Railroad Commission Plans Immediate Hearing To Rectify Invalid Order

COURT HOLDS BODY EXCEEDS LEGAL RIGHTS

Proration Rulings Held For Purpose of Influencing Price

EXTRA SESSION ASKED

Independents Meet at Tyler To Seek Legislative Action at Once

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (UP)—Acting upon his own authority after he had failed in an attempt to reach other railroad commissioners, Commissioner Lon A. Smith tonight fixed Nov. 3 as the date for a new hearing to fix East Texas oil production on the basis of preventing physical waste.

Smith declared defects in the commission's former orders will be remedied by showing present waste in East Texas. New orders, he said, will apply to all Texas oil fields, but particularly to those of East Texas.

Nov. 3 is the first day on which the hearing could be legally called, 10 days notice being required.

Smith's announcement followed closely on the heels of a federal court decision at Sherman holding present proration invalid.

TYLER, Texas, Oct. 24. (UP)—An immediate new railroad commission hearing to fix East Texas oil production on the basis of preventing physical waste appeared tonight to be the first development of the federal court decision at Sherman holding present proration invalid.

Carl L. Estes, Tyler editor, was told by Commissioner Lon A. Smith, Austin, in long distance telephone conversation that he favored a new hearing on East Texas at once.

R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the commission's oil and gas division, advised a few minutes later that he understood the hearing would be called tonight.

East Texas as a field is now allowed 335,000 barrels production daily.

BOARD EXCEEDS LEGAL AUTHORITY

SHERMAN, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Three federal judges today issued an opinion stating that the Texas Railroad commission had exceeded its authority in issuing permanent proration orders for the East Texas oil field.

They held that the legislature had authorized the commission to regulate the field on a basis of physical waste but that the orders which followed were predicated on grounds of economic waste and were invalid.

What effect the ruling would have on the long-disputed subject of curbing excessive production in the prolific field was problematical.

Existing Orders Hold

None of the three judges—Randolph Bryant of Sherman, J. C. Hutcheson of Houston and W. I. Grubbs of Alabama—who signed the opinion could be reached for a

Salvagers to Dig Up Buried Huge Locomotive

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Oct. 24. (AP)—Digging out a 285,000-pound locomotive that was buried under 15 feet of rock and gravel after it had been swept from its tracks by a mountain cloudburst that cost 15 lives will prove, rail executives believe, one of the greatest pieces of salvage work in American railroad history.

The Santa Fe locomotive, lost since Oct. 1 when a 45-foot wall of water rushed through the Tehachapi pass and caused damage estimated at millions, was one of two large freight engines, with at least six boxcars, which were lifted from the tracks and buried in a grave of silt 150 feet away.

One of the locomotives, owned by the Southern Pacific, was found soon after the cloudburst, but the Santa Fe engine's resting place remained a secret until Oct. 12 when it was found with the aid of a magnetic needle.

Rancher's Widow Calm As Attorneys Indicate Plea Of Death For Her

FLOYDADA, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Testimony in the trial of Mrs. Ruth Kane of Graham, charged with the ax slaying of J. A. Cunningham, well-known Motley county rancher, will begin in 110th district court at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mrs. Kane was Cunningham's housekeeper.

The 12th juror was named at 5:28 this afternoon. Eighty-seven of the 100 veniremen called were exhausted before the jury was completed.

Defense examination of prospective jurors hinged around whether or not a woman had a right to kill to protect her daughter. Mrs. Kane sat with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Stephens of Graham, in the courtroom, apparently unconcerned despite the fact that state questioning of veniremen indicated the death penalty would be sought.

Cunningham, 74, was struck about a dozen times in the back of the head with an ax, apparently as he sat at his desk in the living room of his small ranch last April 23.

State Awards Paving Contracts In Wichita Section For $500,000

Awards for construction of four Wichita area highway projects involving over $500,000 were released Monday by the Texas Highway commission. Two Wichita Falls firms received contracts for three of the area projects, according to news dispatches to The Record News from the Associated Press.

Lake Creek Paving

The awards in this section totaled $524,494.70 for the four construction jobs covering 25 miles of concrete and double bituminous surface treatment. Awards were made for work in Childress, Knox, Archer, Wichita and Wise counties in this area.

The Stuckey Construction company of Wichita Falls was awarded the contract on nine miles of concrete paving from Wichita Falls to Lake creek on No. 66, on a bid of $178,158.10. The project starts at the end of Holliday street and goes south to Lake creek. The roadbed is ready for construction to start and W. A. Stuckey was in Austin for the highway commission session to complete plans for rushing the work forward.

The Stuckey company has just completed a contract near Canadian and the equipment for use on No. 66 will arrive here within a few days, it was learned Monday night.

PASTOR'S CASE GOES TO JURY

Berrie Faces Chair For Death of Wife

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 24. (AP)—A jury weighed tonight its duty to the law and to the Rev. Stephen Althea Berrie, accused of murdering his wife.

With the din of day-long argument pounding in their ears, the 12 men filed out of the Muskogee county district courtroom at 4 p. m. today to decided if the preacher poisoned his aging mate because of intimacies with a girl still in her teens, or whether he is innocent, and, as defense attorneys put it, persecuted by "men as cunning as minks."

Took "Only Route"

The jurors, who must either send Berrie to the electric chair, give him life imprisonment or acquit him, were told by County Attorney Phil K. Oldham they must remember "the wages of sin is death." The 52-year-old preacher, declared the prosecutor, had become intimate with the young Sunday school teacher he later married and, unable to secure a divorce from his wife, took "the only route left."

But Grover Watkins, the preacher's counsel, shouted late today: "We've got every circumstance in the world that Mrs. Berrie died of uremic poisoning," and added the prosecution has not proved "where Reverend Berrie even gave her a glass of water."

"Don't wake up and find, after you've turned on the juice, that you've made a mistake," he warned.

"Are you trying him for illicit relationship," he asked.

Called "Ladies" Man

With M. D. Hartsell, also of Berrie's counsel, Watkins assailed Oldham and his assistant, S. C. Cavender, Watkins declaring "Oh, they are cunning men, they're cunning and they're seasoned—cunning as minks."

Closing for the state, Cavender declared Berrie "is not representative of the gospel of Jesus Christ but of the devil.

"He's using religion as a cloak for his nefarious schemes and his crimes," he said.

Describing Berire as "always a ladies' man," Cavender shouted the state was trying "the Dr. Berrie who took this little schoolgirl and debauched her."

The preacher's pretty bride of last May sat by his side throughout the day. They were married less than two months after the first Mrs. Berrie collapsed at a church meeting and was brought home to die in convulsions last March 21.

Ryals Draws Life For Auditor's Death

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—Pleading guilty to a charge of murder, William Raymond Ryals, 22, confessed slayer of A. G. MacGuerty, circulation auditor, received a 99-year sentence at the hands of a jury in criminal district court here today.

The defendant's decision to plead guilty came as a surprise after Garland Flowers and Tom McMurray, defense attorneys appointed by the court, had planned to contest jurisdiction of the court. But the attorneys withdrew from the case and J. H. Letts, Houston, Ryals' former employer, represented the young defendant in court.

Mrs. Minnie King and Mrs. Ollie Letts, both of Houston, Ryals' sisters, were in the courtroom during the trial, which lasted one hour.

Ryals admitted that he killed MacGuerty near Arlington Sept. 25 and buried his body under a seaside cottage near Galveston.

Trial Of Young Seymour Attorney On Murder Charge Reset For Nov. 7

Continuance of the trial of Temple Dickson, 23, of Seymour on a murder charge, to Monday, Nov. 7, was granted by Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Monday morning upon motion of the defense.

Attorneys for Dickson based the motion for continuance upon the absence of two material witnesses, Dr. O. B. Kiel of this city and R. S. Lattimore, Cottle county farmer. Serious illness in the families of both men necessitated their absence from this city, defense attorneys showed.

Members of the special venire of 125 men summoned for the case were qualified. Those not excused were instructed to report for jury service on Nov. 7.

Dickson is charged with murder in connection with the death of C. S. Plunkett last June 23 at Seymour. The shooting allegedly resulted from a quarrel over a minor traffic accident to which Dickson was a party several days before Plunkett was shot to death. The defendant was a candidate for election as county attorney in Baylor county when the shooting occurred, but withdrew from the race immediately thereafter. The case was assigned to Wichita county on a change of venue.

John Davenport and Bert King of this city, and Ross Bell of Childress, are attorneys for Dickson. William Combest, Baylor county district attorney, and B. Y. Cummings of this city, will join members of the local district attorney's staff in prosecuting the case.

BOND OWNERS DEMAND HIGHER WATER TAXES

Insurance Firms, Holding Small Part of Issue, Seek Action

$1.60 RATE ASKED

Proposal 'Absurd' Says One Wichitan; Board To 'Stand Pat'

Demands that the tax levy of 80 cents imposed by the Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1 be increased to approximately twice that amount by the board of directors, or that the Wichita county commissioners court supersede the irrigation district directorate and make such an increased levy, have been made by certain owners of bonds issued by the district, according to information brought before the court Monday afternoon.

Commissioners Notified

Members of the court were advised Monday by Harry Gray Jr., president of the board of directors of the water improvement district, that formal demand for the increased tax levy has been made upon the directors by legal representatives of the bondholders in question.

The demands were made by the Bankers Life company and the Equitable Life Insurance company, both of Des Moines, Iowa. The two companies hold $399,000 in district No. 1 bonds, or less than 10 per cent of the more than $4,000,000 issued. Their demand stipulates that the tax levy be increased sufficiently to enable the district to take up principal and interest payments of about $120,000 defaulted last spring and to assure the payment of other principal and interest obligations falling due in the near future and during the next few years.

Computation of the amounts involved, based upon the percentage of tax collections recorded by the district in recent years, indicated that the rate demanded would be about $1.60 per $100 of property valuation. The 1932 rate adopted by the board is 80 cents. In connection with the fixing of the 1932 levy, the board marked down property valuations in the district from about $50,000,000 to approximately $36,000,000, it was shown.

Board Refuses Action

Notice from the bondholders, it was said, specified that in case the irrigation district's directorate failed to comply with the request, the commissioners court would be asked to assume jurisdiction in the matter, and to fix the rate at the higher level sought by the bondholders. So far as could be learned, no action will be taken by the irrigation district's directorate to raise the tax rate already set for this year.

"In my opinion, the board of directors will under no circumstances raise the rate unless compelled to do so by court action," one member told The Record News.

"It is absurd to talk of doubling the tax rate on people who can't pay the rate which already has been levied," he added.

According to County Judge John P. Marrs, a law was passed in this state in 1925 authorizing county commissioners courts to fix a higher tax levy for such special

President Launches Move To Raise Rates Of Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act

Hoover to Make Import Duties Major Issue in Campaign; He Finds Encouragement in Reports From Two States

By ROBERT BARRY
Universal Service Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Hoover moved today to have the tariff schedules of the Hawley-Smoot act raised.

His answer to the petition of nearly 400 economists for downward revision of the Republican rates was an instruction to the tariff commission for expeditious consideration on 16 major commodities the "increased importations" of which he asserted are unfavorably affecting employment, because of depreciated currencies in competitive producing countries.

Hoover's formal instructions to Robert L. O'Brien, chairman of the tariff commission, were so phrased as to invite higher duties than those in the Hawley-Smoot law.

Basis for Drive

It was indicated the Republican campaign now is to be predicated on even higher tariffs, in spite of the petitioning economists who contend the Hawley-Smoot rates already have wrecked international commerce and provoked retaliatory measures against the United States.

Following his appeals to West Virginia, Ohio and Michigan Saturday on the Republican tariff, the president elected to make the promise of even higher schedules the basis of his forthcoming drive to New York, New Jersey and New England, Illinois and the mid-West.

After forenoon and afternoon conferences with Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Postmaster General Brown, the president continued to withhold announcement of his speaking schedules for the final two weeks of the campaign. His New York speech next Monday night, with a brief speech at Newark, N. J., en route, remained the only definite engagements.

Senator Glenn, of Illinois, who rode with Hoover from Detroit to Washington, urged the president to tour downstate Illinois and wind up with a big mass meeting in Chicago. The senator left the White House inclined to the view Hoover would not go to Chicago until after the New York speech.

Cheering News

The advocacy of a spectacular dash across the continent by the president continued. Both Mills and Brown favored it. Walter Newton, the president's political secretary, was said to be against it.

Hoover declines to concede the loss of Illinois. He was encouraged by his advisers to believe he had turned the tide in Ohio. He recognizes the necessity of carrying both those states. Senator Glenn declared at the White House that

KIDNAP HOAXER ADMITS THEFTS

Thomas Confesses He Took School Money

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24 (UP)—Elliott B. Thomas, Redondo Beach school superintendent who engineered an unsuccessful kidnaping hoax, made an alleged confession to District Attorney Buron Fitts tonight that he had stolen thousands of dollars from the school district in the last two years.

The 36-year-old educator, who vanished mysteriously and then reappeared under another name in Washington, where he obtained a license to marry a Seattle girl, was immediately placed under arrest.

Fitts claimed Thomas turned over to him $2,600 in large bills, $500 in travelers' checks and the title to the coupe in which he made his escape from the town where he was regarded as a rising young community leader.

Philip LaFollette 'Pinch Hits' For Senator Norris In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 24. (AP)—Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska was ill tonight, but another insurgent Republican took his place on a speaking engagement of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

On an hour's notice, Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin left his home at Madison, 250 miles away, and sped to Springfield by autmobile.

It was the first occasion on which the younger La Follette had espoused the candidacy of the Democratic presidential nominee, although his brother, U. S. Senator Robert M., announced support of Governor Roosevelt last week.

Senator Norris went to a hospital today with a severe cold and a painful throat infection. Dr. Franklin Maurer advised him the condition was not serious, but might become so.

For several days Senator Norris has been engaged in a controversy with Secretary of Labor William N. Doak in connection with a charge that Doak offered use of his influence in obtaining a federal judgeship for Donald Richberg, attorney for railway labor interests, if Richberg would join with the secretary in a stand on the Norris anti-injunction bill in 1930.

Tonight's address by Governor La Follette was at a rally in the state armory which Democratic leaders said had aroused the most interest of all their Illinois meetings so far.

TALK REFORESTATION

'Rebuilding of Rural America' Theme of Speech To Southerners

ATLANTA, Oct. 24. (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight said the object of the Democratic party must be "the rebuilding of the rural civilization of America."

Speaking to a crowd of southerners that jammed the big Atlanta auditorium to the rafters, the Democratic presidential candidate added:

"I am, moreover, enough of an American to believe that such a restoration of prosperity in this country will do more to effect world recovery than all of the promotional schemes of lending money to backward and crippled countries could do in generations.

"In this respect I am for America first."

Talks Reforestation

Mr. Roosevelt reviewed three of the points in the agricultural program he laid down in his Topeka and later speeches and added to them the item of reforestation.

"It is time for every one of the older states to survey their entire acreage for the purpose of determining the best future use of the land," he said.

"In most of the states east of the Mississippi it will undoubtedly be determined that somewhere between 10 and 20 per cent of existing farm acreage now used for agricultural crops should be abandoned as such and converted into use for tree crops."

Use of Manual Labor

"The use of the labor of man enters into the picture when it becomes necessary to eliminate the less valuable types of trees among the young growth, to cull out the crooked trees, the decayed trees or the undergrowing trees and to prevent ravages of fire in the growing forests," he said a few moments later in explaining that reforestation did not consist of planting seedling trees.

"These are things which any beginner in agriculture or forestry should know, and, I may add, are things which my secretary of agriculture will know."

Mr. Roosevelt said there were thousands of acres of lands in the national forests of the Appalachian mountains on which trees were growing indiscriminately.

"Is there any good reason, financial or common sense or otherwise why the federal government should not undertake the proper care of its own property?" he asked.

Aid Farm Workers

"Here again is another field for the employment of great numbers of our citizens."

"During these weeks I have made it abundantly clear that I propose a national agricultural policy which will direct itself not only to the better use of our hundreds of millions of acres of every type of land in the United States, but also the rehabilitation of that half of our population which is living on or directly concerned with the products of the soil," he continued.

Mr. Roosevelt said the president in his acceptance speech had preached a "doctrine of despair to the suffering farmers of the country."

"He said in substance that the farmer must wait the long weary process of industrial reconstruction before aid can come to him," the governor added.

The candidate said Mr. Hoover "after concealing from the people of the country the constantly sink-

40 Injured In Crush To Hear Smith

'Warrior' Assails Hoover As Dry Leader And Cites Bigotry

By SEYMOUR BERKSON

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 24. (US)—Former Gov. Al Smith plunged into the thick of the 1932 presidential battle tonight with a smashing criticism of the Republican party and a vigorous appeal for the election of Governor Roosevelt and Speaker Garner.

It was his first national address of the campaign and he delivered it before a widely cheering army of more than 55,000 Democrats who packed inside and outside of the Newark armory to hear the former governor bring his tomahawk out from hiding and wield it on behalf of his party.

Only once during the speech broadcast over a nation-wide radio hookup did Smith mention Governor Roosevelt and Speaker Garner by name and that was at the end when he declared:

"I state from this platform to my nation-wide audience that the election of the Democratic ticket is the best way to solve these problems and the best way to bring back prosperity—the election of Roosevelt and Garner."

Smith concentrated his oratorical fire on what he termed the Republican party's two-faced stand on prohibition, proclaimed President Hoover "the leader of the dry forces in America," and recalled with flaming indignation the "intolerance and bigotry" which featured the Republican campaign against him in 1928.

Triumphal Parade

His speech climaxed a triumphal auto parade from New York City during which Smith, wearing his traditional brown derby, was boisterously greeted by more than 200,000 New Jersey residents along the route in a noisy panorama of cheering crowds, blaring bands, aerial bombs, red flares, and fireworks.

At the end of the parade, more than 40 persons were slightly injured and one woman suffered a broken rib in the human maelstrom that swirled madly around the armory here despite efforts of 500 police and firemen to keep order.

Pandemonium almost shattered the huge auditorium as Al, ushered in by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, came through a rear door to the platform.

In gray tweed topcoat, dark suit, black bow tie and his famous campaign brown derby, he bared his teeth in glee at the wild demonstration of men, women and children.

The band, flailing way "East Side, West Side," simply couldn't make itself heard for five minutes and then only because the crowd, roaring itself silly on thousands of chairs, had to take time out for breath.

Mrs. Smith beamed joyfully as her husband's famous brown derby waved to and fro.

At nine minutes, Smith mopped his brow, removed his overcoat and sat down. At 10 he was on his feet again, for the crowd had taken a new breath.

