Questions Tough On Death Row

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. AP—During the 12-year hibernation of the death penalty in the United States, many persons have forgotten the trauma of an execution but not the Rev. Clyde Johnston.

One of Johnston's first duties as prison chaplain at the Texas Department of Corrections here in 1961 was to visit a homosexual scheduled to die in the electric chair for killing his lover.

"The first day I walked down on the row, he looked at me with all the confidence in the world," Johnston said. "He said, 'You're the new chaplain. Tell me, what chance does a homosexual have with God?' "

Johnston said he never had even pondered the question. He said he found that men on Death Row have a way of asking questions for which he had no ready answers.

"All I could do was answer him honestly," Johnston said. "I told him that I believed homosexuality to be an inadequate expression of sex but God can forgive it just like any other wrong.

"He responded well and we had a good rapport until he walked through that green door to the chair."

Johnston, who chose prison work to help salvage lives, counseled with 13 other men who died in the electric chair during the next three years.

Johnston has not had to counsel prisoners headed for the electric chair since 1964 but a recent Supreme Court ruling has once again opened that green door.

The chaplain hasn't forgotten the trauma. Some were strong to the end. Others were basket cases.

"I learned that I really did not have to get them ready to die," Johnston said. "The chair was doing that for me. They prepared themselves as though they were making a boat trip to Europe, getting all business concluded here."

"For the strong ones, I would help with last minute arrangements-mailing letters. For the weak ones it was a matter of dealing with their anxieties and unresolved guilt by letting them talk out their fears."

He recalled one condemned man who was so scared officials feared he might actually die of fright in his cell before he could be executed.

Despite such fear, Johnston said, he never saw one struggle down his last mile or faint into the chair. "They got to the chair on their own steam," he said.

Of the 14 men Johnston has counseled on Death Row, 13 have admitted their guilt. Johnston says he still wonders about the one but refuses to reveal who he was.

"I'll just say that he could have made it rough for us, but he handled it well," Johnston said. "He sat in the chair and prayed for the the state before it put him to death," Johnston said.

Although not forgetting the victims of crimes that led prisoners to Death Row, there often is sympathy for a prisoner who must walk that last mile.

One of the most poignant execution memories involves the death of J.B. Patterson, executed for killing a woman for whom he deserted his wife and eight children.

On the night of Patterson's death, his wife and children appeared outside the prison crying and demanding to see him.

Huntsville reporter Don Reid visited Patterson's cell to help with the problem and Patterson gave him a message to relay:

"Tell them to remember me the way it was on the farm when we'd all sit around the fire and pop corn and sing and I'd play my guitar. Tell them I love them all, but all I want is for them to remember the good times."

He then walked through the green door and into eternity.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, July 19, the 201st day of 1976. There are 165 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, during World War I, German armies began retreating across the Marne Riber after their last big offensive in France had been repulsed by the Allies.

On this date:

In 1553, the daughter of England's King Henry VIII, Mary, was proclaimed Queen after Lady Jane Grey had been deposed.

In 1821, the English King, George IV, was crowned.

In 1870, the Franco-Prussian War began.

In 1943, during World War II, the Italian city of Rome was bombed for the first time.

In 1964, Algeria's President Ahmed Ben Bella was deposed in a bloodless, army-backed coup.

In 1974, the ailing Spanish dictator, Francisco Franco, temporarily transferred power to Prince Juan Carlos.

Ten years ago: North Vietnam threatened to prosecute American pilots shot down over that country as war criminals.

Five years ago: There was a coup in the Sudan that deposed the military government headed by Maj. Gen. Gaffar AlNumaniri.

One year ago: The U.S. Defense Department challenged an American navy plan to build a fleet of 12 nuclear-powered super aircraft carriers.

Ford, Reagan Are Wooing Uncommitted Delegates

By The Associated Press

President Ford plans to entertain still-uncommitted delegates at the White House this week, while challenger Ronald Reagan will be digging some post holes for fences at his California ranch and telephoning delegates to the Republican National Convention who still are on the "fence."

The Democratic team, presidential nominee Jimmy Carter and running mate Walter Mondale, relaxed during the weekend. Carter was at his home in Plains, Ga., and Mondale vacationed at a friend's cabin in Minnesota and went fishing.

With four weeks left before the convention in Kansas City, Ford took a day off from delegate-hunting Sunday, attending church in the morning and spending the afternoon on the golf course.

He invited delegations from New York and New Jersey to White House receptions this week as he personalized his efforts to win over the final delegates he needs.

Reagan today started what he said would be a two-week vacation at his 688-acre ranch in the coastal mountains near Santa Barbara.

"I think I've got some more fences to put up. I'll be digging some post holes, generally working around the place," he said after the last 55 of 2,259 delegates to the convention were elected Saturday in Utah and Connecticut.

The selection of delegates to the Aug. 16-19 convention ended Saturday with Ford sweeping all 35 in Connecticut and Reagan taking all 20 in Utah.

With all 2,259 delegates for the convention now selected, The Associated Press count of announced or mandated delegate votes shows 1,066 for Ford and 1,020 for Reagan, with 172 uncommitted and 1 for Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. It takes 1,130 to win. The AP count does not include those merely leaning toward one or the other.

With Reagan trailing Ford by 46 votes, the nomination is in the hands of the 172 uncommitted delegates, many of whom have met or talked on the telephone with both Reagan and Ford in recent weeks.

The Washington Post reported today that some unnamed "top aides and supporters" of Reagan have said privately that he will be unable to win the GOP presidential nomination.

The newspaper said some of these aides feel Reagan's chances for success were lost 10 days ago when Ford captured a majority of North Dakota's 18 delegates.

However, Michael K. Deaver, the Reagan campaign's chief of staff, denied that North Dakota had been a setback, telling The Associated Press, "I believe we got in North Dakota exactly what we planned for."

Deaver said the campaign staff will prepare a daily memo with a list of uncommitted delegates for Reagan to telephone.

New Clues In Bus Abduction

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — Investigators say they have compiled new clues which they believe will lead to the capture of three men who kidnaped 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver.

The 27 escaped unharmed about 28 hours later.

"We have a gut feeling that we are getting closer," Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said Sunday.

At the Alameda County sheriff's office, Lt. Ed Volpe said detectives had been given information by a man in Sonora, 65 miles northeast of the kidnap scene, "that pinpoints where (the suspects) were on specific dates last year."

And Jack Baugh, criminal division chief for the Alameda sheriff's office, predicted authorities would be able to identify one or more of the abductors today or Tuesday.

"Right now we're optimistic that our investigative leads are developing toward some positive information that we think will take us to a suspect," said Baugh.

But despite "an astronomical amount of physical evidence," Baugh admitted that investigators still had not established a motive. "The only thing we have at this time is a kidnap," he said. "As to whether it was by terrorists or for ransom, I don't know."

The 26 children and their driver, on a homeward-bound run from summer school, were forced at gunpoint from their bus und herded into two small vans near the Madera County town of Chowchilla, a small farming community in the heart of the San Joaquin Valley.

Their captors drove them nearly 100 miles to a gravel quarry near Livermore in Alameda County in the southern San Francisco Bay area and forced them into an underground bunker constructed on an old truck bed. The captives dug their way out Friday night after the three masked men left.

Composite drawings of two suspects and detailed descriptions of all three men believed responsible for the kidnaping were released Sunday along with one complete and one partial license number of the two vans.

While investigators searched for three suspects, Bates would not rule out the possibility "four were involved." He declined to elaborate.

Despite progress, Bates was angered by the FBI's withdrawal from the case Saturday.

"Their sudden and unexpected withdrawal in the middle of the investigation left a vaccuum that was very difficult to fill and taxed the resources of the state and county and hindered our investigation," Bates said in a telegram Sunday to U.S. Atty. Gen. Edward Levi and President Ford.

Service Today For Mrs. Horsley

Funeral service was held at 10:30 a.m. today at the Northside Baptist Church for Mrs. Ruth Horsley, 83, who died Saturday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. George White and the Rev. Glenn Border officiated, and burial was in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Ethics Panel Told Many Had Draft Copies

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigator testified today that distribution of a secret House intelligence committee report was very disorganized and that nearly 50 persons in Congress and government agencies had draft copies the day one was leaked to reporter Daniel Schorr.

David W. Bowers, chief investigator for the House ethics committee, said none of those persons will say he was Schorr's source. Bowers refused to tell an open ethics committee hearing whether he thinks the leak came from the legislative or the executive branch.

But he said he has been able to eliminate as the source all copies of one version of the report circulated among executive agencies.

Ethics committee chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said one purpose of its hearing will be to determine whether disciplinary action should be recommended against any employe or member of the House. He said the panel also will try to develop ways to tighten House security so it can be given secret information without fear of disclosure.

Who leaked a draft of the report has become the committee's $150,000 question. Flynt originally asked for $350,000 for its investigation to answer the question, but the House cut his request to $150,000. The report was about abuses by U.S. intelligence agencies.

Schorr, a CBS newsman, obtained a copy which he gave to a New York weekly, The Village Voice, for publication last February. He has refused to disclose the identity of his source.

The ethics committee took up the matter as Congress returned to work after a two-week recess for the Fourth of Juty and the Democratic National Convention. Congress will begin wrestling later this week with a timetable for extending individual tax cuts.

The panel hired ex-FBI agents who interviewed 400 witnesses. Schorr, who has been suspended by CBS pending the outcome of the investigation, and other reporters who reported details of the secret report have not been subpoenaed, but could be called later.

Members of the disbanded intelligence committee, its staff and aides are expected to testify, some under subpoena.

Flynt told reporters recently that investigators do not know who leaked the report and the hearings may not provide an answer.

Refinery Resumes Operations

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — Officials at the Cosden Oil Co. refinery said the facility would resume operations today despite seven explosions that rocked the plant late Sunday night, injuring five persons.

Ed Dennis, company spokesman, said the explosions were not as damaging as first feared although flames roared 400 feet into the air near this West Texas city of 30,000.

Officials had not made a damage estimate. They added the cause of the explosions was still under investigation.

The injuries, none described as serious, were suffered by firemen fighting the blazes, Dennis said.

Firemen from Big Spring, Howard County and nearby Webb Air Force Base battled the fire for three hours before bringing it under control at 10 p.m.

Dennis said several storage tanks, each containing 100,000 gallons of crude oil, were threatened by the blaze before it was contained.

Cosden, owned by American Petrofina in Dallas, employs about 2,000 persons at the refinery.

