adult stage is reached at about 20 years of age. The pulse should always be approximately four times the breathing rate.

The skin should be pink, soft and warm in all parts of the body, with no blemishes. The body should have a beautiful contour, such as seen in the great masterpieces of painting and sculpture. The body should be free from pain, and one should be unconscious of the action of any of the internal organs.

There should be three bowel movements daily, the stool round, smooth and well formed. The urine should be clear and straw colored.

A good appetite should be always experienced in the morning and once or twice more daily. There should be a feeling of contentment after eating, but not drowsiness.

The sleep should be restful, with no dreams. One should awaken refreshed in the morning and eager for work.

Those who are well have a kindly feeling toward all of their associates, with a real interest in their friends' problems but complete tolerance to the views of everyone.

There should be no pain or discomfort in any part of the body and the mind should not be easily irritated.

If the above description fits any of you who are reading this article, you may be quite certain you are in perfect physical health. However, it is not a bad plan to have a complete physical examination made once or twice yearly, as your doctor may be able to discover deviations from the normal which have not shown as symptoms.

Tomorrow I will attempt to describe some of the symptoms of ill health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Shingles

Question Mrs. O. H. asks—"What is the cause of shingles and are they curable? When shingles run around the body until both ends meet, does it cause death?"

Answer—Herpes Zoster, known by the common name of "shingles" is caused by an acidosis which affects only one side of the nervous system so that the irritated patches on the skin appear over the nerves of the trunk on one side, usually on the upper back. This disorder will not cause death but, of course, may be associated with some other trouble, either functional or organic, from which death may ensue.

Stimulation

Question H. L. N. asks "Why is it that I do not feel strengthened or energized after a meal which does not contain starchy food? I am much underweight."

Answer—All highly starchy or sugar foods tend to produce a quite rapid stimulation within a short time after they are eaten. We are uncertain as to whether this comes entirely from the food value contained in these foods or from some influence made upon the digestive organs—possibly the effect upon the secretion of digestive fluids. It is quite certain in any case that the stimulation does not indicate real strength and that there is no food which actually produces a better muscular tone in a short time after it is eaten. Real strength must come from muscular training and the use of foods containing the proteins and the organic minerals.

Comanche Farmers List Relief Needs

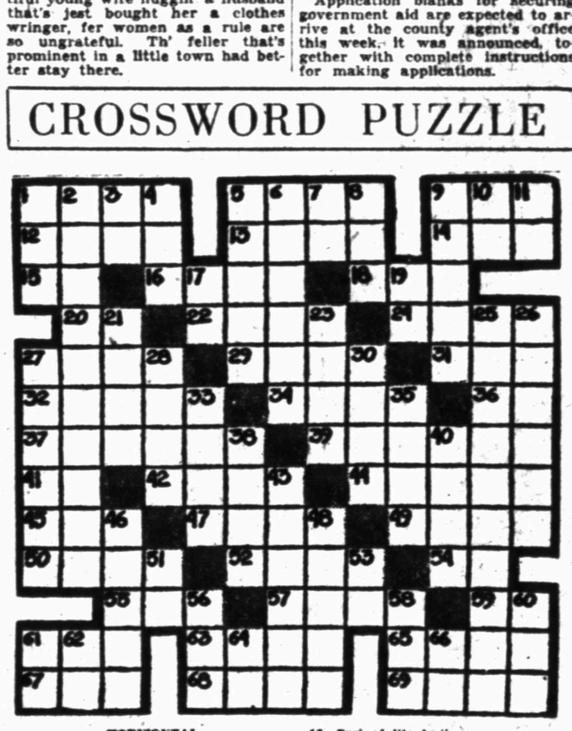

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Jan. 20.—Representative farmers from townships in Comanche county who attended the first meeting of the year of the Comanche County Farm Advisory board, estimated that from 6 to 25 per cent of the farmers in various communities represented will need government aid to buy seed and feed for the making of the 1931 crops. Estimate arrived at was as follows: Quanah township 6 per cent; Lawton township 25 per cent; Lincoln 25 per cent; Lake 25 per cent; Zella 15 per cent; Hulen 15 per cent, and Brown 15 per cent. Average number of townships estimated averaged slightly under 17 per cent.

Although details of the manner in which farmers are to secure loans have not been worked out, Ray Dyer, county agent, told the assembly that he believed loans would be secured through methods similar to those employed last spring when the government made loans on the 1930 crop.

Application blanks for securing government aid are expected to arrive at the county agent's office this week, it was announced, together with complete instructions for making applications.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

I'm a great pipe smoker, so the following yarn appealed to me:

James Stanislaus (Jimmie) Maxwell, Scotland's gift to oil news writers, entered the shop yesterday in furious speech, exclaiming "I've found my pipe, I've found my pipe!"

"What pipe?"

"The pipe I got for Christmas. A beautiful pipe! A guy gave it to me six years ago for Christmas and my wife thought it too pretty to use so she hid it and gave it to me the next Chistmas. I've got the same pipe for Christmas the last six years."

Nocona on Warpath

C. W. Giles represents this newspaper at Nocona, and represents it well. He sends us news items about Nocona folk, their politics and sports, and in general keeps us posted on the public's doing and thought. Of course he must be accurate; hence everything he writes is taken to be straight stuff, even if the comments he sends makes us wiggle a bit in the editorial chair. Well, he sends the Rambler a communication, and said Rambler is wiggling.

I had a column in Monday's paper that said something about gridirons in this section of the state, and the facilities thereat. In the course of this fascinating discussion, which must have bored thousands to death, I mentioned that Nocona has an excellent field but poor accommodations, so that about the only people who got seats were sports writers, and they had to write a week in advance and make reservations for a rocking chair, or something. Further, I deplored that if one had one's gal along, she probably would have to use Mother Earth as a Morris chair, a thing she wouldn't have to do at Graham, where excellent bleachers await the multitude.

And Now Listen!

Now Mr. Giles informs us that Nocona is in revolt, and ready to meet me with pickaxes at 30 feet. Please, let's make it 50 feet.

"It has been noticed in the Rambler's Corner of The Record News," writes Giles, "some very nice things and some very serious things also, regarding gridirons of this section. From a news item standpoint, it is feared Mr. Fred Thompson has stirred up a bumble bee's nest. You know when the lawyer objects to procedure in witness examinations or certain kind of evidence, he finally sees to it that his 'exceptions' are put in the court records. That means of course there will be a hereafter. It is apparent that Nocona wishes to file 'exceptions' in part at least. No one has come right out and expressed themselves, but you know Mr. Fred, that continual B-a-a-a-a means much—similar to an old time quilting party—but you younger generation do not realize the gravity of the situation when those 'ye olden times' quilters were stirred up.

"Nocona is not basing her 'exceptions' on the remarks about the gridirons especially, because you stated about all you could in favor of the Nocona field and conveniences of same. And to that much, they say 'thanks.' But where you state it is necessary for you to write a week ahead to make arrangements for a rocking chair for the sport writer—that is simply carrying it too far. The B-a-a-a crowd is fearful that if you are furnished a rocking chair while in action, you might fall 'asleep at the switch' and cause an awful wreck in your write-ups.

"It was again noticed (mostly by the fairer sex) that you threw quite a bouquet of roses of varied colors, at Graham on account of the fine seating arrangements for you and your best and only girl. These good lookers here at Nocona say they are willing to sit on the plain earth, if with the right man. You'll have to figure that out for yourself, Mr. Fred. The Nocona pep squad is always ready to yell for you, to the contrary notwithstanding. The above story will very likely give the direction the wind is blowing."

Indeed it does. A gale, apparently, is blowing. There's only one thing worse than a talkative woman, and that is more than one talkative woman.

But, I think there's one piece of information in the letter that demands nation-wide publication. It is true that Nocona still boasts 'ye olden time quilting party?' It is true that at women's meetings in Nocona they work while gossiping? Then gossiping in your town should be encouraged. Most of the city women swill tea, discuss books they've never read, slaughter reputations of people they don't know, criticize paintings with an artistic appreciation acquired through looking at postcards, and display their musical erudition by saying Brahms wrote better music than Beethoven—or so I've heard. All this bologey would be okay, of course, if meanwhile the ladies were patching up a quilt, or making a pair of unspeakables for use in the winter.

So the ladies of Nocona can talk about me all they want, provided they'll send me a quilt.

When Bored, I Sleep

As to the rocking chair episode, I always fall asleep at the switch. But they didn't have a switch at Nocona last year, for they had a backfielder named Smoke Zachary who never needed one. Whether his team was winning or losing, Smoke ran hard and straight. If he ever had to switch off the main line leading to the goal I never heard of it.

Greenburg and Wise Obtained by Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Texas, Jan. 20. (AP)—Harry Greenburg, giant first baseman, and Hugh Wise, catcher, were obtained by Beaumont from the Detroit Tigers. Wise, formerly of Purdue university, completes the 1931 catching staff, with Lorbeer his probable department mate.

Greenburg is a New York university athlete signed by the Tigers two years ago and farmed last season to the Piedmont league, where he hit .314. He will compete for the first base job at Beaumont with Ray Fritz, another extra base walloper from the Three Eye league.

BITTER ISSUE NOW SETTLED

International League Agrees To Universal Plan

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Baseball's major internal problem, the universal draft question, has been settled by the unconditional surrender of the minor leagues.

Bereft of the support of its two class AA brethren, the American association and the Pacific Coast league, the International league today announced its capitulation to the majors' demands.

Thus all five of the so-called non-draft leagues have agreed to accept the universal draft by which the majors gain the right to draft or "select" any player in any minor league at a fixed price.

The American association was the first of the big minors to wave the "white flag." By a vote of five to two, Louisville and Kansas City dissenting and Minneapolis abstaining from voting, the association voted recently to abandon its fight against the joint demands of the National and American leagues. A few days later the Pacific Coast league, by a majority vote, also decided to accept the majors' demands without reservations. The class A Western and class B Three Eye leagues, smaller circuits, also had agreed to terms.

This left the International league standing alone in the fight and directors of this eastern circuit evidently felt that the odds were too great.

