

Gov. Connally Calls Special Election

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. John Connally today called a special election for Dec. 17 in a Central Texas race for Congress between Democrat J. J. Pickle and Republican Jim Dohs.

Connally set the runoff election shortly after the results of the Nov. 9 voting were officially canvassed.

The final vote showed Pickle with 14,386 votes, Dohs with 13,702 and Democrat Jack Ritter Jr. with 13,027.

The winner will fill the seat to be vacated Dec. 20 by Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex., who will become a federal judge in El Paso.

Secretary of State Crawford Martin said he understood Congress plans to take no more votes after Dec. 18 and will go into the Christmas recess Dec. 20.

Martin also certified two Dallas Republicans, Jack Sampsel and Hughes Brown, as winners in a Dallas county special election to fill two vacated Texas House seats.

Bob Landis Armstrong, Austin, was certified as the winner in a Travis County vote to fill a seat vacated when Ritter resigned to run for Congress.

Walton Rites Set Sunday

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday for Mrs. Willie Edna Walton, 81, who died Friday.

Mrs. Walton had lived here for about a year. Previously, she had lived in New Boston since 1905.

The funeral service will be held at Northside Baptist Church, with the Rev. Jack Dean, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell Funeral Home.

Connally To Speak At Sweetwater Event

Tickets have gone on sale here for a barbecue dinner at which Gov. John Connally will speak in Sweetwater on the night of Nov. 26.

Betty Staton, district Democratic Committeewoman, said Gov. Connally's address will be non-political. The barbecue dinner will be prepared by the Sweetwater Chuck Wagon Gang. Tickets are priced at $2 each, and they may be purchased in Snyder from J. Mark McLaughlin or Frank A. Wilson.

Cut May Foretell Foreign Aid's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's $827,250,000 - cut in President Kennedy's foreign aid bill flashed a warning to the administration that the whole overseas assistance program, unless sharply curtailed and revised, may be on its way out.

The amendment - riddled $3,702,965,000 authorization measure - more sharply reduced than any since the foreign aid program started after World War II - cleared the Senate Friday by a 63-17 vote.

But the temper in Congress - and presumably around the country, judging from what senators say about their mail - is such that further cuts seem certain next week. Senate and House conferees meet then to adjust differences between the Senate bill and the $3,502,075,000 measure previously voted by the House.

And further reductions appear likely when Congress acts on the foreign aid appropriations measure which will provide the actual money for which the authorization bill simply sets ceilings.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who had the task of steering the bill to passage, said in an interview that the future of the whole program is in danger unless the Agency for International Development (AID) can make it more palatable to Congress next year.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that "the present pattern of aid is no longer feasible and some new approach will have to be found for American assistance in the development of underdeveloped countries."

The revolt against the program drew support from both parties and was led by Democrats who turned a deaf ear to Kennedy's pleadings.

He told his news conference Thursday in evident exasperation that he had "tried to make it very clear that I cannot fulfill my responsibilities in the field of foreign policy without this program."

SNYDER AREA OIL

Five wildcat locations have been spotted in the Snyder area during the past week, three in Scurry County and one each in Kent and Borden Counties.

R. P. Fisher, Jr., and Drillers, Inc., of Abilene No. 1 P. Fuller is slated as a 5,800-ft. future in Scurry, 11 miles northeast of Snyder.

It is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 260, block 23, H&T survey.

Forest Oil Corporation of Midland will drill No. 1 Golden West 1 1/2 miles southeast of the multipay Cogdell, Southeast field of Scurry, 12 miles north of Snyder.

The 7,500-foot Pennsylvania explorer is 1,930 feet from north and 1,800 feet from east lines of section 445, block 97, H&T survey.

Texaco Inc. No. 276-NCT-1 P. The drillsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 587, block 97, H&T survey and 3 1/2 miles south of the Gordon Simpson multipay area.

Wolfson Oil Company of Midland completed No. 1-129 Young as a Strawn discovery in Kent County, 10 miles west of Clairmont and two miles west of the multipay Salt Creek field.

On the Young, a 7,332-foot, 11-ft. flow 147 barrels of oil daily unreported, through a 13-64-inch choke from perforations at 6,910-15 feet which had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid. Flowing tubing pressure was 100 pounds and gas-oil ratio was not reported.

The location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 129, block G, W&W survey. It is a re-entry of the former General Ode Oil Company No. 1-129 Young, a 7,332-foot, 11-ft. failure abandoned in July 1956.

C. L. Norsworthy, Jr., of Dallas No. 3-D R. L. Frost has been completed as a 1/2-mile north extension to the west side of the Rough Draw, North (Noodle Creek) pool of Kent, 12 miles southeast of Clairmont.

It flowed 220 barrels of oil gravity oil per day, plus three per cent water, through a 1/2-inch choke from perforations at 6,977-100 feet after a 250-gallon acid treatment. Gas-oil ratio was 270-1.

Yale Professor Freed; Plane Reaches London

US Warning Ignored By Argentina

By FRANK N. MANITZAS Associated Press Staff Writer BURENOs AIRES (AP) — Argentina Friday night ignored a U.S. warning of possible serious consequences and annulled its multimillion-dollar oil contracts with eight American and four other foreign companies.

President Kennedy carried through with a campaign pledge and issued decrees placing foreign petroleum production and development under the control of the government-run oil agency, Yacimientos Petroliferos Fiscales (YPF). The decrees authorized YPF to use force if necessary to take over the operations.

It was not immediately known whether the companies would be fully compensated since the final annulment papers will be drawn up by Argentina's procurator general. There was no indication when he would deliver his decision.

The U.S. companies, who have estimated that they invested $397 million for drilling and exploration operations, have all reported that they will take legal action to gain compensation.

President Kennedy has maintained that the United States could not block the long-threatened nationalization but that the United States would press for full compensation for the American firms.

Washington also has indicated to Argentina that the annulment could result in a reduction of cutoff of U.S. aid and private investment in Argentina.

A State Department spokesman said in Washington Friday night there was no immediate U.S. comment on the Argentine action.

Economy Minister Eugenio Blanco announced that the decree which annulled all development, exploration and service contracts signed by the oil companies since May 1, 1958, when former President Arturo Frondizi was in power.

LONDON (AP) — An airliner carrying Prof. Frederick C. Barghoom from Moscow landed at London airport Saturday night. The Yale professor, an expert on the Soviet Union, was expelled by the Russians earlier in the day after being held on espionage charges.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was described as "gratified" today at the release by the Soviet Union of Yale University professor Frederick C. Barghoom.

The State Department also expressed its pleasure but said it has not yet been made for sending a U.S. cultural mission to Moscow.

The departure of the mission to negotiate a new cultural exchange program with the Soviet Union was postponed earlier this week because of Barghoom's arrest on spy charges.

Kennedy's reaction to the release was announced at Cape Canaveral, Fla., where the President is inspecting aspects of the U.S. space program.

Outlook Dim For Cotton

By OVID A. MARTIN WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department outlook report for 1964 offers little hope for improvement for cotton.

The cotton problem is one of production in excess of domestic and export demands hands getting larger.

Contributing to the problem, the report said, is a further increase in imports of foreign textile products and also an increase in use of manmade fibers in this country.

The department said cotton's share of the country's total fiber consumption during the current sales year may fall to a record low of less than 57 per cent, down from 59 per cent for 1962 and from 66 per cent for the 1954-58 average.

The widespread gratification in Washington at the release of Professor Barghoom has been getting an unofficial cold-shoulder as a result of Barghoom's detention.

"We are very glad things have worked out," said Mrs. T. G. Mamedova, spokeswoman for the visiting Russians. She acknowledged they had received "some disconcerting snubs" but said she saw no connection between the Barghoom incident and their visit.

The Soviet group of writers, artists and other figures has been virtually boycotted and isolated from U.S. contacts since President Kennedy denounced Barghoom's detention and emphasized that the university professor was not an intelligence mission whatever.

The Soviet mission had come to this country, not as part of any regular exchange arrangement but under the auspices of a Moscow-sponsored organization called the Institute of Soviet Relations.

Ginning Ahead Of Last Year

Cotton harvesting is progressing steadily in Scurry County and in all of District 2 of the Agricultural-Marketing Service.

B. B. Manly, Jr., Officer-in-Charge of the USDA's cotton classing office in Abilene, has announced that as of Nov. 8, the current harvesting season total of bales classed in District 2 is 232,449. This compares with 127,602 on the corresponding date one year ago.

The portion of District 2 served by the Abilene office is composed of counties surrounded by Dickens, Sterling, Runnels and Jones counties, and includes Scurry County.

In Scurry County as of Friday, 24,067 bales had been ginned by Scurry County's nine gins. This compares to a total of 13,930 on this date last year.

However, last year at this time ginning had been slowed considerably by damp weather for the preceding week. Ginning in the county says that they expect a sharp increase in cotton brought in for ginning as soon as we experience a killing frost.

Due to the lack of a killing frost, sample receipts have remained steady in District 2. In the week ending Nov. 8, 24,610 bales were classed in the district, and in the previous week, 25,106 were classed.

Grades last week showed a slight decline over the preceding week. Eight per cent were classed in the White grade category, 88 per cent was Light Spotted, and four per cent was Spotted. The predominant grade continued to be Middling Light Spotted, making up 63 per cent of the total samples classed in the district.

Sample length was shorter with eight per cent being classed as 1 1/2 and shorter; 59 per cent was 2 1/2 and 32 per cent was 1 1/2 and longer.

Total bales ginned in Scurry County as reported by the gins are: Chino, 5,386; Paymaster, 5,029; China Grove, 3,878; Inadale, 3,692; Hermleigh, 2,120; Planters in Snyder, 1,228; Lingo in Ira, 1,089; Planters in Dunn, 871; and Planters in Phuvanna, 783.