Labor To Back Carter, Demos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The politically powerful AFL-CIO today endorsed Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter and announced a campaign to help send him to the White House in January. The nation's biggest labor organization sat out the 1972 campaign.

A spokesman said the 35-member AFL-CIO Executive Council voted unanimously to back the Democratic ticket.

The action stands as the official endorsement of the labor federation without need for approval by the 152-member General Board, the spokesman said.

Originally the council was expected only to recommend that the board endorse Carter and his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Walter F. Mondale. But the spokesman said the council decided instead to make today's action a "flat-out endorsement."

AFL-CIO President George Meany indicated earlier that support for Carter would be forthcoming but that he wanted the council to wait until after the Republicans met next month. However, labor sources said council members returning from last week's Democratic convention in New York pressured Meany to act now.

"They want to get on the bandwagon," said one source.

Some labor delegates at the convention criticized Meany both publicly and privately for his decision to sit out the primary elections this year, following his neutral stance four years ago.

Meany skipped the Democratic convention that nominated Carter, but aides said it was personal business, not lack of enthusiasm, that kept him home.

With the labor federation solidly behind Carter, it could call on an army of political workers from among 14 million unionists.

Ford Schedules News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford scheduled a news conference Monday afternoon with his struggle for the Republican presidential nomination expected to be among the prime topics.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen announced plans for the meeting with reporters at about 1 p.m. Live broadcast coverage was not expected.

However, Nessen declined to permit press coverage of Ford's meeting later in the day with delegates and alternates from New Jersey where he is seeking to win over some uncommitted votes for the GOP convention in Kansas City next month.

UAW Kicks Off Talks On Pact

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers, armed with a list of demands that begins with job security, met with General Motors today to kick off the 1976 contract talks with the nation's auto industry.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock and GM's top negotiator, Vice President George B. Morris Jr., reached across the bargaining table at GM headquarters to shake hands while nearly 100 other union and company bargainers looked on.

After a brief picture-taking session, negotiators began a closed meeting.

Meanwhile, several hundred UAW members, most of them retirees from Flint, Mich., locals, demonstrated outside, demanding cost of living increases for pensions and a 32-hour work week for 40 hours' pay.

The UAW opens its triennial negotiations with other car makers later this week as it begins the task of reaching new three-year accords covering 680,000 U.S. and Canadian workers.

The talks — replacing current pacts which expire in mid-September — will affect more workers than any other industry agreements still to be negotiated this year.

Meetings similar to today's will be held Tuesday at Ford Motor Co., Wednesday at Chrysler Corp. and Thursday at American Motors Corp.

NEW CHAMBER MANAGER REPORTS — Bill Henry, new manager of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, reported this morning for his first day on the job. Welcoming him to the office are, from left, Judy Wall, Scurry County Producers Association secretary; LaVerta Lovell, Chamber coordinator; Bennie Everett, Board of County Development secretary; Scherry Wells, Chamber secretary, and Vickie Johnson, American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals secretary.

Motive Still Mystery In Mass Kidnapings

By PETER H. KING
Associated Press Writer

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — The motive is still a mystery. But the methods used by three silent, masked men who kidnaped 26 children and their bus driver make one thing clear — it was a crime planned out to the fullest, months in advance.

But it didn't work. The children escaped.

Still, that the captors could snatch a busload of mostly tiny children in daylight from a town where everyone seems to know everyone else, and then frustrate extensive search efforts by FBI, state and local law officers for more than 24 hours, testifies to their thorough preparation.

When the plan was hatched is unknown. As far back as November 1975, however, one of the suspects is known to have bought three government surplus vans, one of which authorities have traced to the kidnaping. He paid with cash.

Two of the three he bought were never registered. The other was registered two days before the crime in Los Gatos, near San Jose. Because of that, investigators said they had to search for records of the van by hand since the information hadn't been filed in the Department of Motor Vehicles computer.

The name and San Jose address the van was registered under turned out to be phony, according to Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates.

The vans were well equipped for a flight from the scene of the crime. They carried:

—CB radios, ideal for monitoring police activity, but made even more useful by the gabby "CB volunteers" who blasted out from Chowchilla nearly every tidbit of information known about the investigation.

—Painted windows, so no one could see out — or in — and a tent-like tarp made the roundabout route to the gravel pits 100 miles away a mystery to those inside.

—A good supply of extra gasoline which kept the kidnapers from having to pull into a service station and taking the risk of an attendant being tipped off.

California Highway Patrolmen had quickly alerted gas stations on the major routes in the San Joaquin Valley about the kidnaping and had told them to report any suspicious looking vans.

The nearby creekbed where the bus was taken made an ideal hiding spot. Authorities said they could not see the bus at all from the road during daylight hours. It took a hastily organized air search to spot the big yellow bus in a thicket — and just before dark.

In the gravel pit near Livermore, the kidnapers had an excellent hideout.

The children were buried for nearly 18 hours in a World War II vintage military moving van about 25 feet long. It was buried in a spot in the quarry that was not being worked. The spot was surrounded by brush up to six feet tall.

Tests of soil samples taken from the site show the truck had been buried there less than a year, Alameda County investigators said. They added that there are numerous back roads to the spot and kidnapers could have easily driven in to work on the cavern at night without being seen.

2 Sentences Are Assessed

Two men were sentenced to serve prison terms in the Texas Department of Corrections as a result of action taken this morning in 132nd District Court. Presiding judge was Wayland G. Holt.

Rosalio Medrano Razo, 36, found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the April 10 stabbing death of Jesus Rivera, was sentenced to serve 11 years in the Texas Department of Corrections. Judge Holt acted on the recommended sentence assessed by the 7-man, 5-woman jury that found Razo guilty on June 30.

Billie Wayne Guynes, 23, was sentenced to serve 4 years in the Texas Department of Corrections after he pleaded guilty on July 6 to a charge of burglary with intent to commit theft. The charge stems from an Oct. 15, 1975 incident in which Guynes was accused of burglarizing Munden's Discount Center.

Viking Set For Mars Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists "woke up" the unmanned Viking 1 landing craft today and found everything in working order for the craft's historic descent Tuesday to the face of Mars.

If all goes as planned, the Viking will touch down on the Martian surface at 7:53 a.m. EDT Tuesday.

But because of the 19 minutes required for the craft's radio signals to travel 240 million miles to earth at the speed of light, Viking officials will have no confirmation of the landing until 8:12 a.m.

Prospects for success appeared bright as a test of the craft's cameras and experimental equipment was completed Sunday.

"The test has gone by the book," said a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here. "The first look (at the cameras and equipment) went as everyone had expected."

The cameras had not been turned on since last September.

The Viking Lander Biology Equipment, a box about the size of a car battery, is the most important of the experiments aboard the unmanned lander — the box contains miniature laboratories equipped to carry on sophisticated life-searching experiments while on Mars.

Dr. Harold Klein, who heads up the project's biology team, says some scientists think the little box is more complex than the entire mechanisms of some spacecraft.

During the wake-up process, the numerous valves in the biology experiment are shut tight to prevent dust and other materials kicked up during landing from obstructing any of the moving parts.

Scientists were also looking at the final pictures of the landing site, located on a huge slope on the edge of a basin called Chryse Platitia. The Viking team hopes that the area is a deposit basin where fast-flowing rivers may have deposited fine materials from the Martian highlands.

On Earth, such areas are often rich with minerals, such as gold, platinum and diamonds, and scientists have suggested that such minerals will be found on Mars, though they admit the odds are against it.

Gold and diamonds aside, Viking's elemental purpose is the quest for life on another planet, the attempt to determine whether life on Earth is a miracle or merely a statistic.

That search will begin 25 seconds after landing, when Viking's cameras — two lobster-like eyes on either side of the vehicle — begin shooting pictures of the surface of Mars.

Two Mishaps Are Reported

Over a relatively quiet weekend, city police officers reported only two traffic accidents.

One mishap, a major accident, occurred at 12:29 p.m. Saturday in Towle Park. A 1965 Chevrolet driven by James Dale Swigert collided with a light pole owned by Midwest Electric Co. Police reported that a passenger in the car sustained a minor head laceration, but was not hospitalized.

The second mishap, a car-calf collision, occurred Saturday at 11:11 p.m. in the 4600 block of College Avenue. A 1968 Mercury driven by Valda Moore Geer collided with a calf. While only minor damage was reported to the vehicle, the calf was killed in the mishap. No injuries were reported to the occupants of the car.

Soviets Send Kiev To Join Fleet

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — The Soviet Union has sent one of its big antisubmarine aircraft carriers, the 40,000-ton Kiev, to join its Mediterranean fleet for the first time.

The Turkish government allowed the Kiev to sail from the Black Sea through the Bosporus Sunday despite the objections of some officials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which Turkey is a member.

The officials said the strait should be closed to the carrier because the 1936 Montreux Convention, which governs navigation through the Bosporus and the Dardanelles, limits the size of offensive naval units allowed through to 10,000 tons and makes no mention of ships carrying aircraft.

Turkish authorities classified the Kiev as a defensive ship, a "submarine-intercepting cruiser."

Unlike the two 60,000-ton American aircraft carriers in the Mediterranean,the Kiev is not equipped to handle fixed-wing jet fighters or fighter-bombers. Instead she carries about 55 helicopters and VTOL (vertical takeoff and landing) planes that work in tandem with a new design of anti-submarine rockets fired from the carrier.

The helicopter carriers stationed with the Soviet Mediterranean Fleet in the past were 15,000 tonners, less than half the size of the Kiev, and carried only 18 helicopters and no VTOL planes.

Military sources said the Kiev brings the Soviet Mediterranean Fleet to 69 ships, about 11 more than the U.S. 6th Fleet.

Medicare Law Is Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today used the occasion of his signing of a bill making some technical changes in the Medicare law to make another pitch to Congress to pass his own proposals for changing Medicare and providing castrophic illness protection.

In a statement from the White House, Ford said his proposals submitted last February "would improve insurance against really large medical bills while also saving the taxpayers $1.5 billion in fiscal year 1977."

Ford's proposals also would include some higher fees for Medicare patients in an effort "to encourage economical use of services" as Ford explained it.

The new law makes three changes in the Medicare law involving increases in reimbursement to doctors for treatment to patients who qualify for the federally-subsidized program.

The cost of the bill is estimated at $157 million for the upcoming transition quarter and fiscal 1977, plus $67 million in fiscal 1978.

