Russians May Revive Joint Four-Power Rule

To Boost Demands For German Peace

BERLIN, May 29 —UP— Russia was reported Friday by usually well informed sources to be planning to call for revival of four-power Allied rule over Germany.

It was the Soviets who broke off the post-war U.S., British, French and Soviet joint rule of defeated Germany by dramatically walking out of the Allied Control Council on March 20, 1948 in what is generally accepted as the Kremlin's delaration of its "cold war" on the west.

Sources close to the Soviet Control Commission, which was disbanded Thursday by the Kremlin, said the new Soviet "supreme commissar" of high commissioner for Germany, Vladimir Semenov, will call for the revival of quadripar- office.

The Soviets, these sources said, would use such a revived control council as a forum for a Russian demand for German unification and conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany on basis of the Potsdam agreement.

If the western powers reject the demand, either for the restoration of four-power rule, for reunification and a German peace treaty, these sources said, the Soviets will conclude a separate peace with an "all-German representation."

The separate peace agreement would be with the East German Communist regime, but would lay claim to acting for all Germany, these sources said.

Semenov was named Soviet high commissioner for Germany Thursday in a reshuffle of the Soviet occupation setup in Germany which transfered it from military to civilian control.

Gen. Vassily I. Chuikov, chief of the disbanded Soviet Control Commission, remains commander of Soviet troops which will remain in East Germany as an occupying force.

Choi Says Reds Want Forced POW Returns

SEOUL, May 29 —UP— The South Korean delegate on the United Nations truce team said Friday the Communists summarily rejected the UN's new proposal handed to them May 25.

A spokesman for Gen. Choi Duk Son said the South Korean delegate, who boycotted the Monday meeting, had access to the record of the session.

Choi's disclosures were made when he released the text of a letter he wrote to Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, chief UN delegate, protesting the UN stand. Choi and Harrison talked together for over an hour at Munsan Thursday.

"Judging from the enemy's rebuttal right after our proposal of May 25, we are more convinced that the enemy's real intention is to attempt a forced repatriation of prisoners of war," Choi said in his letter.

'Unexpected Action'

Gen. Nam Il, the chief Communist delegate, rejected the UN plan to turn prisoners rejecting repatriation over to the United Nations organization, "which is a belligerent itself."

Choi said Nam Il termed this "inconceivable."

He said it is "not practical" to bring foreign troops into South Korea to guard prisoners even with the consent of the ROK government.

He warned that "unexpected violent action" might be taken against them.

This was in reference to the Communist proposal for bringing troops of the five neutral nations, including Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia, into South Korea. The UN was believed to have agreed with the plan.

Meanwhile, South Korean President Syngman Rhee abruptly left his tense capital as his war-wrecked country served notice publicly it will ignore any truce based on the new Allied formula.

South Korean Bucks Plan

The rebellious Rhee went to his summer retreat at Chinhae on Korea's south coast. He was expected to summon his cabinet there Saturday to plan the next move if South Korea formally withdraws from the truce talks when they resume at Panmunjom on Monday.

Rhee voiced violent objections to any truce which would leave Korea divided or permit Chinese Communists to remain on Korean soil.

Korean sources said President Eisenhower must act quickly to prevent a situation wherein the tough Allied-trained South Korean army would disregard a cease-fire agreed to by both sides in the war.

Rhee's decision was revealed by official sources generally and by acting Premier Pyun Yung Tae in a fiery speech before the national assembly Thurday night.

"Even if the Communists accept the latest proposal and establish an armistice, it will not bind the Republic of Korea," Pyun said. "Our government will never accept."

MRS. LILLIE L. SIMPSON
. . . in critical condition

Mother Badly Hurt In Shooting Mishap

A three-year-old Pampa youngster accidentally shot and critically injured his mother this morning as she sat at the kitchen table, cutting out a dress pattern.

Mrs. Lillie L. Simpson, 31, wife of J. L. (Shorty) Simpson, 1029 Huff, was shot through the left portion of her back with a short shell from a .22-calibre revolver, held by her son in the doorway to the living room.

Suffering from shock and internal injuries, Mrs. Simpson was under the eye of Worley Hospital physicians late this morning. Her condition was considered "very serious."

First word of the accident came about 9:45 a.m. today when Mrs. Simpson rushed over to the house of her neighbor, Mrs. Ollie Wilhelm, 1033 Huff, who called a Duenkel-Carmichael ambulance.

M. C. Simpson, Mrs. Simpson's son, found the gun under the bed and was playing with it when it went off, according to an older daughter, Winona Faye Simpson. Witness to the mishap was Linda Joyce Simpson, five - year - old daughter of Mrs. Simpson.

Shortly after the shooting, Simpson — a local mechanic — told Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard in the hospital that he didn't even know the gun was in the house. It has been established that the gun belonged to C. J. Dalton, Pampa, Mrs. Simpson's brother-in-law, who had placed it under the bed.

No bullet hole could be found in the blouse that Mrs. Simpson was wearing, according to Duenkel-Carmichael officials, so it is surmised that she put the blouse on after the mishap.

Within minutes of the accident report, there were both city and county law enforcement officers at the scene. On hand, beside Haggard, were Chief Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nickols, Police Chief Jim Conner, Assistant Chief J. O. Dumas and Patrolman D. L. Day.

As officers entered the Simpson home, they saw a disheveled living room and a cluster of neighborhood residents — both adults and children — out in the back.

Piecing together the accident with the help of Linda Joyce, they figured that Mrs. Simpson had been sitting at one end of the kitchen table when her son came up to the doorway, playing with the gun which he had found — and it went off.

Then Mrs. Simpson screamed that she'd been shot, Linda Joyce said, and rushed next door. Minutes later she was on her way to the hospital.

As officers left the site to further their investigation, there were still knots of Huff residents gathered here and there along the street, talking excitedly and still wondering what had happened.

Chinese Reds Push Infantrymen Back

SEOUL, Korea, Saturday, May 30 —UP— U. S. infantrymen reeled back from two strategic outposts 27 miles above Seoul Friday night as Chinese Communists hurled 20 battalions — more than 15,000 men — against a score of Allied key points along the western and east central fronts.

The powerful Red offensive, described by Eighth Army spokesman as the heaviest Communist attack in eight months, overran two of six embattled outposts on a flaming five miles front above Seoul.

Americans were driven off Elko and Carson outposts and fragmentary front line reports said a "small force" of U. S. troopers was "boxed in" by its own protective artillery fire after losing the Elko position.

Casualties 'Heavy'

Casualties among the Americans on Elko and Carson outpost were reported heavy.

One American Army spokesman described the situation above Seoul as "extremely critical."

U. S. infantrymen who went to the aid of Turkish troops, driven off Outpost Carson, were hurled back by slashing Chinese counter attacks.

The attacking Chinese were known to have paid with thousands of casualties for their victory at Carson and their continuing assaults against U. S., British, Turkish and South Korean forces holding positions called Elko, Vegas, the two Berlins and "The Hook" above Seoul, and 14 outposts on the east central front.

Turks Kill, Wound Thousands

Turkish commander Gen. Siri Acar said his men inflicted 'thousands" of casualties on attacking Chinese whom they engaged with bayonets and rifle butts, before the Turks withdrew from Carson.

The Allied lines held at all other west front points.

A light shower last night brought .07 inch precipitation to Pampa as other showers fell throughout the Panhandle.

High winds and rain at Amarillo and Borger last night interrupted West Texas-New Mexico League baseball games in those cities.

Hot weather continued throughout the state. The high was reported at Presidio, 107 degrees. Laredo reported 102 and Cotulla 100. The state's low was 54 at Salt Flat.

In Pampa, the high yesterday was 90 and the low last night was 65. The temperature at noon today in Pampa was 80.

Summery temperatures are due to remain throughout Texas over the week end with widely scattered showers.

Conscientious Escapee Back Behind Bars After 34 Years

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 29 —UP— George Austin, 59, who walked away from a Missouri prison road gang in 1919, walked back into prison Thursday and asked to serve out his sentence so he could "clear things up with God."