JFK Watches Polaris Firing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy today observed one of America's major strategic weapons systems in action—the firing of a Polaris missile from a submarine.

The nuclear sub Andrew Jackson unleashed the 31 foot rocket while gliding slowly beneath the Atlantic Ocean about 30 miles off Cape Canaveral.

The Navy reported the missile performed perfectly as it steaked across the sky toward a target more than 1,500 miles down range.

The launching climaxed a whirlwind presidential visit to Cape Canaveral where earlier the chief executive viewed the world's most powerful rocket, Saturn I, discuss the two-man Gemini program with astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper and Virgil I. Grissom; received a progress report on the Apollo Man-to-the-Moon program; flew in a helicopter over America's mushrooming moon port, and then to a ship 30 miles at sea to watch the Polaris firing.

The President was aboard the deck of the missile support ship U. S. S. Observation Island, standing about 1,200 yards off the Jackson's starboard side.

Kennedy himself gave the firing order today. From the firing operation island, the President — using the code name "American Chief" — barked a radio command to the submarine's captain, Commander James B. Wilson of Wayne, Pa.

The visit was calculated to boost the embattled manned lunar landing program, which has come under heavy criticism in some quarters recently, primarily because of the high cost, estimated between $20 billion and $40 billion dollars.

Dying Man's Lips Sealed

DALLAS (AP) — Tommy Jim Myers, a kinpin of the Dallas underworld, lay gravely wounded Saturday—his lips sealed by the underworld code.

Myers, 37, who has a record weighs almost a pound, but who has been in prison only one time, was blasted by shotgun fire at about 8:15 p.m. Friday when he emerged from his parked car at a lounge.

Doctors said Myers was lifeless in his body from the waist down and that shotgun pellets struck him at least 30 times in the chest.

Patrolman B. J. Clark and H. Lingus, who answered the shooting call, quoted Myers as saying when they asked who shot him: "No, and if I knew, I would tell you to hell before I would tell you."

Bids Invited On Texas Tourist Advertising AUSTIN (AP) — Six agencies will be invited to bid Jan. 16-17 for the state's first travel advertising account.

The Texas Tourist Development Agency said Friday the six were chosen from 29 agencies seeking the $20,000 account.

The six are Batten, Barto Dornine & Osborne, Dallas; Fuller & Smith & Ross, Fort Worth; Goodwin, Dinnemore, Litterman & Wingfield, Houston; McCann-Erickson, Houston; Pitluk, San Antonio; and White & Shuford, El Paso.

Criteria Set For Site Of School A city for police and fire protection and local bus service.

Also, the site selection committee will require written pledges from commissioners courts for paved access roads and from city governments and utility companies for water, electricity, gas and sanitary sewer service.

The committee has indicated that larger communities, preferably with or near a medical center will get top consideration.

Availability of personnel, which will consist mostly of attendants and food service personnel, will be a factor, and, of course, geographic area with regard to the area to be served. In connection with the latter factor, the committee has advised that the geographic area to be served by the Abilene State-School should be borne in mind, indicating that it will tend to the corporate limits of avoid overlapping area.

Big Need For General Rain Still Unabated Over State

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Mitchell counties. Irrigated wheat late last week denied the drought in parts of Texas. The big need for general rains over the entire state is unabated.

Cotton producers of the High Plains and other west and north-west areas would like present conditions to last until their harvest is over, said Director John Hutchison of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The harvesting push on the Plains awaits a killing frost to defoliate cotton for strippers, the director said.

Cub Scouts Make Trip To Big Spring Air Force Base

Cub Scouts and their parents of Big Spring made a trip to Webb Air Force Base last Sunday afternoon.

After a ride on the Air Force bus to the briefing room of the 351st Interceptor Squadron, the flying officers of this squadron, presented a fine film pertaining to the activities of the Air Defense Command, of which their Squadron is a part. Then everyone went to the flight line, where the visitors were shown the F-104 fighter plane, which is the new type plane now used. The group of 93 enjoyed this visit very much.

Pack 36 held their October meeting on Monday night, Oct. 13. This meeting was attended by 138 Cubs and their families.

A door greeting and opening ceremony was given by Den number 4, led by Mrs. Faye Mize. Den number 3, led by Mrs. Nell Patterson, presented the award for the best den. The ceremony was given by Den number 2, led by Wanda Huffman.

A Bobcat induction ceremony was held and the following boys were inducted into Cub scouting: Mike Simpson, N. C. Smith, Kyle Smith, Benny Hollis, Larry Winans, Jerry Brooks, Gary Brooks, Dan Shamshie, Wesley Neepner, Carl Shroyer, Mike Tidwell, Wayne Tidwell, Lohar Bartels, Wayne Emerson, Randy Koonce, Steve Gilbert, Paul Terrell, Jimmie Shelburne, Robert Smith, Buddy Hardee, Robert Sims, A. Traffic Deaths Told AUSTIN (AP)—State police said 2,186 persons had died in Texas traffic to noon Friday, compared to 1,985 last year.

Dear Abby...

DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that dentistry required years of training and practice. Well, I don't know anything about Dentistry, but I am a student of American History and it is a fact that Paul Revere made George Washington's false teeth. And Paul Revere was not a dentist. He was a blacksmith! So, who needs dentists?

HISTORY STUDENT: DEAR ABBY: And if you will look closely at a picture of George Washington, you'll see that his lower jaw protrudes a full inch beyond his upper. Back in 1796, when blacksmiths doubled for dentists, there was an excuse for it, but not today. So leave Dentistry to the dentists, and don't bite the hand that makes it possible.

DEAR ABBY: I've been sitting back watching a thrice-married widow wreck the home of two of our best friends. This couple has grown old and were ideally happy. Then two years ago this widow came along. She manages to be everywhere this man is, even following him out of town on a business trip. The wife is a trusting soul who knows from nothing about what's going on. She is forever telling me how hard her husband works and how much time he has to spend out of town on "business."

Bell Personnel Reflect Image

Probably no business depends more upon the public image projected by its personnel than does the funeral home. Bell Funeral Home is staffed by the type of persons in whom one may place their trust and confidence. And Bell Funeral Home employees stand ready to lend a helping hand at any time when help is needed.

N. Gaither Bell, co-owner of the firm, has been a licensed Funeral Director since 1935 and was for many years associated with the Odum Funeral Home here. Bell and his wife, Alma Nell, have one daughter, Belinda.

Gaither Bell, along with Mrs. and Mrs. Seaton Barnes, operated the Bell Funeral Home in August, 1952. After Mr. Barnes' death early in 1963, Mrs. Barnes continued to be active in the operation of Bell Funeral Home.

Last month Mrs. Barnes sold out here interest in the firm to B. J. Seale. However she has continued her association with Bell Funeral Home in the capacity of accountant and bookkeeper.

Seale, a former resident of Matador, has been engaged in the profession most of his working life, and has been a licensed mortician for 15 years. The Seale family, consisting of Mr. Seale, Mrs. Seale, their daughter Marsha and son Kris, moved to Snyder recently and reside at 2900 Thirtieth Street.

Also staff of the Bell Funeral Home still is Bob Terrell, a former resident of Sweetwater, who has lived in Snyder and been associated with the firm for five years. Terrell and his wife, Gene, have a daughter, Sherry, and a son Bobby. Terrell attended Hardin Simmons University and the Dallas Institute of Mortuary Science. He is in charge of the bookkeeping department of Bell Burial Association.

Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, pastor of First Baptist Church in Snyder, was elected to the 192-member Texas Baptist Executive Board at the Baptist General Convention of Texas annual meeting, which closed Thursday in San Antonio.

He was one of 300 Baptists elected to boards of trustees for Baptist organizations and institutions during the annual meeting.

The 192-member executive board is composed of pastors, laymen and women from throughout the state. It meets four times a year to conduct the denomination's business between annual sessions. The board members serve as representatives of more than 1.6 million Baptists who are members of the denomination's 3,917 churches in Texas.

Lincoln Was Not Listed On Gettysburg Event Program

EDITOR'S NOTE — A hundred years ago this week, a weary and worried president stood near a Pennsylvania cemetery and delivered a four-minute speech he thought would be little noted nor long remembered. It was, instead, one of the great masterpieces of American literature.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—One hundred years ago this week, with vultures wheeling overhead and the skeletons of horses still scattered about the landscape, Abraham Lincoln mounted a wooden platform on the battlefield at Gettysburg to deliver the most famous address in American history.

The odd part about it was that no one really had intended for him to speak.

The orator of the day, as every school boy knows, was Edward Everett, former secretary of Massachusetts and president of Harvard, whose nationwide lecture tour had helped save Mount Vernon as a national shrine. Such was Everett's fame as an orator that the dedication date of the little 17-acre military cemetery at Gettysburg had been changed from Oct. 23 to Nov. 19 to accommodate his schedule.

Lincoln got into the act by accepting the same printed invitation that had been mailed to hundreds of others. Frankly surprised and a trifle embarrassed at his acceptance, the Board of Commissioners representing the 17 Union states which had joined to purchase the cemetery and quickly followed up with a more personal invitation in which they called on the President to make "a few appropriate remarks" after the Everett speech.

Clark E. Carr of Galesburg, the Illinois member of the board recalled later the decision to ask the President to say "a few words" as an "afterthought."

Contrary to persistent legend, most historians doubt that Lincoln jotted his speech down on the back of an envelope aboard the train to Gettysburg. He probably began work on it at the White House on Tuesday morning, Nov. 17, two days before it was to be delivered, writing at least the first page of it on executive mansion stationery. Concentration must have been difficult for the President had a great deal on his mind. The war in the West was going badly. A budget message was impending before Congress, and he had put it aside to sort out his Gettysburg thoughts. His political fortunes were than at such a low ebb that one of his own Cabinet members, Secretary of the Treasury Salmon Chase, was making noises like a presidential candidate.