Olney Cubs Beat Jacksboro, 44-13

Special to The Record News

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 20.—The Olney High school Cubs tonight disposed of the highly-touted Jacksboro quintet in masterful fashion, running up 44 points while Jacksboro managed only 13. Wright of Olney maintained his terrific scoring record with 23 points to his credit, and W. Gilmore was second in individual scoring honors with 12 points. Both executed some fine long passes.

Christian and Lester were fast on the floor for Jacksboro.

Church League Cagers Open Second Half

The first games in the second half of the Sunday School league schedule held true to prediction and the First Methodists, Grant Street Methodists, and First Christians emerged victors from the games at the Floral Heights floor last night.

In the first game of the afternoon the Grant Street Methodist five had difficulty in disposing of the stubborn Highland Heights Christian tossers, 27 to 21. After surprising this champion First Methodists with a whirlwind attack the Junior Presbyterians continued their torrid pace and nearly upset the favored Methodist five, but finally succumbed in the final half by the count of 45 to 27. The grand finale was a walkaway, the First Christians swamping the Southern Presbyterian crew, 60 to 13. Scores:

Iowa Park Independents Defeat Local Basketeers

Although handicapped by the size of their opponents, the Basketeers, local high school independent quintet, made it a merry battle only to lose to the Iowa Park Independents on the Coyote court last night by the score of 19 to 15.

The winners jumped into the lead when Doss sank two long shots, but the Basketeers rallied to tie the score at the quarter. The Iowa Park team led at the half, 12 to 10, but the local passers knotted the count again at the end of the third quarter with a sensational spurt. The last period found the losers fumbling consistently and losing any chances to score. Doss and Landes for the winners, and Presley and Howell for the vanquished were outstanding.

Victorious Over Steers, Horned Toads Get Ready for Arkansas

FORT WORTH, Jan. 20. (AP)—Fresh from their 40 to 19 victory over the Texas Longhorns, Coach Francis Schmidt and his T. C. U. basket ball quint was hard at work this week making preparations for their two-game series with the champion Arkansas Razorbacks in the Frog field house, Friday and Saturday nights.

The dope points to a double victory for the Frogs, but Coach Schmidt is only asking for a division of the games. Both clubs have played one common rival—Texas. The Razorbacks won the first game with the Longhorns and lost the second enter-counter by two points. By virtue of the large margin of the Christian score over the Longhorns, the Frogs will be given the odds for the series.

Both teams will have their full strength on the field, but the Frog mentor is still undecided as to his best combination. Three positions are sure bets—Dietzel at center, Sumner at one forward and Captain Atkins at guard, but the other positions are still doubtful. However, the Frog mentor has been starting his veteran, Roberson, at the dubious forward position. Green started both conference tilts at the other guard position, but Brannon, sensational sophomore, has played about half time.

Tigers Exhibit Much Improvement

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 20.—Coach E. M. Tampke is putting the Tiger boys through hard workouts each evening and they are rounding into shape. Although the Tigers have not been winners in several of their practice tilts, they have shown a steady improvement in each game and were at their best Monday night when they defeated the Harroid cagers to the tune of 32-18. This is the first year that the Tigers have not participated in the county basket ball tournament and are eligible for the district tournament.

L. Curfman has been high point man in practically every game so far and has been used at the center position as well as at forward. Parr at forward has done excellent work. Cloniger has been strong at the guard position and coupled with Monty McDannald proves a combination hard to break through. Eaton at center and Joe Smith at guard have been showing up well. Lebus and Chunn have proved valuable substitutes at the forward positions.

Of the 14 men who started the season with the Tigers, the remaining are Robert Cloniger, Morris McDannald, Cecil Eaton, James Parr, J. W. Lebus, Keith Chunn, Joe Smith and Leonard Curfman.

Practice games which have been scheduled are:

Saturday, Jan. 24, Wichita Falls Coyotes at Electra.

Saturday, Jan. 31, Olney at Olney.

Friday, Feb. 6, Quanah at Electra.

Saturday, Feb. 7, Vernon at Electra.

Jan. 23 and 30 are open dates.

Dutra and Manero Golf Candidates

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20. (US)—Mortie Dutra of the Virginia Country club, Long Beach, and Tony Manero of Elmsford, N. Y., have been nominated by Walter Hagen for consideration as members of the American Ryder cup team.

This was learned here today from an authoritative source and admitted by Robert E. Harlow, manager of the Ryder cup team, at a Hollywood hotel.

Hagen is captain of the American team which meets a picked team of British players at Scioto, Columbus, Ohio, June 26 and 27.

Four others to meet the British will be chosen following a qualifying round to be played, probably at Columbus, just before the international matches take place. In case any other players stand out so prominently in tournaments preceding that qualifying test, there is a possibility that one or two more will be named outright. If this is done the number of qualifying places left will be cut down accordingly.

The names of Mortie Dutra and Tony Manero were added to a list of outstanding professionals who will play in the qualifying test. That list already included Johnny Golden, winner of the Agua Caliente tourney and a Ryder cup veteran of the past; Ed Dudley, winner of the Los Angeles open and a member of the 1927 Ryder cup team; Joe Turnesa, another Ryder cup veteran whose play in recent months has made his position on the team very uncertain; Frank Walsh, Craig Wood, Henry Cuici, Denny Shute, Olin Dutra, Mortie's brother; "Wiffy" Cox, Billy Burke, Al Watrous and Ed Hilgendorf.

Hiestrang Wins Title In Mid-Winter Doubles

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 20. (UP)—J. F. Hiestrang, Hillsboro, Ohio, won the 24th annual mid-winter doubles championship today by breaking 170 of 200 targets in the Pinehurst trapshooting tournament.

B. C. Butts, Nashville and Detroit, who won the opening shoot yesterday, and Mark Arie, Champaign, Ill., Olympic champion, were tied for second place with 168, but Butts won the shoot-off, 18-20 to 17-20. Hiestrang is one of the youngest entrants in the tournament.

Butts still maintained a lead of total scores for the tournament, however, with a 266 in the meet due to total 900 targets.

BOXING RINGS TO BE BIGGER

Tumbles Through Ropes Annoy Commission

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP)—The New York Athletic commission today provided for a resting place for those boxers who are either knocked, pushed or fall out of a ring, by decreeing that the rings over which they have jurisdiction must extend three and one-half feet beyond the ropes. They now extend only one and a half.

The new rule grew out of the unusual circumstances surrounding the battle of the short count between Tom Heeney and Max Baer in Madison Square garden last Friday night. Heeney was pushed out of the ring by Baer, helped back in by Jack Dempsey, the referee, and some others and then declared "out" by the knockdown timekeeper while Dempsey was tolling "eight" in his ear.

Dempsey, appearing of his own volition, was told he could have waved the boxers back together if he had wished, as the referee has supreme power. But that he should have disqualified Heeney when his second pushed him back through the ropes. Dempsey was also told he was going beyond his authority when he lent the helping hand.

ELECTRA GRID TEAM HONORED

16 Men on Fast 1930 Squad Receive Sweaters

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 20.—Sixteen letter men of the 1930 Tiger football squad were presented sweaters by the Athletic association Monday morning during the assembly exercises in appreciation for their work during the year.

B. M. Dinsmore, school superintendent, briefly gave an appreciation of the team, stating that it was possibly the second best team in the history of the school, giving first place to the 1924 team coached by Bully Gilstrap, now head coach at Schreiner's institute, Kerrville.

Coach Harvey Stanford commended the boys for their loyalty. He warned the boys against letting outsiders wear their sweaters. The sweaters were presented by E. M. Tampke and Wilbur Presson of the high schol faculty. Following the presentation of the sweaters, the boys put them on and talks were made by Captain Aubrey Smith, Electra's galloping ghost, and Captain-elect Monty McDannald, the fiery Irishman.

Smith reviewed work of the 1930 team. Although the Tigers lost several games, they succeeded in defeating the two rivals they most wanted to defeat, the Wichita Falls Coyotes, and the Vernon Lions.

McDannald talked of the prospects for the 1931 team. There will only be (possibly) three letter men back for the squad, McDannald, Parnell and Cloniger.

The boys receiving sweaters were Audrey Smith, Cloyd Smith, Joe Smith, Everett Delashaw, Roger Golden, Coye Sandifer, Morris McDannald, Paul Groves, Lee Parnell, Leonard Curfman, Roy Curfman, Horace Birdsong, Millard Welsh, Brooks Adams, Robert Cloniger and Cecil Eaton.

Red Cagle Enters Stock Exchange Position as Hard-Working Rookie

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP)—The thrill-thirsty crowds that follow professional football—and the rank and file of the pigskin citizenry who still remember a glamorous figure in the Blue and Gold of Army—have lost a hero. The stock exchange, amphitheater of high finance and the big league of big business, has gained a modest, hard working rookie.

Some day Christian Keener Cagle, the red rover of the gridiron, may gain the same rank in the financial world that he held in football for four sensational years at West Point and another as a pro star with the New York Giants. If he fails to make the stock market grade, then the celebrated red head will think again of football. But until they stop him for a loss, the Louisiana lightning is going to give the Wall street game all the get and go that sent him blazing along the pigskin heights for five dizzy years.

You'd never recognize in the soft voiced, moderate sized southerner skidding from one traders' booth to another on the floor of the 'change, the carrot-topped terror who bulked so large on a football field. For that matter you'd never look twice, either, at John Law, Notre Dame's captain and all-American guard of a couple years back.

Law, short and dark, is serving his financial apprenticeship in one firm, Cagle in another that has its booth on the exchange floor nearby. Cagle races about with orders. Law pushes his way around as a guard should. They both take plenty of hard body checking and have no interference.

Cagle gladly tumbled into a seat, caught his breath, and turned his thoughts toward football.

"This is wonderful," he drawled. "The excitement gets you. It's different from anything I ever tackled before. It's amazing how fast they handle things down here."