It was the closest approach possible to the triumph of a convention nomination. Whistles squealed, horns blared, sirens shrieked.

Smith was very much among friends.

A dozen minutes passed before quiet had been achieved.

"Gets at It"

When the wild ovation which greeted him in the armory itself died, Smith made a preliminary remark about making some more speeches in the East this week mentioning Massachusetts and Rhode Island, but regretting that he could not include Illinois. Then he gulped down a glass of water and brought down a roar of applause with the casual remark:

"Now, let's get at it."

He began with an admission that it was now apparent "we were waging an impossible fight in 1928" and followed that up with the first blast of his speech.

He said:

"Not the least element that operated against us to the last degree was the great Republican boast that that particular party had a patent on business prosperity, that they were responsible for its production, and that they alone could continue it.

Public "Fell" Easily

"When my mind goes back and I think of the rosy promises, I can imagin how easy it was for a great public to fall for it, that there would be a chicken in every pot."

Smith observed that Hoover's cabinet officers are out promising to restore something they could not hold when they had it. He went on:

"I wonder if any of them really realize that the attitude of the rank and file of the people of this coun-

He was in charge of Governor Sterling's primary campaign in its closing days.

FIVE YEAR SENTENCE

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cornelius J. Calkins, 21, was sentenced to five years imprisonment today on his plea of guilt to a charge of assault with intent to rob a taxicab driver.

COURT HOLDS ORDER INVALID

Oil Regulation Declared Influenced by Price

practical interpretation of the decision, but Maurice Cheek, assistant attorney general at Austin, indicated existing orders in the field would obtain until a decree carrying out the judgment of the court had been entered. Judge Bryant was reported as being ill at his home here. Judge Hutcheson was in New Orleans.

The opinion, in effect, upheld claims of Constantine & Wrather and other East Texas oil interests that the railroad commission's orders were arbitrary and unreasonable, operated to deprive producers of rightful profits and were designed not primarily to prevent waste but to affect the market price for oil.

Cases Consolidated

The complainants consolidated their case with many others and presented evidence in support of their claims at a hearing before the three-judge court at Houston starting Sept. 19. Attacks on proration in general in East Texas had been many and the consolidation followed in the hope a final decision covering all cases generally would be handed down.

The railroad commission, at the hearing, contended its program actually had prevented waste, particularly in guaranteeing to the East Texas field a greater ultimate recovery than could have been expected under unrestrained production.

The complainants asserted the commission's real motive, in regard to the East Texas proration orders, was to limit the state's production to such a figure that the crude could profitably be marketed at a given time. The commission then countered with the assertion that if the price of oil had been affected by any proration order, it was a coincidence and not designed by the commission.

Right Is Granted

The judges' opinion today was interpreted as granting the right of the commission to determine proration orders and issue them but at the same time holding that the ones which subsequently were published constituted "an invalid exercise of power and authority" by the commission.

After admitting the authority of the railroad body "to make reasonable regulations and to pass reasonable orders in pursuance" of their grant of authority by law, the ruling said:

"Yet, it finds that orders and regulations of the railroad commission in relation to the East Texas oil field do not have any reasonable relation to the prevention of physical waste but, tested by the operation and effect, only tend to prevent economic waste; that the commission has never been delegated by the legislature the authority to deal with this character of waste and that the orders are accordingly condemned as being an invalid exercise of power and authority by the commission."

C. V. Terrell, chairman of the railroad board, withheld comment on the decision, stating, in Austin, he would have to wait until he had read it. Lon A. Smith, another commissioner, said he had no comment to make at this time.

INDEPENDENTS ASK SPECIAL SESSION

TYLER, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Advised of the three-judge federal court decision at Sherman today which questioned existing proration rules and regulations of the Texas Railroad commission in the East Texas oil field, a group of independent East Texas operators met here late today and adopted a resolution petitioning Gov. R. S. Sterling to call an immediate special session of the legislature.

The resolution urged that such a step be taken to "save the natural oil resources of Texas."

Carl L. Estes, Tyler publisher, telegraphed the governor as follows:

"When you declared martial law in East Texas oil fields in August, 1931, you said in your proclamation it was done to prevent the destruction of a great natural resource. I believe you were sincere and feel that your sincerity of purpose in that issue, more than anything else, cost you a second term in the governor's office.

"At that time, many major oil groups had millions of barrels of oil in storage. Now they have less than 24 days' supply on hand. They want cheap oil badly at this time and under the federal court decision they can get it now.

"Therefore, I urge you to immediately call a special session of the state legislature to the end that this same 'great natural resource' may be saved by the passage of necessary provisions to strengthen the laws governing production of oil."

E. H. Eddleman, executive vice president of the Texas Oil and Gas Conservation association, attended the meeting. A committee composed of Estes, R. W. Fair and P. G. Lake was named to organize a delegation to wait upon the governor in Austin and press the plea for a special legislative session.

PRESENT ORDER IS BELIEVED EFFECTIVE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—Attorneys and officials of oil associations here interested in the litigation surrounding oil proration subject of decision by a three-judge court at Sherman today, withheld comment pending study of the text of the opinion.

From other sources, however, the opinion was advanced that the immediate effect of the decision would be little, since the order held invalid in the decision has since been superseded by the present curb order, adopted after another hearing, and based on an entirely new series of facts.

It was pointed out that the court admitted the power of the state to regulate oil production, and the right of the commission under the laws of Texas to impose reasonable regulations, which marks a considerable advance in favor of the state since the decision of the McMillan case by the same federal court over a year ago. The McMillan case is now on appeal before the United States supreme court. In holding that the present orders of the commission are unreasonable, lay opinion here held, the three-judge court was substituting its own discretion for discretion lodged by law in the railroad commission, which is the probable basis for the practically sure appeal from the decision.

Duncan To Pay Final Respects Today To Frank Fuqua, City's First Mayor

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Oct. 24.—Duncan will pay tribute Tuesday to Frank Fuqua, 89, "father" of the city who died at his home here Sunday night.

Funeral services for the pioneer Oklahoman who, during more than 40 years residence here, had been inseparably associated in every enterprise to build and better his town, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the First Baptist church.

Road Enthusiast

Many business houses and other institutions of the city will close to allow employes to pay respect to the man whose unceasing efforts in behalf of Duncan has to a great extent made it the thriving city it now is.

Mr. Fuqua, who was the first mayor of Duncan, is survived by his widow and two sons, Nolan Fuqua, secretary of the Stephens county election board, and Herbert Fuqua of Fort Worth.

Mr. Fuqua was instrumental in the founding of Duncan's city government. Even in his advanced years he continued to manifest a keen interest in the affairs of his city and county. He was interested particularly in road improvements. He was actively identified with the construction of the Baptist church, the Masonic temple and the Duncan High school building.

Built First Gin

It was Mr. Fuqua, with his brother-in-law, Will Breedlove, who built Duncan's first hotel and cotton gin. They cut their own lumber and hawled machinery for the gin from Texas.

With the organization of the city government, Fuqua entered the race for mayor, and by the margin of two votes, 110 to 108, was elected. In this office it was largely due to his efforts that Duncan obtained its first water and sewage system.

In succeeding years he served on the school board and for a number of years was president of the chamber of commerce.

A native of Tennessee, he removed with his parents to Illinois when a boy. Upon reaching young manhood, he, with a companion of his own age, set out for Texas. Constructing a small boat, they set out down the Mississippi river. Reaching Arkansas they abandoned the boat and tramped their way to Texas. Fuqua settled for a brief period at Sherman, but later removed to Montague county, from where he came to Duncan when this region was Indian territory.

What Hoover Will Do If Defeated Is Question Important To Nation

Industrial Leaders of Country Hope President Would Carry On Democratic Plan During 'Lame Duck' Tenure

By CHARLES S. HAYDEN
Record News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—What will President Hoover do if he is not re-elected Nov. 8? This is a question which foresighted men in Washington are asking one another in the belief that the correct answer may have a far reaching effect on the country and its hopes for an early recovery from the economic debacle.

Of course if President Hoover is re-elected the question is already answered. He will be thoroughly justified in considering his victory a vote of confidence and proceeding along the lines he has mapped out for the rehabilitation of business. But in case of defeat he will be simply a "lame duck" president, who, by virtue of the constitution, will have control of the executive branch of the government until March 4.

Hoover Hope Fades

The probability of such a contingency now seem far more likely than does that of victory. Perhaps President Hoover doesn't know it, or if he has been told doesn't believe it, but the fact remains that only a few of the leaders in his own party now expect to see him re-elected. Reluctantly they are forced to the conclusion, borne out by nation-wide polls and confidential advices from all parts of the country, that the electorate demands a change and, to use a homely expression from the mountains of east Tennessee, "the hog's eye is set." Speeches, according to confidential reports, are having little effect and Governor Roosevelt, evading traps set for him, has crushed the Republican hope that he would commit some blunder which would stay the electoral tide

It is argued that if the nation were running on an even keel the probable reaction of the president to defeat would be of comparatively little moment. He might "see red" if he wanted to, sulk, berate his "yes men" or go fishing until the end of his term. However, with the country slowly and laborously climbing out of the slough of economic despond it is recognized that the next four months may be fraught with vital consequences to the next four years.

Compared to Lincoln

In a recent ukase to his employes Henry Ford, the Detroit automobile manufacturer, compared President Hoover to President Lincoln and in that connection it is recalled that Lincoln, contemplating defeat in the election of 1864, while the civil war was still raging, planned to resign immediately, providing machinery could be devised for turning the conduct of his office over to his successor. His re-election nullified the plan and while the situation of the country now is almost as critical as though a war were being waged, no one anticipates that President Hoover will have to revive it. However, in the event of defeat, President Hoover will have three probable courses of action open to him. He may undertake to carry on the program he has launched as though nothing had happened. He can, figuratively speaking, fold his arms and defiantly demand of the Democrats, "Now you've got it: what're you going to do with it?" Or he can call in the Democratic leaders, which might even include Roosevelt himself, declare politics adjourned and volunteer to carry forward any sound plan which his erstwhile opponents might advance.

Bitter Pill

It is the last which leading industrialists and economists are hoping he will adopt. It is recognized this is hoping for a lot since to a man of President Hoover's temperament defeat, should it be his potion, will prove a very bitter pill. Those who know him best assert he will be inclined to consider himself a martyr, the victim of a world-wide depression in the making of which he had no hand and to feel that his countrymen are a bunch of ungrateful goofs. In his speeches he is prophesying dire consequences which he believes are likely to follow Republican defeat and he would be almost less than human if he did not secretly hope these predictions were borne out. At the same time the responsibility resting on him will be great and the decision he makes will be the acid test by which historians will gauge his administration.

Roosevelt Outlines Farm Program at Atlanta

ing condition of industry and growing unemployment" had opposed Democratic measures to meet destitution and promote employment.

The three point program which he repeated called for easing the tax load of the farmers, wrestling with the farm mortgage problem, and restoring the purchasing power of the farmer with the tariff as an aid.

"I believe that we ought to have in Washington a little less research and a little more thinking," he said, "fewer figures and more ideas; fewer commissions and more leadership.

"We ought to have less vacillation and more action.

"The time has come to eliminate political secretaries of agriculture and to substitute for them a secretary whom the farmers and the foresters will recognize as one of their own.

"We are certainly paying enough for the department of agriculture to get something more useful than we are now getting.

"I have already proposed its reorganization.

"I am going to insist that we get more service for the farmers for less money."

Discussing farm mortgages, he said the measure authorizing funds to buy additional stock in the federal land bank was introduced by Representative Steagall, and Senator Black, both Alabama Democrats.

Farmers Disappointed

"However, the administration of the funds thus appropriated was necessarily left entirely to the appointees of the administration and the farmers of America have been justly disappointed in the manner in which it has been administered," he continued.

Mr. Roosevelt said the president had asserted that most of the foreclosures by the land banks upon farms were on loans where the farmers were willing to have the mortgages foreclosed.

"If the president is sincerely of the opinion that these farmers are willing to be driven from their homes we cannot hope for any enthusiastic action upon his part to stop the foreclosures," he said.

Discussing the farm board, he said that as a result of an "experiment of Mr. Hoover $500,000,000 of the money of the tax payers was squandered." He referred to the Democratic platform condemning "the extravagance of the farm board" and said it had the effect of forcing the president "for political expediency in the closing days of the campaign to congress this abject failure of his experiments and to promise that after the election he will see what can be done to put an end to these false stabilization operations of which the nation complains and by which the farmer is being destroyed."

New Relationship

The New York governor said there was going to be a "new deal" after March 4 in the relationships between the White House and congress, "a better relationship in which not only Democrats but Republicans as well will take part."

He praised Governor Russell of Georgia, recently nominated as the Democratic candidate for United States senate, and said the governor had obtained a balanced budget in Georgia by cutting down expenditures instead of raising taxes.

"And I want to say also, loud enough to be heard in that section of Washington in which the White House and the treasury are located, that governor Russell did not wait for a political campaign to start considering how to get within his income," he added.

STATE ORDERS ROAD PAVING

Concrete Work on No. 66 To Start Soon

Formalities of issuing the work order and perfecting the contract and bond and its approval are expected to be rushed.

Other Contracts Today

Contract for 12.4 miles of sledgestone base and bituminous surfacing on No. 66 from Lake Creek to Windthorst is scheduled for letting Tuesday, according to Division Engineer D. M. Puckett.

L. E. Whitham and company of Wichita Falls received the award for 9.2 miles of concrete paving from Childress to Red river on No. 4. The low bid was $162,723.31.

Knox County Paving

The Whitham company also was awarded the contract for 11.5 miles of concrete paving from Benjamin in Knox county, west to the King county line on No. 24. The bid was for $180,039.66.

Young County Survey

The commission deferred action on a request for an appropriation to pave five blocks of No. 5 in Bonham. A hearing for representatives of the city was granted by the commission Monday. At the same time the road commissioners announced construction would be started as soon as possible on No. 5 from the Grayson-Fannin county line to Bonham.

A personal survey of the proposed location of a new Young county highway from Graham to Strawn in Palo Pinto county was ordered by the commission before designation of the road. The proposed route would go via Metcalf gap. State Engineer Gibb Gilchrist was authorized to make the survey following a conference with Young and Palo Pinto county highway enthusiasts.

Highway 2 in Wise county will receive a portion of special double bituminous surface treatment in an award for 5 miles in Johnson, Wise and Hood counties in a lump award to the Public Construction company of Denton. The bid was for $3,573.63.

The road and bridge construction projects awarded by the commission Monday aggregated $2,279,619. A major portion of the work was let under the emergency highway apportionment advanced by the federal government to relieve unemployment.

Under the terms of the federal aid advance manual labor must be used where practical in preference to machines and local labor and world war veterans must be given preference on the jobs. The contracts specified a minimum of 30 cents an hour for common labor and 45 cents an hour for skilled labor.

Hoover Works For Higher Tariffs

while Illinois was doubtful three weeks ago, "there is no doubt now that it is for Hoover." Glenn asserted Hoover might even carry Cook county (Chicago).

Glenn said the change had been brought about in Illinois by revulsion of feeling against the "radicals with whom Governor Roosevelt has associated himself in the campaign" and the jeering of President Hoover in Detroit "by Communists and anarchists."

The White House made not the slightest effort to conceal that the president's action in the matter of tariff revision upward was a major political gesture and one likely to be emphasized by himself and supporting campaign orators until election day.

Make Major Issue

In releasing the letter to Chairman O'Brien, the White House appended a detailed list of the cities and states in which, it was contended, "unemployment is unfavorably affected by increased importation of competitive products" due to depreciated currencies abroad. Under the elastic provisions, the president, on recommendation of the tariff commission, is empowered to raise rates 50 per cent above those in the Hawley-Smoot bill, which Governor Roosevelt and other Democrats have called the most excessive in history.

If the reprisals voted by the Dominion of Canada and other members of the British commonwealth of nations had not made the Hawley-Smoot tariff a major issue in the campaign, President Hoover proposes to do so in his final drive for re-election. His answer to the world today was a virtual direction to the tariff commission for more tariff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (UP)—Replies of Texas senators and congressmen in Washington to the "party-loyalty" letter from State Democratic Chairman Maury Hughes indicate none of the delegation will bolt Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson's candidacy for governor.

Hughes has asked all by letter to say whether they intend to vote for "any Republican." Senators Sheppard and Connally replied they intend to "vote the ticket from top to bottom." Speaker Garner said his reply would be made public at Dallas.

SUPREME COURT SETTLES CASES

Tax Controversies Handled By High Tribunal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—The supreme court settled a number of important controversies today without handing down a written opinion.

It affirmed the order of the Pennsylvania courts in a case brought by the Girard Life Insurance company sustaining a tax of eight mills on the gross premiums received by stock life insurance companies.

Four cases from Kentucky, brought by the Stewart Dry Goods company and others challenging the validity of the state gross sales tax were sent back for trial. A three-judge federal court had held the companies should have paid the taxes and then brought suit to recover. The companies protested they had no assurances, because of the condition of the state finances, they would be able promptly to obtain a refund should the taxes be held invalid, and the highest court directed the trial court to ascertain what basis there is for the contention.

Luke Lea, the Tennessee banker and publisher, his son, Luke Lea Jr., and Wallace B. Davis of Asheville, North Carolina, were refused a review of their conviction by North Carolina courts on charges of conspiracy to misapply funds of the Central Bank and Trust company of Asheville.

Penitentiary sentences against the Leas and Davis were affirmed by the supreme court of North Carolina on June 15. The elder Lea was sentenced to six to 10 years, Davis to four to eight and Lea Jr. to two to four years. The younger Lea's sentence was suspended, however, when he paid fines totaling $25,000.

Kidnaped Child Points Out Her Abductor

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 24. (AP)—Anna Klainhandler, 8-year-old girl victim of an abductor who lured her away while her mother was watching a movie concerning a kidnaped child, today identified Samuel Morris, 39, as her kidnaper.

Morris, after long questioning at police headquarters, denied he was implicated. He was held on a charge of kidnaping and atrocious assault with intent to kill. He said he had spent the night in a coffee house.

The girl, bleeding from knife wounds in her neck and over her heart, appeared at a lonely farmhouse in a woods at Springfield at 5:30 a. m. and later told police of a 10-mile ride last night in a taxicab, with "a man with a scarred face."

Bond Owners File Demands

districts in the event that taxes levied by such a district itself prove inadequate for the discharge of scheduled obligations. Bonds of the Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1 were voted and issued prior to that time, however, it was pointed out.

Taxes Delinquent

In the absence of compliance this week by the district's board of directors with the demand for a higher levy, it was shown, legal representatives of the petitioning bond holders will appear before the commissioners court next Monday, Oct. 31, to ask such action of that body.