Prison officials were sympathetic. Parole official Benjamin Clayton said Austin's case would be taken before the parole board "immediately" and Gov. Phil M. Donnelly said possible commutation of the sentence would "depend on the type of life he's led."

Warden Ralph Eidson said he sent Austin's fingerprints to the FBI to determine if he had been in any trouble since he escaped.

Austin had served two years of a seven-year sentence for a 1917 Joplin, Mo., robbery from which he claimed Thursday he "never got a dime."

The escapee said he was converted to religion (Nazarene) in Piggott, Ark., seven years ago. He said a little girl asked him to go to church with her so she could win an attendance prize.

"Since then," he told prisos officials, " my heart's been so heavy I felt I was walking lopsided. I knew the only way I could clear myself with God was to return to finish my sentence."

Austin said he had kept out of trouble since he walked away from the road gang in the Southeast Missouri swamps and had made a living as a traveling "quick picture" photographer under the name of Bill Dale.

His partner in the 1917 holdup, Jack Horn of St. Louis, was paroled in 1919 a few months after Austin escaped.

Vet Kidnaps Sweetheart

VINITA, Okla., May 29 —UP— A 22-year-old Korean war veteran told officers here Friday he kidnaped his former sweetheart in Indiana at gunpoint two days ago "so I could take her to California and marry her."

He was halted near here by Oklahoma officers after his girl companion slipped a penciled note on a $1 bill to a filing station attendant that she had been kidnaped The note read:

"I have been forced at gun point. Help. Call South Bend, Indiana, 6-9124 collect. Please."

Highway Patrolman Bob Green and Vinita Police Chief Vernon Glenn arrested the veteran, Dwight Robert Baney, 22, Mishawaka, Ind., on U. S. 66 east of here Thursday in the girl's 1950 automobile

Victim Was Driving

The victim, Beverly Jean Morey, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Glenn Morey, South Bend, was driving. Baney was getting ready to take the wheel.

Miss Morey, a former Purdue University student, said she had dated Baney for about a year but turned down his marriage proposal two weeks ago. She said he asked her to carry him to the bus station at South Bend in her automobile Wednesday night. She said he pulled a pistol on her and forced her to drive away in her car. She said they had driven constantly for about 700 miles until officers stopped them Thursday.

Glenn said both Indiana authorities and the FBI were investigating the case or possible kidnaping charges.

"He admitted it all right, Glenn said. He just said, 'I was in love with her and I made her ride with me so I could take her to California and marry her'."

'Sorta Mixed Up'

"He's sorta mixed up," Glenn continued. "I don't think he's as much a criminal as he is mixed up in love or something. The boy served in the Army three years. The federal officers are checking into his record there."

Officers found a .32 caliber pistol in the back seat when thec stopped the car Thursday. The pistol was not loaded, but Baney carried bullets for it in his pocket, Glenn said.

Nebraska Flooded

Tornados Strike In Kansas, Wyoming

By UNITED PRESS

Residents of two towns cleaned up debris Friday left in the wake of small tornadoes that riped out power and communication lines and felled tree branches.

A small tornado splintered windows and sent roofs flying in Liberal, Kan. Another brief twister tore up power and communication lines in Newcastle, Wyo.

Nebraska residents mopped up from a minor siege of floods which followed heavy rains in the south central area. The flooding occurred in the Republican river watershed and was not too severe. Officials said the rain was "badly needed anylay" for crops in the area.

No deaths or injuries were reported in Newcastle, but the power failure blacked out the community of 3,500 persons for more than two hours.

The small twister that hit Liberal flattened a new cafe under construction and bounced along a 30 unit motel, lifting the roofs of most of the units.

There was a report of tornado activity in West Texas with winds up to 65 miles per hour. A severe thunderstorm smashed at Dalhart, Tex., in the Texas Panhandle.

At Pecos, Tex., 320 miles south of Dalhart, insurance agents said damage from a violent hailstorm and wind late Wednesday and early Thursday caused an estimated $650,000 damage in Reeves county, mostly to cotton crops.

Hailstones the size of golf balls cut a 10 miles swatch in 3,500 acres of cotton in the area.

Coupled with the hailstorms was a heat wave which sent temperatures soaring to 107 degrees at Presidio, Tex.

Elsewhere in the nation showers and thundershowers spilled down on the western Great Plains from Kansas to North Dakota and from North Dakota eastward into Minnesota.

DR. WILLIS M. TATE
. . . speaks to seniors

Pampa's Seniors Awarded Diplomas

"Life is a matter of choice and the choice one makes determines his destiny," Dr. Willis M. Tate, vice-president, Southern Methodist University, Dallas, told Pampa's 163 graduating seniors and patrons at high school commencement exercises in a packed field house Thursday night.

Using as his topic "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve," scripture from the Book of Joshua, Dr. Tate told the class that the right to choose is the essence of democracy and religion.

He charged the seniors never to let their lives get so full of "good things" or "better things" when they can fill them with "the best."

The "best things," he said," never scream and clamor to get in, but must be sought."

In conclusion Dr. Tate quoted the scripture, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and all these other things shall be added unto you."

Following the address Superintendent Knox Kinard presented diplomas to the graduates and recognized June Guill and Billy Herr as top-ranking seniors. Miss Guill was awarded valedictorian trophy and scholarships and the annual M. K. Brown scholarship and Herr was granted salutatorian trophy and scholarships.

L. J. Edmondson, principal, and Archie A. Roberts, assistant principal, assisted Kinard in the presentation of awards and diplomas.

Processional and recessional music included "Knightsbridge March" and "Land of Hope and Glory" by the high school band and a flute solo, "By the Brook" was presented by Charlotte Call, accompanied by Miss Guill.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver, First Baptist Church, gave the invocation for the ceremony and Rev. Lyle C. Albright, Churgh of the Brethren, the benediction.

The graduating class sang "Dear Old Pampa High School," the school song.

Air Arm Too Small For Home Defense

WASHINGTON, May 29 —UP— Gen. Nathan F. Twining, President Eisenhower's choice to head the Air Force, has warned Congress he is worried about the nation's home air defenses, it was learned Friday.

Informed sources revealed that Twining told a closed meeting of the Senate Armed Services committee Thursday there definitely are not enough fighters and interceptors to protect the United States against an enemy air atack.

The disclosure, underlining his opposition to Air Force budget cuts the President has endorsed, came just before the committee approved his nomination as chief of staff.

The committee also unanimously approved: Adm. Arthur W. Radford, once a bitter Air Force critic, as chairman of the Joint Chiefs; Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff; and Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations.

Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said he would be "surprised" if there is any opposition when the nominations go before the Senate for confirmation next week.

Twining's warnings on home defenses came after an earlier statement during a public committee session that appeared to put him at odds with the man who appointed him — President Eisenhower.

In an exchange with Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) — a former Air Force secretary — Twining said Air Force budget cuts, proposed by the new administration, will "delay" achievement of the 143-air wings goal he believes essential to national security.

Negro Man Dies In Gas Chamber

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 29 —UP— Ulas Quilling, 52-year-old Kansas City Negro who killed his girl friend and shot to death two bystanders, was executed in the Missouri gas chamber early Friday.

Quilling, sentenced to death for the murder of Lauvinia Julia Webb in Kansas City two years ago, was pronounced dead at 12:09 a. m., eight minutes after he entered the chamber.

He had no last words. The Rev. Estle Paul Weaver, a white Methodist minister, clasped Quilling's hands and told the condemned man goodbye.

He was executed after eleventh hour appeals for his life were turned down.

Quilling's sister, Dora Hobdy of Kansas City, visited Gov. Phil M. Donnelly Thursday afteroon seeking clemency. She also sent a letter to the prison begging that her brother's life be spared.