C. P. Tallant, champion poultry club member of Tennessee, made a net profit of $756 from 300 birds last year.

East Side Presbyterians Defeat Frat Boys, 19-18

The East Side Presbyterians defeated the Pi Delta Kappa fraternity team, in a fast and thrilling contest at the Floral Heights Presbyterian court Monday night. The game was very close at all times and was anybody's game up till the final whistle. Capt. Curtis Cole was high point man for the fraternity team with eight points. Baumgardner was high point man for the church team with nine points. Score:

"INSANITARY METHODS In Cigar Making Are Indecent"
Says
CARL T. POMEROY C. P. H.
Health Officer, Montclair, New Jersey

TOWN OF MONTCLAIR
NEW JERSEY
DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH
CARL T. POMEROY, C.P.H. HEALTH OFFICER

June 10th, 1930

American Cigar Company,
111 Fifth Avenue,
New York City.

Dear Sirs:

As a public health officer, I cannot help but recognize the fact that your campaign to eliminate the evils resulting from promiscuous spitting and the spit-tipping method of cigar making is commendable and in line with the health work done by my own department.

I see that you call it a "Crusade of Decency". Certainly insanitary methods in cigar making are indecent. An advertising campaign like yours, which exposes such indecency and points the way to the cleansing of your industry, deserves the support of my department.

While I express no preference for your cigar over any other, I am pleased to inform you that I do endorse your campaign to show the public the advantages of avoiding insanitary practices. You are free to publish that fact or, if you wish, to publish this letter over my signature.

Very truly yours,
Carl T. Pomeroy

...one of 56 health officials from 56 different points approving Cremo's crusade against spit or spit-tipping.

Every smoker, every wife whose husband smokes cigars, should read Health Officer Pomeroy's letter.

"Who are the friends of 'Spit'?"

YOU MAY WELL ASK THIS QUESTION WHEN 56 IMPORTANT HEALTH OFFICIALS HAVE WRITTEN SO STRONGLY AGAINST THE EVILS OF SPIT OR SPIT-TIPPING.

Health Officer Pomeroy writes: "...your campaign to eliminate... the spit-tipping method of cigar making is commendable."

The war against spit is a crusade of decency. Join it...Smoke Certified Cremo—a really wonderful smoke—mild—mellow—nut-sweet! Every leaf entering the clean, sunny Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In this period of cold weather and cracked lips, above all insist on a cigar—free of the spit germ.

CRIME COMMISSIONERS SHARPLY DISAGREE ON PROHIBITION

REPORT SHOWS VARIED VIEWS

Wickersham Document Goes to Congress

en conflicting reports. All were laid before congress today by President Hoover.

That of the commission as a whole was a compromise, making no recommendation for repeal or major revision.

In the individual conclusions, two commissioners asked outright repeal, four others favored modifications, two were for a further trial with some form of referendum meanwhile, and the remaining three advocated continued trial with intensified enforcement.

Separately and collectively, the members condemned many of the conditions under the dry laws while at the same time noting its benefits. They declared better observance and enforcement imperative if prohibition is to survive.

Responsibility on Congress

With one exception, the whole commission agreed that if the constitution is to be revised, the best way would be to strike out the present absolute banning of liquor and to give congress the responsibilty of finding a new solution.

The exception was Monte M. Lemann of Louisiana, who did not sign the main report. He and Newton D. Baker of Ohio recommended repeal.

One commissioner, Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, advanced a proposal for government liquor control, somewhat after the method in effect in Sweden. Commissioners Kenyon, Loesch, Mackintosh, McCormick and Pound recommended consideration of the plan. The endorsements of Kenyon and McCormick were qualified by statements that they favored further trial of the present law.

Four Favor Modification

Besides Anderson, those proposing modification of the 18th amendment were Ada L. Comstock of Massachusetts, Frank L. Loesch of Illinois and Roscoe Pound of Massachusetts.

William S. Kenyon of Iowa and Paul J. McCormick of California favored further trial with a canvass of public sentiment by referendum or through state conventions.

Those who advised going ahead with the present system under stricter enforcement were Chairman George W. Wickersham of New York, William I. Grubb of Alabama and Kenneth Mackintosh from the state of Washington.

The commission as a whole rejected repeal of the 18th amendment or restoration of the legalized saloon. It expressed opposition to federal or state governments as such going into the liquor business. It opposed modification of the Volstead act to permit light wines and beer.

Would Increase Force

After declaring "there is yet no adequate observance or enforcement," the commission recommended increase of the justice department and customs bureau personnel to prosecute violators.

The law should be amended, the commission said, to clarify the status of cider and fruit juices "by making some uniform provision for a fixed alcoholic content."

New laws were proposed to do away with the fixing of the amount of liquor and the number of prescriptions which a doctor can prescribe.

Legislation allowing more latitude for federal searches and seizures was opposed.

If the dry amendment is to be revised at all, the commissioners agreed, it should be made to read substantially as follows:

"The congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes."

As it now stands, the amendment reads:

"The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited. The congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Changes Suggested

The commission renewed its recommendations made just a year ago for codification of the national prohibition act and for legislation for making procedure in padlock injunction cases more effective.

"Cooperation of the states is an essential element in enforcement," it held, and "the support of public opinion in the several states is necessary in order to insure such cooperation."

Continued improvement in organization and efforts for enforcement since the act for the bureau of prohibition was enacted in 1927 was reported.

Mr. Anderson's opinion was by far the most exhaustive of the eleven individual papers, covering 42 of the 286 printed pages of the combined report. His plan for government-controlled liquor sales would be based on the amendment suggested to replace the present 18th amendment, if such a revision should be entered into.

The Virginian called the Swedish system "by far the most successful of any existing system of liquor control."

Liquor Control Commission

Under his plan, congress would create a bi-partisan liquor control commission—similar to the Interstate Commerce commission—which would regulate all liquor dealings. Congress also would create a national corporation, all stock of which should be privately owned, to manufacture, import, export and transport in interstate commerce, all beverages of alcoholic content to be legally sold in the United States.

Prices should be so fixed by the corporation with the consent of the commission, in order that manufacture and sale of liquor by bootleggers would be unprofitable.

The corporation would not be allowed by the commission to ship liquor into states which desire prohibition. The states would have to enforce the law within their own borders. The corporation would sell and transport only to state agencies created for the purpose of local distribution under state commissions. Local option for communities desiring prohibition could be established at will by the state.

Would Limit Sales

Actual sales of liquor to individuals would be limited to persons holding license books, issued by state agencies. The amount would be limited. Upon conviction for violation of the law, for drunkenness or other cause provided by the state, the license of the individual would be canceled for such time as might be prescribed.

Profits, made by the national corporation after paying a reasonable dividend to its private stockholders, would go to the federal government for developing schools, eliminating slums and educating the people away from intemperance, and to the state. Profits from the state agencies would go the states for use as the legislatures might designate.

The report of the commission as a whole embodies a review of the voluminous evidence taken over a period of more than a year and a half. It includes a frank discussion of conditions.

Significant Change

"It is safe to say," said the commission, "that a significant change has taken place in the social attitude toward drinking. . . .

"It is evident that taking the country as a whole, people of wealth, business men and professional men, and their families are drinking in large numbers in quite frank disregard of the declared policy of the national prohibition act."

Turning to the sources of illicit liquor, the commission asserted that "importation is chiefly from Canada, both directly and indirectly." It touched also upon rum coming from the West Indies, "brandy from France, and gin from Holland."

The diversion of industrial alcohol, the report said, presented a "grave danger" in certain phases, adding:

"Much as the present situation is an improvement upon the bad conditions of some years ago, it is still far from satisfactory from the standpoint of prohibition. There are too many opportunities for leaks."

Illicit Distilling

Nevertheless, the commission said, "illicit distilling has become for the time being the chief source of supply.

"In place of the small still operated by the individual moonshiner, there are plants of a capacity fairly comparable to the oldtime lawful distillery. . . .

"The business of maintaining and operating them is well organized, has found how to shift locations systematically, and has learned to calculate for seizures and destructions of stills as part of the overhead. If convicted, their fines are paid for them. If imprisoned, their families are cared for and they are re-employed on release."

The commission concluded that as a consequence of this "high development of illicit distilling," a "steady volume of whisky, much of it of good quality, is put in circulation." It added that the "prices at which it is obtainable are a convincing testimony to the ineffectiveness of enforcement against this source of supply."

Home Brew Problem

As for the making of wine and beer in the home, the commission concluded that "necessity seems to compel the virtual abandonment of efforts for effective enforcement at this point," adding, however, that "this is done at the price of nullification to that extent." A recommendation was made for:

"Removal of the anomalous provisions in section 29, national prohibition act, as to cider and fruit juices by making some uniform provision for a fixed alcoholic content."

It is under section 29 that grape concentrate concerns are selling their product.

"Why home wine making should be lawful while home-brewing of beer and home-distilling of spirits are not, why home wine making for home use is less reprehensible than making the same wine outside the home for home use, and why it should be penal to make wine commercially for use in homes, and not penal to make in huge quantities the material for wine making and set up an elaborate selling campaign for disposing of them, is not apparent."

In explaining its medicinal liquor recommendation the commission said:

Medicinal Liquor

"We are satisfied that in several particulars the causes of resentment on the part of the medical profession operate against a favorable public opinion to such an extent as to outweigh the advantages to enforcement."

The commission hit out strenuously at failure of the federal prohibition forces to entrap the real leaders of the bootlegging business.

"It is common knowledge and a general source of dissatisfaction with enforcement of the national prohibition act, that the big operators or head men in the traffic are rarely caught," said the report. "Those who are found distilling, or transporting, or selling, are merely employes. Behind them are the heads of an organization, supplying the capital, making the plans, and reaping the large profits.

"To catch them calls for a much higher type of enforcement organization and a higher and more experienced type of agents than have been available in the past."

After citing various recommendations for strengthening enforcement, the commission said "there should be 60 per cent more agents and 60 per cent more storekeeper-gaugers, that the number of prohibition investigators and special agents should be doubled, that there should be a proportionate increase in the customs bureau and in the equipment of all enforcement organizations, and that the number of assistant district attorneys should be increased."

Regime of Corruption

The report declared that "a regime of corruption" had arisen under prohibition.

"There have been other eras of corruption," the report said. "Indeed, such eras are likely to follow wars. Also there was much corruption in connection with the regulation of liquor traffic before prohibition. But the present regime of corruption in connection with the liquor traffic is operating in a new and larger field and is more extensive."