The Bankers Life company owns $164,000 of the district No. 1 bonds and the Equitable Life Insurance company owns $235,000. The companies on Oct. 15 demanded of the directors that the tax rate be raised sufficiently to offset tax delinquencies in the district of approximately $389,000. The companies also demanded that funds now in the district treasury be apportioned among bond owners. When directors of the district made no reply to this demand, the second demand, threatening an appeal to the county court, was filed.

Directors of the district several weeks ago met with major bondholders but were unable to agree on a compromise in the district's financial affairs.

LAST OF FAMED RANCH IS SOLD

'Heart' of 101 Millers Bros. Properties Auctioned

NEWKIRK, Okla., Oct. 24. (UP)—The "heart" of the famous 101 ranch was sold over the auction block at a sheriff's sale here late today to satisfy creditors' claims.

The John Hancock Life Insurance company, holder of $50,000 in notes against the ranch, was the only bidder, purchasing 1,116 acres in the heart of the ranch for $50,300.

The sale, with a recent auction at Perry, virtually wiped out the vast holdings of Col. Zack Miller, the only survivor of the Miller brothers who founded the inland empire 40 years ago. The ranch white house, however, has not been sold.

Colonel Miller filed a last minute petition with the district court seeking to check the auction on a plea a move was under way to reorganize the ranch with aid from the Exchange National bank of Tulsa. Judge Claude Duval overruled the plea.

Farm and home agents in Tennessee cost the counties in which they are employed less than one cent of each tax dollar.

PROCESSING OF OIL STEPS UP

Slight Increase in Crude Runs Occurs

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 24. — The principal refineries of the mid-continent cut deeper into the crude oil they charged the week of Oct. 15. The weekly study of refinery operations disclose. A slight increase in crude oil runs occurred, with a small decline in other oils, and while an increase in the yield of gasoline naturally followed, the principal gains were in making distillates and gas oil, now very much in demand.

The statistics by Platt's Oilgram and National Petroleum News follow in detail.

Crude Oil Runs

Here's how the refineries charged crude oil to stills: (Barrels a day)

Area—	Past Wk.	Prev. Wk.

Totals	92,770,000	90,791,000

The analysis of the operation report shows that crude charges were up 0.1 per cent, and that of other oils declined 0.4 per cent. Output of gasoline increased 5.4 per cent; shipments declined 5 per cent and stocks went up 2.2 per cent.

Kerosene production of 3,552,000 gallons showed a loss of 8.1 per cent; the 1,268,000 gallons of furnace oil made showed a gain in yield of 17.2 per cent, and in making 3,020,000 gallons of gas oil, refiners jumped production 50.9 per cent, and fuel oil output fell off 7 per cent to that of 17,647,000 gallons.

WILCOX FIGHTS CASE RETURN

Oil Company Objects To Court Order

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24. (UP)—The Wilcox Oil and Gas company, filed objections before the state supreme court against its proration case being remanded to the corporation commission for new trial "without the important and public questions herein involved being first decided."

Attorneys for the commission last week filed a confession of error, admitting evidence did not justify its order closing down 10 Wilcox wells in the Oklahoma City field, and asked that the court send the case back to the commission for retrial.

"In our printed brief, we set out: 'The orders of the commission are illegal, null and void in that they are all general orders and were not published as provided by law; nor was any notice of hearings; that they are contrary to and not authorized by the proration act itself but are in violation of the plain provisions thereof; that they are designed to and do fix prices, and further, by reason of not taking potentials, they have permitted a great number of wells to produce on a 100 per cent basis.'

"Under this proposition, we submit the facts and the law which unquestionably, in our opinion, show the orders of the commission to be wholly illegal and its manner of proration, both on the percentage and flat allowable basis in plain violation of the proration statute."

Wilcox attorneys said it would be a useless gesture to return the case to the commission for retrial.

The Wilcox attorneys accused the commission of keeping secret the facts made known in their confession of error, for three months.

"Now the commission, through private counsel, asked this court, after confessing the illegality of its actions to not pass upon our rights, to send us back where they can again handle us as suits their whim and fancy. For more than three months, the commission and private counsel have kept locked up in their bosom, the confession which they now make.

"In the meantime, they have permitted this court to be publicly maligned and ridiculed, and Wilcox to be criticized and called thief and a consort of thieves."

State Aids Probe Of Frogery Cases

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—T. M. Markham, assistant state auditor, was here today to confer with William McCraw concerning an investigation which has been requested of the Dallas county grand jury.

Markham refused to divulge the nature of the probe but from other sources it was learned the jury will be asked to indict two men in connection with the alleged forgery of indorsements to dividend checks mailed from the state banking department. One or more were known to have been cashed here.

He intimated, however, that the inquiry here was the outgrowth of a similar investigation at Austin, where two men have been charged formally with embezzlement.

The irregularity was disclosed when checks sent out by the state banking department as "dividends" to depositors of defunct banks frequently were reported to have fallen into the hands of outside persons who forged indorsements and cashed them.

Deep Oil Test Has Strong Show

Standing with oil to an approximate depth of 3000 feet in the hole the Deep Oil Development company's No. 1 First National test, located in the southwest part of block 29, Wichita valley farm lands in Wichita county, gives indication of making a nice producer.

The well, which is located 600 feet north of the Deep Oil Development, No. 1 Munger Brothers producer, drilled a broken saturated lime from 3693 to 3960 feet when considerable fluid came in through about 300 feet of cavings in the bottom. At present the hole is being cleaned out, and when finished will be put to the swab when some estimate of the well's capacity can be determined.

In event of a completion in this farmation it will be the second brought in from the territory north of the old K. M. A. field, the four others drilled following the strike in the Munger well being abandoned as dry holes.

10-STATE OIL PACT URGED

Advisory Committee Hears Conservation Talks

WICHITA, Kan, Oct. 24. (UP)—Pleading conservation in the public interest, Judge Warwick M. Downing, Denver, today urged the oil states advisory committee to adopt a 10-state compact limiting production.

Judge Downing, vice president of the Reiter Foster Petroleum corporation, representing Colorado, outlined the interstate oil treaty approved last year by the federal oil conservation board in an effort to secure uniform legislation.

The proposed compact would limit production in proportion to market demands and would seek to limit imports of foreign crude to 5.5 per cent of the national demand.

"Let us face the facts," said Judge Downing. "The oil situation in recent years has made each new field a public disaster instead of a national blessing."

"The mention of oil prices has sent shivers down our spines and down the spines of our congressmen, but when we talk stabilization we are talking prices. We cannot hope to control the supply of oil to the extent of unreasonable prices. We want a fair price."

The compact would embrace the states of Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas Louisiana, California, Ohio, Arkansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming. Legislation to curb evasion of gasoline taxes as well as illegal production is outlined.

Members of the committee planned to make specific recommendations regarding "high taxes as burdens on the industry." A formal statement intimated several representatives considered taxation as retarding oil progress and believed oil men yielded too readily to all forms of levies.

Judge Downing urged conservation to save the public from alternate periods of oil feasts and famine as well as a means of stabilizing an industry upon which thousands are dependent for life. Several hundred oil men in addition to the committee heard his address.

Committee members included Cicero Murray, Oklahoma; Thurman Hill, Kansas; W. Scott Heywood, Louisiana; Kenneth McConnell, Ohio; Van S. Welch, New Mexico; Carl M. Cox, Wyoming; Cullen Thomas, Texas; T. H. Barton, Arkansas; W. H. Cooley, California.

A special highway, exclusively for motor trucks, is planned in Italy to connect the great port of Genoa with the inland cities, Milan and Turin.

First Methodist Women Study Chinese Issues

"Understanding and appreciation of the Chinese and their problems and of the relationship between these problems and Christianity is the aim of this mission study which we are today beginning,' 'said Mrs. W. D. Cline in the talk which, as superintendent of mission study, she introduced the text, "Living Issues in China," by Hodgkin, when members of the First Methodist church met Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the church parlors for the first mission class of the fall study.

The meeting opened with the singing of the hymn, "Open My Eyes," led by Mrs. Stanley M. Raub, with Mrs. J. E. O'Brien at the piano. The devotional service was conducted by Mrs. C. W. Snider, who chose as the worship topic for the morning, "Christ the Good Shepherd," reading a part of the 10th chapter of St. John and emphasizing the words of Christ as recorded in the 16th verse, "And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold." Mrs. Snider said that members of the missionary society should bear always in mind the vitally missionary purpose of their money and their efforts and that membership in the missionary society identifies one with a movement that has only the highest good for humanity in view.

Mission Project Described

She pointed out that it is a great and a grave responsibility to supply ideals to a nation in the throes of a stupendous national and international crisis, but that such was the responsibility which Christianity is called upon to assume in the case of China. "Heathen nations," she said, "are nations of fear and superstition and the task of Christianity is to overcome this fear and superstition and thus make a vast multitude of the earth's population free, as we are free, to know the abundant life which only the knowledge of Christ can give." Mrs. Snider spoke tenderly of the "abundant parent-love of God," for all his children, and concluded with a prayer of consecration to the task of spreading Christianity throughout the world. A solo, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," sung by Mrs. F. M. Hansen, accompanied by Mrs. J. E. O'Brien at the piano, closed the worship part of the program.

In giving the background for the study, Mrs. Cline described briefly the geography of China, saying that the country is two-thirds as large as North America and that it consists of three main divisions, has three chief river basins, and is set off by desert, sea and mountains from the rest of the world. China has an unbroken history dating back to 2800 years before Christ, due largely to its isolated position. Not only has China as a country been shut off for centuries from the rest of the world but the individual villages within China have been isolated from each other so that the country has never presented itself as a unified people or nation, having one language, one government, and common ideas. The population of China is immense, consisting of about one-fourth of the population of the whole world. The sudden impact of western civilization on the ancient civilization of China has brought about the critical conditions which are affecting China's national and international life today. Mrs. Cline read a poem of great appeal, written by a Chinese on "Brotherhood."

Children's Work

Mrs. Ben Howle, superintendent of the juniors, told of the special mission study program conducted by the boys and girls World club of juniors, Aug. 29 to Sept. 9, during which "The Young Revolutionist" by Pearl Buck was studied. Mrs. Howle gave a brief synopsis of the book, which was the story of a young Chinese boy illustrating the influence of Christianity upon the youth of China. The daily program of the children's mission study included Bible verses, story-hour, recreation, poster-making, songs and prayers, Mrs. Howle said. She displayed and explained the series of 14 interesting posters made by the boys and girls to illustrate "The Young Revolutionist."

The introduction and the first chapter of the text-book, "Living Issues in China" were presented clearly and forcefully by Mrs. T. C. Anthony. She told of the struggle of the old against the new in China, of the conditions in China in 1905 and of the contrasting conditions leading up to and following the revolution of 1911. The tragedy of widespread illiteracy, political uncertainty, frequent famine, and banditry makes the problem of China peculiar to that country. "Morally, China has not yet found herself in the rapidly changing conditions," Mrs. Anthony said. Furthermore, the great shadow of communism is constantly menacing. One bright spot has been the inestimable influence of Dr. Sun Yat Sen for good in the land. The chief political need of China is that of daring, courageous, far-seeing, spiritual leadership. "China is learning to walk by walking," though, and even if the progress has seemed slow and discouraging, there is much for which to be grateful in what has been accomplished in the face of such tremendous odds as the country has had to combat. In conclusion, Mrs. Anthony read a poem of exquisite sentiment, "Softly Walking," which expressed the beauty of "human love for living needs." Mrs. C. B. Haynie pronounced the benediction.

The next study class will be held next Monday afternoon, Oct. 31, at 2 o'clock.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

"What is the world coming to?" people ask nonchalantly, then go on their way taking part in all the old world's activities and not straining many muscles, nerves or inhibitions to change things.

We get a queer sort of pleasure in turning the dials on the radio, hopping from Hoover's deep voice to one of the latest popular songs, then to a Democratic speech, etc., though we have come to the conclusion that we belong by inheritance to a poor party. It seems to be the Republicans who can buy nation-wide hookups, and though the greatest speech we have heard yet, was that by Senator Gore, Saturday night, in the midst of his talk, punctuated by fervent applause and loud laughter (we sat and giggled), Hoover's angry bass at Detroit, was in the background from some smaller station. Mr. Hoover says he was glad he was "booed," but he didn't sound like it Saturday evening. There was not the slightest indication in his roars against "the governor," that he was ever a meek and mild Quaker.

Senator Gore says down in Oklahoma they have quit calling the Republican party the Grand Old Party. It is now the Piggly Wiggly party, because it never delivers.

Being thrust out in the cold via radio recently (as both young and old Republicans speak constantly) we have been on a wild carousal, taking in movies. In one night, for instance, we saw Will Rogers in "Back to Earth," and "That's My Boy," with a dozen good actors. The latter was one of the most interesting college stories we have ever seen. Every one, of course, must laugh at Rogers and his wit is good, but his company had hindsight instead of foresight in putting out "Back to Earth." By the way, it was odd to see the same girl wed two different men that night. Dorothy Jordan seemed to be the only bride-elect on the Wichita cinema list.

"Night Club Lady" drew us next —quite a new version of the acting ability of Adolph Menjou. Plenty of laughs and plenty of corpses and it leaves you with a scringing over the picture of a scorpion. We do not like poisonous insects; they seemed to be everywhere.

Other screen varieties (?) are on their way. There's Dietrich in "Blonde Venus" and we heard somewhere that in making this picture, the actress said "If they want legs, give them legs." Which she did. We do not vouch for the statement. Dietrich is an actress however; there's no gainsaying that.

Then Wednesday at the State comes another picture that will probably draw crowds because of its title, "Hot Saturday." One of the pretty young actresses of the stage is appearing in it, Nancy Carroll, and the scandal that hasn't been attached to her name in public, appears in the film.

The greed and gossip; the small-town poisonous view of the year 1932; an innocent girl splotched with scandal are part of the story.

It seems that we cannot have them, but why not see pictures without ugly passions and with pure loves. There are still such things. There must be. There are three erotic heroes in the story and there's a sentence quoted concerning it that we read long ago, "Her lips offered what her heart denied." It is done every day.

This story, however, has an astounding end and we rather think it will be a favorite with both young and old. Any way we shall keep up our cinema dissipation and see both it and the weird-sounding "Six Hours to Live."

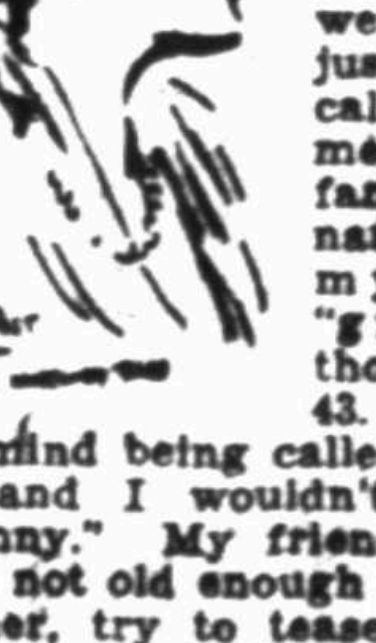
Young Grandmother Likes Her Name

By EMILY POST
Author of "Etiquette, the Blue Book of Social Usage"

Dear Mrs. Post: What would a step-grandchild call a step-grandmother? My husband's daughter is only a few years younger than I, and she calls me by my first name. Her little child, born since my husband and I were married, is just learning to call the different members of the family by their names. She calls my husband "grandad" although he is only 43. I really would not mind being called "grandmother" and I wouldn't a bit mind "granny." My friends, who know I am not old enough to be a grandmother, try to tease me about it, but I am just pleased and proud of my granddaughter and would much rather not have her call me "Mary," as they think she ought to do.



Answer—I think "granny" would be rather charming. Precisely because you are so young, the name would be a pet name.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a radio announcer introduces a speaker, is it not rude for the speaker to fail to say "Thank you"?

Answer—It is very much a question of circumstances. Should an announcer make a personal remark to the speaker, the speaker would naturally answer, but to have an announcer say "You will now hear Mr. On-the-air"; then Mr. On-the-air says— (pause) "Thank you Mr. Talker." And at the end, when Mr. Talker again says "Thank you Mr. On-the-air," this reiteration can become extremely tiresome.

Twilight Ceremony Unites Popular Young Wichitans

Twilight and Indian summer outside were no more beautiful than the exquisite interior of the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Stephens on Kessler, when Rev. S. F. Martin read the impressive ring ceremony there Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, unting Miss Emily Mitcham, one of the most popular young society girls of the city, in marriage with Harold Lesley.

The long living room was a beautiful scene. Tall cathedral candelabra outlined the improvised altar at the mantelpiece where deep green southern smilax was interwoven with rich Talisman roses. A fan shaped group of the Talisman roses stood between the five branched candelabra at each end of the mantel and silver baskets tied with purple tulle outlined the aisle from the wide hall door through which the wedding party went to the altar. The soft candle light completed a marvelously exquisite setting.

Prenuptial Music

Miss Rose Marian Art sang as prenuptial music, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly," with Mrs. O. G. Stephens accompanying at the piano. The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played as the processional and through the lovely ceremony, Mrs. Stephens played softly Liszt's "Liebestraum."

Mr. Lesley entered first with Joe Staley, who was best man and the six charming bridesmaids following were a symphony in shades of orchid, lavender and purple, the close fitting gowns, with intriguing ripples covering white shoulders, touching the floor. The party of eight bridesmaids carrying arm bouquets of Talisman roses, included Misses Donna Mitcham, Katherine Weeks, Lena Mae Lesley, Wenzella Witherspoon, Jane Moore and Mrs. Pierce Langford.

Lovely Bride

The bride, who entered alone, was a radiant picture in her long, close-fitting model gown of ivory satin, the pointed cuffs fitting closely over her hands. She wore a tulle cap embroidered with seed pearls and the tulle veil was the length of the court train which was carried by the handsome little train bearers, Billy McCutchen and Horace Lesley. Her bridal bouquet was an arm bouquet of tiny white rosebuds.

An informal reception followed the ceremony with Mrs. Glenn Bradford, Misses Bernice Hindman, Martha Long of Vernon and Eloise Hawkins serving the dainty refreshment plate that noted the bride's chosen colors.

Out-of-town guests present for the wedding and reception included Mrs. S. M. Covington of Alvord, Jay Covington of San Angelo, Messrs. and Mesdames Fred Weeks of Tyler, and W. K. Long of Vernon; Misses Katherine Weeks of Tyler and Martha Long of Vernon and Charlie Hobbs of St. Louis.

Short Bridal Trip

Directly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lesley left for a short wedding trip and on their return will be at home to their friends at 1801 Tilden. Mrs. Lesley wore a handsome going away suit of brown with fox trimmings and accessories to harmonize.

