4 DIE IN TEXAS HAIL STORM

Mrs. Wrigley, Son Are Allowed Bond

PLEA FOR BAIL IN FREDERICK DEATH GRANTED

Widow of Slain Man Is To Be Freed Under $10,000 Bail

BOY HELD FOR $2,500

Habeas Corpus Hearing Closes for Time, Mystery Story

FREDERICK, May 10.—The application filed through attorneys for a writ of habeas corpus to secure release of Mrs. J. M. Wrigley, 50, and son, Charles, 17, under bond for their appearance for trial in connection with murder charges filed against them in the death of J. M. Wrigley, husband and father of the accused pair, was granted Monday afternoon by District Judge Frank Mathews.

Mathews set the woman's bond at $10,000 and the lad's bail at $2,500. Efforts made during the afternoon to effect their release, following the grant of the writ, had failed, although attorneys are confident that they will be able to furnish bond.

This will bring to a close for the time being the narrative attendant upon the death of J. M. Wrigley, pioneer Tilman county farmer. Slain while he slept on the morning of April 25, an investigation that followed resulted in the indictment of the two on a charge of murder. Charges followed a probe into the case by special coroner's jury.

The peculiar feature of the case is the basence of any apparent motive for the slaying.

Through the preliminary hearing Thursday of last week, perfect domestic harmony was paraded before the examining magistrate by neighbors of the family and two older sons in their testimony. The deceased was not known to have an enemy of any kind. No money was ever kept in the home and Wrigley carried no insurance.

Spokane Banker Shot; Will Live

SPOKANE, May 10.—(AP)—R. Lee Rutter, president of the Spokane and Eastern Trust company and the Western Union Life Insurance company of this city, was shot twice and seriously wounded on a crowded business street at the noon hour today by Phineas Saffron, with whom the trust company is involved in business litigation.

Connor Mallott, secretary-treasurer of the trust company, was shot under the arm and received superficial flesh wound.

Physicians said that barring complications, Mr. Rutter had a good chance for recovery.

State Safety Conference Is Urged by Envoys

Human Waster In Avoidable Highway Accidents Is Scored

AUSTIN, May 10.—(AP)—A state wide "safety" conference was called for September 1 by the executive committee of the Texas council of safety meeting here today with Director W. E. James.

Clarence E. Gilmore, chairman of the Texas railroad commission and president of the council, was empowered to appoint a committee of 15 to make a careful study of the Hoover conference recommendations on street and highway safety. These recommendations were adopted at the conference which convened at Washington, March 22.

"The council of safety is mobilizing its forces to war on the human waste in avoidable highway accidents and in industry," Chairman Gilmore said. "Much interest is being manifested in our work. Texas is being looked to as a model. Only recently, North Dakota organized a council of safety along the lines followed by the Texas council."

ALTON PARKER DIES IN GOTHAM

Heart Attack Ends Life Of Illustrious American Lawyer

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—Alton B. Parker, who rose from the obscurity of a youth spent on a New York State farm to bear the standard of the democratic party against Theodore Roosevelt in the presidential race of 1904 died today while riding in an automobile through Central park.

The former chief judge of the court of appeals contracted a cold three days ago and had to be under a physician's care.

He was on his way to his country home in Esopus, N. Y., with his wife and nurse when he was stricken with a heart attack. Death was almost instantaneous.

The cold from which Mr. Parker was suffering was not in itself serious, but because of his 74 years it had been thought wise to keep him in his suite in the Ambassador hotel until today.

OPPONENTS LOSE

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP) Opponents of the railroad labor bill were overwhelmed today in the first test of strength in the senate, losing on a motion to recommit the measure by a vote of 14 to 59.

MUMFORD TRIAL AT ARCHER CITY IS COMMENCED

Former Wichita County Deputy Sheriff Faces Jury

JACKSON IMPLICATED

Victim of Holdup Tells Of Being Robbed At Holliday

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, May 10.—J. M. Hawley, veteran Holliday merchant, was the only witness to take the stand today in the trial of Carrol Mumford, former Wichita county deputy sheriff, charged by indictment with highway robbery in connection with hold-up at Holliday on April 5. Adjournment of court this afternoon saw only the essential facts of the holdup before the jury, and left the big bulk of the state's testimony for Tuesday morning, when seven Wichita Falls city officers are expected to take the stand and tell of the capture of Mumford, J. B. Jackson, convict on a 60-day parole, and E. E. Savage, shortly after the hold up was reported to them.

Hawley's testimony was simple and direct. He had closed up his store for the night, he testified, and started home with Leon Wallace, an employe, carrying a grip containing less than $20 in cash and checks and notes to the value of $5,300.

They had gone only about a block and a half, he related, when a Ford

Amundsen Gasbag Ready For Journey

OSLO, Norway, May 10.—(AP)—Advices from Kings Bay report that active preparations were under way today for the start of the dirigible Norge of the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition, for the North Pole.

Weather conditions were good and it was understood that the dirigible would begin her perilous journey possibly some time tonight.

Bat Nelson Free On Check Charge

HELENA, Mont., May 10.—(AP) Charges of issuing worthless checks against Battling Nelson, former world's lightweight boxing champion, were dismissed today when he redeemed the checks in question.

The checks were given in payment for hotel and advertising bills concurred while Nelson was here recently appearing with motion pictures of some of his ring bouts.

Youthful Bandit Now Contrite One

HOUSTON, May 10.—(AP)—Robert Hinsky, youthful bandit, resigned himself to his fate here today when he was sentenced to serve 65 years for robbing four Houston drug stores.

"I've done wrong and I've got to pay," he said, "but when the debt has been paid, I shall pledge myself to the Lord and enter the Christian ministry to save my own soul."

Luck Sails Shipmate to Byrd, In Successful Dash to Pole

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP) Luck sailed shipmate with Lieutenant Commander Richard K. Byrd in his brilliantly successful airplane dash to the North Pole. It took pluck for Byrd and Bennett, his companion pilot to dare the long flight over Artic wastes but it was luck that gave them sunshine all the way to insure the accuracy of their navigation and that they did in fact reach the pole.

All navigation is a matter of mathematical calculation. Polar navigation up to last year lacked the last resort of ordinary mariners, sailing on compass courses by dead reckoning. The usual magneto compasses, upon which mariners have relied for generations, are of little use in the region where Byrd's ship made its heroic cruise for the magnetic north pole lay hundreds of miles behind him to be south and the magnetic needle of his compass played strange and erratic tricks.

But Byrd carried with him last year on the MacMillan expedition and again this year a sun compass, developed by A. H. Bumstead. It is built on the principal of a 24-hour clock and will always point the navigator on his course provided there is a sun to cast a shadow as its hands move around the face or the position of the sun is discernible.

It was this compass, navy experts believe, and freedom from fog and clouds which enabled Byrd to announce without fear of challenge that he had sailed to the North Pole and back. For lack of such modern instruments as Byrd carried with him the troubles of Peary and other Arctic explorers in determining their positions have been many. They have waited for days for a chance to sight the sun with a sextant in order to know where they were.

Byrd carried magnetic compasses and also an "earth indgetion" compass, but it was upon the sun compass that he based his main reliance in nosing his way to the pole. He carried also an artificial horizon sextant to make his navigational observations and, with clear weather all the way, experts here see no reason why controversy should ever arise as to the accuracy of his calculations, particularly as Bennett was a qualified navigator.

Byrd carried with him in the MacMillan expedition flying gear and again this year scientific apparatus for determining his position in the air that had been worked out with extreme care. He had ample opportunity before he made the hop to the pole, to check up on all of his instruments and satisfy himself that they were accurate. In the judgment of navy experts he proved their accuracy beyond question when he flew back to his base at Kings Bay as straight as a hound on a hot scent and they do not fear that his claim to fame as the first aerial navigator to conquer the North Pole ever will be challenged.

Unloaded Rifle Claims Another

EL PASO, May 10.—(AP)—The unloaded rifle claimed another victim here today when William Foster, 8, son of Colonel and Mrs. Victor S. Foster, died as the result of a gun shot wound. The child was killed while scuffling with a playmate for possession of a rifle in the Foster quarters at Fort Bliss.

CANDIDATES TO TRAVEL JOINTLY

Hornsby And Irwin Agree To Cover State Together

AUSTIN, May 10.—A proposal that all candidates for attorney general travel together and limit themselves to five-minute speeches, was made by T. K. Irwin of Dallas, and has been accepted by one of his opponents, Judge John W. Hornsby of Austin, provided the rest come into the plan.

Hornsby and Austin rode together from Austin to Taylor last week to mingle with the big gathering at Dan Moody's opening in Taylor. They chaffed each other good-naturedly about the race, and avowed that they were neither going to make the race one of personal attacks.

Mr. Irwin suggested the plan of the five, six or seven candidates who put their names on the ticket for attorney general, all charter a big car together and canvas the state, each man limiting himself to a five-minute talk whenever a crowd was found.

Mr. Hornsby told Irwin he would be "with him" on June 1 if the other candidates would come into the arrangement.

Not only those candidates and others seeking state offices, but many local and district candidates were at Taylor to handshake with the hundreds of visitors gathered there for the political speaking.

The campaign card blossomed out almost like on election day.

The indication was given that most of this year's races will be "hand-to-hand affairs," with personal greetings and solicitations largely supplanting the old-fashioned speech-making. That is except for the major races.

Four Lose Lives In British Rail Wreck

STRIKE EFFECT IS BEING FELT ON STEAM LINE

Volunteer Crew Mans Train In Collision With Another

MANY ARE INJURED

Disorders In London Are Few, Government Reports

LONDON, May 10.—(AP)—The first serious railroad accident since the beginning of the strike occurred today, causing four deaths and the serious injury of about twenty others.

At a point near Edinburg, a passenger train manned by a volunteer cred collided with a freight train. Three passengers were killed and a number hurt. A third occurred north of Newcastle, several persons being injured.

In the words of the British government "the general strike as a whole continues unabated throughout the country." In making this announcement the government adds:

"The success of the authorities in maintaining the feeding and vital services of the people must not obscure this grave fact or the increasingly wasteful consequences to all classes."

Lorries Guarded.

Well guarded lorries loaded with food supplies continued to pass through the streets of London today; trains moved more freely; the striking workmen continued to obey their leaders, and disorders of any kind were few.

On the side of labor, the general council of the trades union congress issued the following message, which appeared in the British Worker, headed "all's well."

We are entering the second week of the general stoppage in support of the mine workers against an attack of their standard of life by the coal owners. Nothing could be more wonderful than the magnificent response of millions of workers to hte call of their leaders.

"From every town and city in the country reports are pouring int the general council headquarters stating that all ranks are solid and that the working men and women are resolute in their determination to resist the unjust attack upon the mining community.

"The general council's message at the opening of the second week is:

"Stand firm, be loyal to instructions and trust your leaders."

Nothing thus far has developed relative to calling out labor's "second defense, comprising gas, electrical and general utility workers but in the meantime the council has sought the services of the parliamentary labor party to direct meetings all over the country for the purpose of holding the strikers together.

King Is Silent.

There is no sign of the king having any intention to meditate in the present situation. He is constantly in communication with certain ministers of the crown and is remaining at Buckingham palace to keep in close touch with current happenings.

The government has commandeered all news print except that at present in the hands of the publishers. This is for the purpose of making certain that the official government strike organ, the British Gazette, may have a sufficient supply for its ever-increasing circulation. The official newspaper of the strikers, the British Worker, may suffer on this account, and may even have to disappear from the streets.

In the house of commons, the government was sharply denounced for this action, as well as for its failure to publish in its newspaper the pence appeal of the archbishop of Canterbury. George Lansbury, laborite, entered a strong protest against "the introduction of thousands of troops into the east end of London with steel helmets and fixed bayonets, when not a blunderbuss, or even a horse pistol had been discovered."

Southwest Side In Turmoil As Juveniles Stray

Aged 5 and 3, They Start Out to Shoot Rabbits Over Valley Tracks

Perhaps it was the intoxication of a spring day that always stimulates the wanderlust; perhaps it was just a recurrence of the perodic craving every youngster has to see the world; perhaps it was just a combination of propitious circumstances—but whatever the cause, something conspired Monday to give Wichita Falls a complete "lost boy" story.

Two solid blocks in a southwest residential street were in turmoil for two hours; two mothers were comforted as best they could be by sympathetic neighbors; a score or more persons on foot and in autos combed the entire west end of town; police aid enlisted; notes were sent through classrooms in two schools bespeaking the assistance of tiny friends; in fact, for a time it was really serious.

About 9 o'clock Monday morning, it seems, a three year old lad toddled into the kitchen of his home and told his mother he "was going a huntin'." He had made numberless big game excursions through several vacant lots behind his parents' residence lot where everything from Indians to Easter eggs had been hunted so his mother thought nothing of it when he disappeared out the door with a toy pop gun swung jauntily over his shoulder.

At a next door neighbor's the same thing was transpiring, although

BOND ISSUE VOTE SET FOR JUNE 12

Date Is Deferred Because Of Absence of Business Men

The bond election set for June 5 at which time voters of Wichita Falls are to ballot on an issue of $1,450,000 for various public improvements was changed Monday night by the city council to June 12, one week later.

On June 5, the commissioners learned, a large number of prominent business men of the city will be in Philadelphia attending the Shrine council, and it was thought advisable to have the election on some day when they would not be absent. The date was accordingly moved back.

A complete renovation and drastic expansion of the water distribution system, improvements and extensions of the sewage disposal lines, and improvements in the streets of will be be made possible if the issue is carried.

DALTON KILLS SELF

Former Head of Adding Machine Company Ends Life

CINCINNATI, May 10.—(A)—Harry Landsiedel, 45, president of the Dalton Adding Machine company, is in a hospital seriously wounded and Charles L. Dalton, 35, former general manager of the concern is dead as a result of a business argument in the former's office late today.

Dalton, stockholder in the concern and son of the late James L. Dalton, former head of the company, was reported by police to have shot Landsiedel and then turned the gun on himself.

WIND AND RAIN PLAY HAVOC IN TEXAS SECTIONS

Quartet of Negroes Lose Lives In Delta County Tornado

PROPERTY LOSS HEAVY

Houses Are Unroofed, Crops Damaged by Severe Winds

PARIS, Texas, May 10.—(AP)—Four persons were reported killed, one missing, five seriously injured and many others slightly injured in a wind, rain and hail storm of tornado proportions that swept across the southwestern part of Lamar county and into Delta county early today. All those reported dead are negroes, two women and two children, said to have been killed at Nobly, in the southern part of Lamar county.

NORTH TEXAS HIT BY SEVERE STORMS

DALLAS, May 10.—(AP)— North Texas was the playground today of hail and rainstorms which culminated in a tornado that struck the southwestern portion of Lamar county and the northern part of Delta county, causing great damage to buildings along a path from five to seven miles wide and thirty miles long. Several persons, mostly negroes, had been reported injured in the storm early tonight.

The storms in north Texas occurred in an area of unsettled weather conditions, extended from St. Louis to the Rio Grande valley, the Dallas forecast reported.

Wire service in the storm area of Delta and Lamar counties was badly hampered by hail and wind storms.

Estimates of damage early tonight ran into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

At Roxtown, 12 miles southwest of Paris, virtually every building in town was damaged by the storm. The school building was damaged to the extent it will be unfit for holding school until it is repaired. Several negro residents of the town were injured.

At Howland, 14 miles south of Paris damage by wind and hail was general. The three church buildings, including a negro church, were badly damaged; the roof of one bank was blown off and several barns were wrecked. A tenant house on the farm of Pat Warner was wrecked and the occupants, a Mr. and Mrs. Kirkham, suffered minor injuries.

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR has been engaged to KANDALL PHELPS for a year when he asks her to free him, because he's fallen in love with her chum, FAY SHIRLEY.

