Nazis Gloat Over 'Break'

Propaganda Machine Sees Dire Trouble For Allies

(By The Associated Press)

THE Axis propaganda machine—recovered from an apparent initial surprise—last night was attempting to capitalize the Russian-Polish diplomatic break, emphosizing it as the opening crack in the wall of the United Nations and as an admission of Russia's "guilt" in alleged Polish massacres near Smolensk.

Although Axis propagandists had been trumpeting the Smolensk charge steadily for more than two weeks, they seemed to have been caught off guard Monday when Moscow announced the break. It seemed to have been an unlooked for development.

Recovered By Morning

But by Tuesday morning the new lines of attack were laid down, perhaps by Goebbels' office, for all of the triumvirate.

Thus the German radio, in broadcasts recorded by the Associated Press, said from Berlin that the new turn was a "scandal for the whole Allied front," and in a Shanghai dateline volley asserted that the American-British-Russian-Polish-Finnish affairs showed that the Atlantic charter was being violated by the powers that drafted it.

In a Vichy broadside, it said the Russian action was "a clear admission of the guilt of the Soviet union."

The Rome radio quoted "reports from Iran" that Polish soldiers serving in the Red Army had fired upon Russian troops, with "many wounded on both sides," and the Berlin radio quoted Virginio Gayda, the Italian editor, as saying that the Russian-Polish rupture showed that only the Axis powers were in a position to "defend European culture."

To Investigate Graves

Broadcasts heard by the Federal Communications commission added that the German government had created an "international commission" to investigate the "mass graves" near Smolensk.

One of the main themes was the ancient Axis contention that the Allies have as much to fear from Russia as do the Axis powers. The broadcasts also freely predicted that the Russian-Polish controversy would shake or even break relations between Russia, the United States and Britain.

The Berlin radio came up with the first "identification" of one of the thousands of Poles allegedly massacred near Smolensk, starting a line of publicity that could be continued for months.

Britain Enters Red-Polish Fuss

Seeks To Patch Up Diplomatic Break

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—Britain opened negotiations toward patching up the differences between Soviet Russia and the Polish government-in-exile today and there were strong indications that the United States was participating in the intensive effort to restore diplomatic relations between the two Allies, severed last Sunday by Russia.

U. S. Ambassador John G. Winant was called unexpectedly this afternoon to No. 10 Downing Street, official residence of Prime Minister Churchill. His visit was followed immediately by a conference attended by Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden and Wladyslaw Sikorski, the Polish premier.

No Official Statements

Official statements which were expected to be issued by both the British and Polish governments were not immediately forthcoming. A press conference in which Premier Sikorski had been scheduled to explain the position of the Polish government in the dispute was cancelled after newspapermen had assembled.

It was indicated on good authority that there would be no official pronouncements until some progress is made toward a solution.

The initial task confronting the representatives of the British and American governments will be to find some formula whereby the breach can be mended. Diplomatic quarters said no plan was available immediately and they admitted they anticipated considerable difficulty in finding one.

Not Fixing Blame

Neither the British nor the American officials are attempting to assess blame for the rupture, authoritative sources said, but are concerned only with restoring relations between Russia and Poland on the basis that it would be mutually advantageous to them and to all the United Nations.

Earlier in the day the Polish cabinet met in special session to debate its procedure and informed quarters expressed belief that a move to repair the breach would be forthcoming, although they were unable to say what its direction would be.

Net Allied Ship Losses Exceed Million Tons

Figures Based On Known Building Of Merchant Shipping

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP) — On the basis of only partly complete figures on merchant ship construction, the Navy department reported today that the Allies last year suffered a net loss of more than a million tons of merchant shipping.

This net figure was not fully conclusive in that it was arrived at by counting total Allied losses but not all new construction by all the Allied nations. While the Navy did not say so, it appeared that construction figures from one or more of the Allies were not available.

Follows Conference

The statement followed a conference between Secretary of the Navy Knox and Senator Brewster (R-Me), a member of the Senate's Truman committee.

The Truman committee said in a report last Thursday that sinkings of Allied boats by German submarines in 1942 totalled approximately 12,000,000 tons and exceeded the aggregate of new British and American construction. Friday, Secretary Knox said that Allied construction had exceeded Allied losses for 1942. He described the Truman committee's conclusion as an "obvious error" arising, in his opinion from the fact that new merchant ships are ordinarilly reported in gross tons, which are 1.5 times larger than deadweight tons.

The Allied loss figures used as a basis for today's announcement included losses from all causes — submarine sinkings, mines, airplanes, capture or otherwise.

Confusion Cleared

The statement said:

"At a conference between Senator Brewster of the Truman committee and the secretary of the navy, a number of factors in the confusing situation concerning submarine losses were cleared up.

"Stated in terms of gross tonnage and including all losses of Allied ships, however their loss may have been caused, there is no great difference in the Navy and the committee figures for 1942, the net loss in gross tons being in the neighborhood of something over a million tons. These figures, however, do not include new construction by all of the Allied nations and do include all losses — not losses from submarine operations alone.

"Records kept since the war began in 1939 show that submarines alone account for slightly over 50 per cent of all merchant vessels sunk by both sides."

Statement Explained

A naval spokesman who distributed the statement to the press was asked for clarifying information as to the finality of the net loss figure of one million tons given in the Navy's statement. He said:

"The million gross tons net loss is the difference between all Allied losses and Allied construction on which statistics are available."

No further clarification of the statement could be obtained from the Navy spokesman.

Last Thursday the Truman committee of which Senator Brewster (R-Maine) is a member, reported that approximately one million tons of shipping per month were sunk by German submarines in 1942 and the net losses "in the aggregate exceeded the new con-

Full-Scale Mine Strike Now Feared; UMW Demands WLB Withdraw From Wage Scrap

(By The Associated Press)

John L. Lewis raised the threat of a full-scale soft coal strike last night after the United Mine Workers' policy committee, attributing "malignant prejudice" to the War Labor board, demanded withdrawal of their wage dispute from the board.

"As matters stand," the mine workers chieftain told reporters at New York, "there will be no contract April 30. The mine workers will not trespass on mine property in the absence of a contract."

HEARING CONTINUES

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The War Labor board today instructed a three-man panel to begin hearings in the soft coal wage dispute tomorrow and to proceed until it gets contrary orders.

These instructions had been given and the board had adjourned for the day when President John L. Lewis announced the United Mine Workers would not work without a contract after Friday midnight. Vice Chairman George W. Taylor said the board would decide tomorrow whether to recognize this as a defiance or to proceed pending development of an actual shutdown.

Sporadic, unauthorized work stoppages, meantime, continued to spread. By the day's end, over 50 mines were closed and more than 28,000 miners had put down their tools.

The UMW committee virtually closed the door against consideration of its wage dispute by the WLB—the agency set up by the government to handle wartime labor issues—by the vigor of its language in a request that the government direct continued "collective bargaining without political limitation."

The committee made its request to Secretary of Labor Perkins. Speaking of the WLB, the letter said:

This board "wields the headsman's axe against the workers of the country. It has breached its agreement with labor when it publicly substituted political expediency for equity in the settlement of disputes.

"The board is malignant in its prejudice against the United Mine Workers of America and its members."

Asked To Recall Action

Miss Perkins had turned the case over to the board last week, saying it appeared that the long direct negotiations in New York were not making progress. The UMW asked her last night, in effect, to recall this action.

Presumably, the "political" reference was to the board's wage policies which are now a matter of direct order from President

Knox Warns Of Possibility Of Nuisance Raids

Bombers Continue To Pound Hard At Japs On Aleutians

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 27 — "Nuisance" air raids on the American coastal areas are a possibility, although a remote one, Secretary Knox said today, while the Navy reported 13 new American aerial attacks on a potential base for such raids, Kiska island in the Aleutians.

After being balked four days by bad weather, American Liberator and Mitchell bombers, accompanied by Warhawk and Lightning fighters, blasted at Kiska again and again Sunday, but poor visibility prevented an exact check on results.

Attu Also Pounded

The same day a flight of Liberators attacked Attu island, about 200 miles west of Kiska, scoring hits on the runway and other installations.

Naval Secretary Knox was asked at a press conference prior to issuance of today's communique whether the Japs might employ their bases in the western Aleutians for air raids on the American west coast. The secretary replied that there is "always a chance of nuisance raids anywhere at any time."

He minimized the danger of such raids but said that the Germans, for instance, might try a raid on the east coast, which would be a nuisance action for us and a suicide operation for their fliers.

He gave no details about what the Japanese might be able to accomplish by air operations from Kiska or Attu. If they operated directly from Kiska they would have about a 2,500-mile trip one way to reach the Pacific northwest. Objectives in Alaska, on the other hand, would be within practical operating range of their big planes.

The Japanese had been expected by American Army men in the Aleutians, according to dispatches from there, to try for completion of their air base on Kiska about this time of year.

Southwest Pacific

The situation in the southwest Pacific came up briefly at Knox's press conference when he was asked whether he had any information to bear out the latest reports from Australia that the Japanese were massing ships at Truk, big naval base north of the Solomons.

"I have nothing to substantiate that," Knox said, later clarifying this statement with the explanation that the enemy had of course been operating from Truk since the beginning of the war and even a normally large concentration of ships there would mean "nothing unusual."

Asked whether anything might break in the Pacific soon, Knox replied: "I don't know the Japanese plans and can't talk about ours."

Tunis Battle Crisis Nears

Allies Advance In Face Of Fierce German Opposition

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 27.—French troops have smashed to the outskirts of Pont Du Fahs, their high command announced tonight as the German defenses on the Tunisian bridgehead gave way slowly both at that key Axis supply base and in the Medjez-El-Bab area and front dispatches indicated that the critical stage of the great battle was near at hand.

Advancing in numerous sectors in the face of fierce opposition, Allied forces pushed the Axis line back to within 23 miles of Tunis and presumably were even closer to Biezerte.

Americans Fall Back

Ten miles west of Mateur, however, American infantry which attacked the Djebel El Azzog were forced to fall back under heavy counterattacks. But even these troops were able to occupy the Djebel El Ajred in the area south of Jefna, itself due west of Mateur.

French Goumiers, driving into Pont Du Fahs from the southwest, were reported continuing their pressure on the retreating enemy in mountain terrain strewn with land mines.

Other French forces along the Mediterranean in the north, who had been reported within six miles of Lake Achkel and about 23 miles from Bizerte, advanced another three miles toward the great naval base and captured prisoners and considerable material, the French command announced.

American forces in this area were advancing in the region west of Lake Achkel, which at its western shore is only 17 miles from Bizerte.

In the sector between Medjez-El-Bab and the Mediterranean, the Axis rear guard was reported falling back so rapidly before the thrusts of the American corps of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., that the enemy had no time to bury his dead.

Strongest In Sector

There, Patton's men were storming the strongest Axis elevated positions in the northern Tunisian sector—Green Hill and Bald Hill.

Along the center of the Tunis front, British First Army infantry had advanced 11 miles along the road from Medjez-el-Bab to Tebourba, reaching the Toum railroad station, 23 miles west of Tunis itself.

Since Sunday, Nazi forces have

Duisburg Is Left Carpet Of Fire

RAF Hits German Industrial Center

LONDON, April 27. (AP) — The RAF blasted Duisburg with approximately 1,350 tons of bombs in one of the heaviest raids of the war last night, the British announced tonight, leaving that great industrial and transport center of the German Ruhr a vast carpet of seething flames.

For 45 minutes, the air ministry news service disclosed, Britain's biggest bombers dumped an average of 30 tons of explosives and incendiaries every minute.

When the 600 or more black-winged British bombers turned home, smoke was spiralling two miles high from the mass of ruins which one pilot said looked like a great "Christmas tree."

Stiff Nazi Defense

The Germans put up one of their stiffest defenses of the city 12 miles west of pummeled Essen, and they claimed 17 of the raiders. It was the first large-scale raid in a week during which poor weather interrupted the nocturnal blows at Hitler's war potential. The last big raid was on Stettin and Rostock April 20.

But even allowing for the interruptions, the RAF has been delivering an unprecedented weight of bombs to chew up Hitler's arsenals, cities and communications lines.

The air ministry called the raid one of the "heaviest," putting it in a class with the 1,000-plane raid on Cologne a year ago when 1,500 tons of explosives were loosed. Improved bombers now pack a vastly larger load of destruction than those of last year. The communique said the raid was highly concentrated. It was the 59th attack on the city that lies at the confluence of the Rhine and Ruhr rivers.

Other Areas Pounded

The British mentioned only Duisburg, but the Berlin radio broadcast the German high command statement that several places in western Germany, including nearby Oberhausen and Muelheim, were targets.

The Canadian bomber group figured prominently in the attack on Duisburg, largest inland port in Europe.

British airmen also were busy closer to home today. Swooping out of the sun at near mast height over the channel, Whirlwind bombers and fighters bombed and machine-gunned enemy shipping, seriously damaging and probably sinking one medium-sized ship and sinking a converted yacht and barge. The air ministry said one enemy fighter was shot down.

Violent Attacks Loosed On Italy

LONDON, April 27. (AP) — The possibility that the Axis may be sending heavy aerial reinforcements to the Mediterranean battle theater, perhaps to combat an impending Allied invasion of southern Europe, was seen here tonight in the wake of violent American bombing attacks on Italy and nearby Italian islands.