Thaddeus Stevens, for one, regarded the President as a "dead card" in the political deck. Upon hearing that Secretary of State William Seward would accompany Lincoln to Gettysburg, he sneered, "The dead going to eulogize the dead."

On top of all that, his best pal in the world, Tad Lincoln, 10, lay sick of the fever in an upstairs bedroom. Mrs. Lincoln was beside herself with worry. Less than two years earlier, Willie Lincoln had died in the same bedroom after a brief illness.

The President, however, was in good spirits when Gen. James B. Fry called for him on Wednesday in an open carriage and urged him to hurry if they were to catch the special train leaving at noon for Gettysburg from the Baltimore & Ohio station. He responded with an anecdote about a fellow being jostled by crowds while en route to the gallows. "Boys, the fellow cried out, 'You needn't be in such a hurry to get ahead. There won't be any fun until I get there.'"

As the train pulled out, a little girl passed up some flowers to the President. He leaned out the window to kiss her, saying, "You are a little rosebud yourself."

Further along the line an elderly man who had lost a son on Little Round Top at Gettysburg came aboard to shake hands. Moved by the incident,

Lincoln sighed, "When I think of the sacrifices of life yet to be offered and the hearts and homes yet to be made desolate before this dreadful war is over, my heart is like lead within me and I feel at times like hiding in deep darkness."

The train pulled into the little brick station at Gettysburg shortly before 6, and a big harvest moon was climbing into the frosty Pennsylvania night. A large enthusiastic crowd accompanied the President as he walked two blocks up the hill to the house of attorney David Wills, chairman of the cemetery board. The Wills house, a sturdy yellow brick affair, still stands overlooking the public square. It and the little railroad station are Gettysburg's main surviving reminders of the Lincoln visit.

After dining with Everett, Gov. Andrew Curtin of Pennsylvania and other dignitaries in the Wills home, the President was serenaded by the 5th New York Artillery band, but he declined to address the crowd in the square.

"In my position," he begged off, "it is somewhat important that I should not say foolish things."

"Not if you can help it," cried an impatient voice.

To which Lincoln good-naturedly retorted, "It very often happens that the only way to help it is to say nothing at all. Believing this is my present condition, this evening, I beg you to excuse me from addressing you further."

At 9 o'clock Lincoln received a telegram from Secretary of War Edwin Stanton reporting slightly with his Negro servant William Johnson he retired to his bedroom on the second floor to finish the first draft of his speech on a piece of foolscap borrowed from Wills. An hour later, he gathered his papers and went next door to show the speech to Seward, who was staying at the home of Robert Harper, editor of the local paper.

After breakfast next morning Lincoln rewrote the speech again while waiting for the prospect to start toward the battlefield.

Gettysburg, a town of 2,100 had swelled to more than 15,000, with more visitors arriving hourly by foot and carriage and by special trains from Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia. Souvenir hunters wandered over Little Round Top and Culp's Hill, the Devil's Den and Cemetery Ridge, hunting for bullets, buttons, shell fragments, canteens, muddy knapsacks and other mementos of the bloody battle of four months ago.

Only 1,118 of the more than 20,000 Union dead had been reburied beneath the low wooden crosses in the new cemetery, and it would be seven years before the Confederate dead were removed to cemeteries in Richmond, Charleston and Savannah. Amid the skeletons of horses and the scattered equipment, coffins protruded here and there where the rain had washed away the thin cover of earth hastily tossed on the graves by surviving comrades.

People in Gettysburg blamed the high incidence of sickness that fell on the condition of the battlefield.

More than an hour late in getting started, the procession finally moved up Baltimore Street under a cloudless sky in Finger Lakes hamlet, and here perfect 52-degree Indian summer weather. Lincoln, in a dy was confirmed Thursday by Prince Albert coat, white gauntlets and a tall stove pipe hat that still bore a black crepe for Willie's death, sat astride a beautiful chestnut horse, "the who had been acting postmaster in the Cumberland Valley for two years."

Even so, he seemed to the dwarf the animal with his long legs almost touching the ground. The march to the cemetery took only 15 minutes, but there was another hour-long delay because Everett was off touring the battlefield with Prof. Michael Jacobs of Gettysburg College.

During the long wait, Lincoln told another get Frank Lacabbo, 37, of Cranston, into telegram from Stanton containing some good news. Burns was safe though still threatened at Knoxville. Grant had started a battle at Chattanooga and, hope consumption. A visiting best news of all, "Mrs. Lincoln reports your son's health is a great deal better and he will be home today."

The ceremonies finally got under way at high noon with the Birgfield Band of Philadelphia playing a dirge and the Rev. Thomas Stockton, chaplain of the House of Representatives, announcing the opening prayer. As the Marine Band struck up "Old Hundred," the President stepped back in a battered canteen on the platform, flanked by Seward on his left and Everett on his right. The wooden platform, erected where the Soldiers National Monument now stands, faced northwest across the site of the first day's battle and afforded a splendid view of Oak Ridge, the tower of the Old Dorm at Gettysburg College, and, shimmering in the distant haze, the South Mountain range. Benjamin French, officer in charge of public buildings in Washington, introduced Everett. For the next hour and 30 minutes, in deep organ-like tones, the 70-year-old spell binder reviewed funeral customs in ancient Athens, described the three-day Battle at Gettysburg in detail, paid tribute to those who died there and vigorously assailed the states rights position. Once when he mistakenly said Lee for Meade, Lincoln corrected him audibly. At the conclusion of his address, Everett was wrapped in a blanket. Lincoln and Seward came forward to pump his hand and the crowd applauded enthusiastically.

Next, the Baltimore Glee Club sang an ode written by French. During their rendition, Lincoln extracted a pair of steel bow spectacles from a metallic case, produced his manuscript from his pocket, and proceeded to study it. The crowd fell silent and ceased its stirring as Ward Lamon, marshal of the District of Columbia, introduced the "Four score and seven years ago," Lincoln began in a shaky, slightly faltering voice that nevertheless carried well in the clear autumn air to the back of the crowd.

Directly in front of him, Associated Press reporter Joseph Gilbert scribbled furiously in his notebook and pocket an occasional word. The crowd applauded at least five times during the speech and there was sustained applause at the end, but Lincoln was plainly dissatisfied with his performance.

"Lamon, that speech won't scour," he said to Ward Lamon. "It is a flat failure and the people are disappointed." Scour was an old farm expression used to describe wet soil falling freely from the mold board of a plow.

Little did Lincoln realize, as the train rumbled through the dark Pennsylvania night and across Maryland toward Washington that he had delivered one of the masterpieces of American literature, that in 20 simple words he had summed up the national purpose for all times, that school children for generations to come would memorize those immortal words, that they would be beaten in bronze and given in granite, that people all over the world would find renewed courage and inspiration in them, and that history would prove him wrong.

The world did not and long remember what he said at Gettysburg on that fine fall day.

BILL BUTLER

Top Service Featured At M&M

Bill Butler, owner of M&M Electronics, believes that good service and a good selection are the keys to successful operation of a business such as M&M.

And, believing this, he has constantly stressed service and added to the firm's selection since his purchase of the business in 1955.

Added to the lines offered have been Packard-Bell, Webster, Motorola auto radios, Voice of Music record players, and, fairly recently, all kinds of records, including popular, jazz, western, and classical.

Small appliance repair is featured at M&M, including electric razor repair, as well as radio and TV repair service.

Butler, a native of Lubbock, has lived in Snyder for the past eight years. He is married, and the father of two children.

Employed at M&M six months ago is Mickey Burleson. Burleson is a 27-year resident of Ira. M&M Electronics is located at 1910 Twenty-seventh Street.

Rules Set For Attire

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Henceforth, untucked shirt tails are taboo for the boys, and collotes, bare midriffs and dresses with spaghetti straps are forbidden for girls in elementary schools of suburban Pasadena, Tex.

Clyde Doyal, one of the school board members, wanted to know what a spaghetti strap is before a vote was taken Thursday night. Someone in the audience held up a pencil and said it's a shoulder strap smaller than a pencil.

"If a student comes to school well-dressed," Supt. George A. Thompson told the board, "he has more pride and self esteem and adapts better to the learning situation. If he comes shabby, he reacts the same way."

Father Plans Future For Fifteen Children

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Death of his wife has left Willie M. Bilbrew facing a formidable task. "No matter what happens, I'm going to keep the kids together in this house," Bilbrew said Friday.

Mrs. Gertrude Bilbrew died of tetanus which developed after she stepped on a nail.

Relatives say they will care for the children while Bilbrew is at his job as a cement finisher. The eldest child is 18, the youngest is 1.

F101 Ground Takeoff Is Unofficial Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force says an F101 jet streaked to an altitude of 22,100 feet, setting an unofficial record for ground takeoff.

The Starfighter, with Maj. Robert W. Smith at the controls, went to 118,860 feet to top the official 112,850-foot mark held by a Soviet pilot.

Smith's record was announced Friday.

Study Funds For Trinity Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee has recommended that $150,000 be authorized to begin reconstruction planning on the Lavon Reservoir modification and channel improvement project, according to Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Tex.

Roberts said Friday the recommendation came from the public works subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee.

The estimated $23.7 million project will include modification of the Lavon Dam and downstream channel improvement on the East Fork of the Trinity River, Roberts said.

The Corps of Engineers has recommended that the dam be modified to take care of flood situations and also to provide future water supplies for the North Texas Municipal Water District.

Ten cities in Collin, Kaufman, Rockwall and Dallas counties get water from the district.