New Threats Of Flash Flooding

There were fresh threats of flash flooding in Texas again today—an almost daily occurrence in the nonstop rains soaking one part of the state or another the past two weeks.

Official observers posted the latest warning of water rising into low areas as thunderstorms hovered over Wise County and the west part of Denton County this morning, dumping rain at rates close to 2.5 inches per hour.

A flash flood watch continued into today, meanwhile, for the south part of West Texas, where mighty thunderstorms roamed late Sunday. There also were locally heavy rains Sunday across much of East Texas, and sightings of several harmless tornado funnels were reported around Sabine Pass and Sabine Lake in the southeast part of the state.

Warm and humid air enveloped much of the state this morning.

In addition to the Wise and Denton County turbulence, bristling thunderstorms edged southward from Oklahoma across the New Boston area in Northeast Texas and on toward Shreveport, La., this morning.

There were scattered light showers, meanwhile, in a North and Central Texas area embracing Wichita Falls, Dallas and Brownwood; in the west and southwest from around San Angelo to near Del Rio and westward to around Sheffield, Sonora and Langtry, and in Central to East Texas from near Center eastward across Toledo Bend Reservoir.

Still more widely scattered showers and thundershowers were predicted in all parts of the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 80 degrees at Galveston on the coast down to 65 at Texarkana in the northeast corner of the state. Sunday's top marks went as high as 95 at Houston.

Two Arrested In Payoffs

TOKYO (AP) — Prosecutors investigating the Lockheed payoffs arrested an executive and a driver for Lockheed's former sales agent in Japan today on charges of destroying evidence.

This brought to 13 the number of persons arrested in the Lockheed investigations, but prosecutors released one today, saying further investigation had cleared him of involvement in the case.

Arrested were Hidekazu Mori, 48, chief of the general affairs section of Marubeni Corp., and Katsuhiro Matsuoka, 37, a driver.

The two are accused of manipulating documents detailing the driving schedule of the car that Matsuoka drove for former Marubeni executive Hiroshi Itoh, 49, between 1964 and 1966.

Itoh and fellow Marubeni executive Toshiharu Okubo, 62, were arrested earlier on charges of perjury before a parliamentary committee investigating the case.

Released today was Bunichi Mizutani, 63, a close business associate of Yoshio Kodama, the powerful right-wing power broker who is the key figure in the case.

Lockheed officials have said that their firm spent more than $12 million to influence aircraft sales in Japan, and $7 million of that went to Kodama.

Kodama has been indicted on charges of tax evasion and foreign currency violations but has not been taken into custody because of ill health. His private secretary, Tsuneo Tachikawa, 39, has been arrested.

Others arrested include Hiro Hiyama, 66, former president of Marubeni, and six executives of All Nippon Airways.

Ford To Name Juanita Ashcraft

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford announced today he will nominate Juanita Ashcraft as an assistant secretary of the Air Force, the highest post for a woman civilian in the Defense Department in more than 20 years.

Mrs. Ashcraft, 55, a California businesswoman, was president of the California State Personnel Board from 1971 to 1973. She will have responsibilities in manpower and reserve affairs if confirmed by the Senate for the $39,900-a-year Air Force position.

Electability Factor With Uncommitted Republicans

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncommitted Republican National Convention delegates list electability, the opinions of their constituents and what the candidates do during the next month as factors most likely to influence their ultimate choice between President Ford and Ronald Reagan.

With all 2,259 delegates for the Kansas City convention now selected, The Associated Press count of announced or mandated delegate votes shows 1,066 for Ford and 1,020 for Reagan, with 172 uncommitted and 1 for Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn. It takes 1,130 to win. The AP count does not include those merely leaning toward one or the other.

The selection of delegates ended Saturday with Ford winning all 35 in Connecticut and Reagan sweeping all 20 in Utah. Between now and the Aug. 16-19 convention, they'll be concentrating on wooing the uncommitteds.

Extended recent interviews with about one-third of the uncommitteds show that issues are generally taking a back seat and that these delegates are trying to figure out which candidate would be more likely to beat Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter in November.

Edward Byrne, an uncommitted Pennsylvanian, says he's polling Republican committee meetings to help him reach a decision.

"It's split right down the middle," he said. "Truly it surprises me."

Byrne, however, said his decision also "will depend on who I think can win in November. Too many people can put too many feet in their mouths between now and the convention."

H. Davison Osgood, the only uncommitted delegate in Maine, said he "may not reach a decision until some time in Kansas City." He said he's still uncommitted "because every day brings a new development and I'm still watching the whole scenario unfold."

From Missouri, Marlene Zinzel said, "I feel like I want to vote for whomever is the most electable and one of these guys might make a big mistake and blow the whole thing. I just want to wait until all the facts are in."

The arithmetic at this point seems definitely in Ford's favor. Ford needs 46 fewer from the uncommitted pool than does Reagan in order to reach 1,130. And there seem to be more delegates likely to tip toward Ford than toward Reagan.

In Pennsylvania, 25 delegates still say they are uncommitted. There are 20 more in New York. Evaluations of party leaders indicate the bulk of those are likely to go to Ford, however, and his campaign already claims 17 of those in Pennsylvania and eight of those from New York.

Hawaii, where 13 delegates say they're uncommitted, also seems likely to deliver 12 of those to Ford, based on past indicators.

For Reagan to win, he must cut into Ford's Northeast strength, win almost all the uncommitted vote in the South and get the bulk of those who appear to be up for grabs in other states.

Evacuees Will Leave Beirut By Road Convoy

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The U.S. Embassy announced today that its evacuation of Americans and others from Beirut Tuesday would be by road convoy to Damascus.

Chartered planes will fly the evacuees immediately from the Syrian capital to Athens, embassy sources in the Greek capital reported.

There was speculation that ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet would be standing by offshore to take the evacuees off should the overland route be declared unsafe. But there was no confirmation of this from the Embassy.

A road convoy also was planned for the Embassy's first evacuation, in mid-June. But because of hostilities along the route, the Navy removed the 110 Americans and 157 other foreigners who wanted to leave.

The response to the U.S. government's second warning that Americans should leave Lebanon has not been great. The Embassy said 125 Americans, 36 non-American dependents and 176 other foreigners had registered to go. However, the number was expected to increase.

Embassy records show more than 1,000 American citizens still in Lebanon, but most of them are of Lebanese birth with dual Lebanese and American citizenship.

As the countdown for the evacuation began, the joint Palestinian and leftist Lebanese Moslem command reported right-wing Christian forces launched their 61st tank-supported attack at daybreak against the Palestinians' besieged Tal Zaatar refugee camp in southeast Beirut after a nightlong artillery barrage.

"The attack is coming from six fronts," said a communique. "Hand-to-hand combat now rages in several parts of the camp."

Christians and Moslems also made hit-and-run raids during the night along the two-mile line separating Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors. Hospital and security sources estimated more than 80 persons killed and 100 wounded during the night.

The leftists reported Syrian troops were making a machine-gun attack on the Nahr el Bared refugee camp on the eastern edge of Tripoli, the Moslems' largest city in northern Lebanon. The communique said the Palestinians were returning the fire.

Both the Moslems and the Christians reported that the Syrians were moving more troops and tanks into Sofar, a summer resort 12 miles east of Beirut that controls a mountain pass on the Beirut-Damascus highway. The Moslems' Beirut Radio charged this was a prelude for an offensive to "consolidate Syria's occupation of two thirds of Lebanon and finish off the Palestinian guerrilla movement."

Body Of Gearhart To Be Released

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — The American Embassy said today it expects Angola to release the body of executed mercenary Daniel Gearhart "possibly sometime this week."

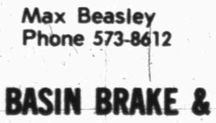

An embassy spokesman said representatives of a "friendly government" acting as a go-between had informed the United States the "prospects are good" for getting the body back to Gearhart's wife and four children in Kensington, Md.

He said the body would probably be moved through Lisbon by commercial airliner and "could arrive as early as this week."

The spokesman declined to name the country acting as intermediary. Last-minute clemency pleas for the 34-year-old Gearhart before he and three Britons were executed by a firing squad July 10 were directed through Swedish officials in the Angolan capital of Luanda.

Oswald: "Our April third article has caused so much reader comment, that we reprint it here with further discussion."

Jim: "That was the hand that Jo Culbertson defended successfully by underleading her ace of spades twice. wasn't it?"

Oswald: "Most of our readers have criticized Hal's play of a low spade at trick one. He only made that play because he held the nine. It would have given him an extra spade trick if Jo had led from queen-ten. As it was Ely scored that first trick with his ten. When Jo got in with the ace of clubs she underled her ace a second time and Hal guessed wrong, played dummy's jack and was down one."

Jim: "If Hal had played the jack at trick one, Ely would have taken his queen. It would then have been difficult, but not impossible for Jo to underlead her ace a second time. If she had done so South could and probably would still have gone wrong."

Oswald: "The point of the whole hand is that when you give a player a chance to guess wrong he may do so."

Lips 'Sealed' On Canning Lids

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Government officials, manufacturers and consumers alike are keeping their fingers crossed and hoping that there won't be another shortage of canning lids this year. So far, however, no one is willing to predict what will happen.

Previous shortages, caused by lack of materials, a failure of manufacturers to anticipate the demand and hoarding by some Americans, prompted investigations by Congress and the Federal Trade Commission.

None of the probes turned up any evidence of wrongdoing on the part of the industry. Neither did they provide any clues on how to stop the problem from recurring.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says manufacturers are expected to turn out more than four billion replacement lids this year. Bill Kerr of the Kerr Glass Co. of Los Angeles, a major manufacturer, said he did not know whether four billion would be enough.

"I'd have to ask you what the demand will be," he said, noting that no one anticipated the sharp jump in the number of people who started growing their own fruits and vegetables to try to beat inflation and later turned to home canning to store their produce.

(Note: Canning jars are reusable; lids aren't. Each new jar comes with a lid and there were claims that manufacturers were deliberately withholding replacement lids so that home canners would have to buy the jars even if they didn't need them. The claims were never proved.)

The crunch — if there is one — will come later in the summer when people actually start canning. The advance situation varies from state to state.

"We anticipate no shortage," said a spokesman for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, interviewed early in the summer.

In contrast, a spokesman for the California Department of Consumer Affairs said he had surveyed stores and found "There's definitely a shortage. Not as bad as last year, but definitely a shortage."

Several factors may ease the problem. Inflation has abated and people have found that it is not always cheaper to grow and can your own food.

