

Tax-Hungry 57th Legislature Opens Session In Austin Today

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate in re-session today nominated Ray Roberts of McKinney president pro tempore as the tax hungry 57th legislature stood ready for its formal noon opening.

Formal Senate confirmation of the caucus action on the pro tempore presidency is expected soon after the session officially opens. The Senate's president pro tempore serves in the absence of the lieutenant governor.

Harassed by money problems, the general session is already torn by a close, bitter contest for the House speakership.

The president pro tempore of the Senate is next in line to the lieutenant governor in succession to the governorship.

Roberts represents the 9th Senatorial District including Collin, Cooke, Fannin, Grayson, Hunt, Rains and Rockwall counties. Last session he was chairman of the Committee on Legislative, Congressional and Judicial Districts.

and also held posts on vital committees such as finance.

Reps. James Turman of Gober and Wade Spillman of McAllen carried their long drawn-out leadership battle up to the last moment, each crying victory. Secret balloting on the speakership is the first major task before the House.

Its organization, including committee assignments, cannot be perfected until the winner is declared.

In the Senate, election of a president pro tempore to preside in the absence of the lieutenant governor is the first major business.

Nearly all of the multiple problems challenging the Legislature in charting the course of state government for at least the next two years are based on prospective new revenue, and spiraling demands for state services in scores of areas.

Recent sessions have not solved the long-range money problem. Instead, the legislators have added piecemeal taxes—mostly in special sales levies—that have enabled the state to muddle through from year to year always under the threat of a general revenue deficit. Currently the general fund deficit is more than $90 million but the comptroller estimates it will shrink to $63 million by the end of the current fiscal year.

One of the session's first jobs will be to try to find cash to rub out the deficit in full. Estimates of new money needed for this and for other vital services during the next two years range from $200 million to $300 million.

Teachers' pay raises and other costly improvements in the public school system could be a major issue of the session.

Another area of dispute looming is on legislative and congressional redistricting to keep representation in line with Texas' population growth.

But taxes and spending are the fundamental problem.

Gov. Price Daniel's Finance Advisory Commission has suggested a one per cent payroll tax to be shared equally by workers and their employers. The commission said a possible alternative would be some additions to special sales and some other levies voted by the legislature two years ago.

Daniel, Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey and most of the lawmakers are pledged to oppose a general sales tax or a state income tax. Most states depend on such broad-based levies for the bulk of their long-range money.

A deadlock on taxes could preduce a marathon session or sessions.

Under the new constitutional amendment putting the legislators on annual salaries, the general session automatically cuts off at 140 days. After 120 days, a new $12 a day expense allowance is shut off. But, there is no limit on special sessions except that they last no more than 30 days each and there already are predictions that it will take a special session to get a tax bill as it did two years ago.

Navy's Drills Spur Castro's Invasion Alert

By RICHARD VALERIANI
HAVANA (AP)—Annual maneuvers by the U.S. Navy and Marine Corps in the Caribbean gave new impetus to Fidel Castro's nationwide invasion alert today. A high official said all Cuba is under the equivalent of martial law.

Sanchez Cabrera apparently was on a militia duty.

More soldiers took battle stations along Havana's seaford Malecon Drive. Militiamen dug more trenches in public parks and gardens along the coast.

U.S. officials in Washington and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, denied there was aggressive intent behind the maneuvers, which started Monday. The Marines will train on Vieques Island, off the coast of Puerto Rico and about 1,375 miles east of Havana. While ships of the maneuver force will call from time to time at the U.S. Navy base on Guantanamo Bay, the Navy said, the exercise had been planned some time ago.

The government-controlled Cuban press denounced the naval activity as warmongering and provocative.

"Prensa Libre" said the maneuvers were designed to encourage counter-revolutionaries "supplied by the Pentagon and Central Intelligence Agency" in case their enthusiasm had been dampened by Cuba's display of military might in a huge parade in Havana Jan. 2.

The maneuvers would serve as a "covering play" for hips and planes bringing invaders, the newspapers charged.

The semi-official "Revolucion" charged the United States is mining Guantanamo Bay and unloading large quantities of medicine at the base.

"Revolucion" said the U.S. supercarrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, which visited Guantanamo Bay Monday will be incorporated with several destroyers into a combat unit to be stationed in the area.

The carrier stayed in port about five hours while replacement personnel for the base were ferried ashore in small boats. Then the ship, her flight deck jammed with jet aircraft, left for what the Navy said would be about 10 days of intensive training in night operations.

Pictures of the carrier were published in "La Calle" under the heading: "Foreign cancer embedded in national soil."

About 5,000 persons demonstrated against the maneuvers in Holguin, Oriente Province, where the base is located.

Cuban forces in Oriente are believed to be under the personal command of Maj. Raul Castro, the prime minister's younger brother and Cuba's defense minister.

Contracts Are Awarded By City Council

The city council awarded a contract for a year's supply of petroleum products last night after opening seven highly competitive bids.

Mobil Oil Co. had the low bid by the narrow margin of $4.96 on a contract totalling nearly $13,000.

Mobil's aggregate of $12,796.44 nosed out the bid of McCormick and Sons which totalled $12,803.30.

Mobil proposed to furnish regular grade gasoline at 18.4 cents per gallon, Ethyl gasoline at 20.8 cents per gallon, kerosene at 12.8 cents per gallon, diesel oil at 11.5 cents per gallon and three grades of lubricating oil at 83 cents per gallon, 53 cents per gallon and 60 cents per gallon. The bid for lubricating oil is subject to a discount of one per cent for payment within 10 days.

TAT Supply of Big Spring was the lower of two bidders on a year's supply of alum for use at the water treatment plant. The low bid was $2.98 per 100 pounds delivered at the plant.

Paul Carroll Oxygen Co. of Snyder was awarded the contract to furnish a year's supply of chlorine for the city water plant. The local firm's bid of $6.22 per 100 pounds was the lowest of three proposals received.

The council agreed to hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 31 to canvass votes in the election on proposed charter amendments, which will be held on that date. The council is required to canvass the votes within 24 hours after the election.

Republicans Say Ike Will Present A Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders said today President Eisenhower will present Congress a balanced, nonpolitical budget for the fiscal year starting July 1. They also said the budget for the current year will end up in the black.

Eisenhower's budget message is to go to the Capitol Monday. The description of it as balanced and nonpolitical came from Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the Senate and House GOP leaders, after they had conferred with Eisenhower for more than two hours. They said most of the conversations concerned the budget.

Dirksen told newsmen at the White House: "This budget would be the same if Dwight Eisenhower were to continue in office."

Mansfield Panel May Take Filibuster Issue

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana was reported today to be about ready to move to transfer a filibuster rule committee from the Senate to a committee he heads.

Unless proponents of a rule change unexpectedly win a test vote which may come today or Wednesday, Mansfield will ask the Senate to postpone argument on the matter until later in the session and get to work on President-elect John F. Kennedy's legislative program.

House Democrats continued to skirmish on Speaker Sam Rayburn's plans to end the House Rules Committee's power to block legislation.

Rayburn and Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee, met secretly for almost an hour Monday in the speaker's office.

Neither would comment after the meeting, but it was reported that Rayburn turned down a compromise by Smith that would head off the threatened purge from the committee of Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss.

As outlined last week by Smith, the compromise would have included assurance the committee would not bottle up Kennedy's legislative program.

A conservative coalition of four Republicans voting with Smith and Colmer has dominated the committee in the past.