U. S. Flying Fortresses, winging nearly 1,000 miles round trip from bases in North Africa, made their longest flight yesterday to bomb the Grosseto airfield 80 miles northwest of Rome, and American Liberators from the Middle East dropped 250,000 pounds of explosives on the Bari airdrome on Italy's southern Adratic coast.

"It is obvious they wouldn't be flying nearly a thousand miles just for the ride," informed quarters said.

"There must be something special there in the way of targets."

Air Power Stretched

With German air power stretched tightly by the American and British day-and-night offensives in western Europe and by rising Soviet strength in the skies over Russia, any major shifting of Axis planes southward would be fresh

RAIDS ON U. S. ASKED

(By The Associated Press)

An Italian general, smarting under the fierce aerial lambasting given Italy by American fliers, has called upon Hitler to launch Axis air attacks upon the United States, the German radio declared last night, shortly after unusually heavy U. S. raids on Italy were announced.

The time now has come to supplement submarine warfare with Axis and Japanese air attacks, and Hitler's "word that enemy attacks should be answered bomb-for-bomb should also be put in practice against the cities and factories of the United States," the general said. The broadcast, quoting a Rome publication, was recorded by the Associated Press. The signal faded at that point.

Bomber Pounds Two Jap Ships

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Wednesday, April 28. (AP) — An Allied Liberator bomber attacked two Japanese merchantmen in the Agafura sea yesterday, the high command announced.

A direct hit was scored on a 4,000-ton ship and near misses, which often are damaging, fell near the other.

In other raids, a Flying Fortress destroyed the wireless station at Gasmata, on the south shore of New Britain, and a Catalino exploded supply dumps at Finschhafen, on the Huon peninsula of New Guinea.

In Aroe Island Group

The Arafura sea action occurred 50 miles northwest of Dobo, in the Aroe group. The direct hit fell on the bow of the 4,000 tonner.

Elsewhere in the sector to the northwest of Australia, a four-engined Allied bomber raided the enemy base at Nabire, Dutch New Guinea.

The village of Watdek, on the Kai islands, was raided by a two-engined bomber.

Long range fighters poured cannon and machinegun fire on the village of Rebi on the Aroe islands.

Over Timor, medium bombers raided an enemy base near Beru and fought off Japanese planes which tried to intercept.

New Britain targets in addition to Gasmata included fuel dumps on the Willaumez peninsula and

The public relations office of the Fifth Ferrying group, announcing the trips as part of a whirlwind finish to the second war loan, said plans called for bond campaign chairmen to hold rallies in each town as the craft circled low.

Among cities on the itinerary the first day are Denton, Gainesville, Denison, Sherman, Sulphur Springs, Greenville and Paris. Those to be visited Friday include Longview, Gladewater, Kilgore, Henderson, Overton, Tyler, Athens, Waco, Corsicana, and Mexia, and Saturday: Mineral Wells, Cleburne, and Wichita Falls.

OWI Says There Might Be No Peace Parley At End Of War

CHICAGO, April 27. (AP)—Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, put forth a new theory today that there may not be any peace conference at the end of the war.

"If it comes to the unconditional surrender of our enemies," he said at a press conference in connection with the war conference of the National Association of Broadcasters.

"There are a lot of policies which may be worked out in practice instead of conference," he continued. "Nobody can see what the peace negotiations will be."

Davis' remarks were in reply to a question on whether the press and radio would be able to cover the expected peace conference.

Davis disclosed that the OWI now has evidence that "there is some short wave listening in Japan" whereas earlier in the war "we were not sure we had any listeners except the military."

"Now we know our story is being heard in Japan," he said. The "story" the OWI short waves, he explained, is that the Japanese "are going to be licked."

River Agencies Bill Approved

AUSTIN, April 27 (AP)—Legislation somewhat restricting the powers of river authorities—considerably softened since its introduction—was passed by the House today and sent to the Senate.

By a vote of 70 to 54 the House approved a bill which opponents asserted was an opening wedge to killing the water conservation programs and which proponents claimed would regulate only where regulation was needed.

Actually, the bill was a substitute or compromise for one introduced by Rep. Marshall Bell of San Antonio as a direct outgrowth of an investigation of certain state-created river agencies of which Texas has 50.

Generally, the bill brings these agencies—rural electrification cooperatives excluded—under closer state scrutiny.

House and Senate, facing crowded calendars for the remaining 12 days of the general session, considered many proposals.

Results included:

All-U.S. Convoy Reaches Russia

By GEORGE TUCKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOMEWHERE IN IRAN, April 27—The first convoy of American trucks loaded with war supplies for Russia has passed through the Persian corridor and delivered its cargo safely into Soviet hands after a journey of nearly 700 miles.

This all-American convoy was the vanguard of great fleets of trucks that will supplement rail and air service in the Persian Gulf service command's stupendous undertakings—to arm and provision Russian armies fighting along a 2,000 mile front.

The Studebaker trucks were manned by drivers from Texas, Oregon, Kentucky and Georgia. They bore steel, munitions and wheat from Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Minnesota.

The trip started on the Persian Gulf and ended on a snow-painted plateau in the Russian zone, in an atmosphere of booted Russian officers, droshkies, vodka and steaming samovars.

All Kinds Of Roads

To get there the convoy crawled across marshes and deserts. It dragged itself up the approaches to the Pushtikuh mountains. It wound around hairpin curves, dipped into valleys, and felt its way along canyons and through tunnels. It crept along ledges, looked down hundreds of feet into gorges where rivers lashed them-

Shallowater Flier Refers To Attack As 'Target Practice'

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 27. (U.P.)—Pilots of twin-engine Lightnings (P-38's) who put a Tunisia-bound convoy out of action in the Sicilian narrows yesterday called the attack "just uninterrupted target practice."

Lieut. Peyton S. Malthis of San Antonio, said that the Lightning formation got five hits.

"When we first sighted the convoy we flew right over them," he said. "We could see terrific confusion among the personnel. We had completely surprised them. The boys who were following me picked the targets carefully and did a fine job. Then we circled so we could see the results."

Second Lt. A. F. Reese, jr., of Shallowater, Texas, said the bombings were important because the vessels were carrying gasoline, oil and other supplies to Tunisia.

"The boats were strung out about 20 yards apart," Reese said. "At first, they paid no attention but when our first flight dropped bombs they saw we meant business and began scattering. The first one blew up and black smoke rolled up at least 1,000 feet."

Italy Gets Notice Of Impending Fate

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press War Analyst

American Liberators and Flying Fortresses have just reminded Benito Mussolini that every port of his dwindling Italian realm now is within range of the big four-motored messengers of destruction for which the Axis has no match. While the Fortresses flew Monday from one American base to scourge the airfield at Grosseto, 80 miles northwest of Rome, Liberators sprang from another to smash at Bari, on the Adriatic. The Allies now have bases within 800 miles of Italy's most distant frontier, that in the northeast above Trieste, and no part of the peninsula lies beyond reach of the big bombers.

Former Views Changed

When Mussolini decided that the fruitful time had come for him to enter the war, confident that he would share bountifully in a partitioning of the French empire and perhaps the British, too, he had every reason for confidence, it appeared, that the cities of Italy never would know the horrors of total war. With France on the verge of defeat and surrender, he felt justified in believing that soon the Mediterranean really would be Italy's mare nostrum, with all its shores in friendly or submissive hands except that distant Egyptian corner.

The RAF, hundreds of miles beyond the Alps, was not to be feared, even if it survived the coming test against Hitler's mighty air fleets. The danger of United States intervention could be dismissed lightly, and even if the Americans should enter the war where could they find a foothold from which to harm Italy?

Grievous Misjudgment

The plight of his country today, shuddering under the blows of air concentrations which daily grow in terrifying power, shows how grievously the builder of the modern Roman empire misread the world situation. It is less than three years since Il Duce made his fatal gamble but in that relatively short span the fortunes of Italy have tumbled with a dramatic completeness seldom matched in the history of nations. The empire of which Il Duce used to boast from his balcony is all gone except for a few islands which are unlikely to remain Italian long once the United Nations air and sea fleets begin in earnest the job of cleaning up the Mediterranean. That almost certainly is on the Casablanca schedule for this spring or summer. The once friendly shores of North Africa are alive with the bases from which the big bombers fly.

County's Annual Report Is Issued

Joe Y. Boyd, county auditor, has issued his seventh annual report of the financial condition of the county for the fiscal year beginning Jan. 1, 1942, and ending Dec. 31—39 pages carefully indexed and broken down into every informational facet deemed necessary to an overall picture.

The report, besides its columns of receipts and disbursements in every fund, lists the "official family" gives statistics on the growth of the county, breaks down the tax levy of 50 cents, carries a cash reconciliation statement, and gives information on bonds, warrants and interest paid, a statement of indebtedness, sinking fund requirements, assessed valuations and statements of securities owned.

Favorable Reaction

Addressed to judges of the 72nd, the 99th and the county commissioners courts, copies also went to Lubbock county and state libraries, Texas Technological college and to important bond houses and banks. Early reaction shows the latest report to be more complete even than others of the series.

Recapitulation of all funds showed an auditor's balance of $261,246.95 as of Jan. 1, 1942, receipts of $476,815.71, disbursements of $412,036.38, and an auditor's balance of $326,026.28 as of Dec. 31—funds that must be applied to run the county all this fiscal year.

Bonds, warrants and interest paid totaled $53,903.61, of which the county paid $14,353.61, the state $39,550.

Statement of indebtedness showed $651,000 outstanding, with the state participating 83.44 per cent of $498,000 of that amount, represented by road bond series B and C and road and bridge refunding warrants. It was shown that $16,967.44 cash on hand was held against principal and interest payments of the near future.

Assessed valuations showed a comparison over the years: Of $31,978,435 in 1942, of $29,892,318 in 1941, of $27,737,561 in 1940, of $26,117,174 in 1939, of $24,415,531 in 1938, and of $22,835,085 in 1937. The tax rate has remained stationary over that period, at 50 cents, and the per cent of collections current and delinquent never has run less than 94.52.

Statement of securities war bonds owned was broken down: $7,000 in the new courthouse sinking fund; $13,300 in the permanent school fund, $90,000 in the permanent improvement fund, and $1,000 in the insect fund (a new fund). All figures represent maturity, values, and total $111,300.

The financial house of the county is in order, the figures show. Approval of the report was given formally by county commissioners court.

Field Artillery Has Proved Worth, Says Sec. Stimson

FORT SILL, Okla., April 27 (U.P.) Field artillery has proved itself in the current campaign in north Africa, Secretary of War Henry Stimson said today after observing a two-hour mass firing demonstration by four battalions of field artillery at Fort Sill.

The secretary arrived here last night and left this morning. He has been touring army camps in southwestern states. The field artillery school here is the nation's largest.

Was Colonel

Stimson held the rank of colonel in the field artillery in World war 1. Asked if he considered field artillery an important part of our forces in this war, the secretary said:

"At first we had an idea that field artillery might not be important, but the results in north Africa have proven that we need the fire power of field artillery on the ground to accompany infantry and air attacks."

Stimson said he was "very glad" to learn that Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, commanding general of U. S. ground forces in north Africa, was recovering from an injury received at the battle front.

Mexicans May Buy U. S. Rationed Goods

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP) — Mexicans living within 20 kilometers (about 12 miles) of the Texas-Arizona-New Mexican borders now may buy rationed goods in this country.

The amended rationing regulations making Mexicans eligible to apply to the nearest rationing board or nearest customs office for ration certificates became effective yesterday.

Except for coffee and sugar, which were not included, Mexicans may purchase rationed foodstuffs, meats, canned fish, cheese, fats and oils and shoes on substantially the same basis as Americans.

The Office of Price administration, in amending the regulations, called attention to the fact that Mexico is furnishing many strategic and vital war materials to this country.

United States residents who shop in Mexico are permitted to bring rationed foods back across the border by surrendering ration stamps to customs offices.

Texas Tech Briefs

John E. Tomlin, who has been employed by the division of engineering at Tech to teach an engineering, science and management war training course in industrial safety engineering at Camp Wolters, has resigned to enter the armed forces, it was announced Tuesday by President Clifford B. Jones.

Instead of charging for admission to this year's presentation "The Seven Last Words of Christ," members of the college chorus made personal donations to purchase bonds amounting to $100 to present to Milam's orphanage, it has been announced by Dr. Julien Paul Blitz, head of the music department. In former years admission charged for the chorus went to the orphanage.

Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of the division of home econmics, will attend a meeting of the state executive committee of the Texas State Nutrition committee at Austin April 23-24.

A grazing experiment to determine the value of African love grass as a feeding grass is being conducted by the plant industry department. Three steers, owned by the animal husbandry department, have been placed on approximately one acre of the grass at the college farm to see if they keep it grazed down. After one month the animals will be weighed and their gains in weight will be recorded. This type of grass appears to have a great deal of promise for range land, Dr. A. W. Young, head of that department, stated.

Advice On Raising Baby Chicks Given

A brooder house 100 feet square should not house over 200 baby chicks, according to C. C. Jobson, county agent. Crowding opens the gate to diseases.

Raising chicks after getting them from the hatchery is a problem for every amateur, and for many experienced poultrymen as well. Proper spacing in the brooder house and disease prevention are important.

Sorehead (fowl pox) and coccidiosis levy a heavy toll against poultry and egg production. Both are preventable. Fowls may be vaccinated against fowl pox at a cost of about one-half a cent for each bird. Jobson said this is cheap and safe insurance. His advice is free.