Two High School Girls Lose Lives In Car Accident

GILMER, Tex., May 29 —UP— An automobile occupied by six young persons on an end-of-term outing smashed into a tree along a freshly-graded dirt road between here and Gladewater, killing two Gilmer high school girls.

Four persons were injured.

Charles Hagler, who lives near the scene of the accident, told Upshur County Sheriff Orear Watson that he saw the car hit the tree Thursday and bodies "just rained out into the air."

All the occupants were thrown clear of the wreckage. Watson identified the dead as Barbara Dooling, 16-year-old daughter of Cleo Dooling of the Indian Rock community near Gilmer, and Clara Belle Dillard, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dillard, also of Indian Rock.

Watson said J. Arnold Schenault, 20, of Gladewater was driver of the automoile. Its occupants were going on a fishing trip to celebrate the last day of the school term.

One Is Burned In Fire Today

One man was hospitalized from burns in one of four fires that broke out today and yesterday, beginning at 5:40 p.m.

Damage ranged from negligible to heavy in the blazes that hit two homes, a matress company and an outside wire. Fire Chief Ernest Winborn reported.

A. T. Carpenter, of 403 N. Banks was taken to a local hospital suffering from first and second degree burns after a gas explosion knocked down all of the sheet rock in five rooms of his home. The explosion occurred at 12:10 a.m. today, Winborn said.

An accumulation of gas in either the bathroom heater or a hot water heater caused the explosion, the chief surmised.

However, there was "no fire to speak of" at the Carpenter home as a result of the explosion, Winborn added. Carpenter was reported in "fair" condition this morning by hospital attendants.

At 3:30 a.m. today flames crept through the Young's Mattress Co. at 112 N. Hobart, causing considerable damage to stock inside the building and inside walls, Winborn said.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. The building has not been used for several months, the chief said, and efforts to find the factors causing the fire turned up nothing as yet.

The first fire yesterday came when an electrical motor on a refrigerator in the home of Austin Randall, 721 N. Somerville, set off a small fire. Damage was confined to the refrigerator.

At 9:35 a.m. this morning damage by fire to electrical wiring at the rear of the Whitten Stationery Co., 117 N. Frost, was caused from a short circuit. Damage was confined, the chief said, to the wiring.

Death Toll Seen On Memorial Day

CHICAGO, May 29 —UP— The National Safety Council predicted Friday that 240 persons will be killed on the nation's highways during the Memorial Day weekend starting at 6 p.m. Friday.

The expected death rate would be as bad, and perhaps worse, than that of Memorial Day holidays in the past, a council spokesman said.

Exact comparisons were not possible because this is the first two-day Memorial Day holiday since the council started keeping casualty records on the period in 1946, the spokesman said.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, said the predicted death rate "cannot be taken lightly."

"We hope the estimate is too high, and it will be if everyone looks upon Memorial Day as an opportunity to honor the dead by protecting the living," he said.

Ordinance Noted

Business establishments operating air conditioners were warned this morning by the City Health Department to keep waste water from the conditioners from flowing through alleys or on streets.

City ordinances provide that the water shall be piped into the sewer and not allowed to run into the streets where it can form a puddle, become stagnant and turn into a mosquito breeder.

Health Inspector Lawrence West said complaints will be filed against those persons found violating the ordinance.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend:

We have some friends whose daughter will be getting married this summer. We have met the girl several times and both of us like her very much.

As the family moved here after the girl was through high school she hasn't a very wide circle of friends.

My problem is that I would like to give a shower for her. I hesitate because I am not sure the people I would invite would feel that they want to bring gifts. On the other hand I feel sorry for the girl who is having to get married without any of the fuss which means so much to young women.

My husband said that he would bet you could solve the problem for me.

So I am writing to ask you what you would do.

Mrs. H.

Dear Mrs. H.

I think that it would be a gracious gesture for you to give a party honoring your young friend. If she is planning to make her home in your city after marriage, be sure to invite young people you know who would be apt to be friends with her after she settles down there as well as their mothers.

I agree that it would be a shame for the bride-elect to miss all of the fun and parties that precede a weding in the town where she has been brought up.

However, I would not ask the guests to bring gifts. Instead give her a special gift yourself. Something for her new home would be suitable.

COMPANION

Dear Grace Friend:

I always read your column and seems it covers everything.

I would like to find a nice lady to live with us, someone that needs a good home.

I like to work during the summer months, so would be glad to pay a small salary then, but it would be nice to have someone the year round.

I have three girls, ages 5, 6 and 9. My husband is in the service so it does get lonesome in the evenings.

I hope you can print my letter so maybe some lady could find a home and I in turn could find a nice companion who likes children. It would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely

D. C.

Murder Case May Go To Jury Today

VERNON Tex., May 29 —UP— Attorneys presented summary arguments Friday in 19-year-old Earl George Robertson's trial for murder and the case was expected to go the jury by afternoon.

Testimony ended Thursday. Robertson, formerly of Floydada, Tex., and an AWOL Amarillo Air Force Base airman were charged with the robbery - murder of Victor Smith, an Amarillo service station attendant.

Joseph Paul Lucas, 20, of Tamaqua, Pa., will be tried separately next month at Colorado City, Tex. Robertson's trial also was shifted from Potter county to Vernon on change of venue.

The Texas youth was described Thursday by a Plainview, Tex., psychiatrist as a "vicious mad dog" subject to insane, unpredictable rages.

Dr. Henry Snyderman, psychiatrist at Plainview hospital and sanitarium, testified for five hours. He said he didn't believe Robertson knew right from wrong.

The defendant's father, Floyd county farmer Joe R. Robertson, also testified Thursday and said he would consent to a lobotomy operation — considered extremely dangerous — and "take a chance on his son's life" if it would "restore him to normalcy."

The state called Dr. Harvey Jackson, Potter county physician as rebuttal witness. Dr. Jackson testified that he observed Robertson regularly at Potter county jail and believed the defendant knew right from wrong and the consequence of his act.

City's Clean-Up To End Today

Special clean-up crews for the city neared the 200-load mark today as they counted an additional 22 truckloads of old trash, lumber and junk hauled from Ward 1 yesterday.

Only three trucks will be used to wind up the clean-up drive today in Ward 1, L. B. Haggard, Sanitation Department superintendent reported.

With the 22 truckloads hauled from Ward 1 yesterday, the actual count to date stood at 188, Haggard said. He added he expected to go over the 200 figure sometime today. If the trucks are not able to finish cleaning up the ward by 5 p.m. today, the drive there will be carried over until Monday.

Coronation Party Stages Rehearsal

LONDON, May 29 —UP—The two-and-one-half-hour ceremony of coronation was given a full dress rehearsal at Westminster Abbey Friday with 1,200 persons participating.

Hundreds of police held back a huge crowd which had massed outside the abbey under murky, overcast skies.

Queen Elizabeth II was scheduled to witness the rehearsal and perhaps take some part in it, but most of her role was enacted by her stand-in, the Duchess of Norfolk.

The crowd got a prevue of coronation proceedings as golden-robed officers appeared in their court costumes at 6 a.m. (11 p.m. Thursday cst), followed by guards and officers in full-dress uniforms, nurses who will be on duty at the abbey, members of the 400-voice choir and 350 newspapermen who will cover the big C-day story.

Use Dummy Regalia

Using dummy regalia rather than risk some accident with the priceless crowns, swords and scepters in the confusion of rehearsal, Earl Marshal Duke of Norfolk shepherded the great company of peers and dignitaries on a split-second schedule.

The music of the service swelled through the great church which has been the scene of coronations for just short of 900 years. Its transformation into a blue-gold scene of splendor was complete.

All of the great figures of the nation were present — the Archbishop of Canterbury, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of El Alamein, Admiral Earl Mountbatten of Burma, Viscount Alanbrooke, the Dean of Westminster and other high prelates of the church in their robes.

About 7,000 guests who will witness the coronation Tuesday were not present, but the service otherwise was complete Friday.