The House does not meet today, but Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, goes before the House Foreign Affairs Committee to review the world situation. Committee members were reportedly ready to question him closely on the situation in Laos.

Senate liberals — both Republicans and Democrats — may get a chance to test their muscles on the drive to make it easier to curb filibusters before Mansfield's action to sidetrack the subject matter.

The test could come on a move for "the previous question."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon already has held that this motion to cut off talk—which is not included in the Senate rules—is applicable to the effort to reduce the number of favorable votes needed to pass debate.

Two-thirds of those voting now must vote approval of a debate limitation. The liberals want to make the number 51 or, as an alternative, three-fifths of those voting.

Mansfield apparently believes the Senate is not going to uphold any Nixon ruling that the "previous question" motion is in order. If the Senate does not, rule change proponents will have to resort to a motion to table (kill) their own resolution to halt any filibuster that Southern opponents might mount.

In that sort of situation, the Democratic leader is expected to urge his colleagues to postpone action while the Senate Rules Committee he heads studies the proposals.

Both Mansfield and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant leader, told their colleagues Monday they hope the Senate can start voting today on some of the issues involved.

In a slashing attack, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told his colleagues that proponents of a proposal to let 51 senators cut off debate want to change the whole character of the Senate.

Russell contended that there is "a constitutional refutation of the idea of a majority, plus one, to act" in the Senate. He said the body was conceived by the founding fathers in which voting strength was based on the number of states and not on the number of voters within any state.

"It is a forum of the state and no state should be denied its rights," he said.

In other action Monday, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican Senate leader, introduced a $110 per hour minimum wage bill.

Dirksen's bill is 15 cents per hour below that in legislation sponsored last year by Kennedy. Kennedy's bill passed the Senate but died as Congress adjourned.

Dirksen said he feared the higher minimum wage and broad coverage favored by Kennedy would have serious effects on the economy.

Senate committees have announced plans to begin hearings this week on two Kennedy Cabinet nominees.

Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon, who will be Kennedy's secretary of the Treasury, will appear before the Finance Committee Wednesday. Dean Rusk, who will become secretary of state, appears before the Foreign Relations Committee Thursday.

Atlanta (AP)—A federal judge restrained Gov. Ernest Vandiver today from closing the University of Georgia by cutting off funds for the institution.

Judge W. A. Battle issued a temporary injunction ordering the governor and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher not to cut off or withhold operating funds.

Battle, who last Friday issued an order that the university must admit two Negroes, set a hearing for Thursday morning on whether the injunction should be made permanent.

Battle acted on a petition by attorneys for Miss Charlayne A. Hunter, 18, and Hamilton E. Holmes, 19, the Negroes who want to pursue their education at ancient and historic Georgia.

Vandiver was ready to sign an order cutting off funds and closing the university if the Negroes enter classes. The federal injunction, however, stayed his hand or laced him in contempt if he proceeded.

Vandiver's administration leaders prepared for introduction later today bills to repeal a section of the present appropriation law that no state funds may be used for operation of an integrated school.

The governor announced at a midnight news conference that he would close the school today. Then there was a quick change in strategy when Miss Hunter and Holmes failed to enter classes today.

Vandiver said that the University president, O. C. Aderhold, would notify him as soon as they entered.

Flying to Washington, Georgia Attorney Gen. Eugene Cook presented Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black a petition asking him to stay integration of the university.

Jack Greenberg, New York attorney, flew there to contest Cook's action. He is associated with counsel for the two Negro students.

Attendance was reduced at the university classes, many students having departed for their homes after hearing after midnight news that Vandiver planned to close it and order a holiday the rest of the week.

Vandiver, who frequently has pledged no Negro would attend classes with white students as long as he was governor, called the closing of the 175-year-old institution "the saddest duty of my life."

After Vandiver conferred by phone with university President O. C. Aderhold at the campus in Athens, some 70 miles from Atlanta, university officials announced a one week "holiday" in which all classes would be canceled. Four persons were arrested.

He solemnly pledges that the new Democratic administration will be mortgaged to no individual or group—economic, racial or political.

He made the pledge late Monday in his first formal address since the election — a nostalgic talk in his home state at a joint session of the Massachusetts Legislature.

"Of those to whom much is given, much is required," Kennedy said in promising that, with God's help, he will try to give much to the nation.

Kennedy's schedule for today—in Manhattan and Washington—is jammed. He booked nine conferences here and in the capital and goes to Florida tonight.

Monday was divided between Boston and Harvard University at Cambridge—a day during which he was mobbed by exuberant Harvard students welcoming an old grad, and a day punctuated by a series of business meetings.

Kennedy closed out the day with relaxation in New York. On arrival from Boston by private plane he hurried to a hasty dinner at Club 21, then went off to see a Broadway hit musical, "Do Re Mi," starring Phil Silvers.

NANCY is a KWANDARY

HONG KONG BEAUTY IS

Fortune's Cooky

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Kwan doesn't think she should get married for a few years. It has nothing to do with her age (21), romance (she's experienced it), or ambition (she's not the career girl type). But her favorite fortune teller, a blind Tibetan in Hong Kong, told her she should wed late or she'd divorce early. She shrugs: "So I'm in no hurry."

The little Eurasian star of "The World of Suzie Wong" is no push-over for predictions though. She's pretty sophisticated about the whole thing: crystal balls and head bump reading are silly, palmistry and astrology are not to be sneered at, and that clairvoyant blind fortune teller is the most.

"He told me: 'Don't ever gamble. You're very unlucky.' He was right. I shouldn't gamble, but I like to waste money."

"He also told me I was going to die at 64. That's a long time off."

Nancy admits she frequently visits fortune tellers in Hong Kong. "My family doesn't believe in them, but I think it's up to you."

"The best kind tell you something in the past that has really happened. And one told me I'd be famous."

That's one prediction that worked out. Through her father, a wealthy Chinese architect who designed some movie studios in Hong Kong, Nancy met the "Suzie Wong" producer, when France Nuyen left the role, Nancy stepped in.

"My parents don't care if I'm in movies, so long as I'm happy," she says. And it delights her three stepbrothers and two stepsisters at home. A brother is in England studying architecture.

New Type Of Meat Loaf

Meat loaf recipes are more numerous than anyone can name. You probably have your particular favorite. But why not try a new recipe for a change, perhaps, one with ingredients you've never tried in meat loaf?

Indian Meat Loaf is a new idea for a ground meat dish. The unusual ingredients are corn meal and cream-style corn which give the meat loaf its name. The herb, sage, adds zest to the flavor.

Both ground beef and ground pork are used. Reba Stages, expert on meat cookery, states that meat loaves prepared with different meat combinations provide a wide variety of delicious meat flavors.

Indian Meat Loaf makes a savory, economical dish for those everyday meals between holiday and company dinners.

Indian Meat Loaf
1 pound ground beef
1/2 pound ground pork
1 egg
1/2 cup corn meal
2 tablespoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon sage
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup cream-style corn
1/4 cups canned tomatoes
Combine all ingredients, mixing well. Pack into a 5x9-inch loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F) for 1 1/2 hours. 6 to 8 servings.

Miss Hodges Performs In TCU Ballets

FORT WORTH — Miss Sue Hodges, Snyder student at Texas Christian University, is dancing in performances of the division of ballet held this month.

There have been 65 original ballets produced by the department since its formation in 1949 when David Preston took the position as director of the division of ballet. This year's three productions will be held in 1,200-seat Ed Landreth Auditorium.