The number of companies manufacturing canning lids has increased, meanwhile, although a recent study showed that some of the new varieties are less efficient than the old standards.

The USDA has several suggestions for avoiding problems with home canning. Among them:

—Use jars made especially for home canning. Do not try to substitute containers such as mayonnaise jars.

—Do not use overripe food and do not pack the jars too full.

—Do not use canned foods showing any signs of spoilage. If the food smells funny, looks moldy or has some other unusual characteristic, throw it out. Don't taste it.

—Boil home canned vegetables for at least 10 minutes before serving.

Rep. Howe Goes On Trial Today

By BILL BEECHAM
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Rep. Allan T. Howe, accused of offering $20 to two police decoy prostitutes, goes on trial in City Court today, charged with the misdemeanor of soliciting sex for pay.

The freshman Democratic congressman was arrested June 12 by vice squad officers in Salt Lake City's red-light district. He has pleaded innocent. In denying the charge, he admitted talking with the decoys, Margaret Hamblin and Kathleen Taylor, but he claimed he was lured to the area by an invitation to a political function.

If found guilty, Howe, 48, would have to pay a $150 fine.

Last week, the State Supreme Court, after a 10-minute hearing, rejected Howe's request for dismissal of the charge on grounds of pretrial publicity and misconduct by the prosecution.

The defense alleged prosecutorial misconduct occurred when it said City Atty. Roger F. Cutler was quoted by newspapers as being critical of Howe following his arrest.

"If, in fact, those statements were made, it does attack the credibility of a witness in the case," City Court Judge Raymond Uno said then. However, in denying the motion early last week, Uno said if such misconduct did occur, it should be dealt with by others, such as a bar association.

Late Friday, his attorney, Dean R. Mitchell, filed a writ of habeas corpus in U.S. District Court claiming his client's constitutional rights were violated.

No federal court hearing has been scheduled, but Mitchell said one could be called at any time.

Howe, a Mormon, also contends his chances of a fair trial were damaged because of statements by Spencer W. Kimball, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon.)

Kimball said he thought Howe should consider resigning his congressional seat and that Howe's fellow Mormons — 70 per cent of Utah residents are Mormons — were shocked to learn of the allegations.

Debate Would Surprise Jack

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — President Ford's 24-year-old son Jack says he'd be surprised if his father would agree to debate Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter.

In a broadcast interview during the weekend, Jack Ford said he was confident his father would win the GOP nomination on the first ballot at the party's national convention beginning Aug. 16 in Kansas City.

Asked about the debate possibility the young Ford said: "One of the situations with Mr. Carter is that he refuses to really take a specific stand on the issues, so if a man is going to do that, it makes it pretty difficult to debate him."

Antique Cars On Display

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Three antique cars that set off from Istanbul on June 24 in the 6,000-mile Around The World Auto Race were on display here today.

The race, which is scheduled to wind up in San Francisco on Aug. 5, commemorates the Bicentennial, and was inspired by the 1908 New York to Paris classic auto race.

One of the cars, a 1911 Model T Ford, driven by Mr. and Mrs. William Woodke of La Porte, Ind., had to be towed after breaking down on the trip from Buffalo, N.Y.

Four cars started the race, but Herbert and Adam Zipkin of Mt. Kisco, N.Y. thought their 1909 Franklin had had enough after the 3,000 European leg of the trip.

The other drivers are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Benore of Holland, Ohio, driving a 1912 Detroit Abbott, and Edward and Mark Schuler, a father and son team from Morrison, Ill., in a 1914 Dodge.

Also riding with the Benores is 17-year-old Scott Finly of Tyler, Tex., a recent high school graduate who wrote to the race committee asking if he could go along.

Race director Mike Lapine said they have been right on schedule the whole way despite numerous maintenance problems. He added that the response of the people in the 13 countries they've driven through has been "terrific."

But the excitement of the trip seemed to have temporarily escaped Russell Benore, who said, "If your car is still running at the end of the day you're lucky."

The race is actually a rally. The winner is determined by a system in which each driver receives demerits for tardiness and automobile unreliability.

Lapine stressed that the competition isn't the principle behind the race.

He said the trip has been "an unqualified success."

The group is scheduled to leave Cleveland for Detroit Tuesday.

Parents Of Kids Give Thanks

By [illegible] BIGHAM
Associated Press Writer

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — "As parents of one of the children, we know God answers prayer. Otherwise, we wouldn't have had her back."

Nina Heffington, with her daughter Jodi, 10, attended worship services Sunday at First United Methodist Church here to give thanks for the safe return of the 26 kidnaped children.

Jodi shared a hymnal with her mother and sang softly. She seemed calm despite the harrowing experience that ended only 30 hours earlier.

The children and their bus driver clawed their way to safety from a buried truck body where three masked gunman had imprisoned them for a day and a half after hijacking their school bus.

"We wanted to show them the product of their prayers," Mrs. John Brown III said at worship services at First Baptist Church. "We figured it didn't really matter where we went to church," she said, explaining that the family was not attending its usual church.

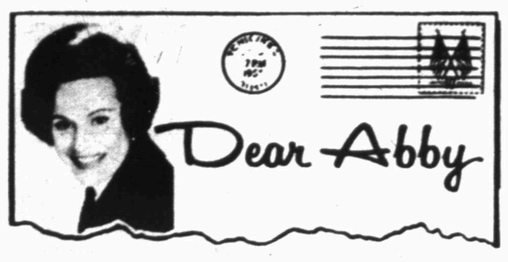

Her husband offered simple gratitude for the safe return of Jeffrey, 10, and Jennifer, 9:

"We'd just like to thank the Lord for bringing our children back to us."

The Brown children also were mentioned at First United Methodist Church. Beverly Hansen told the parishioners that she taught Jeff in summer school last year and gave him a Bible because he showed an interest in religion.

Mrs. Hansen said that after the kidnaping, she told Jeff's mother: "I know God's with them. Any little boy who uses God's word every day, God's got to be with them."

George Washington was elected first president of the United States and John Adams became vice-president in 1789.

Which Woman is the 'Real' Mom?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago I married a divorced man whose sons came to live with us because their "real" mother thought they would be better off with their father. (They were then 11 and 13.)

I love these boys and think they feel some affection for me, yet on Mother's Day they always remember their biological mother with flowers, and I don't even get a card.

In six years I've done a ton of laundry, mended their clothes, cooked for them, shopped for them and spent hundreds of hours chauffeuring them around. I've nursed them when they were sick and listened to their troubles. I lectured them about sex and drugs, instilling in them decent moral values. I couldn't have done more had they been my biological children.

Their "real" mother has had very little time for them. She never took them on a trip or asked them to spend a holiday with her. (She phones occasionally and makes plans to be with them, but if something better comes along, she cancels.)

I think stepmothers deserve a little recognition on Mother's Day. Just because we didn't bear the children doesn't mean we don't feel like "real" mothers. It would be a kindness to all stepmothers if you would print this.

HURT ON MOTHER'S DAY

DEAR HURT: I have long held the view that giving birth to a child doesn't make a woman a mother any more than owning a piano makes a person a musician. But the woman who takes a child into her home because she wants to and raises that child with love and understanding is, in every sense of the word, a "real" mother.

DEAR ABBY: I have a severe hearing loss. Six years ago I bought a hearing aid and experimented with it for a long time. I finally gave it up because it magnified background noises I had not heard for years and was more annoying than not hearing at all.

My family criticized me for not wearing my hearing aid, but I've trained myself to read lips and find it much more to my liking.

I do miss a lot at social gatherings as I can listen to only one person at a time, but I've learned to live with that, too.

Sometimes I feel that I'm better off if I don't hear everything that goes on.

DOING ALL RIGHT

DEAR DOING: Hooray for you! Not everyone who has a hearing loss feels severely handicapped.

DEAR ABBY: We are a young couple expecting our first child in two weeks. Our best friends had their first child (a boy) and they named him the very name we had chosen for our baby! We know they got the idea from us because when we told them the name we liked for a boy, they both agreed it was a great name.

We felt obvious resentment when we found out they used our name.

Our question: The other couple will probably feel obvious resentment now if we name ours what we had planned to, but would we be showing poor taste toward our friends in doing so?

Pets Often Aid Troubled Kids

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A dog, a cat, perhaps a horse, may be the answer for some child with a deep psychological problem or an older person who lives in a world of lonesomeness.

Dr. William F. McCulloch, a professor of veterinary public health at Texas A&M University, said in a recent interview that a companion pet "may often prove to be the method that opens the door for those who are troubled and find difficulty in communicating."

The aid that animals can provide to the mentally troubled is only one of many research projects either underway or planned by the new Institute of Comparative Medicine, a joint project of the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine and physicians at the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

McCulloch, recently named director of the institute, said a child who has problems "can often find something positive in a pet, which is friendly and wanting to be loved.

"And," he said, "a pet can teach a child responsibility, how to care for something that needs attention, that will listen without criticism, that will react to a touch or the sound of a voice."

The same will apply to those who are alone and seek companionship.

The Institute of Comparative Medicine also is probing into many of the diseases of man which are similar to those of animals.

McCulloch said the program "offers a unique biomedical research and educational approach to improve the health of humans of the animal kingdom. By studying animals suffering with disease problems similar to man is one of the most effecient and justifiable ways to develop methods for prevention and treatment for man's illness."

The medical college physicians and the veterinarians also will probe into such diseases as hypertension, heart disease, reproductive biology and genetics.

Adventurist Survives Encounter With Alligator

By G. MICHAEL HARMON
Associated Press Writer

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Don Watson survived encounters with an angry alligator on a Louisiana bayou and mountainous waves on the Mississippi River in his "adventure of a lifetime" — a 13,500-mile, meandering trip across the country and into Alaska in a 15-foot canoe.

"People tell me that I'm either the most courageous man they've ever met or the most insane," Watson, 43, said Sunday after chugging into port here one year and eight days after his journey began. "After all this time and all that has happened to me, I'm not so sure which is the right answer myself."

A wealthy, retired publishing executive from Mountain View, Calif., Watson said he set out on the cross-country trip in a custom-made, outboard-motor powered canoe because of "a primordial urge to test myself."

"I've been a success in the business world," Watson said. "I've got a $150,000 home mortgage-free. But was I really the man I thought I was? I wanted to find out."

To discover the answer, Watson purchased a canoe, equipped it with "everything but a 5-foot-2 brunette," and launched it into the Tennessee River at Chattanooga.