Queen Withstands Ordeal

The great company went through the Queen's procession up the aisle, through the choir and to the theater erected before the altar. Then came the recognition of the sovereign, the oath, the anointing, the presentation of the regalia and finally the crowning itself which, on coronation day, is scheduled to take place at 12:34 p.m. (5:34 a.m.).

Elizabeth, 27, seemed to be standing the ordeal better than most of the people in London.

She was gay and laughing at the Buckingham Palace garden party Thursday afternoon and told the guests among the 7,000 present she was 'feeling fine and enjoying myself wonderfully."

The groundhog, or woodchuck, is a species of marmot.

Suit Names Cans As Defendants

A group of beer cans stand ready to defend themselves in Lipscomb County after being sued by The State of Texas.

Handicapped somewhat by an inability to speak for themselves, the beer cans have hired counsel in their behalf, and have filed a general denial to the charges set out against them by District Atty. Tom Braly.

The case, styled as The State of Texas vs the beer cans was filed after State Liquor Control Board agents seized 251 cases of beer in cans and bottles from G. C. Brown, Follett, Lipscomb County. The state is asking for forfeiture of the beer and subsequently sold according to law on grounds they were being offered for sale in a dry area.

Brown is mentioned in the state's petition as the possessor of the beer, but the beer cans and bottles were actually named as defendants in the case.

14 Felony Cases Face Grand Jury

The jury went into session with District Atty. Tom Braly shortly after 10 a.m. today.

Bexar Due Two New Courts

AUSTIN, May 29 —UP — The Senate passed and sent to the approved bill granting two new district courts, one civil and the other criminal, to Bexar county. The upper chamber refused to permit consideration of another bill giving Harris county three new courts.

'Sweethearts' Featured At Lions

Scant hours before they were graduated from Pampa High School, the 10 Pampa Lions Club "Sweethearts" for the past year "spoofed" their way through another "garduation" from "Miss Aaronette Meek's fifth - grade."

Impersonating some of the more well-known of the local Lions, the girls brought many a chuckle at the Thursday noon get-together of the club.

Unlike any other "graduation" Lions. — or anyone else — had ever seen, the ceremonies included a quartet number, a piano solo, a song solo, a joke (?) and a string of announcements in the Ed Myatt tradition ("I have another announcement, etc. etc.").

All the while, of course, there were the usual classroom practices of pulling hair, wailing for attention and paper hurled through the air.

After 20 or 25 minutes of this sort of thing, Carol McCune, the "teacher," saw fit to dismiss — that is, "graduate" — the class.

Before the festivities got underway, Boss Lion Joe Donaldson gave each of the girls a gold compact as a gift from the club. There were some announcements, too; but they were somewhat forgotten in the melee that followed.

Deficit

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Dewey and Paul Dishman brought suit in magistrate's court against Alice and Kay Carter for $37.50 damages growing out of an automobile accident. The Carter sisters cross field for $37.50 damages. On appeal, the law court jury dismissed both suits. Final cost to the county — $56.

At one time the Model T Ford sold for $290.

Memorial Day

This Memorial Day we ought to honor a special kind of soldier dead. We ought to remember the men who died — and may still be dying — behind the Communist lines as prisoners in Korea.

We should think of the weary, enfeebled men who fell by the wayside in the punishing, forced marches, and watched with pathetic wistfulness as their comrades dragged themselves out of sight down the road.

We should think of the men who flopped down to sleep in the icy, hostile night and never woke up. In the morning, their captors kicked their frozen bodies into the nearest ditch.

We should give some thought, too, to the soldiers whose only offense against their captors was that they became sick. For this error, many were shot on the line of march, and left with the "drop-outs" to mark the trail of broken bodies.

Those who survived the ordeal of the marches found merely a new torture supplanting the old. In the contrived misery of the Communist prison camps, unnecessary death was a ritual.

Men died when a little more food, a little medicine, a bit of warm clothing, a clean bandage might have saved them. A quick bullet in the back of the head would have been a more honorable way to kill them.

The irony of their terrible predicament was never more bitter than the day when a soldier helping others to bury a dead comrade fell to his knees beneath the burden. He never rose again, but died there, on the way to another's grave.

Here and there a sympathetic Korean peasant may have dragged off one of the fallen, buried him and begun tending his grave. For all the rest, there are no crosses, no mounds of earth, no clear mark to show where they lie.

We can raise a monument to them only in our minds and hearts. Once we have done it, we must never forget to look in upon it while we gaze each year at the visible symbols of soldierly sacrifice.

Farming A Profession

A late March issue of Pennsylvania Farmer carried a brief but significant article by Wellington D. Smith of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers' Association. His theme was the almost incredible progress we have witnessed since the turn of the century. As he put it, "Fifty-two years ago the telephone and electricity were in the infant stage. No one believed in the horseless carriage or gasoline engine. Old Dobbin and the wagon wheel were here to stay. The breech loader was then our secret weapon.

"Today I am surrounded with the necessary but apparently luxurious automobile, stream-liner, supersonic jet aircraft, atomic submarine, radio, television, deep freeze, electric kitchen, combine, hay baler, field chopper and diesel tractor. Even old Daisy (the family cow) is equipped with a jet pump . . . During the years following World War II there have been fabulous investments made in agricultural enterprises. Such investments have served to cause a tremendous increase in agricultural production."

The result of this, Mr. Smith believes, is that farming is becoming a true and integral part of our vast industrial system. And here he made the telling observation that farming ". . . is no longer a proposition for the man with the hoe. It is a profession for the man with a knowledge of the science of the soils, the language of a cow, and the heart of a tractor."

Science and machines have gone a long way to transform the face of the land. And they are transforming the lives of the men and women who live on the land.

A Free Market

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has published a new booklet called "Free Markets and Free Men." The point it makes is that the freedom to "shop around," to buy and sell at places and prices that suit us, is as much a part of people's liberty as freedom of press or religion. After a discussion of government-controlled markets, including our experience under OPA and OPS, it says, "Centuries of history . . . have shown that when economic freedom and the free market are chipped away the other components of human freedom are impaired, jeopardized and finally destroyed and liquidated."

In other words, when government has the power to tell us what we can buy, what we can sell, and what we can pay or charge, government's domination of our lives is just about complete. It is inevitable that when dictatorships of any kind take over the government of a country one of their first acts is to liquidate economic freedom and the free market.

Moreover, the free market does more good for more people than any other kind of market ever devised. We see it in operation every day in the hundreds of thousands of retail stores that blanket the country. Some are big, some are small. Some are chain-owned, some are locally-owned. But they have two things in common — they are all looking for consumer favor, and they are all trying to offer more inducements than their competitors.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Experience With State Educator

As readers of this column know, I have been offering $500 to any superintendent of schools or member of the Board of Education in any county in which Freedom Newspapers circulate if he would answer questions as he would before a court to determine whether or not tax supported schools are in agreement with the Golden Rule. He would not have to be successful in order to get the $500; all he needed to do was to make a sincere effort without evasion to answer questions on the subject.

Now, I want to relate some correspondence with Dr. Wallace H. Moore, head of the Education Department of Long Beach State College, that was instigated by Everett E. Alton, 1226 S. Baker St., Santa Ana, California, last December. Mr. Alton wrote me on December 15 stating that he thought Dr. Wallace Moore would be interested in discussing the question of tax supported schools.

On January, 20 1953 he wrote me stating:

"I am sure Dr. Moore will not evade a single question that is put to him either in your main presentation or in a rebuttal. How about one of these three topics,—

1. Resolved that Public Education Should be Discontinued.
2. Resolved that Public Education Does More Harm Than Good in American Society.
3. Resolved that Public Education is in Essence a Violation of the Golden Rule."

On January 22 I wrote Mr. Alton the following letter:

"Dear Mr. Alton:

"This acknowledges receipt of your letter of January 20.

"Your proposed topic suggestion that 'Public Education (Tax Supported Schools) is in Essence a Violation of the Golden Rule' is satisfactory, with the understanding that public education does not mean private education that is not tax supported.