Mrs. Lesley, one of the most popular and beautiful girls of the city, is the daughter of Mrs. M. Mitcham, 1814 Huff street. She is a graduate of the local high school, attended Gulf Park college at Gulfport, Miss., and is a graduate of Oklahoma university, where she was pledged as a Pi Beta Phi. Floral Heights W. M. S. Studies Chinese Theme

Mrs. Marvin Smith directed an outstanding program on mission study at Floral Heights Methodist church when members of the Woman's Missionary society met Monday afternoon. Mrs. W. J. Stuckey led the song service with Mrs. Lester Jones at the piano and Mrs. Milton Johnson gave the devotional, stressing the proper use of money, time and talent in Christ's work. Mrs. Johnson closed with a poem by Edgar Guest and offered a special devotional prayer.

Members of circle four gave the program from "Living Issues in China."

"Can China Feed Her Millions?" was the theme of a discussion by Mrs. W. B. Guthrie, who stated the leaders of the country were trying to uphold the physical needs of the Chinese provinces; men were tilling the soil and women were spinning and weaving in homes or small industrial factories. She stressed the great strides made by the colleges and universities in teaching self help and their aid in showing the Chinese the meaning of Christian communities and the value of Christian individuals. "A new era in economic life has been established," she said.

Chinese National Theme

The afternoon program was turned to the subject of "How to Deal With the National Problems," when Mrs. Austin F. Leach described the factories of the land. She read a pom, "The Song of the Cloth Seller," which stressed the low wages and long hours of Chinese labor and she spoke graphically of child labor as one of the problems of the country.

Mrs. Leach's discussion was closed with an account of business ethics and she gave Christianity as the only solution for the grave problems of the land.

Mrs. Marvin Smith gave a sketch of the life of the Lambuth family, telling how father, mother and son working in China, had carried on there for 133 years.

SMITH SPEAKS IN NEW JERSEY

'Happy Warrior' Attacks G. O. P. Record

try in a short period of time has completely changed with respect to the 18th amendment?"

He recalled wiring the Houston convention his views on prohibition and his threat to decline the nomination if they were not acceptable. He went on:

"I did not dodge it. I went into it head on."

As a consequence, said Smith, there sprung up all over the country, "a widespread opposition to me because of that telegram, which we all found out afterwards was nothing more or less than a cloak for bigotry."

He went on:

"What I found particular fault with was that the Republican party with its money, influence, power, incited and paid and encouraged that spirit of bigotry."

Tearing at Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, then assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases, he recalled she had urged the Methodist conference in Ohio to bring about his defeat. He said:

"That was on the theory I had spoken against the 18th amendment."

He quoted her as later stating she had made the appeal at the insistance of the Republican national committee.

In his reference to Mrs. Willebrandt's oratorical plea for his defeat in 1928, Smith said:

"Naturally, a speech of that kind brought a great wave of protest from liberal-minded people inside of both parties. She was repudiated by some of the progressive thinking leaders of her own party."

Smith emphasized that Walter H. Newton, secretary to Hoover, and William J. Donovan, G. O. P. candidate for New York governor, at that time were on the Republican board of strategy.

He resumed:

"So far as the Willebrandt incident is concerned, let it be read into the political history of this country that what she did was at the behest of the Republican national committee and the bigotry and intolerance that arose throughout the country because of her remarks can be directly charged to that political committee."

G. O. P. Platform

Of the present Republican platform he said:

"The Republican convention at Chicago with characteristic hypocrisy, and I add, characteristic stupidity, attempted to face both ways on the prohibition question. They tried to hold out a sop to the wets and a little bone to the drys, so that they could again repeat the performance of 1928 and try to have everybody with them, and had it not been for the officeholders that were amenable to the influence of the White House that were delegates to that Republican convention at Chicago, that convention would have handed the United States of America as clear-cut a wet platform as did the Democratic national convention.

"But what did they run up against? They ran up against Hoover, who is himself the leader of the dry forces today in the United States."

Cites Dry Support

"Then he stopped the Republican national convention from taking a clear cut stand. Is there any doubt that he is the leader today? Wait until you hear who endorsed him! Daniel Poling, president of the allied forces and editor of the Christian Herald and general secretary of the Christian Endeavor movement.

"He is also endorsed by Dr. Dinwiddie, president of the National Temperance bureau and secretary of the prohibition board of strategy.

"He is endorsed by Dr. Rowland, editor of the Virginia Christian Advocate; President Bishop Richardson, representing the anti-saloon league, also endorsed him, and that endorsement is published in the organ of the Ku Klux Klan, known as the Fellowship Forum.

"The Fellowship Forum in 1928 was not only the action organ of the klan, but it was encouraged by the Republican national committee.

"When a lady from the New York World went to Republican headquarters in Washington, and said "where can we get some of these newspapers that attack Al Smith and the pope?" the secretary said, "we haven't any here, but come with me," he brought her around to the headquarters of the Fellowship Forum and there she got all she wanted."

Wine Growers' Deal

Returning to Mrs. Willebrandt Smith observed that after leaving her government post, she became counsel for fruit growers who had developed a brick of concentrated grapes.

He continued:

"She did for them two wonderful things:

"No. 1—She convinced the department of justice that this 12 per cent wine was not intoxicating. That is some stunt. When you figure that old Uncle Andy Volstead fixed it at ½ of 1 per cent, and she jumped it up 11½ per cent, and still robbed it of any intoxicating matter."

That brought a roar of laughter, Smith continued:

"She did something else for them which is equally important. She got the farm board to lend them $20,000,000. Senator Copeland, speaking before the senate, said the Republican party paid its debt to Mrs. Willebrandt.

"Paid its debt in what way? Declared that her concentrated grape juice was all right and did not violate the law, and then loaned them $20,000,000.

Mabel Gets Fee

"But the director of the prohibition bureau in Washington rather said that there was a billion dollars worth of this wine made with a 12½ per cent alcoholic content. So that when all is said and done, Mabel collected a beautiful big fee to make the Volstead act and the 18th amendment just look like 30 cents.

"August 7, 1931, the New York papers carried the big headline that out in open court, right in the trial of a suit, the charge was made and went unchallenged, that her particular client was going free from prosecution at the hands of the department of justice."

Smith followed with some caustic remarks about Texas voting Republican in 1928:

"On listening to the national convention of the Democratic party at Chicago, I heard a husky Texan rise in his place and cast the 40 votes of Texas for a wet platform—and I lost Texas because of prohibition (laughter and applause).

"Now, there is the history. And for hypocrisy, for deceit, for double-dodging, double-dealing and double-crossing, it probably has nothing to equal it in all the annals of American history."

Smith then compared the prohibition platforms of the two parties:

"Let us take a look at the platforms. The Democratic plank on prohibition consists of about 50 or 60 words; the Republican plank is half a page. But I will only read two little sections:

" 'No. 1, we do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal.' What does that mean? That means that they will not limit the issue only for submitting it to the American people, to the question of repeal. Nothing could be plainer than that.

In Bonehead Class

"They didn't have to say it in the platform. If you want my private opinion of the fellow that put it there, I would put him in the bonehead class.

"There is no reason for saying it, although that is what they mean. Now, this, however, is the important fact, 'members of the Republican party hold different opinions with respect to it and no public official or member of the party should be pledged or forced to choose between his party affiliations and his earnest convictions upon this question.'

"What does that mean? That means that while the party declares it as a fundamental principle, no candidate is pledged to it."

Smith continued:

"Consequently it is easy for them to receive the approval of the Anti-Saloon league, the Women's Christian Temperance union, the Ku Klux Klan, the Methodist conference and the aggregation of bigots that make up what they call the dry forces."

Claiming the Democratic prohibition plank is virtually the same plank he wrote for repeal of the 18th amendment in 1928, Smith said:

"The Democratic platform plank has put the Democratic party in the bright light of intelligent understanding on the part of the intelligent people throughout the United States and it leaves the Republican party today where it was in 1928—the party of bigotry, of deceit and of hypocrisy."

Economic Conditions

The former governor of New York then declared that economic conditions have spurred sentiment for a change in the dry laws. He said:

"The economic condition hit the people between the eyes, and there has been more accomplished on that side of it than there was talking on the moral side of it in all the five years that preceded the last year.

"The American people have awakened to find out that our first families, our society people, and our speakeasies of high and low character are dealing with the bootlegger. The bootlegger is waxing fat. No revenues are coming into the government. The sale of this stuff is going on all over the country in every state of the union."

Smith continued:

"The bootlegger is cheating his Uncle Sam. He pays no income taxes. He does a cash business. There is no way of checking up on him. Meanwhile the wise sages of the government in Washington are tossing out the window the billions of dollars that could be legitimately taken from this traffic.

Cites Huge Deficit

"They are rooting around the family cupboard and in the small business store and in the big counting house trying to find enough money in taxation to keep the government going.

"Up to a couple of days ago we were only five hundred millions of dollars overboard. We have to find up to date five hundred million. Watch that figure grow. By the time congress gets ready to pass some nuisance taxes it will probably be a billion.

"Then we are going through the senseless performance down there of increasing the income tax at a time when nobody has an income. They absolutely forget, going back to the elementary principles of mathematics, that twice nothing is nothing."

He added:

"Everybody, even the children in high school distinctly understand that the 18th amendment did not prohibit and the Volstead act did not prevent, and that conditions are worse today than they were before the enactment of this amendment, and that the federal government and the various governments of the state are getting absolutely no revenues from it."

Mentions Nominees

Then Smith swung into his concluding climax:

"This is the time to settle that question, let me impress upon my listeners in every part of this country that if you do not settle this question on Nov. 8, there is no use holding any protest meetings in January.

"When you go home tonight search your conscience, search your memory and see if you can think of one great big public question that has been settled by the present Republican administration.

"I state from this platform to my nation-wide audience that the election of the Democratic ticket is the best way to solve these problems and the best way to bring back prosperity—the election of Roosevelt and Garner."

NAVY TO BUILD HEAVY CRUISER

10,000 Ton Ship to Cost 17 Millions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—To keep the United States up to her treaty strength in cruisers, the navy intends to start work next year on another vessel of that type.

Bids have been invited on a 10,000-ton 8-inch gun cruiser to cost approximately $17,000,000 and be completed in 1936.

That will give this country 16 cruisers of this type. Under the London treaty the 17th can be started in 1934 and the 18th in 1935.

Work Begins March 1

In making the announcement, Secretary Adams of the navy department said work on the new cruiser would not begin until March 1, if the four months' extension of the year's naval building holiday becomes effective.

The United States recently announced its willingness to continue the holiday provided other signatory nations do the same. It was to have expired Nov. 1.

Adams explained the bids on the new cruiser were invited before the state department made known its position toward the naval construction holiday. They are to be opened here on Dec. 14.

The contract will be let to a private shipbuilding company.

Under Treaty Allowance

At the present time this country has built, building or appropriated for, 172,900 tons of cruisers. The London treaty authorizes 180,000 tons but carries an 18-vessel limitation.

Great Britain, navy department records show, has 19 heavy cruisers of 183,686 tons. She is limited by treaty to 146,800 but two vessels are to be scrapped in 1936.

The United States, in the disarmament conferences at which she has been represented, has stood out for the right to build heavy cruisers, contending they are necessary because of the few American naval bases, which necessitate long trips. Great Britain with a large number of bases, has favored light cruisers.

Legislator Shot In Altercation at Eden

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 24. (AP)—G. Y. Lee, 92nd district state representative, is in a hospital here suffering from a bullet wound in his chest and James M. Simpson, former Concho county judge and attorney, is in jail at Ballinger as the result of a shooting affray at Eden late today.

Representative Lee was shot by accident during an altercation between Simpson and Carroll Fulcher at Lee's office. Lee and Fulcher were talking when Simpson entered the office and drew a gun, the representative said. Fulcher grappled with Simpson. Two shots were fired. One grazed Fulcher's forehead, drawing blood, but doing no serious damage. The other struck Lee in the chest.

Simpson, who is 70 years old, and Fulcher have had trouble over a cattle deal recently, it was said. Charges had not been filed against Simpson tonight.

Lee's wound is not considered serious, barring infection or contraction of pneumonia, hospital attendants said.

Texas Democratic Leaders Prepare For Final Drive To Stop Bullington

Whirlwind Campaign Planned to Offset Reports of Disaffection Among Party's Rank and File

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Democratic leaders were unperturbed today at Republican claims that disaffected Democratic support for Orville Bullington, Republican nominee for governer, was increasing. They went ahead with plans for a final whirlwind drive for the candidacy of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Democratic nominee.

Former State Senator John Davis, member of the Democratic state executive committee, took charge of the state headquarters and addressed to each of the 120 members of the county executive committees a form letter asking them to state whether they intended to support the party ticket without exception.

Hughes on Air Tonight

Maury Hughes, state executive committee chairman, addressed a similar letter last week to all members of the state committee and to Democratic nominees. Hughes has not made public the replies, but was expected to use them in a radio address at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow over station WBAP at Fort Worth.

The Democrats planned party rallies throughout the state to appeal to party members with the slogan, "Democrats, vote 'er straight."

National Committeeman Jed C. Adams returned from conference with party leaders in New York confident of victory for Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner, Democratic nominees for president and vice president.

Eastern Demos Cheery

"It is impossible for Herbert Hoover to win this election," he asserted. "Democratic leaders in the East are as optimistic as any people I have ever seen. The last-minute attempt of the Republicans to stampede the voters by appealing to their fear psychology is not effective because of general conditions this year. I think there will be a marked reaction at the polls to this strategy and to such appeals as employers like Henry Ford are making. The result will be one not anticipated by the Republicans."

The Democrats were not alone in their intra-party troubles, for during the day, George S. Atkinson, Dallas anti-organization Republican leader, issued a statement characterizing the offer of Orville Bullington to withdraw from the Governor's race if Mrs. Ferguson would withdraw as "the practice of cheap politics."

Sacrifices Party

"It shows that Mr. Bullington, like National Committeeman R. B. Creager," he said, "is willing to sacrifice the party which he is supposed to represent for his own selfish gain. It shows that Mr. Bullington is attempting to play both ends against the middle to obtain votes for himself.

"Mr. Bullington has repeatedly stated that a victory for him would not be a party victory and in this he is eminently correct, because we cannot tell at the present time whether he is a Republican or a Democrat."

Atkinson denounced Bullington's nomination as "one that should not be recognized." He charged that the nomination was made by "hand-picked" delegates after "the Creager machine arbitrarily unseated the regular delegates who were honestly and fairly elected."

Atkinson's statement carried an appeal for support of George W. Armstrong of Fort Worth, Independent candidate for governor.

BULLINGTON TALKS AT FLORESVILLE

FLORESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Asserting that his election Nov. 8 would not be construed as a victory for the Republican party but "as a victory for Texas," Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, Republican nominee for governor, told an audience here today that he was "a Texan first and a party man second."

He spoke before a crowd of farmers and business men gathered on the public square at 5 p. m. He arrived here from Kenety ahead of his schedule, although he had made six other speeches during the day. The Republican nominee was introduced by R. A. Wiseman, Floresville banker and ardent supporter of Gov. R. S. Sterling in the Democratic primary campaign.

Bullington outlined his platform advocating abolition of the state ad valorem tax, reduction of taxes and the cost of government, and court reforms. He cited the mounting costs of government, asserting that overlapping bureaus and departments were largely to blame. The speaker said the economic condition of the state or nation would never be properly adjusted until taxes were lowered.

"Texas is 25 years behind in court procedure and if I am elected governor, the legislature will rectify this condition or I will keep them in session until they grow whiskers to their knees," Bullington declared.

He bitterly attacked James E. Ferguson, husband of his Democratic opponent, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, and ridiculed the idea that Ferguson was "the farmer's friend." He referred to him as a "drug store cowboy and a front porch farmer," saying "the main crop he has cultivated for 20 years is the farmer's vote."

He appealed for "honest and efficient government with the chief executive responsible to the people for his official acts."

FERGUSON "DARED" TO FIGHT HUMBLE

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Oct. 24. (UP)—A challenge to James E. Ferguson, husband of the Democratic nominee for governor of Texas, "to raise his voice in condemnation of the Humble Oil and Refining company and its parent organization, the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, which along with the Standard Oil company of Indiana is refusing to pay Texas people what their oil is worth," was issued here tonight.

The speaker, Sam McCorkle of Mexia, appearing here in the interest of the candidacy of Orville Bullington, Republican gubernatorial nominee, said "Ferguson cannot and will not condemn them."

Alleging the Fergusons themselves have admitted irregularities in the primary election, McCorkle said "no Texas Democrat is bound by any pledge or contract to support the nominees of a primary which was fraudulent."

McCorkle was in charge of investigating fraud and irregularities in the Aug. 27 primary. He said in 12 Texas counties people were permitted to vote without any questions being asked as to their qualifications.

"These counties, without a single exception," he said, "gave large Ferguson majorities."

He said proof of irregularities could have been made in court within less than a week's time had not the opportunity been denied to have a court of law pass on the question.

NEGRO SOUGHT FOR SLAYING

Minister's Daughter And Salesman Killed

GADSDEN, Ala., Oct. 24. (AP)—An unidentified negro was sought in Birmingham tonight as the slayer of Tom Russell, 50-year-old furniture salesman, and his companion, Miss Thelma Groover, 29-year-old daughter of a minister, in an abandoned field near here last night.

The search switched from a probable "revenge" theory to one of robbery after officers traced the ownership of a single barreled shotgun found near the bodies to W. D. Jones, who had reported theft of the weapon. A negro was seen to enter the Jones home shortly after 6 o'clock last night and later emerge with the weapon.

An automobile owned by the firm employing Russell, in which the couple was seen at 7 o'clock last night, was found in Birmingham today, leading authorities to believe the slayer drove there and abandoned the machine.

Russell left home about 6 o'clock last night, telling his wife he was going after "some cigarets." A 15-year-old brother of Miss Groover said he called for her at 6:30.

Officers said he and she had been meeting each other for several years.

In addition to his wife, three children survive Russell. Miss Groover is survived by her father, the Rev. W. L. Groover, a Methodist pastor in East Gadsden, several brothers and a sister.

Junior C-C Plans 'Biggest Show' For Annual Banquet Here Dec. 10

Preliminary plans for the biggest show ever staged by the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce were discussed at a meeting of the annual banquet general committee Monday night. President Don T. Haynes presided at the session at the offices of the organization.

A meeting will be called next week to form definite arrangements for the annual affair which will be staged the night of Dec. 10, probably at the Woman's Forum. Arrangements are already under way to secure a suitable speaker for the occasion.