It was declared that during the last few years enforcement had been "reasonably emancipated" from political interference, but that there remained a "serious impairment of legal order" in the refusal of certain important communities to permit the law to be enforced.

Opinion was divided, the commission said, whether purchasers of illicit liquor should be punished, but a majority of the commissioners held that it would increase the difficulties of enforcement.

The commission devoted slightly less than five pages to outlining the direct "benefits of prohibition to be conserved."

"Such benefits as are clearly shown to have followed from the 18th amendment . . . must have resulted from such enforcement as there has been in the past decade," the report said. "Hence in passing judgment upon enforcement we should determine and appraise these benefits as something to be conserved in any program of improvement."

Among the possible benefits were listed increased production, increased efficiency of labor, elimination of "blue Mondays," decrease in industrial accidents, increase in savings and decrease in demands upon charities and social agencies.

The commission said some of these benefits had been controverted by various groups, and indicated some of them might have been gained had prohibition not been enacted.

"With all deductions," it was said, "we are satisfied that a real and significant gain following national prohibition has been established."

Social Benefits

Turning to the social benefits, the commission said there was a general agreement among social workers that there has been a distinct improvement in standards of living among those with whom they come in contact, which should be attributed to prohibition.

"Beyond this the social benefits asserted are not so clear," the report said. "It has been urged that there has been great improvement in domestic relations. But such few statistics as to divorce or drunkenness as are available and are reasonably trustworthy, seem to show a steady increase in divorce on that ground after a sharp drop in the initial years of prohibition."

Conclusions and Recommendations

The enforcement commission summarized its prohibition report as follows:

"Conclusions and recommendations in the report on the enforcement of the prohibition laws of the United States.

"1—The commission is opposed to repeal of the 18th amendment.

"2—The commission is opposed to the restoration in any manner of the legalized saloon.

"3—The commission is opposed to the federal or state governments, as such, going into the liquor business.

"4—The commission is opposed to the proposal to modify the national prohibition act so as to permit manufacture and sale of light wines or beer.

"5—The commission is of opinion that the cooperation of the states is an essential element in the enforcement of the 18th amendment and the national prohibition act throughout the territory of the United States; that the support of public opinion in the several states is necessary in order to insure such cooperation.

"6—The commission is of the opinion that prior to the enactment of the bureau of prohibition act, 1927, the agencies for enforcement were badly organized and inadequate; that subsequent to that enactment there has been continued improvement in organization and effort for enforcement.

No Adequate Observance

"7—The commission is of the opinion that there is yet no adequate observance or enforcement.

"8—The commission is of opinion that the present organization for enforcement is still inadequate.

"9—The commission is of opinion that the federal appropriations for enforcement of the 18th amendment should be substantially increased and that the vigorous and better organized efforts which have gone on since the bureau of prohibition act, 1927, should be furthered by certain improvements in the statutes and in the organization, personnel, and equipment of enforcement, so as to give to enforcement the greatest practicable efficiency.

"10—Some of the commission are not convinced that prohibition under the 18th amendment is unenforceable and believe that a further trial should be made with the help of the recommended improvements, and that if after such trial effective enforcement is not secured there should be a revision of the amendment. Others of the commission are convinced that it has been demonstrated that prohibition under the 18th amendment is unenforceable and that the amendment should be immediately revised, but recognizing that the process of the amendment will require some time, they unite in the recommendations of conclusion No. 9 for the improvement of the enforcement agencies.

Proposed Revision

"11—All the commission agree that if the amendment is revised it should be made to read substantially as follows:

"Section 1—The congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into and the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes.

"12—The recommendations referred to in conclusion No. 9 are:

"1—Removal of the causes of irritation and resentment on the part of the medical profession by:

"(a)—Doing away with the statutory fixing of the amount which may be prescribed and the number of prescriptions;

"(b)—Abolition of the requirement of specifying the ailment for which liquor is prescribed upon a blank to go into the public files;

"(c)—Leaving as much as possible to regulations rather than fixing details by statute.

"2—Removal of the anomalous provisions in section 29, national prohibition act, as to cider and fruit juices by making some uniform provision for a fixed alcoholic content.

"3—Increase of the number of agents, storekeeper-gaugers, prohibition investigators, and special agents; increase in the personnel of the customs bureau and in the equipment of all enforcement organizations.

"4—Enactment of a statute authorizing regulations permitting access to the premises and records of wholesale and retail dealers so as to make it possible to trace products of specially denatured alcohol to the ultimate consumer.

"5—Enactment of legislation to prohibit independent denaturing plants.

Search and Seizure

"6—The commission is opposed to legislation allowing more latitude for federal searches and seizures.

"7—The commission renews the recommendation contained in its previous reports for codification of the national prohibition act and the acts supplemental to and in amendment thereof.

"8—The commission renews its recommendation of legislation for making procedure in the so-called padlock injunction cases more effective.

"9—The commission recommends legislation providing a mode of prosecuting petty offenses in the federal courts and modifying the increased penalties act of 1929, as set forth in the chairman's letter to the attorney general dated May 23, 1930, H. R. Rep. 1690.

"There are differences of view among the members of the commission as to certain of the conclusions stated and as to some matters included in or omitted from this report. The report is signed subject to individual reservation of the right to express these individual views in separate or supplemental reports to be annexed hereto.

"Geo. W. Wickersham, chairman, Henry W. Anderson, Newton D. Baker, Ada L. Comstock, William I. Grubb, William S. Kenyon, Frank J. Loesch, Paul J. McCormick, Kenneth Mackintosh, Roscoe Pound.

Texas Outshines Old Traditions In Brilliant Inaugural Ball

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (AP)—The old South lived again tonight as brilliantly dressed ladies and decorously attired men paid homage to a new governor of the Lone Star State and his wife at the governor's inaugural ball. The social season of the capitol reached its zenith tonight with the renewal of the historic custom.

Gregory gymnasim, imposing athletic plant of the University of Texas, was jammed with the social elite of the state and those from the more ordinary highways and byways of life.

The grand march, led by Texas' new governor, Ross S. Sterling, escorting the wife of Texas' most recent governor, and Dan Moody, retiring chief executive and Mrs. Sterling, started at 11 o'clock after Governor and Mrs. Sterling and former Governor and Mrs. Moody had received the nearly 6,000 guests.

It has been tradition for Austin to accord the incoming governor an inaugural ball, and the event tonight was the most pretentious and elaborate in the past 60 years.

States officials, members of the house of representatives, of the senate and their wives were there as well as leaders of the business world and a goodly sprinkling of the "rank and file" minor state officials, state employes and the ordinary "John Q. Public."

The galleries were crowded and the governors and their wives were applauded vigorously as they led the march to officially open the ball.

Dancing lasted several hours.

VERNON RELIEF REPORT TODAY

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 20.—R. M. Fielder, general chairman of a joint executive committee formed to direct relief work for the Vernon unemployed, announced Tuesday night that the committee and its subcommittees will meet Wednesday night to check results of a city-wide canvass and to outline further plans.

The committee is asking each employed man and woman in the city to give one day's pay to aid the jobless. The plans were outlined after two orderly mass meetings in which a group of 300 men appealed for immediate help.

Rumson Kennel Dog Leads in Bird-Finding

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., Jan. 20. (AP)—In bird finding ability it was the pointer Rumson Farm's Queen, today in the national championship field trials, but for range and pace the honors fell to her brace mate, Schoolfield.

Rumson Farm's Queen, owned by the Rumson kennels of Rumson, N. J., and Schoolfield, also a pointer, the entry of Capt. Ambrose Gaines of Knoxville, Tenn., ran as the afternoon brace today. The Jersey dog found six bevies, one of which was divided with Schoolfield. All but one was handled cleanly.

The two pointers sent to the field for the forenoon trials, Highland May from the Lebanon kennels of Lebanon, Pa., and Brighthurst Mary Proctor, owned by W. M. Eberhardt of Buffalo, N. Y., were handicapped by frozen grouns and the showing made was not so impressive.

Waterworks Association Opens Waco Meeting

WACO, Texas, Jan. 20. (AP)—The first day of the annual short school of the Texas section of the Southwest Waterworks association today showed more than 75 registered and a larger number expected tomorrow.

Dr. C. E. Collins of Waco struck the keynote when he assured the sanitarians gathered for luncheon, that work in behalf of public health had advanced farther in the field of water purification than in any other field, and cited the control of typhoid during the world war as an example of water sanitation efficiency.

Professor Files Suit For $100,000 'Balm'

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 20. (AP)—Dr. Charles William Margold, sociologist and former professor at Michigan State Normal college, today filed suit for $100,000 against Professor Clarence Linton Meader, 62-year-old linguist and authority on Russian language and literature at the University of Michigan, charging alienation of Mrs. Margold's affections.

The suit was filed 24 hours after Dr. Meader had sued Dr. Margold for $50,000, charging libel because he was named co-respondent in a cross-bill for divorce filed by Dr. Margold against his wife.

'Build Texas' is Keynote of First Address by Governor Ross Sterling

played "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," "Texas, My Texas," the official state song and "The Star Spangled Banner," were other musical offerings.

Salute Fired

As Mr. Sterling finished repeating the oath of office, the governor's salute of 17 guns boomed from a cannon on Capitol Hill.

In administering the oaths to Governor Sterling and Lieutenant Governor Witt, Judge Cureton used the Bible which had been employed in inauguration ceremonies for 60 years.

MESSAGE URGES FARM RELIEF

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (AP)—Governor Ross Sterling in his inaugural address today characterized agriculture as the "back bone of civilization," and said that Texans, through development of agriculture and other natural resources, should first start building Texas.

He hammered home a message on farm relief. He said it could best be attained by relieving Texas farmers and stockmen of their terrible tax burdens.

"Live at home," was a keynote in his message on farm relief.

Governor Sterling said farm relief by legislation seemed a difficult undertaking.

Natural Wealth

In this live at home plan he said the farmer should be encouraged to raise his own feed and food. His children should be given the best educational advantages. Harmony in the home, on the farm, as he emphasized harmony in state affairs, so that farmers and farmers' families would be content to live on and love the farm, was another high light of his speech.