"I am perfectly willing to debate that subject and let Dr. Moore specify how the debate shall proceed, provided both parties are given equal time and provided he will debate the same subject where I can write the specifications and both parties will be given equal time. I will agree to pay him $500 if he will debate where I write the specifications. I will also make a stenographic report and make it available to anyone who wants to publish it in whole or in part.

"There is nothing more important than a proper approach to education. If you can get a man engaged in public education in an executive position to discuss it where he will have to answer questions as he would before a court, you will undobtedly be rendering a service to the community and the nation.

Yours very truly,
R. C. Hoiles"

On January 28, 1953, Mr. Alton wrote the following:

"It looks like we will be successful in bringing about meetings between you and Dr. Moore. In your last letter you suggested a debate on Dr. Moore's terms and a discussion according to your specifications.

"He wishes to know more about your conditions and whether he will be able to ask questions the same as you in the court-like procedure.

"Some of my friends and I are eager to hear the arguments as you expose public education and Dr. Moore's attempts to defend it. Thanking you for your time and patience in this correspondence."

On January 30, I wrote Mr. Alton, agent for Dr. Moore, as follows:

"This in reply to your letter of January 28.

"Both individuals would have equal time to ask questions and answer them. Since there is no impartial judge to keep both parties answering questions without evasion, I would specify that either party took longer than a minute to answer without the consent of the questioner for longer time, he would forfeit $25.00 per minute or fraction thereof that he used to answer the question.

"Each party would be given possibly five minutes to open the subject and then there would be question and answer periods of 10 minutes each, alternating so that each party would have equal periods to ask questions.

"I would make a stenographic report or transcription of the investigation where I wrote the specifications.

"Each party is to try to answer the questions to the best of his ability and not to take up the time evading questions.

"There of course would be a moderator and a timekeeper to notify each party when his time allotted to answer the question is up so that he can cease talking without being penalized.

"This is a general outline as I think of it at the present.

"P. S. Discussion not to exceed two hours of time."

Then on March 18, 1953, Dr. Moore wrote me the following letter:

"Mr. Everett Alton has informed me of your challenge to a debate concerning public education. Your desire to place the issues before the public is highly commendable; I shall cooperate heartily and enthusiastically in the achievement of this purpose. I am glad to accept the challenge and offer you have made. Your suggestion that we limit the debate to two hours is also a good one. I suggest that we divide the time as follows:

"Twenty minutes each for the initial presentation.

"Fifty minutes for rebuttal and questions directed toward each other.

"The final 30 minutes for questions from the audience.

"The debate topic 'Resolved: That public education (tax supported schools) in the United States should be abandoned in favor of strong, effective private education,' is a subject that would be interesting to many people. I shall uphold the negative side of this question to the best of my ability.

"I am sure that the time, place and moderator can be mutually agreed upon. Your offer of remuneration in the amount of $500 is accepted in behalf of our scholarship fund for worthy students. You see, private enterprise has a very definite place in my feelings as I am sure it has in yours.

"May I hear from you at your earliest convenience?

"Yours very truly
WALLACE H. MOORE"

In the next issue I will continue to quote from the exchange of letters between Dr. Moore and myself on the investigation into whether tax supported schools violate the Golden Rule.

GOP Faces Uphill Climb In Holding Congress Majority

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, May 29 — In his very first scouting on Republican chances of retaining control of Congress in the 1954 elections, National Chairman Leonard W. Hall has run into unexpected difficulties. His early-bird work so soon after becoming the party's generalissimo is accounted for by the interest which the supposedly non-political President Eisenhower shows in next year's judgment of his record.

The GOP must re-elect 11 incumbents facing the voters in order to preserve its one-man margin in the Senate. It must defeat several sitting Democrats in order to gain a firmer grip on the upper chamber, which must ratify foreign agreements, underwrite financial advances to our allies and approve diplomatic appointments. It is this body—the men like McCarthy, Bridges, Ferguson, etc.—which has given most embarrasement to the White House in the foreign field.

Republican prospects are not too bright. Four men on their side may have trouble. They are Senators Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Robert C. Hendrickson of New Jersey and Homer Ferguson of Michigan.

On the other hand, the only Democrats who appear to be vulnerable are Senators Paul H. Douglas of Illinois and Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. The other opposition members up for re-election occupy fairly safe seats.

HAS NEGLECTED MAIL — Senator Saltonstall's predicament has all the elements of surprise and drama. "Salty" bears a famous New England name to which Bay State voters are partial, including the Boston Irish. He has the Beacon Hill background of the Lodges and Cabots. He came to Washington with advance notices that he was another quiet, ironic and picturesque Calvin Coolidge. Ordinarily, he should be a shoo - in next year.

But he has not lived up to the political advertisements, although he now heads the Armed Services Committee. A more practical handicap is that he has neglected his constituents' mail and bread-and-butter demands.

It was this carelessness which contributed to the defeat of Henry Cabot Lodge last year on the same day that Ike romped through the state from Boston to the Berkshires. In short, Saltonstall and Lodge forgot that a Senator must be an errand boy as well as a statesman, a servant as well as a leader.

Two others in the 1954 class — Bridges and Ferguson — have made a similar mistake, although not to the same degree as "Salty." In extenuation, it should be noted that, as minority members during the Roosevelt-Truman regime, about the only things they could deliver to the voters were speeches on great affairs of state. They had no patronage.

APPRENTICE'S LESSON — Ironically, a young shock-haired slip of a politician, who first ran for public office last year, has taught an elementary lesson in practical statesmanship to the distinguished 60-year-old Saltonstall. He did not have to tutor Chairman Hall, who knows all the tricks and will use them next year.

This master at high and humble politics is Senator John Fitzgerald Kennedy, son of the former Ambassador to England and 1952 victor over Lodge. Kennedy's forte is also foreign affairs. His book, "Why England Slept," furnishes an excellent insight into why Hitler achieved such striking military triumphs in the early years of World War II.

YANKEELAND PROBLEMS — But this concern has not kept him from giving attention to everyday economic problems that beset Yankeeland, especially the emigration of textile and other industries from this original citadel of manufacture to the New South. He has led the movement for Congressional or Federal action to restore the economic balance between the two sections.

He wants the Taft-Hartley Act modified so that employers' harangues to southern workers against "pot-bellied, Yankee" union organizers shall be declared an unfair labor practice. He argues that this arouses racial, regional and economic prejudice. He wants Uncle Sam to readjust trucking and railroad rates he regards as discriminatory. He also charges taxation favoritism to plants emigrating to Dixie.

Kennedy may ot wangle invitations to White House dinners by his tactics. But he should make friends in the mill towns of Massachusetts.

LOOKING SIDEWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

Miss Magda Gabor,
c-o Miss Eva Gabor
Fifth Avenue,
New York, New York.

Darling:

This is going to be a painful note to write. It is always painful to have to say "no" to a beautiful woman. But there comes a time when a man has to take stock of himself and face issues clearly. It may seem craven to do what I have to do by mail, instead of in person, but to talk to you face to face and say what I have to say would be almost more than I could handle.

You telephoned yesterday. It was good to hear from you. I can't deny that. We had not talked in three weeks and I feared we might never talk again. I was determined that I wouldn't call you. I had to take a firm stand on that. And then, fortunately, you called. I'm glad you did. Your voice, friendly and warm, was like music. And you were generous in your invitation. You invited me to come to Eva's apartment Friday around 6 o'clock in the afternoon. You would be there. So, I gathered, would the washed half of New York. That was all right. I didn't mind that others would be there. I knew I would get to talk to you, anyway. I accepted your invitation and told you, in all candor, that I looked forward to seeing you.

Alas, that sentence, probably, will be the last pleasant sentence in this reluctant note. The truth, Magda, is that two other girls have made it plain to me that I had a previous date with them and they would not hear of my going to see you.