In a circuitous route, Watson traveled up the Tennessee to the Cumberland River, connected with the Mississippi via the Ohio, up the Mississippi to Minneapolis, Minn., back down the Mississippi to the White River and took the White west to Tulsa.

Then he moved back along the White to the Mississippi again, down the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, along the Gulf Coast to Key West, Fla., up the Atlantic Coast to Savannah, Ga., and up the Savannah River to Augusta.

From Augusta, Watson trucked his canoe to the Snake River in Idaho, chugged down the Snake to the Columbia River and on to Portland, Ore. After another portage to Olympia, Wash., Watson and his canoe went up the Pugent Sound and the Inside Passage to Alaska.

What's Watson going to do for an encore to his adventure? Why, do it again in reverse, he says.

Economy May Determine Presidential Election

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It is possible that the economy will be the issue that determines whom we will elect in November as our president for the next four years. But how do you get a reading on the economy?

Fortunately, most people rely on their own seat-of-the-pants feeling to make their decision on whether the economy is performing well or poorly. It is the thickness of their own wallet that carries the message.

If they were to rely on those outpourings of statistics from Washington they might become confused, as more than a few economists are. They would, so to speak, wonder which number was up.

Retail sales, for example, were off in May, adding additional evidence that the economic advance slowed appreciably in the second quarter. But how much were they off?

The Commerce Department initially put the decline at 1.2 per cent from April, but we learned later that this really didn't tell the true extent of the drop. This month they said the May drop really was 2.1 per cent.

A revision of that magnitude changes a lot of things, but the timing of the revision could be even more significant, especially if the retail sales figures for June are to have any significance.

Earlier this month, you see, the Commerce Department announced that retail sales rebounded in June to 2.7 per cent, a report that brought joy to a lot of people who had feared consumers were being turned off.

But note — that 2.7 per cent jump was made possible only because of the sizable downward revision of the previous month.

This wasn't the first time we have had such statistical maneuverings. It happens time after time. Sometimes, in fact, the initial figures for each month give the impression that the economy is coming along.

Only when we go back and review the revisions do we see that in some instances the advances are made possible only because prior months are revised downward.

Therefore, instead of a steady, forceful march forward, we recognize that the advance sometimes is more in the pattern of two steps forward and one to the rear. But you have to note the revisions in order to spot it.

These revisions are made in the interest of accuracy rather than deceit, of course, but the impact on the public quite often can resemble the effect produced by the latter.

Monthly and weekly figures do have their significance, but it is mainly over the period of several months that you distinguish the trends that won't be revised out of existence.

Can we wait, though? With the economy a prime campaign issue, it seems inevitable that we will rely on the "freshest" of statistics and ignore the later revisions, which often are quite large.

Fiery Crash Claims Four

By The Associated Press

Four young men died in Oklahoma traffic accidents Sunday, including three in a fiery crash near Atoka. The fourth was killed in a wreck near Sulphur.

Three of the victims were Michael Tindell, 19, and Gary Hall, 20, both of Farris, Okla., and Frank Wright, 18, of Lufkin, Tex. Their pickup, driven by Tindell, went out of control on Oklahoma 3, crashed and burst into flames.

The fourth victim, Randy Stone, 17, of Stratford, was killed when his car crashed eight miles north of Sulphur on U.S. 177 in Murray County.

Reporter Finds Queen Gracious

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

MONTREAL (AP) — On a beautiful Canadian afternoon the queen entertained at a small party on the royal yacht Britannia to celebrate the Olympics. The dignity of the realm was everywhere in evidence. And Elizabeth II proved to be as gracious and regal as ever hoped for in a queen.

Looking forward to seeing her daughter, Princess Anne, competing in the Olympic equestrian events, the queen seemed excited and gregarious despite her long American Bicentennial trip.

Despite a protocol officer's statement that there would be no reporting on the Sunday party, the queen answered questions from American reporters.

Like any mother, she was proud to have her daughter marching in the Olympic opening ceremony. However, even though the queen had the best seat in the house as she formally opened the games, she never saw Anne.

"Perhaps she had her (wide-brimmed) hat turned down over her face, but I couldn't pick her out," said the queen. "But my husband did."

Prince Philip was talking to an Olympics official a few feet away. He had, indeed, spotted the princess, first member of the royal family ever to compete in the Olympics.

"She was near the end of the procession, wasn't she?" asked the queen. The answer was yes.

Had she talked with Anne, who is staying at the Olympic village?

"No, I haven't. I'm never home," Elizabeth said with a bemused laugh. "Even when I'm out here, I can't be reached." Her schedule has been loaded with public appearances but she said she was looking forward to going to Bromont, Quebec, later this week to watch Anne compete.

The queen talked with about 50 people on the second deck at the stern of the yacht, where the efficient ship's crew had assembled hors d'oeurves and cocktails for the Olympic officials and a few reporters.

Young seamen in starched white jackets carried silver trays.

It was a colorful spectacle, and tourists lined the banks of Bickerdike Basin where the yacht is docked, hoping to catch a glimpse of royalty.

After an hour, Elizabeth and Philip slipped away to their quarters below decks and the Naval officers bid everyone goodbye.

American Swimmers In Sweep; Russians Fuss

MONTREAL (AP) — The American men swept their swimming event, the East German women dominated theirs and the Russians started a fuss.

All were more or less expected in the first full day of competition in the Olympic Games, but the perfect performance by an 88-pound, 4-foot-11, teenage Romanian girl couldn't be anticipated. It'd never happened before.

And that's what started the fuss.

Larissa Latynine, the Russian coach whose charges normally dominate gymnastics, tossed a disgusted look at the judges who had awarded little Nadia Comaneci a perfect score of 10 for her performance on the uneven parallel bars in the compulsory exercises.

"I question the performance," said the Russian coach, obviously seeing major competition for her stars, Ludmila Toukrischeva and Olga Korbut.

"I can see a 9.5, but it should not have been a 10. There were some flaws. It was not perfect," the Russian coach said.

The judges said otherwise. And the poker-faced 15-year-old marvel who achieved the Olympics' first perfect performance agreed. "I knew it was a 10 all the way," she said.

She responded to the ovation with a shy little smile, a rare occurance for Little Miss Stoneface, returned to the podium and let waves of sound and adoration wash over her.

But while the Russians may have taken a setback there, they picked up two of the five gold medals awarded in Sunday's first day of competition; the Americans scored a 1-2-3 sweep in the only men's swimming event; the East Germans got two golds — one their first ever in women's swimming, the sport they're expected to dominate in the quadrennial Games that run through Aug. 1, and the American basketball team won handily.

Mike Bruner, easily spotted by his shaved head that led the way through the water, had to set a world record to beat out teammate Steve Gregg, Wilmington, Del., to win the men's 200-meter butterfly.

Bruner, a 20-year-old Stanford sophomore, was timed in 1:59.23. Gregg also broke the old world record at 1:59.54. Billy Forrester, Birmingham, Ala., took the bronze in 1:59.96.

Long John Nabor, a towering 6-foot-6er from Menlo Park, Calif., also set a world record, 56.19 in qualifying heats for the 100-meter backstroke but wasn't overly excited about it.

"That sweep did a lot more for me than my own record," he said. "It was just sheer joy to see it."

The Americans' only other medal came as a poor second — some 10 yards back of the East German women's world record 4:07.95 in the 400-meter medley relay. Shirley Babashoff, Fountain Valley, Calif., swimming the freestyle leg, won a duel with Canada's Anne Jardin, to give the United States the silver.

"It was our first," said East Germany's Kornelia Ender, one of the products of a concentrated government athletic training effort. She left unsaid the obvious fact that it won't be their last. The East German women hold world records in 12 of the 13 Olympic swimming events.

The American basketball team, which lost its only Olympic game in the controversial finals at Munich in 1972, started the road back with a convincing, 106-86 victory over Italy, a team that beat Olympic defending champion Russia in the European championships.

"I'm sure Russia has to be awed with what they say today," said center Mike Kupchak of North Carolina, who tossed in 19 points. Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame scored 20 and Scott May of Indiana 16 as the Americans ran up a lead that reached 30 points at one time.

"I was surprised with the ease with which we won," said Coach Dean Smith.

The Russians were undismayed, however, and rolled over Mexico 120-77.

In another game, Czechoslovakia whipped Egypt 103-64. The Egyptian players took the court just moments before their government in Cairo ordered the team home, making it the 27th to pull out of these politically-plagued Games.

Graham Gives Self Pep Talk

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — David Graham felt a little tense despite a four-shot lead in the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

So, the 30-year-old Australian gave himself a little pep talk.

"Why should I think negative or be nervous or scared," Graham said he asked himself before Sunday's final round. "After all, the reason I came here was to play well. I was here to win. I was doing what I should be doing. I came to play and had as good a chance as anybody.

"Why should I be nervous or apprehensive?"

The little self-psyche job worked just fine. Graham went out Sunday, shot a par 71 and completed a 72-hole score of 12-under 272 to win the rich Westchester by three strokes. He collected $60,000 for his effort.

And to make the triumph even sweeter, Graham won with a set of clubs he designed himself.

It wasn't easy. The Westchester was a designated event on the tour. That meant that all the stars had to play. With the exception of Lee Trevino, they were all at Westchester Country Club — Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Arnold Palmer, Hubert Green, Ben Crenshaw, Al Geiberger and others.

"I don't think I've ever felt better," said Graham, who now makes his home in Hollywood, Fla. "This was a big tournament from both a prestige and financial standpoint. It was my first win on national television."

Graham, whose only other victory on the U.S. tour was at Cleveland in 1972, never trailed in the four-day tourney. He shot eight-under-par 63 in the first round to tie Carlton White. He led White, Mike Wynn and Larry Ziegler by four strokes after a second-round 68, and maintained that margin with a third-round 70.

Sunday, Graham had his lead cut to two after nine holes, but he maintained his steady play while Wynn, Fuzzy Zoeller, Tom Watson and Ben Crenshaw rallied — but fell short. When it was over, Graham had a three-stroke victory over Zoeller, Watson and Crenshaw, who finished with a 20-foot eagle putt. The second place trio were at nine-under 275.

Miller, who last week won the British Open, shot a final-round 72 to finish seven strokes back at 279, along with defending champion Gene Littler. Nicklaus, never a threat over the 6,603-yard course, finished with a 68 and a 280 total. Green, the tour's top money winner was at 281.

Post To Meet Flames Tuesday

The Snyder Flames will play Post tomorrow at North Park.