Sanitation is the best preventive of coccidiosis. Feeders, watering places, and dry litter all should be kept clean, with emphasis on the word dry. Coccidia needs moisture in order to thrive. Stir the litter, move the feeders and water fountains to new locations in the house every day, and feed a little sulphur in the mash. Two and a half pounds to 100 pounds of unconditioned mash is about right. Chicks should be at least three weeks old and running in the sun before sulphur is fed them. It cannot be fed to chicks which are in batteries.

Allies Take Major Diplomatic Defeat

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The rupture of Polish-Russian diplomatic relations was realistically viewed today as a major defeat for President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill's diplomacy if for no other reason than it will comfort the Axis.

It came at a moment when Washington apparently was moving further to appease the Soviet Union with a major diplomatic rebuff to Finland—a state with which Russia is at war and the United States is at peace. There are unconfirmed rumors that the United States is about to break relations with the Finns.

Announcement Unexpected

The abrupt Moscow announcement that relations with the Polish government-in-exile in London had been broken came without an advance hint to Washington or to London. That lone-handed maneuver is in the pattern of recent Moscow actions which have jarred this capital from time to time. It might be interpreted as a hurry-up prod from Moscow for establishment of a second front and for Washington and London to recognize Moscow's post-war territorial claims as being exempt from the no-aggrandizement provisions of the Atlantic charter.

Reds Not Reproached

While the State department "regretted" the Polish-Russian break, some others thought it was grounds for even more emphatic expressions of diplomatic sorrow. Sen. Theodore F. Green, D., R. I., considered it "tragic" and other congressional commentators expressed misgivings.

But there seemed to be no immediate tendency to reproach the Russians. In general there was uneasiness over a break in the United Nations front and a tendency to charge the Germans with having smartly fostered Polish-Russian friction.

"I am inclined to take Russia's side in this matter," Sen. Arthur Capper, R., Kans., a member of the foreign relations committee told the United Press. "'Russia has done a good job and I am very sorry to see this break."

New Government Possible

The Polish-Russian break may lead to establishment of a new exiled Polish government, this time in Moscow. If so, Prime Minister Stalin easily could negotiate with it a settlement of one of his major post-war territorial claims involving eastern Poland. These claims have been set out in detail by the Communist press. They embrace an undisclosed but not necessarily large part of Finland; all of the three Baltic states which are Lithuania, Latvia and Esthonia; eastern Poland, comprising nearly half of that nation; and all of the Rumanian province of Bessarabia and part of the province of Bukowina.

That would considerably expand Russian borders beyond their limits of Sept. 1, 1939. The Russian thesis is that those areas would be absorbed without the territorial aggrandizement which is proscribed by the Atlantic charter, and Moscow is bidding for Washington's agreement that the charter terms do not cover the special circumstances involved. The Russians assert that those areas owe allegiance to Moscow because they were parts of czarist Russia or, briefly, of the new-born Soviet Union in 1918-19-20, or voted to become Soviet republics after they were invaded by the Red Armies in 1939-40.

Formal Russian announcement that eastern Poland would be taken over after the war would raise difficult problems for Washington since it would involve an interpretation of the Atlantic charter which the Roosevelt administration might be reluctant to make. And the issue is further complicated by the fact that there are considerable numbers of Americans of Polish extraction in the United States—a minority which would be heard and which, in some areas, would be potent at election time.

Stalin refused to meet Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill at the time of the Casablanca conference, asserting that he could not leave Russia during the winter offensive which he was conducting.

Situation Recognized

The Roosevelt-Churchill communique from Casablanca in effect recognized that situation and paid tribute to "the enormous weight of the war which Russia is successfully bearing along her whole land front." Stalin replied sharply within a fortnight in a statement commemorating Red army day:

"In view of the absence of a second front in Europe, the Red army alone is bearing the whole weight of the war."

His policy has been to return hard words for soft and to accept the Roosevelt-Churchill confidences while keeping his own counsel.

U.S. Airmen Are Given Awards

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, April 26. (Delayed) (AP)—Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, citing the members of a Liberator bomber today for destroying five Japanese Zeros in a single engagement, told them their enterprise and heroism in that action "is the margin of victory we expect to have over the Jap in the final showdown."

Kenney, commander of Allied air forces in the southwest Pacific, presented the Silver Star to Capt. Charles P. Whitlock, pilot of the bomber and a former college instructor from New Brunswick, N. J., Distinguished Flying Crosses were awarded to the other nine members of his crew.

Achieved Over Wewak

Their singlehanded success against the enemy was achieved over Wewak, Japanese base on the coast of New Guinea, April 24. Today they stood at stiff attention alongside a dusty revetment at an advanced American airfield to receive their medals and Kenney's praise.

Kenney said he awarded the highest medal to Whitlock because, as commander of the bomber, he made the decision which sent the plane on to complete its reconnaissance mission after the enemy interceptors had been driven off. With one engine of the Liberator knocked out in the combat, Whitlock could have turned back with good reason, the general pointed out.

The crewmen receiving the Flying Cross included Second Lt. George T. Maher, Laredo, Texas, bombardier.

All had their shirt collars open as they lined up to receive their decorations, but it was noted that each had his shoes shined.

Each year in the United States 93,000 teachers retire, marry or otherwise necessitate replacements.

Former Lubbock Man Succumbs At Denver

Death of A. B. Barrier, 51, former Lubbock resident, at his home in Denver, Colo., was reported to friends and relatives here Monday morning. Mr. Barrier died after an extended illness.

His wife, the former Mary Bellah of Lubbock, survives in addition to a sister, Mrs. Peter Bell of Denver; and six brothers, Paul of Roswell, N. M., and Lubbock; Raymond and Bob of Dallas, Mike of San Angelo, Crawford of Abilene and Mervin of San Diego, Calif. Mrs. G. C. Barrier, 1948 Avenue N, and Mrs. Clifton Barrier of east Lubbock, are sisters-in-law.

Mr. Barrier resided in Lubbock about 20 years ago. He had been ill for several years and he and Mrs. Barrier had spent from Dec. 1941 until April, 1942, here in the interest of his health.

Raymond Barrier and possibly Bob Barrier of Dallas plan to arrive here this afternoon en route to Denver for funeral services which are pending their arrival. They will be joined here by Mrs. Fred Higbee, a sister of the deceased man's wife, who will accompany them to Denver for the funeral.

Malta Discussed At Optimists' Meeting

Topography of the island of Malta and its people were discussed by C. S. Rice, former American vice consul on the island, in an address at the Lubbock Optimist club luncheon Tuesday in Lubbock hotel.

Rice is employed in the Lubbock district office of the Office of Price Administration.

Dr. H. H. Lanford and J. O. Cade were members of the program committee. O. W. McGuire, president, presided.

Plans were discussed for sending delegates to the district Optimist convention in Wichita Falls May 14-15.

Changes Foreseen For Menus In Restaurants

FORT WORTH, April 27. (AP)—Restaurant menus, undergoing changes due to wartime rationing are going to be changed even more when the boys overseas come marching home, Jay Caldwell of Austin told the State Restaurant Association of Texas here today.

"They'll come back from many foreign lands—China, Australia, India, North Africa," he said. "They will have eaten many dishes native to those lands. For many of them they will have cultivated a liking, and they are going to demand them when they get back home."

The back door of the restaurant is close to the firing line in the war, George Butler of Austin, regional WPB salvage director, told the association, because from it comes much of the grease that is the source of explosives for American guns and bombs.

Butler urged the restaurant men to save all their waste grease for glycerine-making purposes, instead of retaining part of it, as in the past, to make soap.

Five New Recruits For WAACS Secured Here

Five new recruits, two of them from Borger, came into the WAAC through the Lubbock Army recruiting office here this week.

Mrs. Loma A. Jones, Colorado City; Mrs. Edith Gay, Childress; Miss Betty Faye Comer, Amarillo, and Miss Bonnie E. Klaus and Mrs. Mary Louise Hood of Borger.

The West Texas district has fallen far behind and at present is in danger of trailing all the other districts in the state in the 1943 enrollment of WAAC's, it was said by Lt. Col. Marvin B. Durette, commanding officer of the district, located here.

"We cannot allow this blot on our record," he said, "it is unreasonable to think that the women of West Texas are of a less patriotic character than the women of North, South, and East Texas. We have a quarterly quota of 726 women to enlist by June 30."

WOMEN AND WORK

THAT was an interesting and educational talk Mrs. Alice McConnell gave at the First Christian church Monday night on the theme of educated women putting their minds to work and enlisting in essential industries or the armed forces auxiliaries but in a way it was similar to the times the preacher talks on sin—the ones who needed to know about it weren't present!

Many women are frank to admit they like staying at home and are not willing to face scorn from the male members of their household or resentment from male coworkers if they should go to work or enter one of the auxiliaries.

American women, accustomed to and liking freedom, luxuries, protection, have not realized we are in total war, Mrs. McConnell suggested. The women on England have worked out a perfect plan for cooperation in every phase and have taken their place by men's sides for so long that it is no longer considered an oddity. Such a picture may be as true in America, according to Mrs. McConnell. She predicts that 60 per cent of womanpower must be employed by the end of the year if production is to be stepped up enough to meet the demand.

We know several women, mostly teachers, who plan to go in defense work this summer, returning to the school room in the fall. This pleases Mrs. McConnell who expresses regret that so many teachers are forsaking their school rooms and entering fields that pay larger salaries.

One notices women taxi drivers and street car operators all over Dallas, Mrs. McConnell said. She said she was glad to note that women operated elevators at the Hilton hotel, because she realized each had relieved a young man or young woman for war or essential industry.

Mrs. McConnell is well known to Texas parent-teacher and federated study club convention goers since she holds offices in each state organization. She is a charming conversationalist, an appealing woman and she is thoroughly sold on her goal of influencing women to go all out for winning the war. Her husband is a captain in the Air Force and is stationed at Santa Ana. He formerly was superintendent of schools at Gladewater.

SOLIDER'S BOOK

A RECENT publication is "As You Were," an anthology of prose and poetry compiled by the late Alexander Woollcott, which was created primarily for our soldiers, sells for $2.50 and all profits will accrue to an appropriate war service fund. Although there are over 600 pages, it's said to be hardly an inch in thickness.

One critic said of it the selections have been so carefully made that he doesn't see how a better book for all tastes of mind could be compiled.

RELAXATION

FIFTEEN minutes' relaxation by yourself toward the end of the day may enable you to turn out work twice as fast the next morning. The question is, do you know how to relax?

Soft lights and music is the formula followed by a few women. Maybe you'd prefer to read, or work in the garden or knit. Whatever you choose, you'll find a daily 15-minute respite, alone, will step up your appearance and your efficiency.

Some good looking gals find they can work harder after they have taken time off to give themselves a facial. Others more easily discouraged, turn on the radio and let their faces go.

A friend told us recently she took an entire day off to catch up on mending, letter writing, reading and forgetting the world and its problems for a while. Although that schedule cannot be followed by all of us, none cannot find time for a few minutes of relaxation once in a while.

Sixty Per Cent Of Educated Women Must Enlist In War Needs, Says Speaker

At least 60 per cent of women in the United States between the ages of 18 and 65 must be employed in essential industries during 1943 if war production is to be stepped up and the acute labor shortage is to be solved, Mrs. Alice McConnell of Austin, who lectures under the Hogg foundation, told an audience at First Christian church Monday night in speaking on the subject, "Educated Minds Put Their Hands to Work."

Mrs. McConnell spoke at Texas Technological college Tuesday morning. Monday she was consulted by students at Senior High school. She will address the convention of the 14th district, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, in Plainview Thursday.

"Mobile women, those who have no children or dependents and are in non-essential industries, must realize they owe their country a duty the same as men do and to go to work or enlist in one of the armed forces auxiliaries," the speaker continued. "Some of these women will be able to accept jobs that are not vital to the war effort and release others who will go to work in factories or enlist in the auxiliaries."

Educated minds can find many tasks for their hands, the attractive speaker told her audience. War already has drained the specialists fields of manpower and women are being called on to serve as engineers, chemists, physicists, dietitians, nutrition experts, as mechanics, instructors and in many other phases.

The Home Is Important

Not every woman needs to leave home in order to serve her country in time of war, Mrs. McConnell pointed out. Those with children should accept that responsibility and unless it is necessary that they earn their livelihood concentrate on the physical, spiritual and moral growth of the young. Maintaining the home is a great builder of morale among men in the service. Our schools are the first line to stiffen, to keep as stable as possible, she said.

Many women are not personally interested in the problem of war needs because they prefer to stay at home and some of them fear public opinion, Mrs. McConnell said. There are some prejudices against employment of women that must be broken down in many cases and adjustments that must be made that seem too great to undertake. But these problems usually are satisfactorily worked out in a short time, she continued, giving bits of conversations she has had with Texas supervisors who are enthusiastic with the job thousands of women are doing in essential industries and in the auxiliaries.

"Women in England who had done no work more strenuous than pouring tea have found they can fill many jobs formerly done by men," Mrs. McConnell said in closing. "Every woman has a part to play, where she shall fit and what she shall do is up to her to decide."

JOAN WETMORE: chic hairdo

Change Your Type; Try A New Hair-Do

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

A new hair-do can do more for you than any other beauty device.

By the very way you style your coiffure, you can appear sophisticated, business-like, ultra-chic or pert and pretty.