Roberts said that because of the rapid population growth in these cities, they do not have adequate municipal water unless this project is completed and the reservoir filled by 1970.

Way Clear For Agency

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Latin-American nations are reported to have cleared the way for formation of a U.S.-backed clearing house agency that would give them greater influence in the Alliance for Progress.

Informed sources said a working committee of the 20-nation Inter-American Economic and Social Council agreed Thursday to form the seven-nation agency.

Agreement came after Brazil reversed itself and agreed to support the agency, which would coordinate new alliance programs.

Delegates left Brazil opposed the agency because it feared Latin Americans might be less inclined than the United States to appropriate funds to help Brazil's chaotic economy.

Tests Show Trip Possible

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Tests have proved that an astronaut can launch himself from the moon even though important guidance devices fail.

Center officials said Thursday the tests were conducted in the summer but have been the subject of extensive analysis, concluded only recently.

Officials said that tests conducted at Ling-Teneco-Vought, Inc., in Dallas, Tex., showed a trained astronaut could return from the moon to an orbiting mother ship, a distance of 100 miles—even if a part of the guidance system had been knocked out by accident.

Astronauts M. Scott Carpenter, Neil A. Armstrong, James A. McDivitt and Elliott S. Sizoo took part in the simulated take-off tests.

In A Real Hurry!

MONTROSE, Colo. (AP)—Police jailed Joe Largo of San Diego, Calif., for investigation minutes Friday after another man's taxi had been driven off a parking lot.

Here's what speeded up the arrest, Policeman Lyle Bennett said.

In driving off with the cab, Largo nearly crashed it against Bennett's police cruiser at the edge of the parking lot.

Tigers Edge By Colorado City 21-14

Cinch Spot In Playoffs

The Snyder Tigers built up a 21-0 lead against Colorado City here Friday night and then fought off a furious fourth-quarter rally by the Wolves to eke out a 21-14 victory.

The narrow win assured the Tigers of a spot in the playoffs, as the only team who could possibly tie them for the district 3-AAA championship is Sweetwater, who was defeated by Snyder last week. The Mustangs stayed in contention for a share of the district crown by downing Lamesa 36-20 Friday night.

Snyder still must face Lake View here next Friday, and can win the district championship outright by beating the Chiefs. The Tigers started out as though they were going to make a runaway of it by scoring twice in the first quarter for a 14-0 lead. They threatened again in the second quarter by the C-City 18 yardline before a pass was intercepted by Larry Damborsky in the end zone.

Meanwhile the Wolves were held scoreless in the first half, although they threatened once. After being backed up to their own 12, Damborsky broke through and went 63 yards to the Snyder 25 before being overhauled by Rob Hall. The Snyder defense stiffened and the threat came to naught.

The Tigers built up their lead to 21-0 early in the final period when the Wolves made a last ditch comeback that had all the fans on their feet.

Colorado City scored its first touchdown with less than six minutes remaining in the first half to pull within 14 points of the Tigers, and then tallied again with 2:25 left in the game to make it 21-14. The Wolves then tried an inside kick, and it worked.

Almost before the Tiger backers could say "hold that line" the Wolves had marched to the three yardline, and the few C-City fans at the game were sending a major upset in the making.

With just nine seconds showing on the clock, Tiger Line and Brown intercepted a third down pass and ran it to the Snyder three yardline. At that point Snyder let the clock run out and Tiger players, coaches and fans heaved a sigh of relief.

Snyder kicked off at the outset of the contest and the Tiger defense held the Wolves to two yards in three downs, forcing them to punt from their 33.

Snyder took the punt and quickly made a first down as Danny Aycock went through center for 10 yards to the middle field stripe. Three more plays netted the Tigers five yards and Dower punted from the C-City 45. The ball went out to the 20. Dale Walker tried a pass that was incomplete, and on second down was caught for a seven yard loss by Roy Miller, Reed Robinson and Jerry Kincheol. After another incomplete pass the Wolves again punted and Snyder was in business on the Colorado City 45.

Dower Scores
From that point the Tigers moved to their first score, taking just seven plays to cover the distance. Tom Kincaid started the drive with a 15-yard burst to the 30, followed by another for eight yards. Brown picked up one, Kincaid two, and then Brown got seven. After a three-yard loss, Jimmy Wilson hit Kenneth Dower for the tally, with the play covering 15 yards. Kincaid kicked the extra point, his first of three straight for the night, and the Tigers had a 7-0 lead with slightly over four minutes left in the first period.

C-City took the kickoff and ran it back to its own 32. On first down Donny Lindsay was stopped for no gain by Jackie Stewart, and then picked up two yards before being tackled by Kincaid and Robinson. Walker was held to no gain by Kincheol and the Wolves punted.

The Tigers got the ball on the Wolves' 49, and Kincaid ran for five yards. On the second down, Gary Bergeron, got five, but fumbled, and it was recovered by C-City's Bill McGauley. The Wolves reciprocated, however, and fumbled on first down, with Brown recovering for the Tigers.

Brown Breaks Loose

Snyder quickly lighted up the scoreboard again, and it only took three plays. Brown ran for nine and Bergeron got three to the C-City 33. On the next play Brown burst over right tackle, cut to the middle and went all the way. After Kincaid's boot, the Tigers led 14-0 with just 15 seconds left in the initial period.

Kincaid kicked off and the Wolves got the ball on their own 12. On first down, Dambrosky broke through for his long run, and it looked like he might go all the way. However, Rob Hall ran down at the Snyder 25, thus saving what would have been a sure touchdown.

The Tiger defense held as Lindsay was stopped for a two-yard loss by Jay Williamson. The Wolves fumbled on the next play and Williamson recovered for Snyder on the 31. Snyder almost got another drive going, and did make one first down. Hall hit for two, and Brown got three and then nine. After Hall was stopped for a two-yard loss, Brown got seven more. The Tigers were penalized five yards, and Marcum ran for eight yards, but it was not enough for the first. So Dower punted to the C-City 33 yardline.

The Wolves quickly kicked on second down and Snyder was back in business on the Colorado City 33. Bergeron took it for two, Williamson ran for two, and then for nine, and Hall and Williamson got one each. With third down and needing eight on the 18, Marcum passed, but Dambrosky intercepted in the end zone to stave off the threat.

The two teams then exchanged punts after running one series of plays, and the Wolves took the air. At that time a Walker pass was picked up of the air by Hall who ran about 20 yards back to the C-City 44. Before the Tigers could do much with it the first half ended.

Snyder again kicked off to begin the second half, and again the Wolves were stopped. Marcum and Bobby Kay made two key tackles for the Tigers, and C-City punted from its own 33.

This set up another exchange of punts as neither team could get the contest and the Tiger defense held the Wolves to two yards in three downs, forcing them to punt from their 33.

Snyder took the punt and quickly made a first down as Danny Aycock went through center for 10 yards to the middle field stripe. The Wolves got another break a few minutes later as Dambrosky intercepted another pass and ran it to the Snyder 25, but fumbled, and it was recovered by C-City's Bill McGauley. The Wolves reciprocated, however, and fumbled on first down, with Brown recovering for the Tigers.

HE'S NOT ASLEEP — Tiger halfback Tom Kincaid (43) is not taking a nap. He is shown just after he had dived in from the three for Snyder's third score in the game against Colorado City Friday night. Other players in the picture who can be identified are Jeff Graham (51), Larry Walton (62), and Richard Elkins (82). The Tigers won the game 21-14.

Ira Defeats Highland In Thriller

HIGHLAND — The Ira Bulldogs won a thrilling 32-31 victory over the Highland Hornets in a District 4-B (Six Man) encounter here Friday night. It was the final game of the season for each club.

The Hornets jumped off to a 13-1 first quarter lead over the Bulldogs, and stretched it to 19-8 in the second period. Ira did come from behind in the final minutes of the game, and made a goal line stand in order to win the game.

McCaulley Wins Over Hobbs 32-6

MC CAULLEY — The Hobbs Panthers closed their football season here last night as they fell to McCaulley 32-6 in District 4-B competition. The two teams are now co-champions of the district, but McCaulley will be the representative in the bi-district game against Christoval, winner of District 3-B. That game is tentatively set for next Saturday night in Blackwell.

Snyder Chalks Up Big Victory

The Snyder Tigers and the Sweetwater Mustangs chalked up big wins in District 3-AAA competition Friday night, that cinched a playoff spot for one and kept alive hopes for a share in the championship for the other.

Snyder edged by Colorado City 21-14 to run its string of district victories to four without a defeat. Regardless of the outcome of next week's contest with Lake View, the Tigers will represent the district in the playoffs. Snyder's bi-district opponent will be the winner of next week's Wichita Falls Rider-Graham game. The playoff will be played sometime on Thanksgiving weekend. Exact time and place will be determined after the District 4-AAA representative is decided.

Sweetwater stayed in contention for a share in the district crown with a resounding 36-20 victory over Lamesa, who is now out of the district running with two wins and two losses. The Mustangs would end up in a tie with Snyder if they get by Brownfield next week and the Tigers lose to Lake View. In that event Snyder would still go to bi-district because of its win over Sweetwater last week.

In other district action Brownfield got its second district win against two losses with a 21-12 victory over the Lake View Chiefs.

The way District 3-AAA stands now Snyder is on a par with a spotless record in four games. Sweetwater is in second with a 3-1 mark, and Lamesa and Brownfield are tied for third with identical 2-2 records. Lake View and Colorado City are tied for the cellar spot with one tie and three losses each.

The Snyder - Colorado City affair almost turned out to be a big upset. Favored by up to 25 points, the Tigers built up a 21-0 fourth quarter lead before the Wolves caught fire and scored twice in the final period. The Snyder defense had to stave off the Wolves in the waning seconds after they had moved to the Tiger three yardline.