Heartbroken, Sylvia gives him up, to the great satisfaction of her AUNT AGONY, who brought her up. Aunt Agony says that Ranny will never be true to any woman, and she urges Sylvia to marry PETER WILK, a sober bachelor who adores her.

Aunt Agony's opinion of Ranny seems to be correct, for suddenly he drops Fay and marries Sylvia, after all. But their married life is unhappy almost from the start. For Ranny hates to be tied down, and he returns to his bachelor habits of drinking and gambling, and falling in love time after time, usually with Sylvia's own friends. He gives Sylvia so little money for the house that she turns music teacher to keep up the tiny flat where they live.

The first baby, JUNIOR dies, and Sylvia has a nervous breakdown. She refuses to live again in the flat, and refuses to see Ranny, who no longer loves her, so she thinks. But he finally persuades her to come back to him, and he promises never to look at another woman.

He keeps his promise, so far as Sylvia knows, for a whole year. When Sylvia the Second, is born in the Little White House that they buy, Sylvia feels that her cup of joy is full to the brim. Then BABS DELANO comes to visit her. She knew Babs in library school when she was a drab, shy girl, and she is not prepared for the new Babs, all paint and powder and flirtatiousness. Right from the start she begins to "vamp" Ranny, and one night Sylvia finds her in his arms. She leaves and goes to Aunt Agony's house. There Ranny comes to her the next day, and asks her to divorce him. She refuses to, and late that afternoon Babs comes to see her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LVI.

Babs looked more artificial than ever as she sat in the middle of Aunt Agony's "poison neat" parlor. She was as out of place there as a cabaret singer at a revival meeting.

The family portraits frowned down upon her severely, as she puffed cigaret smoke out into the room. Doubtless she was the first woman they had even seen smoking a cigaret!

The winter sunlight, pouring through the spotless lace curtains, showed up the heavy coating of paint and powder on Bab's face. It showed up the mascara on her eyelashes and brows.

It brought out all the fine lines that sprayed from the corners of her eyes and mouth.

Looking at her, Sylvia wondered how Ranny could ever have fallen in love with Babs. She was stunning and she knew how to wear her clothes, but she had no claim to real beauty. And it was beauty that Ranny worshipped in women.

"Hello, Babs," she said in an ordinary tone, as she came into the room, closing the door behind her.

The other woman looked at her in surprise. She had expected Sylvia to revile her, or to burst into tears. This cold calmness startled her.

For a minute she forgot what she had planned to say, and when she did speak she stammered a little.

"R-Ranny was here this morning, so he told me," she said unsteadily. "He says you refuse to divorce him."

There was the tiniest hint of a smile on Sylvia's face as she sat down on a needle-point chair beside the fireplace. She nodded.

"Why should I divorce Ranny" she asked, lifting her eyebrows.

Babs looked down at her elaborately manicured hands, as if the answer were written on them, perhaps. She struggled for an answer.

"I-I love him," she said, finally.

Sylvia shrugged her shoulders, under the blue dress that Ranny liked to see her wear. She was quite cool.

"But I love him, too, you see," she answered quite simply. "You seem to have forgotten that, haven't you?"

Babs flushed under her rouge. "But you don't want to hang onto him when he's lost all his love for you, do you?" she asked.

She seemed to be almost beside herself, suddenly. She flung her half-burned cigaret into the grate, and went on shrilly: "It's wicked for a wife to hold onto her husband when he's in love with another woman! You don't understand Ranny! You give him no sympathy, no comfort! You're not the woman for him!"

That stung. But Sylvia gave no sign that it did. She even managed to laugh a little.

"That's what Elsie Leopold told me," she said quietly.

"Elsie Leopold was the last girl Ranny was in love with," she added, with utter sweetness. "He's been in love with quite a few girls since I married him. Let me see—one, two three—" She began to count them.

Babs' lips were shut tight together, and she had "wopsed" down in her chair. Sylvia could see that she was listening intently.

"I hope you aren't foolish enough to think that you're the Great Love of Ranny's life, my dear Babs," she said to her. "Ranny doesn't know what a great love is. He goes around having a little thrill here, and a little thrill there—and then he comes back to me. He always comes back to me."

Feeling not like herself, but like a woman in a problem play, she sat back in her chair to see how Babs took it. But Babs' face was like the face of the Sphinx. It told nothing.

"There are other things about Ranny that you don't know," Sylvia's low voice went on, "things that I'm not going to tell you. But when you say that I don't understand Ranny, it's not true. I know him better than he knows himself. And that's why I'm going to stick to him, whether he sticks to me or not."

Babs got up, then, to go. She could see that there was nothing to be gained by argument with Sylvia. Sylvia was just another of those benighted wives who believe that marriage is forever and ever—that was all!

Sylvia walked with her to the door, and stood on the porch watching her sail down the street. At the corner an automobile waited for her, and she got into it. It was Ranny's car.

As Sylia stood there, watching it move away into the sunny distance, Fay came out of her mother's house across the street, and waved a gloved hand to her.

"So this is where you are!" she cried gaily, coming up the walk. "I've been telephoning your house all day long. Eddie and I wanted you and your lord to go for a drive with us down in the country."

Sylvia smiled at her, and shook her head. "But we couldn't have gone, anyway," she said. "I couldn't leave the baby with Aunt Agony all day."

Fay's green eyes, greener than ever under the leopard skin turban that she wore, searched her face.

"Who was the handsome vamp I saw going down the street just now?" she asked sharply, and to the point. "Wasn't that Ranny's car that was waiting for her?"

Fay always rushed in where angels would fear to tread.

On the Table Lay An Envelope.

"Yes, it was Ranny's car," Sylvia answered bravely. There was no use in trying to fib to Fay about him. She knew too much about him.

Fay made a funny little face.

"Ranny always makes me think of a rhyme I heard once upon a time," she said, frowning as she tried to remember it.

She said it, haltingly:

"—Neither gifts nor gain
Can hold a winking Light o' Love,
Nor fancy's flight restrain!"

Sylvia laughed, but said nothing.

"It was written about a woman, of course," Fay added, turning to go down the steps again, "but there are just as many he-flirts in the world as there are she-flirts, if you ask me! Well, I must go, or Agony will come out on the porch and order me off the premises again!"

Fay could never forget the day, four years ago, when Aunt Agony had told her never to cross the threshold of her house again, so long as she lived.

No matter how rich and powerful she was as Eddie Carter's wife, she still stood in awe of Aunt Agony, now, just as she had when she was 10 years old.

When Sylvia went into the house, Aunt Agony was coming down the stairs with Sylvia, the Second, on her arm.

"This is the best child I've ever seen," she said amiably. Then she stopped talking and sniffed the tained air, like a hunting dog in a fox hunt.

"Hm! Who's been smoking cigarets?" she asked, and looked suspiciously at Sylvia. "You!"

Sylvia shook her head. "No, Babs Delane had one," she answered. "Do you remember my ever mentioning Babs to you, years ago, when I went to library school with her? I used to like her."

Aunt Agony said she had never heard Babs' name until last night. "And I hope she never comes to my house again!" she added, handing Sylvia the baby. "Smelling up my house with her nasty cigarets!"

She marched into the best parlor and opened both of the windows to the clean afternoon air. Then she came back into the dining room, where her niece stood looking mournfully out into Bleak street.

Without turning away from the window, she said quietly to Aunt Agony: "Ranny wants me to divorce him. He wants to marry Babs Delano."

For once in her life, Aunt Agony was too surprised to snort.

She collapsed weakly on a chair.

It was fully two minutes before she found her voice.

"Well" was all she found to say, then!

Sylvia turned toward her, holding her baby in her arms. Her eyes were dry, and only the whiteness of her face showed her strain.

"She came here to beg me to give Ranny up," she told her aunt. "He sent her, I think. At any rate, he was waiting for her in his car at the corner."

Aunt Agony nodded. "And what did you tell her?" she asked, in a dazed sort of manner.

"I said I wouldn't think of doing such a thing, of course," Sylvia answered. "For one thing, there's the baby. I don't want her to grow up without a father. And besides, I can't leave Ranny. It's silly for me to ever think of it—" She choked up, and couldn't speak for a minute.

"I think I'll stay here for a while, if you'll let me," she said, when she could speak. "I'll give Ranny a chance to think things over. Tomorrow morning, when he's at the office, I'll run over to the house and get some more things that I need for the baby."

Aunt Agony was staring out of the window with her parrot gray eyes.

"So she came here to ask you to divorce Ranny!" she mused. "The hussy! I don't know what the world's coming to, I'm sure, with women acting the way they do, today! They're all crazy, it seems to me!"

The next morning, while the baby was having her nap at the foot of Aunt Agony's four-poster bed, Sylvia went home for some clean things for her.

The house had a deserted look. The Sunday paper still lay on the front porch, and four bottles of milk stood beside it.

Upstairs, Ranny's bed was unmade, and his clothes lay on the floor where he had stepped out of them.

Sylvia straightened her room, and cleaned the bathroom.

When everything was in order she packed up the baby's clothes, and started away from the house, but in the hall she stopped.

On the telephone table, partly covered by the phone book, lay an envelope.

She picked it up. It was a plain cheap one, perfectly blank.

But inside was a railroad time table.

"Now, what in the world is Ranny going with that thing?" she asked aloud, of the empty house. "Where is he going?"

Then another thought came to her —"I wonder if he has gone!"

She rushed back up the stairs of the silent house, to his bedroom.

Sylvia calls on Mother Phelps and tells her of her new trouble with Ranny. Mother Phelps makes a startling disclosure.

Hail Hurts Crops

BONHAM, Texas, May 10.—(AP) Corn and cotton north of Bonham were considerably damaged by a heavy hail which fell in this section early this morning. The hail was accompanied by a heavy wind which uprooted trees and did other damage in the city.

The storm extended as far east as Honeygrove. A number of plate glasses were broken out. The roof on a house in the east part of Bonham was reported blown off by the storm. No one was reported injured.

FLIES FORM CLOUD

'Snake Doctors' in Hordes Pass Over Corsicana.

CORSICANA, May 10.—(AP)—Traveling out of the north ahead of a threatening black cloud, a horde of dragon flies, commonly known as "snake doctors" and "mosquito hawks" passed over Corsicana shortly before noon today. Millions and millions of these insects clouded the skies. It took thirty minutes for the army to pass over Corsicana.

Senator Capper's Wife Succumbs In Baltimore Hospital

BALTIMORE, Md., May 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Arthur Capper, wife of Senator Capper of Kansas, died at the hospital for the women of Maryland.

Mrs. Capper has been a patient at the hospital about five weeks, having been admitted for a major operation. She improved steadily for two weeks, then suffered a relapse. She was the only daughter of Samuel J. Crowford, governor of Kansas from 1864 to 1868. She was born at Topeka, July 1, 1863. Sh was married to Senator Capper Dec. 1, 1892. There were no children born to the Cappers.

DALLAS MAN KILLED

Pioneer Loses Life as Automobile Runs Him Down.

DALLAS, May 10.—(AP)—Alfred L. Hodge, 84, pioneer Dallas resident, formerly owner of the Grand Windsor hotel and part owner of the McCloud hotel, Dallas' once famous hostelries was killed when struck by an automobile.

A niece of Hodges who saw the accident declared it was unavoidable, and that N. E. Glass, of Waxahachie, driver of the car, was not to blame.

HONOR REQUISITION.

AUSTIN, May 10.—(AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, today honored the requisition of the governor of Louisiana for the rendition of James A. LeRoy, alias A. A. Menard, escaped convict. LeRoy is under arrest at Amarillo. He was sentenced 14 years in Caddo Parish, Louisiana, on conviction of robbery and escaped Dec. 3, 1925.

Hailstorm Hurts Crops at Denison

DENISON, May 10.—(AP)—Considerable damage was caused here at this morning when a hailstorm swept the city, breaking glass, pounding fruit trees and damaging electric light and telephone facilities.

Trees were uprooted, tops were broken off and the ground was heavily carpeted with leaves buttered from branches.

Many plate glass windows in private homes, green houses, and business houses were broken.

Damage to fruit was unestimated, but according to local nurserymen it was very heavy.

The storm lasted only a few minutes, but stones as large as hen eggs fell with terrific force in sections of the city.

Heavy rain fell with the hailstorm.

Fort Worth Man And Girl Beaten By Lone Bandit

FORT WORTH, May 10.—(AP)—A masked highwayman bound, slugged and robbed Joe Andre, box factory employe of his watch and $40 and tied and robbed his companion, Miss Mary Piper of a wrist watch on the old Decatur road just north of here last night, the couple reported to the police this morning.

Andre and Miss Piper were driving after having been to a show, when a man with a red handkerchief over his face jumped on the running board and stuck a gun in Andre's face, he stated.

"If you make a sound I'll give you what that fellow Adkins got from the black terrors in Dallas," Andre quoted the robber as saying. Adkins, police state, was slain near Dallas about a year ago by two negroes and Mrs. Mary Steer, with him, was brutally attacked.

Police who went to the scene to investigate, found a red handkerchief and a small rope such as is used in window sashes. Miss Piper was badly beaten and was prostrated this morning. She is a stenographer.

Sheppard Argues For Dam In Pecos

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP) Construction of a reservoir on the Pecos river in New Mexico for irrigation of 40,000 acres in Texas would be disastrous to a portion of New Mexico, Senator Jones of New Mexico, told the senate today while it was considering a measure authorizing the construction.

Senator Sheppard, Texas, declared the government by constructing the Carlsbad, N. M., project had diverted waters of the Pecos to such an extent that farmers cannot obtain sufficient water and the government should right the wrong.

"Saving Is the Difference Between Success and Failure."

President Coolidge has said that "Every one knows that it is not what is earned but what is saved which measures the difference between success and failure."

Buying inferior goods because they are cheap is not thrift. It is wasteful because the service is correspondingly short.

The way to decide "where savings are greatest" is first to look into the ability of the store to buy right; then the reputation of the store for selling right.

The buying power of this Store is tremendously increased because of the co-operative buying for all the Stores of this Nation-wide Organization. This advantage is your advantage each time you buy from us. And paying cash you enjoy an added saving.

BEFORE HER BABY CAME

Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Adkins, Texas.—"Before my baby came I was so weak I had to stay in bed most of the time until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother-in-law, who is a midwife, told me it was all foolishness for me to stay in bed. She told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it would help me. She handed me one of your little books and I read it and was interested in it. I went to a drug store that night and got a bottle of your wonderful medicine. I took it until the baby was born and was able to be up and do my work. Baby is 4½ months old now and weighs 14 pounds. I have plenty of milk for her and she gains steadily. I recommend it. I am willing to answer letters and will do anything I can for any woman, for I know how I suffered."—Mrs. A. H. Tschirhart, R. No. 2, Box 39, Adkins, Texas.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use by women for over fifty years. It is a vegetable tonic made from roots and herbs and is sold by all druggists.

Oklahoma Land Suit Dismissed

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP) The supreme court today dismissed for want of jurisdiction an appeal by James Scott, involving title to land in Morris, Okla.

While in the penitentiary Phillip Scott, a brother of James, gave a power of attorney under which it was claimed restrictions to Scott's allotment were removed to create the townsite of Morris. Eighty acres of the allotment were deeded to a man named Randolph who laid out the townsite. Scott died in 1905 leaving his brother an only heir. When the latter sought to recover the land the Morris National bank contested the suit and won in the lower courts.

CHANCES

WHILE one man is complaining that there is no chance, another man sees and makes one. In life's neverceasing drama we must promptly take the cue, or the play halts with the failure of our own part in it. And when the opportunity knocks at any door, we must be eager to receive it as any radio devotee is to catch the last faint audibility from any distant place. For sometimes the sound of that rare and precious knock is very faint, and it may not recur, however sorry we are that we have missed it.

A good deal of the talk of man about their luck is very tiresome. They had just as much of a chance to make good as anybody had, but they did not perceive it or they did not know how to use it. They are ready enough to rise up and decry of envy him who came and worked the vein where they found nothing and declared it barren.