What am I to say? How can I say it in a kind way? These are—this is going to be awkward—young girls. You are young, too. But these are considerably younger—girls just on the threshold of things. These are beautiful girls. You, of course, are beautiful, also. All Gabors are beautiful, as a thousand stunned men between 'Pesth and Palm Beach can testify. But—and this is even more awkward—I think these two young girls are even more beautiful than the Gabors. Is that wounding to you? It shouldn't be. You have a great share of the world's beauty. You musn't mind that there are others.

In any case, Magda, I accepted your invitation and now I must break it. I have no choice. Men are weak. Eager young beauty and determined young wills have caused more than one man to change his mind, Mine is changed. This means that I shan't see you again until the fall, if then. You are leaving right after Eva's party for a tour of the summer theaters. You are to star in a vehicle perfect for your talents, color and charm. I hope you are an overwhelming success. I'm sure you will be. Your career until now has been one of unflawed success and there is no reason why it should not continue. By the start of the season you probably will be picking and choosing for Broadway. I hope so.

You have a right to know something of the two girls who have steadied me and caused me to forswear seeing you Friday. I haven't strayed too far away. They, too, are actresses. Singers, really. Not dramatic actresses. At least not yet. They are entering a career of their own in a quiet, unobtrusive way; trying out their young talents where they are most likely to receive guidance and encouragement. When I saw them last night and told them I was seeing you Friday, they cried out in dismay.

"But you had a date to see us Friday night!" they protested. "You promised!"

The truth is, I had promised. When you and I talked I was so shaken by your voice that it caused me momentarily to forget. These young creatures won't hear of my forgetting. You will have to forgive me. You, I believe, will. I promised, you see, to go to the school that night and hear my daughters sing.

The professor and his wife were doubtful about returning to the farm on which they had passed the previous summer, because of the fact that they had been somewhat annoyed by the nearness of the pigsty to the house.

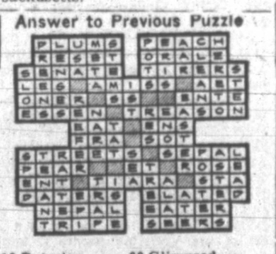

Finally the professor wrote to the farmer and explained the objectionable feature. He received the following reply: "We hain't had no hogs on the place since you were here last summer. Be sure to come."

GOP's Failure To Balance The Budget Is A Shock To People

By THURMAN SENSING
Southern States Industrial Counel
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

It comes as quite a shock when the Secretary of the Treasury and other administration officials say there is no chance of balancing the national budget for the next fiscal year, moreover that there is a good possibility it will be necessary to raise the present statutory debt limit of $275 billion.

There were other factors that entered into the result of the national election last fall, but one of the main reasons the Republicans were elected to office was their promise that the budget would be balanced, that economies would be made in operating the federal government, and that taxes would be cut.

If none of these things are to be done, then the people no longer have a choice between an economical government and a spend-thrift government; it will simply be a choice between two spendthrift governments.

When people face a situation like that, they are likely to favor that government which offers to "give" them the most.

What has happened since the present administration came into office to cause it to discard all its fine economy promises made during the campaign?

There seems to be only one answer — this administration has fallen into the same fallacy in its attitude toward spending that its predecessors have had; namely, that the safety of the nation depends entirely upon the total amount of money we spend for defense.

It can be understood why previous administrations fell into this fallacy; they started out with the philosophy that we could buy our way out of the depression, that we could spend ourselves into prosperity by priming the pump, by give-away programs of various sorts, by "made work," and in many other similar ways. When such methods showed no signs of working, their answer was invariably that we didn't spend enough, that we could gain the desired ends by spending more. They never for a moment even thought of admitting their philosophy was wrong in the first place.

But it is difficult to understand why the present administration should fall into any such fallacy. I took the opposite view during the political campaign. It had no built-up bureaucracy to which it was obligated. It had no spending philosophy to which it was bound. It was elected on an economy, tax-cut program.

The Republicans came in with a clean slate and a clear mandate. Now the slate is becoming cluttered with figures and the mandate is ignored. We are hearing again the old familiar chant that there is no chance to balance the budget next year, but maybe we can the year after or the year after that; we have ben spending a certain amount of money for defense, therefore any reduction in that amount would endanger the national safety. In other words, increasing defense spending automatically provides a better defense program, no matter how it is administered. Such rubbish!

We spent $41 billion in lend-lease during the Second World Ward, which was all right because we had to win the war. But what about our foreign aid program since then? In the seven years since the end of the War, we have spent $39 billion in foreign aid and the administraion is recommending another $6 billion in the year ahead. This would bring the tota in foreign aid since the war to a greater amount than the aid during the war.

Is anyone so naive as to think there will be any end to the "need" for foreign aid — next year or any year — so long as we are willing to furnish it? If so, he should take a course in human nature.

During the fight to restore a sound currency under a gold standard in this country following the War Between the States, there was born the famous statement, "The way to resume is to resume." We need that attitude now. The way to return to a balanced budget and a sound economy is to return — not some day but NOW.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M.D.

I am frequently asked to discuss anemia and what should be done for it.

It must be emphasized first that anemia is not a single disease. Many different things can result in some form of anemia, and the term really means a deficiency in the red blood cells, or hemoglobin (coloring matter) of the blood, or both.

The blood contains small round disks called red blood cells, or erythrocytes. Normally, there are about 4,500,000 or 5,000,000 of these cells in each cubic millimeter of blood. (There are more than 16,000 cubic millimeters in a cubic inch.) These cells contain oxygen and hemoglobin, both of which are necessary for human life.

Pernicious anemia, or primary anemia, is one kind. The cause of this condition is complicated, and all that can be said here is that the discovery of the value of liver—and more recently Vitamin B12—has changed it from a disease which used to be fatal into one which can be successfully treated in almost all cases.

With the exception of pernicious anemia, the problem boils down to finding out what has caused the lack of red cells or hemoglobin, or both.

One of the most simple, and yet a frequent cause, is bleeding from somewhere in the body. If a person loses more blood than the system can replace, anemia develops. If the bleeding is sudden, as from a wound, the difficulty can be remedied promptly by stopping the hemmorrhage and giving a blood transfusion.

If hemorrhage is slow, it is necessary to find where the bleeding comes from and to stop it if possible. When this so-called secondary anemia is severe it may be necessary to give transfusions or take other measures, including the use of iron preparations, iron being an important part of hemoglobin.

Another kind of anemia comes most commonly in women between 30 and 50 years old. The cause of this anemia is a deficiency of iron resulting from several things, probably including defective diet and poor absorption due to disturbance of the stomach and intestines.

ENERGY IS LACKING

This causes a feeling of weakness, shortness of breath, nervous disturbances, dry hair, sore tongue and paleness. Fortunately, once it has been identified, it can be successfully treated by giving iron.

Anemia may result from the failure of the organs which make the blood to meet the needs of the body. This difficulty lies principally in the bone marrow and is much like the anemia which comes from certain poisons. There are many other forms of anemia, too.

Anemia means something is seriously wrong with the body. A person with severe anemia feels poorly and is lacking in energy. The cause should be tracked down and proper treatment employed.

Oilers Drop Pair To Dukes, 7-5, 16-3

ALBUQUERQUE, May 28 — Pitcher Jerry Folkman came off the disabled list here tonight to hurl the Albuquerque Dukes to a four-hit 16-3 victory over Pampa and give the Dukes a sweep of the twin-bill with the Oilers. Bill Guice's bases-loaded triple in the first game handed rookie Len Santos a 7-5 win over the Oilers.

While Folkman was hurling hitless ball over the first four innings his mates were clubing three Oiler pitchers for a comfortable 14-0 lead after four frames highlighted by a six-run outburst in the fourth. Pacing the 9-hit Duke array was Catcher Dave Henderson with a perfect 4-for-4 at the plate and Dale Perry. The latter had a field day in socking a double, triple and two-run homer out at the 370-foot mark. In all, the outfielder had five runs batted in for the evening.