"Thus can Texas be made a greater agricultural state, and thus will her vast undeveloped lands be settled and cultivated, supplying food and other commodities to the markets of the world, and wealth to her own citizenship," he said.

In speaking of building Governor Sterling spoke of Texas' supply of mineral resources. Oil, sulphur, both of which should be conserved but developed, should contribute toward the support of Texas government, he said.

Water Resources

"In our waterways," he said, "Texas has resources as yet undreamed of in value."

Speaking of Texas' industrial awakening, Governor Sterling said: "Industrial development must come hand in hand with other lines of development, such as good roads, waterways, fuel and power."

He said he did not mean to relax Texas' anti-rtust laws when he spoke of not restricting industry and capital.

"They should be strengthened. If anything, and all due regulation should be maintained."

Texas, he said, should look into the records of North Carolina and what has come of her highway building program. He said that good roads were the most potent single factor in the forward march of the state generally, and that the growth of Texas will be pretty much in proportion to the growth of the Texas highway system.

Inaugural Address

Ladies and gentlemen:

This is a great honor that has been bestowed upon me—the supreme honor of my life. I am profoundly grateful for it and shall strive with all my power to be worthy of it, and to reflect credit upon my state and the people who entrusted this great office to me.

But I am not concerned about the honor so much as I am about the responsibility of the chief executiveship. It is a tremendous task, and I approach it with deep humility, but not with fear or trembling. A high mark of ability and service has been set for me to shoot at by our retiring governor, Dan Moody. But for the comfort of realizing that I shall have so many good friends in the legislature and in the various departments to help me and show me the way, the path ahead would look dark and rocky indeed. I crave the counsel of them all, and of the people generally.

Urges Harmony

I have often thought that the people's interest would be served better if their servants would work in closer harmony. There have been times, unfortunately, when some of our department heads have been antagonistic toward each other, and have regarded each other rather as competitors or rivals. Such instances are deplorable, and I sincerely trust that none will hamper the state's progress during the next two years.

I believe that the three departments of government—legislative, executive and judicial—should each be supreme in its own field. Heads of departments, elective or appointive, should be accorded their full authority. At the same time, I believe that all should bear in mind that they are working on the same job, for the same employer, and should cooperate with each other in every possible way to advance the employer's interest. I don't know why the chief executive and the state department heads should not hold regular meetings together to discuss their problems and advance the business of government, just as the directors and officers of private corporations do.

What is this big job of ours, this business of government, which the people have entrusted to us to carry on? Primarily, of course, it is to keep things going so that the people will have protection, schools, tribunals of justice, roads and so on, but the job means far more than that.

Should Build Texas

I think the most important function of this government is to build Texas. Build it industrially, economically, physically, mentally, socially and spiritually. If we cease building, we suffer and die; if we continue, we have prosperity, and prosperity means happiness. Happiness is the ultimate goal of all and the only true happiness lies in development—progress.

How, then, can we build Texas? First, through agriculture, which we call the "backbone of civilization." Farm relief by legislation seems a difficult undertaking. I think we can best relieve the Texas farmer and stockman by relieving his terrible tax burden; by encouraging him to raise his own feed and food and "live at home"; by giving him the best possible educational advantages for his children, so that they may learn how to live and how to farm, and be contented on the farm; by promoting the conservation and reclamation of soil; and by improving in every possible way the marketing end of his industry.

Thus can Texas be made a greater agricultural state, and thus will her vast undeveloped lands be settled and cultivated; supplying food and other commodities to the markets of the world, and wealth to her own citizenship.

Mineral Resources

Next in importance, perhaps, are the mineral resources of Texas. During the present century, the gushers of liquid gold that have been struck from the ground by the drill bits of men have provided one of the state's chief sources of wealth. Sulphur has provided millions of dollars, and there are other minerals, some of which have scarcely been touched. They should be conserved and their development encouraged; though at the same time, they should be required to contribute a fair share toward the support of the government that protects and nurtures them.

In our waterways, Texas has resources as yet undreamed of in value. Some of our seaports have been deepened and developed, and are doing a rapidly increasing business. Others may be opened in the future. The inland waterways likewise offer great possibilities—the Intracoastal canal some day will be a great artery of commerce; and the Brazos, the Colorado, the Trinity and other Texas rivers are waiting to be harnessed for power, irrigation, navigation and municipal use.

Awaken Industrially

Texas is beginning to awaken industrially, and a great thing this is for Texas, for industry is the greatest factor in the upbuilding of states. Industrial development must come hand in hand with other lines of development, such as good roads, waterways, fuel and power. These advantages Texas is offering in increasing measure; plus good climate, good labor, and good raw materials of various kinds. In order to further encourage industry here, we must not so restrict its operations as to repel newcomers. Some of our laws tend to do that, as well as to discourage and keep out capital. Likewise, we should make our laws fair to labor in every way.

When I speak of not restricting industry or capital too much, I do not mean to suggest that our anti-trust laws be relaxed. They should be strengthened, if anything, and all due regulation should be maintained. But in some respects there is too much government in business, too much regulation and restriction for the state's own good.

Discusses Good Roads

I mentioned good roads as a factor in industrial development. I believe that good roads are the most potent single factor in the forward march of the state generally, and that the growth of Texas will be pretty much in proportion to the growth of the Texas highway system. North Carolina, as well as other states, has demonstrated the value of highways. By completing her road system, she has transformed herself from one of the most backward states of the union into one of the leading states in industry and wealth. Governor Neff once said: "We shall go by way of the highway." He was right; that is the route that state progress will take, and the better the highway, the swifter will be the progress.

Building Texas requires constant development of educational advantages, adequate to attract and hold, rather than repel, settlers. The state's laws must be enforced and its justice reinformed and accelerated. We must not have a state known as one where human life is cheap, and where the safety of person and property is doubtful.

We must take care of our convicts, insane, tuberculars, and other unfortunate public charges, in such a way as not to bring reproach.

We need parks, state and county, for the recreation of our people, and to attract visitors here from other states. Texas has natural scenery whose charm compares favorably with that of Colorado, California and Wyoming. It is potentially a great asset, economically as well as otherwise.

Tax Problem

I mentioned tax relief as a means to farm relief. Equalization of our system of taxation would also afford sorely needed relief to others besides the farmer. As a friend declared to me recently, taxes are eating the heart out of the people. The tax burden is a serious handicap to full and wholesome state development. Home ownership is the cornerstone of good government and state progress, and the present tax load is discouraging home ownership as well as farm and ranch ownership. Some are paying more than their share of taxes, while some others, usually more able to pay, are not paying their full share. Texas will suffer serious consequences if the spread is not soon made more even; and I am gratified that there seems to be such a determined demand throughout the state of equalization.

Urges Economy

One good medicine for tax ills is economy in government. I hope it will be administered in general doses during the next two years. Aside from the economy of frugality in state expenditures and efficiency in office, there is a very real field for economy in legislation.

In the haste and confusion of lawmaking under the old plan of a two months' regular session and emergency special sessions, it was natural and inevitable that a bill would be passed now and then without full consideration of all its consequences. Some of these measures have proved costly to the state and its people in dollars and cents and otherwise. Several have been called to my attention recently.

With one full month in which to introduce bills, a month to take them up in committee, and two full months for action on passage, the 42nd legislature has an unprecedented opportunity to deliberate upon bills from every angle. I anticipate that the laws to be brought forth by this assembly will save money rather than lose it, strengthen the government rather than weaken it, and advance the welfare of the state rather than retard it.

State Has Glorious Future

I have recited these directions and landmarks of the route that leads to a greater and better Texas, so that we might remind ourselves of them and get our bearings anew as we start out upon this two-year journey of government. Texas has a glorious past, and a more glorious future.

When the fathers founded Texas a century ago, it was a diamond in the rough. They hewed out its shape, performing a magnificent feat, considering their crude, meager tools. Now with our modern instruments, we have the task of polishing the facets and finishing the gem. It will never be entirely finished, but every constructive stroke we apply brings it nearer to perfection.

Let me say in conclusion that I welcome the opportunity to work hand in hand with each and every member of this joint assembly for the advancement of good government, for the building up of the Lone Star state, for the fulfilment of her great destiny, and for the increased happiness of her people.

MOODY GIVES LAST MESSAGE

Ex-Governor Returns To Private Life

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (AP)—Gov. Dan Moody today bowed himself out of public life after 10 years of office holding to return to the private practice of law. In a brief address at the inaugural of Ross S. Sterling as governor, Mr. Moody touched on the high spots of his two administrations and gave an insight into his philosophy of life and public office.

"Honor comes from the worthy performance of public duties rather than holding public office. In the governor's office, the controlling ambition of my life has been to contribute to the betterment of the state and the advancement of the prosperity and happiness, the material and spiritual welfare of the five and one-half million people of this great state.

"The highway of official life has not always been smooth, or even pleasant, but I have tried to see that the highway I walked led straight. The people of Texas have maintained a sympathetic and a patient attitude toward me. And this attitude and my gratitude for it have blotted out of my mind all recollection of any word spoken or act done that could have engendered within me a spirit of bitterness.

Backed Schools

"In the fervor that belongs to my years, I gave a whole-hearted and enthusiastic support to a legislative program. I advocated its passage because I believed the enactment of the several proposals would result in lasting benefits to Texas. . . . If I could not always hope for present adoption of reform measures of my program, I could, and did, avail of the opportunity to help prepare the way, and I find pleasure in the hope and belief that many of them ultimately will be placed in the constitution and upon the statute books. One thing above all I sought—the betterment of the public school system of the state, to make it more effective agency in broadening the life and widening the horizon of the boys and girls of Texas.

Lauds Sterling

"Many have loyally supported me at every turn and event in my official experience. To each of them I shall be grateful and I hope they feel that I have kept the faith in my service to my state.

"The gentleman who succeeds me brings to the office a wealth of experience gleaned from the fields of official and private life. . . . As a man and as the governor of Texas, he is entitled to the wholehearted help and support of that body of public officers which will largely make his record for him, the legislature of Texas.