"Les Preludes," an abstract ballet in the classic idiom, is set to music by Franz Liszt. "The Beggar's Flute," a light ballet featuring peasant dancing and colorful costumes, is set to the music of Enesco's "Rumanian Rhapsody No. 1." The third production, "Shore Leave," is a ballet in the modern vein concerning a sailor's search in dream world for a girl who stood him up. Music is by Morton Gould.

Texas Christian University is one of the few schools in the nation in which a student may major in ballet, studying the liberal as well as the theatre arts. Along with ballet, pantomime and stage craft, ballet majors must take history, a natural science and psychology or philosophy.

This year's productions cast 42 students from 21 states. There are 16 Texans from different cities.

Castro's Bluff Is Ignored By Ike

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States apparently decided that calling off Navy-Air Force maneuvers in the Atlantic might encourage Fidel Castro to believe he could force this country to abandon the Guantanamo naval base in eastern Cuba.

Behind this was a decision by President Eisenhower to demonstrate publicly that the United States will continue using Guantanamo in normal fashion, regardless of any threats or demands that it abandon the base to Cuba. Administration leaders reported today they decided to go ahead with the military exercises—planned months ago—in spite of the prospect Castro would denounce them as an alleged move to intimidate his invasion jittery homeland.

State and Defense Department authorities describe the exercises as normal, nonbelligerent moves to strengthen America's defense readiness.

Some 75 Navy warships, with 1,500 amphibious Marines aboard moved out to sea Monday for three separate maneuvers that will involve about 45,000 men in the next three or four weeks. Air Force attack bombers are to join the games in two weeks.

Navy spokesmen, scoffing at Cuban claims that the fleet maneuvers constitute a show of force, pointed out that most of the ships would not come within 600 miles of the Cuban coast. Only the 51,000-ton carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, which docked at Guantanamo Monday, has moved into the Cuban area. This carrier went there, they said, as part of a long-planned exercise to familiarize its crew, many of them new men, with carrier operations.

Another 22 ship task force, including Marines of the 24th Expeditionary Force, sailed for Puerto Rico, 400 miles from Cuba, to practice convoy and landing carrier operations.

Murder Trial Opens Today

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Lawyers made their opening statements today in the murder trial of Mrs. Joseph Garrett, 33, former Dallas social leader.

The defense planned to plead insanity. Mrs. Garrett, the former Constance Owsley, is accused of setting fire to her home Oct. 7 after a quarrel with her husband, district manager for a steel firm.

Three of the couple's four children and their governess died in the fire. Neighbors rescued Mrs. Garrett and one child. Mrs. Garrett, tall and red-haired, sat pale and quietly Monday through selection of the jury including eight women.

Her husband sat by her side and held her hand at one point. Her brother, Alvin Owsley Jr., of Houston, also was on hand.

Her brother and her father, an organizer of the American Legion and a former U.S. diplomatic official, have been approved as counsel for the trial.

exercised on the beaches in the Vieques area.

This naval group is to replace a similar task force which has been conducting training exercises in the Puerto Rican area for many weeks, they said.

The biggest group of ships, 52 of them, will cruise in waters off the North and South Carolina coast, practicing simulated air strikes and antiaircraft defense against bombing runs by Air Force planes.

Three aircraft carriers are included in these maneuvers, including the Forrestal and the Shangri-La, as well as guided missile cruisers, 32 destroyers, and 6 submarines.

One top military man, dismissing Castro's bitter protests, bluntly said the Navy could have sent ships, planes and men far closer to Cuba if it intended to flex America's military muscles.

Paperwork Gets Study

AUSTIN (AP)—The Legislative Budget Board is making a spot check with state highway patrolmen to determine if they are being overloaded with paper work. Sen. Dorsey Hardeman of San Angelo, member of the board, said Monday some highway patrolmen "tell me they used to have to carry a gun, now they have to carry a briefcase to keep all their forms."

Board Director Vernon McGee estimated it would take another 30 days to complete the study undertaken at the board's suggestion last year.

McGee said the board also is beginning a study of abandoned military bases and other federal properties of possible use for the care of mentally retarded persons.

The State Hospital Board and the Texas Youth Council requested the transfer of $159,000 in unallocated appropriations for repairs and improvements. The board agreed to advise the governor to approve the request.

The projects include $60,000; Abilene State School, roof, building and electrical repairs; $15,000; Mexia State School, equipment for cold storage plant and butcher shop; $20,000; Wichita Falls State Hospital, ward furniture and equipment; $10,000; Big Spring State Hospital, equipment to control shifting sand; and $10,000; Waco State Home, replacement of power plant equipment and steam pipes, resurfacing streets.

Officers Slay Man Following Threats

NEWARK, Tex. (AP)—Clyde James Williams, 34, was shot to death late Monday after officers said he went berserk and threatened five persons.

Wise County Sheriff J. R. Branch said Williams was a former inmate of a mental institution.

Branch said Williams, armed with a shotgun, roamed this small Wise County town during the day and made threats to at least five persons.

When he kicked on the door of the Silas Houk home after threatening the Houk family, he was shot to death by a shotgun blast. Silas Houk surrendered.

Speakership Fight Hits Climax Today

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—Two hard-working young representatives walked into the pink granite Capitol today, each hoping he will walk out this afternoon speaker of the legislature.

Election of either Rep. James Turman of Gower or Rep. Wade Spilman of McAllen as the powerful leader of the 150-member House is one of the first orders of business after the oath taking at noon.

Each was confident of success. "The race is won. Victory is ours," said Turman, a tall, dark-haired educator-legislator better known as "Jimmy."

"I am quite confident of victory," said Spilman, a thin, serious lawyer.

Both began campaigning during the hectic special sessions of the last legislature. For almost a year both have had campaign headquarters in Austin. There have been almost weekly charges and counter-charges and victory claims.

Turman's latest claim was 82 votes, with 76 needed.

Spilman has never used a victory figure but has hinted some of Turman's pledges may vote for Spilman.

This speakership's bitter controversy over the session follows a 1959 battle of equal intensity between Waggoner Carr of Lubbock and Joe Burckett of Kerrville. Carr won by eight votes.

This could be the last speakership contest under the present rules. After the violent Carr-Burckett battle delayed opening procedures of the 56th Legislature, a special committee was named to study the system and make recommendations. The committee recommended a new law that would have the secretary of state conduct the election of a speaker, nominee by certified mail ballot after the general election.

The suggested changes got nowhere in the 56th Legislature. Some say the developing campaign for today's election side-tracked the recommendations.

Both of today's candidates have been outstanding members of the House. Each is serving his fourth term.

Turman, 33, was born on a Fannin County farm. He now has his own farm and home about a mile and a half southeast of Gower near Bonham and Gower. Then he entered East Texas State College in Commerce. He worked his way through college as a drug store clerk and waiter.

Turman received his bachelor of science degree in 1949 and took a job teaching at Wolfe City. In 1952 he left his job as an elementary school principal in Paris to serve in the Navy. Turman won a House seat in 1954 and has been re-elected three times.

Turman has been prominent as a sponsor and supporter of school improvement and teachers pay raise legislation. He has been an assistant to the president of Texas Woman's University at Denton.

Turman is married to his high school sweetheart, the former Ira Nell Wigley of Gower. They have one son, James Turman Jr., 3. Turman is a Baptist.

Spilman, 36, was born in Mission, one of nine children. In 1946 he married the former Alethe Fowler of Austin. They have two children, a girl, Holly, 2, and a boy, Steven, seven weeks. Spilman is a Methodist.

Spilman is a partner in the firm of Stafford, Atlas and Spilman in McAllen.