Assurance that the show will be colorful and staged from an entirely different angle was given in ideas presented at the meeting, Mr. Haynes said. The entire program may not be divulged in order to heighten the effect of suspense in preparing for the occasion. The group agreed to limit tickets to 425 this year in order to assure guests ample room in the banquet hall.

Plans have been tentatively formed to secure talent not previously viewed in Wichita Falls as an added attraction for the 1932 event. Partial formation of committees to handle detailed work has been completed and the entire roster of the chamber membership will probably be included within a few days, it was said.

Officers Seize Liquor In Raid On 'Hot Spot'

Stopping at a Wichita county "hot spot" in a search for hijackers as a result of the recent wave of banditry netted deputy sheriffs 18 gallons of liquor Monday night. The officers approached a parked car as another machine stopped alongside and arrived just as one case of whisky was transferred to the parked machine. Two arrests were made. The raid was staged at the west end of Tenth street.

Returning to headquarters the officers located the name of the party making the delivery by tracing license plates on the machine. A search warrant was issued and a raid at the defendant's residence followed. Two cases of liquor were taken and a third prisoner placed in the county jail. Officers making the capture were Pat Allen, Ben Howle and H. L. White, Sheriff Perry Browning reported.

No More Piles

How to End Terrible Agony Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

HEM-ROID tablets have an almost unbelievable record of success. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Allison Drug Store and druggists everywhere invite every sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?—Adv.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—To what extent Democratic activities in Pennsylvania represent any real hope of carrying that historic stronghold of old guard Republicanism in November it would be hard to say.

KIRKE SIMPSON

On the face of the record the idea of raiding a state still filled with memories of the days of Boies Penrose and where the influence of "Uncle Andy" Mellon is felt might appear fanciful.

Within the memory of man Pennsylvania has never faltered in Republican regularity but once. It did flop to Theodore Roosevelt in the three-way fight of 1912.

And that 20-year-old fact no doubt is what dictated Democratic strategy in summoning Senator George Norris from his Nebraska theater of prolonged Republican irregularity to fire the Democratic national campaign opening gun in Pennsylvania.

His Irregularity "Regular"

If there is a man in public life today qualified to speak from experience about holding lightly the ties of party regularity, that man is Norris.

Nobody remembers a time when he was completely regular. And if there is a large state which has a better record for Republican regularity than Pennsylvania, the books do not show it.

Offhand, Norris might appear the last man to "sic" on Pennsylvania.

Drafting Norris, however, is more understandable when it is recalled that the state ran up some 444,000 votes for Theodore Roosevelt in 1912 against 395,000 for Wilson and 273,000 for Taft; that Norris was an original Roosevelt man that year and that he was the original Republican irregular to call for "another Roosevelt" this year.

As the senator himself said in his address, Governor Roosevelt can carry Pennsylvania only if enough old line Republicans vote for him to do the trick. There are not and never have been enough Democrats and independents combined in the state to accomplish it.

The Norris address served as an introduction for Governor Roosevelt's own campaign swing into Pennsylvania. In the early days of the 1928 campaign in which he figured so largely as convention manager of the Smith nomination boom, Roosevelt had a notion that a Pennsylvania miracle might happen.

It didn't. President Hoover got the state by about a million votes, the biggest of all Pennsylvania Republican majorities. Yet Mr. Roosevelt was back again in his own interest this year, hammering at that citadel of Republicanism.

Behind the Scenes

A lot of things enter into the picture to explain his optimism. There is Governor Pinchot's prolonged row with the Hoover administration, for one.

But most of all, likely, is the case of William S. Vare of Philadelphia, once thrown out of the senate by old guard Republican votes.

What is he doing to provide a probably vitally necessary Republican majority from Philadelphia in November?

Bleeker, a store employe, suffered a minor bruise from the blow. Two other employes were threatened with a pistol.

The Mob—One Cost of War

IT ISN'T often that you see an English date line over a story about violent combats between unemployed men and the police. The other day's clash in London, in which several thousand men fought with the police for hours and sent nearly twoscore to the hospitals, was decidedly out of the ordinary. Bloody riots in English cities are not common events.

But no country is immune from such things these days. England, Germany, America—the roar of the mob has been heard everywhere, and that it signifies a deep and far-reaching dissatisfaction with things as they are, a feeling shared by the submerged masses everywhere, is too obvious to deny.

In part this international unrest may be a protest against an economic order that needs revision. In part it is simply a blind and unreasoning outburst against hunger and want. But if you study it long enough, you cannot fail to trace its main roots directly back to the world war.

That, of course, is a matter of common knowledge. But it is a fact that must be kept constantly in mind these days. The hardships that the world is undergoing these days, the hardships that find ugly expression in ominous riots, are simply part of the price that we are still paying for the insane conflict of 1914-18. War, in short, is luxury for which one must keep on paying, in the most painful way, for years after the date of purchase.

To be sure, this is all water under the bridge, as far as the last war is concerned. We are paying for a dead horse, and there isn't much we can do about it. But we might remember the whole thing the next time our nation finds itself in a spot where it must decide whether it will have peace or war.

In such a moment, we might remember that the cost of war is not to be reckoned solely in the lives lost and money spent during the conflict itself. Horrible as those losses are, they are only a part of the bill; in some ways, not the worst part of it.

Long after the war ends, its dislocating effects are still in operation. Today, 14 years after the armistice, we have want and suffering and violence as our installment. It will not be different in the next war.

Love Still Defies 'Modernism'

THE New York woman who killed herself and her two children in order to clear her husband's path toward another woman seems to have provided a singularly tragic commentary on the ultra-modern attitude toward love.

This wife knew that her husband wanted the other woman. The three of them had sat down together, a number of times, to talk it all over. As the husband explained, they had "talked it over calmly, in the modern manner"; and the root of the whole tragedy, perhaps, lay in just that assumption that "the modern manner" in an affair of this kind is really very much different than the manner of our grandparents.

Modern fiction, of course, is full of sage comment on the triangle. A great many books and plays have been written to prove that love conquers all, to prove that no domestic obligations or pledges should stand in the way when two people conceive an extra-marital attachment for each other.

A lot of people have tried to shape their conduct on that thesis. Since many folk are as superficial in their emotions as in their thinking, this has very frequently worked out fairly well. But every so often something like this New York catastrophe happens, and we discover that for all their talk some people cannot help acting and feeling just as they would have in the old days.

These people, you see, talked things over "in the modern manner"; and according to the canons of modern fiction, the discarded wife should have retired gracefully, consoling herself with the reflection that it just wouldn't do to stand in the way of a great and holy love.

But underneath this "modern manner," human hearts act about as they always did. They break, occasionally, just as painfully as in the old days. Loneliness and disillusion are just as hard to bear as ever.

So a woman and two children are dead. The divine right to live your own life and go your own way may be quite as glorious as modern fiction asserts. But innocent bystanders, now as formerly, have to pay for it.

'Modern' World of Dickens

THE most interesting thing about the recent news of the retirement of Charles Dickens' son as a judge in the London courts is the way it reminds us that we are not quite as far away from Dickens, the man, as we usually suppose.

Dickens' best novels are not out of date—they never will be. But we who read them get an impression, somehow, that their author belonged to another, and a more distant, world than ours. The London of "Oliver Twist," for instance, the America of "American Notes," are not the London and America of our day. They belong far back in the past. The man wro wrote of them, we feel, must have lived a long, long time ago.

But Dickens' son still lives, and has only just retired from an active career. To be sure, he is 84; but he links us with Dickens, just the same, and the news of his retirement reminds us that the world of Dickens is not quite as far away from us as we commonly suppose.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

Seems to me I'm missing little by avoiding the various openings in this gay place and that one . . . The guests at all of them come in their Sunday best, and their ladies are decorated with orchids . . . And after the Scotch and other Wyoming ketchup has clicked, they drop their masks and begin to think their opinions out loud about the pair at the next table, or about the one across the floor . . . There usually is some ugly encounter between dudes who want to impress their dolls, fists fly, and somebody winds up on the front pages of the picture gazettes . . . Stew stuff, of course, but it isn't worth the dressing up for, and anyway, when anything newsy happens, some one is certain to find me in the various delicatessens by sun-up to keep me informed . . . The disturbance at the Mayfair in the Ritz Saturday night is a concrete example of New Yorkers at Play . . . Some bully, who has a grievance, uses the scene to beat up the lad, and his opponent invariably is half his size . . . The tossing of coins at the lovely Mary Lewis, who obliged with a ditty, after fearing such humiliation, made me ill . . . But what made me more sick of my fellowmen was learning that one renowned chap pointed out the alleged villain . . . But the alleged villain was crocked and helpless, and no one was sure he did it . . . And giving a guy the benefit of the doubt is my idea of fair play . . . But there is no pardon for any fellow who "puts the finger" on somebody else . . . Shame, as Bulwer put it, is not in the loss of the other man's esteem, but in the loss of our own.

That "Smilin' Through" flicker with the adorable Norma Shearer and the contagious Frederic March and Leslie Howard at the Capitol, is a lovely story . . . Delightful entertainment and so touching . . . I trust that John Krimsky, one of the sponsors of the "Maedchen in Uniform" classic at the Criterion, has sugary luck in his war against those guys who scheme to get most of the 40-cent tickets and retail them at $1 and more . . . Krimsky finally arranged the arrest of one of them, and when he passed a broker's the next day he found that the "Maedchen" sign had been destroyed and in its place was put "The Man I Killed" . . . This probably is supposed to serve as a threat if Krimsky continues making trouble for them . . . Well, I hope they try—I'd like getting into scrap like that, and I'm certain that every newspaper man and rag in town would help Krimsky fight his war—so long as it is aimed to give John Public a break . . . I wish Matty Zimmerman, one of the few gentlemen among the locals, and his son, and some of the other worth-while ticket brokers, would help Krimsky in his quarrel—and I'm positive that Mr. Mulrooney would enjoy having his gendarmes break a few heads, if it will stop the scum from staining the street.

It was so long ago, no wonder I got the events mixed up . . . I mean the mickey finn I handed Rian James, who told coasters I didn't dare mention his phoney Irish tag . . . I reported that the incident happened at Lindy's return from France, when I meant the day that the wives of the Bremen fliers arrived . . . If I get this done in time, perhaps I can have those damb molars jerked—and get some sleep for a change . . . Between the maddening throbs, the street noises, and that awful hammer-juggler in the parking space across the way from the hotel—there is no peace . . . Wonder what's worse than a toothache plus a hammer banging on tin for hours? . . . Worse, I guess, is having a toothache and being afraid to go to the dentist—ma-ma! . . . Now my idea of a sap is that fellow in the dress clothes who, with his intended bride, started a scene in a Broadway rendezvous the other after midnight—and wound up fit for the surgeons . . . They had the sour luck to mouthe some ugly cracks about a certain race in their quarrel, and the place was choked with boys, who can win a fight even without guns.

Well, now, isn't that something! . . . I mean that letter from a man who offers me two choice seats for the forthcoming Army-Notre Dame contest . . . I don't even know him, but he says in his letter: "There happens to be two girls to whom you have been very nice—and I want to pay you back"—Fancy that! . . . I can't recall ever being nice to anybody . . . I've never witnessed a football game—so I'll appreciate the ducats . . . I do wish the various parties would stop submitting their ballyhooey to me about their respective candidates . . . I dont' like any of them—and won't devote any part of the column's praise to them.

Very amusing observation, that . . . That Jimmy Starr, a youngster on the Los Angeles Herald, who does column-grab, too, actually thinks the various movies about the craft were inspired by him . . . I wish they were! . . . Some people really believe the episodes in those flickers as having actually happened, and that columnists are fiends in the manner of the screen exaggerations . . . Say! Maybe those guys on the coast did inspire 'em —but I like to see anybody try to theft that thunder from me . . . Sorry to see one of the few guys Who Matters leave town . . . Mark Hellinger, after threatening to do so for six years now, departs for a world tour on the morrow . . . Mark will see the world and send his columns in from Singapore, Siam and other places I don't even enjoy in the newsreel theaters . . . Since 1924 Mark and I have been buddies, and never a scowl or frown between us . . . Once, to beat me on a story, when he was on a rival paper, he got me blotto and left me in Central park covered with shrubs —until it was too late for me to phone my sheet . . . And then he brought me home and put me to bed . . . Once in a free-for-all Mark was punched senseless by gorillas when he tried to stop them from slugging a drunk, and I ran with all the others, being yellow like that . . . Ah, well—he who runs away can calumnize another day . . . And now my pal is going away —for nearly a year—leaving me alone with what was once a glamorous street . . . And people will repeat what they've always said about Mark—that he is "a sweet guy" . . . Certainly he's sweet . . . But how many would think so if I weren't so sour?

THE FIRST AMERICAN ELECTION—The first man ever elected to office on the soil of the new world was John Winthrop, first governor of the colony of Massachusetts bay. This celebrated election took place May 18, 1631, after the royal charter was obtained which created a corporation under the name of "Governor and Company of the Massachusetts Bay in New England." The first American electee was born in Edwardston, Suffolk, England (1588-1649). The proprietors of the company first elected him governor on Oct. 30, 1629, on British soil. On June 22, 1630, the new governor arrived in command of 11 ships at Salem. After his re-election by the general court in Boston on May 18, 1631, a landmark in the history of elections in the new world, he was re-elected to the same office in 1632, 1633, 1634, 1637, 1638, 1639, 1640, 1642, 1643, 1646, 1647, 1648 and 1649, so that altogether he was elected governor 16 times, in addition to three terms as deputy governor. Winthrop is the man whose mind is credited with "having arranged the social state of Massachusetts, while Massachusetts in turn has moulded the society of New England."

BABES ON BROADWAY

By JANE DIXON

(Copyright, 1932, Jane Dixon)

SYNOPSIS

Tony Brookes' bankrupt father and mother were killed in an automobile accident in Centerville, her home town, when she was 18 years old. Her frankness cost her jobs in a New York dress shop and an art gallery before she got a chance to try dress designing in the Montieu studio, and attend art school at night. When Leslie (Lee) Moran, a dress model, lost her job Tony shared her third floor back room at Mrs. Higgins' with her. Lee became a taxi dancer at El Tango, where she met middle-aged Adam Leonard. While Tony and Lee were out with Leonard and Donald Kemp, a lawyer from another city, Mrs. Leonard saw them and made a scene. Leonard, unhappily married, had Kemp arrange a divorce. Lee told Tony she was going to pose as the corespondent and expected to receive $5,000. She moved to an apartment. Leonard expected to marry Lee. Tom Stewart, a young engineer, had been in love with her. Tony fell in love with Tom but he was sent to New Mexico on a new job and Tony did not hear from him. Lee tricked Tony into a week-end party at fashionable Beach Haven. To escape the attentions of Jock Selden, Tony kicked a window out of his car and walked back to her hotel. She decided she must break entirely with Lee and took a room at the Tres Arts club. Kemp asked Tony to marry him, saying he was going to end an unhappy marriage by divorce. Tony, who had not known he was married, refused. She created a design for a stage star, which M. Montieu named Glace de Coeur.

INSTALLMENT XXIII

Glace de Coeur was, as Montieu predicted, a success. In the studio Tony began to feel the backwash of envy, of petty jealousies outstanding success awakens in small souls. Other designers, less fortunate or less gifted, found occasion to harry her. Significant looks were exchanged when Montieu sent for her or consulted with her over her drawing board. Conversations ceased abruptly when she approached. Why should they resent her good fortune, Tony asked herself. She had worked for it, had honestly earned it. They could not lessen the value of her work by evil interpretation.

Donald Kemp had left the city. Their friendship was to remain intatc but he would not see her again or communicate with her until he had readjusted his life. He pleaded so earnestly for her to use the roadster he had left in the garage that she consented rather than deepen the hurt she had already given him. She had not heard from Lee. The papers carried accounts of the Adam Leonard's divorce snarl, which was in its preliminary windings but which promised the maximum in racy reevlation.

On Sunday, because the spectre of loneliness was tearing at her nerves and lashing her mind, Tony called at the garage for the roadster and went for a long drive into the country. It was night when she returned to the Tres Arts club, refreshed in mind and in body.

"Two gentlemen called to see you, Miss Brookes," the girl at the club switchboard told Tony. 'One of them left his name but I musta lost the slip."

"Two gentlemen?" Surely the girl was mistaken. No one knew Tony was here—except Montieu and Donald Kemp. "Were they together?" Tony inquired.

"No, they came separate. One of them was tall and thin and the other—he said he was a detective." The girl toyed with a plug and watched for the effect of her news.

Tony laughed. "A detective. But of course you've made a mistake. What would a detective want with me?"

"I didn't ask. He said miss Antoinette Brookes and he wanted to know how long you'd been living here. The other one, the tall thin one, said he'd be back."

Tall and thin? The telephone girl, watching for effect, thought this quiet Miss Brookes had suddenly gone "cuckoo."

"Can't you remember his name—the tall thin one? Try to think. Or find the slip—you must find it."

"I've looked every place for it," said the girl, "and I can't remember his name because he didn't tell it to me. He just wrote it down. I didn't bother looking and . . ."

But Tony was gone. In the street she admonished herself: "You've got to go back to the club. You can't find him here. People are turning to look at you, you're acting so strange and wild. Tom Stewart! Tom's in the city. He found you. He came for you. He was asking for you. He was in the club while you were driving that car, alone, wanting him, wanting him there beside you—oh, God, please let him come back tonight.

Tony re-entered the club and went to her room. She did not undress. If Tom came back she could go downstairs in two minutes. A knock on her door . . .

"Good evening, Miss Brookes." The resident director, Mrs. Foster, grey-haired, matronly, maternal, stood in the door. "May I come in?"

"Oh, yes, I was just—that is—I was waiting for a telephone call. I may have to leave in a hurry—won't you sit down Mrs. Foster? . . . if I have to go—you'll excuse me . . ."

The resident director sat down, snapped on a reading lamp and laid on the table a newspaper she was carrying. She said, gently but firmly:

"I'd rather you did not leave the room, Miss Brookes, until we talk over this matter in the paper. There's been a detective here to see us and naturally we want to avoid unpleasant publicity."

The newspaper was one of those screaming sheets indigenous to cities. On Sunday afternoons, when more substantial papers are not published, sensationalism, a world catastrophe, a scarlet scandal is spread across the front page of the scream sheet and hawked to avid customers at whatever price sharp-witted newsies are able to extract.

Tony saw the headlines, tall and black and fearsome, flaring along the full top of the page:

Rich clubman leaps to death—

"J. N. (Jock) Selden dies in jump from window.

"Tragedy follows all night round of night clubs at fashionable shore resort.

"Woman companion in Haven Beach hotel held."