"I am taking with me a life that has been broadened by the experience of having been governor of Texas, a mind which is filled with a wealth of pleasant memories and the happy feeling of duty performed."

WITT PLEDGES 'BUSINESS' RULE

AUSTIN, Jan. 20. (AP)—Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt today told members of the 42nd legislature they had met under circumstances and with opportunities never before accorded a Texas legislative assembly.

The people of Texas, he said, by the adoption of the constitutional amendments governing legislative procedure, have placed a confidence in this legislature and a responsibility upon it that challenges its best thought and its highest patriotism.

Witt said he wished to pledge his every effort to Gov. Ross S. Sterling to bring about such cooperation of the legislature with him as will give the people of Texas a constructive, economical and harmonious administration of the state's affairs.

Miller Praised

The occasion of his speech was the inauguration of Ross S. Sterling as governor and himself as lieutenant-governor.

"I want to congratulate both the members of the house and the senate on the disposition so far shown to attend to the state's business in a business-like manner, without any indication so far of the playing of any personal politics to the detriment of the state's interest," Witt said.

The speaker lauded the work performed by retiring Lieutenant-Governor Barry Miller.

In closing Lieutenant-Governor Witt said: "To the legislature of Texas, to the people of Texas, I pledge my best efforts to the end that there shall be more business and less politics in government."

'Dark Horses' Gain In Billiard Tournament

CHICAGO, Jan. 20. (AP)—The "dark horse" faction in the current world's three cushion billiard championship gained a two to one edge over the seeded stars today by splitting even in the second and third matches of the tournament.

Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, northern sectional champion, upset the veteran Tiff Denton of Kansas City, former titleholder, 50 to 40, in 67 innings while Allen Hall of Chicago, one of the ranking favorites and seeded stars, crushed D. J. Jacobs of St. Louis, 50 to 22, in 44 innings. Thurnblad's victory gave the "dark horses" the edge as Frank Scoville of Buffalo, a rank outsider, upset Johnny Layton, defending champion, 50 to 35, in 55 innings in the inaugural match last night.

Testimony Closes In Trial of Stroud

Special to The Record News

CHILDRESS, Texas, Jan. 20.—Testimony in the third trial of W. H. Stroud for the slaying of Wayne Lawson in Odell in 1928 neared completion in district court here Tuesday afternoon after Stroud had taken the stand to enter a plea of self-defense.

The trial, moved from Wilbarger county on a change of venue plea, attracted wide interest through several counties and the courtroom was thronged.

Stroud told the jury that he and Lawson quarreled over an election bet involving the Wilbarger sheriff's race. He testified that he had considered the wager withdrawn, but Lawson disagreed.

The two met on the streets of Odell in September, 1928, and Stroud testified that he drew his knife to protect himself against Lawson's attack.

"I let him run into my knife" the defendant declared.

Lawson was wounded in the chest and died a few days later.

The court prepared its charge Tuesday night and the case is expected to reach the jury after arguments Wednesday morning.

In the first trial of the case Stroud was sentenced to three years imprisonment. The verdict was reversed. A second trial brought a hung jury.

Sterling Urged to Back Texas Kidnaping Law

CORSICANA, Texas, Jan. 20.—Cleo G. Miller, Navarro county attorney, today sent a telegram to Gov. Ross Sterling, asking him to use his influence in having the legislature enact a law providing suitable punishment for kidnaping persons over 17 years old. Members of the legislature had stated that such a measure would be introduced. Miller said present statutes do not provide penalties for kidnaping persons over 17.

The action was taken as a result of the recent kidnaping of Robert Cerf, who was released on the payment of a $15,000 ransom.

Court Dismisses Libel Suit Against Tom Mix

NATCHEZ, Miss., Jan. 20. (UP)—Chancellor R. W. Cutrer dismissed today a damage suit for $50,000 filed against Tom Mix, cowboy movie actor, by Col. Zack T. Miller, owner of the 101 ranch shows.

Both sides must pay the cost of court, Chancellor Cutrer ruled. The language allegedly used by Mix to Miller, in connection with the asserted agreement of Mix to join Miller's show, was not libelous per se, Cutrer commented in his decision.

Pioneer Advocate Of Helium Succumbs

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP)—Dr. Richard Bishop Moore, pioneer advocate of the use of helium in airships and radium research worker, died of pneumonia today at the age of 59.

When he began his campaign for development of a helium supply in the United States and its use in airships, there was only about 15 cubic feet of helium in the world. This was before the world war. The helium was valued at $1,500 a cubic foot, and at that price it would have cost $3,000,000 to inflate a dirigible of modern size.

BANKHEAD WAY TO BE WIDER

Stephens County to Broaden Important Road

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Jan. 20.—If plans of the state highway engineers do not go astray, the Bankhead from a point two miles west of Breckenridge to the Stephens-Shackelford county line will soon be widened to 100 feet and the shoulders of the present highway made much wider and safer.

The state highway department is at work now on a similar project east of Breckenridge to the Palo Pinto county line on the east to two miles west of Breckenridge. Work on the east highway has been under way for more than a month.

Only Stephens county laborers are used on the road work in this county. The workers on the east highway receive a pay roll of approximately $300 per day.

A state highway engineer was in conference with the county commissioners court here last week and reported that the state highway department would likely agree to allow appropriations for the widening of the west highway, providing the county authorities would secure the necessary additional right of way and set the fences back.

This work is to be done at once by the county court officials, members of that court said.

Highway work in this county will afford much work for formers who had crop failure the past year and who have suffered from these crop reverses.

Work on Lawton Water Improvement To Get Under Way

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Jan. 20.—After months of delay, bickerings, check and checkmate, work on Lawton and Fort Sill waterworks improvements is expected to be under way within the next two weeks, contracts for five of the projects having been let by the city council late Saturday night following a decision by District Judge Rice of Duncan dissolving an injunction.

Total amount of the five contracts awarded is $414,858.

Contract No. 1, which is for the 24-inch pipe line from the filter plant at Medicine Park to Fort Sill, was awarded to the Sherman Machine and Iron Works, Oklahoma City, for $196,680.

Contract No. 2, which is for the 24-inch line from its present junction into the city, and Lawton distribution, was also awarded to the Sherman Machine and Iron Works for $158,722.80.

Contract No. 3, for the tank and tower, was let to the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company, for $39,750.

Contract No. 4, for the footings and bases of the tank and tower, was let to Red Adkins, a local contractor, for $8,957.

Contract No. 5, for valves, was let to the Darling Valve and Hydrant company for $11,748.20.

Out of the original $600,000 bond issue funds, there remains in the treasury $374,000. Of this amount the court, following the hearing of the injunction suit, ordered $150,000 reserved for the construction and improvement of a filtration plant. According to contract figures this leaves a close margin of $9,000 in the fund with a known large amount of "extras" to be provided for, including a large amount of excavations for pipe lines, the building of piers across creeks on the reservation, etc., estimate of which work was not included in the plans and profiled.

Approximately $14,600 has been paid out of the bond issue funds to Burns & McDonald, consulting engineers, of Kansas City, whose plans were twice adopted by the council and later repudiated and the council's own plans substituted. This amount is a total loss and the council's acts caused a break between the council and the citizens' committee, selected to advise with the council on the improvement projects. The committee resigned several weeks ago.

Burnett Gives 20 Men Work Clearing Land

Special to The Record News.

IOWA, PARK, Texas, Jan. 20.—Twenty men enrolled with the Iowa Park Community Chest for employment are being given work this week by Tom L. Burnett, who is having his ranch west of town cleared of underbrush and undesirable growth. This call came at an opportune time for relief as only a limited number of men can be used on the street work now being sponsored by the community chest.

Mr. Burnett is paying the community chest price of $1.50 per day and is giving the wood to the men who cut it. As many in Iowa Park use wood for fuel, this donation will insure fuel for the winter months.

Hoover Accepts Invitation To Dedicate Memorial to Harding

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—President Hoover today accepted an invitation to dedicate the Harding Memorial at Marion, Ohio, some time after May.

The invitation was formally extended by former Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, chairman of the Harding Memorial commission. He said Calvin Coolidge also would be invited to attend the ceremonies.

The exact date for the dedication has not been fixed but it will be some time during the summer.

President Hoover recently indicated that he would participate in the dedication ceremonies if formally invited.

An official of the commission, however, at the time said invitations had previously been extended and doubted another would be issued.

Western Oklahoma Mobilizes To Back Newly-Formed C.-C.

SAYRE, Okla., Jan. 20.—Delegations returning from the conference held at Cordell at which a Western Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce was organized, are enthusiastic over the interest manifested and the evident determination of the two or three hundred delegates present to organize every portion of the western third of the state as fast as it can be done and to work as a unit for western Oklahoma.

The plan of organization adopted provides for the annual election by the membership of a board of directors composed of one farmer and one business or professional man from each county and the election by the directors of the general organization of a president, first, second and third vice president, a treasurer, a manager, who shall act as secretary, an assistant to the manager; a county president, a first and second vice president and a county secretary in each county, and that the county officers shall select a precinct committeeman in each town, city and precinct of the counties.

Dues Fixed

The plan of organization adopted further provides that there shall be no compensation other than cups, pennants or prizes, with no monetary value, given for securing memberships, but that all membership work shall be voluntary.

The minimum membership dues were fixed as follows: For individuals, $3; for business firms, cooperative gins and cooperative marketing associations, $10 and for chambers of commerce $10 per annum. Larger amounts can be subscribed by firms, individuals, farmers organizations or chambers of commerce if they see fit.

Directors were elected for the counties represented and steps will be taken immediately to secure the election of directors for the remaining counties. The newly-elected board of directors will meet at Sayre on Jan. 23, to elect the officers and complete the organization.

Charts Shown

Reports from various state departments and charts based thereon were exhibited at the conference showing a great disparity in the location of state institutions, the distribution of public expenditures and the number of miles of paved highways in the eastern, central and western thirds of the state. Among the exhibits was one showing that there are 1,582.7 miles of paved roads in the state and that only 72.6 miles are in the western third of the state. Another exhibit showed that there are 11 state supported institutions in the east third of the state, 18 in the central third and only eight in the west third of the state, and that of the $11,536,053 expended annually for the support of said institutions, only $1,558,150 was spent in the west third of the state.