It was Folkman's second win against three defeats and first since opening day. Starter and loser Ed Hughes absorbed his fifth loss.

Starting and losing pitcher Sad Sam Williams set the stage for Guice's payoff blow when he yielded successive singles to Len Santos and Pedro Santiago and issued an intentional pass to jam the bases in the first game.

However, Guice made the move a regretful one by rocking Williams' first pitch into extreme left center corner to clear the hassocks.

Guice later scored on a Pampa infield error for the fourth run of the inning to give Albuquerque a 7-2 lead.

Santos, who registered his third win, while Williams dropped his second verdict, wavered in the final frame when he issued two walks and a single. His mates put him in a further jam by committing two straight miscues behind him, all of which resulted in Pampa scoring two runs when Santos got the last man on a pop-up.

The Dukes got their first three runs in the third inning on a walk, followed by four straight safeties by Santiago, Dale Perry, Herb Simpson, and Guice.

The Oilers got their first pair in the fifth when Ted Pawelek singled to right, Manny Temes doubled to left center and Williams brought both home with a rap over second base.

Santos was impressive over the first five frames, getting most of his five strikes out, while failing to yield a single walk.

Major Pilots Facing 'Suicide Attempts'

NEW YORK, May 29—UP—It was a good time Friday to watch certain managers closely to prevent suicide leaps.

The waters of the East River must have looked tempting to Leo Durocher of the Giants when he went home over the Brooklyn Bridge after another maddening defeat to the Dodgers, 7 to 6. And Eddie Stanky of the Cardinals might have felt like jumping in front of the train instead of boarding it for St. Louis Thursday night after a 10 to 10 tie in Cincinnati in a game they should have won nearly an hour before it was halted by a curfew agreement.

Al Lopez might have felt safer with bars on his hotel windows at St. Louis after his Indians blew a 7 to 5 decision to the lowly Browns just because castoff Bob Elliott went wild and drove in six runs with a grand slam homer, a single and an infield out.

Ditto for Lou Boudreau in Philadelphia where he watched Mel Parnelli finally lose to the Athletics 6 to 1, after beating them nine straight times.

15 Hits, Still Lost

Fred Haney at Pittsburgh couldn't have felt too chipper when his Pirates couldn't win with 15 hits against Jim Konstanty, who struggled to a route-going 9 to 8 victory for the Phils, simply because he didn't have ace reliever Jim Konstanty available to take over for him. There was woe again for Bucky Harris at Yankee Stadium, where he is used to it, as Bob Porterfield, bidding for his sixth straight victory, was pounded instead for his fourth defeat, 7 to 2.

The other teams had off days, sparing their managers frustration.

The Giants lost their second straight last-ditch battle in Brooklyn when Hoyt Wilhelm couldn't keep his knuckler from dancing past catcher Ray Noble, who had been imported from Minneapolis expressly to handle it.

Peewee Reese struck out in the 10th but reached first safely as the ball eluded Noble. A late throw on a bunt by Duke Snider failed to nail Reese at second and both runners moved up on a wild pitch. After Jackie Robinson was purposely passed another knuckler to Roy Campanella got past Noble and Reese whizzed in with the winning run. Earlier Snider had driven in three runs with a homer and triple and Wayne Belardi had hit his first homer for Brooklyn in a pinch-role. Tookie Gilbert homered for New York.

The Cards blew an 8 to 4 lead acquired mainly as rookie Ray Jablonski drove in five runs with a single and homer, giving him 31 for the year and a runner-up spot in the league to Campanella's 51. Two-run homers by Grady Hatton and Andy Seminick in the eighth and ninth tied it at 8 to 8. Then Cincinnati Manager Rogers Hornsby had a chance to blow his top when reliever Bubba Church went sky-high with two singles, a wild throw, a hit batsman and two walks to give St. Louis two runs. Jim Greengrass singled home two for Cincy in the 10th. The game will have to be replayed entirely later.

Long Record Shattered

Rookie Dave Hoskins, who had twice beaten the Browns in relief, gained a start but couldn't hold down Elliott or Vic Wertz, who also homered, Bobby Avila hit a Cleveland homer.

Parnell, who had won six straight and hadn't lost to Philadelphia since April 20, 1951, was beaten on a five-hitter by rookie Marion Fricano, a former upstate New York soccer player. Tom Umphlett homered for Boston's only tally and the A's sewed it up for Fricano with three run rallies in the second and sixth.

Whitey Ford pitched his fourth straight victory, a five-hitter and also drove in two runs with a single as his league leading earned run average dropped to 2.09 for the Yankees.

Th Phils made a 7 to 3 lead acquired in the early innings stand up as Konstanty took his pounding, yet scored his fourth victory.

Yesterday's star—Bob Elliott of the Browns, who hit a grand slam homer and a single and drove in six runs as he ran his hit total to 1,998 in a 7-5 triumph over Cleveland.

Weather Man Aids Gold Sox

The Amarillo Gold Sox just love the weatherman — he handed the West Texas-New Mexico League cellar club a rare 9-7 victory last night.

The Gold Sox built a two-run margin in the first six innings of their clash with Abilene at Amarillo. But in the top of the seventh, the roof came in. Abilene scored four times and still had men on base with two out — and the rains came. The game was called and the score reverted to the end of the sixth.

The weatherman was also kind to the Borger Gassers. Soundly whipped 15-7 in the first game of a doubleheader by Plainview, the Gassers got a welcome rainout in the third inning of the nightcap while trailing 1-0.

The weatherman scored a clean victory at Clovis, forcing postponement of the Lubbock-Clovis contest.

The Albuquerque Dukes swept both ends of a twin bill from the Pampa Oilers during a lull in the winds at Albuquerque, winning the first game 7-5 and the second 16-3.

Pitcher Jerry Folkman returned from the disabled list to carve a four-hitter for the Dukes in the second game after Rookie Len Santos had fashioned a five-hitter in the first game.

Bill Guice's bases-loaded triple was the big blow of the opener. In the nightcap, the Dukes teed off on a trio of Oiler hurlers for a 14-0 lead in the first four frames while Folkman held the visitors hitless.

At Amarillo, Jim Matthews and Sonny Tims hit home runs for the Sox and Lloyd Pearson hit one for Abilene. The wind and dust blew steadily throughout the game.

The victory went to Don Tierney. The loser was Larry Cummins, who went the route.

At Borger, the Ponies combed a trio of Gasser hurlers for 14 hits and were never seriously threatened. The victory was credited to Doug Alford, who took over from starter George Payte in the fourth.

The loser was Jim Fals, second Borger pitcher who yielded eight runs in the disastrous fifth inning.

No Time To Fret About Oilers; They Could Return To Second Place Tonight

FROM SECOND TO FIFTH in one night is quite a blow. That was the situation for the Oilers who fell from the runnerup spot in the WT-NM standings to the No. 5 spot folowing last night's double loss at Albuquerque.

But there's no reason to get upset. The Oilers could return to second tonight if things go just right.

The Oilers are going to find it rough going until their ace moundsman, Max Molberg, recovers from his sore arm. His absence is keenly felt in that the other pitchers are having to work overtime.

Take last night for instance. Eddie Hughes had to take his turn in the second game of last night's doubleheader ahead of schedule and wasn't effective. Hughes was just getting in stride two or three weeks ago when the Oiler pitchers were taking their regular turns. He went 12 innings against Plainview and was tough all the way through in a game some three weeks back.

But Hughes isn't the type of pitcher who can pitch out of turn and still be effective.

It is beieved Molberg will be ready for action by the time the team returns home from their New Mexico trip. If so, the Oiler stock will rise immensely.

Doug Lewis had his hitting streak snapped at 13 games in the first game of last night's twinbill. The Douger, who had hit in 13 straight games prior to the double-header, came back in the second game, however, to collect two hits and start another streak.

Rookie Eddie Krewall was held hitless for the first time since joining the Oilers in the nightcap of the Duke double-header. The rookie sensation got a hit in the first game to run his streak to four but got a goose-egg in the second game.