Tony squeezed the lids of her eyes together and opened them to look again. The black letters ran together. They danced. Jock Selden dead! Suicide! How horrible! What was she expected to do about it? If she could help—but she couldn't. Jock was dead. A detective was looking for her. There was nothing she could tell him about Jock, nothing that had to do with . . . She read on.

"When questioned by police Selden's companion was hysterical and unable to give a coherent account of what happened in the room prior to the fatal leap. Later she recovered sufficiently to give her name and address, which were entered on the blotter as Miss Antoinette Brookes, 485 West Forty-sixth street, New York City. At the Forty-sixth street address it was said Miss Brookes no longer lived there.

"Miss Brookes, who is young and beautiful and who gave her occupation as "artist," admitted having come to Haven Beach Friday for a week-end holiday. She was accompanied by Jock Selden and according to her account of events leading up to the tragedy both consumed . . ."

Tony was ice. She was flame. The paper dropped from her numbed fingers. No need to read further. Cataclysm. The world was a ball of orange fire swinging through space.

Tony heard a voice from afar saying, "Drink this, Miss Brookes. You've had a shock. If you'd try to be quiet and tell me what happened, I'm here to help you, my dear. Just tell me, as you would your mother, how that poor young man came to jump out of the window."

"You mean—you mean Jock Selden?" Tony pushed the water away from her lips. "I don't know. How could I? I was here, in the city. Last night I slept in the club."

"Yes. Of course. Unfortunately a new maid came on this floor today. The one on duty was called away, suddenly. We are trying to locate her. She would know if you were in your room. The woman—the one in the paper—she must be another Antoinette Brookes—still—it's strange—the address—it's the one you came to us from. Was there another Miss Brookes, a relative perhaps, living there with you you?"

Lee! The Antoinette Brookes at Haven Beach was Lee Moran.

Tony cried aloud. "Yes, there was a girl—we had the room together. She was like my own sister—but her name isn't Brookes. Mrs. Foster, why—why did she say she was I?"

"That we will know, in time. Did you remain friends you and this girl after you came to live at the club?"

"No. That is, I was friendly, but I felt it was better for us to be apart."

"Did she have any reason to dislike you, to feel resentful?"

"I don't know. She may have thought so. We were in love with the same man. No, that is not true, I was in love with the man to whom she is engaged. She didn't love him. She was infatuated with Jock Selden. She just kept the other one, the engaged one, as a safety catch in case other things she planned didn't turn out right."

"And the young man, the one you say you love, he loves you?"

"No. He expects to marry Lee."

Mrs. Foiter cleared her throat. These young ones. How they scrambled life. Love and youth. Mrs. Foster thought she had better change the subject.

"And today, you were in the club, or perhaps you spent the day with friends?"

"I was here until about eight o'clock in the morning. Then I went for a drive, into the country."

Mrs. Foster smiled encouragingly.

"Then whoever you were with can explain to the police that you were with them and not in Haven Beach. The same thing applies to last evening and to yesterday. It is obvious you could not be two places at one time. An alibi, irrefutable, would be important, I should judge."

"But, Mrs. Foster," earnestly, you don't understand. I haven't any friends in the city. I've here here only a little while, and I've been so busy, first trying to get a job, then trying to hold one, I haven't had time to make friends. Lee Moran was the only one. Lately I've spent practically all my time either at the studio where I'm a designer or at the Art league for evening classes."

Even the kindly Mrs. Foster, who wanted so much to retain her faith in this one of her "girls," was nonplused by such an explanation. An attractive and personable young girl, without friends, without frolic—in the city?

"Just what did you do Saturday, Miss Brookes?" she asked. Tony remembered aloud, careful that she would omit no detail.

"In the morning I went to the studio, directly into Monsieur Montieu's office. There were to be some instructions for me about a gown I designed for an actress. Montieu was not in and his secretary was off for the day. A woman from the studio who was looking after the office gave me an envelope. In it was a note telling me to go directly to the actress' dressing room. When I got to the theater the door-

Q.—What is the legend connected with the horn of plenty or cornucopia?—H. A. H.

A.—The word cornucopia is from the Latin cornu, meaning corn, and copia, abundance. According to ancient myth it was the horn of Amalthea, nurse of Zeus, described in ancient legends as a goat which sucked Zeus and was set by him among the stars. The cornucopia was one of the goat's horns endued with the power of becoming filled with whatever its possessor wished. In ancient sculpture it is depicted as being used by Plutus, Fortuna and Ceres and shower benefits upon the earth.

In the beginning of the 12th century, the papal tiara had one crown. The second circlet or crown was added by Boniface VIII, to symbolize the two-fold nature of the papal authority. The third crown was used by and since Benedict XII, signifying temporal power and the power of binding and loosing.

TWO VERNON PLAYERS INELIGIBLE FOR CLASH WITH COYOTES

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Fearless Journalism

Trials and tribulations of a sports editor, as revealed by Ike Moore of The Electra Star:

"Here's another topic on this football business. For the past three games, the reporters on the sidelines have been annoyed considerably by persons who have had just a little too much stimulant. Not that we mind it, in the least what they say just as long as they do not get out of their bounds. Last Friday night, for instance, ye columnist was reporting the Electra-Henrietta game when one of Electra's leading citizens or supposed to be, was in the company with another man who was just about under the weather. Nothing would suit this person more than to "get funny" and let one of two syllables slip from his loose tongue. The reporters have enough worries in trying to cover these games satisfactorily and correctly and when an added worry is had from some drunk on the sidelines, then there must be a stop somewhere. In fact, there is going to be a stop, even if we have to hire Red Lewis as a personal bodyguard!"

We assume the above-mentioned Red Lewis is a member of the Electra constabulary. We quite agree with old Bluenose Ike that he needs a bodyguard, but not especially for the purpose outlined above. Ike, in case you don't know, is Electra's well-known aviator. This avocation of his apparently has endowed him with a superabundance of wind and once he gets strung out on his beloved Electra Tigers he's apt to soar into the celestial ozone with well-turned phrases that, as the poet says, gush forth like "profuse strains of unpremediated art."

Only Ike's stuff isn't really art. That's why he should by all means be equipped with a bodyguard, some one with ice packs and antidotes to keep the temperature down.

As an example, we point out that Ike has been so brazen as to question some of the Rambler's pet notions concerning this football race in district No. 5. In the same column dealing with the tipsy, and we daresay quite happy gentleman who saw the Henrietta game, or perhaps two or three Henrietta games at once, Ike has the following to say:

"According to my good friend, Fred Thompson, famed sport editor of the Wichita Falls Record News, Vernon and Quanah are considered the probable champions of this district in football. That may sound true enough to Mr. Thompson but since I happened to be a spectator at the Wichita-Quanah game and sat right by the side of Fred, I have a personal opinion as to what he thinks about Quanah's chances. He was sitting on edge all during the game, expecting the Indians to lose control and lose the game, but alas, a Wichita Falls player won the game for the Indians. All in all, Electra has a chance just as good as any team in the district and despite their slow start at the beginning of the season, they are rapidly developing like a football team. I also happened to be on the side line with Fred when the Tigers played the Coyotes and believe you us, there was one sport writer who was wringing his hands. Oh, well, let them think that Quanah and Vernon have a good team, old Electra still has her fighting spirit and has the support of the local people, which is more than some teams can say. We don't know whether Electra can defeat Temple Friday night or not, but whether they do or don't, the fans can rest assured that the Tigers will go on into the Quanah game to put everything they have. It will be a contest between speed and brawn."

As you can judge, the above was written before Electra's game with Temple, Okla., last Friday night. The Tigers were held to a 7-7 draw. Meaning, perhaps, nothing. The Tigers had been under pressure for several weeks, just as the Coyotes had before the unfortunate occurrence here Friday afternoon with Grandfield. Much as we hate to agree with Ike on anything in general and football in particular, we expect to see the Tigers completely rejuvenated for the Quanah game, just as the Coyotes will be instilled with new life for the Vernon game.

But Ike's personal attendant should administer some soothing drink, either legal or illegal, when he shows the slightest inclination to write that Vernon and Quanah are not so hot.

Sarcasm From Tuckerville

Jinx Tucker of Waco recently waxed sarcastic in a comment on the baseball situation in the Texas league. His remarks follow:

"Several weeks ago the Dallas Journal scribe had a paragraph to the effect that unless a hitch occurred, Tyler's franchise would be returned to Shreveport. "And Longview's franchise, which belongs, lock, stock and barrel, to the St. Louis Browns, very probably will be switched to Waco, one of the best little baseball towns in Texas. This dope rates little better than idle rumor."

"Just recently, however, there were rumors to the effect that Oklahoma City and Tulsa would be made members of the Texas league. The cause of the revival of this talk was due to the plan to divide the Western league into two loops. Oklahoma City and Tulsa would be great additions to the Texas league. The boys would get to go out of the state at least once, and perhaps two times before the league would be a complete financial wreck. However, if the league made it through the season with Oklahoma City and Tulsa as members, the chances are that the gate receipts in the two cities—that is the total gate receipts would just about pay the railroad fare of the various teams making the various trips, and that perhaps would satisfy the big-hearted ball players. They love the game and no doubt would be willing to play without pay just for the good of the game."

Bobby Goheen, St. Petersburg, Fla., high school boy being graduated this year, was neither absent nor tardy for nine years.

Only 9,297 of the 300,381 farm families in North Carolina own radio sets, the bureau of census reports.

PACK SURVIVES REPORT CARDS

Sophomore Tackle for Lions Ruled Out

By BILL SHERRILL

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 24.—Two members of the Vernon High school football squad were declared ineligible Monday for participation Saturday in the Lions' annual traditional battle here with Wichita Falls' Coyotes. The players, Howard Lisman and Kermit Ammons, were declared ineligible for the Wichita Falls game only because of scholastic difficulties. Lisman is a 170-pound sophomore tackle who has played in every game in which the Lions have participated in this season to date. Ammons, reserve end, saw service in the first two games of the season but has been ineligible since.

All Others Okay

No other Vernon players will be ineligible for the Wichita Falls game and no injuries suffered to date are likely to keep a Lion gridder out of the Saturday fray. The Lions, under the direction of Head Coach W. C. Weir and Assistants Ralph Binnion, Curtis Beaty and Bob Dickenson, will be sent through their stiffest drills of the season to date this week in preparation for the coming battle with their ancient foes.

In addition to the traditional aspect of the clash, the Coyotes will be making their final bid and Vernon its first real request, for a district championship this year. Already defeated by Quanah, a loss to Vernon would definitely place the Coyotes out of the titular race. Vernon, co-favorites with Quanah for the championship, must hurdle Wichita Falls before entertaining title aspirations.

Big Crowd Expected

Interest in the fray is already gathering headway here and Supt. W. T. Lofland announced Monday that he had forwarded 800 tickets to Wichita Falls for sale at the request of Principal S. H. Rider of that school. The tickets for the game include 500 student and 300 adult ducats. Ticket sales will probably start here Tuesday. Despite playing of the game on Saturday, which will cut attendance from a Vernon standpoint, more than 3,000 are expected here for the colorful grid classic. Almost 3,000 tickets have already been printed.

Officials for the game as announced by Head Coach Weir will be Jack Mahan of Gainesville, former Texas A. & M. player, referee; Voiney Hill, Chillicothe grid coach and former Texas Tech performer, umpire; and Zebbie Howell of Ennis, former Trinity university player, head linesman.

Traditional Classic

In addition to the fact that title aspirations of both teams will hinge on Saturday afternoon's gridiron classic, the clash brings together the participants in the greatest annual traditional tilt in this section. Even though a decisive Vernon victory over the Coyotes would establish the Maroon and Gray jersied eleven as outstanding favorites for the district championship, the traditional rivalry will be the primary interest in the game.

Wichita Falls, while defeated 6-0 by Quanah in their conference scrap and by Grandfield, Okla., 7-0, last week-end, has yet to be scored upon on line plays. The Indian touchdown was the result of a Coyote's error and a blocked kick, while the Sooner touchdown came when Bob Creighton, ace Oklahoma back, intercepted a pass and sprinted 65 yards for the counter. Vernon defeated Grandfield, 39-0, here but the crippled Sooner aggregation which faced the Weirmen here that afternoon was a much weaker eleven than the organization which won from Wichita Falls.

Upsets Frequent

Then too, early season scores mean little when these traditional rivals clash, with frequent upsets of the dopebucket a feature of their encounters. Two years ago, the Lions entered the fray here favored by three touchdowns and barely escaped with a 6-0 win. In 1929, Vernon traveled to Wichita Falls with the dope pointing to a two-touchdown victory for the Lions. The final score was 14-0 in favor of the Coyotes. Last year, Vernon scored its heaviest victory in recent years over a Coyote eleven, beating the Wichitans, 25-0, in a Thanksgiving day battle.

While Vernon and Wichita Falls are enjoying an afternoon of fighting here, Quanah is expected to chalk up another victory with a defeat of Electra. The Tigers, as usual, boast a hard-fighting crew, but the Bengals are expected to prove no match for the Indians and Quanah will probably carry off a fairly easy win.

ALL COYOTES PASS ELIGIBILITY TEST

All members of the Wichita Falls football squad hurdled the scholastic barrier last week, according to report cards issued Monday, and there will be no absentees in the Vernon game from a scholastic standpoint, Principal S. H. Rider announced Monday afternoon.

However, there remained grave doubts that Charlie Hurd, star end, will participate in the Coyotes' tussle with the Lions Saturday. Hurd's injured knee that kept him out of the Grandfield game last week showed but little improvement when the team went into the first practice session of the week yesterday. Hurd ripped several knee ligaments loose in training early last week.

Another casualty, Capt. Ed Greenwood, suffering from a leg injury, has improved rapidly and is expected to be in good condition by Saturday.

The team went into hiding for its training session yesterday, working out at Athletic park behind closed gates. Secret sessions will be held the remainder of the week, according to Head Coach Ted Jefferies.

The game at Vernon, it was announced, will start promptly at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

City Council Holds 10-Minute Meeting

Ten minutes sufficed for the transaction of all business handled by the city council in its regular weekly meeting Monday night.

The application of Winford B. Wells for a taxicab driver's license was granted after approval of the credentials submitted in accordance with the city's taxicab ordinance.

City Manager V. R. Smitham and Alderman J. S. Bridwell were absent, Mr. Smitham having left last Friday for Cincinnati to attend the annual convention of the International City Managers association.

Clinton Holds Lead In Southwestern Oklahoma Race By Beating Elk City

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Oct. 24.—Clinton held undisputed first place honors in the Southwestern Oklahoma conference race in last week's play, handing Elk City its first defeat, 14-7, in the game Thursday night. The result was more or less of an upset as Elk City was doped about three touchdowns better than the Red Tornadoes. However, Clinton clearly outplayed the visitors and are entrenched firmly in first place with two hard games coming up in the next two weeks. Friday of this week they are hosts to the strong Erick squad and Erick is given an even chance for a victory if the team can again muster the strength shown in the Altus game last week when they held the fleet-footed Altus Bulldogs to a lone safety in four bitter quarters. One week from Friday they must turn back those same Altus Bulldogs if they still have championship hopes after the Erick game.

Hollis Trims Sayre

Hollis was impressive in winning the second conference go 34-0 over Sayre. Carnegie displayed good football in handing Mangum a 20-7 beating. An overconfident Altus eleven eked out a 2-0 win in their game with Erick and a badly crippled Frederick squad dropped a 21-0 game to the powerful Vernon, Texas, Lions in a non-conference game. Hobart defeated Weatherford 14-6 in a conference game and Mountain View lost a 6-0 game to Roosevelt, a non-conference tilt.

Lawton Plays Altus

Although not a conference game, the outstanding game this week will be at Altus, who will be hosts to the Lawton eleven, last year's state champions. Lawton will be a slight favorite but if Frank Crider's Altus Bulldogs are in shape they are expected to furnish lots of opposition for the Wolverines.

The conference standing:

Team—	W.	L.	Pct.	Pts.	Op.
Clinton	4	0	1.000	53	7
Hollis	2	0	1.000	54	6

PROBE LIKELY AT COLUMBIA

Athletic Policies May Be Investigated

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—An investigation into the athletic organization of Columbia university to find where the money goes and why is to be undertaken by the board of trustees of the university if an alumni movement receives the favorable action expected.

The Spectator, undergraduate daily of the university, revealed today that alumni members of the board planned to present a resolution Nov. 7 calling for an inpartial inquiry either to prove or disprove charges and rumors of semi-professionalism and bad policy in an intercollegiate sport.

The Spectator suggested six matters the inquiry should cover: Whether players are subsidized; the pay of Lou Little, head football coach, and his assistants; alleged classroom leniency to players by professors and instructors; preference in award of scholarships; and the possibility of injury or death to which players are subjected.

The current agitation is an echo of last year's attack by Red Harris, then editor of Spectator, on intercollegiate football as a "racket."

New Postal Trucks Placed in Service

Three new government owned U. S. mail trucks will make their first runs in Wichita Falls Tuesday morning. The new trucks, model A Ford machines, were received at the Wichita Falls postoffice Saturday. The cars will replace contract-operated trucks in handling parcel post deliveries and mail, Assistant Postmaster Lon Howard announced Monday. Contracts for the privately owned trucks expired at midnight Monday.

The local postoffice now has four government-owned trucks. One machine has been in use three years. Other equipment improvements now under way include painting of collection boxes throughotu the city. Mr. Howard warned that the shiny mail box may also be sticky with wet paint.

Eastern Slopes Of Rockies Feel First Real Winter With Heavy Snow

DENVER, Oct. 24. (AP)—Colorado today felt its first real winter of the 1932 season with five inches of snow in Denver and varying depths from the eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains to the Kansas line.

The western slope of the Rockies was cloudy but snowless and New Mexico was warm and sunny.

Heavy snow at Denver clung to trees and shrubs, breaking many, and melted into a soft slush which impeded traffic considerably. Temperatures were mild.

Fort Collins, Sterling and other northern Colorado towns reported snow which turned to rain as the storm progressed northward into Wyoming and Nebraska.

A high wind that at times reached 50 miles hurried the storm clouds over southeastern Wyoming Sunday and Monday, and snow fell over most of the area. Cheyenne, Casper, Laramie, all reported snow.

The snow storm hovered over the Big Horn mountain country where three Wyoming hunters are lost and threatened to again close highways which had just been opened after last week's storm. Forest rangers and game officials while continuing their search for the missing men, warned incoming hunters that roads might be closed for the season at any moment.

Northwestern Montana was clear but the rest of the state was under clouds with light precipitation recorded in the eastern half. Temperatures were generally below freezing.