Another exhibit based on the last census showed that there had been a gain of 21 per cent in the population of the west third of the state, as against a gain of only 18 per cent in the east two-thirds of the state, the fact that the east two-thirds of the state has all of the large cities notwithstanding.

Farm Wealth

In the address of Clarence Roberts, editor of the Oklahoma Farmer Stockman, which was referred to by other speakers as the keynote speech, it was brought out that at least 60 per cent of the agricultural wealth that is produced in the state is produced west of United States highway 81, and that the center of wheat production and the center of cotton production are in the west part of the state.

Among the resolutions adopted, the one that probably created the greatest interest was a resolution memorializing the governor and legislature to divide the state into three equal districts to be known as the eastern, central and western districts, for highway purposes, and requiring the appointment of one highway commissioner from each district. Securing the enactment of such a law will probably be the first major undertaking, according to officials of the newly-formed organization.

The invitation was extended by the Jacksonville Kiwanis club.

Governor Murray, however, has accepted an invitation to speak at a program honoring president Abraham Lincoln in Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.

"I would accept that Jacksonville invitation but that would make too much oratory along the route," Governor Murray said. "Besides, Bob Burns might usurp the power of the governor's office," he jested.

$1,250,000 Improvement Program Gets Under Way in Haskell County

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Texas, Jan. 20.—According to those in authority, active work will be well under way within the next 90 days in Haskell county n public improvements, costing approximately one and one-fourth million dollars during the year. The largest portion of this sum will be on highway construction now under way, chiefly on highways 30 and 18.

Extensive improvements and additions to the Haskell county courthouse which will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 were authorized in an order passed by the county commissioners last week. Butler and company, of Lubbock have been employed as architects for the work.

The present courthouse is made from native rock taken from a quarry 15 miles east of Haskell 38 years ago. It is planned that the quarry will be reopened and native rock used in remodeling the courthouse at this time. The improvements call for the remodeling of the present structure and the construction of additions approximately 30 by 68 feet on the east and west ends of the building which will practically double the present floor space. The old cupola will be replaced by a modern type roof. There will be added large basement space, offices and vaults will be re-arranged as will be the district courtroom, where additional seating capacity will be provided. When completed as planned the courthouse will be one of the most beautiful and modern in this section.

The commissioners court of Haskell county will receive bids for alterations and repair work, together with the installation of new steel work where necessary on the Haskell county jail, according to a notice being published this week. Also all of the old out-of-date cells and equipment on the interior of the building will be removed, which will make the Haskel jail one of the most modern and best equipped in the state. Only one outside man will be used to supervise the work, all others employed will be local men.

Everlasting Flowers

Preserved flowers are in vogue. "Everlasting" or straw flowers, dried grasses, combined with fresh greenery often make a most effective decoration at a minimum cost.

For New Skin Beauty Use a Healing Toilet Cream

—Say Scores of Nurses

AMONG the million and a half women who are now using this new kind of toilet cream, there are thousands of trained nurses. They are enthusiastic—they tell their friends to use it. Their training has taught them what the skin needs to keep it healthy and beautiful.

Science now recognizes that many of the common skin faults come from tiny hidden poisons that lurk unseen beneath the skin. Blemishes, roughness, large pores, coarseness and many other beauty-destroying flaws are now traced to these invisible poisons.

Ordinary care is not enough. Soaps and creams that merely cleanse the surface fail to reach these insidious poisons. An antiseptic cream is necessary—a greaseless healing cream that will sink into the skin, combat poisons, keep the skin germ-free, healthy and beautiful.

As snow-white and dainty as the finest beauty cream, yet as powerfully healing as an old-fashioned skin remedy, Noxzema Skin Cream can be used as a powder base or night cream. Under its soothing, healing medication, skin troubles vanish quickly and your skin becomes clearer, smoother, lovelier.

Noxzema Cream is on sale at all drug and department stores.

... a greater prosperity for TEXAS

Only a few years ago Texas was a sparsely settled, largely undeveloped range-land. Today, the State enjoys a position of leadership in agriculture, commerce and industry. Here are a few of the reasons:

—the Natural Gas Production for last year was 215,498,194,000 cubic feet.
—more than $300,000,000 is invested in oil refineries and equipment.
—a total production of crude oil in excess of $3,000,000,000.
—the annual production of cotton is more than thirty per cent of the total grown in the United States.
—highly developed land and water transportation facilities.
—climatic conditions are ideal for manufacturing throughout the entire year.

This exceptional development has naturally insured a steady increase in population—an increase far exceeding that of the United States as a whole.

Tomorrow—the years just ahead, will see a "greater Texas"—a greater industrial, agricultural and commercial achievement—and as a natural sequence a greater population.

The United Gas System serves an important area of this rich territory with NATURAL GAS, the economic fuel for home and industry. It accepts the responsibility of providing additional facilities to assure the new homes and industries that will enrich this community a dependable Natural Gas service. This is expressed in a practical way through an extensive expansion program,—calling for the expenditure of many millions of dollars—now well under way.

Our prosperity depends on the growth of this community....yet our expansion must precede, NOT FOLLOW the increased demand for natural gas service.

NOTE: Heavy black lines in map indicate the extent of service of the United Gas System in South Texas, East Texas and Louisiana. Dotted Lines show new construction included in the present expansion program.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (AP)—An early decline in response to lower cables was followed by advances in cotton today on covering combined with trade and commission house buying. March after declining to 10.10 during early trading advanced to 10.29 and closed at 10.26 compared with 10.17 at the close of Monday. The general market closed firm at net advances of 3 to 13 points.

Business was more active today than recently, with rather more southern selling in evidence during the early trading while there appeared to be some broadening of trade demand, although much of the buying was attributed to covering and no special news factor was mentioned in connection with the advance.

Liverpool said that continental buying in that market had been supplied by local liquidation and cable advices received in the trade here from Manchester said that the organization of master spinners had recommended curtailment of production in order to prevent an accumulation of yarn stocks. Exports today 6,906, making 4,347,724 so far this season. Port receipts 15,264.

Futures closed firm; 3 to 13 points higher; spots, steady; middling, 10.20.

Short Covering Brings Brisk Rally After Quiet Opening

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. (US)—A late rally of substantial proportion today closed the stock market with advances in virtually every active issue. The market, after the fashion of recent sessions, had drifted somewhat lower in desultory trading during the first few hours preceding publication of the Wickersham report. The price tone improved for a few moments following early dispatches of the contents of the report, but this soon gave way to disappointment.

It appeared as if the market would renew its earlier quiet decline, but instead prices stiffened and improved at a pace which indicated considerable short covering was being forced. Lacking any other explanation, the rebound obviously was mainly in reflection of the market's technical position, which has favored a rally for several days.

Belief that short covering had most to do with the improvement was strengthened by the fact that principal gains were scored in issues known to harbor extensive short account. These included Westinghouse Electric, which had been heavily sold on the General Electric advance bookings figures, American Can, which has been subjected to persistent bear pressure, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Auburn, Case Threshing and others of prominence which had attracted good-sized bear following. Auburn's shorts were trapped by the 1930 report of earnings, which equalled $5.43 a share. Its bull sponsors were quick to take advantage of the general market betterment, and run-in the short, but public following was not attracted.

Sentiment was helped somewhat by the opinion of President Farrell, of the Steel corporation, that the 'depression ended a month ago." To this was added the announcement that steel industry operations have improved over four per cent during the past week, and it was reported that freight loadings would show material increase over a week ago.

The late rally was the broadest in several weeks; every one of the 15 most active stocks of the day closed higher. Warner Brothers was the most active issue, closing up almost a point net as new buying was attracted on reports that the company's financial position has materially improved of late, and that its 1931 production program gives promise of revived earning power.

Encouraged by the general market's better behavior, pools became more active, as evidenced in the fact that Mexican seaboard was the day's most active issue in the oil group, its activity being ascribed to manipulators. Alaska Juneau, in which one of the leading present-day bears is acting as "floor sponsor," likewise was heavily traded in and marked up a half point to new high representing more than double last year's low price.

Even bearish groups had anticipated a rally, due to technical factors which brought about a temporarily oversold condition, but it was evident that considerable supply of leading stocks was available on the recovery. American Telephone rallied briskly against the shorts, but even in this issue continued selling took place on the rally, the bears asserting that investment buying will develop in quantity only as the stock approaches its former low, where the yield may attract investors.

Among speculative issues, it was noticeable that Goodyear Tire and Rubber was a laggard and closed lower for the day despite the general strength. This stock has been persistently sold since its directors, in the face of earnings below the dividend, voted the regular quarterly payment at the $5 annual rate.

Gillette also held within a fraction of the previous day's close, despite large-scale pool activity. According to Boston advices, earnings for the full year 1930 were "unbelievably small," due to heavy year-end write offs.

One of the most encouraging performances of the day was an advance of more than a point in United Corporation. This stock, since touching its low late last year, has been in persistent demand from sources which previously had emphasized the excessive profit-to-price ratio when the stock was selling at more than double its current price.

Strength in United in large part reflects enhancement in value of its investment in United Gas Improvement. The latter is strongly bought for investment account whenever it sells to yield 5 per cent or better.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 20. (AP)—Fair demand for the light offerings on the cash grain market here continued today. No. 1 hard wheat of any protein was probably worth 79@80c.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 3 mixed 76@77c; No. 2 white 78@79c; No. 2, 95 per cent white 77@78c; No. 2 yellow 77½@78½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 20. (AP)—Bearish aspects of the Wickersham prohibition report tumbled grains downward today, especially corn. The fact that the report omitted any statement looking to changes which would indicate immediate enlarged use of grains for beverage manufacture led to selling by traders whose hopes had been overthrown. Corn, which would be chiefly affected by resumption of beer making, underwent a maximum drop of 1½c a bushel.

Corn unsettled, ⅞@1⅛c lower, wheat at 1c decline to ⅛c advance, oats ¼@½c down, and provisions unchanged to 10c up.

Preceding the news regarding the Wickersham report, wheat and oats as well as corn had declined owing largely to downturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool, where Argentine wheat offerings were reported urgent and demand poor.