Society's Mrs. W. Palmer Dixon—known to theatergoers as Joan Wetmore—finds the new off-the-collar style serves a double purpose in her many-sided life. It is perfect for her characterization of the sauve and very chic wife of Paul Muni in "Counsellor at Law," yet is neat enough for her before-theater activities as a nurse's aide and volunteer worker.

The secret of attaining the sleek look of Mrs. Dixon's upswept hair-do is cream pomade. Take just a bit on the tips of your fingers, smooth lightly on your back hair, brush it upward, and you won't ever be bothered with wisps.

CONSTIPATED? TRY THIS GENTLER HELP

If your constipation is caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet, and you have normal intestines, medicinal laxatives will give you only temporary relief. They will not get at the cause of such constipation and correct it.

Moreover, they work principally by working on you—stirring your intestines into action or drawing water into them from other parts of your body.

Try eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly. It works principally on the contents of the colon, getting at the cause of constipation due to lack of "bulk" and correcting it. Eat ALL-BRAN regularly, drink plenty of water and "Join the Regulars"!

Nelson Takes Rap On Gasoline Plan

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP)—WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson took personal responsibility today for overriding the War department and delaying the 100-octane gasoline program in order to complete 55 per cent of schedule projects for buna S rubber production. He said he acted last January to prevent "a bankruptcy on rubber" next fall that might invite " a terrific calamity for the United Nations."

Nelson said he made the decision in the face of Undersecretary of War Patterson's plea it would mean the loss of 18,000 planes and Petroleum Administrator Ickes' protest it would imperil the gasoline program.

Opening Of Inquiry

Nelson testified at the opening of an investigation by the Senate's Truman committee into the dispute between Patterson and Rubber Director William M. Jefferson over the critical materials needed for constructing plants for making high-octane gasoline on one hand and ingredients for synthetic rubber on the other. Chairman Truman (D-Mo) drew from Nelson that it was not until April, 1941, that the Army agreed to accumulate a stockpile of high-test gasoline.

"I think there was a failure at that time to anticipate anywhere near the present requirements for high octane gasoline," Nelson declared.

Deploring the Jeffers-Patterson dispute, Nelson declared, "I have both the machinery and authority to settle such controversies." Patterson's office fired the opening shot recently by asserting the preference granted rubber meant insufficient gasoline was being produced for fighting planes. Jeffers denied that the rubber program has lessened production of aviation fuel.

Asserting nothing could be accomplished by "stirring up personal rivalries," Nelson declared "any indulgence of that sort in time of war is completely out of place.

If the entire synthetic rubber program were halted today, he declared, production of 100 octane gasoline could not be increased at the present time since gasoline now going to military forces comes from plants built a year ago.

Sufficient gasoline is available to meet all immediate needs "if it can be got to the points where it is needed most," Nelson said, "and we are working now to expand its production by shifting component machinery parts from other programs, when it is possible to do so."

In the meantime, he added, the stockpile of crude rubber is diminishing rapidly and only the decision to go ahead with the synthetics program will prevent a "bankruptcy" on rubber in the fourth quarter.

Thirty different airplane models are produced for Great Britain by American factories.

Texas Traffic Deaths Decline

AUSTIN, April 27. (AP)—Texas' 267 motor vehicle traffic deaths for the first three months of 1943 were 30 per cent under the same period for 1942, the state department of public safety reported today.

Fatalities in accidents occurring on state highways decreased 52 per cent, county road accident fatalities decreased 15 per cent, but fatal accidents increased 26 per cent in cities and 16 per cent in towns.

Lubbock Record Unmarred

Galveston, Amarillo, Austin, Beaumont, Lubbock, Wichita Falls and Abilene had no fatal traffic accidents during the first three months of the year, the department reported in its survey of cities.

The fatality rating by cities follows:

1st 3 months-1943

Cities above 100,000 population:

	Deaths	Population Rate	Annual Rate 1942
Fort Worth	4	9.0	11.8
Dallas	6	8.1	10.2
Houston	12	12.5	12.5
San Antonio	20	31.5	15.8

Cities between 50,000 and 100,000 population:

Galveston	-	-	4.9
Amarillo	-	-	7.7
Austin	-	-	13.6
Beaumont	-	-	8.5
El Paso	2	8.3	17.6
Corpus Christi	3	20.9	17.3

Cities between 25,000 and 50,000 population:

Lubbock	-	-	-
Wichita Falls	-	-	8.9
Abilene	-	-	11.3
Laredo	3	30.6	10.2
Port Arthur	1	8.7	10.8
Tyler	2	28.3	3.5
San Angelo	2	31.0	7.8

The population rate is the number of deaths annually per 100,000 population and is computed on the assumption that fatalities will continue to occur during the remainder of the year at the same monthly average as they have for the period covered by this report.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 13 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

CASE HISTORY No. 827. A 13-year-old girl who had suffered with psoriasis for eight years. Face, ears, neck and almost every part of the body, was covered with scaly lesions. Hospitalization, serum injections external applications of many kinds had been tried, but the condition persisted. When she first visited a Chiropractor the child was a pitiable sight. The spine was X-rayed and a nerve blockage causing metabolic disfunction (chemical imbalance) was revealed. Adjustments were begun to release the nerves, and within a short time the lesions began to peel off and disappear. On her thirteenth birthday all trace of psoriasis had left the child's skin, with the exception of a few spots above the knees, and these last traces disappeared within a few days.

CASE HISTORY No. 542. A young man barely 18 years old who had been advised that his condition of epilepsy was incurable. Epileptic fits had grown in frequency since he was nine years old, and all efforts had failed to restore normal health. He visited a Chiropractor as "a last chance", and on April 7th the first spinal adjustments were begun. He has not had a single epileptic seizure since and has improved remarkably in health and outlook.

CASE HISTORY No. 38. A nine-year-old boy with a lengthy record of sickness. At age three his tonsils and adenoids had been removed. When three and a half he had kidney trouble. At the age of six he was suffering from rheumatismal edema and rheumatic fever. At seven he developed chorea, or St. Vitus Dance, which continued for a year and forced his removal from school. His mother was persuaded to take the boy to a Chiropractor. A spinal analysis revealed severe nerve pressure, apparently the result of an instrument birth, and adjustments were commenced. After several adjustments the boy was able to return to school with an appreciable gain in weight, and has been well ever since.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC? Chiropractic is based on the fact that the brain is the human power house. It creates vital energy. Without brain energy no organ or part of the body can function. Brain energy is transmitted over the body's network of nerves. These nerves radiate from the spine, and it is in the spine that the nerves can be "pinched" by vertebrae, and the flow of energy over them impeded or cut off. When, in this way, the connection is broken between brain and one or more parts of the body, disease is the inevitable result. By skillful analysis and precise spinal adjustments, the Chiropractor is able to locate and release impinged nerves, and restore an uninterrupted flow of brain energy to the part affected. Health follows naturally.

Five More Resign From City Faculty

The continued parade of employe resignations faced members of the board of trustees of Lubbock Independent School district in their regular monthly business session late yesterday, and five more faculty members withdrew from the system as a sixth secured a leave of absence until victory.

Employes whose resignations were accepted were Mmes. E. Waldo Trotter and C. B. Croson, of Senior High; Mrs. Jay Gordon, Junior High; Miss Joyce Craven, and Charles Senning, both of Dupre. Of this group three were regular teachers, Senning was a part-time band instructor and Mrs. Croson an office worker.

Leave of absence was granted Miss Margaret Henderson, of Senior High. She is entering the women's branch of the Marine corps.

New Teachers Employed

Mrs. Dorothy McGregor was employed to teach next year in Senior High; Miss Thelma Davidson was granted a contract for 1943-44 at Bean school, and similar contracts were given Mrs. Pauline Patterson at Hunt, and to Kenneth McKinnon for Junior High. McKinnon currently is a principal at Slaton. Also employed for the remainder of the current yaer at Junior High was Mrs. W. I. Pittman.

The board approved a plan to add to the curriculum a course covering diversified occupations, with G. E. Dawson, present teacher of mechanical drawing at Senior High, as co-ordinator. Dawson's pay will come 85 per cent from the federal government during the first year of the program; 75 per cent thereafter. The diversified occupations program added at the request of the government, will teach high school boys and girls all types of mechanical work and fit them for posts in industries of all kinds.

Acting Supt. R. W. Matthews proposed the annual summer school faculty and his proposal was approved by the board. The summer faculty will be:

Senior High: Misses Linicel Hilliard, Christeene Peak, Aline McCarty and Mattie Clark; Messrs. C. C. Cox and Rogers Orr.

Junior High: Miss Eula McCorkle and Mrs. Ray Brown.

Elementary: Mmes. Ruth Carter, Iris Berkholm, Lois Hale, Reuby Rhodes and Mrs. Josephine Ballenger, should she be needed. G. N. Atkinson was named custodian of books for the summer school, Mrs. E. M. Lovelace will be librarian.

State Meet Trip Approved

The board approved sending Senior High school students eligible to compete in athletic and literary contests in the state meet to Austin in mid-May. Approximately 15 persons will make the trip, including three teachers.

Rev. J. P. Donegan, pastor of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, appeared before the board and asked permission for his church to sponsor Catholic Bible courses in the Junior and Senior High schools next year. He said a similar right had been granted Protestants, therefore should be granted Catholics. The board explained that Bible courses approved last month will be non-denominational; and showed Rev. Mr. Donegan a regulation of the State Board of Education prohibiting the teaching of denominational Bible in Texas public schools. A later motion was passed that the board take Mr. Donegan's request for Catholic Bible teaching, along with a second request—that using a public school building for teaching of the Catholic religion in after school hours in the Mexican section under advisement.

Walter G. Alderson, vice president of the board, presided in absence of Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president. Present at the meeting were Trustees H. L. Allen, E. J. Parsons, R. F. Bayless, Paul Hardwick and Chas. A. Guy. Also present were Business Manager A. C. Jackson and Acting Superintendent Matthews.

struction built by the United States and Great Britain."

Then at a press conference on Friday, Secretary Knox challenged both the one million ton per month loss rate and the conclusion of the committee that losses had exceeded construction.

Knox said the committee apparently tried to compare deadweight tonnage in which construction is figure with gross tonnages in which sinkings are reported. He declined to reveal the actual sinking figures.

Said Building Exceeded Losses

The secretary did say, however, that there was an excess of merchant ship construction over losses.

Subsequently Knox and Brewster met to discover if possible where the differences in their conclusions might be.

The Navy did not say so specifically but the secretary had indicated at his press conference Friday that known construction for Allied merchant shipping in 1942 included American, British and Canadian output. What nations were not included was not then indicated and was not disclosed today.

It was impossible to say to what extent the unreported new construction in 1942 would compensate for the net loss reported on the basis of known new construction.

evidence of Hitler's determination to hold on in Africa to the last possible moment, regardless of the cost.

Besides the attacks on Grosseto and Bari, hitting a new set of targets between Rome and the bomb-scarred industrial cities of northern Italy, allied planes from Malta and Tunisia struck anew in fire-setting raids on Sicily and Tunisia.

An Italian broadcast listed 74 persons killed and 277 wounded at Grosseto; 10 killed and 12 injured at Augusta, Sicily; 10 killed and 16 injured at Bari and San Antioco; and 18 injured at Cagliari, on the southern coast of Sarlinia.

Agreements Said Taboo At Parley

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP)—The State department said the United Nations food conference will discuss a wide scope of problems in an effort to improve the world's nutrition and agricultural prosperity — but will make no commitments or agreements.

In announcing the conference agenda, the department said the meeting will seek only to narrow the issues and determine whether recommendations can be made toward solving some of the problems. It observed:

"It (the agenda) recognizes that in the past excessive accumulations of certain products were in fact not surpluses at all when measured by the world's needs of food and clothing; that these so-called surpluses were usually the result of maldistribution and under-consumption. It then seeks to ascertain the prospects for so organizing world agricultural production as to enable the satisfaction of these needs and to explore the measures, both domestic and international, by which production can be enhanced and better directed in terms of consumption.

To Move Production

"Finally, it examines the measures and conditions which are necessary to assure that what can be produced moves into consumption."

Judge Marvin Jones, former chairman of the House Agriculture committees, heads the United States delegation to the conference, which opens May 18 at Hot Springs, Va. Forty-two nations have been invited and were consulted on the agenda. Officials said the sessions probably will last three weeks.

Topics for discussion were segregated under three headings—consumption, production and distribution.

Coal Mine Strikes

Roosevelt. The cornerstone of these, the "Little Steel" formula, allows a wage increase of up to 15 per cent above the level of Jan. 1, 1941. The miners, however, received an increase in excess of this last year and are now demanding $2 a day more.

Stoppage May Be General

With the UMW committee having ruled out submission of the issue to the WLB, it appeared the probability of a general work stoppage this coming week-end had greatly increased.

John L. Lewis, the UMW chieftain, said in talking with reporters in New York:

"As matters stand, there will be no contract April 30. The mine workers will not trespass on mine property in the absence of a contract."

A temporary arrangement with the operators expires Friday midnight.

It was generally believed in Washington that the government would act swiftly if a general work stoppage did develop.

What action the government might take would be up to President Roosevelt and no one professed to know what he might do.

A general strike, involving 600,000 miners, would have a quick effect on war production since coal is the primary source of energy for many plants. Steel sources in Pittsburgh estimated coal reserves would last only two weeks to a month.