Generally fair weather was predicted for Tuesday in Colorado, New Mexico, Wyoming and Montana.

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Texas, Oct. 24.—The Bowie Chamber of Commerce will elect five new directors at its annual membership meeting and banquet here Tuesday night. Approximately 150 members and guests from Wichita Falls, Nocona, Ringgold and Decatur are expected to attend.

WICHITANS TO ATTEND BOWIE C-C. BANQUET

President Albert E. Kelly of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce will head a delegation of Wichitans to attend the annual Bowie Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night at the city auditorium in that community. Walter D. Cline of the city is scheduled as one of the speakers for the occasion. Arrangements for the trip will be completed Tuesday by Assistant Manager Wilburn Page of the local business group.

A varied program of entertainment has been arranged for the affair, which will be held in the Bowie city auditorium.

The principal speaker will be Walter D. Cline, widely known civic leader of Wichita Falls. Ray Nichols, Vernon publisher, also will speak.

The five of the 15 directors who will retire are Dr. J. T. Lawson, president; J. A. Brice, B. E. Watson, T. P. Evans and Henry T. Ayres. At the next meeting following the election of their successors the board of directors will select officers to lead the chamber through the ensuing year.

Workman in Hospital After Drill Breaks Arm

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Oct. 24.—Lloyd Joy, 23, was severely injured today while using a drill to test for a foundation to a bridge to be built over the Salt Fork of the Brazos, on highway 4, 18 miles west of Aspermont.

Joy was using the drill when a bar caught in the driving head bit, breaking the workman's arm and inflicting deep lacerations about the face and other injuries. After receiving first aid in Aspermont, Joy was removed to a hospital here.

He is an employe of the Mott Gore Drilling company of Huntington, W. V.

Police Alarms for Homes

Success of the 600 police call-alarms recently installed in the streets of Paris has prompted city officials to consider the installation of a similar system for private homes. Subscribers will simply press a button, and the glow of an electric lamp will indicate that the call has been received. The public alarms consist of a direct telephone protected by glass. Breaking of the glass causes an alarm to ring in the central police station of the district. The officer in charge replies and members of the Flying Squad are rushed to the spot in a truck equipped with a search light, an auto jack, first-aid outfit and stretcher.

HOLIDAY AT STEER CAMP

Longhorns to Resume Training Today

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, who defeated the Rice Owls 18-6 at Houston Saturday, declared a holiday here today, but will resume training tomorrow for the S. M. U. Mustangs, whom they are scheduled to meet here next Saturday in a Southwest conference game.

Coach Clyde Littlefield reported his squad in good condition, and expects all members to report for work Tuesday.

Although the Steers will take the field against S. M. U. overwhelming favorites to win, Coach Ray Morrison's crew is expected to give them a hard game.

EIGHT AGGIE PLAYERS HURT

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Eight players were on the injured list as the Texas Aggies took the field today for football practice.

Captain Jimmy Aston and Henry Graves, halfbacks injured in the scoreless tie with Baylor at Waco Saturday, were expected to be out of the lineup for a week and Morrison Breedlove, guard hurt in the same game, probably will be out for the rest of the season. Aston had a chipped bone in his left hip. Graves injured a knee and Breedlove hurt his collarbone.

The cadets go to Shreveport, La., Saturday to play Centenary college, which already has defeated the University of Texas and Southern Methodist university.

FROGS START HEAVY DRILL

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—With the Baylor Bears showing unexpected strength in holding the Texas Aggies to a scoreless tie, Coach Francis Schmidt plunged his Horned Frogs into a program of heavy training this afternoon for their game with them here Saturday afternoon.

Instead of the usual Monday afternoon work between the reverses and frosh the varsity regulars took on the Polliwogs.

The Polliwogs had been drilled in Baylor formations by Freshman Coach Dutch Meyer, who scouted the Bears against the Aggies. "Baylor has a great defensive line," said Coach Meyer in his report. "It is a fast charging line and the Frogs have a much harder battle on their hands than they believe.

RICE OWLS BACK TO TRAINING GRIND

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Coach Jack Meagher's Rice Owls today started working for Saturday's intersectional tilt here against Coach Arthur Stark's Creighton eleven from Omaha, Neb.

Creighton has its strongest team of recent years and the Owls will be pressed to win. Meagher's men already have won intersectional games from the L. S. U. Tigers and the Loyola Wolves of New Orleans.

Coach Meagher has indicated great care will be taken the next two weeks in getting into shape such players as Kelly Scott, Lou Hassell, Fay Lagow and Ox Hinman. The Rice mentor hopes to have his team at full strength when Rice plays Arkansas Nov. 5 at Fayetteville, Ark.

BEARS TAKE LIGHT DRILL

WACO, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Except for a light workout this afternoon, the Baylor university Bears made no extra preparation for the game next Saturday with Texas Christian university. Coach Morley Jennings did not expect to require much of his men this week, since most of them were in excellent condition. Toward the end of the week, however, secret practice sessions may be held for a little more strenuous work.

HOGS REPORT FOR PRACTICE

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 24. (AP)—The University of Arkansas Razorbacks reported for practice this afternoon, after their return in the morning from Shreveport, La., where they lost Saturday to Louisiana State university.

The Porkers will lay off this week, before their home-coming tilt Nov. 5 against the Rice institute Owls of Houston. Coach Thomsen said he expected to revamp his line within the next two weeks and develop plays which would prove more effective.

The first call for basket ball practice will be issued tomorrow by Coach Charles Bassett, but only three cage practice sessions will be held this week.

PONIES START REHEARSALS

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—"I've nothing to say. I will keep my mouth closed until after the game. What I said about Southern Methodist taking Texas if the Longhorns defeated Rice still goes." It was Coach Ray Morrison of the Southern Methodist Mustangs talking at today's practice. Morrison started today preparing his Mustangs for their second Southwest conference battle, and he was in no mood no jest because Saturday night his cohorts lost to Centenary and looked bad doing it.

The Mustangs escaped the Centenary game in good condition, and will have their full strength to toss against the Longhorns. Morrison started his men on a week of dummy scrimmage in an effort to bolster his team's offensive tactics that were so completely smothered by Centenary. The Mustangs plan to gamble on a wide open passing game against Texas, but even their celebrated aerial circus has been only a side-show attraction so far, according to a statement recently made by Morrison.

DON ROPO TO MEET SLAGEL

Mexican Sheik on Mat With Former Gridder

Don "Ropo" Humberto finds it as hard to stay away from Wichita Falls as he does the ropes and will be back this week to take on Sol Slagel of St. Louis in the main event of the weekly wrestling program. Slagel is both big and active and will be one of the hardest battles the clever Mexican sheik has ever tackled in Wichita Falls.

Slagel is a former all-star tackle with Washburn university's well known football teams, weighs around 240 pounds and is one of the most active heavyweights in the ring. Slagel is a newcomer in Wichita Falls, but will bring new blood and new things to local fans. The promotor brings Slagel to Wichita Falls to reap the revenge he failed to gain over Humberto, and firmly believes that he could never have found a more suitable man for this task.

The semifinal this week will bring back another popular star in local wrestling circles in Walter Stratton, the Chicago strongman. Stratton will take on Ted Travis, another whirlwind heavyweight from Los Angeles.

The return to the old heavyweight regime and the brief layoff from the lighter tournament wrestlers here will afford fans a varied style of wrestling.

Texas League Meeting Called

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—J. Alvin Gardner, president, has called a Texas league meeting for Saturday morning starting at 9 o'clock at a local hotel. He has issued a request for at least one representative from each Texas league club to be present. No business of importance is expected to come before the meeting other than hearing the annual report of the auditing committee. Gardner said the status of a definite salary limit probably would not be discussed until the national convention at Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 7, 8 and 9.

Four Lawton Prisoners Removed to Penitentiary

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 24.—Four Comanche county prisoners, three men and a woman, were taken to the state penitentiary at McAlester today after each had entered pleas of guilty to felony charges.

"Jew" Morgan, former Lawton taxi driver, pleaded guilty to robbery with firearms in connection with the holdup of a farmer and was sentenced by District Judge E. L. Richardson to serve five years.

Ray Goard of Seminole was given two years on two counts of sale of a forged instrument, sentences to run concurrently.

Coy Williams and Mrs. Bertha Roland of Lawton were given three months in the penitentiary upon guilty pleas to the charge of adultery.

Two former governors of North Carolina were born the same year in the same house, near Asheville. They were D. L. Swain and Joseph Lane.

INDIAN GRABS SCORING LEAD

Jones of Quanah Ousts Vernon Captain

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 24.—Scoring three touchdowns and adding two extra points as Quanah crushed Duke, Okla., 72-6, last week, Jones, slashing Indian fullback, wrested the individual point-scoring lead in district No. 5, class A, Interscholastic league football, away from Capt. H. A. Thompson, Vernon backfield flash, with a total of 45 points to 39 for the Lion star. Thompson had led for two weeks prior to last week's games.

The reports, issued through the office of W. T. Lofland, Vernon superintendent of schools and chairman of the district football executive committee, include points scored by individuals of teams in this district in both conference and non-conference games.

Edwin Garner, diminutive Vernon back, like Thompson, added a touchdown in Vernon's 21-0 defeat of Frederick, Okla., and held third place in the scoring race. "Red" Ratican, Childress ace, scored one time against Gould, Okla., to maintain fourth position, while Bradshaw of Childress crossed the goal line three times to advance to fifth place. Mitchell and Wheat, both of Quanah, enjoyed heavy days against Duke and went into a tie for sixth place.

Individual scoring of players who have hung up 12 or more points to date:

Player, Team—	Td.	Pat.	Sa.	Tp.
Jones, Quanah	7	3	0	45
Thompson, Vernon	6	3	0	39

Bradshaw, Childress	4	1	0	25
Mitchell, Quanah	4	0	0	24
Wheat, Quanah	4	0	0	24
Hall, Quanah	3	2	0	20
Miller, Vernon	3	0	0	18
Wheeler, Vernon	3	0	0	18
Watson, Vernon	3	0	0	18
Curfman, Electra	2	4	0	16

Kiwanis Clubs Stand Strain

HARLINGEN, Texas, Oct. 24. (AP)—Reports stressing the success of Kiwanis clubs in the face of adverse economic conditions were presented to the 50th annual Oklahoma-Texas district convention of Kiwanians today.

R. G. Storey of Dallas, a past district governor, said that despite the times, Kiwanis clubs "have stood the test and are still growing" but urged members of the organization to unite in a greater effort for a return of prosperity and greater happiness.

Dr. L. D. Hudson of Dewey, Okla., district governor, in an address on the theme, "Kiwanis Needs You and You Need Kiwanis," reported a satisfactory year's work.

Tom W. Archer of Dallas, lieutenant-governor of division four, lead a discussion on "Club Sponsoring."

Hudson reported the following new committees had been named:

Resolutions—L. A. McDonald of Denton, J. R. Dillard of Big Spring, Luther Hughes of Weslaco and George McCormack.

Credentials—Dave Fezler of Oklahoma City, W. S. Brock of San Benito, Alvin Moore of Cheyenne, Okla., Kenneth Bebb of Wichita Falls and W. O. Allen of Amarillo.

Election—B. Sherrod of Lubbock, Harry Ratliff of Weslaco, Harry Miller of Pawhuska, Okla., Roy Coale of Beaumont, and J. W. Hunt of Henrietta, Okla.

The governors' ball was the highlight of tonight's program. The convention will close tomorrow with election of officers and selection of next year's convention city.

man said rehearsals had been postponed and asked if I would come back in a couple of hours. I strolled through the side streets studying the gowns and things in the shop windows. When it was time to go back to the theater, there was another man on the door and he said the actress would not see me until Monday. I went on to the studio but every one had gone. I've had a key because I've been working there at odd times when there's no one to bother me. I sketched until the light began to fail. I had something to eat in a restaurant where a girl in a window was baking hot cakes. When I came into the club it was a few minutes of six. I spent the evening reading and looking at some art books. I didn't talk with any one at the studio or here in the club. I went to bed about midnight, but I didn't sleep for a long time. I felt pent-in and so lonely—oh, Mrs. Foster you don't know how lonely it is to be in the city with millions of people around you—I almost wish I had been in Haven Beach . . ."

"Now, now, dear—"

"I do. I wish I'd gone with Lee and been reckless and done things that made me so I didn't care. Champagne and being crazy about men and beautiful dinners in winter gardens and petting parties. Jock Selden liked me. He'd have given me a rush if I'd let him. And maybe he wouldn't be dead now, and my name in the papers and every one thinking—Oh, God, I can never go back to my home. I can never . . ."

Tony was sobbing, wildly, unrestrainedly. She stopped, choking short a sob—the telephone bell was ringing.

Turkey School To Be Held At Vernon

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 24.—A turkey school and tom show will be held in Vernon Nov. 8, County Agent R. E. L. Pattillo has announced. Paul Cunyous, assistant poultry specialist of the A. & M. college extension service will conduct the school and act as judge of the show. Zetha McInnis, canning specialist of the service, will also be here in connection with the show, and will demonstrate means of utilizing low grade turkeys by canning them.

Dressed birds will be exhibited to show their grades. Live birds also will be graded on foot, then dressed out and regraded in an effort to acquaint breeders with the importance of the grade of turkeys they are producing.

Mr. Pattillo hopes to have breeders bring in both old and young toms to have them classified according to type for breeding purposes.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—A slight early advance in cotton today was followed by declines under increased southern selling.

December contracts after selling up to 6.18 early, declined to 6.10 and closed at that figure with the general market closing steady at net declines of 3 to 7 points.

The opening was two points higher to two points lower.

Relatively steady Liverpool cables were followed by buying here through houses with Liverpool connections, presumably on the differences while in addition to domestic trade buying, there was some demand through brokers with Japanese connections.

The demand tapered off after the close of Liverpool and later in the day prices eased gradually under continued southern selling which was absorbed by scale down buying by the trade and covering. March eased off to 6.24 or nine points from the high price of the morning, with all positions making new low ground for the movement in the late trading and closing at the lowest.

A private report estimated ginnings prior to Oct. 18 at 7,200,000 bales. The census report will be issued tomorrow morning.

The advance in Liverpool was a little more than sufficient to offset the decline in sterling, and the relative steadiness there was attributed to hope of an increased business in cotton goods at Manchester. It was reported that the wage dispute in the Lancashire spinning mills had been settled and according to the New York cotton exchange service the decline in sterling has placed Manchester in a slightly better position to compete for business in the eastern markets.

Cotton futures closed steady, 5 to 7 lower; spot quiet; middling, 6.20.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cotton was a quiet affair today, future prices fluctuating narrowly on a down-trend and closing 4 to 5 points net lower. Today's spot sales at southern markets, posted after the close, were the largest of the season, totaling 83,406 bales.

The market opened steady and Liverpool cables came in 7 to 8 penny points better than due, sterling was weak. Private cables said Bombay and Manchester bought on wage settlement and lower sterling. Manchester cabled the cloth demand from India was maintained. First trades here were 2 points up to 2 down, but prices eased off after the start on hedge selling, December dropping to 6.12 and March to 6.25 or 2 to 3 points below Saturday's close.

Later in the first half of the morning prices rallied moderately on a moderate rally in stocks and some trade buying, December advancing to 6.18 and March to 6.31 or 6 points above the early lows and 3 to 4 points above the previous close. This bulge attracted fresh hedge selling and in the absence of buying support, the market showed a slowly sagging tendency all afternoon, making lows for the day near the end with December at 6.09 and March at 6.22, down 9 points from the early highs. October dropped to 5.97 or 15 points down from the highs due to some final liquidation as tomorrow will be the last October notice day. The close was a shade steadier with December at 6.10 or 4 points net down, and March at 6.22, down 5 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 3 penny points down.

Port receipts 51,336, for week 96,023, for season 2,604,906, last season 3,052,524. Exports 27,420, for week 46,488, for season 1,815,619, last season 1,357,472. Port stock 4,032,579, last year 4,302,564. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 138,954, last year 124,865. Spot sales at southern markets 83,406, last year 55,000.

Futures closed steady at net declines of 4 to 5 points:

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cotton was dull and prices sagged to new low records for the movement today. The close on the board of trade was unchanged to 2 points net lower. The opening was unchanged to 3 points up on favorable cables. The first advance soon faded in sympathy with lower grain and stocks during the morning. Speculative buying failed to absorb hedging sales except at concessions in price. The belt was mostly dry over the week-end. The West was cloudy and rain is forecast in that area and the East was partly cloudy.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Trading in wool was very slow today. Not enough business was transacted to make a market. Quotations, however, were mostly steady as larger holders adhered rather firmly to recent asking prices, in spite of willingness of some houses to sell odd lots at slight concessions. Receipts of domestic wool at Boston during week ending Oct. 22, estimated by the Boston grain and flour exchange, amounted to 470,500 pounds compared with 12,653,500 pounds the previous week.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cotton goods were very quiet today although deliveries continue large and active. Knitters of rayon are more active. Wool goods buyers are doing more on coatings and overcoatings. Silks were quiet. Burlap was unchanged at the opening.

Political Situation Draws Most Of Blame For Market Of Extreme Quiet

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (US)—Volume of trading in stocks today declined to the lowest total for any full session since the mid-July days which witnessed the inauguration of the subsequent outbreak of bullishness.

There is no intention in this statement to suggest a similarity of prospects nevertheless, it is a fact that from several angles the situation today presented a distinct analogy to conditions prevailing three months back. However, there is the very marked difference this time in the proximity of a national election, with all of the nervousness, uncertainty, etc. This usually entails.

It might be argued with equal vigor that the intense dullness evidenced complete absence of offerings or that it suggested complete absence of a buying stimulant.

The bond list continued in the doldrums, but leading commodities were unable to resist the recent downward trend. Wheat and corn options slipped through to new lows, and cotton approached closer to the year's bottom prices. Sterling exchange was decidedly weak, adding strength to the recent undercover reports that the British pound stabilization fund was more heavily drawn upon than officially admitted.

With the market virtually at a standstill, all interest naturally centered on the action of the U. S. Steel corporation directors when they meet, after the market closes tomorrow, to decide on the preferred dividend.

Appreciative of the heavy losses incurred by the steel corporation for many quarters, no one can question the soundness of a decision at least lowering the dividend. By maintaining the $1.75 rate the directors will be ignoring the corporation's recent financial results and further impairing its asset position. Therefore, approval of any payment at all will be chiefly in response to political considerations, or unusual consideration for the holders of what has in the past been rated as the premier industrial investment issue.

More important than the dividend will be the financial report for the third quarter this is almost certain to be extremely depressing reading. Because of the conflicting influences, however, the directors are expected to adopt a compromise attitude and lower, rather than pass, the preferred dividend. This will leave the market without any particular cue, but it will be maintained doubt over continuance even of a lower rate on steel preferred.