Spilman was a staff sergeant in the infantry in World War II. He was wounded in action and later became a prisoner of war.

In the 54th Legislature, Spilman was vice chairman of the investigation committee that looked into the veterans land program charges. He was chairman of the General Investigating Committee in the interim between the 54th and 55th Legislatures and head of the legislative investigation into the downfall of the U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. In the 55th Legislature he was chairman of the special investigating committee that probed operations of Texas naturopaths.

Investments For School Fund Asked

AUSTIN (AP)—A Senate study committee recommended today that part of the permanent school fund be invested in corporate securities and in federally-guaranteed real estate mortgages.

The recommendation was submitted by the Investment Study Committee after it analyzed the investment practices of the teacher retirement system, the employees retirement system, the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund.

Nation Faces Silver Problem

By FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Treasury, already beset by a gold problem, is facing a troublesome silver situation.

By mid-1963, if present trends were to continue, the department would lose its long-standing power to dictate the international price of silver.

Should that happen, you might have to pay more for a wide variety of items ranging from silver jewelry to photographic film.

An increase in the price of silver also could affect coinage in many parts of the world. Some countries might find their silver coins worth more in silver than in the metal they are made of.

International discussion of the silver situation has been prompted by mounting evidence that the Treasury's grip on the international silver market has been weakening.

The Treasury puts a ceiling on the price by maintaining a stockpile from which it sells to silver users. Its current selling price is about 91 1/2 cents an ounce. Obviously, users refuse to pay more than that.

During 1960, the Treasury stockpile was reduced by 5% million ounces and on Jan. 1 stood at 123 1/2 million ounces. So far this month, there has been a further reduction of more than 1 million ounces. At this rate, the supply would be gone by mid-1963.

Should the stockpile run dry, the Treasury would lose its power to dictate the price of silver. Furthermore, since the stockpile also furnishes the 40 million ounces used each year to mint new U.S. coins, the department would have to go into the market to buy silver.

In the present supply and demand situation, the price of silver would rise if the Treasury ceiling were broken. The upward price pressure stems largely from strikes which cut production in 1959 and 1960, coupled with big silver purchases by France which has adopted a heavy silver franc.

In addition, the mint is using more silver for coinage and industrial uses are expanding. One reason the Treasury hasn't been anxious to boost its fixed price is that the biggest benefits would go to foreigners. The United States uses about 100 million ounces of silver a year, of which about 65 million ounces are imported.

To preserve its stockpile the department would have at least three options:

1. It could raise its selling price, which is determined by administrative action. This would encourage silver production and lessen dependence on the Treasury's reduced supply.

2. It could refuse to sell silver, which would free the price from Treasury Department dictation.

3. By administrative action, it could withdraw from circulation silver certificates in denominations of $5 and more. This would free about 300 million ounces of silver (now backing these bills) which could be added to the stockpile.

The department wouldn't want to withdraw certificates of less than $5 because they have no equivalent in federal reserve notes.

Of the three possibilities, the third appeared the most likely because it would be the only option that would both preserve the stockpile and maintain the Treasury's power to fix a price ceiling.

However, there would first have to be a policy decision on the part of the incoming Kennedy administration.

No matter what course the new administration adopts, it will face opposition either from the Western mining states or from the silver-using industries in the East.

Should that happen, you might have to pay more for a wide variety of items ranging from silver jewelry to photographic film.

Imports Of Shrimp Hit
WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman for the domestic shrimp industry testified Monday that uncontrolled imports of frozen shrimp are endangering the living standards of U.S. shrimp fishermen.

The witness, D. Sloan Peterson, Ferdinandina Beach, Fla., representative of the Southeastern Fisheries Association, testified before the Tariff Commission.

The commission is conducting hearings, on instructions of the State Finance Committee, into conditions prevailing in the shrimp industry.

The committee asked the commission to include in its report its findings of what would happen if a 35 per cent duty or import quotas were imposed on foreign produced shrimp. The report is due April 1.

Domestic shrimp producers and many shrimp processors seek congressional action imposing either tariffs or quotas. They say the heavy imports have harmed the domestic industry.

Shrimp importers and some producers testifying Monday included Sydney E. Herndon, Aransas Pass, Tex., president of the National Shrimp Congress.

Herndon blamed the 1959 drop in shrimp prices in part on foreign imports.

Cross examination of the witnesses brought out that domestic production as well as foreign imports increased in 1959.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State and Defense Departments traded 22 high ranking officials Monday in a move to give the diplomats a better idea of what the military is doing and vice versa. A joint announcement said 11 from each department are being sent to the other on 2-year assignments.

Foreign and military policies overseas often overlap. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter suggested the departmental exchange last June.

Strong Finish Brings Goalby LA Triumph

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Goalby, voted golf's "freshman of the year" as a professional in 1958, today earned another diploma as a winner.

The 29-year-old Goalby headed for the San Diego Open this weekend with $7,500 in the bank as the not-so-surprising winner of the $45,000 Los Angeles Open.

The lack of surprise was that Goalby wound up 1960 winning the $30,000 Coral Gables, Fla., Open plus the fact he finished in the first five in seven other tournaments last year and collected $28,580 in prize money.

The hapless 6-foot-7, who played in contention in the early rounds with a 67-70-71 climaxed his bid with a brilliant 67 and a 72-hole total of 275.

This was nine strokes under par-71 for the Rancho del Conejo and gave Goalby the victory by three strokes.

Goalby wore down seasoned Paul Harney in a head-to-head duel. It started with Harney one shot in front as the final play began.

The popular Paul finished with a 72 for 279.

A brief rundown of the front finishers after Goalby: Eric Brown of Scotland, 66, and Art Wall Jr. of 67, tied for second and a reward of $3,325 apiece.

Harney, 72, Ken Venturi, 68, and Billy Casper, 70, tied at 279, $2,133 apiece.

Deadlocked at 280 were Gary Player, Tom Aaron, Gardner Dickinson, Bill Collins and Lionel Hebert.

Leo Tickled Pink With LA Situation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It wasn't long ago that Leo Durocher was saying there was a conspiracy among owners to keep him out of baseball.

Today he is back in the game as a coach of the Los Angeles Dodgers, but under warning from General Manager Branch Rickey that under no circumstances is he to second-guess Dodger Manager Walter Alton.

Durocher spoke his lines very well at Monday's news conference. Asked if he considered his new coaching job a stepping stone to another major managerial post, the Lip, 54, told reporters: "I'm not looking for anything. I'm happy with the Dodgers, and that's it. I'm just a coach. Alton's the manager, and I think he's the greatest in the business."

In spite of that frank statement by Durocher, who led the Dodgers to a pennant in 1941 and subsequently managed the New York Giants to two pennants and a World Series, Bavasi decided on further emphasis.

"The first time there is any second guessing, that's it," he warned.

Durocher, once one of the top-salaried managers, reportedly will receive $17,500. He said he was so happy to return to baseball after a six-year layoff that he hadn't discussed terms with Bavasi.

"I told Bavasi: 'Forget about a contract; your word is good enough for me.'"

The Dodgers offer one-year contracts. Bavasi said neither Alton nor Durocher have signed.

As they posed for photographers Alton and Durocher radiated good will and confidence.

Alton said: "We've got Leo on our side again, and I'm glad to have him with us. He fits into our plans real good. He'll direct traffic at third base and he'll help us in a lot of other ways, particularly in instructing all our kids in the fundamentals of baseball."

