Two Break-Ins Occur Here Early Saturday Morning

Two break-ins on Highway 70 were reported Saturday morning to City Marshall Ped Hunt.

The break-ins occurred in the early hours after midnight in all probability, and were committed by the same persons.

The Feed Barn, managed by Larry Garvin, was entered from the rear of the store through a small hole in the siding on the building.

A safe was rolled out from the office into the open back room and a cutting torch in the building was used to attempt to open it. However, the burglars left before completing their mission. Six dollars was taken from the business.

At the K. Y. Givens Texaco service station, over $140 was stolen, and papers were strewn over the office floor from the filing cabinet. The money was taken from the desk drawer.

To gain entrance into the service station, the burglars crawled through the back window, after breaking the windows in order to open it.

A small person is presumed to have crawled through the window as it would open only seven inches because of a pipe located nearby that would not permit it to open any wider.

Investigation of the two break-ins is continuing, Hunt said.

Grain Sorghum Endangered By Spider Mite Attack

Spider mites are attacking sorghum over the High Plains, according to a survey conducted by TGSPB. Heavy populations are found in some fields north of Lubbock. Mites cause leaf deterioration, yield reductions, and lodging. They appear to build up faster on plants in the milk stage to maturity. Mites are small insects which are difficult to see with the naked eye. Their presence can be detected by a webbing on the under-side of the leaf. However, this is the advanced stage of infestation and control becomes more difficult. They are sucking insects and release a toxin material into the leaf as they suck the plant fluids.

What control measures are available? Little information is known in this region as to the best chemical procedure. In some areas resistances to chemicals has made spraying useless. Here it appears (based on field observations) that chemicals are giving initial control, but have little effect on new hatches. As a result, more than one spraying will be required in order to break the cycle.

What is being done together more information for control recommendations? Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board is conducting trials in cooperation with aerial applicators, chemical companies and Texas Tech University to help find the best control methods for NOW.

If conclusive evidence is observed regarding effective control, TGSPB will immediately release this information.

No Parking In Bus Zone

Superintendent Joe Turner reminded patrons this week, as school begins, that they are not to park their cars inside the bus loading zone.

Although busses will not be parked there during the day, they will be moved to the zone early in the afternoon so that they will be in place when school is dismissed.

K. Y. GIVENS POINTS TO WINDOW used by burglars to gain entrance into K. Y. service station early Saturday morning. About $147 was taken and papers from the filing cabinet (pictured below) were thrown over the office.

Dear Editor

Dear Editor:

For the good of our country, won't you please publish this as a public service feature? It makes me little, if anything, but causes many to make their ownhouses, feeders, etc., and destroy a lot of filthy Starlings.

I have made Purple Martin, Blue Bird and Wren houses every day for the past five years; worked 10-14 hours a day and tried to realize only a fair 8 hours pay. Our desirable birds are very scarce. People have just quit providing a nesting place for them. One purple Martin eats about 4,400 insects daily. You never see a mosquito if you have Purple Martins. One type has open front for better observation and little ones don't crowd in door and fall out. The other type has a door in the corners. They have three times the view that the usual side door has.

The Purple Martin will eat nothing but insects. The last week in August the Martins leave here and go to the Amazon Valley in Brazil. They return anytime from March 20th to April 10th to last year's nest. They return after the insects begin to fly.

They are good company, sing from dawn to dark. In flight, they are most graceful and very fast. Anyone who ever has the Purple Martin around their home will never again fail to provide them a proper nesting place.

Now a few words about the sorriest bird on this planet the Starling - pest of all pests. I hear a lot and read a lot that spraying crops is killing our birds. I think I can prove that not one word of this is true. The only bird that would eat a dead bug is a scavenger and that's what the Starling is. If spraying was killing birds, there would be no Starlings.

The Starling is the destroyer of our birds. Our woodpecker, Flicker and any birds that nest in a hole in a tree are about gone. When the Starling finds their nest, being too sorry to make his own, he goes in and throws out their eggs or their young and raises his own family. The only reason they don't do the same to the Purple Martin is that they don't make much of a nest.

No bird will feed near them or fight with them. They emit an odor that other birds can not stand. They also carry a disease that is fatal to humans. It causes hardening of the respiratory system.