JACKIE PRICE, THE WORLD'S finest baseball trick artist, will make a Pampa appearance after all — weather permitting.

Price will return to Pampa June 12 for a performance. You'll recall that the baseball trickster was scheduled here about two weeks ago only to have the weatherman postpone the game and also his performance.

THERE WILL BE ACTIVITY at Oiler Park Sunday despite the absence of the Oilers from the city.

The Pampa Black Oilers will meet the Sheehan All-Stars from Wellington in what has been called a "grudge game."

he grudge is a hangover from last year. It seems that the Wellington team is wanting to get back at the Black Oilers for ruining what was otherwise a good season for them last year. The Black Oilers handed the Wellington Negroes several bad lickings last year.

Also on tap at Oiler Park next week is a softball game between Phillips Petroleum and the Iowa Colored Ghosts. The Iowans are the "Globetrotters" of the softball sport and plenty is in store for softball fans of the city. The game is ticketed for Thursday night.

THE OILERS, OF COURSE, will return to the city in the meantime. The league-leading Lubbock Hubbers invade for a two-game set with the Oilers Monday and Tuesday nights. A sweep of this series for the Oilers would be sweet. It might even put them on top if the Oilers don't do too badly on the current road trip.

THE LUBBOCK HUBBERS have notified league president Hal Sayles they do not plan to play at home on Sundays the remainder of this season. The games will be made up in doubleheaders.

The Oilers, however, aren't involved in the schedule change since they aren't scheduled to play at Lubbock on a Sunday any time during the season.

The Hubs also announced that pitcher Bob Galey will be married at home plate July 11. Galey's brother, Charles, is now playing second base for the Hubbers. Charles was a member of the SMU team this spring that tied Texas for the SWC title.

Bolt Returns Money Given At Colonial

FORT WORTH, May 29 —UP— Officials of the Colonial National Invitation Golf tournament Friday re-distributed $275 in prize money returned by Tommy Bolt, who voluntarily disqualified himself from a 19th place tie because of a scoring error.

Bolt's action changed the results of the last six money-winning places in last week's $25,000 tournament, providing prizes for three additional gilfers and increasing the awards won by five others.

Bolt telehoned Tournament Chairman S. M. Bingham Thursday from St. Louis, where the golfer is competing in the 1953 Western Open, that a scoring error disqualified him.

Bingham said Bolt explained that he learned from newspaper accounts after last week's $25,000 Colonial national had ended that he had been credited with a six-over-par 76 for his final round, but that he actually shot a 77.

The error occurred on the 17th hole, where Bolt said he took a five instead of the four he was credited with. His first shot went into a ditch, he said, but he played it back onto the fairway. It was this stroke which apparently went uncounted, he said.

Bolt's voluntary withdrawal left a two-way tie for 19th between Fred Hawkins and Al Besselink, Bingham said. Golfers Bob Toski, Skee Riegel and Peter Thompson all tied for 21st, get $25 extras.

And Fred Haas, Chandler Harper and Ed Oliver, previously out of the money in a 25th place tie, now get $50 apiece.

Ward Gains British Finals

BULLETIN

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 29—UP—Defending champion Harvie Ward of Atlanta gained the finals of the British Amateur Golf tournament Friday when he defeated Bobby Perowne of England, 6 and 5.

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 29—UP—Harvie Ward of Atlanta, Ga., the lone remaining American hope in the British Amateur Golf tournament, resumed his quest for a second straight championship in the quarter-final round Friday against a 48-year-old English candy-maker.

Ward, the last survivor from a 45-man U.S. delegation that started play Monday on the Royal Liverpool club course, met C. W. Windrow in an 18-hole morning match. The winner will advance to the 18-hole afternoon semifinals. The 36-hole final is scheduled for Saturday.

In other quarterfinal matches, Joe Carr of Ireland, one of the tourney favorites, is pitted against Joe Lambie of Scotland; Cecil Beamish of Ireland against Dixon Rawlingson of England, and Art Browne of England against J. W. Draper of England.

Ward, deadly accurate in Thursday morning's fifth round, trounced Alan Turner of England, 7 and 6. The American star then turned wild with both his tee and fairway shots in the afternoon, but still had little trouble in beating G. B. Wolstenholme of England, 5 and 3.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27—UP —Crime must be on the wane in San Francisco. The director of city properties Wednesday offered to sell two "surplus" police stations. He said one was worth $12,600 and the other $27,000.

French Counter in Indo-China

HANOI, Indo-China, May 28 —UP— French Union troops seized the initiative against the Communists Monday with counter-punches in both the enemy-besieged Red River delta south of Hanoi and in invaded Laos. "Very high" losses were inflicted on the enemy, the high command said.

"Do you, by any chance, handle blank report cards?"

"I'm broke buying presents for all my friends who are getting married — where's that big box of old bridge prizes you saved?"

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Former Governess to Her Royalty

XXI

ALWAYS the spotlight of public interest follows Queen Elizabeth, exploring her most private and personal moments in a way which few of her subjects would stand.

It is right, with the Constitution formed as it is, that Royal Grants should be discussed by the Parliament which passes them. But it cannot be pleasant to have your income, needs, and expenses attacked by the House of Commons and the result of their debate published all over the world.

I well remember the embarrassed air which hung over Buckingham Palace while the allowances paid yearly to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were being debated.

From the age of 11 the Princess received a yearly income of 6000 pounds—granted her out of the King's Civil List of 410,000 pounds.

At 21 this income was raised to 15,000 pounds annually, and at the time of her marriage to 30,000 pounds with extra grants for the upkeep of Clarence House.

To those who think these figures large I would point out what inflated expenses Royalty have to bear. Princess Elizabeth had to furnish her house literally "fit for a king" to live in.

It would not have been in the country's interests for the Heiress Presumptive to live in a suburban bungalow.

Just as, when she went abroad, the Princess was our No. 1 Ambassadress, so, at home, hers was the home which typified the country.

To maintain it she had to employ a staff far larger than her private tastes dictated. She had to have a Comptroller to handle the complex problems of her household and manage her finances; a secretary to handle the huge mail which came to her daily and deal with her appointments and those callers who needed her the backstairs staff needed to support the house in the style which Parliament felt would make it a credit to the country, and there were pensioners grown old in Royal service who had to be provided for in their retirement.

Another expense was the major outlay of entertaining foreign dignitaries who visit the country and cannot be entertained by a sandwich and a cup of tea. They must be met with the pomp and ceremony suitable to their rank.

Banquets and garden parties sometimes cost the King as much as 3000 pounds each. All this had to come out of his grant. And, similarly, the Princess's smaller-scale entertaining came out of hers.

This they accepted as part of their duty. But it could not be pleasant for them to have to face, on the top of that burden, criticism of the monies they are allowed, so little of which remains for their private needs.

Princess Elizabeth wore her first fur coat at the age of 18 when she attended Irving Berlin's all-soldier show, "This Is the

NO girl in love and yet not publicly joined by engagement to the man she loves welcomes prying into her private feelings.

Yet that is what Princess Elizabeth had to put up with all through that long, trying time before she and Prince Philip could face the world as future man and wife.

Although that sense of duty I have stressed so often in these pages is one which made her destiny of the highest importance in the Queen's life, do not think that public curiosity did not cost her dear.

I saw her shaken by the sometimes coarse but no doubt kindly meant interest in her affairs taken by some of the public she saw on her day's duty.

I felt the strain she was under, watched the way her eyes would sometimes stray to Prince Philip, knowing that in her heart she must be saying, "Why can't I marry the man I love? Why must there be this pitiless delay?"

It does not require great depths of imagination to visualize the struggle which must have taken place inside her; the desire of every girl in love to be with the man she loves, conditioned by her training which taught her that Royalty are not as other people—not in any superior way, but only in the disciplined position imposed on them.

How often she must have longed to throw it all up, to leave the court which turned her private life into a public discussion and run away.