But the rewards rightly go to those who hold on, after the rest decide that it is quitting time. Nature and fate, such impartial distributors of profit and loss, are certainly never going to play favorites for the benefit of quitters. And the public itself, in the long run, is just in its assessments and appraisals; it has its own way of showing that it can tell the difference between a man and "a stick with a collar on it."

THE REAL NORTH

STEFANSSON in an address recently dealt unsparingly with the attempt of romanticists to turn even Southern Alaska into a howling Artic waste to satisfy a popular clamor for sensation. Moreover, he made it clear that the work of the present expeditions converging on the top of the world has a much more important objective than to achieve a certain point for the first time through the air. What matters in the long run is the abbreviation of trade routes.

The view of the northern hemisphere as seen from the end of the earth's axis is so unfamiliar a survey that it is almost impossible to procure a map that represents it. Yet from such a standpoint the preponderance of the world civilization above instead of below the Equator is strikingly manifest. Besides North America and Europe, the bulk of Africa the entire penisula of India, the whole of the vast mainland of Asia and a considerable part of South America lie north of the median line. This summer's expeditions will make large inroads on the shrinking white space beyond the Artic Circle. By photography they will map tracts that it would take years of land and sea travel to chart. And with air control, we shall find unpredictable values in what was regarded as an uninhabitable desolation.

NO DEFENSE DAY

THERE will not be a defense day test this year. Possibly there will never be another, although these yearly muster days are authorized by the national defense act of 1920, which embodies the national defense policy of the United States. These tests were held in 1924 and 1925, but reports of the results were never published. There was a great deal of bungling in connection with them. The term, "Mobilization Day," used in 1924, roused the pacifists and more radical-minded peace societies. The war department's ill-advised recommendation for holding the test on Armistice day was another blunder. Shifting the date to July Fourth did not better the situation. The president's recommendation that congress be asked to fix a date was not followed. This year the war department seems to have abandoned the test. The law authorizing these muster days should either be made more specific or that clause of the national defense act should be repealed.

CANNY

It is evident from the way the number of bootleggers is increasing that they never drink their own stuff.

WHERE THE WETS WON

DOBSTOWN reported nine inches of rain one day last week. It was a continuous precipitation. Corpus Christi reported seven inches. "It came down in torrents. At points in the Magic Valley the precipitation was five inches. They had a drouth in these sections last year. In the long ago an old cowman said, "when it is dry in Texas it is dry as hell; when it rains in Texas it rains like hell."

A NEW FLAG

REPUBLICAN elements in Germany have been thrown into a furor by the government's adoption of a flag composed 90 percent of the old imperial colors and 10 percent of the new republican colors. The main body of the flag is black, white and red, up in the corner—the staff position—is a field of black, red and gold. It cannot accurately be called a new flag, for it is authorized in the constitution for use of the merchant marine. Sometime ago, however, the cabinet secretly ordered it to be flown over all foreign bureaus as well, and it was generally displayed in Hamburg the other day on occasion of a visit by President von Hindenburg. The government explains that this flag is a symbol of German unity. But as the sentiment of the country is about equally divided between monarchist and republican the shouters for the new order find themselves somewhat outshone. Those of the older dispensation take pleasure in feeling their oats.

A SPURNED PRIZE

SINCLAIR LEWIS has refused the Pulitzer prize of $1,000 bestowed on him for his novel, "Arrowsmith." He bases his renunciation on the fear that such prizes tempt authors to become "safe, polite, obedient and sterile." One can understand his point of view. Yet it does not appear that the award of the Nobel prizes in literature, since 1901, has tempered or mollified the intellectual independence of Rabindranath Tagore, Sienkiewiez, Roman Rolland, Anatole France, Rudyard Kipling and other recipients of the award.

In fact, the gesture of declination savors of the poseur. There are those to whom in various lines of endeavor a prize is a stimulus, an incentive, a real encouragement. It does not seem to have stultified the originality of artists and sculptors to receive the Prix de Rome, and the list contains the names of a number of forceful and creative craftsmen. To accept an honor which emphasizes the public appreciation of the work of an artist does not imply what Mr. Lewis chooses to call subservience.

HIS FUTURE SECURED

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Great Britain is singularly complacent about her rubber monopoly. Apparently it has given her an elastic conscience.

IT'S THE UPKEEP

It costs about five cents to make a brick, and about fifteen cents to have it laid.

DISCOURAGING WEATHER

THIS has been a discouraging spring for those writers who, at this season, love to misquote old Noll Goldsmith's sentiment to the effect that "winter lingering chills the lap of May." Spring is not what it used to be, perhaps; though there are some cynics who insist that it never was. It seems that the mutable and uncertain condition now observed by those who write today for tomorrow is called by the experts "spotty weather." And these same experts, while not unanimously agreeing, have their explanations to offer. But if the Irish poet had anything to do with the weather, another explanation might be possible—that he is tired of seeing the quotation, "Winter lingers in the lap of spring," with credit, if any, to Thompson, the Scot, just because the latter happened to write something about the seasons.

NO DROUTH THIS YEAR

FIFTEEN inches of rain fell in two days in some sections of South Texas. Farmers may be able to attend political gatherings or rallys this summer but not in the closing days of May or the early days of June. Jupiter Pluvius has knocked the plans or the programs of the politicians sky high.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

This Brutal Husband Should Make An Abject Apology—Shall He Marry the College Graduate Who Is a Whole Harem of Girls in One?—How the Halfway Girl Can Be Wholly Worthwhile.

Dear Miss Dix—I am the father of four children, and two months ago married my second wife, who is 17 years younger than I am. She is a dear little thing and the sweetest and kindest stepmother in the world, and my children adore her. She has never overstepped my authority until five nights ago. It happened like this:

I went out on a wild party, and when I came home she was sitting with my two older children helping them with their lessons. She started to kiss me, but when she found liquor on my breath she turned around without a word and went back to the children. This made me angry, and I spoke harshly to her and demanded my supper. She replied, "supper is served at 6, and I am sorry there is nothing left for you." I began to curse, and my temper had got so away with me that I snatched my little daughter and began to whip her brutally. My wife took the child from me by force and said, "you drunken fool, if you lay your hands on one of these children tonight, you have got me to fight," and I hit her in the face. Since then she has refused to have anything to do with me.

What must I do? Must I give in to her? I have always said that a woman should never boss me. I hate to think of a skirt getting the better of me, but I am willing to do as you say, for I really am

One Who Wants a Peaceful Home.

Answer:

Well, for one who wants a peaceful home, you have gone a strange way about attaining your heart's desire. Evidently your idea of making a peaceful home is the one employed by the late Mr. Bluebeard.

And, unfortunately for you, his methods are out of date. No woman in these times is going to submit to being knocked about, and then come crawling to the feet of a brute and apologize for having done the thing that angered him.

Apparently you have been lucky enough to get a rare and wonderful woman for a wife. A woman who has sweetness and gentleness and dignity and strength of character. And I can tell you right now that you can't brow-beat that kind of a woman, nor bully her, nor cow her. The only way to deal with her is with fairness and justness and kindness.

Your own sense of justice, your own conscience must tell you that she handled a difficult situation with consummate tact. You came home with your breath smelling of bootlegger booch. Can you blame any delicate, refined woman for not wanting to kiss you under the cricumstances? What is there alluring in a kiss that smells disguistingly? And why should your wife go out and prepare you another supper when you did not think it worth while to come to the one that she did prepare, when you preferred the society of your wild friends to being home with her?

As for your striking your little defenseless child just because you were angry—because you were a drunken beast—do you not really admire your wife for having the courage to defy you, and protect the child, instead of standing supinely by and letting you wreak your senseless rage upon it?

And let me tell you Mr. Man, that it is only a very little-spirited man who is afraid of being bossed by his wife that he is not willing to be influenced by her when all that she is trying to do is to make him behave like a man instead of like a brute. A big man is not afraid of taking a woman's advice, and being guided by her along the right way.

YAP-A-NEE

—By—

BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

Out on the rustic causeway again, walking through the village with the wonderful green water showing through the slats of the pathway, and the tall black roofs, skull-crowned, lifting above, he was pulled up by a loud, sudden wailing, that came from one of the houses.

"What's the matter, Aut?" he asked the chief, who was following him.

"One girl we been shutten up free moon."

"What's that to howl over?" He knew about the shutting up of girls; a marriageable bell, sometimes was closely confined in a dark house for months at a time, to bleach her complexion, and incidentally to keep her from promiscuous flirtations, until the day of handing over to the bridegroom should arrive. He knew that the girls did not object to this at all; in fact, they rather liked it. In the cool duck houses there was nothing to do but lie on the floor, eat, chatter with the other women, sleep and eat again.

"Man belong him he go catchem birdly-paladise for Sinaman!"

"Her man went to get birds of paradise for the Chinaman—seems you've a Chink trader somewhere. Well?"

"Man-a-bush he killem, altogether kal-kis him."

"Bushmen at him, did they? Then she's a widow before she's a bride. Hard luck. May I have a look?"

Atu eyed him narrowly. He knew the white man to be very aged, according to native ideas; old enough this many years to have seen his son's son—which is decrepitude, almost among the dark people of New Guinea.

"Marster, you no go along that house; no fashion belong Tabati" was his verdict. Howe laughed; he was not really very curious.

But the girl was burned up with curiosity. She had heard; she had peeped a little, through a secret slit in the roof; she felt she must see more or die. A strange white man in Tabati! Such a thing had not happened within her memory. There was a Dutch missionary who sometimes came to preach; once in a way a trader wandered in. Nothing like this splendid man, in the dazzling white suit, with the noble bearing, and the admirable fatness!

The man who had bought her was dead. She was extremely glad, though she had spent most of the day at intervals, wailing according to custom. She was no man's property, for the time. She had a right to look. She would!

So it came about that Saonek, boldest and fairest of the girls of Tabati and of many villages round, sent the proprieties crashing, and out of her guarded isolation dared to put forth her head.

Howe saw her; saw the horrified matrons drag her back again. She was, bar none, the best-looking native girl he had ever seen. Fine oval face, good features, hair a feather-brush of curls; eyes like balls of water—golden water, swimming, floating eyes; no white woman had the like. Skin, after the bleaching, color of old ivory; figure, cunningly outlined with red paint, a sculptor's dream. Little, fine fingers that clutched hard on the doorway when the matrons pulled her back. She wanted to look at him. She liked to look at him——

Conway Howe stood in a dream. He remembered with old inconsequence Mrs. Conway Howe of so many years agone; the tepid marriage that had turned out well enough; the dullness, the stupid satisfactions. He remembered the girl—not quite a girl; very well connected—whose people "expected" something of him. She was a good girl. She had rather nice eyes. She went in for social service——Oh, blow!

Atu, watching him, read his thoughts as Howe might have read a letter that dealt with things forseen, familiar, in one sweep of his eye. He realized the expression or horror—purely tribal—that he had been carefully preserving, for the benefit of the other girls, still young and free, who clustered, murmuring and laughing, about the rear of the procession. He was not at all surprised when Howe, with a finger accustomed to command, motioned him away from the crowd. "Who is the father of this girl?" asked Howe. "When can I see him?"

Far out from the mainland of Dutch New Guinea lies Sorcekwari, a long island shaped like a bow. There is a trifle of civilization in Humboldt's Bay, at the settlement of Hollandia—a resident, almost white; a couple of missionaries and a fistful of Chinese feather-traders. Nobody comes there; the six-weekly boat that links Hollandia to the Moluccs Islands calls never; trading vessels, if such rare birds hap pen to pass, go on to the great mountainous islands of Yappen and Sorong, where you can buy gum dammar and paradise skins.

North of Sorcekwari there is nothing at all, for two thousand five hundred miles, right to Japan, save tiny flying specks of the Pelews.

In the middle of the biggest island, Conway Howe had built a house; a fine native house, brown as a bird's nest, made of bush timber, and thatched with sage palm.

It was a palace of a place, according to New Guinea standards; and it owned a feature that distinguished it from all other white men's houses on the coast—a lagi-lagi house.

Built out in the lagoon, on high piles, decorated with dangling shells that tinkled in the breeze, and waving banners of many colored fiber, fenced about on its platform, as a lagi-lagi house, sacred to the male, must be, the place gave the note to Sorcekwari. It was New Guinea savagery under the hand of the white. Howe was the chief of the lagi-lagi; Howe presided at the huge feasts of turtle and of pig, sat, silent iron-faced, while the initiations of the young men into manhood went on, accompanied by ordeals traditional to the race; learned and led the dances that passed away night after night of merry full-moon time; armed his little tribe with weapons that made it king tribe of the coast; and won the terrified admiration of every soul on the island, and the reverence due to the greatest of sorcerers, by means of a five-pound box of conjuring tricks from Gamage's.

Sacnek, queen of Sorcekwari and most beautiful of native girls lived in heaven. Her wonderful white man never set her to work in the yam gardens far away on the mainland, where other girls had to go; never sent her carrying water from the spring at the end of the big island, or cutting fuel in the forest. She wore no foreign clothes, only her own pretty and decent little skirt of colored bark cloth, and her own scented, necklaces

Lyrics of Life

By

Douglas Malloch

A quiet and a gentle man,
He moves among his velvet trays,
And we who come his wares to scan,
Or on some glittering gem to gaze,
Think only of a jeweler,
Nor see a fine philosopher.

Yet he, and others of his trade,
Have learned a truth for all mankind:
In diamonds on velvet laid
A gleaming radiance we find,
If laid upon a tray of glass
The eye might miss, the world might pass.

And joy must have its backgrounds, too:
Unseen by day, the stars by night
Rain beauty from a deeper blue,
We had not seen in skies too bright.
For this has strengthened our belief;
Not days of joy, but nights of grief.

Against the background of the years
Old memories more brightly glow,
What mattered, after all, the tears?
For now we see the long ago
In all its beauty—now survives
Each jeweled moment of our lives.

What Do You Know About It?

Daily Science Six

1. What is the commonest vegetable fibre in use today?
2. What are the chief wool-producing regions of the world?
3. What animals besides sheep are used for wool?
4. What part of the flax plant is used to make linen fibre?
5. What fibre is used in gunny-sacks?
6. What Mexican fibre has recently become of great importance?

VEGETABLE LAMB

One of the strangest superstitions known to science is that of the vegetable lamb. When the soldiers of Alexander the Great entered India as conquers, for the first time they saw Cotton growing. They could not imagine any fibre as soft and white and fluffy as that to be anything but some kind of wool. In fact when the veterans of Alexander's wars came home and told their adventures to their grandchildren, and got to telling whoppers as veterans always do, they related that in India grew a sheep whose hoofs were rooted in the ground and from whose back the Indians cut vegetable wool. The superstition survives in the German name for cotton, "Baumwolle," or "tree wool."

Now what do you know about that?

Answer's to yesterday's questions:

1. Clouds are seldom known at heights greater than five miles.
2. A cumulus cloud is the big woolly and billowy cloud usually seen on a hot summer afternoon, and brings showers and thunder storms.
3. A nimbus cloud is a flat black sheet seen often at sea and brings violent electric or wind storms, or in winter heavy snow.
4. Clouds often settle on the ground, but are then called fog.
5. Clouds are held in the sky by an upward-rising current of warm air.
6. Clouds drop their moisture when not supported by an upward-rising current of warm air, or when they reach cold strata which bring them to the super-saturation point.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Today's planetary aspects are decidedly adverse and although better conditions are glimpsed from time to time, these are only periods of very brief duration and do not justify any excursions into the unknown or untried. It will be found advisable to devote all your energies to the conscientious carrying out of customary duties and the day can safely be considered an unpropitious one for the launching of any new enterprise, or for the effecting of any radical change. It will be necessary to exercise a good measure of self-control, as there will be sensed a marked tendency to impulsiveness and "going off at half-cock."