"I couldn't be happier," concluded the Lip. "The Dodger club has three things that I've always liked: pitching, great speed and a fine defense."

SPORTS

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

SANTA FE, N. MEX. — The sun's always brighter on the top of the world. And it was blindingly so this past weekend. The occasion: A group of skiers and skiing hopefuls from the parent Snyder Ski Club as hiked out to this north-central New Mexican territory, heading the unmistakable call of the beckoning slopes.

I say skiing "hopefuls," in that only a "segment" of the party felt into the "accomplished" category. The rest of us fought an enjoyable but losing struggle with Equilibrium. A pesky soul who had the final say-so in almost every instance. As for the case at hand, I found myself long on desire, but woefully short on padding.

The sun, as mentioned, shone. With a terrifying reflection, too, the intensity of which borders on the unbearable without the soothing presence of sun shades. The snow itself was glazed and crusty. Slick as a new button and hard as nails.

Reminded a massive expanse of sugar, pure cane and crystallized with tiny tree trunks dotting its salt-like surface.

Injuries have become a sacred part of the skiing pastime, where arms and legs have been known to snap, crackle, and pop in the crisp mountain air.

A skier who has never broken a limb is, in the following of the sport, in somewhat of an outcast in a manner of speaking. At least, he'll never grace the inner fraternal circle of the elite you-tell-me-your-woes-I'll-tell-you-mine set. It's liked twilight. And last, but not least, is the chair lift. It is as its name implies—a chair affair in which one simply sits and surveys the passing panorama as it flashes by him. After he gets to the top he becomes a part of that panorama himself.

Dub Holt, grizzled old Al-pine veteran that he is, was the only one of our group to empty the chair lift slope. He came cranking down on top of separate occasions, and remained fairly upright throughout all those excursions. The secret is his success?

"I learned how to turn left," he explained with a modest blush, too excited to say more. Seems that up until lately he had always been able to ski to the right side with ease, but his differential somehow wouldn't consent to a left turn.

The only harrowing experience to which Holt was subjected, however, took place on the rope-towed slope, with its mass of humanity. A seven-year-old named Susan (who offered perily that, "I'm what you might call a beginner") conked him into letting her ride with him double up the tow, as she kept falling by the wayside when she attempted it by herself. He went along with it once as a friendly gesture, but it soon got to be a full-time job.

"Every time I got up to the top I'd ski down as fast as I could," he itemized, frowning and scratching his head, "but every time I got down there, she'd be waiting for me to help her up again. It was uncanny."

Actually, it was pretty canny, Mr. Holt. You see, Susan was twins. Or at least she had her sister Sally were. Let's face it, son. You got a little "look in."

HERMLEIGH — An annual grid banquet is in the offing this Saturday night for the District 6-B Hermleigh Cardinals, undisputed kings of Region 2.

Coach Ted Averitt announced the date here late yesterday, the time of which will be 7 o'clock in the High School Cafeteria here.

The Cardinals roared to their most successful season in history during 1960, as they walked to an undefeated, untied, six-extended Region 2 crown, making Coach Averitt's debut at the coaching helm an auspicious one.

Switches Made In Lincoln Schedule

The games scheduled for tonight involving the Lincoln High Trojans and Trojantes against La Mesa have been switched to January 30 due to a schedule conflict.

An addition to the Lincoln schedule has been announced by Trojan coach Calvin Edwards, and will see the varsity and "C" boys traveling to Midland this Thursday night for a pair of games against that school.

Shackles Removed From Oklahoma U.

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — North Carolina and Arizona today faced possible loss of their eligibility for postseason championships as the 55th annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association moved toward a climax.

But Oklahoma again was eligible for bowl games and available for national football telecasts.

The Sooners were restored to full privileges in the NCAA Monday night when a year-old indefinite probation was lifted by the NCAA Council.

The council did not complete its work in the North Carolina and Arizona cases and the decisions were put off until today.

North Carolina was under investigation for alleged violations of the NCAA code in regard to basketball recruiting; Arizona for recruiting and financial aid to football players.

The Tar Heels of basketball coach Frank McGuire, currently ranked seventh in The Associated Press poll, are a recognized national power.

Arizona's strong game is baseball. Coach Frank Sanborn's teams have won three straight District 6 championships and five out of the last six. Arizona was runner-up in the college world series in 1956 and 1959.

NCAA penalties vary. Sometimes the penalty applies only to the sport in which the infraction occurs. In the more serious cases all athletic teams of the offending school suffer.

Auburn, for instance, has been on probation for nearly five years. During that time none of its teams has been eligible for tournaments, bowls or telecasts. But so spring sports would not be penalized a sixth season, the NCAA Council Monday set April 21, 1961, as the date Auburn's probation will terminate. It had previously been Sept. 1, 1961.

Southern California, which got in trouble over football recruiting, was stripped of all postseason rights during 1959 and football telecasts in 1960. The Trojans' probation was ended Monday, as was Tulsa's. The latter school, another football offender, was on a year's probation.

The NCAA said it had been able to investigate more fully the details of an Oklahoma recruiting fund that had existed from 1952 to 1954, and the investigation showed the Sooners were now free of any irregularities in regard to financial aid to football players.

Thus the ban-in-existence during a year in which Oklahoma's football team was not bowl material was lifted.

School officials praised the NCAA for its action and fairness in the matter, and the NCAA thanked the university for its co-operation.

Football coach and athletic director Bud Wilkinson said only, "I'm pleased that the situation has been resolved."

"Gordon doesn't want him back," Lane said.

Frank Wants Jim, But Joe 'Lukewarm'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Lane, who quit last week as general manager of the Cleveland Indians to take a similar job with the Kansas City Athletics, wants the Indians' center fielder, Jim Piersall, in a swap for Bill Tuttle.

"I'd like to have Piersall," said Lane on a stopover there Monday.

"He'd stir up the fans in Kansas City like he did here. He's just what we need out there. We have to bring people into the ball park, and who can create more excitement than Piersall?"

Lane admitted his efforts to get Piersall had no support from the Athletics' field manager, Joe Gordon, who started last season as Cleveland manager.

"Gordon doesn't want him back," Lane said.

Trains Hit Two Autos

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri Pacific passenger trains hit two automobiles in separate accidents in Missouri Monday, killing 12 persons.

There were no survivors in either car. Both trains were traveling 75 miles an hour when the crashes occurred.

Eight died in the crash near the village of Strasburg about 30 miles southeast of Kansas City. They were two young mothers—sisters-in-law—and three preschool children of each.

Four persons died in the accident at Harvill, about 10 miles south of Poplar Bluff in southwest Missouri.

Engineer James Smith of Little Rock, Ark., said he thought the persons in the car saw the train in time to stop.

Floyd Boltz, engineer of the train in the Strasburg crash, said the car pulled up to the crossing, stopped, then moved ahead and stopped on the tracks.

Capitol Halls Are Buzzing

By JULIA SALTER
AUSTIN (AP)—Capitol halls buzzed with politics today before the first pounding of a gavel opening the legislature.

Rapid fire conversations swept through the city from clubs and downtown hotel and lobbies to the Capitol.

Senators and representatives were targets for lobbyists, job seekers and old friends. As early as Monday many legislators were at their desks, receiving constituents and advice.

Rep. Eligio de la Garza of Mission agreed with other legislators that this current session would be one of the most important in the history of Texas.

"I look for a long and arduous session," he said. "My friends in the House agree that it will be a hard row to hoe. Most of them are more pessimistic than optimistic toward financial problems."