The Flames boast a 11-4 record and recently copped third place in their local tourney.

The local females will use the game to prepare for the state tournament this weekend.

Snyder All-Stars Take Area Title

Snyder's Miss Softball major league All-Stars swept the Area III championship this weekend at Towle Park.

Snyder toppled Sweetwater, 24-2, to earn the title. Earlier, Sweetwater advanced to the finals in a 23-8 rout over Rotan.

The Snyder lasses dominated the contest piling up 23 hits to Sweetwater's four.

For the 'Stars, Connie Weber and Suzanne Fisher smacked two doubles and two singles. Norma Garcia blasted a double and two singles.

Pam Gray nabbed two doubles, while Josie Rios and Martha McAnelly racked up two singles.

Belinda Fuentez grabbed a triple, and Kim Harlin, Billie Owens and Jill Kidd knocked doubles. Shari Cotton and Sharon Halford cracked singles.

Sylvia Layfield was the losing hurler for Sweetwater.

Suzanne Fisher was awarded the victory for Snyder. She yielded only four hits, gave up no walks and fired seven strikeouts.

Miss Softball opens play again Friday. At 9 a.m., the 8, 9 and 10 year old females begin their state tournament at Big Spring. The mini-minor event will last two days.

The major league state tournament will be August 6-7 at Midland. So far, Snyder is in good shape for the state contest. Last week, the games were drawn, and Snyder drew a bye in the first round.

LET'S JUST PRAISE THE LORD.

Flames 3rd In Their Own Tournament

The Snyder Flames grabbed third place in the Snyder Flames Annual Women's Softball Tournament this weekend at Winston Park.

The Flames also landed three players on the All-Tournament team. Evelyn Wesley, Karen Gonzales and Regina Lewis earned berths on the star squad.

The local fems had to settle for third place in the tourney via a 6-3 loss to Odessa's VFW Saturday afternoon.

In the loss, Blanche Gentry racked up two singles. Karen Gonzales and Kathy Weber clubbed doubles, while Evelyn Wesley and Vanessa White cracked singles.

Kathy Weber was charged with the loss.

The Flames now sport a 11-4 season record.

Midland's Chargers walloped Odessa's VFW, 14-2, for the championship.

The Flames plan to journey to Midland for the state softball tourney Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Finances are low, and the local girls need help to defray expenses. Anyone wishing to help the Flames can contact R.G. Nelson, Albert Lewis or any Flame player.

Carty Believes DH Has To Much Time To Think

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Yogi Berra must have been right when he once wondered how a guy could hit and think at the same time. Rico Carty, you see, does both .. but not at the same time.

Four or five times a game, Carty wields his big bat as Cleveland's designated hitter, with an occasional turn at first base. But most of the time when the Indians are in the field he's only a spectator.

"You have too much time to think on the bench," Carty said Sunday after leading the Indians to a 6-1 triumph over the Minnesota Twins with a pair of two-run homers and a single. "Oh, I know the designated hitter rule has probably kept me in the game, but I don't like it."

Carty's slugging display powered the Indians past Baltimore and Detroit into second place in the American League East ... but 11½ games behind the New York Yankees, who lost to Texas 3-2 in 12 innings as the Rangers snapped a 10-game losing streak.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Royals dumped the Boston Red Sox 6-3, the Oakland A's battered the Detroit Tigers 10-1, the California Angels outlasted the Baltimore Orioles 8-6 and the Chicago White Sox clobbered the Milwaukee Brewers 13-3.

The 35-year-old Carty blasted his first homer in the third inning off Jim Hughes and belted his second in the fifth off Tom Burgmeier. The Twins didn't get him out until Burgmeier fanned him in the seventh.

While Carty supplied the power with his ninth and 10th homers and boosted his average to .301, reliever Stan Thomas won his first start of the season. Thomas, who has been used almost exclusively as a reliever since coming to the majors during the 1974 season, allowed eight hits and struck out seven.

Rangers 3, Yankees 2

Juan Beniquez' bloop single with two out in the 12th inning following an intentional walk to Mike Hargrove enabled Texas to snap its 10-game skid behind Steve Hargan's brilliant pitching. The Rangers tied the score on Lenny Randle's run-scoring single off New York relief ace Sparky Lyle with two out in the ninth and then beat him three innings later.

Royals 6, Red Sox 3

George Brett slammed a two-run homer and Marty Pattin, making his second start of the season, pitched seven strong innings to lead the Royals past the fading Red Sox. The defeat, Boston's fourth in a row and fifth in the six-game Kansas City series, left the defending AL champions floundering in fifth place in the AL East, 13 games from the top.

A's 10, Tigers 1

Don Baylor and Sal Bando drove in three runs apiece and Gene Tenace homered for Oakland while Paul Mitchell and Paul Lindblad teamed up to pitch a seven-hitter. Oakland broke open a 1-1 deadlock with a four-run fifth inning as Baylor doubled home the first two runs, Joe Rudi singled Baylor home and Bando hit an RBI double.

Angels 8, Orioles 6

Dave Collins singled home the tie-breaking run in a six-inning rally and Tony Solaita drove in three runs with a homer and single as California overcame four RBI by Baltimore's Reggie Jackson, including his 11th homer, a three-run blast that gave the Orioles a 5-4 leadin the fifth inning.

White Sox 13, Brewers 3

Lamar Johnson walloped a pair of upper deck home runs — his first homers of the season — and Kevin Bell and Bill Stein added three-run homers to power Chicago over Milwaukee ace Bill Travers.

Johnson's first home run came in the opening inning with two men aboard and, after Bell hit his fifth homer in the second inning, Johnson blasted another to kayo Travers.

Rankin Says $200,000 Is Possible

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Judy Rankin says reaching the $200,000 plateau in single-season money winnings is "possible, but not probable," and she could be on her way to that mark.

She boosted her season's earnings to $110,614 with her victory Sunday in the $70,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Columbus Classic, and the season is barely half over.

"It would take an awful lot to do it (reach $200,000)," the 31-year-old Midland, Tex., resident said after adding a 67 to rounds of 68 and 70 for an 11-under-par 205 on the 6,200-ard Riviera Country Club course.

She finished five strokes ahead of Patty Bradley and Hollis Stacy.

The U.S. Open tennis championships to be played at Forest Hills, N.Y., Sept. 1-12 offer $415,500 in prize money.

Deadline For Tourney Near

Entry deadline for the District 7 Slow Pitch Regional Qualifying Tournament will be tomorrow night at 9 p.m.

The tourney will be held July 23-24 at Stanton. Entry fee is $50 per team.

The first two finishers advance to the state tourney at Killeen. The next two will progress to a Class A tourney at Midland.

Aquilar Is Named Top Track Coach

FORT WORTH (AP) — Pat Aquilar of Abilene High School won over Scott Boyd of Lampasas as state high school Track Coach of the Year in voting by members of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Aquilar, whose team won the 4A state championship, gathered 540 points and 29 first place votes in the preferential balloting. Boyd had 20 first place votes and 430 points. His team captured the 3A state championship behind the sensational running of Olympian Johnny Jones.

Proper care for high pressure

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has high blood pressure. He takes medicine for it, which necessitates the intake of extra potassium. He gets this through medicine, oranges and bananas. He seems content with this arrangement, but I keep wondering if it is really necessary to continue this way the rest of his life. Is there no way to bring down blood pressure? And as long as he continues to take medicine how can they know if his blood pressure is still high without it? He is 37 years old, 5 feet 6, and weighs 182 to 190 pounds. Also are there other ways of getting potassium than a banana a day? He hates them!

DEAR READER — You didn't say how high your husband's blood pressure really is. Usually it is necessary for a person who really needs medicine to keep the blood pressure down to continue to take it. The exception would be the person who alters his life style in some manner, such as weight reduction, that helps solve the blood pressure problem.

I suspect your husband could help lower his blood pressure. Unless he is very muscular he is far too heavy. I have always been impressed with what adequate weight reduction can do to lower high blood pressure in many people. I would think your husband may be 40 to 50 pounds overweight, maybe more. He might not need to take so much medicine, or the potassium because of the medicine, if the basic weight problem were under control. Anyone who has any evidence of fat deposits around the waist or small of the back and also has high blood pressure should lose weight until he is really lean, regardless of how many pounds that means he has to lose.

I am sending you The Health Letter 1-8, Blood Pressure, to give you more information on what blood pressure means and why it is important to control it. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The higher the blood pressure the more likely a person is to develop fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries. These can cause strokes or heart attacks. A lot of the success in decreasing the incidence of heart attacks in recent years is from the control and more effective treatment of high blood pressure, so it is very important. Strokes have decreased about 29 per cent in the past 20 years because of a combination of measures, including controlling blood pressure.

The obesity not only elevates the blood pressure but often is associated with a high level of fatty-cholesterol particles in the bloodstream. Losing weight will help lower the fatty-cholesterol levels as well as lower blood pressure.

You can get potassium from milk and you can also get lots of potassium from orange juice. Perhaps your husband would prefer to drink more orange juice and eat fewer bananas. In any case I would strongly recommend that his calories be cut to the point that he gets his weight down and keeps it down.

Since his risk of an early heart attack or stroke is increased because of his blood pressure and probably because of his weight I hope he is not also smoking. Cigarette smoking is bad enough anyway but when combined with high blood pressure it greatly increases the odds of a major health problem or even sudden death.

Weds Fourth Time

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Tammy Wynette, whose hit songs include "Stand by Your Man," has wed for a fourth time.

With about 100 persons watching, Miss Wynette was married Sunday to Nashville real estate executive Michael Tomlin. The ceremony took place in a natural ampitheater below her house.

As she appeared, escorted by her stepfather Foy Lee, a recording of her singing "Hawaiian Wedding Song" was played.

Her most recent marriage, which ended in divorce in 1975, was to country music singer George Jones.

Herons Like City Life

DALLAS (AP) — A group of swooping, graceful herons, normally at home over a quiet foggy marsh or shimmering lake, have taken on man and his polluting automobiles, towering buildings and fanfare of urban living in a small section of North Dallas.

The long, sleek heron, the little blue heron, the yellow crowned night heron and the snowy egret return each spring to a small tract of woods sitting in one of the most densely developed areas of Dallas.

For 10 years now about 3,000 herons have come to this heronry, or rookery, to nest and rear their young. In the early morning and late evening, they can be seen in the tops of the dense cedar, elm, hackberry and cottonwood trees.