Sweetwater scored 22 points in the final period to upset the Tornadoes 36-20. Bennie Pace led the Mustangs as he scored two touchdowns, passed for one, scored two extra points and passed for two more.

David Auberg, who has been out most of the season with an injury, led the Cubs in their victory over the Lake View Chiefs. He rushed for 138 yards on 24 carries, scored once and had another touchdown called back because of a penalty. C. L. Avants of Lake View wound up as the top ground-gainer with 165 yards on 25 carries. He also tallied two touchdowns.

83 Districts Determined

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eighty-three of the 96 districts of Texas schoolboy football have been determined today and the way has been paved for the start of the state playoffs in two of the four classes next week.

San Angelo, the No. 1 team of Class AAAA, won its way to the playoffs Friday night by beating Abilene Cooper 20-0 while Abilene gave the Bobcats the necessary boost by upsetting Big Spring 21-3.

Defending champion San Antonio Brackenridge swept into the playoffs with a crushing 54-0 triumph over San Antonio McCullum.

In all there were nine district representatives decided in Class AAAA, leaving only seven to be crowned next week as the upper classes wind up the regular schedule.

District champions and representatives in Class AAAA are San Angelo, Amarillo Tascosa, Fort Worth Paschal, Garland, Port Arthur, Pasadena, Temple, San Antonio Lee and Brackenridge.

Mighty Dumas, defending champion of Class AAA and winner of 21 straight games, surged into the playoffs with a 41-0 strapping of hitherto undefeated, untied Phillips.

There are 12 district representatives in Class AA including Dumas, Snyder, McKinney, Palestine, Corsicana, Conroe, El Campo, Lamars, as the upper classes wind up the regular schedule.

District champions and representatives in Class AAAA are San Angelo, Amarillo Tascosa, Fort Worth Paschal, Garland, Port Arthur, Pasadena, Temple, San Antonio Lee and Brackenridge.

This sets up a possible repeat of the 1962 finalists—Dumas and Pharr-San Juan-Alamo. Four more district champions will be determined next week.

Class AAA will have another champion designated today. This is in district 9 where Orange Silsbee and Nederland wound up in a three-way tie and will have to flip a coin. Silsbee created this situation by upsetting Orange 15-0 Friday night.

Class AA has decided all its district champions and they now are pairing off to arrange by-district games for next week.

District champions of Class AA are Dalhart, Tulia, Muleshoe, Denver City, Wichita Falls, Hitchi (making it the first year of the school's operation), Winters, Crane, Dublin, Jacksboro, Mansfield, Rockwall, Dallas Lake Highlands, Paul Pevitt, Linden-Kildare, Van, Pine Tree, West, San Saba, Rockdale, Taylor, Katy, Livingston, Liberty, Beaumont Forest Park, Sweety, Palacios, San Antonio East Central, Hondo, Sinton, Bishop, Hebbronville and Donna.

Jacksboro is the defending champion and Rockdale is the runner-up, thus a repeat of the 1962 finals is likely.

Class A has decided all but one district champion and that will come today when Hallsville and White Oak play a coin for the district 19 title. Hallsville and White Oak played a scoreless tie when they met and although Hallsville led on penetrations, it was decided that if they wound up tied for the title they would just flip.

Hermligh Defeated By Trent 22-0

HERMLEIGH — The Hermligh Cardinals fell to the Trent Gorillas here Friday night to end their season without a victory in ten games. Trent also ended their season with the contest, and now have a 4-4 record for the year, and 2-2 in District 8-B play.

The Gorillas scored once in the second period and twice in the third to sew up the game, as the Cardinals were held scoreless. Keith Clayburn started it off for Trent on an 8-yard run for the first score. Bobby Williams added the two extra points on a run. Trent broke it open early in the second half as Elton Payne took the kickoff and scampered 70 yards to paydirt. Later in the same period, Kenneth Talburt ran for another Trent score, and Ricky McElmurry's extra points made the final score 22-0.

Trent Hobbs of Hermligh suffered an injury in the game. He was brought to Coggell Memorial Hospital in Snyder by Bell Ambulance. Doctors said he has a displaced rib, and a possible fractured forearm. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Hobbs.

Memphis State, once called "Little" but now an unbeaten little giant with giant-sized aspirations, goes after a major bowl bid tonight.

Sugar Bowl officials are expected to be in the stands at Memphis when the emerging Southern power, unbeaten in eight starts, takes a heavy favorite role into its game with Chattanooga.

Coach Billy (Spook) Murphy's Tennessee Tigers have failed to win only against mighty Mississippi, the nation's third-ranked team, and that one went to a scoreless tie.

"This is the first year Memphis State has been a power," a Sugar Bowl source said, "but the Sugar Bowl has no policy that would preclude an invitation to Memphis State. They are not being overlooked."

Mighty Of Miss, 6-0-1, for the season, is first in line for the hot spot, which could set up a rematch of that 0-0 affair with Memphis State, Mississippi, however, risked that standing against tough old foe Tennessee, 3-4, at Memphis this afternoon.

An Of Miss upset could throw Tech, 6-2, a pair of ancient rivals, met at Birmingham, Auburn, 6-1, was at Georgia, 4-3, and North Carolina State had a tough test lined up with Florida State.

The top game of the day remains Texas' attempt to retain its No. 1 national standing and remain the nation's only major unbeaten, untied team. The Longhorns, gunning for the best role in the Cotton Bowl, had a home game against Southeastern Conference foe Texas Christian, a three-beaten team that long has served as a jinx to Texas. Second-ranked Navy, led by the brilliant Roger Staubach, also could have its hands full. The Middles take their 7-1 record to Durham, N.C., to play Duke, 5-2-1, a team they have not beaten in nine years.

In the Big Ten, No. 4 Michigan State, No. 8 Illinois and Ohio State all are in the running for the title and a spot in the Rose Bowl. Michigan State played host to Notre Dame, Illinois was at tough Wisconsin and Ohio State at home to Northwestern.

Washington, well on the way to securing the best spot in the State. Tournament of Roses, played Nov. 22-23, was at home to Army. No. 5 Oklahoma and No. 10 Nebraska, locked in the battle for the Big Eight crown and an Orange Bowl berth, had warm-up games before their head-to-head meeting a week from now. Tough Missouri visited Oklahoma while Nebraska was heavily favored against Oklahoma Ohio 6-0.

Chicago Bears Meet Green Bay

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers met Sunday in an effort to break their first-place tie in the Western Division of the National Football League.

The big game has been given the buildup of a heavyweight title fight, and the winner is considered a good bet to wrap up the divisional championship. The Bears-Packers clash has shoved into the background Sunday's six other NFL games. St. Louis is at Cleveland and San Francisco is at New York with the Browns and the Giants favored to win and remain tied for the Eastern Division lead. In the other games Pittsburgh is at Washington, Baltimore at Minnesota, Los Angeles at Detroit and Philadelphia at Dallas.

In the rival American League the top Sunday game is at Buffalo where the Bills try for their fourth straight against the San Diego Chargers. Kansas City is at Boston and New York at Denver in other AFL tilts.

Green Bay is out to avenge a 10-3 season opening loss before starting a string of eight straight victories. The Bears, having lost only to San Francisco, hope to prove their earlier triumph over the Packers was no fluke.

Both teams have held secret practices, shrouded in mystery. The only surprise for the standing-room-only crowd, which should hit 50,000, will be if either team strays from its basic patterns.

The Packers are favored by four points. The weather is expected to be cloudy and cool with a chance of showers.

Green Bay Coach Vince Lombardi has selected John Roach to start at quarterback, although Bart Starr's injured hand has healed. Roach has directed the Packers to three victories since Starr's injury.

Jim Taylor and Tom Moore, two of the league's top runners, will lead Green Bay's ground attack, and if the Packers need a field goal it will have to come off the foot of Jerry Kramer.

The Bears don't have any runners in the class of Taylor and Moore, and will rely on the passing and generalship of quarterback Bill Wade. Rick Casares and Joe Marconi will split the fullback duties, but Coach George Halas will not say whether it will be Ronnie Bell or Willie Gailmore at left halfback.

The Bears' big forte is defense, which in six of nine games has held the opposition to one touchdown or less. In three of the games the opposition, including Green Bay, failed to score a touchdown.

M. H. ROE
Roe's Firm Has Rapid Growth

The story of Roe's Furniture and Appliance is a story of people working together and growing with Snyder.
 Mr. and Mrs. Myron H. Roe came to Snyder in 1941 with very little capital and a lot of hope. The hope, backed up by hard work, has grown from the small Roe Home and Auto supply store at 2110 Avenue S to the Highland Shopping Center.
 In 1950 the firm moved into a larger building than their original store, at 2207 Avenue S, the present location of Jessie's Beauty College. The move to the Highland Shopping Center was made in May, 1959.
 Mr. Roe has served in the civic life of the community, having acted as president of the Chamber of Commerce in 1947-48; director of West Texas Chamber of Commerce; president of the Lions Club; and boy scout director.
 Mrs. Roe has also been active in civic work, including church and P-T-A work.
 Other employees of Roe's Furniture and Appliance are A. C. Floyd, who has been with the firm for six years; Mrs. Pearl Firestone, who has been a bookkeeper at Roe's for seven years; John Garcia, serviceman and deliveryman for one and one-half years; and Cap Hernandez, who has been at Roe's since January of this year.
 Hernandez, however, is thoroughly experienced in the appliance business, having been associated with the Phil Burns firm for 10 years.