Children born today, although destined to escape any serious ailments during infancy, will be subjected to a variety of minor sicknesses, all of which can be alleviated by careful nutrition and healthy environment. The signs denote that they will attain physical normalcy long before they reach maturity. Their dispositions, while not as cheerful as they might be, will be readily amenable to affectionate influence, and obedience to those they love will be one of their most engaging traits. They will display keen interest in their studies and will readily assimilate what they read, or what is taught them.

If today is your birthday, you are exceptionally talented and bright, and are quite conscious of the fact. This self-appreciation, exaggerated as it is, tends to make you rather overbearing and domineering. You lack an appreciation of money for money's sake and your aspirations are entirely for power, in the office, the home or social circle. You want to outshine everyone else, not for any gain, but, for the satisfaction of personal pride.

You forget that "to know the pains of power, we must go to those who have it. To know its pleasures, we must go to those who are seeking it. The pains of power are real, its pleasures imaginary."

Your home life could be rendered much happier, if you were disposed to be more conciliatory. Your social relations would be more pleasant if you were not always coveting the position of others.

Successful people born this date are:

John Lowell, Philanthropist.
Matthew Vassar, Philanthropist.
Septimus Winner, composer.
Theodore D. Wilson, naval constructor.
Charles Fairbanks, senator.
Irving Berlin, song writer.

THE NOSE
An Appreciation.
By Florence Babcock Hawkins.

The Nose!
Why is so little written about it?
Vainly will you search the poets,
Eyes of cerulean blue,
Ears like pink shells of the sea,
Brow of alabaster serene,
Lips like cherry blossoms——
But not a line about the nose!
Is it something
Merely to be sneezed at?
Ah, the nose!
High arched, dilating nostrils
Like bellows to the flame of
Passion and evil!
Drawing in the subtle incense
Borne on the reath of the wind—
Or the pollen of ragweed
And goldenrod!
The bootlegger's delight!
What a beautiful target on the Face of an enemy!
Why, oh why do poets scorn it?
Search me!
Maybe YOUR nose knows!

'Cat Eyed Lil' Caught by Police On Robbery Charge

SAN ANTONIO, May 10.—(AP) A young maid, dubbed "Cat Eyed Lil" by the police who suspect her of being implicated in several gem thefts in San Antonio recently, in which loot worth hundreds of dollars was taken, was in the city jail today.

She was returned to this city from Laredo by Detective George J. Stendebach, who drove a police emergency car to the border city between Sunday afternoon and 5 a. m. Monday.

Occupying the back seat of the automobile by preference, the woman refused to talk of her alleged implication in the robberies here.

Whether any jewelry was recovered with the woman's arrest was not divulged.

The young woman was being questioned today by Chief of Detectives Sam Street.

Preliminary questioning of the woman, Chief Street said, brought information which he believes will enable the police to connect her with at least one important robbery here and will implicate several men as her accomplices. One man is now being held at a local army post, Chief Street said.

Two men are now held at Shreveport and an amount of jewelry has been recovered which officers here will attempt to identify as that taken from San Antonio homes.

SOCIETY

Choral Club Appears Monday In Pleasing Final Year's Concert

Presenting the last concert of the season, members of the Woman's Choral club under the direction of Mrs. Luella B. Thompson appeared in a varied program of choruses and solo numbers at the First Christian church Monday evening. Assisting the club and proving popular with the audience was the String Symphony orchestra directed by Ethel Allen Nelson.

The concert was the third given by the Choral club during the winter and spring, marking the close of an unusually successful year for the organization.

A large crowd enjoyed the program and a part of the free will offering will be donated to the Day Nursery building fund.

Those taking solo parts in the choral numbers were Mesdames Wayne J. Holmes, soprano; Walter M. Priddy, mezzo soprano; Rev. Leslie Miller, tenor.

The program was opened with a group of numbers played by the symphony orchestra, the First Movement, from the Military Symphony, (Haydn); Menuetto all Antico (G. Karganoff); Melodie (Rudolf Friml). The personnel including Thomas Blanton, Vivian Railey, Mary Meredith, Francis Johnson, Clyde Bruner, Herbert Crosslin, Dorothy McDonald, Henrietta, Rebecca Meadows, Charlotta Miller, Electra, Harriet Bradley, Mrs. Mary Calvin, Bennie McGlasson, Henrietta, Monterey Lewis, Bertha Sholtz, Mrs. F. A. Harrison, Mrs. H. H. Haggard, Joseph Rabinowitz, Minerva Price Rhoades of Vernon, Mathilda Donnell, Anelee Womack, Edna Rhader, Mrs. J. C. V. T. Christensen and William Donnell.

Mrs. Wayne Holmes and Mrs. Priddy gave two duets, "By the Waters of the Minnetonka (Lieurance), and "Water Lilies," (Reichardt) "Mained's Wish" (Chopin) and "Goin' Home" (Dvorak), and gave the cantata, "A Midsummer Night" (Paul Bliss). The Rev. Leslie Miller gave "Celeste Aida" (Verdi) accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lucile B. Huff.

Christian Endeavor Program on Home

Members of the Floral Heights Presbyterian Christian Endeavor met at the church Sunday evening when the subject of the lesson was "How to Build Happy Homes." J. T. Morrow was leader for the evening and talked on the lesson.

The Rev. E. F. McGaughey gave the invocation. Miss Velma Pearce gave the origin of "Mother's Day," and Miss Wilabel Griffin talked on "The Heart of the Home." Miss Cora Lee Morrow gave for a reading, "Kissing the Pain Away," and Miss Ruth Etta Martin gave a piano solo. Miss Valta Wilson gave "the Home Reading" and Miss Dorothy VanDeventer, a violin solo accompanied at the piano by Mrs. VanDeventer.

"The Home Reaching Out" was given by Miss Elsie Mae Shofe. Miss Thelma Adams sang "Mother Machree." Miss Cecil Dunlap gave "The Christian Endeavor at Home," and Miss Burgess Eason gave for a reading "A Mother." Miss Annie Anderson talked on "Home Mistakes," Miss Margaret McCandles gave for a reading, "Wear a Flower for Mother." Two solos, "The Little Grey Mother on the West" and "Memories" were sung by J. T. Morrow, and Miss Guyrene Rettig talked on "The Poor Homes."

There were 50 present and Miss Velma Pearce was appointed leader for the meeting nxt Sunday vening.

SENIOR WEEK TO BE BUSY

35th Graduating Class Has Active Period Ahead Of It

The program for senior week of the graduating class of the Wichita Falls high school is filled with interesting things, according to the sponsor, Mrs. Anna Witherspoon. From sunrise to midnight, the final activities of the thirty-fifth graduating class will keep more than a hundred boys and girls busy before the class disbands.

Activities for the week follow:

SUNDAY

Baccalaureate sermon, 11 o'clock, Junior college, by Dr. Paul Henry Packard, pastor of Highland Heights Christian church.

MONDAY

A sunrise breakfast and swim will be held at the Country club.

Estelyn Allday will be hostess to the class at a dance at the Kemp hotel in the evening.

TUESDAY

A matinee party in the afternoon will be one of the features of senior week.

In the evening Bernice Sauer will entertain for the seniors at the Wichita club.

WEDNESDAY

Thelma Fisher will be hostess to the class on the Fisher farm near the river where an all-day picnic will be held.

The day will conclude with a treasure hunt beginning in the evening when the students will search over town for the treasure.

THUSDAY

A swimming party will be held in the morning; a hay ride at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and a costume theatre party in the evening.

FRIDAY

The last day proves to be one of the quietest of the week, according to the calendar, though it begins early with a German breakfast at Lake Wichita pavilion; the graduation exercises will be held in the evening at the Junior college.

The final event for the seniors of 1925-26 will be the farewell banquet at the Kemp hotel following the awarding of diplomas.

Woman Shoots Rival Then Gives Self Up

OKMULGEE, Okla., May 10.—(AP)—Alleging that her victim has attempted to break up her home, Mrs. Grover Beavers at Henryetta today shot and probably fatally wounded Mrs. Pearl Hart, former wife of Homer Hart.

Following the shooting Mrs. Beavers returned to her home a short distance from the Hart home and sent her two daughters, 9 and 11 years old to school after giving them money to buy their luncheon and telling them she probably would not be home at noon.

She went to the office of Mayor J. W. Orendorf where she surrendered herself and talked freely to the officers concerning events which led to the shooting.

Seattle Pioneer Claimed by Death

SEATTLE, May 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Alice Mercer Bagley, one of the two survivors of a little band that gathered in the blockhouse here when the Indians attacked Seattle in 1856, died in her home here yesterday where she had lived for forty years. The other survivor of the Indian raid is Mrs. Gussie Graham of Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. Pagley was born in Princeton, Ills., in 1848 and crossed the prairies in a covered wagon with others whose names later became synonymous with Seattle civic and industrial history.

Contract Signed By Upham—Taylor, Ewart For Bond Purchase

A contract has been signed, it was announced Monday by Gordon K. Gould of Taylor, Ewart and company Chicago bonding house whereby his firm will purchase and market the $4,000,00 bond issue of the Upham Gas company which is to build a new natural gas line from the Panhandle fields in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Gould was in the city Monday conferring with Wichita Falls men interested in securing the line, and stated that the contracts between his concern and the Upham interests already had been executed. The Chicago firm which Mr. Gould represents is one of the acknowledged leaders in the bonding world.

The new pipe line will bring a supply of industrial gas from the Panhandle fields for distribution to Wichita manufacturing concerns. It will also supply gas to intermediate communities north of here—Iowa Park, Electra, Vernon, Chillicothe, Quanah, Childress and other points having contracted to utilize liberal amounts of gas each year.

Ludlam Buys Out Riggs' Interest

The purchase by Gus C. Ludlam of the interest of John S. Riggs in the firm of Ludlam & Riggs, men's clothing and furnishings store, 723 Eighth Street, was announced Monday.

Mr. Riggs will go to Spur, Texas, to be associated with his brother-in-law in the electric power and ice business, having purchased an interest in the Spur company. He intends to leave soon for his new home.

Active manager of Ludlam & Riggs for the past four years, Mr. Riggs has been prominent in business and civic affairs of the city and has wide acquaintance here. He is a member of Rotary and other clubs.

Mr. Ludlam will be in more active charge of the store than in the past. He has lived in Wichita Falls for the past year, having purchased a home on Speedway avenue several months ago. He is representative for the Edwin Clapp company, shoe manufacturers of Boston, Mass.

Leonard L. Smith, who has been with the firm ever since its opening, will be associated with Mr. Ludlam as manager. Mr. Smith has lived in Wichita Falls all his life and is well known.

The firm of Ludlam & Riggs has enjoyed unusual popularity and is rated as one of the smartest shops for men in the city.

Sunshine Mixed With Rain Comes To City Monday

Weather of an in-and-out type again appeared Monday as Wichita Falls' portion from the climatic gods. It was a day of rain, sunshine, clouds, wind and dust all mixed up in a homogenous period that kept the town guessing what would come next.

A sudden storm that rolled in with savage fury just after daylight brought the usual rain. It was comparatively brief, but while it lasted a total of .45 inch fell. The sky cleared somewhat after that and the rest of the day was partly cloudy. A brisk wind prevailed most of the time and aided in holding the thermometer down to an 85 degree maximum. The minimum for the day was 75.

Indications were for continued unsettled weather Tuesday.

Play Scenes to Be Put On Air

Two scenes of "What Price Glory," the latest and most sensational stage production from New York, will be broadcasted over station WRR at Dallas, Tuesday night at 11:30 p. m. This play will make its debut in Wichita Falls for the week beginning May 16 with the Edgar Mason players at the Majestic Theatre.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillip's Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For 50 years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Extremely Low Rates—All Rail Lines

they all want it—
only two can build it

The super-efficient Knight sleeve-valve engine is patented. But two makers of privately-owned passenger-cars are entitled to use it. Willys-Knight is one of the two.

This is the mighty engine of the Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan—an engine you'll never wear out—the only type of engine in the world that improves with use.

It is one of the great features responsible for the sale of over 25,000 Willys-Knight Great Sixes in the last twelve months—a sales-record that has never before been equaled in the same length of time, we believe, by any luxury car.

Ten years ago, a distinct advance over all other motor-car engines—today this power-plant of the Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan holds first place. No engine in the world excels it in efficiency. It lends itself to the modern idea of high-speed engine construction as no other engine does.

The Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan is powered with the same type of engine that holds the three world's records by which all automobile efficiency is measured—the world's record for the highest sustained speed; the world's record for the greatest power-development, throughout its entire range, ever reached per cubic-inch of piston displacement; the world's record for high-gear hill-climbing . . .

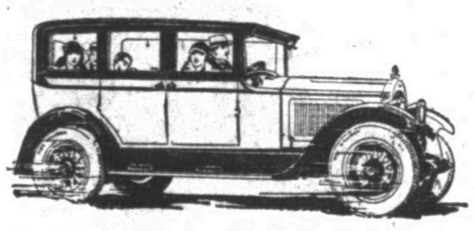
So sweeping has been the public's recognition of this motor's superiority that last month we built more Knight-engined cars than ever were built in any previous month in history . . .

The Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan is a stranger to the service-shop. It has no carbon troubles, no valves to grind—the Knight sleeve-valve engine needs practically no adjustments, no repairs . . .

Don't fail to see this super-powerful, Great Six Sedan at your earliest opportunity. Its unique power-plant in the superbly-built Willys-Knight chassis has been surrounded with such luxury and elegance and comfort that engineering authorities concede it to be one of the world's ten finest automobiles.

• • • •

The pronounced success of the Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan, in its first year and since, paved the way for the introduction this last Spring of the new "70" Willys-Knight Six—a car of 113¼ inch wheelbase, which outperforms anything that ever was built of its size or type or class. "70" Willys-Knight Six Sedan, $1495; touring, $1295.



The Willys-Knight Great Six Sedan, at $2295, has every quality a fine car should have plus the patented Knight sleeve-valve motor that improves with use.

OIL DEALERS DECLARE WAR ON STANDARD

Independents Claim Large Companies Attempt Freeze-out

DALLAS, May 10.—(AP)—An oil war has been declared by independent dealers against what they term the dominating oil corporations.

The Independent Oil Dealer's association of Dallas began today the formation of a state association of independents and expect to call a state convention to consolidate their forces for a battle with the oil giants.

The fight grows out of the recent raise of two-cents a gallon in gasoline an alleged attempt of the big companies to force a "strangle hold" lease contract on the independents.

The lease contracts, according to H. O. Dooley, chairman of the independent associations, will result in the big companies taking over the independent stations for a year and the dealers, he said, will become only agents working on a commission.

Unless the independents sign the new contracts, Dooley said, they would be left to sell gasoline without a profit, which would mean that they would go out of business.

These results have followed the return of the Standard Oil company to the state after having been ousted for several years.

C. C. Hayley, an official of the Independent association, has been assigned to arrange for the proposed state convention, and is now communicating with dealers all over the state. A board meeting of the Independent association is to be called tomorrow to fix the date for convention.

"Our only hope is to organize and stick together throughout the state," Hayley said. "The Dallas independent cannot fight the trusts alone. I predict that the first move of the big companies will be to offer us a five-cent profit to pacify us temporary. This will catch a few of the weak independents, but those with vision realise that we must fight now or soon be swallowed up. Temporary measures will not do."

Hayley consulted councel of the independent association today to determine on legal steps for forming the state association and conduct the state-wide fight.

According to Dooley, the contract now offered by the companies provides that the independent retailer transfer his lease to the big companies for 12 months with the exclusive right to sell their own products in his station.

He explained that the fight was chiefly an attempt to drive independent refineries out of the state, leaving the field solely to several large companies closely allied Mayley said the field here is dominated by the Magnolia Petroleum company, which was recently purchased by the Standard Oil company. The Magnolia sets the price and the other companies, the Texas, the Gulf, and the Humble refining companies follow suit, he said.

Underworld War Costs Six Lives

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—(AP) Warfare in Philadelphia's underworld has taken six lives within a month and the police today did not see any signs of a truce.