The stock rallied feebly today, presumably in anticipation of such a compromise. The common barely fluctuated. The preferred stock closed at 73¼. At this price, the yield on a $5 annual basis would be 6.80 per cent; a $4.50 dividend rate would yield 6.12 per cent; $4 annual dividend would yield 5.44 per cent.

General Motors was the day's most active issue, representing the first time since Sept. 9 that United Aircraft has been displaced as leader of any full session. Motors closed unchanged while Aircraft was up ⅝. Total fluctuation in the principal averages from top to bottom was limited to a point or so.

Railroad reports continued to make a cheerful showing. The fact that many roads are revealing ability to cover fixed charges is evidence that operating expenses have been sharply curtailed. It is apparent, of course, that freight has not greatly expanded, even though weekly car loadings report disclose later-than-seasonal uptrend.

Sharp rally occurred in Nickel Plate bonds, presumably reflecting speculative buying on the theory that the reorganization of the road will be effected without recourse to receivership. This is pure gambling, however.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—Wheat was in good demand as the week started on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Milo if bright was fairly well taken. Other offerings were slow sale, even for the light offerings.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to destination, delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat—No. 1 hard according to protein and billing, 54¾@57¼c. Barley—No. 2 nominally 32@33c; No. 3 nominal 31@32c. Sorghums—No. 2 bright milo per 100 pounds 63@65c; No. 2 kaffir 55@58c.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn—No. 2 mixed 38@39c; No. 2 white 41@42c; No. 2 yellow 38½@39½c.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats—No. 2 red 22½@23½c; No. 3 red 21½@22½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—Shaken by British exchange collapse to the lowest point since England went off the gold standard, wheat, corn and rye today reached new bottom records.

Apparent withdrawal of British government support for sterling rates had a decidedly unsettling effect on grain values. It proved more than a counterbalance for any stimulating effect of United States department of agriculture removal of certain restrictions against future delivery dealings. Crop news from Argentina and Australia was bearish, and export demand for North American wheat was another disappointment. Wheat closed nervous, at a slight rally, ⅛@⅜c under Saturday's finish; corn unchanged to ⅜c off; oats at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to an equal gain.

Stop-loss selling of wheat developed and, although not heavy, was disturbing because buying power lacked volume. Contributing to the downward trend of all grain was announcement of 3,008,000 bushels increase of the corn visible supply, making the total 26,196,000 bushels, the largest at this time of year since 1897. Board of trade officials said modification of federal restrictions would help to release the markets from strangulation effects long enforced, but that in addition an almost prohibitive tax on future delivery grain dealings would have to be changed as soon as possible to avert further agricultural distress.

Reports of further rains in Argentina acted as a special handicap to wheat bulls. Meanwhile, although Canada was offering near shipments of wheat at prices lower than those of any other country, Argentina was reported offering for deferred shipment at prices well under those of Canada. On the other hand, relative smallness of world shipments and decrease of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, as well as a falling off in domestic and Canadian wheat receipts, were without much immediate market influence.

Corn and rye gave way with wheat. Oats were so low that sellers were scarce.

Provisions were responsive to the course of hog values.

Trade Trends

(By The Associated Press)

Foreign Cotton Trade—Recent weakness in pound sterling has placed Lancashire in a slightly better position in competition with Japan in eastern markets, the New York cotton exchange service reports. The great strides made by Japan in recent years are shown by the fact that 60 per cent of the imports of cotton cloth into India during September were Japanese goods compared with only 29 per cent in September, 1929.

Petroleum—Much of the recent weakness in the petroleum situation has been dispelled by the advance in the prices of mid-continent crude and eastern gasoline. It is reported that various state governments are planning to cooperate in an effort to check gasoline bootlegging, to avoid taxes.

It's Folly to Sell Stock Now

Here's the Feeding Plan Cattle Men Have Dreamed Of

Don't accept present ruinous prices for your grass fat and feeder cattle without investigating the new Bowles plan of Contract Share Feeding. Prices at 25 per cent to 100 per cent higher for corn fed stock are almost a certainty for 1933. See how easy it is to hold your stock for this rise and see how soundly Bowles National Supervision assures you of getting the maximum profit.

Never before has there been an organization like Bowles National. We have obtained as our exclusive Supervisors most of the nationally known feeders in the entire Corn Belt, such men as: JOHN HUBLY, ED HALL, ENE TOLAN, BILL FRAZIER, WAYLAND HOPLEY, and HENRY HORTENSTINE—all famous International and Royal Live Stock Exposition show feeders.

Other Bowles National Supervisors include the largest and most successful feeders in the Corn Belt states, such men as: O. M. (Bean) Lyons, McKenna Brothers, Ralph McElrath, Leslie Lemon, Julius Peterson, Stanley R. Pierce and many others.

In the Bowles Plan there is only one charge—half of which is deferred until the stock is sold—40c per cwt. for cattle. The Bowles Plan with the most expert feeding supervision in the world actually costs less than many other plans offered you, and "the BEST is the CHEAPEST in the end." The entire freight bill also may be deferred.

Get the full details. See why banks are willing to cooperate with stock men under this amazing plan. Write or wire today.

Democrats of Area Busy In Campaign

Further plans for county rallies throughout the 13th congressional district before Nov. 8 were announced through the local national Democratic headquarters Monday, with definite dates set for Wilbarger, Clay, Baylor, Throckmorton and Archer counties.

Another county will hold its pre-election rally on Tuesday, Nov. 1, at 7:30 p. m. at the Archer county courthouse in Archer City. Sam B. Spence, district attorney, will be the principal speaker on that occasion. C. L. Abercrombie has assumed complete charge of the medallion sales campaign throughout the county. J. S. Melugin, county Democratic chairman, has announced the following committee appointments in preparation for the closing two weeks of the campaign:

Archer Committee

Medallion Drive Committee—C. L. Abercrombie, chairman; Lester Young, Daniel Powell, Moncy Wilson.

Foard, Cottle and Hardeman counties were added to the 13th congressional district Monday by the Roosevelt-Garner state organization for the purpose of raising campaign funds and promoting rallies in support of the national ticket in the coming election. The assignment placed that added territory under the supervision of the Wichita Falls headquarters, and plans were under way Monday to effect immediate organization of working committees in those new counties.

Dates for Rallies

The Wilbarger county rally at Vernon will be held on Friday night of this week, at 8 o'clock, in the city auditorium, instead of on Saturday, as formerly announced. District Attorney Sam B. Spence will head the list of speakers. The Clay county rally has been set for next Saturday at the courthouse in Henrietta. The hours has not yet been announced. Baylor county Democrats are to meet at Seymour next Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock, and again on Nov. 5 at 3:30 p. m. L. D. Jones, J. A. Wheat, Bob Baskin and Buck Wallace comprise the Baylor committee. In Throckmorton, a Throckmorton county rally has been called for Oct. 29 at 3:30 p. m. Leaders there are John Davis, L. A. Howsley, and Alex Dickey.

B. D. Sartin and Judge W. W. Cook will head a group of Wichita Falls Democrats who are to tour Montague and Cook counties Tuesday in the interest of the Roosevelt-Garner cause. They plan visiting every city and town in those two counties, returning to Wichita Falls Tuesday night. Senator Grady Woodruff of Decatur is completing plans for Democratic rallies in Denton and Decatur within the next few days.

A letter from state headquarters Monday complimented the local organization as being the most active in the state.

Trust Firm Asks Administration Of Reynolds Estate

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—The Guaranty Trust company today filed in surrogate's court a petition that temporary administration of the estate of Smith Reynolds, heir to the tobacco fortune, be granted pending the birth of a posthumous child of Reynolds, or the definite determination that the possibility of birth no longer exists.

Reynolds' will recently was filed in probate court and the instrument named the Guaranty Trust company as executor. The will, executed before Reynolds was married to Libby Holman, failed to mention her, but left bequests of $50,000 each to his first wife and Albert Walker. Libby Holman Reynolds, the widow, and Walker are jointly charged with murder in connection with Reynolds' death, although members of the Reynolds family have suggested to the prosecutor that the indictment be nolle prossed.

Miniature Stadium Tells Story Of Relief Association's Part In Work

Symbolizing a project in the completion of which the Family Relief association played a material part, a miniature duplicate of the new athletic stadium was mounted Monday in a display window on the north side of the W. B. McClurkan store building on Ninth street.

The model was made by boys in the manual training department of the high school. It contains the two grandstands, located on opposite sides of the field; provides the steps for entrance at the various aisles; has the field properly marked off, the goal posts up, and the score board erected for use. The stands and field are done in green, while supports of the structures are finished in silver. It is an attractive replica of the new football plant.

Laborers on the stadium project which was sponsored throughout by the Kiwanis club, received their compensation of 20 cents per hour in the form of groceries, meats, etc. through the commissary of the Family Relief association. Heads of needy families were afforded the opportunity to obtain needed supplies by working on the new athletic field and the stands, which were removed from Call field.

CHEST READY FOR CAMPAIGN

11 Firms Added to List Of 100 Per Cent Group

Every detail of preparation for the four-day community chest campaign opening Wednesday was completed Monday. The scores of sales army workers will not meet Tuesday but will gather with workers of the three remaining divisions Wednesday morning at the Wichita club at 7:45 o'clock for an early bird breakfast.

The breakfast will be the formal launching of the chest drive and every worker must attend, chest leaders said Monday. The sales army workers will go directly from the breakfast to their assignments in soliciting contributions.

Workers of the national firms division under J. M. Spoonts, the group solicitation division under J. S. Hargett and the special gifts group under C. E. McCutchen will meet with the sales army at the breakfast. Preliminary work of the three divisions has been under way several days. Initial reports on the drive will be made at 12:15 o'clock Wednesday at a luncheon at the Wichita club. The luncheons will be held daily through the drive.

A preliminary check up of the special gifts division was held at noon Monday at the Kemp hotel in charge of Mr. McCutchen. Chest Chairman Roy B. Jones spoke at the meeting.

Col. E. M. Crump was in charge of a meeting of three groups of his sales army at chest headquarters Monday afternoon. Mr. Jones again spoke to the workers, emphasizing the necessity of selling the chest to Wichita Falls this year. The divisions at the meeting were in charge of T. J. Waggoner Jr., Leon Deaton and William McKemie Jr.

Final organization of the negro division of the campaign was completed at a meeting Monday night at the Washington school.

Eleven firms were added to the 100 per cent honor roll in the group solicitations division Monday. The group includes the Postal Telegraph company, First National bank with an increase of $100 over the 1931 quota, Wichita Falls Traction company, Fritz Motor company, City National bank, Dixie Tire service, Star-Micks Furniture company, Goodyear Tire company, Goodner Wholesale Grocery company, Texas Electric Service company, and Humble Oil and Refining company.

Art classes of the Junior college presented posters at chest headquarters Monday depicting the work of the eight agencies. The work was directed by Miss Ima Pendergrass. Exhibits picturing the work of each agency were placed in downtown display windows during the day.

Coolidge May Head New York University

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (INS)—Former President Calvin Coolidge is "being considered" to head New York university as successor to Chancellor Elmer E. Brown, it was learned definitely today.

"Mr. Coolidge is one of five or six men who are being considered for the chancellorship," said William M. Kingsley, chairman of a group designated to select the successor to Brown. Kingsley is president of the United States Trust company.

"An announcement will be made soon," Kingsley added.

He declined to say whether any direct offer has been made to the former president or to give the names of the other men under consideration.

"That would not be advisable at this time," he said. Kingsley was reluctant to discuss the matter in its present state or to say anything beyond confirming the report that Coolidge is being considered.

Eleven Men Arrested In Theft of Saddles

Houston apparently was headquarters of the ring, McWilliams reported here today.

COUNTY PAYS $600,000 TAXES

$345,000 Delinquent Here, Report Shows

Approximately $600,000 state and county taxes for the year 1931 were collected in Wichita county prior to July 1, 1932, while $345,433.20 in state and county taxes became delinquent on that date, according to the 1931 delinquent tax roll submitted by County Tax Collector Arthur C. Howard Monday to the commissioners court, and which was approved by that body.

The 1931 fiscal year ran from April 1, 1931, to June 30, 1932, because of changes made by the state legislature in its passage of new tax laws during the past two years. The delinquent 1931 roll filed by Mr. Howard Monday shows the following delinquencies on real property as of June 30, 1932: State ad valorem, $133,130.04; state poll, $4,495.50; county ad valorem, $152,924.43; Electra road district, $3,315.20; county polls, $749.25; district schools $13,690.20; drainage districts, $4,238.86; total of real estate and poll tax delinquencies, $312,543.48.

On personal property, the following totals of delinquencies were shown: State ad valorem, $10,866.51; county ad valorem, $12,485.84; district schools, $522.35; and Electra road, $248.52, totaling $32,889.72. The two totals combine to show a total 1931 delinquency of $345,433.20.

During that same fiscal year, current collections totaling $598,851.85 were made from the following sources: State ad valorem, $251,886.57; state poll, $12,274.50; county ad valorem, $289,343.64; county poll, $2,045.75; Electra road, $9,332.40; schools, $31,591.66; drainage district No. 1, $1,756.15; drainage district No. 2, $621.09.

Delinquent collections during the 1931-32 fiscal year mounted to $123,531.38, distributed as follows: Penalties and interest, $1,950.06; state ad valorem, $53,203.01; poll, $858.75; county ad valorem, $60,860.74; school $5,012.47; Electra road, $1,484.88; for printing, $16.50.

Besides those collections on the current and delinquent rolls during the 1931 year ending last July 1, $7,706.35 was collected for the state and $3,918.64 for the county upon property not showing upon the tax rolls because of having never been assessed.

WICHITA BANDS WIN HONORS

Seeds Announces Honors At Dallas Fair

Wichita county bands of the North Texas and Southern Oklahoma Band Teachers association received two first places in the state fair competition at Dallas Oct. 16, Secretary Paul Seeds reported Monday. The winning bands were the Burkburnett Cowboy band and Paul Seeds' Los Caballeros of this city.

In addition Wichita county individuals secured one first place and several second place awards in the contest. Other county band units placed in the events. The contest was in charge of Col. Earl D. Irons and was judged by Karl L. King. Almost 2,000 Wichitans attended the fair on Oct. 16 with three special trains run out of the city.

Park-Electra Band Praised

The showing made of Karl T. Goetze's Iowa Park and Electra American Legion combined band was complimented by contest officials as unusual. The band has been organized for only six months, but in order to avoid competing with any other county unit Mr. Goetze entered the group in the three-year class. The band was awarded fourth place and a grade of 84 per cent.

Sixty-two bands entered the contest, representing almost every section of the state, Mr. Seeds reported. Cups and medals were given first place winners.

The Burkburnett Cowboy band is directed by E. L. Nichols, and was awarded first place in the one-year class with a grade of 91 1-3 per cent. Paul Seeds' Los Caballeros band was awarded first place in the two-year class with a grade of 91 per cent.

The Y. M. C. A. band of Dallas placed first in the three-year class with a grade of 90 2-3 per cent. The 4-year class champion was the Paris Municipal band with a grade of 92 per cent. The Paris band also was awarded the Evans Uniform company banner for the best uniformed organization.

The 112th cavalry band of the Texas National guard won first place in the miscellaneous class with a grade of 95 per cent and was declared the official state fair unit. The prize in this division was $1,000 or a trip to the Chicago world's fair.

The alternate official band award of $400 went to the North Texas Agricultural college at Arlington. The unit won first in the class B college division with a grade of 93 per cent. No class A college band competed.

Individuals Win Honors

Dick Seeds of Wichita Falls placed third in the one-year cornet class with a grade of 81 per cent. Young Seeds is 9 years old and competed with 15 entries. The first place winner was 17 years old and received a grade of 83 per cent. Second place went to a 15-year-old youth with 82 per cent.

Allie Goetze of Iowa Park was ranked high in the two-year cornet class with a grade of 87 per cent.

G. W. McReynolds of Wichita Falls placed first in the three-year cornet division with 93 per cent. He is a member of the Los Caballeros band.

Wayne McReynolds of this city placed second in the three-year baritone class with a grade of 84 per cent competing against 12 entries. Miss Kildo of Iowa Park won second place in the two-year saxophone group with a grade of 84 per cent. E. Moore of Iowa Park placed second in the two-year trombone group with a grade of 75 per cent.

A King silver cornet was awarded Talmadge Naylor of Midlothian for the cornet soloist honors. He scored 95 per cent.

Wichita Will Do Its Bit For Needy, Crump Predicts

The per capita assessment of $1.12 per individual for the 1932-1933 community chest in Wichita Falls, on the basis of the budget already adopted, is the lowest in the United States, according to E. M. Crump, sales leader, who addressed members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon at the Wichita club.

Mr. Crump declared with emphasis that "Wichita Falls will do its part." The golden jubilee brought the people of this city closer together, he said, and made them more as one family. The biggest need, he added, is "to educate the citizenry of our community to the needs of the chest."

Dr. C. W. Stevenson, presiding over the meeting, announced that the annual election of officers will take place on Nov. 14, when members will vote on a president, first and second vice presidents, a secretary and five directors.

$750 Cash Offered for Name of Radio Singer

Reward Will Be Paid Every One Who Submits Most Suitable Name

Here is another unusual announcement from Hollywood. A new Radio Singer to be featured in an old song program wants a Radio Name, and $750.00 Cash will be paid for the best suggestion. Readers may send their own name, or any other name they think of, as officials say any name may win the $750.00.

The Company featuring this Radio Girl in old song programs believes the Public will take a greater interest in these musical programs if they have a part in the selection of a Radio name for the Singer, and in order to secure suggestions quickly, $750.00 in cash is offered to any one who is quick in sending the name selected. Officials say any one has a chance to win this prize by sending their own name or the name of a friend or relative, or a coined name made up by them. Readers of this announcement are urged to send their suggestions for a name at once because $250.00 Extra will be given the winner if the name is mailed and postmarked before October 30, 1932; otherwise the reward is only $500.00. Just make the name easy to pronounce, and easy to remember, but send a name right away or you may be too late for the promptness prize.

The Rules of the Contest are very simple. All entries must be sent to Radio Director's Office, Studio Z-520, 1023 N. Sycamore Ave., Hollywood, California. Officials of the Company say only one suggestion for a name must be submitted by each contestant; every one but employes of the firm, or their relatives, are invited to submit a name, and in case of ties duplicate awards will be given. Readers may send their suggestion for a name on a postcard, or any kind of paper. The important thing is to send the name at once, because it means $750.00 in cash to every one who is quick in sending the name selected. —Adv.