Suicide Try Goes Amiss

MOHNTON, Pa. (AP)—Accident—murder, or a misfired suicide?
 The charge—against Charles Schlouch, 46, of Mohnton — is murder, but police said he may have been trying to kill himself instead of the man who did die, Leroy Hoffert, 49, also of Mohnton.
 Police said Schlouch, who had been advised by his physician to seek psychiatric help, entered a hotel bar Friday, carrying a shotgun, and met his wife, Martha.
 Schlouch threatened to kill himself, police said, and the weapon went off. The blast struck Hoffert in the back.

Pierson Is Acquitted

AUSTIN (AP)—A jury ruled Friday night that Howard Pierson, 49, was innocent of murder in the shooting death of his mother in 1935.

The seven-man, five-woman jury deliberated nearly five hours before deciding that Pierson was insane at the time of the slaying.

A separate 28-year-old indictment charging murder of his father, Texas Supreme Court Justice William Pierson, will be disposed of without a trial, Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell said.

Legally free for the first time since October, 1935, Pierson has a trust fund of $250,000 awaiting him. For five years since he was found insane by a jury here, Pierson was an escapee from state mental hospitals.

Pierson's prominent parents were shot to death near a lonely road west of Austin. He told police at the time that robbers shot his parents but later admitted he lured them to the slaying site by saying he wanted to show them some Indian relics.

Life Isn't Cloistered For Musician

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WHAT IS LIFE LIKE for a successful young classical musician?

"Many people have the illusion that people in music are very one-sided and almost hermits," says 23-year-old violinist Erick Friedman, "but I wouldn't say that is true."

Friedman — whose 6 feet 4, 200 pounds and dark hair and eyes combine to make him look like a jovial younger brother of Rock Hudson — likes, among other things, to box.

"I don't worry about my hands too much," he says. "They say boxing is less dangerous to the hands than getting in and out of a car."

With a grin, he admits that he also drives a car.

With another grin, he says he has "escaped so far" settling down to one girl.

As for practicing, "I usually practice in the morning and the afternoon; I don't count the number of hours, I usually leave the evenings free."

Most of Friedman's friends are classical musicians and he says that, like himself, most of them are from essentially non-musical families.

In his own case, his father, a West Orange, N.J., dentist and amateur violinist, sent Erick to take violin lessons at 6.

The musician, who boasts with a smile, "I am without a doubt the biggest violinist performing today," recalls, "I was using a three-quarter size violin when I was 6 and a full-size one when I was 9."

"I kept studying, and I showed talent."

Friedman's debut was in New York, at the precocious age of 14.

Making an unusually early debut has both pros and cons, Friedman feels. "The advantage is that there is some notice taken of you — you know how many debuts there are in New York every year, but I don't think anybody is ready at 14, no matter who he is."

"I really wasn't prepared to begin a career at 14 and was aware of it. My parents knew nothing about musicians but they were aware of it too."

"You have to have a foundation for something that has to last 30 or 40 years."

"You can get a big flame with only a little sliver of wood, but it has nothing to burn on, while a little match in a lumber yard will make a big fire in the long run."

After Friedman studied three years at a hospital is during admission, even though the doctor and the nurse are gentle and kind, they are strangers and most children do not understand the mother's presence, permits the nurse to help her and holds on to the child's hand while the physician does the examination.

However, some children, when frightened (apparently feeling the protection of the mother's presence), give vent to their fears and revolt to such an extent that a satisfactory examination is impossible until the mother leaves the room.

We believe that whenever feasible, the mother and the father, if he is along, should go with the child when he is taken to the room or ward. This initial visit, allowing the mother to get acquainted with the nurses and to see the child's crib or bed, is very reassuring, both to her and to the child.

When the child sees the mother talk to the nurse in a friendly manner, he realizes that he also can trust the nurses.

It is usually at this point that the mother and child say goodbye until the following day, leaving the nurse the task of quieting the child. In the past this separation was unavoidable due to lack of facilities for the mother to remain with the child.

Considering the emotional well-being of our pediatric patients to be of great importance, St. Christopher's new 150-bed inpatient building provides accommodations for mothers who wish to remain overnight — a first in children's hospital. A mother's cot is placed beside her child's bed and curtains may be drawn for privacy. Adequate locker, dressing and lavatory facilities are also available on each floor.

If it is impossible for the mother to remain overnight with her child because of other demands, we strongly recommend that she pay a short, cheerful visit each day. Most children will be reassured by such a visit, and realize that although mother is going away she will come back. They then turn to the people around them for love and protection in her absence.

Judy Lemons, W. Shoemaker Exchange Marriage Vows

The First Baptist Church of Snyder was the scene for the marriage of Judith Ann Lemons and William Ray Shoemaker on November 1, at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, pastor, read the double ring ceremony before an altar bedecked with branched candelabra and baskets of gladioli.

Mrs. Lynn Bethel and Sharon Lovelace presented the musical program.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta, and a bridal wreath that was worn by her great grandmother.

She carried a bouquet of white feathered mums and gladioli sections atop a small white Bible.

Mrs. Carol Adams was matron of honor. Gerald Adams was best man and Donnie Potts and Jerry Cumbie seated guests.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Lemons of 2905 Avenue S. and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Shoemaker, 2110 Forty-first Street.

A reception was held in fellowship hall following the services.

For her wedding trip to Dallas and Fort Worth the bride chose a royal blue suit with pink trim.

The couple are graduates of Snyder High School and will make their home here.

Out-of-town guests were Mona and Jerry Maxwell, Joyce and Jerry Cumbie, and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Minnie M. Gaul of Long Beach, Calif.

HOSPITALIZING THE CHILD

William R. Howes
Administrator
St. Christopher's Hospital for Children

What should parents do when their child must be taken to the hospital? Should they remain with the child? What about visiting?

There are no ready answers to these questions. At St. Christopher's Hospital for Children we have developed a number of ideas based on the things we are learning about the impact of illness and hospitalization on children and their families.

A child's first encounter with a hospital is during admission. Even though the doctor and the nurse are gentle and kind, they are strangers and most children do not understand the mother's presence, permits the nurse to help her and holds on to the child's hand while the physician does the examination.

However, some children, when frightened (apparently feeling the protection of the mother's presence), give vent to their fears and revolt to such an extent that a satisfactory examination is impossible until the mother leaves the room.

We believe that whenever feasible, the mother and the father, if he is along, should go with the child when he is taken to the room or ward. This initial visit, allowing the mother to get acquainted with the nurses and to see the child's crib or bed, is very reassuring, both to her and to the child.

When the child sees the mother talk to the nurse in a friendly manner, he realizes that he also can trust the nurses.

It is usually at this point that the mother and child say goodbye until the following day, leaving the nurse the task of quieting the child. In the past this separation was unavoidable due to lack of facilities for the mother to remain with the child.

New Status Game

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

LAST YEAR board among influential Friends Jack Winjer, ex-editor of the Social Standing, Popular Sup-Harvard Lampoon and an accomplished cynic, had a terrible problem.

He seemed to be in danger of making a lot of money and he knew what an ugly trap that could be.

Paradoxically, while at Harvard, Jack earned a reputation for being scornful of the little money, the penny ante stuff, rather than the big dough.

It was he who had organized and guided to glory the Anti-Penny League, a militant society of copper haters, determined at any cost to rid the nation's pockets of those worthless, weighty coins.

Off campus, and around the nation this same 23-year-old boy with the heavy lidded eyes and just right boredom for a Harvard man won considerable notoriety as editor of an issue of Mademoiselle magazine which lampooned itself.

But none of these threatened to be profitable.

Jack's troubles can be traced to his teaming with Alfred Harrison Jr., 62, who happened to be equally clever and satirical. Unfortunately, the combination was dynamite and before they could stop themselves the spoofs had invented a Kennedy game.

All in the Game
With cards and paper money, they devised a struggle for image and power which might psychologically satisfy everyone's secret frustration over never having been born a Kennedy.

The players assume names like Jack and Bobby, and take on a half million dollars (with Joe Kennedy's picture on the bills). Turn-of-events cards instruct the players to move around a Monopoly-type board among influential Friends of the Social Standing, Harvard Lampoon and an accomplished cynic, had a terrible problem.

Among the events that turn their fortunes are instructions such as:

"Teddy resigns his Senate seat, says he'll take up a new hobby — loses Position of Importance." "Caroline reveals CIA report, loses influential friends."

For Their Friends
Sadly, the game appealed to so many Harvard men, only a few of which had ever actually been Kennedys, that out of the kindness of their hearts the boys had a few printed for limited distribution.

But the unluckiest thing of all occurred when a Boston neighbor of Alfred's who just happened to own some huge department stores, saw the game and insisted on having a couple of hundred thousand.

Before they could say "goldfish" the lads were up to their haircuts in troubles with printers, truck drivers, labor unions, manufacturers, and reporters especially who wanted to spoil everything by writing about the silly game.

Did they have the Kennedys' permission? Well, a friend of their talked to Ted before it who guessed it would be all right.

Anyone for DeLuxe?
Significantly, within the past months Jack has at last resigned himself to his fate as a success. In exchange for royalties, the boys have turned over the business headaches to a reputable game company, one unharmed by fears of selling too many.

There is only one area of conflict. The manufacturers are pushing the standard model, while the originators would like to see more action among the deluxe editions. The deluxe use real money and retail for $4,000, 000.96 each.

Anyway, Alfred is going into the service soon and Jack has taken up playwrighting. Ordinarily, the chances for poverty as a playwright are excellent, but considering his talent, he will probably foul up somewhere and author a hit.

Fortunately, within the months since graduation he seems to have softened. Given more time, there is every chance that he can adjust completely to the prospect of being rich.

Essays Of Words

THE MAGIC AND MYSTERY OF WORDS. By J. Donald Adams.

Adams has a pleasant way of savoring, appreciating and using words, not as a deep-dive lexicographer or campus mossback, but as a practitioner of the art of writing.