The latest victim, Harry Burton, was riddled with bullets yesterday by six men whose action the authorities believe was in revenge for the wounding of a member of a rival gang.

Burton was bound for a magistrate's office for a hearing on charges of having been implicated in the shooting last week of Charles Warkman of Brooklyn, when his assailants crowded his automobile to the curb and opened fire with pistols and sawed off shotguns. The six men, believed to be New Yorkers, escaped before the police arrived.

Authorities said Burton was a man of "big affairs" in the underworld and that reprisals were to be expected. Recently he was said to have become connected with a New York gang of bootleggers and speak-easy operators and the police believe he had broken with them over division of profits.

Letters Stack Up For Air Postman

FORT WORTH, May 10.—(AP)—With more than 5,000 letters already at the postoffice for delivery on the first north-bound flight of the Chicago-Fort Worth-Dallas air mail service Wednesday, the first cargo from here is expected to reach 10,000 pieces of first class mail.

Many pieces of mail already left with the postal authorities were sent by stamp collectors, while others carry greetings and advertising matter of the chamber of commerce and other announcing the opening of the mail route.

News of the Fields

Hammon, Waggoner

Wayne Hammon and associates have completed their No. 8 J. Waggoner test in B. S. & F. survey, section 11, Wichita county as a dry hole at 1850 feet. The well had no sand.

Sun, Kunkle

The Sun company is looking for the sand below 1100 feet in its No. 6 Kunkle test approximately 1500 feet to the south and east of production in the Carey pool and in BBB&C survey, section 11.

Cook & Reeder, Massie

Cook & Reeder were drilling at 1112 feet in lime Monday and will be looking for the sand within the next 20 feet in their No. 1 Ray & Massie fee in the Thomas McCoy survey, Archer county.

Golding, O'Donnell

Golding & Cochran have abandoned their No. 1 O'Donnell test in block 14 of the Crawford pasture subdivision as a dry hole at 1310 feet. The test had sand from 1290-1300 which was tested and bailed salt water.

Baytex, Snedecker

The Baytex Oil company is shut down waiting repairs to rig on its No. 1 Snedecker in the J. Robbins survey, Jack county, approximately one and one-half miles to the north of Antelope. The test had a show which bailed some oil from 776-77 feet but drilled into shale in which formation it is now shut down.

Chenault, Rachuig

N. B. Chenault and associates are looking for sand in their No. 1 Rachuig test located 150 feet in the northwest corner of their lease in BBB&C survey, section 4, north Young county.

Lomax, Wilson

Thornton Lomax is drilling at 1370 feet and double holing for sand in his No. 1 Wilson test in the Wm. Walker survey, Archer county.

McElreath, Suggett, Snider

McElreath & Suggett and the Phillips Petroleum interests have made location for their No. 2 Snider to be 340 feet to the north of No. 1 in the R. Wilson survey, north Young county. No. 1 after deepening made 16 barrels initial on the swab. Sand in the test is now from 579-88 feet with the bottom of the hole at 594.

F. H. E., Hynds

The F. H. E. Oil company has completed its No. 4 Hynds well in the J. Wall survey, Montague county as a 200-barrel, 30 gravity oil producer on the swab from sand 890-906 feet. No. 5, 300 feet to the north will be spudded today. The same operators are drilling at 1175 in their No. 2 Salmon, an offset to Daniels & Rutis in the Sam Little survey. The well will be drilled to 1200 feet and then plugged back to the 900 feet sand from which No. 1 is producing.

Carter, Cowan

Roy Carter has cemented casing at 1052 feet on top of sand preparatory to drilling in his No. 6 Cowan in block 61 of the Jefferson county school lands, Archer county.

Maer & Staniforth, Meade

Maer & Staniforth have spudded and are drilling on their No. 1 Meade test located 450 feet north and 150 feet east of the southwest corner of block 140 of the Meade Pasture subdivision.

Jackson-Kemp & Bean, Fee

Jackson, Bean & Kemp are drilling at 1500 feet in their No. 1 test on their Fee land located six miles to the north of Wichita Falls on the Burkburnett road.

Texhoma, Demgen

The Texhoma Oil & Refining company is drilling at 1192 feet in its No. 1 Demgen test located 682 feet south and 1357 feet west of the northeast corner of block 18, league 3 of the Denton county school lands.

Texas Co., Maddox

The Texas company is waiting on cement in its No. 1 Maddox test, a semi-wildcat 2500 feet to the west of the Rowland production in the John Chambliss survey. A saturated sandy lime was topped in the test at 1988 feet.

Red Bank, Parrott

Red Bank Oil company No. 1, Parrott, block 971, Premium survey, Throckmorton county, which was brought in some time ago, produced 516 barrels the last 24 hours. The sand was topped in the well at 3937 feet, and the present total depth is 3967. The company is rigging up for No. 2, Parrott, and building rig for No. 8, Parrott, both of which offset the producer.

The southwest diagonal offset to No. 1 Parrott, is Red Bank's No. 1 Elliott, in block 974, which test has just spudded in and rig is building for No. 2, Elliott, directly south of No. 2.

New Panhandle Line

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—The Gulf Oil corporation has completed its 40-mile eight-inch pipe line from near Panhandle, Texas, to the Producing & Refining company, which can handle 20,000 barrels a day. The line was put in operation Friday, taking oil from the jointly owned Dial No. 6, the first well completed since Gulf and Panhandle joined their properties in that district.

Wildcat Cores Pay

Reiter-Foster corporation took another core Friday in No. 1 De Long, about seven miles southwest of the Mexia, Texas, proven field, the depth at which core was taken, being 2,892 feet, the core showing both oil and gas. An interesting feature in connection with this test is that it is located on the secondary fault, and is four miles south of the Ross test drilled by the Transcontinental Oil company. The Reiter-Foster test is near a small station known as Thelma.

AUTHORIZE CAMP.

AUSTIN, May 10.—(AP)—The United States government has authorized an expenditure of approximately $99,000 for construction at the Texas National guard camp at Camp Palacios, and three bids were received at National Guard headquarters here today. The bids will be forwarded to Washington for letting.

STANDARD OIL DENIES STATE TRUST CHARGE

Missouri Attempts to Oust Standard, Texas Co., And White Eagle

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 10. (AP)—The Standard Oil company of Indiana today filed its answer to the state anti-trust law suit seeking to oust it from Missouri or have it fined along with the Texas company, the White Eagle Oil & Refining company and the Standard Oil company of Kentucky.

General denial was made of all accusations entered in the information filed Dec. 12, 1925, which marked the resumption of litigation started prior to 1900.

The Standard Oil company of Indiana and other oil companies were ousted from Missouri in a supreme court decision March 9, 1909. Four years later the court suspended the writ of ouster against the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

In September, 1924, the present action was initiated when the attorney general filed a motion to vacate the order suspending the writ of ouster.

The answer filed today denies that the Standard Oil company of Indiana has at any time since 1913 violated any Missouri law and that the company never has entered into any agreements with the other companies named or any companies which have restrained trade or established or attempted to establish a monopoly.

PERJURY PUNISHABLE.

Offense Not Outlawed for Periods of Six Years.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—Perjury in making out income tax returns when committed for the purpose of defrauding the United States, can not be punished when more than three years have expired between the commission of the offense and the filing of the indictment.

The supreme court so held today in a case against Solomon Noveck of the firm of S. Noveck & Company, New York City. The government had argued that such offenses could be punished at any time within six years.

WIND AND RAIN

Creek in Delta county were in the path of the storm and in these communities the damage suffered was of the same character and of about the same extent as in the other localities.

The greatest damage was done by the hail, reports generally agreeing that the hail stones were about the size of eggs. At 2 p. m., today numerous reports that hail drifts several feet thick had formed reached Paris.

The extent of the storm had not been learned late this afternoon due to crippled wire service. Early reports, however, indicated a stricken area of more than thirty miles long and from five to seven miles in width.

DENTON HOMES DAMAGED BY HAIL

DENTON, May 10.—(AP)— Hail here Monday caused damage which will amount to thousands of dollars. Windows in schools and homes, and damage to crops in the county were serious.

About 12 miles northeast of Denton a hail storm Monday morning wiped out farmcrops in a considerable area. Rain Monday morning also cost farmers in all parts of Denton county many thousands of dollars in damage to grain crops.

TORNADO STRIKES OIL FIELD DERRICK

GAINSVILLE, May 10.—(AP)—Earl Robinson, oil well driller, is in a hospital suffering from injuries sustained when a small tornado struck the derrick of a wildcat well near Bulcher today. Robinson was under the derrick when the tornado struck, tearing the derrick to pieces and sending heavy timebrs down upon the man.

A horse was killed and half a dozen small buildings blown down this afternoon in the neighborhood of Thackerville, Oklahoma, 13 miles north of Gainesville.

TORRENTIAL RAINS FALL AT LONGVIEW

LONGVIEW, May 10.—(AP)—Torrential rains, accompanied by wind of high velocity this afternoon damaged residences and business property in the eastern part of Longview and cut off light and power service. The damage will not exceed $5,000.

HAIL CAUSES LOSS OF $20,000 IN TYLER

TYLER, May 10.—(AP)—Twenty thousands of dollars damage was done to tomato plants in the section southwest of Tyler Monday afternoon by hail and rain. Only a small area was affected. Farmers carried some insurance.

FIRST REPORTS FOR OKLAHOMA SHOW INCREASE

Twenty-three Active Counties Report 125 New Wells Starting

TULSA, Okla., May 10.—Oklahoma's active counties numbering 23, show an increase in "first reports" for the fiscal week, the total number of well starting being 125, as compared with 117 for the previous week.

Okmulgee county, which held fourth place the week before, is in the lead with 24 "first reports," and Creek county again holds second place with 19, whereas Osage county which headed the list with 23 the previous week, is third in line with but 11.

Garfield county shows ten new ones starting, giving this county fourth place, while Okfuskee and Seminole each report nine. Hughes county follows with seven and Carter shows six tests starting.

Three counties report five each, being Grady, Stephens and Tulso. The four counties which report two each are Lincoln, Pawnee, Payne and Pontotoc, while seven report one each, there being Garvin, Kay, Marshall, Muskogee, Noble, Pottawatomie and Waggoner counties.

AGREE ON FLEET

Cousin of King Cooks for Helpers In British Strike

LONDON, May 10.—(AP)—Lady Louise Mountbatten, cousin of King George and famous for her fried sausage, has become the chief cook at the Hyde Park canteen for feeding men in charge of the government's food distribution. Some 600 transport workers sleep in the park in a circus tent which in the day time serves as a dining hall.

Lady Mountbatten's sausages and mashed potatoes have a popular call the first thing in the morning and all day long. The titled lady was awarded a diploma some years ago for cooking sausages in her particularly original way. She and her helpers, composed of society girls, debutantes and house wives, work on six-hour shifts. Lady Forbes had charge of cleaning and polishing knives.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED.

ST. PETERSBURGH, Fla., May 10.—(AP)—The body of Parker Watson, negro, who was taken from two deputies last night while being carried to the Clearwater jail, was found on a lonely road north of here today. A coroner's jury decided he had been shot to death by unidentified persons.

The two deputies were stopped last night by six armed men who took the negro and disappeared.

Evidence against Watson was to have been presented the grand jury today in nine cases of house breaking.

Dallas Building Permits Set Aside

DALLAS, May 10.—(AP)—Mayor Louis Blaylock with the city commission issued a proclamation today asking all building contractors in the city to abandon all projects not imperative, and turn to repair of the damage done by the hailstorm that will cost Dallas $2,000,000.

To facilitate reconstruction, Mayor Blaylock announced that property owners will not be required to take out building permits. The work can be done now and permits secured later, he said.

Lapan Slams Home Runs At Incorrect Intervals, So Houston Wins

BLAME IT ON PETE! HE BUSTS TWO FOR CIRCUIT, ONE DOUBLE WITH RUNWAYS UNPOPULATED

Williams Hurts Arm, Morgan Chunks Neat Ball, Laxity Afield Disastrous For Home Brigade

BY BLONDY CROSS.

As Fred Fulton remarked with a sly wink while taking his ninety-ninth flop, "Oh well, yuh can't expect to win 'em all."

Our noble Spudders worked a little bad baseball out of their systems in the seventh and eighth innings. Perhaps they feel a wee bit better now and are all set to win three more in a row, but it cost 'em yesterday. A trio of bobbles in one stanza and another in the other netted three runs for the wrong club. Houston took the second game, but not the second victory of the series, 6 to 4.

However, that's besides the issue. If there's any second guessing to be done let's do it like this:— to wit, et cetera—Somebody's got to teach Donald Peter Lapan, the boisterous Irish maskman with the French accent, to wield his shillelagh when there are Spudders on the paths, especially when slapping the pill to the home run zone.

Donald Peter trekked to the platter in the second frame with two away and none on, sighted to port and punched the sphere to left center for two bases. That didn't mean anything, because the next batter popped to short. Then in the fourth canto the obstreperous midget cantered to the pole, took another slant to left and then straightaway socked the first pitch to the uncultivated acreage back of the port wall. Donald was first to bat in that chapter, so naturally the runways weren't cluttered with athletes.

Those Home Runs

Kenneth Penner, the Buff flinger, struck out three Spudders in the sixth, but young Mr. Lapan was not one of these. The clamorous one toddled to the pan after two of Brainard's boys had swung viciously while connecting for naught. Had Kenner displayed anything similar to baseball business acumen he would have scented that cur Peter was bent on duplicating his fourth round disturbance, for the mighty mite tipped up the bill of his cap and squinted again far to left only this time a bit more toward the center field batting screen. The tumultous urchin then spat on his hands, straightened up, toed in deep, reared back and coyly clouted the intitial chunk one mile high and three, or maybe it was four, miles beyond the boundaries of the center field, clearing the barrier just a few feet west of the double-decked screen. That was almost all the Spudder attack for the day.

The domestics tabulated a couple in the third. Distel opened by teasing a base on balls from Kenner. Lamb dribbled a sacrifice bunt down the first base line, sending George to second. Then Pizzola produced the pinch poke, a resounding one-base streak to left just over the infield. George galloped home. Brainard forced Bodie at the keystone, but appropriated third on sharp one-cushion blast to right larruped by Washburn. With Fitz at bat, Mule set out to abscond with the keystone. Frank Goff, Buff backstop, uncorked a heave to the bag. Royce backed up momentarily while Brainard charged for the platter. The chunk was returned to Goff but too late. The skipper and his big first sacker had enacted a double steal, scoring a run. Fitz walked, but Turge went out swinging.

Penner Effective

Detouring around Lapan's homers, Penner was highly effective the rest of the way. He relieved Harold Haid in the first inning with the bases loaded and nobody out, whiffed the Spud boss and corkscrewed Wash into manufacturing a double play. Kenneth was in trouble momentarily during the ninth, but with Lapan at bat wouldn't pitch within reasonable distance of the plate with result the bombastic one was put on base via the four-ball route. The Spudders lost a bejeweled opportunity to tie or forge ahead on the tabulation in that couplet, but the less comment the better. We've already declared our second guess.

Carl Williams started on the hill for Wichita Falls, but retired after the second inning because of a jerked ligament. The big pitcher doesn't believe the damage is serious, declaring that with a little more rest he hopes to step just as good as ever. No runs came in during Carl's tenure on the knob.

Dick Heaves Well

Dick Morgan assumed the hurling agony in the third, chunked comparatively effective ball, in fact, a wonderful brand, but slow work afield coupled with a laxity in completing plays on the part of Dick himself was disastrous. A walk, a bit of forgetfulness on the part of an infielder who should have covered a certain sack when Demaggio laid down a sacrifice bunt allowed Bailey, the walkee, to advance two bases. A sacrifice hoist by Powell sent Gene across the plate.

Infield hits by Demaggio and Peel paired with a hit batsman and an infield out sent Nick home in the sixth. Peel and Goff put on a double pilfering foray for another run.