While some legislators visited, others interviewed job seekers. The Constitution states that each House member is allowed 1½ secretaries for the session. Lines of girls and a few prospective committee clerks or assistant sergeant-at-arms waited outside the office of the clerk of the House.

The Senate chamber got a face lifting for this session. New cushioned chairs are provided for senators and lobbyists in the gallery.

Nixon's Political Stock Is Hiked By Birthday Tribute

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon's political stock has been strengthened by a birthday tribute in which President Eisenhower led the cheering section.

The occasion was a 48th anniversary celebration Monday night at which Eisenhower praised the defeated 1960 presidential candidate for services "invaluable to government." He said Nixon was "a warm friend."

More than 1,000 Republicans paid $12.50 per seat for a dinner party honoring Nixon and his wife Pat. The party, sponsored by the Republican Capitol Hill Club, was held in a downtown hotel.

Nixon, who lost one of history's closest presidential contests in November to John F. Kennedy, assured his admirers he would do everything in his power for the Republican party in the years ahead.

He said that while "nothing succeeds like success in political life," he was grateful for the people who came to shake his hand and urge him to continue his leadership of the Republican party.

"We lost the election," he said, "but I find here tonight not people who care whether you win or lose, but people who are our friends."

The President, in a buoyant mood, told the diners he had expected to stay only a short time. He said he expected "short shrift" after which they would throw me out after the soup."

But he stayed on for 3½ hours, explaining he was hungry and wanted to be around for all of the party. And, he added, if he left early he wouldn't get to make a speech.

"The one thing I like to do is talk to Republicans," he said. Nixon was obviously pleased at Eisenhower's assertion that he had been one of the mainstays of his administration and a personal helper. The President pointed out that he came primarily to express personal appreciation for Nixon's

Sentence Is No Disqualification

MACON, Ga. (AP)—A man serving a federal sentence in another state has won the legal right to continue as mayor of a Georgia city.

Superior Court Judge A. M. Anderson said Monday Kemp A. Harrison's conviction of conspiracy to defraud bank depositors does not disqualify him as mayor of Warner Robins.

Harrison easily won re-election on Nov. 8, eight days after he began serving a sentence of a year and a day in a federal correctional institution at Tallahassee, Fla.

Five residents of Warner Robins, site of a large Air Force base, then brought action in court seeking to oust the mayor.

No Clues In Murder Case

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Police had only slim hopes of finding a clue in the murder of a coed whose body was found Monday, six weeks after she disappeared.

The girl, Beverly Ann Allan, 19, Port Townsend, Wash., apparently was killed a few hours after her boy friend died in a fight with someone who ambushed them in a wooded lover's lane near Portland Nov. 26.

Her boy friend, Larry Ralph Peyton, 19, Portland, was stabbed to death. His body was found Nov. 27.

The body of Miss Allan, a Washington State University Sophomore, was found beside a highway 37 miles west of Portland. Police said it apparently had been tossed from the road down a steep slope. A highway crew, cutting roadside brush, found the body.

Sen. Blakley Wants Rules To Remain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William A. Blakley, D-Tex., making his first speech since taking office Monday urged the Senate not to change its rules so as to shut off filibusters.

Blakley noted that he was only a freshman senator but said he felt so strongly about the issue, "I could not be silent and be true to my convictions."

He defended minority rights as fully as important as those of the majority.

"I believe any change that would lessen the protection now given minority rights would be a tragic backward step in the ongoing struggle to maintain individual freedom in this nation," he said.

Blakley said he was not frightened by the word "filibuster" and preferred it to a gag rule.

"If to filibuster means to stand up—and to stand up for a long time, if that is necessary—for the right of a minority viewpoint to be presented fully and adequately, then I for one shall not hesitate to speak out, to filibuster, if you please—when the occasion demands," he said.

Blakley stated he could not conceive of the rules fight as an issue between liberals and conservatives.

"But if defending the rights of minorities is to be regarded as conservatism, then I accept—I grasp—the designation, conservatism," he said.

The Texas senator noted his predecessor, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, D-Tex., the vice president-elect, delivered a Senate speech as a freshman 12 years ago defending the right of freedom of debate as indispensable to the Senate.

Plant Doors Remain Shut

HOUSTON (AP)—About 600 workers at the Phillips Chemical Co. plant here remained on strike today and the plant doors remained shut.

The plant closed down when workers, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union Local 427, went on strike at midnight Friday.

Officials for the plant and the union said Monday no negotiations were scheduled and no end to the strike is in sight.

Workers also walked out of Phillips plants at Dumas and Borger, Tex.

An estimated 475 men went out at Borger and 335 struck at Dumas. Non-union and supervisory personnel have kept the plants there operating.

Union spokesmen stressed that local working conditions and rules and length of contract—not wages—were the major issue at Borger. Oct. 15, but was extended for 30 days.

The contract at Dumas expired days.

The Dumas plant produces nitrate, nitric acid and ammonia. The Borger plant makes synthetic rubber.

The strike affected operators, maintenance and clerical employees.

—and especially the prospect that the ranks will grow—will add to the pressure on congress to do something about the jobless problem.

Ten days before he takes office, the president-elect already has been advised by a number of task forces to take steps aimed at various and quite different goals but that also add up to much more federal spending.

And that, at least in theory, usually translates into making more jobs—at least for the time being.

A specific salvo offered for the jobless ailment is an increase in unemployment payments or their extension over longer periods.

An intermediate cure proposed is a cut in income tax payments or a moratorium on withholding taxes. This is aimed at giving consumers more money to spend, thus increasing effective demand for goods and services and as a final result stimulating the hiring of workers.

More government spending would have a longer-term effect, since such projects take time to get under way.

What the president-elect will recommend to Congress, and what the law makers will do about it, remains to be seen.

More defense spending seems sure of being voted. The house will be on how to spend the additional funds.

Considerable controversy may greet any proposals by the White House for a large federal outlay for education, whether for teachers' pay or for school construction.

Increased foreign aid and spending is favored by those worried by the Communist inroads in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

Opponents have a new talking point just now—more foreign aid could boost the deficit in our international payments and lay the base for still more loss of our gold.

The final stake confidence in the American dollar.

More spending for health and welfare projects, especially just now for medical care for the aging, is being vigorously pushed.

Federal outlays to spur housing construction, a speedup in highway spending, more slum clearing projects, increased development of natural resources—all are pushed by various forces, or by state and local governments, or by private groups dedicated to them.

Even while Congress is considering whatever such requests the new president may pass along, another problem may be rising.

Incoming Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon says he wants a balanced federal budget, or at the very least a deficit small enough to add but little to inflationary pressures that would undermine the dollar.

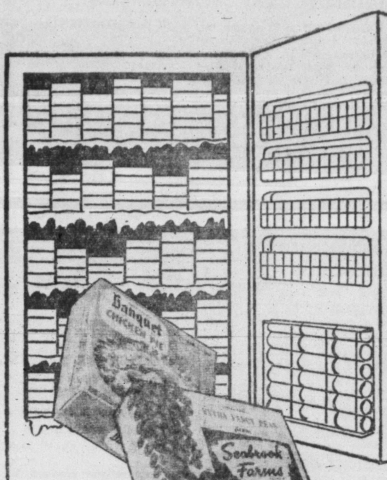

He could find himself in conflict with any Cabinet colleagues who want big spending programs for their departments.

Aldermen Chided For Tardy Start

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The agenda for the New Haven board of aldermen Monday night included a resolution chiding the board for being habitually tardy in starting its meetings.