Miners Ready To Quit

From coal sections came indications that thousands of miners, despite an appeal from the WLB for full production, were ready to quit work if union leaders gave the word.

In coal field after coal field, local union officials predicted there would be no work Saturday unless some solution satisfactory to the miners is worked out.

Directly involved in the current wage issue are the Appalachian fields including mines in Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, eastern Kentucky and Tennessee which employ about 450,000 miners.

Lewis is demanding a $2 increase in the basic daily wage, a minimum of $8 a day, pay for underground travel and unionization of minor bosses.

Others Also At Stake

The Appalachian contract ordinarily determines also the wage structure in so-called "outlying districts" including Alabama, Illinois and Western Kentucky, and employing about 150,000 additional miners. This connection was illustrated by the spreading work stoppage yesterday in Alabama.

About 7,500 miners were reported out in Alabama, 17,000 in Pennsylvania and over 4,000 in Kentucky. Reports from these sections said there was little picketing—that it was simply a case of the miners quitting. More than 50 mines were shut down.

A general rule of thumb on production is six tons a day for each miner. On this basis, production presumably has already been cut 170,000 tons a day.

In Switzerland, foreign military uniforms cannot be worn without permission.

Blockbusters are raining on Nazis Europe by the thousands of tons as RAF and planes of the U. S. Army Air Forces intensify their round-the-clock raids. Chart compares bomb tonnage dropped in first three months of 1943 with the biggest single night RAF raid and with a typical month of U. S. bomb production.

Mary And Leota, Of The Keys Quads, Quit Teaching To Become Army Camp Hostesses

HOLLIS, Okla., April 27 (U.P.)—Mary and Leota Keys—half of the famous Keys quadruplets — have resigned their teaching jobs and become hostesses at Camp Hood, Tex.

Mary was in her third year as an Edmond Junior High school teacher and Leota was teaching at Britton when they decided to turn their volunteer U. S. O. activities into full-time careers for the duration.

Enjoying Work

The Keys girls had devoted much of their spare time as volunteer hostesses at Will Rogers field, Oklahoma City, for several months.

They have assumed their duties at Camp Hood, and their friends in Hollis, where they were reared, this week received letters saying they were "having the times of their livs."

The Keys quads were graduated from Baylor university, Waco, Tex., in 1937. It was from there that they went with Pat Neff, Baylor president, to Callander, Canada, to visit the Dionne quintuplets and invite the five little sisters to the Texas centennial celebration.

The other half of the "quads," as they are known to their friends, are married. Mona, now Mrs. Robert Fowler, lives in Oklahoma City and Roberta, now Mrs. Roland Torn, resides in Kansas City. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Flake Keys, live in Oklahoma City.

American Flying Fortresses also gave Italy a frightening glimpse into the future by pouring high explosives and fragmentation bombs on Axis airfields within 90 miles of Rome.

A big bomber on reconnaissance along the north coast of New Guinea strafed a Japanese coastal ship near Wewak, attacked the township of Marienberg and barges at Alexishafen.

At Lae, heavy bombers struck at the airdrome. In the same vicinity, long range fighters flew low for 15 times to strike at Labu lagoon where the enemy is known to conceal barges.

At Mubo, where Allied ground troops occupy hill tops overlooking the village and air strip, attack planes bombed and strafed Japanese positions. Mubo is 12 miles south of Salamaua.

The aerial action was heavier than that earlier in the week, due to an improvement in weather conditions.

Death Of Anti-Nazi Leader Is Disclosed

BERN, Switzerland, April 27. (AP)—The death of Col. Gen. Baron Kurt von Hammerstein-Equord, a leading anti-Nazi and commander in chief of the German Army until Hitler replaced him with Col. Gen. Werner von Fritsch in 1934, was disclosed here.

The only reference to his death in the Nazi press was a notice by his family in the Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung that the soldier of the last World war died April 24.

Former Promoter Held For Theft By Fraud

HOUSTON, April 27 (U.P.)—O. R. Seagraves, who built a utility empire then sold it, is being held by Sheriff Ira Heard of Refugio county on a theft by fraud charge, it was learned here today after the former Houston multi-millionaire promoter and oil operator was arrested here in a downtown hotel.

Detectives Emmett Bailey, J. D. Walters and Bob Martin of the Houston police department arrested Seagraves, co-founder and developer of the Houston Gulf Gas Co., on a capias from Refugio county.

While he was held at police station here for Sheriff Heard, sheriff's and constable's deputies served citations in civil suits on Seagraves.

"He told the men who arrested him that this trouble grew out of a post-dated check for $5,000," said Detective B. E. Williams.

"He said the check had something to do with a loan for $100,000 which he arranged from Galveston capitalists for some Southwest Texas drilling contractors. I think he said it was his commission for making the loan."

Sheriff Heard accepted his prisoner yesterday about 7:30 p. m. and told police officials he intended to return immediately to Refugio.

However, the jailer in Refugio said Seagraves had not been admitted to his jail at noon.

Plans Complete For Exchange Of Plants

Popular interest in the plant exchange, arranged for today by the Lubbock Garden club, 1509 Ave. Q, has presented the question: "What plants may be exchanged," along with the answer.

Yesterday, C. D. McGehee, city parks superintendent, came up with a list of 17 plants which may be exchanged and transplanted at this time of the year. The list includes: Phlox, petunias, periwinkles, verbenas, cannas, dahlias, chrysanthemums, asters, ageratums, salvia, sweet williams, hollyhocks, zinnias, scariosa, violets and shasta daisies.

Mrs. M. G. Bowles is chairman of the distribution committee for the club's exchange which will be operated from 9 a. m. until 5:30 p. m. Mrs. L. S. Mast is president of the club and has arranged the project.

Anyone having plants or wishing plants to exchange may call at the Avenue Q location any time during the above hours Wednesday. Those having plants dug may call the chamber of commerce and a truck will come and pick them up and carry them to the exchange.

The Parent-Teacher association and four other garden clubs are assisting the Lubbock Garden club in conducting the exchange.

selves against rocks hidden since the days of Parthian kings.

I rode every step of the way in the cabs of the big trucks.

The convoy got underway late one afternoon near one of the hottest places in the world. The convoy leader, Captain C. B. Butler of Kenilworth, Ill., was in shirt sleeves as he climbed into his jeep.

The only thing cramped about the big 12-wheel trucks is the cab where the driver sits, and I had to squeeze myself between the sleeping gear and the rifle next to my driver, a tall, bayou-voiced negro of 24, D. Morris Burrell of Monroe, La.

OPA To Set Up Whisky Margins

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—OPA intends to fix gross profit margins for wholesale and retail whisky dealers and set flat prices for "new" brands of liquors, it made known here, as part of a camp aign against what officials called a "black market" in diminishing supplies of beverage spirits.

J. K. Galbraith, deputy price administrator, said criminal actions are contemplated against "any large operators who are found to have purchased bulk whisky at prices in excess of ceilings," and "treble damage suits" against the sellers.

Monopoly Attempted

Galbraith related OPA's plans in a letter to Rep. May (D-Ky) who had complained in the House last week that "the liquor trust" was attempting to gain a monopoly on whisky.

May asserted companies he described as the industry's 'big four" were buying up small distilleries in Kentucky and using Bourbon supplies thus acquired to make "blended whisky"—combining aged whisky with neutral spirits. This practice, May asserted, netted enormous profits. He named the "big four" as McKesson & Robbins, National Distillery, American Distillery and Schenley.

Gailbraith wrote May that about 80 per cent of all available bulk whisky is owned by major companies and a "scramble" has developed for the other 20 per cent, leading in some cases to payment of prices in excess of ceilings.

National Asks Bids On Houston L&P Co.

NEW YORK, April 27. (AP) — National Power and Light Co., a part of the Electric Bond and Share system, asked today for bids to be opened May 10 on the remainder of its holdings of Houston Light and Power Co., which consists of 242,664 shares of common stock.

The request for bids resulted from an order of the Securities and Exchange commission in approving sale of the stock as a step in the liquidation program of National.

National said it would use the cash from the sale of the Houston shares toward retirement of $15,000,000 of its own preferred stock now in the hands of the public.

Decision Delayed On Pecos Water Division

SANTA FE, N. M., April 27. (AP) — State Engineer Tom McClure has expressed the opinion that negotiations for an agreement on division of Pecos river water between Texas and New Mexico probably would wait until late summer.

He said that Texas had asked for two months to study the Pecos water survey made by the National Resources Planning board, and that another meeting of the Pecos River Compact commission would be unlikely until Texas signifies it is ready.

Auto And Bicycle Quotas Announced

DENVER, April 27. (AP) — The OPA announced may quotas for new passenger cars and new bicycles to be released in the Rocky Mountain states. The car quotas are slightly larger than in April. Bicycle allotments are unchanged.

Car quotas: New Mexico 153 and 21.

Bicycle quotas: New Mexico 292 and 97.

Varsity Show To Be Presented Tonight

With a number of songs showing brilliant originality on the part of students of Texas Technological college who composed them, the third annual college Varsity show gave all indications at the dress rehearsal Tuesday night of being a tremendous success.

The show, with a cast of 70 students, will be presented for the first time tonight at 8:15 o'clock in Senior High school auditorium, and again Thursday night at the same time.

Scenes depicting the activities of Nazi spies provide the humorous touch, and the redhot jitterbug numbers are enough to raise the roof.

The show, completely original with students of Tech, is based on an original script by Charles Wiley, Mert Starnes and Robert Dorough. Hugh English is general director.

James Williams, senior music student, will take the place of Charles Senning, who has been called to active duty with the armed forces, as orchestra director.

Tickets are now on sale for 50 cents and 75 cents. Norman Igo is in charge of ticket sales.

Battle Flares Anew On Leningrad Front

LONDON, Wednesday, April 27. (AP)—A new spurt of fighting on the long-idle front south of Leningrad was reported by Moscow today soon after German radio accounts suggested Soviet capture of the important pivotal base of Novogorod.

The Russian midnight communique, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, said Russian gunners destroyed six German guns, silenced two mortar batteries and demolished 10 blockhouses and dugouts yesterday on the Volkov front. Volkov is midway between Leningrad and Novogorod.

In the same general area on Monday, numerically superior German forces broke through and captured a Russian town, but were thrown back by a Russian counterattack before they could consolidate their new position.

Manslaughter Counts On Trio Dismissed

WILLCOX, Ariz., April 27 (AP)—Charges of manslaughter against two men and a woman in connection with the highway death of Erma Mae Vanderpool, 19, Prestonsburg, Ky., hitch hiker, were dismissed by Justice of the Peace A. E. Keeth after a preliminary hearing here today.

Defendants were Paul W. Miller, driver of a truck towing a trailer from which the girl fell to her death; Russell Mandel and Fay Kilbury.

Keeth said the charge was dismissed because no evidence was presented to indicate carelessness or malicious intent. I. V. Pruitt, Cochise county sheriff, testified that after a thorough investigation he concluded the girl's death was accidental. Her body was found on the highway six miles west of here March 27, and the defendants were arrested that night. The girl joined the group at Amarillo, Tex., officers learned.

Planning Board Sets Up Big Post-War Job

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP)—The National Resources Planing board said tonight that $7,695,000,000 in federal funds could be spent after the war on construction and improvement work for which plans have been completed or could be made if the money is assured.

The projects, the report said, constitute a potentially available "backlog" of work which could be undertaken upon the cessation of hostilities to provide employment while the transition is being made from war-goods to civilian-goods production.

The backlog was itemized thus:

1. Those involved in surveys authorized or already undertaken by various agencies, but "not immediately available for construction," $1,350,000,000.

2. Those proposed by federal agencies but not yet authorized by Congress and hence unlikely to be backed by detailed plans making them "available for construction in the immediate post-war period unless authorization is forthcoming, $3,378,000,000.

3. "Authorized projects or those requiring only presidential authorization," including some projects already begun which will require additional work after June 30, 1944, $2,966,661,916.

Brooklyn Continues To Set Pace; Bucs Down Cincinnati

ST. LOUIS, April 27. (AP)—The World Champion Cardinals found their batting eyes at home in Sportsman's park today and, despite the dead ball, hammered out a 7-0 victory for Morton Cooper over the Chicago Cubs.

Opening the National league season at home before 6,994 cash customers, the Cardinals drove Paul Derringer from the box in a first-inning rally that yielded five runs, two more than they scored in 39 innings at Cincinnati.

"Don't Blame Ball"

The contrast between the work of Derringer and Cooper, who gave up only five hits, proved Manager Billy Southworth's contention that the balata ball alone was not responsible for the low scoring in the major leagues.

"Don't overlook the pitching angle," he suggested. "Some pitchers when they're right can hold you to a few hits and shut you out with any kind of a ball. Don't blame the ball."

ST. LOUIS ---------- 501 001 00x—7 12 0

Summary: Two-base hits—Musial, Dallessandro, Nicholson. Left on bases — Chicago 5; St. Louis 8. Bases on ball — Derringer 1, Fleming 2, Cooper 1. Strikeouts—Fleming 3, Cooper 3. Losing pitcher —Derringer.

PHILS WIN RACE, THEN DROP GAME

PHILADELPHIA, April 27. (AP)—The track-minded Phillies won the foot race, but lost their home opening ball game to the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-2, before 4,291 at Shibe park today.

The foot race—termed an Australian pursuit race by the youthful 33-year-old Phils' owner, William D. Cox—was part of the pre-game ceremonies dampened by inclement weather. To track fans it was more like a Penn Relay race.