The same teams hook up in the final and deciding tiff this afternoon. Haid may come back for Houston. It looks like Paddy Martin on the dome with the Spudders.

Hack Miller Breaks Into Limelight With Brace Of Homers

DALLAS, May 10.—(AP)—Led by Hack Miller, who hit two home runs in succession for the second time this season, and Jim Riley, who got three hits, the Steers took the second game of the series from Waco Monday, 11-6. Tink Riviere made his debut as the 1926 pitcher but was relieved in the seventh inning by Love, who got credit for the victory Sunday.

Priesmuth worked for Waco and was hit hard throughout.

Cats Do As Usual

FORT WORTH, May 10.—(AP)—Calvo grounded out in the last of the ninth with a man on third and one on second and San Antonio copped 4 to 2 in the second game of the Bear-Panther series here this afternoon.

The Bruins took a one-run lead in the first, added a tally in the sixth, then plastered on another pair in the seventh as the Cats got two runs in the same frame. The Panthers were in a fair way to tie the score in the last of the ninth after Moore knocked a Texas leaguer to start a brief rally, E. Moore following suit, but failed for lack of bat power.

Watt went the route for San Antonio and held the Cats to six safe hits, his record being marred only by a pair of errors. North stayed until relieved by a pinch hitter in the seventh, Betts finishing. The score:

GOLF
As Champions Play It

Do you think the old saying that "the golfer who can putt is a match for any one" is true? Why?

By BILL STRACHAN
Wichita Falls Country Club Golf Professional

The saying above is most certainly true, in my opinion. This becomes apparent when you consider the old point—half the shots in par golf are allotted to putting. There is no course in the world (18 hole course) that doesn't allow 36 strokes for putting. If you dubb a drive or an approach shot, it is possible to make it up on the next try, but a putt wasted is a stroke wasted is a stroke gone beyond any chance of recovery; at least, that is the way I feel about it. A golfer who really wishes to take strokes off his score can erase them more surely on the putting green than anywhere else.

Petty's String Broken

CHICAGO, May 10.—(AP)—The long winning streak of Petty, who had pitched five winning games in a row, was broken today when the Cubs bunched hits behind erratic Brooklyn support, and shut out the league leaders in the first game of their series, 9 to 0. Fournier who had been out of the Brooklyn line up with a sprained ankle made his first appearance of the Robins' western swing today. The score:

Green Belt Golf Tournament Slated in Quanah May 25-27

ELECTRA, May 10.—The first executive board meeting of the executive board of the Green Belt Golf association was held in Quanah Sunday afternoon with representatives from Electra, Vernon, Quanah, Memphis and Altus, Okla., who compose the board being present. R. R. Gilliand of Quanah, the president of the association, presided at this meeting at which time rules were drawn up for the golf tournament which is to be held in Quanah, at the Country club May 25-26-27. An entrance fee of $2 will be charged each member of the clubs desiring to contest for the loving cup. These members must have been playing golf for the period of three months before they are eligible to enter the tournament. The elimination will be held on the first day while the climax of the tournament will be on Thursday, May 27, when the finals will be played.

Those counties composing the Green Belt Golf association are, 10 in Texas and five in Oklahoma, those in Texas being Wichita, Wilbarger, Baylor Hardeman, Ford, Cottle, Childress, Collinsworth, Donley and Hall with Tillman, Jackson, Greer, Harmon and Kiowa in Oklahoma, but only representatives from five counties as members of the executive board.

W. P. Slaton, the representative of Electra was present, other representatives being, Henderson and Vernon, Gilliland of Quanah, and Noel of Memphis, and White of Altus, Okla.

R. B. McGee, and William Calvert of Electra, prominent members of the golf club were also in attendance and announced that those of the local club who are to compete for the prizes in the tournament must begin work at once to try and carry off some of the honors.

Texas Hardware Defeats Texhoma

ELECTRA, May 10.—The Texas Hardware baseball team of the Electra Twilight league defeated the Texhoma club Monday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4. Mullen and Williams were both pitching good ball, but hits behind Mullen were more timely so he nosed out his opponent. Mix of the Hardware nine led the hitters with two bingles. The score:

Olney High School Beats Wichita Falls

OLNEY, May 10.—The Olney high school baseball team won its ninth consecutive game here this afternoon when it made merry with the Wichita Falls high school team, 18 to 1.

Kilcrease, on the hillock for the locals, struck out 13 visiting batsmen and yielded but 8 hits.

The Olney team, coached by Roy Aubrey, former college star, has not lost a game this season, winning all it has played but one, tying it.

A hit in the pinch is worth a couple when you're three runs ahead.

Longhorns Tag It On Farmers

COLLEGE STATION, May 10.—(AP) Billy Disch and Outfielder Schow defeated the Texas Aggies here today when in the final inning Texas scored the winning run. The final count was 7 to 6 in favor of Texas.

The Longhorns win over the Aggies today put them in a commanding position in the conference and virtually eliminates the Aggies from the race. The score:

VELCOFF TACKLES M'PERSON IN OPEN AIR MAT PROGRAM'S FEATURE EMBROGLIO TONIGHT

Card Marks First Outdoor Wrestling Of Current Season, Demetral Hooks Up With Olson

THE CARD

Nick Velcoff versus John McPherson. Heavyweights, finish match.
Harry Demetral versus Charley Olson. Middleweights, finish match.

Everything was declared in readiness last night by Matchmaker Alec Ross for tonight's banner wrestling card at the Eleventh and Ohio open air arena. The Olson-Demetral bout goes on the mat at 8:15 o'clock, said the promoter.

Two champions will be brought together in Velcoff and McPherson. The popular Bulgarian who has gained a host of friends in Wichita Falls by his sterling performances, win or lose, here in the past, recently beat George Guthrie, the Canadian heavyweight champion, in straight falls. So Nick's the Canadian champ now although he lays no claims to a title other than that of the Bulgarian championship, which may or may not mean much in this country. McPherson defeated all comers in Scotland and then jumped to the United States four months or so ago and has been winning right along over pretty tough opponents.

Local mat followers realize Velcoffs' prowess. They know little about the Scotchman, therefore Nick is the favorite.

Both Demetral and Olson are comparatively well known here. The Greek beat Bob Lester at the Majestic theatre several weeks ago. The winner of the match will be carded with Johnny Meyers, world's undisputed middleweight king, some time in June, according to Ross.

The bouts mark the opening of the outdoor season locally, deferred last week because of rain.

BOSTON May 10.—(AP)—One big inning allowed Cleveland to make it three out of four in the series with the Red Sox and the visitors took the final encounter, 3 to 0, here today. Ehmke pitched no hit ball until the eighth, but errors by Rothrock put two runners on base and Speaker drove both in with a double. The Indian leader then scored on Sewell's single. The score:

Santel's Quick Dusek Defeat Worries Joe

That's Reason Stecher Has Gone Into Training For Ad

Ad Santell recently tagged it on Rudy Dusek, Little Rock heavyweight grappling favorite, in quick order. The Flying Dutchman defeated the man who had wrestled Strangler Lewis to a pair of draws and lost one hard fought match, in straight falls, 12 minutes and nine minutes respectively.

The sudden order in which Santel did away with Dusek evidently caused a surreptious elevation of the eyebrows among the retinue of Joe Stecher, the heavyweight king, to say nothing about Joseph himself. The champion, having agreed tentatively to meet Santel here the middle of this month, displayed a quick change of front. It is apparent Stecher and his manager, like several other wrestlers, had been laboring under the misapprehension that Santel has slipped back considerably in recent months. The Dutchman's manhandling of Dusek caused Stecher to postpone the match a few days and begin intensive training at Hot Springs.

Texhoma Plays Douglass' Nine

REDS BUY DUMONT

CINCINNATI, May 10.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today purchased the veteran pitcher George Dumont from the Minneapolis club. The deal becomes effective at once. A reduced pitching staff made the acquisition of another hurler an immediate necessity, officials of the club said.

Sherrod Smith, who was a veteran in the world's service of 1920, let the slugging White Sox down with six hits the other day. Struck out only one batter. Wound the ball around their necks the rest of the time.

What the Carpenter Knows About Lumber

THE carpenter is hourly reminded that a board has three dimensions. He is constantly aware that if the board or timber is not milled accurately in its three dimensions that board or timber is apt to cause him extra labor. The length must be right—the width must be uniform—the board must be of the same thickness throughout its length in order to take its place in the structure without re-shaping by hand on the job. It is the careful manufacturing of Long-Bell trade-marked lumber—its uniformity in all dimensions, that makes this lumber the choice of so many thoughtful builders.

BANKERS POUR IT ON WATER BOYS 5 TO 2

Recruit Hurler Holds Irrigationists to Three Blows

The Security National Bank crew broke into the win column Monday afternoon in their play off game. The Bankers had an easy time behind the steady pitching of Speer, a Lowing, Texas, recruit. Speer handled the pitching job well and let the Water boys down with three scattered hits winning 5 to 2. Guyer came through for two of these and Delaney smacked out the other. Speer fanned nine men and walked one in the seven innings.

Hood Kizziar led the hitters with three bingles in four trips to the plate, one of his hits going for two bases. Thurman and Murrell poked out two each.

Both the Water Department's runs were uneraned, and costly errors let both of them over the platter. The Bankers scored in the first four innings.

Scores On Errors.

A walk to Brown, singles by Kizziar and Thurman scored the first run for the Bankers in the first inning. A single by Murrell, a fielder's choice, stolen base, and an error by Hefner scored another run for the Security nine in the second inning.

The Water Company scored the first run in the third inning. Lyle led with a walk, went to second on an infield out. Vernie Ross made an attempt to catch him off second and heaved the ball into center field and Lyle raced home.

A single by Kizziar, a sacrifice by Thurman, and a single by Riley scored another run in the third inning for the Bankers.

Two runs were chalked up for the Security club in the fourth inning and the game placed on ice. Murrell led off with a crashing double to right. Ross singled to left sending Murrell to third and taking second on the throw to third. Speer hit to Delaney who tried for Murrell at the plate, but Horton dropped the throw and Murrell was safe.

Ross Races Home.

Brown lined out to Walker and Speer was doubled at first. Hood Kizziard came through with a timely two-base blow to left and Ross raced home. Kiser then ended the spurt by whiffing Thurman.

A single by Clary and two errors in the fifth inning put Kiser in another bad hole but he worked out of it nicely. With the bases full and no out, Murrell popped to Kiser. Ross hit to Kiser who forced Clary at the plate. Speer grounded out to first unassisted.

The Water Company scored again in the seventh, but was unable to get over the winning tallies. Walker struck out. Murrell fumbled D. Martin's grounded. D. Martin stole second. Guyer went out, Speer to Brown with no advance. Delaney came through with a pinch single to center that scored Martin. Lyle then struck out for the final out.

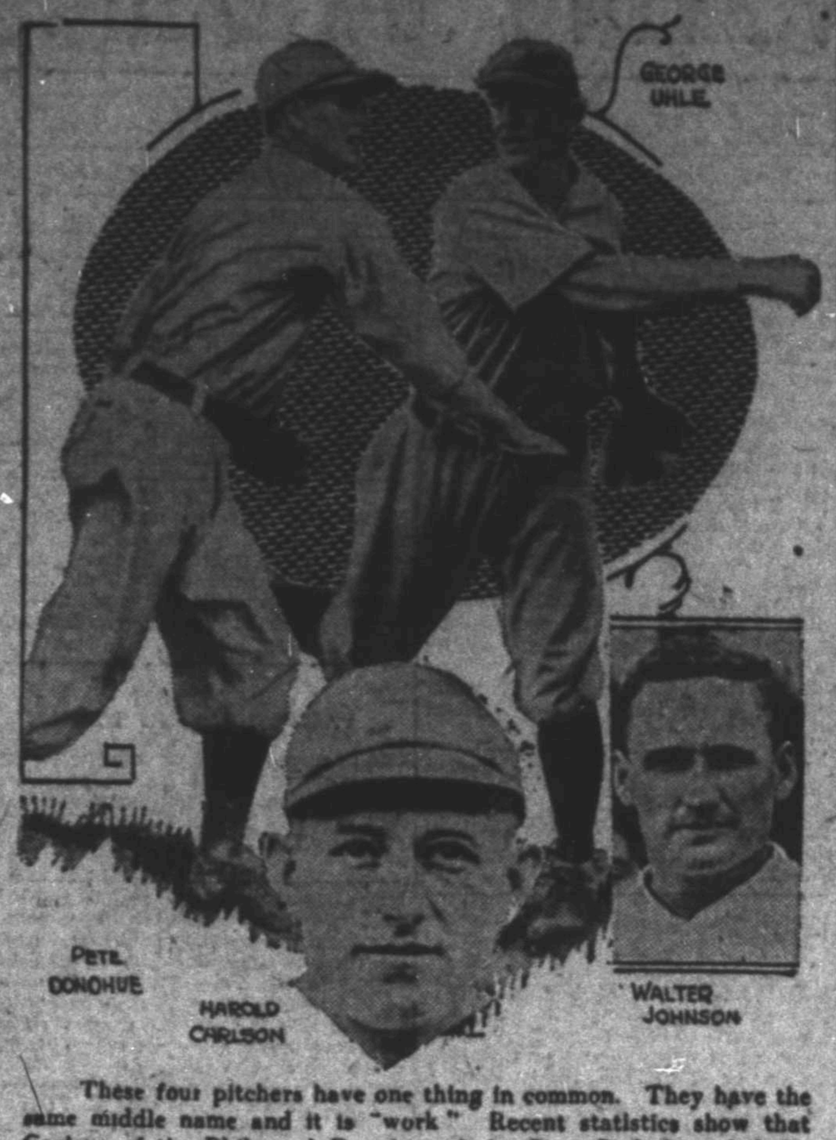
They Have Same Middle Name



These four pitchers have one thing in common. They have the same middle name and it is "work." Recent statistics show that Carlson of the Phils and Donohue of the Cinci Reds have led the hurlers of the National League in the number of innings pitched. Walt Johnson of the Senators and George Uhle of the Indians have worked more innings than any of their American League brothers.

Tramel Clearly Outpoints Owens In Ten-Rounder

Owens Can't Keep His Feet In Easy Win For Duke

Duke Tramel, the popular Fort Worth welterweight leather chunker, defeated Jimmy Owens of Oklahoma City decisively in ten rounds last night at the American Legion arena in the main bout of the legion weekly fight card.

Owens was on the floor three times before a heavy barrage of body blows. The trio of knockdowns came in the second round. Owens came back and boxed Duke on even terms in the fourth, fifth and seventh rounds and won the tenth. Tramel had all the better in the other rounds, carrying the fight to the Sooner state battler and scoring effectively with body punches. The Cowtown youngster kept Owens on the run and covering up the greater part of the way.

Battling Kid Cossey, Wichita Falls bantamweight, found Kid Glover of Altus a tough customer. The Wichita Falls youth won a six-round semi-final bout by a wide margin, landing on Glover with everything but a knockout punch. It was a fairly pleasing contest.

Sailor Murphy, the middleweight from nowhere, and Eddie Jackson of Dallas fought a riotous three-round special event to a referee's draw verdict. It was one of these run-and-hit affairs.

Scrappy Williams and Howard Carr, Wichita Falls flyweights, put on a fast four-round prelim with Carr grabbing the decision by a close margin.

Leo Voss, Wichita Falls flyweight, put it all over Soldier Burns of Frederick in a four-rounder. It was a good fight, but not very speedy.

There was a four-round curtain raiser staged by Dennis Norris and Whirlwind Kelly, a couple of little fellows. Kelly won the decision.

SOUTHWEST SIDE

the central figure in the drama had reached the advanced age of five years in this particular case.

At 1:30 a couple of mothers bethought themselves of their babes and started a search. Nothing resulted.

They combed the whole block and canvassed all the neighbors' homes. No one had seen a trace of the pair. They extended their search and enlisted the aid of some friends. Still nothing.