The meeting was to begin at 8 p.m., but the author of the resolution, board member Carmel Scopetta, didn't show up until 8:25, explaining she had trouble rounding up a baby-sitter.

There were others even later. The meeting didn't get under way until 10:15.

Junior Editors Quiz on TURTLES

QUESTION: Do turtles hibernate and where?

ANSWER: Although they look quite different, turtles belong to the same family as snakes—the reptile family. And they are very old creatures. There have been turtles on earth for 175 million years, which makes them older than dinosaurs. Perhaps one reason why they have not become extinct like the dinosaurs is because they have such excellent protection, the hard shell they carry wherever they go. Turtles are cold blooded animals, and for that reason they cannot live in very cold climates. Most live in the tropics and warmer parts of the temperate zones. There are about 60 different kinds of turtles in the United States. Some turtles live only on land and some live only in water, while others are at home on land or water. In places which have very cold winters, turtles hibernate. Land turtles dig a nest in soft earth or mud and sleep all winter. Turtles that live in the water sleep the winter away in the mud at the bottom of a stream or pond.

FOR YOU TO DO: Turtles make nice pets. You can buy small ones at a pet shop. But if you do, watch for softening of the shell or swelling of the eyelids for these are signs that the turtle is ill. Keep your turtle's bowl clean and see that it has plenty of fresh water.

Itsy Won't Be Left In Car Again

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—"Never again will Itsy be left alone in the car—not even if I have to eat hot dogs three times a day."

That's what Mrs. T. S. Callender said and she looked as if she meant it, as she and her husband caressed their stolen toy poodle after ransoming him for $500.

Callender, a Greensboro, N.C., flooring contractor, stroked the 9-inch-tall dog with a fatherly hand.

"People who don't own and love animals would think we were ridiculous," he said. "But when you don't have any children, well, the home comes to revolve around your pets."

Itsy couldn't talk, of course, but his wagging tail and licking tongue were busy signaling happiness over the reunion Monday.

The 8-pound, 3-year-old toy silver-poodle was stolen Saturday night from the vacationing Callenders' automobile while the couple was in a restaurant. The thief broke a window to get at the dog.

Sunday an unidentified telephone caller contacted Callender through a sister in St. Petersburg, Mrs. E. C. Jones, and directed the Greensboro couple to bring $500 to a beach rendezvous. They were then to leave and return in 15 minutes for their pet.

"We found him dry, warm and well," Callender said.

Mrs. Callender said they plan to leave for home late this week "but we would not have gone if Itsy had not been recovered."

Police were not optimistic about an early arrest of whoever held Itsy for ransom. When he is caught, they said, he can be charged with extortion—a crime punishable in Florida by up to 10 years imprisonment.

Hitchhiking Feline

NEWCASTLE, Wyo. (AP)—Ted Draper's missing cat has popped up—under the hood of a car in Osage, 15 miles away. The car's owner, Roy Jones, said the cat appeared unhurt but he couldn't figure out how it got there.

Helium Panel Is Appointed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A five-man board was named today to consider proposals from private companies wishing to participate in the government's helium conservation program.

Director Marling J. Ankeny of the Bureau of Mines said he will be chairman, with Henry P. Wheeler Jr., assistant director, as his alternate.

The other board members, all on the bureau staff, are: C. C. Anderson, chief petroleum engineer here; C. J. Hann, chief of the branch of property management here; P. V. Mullins, general manager of helium operations; and George B. Shelton, chief of the division of gas fields operations, both with the helium activity at Amarillo, Tex.

Ankeny said no firm commitments can be made with industry before March 1, the effective date of the Helium Act Amendments of 1960, or before funds are provided by Congress.

Oregon takes its name from an Algonquin Indian word meaning "beautiful water."

Hagerty Is Real Take-Charge Guy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—For eight years a take-charge man with big egotisms and more than enough chin did an extraordinary job of making his boss, the President of the United States, look good.

Now James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary with a beard of a temper and so much self-assurance he could hold a surplus sale, is leaving.

When he turned in his resignation, Eisenhower said he had been invaluable. And indeed he was. Eisenhower admittedly didn't do much newspaper reading. Hagerty, a 51-year-old grandfather and former newspaperman, was to a large extent the President's eyes and ears.

He was more than that. He not only was a buffer between the President and the press to a degree unmatched in this century, he was also Eisenhower's mouthpiece.

But he was no blabbermouth. He never got his devotion to news mixed up with his loyalty to Eisenhower. He never said anything to embarrass his boss. He didn't make slips.

Hagerty was a master of two things which a lot of press relations men never learn: He paid attention to details and informed himself on problems he had to handle.

Seem simple? It's amazing how many people in Washington don't do either.

In time Hagerty became Eisenhower's scout, a kind of private emissary, who went ahead of the President when he planned a trip abroad and arranged for his safety and convenience.

He became such a strong and established figure in the group around Eisenhower that he was almost certainly an advisor on policy.

Hagerty was unchallenged within the administration as emperor of his special domain from the time he took charge of the news about Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955.

His forthrightness in keeping the country informed at that critical time was widely admired. He seemed a lot less forthright when Eisenhower had his ileitis operation.

Hagerty's attention to detail goes away back beyond the time he went to work in the White House. He was press secretary to New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey when the latter ran for the presidency in 1944 and 1948.

He was a tough, efficient operator then. Dewey turned him over to Eisenhower when the general became a candidate. As it turned out, this was one of the best things Dewey did for Eisenhower.

Now Hagerty goes to the American Broadcasting Company as vice president to build up its news reporting. He succeeds John Daly.

Unlike Daly who did broadcasting himself, Hagerty will stay out of sight, try to build up a staff, and let the staff do the talking. Not talking will be a switch for him.

Hope Back On Course

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's back to the golf course for Bob Hope today and an eastern tour of benefits is on tap for next week.

Hope dropped out of a golf tournament last week, complaining of dizziness. But it was fatigue, he says, and nothing more.

Over the weekend, he was busy editing the tape of his Wednesday night NBC-TV show made during his recent holiday tour of U.S. bases in the Caribbean.

The comedian doctor wants him away from his Toluca Lake home for awhile. The office of the Hope Enterprises is on the property and it's hard for the boss to rest with work nearby.

He'll rest and golf this week in Palm Springs. Sunday he takes off for St. Louis—and a benefit.

60 Students Are Sprayed

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A group of 60 Southern Methodist University students sat through an insecticide spray at a drug store luncheon Monday after two Negroes were refused service.

The group, which included two Negro theological students, refused to leave and C. R. Bright, owner of the University Pharmacy, called in a fumigation service. Coughing and holding handkerchiefs over their faces, the students remained at the counter as the insecticide was sprayed. They did not leave until Bright closed the store.

When all departments of the store except the lunch counter were reopened, the students, including about 25 white women students, picketed the pharmacy.

University Land Leases Offered

AUSTIN (AP)—The 43rd auction of leases on University of Texas lands will be held here March 28. Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler has announced.

Sadler said Monday he expects this will be the last auction of state university lands with one-eighth royalty reservation. State public school land leases have been auctioned at one-sixth since 1955.

The March offering will be 140 tracts, totaling 41,740 acres, in Andrews, Martin, Upton-Reagan, Crockett, Terrell, Pecos, Ward, Loving, Culberson and Winkler counties. They are part of the 2.3 million-acre domain reserved to the university and other state-supported colleges under the Texas Constitution.

L. R. Caffey Dies Monday

Lon R. Caffey of San Dimas, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Caffey of 207 Avenue L, died Monday at 2 a.m. in San Dimas. He resided in Snyder from 1903 to 1918.