Their nearest neighbor is the University of Texas Health Science Center, which continually threatens the rookery with its expansion of buildings, lighted jogging paths, tennis courts and a new road.

Ornithologists who have studied them say they herons apparently like the city life and are willing to put up with considerable discomfort to maintain their high-rise, inner-city neighborhood.

The attitude of the people around them varies.

"A lot of people enjoy seeing the birds," says Mike Love, business manager for the nearby Callier Center for Communications Disorders, "and a lot of people would enjoy seeing them go."

Love said the Callier Center maintenance crew daily has to clean up bird droppings from the children's playground.

The herons also leave their mark on the green asphalt UT tennis courts.

Occasionally they are noisy, and if the wind is right and the temperature high, parts of the sprawling medical complex smell like the bottom of a bird cage.

As the UT Science Center, begun in 1971, slowly expands, a number of environmentalists have been concerned the expansion would force the birds away.

"If your community wishes for the birds to remain," Texas A&M Orinthologist Ray C. Telfair II wrote the administration of the health science center, "and, if indeed, it is not already too late because of the incursions made by the building program, I suggest that all activity be stopped near and especially in the rookery and that people and machines be kept away from that area from early spring through the entire breedings season until the birds begin their fall migration."

To be fair, the medical complex should not be looked upon completely as a villain.

Health science center officials did delay construction of an access through the area until late last summer after the birds had hatched their young.

The birds are also protected by the campus security men who keep away youngsters and their BB guns.

"They are the only birds with their own police force," says the center's information director Bob Fenley. He is among those on campus who love the herons. There are blown-up photographs of them all over his office.

In fact, he used to have a telescope mounted in his office to watch them until some friends jokingly pointed out that the nearby Texas Women's University dormitory was within its sights also.

The lifestyle of the herons may not be as fragile as some orinthologists believe, since each year they return in growing numbers to the hectic urban life around them.

"For some odd reason," says Telfair, "they do not live down in the river bottoms where they feed and where they would be away from people. I really don't know why. They derive nothing from the city and they are subject to constant harassment."

Successor For Wilkins Hunted

SEATTLE (AP) — A search is underway for a successor to Roy Wilkins, long-time executive director of the NAACP, even though Wilkins is balking at the idea of retirement, says Margaret Bush Wilson, board chairman of the group.

Wilkins' successor probably won't be known until a September board meeting, she said. "We have a flexible timetable. The deadline for applications was June 1."

Wilkins told the convention of the National Association of the Advancement of Colored People two weeks ago in Memphis, Tenn., that he wants to remain in office at least through next summer, despite a board announcement that he would retire Jan. 1.

The aardvark receives its name from two Dutch words meaning "earth" and "pig." Its body is shaped much like a pig's and it spends its days curled up in a hole in the ground.

Stutterer Suffers Never-Ending Fear

By BEN PATRUSKY
For The Associated Press

Like most people, I've got a secret, a shameful one. Unfortunately, unlike most, I can't keep mine.

I stutter — stammer — whatever the term is for what I do. What I do is block. A word becomes a wall and I'm unable to scale it. I'm suddenly — momentarily — pinned to that wall, caught in a frozen scream.

Over the years, I've learned how to keep my secret better, how to hide it more effectively. But it is, nevertheless, my constant, grim companion.

Always, danger lurks. Somewhere that dread, mocking imp crouches, ever ready to pounce and deliver an exquisitely timed kick to the shins, certain to screw things up, then to disappear. So I remain a shade off balance. I can never be sure.

Well, almost never. Give me a chance to sing and you'll never hear a stutterer's pause out of me. Don't ask me why.

I know a lot of tricks to cut down on the chances of my secret getting out. For example:

—I will sometimes tell jokes with visual, rather than verbal, punch-lines — more Marcel Marceau than Henny Youngman.

—I will postpone a phone call until the danger is past, and I feel my secret is safe within me again.

—I won't accept guest spots on the Johnny Carson, Merv Griffin or Today shows. Never mind that they've never asked me to appear.

If you met me, you wouldn't necessarily find out I stutter, or whatever it is I do. I've fooled people. I know how to camouflage. A dangerous word coming up? Quick, use another one. Experts say some stutterers have pretty good vocabularies. Surely, the dodging, substituting, is the reason.

If speaking were tennis, I'd dance around my weak backhand to favor my more sure forehand.

What's it like to stutter? Think of yourself on the highway. It's dark. You're in a hurry. No traffic. You squeeze on the gas. Suddenly, out of nowhere, directly in front of you, looms the terrifying back of a huge truck. Horror.

Slam on the brakes. Spin the wheel, swerve, pray. Anything — anything to keep from colliding.

The truck is the word that looms ahead of a stutterer. You can't always tell what word it will be. But suddenly you see one that could spell trouble. Is it too late to dodge?

The collision doesn't kill. But you die a little. Because it produces the worst godawful feelings of ... shame.

That's the worst of it: the shame. Time stops. You're stranded, breathless, eyes agog, throat muscles taut, mouth contorted — a demonic being fighting strangulation, struggling to rediscover the sound of its voice. All this time you are acutely aware of the eyes of others watching you — and you have no place to hide.

And this breeds, in the mind of a stutterer, the latent terror, the fear that you may blow in a critical moment. Like blocking on "I do." Or losing valuable time reporting a fire or a burglary or a homicide. Or choking on the call you may have to make when your wife's in labor or your child is feverishly ill or when someone is having a heart attack. Or freezing on words like "duck" or "watch out."

You worry about other things. About how others perceive you in your perplexity, especially those who are new to your secret. Is it pity? Sympathy? Mockery? Or their own discomfort?

Stumble on a word, an obvious word. Kind hearts help out, saying the word for you, seeking to break this moment of twisted, tortured silence. They mean well. But you resent it, resent their glibness, their patronizing. They aren't being glib or patronizing, of course, but your shame makes you angry and defensive.

I remember the first days of elementary school when every pupil took his turn introducing himself. How my gut scorched as my turn drew nearer. Would I say my name okay? I closed my eyes and braced myself for titters. Sometimes I got by uneventufully. Other times, no. A residue of that fear remains at age 40, as fresh as it was then. Will I have trouble announcing myself when I place this call, when I attend that party?

Things are much, much better now. Once I could barely talk. Not so today. I lead a very verbal life, reasonably trouble free. I seem to have my imp under reasonable control. Maybe he's just slowed down with age.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN—Texas consumers should be wary of a new type of deceptive trade practice involving the sale of "rights to manufacture" products such as small decorator items, wall plaques, coasters, and sailboats.

Reports of consumer problems with such promotions by a few unscrupulous companies have surfaced not only in Texas, our attorneys note, but in at least eight other states as well.

Our Consumer Protection Division recently filed lawsuits against two such companies alleging that they were selling Texas consumers the "right to manufacture" products for which there is no retail market. Since no market exists, we allege the sale of a "right to manufacture" the products is a deceptive trade practice.

Some promoters of this new "investment opportunity" exploit consumers belief in the need to work hard to make a profit. Typically, salesmen of such manufacturing rights will tell prospects that they can only succeed in the business by spending long hours at the work of manufacturing and by being willing to invest their own hard-earned cash.

This type of approach strikes a responsive chord in persons who have no desire to "get something for nothing." And by using such an approach, salesmen for some companies throw consumers off guard, making them less cautious than they ordinarily might be.

Contracts used in these schemes appear to make the investment foolproof. For instance, nearly all of the contracts have a provision by which the company will buy back all or most all of the products produced by each manufacturer. And the comtracts usually say the company will refund the initial investment of the manufacturer as specified production levels are reached, so that by the end of a year the consumer is "assured of getting most, if not all," of his or her money back.

The problem with the agreements is that the money to buy back the manufacturer's production and to refund the investment is obtained from the sale of more "rights to manufacture" contracts, rather than from retail sales of the goods manufactured. As a result, the plan is an endless chain of sales of manufacturing positions with no money coming into the companies from any source other than the manufactureres.

Our attorneys say there is no guaranteed way to protect yourself against this type of scheme. The best advice is to try to find out as much about the company and its personnel as possible.,

In particular, it's extremely important to demand details as to how and to whom the products manufactured will be sold, because unless there is a market for the product, you will be wasting your investment money.

If you have a consumer complaint about sellers of such "rights to manufacture," get in touch with the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

IUE Talks Continue To Halt Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Labor Secretary W.J. Usery met with negotiators into the pre-dawn hours today in an effort to halt a nationwide electrical workers' strike against Westinghouse Electric Corp.

He said both sides had assured him of a good-faith effort to reach a speedy agreement.

The session began at 10 a.m. Sunday, 10 hours after 22,000 members of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and 6,500 members of the United Electrical Workers union (UE) left their jobs.

The talks continued past midnight Sunday, end into the early morning. There was no word from either side on what transpired.

Union negotiators were attempting to match a recently approved General Electric Co. contract, which provides pay raises totaling about $1.10 per hour over three years and virtually unlimited cost-of-living protection.

Westinghouse said its latest offer matches and in some ways exceeds the GE settlement, while the unions said the company has been "chiseling" through subtle changes.

Westinghouse employes now average $5.15 per hour.

Meanwhile, the company announced plant-level agreements with local bargaining units at four locations.

Members of the IUE and UE walked out after having worked one week under a contract extension. They joined about 15,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) who had been on strike since an old contract expired July 11.

While the full effects of the strike weren't felt during the weekend, a Westingouse spokesman said it involved more than half of the company's 165 manufacturing plants and service facilities Westinghouse had asked non-striking employes to report for work as scheduled today.

Stolen Securities Are Recovered

FORT WORTH (AP) — Authorities have recovered an estimated $2 million worth of securities stolen in 1968 from the Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Officers from four intelligence agencies took two men into custody Saturday night at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and seized a briefcase full of the securities. One of the men was later released.

The recovered securities were part of a shipment which disappeared between New York and Chicago in 1968, said Timothy R. James, agent in charge of the Texas attorney general's organized crime division.

Members of the state attorney general's office, the D-FW airport's police intelligence division, and officials of the Tarrant and Dallas Counties specialized crimes units worked on the probe, which they said had been underway for two months.

Authorities said the scheme was part of a highly sophisticated, major organized crime operation extending across the Southeast.

The men, both from Miami, were stopped as they boarded a Miami-bound flight in the Braniff terminal.

David Pimberton, 39, appeared Sunday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Floyd Gray in Fort Worth and was charged with possession of a forged instrument. Bond was set at $100,000 and Pimberton was remanded to the Tarrant County jail.