Provisions advanced with hogs.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 20. (US)—The Millers Federation has notified its members that they can secure wheat from the Stabilization corporation for immediate use, such wheat to be returned out of the new crop.

Winnipeg shows little disposition to reflect any drastic declines which might result from competition between Argentina and Australia. While there is not by any means an active export demand, there is a fair inquiry for Canadian varieties and a fair volume of bids just under the market.

Each fresh decline at Winnipeg works a moderate volume of export business. Sales today were placed at around 300,000 bushels of Manitobas. Apparently foreign millers desire the good quality Canadian wheat in preference to the pressing offers of southern hemisphere varieties.

Passage of the proposed embargo on import of grains into the United States might put an entirely different light on the corn situation. By preventing Argentine offers at the eastern seaboard it might result in an active demand for buyers there, who have been playing a waiting game.

The Lovely Liar

felt better, though, just talking to him. Knowing that she at least had one friend in an unfriendly group. How old was he? Older than she by a lot, she decided. Thirty or so, perhaps. Kevin Wallace. The name was vaguely familiar, although his face was not. She'd heard of it somewhere. Seen it some place.

"Miss Nixson will prosecute, Miss Prior, so you'd better tell the truth. You may—this may go hard with you."

"What do you mean?"

"You may go to prison. This is very serious. Don't you understand now?"

Prison. Poppy gasped and looked wildly around.

"Did you steal the diamonds?"

"No!"

"Would they—would Mr. Rogers want proof if I told the truth? I mean would he wire around and find out if what I told was true?"

"He'd have to—yes."

"Then I won't say any more. I can't tell any more." Poppy thought of the clipping then, in her glove. She drew it out, tore it up, and going to the window flung the bits of paper through. Kevin did nothing, said nothing, but he was watching her. The papers lifted through the warm air like feathers. Poppy watched them until she could see them no longer.

"Who are you?" she asked when she turned to him at last.

"I—? I'm a friend of Celia's—Miss Nixson's."

"No, I don't mean that. Are you a detective?"

"No. I'm a writer, child."

That's where she'd seen that name. In a magazine. A big magazine. A writer. Kevin Wallace.

Wallace tried again, but Poppy would say nothing. Finally he looked at his watch and announced that they should go back. "Stick to your story of being 16, though. You will get off easier. Your case will come up in the juvenile court. I'm sorry, though, you wouldn't take my advice. Here's my card, if you ever want any help." He scribbled an address on his visiting card and handed it to Poppy.

Back in Rogers' office, Kevin shook his head at the private detective's unspoken question.

"Well, I thought so," Rogers said. "Miss Nixson will prosecute." And Celia Nixson smiled as she put fresh lipstick on her already crimson lips.

THRIFT AIDED BY INSURANCE

Harris Tells Policies Needed For Average Family

By HENRY CAMP HARRIS
Vice President, National Security Life Insurance Company

Today is life insurance day in thrift week all over this country.

For many years, 48 national, civic and commercial organizations have combined with the Y. M. C. A. in staging National Thrift week, opening on Benjamin Franklin's birthday, Jan. 17.

During this week, this day, Jan. 21 will be devoted to life insurance and its importance in any personal or national activity.

Life insurance has been rightfully called "insured thrift."

Intelligent Saving

Not merely thrift is essential to progress, wealth, happiness and comfortable financial circumstances in old age. The savings of a life-time must be protected against depreciation and shrinkage.

Thrift is not merely putting money aside for some future need. To be thrifty, one must have the intelligence to invest his savings where the capital will work and grow.

Life insurance as an investment is insured thrift, inasmuch as it guarantees the payment to your dependents, of the amount you capitalize for their benefit.

There is now over 105 billion dollars of life insurance in force in this country.

The life insurance companies of America stood like a great sea wall against the economic storms of 1930. Death and disability claims were paid promptly. Mortgage loans were made for home owning and business construction. Bonds of cities, counties and even the nation were freely bought. Many hundreds of millions of dollars were paid to policy holders to care for emergencies arising from business losses and unemployment.

Aids in Depression

There is now approximately 18 billion dollars subject to the check of living policy holders. This great reservoir of cash, available for emergencies while you live, tells the story to the entire world that Americans are thrifty and that life insurance is thrift in practice.

Only 3 per cent of the income of the average man is invested in life insurance, yet each year 87 per cent of the average estate left at death is composed of life insurance money.

You should plan and program your insurance. Think it out to fit your own needs and then buy it rather than have it sold to you.

First, you should have one policy of not less than $1,000 for your own death expenses.

Second, you should have a policy for mortgage coverage so that your wife may receive the deed to your home immediately. You should even make your policy payable direct to the building and loan company, as their interest may appear, and the balance then to your wife in cash.

Third, you should then have a monthly income policy that would measure a certain sum to your wife for the monthly current needs of the home. Even a dollar a day for 5, 10, 15 or 20 years to your family will feed them. Make your policy big enough even though for a shorter time, as the period may be extended later.

Fourth, a policy or insured bank book for old age. This is one that will pay you at age 65. You may combine this feature, if you desire, with an income plan for your family.

Fifth, a policy that will guarantee the education of your boy or girl that matures at college age and furnishes the cash so needed at that time.

Trust Services

If you are a man with some little estate, you should investigate the insurance trust. The service of trust officers is available to you at the banks in Wichita Falls. A plan may be worked out for the bank to act as your corporate executor for your entire estate.

The new year promises to be the best in life insurance history. This is due to the fact that 1931 will be a working and thinking year. We are all now more serious minded and realizing the many immediate and future benefits to be derived from life insurance protection, we will, as a nation, purchase additional coverage for family needs and old age income. Through life insurance, a man creates an estate that may also be conserved and administered for his loved ones.

Be thrifty. Check up your life insurance policies by the above suggestions and call in an insurance advisor of any old line legal reserve company who will be glad to assist you even though you do not take out more insurance at this time.

C.-C. DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

Representatives for W. T. C. C. Meet Named

Directors of the chamber of commerce held their first meeting of the year Tuesday, with J. L. Jackson, recently elected president, presiding.

Business transacted included the voting to endorse the work being done by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and to commend its successful efforts to put the organization on a strict business basis. The directorate pledged the support of the Wichita Falls chamber to the West Texas organization.

In connection with the district meet of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to be held here Thursday, the board named Dr. Everett Jones, Albert E. Kelly and Ed Howard as a committee to represent the local chamber during the district meeting.

The board voted to renew its membership in the United States Chamber of Commerce, and expressed dissatisfaction of the explanation given by the director of census regarding the irrigation census of Wichita county. The sentiment of the board is to be conveyed to the director and a further explanation asked.

A. E. Kelly reported on the recent membership campaign, expressing confidence that the quota of $55,000 would be raised in a short time. Walter D. Cline and J. F. O'Donohe told of plans being made for the Will Rogers benefit appearance here on Jan. 30.

Lengthy discussion was held on tax matters and especially the bill asking for partial payment of taxes now before the state legislature. Reports of the progress of the bill were made.

A resolution was passed thanking the Wichita Poster Advertising company for free advertising given to a campaign to stimulate normal buying. The advertising company is providing 16 billboards, four of which are illuminated, for the purpose.

I. O. O. F. SOCIAL

The Odd Fellows and Rebekah's county association meeting which is scheduled to be held at the I. O. O. F. hall Wednesday will be open to friends and members as a social, it was announced by officials of the order. An unusual program consisting of musical, vocal selections, readings and dance numbers is being arranged for the affair. Refreshments will be served.

Former Wichita Girl Wins Carnegie Medal

Information has been received here of the awarding of a Carnegie medal to Miss Claribel Moore of Indianapolis, Ind., former resident of this city, for saving the life of Miss Ella Sussdorf of Cincinnati, Ohio, at Rushville, Ind., on Jan. 26, 1929.

Miss Moore rescued Miss Sussdorf from a blazing automobile which had overturned. Her companion, Oliver W. Katterhenry, was instantly killed. Both Miss Moore and Miss Sussdorf received severe burns.

Miss Moore is well known in Wichita Falls, having lived here several years ago. Her membership is still retained in the local chapter of the Confederacy.

Four poultry flocks in Davidson county, North Carolina, paid owners $2,089 above all feed costs last year.

GEORGE WHITE
An open confession is good for the soul, they say. So here goes. I find that ever since I became a Broadway producer I have been doing a Rip Van Winkle. I have confined my operations exclusively to New York, Chicago and a few cities in the East. THEN I AWOKE. I realized that the tail had been wagging the dog, that I was directing my energies at the market of TWENTY MILLION and neglecting ONE HUNDRED MILLION ENTERTAINMENT LOVERS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY. I determined to be a pioneer, to be the FIRST NEW YORK PRODUCER to send a COMPLETE METROPOLITAN SUCCESS on a COAST-TO-COAST TOUR under MY OWN NAME AND MANAGEMENT. Thus, it is that "FLYING HIGH," identical in every detail with my ORIGINAL New York production, which ran 45 weeks at the GEORGE WHITE APOLLO THEATER, comes to Wichita Falls.
"FLYING HIGH" that will be offered here is NOT a leased enterprise trading on my well known trademark; it is NOT a Number Two or "road" company; it is NOT a makeshift outfit trading on the glamor of a metropolitan reputation. IT IS an organization personally selected and directed by me. MY OWN SHOW, under MY OWN BANNER, an attraction on which I bank my name and reputation.

LIFE INSURANCE is THRIFT
Life Insurance is a sure means of saving. Year after year your premiums increase the value of your insurance while you live. Its value is unquestioned if you die. Thrift by Life Insurance is available to every man.
But Is Your Insurance Thrift Adequate?
Ask yourself that question and answer it honestly. There is hardly any man insured today who feels that his insurance is sufficient. Be fair with yourself. If a little thrift has paid you, what about greater thrift?
Call in Your Life Insurance Counsellor
Discuss with him the Life Insurance that you have today. Tell him for what you hope that insurance will be used—your old age, an income for your wife, education for your children, to remove a mortgage from your home. Let him plan a program for you, adding new insurance as you can afford it—each policy, no matter how small being directed to a given purpose.