He presents a series of essays — personal, opinionated and lively — about many aspects of the ever-changing thought symbols we use in our oral and written communications.

He wanders with affectionate grace through many subjects in this field. He considers many ideas on how words originated; the ways in which words affect us through their sounds; the uses of vigorous slang words; the uses and abuses of clichés and folk expressions; the gradations of taboo among four-letter words; the art of punning; the hazards of spelling.

He also considers the King James version of the Bible as a work of poetic merit, but of sometimes obscure meanings. He gets into the changing meanings of words and arouses psychological, even philosophical, questions about the difference expressed in the two words "talent" and "genius."

In examining the words of tomorrow he weaves more than once shudder when he encounters the gobbledegook of bureaucrats, advertisers and sociologists.

THE COACHMAN... takes the high-road to coat-fashion with back belting, back pleating, back fullness and a front foursome of buttons, all under the influence of luxury Beaver collaring. A magnificent coat, tailored to a T in wonderful tweeds to set the pace for a dramatic season.

Beef Roulades

- 6 thin slices round steak (about 1 1/2 pounds)
- 1/2 pound finely ground veal
- 2 tablespoons each minced onion and parsley
- 1 teaspoon each nutmeg and pepper
- 6 sticks each carrot and celery
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 can (11 ounces) condensed cheddar cheese soup
- 1 Pound steak with meat hammer or edge of heavy saucer.
- Thoroughly mix together veal, egg, onion, parsley, nutmeg and pepper, mashing with a fork to blend well; spread on steak pieces. Place a stick of carrot and celery in center of each.
- Roll pin-wheel fashion, fasten each with a toothpick or small skewer. In a large skillet, brown meat in the shortening; pour off drippings. Stir in soup until smooth; gradually stir in sauce. Cover and cook over low heat about 1 hour or until meat is tender; spooning sauce over meat occasionally. Makes 6 servings.

Adventure Among Animals

THE ROCKS REMAIN. By Gavin Maxwell.

Thousands of readers will remember Maxwell's "Ring of Bright Water," in which the author performed a couple of others named Mijbil and Edal. The present book is a sequel, chronologically speaking, for it relates what happened to the author after the earlier book had been completed in the autumn of 1959. It's nice if you have read "Ring of Bright Water" before picking up this narrative, but it isn't obligatory.

The two works have a common, salient feature — the author is an accomplished artist in reporting vividly on people and nature as well as animals; some readers of the first book may have been so charmed by the others that they scarcely noted Maxwell's talents as a chronicler.

There are others in this book too, and additional scenes in the West Highlands of Scotland; some disasters with a boat and a fire; some unrevealing references to the author's marriage, and a passage on amusing Scottish folk tales.

But in stark contrast there are some scenes in far away Morocco — including a graphic account of a real earthquake as well as a tense, political earthquake, and a highly impressionistic account of Maxwell's reactions to his North African surroundings. And later there is an account of his recovery of his stolen Mercedes in Majorca. Except as a chronology, the book has little unity, but to most readers that will be no drawback.

As in the case of virtually all sequels, it would be too much to expect that the fresh impact of the original has been maintained. Yet on its own merits "The Rocks Remain" is a bright adventure among animals, people and places, engagingly written.

COAT NEWS . . . punctuates it with a lush sprawl of fur collaring to top exquisite tweed. Drooped shoulders, easy lines bring new-season stature to fashionable figures. A coat that stands for elegance anywhere it goes.

Leather Man-Made

AP Newstestures

The shyest, most reluctant competitor any product was ever fortunate enough to be up against was introduced to fashion industry by an industrial research company. (DuPont.)

Almost with apologies to the leather industry, the company demonstrated corfam promeretic material.

This new man-made, breathable, cleanable, practically indestructible shoe upper material is not to be confused with plastic or coated fabrics, the technicians say.

Most important, it should not for a minute be thought of in terms of being a rival to leather.

The leather people have admitted having certain thoughts like this, panicky thoughts at that.

However, the material can be manipulated easily, it expected to find its place in belts, handbags, briefcases, billfolds, even shape around the foot, doesn't crack, wipes clean, allows for ventilation, is not better than merely equal to — nature's own product.

In its pilot stage only small amounts of the material are available. Most of it is in the high fashion, high-priced lines of women's and men's shoes.

But someday — after the population explosion has begun to pop — the researchers fully expect their new product to take its rightful place on the feet of the grateful, crowded world.

As one speaker put it, "In 1984 we will have more people than cows. How will we shoe them if we are not ready with new materials?"

Thus far the material which is now manufactured in uniform rolls has three different characteristics. One is a smooth, flowing surface. Another is a series of richly textured grains. A third has a napped surface which is soft to touch and stays that way without the aid of a suede brush.

Because the material can be manipulated easily, it expected to find its place in belts, handbags, briefcases, billfolds, even shape around the foot, doesn't

Barbecue Rolls

1 can (2½ ounces) deviled ham
2 tablespoons chili sauce
2 teaspoons instant rice onion
6 butterflake rolls (1 six-ounce package)
¼ sandwich size slices cheddar cheese

Mix together the deviled ham, chili sauce and onion. Separate each roll in 4 places but not all the way through. Spread the ham mixture over cut places in rolls. Arrange on foil on a small cookie sheet. Cut cheese into 6 squares; place a slice over the top of each roll. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven about 10 minutes or until cheese is melted — it should drip into cuts — and rolls are hot. Makes 3 to 6 servings.

For Some Malamud Has Message

IDIOTS FIRST. By Bernard Malamud.

In the broad, variegated land of story telling, Malamud has carved out a province of his own, a rather stark place, but one in which some readers will discover a dry commentary on human follies.

Not everyone can succeed in turning to Malamud's low transmission frequency — but those who do are apt to get the sounds of melancholy and uncomplaining sorrow.

There are a dozen stories in this collection. The majority are concerned with Jewish life in New York, either in the pocketed lower East Side or in Harlem. Four of them have an Italian setting, including a couple in which Malamud's character Arthur Fiedelman, the American who is a would-be painter, participates in some japeries not entirely of his own making.

When he is telling a straight story, Malamud plays a few notes in somber tones, as when he relates the agony of a small grocer forced out of business by modern merchandising methods.

But he also can wander — with an amazingly calm, matter-of-fact air — over the dim, undefined border of fantasy, as he does in a story about a talking bird.

In the case of Fiedelman, he fur collaring to top exquisite tweed. Drooped shoulders, easy lines bring new-season stature to fashionable figures. A coat that stands for elegance anywhere it goes.

Others will find his odd imaginings have a moody message all their own.

But he also can wander — with an amazingly calm, matter-of-fact air — over the dim, undefined border of fantasy, as he does in a story about a talking bird.

In the case of Fiedelman, he fur collaring to top exquisite tweed. Drooped shoulders, easy lines bring new-season stature to fashionable figures. A coat that stands for elegance anywhere it goes.

SERVE cranberry spice cake to your bridge group or to your family, they're sure to love its unique flavor combination.

Cake Is Always A Must

Whether you call a cranberry a foxberry or a foxberry a cranberry, they all relate essentially to the same ruby-red berry which is often served as a relish with turkey or chicken.

This year the cranberry takes on a new role—that of a filling between delicious layers of spicy cake. New Spice 'n' Apple Cake Mix bakes up rich and fragrant with apples, raisins and spices. Well-drained frozen cranberry-orange relish adds just the perfect touch of tanginess to accent the rich cake and give you a ribbon of color in the middle of each slice.

CRANBERRY SPICE CAKE

Bake spice 'n' apple cake in two 9" layer pans as directed on pkg. Cool. Fill with 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen cranberry-orange relish which has been thawed and well drained. Frost top and sides of the cake with spicy cream frosting (below). Serve at once or store in refrigerator until serving time, 12 to 16 servings.

Spicy Cream Frosting: Blend 1 pkg. creamy spice frosting mix and 1½ cups whipping cream in a small mixer bowl. Chill; whip till soft peaks form. Note: Fresh cranberries can be used. Put 1 cup cranberries and ¼ large orange, rind and pulp, through food chopper. Mix in ½ cup sugar; let stand several hours. Drain well.

Walnut Oatmeal Loaf

1½ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar

1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup rolled oats (quick cooking)

½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup butter or margarine, melted

1½ cups buttermilk

Into a mixing bowl, sift together the flour, baking soda and salt. Stir in brown sugar, grated orange and lemon rinds, oats and walnuts. Add egg, butter and buttermilk; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn into greased loaf pan (8½ by 4½ by 2½ inches). Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 55 to 60 minutes, or until cake tester inserted comes out clean. Turn out of pan onto wire rack; turn right side up; cool. Loaf slices best when covered tightly and stored overnight.

Homemade Potato Chowder

4 cups pared diced potatoes
1 egg chopped onion
2 cups boiling water
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon pepper

2 tablespoons bacon fat
Mince chives or parsley

In a medium covered saucepan, or kettle gently boil the potatoes, onion, water and salt until the potatoes are tender; there should be about 1½ cups liquid plus the potatoes. Add the milk, pepper and bacon fat; reheat. Sprinkle with chives or parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Stir Up Some Good Tomato Marmalade

By CECILY BROWNSTONE, Associated Press Food Editor

EVEN THE edict of the Supreme Court could not change one of America's culinary ways.

At the end of the last century the Court ruled that the tomato, hitherto classed as a fruit, was to be categorized as a vegetable.

But years before that ruling, our cooking ladies had used the tomato — as they did other fruits — in marmalades. Not the highest court in our land could persuade them that this wasn't still the thing to do. Fruit or vegetable, call it what you might, the tomato went right on being coupled with sugar and made into sweet preserves.

Even today, when marmalades and other jams are usually bought, some knowing cooks still feel that their kitchen shelves ought to boast some jars of homemade tomato marmalade.