Two dads were summoned, one from his downtown office and the other from Holiday where he had gone on a business trip. More cars were commandeered; the police were notified; couriers were dispatched to school houses where some younger friends of the missing nimrods were at study.

Noon passed and no babies showed up for lunch. One o'clock, 1:30 and 2 came on. The alarm was growing wider and pretty much all of the west end was up in arms. The mothers, who had hunted until they were exhausted, were nearly beside themselves. Two white-lipped fathers were exploring every nook and cranny west of Brook and south of Tenth.

By 3 o'clock the search was still more widespread and plans were being made for a general alarm when—EUREKA!

The father of one of the missing youngsters, together with a friend, was circling through an ever-widening area in the southwest section. Out over two miles from his home he crossed the Wichita Valley tracks and in searching its slender length spied two tiny figures, almost indistinguishable in their blue rompers which merged easily with the blue green foliage of weeds and grass on either side of the track.

There were the kids all right, walking as fast as their legs could carry them straight to the west. Two toy pop guns were still slung across two shoulders.

With a sigh of relief the distracted sire made for his errant offspring. Before he was discovered, though, he reconsidered. The man with him was a total stranger to both boys, so he was importuned to find out just what they were up to.

Attracting their attention while the fond daddy ducked for cover, the man asked where they were going.

"We just goin' to shoot some jackrabbits," he learned.

"Well, don't you thing it's about time you were going back home? How long are you going to stay out here, anyhow?"

"We goin' to hunt to hunt 'em till we shoot one," the elder of the two declared as he flourished his murderous pop-gun.

The hunt terminated pretty quickly, and back home a pair of small boys looked on with wide-eyed amazement at the crowd around their homes; at their mothers whose tears came in unchecked torrents when the suspense was lifted; at excited neighbors who alternately kissed and scolded them—and then both discovered they were ravenously hungry. They said so, too.

A fatted calf was killed—and after that the feast. And after that, corrective measures were applied while the same pair of small boys wailed in ever greater mystification while their hunting rifle lay scattered on the floor and the jackrabbits along Valley tracks pursued their way undisturbed.

Rank Outsider Takes Preakness

Maryland's Historic Race Goes to Cold Display, Overlooked

BALTIMORE, May 10.—(AP)—A rank outsider again won the Preakness, Maryland's historic classic at a mile and three-sixteenths today. W. J. Salmon's Cold Display almost completely overlooked by the rail birds at the pari-mutuel booths swept through to an impressive victory in the 30th renewal, nipping Harry Payne Whitney's Blondin by a head. The few betters who backed the Salmon entry were rewarded at the rate of $40.70 for each $2 mutuel ticket. Display's time was 1:59 4-5.

Mars a Man-o'-War colt from the Walter M. Jefferd stable, was a close third with Dress Parade in fourth place. Little more than a length separated the four leaders at the wire. Center, the Maryland favorite and Bagen Baggage, a Kentucky entry, heavily backed were shuffled back in the pack, although Canter had held the lead for a mile of the distance.

Satterwhite to Be Bowie Speaker

Hon. Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the house of representatives of the state of Texas, has accepted a place on the program of the Colorado to Gulf Highway Association, at the annual convention to be held in Bowie, May 17 and 18. His subject will be "Permanent Roads," and to those who know Mr. Satterwhite's knowledge of Texas Highways will earnestly look forward to this address.

In addition to Mr. Satterwhite, will be other interesting addresses. Homer D. Wade, assistant manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be on the program. A caravan of cars from Hot Springs, Arkansas, and points in Texas, bearing representatives of the state park board, en route to their convention in Amarillo, will be guests and speakers the first day.

START FIRE STATION

Opening work on the new fire station in north Wichita Falls was reported Monday morning. W. M. Stephens has the contract for the $7000 brick structure to be erected on Jefferson street between Bridge and Arkansas streets.

This will be No. 6 station and will be of a bungalow style, housing one piece of equipment and will quarter eight men. Fire Chief McLure reports that a Seagraves triple combination pumper and complete equipment will be delivered in July for the new building.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—The cotton market was higher today on reports of unfavorable weather in the southwest and apprehensions of further delays in the new crop start. New crop months led the advance, October selling up to 17.80 or 24 points net higher and closing at 17.78. The general market closed very steady at net advances of six to 29 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of five points to a decline of one point, being generally higher in response to the comparatively steady showing of Liverpool. A good deal of covering by May shorts was supplied at a premium of about 43 to 44 points over July, and after selling up to 19.05 the price reacted, the last sale being at 18.95 or three points net lower.

Trading in the current month contract ended at noon in the local market and later July was relatively easy under selling which probably included transferring of long accounts into new crop positions. That delivery sold off from 18.65 to 18.42 in the early afternoon, but steadied at the lower figure and closed at 18.50, or six points net higher.

Business in the new crop months was relatively more active with buying stimulated by private afternoon reports of rain or hail storms accompanied by high winds at some points in the southwest and apprehensions that these unsettled conditions would be followed by a drop in temperatures tonight. December sold up to 17.79, a net advance of 29 points. Last prices were within a point or two of the best on the new crop positions. At the close July was about 71 points over October compared with a difference of 97 points at the close fo the previous day.

Private cables said there had been liquidation in Liverpool and that buyers of cotton cloths and yarns were holding off pending a settlement of the strike, but that cotton futures had been sustained by continental buying of new crop positions.

A report on boll weevil was regarded as showing a comparatively small emergence up to May 1, but seemed to attract little comment. Exports today 4,002, making 7,137,860 so far this season. Port receipts 15,643. U. S. port stocks 982,586.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 10.—(AP)—The cotton market was fairly active today and the general trend of prices was upward with the tone firm in the late trading. After opening two to three points down on old crop months and three to six points up on new crop positions the market turned firmer on reports of rains in Texas. By the end of the first hour prices showed gains of 14 to 23 points. There was a moderate reaction around mid-session on realising but during the afternoon reports of rains in the central belt and a sharp spurt in stocks on news of impending collapse of the general strike in England caused prices to bulge sharply, all active months making new highs.

The close was a little off from the top, showing net gains for th day of three to 27 points. At th start Liverpool was nearly as due and first trades here showed losses of two to three points on old crop months and net gains of three to six points on new crop positions with July at 17.76, October at 17.06 and December at 17.15. These opening prices proved to be the lows of the day. Prices soon started to advance and by the end of the first hour July was at 17.92, October at 17.24 and December 17.32, or 14 to 23 points above Saturday's close.

After easing off some around mid-session on realizing prices again advanced in the afternoon on rains in the central belt and strike news, July trading up to 17.98, October to 17.32 and December to 17.41, or 20 to 31 points above Saturday's close. About three to four points of the gain was lost in the final trading on realising.

Exports for the day totalled 10,502 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, May 10.—(AP)—Although rain in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Canadian northwest led finally today to lower prices for wheat, it was a two-sided market. Much buying resulted from the government crop report, pointing to 12,000,000 bushels, a smaller yield of domestic winter wheat than has recently been expected. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were irregular, at ⅝c net decline to ⅝c advance, May 1.61⅝ to 1.61⅜ and July 1.38⅝ to 1.38¾, with corn ½c to ⅝c up, oats a shade to ¼@⅛c off and provisions showing 10 to 35c gain.

Corn owed its advance chiefly to heavy rains in Iowa, frost predictions and to promise of cold weather for several days. Oats were responsive to favorable crop advices.

Provisions reflected the upward trend of hog values.

Financial

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—Stock prices broke sharply today under a heavy selling attack by bear traders, but the extreme declines, which ran from one to eight points in active issues were substantially reduced by the late wave of covering. Total sales crossed the million share mark for the first time since last Tuesday.

The announcement of a sharp cut in automobile prices by one of the largest manufacturers and the unexpectedly large decrease of over 500,000 tons in the April unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel corporation presumably inspired the selling movement. The late recovery was associated with the publication of an unconfirmed report on the financial news tickers that many English railroad men had signified their intention to return to work indicating a break up in the ranks of British labor.

Motors and rubbers bore the brunt of the selling, new low prices for th year in those groups being established by Studebaker, Dodge Brothers "A," Jordan, Moon, Fisher Body, U. S. Rubber and Goodrich.

General Motors broke nearly five points to 124⅛ and then rallied above 126. Fisher Body rallied from a low of 79½ to 83, off 2¼ net. Mack Truck closed 1¼ lower at 111, after having touched 109. Weakness of General Motors was somewhat of a surprise in view of the fact that a substantial extra cash distribution is expected at the directors' meeting on Thursday.

U. S. Steel common fluctuated between 121⅛ and 119⅝, closing at 120⅛ for a net loss of ⅝ on the day. Wall street's early estimates of the decrease in unfilled orders ranged from 375,000 to 450,000, so that the actual drop of 511,959 came as a surprise. Bethlehem sagged to a new low for the year at 38 and fractional recessions were recorded by the other independents.

DuPont scored the largest individual loss by dropping eight points to 205 but it snapped back to 211¼ at the close. Texas and Pacific Land Trust, which advanced 200 points in three days last week, broke 50 points on a few odd lot sales.

Independent strength was shown however, by several industrials and specialties. Radio corporation was a late feature, rallying from 39¼ to 44, up four points net on the day. Postum Cereal closed three points higher at 84½ and Pullman advanced two points to 166½.

Rails were rather sluggish, Atlantic Coast Line closing four points lower at 192 and Union Pacific 1½. Rock Island moved up a point.

Call money renewed at four per cent and held at that figure all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

The foreign exchange market was steady. Demand sterling was slighly firmer around $4.84⅛ and French francs were quoted just below 3.15 cents. Other changes were largely naminal.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, May 10.—(AP)—Foreign exchanges, steady; quotations in cents: Great Britain demand 4.84⅛; cables 4.85 9-16; 60-day bills on banks 4.80⅝. France demand 3.13½; cables 3.14. Italy demand 3.99½; cables 4.00⅝. Demand: Belgium 3.11½; Germany 23.79; Holland 40.15; Norway 21.80; Sweden 26.73; Denmark 21.60; Switzerland 12.35; Spain 14.36; Greece 1.24¼; Poland 10.00; Czecho-Slovakia 2.96; Jugo-Slavia 1.76; Austria 14.125; Rumania .38; Argentina 40.18⅝; Brazil 14.50; Tokyo 46.62½; Shanghai 72.87½; Montreal 100.14 1-16.

The Globe district of Arizona is the scene of the activities of the Old Dominion company, copper producer. The company was incorporated in 1903 taking over the United Globe Mines and the Old Dominion Copper Mining and Smelting company. The corporation owns over 30 full and fractional claims in the Globe district as well as other mineral acreage with mill sites concentrating and mining equipment.

Operations in recent years have not been profitable and for the eight-year period ended with 1924, deficits occurred in six years aggregating $2,001,290. For 1923, net income was $67,403 or equivalent to $1.93 per share.

An increase of 1 cent a pound in the price of copper is estimated to add $272,836 to the annual revenue based on 1925 production.

As of Jan. 1, 1926, current assets were $1,920,425 and current liabilities $477,229 with no bank loans, funded debts or preferred stock. Capitalization consists of $8,750,000 in common shares of $25 par. Dividends were paid at varying rates from 1907 to 1918 after which they have been suspended. From April, 1921 the mines were closed for about a year. During the last year there has been no material change in the ore reserves.

"Passing the Buck" To Father--

Willie's dog was lost yesterday—Lost, Strayed or Stolen—no one seemed to know just how or when it happened.

But it is father's suggestioun that the Classified Ads of this newapaper be given a trial at finding the pet and returning it—

So the job of calling 4121 and having an Ad-Taker assist in preparing a Lost ad naturally falls on father's shoulders.

P. S. Tomorrow Willie will tell his friends that his dog is back—and a Classified Ad did it.

Lazzeri On Verge Of Proving Hug Doesn't Pick 'Em Wrong

Tony Lazzeri's hitting!
Pass the word along.

The rangy young infielder who crashed out 60 home runs for Salt Lake in the Pacific Coast League apparently has found himself in the big show.

After going almost two weeks without connecting for the circuit Lazzeri laid on one of Eddie Rommel's offerings and sent it back for a home run. That was April 27. Two days later he straightened out one of Bullet Joe Bush's bullets for four bases. Both were lusty blows, well timed and with the healthy ring about them that a real home run hitter imparts.

"Lazzeri's going now," murmured Huggins after the first one. The second merely verified his hunch. And judging from the way the young man is socking the ball day in and day out the number will mount up rather rapidly.

This, however, causes little surprise on the Pacific coast. Any man who crashes out 60 circuit clouts in A. A. ball must have something besides luck. The fans there realize that.

The only question regarding Tony's future as he joined the Yankees was whether or not he would fit into Manager Huggins' infield.

Tony played short with the coast team. Huggins stuck him in at second base, as one member of his new infield, Lou Gehrig teaming at first, Mark Koenig at short and the veteran Joe Dugan at third. Huggins hoped that Koenig and Lazzeri would fall into each other's system and that the two would prove a good combination. Tony's fielding seemed O. K. from the start. Of course there is still some question as to how he will conduct himself in the heat of the campaign when the tension may run high. But right now he's bouncing along at a great rate.

And, on top of this, he has started to hit home runs!

Watch this lad.

MUMFORD

car drove alongside of him and Wallace stopped, and allowed two men from its interior to step out and command them to hold their hands up.

We'll Kill You.

"If you don't we'll kill you," Hawley testified that they told them. Upon their command the grip with its contents was handed to the two, who, Hawley said, wore black masks over the lower portion of their faces. The two men got into the car which whisked away.

Hawley testified that he immediately notified officers of the occurrence and later was brought to the city hall at Wichita Falls where he identified a man under arrest there. J. B. Jackson, as the one who had held the gun in his ribs and taken his money.

Cross examination by defense attorneys Davenport and Crain dealt largely with Hawley's inability to tell whether the car containing those holding him up was a roadster or touring model, Hawley contending that although he was only four feet from the car he did not notice which model it was.

The state's case against Mumford

Plays Dual Role in Greece

FARMER RELIEF BILL DISCUSSED

West Threatens East In Closing Argument On Measure

WASHINGTON, May 10.—(AP)—Heated charges and retorts were heard in the house today during the closing hours of debate on farm relief legislation. Personalities were not spared.

Representative Fort, of New Jersey, a republican member of the agriculture committee started the fire works by asserting that in response to his opposition to the Haugen price stabilization bill he had told that if "eastern interests" defeated the measure, the "western states would pass legislation to keep eastern interests out and bring about a situation comparable to the British general strike."

During subsequent speeches the house frequently was in an uproar as members clashed on the issues involved.

Representative Begg, republican, Ohio, assailing the Haugen bill as economically unsound, declared that if there was a political revolt in the west against his party, it would be of short duration. He urged members to be honest and cease putting forward promises to the farmers just to win votes. He defended the tariff, contending it beneficial to agriculture.

Representative Hudspeth, democrat, Texas, attacking the Haugen bill, declared the cattle men of his state opposed it. Another southwestern democratic member, Carter, of Oklahoma, upheld the measure.

During the day Former Governor Allen of Kansas called at the White House and informed President Coolidge that he believed the farmers of Kansas favored the Tincher plan, but were not impressed with the Haugen proposal.

is expected to be completed this morning with presentation of evidence from Wichita Falls city officers as to his arrest, subsequent identification by Wallace as the second man in the hold-up, and the finding of the black masks on Mumford and Jackson.

Just what the defense will do was not apparent at adjournment Monday. Included in the list of witnesses subpoenaed in Mumford and Jackson's behalf are two members of the Wichita county sheriff's department, one, the office deputy, Dennis White. Kelly Hunt, a telephone operator from Holliday, a large number of Holliday residents and the city officer, Joe Persky are also called. Defense cross examination of Hawley gave rise to belief that even the actuality of the hold-up would be contested.