This nasty thing was brought to this continent in 1886 - about a dozen were let loose on our east coast. Now there are five starlings to one of all other birds added together.

If they aren't destroyed now, in twenty years, we will have no birds left except Starlings and a few sparrows and they too are imports from Russia. It would, to me, be a dreary lonely place without our beautiful song birds.

The Starlings stay in large groups. I used to live in New Jersey. A plane crashed in Elizabeth, taking 136 lives and barely missed a large hospital. On determining the cause of the crash, they found the air intake stopped up with dead Starlings. The plane had just left New York.

Regardless of who likes or doesn't, this pest must be destroyed and now! They can, must and will be destroyed. If there be a law against outright destruction of them, a small bounty could be paid to the kids to collect their eggs.

If interested in houses, feeders, preservation of our desirable birds, send name, address, and stamp for brochure to:

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

While millions of Americans are deeply concerned about the flood of pornography and demand legislation to drive smut peddlers out of business, a presidential commission has recommended that all laws against pornography be repealed.

The 18-member commission (17 appointed by former President Johnson and one by President Nixon) proposed that the United States adopt laws as favorable as Denmark's. Today, Denmark is the capital of the smut trade. Pornographic books, films and materials are sold openly in shops on main streets and exported overseas.

The commission specifically recommended repeal of all federal, state and local laws against showing and selling of pornographic films, books and other materials to adults. It said: "The commission is of the view that it is exceedingly unwise to attempt to legislate individual moral values and standards." No doubt the vast majority of decent citizens are shocked at the recommendations of the panel established by President Johnson and dismayed by its faulty logic.

Public authorities can't be unconcerned with public morality. The moral fiber of the nation is a legitimate public and governmental concern and always has been viewed in that light. If the commission's recommendations were approved, the Congress would be giving legislative sanction to immorality.

In defending its proposals, a member of the President's Commission on Pornography said sex crimes in Denmark declined 31 per cent after legalization of pornography. Whether this statistic is accurate, one cannot say. What is clear is that the people of Denmark have been exposed to a flood of sick and perverted material. The psychological impact of that material on Danes now growing to maturity is likely to be grave indeed.

No Western society, based on Christian values, has been exposed to pathological erotic material in such enormous quantities. It is questionable that Christian morality in Denmark can survive the legalization of morally depraved material.

Very properly, the U. S. Congress is indignant about the conclusions of the commission appointed by President Johnson. Only a few weeks ago, Congress gave overwhelming approval to a bill (H.R. 11032) designed "to prohibit the knowing deposit in the mail for transport in interstate commerce" of unsolicited salacious advertising. The penalty for this, as approved by Congress, is a fine of not more than $50,000, or imprisonment of not more than five years -- on the first offense. Obviously, Congress is determined to crack down on smut peddlers.

In advocating passage of this bill, U. S. Rep. William E. Minshall (R-Ohio) told of the methods of the smut peddlers, saying: "The panderers of pornography glean names from newspapers, magazines, school, club, and even church rosters."

Though the Commission on Pornography wants to give smut peddlers a green light, the American people think otherwise. In the last two years, the U. S. Post Office Department has received 459,129 complaints from citizens who have been the target of the smut peddlers' mail advertising campaigns.

In a message to Congress, requesting action against pornographers, President Nixon said that "American homes are being bombarded with the largest volume of sex-oriented mail in history... Mothers and fathers by the tens of thousands have written to the White House and the Congress. They resent the intrusion into their homes," President Nixon urged "a citizens' crusade against the obscene."

The Commission on Pornography showed gross insensitivity to moral considerations and to the quality of American life. It also showed appalling ignorance of the fact that a flood of erotic material is symptomatic of deterioration in a nation. We know from history that fall of the Roman Empire was marked by the spread of pornography. It would be intolerable if U. S. lawmakers turned permissive in their approach to pornography. Instead of facilitating distribution of such material, the need is for even tougher laws against those who produce and sell filth.

Sue's Views

BY SUE CANNON

It's that time again! Where has the summer gone?

All too fast, it has been here and gone again.

And I experienced something new this year when it came time to enroll my oldest in college.

It has been such a busy time here with some of the staff off on vacation each week that I haven't had time to think about it.