It went this way: A Dodger started at second base and a Phil player at home. Each tore around the bases and passed a baton to the next member of his team. After eight players had circled the sacks the Phils were adjudged to farther ahead and hence the winner.

But once the umpires called "play ball" it was a different story, although the Phils chased Whitlow Wyatt to the showers in the seventh and were in the game until the last out.

BROOKLYN ---------- 011 100 001—4 8 4

BUCS BEST REDS

PITTSBURGH, April 27. (AP)—A three-run rally in the eighth gave Pittsburgh a 4-1 victory over Cincinnati today before an opening day crowd of 11,937 at Forbes field. Up until the spurt it was a hurling duel between Pittsburgh's Bob Klinger and the Reds' Ray Starr.

CINCINNATI ---------- 000 000 100—1 8 0
PITTSBURGH ---------- 000 000 13x—4 10 0

GIANTS WHIP BRAVES

NEW YORK, April 27. (AP)—The New York Giants battered the Boston Braves 11-3 today with the help of a supply of last year's balls. Rookie Sid Gordon drove in five runs, three on a homer, to please 6,110 fans at the Polo grounds opener. Joe Burns also homered for the Braves.

BOSTON ---------- 001 010 100—3 10 3

Ortiz Risks Crown At Fort Worth Tonight

FORT WORTH, April 27. (AP)—A crowd of about 3,500 is expected to pay something like $10,000 to see Fort Worth's first and Texas' second world championship boxing match at Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum tomorrow night when Manuel Ortiz defends his bantamweight title against Lupe Cordoza in a scheduled 15-round bout.

Roger Neely, who is directing the show for the sponsoring four Lions clubs of the city, reported today that more than $6,000 worth of tickets had been sold.

"An unexpected late rush for seats could easily carry us over the $10,000 mark," says Neely, "but that amount will turn a neat sum for the Fort Worth Lighthouse for the Blind, the charity which is to get all the net profits."

Now It Looks Like A Two-Hoss Affair—

Ocean Wave Scores Decisive Triumph In Derby Preview

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, April 27.—Ocean Wave rolled around Churchill Downs' muddy racing strip like the Johnstown flood today—aind for the first time even the mighty Count Fleet was threatened by the undertow.

Hitting as hard as his stablemate Whirlaway in Warren Wright's barn, the chestnut Wave ran off and hid from a dozen others to take the Derby Trial Stakes by nine big lengths and establish himself as something more than the best of the second place set for Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

The Wave put the crusher on such other Derby hopefuls as J. Graham Brown's Seven Hearts, Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' No Wrinkles and Eddie (Rochester) Anderson's Burnt Cork.

Count Is Impressive

At the same time, he gave the boys and girls something to think about, despite a whizzing workout workout by Count Fleet earlier in the day.

The Count took the track between races before the estimated crowd of 8,000 and zipped through the mud for a mile and an eighth in 1:53 2/5 and the full Derby mile and a quarter in 2:07.

But the Wave put on an even better show than the top glamour boy, as he came from way back in the mile long Trial to hit the wire in 1:38 1/5.

Back of him, only a scant few of the gee-gees appeared to be worth more than a couple of minutes' thought in Derby consideration. Slide Rule and Twoses, W. E. Boeing's four-legged bombers, closed box-car lengths of ground to finish second and fifth.

COUNT FLEET
. . . may have competition.

Heavy Scoring Marks School Softball Play

The hitters had their day yesterday in the elementary school softball league as Dupre, Wilson and Hunt schools eked out narrow triumphs in high-scoring battles.

Dupre, one of the circuit's co-leaders, outlasted K. Carter, 20-17, for its third successive victory. Billy Tatum and Owen Hamilton hurled for Dupre, while D. L. Nickelson pitched for the losers.

Hunt decisioned Central Ward by a 15-11 count, with J. B. Hullum as the winning pitcher. Carrol Nichols was Central Ward's pitcher.

Wilson, with Marlin Smith, Jr., pitching, defeated Sanders 24-20 in another slugfest. G. R. Matheny was the losing twirler.

Bean, the other member of the seven-team loop, drew a third-round bye.

The remaining games on the round robin schedule are:

April 29—Dupre at Sanders; Central Ward at K. Carter; Wilson at Bean; Hunt, bye.

May 4—Bean at Dupre; Wilson, bye; K. Carter at Hunt; Sanders at Central Ward.

May 6—Wilson at Dupre; K. Carter, bye; Hunt at Sanders; Central Ward at Bean.

May 11—Dupre, bye; Sanders K. Carter; Central Ward at Wilson; Bean at Hunt.

Pep Outpoints Wilson In Non-Title Tussle

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 27. (U.P.)—Wee Willie Pep, world feather-weight champion, turned on a devastating combination of speed and power in the last four rounds last night to hammer out a decisive 12-round victory over Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson in a non-title bout before 7,500 fans.

The champion scaled 128; Wilson, 129.

BLUE SWORDS DRILLS

LOUISVILLE, Aril 27. (AP) — Allen T. Simmons' Blue Swords turned in the fastest mile and one eighth workout of the pre-derby season at Churchill Downs today, running that distance in 1:53 and then galloping out the Kentucky Derby route of a mile and a quarter in 2:08.

Hughson Registers Second Victory As Red Sox Win, 5-1

BOSTON, April 27 (AP) — The Boston Red Sox opened their Fenway park season successfully today by stopping the hitherto unbeaten New York Yankees, 5-1.

But it was a confusing game the 6,895 paying customers saw after Governor Leverett Saltonstall, a southpaw, had tossed out the first ball.

The American league champions made 12 hits, yet might have been shut out by Tex Hughson except for a three-base error by Rookie Centerfielder Fred Garrison in the ninth.

Russo Wild

On the other hand the Red Sox were held to six safeties, but used them to make four runs before lefty Marius Russo was lifted in the sixth.

Russo, who had a lame arm last season and was making his first start since August, was wild and gave seven walks and hit a batter during his stay on the mound.

CHICAGO, April 27 (AP)—Combining three doubles with an error for all their runs in the seventh inning, Cleveland's Indians defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-2 before 4,177 in the Chicago American league opener today. Manager Lou Boudreau and Otto Denning each made two doubles for the Tribe.

A's COP MARATHON

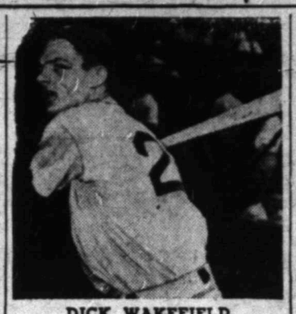

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics pushed over two runs in the sixteenth inning, then nipped a Washington rally to defeat the Senators 2-1 today. Rookie Jesse Flores went 15 and 2-3 innings and was credited with the win.

DICK WAKEFIELD
. . . not "shooting par."

Wakefield's Slow Start At Plate Isn't Worrying Detroit Tiger Manager

DETROIT, April 27. (AP)—Young Mr. Moneybags, Dick Wakefield, is batting a slim .190 after five American league games, but the Detroit Tigers contend with some warmth that he definitely isn't going to be the prime bust of 1943.

For a young man so well drilled in higher mathematics (he got $52,000 for his signature two years ago), the 21-year-old rookie outfielder shouldn't feel at home among the banjo hitters, whose numbers are legion this year because of the balata ball.

But his manager, Steve O'Neill, is thoroughly convinced that Wakefield won't stay down very long.

Hit Well At Cleveland

"Dick hit the ball well at Cleveland even though he got only four hits in five games," declared O'Neill today as he while away time with his players following postponement of Detroit's home opener with the St. Louis Browns.

"I said before the season that Wakefield would be in the first 10 hitters, and I haven't seen anything yet that would make me change my mind. Sure, he's under the .200 mark, but who isn't? At that he's not far under our team average, which is a measly .215."

Largely because of his economic background, although he won the Texas league batting championship in 1942 with a .345 mark and gained the most valuable award, Wakefield is perhaps the most closely watched rookie in the majors this season.

The present Eddystone lighthouse, fourth to mark the treacherous reef in the English channel, was completed in 1882.

Local Baseball Season Gets Under Way This Week-End

Like Easter, it's coming a little later than usual this year, but the familiar cry of "Play ball" will sound again in Lubbock as the two local Army flying school baseball teams open an eight-game summer series with single contests Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The first game of the week-end set will be played Saturday afternoon at South Plains Army Flying school for the benefit of the soldiers there, starting at 2 o'clock.

Sunday afternoon the scene of action shifts to Hubber park, where the SPAFS crew again meets Lubbock Army Flying school, with the same starting time—2 o'clock.

Expect Good Crowd

Since the West Texas-New Mexico league has folded for the duration and no local semi-pro clubs have been organized, the two local air bases will provide all the diamond competition for local baseball fans this summer, and a large crowd is expected for Sunday's opener.

Thus far, little is known of the strength of either the LAFS or SPAFS baseball squads. Both, however, have engaged in daily practice sessions for almost a month and promise to be ready for the opening of the red-hot rivalry.

S-Sgt. Spencer Skogstad, who last season managed the LAFS crew, is now pilot of the South Plains aggregation, while the LAFS nine is now under the direction of Sgt. West, the former big leaguer. Assisting West with his LAFS managing duties is Sgt. J. G. "Goober" Keyes, ex-Lubbock High coach.

SPAFS Cards 34 Games

West, who will be playing manager of the Fliers, is the only major league star on either squad, but both boast many players with ample semi-pro and minor league experience.

This week-end's games will be the first of a 34-game schedule for the SPAFS team. LAFS has not yet announced its complete summer slate, other than the eight games with South Plains' team.

The second series in the LAFS-SPAFS rivalry will be played June 5-.

Braves Send Lombardi To New York Giants

BOSTON, April 27. (AP) — A straight player deal that sends Catcher Ernie Lombardi, the National league's 35-year-old batting champion, to the New York Giants in exchange for Catcher Hugh Poland and Infielder Connie Ryan was reported tonight by the Boston Braves.

The trade, said Secretary John Quinn, will give the Braves some much needed infielder strength. Ryan, for whom the Giants paid $40,000 to the Atlanta Southern association club in 1941, played second base for Jersey City last season. He is 23 and, like the 30-year-old Poland, is married and has one child. Poland was the first-string catcher for the Columbus American association club in 1941 and the Giants' Jersey City farm team in 1942.

Raiders Shorten Spring Training

Morganmen To End Workouts Friday

Like most other Southwestern colleges, Texas Tech will cut short its spring training football program.

Coach Dell Morgan, in announcing the curtailment yesterday, said that current gridiron drills will come to a close next Friday afternoon, instead of the following week as was originally scheduled. He added that the intra-squad full game scrimmage has been cancelled.

His principal reason for cutting short the practice sessions was, of course, the manpower shortage. During the past few drills, as few as 23 players have reported some afternoons.

Has Lost Players

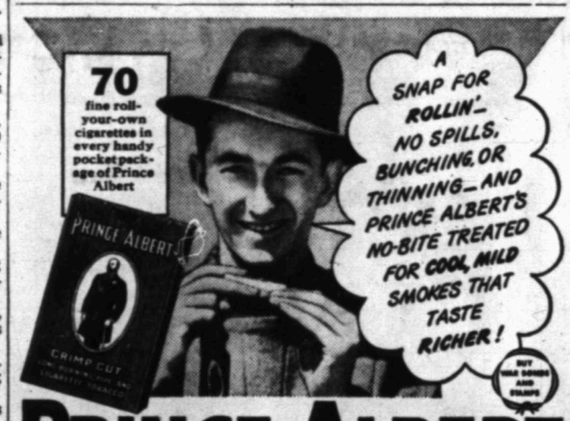

This drop was caused in part by losses to the armed forces (L. A. Storrs and Garland Head were called into the Army last week) and in part by failure of some eligible candidates (especially those who feel certain that they will be in the services before next fall's season opens) to attend workouts.

Morgan emphasized that Tech still hopes to carry out its full 1943 football program, and expressed belief that Tech will acquire a large number of high school graduates before the beginning of the fall season.

The Tech mentor said that the principal purposes in conducting the spring training sessions were to condition both those players who plan to enter the armed forces in the near future and to acquaint newcomers with Tech's grid system. Both ends, he believes, have been accomplished.

BLAMES HOPPERS

SAN JOSE, Cal. (U.P.)—So far, no man-eating grashoppers have been reported here but conservationist D. W. Dresbach has sent in a report to the chamber of commerce indicating tree-eating ones aplenty. The report advised the chamber that last year's efforts to reforestate the barren eastern hills of Santa Clara county, known as the Mount Hamilton range, have been entirely frustrated by grasshoppers, which came this year and ate the young blue oak, incense cedar, black locust and cork oak trees, which were just getting a nice start.

The function of the nerves of the Maxilla sinus is to pick up odors and transmit them to the brain. The nerve endings are covered with a membrane which is very delicate and allows all normal odors to pass as nature intended. When this protective covering loses its tonicity it allows odors to fall directly upon the nerve endings in turn causing an inflammation and swelling and sneezing, itching ad watering of the eyes are the result . . . The various odors are aggravating causes . . . There is something causing the inability of the membrane to protect the nerve endings . . . Reduced tonicity to a part or a part that fails to function is caused by a limited supply of nerve force to that part . . . 81.9% of patients using Chiropractic for Hay fever completely recover or are greatly improved.