Born August 15, 1900, in Comanche, he is survived by his wife, one son; two brothers, Cody Caffey of Pomona, Calif., and Jack Caffey of Dover, Ark., 7 sisters, Mrs. W. L. Moore and Mrs. Martin Thompson, both of Cobina, Calif.; Mrs. H. L. Johnson of Hyattsville, Maryland; Mrs. Bill Jordan and Mrs. Glenn Foster, both of Hermleigh; Mrs. G. T. Lambirth of Almagorda, N.M., and Mrs. Fred Minor of Snyder, and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in San Dimas.

Lightweight Survival Kit Is Developed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army Quartermaster Corps reported Monday it has developed a new, lightweight survival food kit for emergency use anywhere in the world.

The 12-ounce packet includes four food bars which can be flavored with bacon, cheese, fudge, fruitcake, or wheat cereal. Powdered instant beverages also will be included.

Guatemala Gets U. S. Assistance

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States is supplying Guatemala with training personnel, material and other assistance in the preparation of a commando-type force for a possible clash with Cuba, the New York Times reported today.

A dispatch by Paul P. Kennedy from Retalhuleu, near the southwest coast of Guatemala, said the United States also helped finance the construction of a nearby airfield where intensive daily air training is going on.

"Guatemalan authorities from President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes on down insist that the military effort is designed to meet an assault, expected almost any day, from Cuba," said the dispatch.

"Opponents of the Ydigoras administration have insisted that the preparations are for an offensive against Cuba and that it is being planned and directed, and to a great extent being paid for, by the United States."

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa charged in the U.N. Security Council last week that training camps for "mercenaries" for use against Cuba were operating in Guatemala and elsewhere. He complained that the United States was planning an invasion of Cuba at almost any hour.

President Ydigoras previously charged that a frustrated uprising in Guatemala last November was aided by Cubans. At his request President Eisenhower sent U.S. naval and air patrols off Guatemala's coast to prevent any invasion of the country.

The U.S. Embassy in Guatemala City is maintaining complete silence on the activity at Retalhuleu, Kennedy said.

Man Charged In Big Theft

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexican Secret Police have arrested Hubert Vernon Harding and charged him with participating in the $421,961 Rasdale armored car vault theft Dec. 27 in Tampa, Fla.

Harding, 34, had $18,000 in his pockets when arrested Monday in a luxury apartment, agents said, and had deposited at least $50,000 in a Mexico City bank.

Tampa police earlier this week arrested a former Rasdale driver, Jose Lino Alvarez, 42, and said they recovered $9,980 of the loot. Mendoza said Harding's arrest confirms the belief of Tampa police that several men were involved in the theft.

Immigration officials in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, said Harding entered the country Dec. 13, using a tourist card bearing the name Lucas Milton Garcia.

Judgment From Bath

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court has affirmed a $200 judgment for Pat Maddox Brewer of north Little Rock against a finance company, which seized her automobile while she was taking a bath and was, thus, unable to protest.

Nine Jurors Picked For Murder Trial

HONDO, Tex. (AP)—Nine jurors had been selected today in the murder trial of Paul Franklin Cole, 24, charged in the July 29 shooting death of E. L. Gilliam, 52, of San Antonio.

Gilliam was shot at a ranch of a brother near Castroville, west of San Antonio. Cole worked at the ranch for a week prior to the shooting. He was arrested at Laredo after Mexico deported him.

Phone Loan Granted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Four States Telephone Company of Brownwood, Tex., has been granted a loan of $320,000, the Rural Electrification Administration announced Monday. The loan is to furnish initial service to 516 subscribers and to implement service to 85 subscribers in Green and White counties of Arkansas.

President-Elect Has Trouble Getting Tickets To Musical

NEW YORK (AP)—Sometimes even a president-elect of the United States has trouble getting tickets for a Broadway musical playing to standing-room only.

John F. Kennedy had such trouble Monday night. But when the curtain went up, there he was in an aisle seat in the fourth row.

Monday evening, while flying in from Boston, Kennedy decided he would like to go to see the hit musical, "Do Re Mi."

Kennedy told his press secretary, Pierre Salinger, to try to line up two tickets. He wanted the second ticket for an old friend traveling with him, Grant Stockdale, a Miami, Fla., real estate man. When the Kennedy plane landed about an hour and a quarter before curtain time, Salinger hustled to a waiting automobile equipped with three mobile telephone circuits. He placed a call to the St. James box office. He explained he was Kennedy's press secretary and that the president-elect would like two tickets. The box office concluded he was a practical joker, and told him: "So sorry. We're completely sold out."

Cancer Unit In Session

Directors of the local unit of the American Cancer Society held their January meeting Monday afternoon in the community room of the Snyder National Bank.

The Rev. R. Charles Spivey, who presided, announced that memorial gifts to the society may now be mailed to Post Office Box 22 in Snyder.

Bill Shafer, district representative, introduced William Clayton, District 2 board member. Clayton gave a report on the annual Texas Conference held in Dallas last Dec. 8-9.

Next meeting of the local board will be held March 6 in the community room of the Snyder National Bank.

Kennedy made other calls, looking for strings to pull.

One of the mobile phones in Salinger's car rang. It was word that someone had reached someone high up at the St. James Theater and would the president-elect please forgive and forget and come to the musical. Seats? No problem whatever. The good word was passed to Kennedy as he and Stockdale got out of their car for a hasty dinner at Club 21.

At the theater a bit later, Kennedy and his guest were ushered to down-front seats and the president-elect got an ovation as he walked down the aisle.

So how did Kennedy get choice seats?

A theater official went to two busy women who had four row seats, told them the management's troubles and asked if they would mind giving up their seats to the president-elect in exchange for less desirable ones.

The young women turned out to be Kennedy fans and gladly swapped seats. The theater official told newsmen he neglected to get their names.

The price of the Kennedy tickets? Don't be silly, the management said. No charge.

Less Emphasis On 'Joining' Is Urged

FORT WORTH (AP)—The pastor of the First Baptist Church of Amarillo urged ministers Monday to stop emphasizing "joining the church" and to get to the chief purpose of preaching—"winning souls for Christ."

"We must remember," said the Rev. W. Winfred Moore, "that we haven't won a soul to Christ just because we get him to join the church."

The Rev. Mr. Moore spoke at the opening of the annual Texas Evangelism Conference attended by 2,500 Baptists.

...the only car in its field beautifully built to go...

miles between lubrications

30,000 is the most famous number of the year. It's every '61 Ford owner's license to save. How can Ford do it? Conventional chassis lubrication fittings have been replaced with metal plugs that help protect each lubrication point against abrasive mud, dirt and dust. And then, for only about $4 and about 20 minutes your Ford is ready for another 30,000! This is just one of the many ways the '61 Ford is built to take care of itself. Your Ford Dealer can show you more.

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

Lubricates itself.—You'll normally go 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications (which cost only about $4.00 and take about 20 minutes) because Ford has replaced conventional grease fittings with a sealed-in lubrication system.

Cleans its own oil.—You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes because Ford's Full-Flow oil filter gives you filtration through fibers...trapping more dirt than any other type of filter made.

Adjusts its own brakes.—New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves—automatically.

Guards its own muffler.—Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminumized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

Protects its own body.—All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing the body panels beneath the doors.

Takes care of its own finish.—Just wash and clean Ford's new Diamond Lustre Finish and it continues to gleam like new. It never needs waxing.

Only FORD is beautifully built to take care of itself