Authorities said the scheme allegedly operated by the men was part of a highly sophisticated organized crime operation extending across the southeastern United States.

The FBI had been involved in chasing the stolen securities for eight years, James said. He said small numbers of securities started showing up on the market several years after they disappeared.

Securities have been seized in Miami, New York, Cleveland, Los Angeles and Chicago.

Officials said Pimberton was carrying a black briefcase containing 1,385 common stock certificates, each made out for 75 shares.

The certificates, blank when stolen, had been filled out as if authorized, officials said.

They said such certificates would be used for collateral for obtaining money from lending institutions.

Rep. Hays Returns To Washington

BELMONT, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays returns to Washington today for the first time since he was hospitalized for an overdose of sleeping pills taken at his farm here.

The 65-year-old Democrat, the central figure in the congressional payroll sex scandal, returns stripped of his chairmanship of the House Administration Committee.

Hays' physician, Dr. Richard Phillips, said the congressman "is looking and feeling good and is pretty much back to normal. He's just doing fine. He's all ready to go to work."

Hays has said that the overdose on June 10 was accidental, resulting from his inability to sleep and nervousness. He said he took at least six Dalmane tablets and perhaps as many as eight after awakening three times during the night.

A spokesman for the House Ethics Committee, which began an investigation of Hays' admitted "personal relationship" with Elizabeth Ray, said the committee has no action planned this week. A Justice Department investigation also is continuing.

Miss Ray has charged that Hays kept her on the government payroll with her only duties being to serve as his mistress. He has denied the accusation.

On June 18, his final day at Barnesville Hospital, Hays sent a letter to the Democratic leadership in Washington announcing his resignation as chairman of the Administration Committee. He indicated he might try to regain the post later.

Hays has said that he has no plans to resign from the House but will seek re-election to a 15th term in the November general election.

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

Gregory Peck has always starred in every film he has played. Born April 5, 1916, Gregory originally intended to become a doctor. He turned to Drama and spent 4 years studying and working in the theatre before he was signed to "Days of Glory". A native-born Californian, Gregory is married to Veronique Passani, a French newspaper writer. Seldom seen in night spots, he prefers the comforts of home.

MAURICE: I was surprised to learn that you sometimes suffer with a weight problem. How do you control it?

PECK: I'm often confronted with a weight problem just before starting a film....like a boxer before a fight. Usually I only need to lose about ten pounds, which I can do in two to three weeks....mainly by dieting and exercise with a trainer. The exercise involves about an hour a day on a slant-board or with barbells. The diet is a strict seafood regimen...shrimp, lobster, fish. I like seafood, so dieting is no great hardship. I keep away from fruit, bread, desserts, eat a few vegetables, but no salad dressings, and no alcohol, except maybe a glass of wine with dinner.

MAURICE: Would you be kind enough to tell the story of how you and former President Nixon met?

PECK: Oh, you know about that! Yes, I was standing in a reception line waiting to meet the President. When he came to me he seemed happy to recognize me and said how much he had enjoyed the movie "Friendly Persuasion". Suddenly, I realized he thought I was Gary Cooper. He went on and on, telling me how they'd run the film several times at the White House and how he had enjoyed it each time he saw it. It was a dilemma and there didn't seem to be any good way of getting out of it. So I decided I wouldn't say anything. I knew he would eventually find out that Gary Cooper had been dead for 12 years but I wasn't going to be the one to tell him. As the President passed on down the receiving line, I noticed my friend and party host John Wayne who was looking at me strangely. I then realized that Duke had overheard my conversation with President Nixon and he too had chosen to keep silent. After the party I leaned over to Duke and whispered 'When you give a cocktail party, you sure have famous guests come even if some of them are dead.'

MAURICE: Was Richard Nixon the first person to ever mistake you for another actor?

PECK: Oh no! So far I've been taken for Rock Hudson and Cary Grant. It doesn't bother me though. I don't have that kind of vanity. One thing I do insist on however. No matter whose autograph I'm asked for, I always give my own.

MAURICE: What advice would you give young people today?

PECK: I think every young person should undertake a venture to test himself. For example to climb a mountain to go to Outer Mongolia and do something like that. Every kid who has the chance should get out, put a challenge to himself, stand on his own feet and find out who he is.

MAURICE: When you were young, did you ever undertake an adventure?

PECK: Sure did, I once crossed the United States on a freight train, riding the rails living the life as a hobo. I was 18 years old at the time and I wouldn't have given up that experience for anything in the world. I believe that if you want to live life to the fullest, you have to seek challenge.

MAURICE: How would Gregory Peck describe himself?

PECK: I may be pushing 60, but I like to think I can still pull a few surprises out of the bag.

On April 26, 1962, the United States hit the moon for the first time when spacecraft Ranger IV struck the surface after a 64-hour flight from Cape Canaveral.

"We'll have to move, Mom — I've been traded!"

Texas Violence Toll Is Grim

By The Associated Press

Violence which rode streets and highways took a steady toll but deaths from assorted other causes accounted for nearly as many fatalities in Texas during the weekend.

The Associated Press tabulated reports of 28 violent deaths between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday. These included 15 in traffic accidents, seven homicides, three in a fire, two drownings and one electrocution.

Arson investigators said a fire in a Houston townhouse that killed three persons started Saturday in electrical wiring of a downstairs bedroom. Officials identified the dead as Tim Shoeder, 21; his wife Judy, 21, and Richard Floyd Brandon, 22.

Billy Ray Jordan, 19, was shot and killed Sunday night in a Dallas barroom fracas, police said.

Jesus Rodriguez, 26, Clint, was killed Sunday night when his motorcycle ran off a farm road near that far West Texas town and hit a mail box and a concrete culvert.

Daniel Reyes drowned Sunday in the San Antonio River at San Antonio.

Mary Nipt, 70, a widow, was found beaten to death with a clothes hanger Sunday in her home in the Pleasant Grove section of Dallas. Police said the room had been ransacked and her purse was empty.

Walter A. Anderson, 16, Corpus Christi, was killed Sunday when his motorcycle ran off a road in Corpus Christi.

John Henry Jones, 74, Dallas, was stabbed to death early Sunday, police reported, after an argument in his home. Officers arrested a woman, 67.

Kenneth R. Culver, 19, Arlington, and Phoebe Ishmael, 19, Irving, were struck and killed in their car by a train at a Grand Prairie crossing.

Reynaldo H. Dominguez and Mary Rodriguez, both 37 and from Mercedes, died in a car-motorcycle collision on U.S. 77 near Sarita in South Texas.

Authorities said Sourost Sabet, 20, Houston, drowned Saturday off Stewart Beach near Galveston.

A head-on collision Saturday in Texas City killed Lewis Paul Jones, 54, Crystal Beach, and Melvin Driscoll, 36, Texas City.

Two Laneville brothers were killed Friday night when their car and a tractor-trailer rig collided near Henderson. They were David Dwayne Weaver, 16, and Jay Weaver, 11. A third brother, 15, was injured.

Gary M. Moody, 24, Borger, was electrocuted Friday night while working on a 220-volt power line, authorities said.

Officers said a Ft. Hood soldier, J.L. Harkrider, 20, died in a three-car collision three miles west of Killeen early Saturday.

Donald Wayne Rhodes was killed early Saturday near Bluffdale in West Central Texas when his car ran off the road, police said.

Authorities said Elena Alonso-Angeles, 68, died in a Houston hospital Saturday after being struck by a car at Arcola, southwest of Houston.

Two Houston men were shot to death in altercations Friday night. Police said Clarence Riley, 31, died of a gunshot wound in the head suffered during an argument in a Houston apartment. W.C. Taylor, 23, died after being shot in a Houston club.

William Larmar Griffin, 17, of Snyder was killed and three others suffered injuries Friday night in Coleman County in a two-car accident, officers said.

Proferio Martinez, 38, of Slayton died after being shot in the Posey community southeast of Lubbock.

William Thomas Strong, 22, of Dallas was killed late Friday when his motorcycle crashed into the center guard rail on a Dallas freeway.

Police said Annie Powell, 70, was strangled by an unknown assailant Friday night in her South Dallas apartment.

Georgia, 58,876 square miles in area, is the largest state east of the Mississippi.

Thunderstorms Are Widespread

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms spread today from the Upper Mississippi Valley, across the Northern Plains and into the Northern and Central Rockies.

Isolated storms also hit parts of Louisiana, Texas and along the South Atlantic Coast.

There was mostly clear weather from the northeast quarter of the nation, across the Middle Mississippi Valley and into Kansas and Oklahoma.

Cool temperatures lingered from the Ohio Valley to the Northern and Middle Atlantic states.

Partly cloudy weather prevailed through the western part of the country except for some overcast skies along the Pacific Coast.

Terrorists Responsible In Blasts

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Left-wing terrorists, angered because their comrades are to be excluded from the next government amnesty, were responsible for bomb explosions in seven Spanish cities Sunday, Interior Minister Rodolfo Martin Villa said.

Seven persons were injured by the bombs, which exploded on the 40th anniversary of the military revolt led by Gen. Francisco Franco that developed into the Spanish Civil War.

There were eight explosions in Madrid, one each in Bilbao, Barcelona, Segovia, Seville and Vigo, and three in Franco's hometown, El Ferrol del Caudillo. The targets included headquarters of the government trade union and the National Movement (the Franco political party) and monuments to the war dead on the Franco side.

Five Perish In Plane Crash

WEST MILFORD, N.J. (AP) — Five persons were killed when a single-engine private plane crashed 700 feet short of a runway and exploded into flames near a drive-through animal park.

Louis Faber, 52, a fifth-grade teacher from Sayville, N.Y., was piloting the white Beechcraft Bonanza on Sunday when it hit treetops, flipped and crashed in a woods about 50 yards off a former access road to Jungle Habitat.

Also killed were Michael Cavale, 31, of Smithtown, N.Y.; his son, Michael Jr., 6,; John Furrevig, 44, an auto mechanic from Deer Park, N.Y.; and Charles Digiorgio, 41, a construction worker from Huntington Station, N.Y.

Both Cavale and Digiorgio were also licensed pilots. Faber was described by a friend as an experienced pilot who had flown for more than 20 years.

The group left Islip-MacArthur Airport in Islip, N.Y., Sunday morning and was flying to Pennsylvania to pick up Cavale's plane, which had been undergoing repairs in Honesdale.

At the Battle of Chalons, 451 A.D., Attila the Hun was defeated by the Romans.