Good Judicial Neighbors

A REMARK made to a 99th judicial district petit jury the other afternoon epitomizes appreciation of Lubbock bar and public alike for Judge C. D. Russell of the 64th judicial district, of Plainview, and Judge Altan B. Chapman of the 110th judicial district, of Floydada.

In closing arguments of the state, District Attorney Burton S. Burks paused to pay brief tribute to the magistrates, who came into the vacant 99th district at assignment of the presiding judge of this administrative judicial district, and held terms of court at times even when their home district dockets almost demanded their attention.

Cross-section remarks of the Lubbock bar stress both judges as gentlemen who are credits to their profession; as being entirely worthy of appreciation felt for them, and as maintaining court procedure on the same high plane as that of 72nd district's Judge Daniel A. Blair. Their dissimilarity—Judge Chapman is selnder and almost youthful in appearance; Judge Russell has broad shoulders and white hair—ends when they mount the bench; their decisions are clear and punctual, contributory to smooth execution of legal machinery.

Their agency has relieved a situation that was legally awkward, to say the least—numerous cases having been on the 99th dockets when the judgeship was vacated Jan. 1. Sixty-six years in penitentiary sentences, seven years plus 50 days in sentence suspensions were handed down in that chamber last week alone. Numerous other criminal actions, not to mention a healthful average of civil causes, have been disposed of in the court in its four months of vacancy testifying both as to the industry of Judge Russell and Judge Chapman and the mounting volume of business in the 99th district.

In addition to appreciation for the efforts of Judge Russell and Chapman, the Lubbock bar and public also owes a debt of gratitude to Judge W. R. Ewing, of Pampa, who presides over the Ninth district of the Texas Judiciary. Judge Ewing has the responsibility of making special assignments and his good judgment has been amply proven by his appointments to the 99th court vacancy.

Curtailment Of Travel

FEW people can have good excuse for refusing cooperation with summer vacation suggestions of Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman.

They have the sound of common sense. Certainly drains on swamped transportation facilities will be eased by avoiding unnecessary long trips, by mid-week instead of week-end travel, and by taking vacations before or after the normal peak season when possible. These will help the traveler, too.

Mr. Eastman's common sense approach is emphasized further by the fact that he doesn't try to forbid vacations entirely. He recognizes that a little rest might increase the worker's production capacity over the year.

The transportation director has not gone to extremes. He deserves fullest cooperation. This is one prediction that it will be given.

The One Minute Sermon

If a false witness rise up against any man to testify against him that which is wrong;

Then both the men, between whom the controversy is, shall stand before the Lord, before the priests and the judges, which shall be in those days:

And the judges shall make diligent inquisition; and, behold, if the witness be a false witness, and hath testified falsely against his brother;

Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother; so shalt thou put the evil away from among you.

And those which remain shall hear, and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil among you.

And thine eye shall not pity; but life shall go on for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.—Deuteronomy 19; 16 through 21.

Horse Prairie

By CLEM COLT

Alkali grit and the hot desert winds had pretty well sobered Tubac's new hired hands by the time they rode up to the ranch house. Blackwater Bill lifted a languid hand in salute. "Hired some hands, have you?"

When they were alone Bill said: "You get that money put away in the bank?"

"Sure," Jones said. "Hi Grab Haines knocked me down to the clerk, an' I got his paper to prove it. That was a pretty slick stunt you hatched up, Bill—but Yours Truly has went you one better! Haines nearly jumped out of his skin when he seen I had all that mazuma. Treated me jest like a prince, he did. Took me right into his private office an' passed out the smokes an' rotgut like he was fattin' me up for hog-killin' time. But you bet I showed the ol' bully-puss! I give him a squint down the snout of my sixgun an' claned him slick as a whistle!"

"You crazy loon! If you've robbed that bank—"

"Do I look like that kind of nutty galoot?"

Tubac swelled his chest with a chuckle. "You ain't the only slick guy in this country. You're a smart lad, Blackwater, but don't ever think you're the brains of this outfit. I laid down the law to that banker! I said 'Get out your pen an' some paper, Hobart, an' take down a little dictation.' An' believe me he done it—wrote jest what I told him, an' signed it. I got it right here in my pocket—bank stamp, notary seal'n' everything!"

"Got what?"

"Got the Holeman grant." Tubac grinned at him like a Chessy-cat. "Yep—our troubles is over! Hi Grab's give up all claim an' interest. On behalf of himself an' the Stampede crowd, too—"

"Lemme see that paper!" snarled Blackwater.

And Tubac, still chuckling, fetched out his wallet. "Well here's the receipt for our—" and then his face went blank as a bucket. He dropped the paper like its touch had burnt him and wildly pawed through his wallet. Suddenly he grabbed up a folded paper, fumbled it open ad swore in a passion.

There on the floorboards lay the receipt for their money, with the bank's stamp scarlet as an Arizona sunset; and here in his hand was the precious conveyance he had pried out of Haines at the point of a gun—bank stamp, notary seal annd the sticker with its pretty blue ribbons. But Haines had loaded his pen with that cursed fading ink and now all the writing was vanished.

"I told you they were smart," declared Blackwater holding his temper. "That banker's slipperier'n' eels. An' Lot Deckerman—bal, you want to watch him every minute. But they'll be feeling pretty chesty now. It's our move and we better wade right into them, because once they catch their breath it's going to be all over but the digging."

Blackwater screwed his frosty eyes up and seemed deep-mired in complex thought. But after a moment he smiled a little and murmured reminiscently, "In the old days, so they tell me, the old duffer running this outfit used to cut back all the strays he found piled up against his water fence. I expect likely that was smart stuff then; but times has changed and grass don't grow if you stand on it. Things clever as hell ten years ago might be plumb foolish now, d'ye see?"

But Tubac, then, was too deep in the bottomless pits of humbled pride to see very much of anything—except that he had made a great fool of himself. It made Jones writhe just to think of how completely Haines had taken him in. It weren't as though it were just the money—though loss of that had been bad enough—but in his overwhelming pride Tubac had ruined beyond all hope of salvage Blackwater's truly brilliant plan for hanging crepe on Haines' door! Hi Grab had snaffled their money and they had nothing whatever to show for it.

Then something Blackwater Bill was saying abruptly caught his wide-eyed attention. "Huh?" he exclaimed, blinking owlishly.

"I said," smiled Blackwater genially, "that great pride goeth before a fall. That's Scripture. You know there's a lot of sound stuff in the Good Book, Tubac—very educational, too. Got a lot of fine tips for the man with his eye peeled. I've often improved my time looking through it; and I—That horse hoofs I hear coming?"

Tubac jumped to the porch edge and stared up the trail. "Hell's fire!" he snarled. "It's that blasted Ike Shallet!"

"Here — none o' that!" said Blackwater grimly. "Put up that gun! I'll handle this!"

And when the sheriff rode up to the porch it was Blackwater Bill who said warmly: "Well, well! Mister Shallet, I believe. This is a pleasure—it truly is! Light down and rest your saddle, Sheriff. Jones—go scare up something to drink—"

"Hold on, you!" Shallet barked. Jones looked at the sheriff's gun and stopped.

"Who's that?" Shallet's nod was jerked at the gambler; and Blackwater said before Jones could speak:

"I beg your pardon, Sheriff. I should have introduced myself. I'd forgoten you might not remember me—you were one of John Slaughter's deputies last time I saw you. My name is Bill Webster. I'm Sam Holman's nephew—I've decided to open the ranch up again."

The sheriff raked him with a mackerel glance, then sat a moment with his thumbs whitely hooked in his braces. After which he got out his makings and, still watching Blackwater, coolly twisted himself a smoke. Then he got a match from behind his ears and scratched it on his Levis.

"I thought," he said, through the cigarette smoke, "there was somethin' kind of familiar about you. So you're Ol' Sam's nephew, are you? Come out to open the ranch up again. . . . Well, well. Goin' to take a deal of money, looks like," and he punched back the rim of his hat from his eyes.

Judging Contests At Tech Slated

Crop judging and horticulture contests sponsored by the department of plant industry of Texas Technological college are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, according to Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department.

Any Tech student is eligible to enter the contest, Dr. Young said. Awards will be made for winners in all divisions.

The junior and senior crop judging contest, consisting of three divisions — identification, commercial grading and judging—will be held Friday, and freshman crop and horticulture judging contests will be held Saturday.

In the junior and senior contests, common and scientific names of 60 samples from International Crop contest lists, and the regions in which each is grown, will be required of contestants. Ten samples from wheat, corn, oats, barley, sorghums, and hay, and samples from alfalfa, clover, timothy, Johnson grass, soy beans, lespedeza and cotton will be graded for commercial use.

Six classes of wheat, corn, oats, barley, soybeans, cowpeas, alfalfa, red clover, milo, kafir and hegari are to be placed according to grades.

Sample schedules are posted on classroom doors of the agriculture building.

In the freshman and sophomore contests, to be held Saturday, identification and judging are the two divisions. The identification test includes 75 samples from the list used in freshman agronomy, and six types of threshed grain, from a list including hard winter wheat, soft winter wheat, red oats, white oats, cowpeas, soybeans, alfalfa, red clover, yellow milo, hegari, blackhull kafir and corn, will be classed in the judging division of the contest. Reasons for placement must be given.

In the freshman horticulture contests, also to be held Saturday, identification, propagation and pruning are the three divisions. Fifty specimens from the list used in freshman laboratory will be identified by common names only.

The propagation test will include "T" budding and whip grafting Fruit trees, grape vines and shrubs will be used in the pruning test.

Tabor Leaves Today For Marine Service

Leaving this morning, Capt. C. E. Tabor, commanding officer of the 21-county Lubbock district of the Texas Highway patrol, will go to Quantico, Va., to report for duty as a first lieutenant at the U. S. Marine air station.

Mrs. Tabor and their two sons, 8 and 9, will remain at the 2408 Thirty-first street residence the Tabors own here.

One of the youngest captains in the patrol, Tabor Feb. 13 ate breakfast as a sergeant in the patrol, at luncheon received a commission as a captain in that organization and, at dinner, was informed he had been commissioned a first lieutenant in the Marine corps reserve. All that happened on his birthday. Then at San Angelo, he was ordered to take over the Lubbock patrol district, where he had served two and one-half years as a sergeant. He has done 12 years' service with the organization.

A district meeting of patrolmen was conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon, at which time Capt. Tabor informed the gathering of his status of leave from the Texas Department of Public Safety and relay orders that the district setup will be under command of Sgt. John Hollyfield of the Lubbock office pending further orders from Austin. Patrolmen were expected from Big Spring, Lamesa, Brownfield, Plainview and Lubbock.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PAUL V. McNUTT's ukase freezing 27 million jobs demonstrates that he prefers to rule by dictation rather than by legislation, in the opinion of most of the capital's leading lawyers. Despite the strange lack of effective protest, they note on their cuffs that there is no vestige of statutory authority for such an order. They doub if it would hold in a test before the Supreme court.

The manpower commissioner met this issue rather obliquely when confronted with it at his first press powwow on the subject. It as pointed out to him that the anti-inflation act merely authorized the President to "stabilize prices, wages and salaries affecing the cost of living." He replied that his right derived from the general war emergency powers conferred by Congress. But when he was asked to cite the specific provision he begged off. Nor has anybody else dug it up—not even Attorney General Biddle.

If the mandate from above was a surprise to the handsome Hoosier whose policies as Indiana governor antagonized organized labor, it was also a shock to William Green and Philip Murray. At first the administration fostered the impression that the two had agreed beforehand. They had not. They were called in and shown the framed decree.

But they made the mistake of demanding a revision to safeguard union contracts, and when their suggestion was accepted, they were placed in the position of unintentional sponsors. Only belatedly, and after roars from the rank and file, did they assail the idea.

• • •

CREDIT: Reliance on this harsh but perhaps necessary job-freezing dictum casts a curious light on FDR's more recent governmental processes and philosophy. Already a method to obtain the same end in an orderly and legislative manner lies in the Wadsworth-Austin National Service act, which almost every presidential aide privately favors. This bill has had a peculiar history.

The original draft was handed to McNutt last December, when such a law was needed more acutely than now. He approved it, and one of his personal attorney friends revised it so as to make him, not the Manpower commission as a body, the administrator. For some reason the President objected to the plan and would not permit its introduction as a White House "must."

Not until they had made sure of the Commander-in-Chief's opposition did the two Republican lawmakers intervene in the downtown row. Secretary Stimson and Under Secretary Patterson waited for some open sign of the head man's disapproval, but their subtle efforts to draw him out elicited no response one way or the other. Assuming that silence meant consent, they finally testified enthusiastically for the work-or-fight program. Emory Land followed suit, but so far no Navy spokesman has dared to appear before committee hearings.

Then out of a mottled sky Mr. Roosevelt instituted an even more drastic system by personal fiat. The central difference is that under the Wadsworth-Austin proposal Congress would have set up an independent agency to enforce a law that would chain every American to his place unless he could get McNutt's permission to step out and up.

Note: The frank conclusion on Capitol Hill is that the Chief Executive does not want to have too many Republicans and too many Democratic anti's gaining credit for policies long ago conceded to be essential preliminaries to victory.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

A DRIVE to place the wants of civilians on a par with the needs of our fighters is off to a flying start in Washington. The Senate is considering a bill to take the Office of Civilian Supply out of the WPB and establish it as a separate agency with independent authority to dip into the raw materials barrel and take what it likes.