Early recipes for tomato marmalade called for tomatoes, sugar and lemons, with or without spices. In modern times, oranges are likely to accompany the other ingredients. Recently a friend of ours added lime as well as lemon and orange. When batches of tomato marmalade — made by half-a-dozen different versions of a traditional recipe — were sampled in our kitchen this year, the lime concoction won most applause.

TOMATO MARMALADE

4 pounds (about) tomatoes
½ cups sugar
Prepared citrus
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 two-inch stick cinnamon

Dip tomatoes in boiling water to remove skin and stem ends; slice and measure 9½ cups. Gently press about 1 cup of juice (including seeds) from tomatoes and reserve in refrigerator for preparing citrus. Mix 4 cups of the sugar with the tomatoes; cover and refrigerate for several hours or overnight. Cook tomatoes 20 minutes over low heat; drain juice into another kettle. Add the remaining 4 cups of sugar to the juice and cook until sugar dissolves; add tomatoes, prepared citrus (including liquid), salt and spices to tomato juice and sugar mixture. Boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until tomatoes are clear and the syrup is thick — usually about 1 to 1½ hours. Discard cinnamon; skim off foam; pour boiling hot preserves to within ¼ inch of the top of pint or ½-pint fruit jars. Put dome lid on jars; screw band tight. Makes 6 or 7 one-half pints.

NOTE: If tomatoes are small (no more than 2 inches across) and 1 lime into ½-inch slices; cut into halves; if larger, cut in several slices before measuring.

Miser Tries To Dominate After Death

THE WILL. By Harvey Swados.

The theme of Swados' story is a fight by three strangely different brothers over an inheritance.

Behind that story is another, involving a character who never appears in the flesh — an eccentric bachelor uncle who was a miser, hoarding up money from slum rents, and collecting hideous junk which he piled to the ceilings of a decrepit old Victorian house.

He was Max Land, a hateful old coot who dominated the boys' father Leo and did his best — even in death — to destroy the sons.

As the tale opens, Max has been dead a week, and Leo has just been killed by a truck. The first son we see is Ralph, who had fled the old house for a calculated try at business in New York.

Then we find the youngest son Ray, while remaining secretly in the attic of the old house, had fled from reality and had become a bearded, half-mad hermit, human responsibility and human contact. Finally the eldest son Mel, who also had fled — after a mysterious crisis — returns in a violent episode, from a life of wandering and crime.

The sharp tensions among the brothers, and their contrasting personalities, are portrayed in a suspense-filled narrative marked by violence, sex and emotional quirk.

Swados is well rated in the literary set, with good reason, though perhaps he tends to dominate a little too much the characters and his readers' consciousness.

Despite the fact that the actions and speeches seem a little odd at times, this story has impact. Some may like it very much, but either way it is the sort of novel that leaves many thoughts in its trail.

ADDIS ABABA (AP) — Ethiopia is planning to enter the next Miss Universe contest in the United States, but there are problems in selecting a candidate.

The choicest part of the local beauty contest to name Miss Addis Ababa may be held in a secret room with the doors locked.

Kebbede Asfaw, Assistant Minister of the National Theater, who is running the show, says, "We are very pleased to receive the invitation to participate, but hitting suits are a difficulty."

The minister explains that many Ethiopian girls, whose habits are sober, austere and conservative, would be reluctant to parade in such undignified costume before the huge crowds that would be bound to turn up to enjoy such an unprecedented spectacle.

Asfaw's idea is to have a panel of elderly matrons from Addis Ababa's best society examine the girls' physical charms — and measurements — in a secret room and then pass a long list of the statistics to the judges, in writing.

The girls then could parade in gowns, and the judges would concern themselves only with faces, and the written documents.

There is some concern, however, that Ethiopian girls from outside Addis Ababa might be discriminated in reverse by the conservative precautions.

A girl from Aroussi province, for instance, who enjoys local fame as the home of beautiful women, would feel embarrassingly over-dressed by appearing in public in a gown — or even a bikini.

In Aroussi, she wears only strings of colored beads and a sheepskin loincloth.

Retired School Principal Turns To Peru's Problems

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER — LIMA, Peru (AP) — Leon Jackson, brisk and kindly, is a retired school principal from Los Angeles County in California, with love for children and a spirit of adventure. At 69 she could have settled down in a well-pensioned rocking chair. Instead she came to Peru, with the Peace Corps.

She is one of hundreds of North Americans working here on the problem of the Indians, trying to bring them peacefully from the stone age to the jet age in a generation. This is one of the great human and political problems of South America. The way it is solved can make or break modern Peru.

A few mornings ago Mrs. Jackson showed up as usual at 7 to help supervise the feeding of 1,000 school children from a sprawling hillside slum, the barriada of El Agustino.

"The terrible thing about the barriadas," she said, "is just this. A boy who lives in one of these places finds nothing to make him think he can ever get out of it."

But the schools, where they exist, and the free breakfasts from U.S. food surpluses—giving contact with the outside world—do offer some hope of escape, and the children as they get older seem to grasp at that hope. Mrs. Jackson said they learn well.

Peru is a strangely split country. The narrow coastal strip on the Pacific is well developed, industrialized, productive. In this strip a fourth of the population of 10 million produces well over half of all that Peru makes. The workers are mixed Indian and white; they fare reasonably well.

Far more than half the people of Peru live in the mountains and they are almost entirely Indian. Their agriculture is extremely inefficient. The productive wealth of the region is found in such minerals as copper, zinc and gold.

The Indians are left over from the ancient empire of the Incas which was smashed by the Spanish 400 years ago. They have lived in poverty, frequently in serfdom, ever since. They are illiterate.

Agriculture, business, commerce and politics are controlled by Peru's white population, which in turn is dominated by a relatively few extremely wealthy families. About 2 per cent of the people of the country own 75 per cent of the resources including most of the good soil. The great haciendas, or farms, in the back lands are measured not in acres but in square miles.

While the government budget and foreign trade is balanced, the internal economy is very uneven. Per capita income for the city of Lima is $600 a year. That for Cuzco, an important mountain city, is $40.

An Indian day laborer in Puno department can earn at most 8 or 9 soles—about 35 cents—a day. If he has a small plot of hacienda land he must work on the hacienda three or four days without cash earnings just to pay the rent.

Thus the cards are stacked against the Indian in several ways. But there are signs of a new deal to come, peacefully and silently.

Missionaries, reformers, automobiles, Communist agitators, transistor radios, Peruvian politicians have awakened the Indian to his plight the last few years. The slowly expanding road system and the airplane also are spurting his emergence from the dark past.

One reaction by the Indian has been to step up land invasions. The Indians have always claimed the lands really belonged to them, not to the white man. Sometimes there are violent clashes with police.

Another reaction has been to migrate to the city, seeking work at higher wages. This is what creates the barriadas.

Two rumors involve special issues—annual meetings and the location of the institute's headquarters.

One report has had the committee studying the possibility of moving the headquarters from New York to Washington.

A Washington staff was bolstered in 1960 when Frank Kard resigned as a Texas congressman and became executive vice president and the institute's top spokesman on federal affairs.

Kard, a former member of the House Ways and Means Committee, was elected president in January after the death of Frank Porter, who had held the job since 1950.

Boy's genuine marbles, made of stone from Bavarian quarries, were once manufactured in enormous quantities for export from Germany. Sixty such mills still existed at the end of the 19th Century.

Even when the Indians get jobs—even when they have learned skills and found better jobs in the second generation—they usually can't find decent housing. The problem is not discrimination; the housing simply doesn't exist.

Many groups are working with the Indians, in the mountains and in the barriadas. Current Fernando Belaunde Terry, the U.S.-trained architect who heads Peru's new reform government, has projected broadscale—and costly—programs for radical change. Millions of dollars worth of U.S. assistance are going into farm improvement and road construction projects. Robert C. Culbertson, the respected U.S. aid chief in Lima, spends much of his time on the Indian problem.

API Due To Reorganize In 2 Years

By MAX B. SKELTON
CHICAGO (AP) — The American Petroleum Institute (API) may undergo a reorganization within two years.

"There are rumors, but no decisions have been made," said Ed. Warren this week after being elected chairman of the trade association that represents all segments of the domestic industry.

He is a former independent producer who has been president of the Cities Service Co. since 1958.

Since May, Warren has been chairman of a special study committee appointed to take a hard look at the institute's structure and objectives.

"I intend to continue the study but we will move slowly and there will be no impulsive actions," Warren said. "We will have a final report late next year—and I expect something tangible."

Warren would not comment directly on rumors but said the over-all objective is to make the institute more responsive to current conditions.

He said subcommittees will continue studying specialized areas on administration and organization, statistics, policies and programs, and special issues.

QUESTION: Why do sun and moon look so large and orange or red when close to the horizon?

ANSWER: Sun and moon are not actually larger when close to the horizon. They look that way because of an effect called "the moon illusion." Of the two moons shown in lower right, the inside-the-box effect makes one look close and the other further away. Both moons are the same size. But we say to ourselves, the furthest moon must be much bigger than the close-up one, in order to look as big as it does. As we think of how big it must be, it actually does look big. Outdoors, the landscape makes the moon look far away close to the horizon so we get the moon illusion; it looks bigger than usual.

When the sun or moon's rays come down directly from above (lower left) all the colors, shown here by narrow lines, travel a short route through the atmosphere and merge to give a white effect. But at sunset, the slanted rays must travel further through the atmosphere. Colors with short wave lengths, like the blues, are absorbed before they reach our eyes. But the longer red and orange rays (shown in black) reach through and give rich sunset colors.

FOR YOU TO DO: Watch for the full moon when high in the sky and also low, and see if you get the "moon illusion."