She did me just like she did when she started to school in the first grade (which seems like not too many days ago). We got all of her clothes and things unloaded and piled into her room just about thirty minutes before time for her to be at a get-acquainted deal for singers at LCC. So needless to say, there was no time for lingering goodbyes but... good grief!

She just said goodbye like she was going out for a coke and would be back in a few minutes!

Of course, she isn't too far away to come home on weekends if she decides she wants to, but still....

Guess I just am acting like a mother.

Last year, I started my last one in the first grade which was quite an experience, but I suppose things will run pretty smooth with him this year. The little boys are very anxious for school to begin. And I really think the others are too.

With the beginning of school, football season can't be too far away and I am ready! Won't it be great fun to get out in the cold air and yell for those Mustangs?

I guess you might say they have their work cut out for them this year, but I'd bet they can handle it!

Cook Of The Week

Cooking is a hobby of our Cook of the Week and her family and friends affirm that Mrs. T. J. Roberson is a good cook.

Noreen and T. J. have three children, two daughters and a son. Their eldest daughter, Beverly, is Mrs. Buddy Nicholson and lives in Olton. She is the mother of two little girls - Bonieca and Bandi.

Danny, the Roberson's middle child, just completed a tour of duty in Germany. He is out of the service and lives with his wife, Linda, in Houston.

Becca, the youngest, graduated from Olton High in May and immediately enrolled in Commercial College in Lubbock, leaving the Robersons with no child at home.

The Robersons moved from Lockney to Olton in 1947 to their farm home northwest of town. T. J. also farmed at Lockney, where both were born and grew up.

Not always a farmer, T. J. played pro-baseball in the West Texas-New Mexico league when the two married. They made their home in Borger for four or five years while T. J. was in baseball.

They are still enthusiastic sports fans. T. J. "went back into baseball" this year by coaching a Babe Ruth baseball team. Both are avid football fans, too.

Noreen took over first place in the football contest the second week of last year's season and sailed right through as a winner.

A "part time career girl", Noreen works four or five days a week in Lubbock with her sister at the Bridal Shoppe. Noreen finds the job thoroughly enjoyable.

"There are no two weddings alike," she explains, so the work never becomes boring. Services of the shop includes assisting the bride and her attendants as they dress for the wedding. The shop also caters receptions.

In addition to cooking, Noreen also likes to sew and especially enjoys making things for her daughters and granddaughters.

"Just being grandma" is another hobby of our very busy Cook of the Week.

The Robersons are members of the Church of Christ.

Hog Production Grows In Texas

More and more Texas farmers are agreeing with the words that appear under the head of a smiling pig: "Hogs are Beautiful."

For whether the porkers are really pretty or not, many of them are agreeing that swine production holds particular promise in the state.

Charles Taylor, associate editor of the Texas Farmer Stockman, explains in the September issue of the magazine, that Texas has plenty of grain to support feed requirements for an expanded hog industry. Pigs convert feed to meat more efficiently than other red meat animals, and hence have more potential profit.

Texas markets can use more pork. The state produces only about 25 to 30 percent of all the pork it consumes.

Swine can produce a higher return on investment than any other form of livestock.

"Good management and a liking for the business make the difference between success and failure," Taylor reports, as he cited two cautions about the hog business. Usually high hog prices in the last year led many farmers to take a second look at raising the animals. But by now prices have taken a drop and the U. S. pig crop for 1970 has already been predicted to be the largest since 1943.

Even so, Taylor reports that "The long-term, solid potential for hog production in Texas still remains good."

Jerry Lewis

TV Telethon

To Be Seen Here

A super-spectacular, which has smashed all records for programs of its kind in New York and several other cities, is coming to Lubbock for the first time this Labor Day weekend.

It's the Jerry Lewis Telethon to raise funds for the fight against muscular dystrophy and related diseases. The show will be seen in this area over KLBK, Channel 13 starting at 9:30 p. m., Sept. 6, and continuing, without interruption, until 5:30 p. m. Sept. 7.

This is the fifth consecutive Labor Day telethon that Lewis -- for many years national chairman of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America -- will be doing. His 1969 show established a new world's record with pledges of over $2,000,000.