Donald M. Nelson is vigorously opposing the measure because he fears it will throw the whole production program out of gear at the moment when we shall be approaching the supreme crisis of the war.

However, its advocates are confident about its passage because it is based on many reasonable arguments and it drips with vote-catching honey. The stay-it-homes, seeking an escape from petty inconveniences, are likely to exert pressure on their congressmen. The men out in the North African desert and the New Guinea jungle are too far away to be heard.

Some of the most important industrialists in the country charge that the scheme is shot through and through with politics. They say a partisan clique is using William Jeffers as its front man. Since he came to the capital the rubber czar seems to have had visions of climbing higher in Democratic party affairs. It is strongly hinted that he wants the job of running the new bureau because catering to the whims of the mufti citizenry is bound to make him popular with the electorate—and convention delegates.

• • •

MONSTERS: Nelson's associates assert that he looks with disfavor on the suggested arrangement because it piles another elaborate setup on top of those now in operation. The country is crying out against bureaucracy and yet the politicians want to create more. There is already a division of civilian supply in the WPB.

But his strongest feelings of disapproval are based on the belief that an extra unit, pulling and hauling with the Army and Navy about scarce goods, is likely to prolong the war. Every extra day of fighting means more lives lost.

We are digging into our natural resources so deeply and consuming them in the furnace of battle so extensively that our mines, oil wells, timber, loan and countless other sources of raw materials are likely to be stripped to the bone unless we shorten the conflict. Those who know the truth about this enormous battle wastage are alarmed lest the USA, the supposedly inexhaustible treasure house, should come out of the conflict as one of the have not nations. And now a new drain is proposed

The WPB admits that while the struggle lasts there never will be enough of anything to go around. Twenty million tons of steel are needed by war industries this quarter; only 14½ million tons of steel are in sight. Metal is being shifted to farm machinery, but not enough of it. To make up this dearth growers will have to borrow or lend their combines and similar tools. Acute shortages, owing to the tempo of Mars, are growing in the high octane, rubber, and marine engine fields. The Nelsonians called in the valve manufacturers and stated the case. The managers promised to turn out 38,000 additional tons of this intricate equipment.

Telephone apparatus is so far short of martial needs that companies are taking out extension lines in many private homes. Small bombs are now being replaced by monster explosives of the "block buster" category. We have adequate numbers of simple landing barges, so now we are stepping up the program for complicated escort vessels to slash through the U-boat ring. Public demand that China be helped more generously will deplete our own stockpile of alloys.

Perhaps the politicos are correct in assuming that the home front wants to be coddled at the expense of the war effort but the Army, Navy and War Production board think it is made of sterner stuff.

Texans In Washington

Former Dallasite High In Army Air Transport Body

By L. T. EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 27. (AP)—Col. Robert J. Smith, who hopped around Texas on barnstorming tours during the 20's, holds down the post of executive officer of the domestic transport division of the Army Air Transport command.

His home is Dallas, and he's going back there when the war ends. He left his job as a vice president of Braniff Airways a year ago to enter the Air corps as a lieutenant-colonel, and received the silver eagles of a full colonel last June.

• • •

Native Of Tennessee

Col. Smith is not related to his fellow Texan and superior officer, Brig. Gen. C. R. Smith, chief of the Air Transport command.

A native of Tennessee and 44-years old, Col. Smith was a private in the Army during the last war. He heard about Texas' great future, so on Thanksgiving Day of 1919, not long after getting his discharge from the Army, he struck out for the Lone Star state and got a job as credit manager at a Dallas music store. That developed into more than a business relationship. He married the owner's daughter, the former Jean Jean Whittle. They have a daughter, Elsie Jean, now a junior at Southern Methodist university, and a son Ensign Robert, jr., a flying-boat pilot operating out of Norfolk, Va.

IN 1924 Col. Smith left the music store to begin a four-year period of service with the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. He took up flying in 1925, says some of the earlier planes he flew were crates, and recalls a special barnstorming tour in 1926. He was pilot of one of a small group of planes that flew from Houston to San Antonio, San Angelo, Abilene and Dallas in connection with the inauguration of airmail service in Texas.

He doesn't fly—that is, as a pilot—anymore, but he still gets about through the clouds. He entered the regular commercial airline business in 1928 as traffic manager with Texas Air Transport. He was employed for three years with American Airlines in New York before returning to Texas in 1937 to join Braniff. His job with the Army Air Transport command has to do with the hauling of supplies and personnel within the United States.

MAHON NOT TOO FUSSY

Congressman George Mahon of Colorado City probably doesn't complain too strenuously these days if his secretary makes mistakes.

Serving temporarily, until he can get someone regularly to fill the secretarial vacancy created when George Witten went into the Army, is Mrs. Mahon.

• • •

HANGING on the front door of an apartment in one of the big, fashionable residential apartment buildings here is a Confederate flag.

Rebel yells occasionally break out in the apartment, but from no feeble war veteran. The occupants are four Texas girls, graduates last June of the University of Texas, who are working here in Washington.

One is Elizabeth Sutherland, of Austin, secretary and assistant to the Atlantic Coast Network's news commentator, Mrs. Esther Van Wagoner Tufty.

The others are Eugenia Worley of Austin (who frequently gets her mail mixed up with that of Representative Eugene Worley of Shamrock), connected with the Weather bureau; Penelope Chatmas, of Hearne, with the motion picture bureau of the Office of War Information, and Sue Kone of Austin with the War Production board.

When Mrs. Tufty, a New Deal backer, was asked how she happened to hire Miss Sutherland, she replied it was because the young woman was Texan and had never seen a Republican until she came to Washington.

• • •

Girls Writing Book

"I'm still trying to find out if they are real human beings," chides Miss Sutherland, who last year was the first girl to serve as a vice president of the University of Texas as student body.

A graduate of the university's school of journalism she takes great interest in her work. It's the nearest thing to working on a newspaper, she says, inasmuch as she not only acts as Mrs. Tufty's secretary but also writes some script and occasionally gathers news. She recently attended a presidential press conference when Mrs. Tutfy was out of the city.

Miss Sutherland came first to Washington then encouraged the others to come here to get work. The four are collaborating in writing a book on experiences of working girls in war-time Washington.

HALF & HALF
PEDIGREED SEED FROM SEED FARM NEAR VERNON, CERESAN TREATED, GERMINATION 94%
This is the thin rind, light burr, high linting, early strain of Half & Half kept pure by a prominent seed grower who commenced working with Half & Half when its originators switched to Hybrid. An average of 1,600 pounds of snapped cotton made 500 pound bales. It is not unusual to get a strict middling 500-pound bale from 1,500 pounds of snaps.

This is short cotton 13/16 and ⅞ inch staple but it went in the Government Loan at better prices than staple cotton because it made higher grades.

Recleaned and graded fuzzy seed in new 3 bushel cotton bags at $6.80 per bag.

Kemgas treated-tested seed at $11 per 100 pounds.

Mail check and we ship freight prepaid to your railroad station and you save time and tires. We allow freight if you call for seed.

Slight Wane In Juvenile Delinquency Here Is Reported In March; Figures Still High

A slight wane in juvenile delinquency was reflected in March, when there were 13 less cases investigated than in February—but the figure slightly topped January activities of youngsters.

Figures submitted this week for attention of Lubbock county commissioners court, by John W. Wilson, city-county juvenile counsellor, showed a total of 76 cases investigated in March, 89 in February, 73 in January.

February Figures High

By months, it was shown that: in March 64 boys and 12 girls figured in investigations, two formal complaints were filed, none was sent to reform institutions; in February 71 boys and 18 girls were basis for six formal charges, four youngsters having been sent to reform institutions; in January, 51 boys and 22 girls were named, six charges were filed and six juveniles taken to correctional institutions.

Offenses ran the gamut of burglary (seven in the three months) to sex offenses (30 cases) and hijacking (one case). Other offenses investigated and the number of individuals involved: theft, 7; shoplifting, 1; traffic, 23; destruction of public property, 40; truancy, 28; runaways, 16; fighting, 13; gambling, 9; held to be dependent and neglected children, 1; forgery, 3; working without permits, 1; incorrigible, 3; drunk, 2; miscellaneous, 21.

This month already had produced at least two cases of car theft by juveniles, a total of four boys having been known to have figured. Two of them, 11 and 14, have been sentenced to reform school and hearings in the other cases will be today.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅝ cents under Monday's final prices, May $1.43⅛-½, July $1.43; corn was unchanged at ceilings, May $1.05; oats were unchanged to ⅛ higher and rye advanced ⅝ to ⅞ cent.

Grain Grading School Here Set For May 11

Several men who are authorities on grain grading are to be present and have a part in the grain grading school to be held at Texas Technological college Tuesday, May 11, according to Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department of plant industry.

Similar schools, the purpose of which is to teach grain elevator operators, seed growers and grain dealers the principal factors in grading grains grown in this area, will be held in several other West Texas towns, Dr. Young said.

On Monday, May 10, a grain grading school will be held at Vernon; on May 12, at Plainview; May 14, at Perryton.

Highlights of the schools include a discussion of "Relationship Between Grain Supervision and Inspection" by H. N. Holmes, federal grain supervisor, of Fort Worth; a talk on "Wheat Improvement" by F. T. Dines, director of the Texas Wheat Improvement association with headquarters at Amarillo; treatise of "New Varieties of Sorghums" by R. E. Karper, who is in charge of sorghum investigations at the Lubbock agricultural experiment station; a discussion by H. C. Van Dever, manager of the Wichita Mill and Elevator company, Wichita Falls, of "Good Grain Storage Practices;" and a number of talks by W. B. Combs, senior marketing specialist with headquarters in Chicago.

The schools are sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture marketing service and the Texas Extension service.

Anyone who is interested in learning about grain grading may attend the school, Dr. Young said.

Roy B. Carnes Among New Officers At LAFS

Roy B. Carnes, superintendent of Whitharral High school for three and a half years before being commissioned an Air Forces second lieutenant March 3, is now on duty at Lubbock Army Flying school following his completion of the officer training course at Miami Beach, Fla. He was high school principal at Levelland from 1931 to 1939. His home is Knox City.

New flight surgeon in the LAFS medical detachment is Captain Lewis Mead, Yorktown Heights, N. Y., transferred here from Garner Field at Uvalde, where he had also been flight surgeon. He succeeds Major Lindsay J. Ervin, who was recently transferred to South Plains Army Flying school.

Now on duty as flying instructors at the twin-engine base are three LAFS graduates of Class 43-C, who received their commissions here March 20, then spent the past month at the Randolph Field instructors' school. They are Renne Allred III, 2436 Twenty-first street, son of Renne Allred, jr., of Henderson, former district judge; John F. Cantrell, Tulsa, Okla., and Glenn L. Conn, Los Angeles. All are second lieutenants.

Bureaucracy Tide Deplored By ETCC

LONGVIEW, April 27 (AP)—P. B. Doty of Beaumont, president of the Texas Bankers association, today was elected president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce at the organization's annual convention. He succeeds J. A. McGill of Paris.

Hubert M. Harrison was re-elected vice-president and general manager.

Elected vice-presidents were: district 1, Lee Greer, Denison; district 2, B. B. Black, Clarksville; district 3, Galloway Calhoun, Tyler; district 4, Joe Butler, Corsicana; district 5, E. C. Durham, Lufkin; district 6, F. W. Woodson, Conroe.

New Directors Named

Frank Hicks of Palestine, George Chance of Bryan, R. Eugene Risser of Bonham, John W. Carpenter of Dallas and Henry W. Humphrey of Texarkana, were chosen directors-at-large.

These new directors were named: district 1, Weber Fouts of Sulphur Springs and O. P. Marshall of Commerce; district 2, W. J. McIntyre of Shreveport and T. J. Taylor, jr., of Jefferson; district 3, Gus S. Blankenship of Jacksonville and E. B. Alford, jr., of Henderson; district 4, Claude W. Patterson of Taylor and C. L. Walker, jr., of Temple; district 5, E. C. Durham of Lufkin and R. S. Manley of Orange; district 6, F. W. Woodson of Conroe and Lamar Fleming, jr., of Houston.

Advocates Planning Body

The chamber adopted a resolution deploring the "rising tide of bureaucracy" and denouncing "any pretensions of government under the guise of regulation to change the traditional economic and social orders of this nation."

In other adopted resolutions, the chamber:

Advocated appointment of a post-war planning body from its membership;

Called attention "of the nation's public officials to the necessity for a price system in agricultural products sufficient to cover production costs and sustain a high production output;"

Advocated an increase in the price of petroleum;

And endorsed a bill before the legislature modernizing the arbitration statute.

Cites "Unreasonable Regulations"

Before adopting the resolution against bureaucracy, the convention heard its president, J. A. McGill, assert that Washington bureaucrats were imposing unreasonable regulations upon business and that these were retarding the war effort.

McGill, Paris, Tex., manufacturer, said in the annual president's address that the chamber had adapted its entire program to war conditions and dedicated its entire energy and resources to cooperation with the war program, and added:

"I believe most business men honestly are trying to cooperate with the war effort. It is getting more and more difficult for the industry I am connected with to operate due to restrictions by various bureaus. There seems to be no place left where the American business man can use his ingenuity and industry to promote production. The bureaus have taken all the initiative out of his hands with the result that production is slipping and, unless some curb is placed on these bureau directives, our production is going to continue to decrease."