Court is Delayed

Actual beginning of court proceedings Monday morning was delayed until almost noon as a result of an early morning rain storm which muddled up roads and prevented the prompt arrival of attorneys. The case of Jack B. Jackson was called first by Judge Wilson, the state announcing ready, but the defense presenting a motion of severance on grounds that Mumford's testimony was material in the Jackson trial, and that inasmuch as it was believed he would be acquitted, his trial was asked first so that he might testify for Jackson. The defense then called the roll of its witnesses and found eight of them absent. Fines of $25 each were entered by Judge Wilson against six of those not answering the roll, these six including J. Dennis White, Wichita county deputy sheriff; Jim King, J. M. Howard and W. C. Curlee, all of Holliday and a Mr. Clutch and Roy Ford of Wichita Falls. Attachments for the absent witnesses were also issued.

The motion for continuance was then overruled by Judge Wilson, who allowed a postponement until Wednesday morning with the admonition to attorneys to have their witnesses present at that time.

Similar Motion Offered

A similar motion was presented with reference to Mumford, who was next called to trial. Judge Wilson overruled this. A motion to quash the indictment against Mumford on grounds it was duplicitous, was returned in the presence of a person unauthorized by law to be in the grand jury room, and inexact in its description of the commodities stolen, was also overruled by Judge Wilson.

The special venire was then called and sworn. The state waived its right to ask the death penalty and individual questioning usual to the examination of special venires was waived in favor of the quicker questioning of venireme with their body intact. either side was allowed 10 peremptory challenges.

The rule regarding witnesses in the court room was invoked and all save two character witnesses were excluded from the trial.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

Negro Held as Possible Slayer of Railroad Agent

LA GRANGE, Texas, May 10.—(AP)—A negro was being held here today in connection with the murder Sunday night of Clarence P. Jones, local agent for the Southern Pacific railroad. The authorities would not disclose any information except to admit the arrest had been made.

His assassin shot him to death through a window in his house as he sat in the glare of a lamp reading a newspaper. He died from the effects of two charges of buckshot which took effect in his chest.

M.E. MEN'S CLUB IN LAST MEET

Interesting Program Is Enjoyed at Church Monday Night

A small but enthusiastic group of men enjoyed the last meeting of the season of the Methodist Men's club of the First Methodist church, south, Monday night, when a varied and interesting program was presented. Claud Miller was toastmaster and introduced Bert King, local attorney, who was the principal speaker of the evening.

Mr. King gave a short appreciation for Wichita Falls and commended the club on its organization and efforts.

No Justice But in Heart

"In humanity's progress there is no justice except in the human heart," he told the men. "There is something fine in humanity that does not count the cost," and the speaker talked of the club which brings men together, men who have purpose and are striving for the uplift of the community.

"This is a busy, nervous people. We are in too big a hurry," and he then showed that there is little time given to appreciation of worthwhile things.

"Unless you have cultivated, unless there is something within that is cultivated and reaches out to God himself, you cannot have those finer things."

A clever stunt was the entertaining feature of the evening when a family of Punkin Center arrived at the station to find that no train arrived that day from north, south, east or west. Those taking part included Mrs. J. W. Thorne, Winnie Foster, R. W. H. McCuloch, L. L. Albritton and H. M. Gray.

Music Supplied

Music was furnished by the male quartette composed of H. W. Gray, F. M. Hansen, E. F. Bohmfalk and Joel H. McGreogor. Mr. Greogory led the assembly in a singsong and during the evening, the Sunday school orchestra, directed by Mr. Bohmfalk, played.

J. J. Perkins, chairman of the building committee of the proposed new church building, announced the receiving of bids Monday. The committee will look over the bids again Tuesday in a meeting at 2 o'clock.

Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church, said the invocation and benediction. The club will meet again the first Monday night in October.

Suspect Carries Floor Plans of Building Robbed

A cleverly executed diagram of the interior of the ground and second stories of the building at Eighth and Scott in which the Renfro Drug store and the Fletcher barber shop are located, coupled with some circumstantial evidence, may result in filing burglary charges against a man arrested by city police Monday afternoon.

The man is being held by police, booked for investigation in connection with the safe cracking in the Fletcher Barber shop sometime Sunday night. Photographs of finger prints taken from the knobs of that safe were being finished late Monday and an effort will be made today to further establish the identity of the man under arrest.

When arrested the man had in his possession an accurate detailed sketch of the building with floor plans of the stores.

Trapp Is Acting Governor Only

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10.—(AP)—M. E. Trapp is in reality "acting governor" the state election board ruled late today and may run for that office this year. The decision was the result of a hearing on his eligibility conducted last week which the board had taken under advisement.

The eligibility of Trapp was protested by several persons both before and after his formal filing for the office. It was the contention of his opponents that he was governor both in fact and name and therefore ineligible to make the race, as the state constitution provides that the governor can not succeed himself.

Trapp's contention was that he was merely acting governor as he had never been elected to that office, being elevated to the governorship through the impeachment of Jack Walton in 1923.

Kansas Prisoners Quit County Jail

KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 10.—(AP)—Five prisoners escaped from the Wyandott county jail today after stunning George R. McClelland, jailer, with a blow on the head and intimidating a trusty, Clyde Rose.

All five were apprehended by police and deputy sheriffs within three hours after the break.

McClelland's wound was not dangerous, it was said.

Lee Dukes, negro, of Austin, Texas, being held on charges of burglary and larceny was one of the prisoners.

Baby Is Removed From Michigan Well

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., May 10.—(AP)—The body of the infant son of Elmeh Carter was taken from the bottom of a well on the Carter farm near here late tonight after men and teams had labored several hours in sinking a pit to the level of 35 feet.

The child apparently had died of suffocation, having been partially buried under a cave-in of the well. No bruises were visible on the body.

Rare Linens of Priceless Value On Display Here By Collector And Internationally Known Authority

Philip Schantz Has $150,000 Treasure In Hand-Made Linens and Laces at Perkins-Timberlake Store This Week

A collection of rare linen, exquisite in their perfectness and unique character, and particularly priceless because of the endless quantity of time spent in their creation, is being shown by Philip Schatz, internationally known linen expert and collector, at Perkins-Timberlake department store in the art needlework department. This exhibition, where is more than $150,000 is represented in hand-made linens and laces, ranks with the highest art of the world and is a collection of which no like has been seen.

There are pieces worth thousands of dollars and which have been duplicated for trousseaux of daughters of the world's greatest wealth. Then too, there are simple, lovely pieces which carry an appeal because of their simplicity.

Every beautiful and rare stitch known to needle experts is included in the Sardenia and Burato laces, antique filet, Appenzehl work from Germany, flat Venice, point de Venice, Italian cut work, and Florentine lace. Women in these foreign countries spent from one to twelve years in completing many of these intricate table cloths, towels, and countless pieces of beauty.

Outstanding in its exceptionally rare lovliness is the Appenzehl work by women on the Belgian and German border, that depict world-famous paintings such as Madame LeBrun, Cupid's Court and designs of equal repute. These linen are unsurpassable in their texture and hand work, making them doubly precious.

Luncheon sets with a dozen plate doilies and napkins in Italian cut work and filetierra are among th wealth of laces and embroideries.

There is an unusual bed spread of the finest of lace, sewed together by hand and embroidered in dainty colored thread with beautiful designs worked by means of the lace pattern. One table cloth is valued at $2,000. Its design represents music with a figure in each corner playing some sort of musical instrument. This is point de Venice and is three yards in length and two in width.

The Versailles variety of luncheon sets and other linen pieces are beautiful. Copied from the type of linen used in the court of Napoleon, tints of ecru and pale blues have been used in embroidery by the peasants of France effecting wonderful results.

A window display of the linens may be seen in Perkins-Timberlake window near the Indiana avenue entrance. Mr. Schatz will exhibit these for a limited time.

The cost for round trip tickets will be $87.20. Pullman (going) about $22. Pullman (return) direct, about $19. Limit of ticket, June 11, at Wichita Falls.

Summer tickets, good for the season, may be had at about $80.50. Return may be made via New York, Boston, Niagara Falls, Canadian points, etc., at very little additional cost. Routing, ticket information, etc., may be had by calling or writing J. W. Chatham, chamber of commerce.

Hotel reservations in Philadelphia are made, and the stage is all set.

Liquor Charges Filed On Pair

Charge of possession and sale of intoxicating liquors were filed before United States Commissioner Lantz Monday afternoon by city officers naming Tom Trammell and Annie Houser, arrested Saturday afternoon in connection with a raid on an Indiana drug store in which about $500 worth of extracts, which police claim have been sold as a beverage, was confiscated.

A hearing before corporation court set for Monday was postponed until Friday, May 14, in the absence of E. H. Carmichael of the city force, arresting officer.

Equalization Board

An equalization board composed of J. M. Baber, J. N. Prothro and A. L. Hisey was approved Monday night by the city council. These three men will comprise this year's board to consider city tax valuations in Wichita Falls. All are experienced real estate operators here.

FARMERS INCREASE

The result of the 1925 farm census received Monday by Guy R. Jones, county agricultural agent, show that Wichita county has 763 white and 23 colored farmers operating 202,593 acres of land.

It is evident that there is an increase in the number of farmers and a radical decrease in the amount of land under cultivation from the report. Farm land and buildings in the county were valued at $11,293,770 in 1925 against $13,142,766 in 1920.

BUILDING CODE MAY HALT HOTEL

Architect Asks City Commission to Work Out Solution

A dispute over construction methods being employed in the new Holt hotel being refabricated from the shell of the old Morgan building at Eighth and Ohio, may result in some delay on building operations there. This was revealed Monday night at the city council meeting when Herbert Voelcker, architect on the job, appeared before the commissioners to seek their co-operation in working out a difficulty revolving around an obscure passage in the city building code.

Two additional stories are being added to the building, originally a five-story structure. These uppee additions are to have walls of hollow tile, reinforced with brick piers which are to carry the steel work for floors and ceilings. The piers, Mr. Voelcker explained, practically eliminate all load stress from the walls, which are to be plastered inside and out. A rider in the building code, however, stipulates that all walls must be of brick or certain other materials in which the hollow tile is not mentioned.

This provision was overlooked by Mr. Voelcker, by the contractors and by Fred A. Smith, city building inspector, until one story had been put in place. Strict adherance to the code will probably mean that the walls just erected must be torn out, and those interested are now trying to evolve some method whereby this may be obviated. Mr. Voelcker voiced the belief that the building code was a little out of date on this particular score, and today will attempt to present proof to the commissioners that hollow tile is used in other construction jobs in other cities.

1ST. M. E. BIDS TO BE STUDIED

Costs Run Above Frst Estimates, Committee Head Announces

Bids for the proposed new building for the First Methodist church, south, were received Monday in the office of J. J. Perkins, chairman of the building committee, when fifteen companies from various sections of the state and Oklahoma submitted offers.

Mr. Perkins announced that the committee would meet again Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to consider the bids. He said the bids received were approximately $400,000 for the building alone, and that by the time furnishings and completion of the church could be made the cost would reach $500,000. The bids were $150,000 more than the building committee had anticipated, he said in his announcement to the Methodist Men's Club Monday night.

Mother's Theme Is Used by Datson In Kiawanis Address

That the home is the central orb around which the universe revolves and the heart of the home is mother was the theme of a talk by the Rev. F. T. Datson of the Episcopal church at the Kiwanis club Monday noon meeting in tribute to the mother's of the country.

Rev. Datson in speaking of the "Home of the Republic," pointed out that wars were fought for its preservation, books and pictures of the finest were created for beautifying the home.

"The home motive and home-building instinct is hurling the home toward a golden age—an age when only the finest of men will be accepted by the women as helpers in making the home a sanctity for ideals and the others will be cast into the junk heap of the world," he said.

"Soldiers sing around the campfires about home, musicians compose songs about home and poets write of it." Mr. Datson spoke of Robert Burns and John Howard Payne as being writers of home in the preservation of its ideals. He told of a man that was about to pass into eternity who said that his home had been a heaven to him during his life and that heaven would soon be his home.

"The American home seems to be under the shadow of an eclipse. This is virtually due to the vast economic and spiritual unrest of the people. It is feared that what began as a home will be reduced to merely a house." eH told of the great men of the world who had depended upon their widowed mothers for inspiration and help in their carrers.

Mrs. J. S. Pitman, with Mr. Pitman accompanying her, sang "Mother O' Mine" and "That Tumbledown Shack in Athlone."

Miss Mary McIlheran, executive of Camp Fire work in the city, brought before the club the need of a structure of some sort that might be made over as Camp Fire headquarters. She told of the work and ideals of the organization and emphasized the fact that the tasks set before the girls were instructing to them to be the home-makers and mothers of the future.

SUES WESTERN UNION

The Western Union Telegraph company was named defendant in a suit for $2000 damages filed Monday in the 89th district court by Ernest Hill, in which he alleged that the defendant failed to promptly deliver a death message.

The death of the plaintiff's mother on April 6, 1926, was wire from Cameron, Texas, requesting Mr. Hill to reply as to whether or not he would attend the funeral, he alleges, and further contends that the message was received by the defendant here at 11:57 a. m. but was not delivered to him until 9 p. m. on the same day. Because of the delay Mr. Hill was unable to reach Cameron in time to attend his mother's funeral.

PLUMBING FEE STARTS A ROW

City Council Hears New Plaint Against $100 Charge

The legal status under wrich Wichita Falls plumbers are to work came up again Monday night for one of its perennial airings before the city council. The plumbers, or rather the majority of them, were put on the pan by a minority who claimed a $100 license fee the plumbers themselves wished imposed was an unreasonable and illogical piece of legislation prompted by all sorts of ulterior motives.

Allegations that plumbing contracts were being boosted $100 a throw because of this were made; while at the same time the proposal was as vigorously defended by its proponents.

The plumbers appeared before the council last week asking that the $100 license fee be charged in order to keep out "bootleggers" and transient craftsmen who are enabled to come in, go to work under the $10 license fee how in vogue, and get out again after making some money.

The council decided to make some more investigations before it took any action and the matter was passed up until next week.

Monroe, Avenue J to south line of block 1, lot 98 H; Denver, 19th to 11th; Fillmore, Avenue M to the Wichita Valley railroad; Taylor, Avenue M to the Wichita Falls railroad; Buchanan, Avenue O to Avenue R; Victory, Brooks to Duval; Fourth, Ohio to Scott; 25th, Holliday to irrigation ditch; 26th, Holliday to irrigation ditch; Jasper, 24th to Harvard; 24th, Holliday to Jasper; Marshall, Huff to south alley.

Contract Audit

Ira S. Harris, C. P. A., was the successful bidder Monday night when proposals were submitted by four auditing concerns for making the annual audits of the books of the City of Wichita Falls. His offer of $1,155 for examination of all departmental books, as well as those of the general hospital, was the low one presented.

The audit will start in a short time.

Enjoy Eating

If your blood is pure~ You like to eat

REMEMBER how you used to come in from play hungry as a bear? Bet you could hardly wait until Dad filled your plate?

And didn't everything taste good! Seemed like you never would get enough. Didn't you feel good those days. Yes, they were the red blooded days.

Why isn't your appetite like that now? Why don't you like to eat just the same as you did in those days? Here's the reason—your system is simply starving for the lack of rich, red blood! You've lost your appetite because you've lost your red blood power. No red blood nourishment for the tissues of your body.

Build up your blood to where it is pure and red and rich and watch that appetite come back! S. S. S. is the way to do it! S. S. S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells—builds them by the millions!

You'll get hungry and you'll enjoy eating when S. S. S. helps Nature build pure red cells in that weak blood of yours. And you'll look better—your skin will be clear and unblemished—your flesh will become firm and solid—strength and power will come to your flabby muscles—you'll be yourself again.

S. S. S. will bring back the joy of eating—the joy of living. It's done it for thousands for generations. It's going to do it for you too. Get S. S. S. at your druggist The larger bottle is more economical.
